AYER'S CATHARTIC. PILLS.

Are you sick, feeble, and Are you sick, feeble, and complaining? Are you cut of order, with your system deranged, and your feelings uncomfortable? These symptoms are often the prelude to terious illness. Some fit of sickness is creeping upon you, and should be averted by a timely use of the right remedy. Take Ayer's Pills, and cleanse out the disordered hu edy. Take Ayer's Fills, and cheanse out the disordered humors purify the blood, and let the fluids move on unobstructed in health again. They stimulate the functions of the body into vigorous activity, purify the system from the obstructions which make as somewhere in the body, and observed, and the surrounding organs. BY MISS H. E. SEARS. Rest for the weary! not in timid shrinking From wearing duties or from tedious strife If these be in thy pathway, strongly linking Thine energies to the activities of life, Not flying from the sordid and the real, To contemplation as the highest good, Shalt thou find realized the soul's ideal Of inward strength, and joy, and gratitude Not in escape of pain; the notes of anguish

Come ringing downward to us through all time:

The selfish and obtuse sullenly languish; Even they must join the universal chime. Sorrow is not a myth: He who to human Joined the God-nature, with a power to bear Infinite, as no other born of woman May know-He knew the measure of despair.

And while he promiseth "rest" for the weary, He bids us follow in the path he trod; Through the storm, and through the desert dreary,

We walk with bleeding feet a thorny road; But not alone! Here is the consolation: In our poor life each sadly goes apart, Separate, as though his grief and desolation Were never shared by other human heart.

But He in our afflictions is afflicted; The angel of His presence comforteth By feeble, human limits unrestricted, He walketh even through the vale of death With thee, O loving Christian! Sad and lowly Thy path may be at times, but He is there: Thou'rt not alone while He, the high and holy, Can hear thy faintest, most imperfect prayer.

Here is thy rest! weary and bowed in spirit: The soul's full measure,' 'mid the unrest o

Of deep content, of joy the saints inherit, In the sweet mystery of the second birth: This is the promise of His coming, earnest To us of the eternal great reward. O Lamb of God! may I when thou returnest Be of that band, for whom is "rest" prepar ed!

A diligent student of the Bible, he found which means strictly "offering." It has the same force as the German word Opfer, and our ity respecting saving Faith. It was his constant theme, and he had a singularly happy manner of simplifying it to dull or darkened minds. Hundreds of anxious inquirers caught from his brief, simple utterances, in conversation or the class meeting, its mighty significance, and emerged from despondence or trembling weakness into joyful confidence and strength. Nature and Revelation.

Revealed religion leads better to the natural, than the latter to the former. Natural religion, as it is called, assumes the reality, and deserves the name of religion only after it has received to the seal of revelation. For natural religion, in those treated by the Gospel, which it has not the strict sense, there is none. Collegiate Education.

NO. 5.

To thoughtful and intelligent Methodists throughout the Lower Colonies. FELLOW COUNTRYMEN:

the sincerest desire of reaching the exact truth, our command to sustain us, we unhesitatingly assure you that the full course of study at Sackville Academy is equal to more than half of the full course of study in the majority of American Colleges. It is incumbent upon us forthwith to place the Academy in a position to perform full College work. To perform this full work, what might be deemed desirable? and what is really needful? It might be deemed desirable to crown some swelling eminence at Sackville with a gorgeous Collegiate structure, with cloistered courts and marble front; with turret, and pinnacle, and spire; with traceried windows "richly dight;" shedding, through many-tinted glass, a "dim religious light" on long-drawn corridors, on tesselated pavements and through lofty halls. But able, well-arranged building in which College Classes may recite, and College lectures may be delivered It might be desirable to found an immense library, illustrative of the science and and literature of all times and of all climes, rich in undecipherable manuscripts and marvellous typography. But what is needful is a sufficient mber of books, treating in their totality exhaustively upon all the branches of proper Collegiate study-procurable for a modest sum, and which may be steadily increased from year to of objects in all departments of Natural Science should be accumulated at Sackville; that magnificent and costly Chemical, Philosophical and Astronomical apparatus should be procured; and that a lofty, cloud-piercing observatory should be reared, whence young Newtons and Hertial mysteries. But what is needful to begin with is, a sufficient number of natural objects, and a sufficiently extensive apparatus to illustrate the leading principles of the several de-partments of Natural Science; an introduction to which is all that can be attempted in a College course, without substituting certain easy flash studies, included in the inductive Sciences which are feeble developers of mind, for the difficult, deductive sciences which are mind educators of the highest class. It might be desirable that there should be rich endowments by which world-renowned men of learning might be drawn to the Professorial chairs; and wealselves to the life-long pursuits of Science. But with which nine Colleges out of ten, the wide world over are compelled to be content-Scaligers and Newtons, Bentleys, Porsons and Parrs tion with a properly constituted New Brunswick ships and captivating prizes should be provided to attract and stimulate the young minds, otherwise insensible to the charms of mental culture. Without the addition of another man to the Academical staff or another square foot of building, by merely increasing its studies and its terms, Sackville Academy could carry its Students over more than two-thirds of a Collegiate course. But we may be plausibly told that the time has not yet come to extend our educational operations in the manner proposed. We shall ask our sincere, but timid friends, when that time ever was, in the history of any noble enterprise, that presented no difficulties to be overcome by patient endurance, by heroic daring, and by personal sacrifices? And if we postpone this work for ten or twenty years longer will our friends guarantee us exemption from toil and difficulty and opposition then? Will they, also, indemnify us for loss sustained in the meantime? Should we be induced to delay, and to place ourselves at further disadvantage in the future, the time from its unhappy slumbers, to the overpowering hope. The Oxygenated Bitters.—Nature, in her great laboratory, has stored some remedy adapted to guires the investigation and research of the philosopher to discover and apply this remedy. Such research and investigation has succeeded in discovering a rem-dy for that most afflictive dispensation, the Dyspepsia! With all its lesser and numerous evils; and it may be safely asserted that until the appearance of the Oxygenated Bitters a case of Dyspepsia cured w. a rare experience in medical practice. Now under the influence of these Bitters the rule is to cure, the rare exception, failure to cure.

Addressed to Mrs. John G. Brown of Moun Maccan, on the death of three children, by Diptheria. (WRITTEN BY REQUEST.) In the light of the cottage home, They spent their early hours,

Among the wild-wood flowers; They spoke the words of innocence As carelessly they strayed, And white-winged angels guarded them, And with their ringlets played.

A mother's heart did blessings crave Upon the lonely three, That they may grow up wise and good, And happy ever be; And while that heart did yearn with hope, The priceless boon was given-To hear those children speak of God, And of a home in heaven.

And while they dream'd bright sylvan dreams Of happy infant throngs, That make the heavenly worlds more sweet With their celestial songs, A tender voice came from the skies-So full of love it seemed-It bade them to the sunny world,

They lingered here not very long,-Their spirits pure and bright, Did trace the pathway of the sun. Unto the hills of light : And there they roam amid the flowers Ne'er seen by mortal eyes,-No mortal voice has ever named

The world of which they dreamed

The flowers of paradise. Here, on the solemn, grave-yard hill-The maples towering o'er-Three, tiny, new-made graves are seen, Where there were none before; There, on yon, far-off, dazzling Mount, Above all mortal strife, Three, cherub chidren sit and sing, Reneath the "Tree of Life." You miss them, mother, from your home-You may not miss them long, But strive to meet them where they are, Among the angel throng: All things grow old-all save the dead-They can no older be, -

Will lead thy babes to thee. West Brook

J. C. Ayra & Co. Gents: I feel it my driy to acknowledge what your Saraparilla has done for me. Having inherited a Scrofulous infection. I have suffered from it in various ways for years. Sometimes it turst out in Ulcers on my hands still armo; sometimes it turned inward and distressed ine at the stomoch. Two years ago it broke out or my head and covered my scalp and ears with one sore, which was painful and loathsome beyond description. I tried many medicines and several physicians, but without much relief from any thing. In fact, the disorder grew worse. At length I was rejuised to read in the Gospel Messenger that you had prepared an alterative (Sarisaparilla), for I knew from cour reputation that any thing you made must be good. I sent to Cincinnatiant got it, and used intell it it carefune. I look it, as you advise, in small doses of a tenspoonful over a month, and used simout three bottles. New and healthy skin soon began to form under the scab, which after a while felt off. My skin is now clear, and I know by my feelings that the disease has gone from my system. You can well believe that I feel what I am saying when I tell you, that I hold you to be one of the agostles of the age, and remain ever gratefully.

Leucorrhee or Whites, Ovarian Tumor, Uterine Ulceration, Female Diseases. Dr. J B. S. Channing, of New York City, writes; 'I most cheerfully comply with the request of your agent in saving I have found your Sarsaparilla a most excellent alterative in the numerous complaints for which we employ such a remedy, but especially in Fiscale Diseases of the Scrohlens disthicks. I have curred many inveterate cases of Lencerhees by it, and some where the complaint was caused by the Marcollon of the Literal Properties of the According to the Complaint was caused by alteraction of the intern. "The alternation of the internation of the complaint was caused by alteraction of the internation." ation itself was soon cured. Nothing within my knowledge equals it for those femals derangements."
Edward S. Marrow, of Newbury, Ala., writes, "A dangerous occurion toutor on one of the females in my family, which had defied all the remedies we could employ, has at length been completely cured by your Extract of Faranaparilla. Our physician thought nobling but extipation could afford relief, but he advised the trial of your Sarsaparilla as the last resort before cutting, and it provad effectual. After taking your remedy eight weeks no symptom of the disease relation.

I have cured with it, in my practice, meet of the cam-plaints for which it is recommended, and have found its effects truly wonderful in the cure of Vancreal and Mer-curiol Discuss. One of my patients had Syphilitic uters in his threat, which were consuming his paints and the top of his mouth. Your Sarsaparilla, steadily taken, cured him in five weeks. Another was attacked by sec-oudary symptoms in his nose, and the ulceration had eaten away a considerable part of it, so that I believe the disorder would soon reach his brain and kill him. But it yielded to my administration of your Sarsaparilia; the ulcers heated, and due is well again, not of course without some disfurtation to his face. A warman who, but been ulcers hested, and do is well again, not of course without some disfiguration to his face. A woman who had been treated for the same disorder by mercar; was suffering from this poison in her hones. They had become so sustive to the weather that on a damp day she suffered excurded an entirely by your Sarequrilla in a few weeks. I know from its formule, which your agent gase me, that this Treparation from your laboratory must be a greef rundey; consequently, these truly remarkable remains with it have not surprised me.

Dr. J. C. Avan: Str. I have been efficied with a painful chronic Rheumetran for a long time, which buffled the skill of physicians, and stuck to ne in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarangarilla. One bottle cured ne in two weeks, and restored my general health so much that I am far better than before I was attacked. I think it a wonderial medicine. J. FREAM.,

Jules Y. Getchell, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been affilted for years with an affection of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing, and every thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a broken-down mas for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Espy, advised me to try your Sarangarilla, because he said he knew you, and any thing you made was worth trying. By the blessing of God is has cured me, and has so purified my blood as to make a new man of me. I feel young again. The best that can be said of you is not half good enough.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit them. Some of them may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them. Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia Many remarkable curves of these affections have been made by the alterative power of this medicine. It stimulates the vital functions into vigorous action, and thus overcomes disorders which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do.
