National Conference at Moscow in Full Swing

Dissatisfaction Roused by Kerensky's Speech Yesterday

Korniloff's Army Will Repulse Foe Says Kerensky

Korniloff Cheered by Crowds in Moscow; That Town Watchword For Welfare of Country and Struggle to a Victorious Issue

By Courier Leased Wire.

Moscow, Sunday, Aug. 26.—Premier Kerensky, who came to Moscow yesterday, to attend the national conference which is now being held for consideration of the military and political problems which confront the country, reviewed troops at the Hippodrome today and in addressing them said he was convinced by the valor they were showing that they would be able to drive back the enemy at the front and crush any attempt at a counter-revolution.

General Korniloff, the commander-in-chief, arrived from Petrograd today and was greeted by great crowds. In an address he said it was a source of satisfaction to be able to tell the army that Moscow was the watchword for the welfare of the country and war to a victorious end.

The day was devoted to conferences of the different groups of delegates. The discussion dealt principally with the government's statements, the reply to be made and the attitude to be taken at the coming general meeting. The Maximalists reached the conclusion that the conference does not represent the will of the nation and is of anti-revolutionary character. They decided to demand from the assembly a dictatorship of the proletariat, by the handing over of all power to the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates, and voted to leave the hall if the majority should be unwilling to share their viewpoint.

The Internationalists insisted on abolition of the death penalty and renunciation by the government of its purpose to put down by force the separatist movements in Finland and Ukraine. The popular Socialists urged maintenance of the death penalty. At the meeting of Constitutional Democrats Professor Paul Milukoff said no solution could be reached except in line with the national program and that if Premier Kerensky did not put into execution the measures foreshadowed the ruin of the country would be inevitable.

WAR EXPENSES

Moscow, Aug. 27.—Vice Premier Nekrasoff told the national conference yesterday how expenses had increased during the war. He said that in 1914 about 219,000,000 rubles of paper currency had been put in circulation, 223,000,000 in 1915 and 290,000,000 in 1916; that in the first two months of 1917 there had been issued 846,000,000 and from onward the issue averaged 832,000,000 rubles monthly. The budget, said M. Nekrasoff, was in a profoundly abnormal condition because it had placed on one side cost of war and in effect, there were pressing of prosperity and the other concealing the germs of financial catastrophe.

The vice premier admitted that the new regime was costing the country much more than the old and that the new administrative bodies were absorbing enormous sums, the food committee, for instance. He said the financial difficulties were largely due to the extraordinary increase in the pay of workers and in the instance of the Putiloff factory, the workers of which alone had been paid this year 90,000,000 rubles. Another source of difficulty was the small amount of revenue from taxation, excise charges and other sources. Direct taxation, the vice premier said, could not keep pace

WEATHER BULLETIN

Toronto, Aug. 27.—The barometer is quite high along the Atlantic coast and also in the western provinces, while a rather pronounced low area is moving northeastward across the Great Lakes. The weather is fine and cool in the western provinces and fine and moderately warm from Ontario eastward.

Fresh south and southwest winds, mostly fair and warm; thunderstorms in many localities to-night. Tuesday—Westerly winds becoming cooler again.

with the state's expenses and indirect taxation was becoming a necessity.

Continuing, M. Nekrasoff enumerated a series of measures which would strengthen the financial position of the country, including various monopolies, especially sugar, tea and matches. He emphatically denied reports that the government is contemplating confiscation of private possessions of land and property. It would never, he said, embark on such a dangerous adventure, believing firmly that the citizens of the country would do their duty.

The mayor of Moscow in a speech said the population of the ancient capital could not support the anarchical minority which was trying by a strike to detract from the importance of the conference.

Premier Kerensky thanked the mayor, saying that his speech would instil new strength and confidence in the government, the conference then was adjourned till today.

CRIPPLES CALLED TO HUN ARMY

Germany Experiencing Difficulty In Keeping Armies Reinforced

By Courier Leased Wire.
Copenhagen, Aug. 27.—The difficulty which Germany is experiencing in obtaining men to fill the ranks is shown by an interpellation presented in the Reichstag by Deputy Davidsohn calling attention to the practice of military authorities in recalling to the service pensioners who have been discharged for disabilities. The interpellation says men receiving pensions for fifty per cent. and more of total disability, and even cripples, to whom supplementary pensions have been granted; are being constantly forced into the army again, and that in some cases men are taken from hospitals before their treatment is completed.

GERMANY IS ARRAIGNED BY BELGIUM

Protest Made To Allies And Neutrals Against Hun Atrocities

By Courier Leased Wire.

Havre, Aug. 27.—The Belgian Government has addressed a long and earnest protest to allied and neutral governments against German violations of international law and moral law in the restricting of Belgium so that he will have two governments and two capitals, instead of one and in deporting or arresting Belgian officials who resigned their positions rather than continue in office under the new regime.

The protest by the citation of article 43 of the fourth Hague convention, according to which an occupying power must, insofar as it is possible govern occupied territory in conformity with the territories own law. The protest then points out that this clause was violated by the Germans March 21, 1917, by a decree creating two administrative regions with capitals at Brussels and Namur, and by decrees of April 13 and June 9 and 10 confirming the execution of the March pronouncements. These decrees, says the protest, completely overturns Belgian law and gravely attacks the Belgian constitution which divides Belgium into provinces and makes the capital at Brussels.

"The German decrees," says the protest, "superimpose divisions on provinces and on each division made up of provinces in a manner that the constitution does not recognize. They dismember one of the provinces and put in its place two provinces." "The measures have only the goal of serving German interests to the detriment of Belgium and creating a schism between the Belgians."

The protest then takes up the part which Belgian officials remaining in Belgium played in the administration until certain of them have felt it their duty to resign so as to show the sentiments which animated the entire body of Belgian functionaries. (Continued on page 4)

Coalition Cabinet Essential to Safety of Nation; In Event of its Failure, Malcontents and Agitators Will be, Responsible

By Courier Leased Wire.

London, Aug. 27.—"Premier Kerensky's speech in opening the national conference did not satisfy a single party or succeed in uniting the different groups in mutual service for the country," says the Exchange Telegraph Company correspondent at Moscow. "The Democrats are dissatisfied with the dictator-like government at Moscow. "The Democrats expected a practical program for the carrying out of measures to put down anarchy. They also are dissatisfied with the Premier's declaration regarding the impossibility of imagining a country without freedom, saying this is no time to talk of freedom and social reforms."

"Today is expected to be the day of atonement. The various reforms are expected to speak out freely and voice their aspirations. Much depends on whose words find an echo in M. Kerensky's own aspirations."

"Personally, I do not believe the cabinet will undergo changes, as a coalition is the only possible form of government at this juncture. Should the conference fail in a last effort to organize a national government, the responsibility will fall on those elements which put the interests of their own classes above those of their country."

"Moscow has resumed its normal aspect. The strike has been discontinued and the Moscow Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, with other organizations, has appealed to the population to abstain from demonstrations. The Petrograd Maximalists of the Central Executive Council have been deprived of their mandates on account of unwillingness to submit to the decision against separate action."

WILSON IN SYMPATHY

Washington, Aug. 27.—President Wilson sent to the members of the National Council assembly at Moscow today, assurances that the United States Government is willing to extend "every material and moral assistance" to the Government of Russia.

PRISONERS ARE TAKEN BY FRENCH

Over 1100 Germans Captured In Fighting on Aisne And Verdun Fronts

ENEMY IS BEATEN OFF

Successful Trench Raid And Bombing Expedition By British

By Courier Leased Wire.

Paris, Aug. 27.—Strong German attacks were made last night on the Aisne and Verdun fronts. The war office announces that the assaults were broken up by the French fire, and that all French positions were maintained. More than 1,100 prisoners were taken yesterday.

London, Aug. 27.—Another bombing expedition was made over Belgium on Saturday night by the naval air service at the St. Denis Western air-drome," the official report says. "A large number of bombs were dropped. One of our machines is missing."

Trench Raid

London, Aug. 27.—A successful trench raid was made by the British east of Oostaverne, which is about a mile northeast of Wytschaete, early today. The British official statement issued this morning says: "We made a successful raid this morning east of Oostaverne and secured a few prisoners. There is nothing of further special interest to report."

WOUNDED

Mr. Robert G. Duke, 228 Nelson street, this morning received word that his son, Pte. Harry Irving Duke was wounded in the forehead on Aug. 19. Pte. Duke, who is 29 years of age, joining the 11th battalion at Preston, where he was employed. He has since been drafted to the 4th battalion.

Military Situation.

Petrograd, Aug. 27.—General Korniloff, commander-in-chief of the Russian army, informed the press that he intends to make a report on the military situation to the conference at Moscow and hoped that important resolutions would be adopted.

Little Comment.

Petrograd, Aug. 27.—The newspapers comment only briefly on the first session of the conference at Moscow. Most of them regard it as colorless and without important political result. The Petch says Premier Kerensky's speech was vague and not calculated to change the attitude of political groups. The Novoe Vremya says it seems the conference is our last throw. It would therefore be a misfortune if the government were terrorized by the Workmen's and Soldiers' and different committees and should transform it into a mere mass meeting. Dén says Premier Kerensky, speech suggests a pilot steering between two currents. Ruskys says that the first days of the conference left a painful impression. The Bourse Gazette is optimistic. Others believe Kerensky's speech will kindle all Russian hearts and impel them to great sacrifices.

Revolutionaries Boused

London, Aug. 27.—A dispatch from Odessa to The Times says the revolutionary committees there are much incensed at accidentally discovering a new army disciplinary code which is being prepared by a special military board. The committees declaring such a step anti-democratic demand that the board be suppressed and another one representing the committees formed.

Heroic Death.

London, Aug. 27.—General Poyoski, commanding a Russian division, fell valiantly amidst his soldiers whom he was encouraging by his example, during fighting on the Sereth, says an official Roumanian war statement received here.

PETROGRAD EXPLOSION

Petrograd, Saturday, Aug. 25 — (Delayed)—Three factories in the southeastern portion of the city were burned to-day as a result of an explosion. One hundred and twenty persons were killed or injured.

Music and Drama "THE RICH LITTLE POOR GIRL" at the Grand Opera House. The Stock Company at the Grand Opera House will appear on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with a matinee Wednesday one of the prettiest and daintiest of romantic plays. The story of a rich little girl who is poor and who is a slave in a London lodging house, among the numerous lodgers is one that treats the little girl kindly, and she grows to love him. But a struggling composer and artist whose work is constantly "turned down" because of his high ideals and his refusal to write the music to suit the vulgar, and popular taste. The girl is Lancelotti (Mr. Keane) the merchant who persuades him eventually to write popular "stunt" and he becomes rich and is classed as a genius. The friend who was played by Stanley Price, Lancelotti has just about decided to take Mary Ann out of the lodging house and marry her. Live with her in the country when the vicar of Mary Ann's parish arrives with the news that Mary Ann has become a great heiress. He makes her away from Lancelotti. For six years she knows nothing of each other until one evening at Mary Ann's charity concert, comes, identified. She has loved him all through the years and all ends happily. In the play we have many types, students of the Bohemian life as well as the London society which comes in the last act.

Miss Leeman will be the lodging house keeper who keeps poor Mary Ann in rags and neglected. And little Yvette Paul, the clever girl who is the daughter of Helen Aubrey will be Lady Chelmer a friend of Mary Ann in later years. "Little Yvette" will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and Saturday matinee. Every child in Brantford should see these two plays. They thought they can be enjoyed by all ages, especially clean and wholesome plays for younger people.

PARTICULARS GIVEN Of the Death of Corporal Jack Mason Officer Writes That He Was a Great Favorite

Mrs. Walter Mason, 36 Stratford Ave., has received the following letter from her brother-in-law, Corporal Jack Mason, who died from wounds at the front.

The year 1887 can hardly be called one of financial panics or industrial depressions, although hard times apparently prevailed. The stimulation to all industries resulting from the war, the speculative enterprises undertaken, the extension of credits, and the slackening of production, had combined to bring about a consequent stagnation of business; but the period was hard by spoken of by business men as one of the most successful years.

Just a few lines to you in answer to your welcome letter, and we were pleased to hear from you, and glad to hear you were well, as I am pleased to say we are well here. The officer who wrote and told mother and died in hospital, on the 13-7-1917, and was buried on the 14th, in a British cemetery at Coyxide, so I don't think he could have died so long. I think he must have suffered from the gas, he had been so long, as they got him to hospital, poor boy. The officer wrote a nice letter. He said the battery had a rather bad gas shelling at the hands of the enemy, but kept in action throughout and completed the task to destroy another German battery. They behaved magnificently, but unfortunately were all killed, amongst whom was your son. We are all both officers and men, very sorry to lose him, one of the old regular soldiers, and was a great favorite with the men, respected by the whole battery, and a good, capable non-commissioned officer. In conclusion we all join in expressing our deepest sympathy to you in your great loss. The country has lost a good soldier. I beg to remain, Yours sincerely, R.A. SOMERVILL, 2nd Lieut. R.O.A. Labor Conditions Following The War

ONE of the most serious problems which Canada must face at the close of the war is the re-arrangement of our affairs upon the basis of normal conditions, with the incidental question of labor unemployment. Labor conditions in Canada to-day are, in many respects, very similar to those which prevailed in the United States during their Civil War and the re-organization period. Our labor conditions immediately previous to the war had the same chaotic aspect.

At the close of the Civil War, the United States had a population of about 35,000,000. The Union Army of the Northern States in the main numbered slightly more than 1,000,000. It was estimated that another million men and women were employed in the Northern States in the manufacture of munitions. During the four-year period of the Civil War, immigration had fallen off, and returning soldiers were being absorbed into the farms, and drawn largely from the laboring classes in the cities. The call for munition workers was supplied from other branches of industry, with the result that ordinary enterprises were compelled to run short-handed or pay a high premium for labor.

Compared with this situation, we find Canada's army of about 400,000 drawn from a population of about 8,000,000. It is estimated that some 600,000 men and women are now engaged in munition work. Only 12% of our army, however, has been enlisted from the farms and more than 88% of the total has been recruited from among the skilled and manual laborers. The comparison shows the same situation regarding the scarcity of labor in munition work, because of the drain through the army of overseas forces and munition workers.

During the Civil War period, wages gradually increased. Prices of commodities also advanced. The laborer, however, skilled or unskilled, was in a disadvantage because his charges increased in proportion to the prices of necessities. Even with this situation, conditions were better among the mechanics and trades among the clerical class. The "warrior" people, whose incomes did not advance in proportion to the increased price of living.

Although the Union Army started to muster out in 1865 at the rate of about 300,000 men for the three summer months, there was for a time a great demand for men. This was but temporary, however, as 1868 witnessed an active industrial and agricultural revival. The returning soldiers, however, a large number of whom had volunteered from the farming districts, went back to producing or migrating to the homestead lands in the newly opened Mississippi Valley States. This wholesale homestead migration brought demands for new railroads; more than 15,000 miles of rails were laid in the west during the five years directly following the war. This railway work took up quantities of labor from the eastern centres and assisted to a marked degree the settlers who had come westward to the country without sufficient funds to fit them through the breaking and growing seasons of the first years.

The annual report of the United States Commissioner of Labor published in 1888, summarizes the reconstruction period, as follows: "The year 1887 can hardly be called one of financial panics or industrial depressions, although hard times apparently prevailed. The stimulation to all industries resulting from the war, the speculative enterprises undertaken, the extension of credits, and the slackening of production, had combined to bring about a consequent stagnation of business; but the period was hard by spoken of by business men as one of the most successful years."

State Council Opens At Moscow, Kerensky Declaring Determination To Guide Russia's Future; A Warning To Agitators

Moscow, Aug. 27.—The State council, which promises important results in the national life of Russia, opened at 3 o'clock Saturday in the Grand Opera with that solemnity and old Russian pomp especially characteristic of Moscow.

Members and invited guests, before being admitted, have their tickets examined by nine different military noets.

The Premier is greeted with wild applause when, early in his speech, speaking of the dangers from the Extreme Left, he declared: "All attempts with armed force against the people's power will be crushed with blood and iron."

Still more applause greeted him when, in closing at a counter-revolutionary military conspiracy, he exclaimed: "Let them be warned who think the time has come when, relying on the bayonet, they can overthrow our revolution."

THE GOVERNMENT WILL ENDEAVOR," the Premier went on, "to protect the army against the subversive influences which deprived soldiers of all sense of military duty, and will struggle energetically against the Maximilists, against all attempts by them to corrupt discipline."

Brantford, Aug. 27th, 1917.

THE SITUATION

The war news today has a distinctly better appearance. In the Verdun sector the French have delivered another smashing blow. They have made a gain of two-thirds of a mile on a two and a half mile front on the right bank of the Meuse and are now on the outskirts of the village of Beaumont.

The British have also chronicled an advance north of St. Quentin, storming and capturing strong German positions to a depth of half a mile along a mile front. The Old Country forces have also made gains in Flanders.

To the Italians, however, belong the chief honors. They have pierced the Austrian lines at many points and are sweeping ahead with irresistible dash, successfully brushing aside counter-attacks as they proceeded on their victorious way. At last accounts they had taken nearly twenty-four thousand prisoners, seventy-six large guns, and large quantities of machine guns and ammunition. The Teutons are now said to be rushing reinforcements from all quarters in an effort to stem the tide.

Petrograd reports some success on the Caucasian front, but the position of affairs as far as they are concerned does not seem to be much improved, if at all.

The necessity would certainly seem to exist for the public to take hold in this matter. A hearty welcome to the A. O. F. delegates. The Order, one of the oldest under the British flag, has a record for splendid and beneficent work, second to none, and the hope is heartily expressed that the deliberations in this city will be to the still further benefit of an institution of such all-round excellence.

BEFORE NEITZSCHKE

Neitzsche's philosophy of force and frightfulness is blamed for German ruthlessness of warfare. It would appear, however, says a writer in The New York Times, that this influence is overestimated, as German pitiless campaigns were notorious long before Neitzsche was born. After the battle of Waterloo Robert Southey thus describes a visit to Belgium:

You will be rejoiced to hear that the English are well spoken of for their deportment in peace and war. It is far otherwise with the Prussians. Concerning them there is but one opinion; of their brutality and intolerable insolence I have had but too many proofs. The Duke of Wellington, writing to his mother, thus describes the operations of the German legion:

I can assure you that from the general of the Germans down to the smallest drummer boy in their legion the earth never groaned with such a lot of murdering, infamous villains. They murdered, robbed, and ill-treated the peasantry wherever they went. Bleucher was with difficulty restrained by Wellington from plundering the Bank of France.

Why We Must Conserve. In the presence of a harvest as bountiful as Western Ontario has experienced, it is not easy to appreciate the fact that we are, notwithstanding, called up to exercise frugality in the consumption of food.

Food Controller Hanna furnishes the explanation. Millions of men are fighting overseas for our liberty and their own. Our first duty is to see that those who fight are fed. The Canadian Government, appreciating this, has appointed a food controller for Canada, who is charged with the responsibility of producing from this country such a quantity of food as will place beyond peradventure the food sufficiency of Tommy Atkins, Jack Canuck and their pals. Not that Canada must feed all, but that she must not herself enjoy fatness while the armies of the allies are short rationed.

This being so, it is well to close our eyes to the bounty of the crops and to the numbers of our herds and flocks, and to realize that except we conserve food we are in grave danger of experiencing an insufficiency in the coming winter months.

THE PEOPLE SHOULD ENCOURAGE PUBLIC STORAGE

The cold storage companies of Canada, including abattoir houses, control about half the meat which is killed in Canada and about one-fifth of the total quantity of eggs produced in Canada, more than one-third of the cheese and about one-fifth of the butter; that is, approximately these proportions of the total products of Canada in each of these commodities pass through cold storage in their transit from producer to consumer. This statement is made in Commissioner O'Connor's cold storage report, which continues:

"It is not all the property at any given time of cold storage companies but is either owned by them or stored on their premises. It will be shown in the course of this report, however, that public warehousing, properly so-called that is, the storing of goods in refrigerated space supplied by a company not owning the goods stored, bears a small proportion to the total quantity of produce passing through cold storage. In this Canada is unique and in spite of the effort of successive governments to encourage the public storage business by subsidies, the trend towards concentration in the handling of food to a limited number of private companies has not been checked and with the progress of the war is becoming more marked. This is part of the price Canada has paid for her position as a trader in a world market.

There are about one hundred and ten cold storage warehouses in Canada, operated by seventy-six different companies, two being American owned. Seven operate one establishment only. Five are large export houses. These include nine establishments, exporting chiefly dairy products, each with at least one branch in Montreal. There are twelve companies dealing chiefly in fish, two of which have two establishments each, the others only one each. There are thirty-nine storage warehouses dealing in general cold storage commodities, including meats, dairy products, eggs and fish, the proportion of each commodity handled depending upon the location of the warehouse. One of the latter companies is affiliated with one of the abattoir companies. Thus thirty-eight independent establishments handle general produce."

"The necessity would certainly seem to exist for the public to take hold in this matter.

A HEARTY WELCOME

Brantfordites generally and unreservedly will extend a very hearty welcome to the A. O. F. delegates.

PRESENTATION OF CARNEGIE MEDAL TO MRS. A. FRASER

Paris Woman Receives Soyer Which Cost Her Husband His Life

IS PRESENTED TODAY

Serious Accident at Penman Plant; Employee Has Arm Torn

(From our own correspondent) Paris, Aug. 27.—One year ago yesterday, August 26th, the town was suddenly plunged into deep mourning by the sad fatality of a double drowning, when Miss Doris Seton-Adams and Mr. J. Allan Fraser lost their lives by drowning, near the east abutment of the G.T.R. bridge, in the Grand River. It will be remembered by many that three young ladies, Miss Adams, Miss Thomson and Miss Inksater were bathing near the abutment, and by some means the former slipped into a deep hole. Her companions also had a narrow escape from death at the same time. The cries for help brought Mr. Fraser, who was bathing some distance off, towards the centre of the River, hurriedly to the rescue. In the meantime Miss Thompson had managed to reach shallow water, while two lads, Stanley Lilley and Baden Barker, were successful in getting Miss Inksater, who was exhausted, into their boat, but very little, had bravely plunged into the rescue of Miss Adams.

The deceased James Allan Fraser left a widow and three young children behind, in his brave but futile attempt to save life. He was born in Paris and brought up here, and it was generally felt, that something should be done to fittingly mark his heroic deed. Citizens were interested and Mr. John A. Thompson, with the aid of other citizens, brought the action of the Mr. Fraser before the Carnegie Hero Commission, and after full investigation of the affair, they decided that his deed had earned a hero's reward. His widow was accordingly notified towards the close of January last, that a pension of $50.00 a month, as also a suitable grant for each child for a certain number of years, had been awarded them, together with a Carnegie silver medal for bravery, which was later forwarded her.

Last week Mrs. Fraser was notified that a Victoria Cross was to be publicly presented at the Toronto Exhibition to Mr. J. J. Tipton, of Wallacestown, his son having died from wounds at the front, since earning it. It was thought it would be a fitting recognition of the heroic action of the late Mr. Allan Fraser to have a public presentation made to his widow at the same time as the above, by His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, at the Toronto Exhibition grounds. This was assented to by Mrs. Fraser, who left this morning for Toronto, accompanied by several friends, as also some of those who were instrumental in obtaining the medal for her—Senator J. H. Fisher, Mayor C. B. Robinson, T. Scott Davidson, M.P., John Thompson

A man named "Scotty" Stewart, employed in the wool department of the Penman Limited met with a shocking accident on Saturday morning. It seems that he was working around an extractor, when by some means one of his arms got caught in the machine, and was terribly mangled from wrist to the elbow. The man was taken to the Brantford Hospital, and it is reported that it was found necessary to amputate the arm at the elbow.

Complaints have been made to the police, of children, especially boys, stealing fruit. Last week one of two apple trees were pretty well stripped by some boys, and their ill-gotten gain sold or peddled around town. The culprits were discovered by the police and restitution made by way of money to the owner of the fruit. The boys got a severe lecture and will be watched by the police. Housewives are asked not to buy fruit from children peddling, unless they know them, as it might encourage stealing.

The wedding is announced of Miss Arwell Micks eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Micks, to Mr. Frank Sewell, youngest son of the late Mrs. Sewell of Paris. Rev. Mr. Dyker of Toronto, performed the ceremony for their many Paris friends who were present on the occasion. They will reside in Hamilton.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized last week at the home of Mrs. M. P. B. Smith, Wyoming, when her only daughter, Isabel was united in marriage to Sheldon Smoke, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Smoke of Paris. The bride was handsomely attired in a white charmeuse satin with trimmings of lace and pearls, and carried a beautiful bridal bouquet. The happy young couple were spending the wedding trip up the lakes, and upon their return will reside on Jane street, where the groom has purchased the home, lately occupied by Mr. Downie of the Bank of Commerce.

Paris Bowlers have certainly made a record this season having captured no less than four different trophies. The last was won at Dunville last week, during a three day contest, where 56 rinks on the green and Paris played well all through finally winning the Lawlor Trophy being a silver cup worth $500.00 this is the first time it was up for contest. The rink was composed of the following bowlers—Fred P. Blackhurst, Alfred Garner, W. T. Laskey and Rabi. T. Inksater, skip. The trophy's won this season will be on view in the store window of Blackhurst and Gill this week.

Yesterday afternoon a large number of Sons of England went to Glasgow and took part in a very impressive service. It was in memory of the members of the S. O. E. order who have died in battle. There were some 500 hundred Englishmen present from Paris, Brantford, Preston and Guilph. The graves of deceased brethren were adorned with flowers and veterans carrying the moral tributes.

The death took place suddenly of Sarah Elizabeth Chauncey, beloved wife of Alexander Knowles of Elm street, in her 57th year. A large representation of members of Court Harbidge, A. O. U. E. took part in the annual church parade in Brantford last evening.

On Saturday afternoon the Tennis Club of the Congregational Church, held a very successful Tea in their school room. The room was prettily decorated with flowers bunting and flags of the allies and a bevy of young girls were kept busy throughout the afternoon supplying the

THE BEST INVESTMENTS

THE CAREFUL investor requires an investment of definite security and of good assured income. No other form of investment answering these requirements is more satisfactory than the Debentures issued by the Royal Loan & Savings Company. The Laws of the Province of Ontario authorize Executors and Trustees to invest Trust Funds in these Debentures, which is the very best evidence of the security afforded by this form of investment. These Debentures are issued for sums of one hundred dollars and upwards to anyone applying for the same.

GERMANY

Continued from Page One. The result of these resignations, says the document, has been to subject their country to new rigors contrary to human law. The German Government has denied them the right to refuse their service and has arrested and deported them to Germany, though when they originally agreed to carry on their normal functions there was under the express stipulations that The Hague tribunal conventions should be respected. The protest concludes as follows: "In the presence of systematic flagrant violation of international law by the acts denounced above, the Belgian Government protests solemnly against the administrative separation which the occupying power is forcibly establishing in Belgium and against acts of violence to which functionaries are subjected who exercise their incontestable right to refuse to lend their hand to what they consider as unjust and unjustifiable measures. The Belgian Government denounces this new violation of human rights to the allied and neutral governments who subscribe their signatures to the convention concerning the laws and customs of war on earth."

KILLED ON L.E. TRACK

Instant death resulted when Henry Gardner, renowned as the peer of local fishermen, and well known as a former saddler of the city, was struck down by a Lake Erie and Northern car coming from Galt on Saturday night at 10 o'clock, near Wilkes' Dam.

The deceased was seventy years of age, was a well known angler, and spent most of his time during the past few years in enticing fish from the waters of the Grand, near Wilkes' Dam, his favorite fishing resort.

He was evidently either coming from or going to the river, as when his body was found, Detective Schuyler and Coroner Fissette discovered fishing tackle in the pockets. It is thought that he was on his way to the dam where experienced fishermen have been doing considerable night fishing for pickerel, and being tired, had sat down to rest by the side of the track, where he fell asleep.

He was awakened by the approach of the car, but before he could avoid it he was struck on the head by the step and his body hurled some distance away. His leg was also broken but it was the wound on the head that caused immediate death.

The deceased was a great lover of the out doors, and spent practically all of his time in the fresh air. In the winter time he resided at the House of Refuge and in the summer he camped out.

Mr. Gardner was formerly engaged in business here, and with his brother was a well known saddler.

A coroner's jury was impaneled this morning and viewed the remains at Pierce's undertaking parlors, and adjourned until Wednesday night at 3 o'clock. The jury consisted of Messrs. Fred Ungar, Austin Ludlow, R. J. Barrett, James Whittaker, W. Lane and William Cuthmore.

The remains were laid to rest in the family plot in Greenwood cemetery this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

AROUND THE WORLD

To have gained first place as the largest selling gum in the world means much. It means that WRIGLEY'S is liked above all others.

That its quality, lasting flavour and its package are the kind most appreciated.

Back of all this—the enormous sales of WRIGLEY'S show that people have learned its benefits: refreshment—aid to appetite and digestion—soothing, antiseptic influence to mouth and throat and the advantages of sweet, clean breath.

The soldiers and sailors are calling for it daily.

PLANS CONSIDERED

For the Affiliation of Three War Associations Resolution With Regard To Political Matters

Preliminary arrangements for the affiliation of the Great War Veterans' Association, the Soldiers' Aid Commission and the "A. R." Club were considered at a meeting of the G. W. V. A. at their regular meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night. Should the plan be consummated, the offices of these three organizations will be located in the Grand Valley Hotel, which is to be the headquarters of the G. W. V. A. and which will be occupied in the early part of September. The lease has been signed, and a committee consisting of Contractors A. H. Boddy, A. S. Jones and J. R. Cornelius was appointed to supervise the purchase of furnishings for the clubhouse. An attempt will be made by the executive of the organization to have a vocational training class for the benefit of returned men, added to the curriculum of either the Business College or the Collegiate Institute. In other large centres, particularly in Toronto, this important factor in the re-assimilation of war veterans into the civilian population has been taken up on a comprehensive scale, and the opportunity thus presented has been accepted by a large number of returned soldiers from all parts of the province. The War Veterans as a body will confer with the Dufferin Rifles on the 31st of September, and form a committee of that regiment for home defence purposes until the conclusion of the war. The returned men will have their own office and N. C. one and the company will consist exclusively of returned soldiers. While the attitude of the G. W. V. A. toward politics has been repeatedly and definitely stated, a strong resolution was passed unanimously settling that question for all time. Insofar as the local organization is concerned, no political candidate will be allowed to address the meeting of the Association, and no political favoritism will be displayed by that organization.

LETTER FROM WEST

An interesting epistle was this morning received by Secretary Fred Frank of the Water Commission from Mr. Fred C. Blomfield formerly accountant in the Bank of Montreal here and latterly a chartered accountant of Detroit. Mr. Blomfield accompanied by his wife and son is on the border between British Columbia and the Yukon in the heart of the mountains 2200 feet above the level of the sea. He characterizes the scene of his vacation as a sportsman's paradise. He says: "Moose and caribou are here by the thousands, and there are mountain sheep and bear galore to say nothing of fish. Yesterday I got 140 trout and grayling in less than four hours." Mr. Blomfield is well known as a sportsman and is a brother of Rex Blomfield, a regular contributor to "Outing," "Forest and Stream" and other periodicals familiar to outdoors men.

MURDER BY GUNMEN

New York, Aug. 27.—Two men were shot dead last night and two others were perhaps mortally wounded by three gunmen who entered a saloon in the lower eastside and demanded free drinks. The intruders opened fire as soon as their demand was refused, killing Michael Quatrone, the proprietor and Frank Zastagan, an employee. Two of Quatrone's friends who came to his assistance were seriously wounded. The gunmen fled to the street and, holding off a rapidly growing crowd with their revolvers, escaped.

FORESTERS HED CHURCH PARADE

Annual Service Took Place Last Evening at Congregational Church
400 IN ATTENDANCE
Preliminary To Convention Of High Court To Be Held In This City

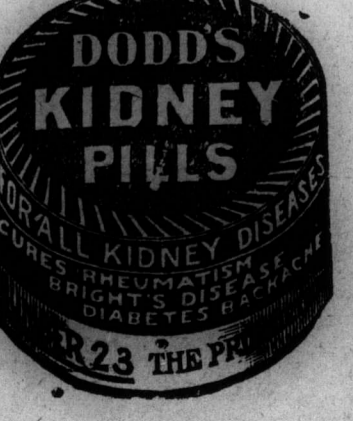

With approximately four hundred members in attendance, the annual church parade of the Ancient Order of Foresters took place last evening at the Congregational church, preliminary to the High Court convention which opens here to-morrow. Included in the procession were visiting brethren from Paris, St. George and other points throughout the county, in addition to the visiting Knights of Sherwood from Hamilton and the Executive of the High Court. The lodgesmen assembled at their headquarters on Dalhousie street shortly after six o'clock and the cortege, when fully formed, extended down George street and around Colborne to the length of half a block. The service at the church was devout and inspiring, the building being crowded to the doors with members of the regular congregation and other spectators, in addition to the Foresters.

After extending a few words of hearty welcome to the lodge men, present, the Rev. Mr. Thompson proceeded to the gist of his sermon, more in the nature of an intimate dissertation than of a formal lecture, and illustrated throughout with humorous anecdotes, both humorous and pathetic, all singularly appropriate and related in a spirit so typical of the speaker's personality. Taking his text from the words found in John XI, 41, "Give for alms those things which are within," the speaker proceeded to outline the essentials of true brotherhood. Not those with the most money it was who gave the finest alms; money, in its place, was a good thing, and the man who sneered at it the speaker styled a fool; not the finest gifts could be those lacking a fat bank account. Paul, by way of example, sacrificed much in the way of power, position and worldly wealth, yet, though poor, he made many rich. In these words, those of the disciple himself, was found more than a paradox—a truth, along the entire way from Rome to Jerusalem, were found men and women who admitted that to Paul they owed more than they could ever repay. This true liberality, the grand generosity of life, was one of the true gifts spoken of in the words of the Scripture.

First and foremost among those spiritual gifts, the speaker considered, was that of appreciation; all the world appreciated appreciation, when properly expressed, and without it, well meant but poorly expressed blunder so often occurring. Half the beauty of kindness lay in the grace with which it was done. Second came the gift of encouragement, so essential to success. "It makes all the difference in the world," the speaker declared, "when you have someone back of you in the fight, when you know that there is someone who cares." So it should be with all of us in the knowledge that Christ was, not behind us, but in our innermost heart of hearts, enabling more to fight the good fight, the third, perhaps the greatest of the gifts from within, was the gift of brotherly love; obedience to the commandment: "Love ye one another," was one of the greatest essentials in the world to-day; all must come together and work as one to a common end, giving not suspicion and jealousy, but human brotherhood and love, those qualities so exemplified in the Ancient Order of Foresters, and which would play so great a part in the elevating of the human race to a higher sphere of enlightenment and fraternity.

Special musical numbers, of a pleasing and appropriate nature were rendered during the service, notably among them being solos by Mrs. H. Britten (Behold the Master Passes By) and P. G. Armstrong (Land of Hope and Glory). The hymns sung during the evening included "All People That On Earth Do Dwell," "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." The banner of the Ontario High Court of the A. O. F. was displayed in the church during the service. It being one of the finest of its kind in existence, made in England some years ago, and having since won a prize when placed on exhibition among others.

ITALIANS PIERCE EFFEY FROM GREAT ISOZZO DRIVE

Austrians in Full Retreat, Hotly Pursued By Cadorna's Forces, Whose Successes Rouse Enthusiasm of All

London, Aug. 26.—Numerous messages from the front received by ministers indicate that the Italians are making swift strides towards victory. When asked to-day for an expression of his opinion of the results so far achieved in the battle, Lieut.-Gen. Courvoisier Cadorna, commander-in-chief of the Italian forces, smilingly remarked: "We are doing nicely, thank you."

Rome, Aug. 26.—The Italian troops on the Isonzo front are marching to complete victory. The battle along the Isonzo has developed further brilliant successes. General Cadorna's men, who at the beginning of the offensive effected a new crossing of the river north of Gorizia, at a point where the Austrians believed such a feat was impossible, have won another spectacular victory by scaling Monte Santo, 2,245 feet high, and pitched there.

The official communication on the result of the battle shows that the demoralization of the Austrian troops is in part due to the extraordinary aerial and artillery work of the Italians, which has destroyed not only the lines of communication, but has resulted in the burning of all the main food supply stations of the Austrians who for the past week have been starving at many points between Tolmino and the sea. This also accounts for the unusual number of prisoners and wounded.

Austrian Losses 100,000
 The total losses of the Austrians from all causes are reckoned at nearly 100,000, the most important of which, in the Carso region, have not yet been officially announced. It is said that among the losses of the Austrians are five regiments of the Twelfth division, popularly known as the "iron division."

Monte Santo, the side of which has been scarred by many struggles in the past two years, and which is known in both armies as the spot where many men have become heroes, was taken by the Second army corps under Gen. Capello, the crossed the Isonzo at Anzovo and swerved around the base of Monte Santo, thereby cutting the Austrian line of retreat and completely isolating the mountain, which for so long has been a thorn in the side of the Italians.

The hydraulic ingenuity employed by the Italians on the Isonzo will always be considered most remarkable. Difficult was the task which they dealt with rivers in different ways. Moses, finding that the west wind piled in heaps the water—not, indeed, of the Red Sea, but of the old Mahomet mouth of the Nile—crossed nearly dried up. The wind changed, released the waters, which filtering through the sands, made of them a mass as pharaoh, whose intelligence service was poor, was engaged in crossing. Emperor Julian, descending the Euphrates, was checked by Ctesiphon, who made the river his own to get his ships around. What tricks General Cadorna has been playing with the Isonzo time will show.

Further Advance Sunday.
 The Italians have made a further advance on the north of Gorizia, close to the Austrians, the War Office announces. Austrian counter-attacks on the Carso were repulsed. The number of prisoners has been increased to more than 27,000 and to which a great amount of booty has been captured. The statement follows:

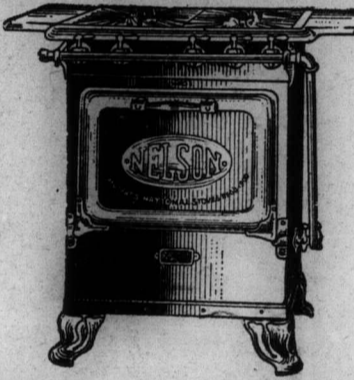

"The battle is beginning to reveal itself in the evening. The action north of Gorizia, from August 19 onward, may be epitomized as follows: "The troops of the second army, after having thrown 14 bridges across the Isonzo on the 18th, the enemy passed over the river on the night of August 18-19 and proceeded to attack the Bainsizza plateau. Directing themselves decisively toward the Jelenik-Vrb front, they went around the three enemy defensive lines of Sommer, Kobelk and Madoni, which crossed there. Contemporaneously they attacked the line from the front and broke through despite the enemy's most stubborn defence. The consequence of this bold manoeuvre was the capture of Monte Santo.

"Since yesterday the tricolor has been flying on the summit of Monte Santo. The gallant troops of the Second Army, having broken through the line of defence at several points, are closely pursuing the enemy, who is retiring and defending the difficult ground yard by yard.

(By Percival Gibbon)
 With the Italian Army on the Carso, Aug. 25—I saw it when this morning from Selo, which has been in Italian for sixty hours, where the cutting edge of the vast Italian war organization has sliced most deeply into the heart of the Austrian resistance. Here also both the Italian Grenadiers and enemy Hotovds suffered their heaviest losses. Italy is not playing at war. She pays her price for her victories, and the current wherewith the days is lying out under the vehement sun, waiting for burial.

CORDAGE PROTEST DOMINION STEEL'S VICTORY IN GAME FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Munition Men are Victors in City League as Result of Saturday's Encounter; Cordage Objected to Harbour's Umpiring—Harwood Twirls Sensational Ball

In a stormy, seven inning game on Saturday, the Dominion Steel clinched the championship of the city league, unless a protest laid by the Cordage team, is sustained. The Cordage took exception to a ruling of the Umpire Harbour's in the fifth inning, and only finished the game under protest. Manager Bradley declaring all bets off. The dispute occurred in the first of the fifth, with none out; Hurley singled, and Summerhays followed suit. Summerhays, attempting to make second on the throw from centre field, was called out by Harbour, while Hurley, rounding third at the same moment, was touched by the catcher and also called out. Manager Bradley and others of the Cordage, protested strenuously, claiming that the umpire could not have seen both plays at once, and hence, erred in calling both men out. The Cordage left the field, and for a time refused to play, the spectators crowding down on the diamond and threatening Harbour. The game was finally finished, resulting in an easy victory for the munition men, 6-0. Despite cold and rainy weather, the game was of unusually good nettle, snappy ball being served up, and the encounter characterized on both sides by the vital and aggressive fighting spirit which has made baseball the national game of the entire American continent to-day. Feeling ran high between the two clubs, as upon the result of the one game lay the decision of the league championship, and betting was heavy among backers of both clubs. Prior to the game, Manager Bradley objected to the Dominion Steel playing Henry of the Motor Trucks, and Johnson of the Cubs, but finally yielded upon that point. The game started off well, Joe Allen uncorking a barrel of speed from his port arm, and, though lacking at times in control he received air tight support from his team mates.

Motor Trucks Vs. Cubs
The first game, which went only five innings, and was played in the most part in a drizzle of rain, and under weather conditions even more inclement than the second, was featured by the twirling of Blake Harwood, for the Motor Trucks, he twirling a remarkable brand of ball, holding the Cubs hitless and runless, allowing only one base on balls and fanning no less than eleven men. The game was a 4 to 0 victory for the munition team, who took two in the second, on singles by Jeffries and McKelvey and Symons' boot of Tillman's grounder. Two more were added in the third, Henry, Bradley and Jeffries all coming through with safe singles and Syrett losing McKelvey's fly to left. The score:—

LEAFS REGAIN LEAD IN INTERNATIONAL

Won Both Ends of Double-Header From the Grays on Saturday OVER 9,000 SAW GAME

Gould and Thompson Were The Winning Pitchers For Toronto

Toronto, Aug. 27.—The Leafs regained first place on Saturday when they defeated the Grays in both ends of the double-header, the first by 5 to 0, and the second by 6 to 1. The locals dished up the sort of baseball that caused enthusiasm among the 9,000 spectators, despite the rainy and showery weather that prevailed. The price of admission was obtained early, and the fans showed their appreciation by instilling a lot of the old-time pepper that used to be prevalent in the Diamond Park days. The double victory gives the locals a 13 to 9 margin on the season.

The Leafs displayed the kind of baseball that is particularly refreshing to a home crowd. They hit the ball with a vengeance, and but for some of their blunders being right at the fielders, the score would have been large, especially in the second game, when in two of the innings the third out was a line drive right at one of the infielders, with the bases loaded. In the field the locals were also prominent, although Eayrs, of the visitors, pulled off the "feature stunt" of the afternoon, when he grabbed Schultz's long single by a great running catch in the first game.

Albert Gould was opposed to big Ed. Ruelbach in the first encounter, and the local lived up to the good things expected of him by holding the Grays to three scattered hits and a kalsomine. On the other hand, Ruelbach was touched up for a dozen safeties. In the second game, Thompson and Schultz were announced as the opposing twirlers, but the latter gave way to Peters in the second inning, the latter doing better and also proving luckier. "Tommy" had comparatively easy sailing through-out the game, his only run being the result of a bad peg to third by Lalonge.

Whiteman's Disputed Homer.
A dispute arose in the first inning of the second game, when with two on and nobody down, Whiteman hit a long fly that sailed into the bleachers and then bounced out. Umpire Bedford, who was on the bases, declared that it hit the fence, but the umpires' only run being the result of a bad peg to third by Lalonge.

The Wahos has a lot to worry him. Had the weather conditions been better he would have profited more. But the extreme cold, and the accompanying threats of rain held the attendance down to 6,915 spectators. That wasn't as good as Washington did here a week previously with no special interest attached to the game. Still, $2,000 worth of money and jewelry is not exactly a hard dose to swallow.

HONOR CRAWFORD IN THREE WAYS

Proceeds of Game, a Gold Watch and Diamond Ring Donated to Slugger

Detroit, Aug. 27.—Detroit bunched hits with Jamieson's costly error in the fifth inning Saturday and won from the Athletics, 4 to 2. In honor of the great slugger, the day was called the Sam Crawford Day and the Detroit Club's share of the proceeds of the game, which amounted to $1,200, were donated to him. In his testimonial game Sam failed to get a safe hit, but every time he came to bat he was given a great ovation and one of his drives nearly became a home run. It was pulled down by a grand catch, but if it had got away it would have easily been a homer. He had two fielding chances and accepted both. Crawford expects if he gets through with major league ball this year to spend the remainder of his days in California. He has saved his earnings and it is estimated that he has little less than $100,000 invested wisely.

Still, Sam need not be mournful. His end of the gate receipts was within a few dollars of $1,200. In addition, he was presented by Detroit fans, with diamond ring that cost $600, with discounts on the retail price. Also, Flint fans, represented by George H. Maines, as their spokesman, gave Sam a solid gold-cased watch. So Samuel wasn't entirely penniless when he left the yard. Alderman Charles W. Burton presented the ring on behalf of his committee.

The Wahos has a lot to worry him. Had the weather conditions been better he would have profited more. But the extreme cold, and the accompanying threats of rain held the attendance down to 6,915 spectators. That wasn't as good as Washington did here a week previously with no special interest attached to the game. Still, $2,000 worth of money and jewelry is not exactly a hard dose to swallow.

St. Louis, Aug. 26.—St. Louis took both games of to-day's double-header from Philadelphia, the first in 11 innings, 5 to 5, and the second game with 9 to 5. St. Louis won the first game on a balk by Echauser, who had replaced Noyes in the ninth. Philadelphia staged a belated rally in the second game, when Groom weakened in the ninth, but it fell short four runs of tying the score, although the visitors had the bases filled when Dugan fanned for the third out. Let's Have a Post Series
City, Aug. 27th, 1917.
Sporting Editor The Courier,
Dear Sir—Through the valuable columns of your paper I wish to express the appreciation of the many enthusiastic baseball fans and supporters, (including myself) towards the officials of the City League for their untiring energies in the promoting of baseball in the city. As an ardent supporter of clean sportsmanlike games, I would suggest now, as the league schedule is about finished, that the Executive arrange for a series of games with the Steel Products and Cordage teams. I think such a series would tend to satisfy the baseball supporters as to the best team, for while one team may be on top in the league schedule of games, the unfortunate part of it is, from the spectators point of view, that these teams have been playing picked players from other clubs. Let us have a series with their regular players.

GROUP OF AMERICAN AVIATION CADETS
Uncle Sam has sent a large number of stalwart sons to Canada to train at the camps of the Royal Flying Corps. New training camps are being laid out in Texas, where Canadian and American will be quartered this winter. Eight colleges in the United States have given their buildings, grounds and equipment to the Government for use in training airmen.

JACK DUNN SLATED FOR THE YANKEES
Baltimore Owner Listed As Next Manager of New York Americans

Baltimore, Mr. Aug. 26.—According to well posted baseball men, the Baltimore baseball team, will be the next manager of the New York Americans. In fact it is hinted that he has already come to terms with the New York club, and will take hold of the Yankees next spring. Another story going the rounds is that the Washington franchise will be transferred to Baltimore as culmination of the Federal suit being dropped. At any rate Dunn's sale of six players is said to be part of his house cleaning tactics preparatory to turning the Oriole franchise back to the International League, and thus allow Dunn to get away to the New York club.

(From Saturday's Daily.)
And immediately the man turned back to the desk to renew his rummaging—in search of a key to the case, she guessed. But his business there was surprisingly abbreviated—interrupted in a fashion certainly as startling to him as to her who skulked and spied on the dark side of the folding doors.

Neither received the least intimation that the door from the library to the hall had been opened. Sally, for one, remained, firmly persuaded that they two were alone in the silent house until the instant when she saw a second man hurl himself upon the back of the first—a swift-moving shape of darkness, something almost feline in his grim, violent fury that afforded the victim no time either to turn or lift a hand in self-defense. In a twinkling the two went headlong to the floor and disappeared, screened by the broad top of the center-table.

There, presumably, Blue Serge recovered sufficiently from the shock of surprise to make some show of fighting back. Confused sounds of scuffling and hard breathing became audible, with a thump or two denoted by the rug; but more than that, nothing—never a word from either combatant. There was something uncanny in the silence of it all.

For an instant Sally remained where she was, rooted in fright and wonder; but the next and without in the least understanding how she had come there, she found herself by the open door in the entry-hall, just beyond the threshold to the library, commanding an unobstructed view of the conflict.

Apparently this neared its culmination. Though he had gone down face forward, Blue Serge had contrived to turn over on his back, in which position he now lay, still struggling, but helpless, beneath the bulk of his assailant—a burly, black-vised scoundrel who straddled the chest of his prey, a knee pinning down either arm, both hands busy with efforts to make an unappetizing bandanna serve as a gag.

Pardonably rewarded for this inconsiderate treatment, the fat one suddenly snatched one hand away, conveyed a bitten finger to his mouth, instantly spat it out together with a gust of masterful profanity and the other, taking advantage of the opportunity to renew his struggles, shifted his grip to Blue Serge's throat and, bending forward, strove with purpose undoubtedly murderous to get possession of the short Roman sword.

It lay just an inch beyond his reach. He strained his utmost toward it, almost touched its haft with eager finger-tips.

At this a strang thing happened—stranger of all to Sally. For she, who never in her life had touched firearm or viewed scene of violence more desperate than a schoolboy squabble, discovered herself inside the library, standing beside the desk and leveling at the head of the heavy villain the automatic pistol that had, rested there.

Simultaneously she was aware of the sound of her own voice, its accents perhaps a bit shaky, but none the less sharp, crying: "Stop! Don't you dare! Drop that sword and put up your hands! I say, put up your hands!"

The stout assassin started back and turned up to the amazing apparition of her ludicrous mask of astonishment, eyes agog, mouth alope, pendulous, beard-rusty chin quiver like some unsavory sort of jelly. Then slowly—thanks to something convincing in the manner of this young woman, aflame as she was with indignant championship of the under dog—he elevated two grimy hands to a point of conspicuous futility; and a husky whisper, like a stifled roar, rustled past his lips: "Well, can yah beat it?"

A thrill of self-confidence galvanized the person of Miss Manvers, standing at once her hand and her voice.

"Get up!" she snapped. "No—keep your hands in sight. Get up somehow, and be quick about it!"

Without visible reluctance, if with some difficulty, like a clumsy automaton animated by unwilling springs, the fat scoundrel lurched awkwardly to his feet and passed.

"Very good." She was surprised at the cold, level menace of her tone. "Now stand back—the wall! Cuck!"

She was abruptly interrupted by a vast, discordant yell: "Look out, lady! Look out! That gun might go off!"

And as if hoping by that sudden and deafening roar to startle her on guard, the man started toward her, but pulled up as quickly, dashed and sullen. For she did not flinch an inch.

"That's your lookout!" she retorted incisively. "If you're afraid of it—stand back and keep your hands up!"

"Thanks!" he panted. "I—ah—good of you, I'm sure—"

She checked him coolly: "Take your time—plenty of it, you know—get your breath and pull yourself together."

He laughed uncertainly. "Ah—ah—ah—as dumfounded as grateful, you know."

She nodded with a courteous due to disillusionment; the man was pale, his eyes frightened, and whatever his excuse, a timid Raffles was a sorry object in her esteem at that instant.

She had anticipated of him—she hardly knew what—something brilliant, bold, and dashing, something as romantic as one has every right to expect of a hero of romantic fiction. But this one stood panting, trembling, "sparring for wind," for all the world like any common-place person fresh from rough handling!

It was most disappointing, so much so that she conceded grudgingly the testimony of her senses to the rapidity with which he regained his normal poise and command of resource, for one evidence of which last she noted that he backed up to the center-table with a casual air, as if needing its support, and with a deft, certain, swift gesture slipped the jewel-case into his coat-pocket. And she noted, too, a flash of anxiety in his eyes, as if he were wondering whether she had noticed.

"At this she lost patience. "Well?" she asked brusquely, "if you've had time to think—"

"To be sure," Blue Serge returned easily. "You mean, about this gentleman? If you ask me, I think he'd be far less potentially mischievous facing the wall."

"All right," Sally agreed, and added with a fine flourish of the pistol: "Face about, you!"

With flattering docility the fat rascal faced about.

"And now," Blue Serge suggested, "by your leave—"

"Drawing near the girl, he held out his hand for the pistol, and to her own surprise she surrendered it without demur, suddenly conscious that he was no more afraid, that he was rapidly assuming comprehensive command of the situation beyond what she could have expected.

And he knew that she knew he knew, that she had never entertained any real intention of pulling the trigger, however desperate the emergency might become.

And incontinently, as though he had dismissed her, Blue Serge transferred his interest exclusively to his late assailant.

Calmly showing the girl his back, he stepped over, poked the pistol's nose significantly into the folds of the ruffian's neck, and with a sharp word of warning slapped smartly his two hip pockets; in consequence of which singular performance he thrust a hand beneath the tail of the fellow's coat and brought away a bull-dog revolver of heavy caliber.

And then he stepped back, smiling, with a sidelong glance of triumph for Sally's benefit—a glance that spent itself on emptiness.

For Sally was no more there, her untraced fingers were already fumbling with the fastenings of the front door when Blue Serge discovered her defection.

BUBBLING TYPE OF GIRL POPULAR NOW

Men Rave Over Them, Says Woman Writer; Grouch Is Masculine Monopoly

What are the qualities that men admire most in women?
Why is one girl surrounded, another lonely?
Why does some little snub-nosed creature with flame-colored hair receive ten proposals of marriage, and a languid beauty wait helplessly for one that never comes?

It seems to be the opinion of Mary Alexander, the author of this interesting discussion in a current magazine article, that men do not like girls who run after them, and that the surest way to attract their interest is to pursue him. The ages are back of this opinion, to be sure. Yet I don't agree with them remarks a New York woman writer.

"I've seen more men rounded up by ruthless, remorseless, relentless pursuit than I've ever known to be alienated by it. And nothing is more untrue than that men worship the haughty and contemptuous beauty. The race is neither to the beautiful nor to the good. And if you follow the matrimonial axiom of the grandmothers and let one of your kind get a nibble you will be pretty likely to lose your fish and perhaps your hook line and sinkers as well.

Men like the joyful girl. A "grouch" is a strictly masculine privilege to be guarded as jealously as they guard the ballot. Men may rail at Fate and question the eternal verities, but let a woman try it and immediately they discover there is something queer about her. It is her business to seem as a woman glad whether she is or not!

The gay girl, the fountain playing in sunshine, dispensing sweetness and light and glowing optimism on the world, is as much beloved by men eager to bathe their sombre spirits in her smiles as if she were a Coney Island bathhouse on Saturday afternoon.

Women don't like her so much. But that's because the fountain of light is not turned on for them. And they know that too much mirth and frolic in public means hysteria in private; that the woman who is really pleasant to live with dwells always in the temperate zone. Only a man could have written "Sweet Alice, Ben Bolt," for one would believe that a girl who laughed with delight when you gave her a smile and trembled with fear at your frown was not fitful and ill tempered around the house unless of course, she was the village idiot. And even idiots have their ups and downs of feeling.

"What do men like in women?" I asked a man and he answered, "They like the good-looking, slender ankles; pep—and patience."

"They like eyes," I retorted "and teeth. Few care anything about noses or the shape of lips. I've known men consider women beautiful whose mouths might have been cut with a can opener."

"No," the critic of woman admitted, "I don't believe men care very much about features anyhow. They like, wholesomeness, good temper, amiability what they call a sunny girl."

"Do they like brains?" I asked. "Brains are not what you want," he answered magnanimously. "No man begrudges a girl a brain—if, well, if she can wear white spats as advantage."

is spending a couple of weeks holidays at her home here and Port Rowan.

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH CAMERON

JUST TRY IT YOURSELF.
"There was a young lady said 'Why Can't I look in my ear with my eye If I put my mind to it. Perhaps I can do it. You never can tell till you try.' That is one of my favorite nonsense rhymes. I think I have quoted it before in support of the contention that one can often do much more than one thinks one can—if short that one never can. Tell me one tries, what one can do.

To-day I want it to point the opposite moral—namely that one never can tell till one tries what one can't do.

He Would Stop and Rest
A woman I know had a painter working for her by the day. It seemed to her that he was unnecessarily long in getting the work done.

"My dear," she said, "the just sit there and brush back and forth, and back and forth over the same spot. If he'd leave the paint there once he got it on, it wouldn't take him half so long. But he'll put the paint on and then go back over it every half hour or so he stops and lights his pipe and just sits there for two or three minutes. And I'm paying for all that time. I declare I'm all out of patience."

As it happened, at that time I had never done any painting (like the woman herself) and consequently I sympathized with her. "I suppose he wants to make all the money he can," I said.

That was three months ago. Painting One of Many Things Not So Simple As They Look.

To-day if anyone complained to me because a painter brushed out his strokes or rested a few minutes to give his wrists new strength I would know what to say. I've been there myself. I know that painting which looks like the simplest thing in the world has a knack to it like many other things we think if we only cared to try we could do as well (or better) than the men who have studied their craft.

I know that one cannot slap on the paint and leave it without brushing out the strokes. I know that when one paints any large surface one's wrists quickly become astonishingly tired.

How a Little Experience Would Help
If people who rage about the slowness and the costliness of the carpenter and the plumber and the mason and all the other artisans who serve us in one way or another, could have a week's experience at each kind of work, how their sympathies would be broadened!

Of course I do not mean that there is no such thing as soldering or overcharging. On the contrary! I only mean that the layman who criticizes and complains about the craftsman's work never can really know what he is talking about till he tries.

Good Night Stories
Dicky and when evening came three bird houses were hoisted on three poles in Dicky's backyard.

Mrs. Sparrow soon found them and chose one, and before many days they were all occupied. Dicky told his playmates what he had done, and every one of them built bird houses for their backyards.

All through the Autumn days the boys threw crumbs to the sparrows, and when the cold winter snows covered the ground they scraped the snow from their window sills and scattered crumbs for their little friends.

The sparrows soon came to know and to love the boys, and one day Dicky told his playmates what he had done, and every one of them built bird houses for their backyards.

WHY MRS. SPARROW CHANGED HER MIND

WHY MRS. SPARROW CHANGED HER MIND

It had been raining all night and the breeze from the lake was quite cool. Dicky looked from the cheery fire-place, with its crackling logs, to the cold, drizzle falling outside.

A crowd of little birds sat on a branch of the cherry tree near the window and chattered in loud voices. "Do birds understand one another, mamma?" asked Dicky.

"I'm sure they must," answered mamma.

"Then I wish I could hear what they are talking about," exclaimed Dicky.

"I wish you could," said mamma as she left the room.

Dicky felt a tug at his elbow. "Good morning, Dicky," said a happy voice.

"Hello, Squeedee," said Dicky. He was always glad to see Squeedee, for it generally meant a happy day for Dicky.

"I'll let you hear what they are talking about, if you promise not to harm them ever again," said Squeedee.

Dicky promised, and Squeedee touched him three times on the ear, muttering strange words.

"Why not come South with the rest of us," asked Cock Robin.

Mrs. Sparrow scratched her head with her claw. "I can't leave my babies and they are too young to fly," she answered.

"Too bad. Why not build a house under the barn eaves or under the porch there," suggested Mr. Robin.

"Yes, so the bad boys can steal my little ones—too sir! I hate boys; they are all bad. Boys are our worst enemies," exclaimed Mrs. Sparrow.

"Better build a warm house, for I heard the winds say this would be a hard winter," replied Mr. Robin. A cloud of birds flew over, headed South, and Cock Robin joined them.

"Now you see what birds think of boys," laughed Squeedee, and he bade Dicky good-by and disappeared.

Dicky turned from the window and pulled out his chest of tools and spent the rest of the day pounding and sawing.

"What are you doing, dear," asked mamma when she heard the hammer.

"Building something," answered Dicky.

LADIES' WAIST.
By Anabel Worthington.

The drop shoulder style has come into its own again after having been absent for several seasons, and it is being used on many of the smartest dresses and waists. In material, flannel also has come back, so it is very appropriate that these two should be combined in this dressy blouse, No. 8867. The centre of interest is the Japanese collar in white effect, showing a graceful curve to the left side, where it buttons in the double-breasted style. The crossed vest of Georgia follows the same curved line. The sleeves may be short or long, though the latter are more in keeping with a silk waist.

The waist pattern, No. 8867, is cut in sizes 26 to 42 inches bust measure. The 38-inch size requires 1 3/4 yards of 26-inch material, 5/8 yard of 27-inch silk for collar and cuffs and 1/2 yard 20-inch crepe for vest.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH WEST LAND REGULATIONS
The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. The land must be cultivated and improved within six months in each of three years. A certain district a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as a pre-emption. Price $20 per acre. Residence six months in each of three years after earning homesteaded patent and cultivating 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homesteaded patent. A settler after obtaining homesteaded patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $50 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years. Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm labourers in Canada during 1917. Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agents' Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

W. W. COBY
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

BRITISH WORKMEN DEFENDING HOMES

Will Crooks, Noted Old Land Labor Leader, On Question of the War
THE DUTY OF MANKIND
A Whitechapel Analysis of Prussian Kultur and Terrorism

(By Will Crooks, M.P., British Labor Leader)

I am a Poplar man. I was born in Poplar in poverty in a little back-roomed house in 1852. As a lad, I was apprenticed near by to a cooper. Nearly thirty years ago the working men of Poplar chose me for my first public office, as member of the board of trustees. I live in Poplar to-day.

Poplar is part of the great working class quarter of East London, which starts at Whitechapel and stretches to Canning Town, the largest solely industrial quarter in the world. Here we have no leisured class, no middle class, none but working men and the tradesmen who supply them. East London is a natural reservoir for casual and shifting labor. In pre-war days advertisements of factories to let here abounded as an attraction the words 'abundant supplies of casual labor' to be had.

Houses Well Filled
Casual labor means low wages, and East London is the home of poverty. We have many families living in one or two rooms; few families have a whole house to themselves. Gough street, Poplar, where I live, is as good a street as is to be found within a radius of a mile. Yet I do not know a family save my own that has a whole house to itself, and I think I know every family in the street. The houses in Gough street are not large—two-story houses rented at thirteen shillings a week. But when thirteen shillings represents 33 per cent. of a working man's wages he cannot afford as much for rent.

Facts Before the War
We were strongly anti-war before the war with Germany began. We were willing to fight any man for it. In the war we were outspokenly pro-Boer.

We stood for peace, for liberty and for friendship among nations. On one occasion, on a public visit to Germany, I proposed the health of the Kaiser. We were not in any sense military. We laughed at the Allies and Berties of Piccadilly. We opposed in every way we could any man who sought to promote war or to do anything likely to provoke war.

To-day Poplar, for many years the centre of anti-war preparations, is actively supporting the Government in its conduct of the war against Germany.

I myself, the man of peace, have undertaken big recruiting campaigns. I have visited, lived among and encouraged the men in the trenches. I have taken the message of the men making the guns to the men using the guns, and coming back I have taken the message from the men in the trenches to those in the workshops.

Battle for Liberty
In the days of the Boer war we were pro-Boer because we thought that the liberty of the Boer was in danger. To-day we stand by our country because we know that the liberty of our people is threatened. Our liberty is being taken away. It is standing together. And who, in the name of God, is going to say that we are not a family and fighting as a family? This war was forced on us. A wicked war was never before waged.

Our homes are in danger, our wives and families are threatened. We understand this. The brutal murder of the innocent and dying in the trenches. The message from the men in the trenches who could do brutal murders such as the Kaiser has sanctioned. I would see my own family wiped out and every member of the British Empire perish.

Respect for "Aisy"
When we understood this we came together. We have had our family quarrels, very hot family quarrels sometimes, but at the bottom we all had a common interest in the welfare of our nation. I had laughed sometimes at the Allies and Berties of Piccadilly. But when I found these Allies and Berties, possessing all that could yield ease, luxury and defence, throwing everything up to fight for their country and dying by the side of our lads in Poplar in the trenches I loved and respected them for it.

Down each of our Poplar streets we have taken to the help of Dick, who earned his sergeant's stripes, left for France and was killed in three weeks; of Jack, blown up in a naval fight; of Tony wounded, headed and beat again. The example of these lads had a wonderful effect on people left behind. I know men who were drunkards and loafers. Their dear ones have gone to war, and I have seen the men at home pulled up. They have cut drinking. They come home early at nights. They settle down to their work. And when the news comes that their lad was killed on the Somme, the Ancre or at Ypres they take it quietly. It is as though they said, "I must try to be worthy of my soldier sons."

Peace Party is Small

We have a small peace party. Its strength may be judged by the fact that when it holds its meetings at the East India Dock Gates, our great public forum the usual audience is between five and fifteen people. If I stand up to advocate the war several hundred people will gather in a few minutes. They do not stay merely to listen to Bill Crooks. They have known me for many years, for I have spoken there for thirty years. But they come in greater numbers than in the old days. They come because I tell them about the war.

I was walking down Commercial Road with a young fellow in khaki fresh back from the front, when he saw an old chum come up. "Why, Bert," he said, "not in khaki? You're not joined up?" "Naw!" Bert replied. "I ain't such a fool." And he went to argue against the war.

The soldier had to go on. I remarked and turned to the young fellow. I purposely pitched my voice loud to attract the attention of passers-by.

"I noticed," said I, "that before you answered your friend you took a cigarette out of your mouth. Do you understand that it is the likes of him, doing what he is doing, that enables the likes of you to be where you are in safety? You are not willing to do your bit to stop the Kaiser from murdering women and children."

By this time a number of women probably about fifty, were standing around listening.

An Incident in Belgium
"Let me tell you about a scene at a Belgian railway station a little time ago. A train was loaded up with 3,000 young women, married and single. They had been dragged from their homes by the German soldiers. Tears were on their faces and their hands were outstretched as they cried, beseeching a neutral friend, 'Where are we going? For God's sake, take us where we are going!' They were being dragged from their homes to Germany. And you, my lad, are not such a fool, you say, as to help to save your women and children from a fate like this."

There was no need for me to say any more. I heard the women crying, "Leave him to us, Mr. Crooks, leave him to us." I left that is how our women feel about it. They encourage their sons and husbands to fight. They want this wicked and dreadful war to cease until the power of the Kaiser to repeat such evil has been broken.

Temporary Sacrifice
"But," say some folk, "you are giving up liberty. You are Prussianizing yourselves. You are adopting all kinds of regulations in England. The Germans are doing this, they cannot do that. You must stay at work; you must go as a soldier if you are called; you can no longer do as you like."

Yes, but why? We have temporarily made a sacrifice of our individual freedom in order to secure it permanently. We are paying a price, but we are paying it of our own free will. You cannot get anything except at a price. You cannot have any spirit and gain without material sacrifice. When a big bit of work has to be done call in the expert and place yourself under his direction. We are engaged on the biggest task any nation ever undertook. We have called in the experts, the best experts we can find. We are letting them tell us what to do and how to go to work.

Everybody's Business
This war is everybody's business, workman and aristocrat alike. Everybody must help, and every class is helping. We are going to see this thing through. And we are willing to sacrifice everything.
