CHAPTER III.

"Harrison, it did not need a word of this to make me know your faithful heart, and yet it has been pleasant to listen to you. But, Harrison, I gave you the money which you have prudently saved, for the very purpose of providing for you against this time. I knew it must come. It has come, and you must keep your money and enjoy it as a true man has a right to. As for me, do not give yourself any concern about me. My path is cut out for me, and I shall walk it smilingly. Not another word, now. I owe no man a penny. What is here you are to take. I shall be home to dress for dinner, and then shall not be home again until about two or three in the morning. I would like you to be here as usual, but when I have gone to bed I would like you to leave me and not return until the afternoon, when you may come and take these things away from here."

"It was a difficult thing to gainsay Sir Lionel, when his mind was made up to a course, and the valet only tottered back out of the room, and in a stupor of silence listened to his young master as he strode gaily out, humming a tune from "Carmen."

At the club that afternoon, and afterward at dinner, Sir Lionel held himself under such good control that no one could detect the least sign of anything unusual looming up before him. He was neither too gay nor too distraught—he was simply natural.

As was customary with him, he dined with a party of friends and acquaintances, and one of them proposed going afterward to the opera. He fell in with the idea, and as it was a Patti night he found everybody there—Lady Flora, of course.

He was always in demand in the boxes, and he went from one to the other until he came to the one in which Lady Flora sat, surrounded by the moths who were permitted to burn themselves at their own foolish pleasure. The Marquis of Gree was the nearest to her side, and so evidently the favored one that the others were rejoiced when Sir Lionel, in his easy, masterful way entered the box and calmly ignored the marquis and held the conversation captive. It was during the interlude between the first and second acts that he talked with Lady Flora. She was gracious, as she intended to be until the news of his ruin became public property, when, if he persisted in playing his masterful role, she would clothe herself in an icy reserve that would be certain to chill him. In the meantime he would be useful in helping to bring the marquis to final action.

"So you are to give another of those dreadful suppers, Sir Lionel," she said.

"Dreadful! Why dreadful?" he asked.

"There are only gentlemen present at them," she answered.

"That ought not to make them dreadful from the point of view of a lady," he answered.

"Cynic!" she retorted, with a smile of appreciation. "But you ought to know that anything is dreadful to a woman which she does not share. And I am told that something even more unusual than ever—and that is needless—is to happen to-night. At least tell me in confidence what it is to be."

"I will tell you in confidence after it has happened," he answered. "Tell me where you will be at one o'clock to-night and I will meet you there and tell you, so that you shall at least know among the first. I think you will be interested."

There was something in his expression that made her wish to know. It did come into her mind that he might be intending to talk of love; but that was a thing she was not sensitive about. It would not trouble her to say no.

"I shall be at Lady Mordaunt's," said the noble marquis to himself.

That is why Sir Lionel saw the marquis standing by the side of Lady Flora when he entered the drawing-room at Lady Mordaunt's. He made no show of being chagrined, but paid his respects to the hostess with his usual easy grace, and then made his way undisturbed to where Lady Flora sat. He could see that Gree had been forestalling him with his story, and could understand why. Jealousy had made him fear the effects of the story on the impressionable heart of Lady Flora.

He laughed internally at the idea of Lady Flora being moved in such a way, and made up his mind to give the marquis a bit of a fright for his littleness.

His progress to Lady Flora was not a rapid one, for every one must have a word with the famous Sir Lionel; but he kept his eye on her all the while, drawing nearer to her with the skill of one who knows the art of getting through a crowd. He saw how eagerly and rapidly Gree was talking, and how interestedly, even flatteringly, she listened.

"It is Gree's good fortune," he said to himself, "but I will frighten him a little by making love to her, too."

Then he saw her mother cross over to her and hand her a slip of paper. He could see her deprecatingly ask permission of Gree to read it, and then read it. He could see that she held the paper jealously close, and that she held her head bent for a brief space, as if commanding herself. Then was he mistaken, or did she resume the conversation with Gree with more of her usual haughtiness of manner?

Certainly, when he finally reached her side, she looked up with as radiant a smile as ever her beautiful face had worn for him, and her greeting was of the kindest. It was in the manner more than in the words, however, and he said to himself that her woman's heart was touched instead of being hardened by the story Gree had been telling.

the fun rising fast and furious and the entertainment keeping in harmony with the spirits of the entertained. But never mind the details—it was a stupendous success.

It was some time after midnight that no new form of entertainment was introduced, and the supper party was alone with the wine. Many of the guests were the worse for their liberality in the matter of wine; but most of them were too well seasoned to give any indication of it. There was a lull. It was sudden. And presently each man discovered that he and everybody else was looking to where Sir Lionel sat at the head of the table, a smile hovering about his lips.

When he saw that he had the attention of his guests he rose from his chair and glanced slowly around the table. Not a chair was vacant, though a few of the occupants were fidgeting unsteadily.

"I trust," said Sir Lionel, "that I shall be forgiven for making a speech. I have never done it before."

"Hear, hear!" was murmured around the table, and every ear was bent to catch the words that were to fall from Sir Lionel's lips.

"The speech shall be short," he said. "I merely wish to say farewell. I will not say that I am sorry to say it. I have lived as swiftly as money would permit me to live, and I shall not linger or express sorrow now that I am about to close the door behind me. I am ruined. The last penny I have has gone to pay for this supper. Only, gentlemen, I do not owe a penny to a living soul. I bid you a joyous farewell."

Then, before the guests could recover from their astonishment and consternation, he had retired through a door which opened behind him. Something like a chill fell on them all, and when one of them—it was the Marquis of Gree—jumped up and ran to the door to go out, they all sprang up after him and followed as sheep will follow a leader.

But Gree had a definite plan of action in his mind, and the others had not; he did not stand in the cloak-room, staring and wondering and whispering, but threw on his hat and overcoat, and ran down stairs, jumped into a cab, and ordered the driver to take him to Lady Mordaunt's.

"I will spoil his sensation there," said the noble marquis to himself.

That is why Sir Lionel saw the marquis standing by the side of Lady Flora when he entered the drawing-room at Lady Mordaunt's. He made no show of being chagrined, but paid his respects to the hostess with his usual easy grace, and then made his way undisturbed to where Lady Flora sat. PAINS AFTER EATING

WIND IN THE STOMACH—ACIDITY, HEADACHES—CONSTIPATION ARE SIGNS OF INDIGESTION.

Indigestion—the complete or partial failure of the digestive processes—frequently throws out of gear the whole machinery of the body. You can't enjoy the vigor and vitality of good health unless your stomach, liver and bowels do their work regularly and efficiently.

MOTHER SEIGEL'S SYRUP

As a digestive tonic and stomachic remedy, Mother Seigel's Syrup is esteemed in tens of thousands of homes, wherever the English language is spoken. If you suffer much or little from disorders of the stomach, liver or bowels, try the effect of taking 15 to 30 drops of this famous remedy in water, after meals, for a few days and note its beneficial effects.

ASSISTS DIGESTION

The new 100c. bottle contains three times as much as the trial size sold at 50c. per bottle.

"I am glad you have kept your word," she said.

"It is a thing I have never broken," he said, in answer. "I am afraid, however, that the marquis has relieved me of the necessity of telling you a part of what I had to say."

"Oh, nothing the marquis has had the goodness to tell me," and she looked coldly at that gentleman, "can make me less eager to hear it, from your own lips. The marquis will excuse us, I am sure," and she took the arm which Sir Lionel, with ready wit, held out to her. "And you," she went on, with a smile, "will excuse my too eager curiosity, will you not?"

"If it be curiosity," he said.

She flashed a look into his eyes so full of sympathy, and more, even, that his heart gave a great bound, and for a moment he was speechless.

"It is not curiosity," she answered. "Shall we go into the conservatory? We shall be less liable to interruption there."

She did not know it, but for an infinitesimal space of time he hesitated. Then he threw prudence aside and said to himself:

"I can trust myself. I will go. But I am glad to have discovered that she has a heart. She understands and sympathizes."

Lady Flora's mother looked at them as they passed through the door to the conservatory, and muttered, with a smile:

"They will make a handsome pair. Flora was wisest in refusing to throw him aside."

CHAPTER IV.

It is always possible to find a nook in the conservatory where a conversation may be carried on without danger of listeners, for it is generally accepted that mamma or papa are the only ones authorized to interrupt a tete-a-tete in the conservatory.

Sir Lionel led Lady Flora through the avenues of palms and tropical plants, and nothing was said by either until he had seated her in a corner, partially hidden by the leaves of a banana plant.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

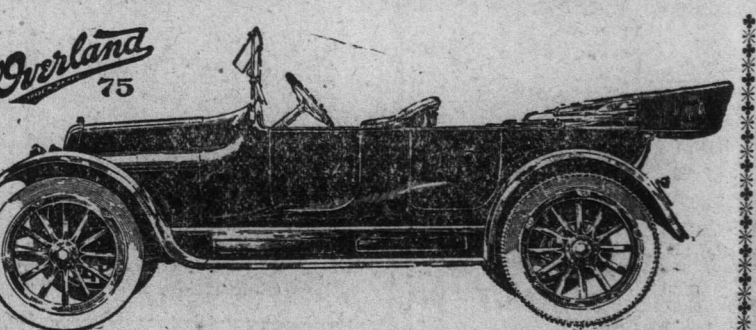

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. TURKO-GERMAN EXPEDITION DELAYED.

LONDON, Jan. 14.
The Turko-German expedition against Egypt has been delayed but has not been abandoned. The railroad from Jerusalem has now been carried across the Sinai Desert and is only 50 miles from the Suez Canal. Supplies of water and provisions have been accumulated along the route the expedition is to follow. The delay in the attack on the Suez Canal possibly is due to the fact that the railroad is not yet complete since the Germans are convinced that military operations in the desert are impossible unless the railway extends as far as the neighborhood of Ismailia on the Canal, 48 miles from Port Said. Meanwhile the British, besides defending the Suez Canal, where they are confident they will be able to repulse the Turko-German attack, have adopted measures insuring the safety of the interior of Egypt. They have prohibited navigation in the Red Sea which is patrolled by warships. The garrison at Aden has been increased with the object of preventing the Turko-German emissaries from reaching Abyssinia, which the allies have announced they will not allow to be used as a base for operations in Mesopotamia with the aim of inflicting a crushing defeat upon the British there. Suez and Egypt will not be seriously attacked until this aim is accomplished. The Germans, it is said, are purposely spreading reports about an imminent attack on the Suez Canal, and are pretending that troops have been sent to Syria. Instead, however, the Teuton and Turko are concentrating all their efforts in Mesopotamia. Reinforcements of troops and enormous quantities of war material, including heavy Austrian artillery, have been sent to Bagdad, which is to be the base for the new drive. Only demoralized stragglers in force are expected against the Suez Canal, while the main effort will be made from Bagdad. A crushing

THE PEACE BOARD ELECTED.
LONDON, Jan. 14.
The Ford Peace Expedition has elected the following American members of the permanent peace board to sit in Europe indefinitely with the purpose of using all efforts to settle the war: William Jennings Bryan, Henry Ford, Miss Jane Adams, Rev. Charles F. Akers, Mrs. Joseph Pele, of Philadelphia. Five other Americans will be chosen to-morrow as alternates. The board will be composed of an equal number of members from the various neutral countries, and will remain in the Hague or Stockholm with the financial backing of Mr. Ford. Each member will receive a salary, and the entire expenses of the board will probably amount to $50,000 yearly. Dr. Akers announces that he would offer his resignation from his San Francisco church. It is not known when Mr. Bryan and Mr. Ford will come here. Judge Ben Lindsay, of Denver, refused to accept a nomination to the permanent board, but will remain in Europe indefinitely in the interests of the orphans of warring nations.

ROME, Jan. 14.

STAFFORD'S PHORATONE COUGH AND COLD CURE.
A little cold may not seem a dangerous thing—you may feel inclined to let it go on hoping that to-morrow it will be better—but can you afford to take chances? When a cough starts there's no telling where it will end. You know no doubt, of cases right among people you have known where serious complications and fatal illnesses have had their start from a neglected cough or cold. A cold is more than inconvenient—it is dangerous—so the big thing is to find a reliable remedy—one that will give you quick, satisfactory relief. There are many treatments that are recommended for a cough or cold but STAFFORD'S PHORATONE COUGH AND COLD CURE is recommended to be the safest, surest and most satisfactory way to cure a cold, grippe, etc.

THE DAILY MAIL AND THE GOVERNMENT.
LONDON, Jan. 14.
The Daily Mail, in view of its campaign against the Government, on the ground that the Government is allowing food to go to the enemy, and the products to leave that country, is triumphant over Lord Lansdowne's admission in the House of Lords that quantities of cocoa from Great Britain probably are reaching her enemies, and the statement that the Government regards the situation as serious and contemplates taking measures to remedy it. Basil Clarke, who went to Copenhagen for the Daily Mail, and there gathered material for the campaign, has another article in this morning's issue alleging that the importation of British tires into Copenhagen is enabling the Germans to export numbers of cheap autos without tires to Denmark where they are fitted with British tires and the Germans are thus able to pay for the goods which they are receiving from Denmark, thereby lessening the slump in exchange rates. The Morning Post editorially draws attention to the blockade question, saying there are at last hopeful signs that Parliament is recovering from the mental catalepsy which was one result of the formation of the coalition ministry. It blames the Foreign Office for making agreements with neutral traders, and adds: We can only repeat that, so long as the Foreign Office usurps the proper business of the Admiralty, so long will the war continue.

OPENING OF THE PRUSSIAN DIET.
LONDON, Jan. 14.
In describing the opening of the Prussian Diet, a Reuter despatch from Berlin, received by way of Amsterdam, says that the President of the Lower House, Count Schwertfeger, reviewed the events of all the battlefields, referring to the establishment of communication with Turkey, and to the failure of the Anglo-French Dardanelles expedition. If the flight of the English army, as the English Premier has said, will take a prominent place in the glorious victory of England, remarked the President, this proves that our cousins on the other side of the Channel have become much more modest in their claims to real military success. The Finance Minister, Dr. Lentze, in submitting the budget, said the most prejudiced spectator must recognize that our enemies are losing the war. We are saved by our industries, which were equal to the greatest tasks, and by German science. We had to help ourselves. We could not go to America or Japan for arms and ammunition, as our enemies did. Thus we kept many thousands of millions in the country while the enemy had to pay them abroad. The success of the German war loans has proved how greatly this has helped German political economy. Dr. Lentze then dwelt on various measures concerning maximum prices, bread tickets and the regulation and the distribution of products.

Oclogenarian Meets Accident.

Suffers Compound Fracture of the Leg.

Last evening a telephone message was received at the East End Fire Station calling out the ambulance to Water St. West, where an accident had occurred, the victim being Henry Leverman, 81 years of age and a respected resident of that section of the City. Mr. Leverman lives on the north side of Water Street almost opposite the R. N. Co.'s round-house. Hale and hearty old gentleman that he was, Mr. Leverman was out putting in coal by his own door. After finishing his work he forgot to put the cover on the chute. It was then about 4.45 p.m. and getting dark. Mr. Leverman, not minding carefully where he was walking, stepped into the open hatchway, resulting in his leg being broken. He was attended by Dr. Fraser, who found that Mr. Leverman was suffering from a compound fracture. The physician then splinted the injured member and ordered the patient to hospital, where he was immediately taken for treatment. Mr. Leverman suffered great pain and what makes the accident serious to him is his advanced age.

If we are correctly informed there is only one other of this specially constructed Listz in Newfoundland at the present time.

SATURDAY, January 15, 1916.

The Coal Question.

We thank "Theobald" for his kindly reference to our efforts, and in doing so would like to point out that the policy now being carried out was adopted by the Government after consultation with Mr. J. M. Kent, Leader of the Opposition, Mr. W. F. Coaker, leader of the Union Party, and editor of the Evening Telegram. These members of the Opposition undertook to back the Government in the House of Assembly in their policy which was decided upon. It is therefore only fair to give recognition to both Government and Opposition for the policy they will have to assume responsibility for its inauguration in the House of Assembly. We are in receipt of a letter from Mr. John Dempsey, in which he asked if the Government is going to stand the difference between the eight dollars now being paid for coal on January 15, and the price of coal on January 15, 1915. We have no hesitation in stating that the Government has no intention of paying the coal merchant the difference of two dollars and eighty cents, between the sale price fixed by the Government and that fixed by the coal merchants referred to.

Whatever legislation is needed to indemnify the Government for the action taken last Monday will be supported by the Opposition, but there is no intention of making a present of two dollars and eighty cents to the coal merchant on the coal which has been commandeered. The coal merchants will get the rate of profit they were receiving before December 31st, 1915, on the coal which they had imported before that date, and nothing more. The Committee of six citizens, who were invited to see to the distribution of this coal responded heartily. They are performing an irksome task gratuitously and for the general good. They should be aided by citizens generally in their undertaking, and they deserve the thanks of the community for accepting the task which they were asked to undertake. They accepted in a spirit of good citizenship, and we have confidence their work will be undertaken in the same spirit.

The fact that there was not one of the first six citizens asked to undertake this onerous duty declined speaks well for the public spirit prevailing in the city. The first six citizens asked are the six citizens now serving. That public spirit is akin to the duty of service which has sent so many of the young men of the Empire to the front. Noblest of obligations.

FOGOTA HERE.—The s.s. Fogota, Capt. Dalton, arrived in port from North Sydney at 9 p.m. yesterday with a cargo of coal. After discharging she will be put in readiness for the coastal service and will sail on the Fogota mail route at 10 a.m. on Tuesday next.

People and Favors.

By BUTH CAMERON.

What a tremendously wide difference there is in the way different people feel about doing things for others!

Some people will gladly do things for you if it is perfectly convenient for you. If there is the slightest obstacle in the way, the slightest inconvenience, they seem to feel that it automatically absolves them from the obligation to do the favor.

She Would Love To Help You—But— You ask such a person if she will do an errand for you or lend you some article to be used in the church entertainment, or give her mite of time toward some philanthropy, and she says, "Let me see," and then, four times out of five, comes out with some small obstacle. "I'm not sure I know just where that shop is" (she doesn't want to make the effort to understand your directions), or "I'd be glad to lend you the sofa pillows for the play, but how would you ever get them there?" (the woman who contributed that example has a machine of her own); or "Oh, my dear, that's the day I have my shampooist." She doesn't stay all day? No, but I hate to plan too many things for one day."

Other People Can't Bear Not To Grant A Favor.

At the other extreme are people who seem to look upon a request as something one must find a way to do. Instead of regarding an obstacle in the way of performing the favor as a legitimate excuse, they regard it as a problem to be solved.

"Let me see, you want my tea wagon for the play. Of course, you shall have it, but how shall I get it there? Oh, I know, I'll give the boy next door a nickel to take it down in his little express team. Thursday, the twelfth; why, it was Thursday I was planning to have that little tea. Never mind, I can have it Wednesday just as well."

Why Such People Aren't Appreciated. Agnes Reppiler is evidently thinking of people like this when she says: "There are some people who from some delicacy of mental fibre find it exceedingly difficult to be rude; and there are people who, like Charles Lamb, have a curious habit of doing what they do not want to, and what they know is not worth doing, for the sake of giving pleasure to some utterly insignificant acquaintance. The second class is so small, and the motives governing it so inscrutable, that we are apt to be exasperated by its amiability."

I was glad to run across that bit of philosophy, for I had always wondered why such people never seem to be as much beloved as one would expect.

I have a suspicion that there is another reason for this besides the inscrutability of the motives of this class. We don't like people to be too good. You remember Queen Guinevere was exasperated by King Arthur because he had no "touch of earth." Too much unselfishness is always a disagreeable accusation to the comfortable selfishness of some people.

Theatre parties, if arranged for, will be served at close of performance at WOOD'S Central or West End Restaurants during Klark-Urban Co's. season.—Jan 12, 13.

If a boot or shoe pinches, damp a sponge with very hot water and hold over the part that hurts. The leather will expand and so afford relief.

Your Boys and Girls.

Be kind at all times to your child and surround him with those who will always be so. The regularity which should be practiced in the nursery has also a good influence on your child. As it learns that its wants are supplied at a regular time, it soon becomes accustomed to an element of regularity and reliability.

If the child is not indulged whenever it cries, it soon learns the value of self control. Regularity and self control are large factors in forming discipline. All so called breaking of the will should be strictly forbidden. It breeds obstinacy, deception and a nervous condition. All these ailments may have their foundation laid in the first year of life if great care be not exercised to have kind, sympathetic, yet just treatment for this early period.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"Will you please tell me the proper manner in which to eat a sandwich at a luncheon?" asked Marie.
"The most delicate way is to use the knife and fork. It is perfectly proper, however, to cut the sandwich in small pieces, and eat these pieces from the fingers," answered her mother.

Matrimony.

By GEORGE FITCH,

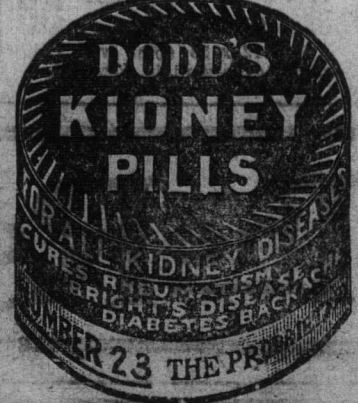

Author of "At Good Old Swash." Matrimony is the United States of Love. It is a union of the settled state, the contented state, the bustling state and the states of rapture, resignation, distraction and many others. Matrimony is also a very peculiar form of arithmetic, in which one and one make one and later on nine or ten. As soon as a young man and a young woman find that one parlor, one chair and one name are quite enough for both of them, they are made one by law and are then privileged to get along on one income for the rest of their lives.

Matrimony is the origin of the home, the hall mark of civilization, and the hope of the census bureau. Without matrimony man is a useless member of boarding houses and woman a lonely antique. But there is such a thing as being too enthusiastic about matrimony. It is very easily carried to excess. To marry two wives without a vacation between is considered worse than to vote twice at the same election. In uncivilized nations, men frequently have half a dozen wives at the same time and support them in luxury. This is called polygamy. Polygamy is a very peculiar form of misplaced bravery.

When a man marries, he swears to love, cherish and protect his wife and to endow her with all his worldly goods. Men are so wicked, however, that a great many of them persistently hold out cigar and lunch money. When a woman marries, she swears to love, honor and obey her husband. However, the word "obey" is being cut out of many ceremonies as a dead letter law which shows that the married state is more careful about dead letter laws than most other states.

Getting married is a serious matter and yet young people tackle the job with the utmost intrepidity. A young man who does not earn enough to keep himself in fuzzy hats will rush boldly and cheerfully into matrimony with a young woman who has never had to wash two consecutive dishes and would stab herself to death with a needle if she tried to darn a sock. Naturally a great many such marriages are failures, but nowadays the motto in matrimony is: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

Matrimony is blessed with children, good home cooking, pleasant home evenings, golden weddings, and is at other times afflicted with green eyes, soggy head and hair-trigger tempers. When a selfish person marries, the victim is to be pitied, but when two selfish persons marry each other, great good results. They are not only removed from circulation, but they get what has been coming to them from their youth up.

Coffey the Roscommon

AGAIN PUT AWAY BY THE NINTH ROUND

Police Reserves Called on the Anxious Crowd Into Coffey's Manager Decided the Sponge.

New York, Jan. 8.—Coffey was knocked out again by Moran in the ninth round.

Threw Up Sponges. Frank Moran, of Pittsburg, second time within a couple of minutes administered such severe punishment that for pure humanity's sake, Coffey's manager, J. Gibson, Coffey's manager, threw sponges into the ring as a protest. This was in the ninth round. It will be recorded as a technical out, although Coffey, hanging onto the ropes, kept his feet when the contest ended. It was a repetition of the meeting between the pair, when Moran knocked out standing on his feet the difference that Moran won in rounds to accomplish his purpose.

The Garden was packed as ever in its history. Unofficially placed the receipts at $22,000, which is $7,000 more than was the first encounter between the men. Coffey, with youth, height, reach, weight and skill against the older, went up against a cool, antagonist, who showed that he hit, and against the invincible cap of a former defeat. Coffey is always a nervous being, keyed up to the highest tension and after the first round so fast that he looked almost dead at the end of each of the first rounds.

In facing Moran, the Irishman went in with the full knowledge of the man before him, having knocked him out and was hit so again if the slightest blow presented itself to land a blow.

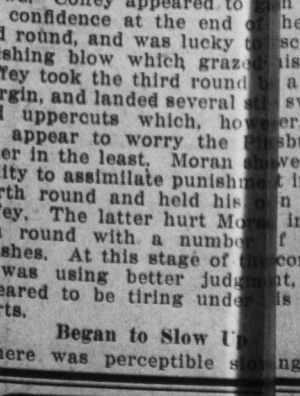

Had To Be on Water. In this he suffered in that his usual speed and cleverness robbed him of much of the fight he displayed in the first round. He had been coached to be careful of his chances, but with his waning strength he disregarded all advice and in with the vain hope of a blow which would reverse the decision.

Moran, with one victory already to his credit, tactfully in a smiling, confident manner had a fighting brain and splendid physical outfit. He measured his own ability, and spent it slowly and for his chance to win. In the ninth round, a successful blow on the body and just as he derived the former momentum, he fell helpless. Three times he fell on the floor, and on each occasion he appeared almost impossible to reach his feet inside of ten seconds. Moran's scoping glove reached Coffey's right eye time the latter assumed a position, and then, with vigour, ped, energy spent and a full body, he managed to fully ended the contest. It was to all present that he was in condition to continue the fight, had put forth his best effort, and though for a time he was though he might perhaps win the fight, he was not match for the professional opponent, whose plied left their impression ever came into contact with Coffey's.

Was Fast Fight. It was a fast fight on the whole, though at certain stages in the rounds it lacked the action which spectators had been led to expect by the widest stretch of imagination could be classed as a scientific exhibition, as the art of hit and get practiced by the clever men of the ways missing. Still, punching it was in plenty. Solid wallop that sounded through the big building carried plenty of steam behind it, but as a boxing exhibition was below that to be expected from the weight possibilities. Coffey, who had won in the majority of his rounds until the latter took away his strength and speed with drives into the and then beat him down with the rights on the jaw. When this happened Moran had been in the ring for nearly nine rounds. He was shaken and battered from the facts of the punching.

The first two rounds of the contest were evenly contested. Coffey, who little steam in his punches and appeared to wait for openings which he met Coffey's rushes with head blows. Coffey appeared to gain a little confidence at the end of the second round, and was lucky when finishing blow which grazed his margin, and landed several on uppercut which, however, did not appear to worry the burly boxer in the least. Moran showed ability to assimilate punishment in the fourth round and held his own with Coffey. The latter hurt Moran in the fifth round with a number of blows. At this stage of the contest he was using better judgment, and appeared to be tiring under his own efforts.

Coffey the Roscommon Giant

AGAIN PUT AWAY BY MORAN IN THE NINTH ROUND. Police Reserves Called Out to Keep the Anxious Crowd Into Line—Coffey's Manager Decided to Throw Up the Sponge.

New York, Jan. 8.—Coffey was knocked out again by Moran, this time in the ninth round. Three Up Sponges. Frank Moran, for the second time within a couple of months, administered such severe punishment that for pure humanity's sake Billy Gibson, Coffey's manager, threw a sponge into the ring as a token of defeat. This was in the ninth round, and will be recorded as a technical knockout, although Coffey, helpless and hanging onto the ropes, was still on his feet when the contest was stopped. It was a repetition of the first meeting between the pair, with Coffey knocked out standing on his feet, with the difference that Moran took six rounds to accomplish his object.

The garden was packed six times as ever in its history. Unofficial reports placed the receipts at $32,000, which is $7,000 more than was taken in at the first encounter between the big men. Coffey, with youth, height, reach, weight and skill all in his favor, went up against a cool, deliberate antagonist, who showed that he could hit, and against the invincible handicap of a former defeat. Coffey, who is always a nervous beginner, was keyed up to the highest tension point, and after the first round he fought so fast that he looked almost exhausted at the end of each of the succeeding rounds.

In facing Moran, the Irish giant went in with the full knowledge that the man before him had already knocked him out and was liable to do so again if the slightest opportunity presented itself to land a crushing blow.

Had To Be on Watch. In this he suffered in that it affected his usual speed and cleverness, and robbed him of much of the confidence he displayed in the first bout. He had been coached to be careful and take no chances, but with his waning strength he disregarded all advice and waded in with the vain hope of landing a blow which would reverse the former decision.

Moran, with one victory over Coffey already to his credit, tackled his job in a smiling, confident manner. He had a fighting brain, not merely a splendid physical outfit for fighting. He measured his own ability to resist, and spent it slowly and waited for his chance to win. He came in in the fourth round. A succession of blows on the body and jaw had rendered the former motor man well nigh helpless. Three times he was sent to the floor, and on each occasion it appeared almost impossible for him to regain his feet inside of the fateful ten seconds. Moran's right hand right glove reached Coffey's right jaw each time the latter assumed an upright position, and then, with vitality spent, energy spent and spirit broken, the Roscommon pugilist frantically clutched at the ropes to support his feeble body, his manager mercifully ended the bout. It was apparent to all present that he was in no condition to continue the bout. He had put forth his best efforts and although for a time it appeared as though he might perhaps win the verdict, he was no match for his powerful opponent, whose driving blows left their impression every time they came into contact with Coffey's body.

Was Fast Fight. It was a fast fight on the whole, although at certain stages in the later rounds it lacked the action which the spectators had been led to expect. Not by the widest stretch of imagination could it be classed as a scientific exhibition, as the art of hit and get away practiced by the clever men was always missing. Stiff punching there was in plenty. Solid and spry that sounded through the big building and carried plenty of steam behind them, but as a boxing exhibition it was far below that to be expected from the weight possibilities. Coffey outclassed Moran in the majority of the rounds until the latter took away his strength and speed with drives into the ribs, and then beat him down with crashing rights on the jaw. When this happened Moran had been taking a hard beating for nearly nine rounds, and was shaken and battered from the effects of the pounding.

The first two rounds of the contest were evenly contested. Coffey showed little steam in his punches and appeared to wait for openings which seldom came, while Moran laid back and met Coffey's rushes with hard body blows. Coffey appeared to gain a little confidence at the end of the second round, and landed several stiff swings and uppercuts which, however, did not appear to worry the Pittsburgher boxer in the least. Moran showed his ability to assimilate in the fourth round and held his own with Coffey. The latter hurt Moran in the fifth round with a number of hard smashes. At this stage of the contest he was using better judgment, but appeared to be tiring under his own efforts.

You Can't Find Any Dandruff, and Hair Stops Coming Out

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy, glossy and beautiful at once.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking only one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; at incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment. A 25-cent bottle will double the beauty of your hair.

On the part of both men in the sixth round when Coffey smothered the Pittsburgher boxer with more uppercuts and right swings. The Roscommon idol was tiring fast in the seventh, and the beginners, the end was in sight. Moran's outright Coffey in the eighth, and for the first time earned the decision. The ninth and last opened with Moran adopting a more aggressive attack. He felt victory was in sight with his opponent weakening under every blow landed, and with a ferocity little short of brutal he did not let up, although it was apparent that Coffey had shot his bolt before the fight was half over, and when the end came every body in the big building appeared to be satisfied in the manner in which it was brought about.

A representative crowd witnessed the bout. It was composed of men in all walks of life with not a few women, who seemed to thoroughly enjoy the spectacle. Everyone met on a common standing ground. All old-timers sat around the ring and commented notes and representatives of social, commercial, financial and professional circles rubbed elbows with gamblers, prize-fighters, pugilists and others who had been attracted to the big arena. The smoke laden atmosphere made it difficult to breathe freely, and when the men entered the ring there was not a vacant seat, and several thousand persons were forced to stand. It was, however, a good-natured crowd, and the many shortcomings they were compelled to face owing to poor managerial arrangements were lightly brushed aside in the desire to see the men in action.

Coffey was the first to enter the ring and he received a real Irish reception. He had more color in his face than when he boxed before, and appeared to be in better physical condition. Frank Moran followed two minutes later, and after climbing through the ropes he crossed over to Coffey's corner and shook him by the hand. Joe Humphreys announced the weights of the two men as 205½ for Coffey, and 196½ for Moran. The usual preliminaries occupied but a short space of time, and the big crowd settled back to watch the contest, which ended in the eclipse of the Roscommon giant.

ESSENCE OF GINGER WINE.

Having had considerable correspondence with parties in the Old Country, I have at last succeeded in obtaining the genuine and original recipe for the "Essence of Ginger Wine," which I now offer at 15 cents per bottle. This recipe has been safely guarded for a great many years. It was originally prepared by an old Squire in Lancashire, A.D. 1575. It is made from the purest ingredients, and is strictly non-alcoholic. It makes an ideal Christmas drink for the young and the old. The contents of one fifteen-cent bottle, mixed with three quarts of hot water, in which there has been previously dissolved one and a quarter pounds of sugar, makes the Ginger Wine ready for use. I have much pleasure in introducing this old (but still new) preparation.

The Squaw Man.

A SPLENDID PRODUCTION.

One of the finest melo-dramas seen in this city was "The Squaw Man," presented by the Klark-Urban Co., to a full audience at the Casino Theatre last night. The play deals with the story of Capt. James Wynnegate, a member of a proud and aristocratic English family, who to save his house from disgrace brought about by his cousin, Henry Wynnegate, the Earl of Kerhill, by the defalcation of trust funds, decides to leave the country, and inferentially thrusts the guilt upon himself, the principal motive being his love for his cousin's wife, who reciprocates the feeling. He emigrates to the wild west and in a short time becomes a successful rancher, and gathers around him a number of faithful cow-boy friends. His love of law and order arouses the animosity of a gang of cattle thieves headed by one "Cash Hawkins." The latter attempts to put Jim Carston, by which name our hero is known in the west, "out of business," but while in the act he is himself shot by an Indian girl named Nat-u-Rich. The subsequent fidelity of Jim's rescuer, particularly at a time when he was ill of fever, induces him to marry her, and to them a son is born. With the passing of years, changes have taken place in the old home. The guilty cousin dies and Jim, now a Squaw man, becomes the heir. The family lawyer accompanied by Diana, the cousin's wife, succeed in finding him and entreat him to return and take his proper place. Though the prospects are most enticing, his honor, and his devotion to his Squaw wife prevail and he refuses, and reluctantly permits his little son to be taken to England to take his place. In the meantime Nat-u-Rich, the Squaw's wife is being sought by the Sheriff for the murder of Cash Hawkins, a merciful intention of Jim's grief. The parting with her child is too much for the Indian mother and in her grief she shoots herself. The scene closes with the little boy in the arms of the one Jim so dearly loved and for whose sake he left home, and the Squaw man kneeling beside his faithful wife now still in death. Albert Patterson, who played the title role gave a splendid portrayal of his part, and Harden Clark, as the Earl of Kerhill, and also as "Bill" of Carston's Ranch, was particularly good. Thomas Brower, as Tabawana, Chief of the Utes, gave a fine portrayal of the Indian, and Arthur Tenney, as Haco, the interpreter, left nothing to be desired. Lillian Dean, as the Earl's mother, and also in the part of Minn, the barmaid, was particularly good. Her roles represented two extremes and she gave a faithful delineation of each. Her clear enunciation and fine stage appearance have won for her many admirers amongst theatre goers, Miss Cecil, as the Earl's wife, gave a good portrayal of her part. Marion Allen, as Nat-u-Rich, and Australia Clarke as Jim Carston's son, were very faithful in their delineations of the Indian mother and child. Charles Mills, as the Earl's solicitor, and also as Cash Hawkins, was particularly good, as were the rest of the company who appeared in the minor roles. The play will be repeated to-night, and another full house may be anticipated.

PETROGRAD, To-day. Greetings to Russian people from various prominent men in other countries were published in Petrograd newspapers in observance of the Russian New Year. Among the messages displayed most prominently was that sent by Lloyd George, British Minister of Munitions, which contains the following: "The time is soon coming when on both fronts we will face the enemy under conditions of equality, as regards munitions, and with numerical advantage on our side."

YANKEE JOURNALISTS' ALARMIST STORY.

NEW YORK, To-day. A News Agency despatch from London published here yesterday afternoon says the National Railway Men's Union, one of the greatest labor organizations in Britain, has defied the Government to enact the Conscriptio Bill in the most drastic resolution yet adopted by any labor body. The executive committee of railway men declared their organization will resist conscription to the utmost. They hinted at an immediate strike of all railway workers of Britain, if the Bill passes Parliament, unless the Government is prepared to confiscate the wealth of the privileged classes for a more successful prosecution of the war. The resolution of railroad workers will resist to the uttermost the strike. The drastic action of railwaymen coupled with the anti-conscription resolutions adopted by the representatives of eight hundred thousand miners yesterday unquestionably has caused the Government deep concern. Asquith conferred informally yesterday with the members of the Cabinet. It was rumored efforts are being made to amend the Bill before the final vote is taken to eliminate the objections of railway men and miners.

FOR MILITARY REASONS.

WASHINGTON, To-day. France has declined for military reasons to permit the shipments of condensed milk to charitable organizations in the United States to Germany and Austria-Hungary for the use of babies in those countries.

THE DUTCH FLOODS.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. At seven o'clock, adds a message, alarm bell rang at Broeck, also a province north Holland, about six miles northwest of Amsterdam flood pouring with terrific force. Many farms were completely inundated and the inhabitants proceeding in boats, surrounding village of Volendam entirely flooded, Monnikend, mainland island Harken under water.

THREATEN REPRISALS.

BERLIN, To-day. The German Government transmitted to Britain through the American Embassy a note which declares that as a result of Britain not fulfilling Germany's demand for an explanation of the circumstances surrounding the sinking of the German submarine by the British patrol boat Baralong, Germany will adopt a suitable measure of reprisal.

RESTRICTING BREAD & BUTTER ALLOWANCES.

BERLIN, To-day. The Municipality of Berlin has taken the steps in the reduction of bread allowances which were ordered recently by the Central authorities. Butter for bread also is subject to Governmental action. An official announcement has been issued, warning municipalities and communes that they will not be allowed to import butter, purchased abroad. A number of cities desiring to satisfy the complaints of citizens, sent agents abroad to buy butter, thus establishing an undesirable competition with the Imperial Butter Bureau and encouraging foreigners to demand higher prices.

THE CZAR WILL NOT MAKE PEACE.

PETROGRAD, To-day. "Rest assured as I said at the beginning of the war, I will not make peace before we have forced the last of the enemy out of the limits of Mother Country and not otherwise than with the consent of our Allies, to whom we are bound not by paper, but by sincere friendship and ties of blood." Emperor Nicholas in these words addressed one of his armies on Russian western front during the week preceding Russian Xmas, once more replied to rumors of separate peace in Russia, which from time to time have been run throughout the country and even reached men in the trenches.

PROTEST AGAINST ARREST OF CONSULATE SPIES.

VIENNA, To-day. Baron Buriak, Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, has requested American Ambassador Penfield to convey to the British and French Governments the Austro-Hungarian protest against the arrest of Austro-Hungarian Consul at Saloniki and his assistants and the violation of the Archives of the consulate. The note refers to the conduct of the Entente Allies as a brutal exercise of might and a violation of the most elemental principles of international law. It further declares that Austro-Hungary reserves the right to take steps, dictated by the further course of the Entente Allies, in respect to the officials under arrest.

WILL USE SEA POWER.

LONDON, To-day. Discussing the freedom of the seas. The Spectator, in an article says: "The British people cannot and will not be entangled in a web of words. The State Department at Washington is served by men much quicker and more shrewd than our Foreign Office. We shall not be surprised to see victory won by President Wilson and Mr. Lansing over the attempts to define such words and phrases as blockade, retaliation, freedom of seas. Call blockade retaliation as regards sea zones and organic development, contraband of war or what you will, but the fact remains that come what may we mean to use our sea power and beset the German nation and we are besieging it." The Spectator then asks: "Who dares assert that we ever used our naval powers to tyrannize over our neighbours or to serve our selfish ends?"

SUNK AUSTRIAN SCOUT CRUISER.

ROME, To-day. It is officially announced that the French submarine Bocault, attacked the Austrian fleet torpedoed and sunk on Thursday in the Adriatic. Sea an Austrian scout cruiser of Novara type of which there are four. They have a displacement of 3,384 tons and carry armament of two 18 inch torpedo tubes and nine 3.5 inch guns. FLOODS IN HAMBURG.

HAMBURG, To-day. All streets service and vehicular traffic in this city is tied up owing to the unprecedented floods caused by the west storm blowing water from the sea back up the Elbe River. Many cellars have been filled with water and the streets in the lower portion of the city are flooded to a depth of 20 inches. The storm reached its height at 11 o'clock on Thursday night.

WILL NOT VISIT HER BROTHER.

PARIS, To-day. A despatch to Journal Des Debates from Athens dated yesterday, says: No one here believes that the Queen of Greece is thinking of going to see her sick brother, Emperor William. It is pointed out that she has not seen him

At the City Hall.

The Chairman, Messrs. Ayre, McNamara, Bradshaw, Mullaly, McGrath, Morris, Anderson and Withers were present at last night's meeting of the Civic Commission.

Mrs. Tobin, sister of the late Hon. John Harris, wrote thanking the Board for the resolutions of condolence passed at last meeting.

James Davis asked that a board fence erected on King's Road and closing a passage way, be removed. The fence is on private property and the Board can do nothing in the matter.

James P. Ayre, 12 Bennie's Mill Rd., complained of the low pressure of water at his residence. The Engineer reported that the complaint had already been attended to.

The Martin Hardware quoted prices of steam rollers and the communication was ordered to be filed.

R. Chaplin applied for permission to repair house 54 Gover Street. Referred to the Engineer.

Asst. Engineer Holden reported that Dr. Rendell had erected a coach house in the rear of his residence, Duckworth Street. The law will be applied.

Plans of proposed erections were submitted by M. Gibbons, Gear Street, and were referred to the Engineer.

The Health Officer reported 11 cases of diphtheria during the week. The Engineer reported that the arranging of valves to regulate the water pressure throughout the city would soon be completed.

The Chairman informed the Board that during the week he had had a lengthy interview with Mr. Bliss, a representative of the Tarvia Co. responsible for the work on Duckworth Street. He said that Mr. Bliss was at a loss to understand how the work was not satisfactory. In the latter's opinion the Tarvia was either spread when the macadam was wet or that when being prepared the Tarvia was allowed to over boil and consequently lost some of the essentials for binding.

He considered that a couple of days would remedy the defects. In discussing the matter of a further contract the Chairman emphasized the fact that before this would be considered the experimental work on Duckworth Street should first be put in order.

The Chairman thought that Tarvia would be good for our streets of properly put on, but under existing conditions the Board cannot contract for further work.

THE PERSIAN DANGER.

LONDON, To-day. The Times considers that the failure of the Entente Allies to succour Montenegro, following a similar failure in Serbia suggests either absence of strategic plans or that the Allies have not been successful in their execution and refers to the reported invasion of Turkish regular forces, as another step in German thrust eastward. Kermanshah, says the newspaper, is known to be the headquarters of German intriguers in Persia and the rebels stirred up by Germans to revolt. The rebels defeated at Masian drew to Kermanshah on the main caravan and Bagdad. When they were last heard of Prince Reuss, who is instigating the revolt was with them. Kermanshah has been for some time under German control. It is an important point to hold, because the roads from the Turkish frontier meet there. Last December there were reports of an impending march by the Turks across the country on India under Field Marshal Von Der Goltz. It is possible they may have reached Kermanshah without the Entente Allies being aware of the movement.

TARIFF REFORM FINDING CONVENTS.

LONDON, To-day. The idea of Britain adopting a Tariff and other measures to protect agriculture after the war is finding many converts, even among those newspapers, hitherto devoted to free trade, and means of continuing the fight against Germany by economic pressure. The Morning Post in an editorial strongly supported the protective ideas urged by Honar Law, Secretary for the Colonies, to take proper steps immediately, first by forming a union with Britain's Colonies on this basis, then by approaching France, Russia and Italy with concrete proposals for a Zollverein. The Morning Post says it has been assured France is anxious to join such a union.

PAPEN'S COMPLICITY WITH AMERICAN EXPANSIONS.

LONDON, To-day. Copies of correspondence, seized from Capt. Franz Von Papen, recalled German Military attaché at Washington, when he reached Palermo on his way to Germany, have been turned over to the American Embassy for transmission to the State Department. They show that Von Papen made frequent payments to persons charged with responsibility for blowing up munition works and bridges in the United States.

MORE MASSACRES OF ARMENIANS.

LONDON, To-day. Armenian refugees, arriving at Erivan, Russia, Transcaucasia, state that 1500 Sasun Armenians who were forced by cold and famine to surrender to the Turks, under a Government Amnesty, were killed by order of the Government. The men were massacred and women and children drowned in Euphrates River. This news was telegraphed to Viscount Bryce by an Armenian refugee worker. Commenting on the telegram to Viscount Bryce from the frontier of Transcaucasia and Asiatic Turkey, the Armenian Refugees Committee in London says: "This seems to indicate a final destruction of the unfortunate Armenians who fled to the mountains to escape massacre. They were mainly part of the Armenian nation, leading a quiet life in remote valleys of the Euphrates."

MONTENEGRIN FLIGHT DESPERATE.

LONDON, To-day. The flag of the dual monarchy flies over Cetinje and the Austro-Hungarians are continuing their march southward toward the fortified post of Antivari, driving before them by force of numbers the soldiers of King Nicholas. Montenegro is now encompassed on all sides except in the south by the invaders, across the southern border in Albania, should they be driven there they will face foes in Albanian tribesmen. With the fall of their capital, with no let-up in the Austrian pressure against them, the situation of the Montenegrins seems critical.

THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

COAL.
 There is at present an unprecedented state of affairs in our city. Aggravated in the first instance by an unreasonable increase in the price of coal, and in the second place by the danger of a coal famine, public spirit has forced the Government to "interfere" with a business and to say that coal must be sold at a certain price and delivered only in small quantities, and only to people who are without coal.

On the face of it it looks very strange and seems rather an unwarrantable proceeding. But after all, what does it mean? Does it not mean that the thousands of families in the city are demanding the right of a few coal merchants to make them suffer? And is not a Government the expression of the people's wishes? The people of a city or country surely are the ones to say how their business ought to be run, and in this case the people have conquered by sheer force, and made a tardy, hesitating and perhaps unwilling Government obey its will. The people will startle—it may be for good and it may be for evil sometimes—and it is for those with "vision" to see that the people are educated up to something more than "doing their neighbours in business" so that eventually their ideals will find expression in a Government that will work fearlessly for their interests.

In the coal crisis, the action of a few merchants is no more to be stood than would be the actions of two or three members of a Club if they started in to "dictate" to the other members. I question if it would not have been in the public interest to have commandeered the Fogota's coal also. She is owned by Crosbie Co. and the question is: Did it actually cost Crosbie & Co. any more to land this cargo than it would have cost last year? Did it cost them $250 more in freight? Now if there is any danger of a shortage this cargo should have to be sold under the same restrictions as the old stocks are being sold. Also the cartage due to Bowring Bros. Sealing Steamer requirements are secondary to household needs. We must not depend too much on the big steamer coming—something may happen to her and we may never see the coal.

There should be no large stocks of coal sold to any one person. I have heard of one of our Banks, which, with all its riches, hurriedly sent down last week to "collar" a large quantity of hard coal. To the credit of the coal dealer—the order was refused.

ANTHRACITE.
 No one has bothered much about hard coal. The price was put up $3.00 but this "grab" has been lost sight of in the excitement over soft coal. Now there is a whole host of people of moderate means, who endeavour to have the comfort of a hall stove, to whom this rise will mean something and it ought to be condemned as much as the rise in soft coal. There is plenty of hard coal in town and there is no danger of a shortage.

EXCESSIVE PROFITS.

No scientific discovery in recent years has attracted such wide-spread attention among physicians in this country and throughout Canada as the wonderful D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema. After years of debate, medical authorities are now agreed that eczema and other skin diseases are not seated in the blood but are caused by myriads of micro-organisms gnawing their way just below the epidermis. Star of the Sea Association, Holyrood.

On the 9th inst. the annual meeting of the above named association took place in the Star-Hall before a large and enthusiastic membership, with Vice-President, Capt. Walter Kennedy, in the chair, the President, Mr. R. Dwyer, being unavoidably absent. After the usual preliminaries were gone through, the report of the Society was read by the Secretary, Mr. R. Dwyer, who in well chosen words, outlined the work of the previous year and showed the Society to be in good standing both financially and otherwise.

The report being moved and adopted the officers vacated their seats and the business of electing officers for 1916 began. Mr. J. J. Hicks was moved to the chair to conduct the election which he did in an able and masterly manner assisted by Mr. R. Dwyer as Secretary and Messrs. Wm. Veitch and T. Cleary as check clerks.

The election was keenly contested in every phase and finally the new officers elected took their places and in oratory that was suggestive of a new life of the Society, thanked the members for the honour conferred on them, and promised to be in a position to give a good account of their stewardship at the next annual meeting.

A vote of thanks was then tendered Mr. J. J. Hicks for his very able and energetic manner in which he carried out the election. The following were elected: President, Miss Nellie Flynn, organist, by whose talent and untiring efforts many successful performances were organized for the Society's benefit. The following are the officers and executive elected for 1916: W. F. Walsh, President (elected); J. J. Hicks, Vice-President (elected); Wm. Veitch, 1st Asst. Vice-President (elected); Wm. Condy, 2nd Asst. Vice-President (elected); James Carroll, Treasurer (re-elected); C. R. Kennedy, Asst. Treasurer (elected); J. A. Hamilton, Secretary (elected); Wm. Penney, Grand Marshal, (elected); Edward Butler, Deputy Marshal, (elected); James Wall, Custodian (elected). Executive Committee: Messrs. J. J. Carroll, Jas. J. Maloney, Michael C. Maloney, M. C. Dunphy and Thomas Cleary.

"They Fight Like Hell"

The Governor has received by the mail a letter written by a most distinguished and gallant General in which occurs the following passage: "The Newfoundlanders are a class by themselves. As an American soldier they fight like hell and have an air of refinement and gentleness."

SPREADING YEARS.

How swift the years roll on, my friend, how swift the years roll on! They come and make their bow and bend, they smile and then they're gone! Some morning, in the mirror's face, we see a snowy hair; and ere we've time to dye the place, a hundred more are there. But yesterday my locks were brown, and life seemed in its dawn, and now the gray spreads o'er my crown—how swift the years roll on! But yesterday I held a child upon my willing knee; an infant innocent and mild, and beautiful was he; and now in tones of bass he speaks, he's learned to toll and spin, and he has whiskers on his cheeks, and more upon his chin. Oh, can this be that little child, this man of weight and brawn? How can't the two be reconciled? How swift the years roll on! But yesterday my limbs were free from stiffness, pain and ache; and I could climb the tallest tree, or swim across a lake. But if I walk a block to-day, my mind and strength are gone; they take me homeward on a drag; how swift, the years roll on!

Hardening of the Arteries

An Interesting Explanation of How This Dreaded Condition is Brought About.

You take out the garden hose in the spring, turn on the water, and if the rubber has got hard and brittle the tubing bursts and water spurts out in all directions. The arteries of the human body may be likened to small rubber pipes, which go everywhere through the body and carry blood to the hands and feet, as well as to the nerves, muscles and vital organs. They carry all the blood in the human system, and if this blood is burdened with the poisons left over when the liver and kidneys are not properly performing their filtering work, these poisons form a deposit on the inside walls of the arteries.

The deposit thus formed gradually thickens and hardens the walls of the arteries. The tiny blood vessels of the liver are affected, and thence comes that fatal disease—cirrhosis of the liver. The cells of the kidneys become starved for want of blood, and Bright's disease gets its start.

In health the arteries have the elasticity of rubber, and expand, contract or elongate, as required by the demands of the blood pressure. Hardened, the arteries are like so much brittle rubber tubing. The blood pressure comes on, the tubing bursts, and the resulting blood clot on the brain causes apoplexy.

It will be plainly seen that the cause of trouble is in the inefficient condition of the liver and kidneys. When these filtering organs are kept healthy and active, and the bowels regular in the removal of waste matter, there is no chance for such dreadful conditions as hardening of the arteries bring about.

As in all forms of serious disease, prevention is the only wise course to follow. You can positively depend on Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to awaken the action of liver and kidneys, and also ensure the regularity of movement of the bowels. It is only by the activity of these organs that the blood can be kept pure and free from uric acid and other substances which form deposits in the arteries and at other points in the human system, causing pain, suffering and serious disease.

When you think of the scores of common ills, such as colds, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, backaches, etc., which arise from a torpid condition of these organs, you will better understand the reason why Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the favorite family medicine in many thousands of homes. By keeping the liver, kidneys and bowels active they cure the common ills of life, and prevent serious disease. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edman-son, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

BEAUTY NOT ALL OUTSIDE.

To be truly beautiful in one's own mind the interior of the body should be cleansed daily, just as regularly as we take our daily shower and sponge and our more luxurious beauty bath.

We brush our teeth twice a day and should use freely dental floss that no devastating ferments of food may lodge between the teeth, but if we are to have sweet, pure breath we must wash out the mouth as well. A three percent solution of boric acid is, perhaps the most cleansing wash we can use, and the simplest, besides being excellent for the teeth. Wash the mouth out twice a day with this. In the morning, cut a lemon in narrow strips and use to wash off the tongue in the morning.

The nasal passages and the throat need most particular attention. If there is no tendency to catarrh it will be sufficient to wash out the immediate openings of the nostrils with a pad of absorbent cotton dipped in a boric solution and tied carefully to the end of an orange wood stick. The throat in such case, should be gargled with half a glass of pineapple or apple juice.

If there is a catarrhal condition existing you need an atomizer and a hot-water bottle before attempting to sleep.

Something SPECIAL IN BOOKS!

We have a new book at 45c. It contains a better collection of short stories than any 45c. book we have ever sold. The stories have been contributed by eighteen famous English novelists now serving at the front with His Majesty's Forces.

There is a story by A. E. W. Mason of the "Four Feathers"; W. B. Maxwell, who has written "The Devil's Garden"; Ian Hay; Cosmo Hamilton; Barry Pain; Albert Kinross; Quiller Couch; Theodore Goodridge Roberts, who lived here once, and one by Charles G. D. Roberts.

A very rare collection of good stories. The price is 45c; postage will be 4c. extra.

We have twenty-three copies left out of a shipment of sixty by the last boat. Come or send early for your copy, for they cannot last long.

If there is any boy or girl who you specially like, and who you are particularly fond of pleasing, give him or her a copy of "Edmund Dalac's Picture Book" that is just out. It is a beauty. It contains:

"The Story of the Bird Feng"—a Fairy Tale from China.

"Young Rouselle"—a French Song of the Olden Time.

"Layla and Majnun"—a Persian Love Story.

"The Nightingale"—after a Fairy Tale by Hans Andersen.

"Three Kings of Orient"—a Carol.

"Sinbad the Sailor"—a Tale from the Thousand and One Nights.

"The Little Seamstress"—a French Song of the Olden Time.

"The Real Princess"—after a Fairy Tale by Hans Andersen.

"My Lisette"—an Old French Song.

"Cinderella"—a Fairy Tale from the French.

"The Chilly Lover"—a Song from the French.

"The Story of Aucassin and Nicolette"—an Old World Idyll.

"Blue Beard"—an Old Tale from the French.

"Cerbus, the Black Dog of Hades."—a Tale from the Thousand and One Nights.

"The Shopper Awakened"—a Tale from the Thousand and One Nights.

"Jusef and Asenath"—a Love Story of Egypt.

And each story is beautifully illustrated in color. A book to delight the heart of a boy or girl. The price is 90c, and we have only seven copies.
