WHAT'S BRED IN THE BONE.

CHAPTER IX.

'What was the—tune? Can you give me an idea of it?'

Putting his lips close to my ear he softly whistled a few bars of the Spanish song, and then, without a word of comment, I went back to my room; but I slept no more that night.

I spoke to no one of my adventure, and feeling too upset and nervous to give the children their lessons as usual after breakfast, I proposed to them for a primrose hunt in the wood where Sir Richard had given us the picnic last summer. At this suggestion, and before I could stop her, Birdie darted off in delight, saying she would invite her pappy to come too, and bring her shetland pony, in case she or Bijou should find the walk too long.

Half an hour later we found Sir Richard and the pony waiting for us in the avenue, and as we were about to start, Mrs. Massey, in a very becoming spring dress, with a rustic basket hanging on her arm, pathetically begged to be allowed to join the party, as there was nothing under the sun she enjoyed so much as picking primroses in a wood.

She picked exactly five primroses, then, in a most tenderly suggestive fashion, throwing her arm round my boy, who had to be mounted as soon as we reached the wood, she remained with him and his father, while Birdie and I filled her basket as well as our own.

On our way home, as they were walking about fifty yards in advance of us, we saw them suddenly halt under a big chestnut-tree at the edge of the wood, and stand gazing upward into its branches with evident interest and astonishment. When we reached them we found they were looking up at nothing more nor less than little Miss Johnson perched on a swaying bough about twelve feet overhead. She was declaring, in her high-pitched, shrill voice, that there was 'nothing half so jolly as sailing round the moon, up in a balloon, boys, up in a balloon!'

'Mis Bernard,' said Sir Richard, meeting me with rather a rueful laugh, 'have you any influence over her? How could we manage to entice her down? If she jumps she will surely break her neck as well as her head!'

I was about to answer him, when a cry of 'Catch, catch a shooting'

OWES HER HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—'I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and ill, but I tell them of my friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

'I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has always helped her.

'I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies. I tell everyone I meet that I owe my health and happiness to these wonderful medicines.

—Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., E.P.D.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases.

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Recipe

No Better Remedy at Any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of warm water, and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of 12. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequalled remedy for whooping cough and croup.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in essential oils, all the natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or we'll get it for you. If not, send to The Pine Co., Toronto, Ont.

'star' brought us hurriedly under the branch.

She dropped neatly and lightly into Sir Richard's arms, lay the motionless for a few moments, as if stunned, then slid to the ground, leaving a great patch of rice-powder on the breast of his coat.

'Any bones broken?' he asked, bending anxiously over her.

'Bones broken! Did you ever see a girl dance a horn-pipe with broken bones, eh?' And, springing to her feet, she began the most intricate part I had ever seen performed of the stage, looking at the same time so utterly ludicrous and witch-like, with her poor little hunched back, her long hair blowing wildly about in the breeze, and panting and puffing so pitiously that little Birdie cried out in shrill, childish delight:

'All Baba's old mother-in-law in the pantomime! Oh, pappy, pappy, don't you remember long ago when you and many took us on our way to Paris?' She danced just like that when she put the rat's poison into All Baba's tea. Oh, I never saw anything so like it!

'She must have been a tight-rope dancer, a circus-rider—something of the kind,' I heard Mrs. Massey whisper to her cousin, to which he answered briefly:

'She was on the stage, I believe. A very painful incident marked the close of that day. The children, fatigued by the morning's walk, had consented quietly to go to bed earlier than usual, and I was alone in the schoolroom writing to the convent, when a message came from Mrs. Johnson, asking me to go to the drawing-room, as she wanted some advice about her knitting. Mrs. Massey was singing to Sir Richard, while her mother dozen in an easy-chair so I dropped on to the sofa beside Mrs. Johnson, and was giving my directions in a whisper, when the shrill cry of a child startled us all, and the next moment Birdie, in her night-dress, came rushing into the room, her eyes distended with terror, and flung herself into my arms.

'Mammy's ghost, mammy's ghost! She came to my bed! She looked down at me and told me to come to her—to come to her in the grave—she wanted her little girl in the grave, she said. Oh, I don't want to go—hold me, keep me, Miss Bernard! Pappy, pappy, don't let me go!' she shrieked, clutching me wildly, and hiding her face on my neck.

Sir Richard started from the piano with an imprecation, and hurried across to us, as Mrs. Johnson dropped in a faint on the floor. He took the child from me, and bidding me follow, carried her into his study.

'It's all those confounded women!' he said, quite savagely, his face as pale as my own. 'I must give in, and clear the house of them at a sweep. Marie, will you take the children away somewhere for a month or two? Anywhere you fancy. I cannot leave this place yet.'

'Yes,' I said, slowly—'if you wish it; but I will never come back to this house, Sir Richard.'

'Never come back! What do you mean? Surely you have not lost your senses, too,' he began, angrily, when the sudden appearance of Mrs. Seymour stopped him.

Taking Birdie from him, I laid her in my bed, and by degrees soothed her to sleep. The next morning, however, she persisted in her story, assured me her mammy had come into the room, and had been crying over her bed. She described the vision's dress minutely, the pale, sad face, and declared it vanished in a moment, when she screamed.

By degrees I discovered the origin of the nightmare. Miss Birdie, it seemed, had been regaled in bed with a slice of heavy pudding from the servants' supper table, and had dropped off to sleep munching a most indigestible apple; and, besides that, I extracted from her the fact that she knew all about the ghost, having heard Lucy and Jane and the rest talk over it by the nursery fire every night, when they thought she was fast asleep. She knew that their dear mammy did not want them to have another mammy instead of her; that she had come to haunt Mrs. Massey out of the house, and prevent their pappy from marrying her; and that was why she was playing the guitar all over the house, ringing the bell, and appearing to them all every night on the stairs.

In the afternoon Sir Richard told me he had telegraphed to engage a suite of rooms for us at Worthing, and asked me if I would be ready to start on the following afternoon; but he made no further allusion to the subject of my return, so I held my peace thereon too.

When I was going to bed he took my hand, and said, lightly:

'I have to go over to Wrybrook in the morning on business. In case I cannot get back before you start, I had better say good-bye to you now. You will write the moment you arrive; and, as I am sending on Mrs. Hackett with you, you know you will be quite comfortable and respectable. Good-bye, then, Marie, for the present—for a short time, good-bye.'

'Good-bye,' I repeated, sadly, passing out without another word, though I knew I meant good-bye to him forever.

When I reached my room, however, I found I could not leave him like that—that I must have, at least, a few kind words, a few sentences of regret or protest to carry away with me, to live on during the first terrible months of trial. He, surely, would be a little sorry at my leaving him; he knew I had been fond of his poor wife, that I loved his children; even though his heart was at the moment full of new desires, of new plans and prospects of happiness, he must be a little sorry, a little put out.

He always remained down-stairs to smoke a cigar after his guests had left him for the night; so waiting about ten minutes after I had heard the rustle of Mrs. Massey's dress pass my door, I opened mine softly. When I was about half-way down the passage another door opened, and I very foolishly drew back, as if I did not want to be seen.

'Who was that? Speak—speak, or I'll scream!' cried Miss Johnson, in a penetrating whisper, thrusting out a scared face in stiff blue paper curls.

'No, don't,' I answered, quickly. 'It's only I, Miss Boadicea; there is nothing to be frightened at.'

'Oh, I thought it was the ghost! That blessed tambourine tune was going all last night—didn't you hear it? I didn't get ten minutes' sleep. Where are you going, Miss Bernard?'

'Only down-stairs for a few minutes.'

'Down-stairs alone, at this hour of the night! I wouldn't put a foot outside my room in this house for ten thousand pounds.'

With a shiver, she closed and locked her door, and I went on. I found Sir Richard alone in the drawing-room. He turned with a start when I entered, and showed me a bright, welcoming face.

'What is it? Come to fetch a book—a thimble—'

'No; I have come to speak to you.' 'A la bonne heure! Let me make you comfortable while you speak to me, mademoiselle,' he said, with an air of officious tender gallantry that irritated me, for it was evidently the echo of his parting manner with his lady love.

I tried to resist him, to push away the cushions he was putting under my feet; but my nerves were too unstrung, and I sunk limply into the easy-chair, only looking at him protestingly, appealingly.

'You are cold—you are shivering,' he said, quickly, stirring up the fire and pulling my chair closer to the hearth. 'Marie, what is the matter with you? Why do you look at me like that? Has—has anything frightened you?'

Pains are the result of poison in the system and whether you have headache, backache or aching limbs, you can almost sure of relief and cure by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They are wonderfully prompt, as well as definite and thorough in action. You can depend upon them, no matter how long-standing or complicated your case. One pill a dose: 25 cents a box; all druggists or E. B. Saunders & Co., Toronto.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I have never passed a single week since attending the seminar without recalling Mary Lyon and her teachings. Can you think of any finer tribute to the influence of a life than this, which was paid to Mary Lyon by a pupil fifty years after graduating? Who is Mary Lyon, and why am I talking about her? Mary Lyon was the founder of Mt. Holyoke College, which was one of the first two colleges for women in the country, and I am telling you about her to-day because to-day is the anniversary of her birth.

But Mary Lyon fought her way through every obstacle of prejudice and poverty, and in 1838 founded Mt. Holyoke and became its first president. One of the most wonderful things about her life was that she had time for little kindnesses, for personal influence, and contact, as well as for her great work. The tribute her pupil paid her fifty years afterwards, shows the depth of her personal influence. An example of the little kindness is this incident related by her biographer: "With all the care of the seminary resting on her shoulders, she yet made time during her last season at Ipswich, to teach a woman who worked in the kitchen to read. The woman was about forty years old and had been ashamed to let anyone know of her inability. Mary Lyon found it out and straightway began to teach her alone in her own room."

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited acquired weakness. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots, which will open its bill to get. There is nothing in my universe that I fear, but that I shall not know all my duty or shall fail to do it.

A Financier's Rise and Fall

The Man Who Made Five Millions Sentenced to Twelve Months in Prison. The London, G.B. Weekly Mail of the 17th ult. says: "The jury at the Old Bailey, on Saturday, found Ernest Terah Hooley, who is now fifty-two years of age, guilty on the indictment which charged him with obtaining six cheques for the payment of £2,000 from George Leech Tweedale—a young mechanical engineer of Rochdale, who had inherited a fortune of £45,000—by means of false pretences and with intent to defraud. The false pretence was in stating that a particular estate which he was selling was not encumbered. Mr. Justice Phillimore ordered Mr. Hooley to be imprisoned for twelve months in the second division. Mr. Hooley turned sharply round and, murmuring "A fine finish," left the dock. He was removed in a horse-cab to Wormwood Scrubs Prison.

"Only a Cold"

SNEEZING and running at the nose, stuffed up feelings in the head, sore throat, tickling in the throat and coughing. This is the natural development of what is in the beginning "only a cold." It is the way in which scores and thousands are allowing colds to develop into bronchitis, pneumonia, or consumption. If colds were promptly cured there would be no need for sanatoriums and hospitals for consumptives. Because people have weak lungs they need not become consumptives if they will but guard against colds and cure them promptly by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. This great medicine has proven it right to a place in every home by curing croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma and all sorts of coughs and colds. 25 cts a bottle, at all dealers or Edmonson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Many of these companies are no longer known, others have been reconstructed because they were overburdened with capital, while a few remain with us much in their original form, their names being household words. The Man Himself. He never had an office in the city. He held his court in a princely suite of rooms on the first floor at the front of the Midland Grand Hotel, for which he paid a rental at the rate of £10,000 a year. Thither he would invite his lordly directors, his brokers, his clients, his critics, to breakfast—and would frequently never appear. People in the city used to object to journey to transact their business at Pancras; but they went.

There they found him, a man of about forty—this was in the heyday of his career fifteen years ago—with a tall, well-knit frame, a strong, swarthy face, with a glint of some-thing in it that was repellent, a bearing that was marvellously alert, speech which, in spite of the broad provincial accent, was clear and to the point. He used to say that he could not drink, work and smoke at the same time. He began work with three secretaries at 8 o'clock in the morning, and was generally in bed by 10 at night. His week ends he would spend invariably at one of his country seats, engaged in the farming which he obviously loved. He always seemed intensely devoted to home life, and used to boast that he was the biggest breeder of sheep in the country.

He presented the famous service of gold plate to St. Paul's Cathedral, worth some £2,000 or £3,000. He set aside £400,000 for the benefit of widows and orphans of the Derbyshire district in which he lived, to be dispersed in a well-formulated scheme. He offered £10,000 to the Nottingham Hospital if the working men would first subscribe 200,000 shillings.

REASON OF THE CRASH. Soon the crash came. Its reason can best be given in the official words of the Inspector-General in Bankruptcy. He described the failure in 1908 as the most noteworthy in recent his-tory. The liabilities were whittled down from about £1,000,000 to £491,000. The apparent profit made by the promoter in three years, £5,028,000, was changed by his "reckless and extravagant methods of promotion" into a net loss of £89,200. There were "large gifts and fees to obtain the names of titled and other persons as directors," and the "selling of shares of profits to various co-adventurers." Then in this strange career there followed dark days and apparently dark dolings. The name of Hooley has been constantly cropping up in the law courts ever since.

MR. McGRATH WAS PAID $354 FOR PREPARING SPEECHES, Ac.

In the detailed statement of expenditures for the financial year on June 30th last, there is an item showing that the sum of $354 has been paid to Mr. P. T. McGrath for services in preparing speeches and resolutions. Things have come to a pretty pass when the Government pays out such sums for such services. Imagine a Government paying Mr. McGrath this sum of money to prepare speeches for one or more of the members of the Government to get off in the House. Cannot all the members of the Government make their own speeches? Things have reached a pretty pass when a man has to be engaged to draft resolutions for the Government, and to write out speeches for ministers to palm off on the House as their own.

The Tie-Up North

Sir Robert Bond moved the adjournment of the House yesterday to direct the attention of the Government to the grave situation north. He stated he was in receipt of a message from Botwood stating that provisions were running short, and that famine conditions would ensue if the railway line was not opened immediately. He had received also a message from Twillingate stating that there had been no mail there for a month and that business was completely disorganized. Sir Robert stated from his own personal observations and other knowledge that no proper sustained effort had been made to keep the line open during the past two months. If an effort had been made daily with an ordinary push-plow the Broad Cove branch and the Placentia branch could have been kept open almost all the time. The difficulty arose from abandoning the branches for lengthy periods of time and giving a chance for the snow to pack, to melt and to freeze. He understood that the Government Engineer was now inspecting the Carbonear branch, which should have been done before. The Premier contended the Contractors were doing the best they could and the Government had expressed an opinion to this effect.

Sir Robert retorted that the Government Engineer had received no replies to his letters and had to depend on such oral information as the Despatching Office gave him.

The Premier then declared that there had been notices sent to the Contractors, but no letters requiring replies.

Sir Robert then pointed out that the Premier had made their case worse by admitting the Government had not called upon the Contractors to show why these long-ties up had occurred so often and continued so long.

The Premier is absolutely wrong, as each letter commences by asking for an EXPLANATION from the Contractors, and the Colonial Secretary admits that no letters were received in reply to the 41 written demands.

F.P.U. Meeting.

Last night the F. P. U. held another great meeting, which was attended by 600 sealers. The President was in the chair. Mr. A. J. Harvey of Botwood, Mr. L. Guy of Musgrave Harbor, Mr. C. Wells of Valleyfield, Mr. Geo. Easton of Greenspond, Mr. C. Brenton of Wesleyville, Mr. J. Dyke of Safe Harbor and several other sealers. All expressed their determination to back the Union in its commercial and political action. Mr. A. J. Harvey, the Chairman of Tuesday night's great meeting, spoke strongly against the falsehoods published by the Daily News and the Evening Chronicle about the Sealers' Demonstration and Mass Meeting and was warmly applauded. Mr. Harvey then moved and Mr. S. Guy of Musgrave Harbor, seconded the following resolution, which was carried unanimously.

RESOLUTION.

"This mass meeting, composed of 600 sealers, assembled at the Fishermen's Institute, places on record its indignant protest against the untruthful articles published to-day in the Daily News and Evening Chronicle, regarding the great Sealers' F. P. U. demonstration and mass meeting held in this city last night. The articles in question are false, from beginning to end, and we consider them an insult to the outport people, who took part in the Demonstration and Mass Meeting. No meeting could have been more orderly and every inch of available space in the building was occupied and not less than 1200 sealers were present, while hundreds could not obtain admission. No cheers were asked for or given for Mr. Blandford or other public men. The articles were published for the sinister purpose of destroying the influence of the F. P. U."

Mr. Coaker then delivered a strong speech advocating strongly Union principles, which we have no space to report. Before the audience dispersed photos of the mass meeting were handed round. These will be on sale at the Advocate Office. The meeting closed at 9 p.m. to give place to the Legion of Frontiersmen meeting.

Train Notes.

The local train service from St. John's to Placentia and Carbonear is now open and a train from the latter place arrived here at 1 p.m. to-day. The West Coast train from Port aux Basques to Bay of Islands reached the latter place at midnight after being a week snow fighting on the track. A local for Carbonear will go out this evening at 6 o'clock. A special with a plow left Bishops Falls this morning to clear the road to Notre Dame Junction. An engine left Clarendville this morning to flange the road down to Brooklyn, B. B. when the special which left here at noon to-day reaches Clarendville a train will leave that place for Bonavista.

The Sagona Here

MET TERRIFIC WEATHER - SHIP CONSIDERABLY DAMAGED.

Crosbie & Co's. new sealer the Sagona, in command of Capt. Marshall, arrived here at 1.30 this morning from Dundee after a run of 15 days from Pentland Firth, where she had to shelter. Since leaving she encountered terrific weather. It was feared the ship would hardly pull through some of the storms. The ship had to be hove to for two days. The crew often did their work at the risk of their lives. The great combers sweeping on board did much damage. It smashed the boats in the davits, beat in the cabin and forecastle doors, also those leading to the engine room and stokehold, flooded these compartments, as well as the saloon, steering and ladies' cabins, and also the holds, and for 24 hours the men, who formed a bucket brigade, had to bail the water out of these places while the ship's pumps were kept going at their full power. Capt. S. R. Winsor, the sealing skipper, had charge of the bridge, and the men worked like trojans. The alleyways were constantly filled with water, and but that the ship was new and well built she must have foundered. One of the boats was carried completely out of the davits and two others smashed in splinters. The Sagona is a fine ship, built of steel, strengthened with double rows of pitch pine, and is a good ice-breaker. She is a vessel of 807 tons gross, 420 net, length 175 feet, breadth 28 feet, depth 20 ft. 3 ins. Her accommodation for the sealers 'tween decks is fine. She has a fine saloon amidships and steeage aft, with smoking rooms and ladies' cabin. The ship can take 50 saloon and 40 steerage passengers, can steam 11 knots and has triple expansion engines. She was built by the Dundee Shipbuilding Co., and sails at 6 a.m. to-morrow in charge of Capt. S. R. Winsor for the sealfishery with 150 men.

Sinks in Harbor.

About 8 a.m. to-day as the Zelta was coming from the South Side to the North Side she filled with water and immediately sank. She had two passengers on board besides Engineer John Fitzgerald and Master W. White. It is not exactly known what caused the launch to sink, but it is believed that as a result of plying in the harbor all the winter contending with heavy ice, one of the planks in the bottom of the vessel became loosened. As she quickly filled with water, Capt. White ran her into the ice for the occupants to get out of her, and inside of five minutes she went to bottom. The crew were rescued by the John Green. The Zelta had a very powerful engine and was built in 1900 at Fairlie. Her net tonnage was 6, and gross 17. The owners will have her refloated, which work will begin to-morrow.

Last night the Lenten services in the R. C. Cathedral were largely attended. His Grace Archbishop Howley preached a very instructive and fluent sermon. Many remained after the service to perform the Way of the Cross and other Lenten devotions.

Mr. Coaker Again Replies

TO THE NEWS AND CHRONICLE'S FABRICATIONS—HE SAYS SIR R. BOND IS POPULAR AMONGST THE PEOPLE.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—Permit me space to make a few remarks about the lying reports of the F. P. U. meeting and demonstration of the 12th inst., as published by the News and Chronicle which time this morning did not permit. The article in question contains the statement that I spoke of Morris and Bond as "has been." This is another falsehood cut out of new cloth. Sir R. Bond has within the last year become immensely popular, and his again won the confidence of thousands of his friends who at the last election forsook him to support Sir E. P. Morris. If Sir R. Bond continues to hold the confidence now so generally placed in him, he will without doubt occupy the position now held by Sir E. P. Morris after the next election. The Governments' conduct towards the F. P. U. during the last three years and their management of public affairs, especially regarding land grabbing and general extravagance is sufficient to invite the advisability of inviting Sir R. Bond to become their political leader and thereby place themselves in the position to meet such attacks as those encountered into day's News and Chronicle. I can assure Sir E. P. Morris that the F. P. U. don't intend to be insulted with impunity by his organs, or to permit his organs to insult outport sealers again as has been done by the two Tory papers to-day. As for the Chronicle's statement respecting you, Mr. Editor, no such statement was made. The sealers in town appreciate your manly action in reporting in your paper the F. P. U. meetings recently held, and are delighted to have such a powerful friend. I thank you on behalf of the F. P. U. for publishing in your paper accounts sent you by our friends concerning the meetings held by me in Conception Bay and the reception accorded me as leader of the F. P. U. the past winter. The service rendered by you will be appreciated by our Councils. The account you published of the great demonstration and meeting yesterday is a very fair one. I also wish to publicly thank the Editor of the Herald for publishing such a fair report of yesterday's notable occurrence. The reporter of the Herald, Mr. Dowden, is to be congratulated upon his splendid report. He could not report all of my address, but what he has reported is fair and impartial. Thanking you for space, I remain, Yours truly,

 W. F. COAKER.

Cascarets Insure Inside Cleanliness

The million of Cascarets users never have Headache, Constipation, Biliiousness or Sick Stomach.

It is more necessary that you keep your Bowels, Liver and Stomach, clean, pure and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction. Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil. This is important. Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels. No odds how badly and upset you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Country Safe From Invasion.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, March 13. A dramatic scene was enacted in the Commons to-day. The Government was being criticized for alleged unpreparedness for war when the Rt. Hon. J. B. Seely, Under-Secretary for War, held up a sealed envelope, which contained, he said, information which any member could have under the pledge of secrecy as to how within a few days 150,000 men could be despatched abroad with ammunition and stores for three months. He added that in the opinion of the general staff, when the expeditionary force left the country, taking into account the relative strength of the Navy and surrounding circumstances, the country would be quite safe from invasion.

The crew were saved. The Isleworth is eight months old, 4,800 tons, and was built at Stockton-on-Tees. The steamer left Boston last Thursday and on Sunday ran into ice and broke three blades of her propeller, when she struck yesterday afternoon, trying to enter this harbor for repairs.

That Awful Snowslide.

There Have Been Many Sad Sights at Tilt Cove, but This One Was the Worst.

Special to Evening Telegram.

TILT COVE, Yesterday. We were too much sorrow stricken to give you a report of our sad state yesterday. I hope the public will forgive. Tilt Cove has met with many sad sights but this appears to us to be the worst. After one of the worst storms of wind and snow for the winter, the news went round that a snow slide had occurred up at the head of the lake. Willing hands flocked with lanterns and shovels to find the Managers house smashed with all its occupants buried. These consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Williams, two daughters and one son and a servant girl and servant man. At Mr. Cunningham's his son and servant girl were buried at his house. All the others escaped. Dr. Smith's house was damaged very little in spite of the bad weather that still continued, the men one and all fought desperately to search for life among the wreckage. Mr. Cunningham with assistance fought desperately for his little son of 3 years and servant girl, and after two hours were rewarded by finding them.

The Girl Was Jammed On a Hot Stove, keeping the little fellow alive most bravely, another fight of half an hour got them clear of the debris. The little boy, except for a few burns, sustained very little injury, and after a few hours was very little the worse for his confinement, but the servant being thrown on the stove and remaining there all the time was burnt very badly and it is feared that her injuries will prove fatal. About an hour afterwards cheers went up that voices were heard under the debris of the Manager's house. It was great trouble to get the men to have patience as great care was required to remove the snow where we knew the life was. Order being called one man asked "Who is speaking," and a voice replied from underneath the wreckage said, "Mrs. Williams is speaking."

We Are Here Alive, two girls and myself, but God only knows where the others are, but we were all at tea in this room together, and the two servants were in the kitchen." In half an hour these were rescued and housed, but though terribly exhausted by the exposure great hopes are entertained for their speedy recovery. Mrs. Williams was found to be suffering from cuts on the face and chest and two nails in her foot. The other two were considerably bruised. The rescue still continued, in spite of the storm, only to be rewarded by finding the body of Mr. Williams caught between the wreckage, and his little son, aged 13 years, lying beside him, just a short distance away. Both were lifeless, and to prove how sudden was everything.

The Little Boy Was Found Dead With Bread in His Mouth.

The rescue still continued, but with no success until 9 o'clock the next morning, when the others were found dead near the kitchen stove under circumstances which proved that death was instantaneous. I know we have the sympathy of all and I assure you we want it. The funeral will take place to-day. First of all Mr. Williams and his son will be buried in one grave by the Anglican clergyman. Then the brother and sister, Sage, will be borne to their resting place in the Roman Catholic Cemetery by the same bearers. The coffins are covered with wreaths from far and near. Mrs. Williams desires to express her thanks to all for the great sympathy shown her in her time of her great trouble.

J. M. JACKMAN.

A Daring Theft.

When the fire broke out in the Collins' block and after it got some headway Monday evening, Mr. A. Poole who keeps a boarding house on Adelaide Street believed his place would be destroyed and began removing his belongings. About 40 men were at tea at his house at the time and they took all the furniture and effects from the bed rooms and other apartments up to the residence of Mesdames McGrath and Holson on New Gower Street. Since then Mr. Poole has not been able to find a lot of material such as tea pots, fruit dishes, and (several sets) decanters, box soap, pictures, quantity of clothes, vases plaques, packages of rainstains, knives, forks, silver spoons, etc., the whole valued at $48. On making enquiries as to his property he found that Mr. Ell White, who was going to the seal fishery, on the night of the fire, tried to get down on Balme Johnstone's premises with a large wicker chair in his arms and other goods. The watchman would not let him do so and then he boarded the Beothic at Job's and was later seen going to the South Side and carrying the chair. The matter was reported to the police and Const. Tobin with Mr. Poole last night went to the residence of a female relative of White's, found the chair which he had lost, cake dish, set of fruit dishes, etc., part of the goods stolen from his house. White admitted taking the goods and was arrested. Besides the articles enumerated above Mr. Poole lost a purse containing $6, a pipe worth $4 and the police will try to locate the articles. He says that when the fire broke out 40 men were at tea and he did not collect more than 40 cts. in the excitement, from them, and this also is a great loss to him.

Trust.

I know not if or dark or bright
 Shall be my lot;
 If that wherein my hopes delight
 Be best or not.

It may be mine to drag for years
 Toll's heavy chain;
 Or day and night my meat be tears
 On bed of pain.

Dear faces may surround my hearth
 With smiles and glee;
 Or I may dwell alone, and mirth
 Be strange to me.

My bark is waded to the strand
 By breath Divine;
 And on the helm there rests a hand
 Other than mine.

One who has known in storms to sail
 I have on board; Him
 Above the raging of the gale
 I hear my Lord.

He holds me when the billows smite—
 I shall not fall,
 If sharp, 'tis short; if long, 'tis light;
 He tempers all.

Safe to the land, safe to the land—
 The end is this;
 And then with him go hand in hand
 Far into bliss.

Safe to the land, safe to the land—
 The end is this;
 And then with him go hand in hand
 Far into bliss.

Safe to the land, safe to the land—
 The end is this;
 And then with him go hand in hand
 Far into bliss.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Our only source of amusement during several weeks has been the Nickel, operated by Messrs. Hatten and O'Grady. The shows are fairly well patronized.

Much sympathy is felt here for the widows and little children of the unfortunate man Eales, who met such a terrible death at St. John's on Saturday. Nothing else could be thought of, and many are the prayers offered for the bereaved ones.

The welcome sound of the locomotive whistle was heard at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, the first time for over three weeks. Crowds of people went up the hill to see the train come in. Another train arrived here last night at 8.20, bringing quite a lot of freight and a number of passengers.

We were pleased to see Trackmaster Connors on Sunday directing the fight with the snow blockade. He appears to be very little the worse of his hard experience. We wish him many years, but few such experiences.

A valuable cow owned by Mrs. Gordon, of Gordon Lodge, was found dead in the stable on Thursday morning last. The animal, which was valued at $80, was apparently in a healthy condition on the previous night and took its fodder with its customary relish. No cause can be given for the sudden death.

Capt. John Tucker, one of the officers of the s.s. Stephano, arrived from St. John's last night on a visit to his sister and other friends. We are all pleased to see the genial captain in such good health. Long may he continue so.

Several more cases of scarlet fever developed last week but were quickly placed on quarantine by Judge Oke. The cases are of a mild type.

The sad news was received in town yesterday of the death at Bell Island of Mrs. Willis Pike. The news came as a shock to her many friends as it was known she had been sick herself, although the children had been sick for some time. No particulars are yet to hand. Rev. Mr. Coffin broke the sad news to her sister, Mrs. N. Stewart.

The Maggie Abandoned.

CUT THROUGH BY ICE—SEAMEN
KILLED—CAPTAIN AND CREW LANDED BY SAGONA.

On the S. S. Sagona which arrived here from Dunnet at midnight were Captain Connors and crew of the brig, Maggie, owned by Jas. Baird, Ltd., they having been picked up on the ice about 65 miles off Cape Race at 4.30 p.m. on Monday past.

The Maggie was 66 days out from Onor to St. John's and had terrible weather on the run; storm succeeded storm with gales of wind and mountainous seas and the vessel was badly battered. For days at a time she was lying to while the seas had free play over her, and her foreyard, main and foremast, mizzen gaff and nearly all her rigging were torn away while most of her canvas was blown up on the bolt ropes or torn to pieces. The seas also beat away the butwarks and rails and she was rendered unmanageable. No such weather had ever before been experienced by Capt. Connors or his crew. Ash Wednesday a sad fatality occurred on board. One of the crew, Patrick Mahoney, of the West End, and well and favourably known in St. John's, being killed by falling from aloft. The accident occurred at 2 p.m. that day. Capt. Connors was at the wheel and the crew were engaged taking in sail when Mahoney who was trying up the lee arm in some manner unknown lost his grip on the yard and fell to the deck. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken into the forecastle where Capt. Connors did everything possible to revive him but without avail. The poor fellow never regained consciousness, and after being taken to the cabin the body was prepared for burial and consigned to the deep the next day at 4 p.m. The ship was then hoisted to and after the Capt. had read the prayers prescribed for such a mournful occasion the body was lowered into the sea. The poor fellow leaves a wife and daughter in the United States. The widow and family are the objects of much commiseration in the city. Shortly after this mournful incident occurred the Maggie ran into a sea of heavy Arctic ice and here she received the damage which ended in her destruction. The ship received several bad squeezes when she had not been long in the floe, and after a while was cut completely through on the port side. To try and stop the rush of water there she was hoisted out to starboard but soon this side was badly damaged also by the ice pressure, the rudder was damaged, the outwarker carried away and when the ice loosed the ship began to fill and seemed to be doomed. Only one boat was left, the others having been smashed up in the storm, and this was placed on runners and provisioned and put out on the ice. The crew hoped by this means to save their lives as they knew they were in the track of shipping, and when the Sagona was sighted on Monday afternoon the crew were delighted. She bore down on them in answer to the signals hoisted on the now fast settling Maggie and were taken on board. Before he left the ship Capt. Connor set fire to her fore and aft and then the Sagona hit her once or twice with her bow to place the ship beyond the possibility of becoming a floating devil and a menace to navigation. The Maggie was a fine vessel of 201 tons gross, 178 net, 114 feet long, 22.7 feet beam and was built in Tross in 1883. Thus another of our mercantile marine has disappeared.

Attempted Assassination

OF KING VICTOR EMANUEL.

Special to Evening Telegram.
ROME, To-day.
An attempt was made to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel this morning. Several shots were fired at him. All missed the target and the assailant was arrested. The King was just leaving the Palace for the Pantheon to attend the Memorial Service in honor of his father, King Humbert. A young man fired several shots from a crowd in the street. One of the officers of the King's body guard fell dangerously wounded, but the King was untouched. In the tremendous excitement, the crowd attempted to lynch the would-be assassin of the King who sat cool and continued to the Pantheon and sat through the service. Man says he is an "individual anarchist."

It would seem there is no Government force present or prospective capable of terminating the prevalent anarchy. Little hope among legations of the Coalition Government being successful in ending mutinous plugging which is now sweeping over North. One Minister said yesterday it must burn itself out like a prairie fire. It is the general belief that order cannot be restored within two years.

The Morris Meeting.

The well-advertised Government sealers' meeting, or what should be properly termed citizens' meeting, was held in the British Hall last night. In view of the immense demonstration the previous evening, all yesterday the Morrisites were busy going the rounds of the city trying to get together some sealers for the British Hall. The meeting was advertised on every old wall and fence in the city to start at 7.30 o'clock, but up to 8.15 there was "nothing doing." Sir Edward Morris and the members of the Executive were present, but they had to make the best of a bad job. By the time the meeting was commenced there were representatives of all the Tories in the city present and perhaps 200 sealers, which were later added to by those who went there after the Coaker meeting closed. Mr. Morison was on the door and was working overtime getting off his bow, as graceful, said a Bonavista Bay man, as when he seeks our votes north. While the crowd were kept waiting, gramophone selections were in order. About 8.30 the meeting opened with Capt. W. Winsor in the chair. He asked all for a good hearing and introduced Sir E. P. Morris as the first speaker. Cheers were called for him by the Captain supporters and some dozen responded. The Premier made a blunder right at the outset of his jeremiad. He said he was glad to see such a large gathering, "but you will see the Opposition papers in their criticisms to-morrow saying there was about a half dozen present." Sir Edward "hammerlocked" himself, as he is the very man who claims this proverb as his own. "Any person who reads the papers all the time should be sent to the Lantana Asylum." For over an hour he dwelt on the doings of the Government and in the midst of his platitudes a sealer asked for another turn on the gramophone, and soon after the same sealer said, "We want Bond; Coaker will fix you." Sir Edward in the course of his address made the following assertion: "Those writing and talking against us are those dismissed by the Government." Capt. A. Keen was the next to speak. He spent most of his time in denouncing the Coaker Sealing Agreement. He complimented the Hon. J. C. Crosbie in refusing to sign it or agreeing to be bound by it. So pleased is the Tory organ with Capt. Keen's attack on the work of the President of the Fishermen's Union that it declares the speech "one of the most powerful and convincing speeches that it has seen or pleases to listen to for a long while"; the Tory scribble thinking it "simply tore the Coaker Agreement—about which so much has been written in the Fishermen's Advocate—to rags." Apparently the Tory organ has no love for the Fishermen's Union and is overjoyed at the thought that Capt. Keen attacked what the Union has done. Some remarks were made by Hon. D. Morison, Mr. Squires, M.H.A., Hon. S. D. Blagford, and the meeting closed.

Winter appeared as Counsel for the Cape Copper Company. Affidavits taken before Mr. Cunningham J. P., of Tilt Cove were read from the dependants accepting the sum tendered. An order was made allowing the sum of $1500.00 to be paid in and giving directions as to its payment out.

Soft Jobs.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—
According to Sir Edward Morris the highest aim of the citizen should be to secure a soft job. Evidently he intends to secure that desirable position to every man, woman and child in the country by his latest effort in the Education Bill. He says the educated person always gets the soft job. Sir Edward is bringing the millennium, and every mother's son of us is to have a soft job. Now we know why Sir Edward has so many learned men in his following and why so many soft jobs have been secured by feathered gentry—erstwhile loaders. Sir Edward has quite forgotten to reveal to us how the hard jobs are to be done, or who he is going to get to do the obviously necessary hard work. Must we conclude that it is all lies they tell us when they say that Sir Edward is working hard, or must we believe that he himself is among the unlettered. I find something wrong with the working of the formula. Sir Edward is said to be a hard worker; he himself says that only the unlearned work hard. I have heard some philosopher say that only tools and horses work.

Soft Jobs.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—According to Sir Edward Morris the highest aim of the citizen should be to secure a soft job. Evidently he intends to secure that desirable position to every man, woman and child in the country by his latest effort in the Education Bill. He says the educated person always gets the soft job. Sir Edward is bringing the millennium, and every mother's son of us is to have a soft job. Now we know why Sir Edward has so many learned men in his following and why so many soft jobs have been secured by learned gentry—erstwhile loafers. Sir Edward has quite forgotten to reveal to us how the hard jobs are to be done, or who he is going to get to do the obviously necessary hard work. Must we conclude that it is all lies they tell us when they say that Sir Edward is working hard, or must we believe that he himself is among the unlettered. I find something wrong with the working of the formula. Sir Edward is said to be a hard worker; he himself says that only the unlearned work hard. I have heard some philosopher say that only fools and horses work.
You have but to tell the people that education will bring them soft jobs to have them all going to school, Sir Edward thinks. What would become of this country if all possessed soft jobs. What would become of our farms if we had not farmers, who are not afraid of labor; or the mines if we had not those brave fellows who seek to wrest from the bowels of the earth her treasures; where would be our cities if we had not masons and other sturdy builders; our factories should be closed and the machinery rusting if all sought soft jobs.

We can tell Sir Edward that labor is dignified, and the horny-handed son of toil a noble man and worthy of all honor. In Sir Edward's eyes, to have an ignoble, lazy, soft job is honourable, whilst to labor is disgraceful.

The series of races run off in the Parade Rink last night was witnessed by a large number of spectators. Although the ice was soft it did not mar the interest of the contests. The all-comers race, in which four competitors faced the starter, namely, Evans, Squires, Hackett and Charney, resulted in a victory for the first mentioned. The inter-brigade race caused no little excitement, two men running for each corps. After a hard fought battle the Highlanders won the cup presented.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN.

In response to a number of earnest inquiries from young men and women whose lives are about to be blighted forever, we append a few practical suggestions to the lovers and temptresses:
In order to secure an airtight breach of promise suit, have some member of the family take down the language of the proposal from a dictagraph, whose foot isn't liable to slip at the critical moment.
It is no longer considered an act of simple courtesy to kiss a perfect stranger at the front gate. All oscillatory exercises should be conducted in the presence of the father and mother of the kissee, in order to be strictly proper.
If you have a pain in the region of the heart which you attribute to love, cut out the cork-tipped cigarette for a few days, and wait for results. Many a young man who thinks he is inhaling too much brown paper and molasses.
If you have to choose between beauty and brains, when about to get married, take the brains, if you have to take a shock of bright, red hair and large, plain feet with them. Beauty is all right at the skating rink or an ice cream social, but it doesn't bring any wages home Saturday night.
Don't waste any love passages or 14-carat rings on the girl who dresses like a stock company actress, while her mother is glad to have a 3-cent foulard silk for her Sunday best. Fine clothes are nice to look at when somebody else is paying for them, but they seldom go hand in hand with $18 a week without starting something in the home.
Don't worry for fear that your heart will break because some young man in lavender hose refused to come in and pad father's electric light bill. Lots of people, whose hearts were broken on an average of twice a month in early youth, are now going around in perfect health, and clothes which were made in 1906.

Stomach Misery Just Vanishes.

No Indigestion, Sourness, Gas or Dyspepsia five minutes later.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diaprepain in the house handy? This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy Stomach five minutes after.
Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula, plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diaprepain, then you will readily see why it makes Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour, undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.
Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, every-day cures advertised that they have almost made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.
This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.
A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diaprepain.

Dissatisfied With Mail Service.
The dissatisfaction with the way in which the Bay mail service has been for weeks at almost a complete standstill, is very deep and very general. The public are unanimous in saying that the mails should have been sent for a fortnight or more past, as they used to be in the olden days, by horse sleds around the Bay by relays, at least three times a week. Had that been done, we would have received the last Bruce mail days earlier, and our letters to go by her would not have been left behind, not to speak of having regular communication with St. John's and the other places between. An offer was made at our suggestion, early on Saturday by Mr. T. C. Makinson who was down here at the time, to take all the mails around the Bay at a reasonable cost, but the Postal Department at St. John's did not even reply. There were plenty others that would have done the same service.
Both for the general public sake as well as for the sealers' sake, it was well the Reid Co. succeeded early in spring, the road to Avondale. We have had one mail that way since.
Another regrettable thing about the dead-lock was and is the very short notice or lack of notice given here time and again of a mail's starting. The post officers here are not to blame, because they were not notified as they could easily have been. We would have issued notices free rather than have the public disappointed.—Standard.

What About Railway North?

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—It would be interesting to the public to know Government Engineer Hall's attitude in reference to the opening of the Main Line of Railway from St. John's to Millertown. Has he advised the Railway Contractor to abandon the work of removing the snow from the rails? or is he urging the Contractor to put forth every effort, sparing no expenditure, to open up the road? The public would like to know what the Government and their Engineer are doing. Are there any more unanswered letters? Is the Contractor showing himself Master and the Government men but his "pawns."
So far as can be ascertained not a rotary, not a plow, of any size or description has passed Placentia Junction on the Main Line of railway for the last ten days. If that be so it is nothing short of an outrage on the taxpaying public who are paying large sums of money into the coffers of the Contractor for the transmission of mails to the Northern Outports, while for over a month no mails have been carried, and at the present rate of opening up the road it would seem that no mails will be carried for the next month, if indeed the Government and the Contractor intend to have the Northern road opened up before the burning sun of summer melts the snow.
In what kind of a condition do they expect to find the road after a week or ten days abandonment of the road, and then the public are expected to believe that all is being done that can be done. The public are not such fools and that the "powers that be" will find out when the proper time comes for them to make known their disgust of the Morris Government—the worst Government of all. Has the Government no regard for the needs of the Northern Districts in respect to mail transmission, etc.
I see but two rotaries are mentioned in connection with the Contractor's snow fighting gear. Just fancy, only two rotaries.
Is it because Engineer Hall cannot report a fully equipped railway that he does not report? For what is Mr. Hall being paid his salary if it is not to enquire into the conditions of the railway, and not merely to enquire but to see for himself and report to the public who are paying him through the People's House.
Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

Salt Rheum for Six Years

Zam-Buk Has Cured Him.
For over six years Mr. William H. Birt, of Plaquid, P. E. I., suffered from salt rheum. He says: "The disease attacked my arms and hands, and the fore-finger of my right hand was the worst."
"I was engaged as a blacksmith by the Bruce Stewart Co., of Charlottetown, and sometimes every stroke of the hammer would cause the finger to bleed freely. I tried various ointments and salves, and then went to several doctors in and around Charlottetown.
"One medical man, after treating me for some time said, he did not think I could ever be cured. Another put my finger into some fluid, which seemed to burn it terribly, and then put a straight jacket—as I called it—on the finger for two days. Trying one thing and another I spent $50.00; and all in vain.
"I saw an account of some of the great cures which Zam-Buk has worked and decided to try it. The first box did me a lot of good, and the finger showed traces of healing, so I kept up the Zam-Buk treatment, and a few boxes worked a cure. There has been no return of any trace of the disease, so I know the cure is permanent, and I am so thankful for my cure that you are at liberty to use these facts as you like."
Reader, if you have any skin disease, cut, burn, cold sore, or skin injury, try Zam-Buk. It is absolutely unique as a healer. Druggists and stores everywhere at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld., for price.

Sudden Death.

Yesterday afternoon a telegram was received by a gentleman residing on Prescott Street acquainting him of the sudden death of Mrs. Willis Pike, which occurred at Bell Island on Tuesday night. Deceased was about 40 years of age and was highly esteemed in the community where she resided by reason of her kindness and jovial personality. She is survived by her husband, Mr. Willis Pike, who holds a prominent position with the D. I. & S. Co. on the Iron Isle.

Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

I hear the down-and-outers' hymn, a weird and sad refrain; they come to me to pull my limb, and do not come in vain. Some come, with large hang-over jags and eyes that show despair; and while I do not care what use they make of kopecks I dispense; let them go in for pie or cake or jugs of old stone fence. I hate the man who cannot give unless he jaws a few, instructing "outiers" how to live the life that's grand and true. The down-and-outers throng the ways, and yearn for half a home, and some have struck on evil days through no fault of their own; and some who plod the weary track were born and reared in sin; and some are there because they lack the things that make men win. And while the worlds through space career, through all the coming years, the down-and-outers will be seen in this old vale of tears; they are a part of the parade, they figure in the game; so give the down-and-outers aid, and then forget the same.

Explanation.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Will you please let me correct an item or two which appeared in your paper lately. In referring to the awful accident of last Saturday you said the widow fell to the Rev. H. Uphill; and again in your last night's paper you closed by saying in parenthesis took place in C. of E. Cemetery. Now the facts are, the late Jas. Eales was a respected member of St. Andrew's (as were all the Eales, strict Presbyterians), and as soon as the accident occurred the Rev. J. S. Sutherland was immediately telephoned for, was quickly on the scene and lost no time in visiting Mrs. Eales, although Rev. Mr. Uphill may have called later; and the burial took place in the General Protestant Cemetery.

"Rory O'Moore."

With "Rory O'Moore," and Frank Walsh in the role of "Betty Malone," Mr. T. M. White's Company will offer at the T. A. Hall, St. Patrick's Night, a bill of exceptional merit and entertainment. Its plot centres around a wandering rogue and an Irish patriot, and the four acts pursue a merry course amid laughable situations and dialogue. In addition to Mr. T. M. White in the powerful character of Shan Dhu, the smuggler, and Mr. T. J. Rolls in the title role, the cast has been selected to add to the intrinsic humour of the play. Mr. L. C. Murphy as Divilskin, the comical French smuggler, and Mr. J. J. Prowse as Scrubbs, the shuneev, will furnish an abundance of fun. Other principal characters will be taken by the Misses P. Carroll, K. Murphy and L. Carroll, and Messrs. O'Grady, White, Butler, and Walsh. The stop-dancing of Mr. Frank Walsh will be quite a feature of the show. The affair is under the auspices of the T. A. & B.
