LAWN BOWLING.

LONDON BEATS CHATHAM. Three rinks of the London Lawn Bowling Club went to Chatham yesterday morning and helped to entertain the vast crowd of people who congre-gated on Tecumseh Park to witness the sports in connection with the C. P. R. employes' picnic. The Chatham lawn is a fine one, but at times it bothered some of London's experts to get near the "kitty." The three rinks totaled up a score of 63 against Chatham, but this might have been in-oreased had not Col. Macbeth's rink had hard luck and an eff day. Wilson-Taylor's rink, for Chathem, was the only one in any way a fair match for

Their Annual Picnic at Chatham Huge Success.

Thousands Present - A Rare Programme -No Accidents-Leading Features.

"It was a huge success!" This is what six thousand people say who attended the annual picuic of the C. P. R. employes, held at Chatham, yesterday, but the expression vaguely conveys to the minds of those who were not there just how successful the affair was. The good people of Chatham used every effort that lay within their power to make it eclipse by long odds any previous pionic, and not in vain. The depot was profusely decor- porker, and captured him. ated with flags and bunting, while over the main entrance the words "Welcome" stood out boldly. A special car was provided for the baskets, bicycles and other effects of the picnickers, and these were numerous. The train was drawn by engine 459, in charge of Engineer Joseph Fitzpatrick. It was bedecked with flags and evergreen, and bore a motto under the headlight, "We Are Out for Fun." The train had seven coaches, and pulled out a few minutes late, under the supervision of Conductor "Ab" Harshaw, who is equal to such tasks, with 500 or 600 of London's best citizens. A second train left Galt at 8 o'clock, with eleven coaches. Engine 619 was Driver Uptergrove. This was also decorated, and bore the words, "Success well filled with passengers f the line, and took on about to Our Picnic." This long train was along dred more at London. ductor J. Nolan, the popular ticket puncher, was in charge, and made things as pleasant as possible for the six or seven hundred passengers. Conductor Owen Mulvey, who is "one of the boys," brought the train from Windsor, with about six hundred on board. Richard Christopher, with engine 302, pulled in with the people from the west. This steam horse bore on its breast the words, "We Are the People," and all believed it. Each train as it arrived was met by the Chatham band, under Prof. Phelp, and the people escorted to the park. THE FAMOUS RUFUS.

The canine pet on the top of engine 619 has a reputation and career that few dogs need hope to have. He is not much to look at, but he's a "beaut," just the same. He is about five years of age, and was brought to Parkdale roundhouse, Toronto, the four or five years ago, when a small puppy. He liked the place, and stayed, and as he grew up he was taught the art of railroading, and at present he has no canine peer in that particular line. Rufus, the C. P. R. mascot, was second, Pennsylvania third and as he is called, has traveled nearly Columbia a poor fourth. He has had several narrow escapes, one of which occurred two weeks ago, when he fell off the top of an engine near Owen Sound, going nearly 50 miles an hour. He has be come used to that now, and when he meets with a mishap, hangs around the track, and stops the next train by barking. One of his tricks is running along the top from one end to the other when in full speed. The doghas his own peculiarities, and has no "truck" with anybody but railway men, and his sagacity in this direction has won him many friends. He lives on the best in the land, and while at Chatham yesterday put up at the Rankin House, and a significant fact is that he is never seen in company with any other dog. He is a cross between a locomotive and a snow-plow, and wears a handsome collar, a present from the boys at the Smith Falls picnic. Yesterday he wore a cot, on which was printed: "I'm pretty Rufus, bound for Chatham. Out with the boys for fun." Phillip Tutty, assistant foreman at Toronto Junction shops, raised the noble animal.

What Becomes of the Great City's Filth.

It is Taken Out to Sea and Dumped Into the Water.

"Oh, how unpleasant! The idea of going to sea with sludge!" On the contrary, you know nothing of it. The deck of the sludge ship is broad and clean; the deck house or "saloon" is small but comfortable, on the bridge a fresh breeze is blowing; the sunlight sparkles brightly on the ruffled surface of the river, and you scarce can realize that this fine steamer is carrying a thousand tons of London sludge out to sea. Yet such is the fact. The idea that the "mud barges" of the county council which take out the precipitated portion of London sewage to the Barrow deep are simply dirty dredges is quite a mistake. They are powerful twin screw steamships, worked by two sets of triple expansion engines, and fitted with three large tanks, kept covered, and absolutely FREE FROM NUISANCE to anybody, even to the seamen on board. They can make two trips out to sea in every 25 hours, steaming about ten knots, and, as a matter of fact, they thus dispose of 41,000 tons of sludge in a week. The sludge is precipitated by treat-Bicycle race, three miles, scratch—ing the sewage with lime and sulphate tons a week: then the black river of

It is admitted through the Penstock chamber-that is, a building with a number of iron gates-to a set of covered precipitating channels, where it can leisurely meditate after its wild rushings from London. The sludge passes through pipes from the bottoms of the precipitating chambers to another reservoir, whence it is pumped to the tanks in the sludge ships and con-

The effect on the river is most satisfactory. On the testimony of the harbor master, it is cleaner now than it has been for some years, while Mr. Thudichum, the chemist at the Barking "outfall" works, joyfully maintains it has 50 per cent of oxygen, which it has not rejoiced in for some summers past. But the clean fore-shore and the scent of seaweed at Barking, and the much purer looking water in the Thames itself, are proofs to the uninitiated of the success of the "new" system.

That system is only now getting to full working order. The county council has added two more ships to the fleet, making now five in all; and they are conveying some 40,000 tons of sludge out to sea every week.

FOUR SHIPS are constantly at work every day and night, and one takes its turn of a rest week for painting, repairs, etc., and affording a lighter time for the men. These are sailors, and sleep on board, regular watches being kept, except on 24 hours in every seven days, when they are allowed off duty.
The discharging ground of the steamers is the Barrow deep, some miles beyond the Nore light. The deep is an unused channel, the north bound vessels taking a course considerably to the left, and southward ships far to the right. The channel has been buoyed by the council, and no captain may commence discharging until he has passed the North Knot buoy. The discharge is quickly effected by opening valves in the vessel's bottom, the principle being much the same as that used on the self-emptying lifeboat-which, indeed, is but an adaptation of the law that WATER FINDS ITS LEVEL, the bottom of the tanks being built on a level with the sea. The valves are easily opened from the deck, and so quick is their action that the whole thousand tons can be discharged in seven minutes. Generally the time occupied, however, is longer, the ves sel perhaps steaming ten miles while emptying her strange cargo. The white wake of the ship is discolored, gulls hover over it, and there among the tumbling waves and the fresh breezes the sludge is gone. The mind can hardly grasp the fact that a hundred million gallons of sew-

The work of Confederation is done,

We honor the men who accomplished it. A nobler and grander work remains: the consolidation of Canada making of her different races and religions one people, harmonious in their sympathy and objects, united in their love for the whole, tired of dissension and disunion, and determined to lay the foundations of the national life on truth, honesty, toleration and fustice to all. From this standpoint Laurier is the hope of Canada. In him and in no other leader in the Dominion can be found the ground of a united, harmonious tion and religious tolerance of Laurier refute the statements and dispel the doubts of those-and they have been, and are many-who have said there can be no united Canada with two opposing races and religions.

Cellow-countrymen, do you stop to hink of the greatness of this leader? Do you realize what grandeur of spirit, nobility of purpose and breadth of vision it indicates for a man brought with his environment to take the principles which he advocates? Mark the nobility and honesty of purpose that characterized him, when he passworks, offering you no brikes to influence your verdict, appealing only to your nobler sentiments, and trusting solely to your love of truth and jus-

After the Visit.

Messrs. McGuigan and Morrice Inspected the G. T. R. Yards and Buildings.

Offices-The Car Shops Good News -Canadian Levalty.

While the rest of the presidential party were enjoying the ride about the city and suburbs in an electric gan and Assistant Superintendent Morrice paid a visit of inspection through the yard and railway buildings.

The men at the freight house were expecting a visit of the whole party, and were filled with the same feeling that comes over the soldier when "the general comes." But Messrs. McGuigan and Morrice looked in at the west end, and then went through the yard and looked in again at the east end, of the inspection.

The two also visited the roundhouse and down-town repair shops, and got back to the station before the other party.

Ald. Dreaney was a fortunate man. He knew nothing about the visit of the president and his party and came down to the station to go to the St. Thomas races. When he saw who was in town he had no more thought for the races, and set about verifying for himself the good news that the shops would soon be under way. Much was said about the shops to individual members of the which set their minds at ease, and to publish which would only serve to antagonize rival cities. It was good news indeed to Londoners to have the president himself tell them that the company had not changed its mind and that the shops would shortly be

On Wednesday he made things unpleasant, because she restrained him from removing certain goods from the house to barter for drink. Mrs. Mc-Curdy said all she wanted him to do ask support from him.
The P. M.-I think the only thing that will do you any good is the Central Prison.

McCurdy pleaded hard with the magistrate, who, turning to his wife. asked: "What do you want me to do with him?" The prisoner looked very anxious, and asked that a fine be imposed instead of imprisonment. Then, turn-ing to his wife, he asked her to go and get the money coming to him. He said he would give her an order to get it, and if she would let things pass off this time he would never appear again. The for woman tearfully turned away her head, and said: "I don't want to send him to jail; it only makes him worse. All I want is that he should keep away from me. He was remanded to the pleasure of the magistrate. The other two drunks told pretty stories, and were discharged.

Since bicycling has become so popular the doctors have, as we have repeatedly reported, discovered various new ailments and injurious effects that result from riding. The latest investigation by a French physician has resulted in finding that cyclists are subject to the "vibratory habit. Unknown to themselves they develop a general vibratory condition of the body. They become like a human tuning fork, which vibrates at high much to the disappointment of many tension. Dr. Petit gave the French Academy of Medicine the results of his observations, and since then French and English bicyclists have been surprised, when they have complained to their medical advisers, that they felt unusually restless and could not account for the reason, to learn that had unconsciously acquired the "vibratory habit." According to Ben-jamin Ward Richardson, all bicyclists are not similarly affected, their natural nervous conditions having much to do with the development of the disease. Riders who are careful to pedal in moderation, and who do not let their minds run on bicycles, free from any evidence of the disease. But among the enthusiasts he finds the vibratory habit is rapiddeveloping. He declares that it lies a menace to the future health of thousands of riders who refuse to confine their enthusiasm within a reasonable limit. The new disease is a kind of intoxication of movement, that is shown in an unconscious, or semi-unconscious bearing of the body. which becomes especially plain when great steadiness is called for, as for instance, in sitting for a photograph. is shown also in an over desire for rapidity of motion, as if it were necessary at every moment to overcome time and curtail distance by labor of an extreme kind. The con stant impression given is that the sufferer, from this general vibratory condition of the body, must jump on his wheel and be off, although the weather and circumstances are not opportune for riding. The whole manner bespeaks haste, although there is not the slightest occasion for it. Sir Benjamin declares that this intoxication for motion grows in the mind by what it feeds on and keeps the heart under Cameron states: "I was confined to the impression that it is always requiring the stimulation of exercise. the devotee of the wheel thinks morning, noon, and night of riding,

Speed on Railroads. Have we reached the limit of express speed on railroads? Many think we are near it, not because we connot get higher power than that now at our disposal, but because the resistance of the air increases so much faster than For oratory, Bert Beal; composition, Mabel our speed that presently we shall not Williams; business ability, R. Laidlaw. be able to force our locomotives against These pupils received several volumes of it. Hiram S. Maxim, however, is not of this opinion, provided we make our trains of the proper shape. The resistance, he says, is due to the irregular form of our trains; if we make a locomotive with smooth, fine lines, as we make a yacht, it will glide through the air as the boat does through the water. Some progress has already been made in France along these lines by fitting locomotives with pointed prows or air shields. Mr. Maxim's idea appears in the following paragraphs. which we quote from his article in the 'electrical number" of Cassier's Maga-

"I see no reason why we might not expect to double the speed of steamdriven railroad trains. Ordinary electric trains should travel at the rate of 90 to 100 miles an hour and express trains at, say, 120; but in order to do this it would be necessary so to construct the carriages as to enable them to pass through the air without any great resistance. The train should be pointed at both ends, and have the appearance of being all in one piece; even the wheels and axletrees would have to be boxed in. I find in my experiments that atmospheric skin friction on a smooth surface is so very small that it need not be considered as a factor at all, but the power required to drive a rough or irregular body through the air is very great. "Electricity could, of course, be advantageously employed on existing roads, but if special roads were to be constructed a comparatively cheap line could be employed, and as the electrical train would be vastly lighter than the steam train, extensive grading and tunneling would not be necessary. The line might follow, approximately, the contour of the country. "In the steam-driven train great power is required to enable it to mount even a slight gradient, and all this energy is wasted in heat and friction on the brakes in descending the next grade. The extra amount of energy consumed by an electrically-driven train in mounting a gradient could again be utilized in descending the next gradient, because the descending train, moving at a high velocity, in stead of having its speed checked by the use of brakes, could turn a switch in such a direction as to convert the motors themselves into generators which would actually send a current into the line which would be available for the use of other trains. The storing of energy developed by a descending train has always been a desideratum; it is quite impracticable to use it with steam-driven trains, while it is a simple matter in trains driven by a cable or by electricity."

DISRAELI'S CHEEK.

An excellent story is told of Disraeli and the lady he afterwards married, Wyndham Lewis. That lady was living near Cardiff, when through the window she saw Mr. Disraeli approaching, and ordered the servant to say she was not at home. When the servant descended to the hall Mr. Disraeli was hanging his light overcoat on a peg.
"Mrs. Lewis, sir, is not at home," said the flurried maid.

"I did not ask for Mrs. Lewis," was the calm, statesmanlike reply.
"But I don't know when she will be back," urged the maid. "Neither do I," philosophically replied Dizzy; "but I am going to wait till she does come back, so make me He did wait, he got his tea, and he

But alas! her friend of twelve years' bucks, and twice as many squaws at standing, the subject of so many benevolences, had been tempted and fallen! She had seized the opportunity, probably while Mrs. Morford was writing the check, to slip it into her black reticule. What treachery! What cold-blooded ingratitude! Mrs. Morford had loved her friend, and would rather have cast the pearls back into the Indian Ocean than have her faith thus terribly destroyed.

When abreast of the buildings Miss Peekskills felt herself seized suddenly from behind her arms pinioned, and a from behind, her arms pinioned, and a bunch of some woolly and ill-smelling material stuffed instantly into her mouth. A piece of cloth was wrapped round her head, and she was dragged speechless and sightless, but valiantly resisting, into the basement of one of the buildings, and there thrown upon the ground and hurriedly made fast to a loose beam. The reticule she had dropped at the first attack, but the leather pearl case, to which she had clung desperately to the last, was now wrenched away from her. From the Horseman. An amusing incident is reported from one of the military posts in the far west, the chief actors in which were a Chinaman, several cowboys, Indians and a soldier or two. The post was quite close to the headquarters of the Indian agent, who ranked as major, and as the officers of the regiment and the officials of the agency were friendly interchanges of hospitality to see Wun Lung come cantering over lows that would follow to contend doubtedly, though, the average of from the post to pay his regular week-

Then was Pat's time and, taking a pot of black paint, he proceeded to invest the pony with a series of stripes which would have made the best bred zebra in South Africa turn green with envy. In the morning the Chinaman set out for the stable, but when he reached it and viewed the striped cayuse his expression indicated that he rather questioned the quality of the brand of pipe goods proffered him the night

In the meantime Pat, taking advantage of a superstition existing among the Indians, had told them that the striped pony had come to them at last, and was, in fact, in the stable at that very moment. The chief, a dozen appeared on the scene just as the Chinaman was standing at the stable door and wondering whether he was asleep or awake. With much majesty obvious. the chief entered the stable, and uned in opera, song, story or reality, and which quickly brought his countryman to his aid, the heathen Chinese sailed into the equally heathen chief, up together, the liberated pony making the best of his way homeward with his head between his heels to escape the dozen or so ropes that were cast

sun. True enough, emergencies arise, but we are prepared to meet them one by one: not by new discoveries, however, but by merely evolving new methods out of old laws. Every branch of medicine has done much to save life, and that, of course, brings up the average. Take, for example, the operation of ovariotomy. It has saved the lives of hundreds of women within the last twenty years. The disease is not new; medical men have learned to treat it. The same is true of antitoxine and diphtheria, and so it goes. There is a Monitor to meet every Merrimac. Appendicitis is not a new disease. People read in the papers about this and that operation for appendicitis. They scratch their heads and say, 'That's a new disease.' We didn't hear of that when we were young. What will these doctors be finding next?' People have been having appendicitis since the days of Adam treat it. The physical body has always age of human life," said Dr. Landon Carter Grey, the neurologist. "In fact the medical profession is the only one that is laboring for the good of the human race. Even the most selfish physician is an altruist to a certain extent, because he knows that it pays him in the long run, if for no higher reason. We all have better houses, food, clothing and sanitation, and who are the men who have made a study of these things and called the improvements to the attention of the people? City children are up together, the liberated pony making kept indoors until the streets are cleaned. Then they have fresh vege-Mables and fruits that it is impossible to get in the country; they are clothed according to the weather, and the sanitary conditions are far superior to those in the country. "Some claim that there are more nervous diseases today than ever before. True enough, people are strung up to a high nervous pitch, but there aren't any new diseases; they know themselves better and recognize the disease, and that branch of the profession which treats nervous diseases understands better how to treat them. So it is in every branch of medicine. New discoveries are being made and surgery has made great strides. This, oupled with the fact that people know how to take better care of themselves than ever before, certainly is increasthe average length of man's Another prominent physician said: "The advancement of medical science has slightly increased the average of man's life, particularly by reducing infant mortality, and that's the where the science of medicine has told most. The tissues of an infant are not only most susceptible to unwholesome external conditions, but also to unwholesome foods. Again, the average duration of a case of consumption is much longer than it used to be. Fornerly the life of a consumptive was two years; now it is eight. These are merely two instances, showing what medical science has done in this direc-

factories, where labor-saving machines are replacing child labor. I see a good deal to make one optimistic. Every-thing that man engages in brings harm to someone, and some are sacriharm to someone, and some are sacrificed. A great many are killed and injured, but they are nothing in the aggregate compared with the masses who are benefited. When we have any good thing we abuse it in proportion to the pleasure we derive from it." "The actuaries say that the average of human life has been lengthened fully three years within the last century," said one of the medical direc-tors of the New York Life Insurance

"If you want to keep well, keep clean." said one of the medical directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. "I should think that the average of human life had been increased by medical men and also by the people at large. I can't say that the treatment of ordinary diseases has been much improved or changed within my knowledge, but new discoveries, such as vaccination and antitoxine, and the advance that surgery has made, have worked wonders. And the people of new countries, such as this and Australia, are learning how to live. They now have comfortable homes and are beginning not to eat too much. They regard the laws of health and take proper care of them-selves. Take the matter of heating. When I was a boy such a thing as a and Eve, but it is only of late years furnace was unknown. "Statistics show that up to five years the Irishman has double the number of children that the American has. At the end of ten years the American has twice the number that the Irishman has. Our greatest mortality is among the children of the tenements, and they generally die under the age of five years. The only human life has increased from three to hour years in the last hundred."

THOSE FAIRY STORIES.

It is a peculiar belief among the youngsters of many families that the new baby sister or brother is the gracious gift of the family physician, and this belief is generally based upon the solemn assurance of papa and mamma who have to tell some fairy story in order to tide over those events that occur occasionally in the best regulated families.

Now and then a boy takes the law into his own hands and makes a mess of it. An instance of this kind was related at the last meeting of the Medical Society.

It seems that the young son of a well-known merchant, and the young son of a well-known doctor were very chummy, and the former accompanied the latter one afternoon on an advertising expedition. The advertising was done by means of a paint brush being quickly traced over any smooth piece of wood or stone encountered, and called upon the male population to purtogether, for wherever they do they chase their trousers from Brown. Well, live better in every way. The great in the evening the doctor's hopeful remortality in this big city is among turned, and his paternal derivative asked him what he had been doing during the day.

"Advertising," quoth the boy. "Advertising whom?" inquired the father "You and Mr. Brown" (the mer-

He claimed, however, that he was entitled to exemption up to the date when he threw it up.

The solicitor said that the point was a matter of fact which the counshould decide, namely, whether Mr. Watson was at the time living up to his bylaw. Ald. Bennet complained that the solicitor's opinion was not very plain as to whether the city had a claim or not. He would like to collect the taxes, but he did not want to get into Finally Ald. Taylor moved that the

the committee had no power.

The usual grant of $25 was made to the Teachers' Association. City Clerk Blevins (Toronto) asked the co-operation of the city in securing a drop letter postage rate of 1 cent. The matter was favorably referred to the council, which in turn will doubtless refer the matter favorably to the member for London-when the bailots are counted and the member definite-

Harper, as inspectors to investigate

At the recent session of the Synod the Diocese of Huron (Anglican) held in London, the most pronounced deliverance on temperance ever given by that body was adopted and approved by the bishop. It was the report of the committee on temper-ce, as follows: Moved by Rev. W. J. Taylor, seconded by Mr. T. H. Luscombe, and passed unanimously: 1. In submitting their anual report to the Synod, your committee desire to record with their conviction that drunkenness in Canada is steadily on the decrease. They believe this is largely due to the discussion of late years upon the nature and properties of alcohol, the light thrown upon the subject of inebriety, hereditary tendencies and cognate points, as well as to the fact that drunkenness has been specially emphasized as being a sin. 2. Your committee wish also to bear their emphatic testimony against, and condemnation of, the practice of practice of "treating" in saloons and hotels

3. Your committee would point out that the recent judgment of the Privy Council has defined the relative duties and powers of the Dominion and Ontario Governments, in respect of the liquor traffic. It is probable that as a result of this judgment actaken to further restrict the sale of intoxicants. The Church of England has ever taken a leading part in the furtherance of efforts to free mankind from the baneful effects of intemperance and every excess, and if in this diocese a further struggle is to the liquors which make the drunkard who is not to inherit the kingdom of heaven, then our church will be found on the side of the Lord, fighting against the power of evil. 4. It is with much satisfaction your committee noticed that the Sunday

The process was hit upon overnight. Years of time and thougands of dollars were spent before success was reached. For thirty years James W. McDonough has been laboring in Chicago to reproduce photographs in colors. Thousands of experiments were performed, until one day, fifteen years ago, he got, upon the right track. Capital then came to his aid, but the successful end was not yet. Over in Dublin Ireland, Prof. Joly, the schentist, was working along the same Mne. Success crowned his efforts a few months ago. He sought letters patent in London and Washing-To his utter astonishment he found McDonough ahead of him in an application for an American patent. Both men, thousands of miles apart, and working independently, had hit upon the secret.

AT THE PATENT OFFICE. Soon the patent office at Washington was overwhelmed with rival claims of inventors. The men who had been backing McDonough came to the resue. They were willing that the one whose claim was allowed should get a share in the profits of the company to be formed. The other, even if defeated, should get a satisfaction fee. So, as they arranged it, no matter which won, capital would come out on top, too. McDonough got the patent after a contest. Joly got the fee. Ten days ago a lawyer appeared in Richmond, Va., and as a result the Natural Color Photographing and Printing Company was incorporated under the laws of Virginia. So well was his work done that none of the names of the men interested appeared. The corporation got a charter and $500,000 capital was provided for, with force, and the shops closed at the permission to increase to $5,000,000. Yesterday the secret became public. Spencer D. Nicholas Club last night, was utterly astonished that news of the invention had become public. At first he declined to discuss the corporation's plans. He had hoped, he said, to give a public exhibition in two months. In conversation with a World reporter, he said: "Had not the World already a description of the process, I should refuse to discuss it. Things are still in crude shape. Kelly, Chas. Waters, Edward Towers, all of London. Amounts of money edged in open convention yesterday morning for Sunday school work in the United States and Canada during next three years brought the total up to $12,024 33 per year, or $36,073 for the three years. The final session was held last even-

Sick and nervous headaches are amongst the worst ills of life. The man or woman who is subject to headache at irregular intervals. goes through life with a load of misery and wretchedness that is horrible to it is called sick headache. Without sickness and vomiting, it is known as nervous headache. In either form a disordered nervous system produces the trouble, and the only remedy is Paine's Celery Compound, which will give almost instant relief and a permanent cure.

It is a great mistake to consider headache a trifling disease. It may not be dangerous in itself, but it shows that the nervous system is out of tone and gear and that some serious trouble is fastening itself upon the person, which in time may produce terribly dangerous results. All danger may be averted if Paine's Celery Compound is used to strengthen the nerves and keep the digestive organs in good working condition. No medicine in the world has ever given such grand results to sufferers from headache. Scores of letters are received every month from those who suffered for long years, and who were finally cured by Paine's Celery Compound, after failures with other medicines. Mrs. F. R. Walker, of Mortreal, writes as follows: For many years I was a sufferor from sick headache, which came on two or three times a month. My doctor could do but little to relieve me and the many prescriptions and patent while I was laid up for three days, a friends advised me to use Paine's Celery Compound. I now thank God for her advice. An hour after the first dose I found great relief, and next day I was better. "in about ten minutes," but hands accustomed to handle sterner stuff than eggs and butter, were required for the subjugation of such a tent, and we finally paid him and let him depart, feeling that some men never seem to know their true vocation. The tent blew down that afternoon, and it was necessary to send for somebody to come in and fix it. So we inquired at the village who was a legally authorized person to put up a tent. They said, "Jim Brown," and we asked that he be sent to us. He came-with a felon on his thumb.

After every man in the village had had his try at it, and retired ignomin-Sously defeated, the little maid in the pink sunbonnet, who fetches milk at an unearthly hour in the morning (not that that makes the least of difference, somebody always being up "to see what is the matter with the I will do as much for you some day.

The Baby's Cry.

The meaning of a cry of a baby is a study which will be taken up by some young physicians, who will make a specialty of children's diseases.

'Mothers can aid immeasurably, if they will," said one of the young doc-"I was called in the other day a mother to prescribe for 'something dreadful' that she was convinced her child was suffering from, and found it to be too warm clothing, and so only discomfort. In the nurse's eyes, the only remedy for any indicated discomfort on the part of a child is the bottle. If the baby cries, it must be fed; again, more feeding; if it worries, feed it; if it is sick and nauseated, still offer it milk. It may tired from lying on one side, it may be too warm or too cold, or have the colic from an overloaded stomach. a half dozen other conditions may exist, which forbid or do not call for feeding, but only this is offered. "It is the nurse or the mother, whichever is the constant caretaker of an infant, who can learn if she will to distinguish the little shades of meaning in a young child's cry.' It is a fact well known to physicians that the cry of a baby suffer-ing from cholera infantum is very in-dicative of the progress of the disease. A mother was much surprised to be told by her physician after the death of her first-born, that, as he entered the hall door on the occasion of his first visit to the little patient and heard its cry, he knew that there was little or no hope, "for," he said, "that cry is one which rings in a doctor's ears when once he has heard it, and he quickly recognizes it.' This mother found that the little wail of agony rang in her ears, too, for when, several years after, another child suffered from the same disease, its first cry, quickly identified by the unforgetting mother, sent a hurry call the physician's office. If the utterance of dumb beasts can be studied and understood, there is for the baby, that most helpless of all living nature

A SKELETON IN IRONS.

Curious Relic of Part Cruelty Which Was Dug Up in Virginia.

Philadelphia Times.

One of the strangest finds of recent times is that made by an old farmer down in King George county, Virginia, who in the course of his labors came upon a skeleton encased in iron bands. The bands came around the head, over the top, down past both ears, ending at the neck in a collar. while over the forehead ran a similar band, so that the unhappy victim could not move in any direction. Down the sides of the form were iron bands. bands, which ran around in rings and joined the upright framework. hands were evidently thus pinioned tightly to the side, and the whole maintained in a rigid, upright position till death, and even after-Just as soon as the skeleton was moved out of the earth the bones fell apart from the joints and dropped out of the frame, yet the skull remained, not being smal lenough to get through the four iron strips. The bar from which the cage was suspended is also there, and as the uncanny thing swings aloft the skull grins out of its cage of irons, the same cage out of which it looked in despair more than 200 years ago. No clothing was found about the body, anything like clothing being soon rotted in the dampness of the earth, but several brass buttons, large, round, plain ones, were picked up from the grave. As there was no engraving on them. there was nothing to arbitrate, and are fore the custom of having names cut on buttons was begun by tailors. That this skeleton is of great angoing to show that the victim must have met his death nearly 200 years ago is the fact that, though records are kept of all executions, none are to be found of this man's death. As King George county was taken from Richmond county in 1720, and no account is in either court house, the date must have been prior to the escolony. To encase a man in iron bands and hang him in view of the people till he died a maniac was doubtless a mode of punishment vis-

3. That when Germany in 1873 substituted a gold for a silver standard the old equilibrium was destroyed (because in view of heavy sales of silver by that country the countries of the bimetallic league suspended their free coinage), gold appreciated in value, silver fluctuated violently, and a fall took place in prices of commodities as measured in gold baneful in its effects upon commerce, upon the manufacturing and agricultural industries, and upon labor.

4. That by opening the mints of the leading commercial nations to the unrestricted coinage of silver and gold, at a fixed ratio to be mutually agreed upon, a par of exchange would be 1821-30, it was 3 to 97; and in the tem ing the Gresham law in another way, secured, the two metals would again years, 1831-40, it was 3.3 to 96.7. INCREASE IN PRODUCTION. When we are told that the average quantity of grain food produced in the world rose from 900 pounds per inhabitant in the ten years, 1831-40, to 1,040 pounds in 1851-60, to 1,240 pounds in 1875-84, and to 1,330 pounds in 1888. the fall in prices which has taken place in 60 years does not present itself as a mystery. We know that the capacity of the human stomach has not been enlarged, and if much more food is produced than can be consumed in the world a slump in prices becomes inevitable. Foods are perishable, stores of them cannot be neld over from year to year indefinite ly, and when utilized they pass out of account forever. Many facts might be adduced to prove that during the last 40 years farm products have increased at a greater ratio than the demand for them. Take the agricultural statistics of the United States as furnished by the Government census, and compare 1850 with 1889. Starting with 100 as an index number under each head in 1850, we find that in 1889 the area of improved farm land is represented by 307; the number sheep by 165, of swine by 189, of cattle by 244, and of horses by 345; the number of bales of cotton by 302; the number of bushels of corn by 320, of wheat by 466, and of oats by 552; whereas population is represented by 270. Here the rate of increase in the area of farm land is shown to be somewhat higher than that of population, and that of horses, corn, wheat and oats considerably higher; and we know as to the last four articles prices The same thing is also true of our own country; but especially as regards rses, for which the demand has largely fallen since the adoption of electric power for street railways. There are thousands of farmers in Ontario with three or four times as many horses as they require for labor; or, as I saw a few months ago, in one turned out in the snow to pick a wretched living in the fence corners

Unlike most other commodities and food products in particular, the annual supply of gold and silver is not consumed within a given limit of time, but, to quote the gold and silver com-"is added to a stock representing many times the annual production." For this reason, the increase or decrease in any one year, or may be for several years, does not tell immediately. But when, as the table shows, the production of one metal remains stationary or drops more or less for a series of years, as in the case of gold, and when the production of another rises steadily and rapidly for the same series of years, as in the case of silver, it appears to be absolutely in the naof things that the ratio of their market should change. From 1851 to 1860 there was an abnormal increase in the production of gold, which is thought by some to have created a boom in agricultural products; although to most people the obvious cause was the exclusion of Black Sea wheat from the markets of Western Europe during the Crimean war, and, of course, the extra call for food supplies to feed the armies in the field. But while the supply of gold fell off after 1860, silver has continued to grow in volume at a rate never before witnessed. In the five years, 1871-75, during which Germany adopted the gold standard, and the countries of the Latin Union closed their mints to the free coinage of sil-ver, the annual output of the world's silver mines was more than double of the average period, 1851-55, and it has advanced, until for the three years, 1891-93, it was 5 1-4 times more than the annual production of that period. It must be borne in mind, also, that Germany had only a limited quantity of silver to put upon the market, and when disposed of it could no longer influence prices. But the course downward was maintained, the ratio dropping from 1 to 15.97 in 1871-75, 1 to 21.15 in 1886-90, down to 1 to 23.71 in 1891-93, although during ten years of this period $400,000,000 worth of metal was purchased by the Gov-ernment of the United States and minted into coin under the provisions

ANOTHER GREAT TRIUMPH.

The Bowmanville News Interviews Mr. John Hawkens.

And Is Given Particulars of a Nine Years' Suffering From Asthma, From Which He Has Been Restored to Health When His Case Was Looked On as Hopeless.

From the News, Bowmanville.

During the past five years the Dr. Williams Pink Pills have developed into a household word, and from several cases that have come under our per least doubt in our minds but that they are a boon to mankind, and in scores of instances have saved life, when everything else had failed. The curof Mr. Sharp, whose case we published some time ago, was one of the most remarkable that we have heard of. Today he is as well as ever he was in his life, and is daily knocking about in all weathers attending to his farm duties. Recently another triumph for Pink Pills came under our observation, after interviewing the person cured, he gave permission to make the facts public, and we will give the story in his own words. Mr. John Hawkens who resides in the township of Darlington, some ten miles north of Bowmanville, and whose postoffice is Enniskillen, came to the county from Cornwall, England, some 45 years ago, and up to the time of his sickness had always been a hard-working man. One day, however, while attending his work, he got wet, took a chill, severe cold followed, which finally developed to asthma. During the succeeding nine years he was a terrible sufferer from that distressing disease, and gradually grew so bad that he could not work, frequently spent sleepless nights, and had little or no appetite. Finally, he could scarcely walk across the room without panting for breath, and would sit all day with his elbows resting on his knees-the only position which seemed to give him ease, and at one time he never laid FED ON A FROZEN MAMMOTH. down for six weeks. As it was a hardship for him to talk, all he asked was to be let alone. During this time he had been doctoring and had tried nearly everything and spent over $100, but got no relief. Finally someone recommended him to take Pink Pills. thought they could do him no harm, at any rate, and procuring a supply he commenced taking them. After he had taken three boxes he found that he was improving, and after taking two more boxes, to the astonishment of all he walked across the field to the continued the pills and took two more boxes, making seven in all, and today keeps a box of Pink Pills in the house. The neighbors all began to ask him what he had done, as the asthma had left him, and they never expected to

THE POWER LOOM.

The power loom was the invention that the body of the animal is not of a farmer's boy, who had never complete. The boy was sent to a blacksmith to learn a trade, and his master took a lively interest in him.

He made a loom of what was left of the one his father had broken up, and showed it to his master. The blacksmith saw he had no common boy as an apprentice, and that the invention was a valuable one. He had a loom constructed under the supervision of the boy. It worked to their perfect satisfaction, and the blacksmith furnished the means to manufacture the looms, and the boy received half the profits. In about a year the blacksmith wrote to the boy's father that he should bring with him a wealthy gentleman, who was the inventor of the FUERTEVENTURA, one of the Canary Island, has a mystery of the sea, according to the London Daily Mail. A big packing case was recently cast ashore there, which, on being opened, was found to contain another wooden box of finer make. Inside this was a zinc box, perfectly water tight, into which had been neatly packed the corpse of a young woman, elegantly dressed, and wearing jewels. The vic tim had a wound in the forehead, her eyes had been put out; the girlish face was that of a brunette, about 20 years old, with dark hair. She wore a white embroidered bodice, a black silk dress with small red flowers worked as design, black slik stockings; no shoes, and chamois leather gloves. This simple invention was only introduced after women had tearned to use it, and not until the inventor had for a long time been dead. During his lifetime this deserving man had been subjected to the ridicule, the mockery, the attacks and insufts of the conservative instinct of the masses in London. Even the name of this benefactor to humanity has been lost. He is buried somewhere in an English country churchyard, and to this day children will throw mud and sand and stones at his tomb when passing by. If they are asked why they do it, they do not know. It is an old custom, bequeathed from generation to generation, which represents nothing but the spirit of conservatism still wrestling with the innovations of modern life.

Any doctor will tell you that Professor Hare, of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, is one of the highest authorities in the world on the action of drugs. In his last work, speaking of the treatment of scrofula, he says:

"It is hardly necessary to state that cod-liver oil is the best remedy of all. The oil should be given in emulsion, so prepared as to be polytoplay."

He also says that the hypophosphites should be combined with the oil.

Scott's Emulsion of codliver oil, with hypophosphites, is precisely such a preparation.
