CHAPTER XXV.

"I think nothing seems too hard for us to do for those we love," Sidney answered, gently. "Look, Chrissie," she added, in a moment—"there is nine o'clock striking; and I dare say, if we listen attentively—it will have to be very attentively on account of the snow—we shall hear Frank's fly coming up the avenue."

CHAPTER XXVI.

The meeting which Sidney had dreaded so much was over, and, to her intense relief, Christine had borne the excitement better than she had expected. She neither fainted nor wept, but, in an emotion too deep for words or for tears, clung with both arms round her brother's neck; and, though Frank was shocked beyond measure at the terrible change in his sister, he was used to self-control and to dissimulation now, and he was able to hide from her how grieved and moved he was.

"You will not leave us, Sidney?" he said, looking up suddenly as Mrs. Dault moved over to the door. "We have no secrets from you—our best friend."

"No, I am not going," she answered, in her soft voice. "I am just going to lock the door, Frank, so that we shall be quite secure. Then we will have a talk together; and afterward I will go and keep watch while you and Chrissie discuss your plans and hopes."

"Hopes!" he repeated, half bitterly. "They will soon be disposed of, Sidney, because I have none."

"Do not say so," she said, earnestly, coming back to the fireside, and standing there, very graceful and attractive in her rich black dress.

"You ought not, Frank. Your innocence must surely be proved sooner or later. Not to have faith in the fact that truth must prevail in the end is a great mistake which you must not fall into. Chrissie and I believe in it firmly; do we not, dear?"

"You try to, I dare say," he answered with a sigh; "but sometimes it is better that the truth should not come out, you know; and the chief bitterness seems to be over now. I am content to be thought guilty, since, even if my innocence were proved to-morrow, it could not give us back these years of sorrow and anguish unspokeable. For us the greatest grief is over, having borne it, others need not bear it for the same cause."

He was speaking with some earnestness, and there was on his face an expression of resolve and resignation which was new to it. At Chrissie's request he had removed the wig and beard and spectacles, which had disguised him so effectively; but, even without them, only those who had known and loved him well would have recognized in the lined, worn, ombrowned face, looking many years older than it really was, the frank, smiling debonaire young man of the old days.

Christie, watching him with eager, sorrowful eyes, was almost doubtful now and again, if this could be her brother. And yet for all the change in it—it was a nobler, better face, in its expression of high resolve and suffering bravely borne, than it had been in its gay beauty.

"We will cherish our hope," Sidney said, smiling a little, "will we not, Chrissie? And there is no real reason why we should not do so, because, as I said, truth will prevail. Frank, why have you decided to go abroad?" she asked.

"I should have done so long ago, had I had the means," he answered. "I am sick of my life here, living in dread of recognition and discovery—not for my own sake," he added, with a sudden bitterness, "because death itself would not have been a greater punishment than the suffering of the last two years. I never felt really at rest, except when I was at sea—for I have been a sailor, Chrissie—there I knew there was no one who could recognize me; and I should have stayed in Australia but for the longing I had to see you again. I came here on the day— But we will not waste time talking of the past; I must not stay long, and I have much to say, Chrissie, do you know I met my father at the station to-night. We travelled together from Lymouth."

"Oh, Frank!" Chrissie cried, trembling in every limb.

"Yes; my disguise was an effectual one since he did not recognize me. If he had!"

"Oh, do not jest about it!" she said, pitifully. "Are you sure he did not recognize you?"

"Am I not here?" he answered, bitterly. "And should I be here if he had? He offered me the evening paper! You are changed, Chrissie, terribly changed; and Sidney is altered, too, and I hardly recognized my own face in that glass; but he looks just the same."

THE ELECTRIC CURE IS POPULAR
As Pleasant as it is Effective.

It is grand to put on an electric battery while lying down resting, and feel its exhilarating influence in every nerve and muscle. There is no inconvenience attached to it in any way. One hour's daily application is sufficient. There is not the slightest shock or irritation, but a gentle, soothing warmth that goes direct to the nerve centres. That kind of electricity cures, and the cure it gives is permanent.

People will sometimes try an ordinary battery (made, no doubt, for commercial purposes), or a shocking current which irritates the nerves, and conclude that electricity is not suitable. It will not do any good in that form. The current must be given without shock—without irritation of any kind—and in this way the very weakest individuals can be built up.

No one is too weak to use electricity. In such cases a longer building-up process is required. But the results are just as certain as water is to extinguish a fire when applied in sufficient quantities. If a proper battery is used it is possible to apply a very strong current, free from all inconveniences. How much more pleasant it is to be cured in this way, while resting, than to be pouring medicine into the poor weakened stomach until it is impossible to do without it! This drug habit grows on one like the whisky habit, and no wonder, as alcohol forms the chief ingredient of many preparations. It is simply adding more poison to the weakened organs. Why not stop it?

Rheumatic sufferers, those crippled with Lumbago, Sciatica, or Gout; the victim of weakened stomach, kidneys, liver, bowels or bladder; the person with the shattered nervous system and suffering from Paralysis, Epilepsy, Neurasthenia, Insomnia, or Neuralgia should seek a restoration of health in the electric cure. Don't say, "It might not do me any good!" It will do you good if you resort to the right means. It will cure you.

There is a book for free distribution among all our readers which covers the subject fully. Special booklets for Ladies and Gentlemen. Please specify which is required when writing. You should not be without it if you are not in possession of perfect health. It tells the cause of weakness and disease, and how a cure can be gained. It describes the most successful remedy known—the "Ajax" Dry Cell Body Battery. The history of many cases is sent with the book. It costs you nothing to get it.

Write at once to the British Electric Institute, Dept. 410, (Agent), 25, Holborn Viaduct, London, E.C.1, England, and you will receive by return post the most valuable book ever published on the subject. It is sent in a plain, sealed envelope, together with full information concerning the treatment free of charge.

In order to save time correspondents should, when writing for the Free Booklet, state their age, sex and full details of their case, for then precise advice can be sent by return mail. All letters are treated in strictest confidence.

Stephen Leacock
TURNS ON FACTORY-TYPE COLLEGES.

Kingston, Oct. 16.—In addressing the Alumnae of the Queen's University on the subject of The Work of the Canadian Universities Professor Stephen Leacock drew attention to the dangers of overstandardization of education.

"There is a tendency nowadays," said the professor, "to reduce everything to a standard or a pattern. In the industrial world this is admirable. The standardization of a motor car may be excellent. But the standardization of brains is dangerous."

"It does not do to have every school like every other school, every college like every other college. Even as it is our students are running to a type. They all wear the same kind of rain-coats, they all read the same number of pages at the same time, write the same notes, and learn by heart the same opinions of the same professor."

"Even the professors themselves are tending to become standardized. They are turned out of the graduate schools labelled with their units and credits and degrees till they have no more individuality than Teddy Bears. Not so much."

Running Riot in States.
"This method, one may say in all friendliness, is running riot in the United States. Our American friends have given to education such a wonderful public support, have lavished money on it on such a scale, that it is no wonder that for the time being the body of it has outgrown the mind, the mechanical structure is bigger than its contents."

"There is here a notable contrast between what is—or at least what was till yesterday—the British ideal of education and the American. In Great Britain the training of a student is on freer lines, less definite, less mechanical, not cut and dried into parts. More play is left for individual variety, for individual preference, for individual difference."

"Education in short contains a large element that is more or less at random and spontaneous."

PARKER & MONROE, LIMITED.

being poured into a mold. Everything that is learned is marked out into little units and credits are added up like the cash register in a factory. There are standardized text books; standardized methods and, in the state of Tennessee, at least, a standardization of God Almighty.

"The peculiar advantage of standardization is that no matter how big a natural fool a student is he can show certificates that prove him a regular Plato. If he can establish the fact that he has to his credit so many hours of sitting on his beam end with his ears open, and can support it further with an intelligence test, he may then be appointed a general right away.

"And now in Canada this same tendency is spreading with a powerful current.

System Failed Under Mings.
"A great many of our leading educational people seem to think that our chief aim should be to imitate the American model. They want to reduce all the provinces to a pattern, with the same kind of matriculation tests, with parallel degrees and parallel courses, and with individuality nowhere.

"I imagine that this is exactly what happened in China under the Ming dynasty about 4000 B.C. and in Egypt under Amenhotep the Third. Neither country has budged since.

"We ought in Canada to get away from all that nonsense. Our education needs freedom, variety, elbow room. Two bad teachers are better than one good one, and two bad text books are better than one authorized version.

"There is no reason why the training given at McGill should be the same as the training given in Saskatoon. On such lines the human mind and the mind of the nation have never progressed and never will."—Toronto Daily Star.

Britain's Mystery Plane for U.S. Air Races Crashes

Bulgarian Town of Petrich Destroyed by Greek Gun Fire—Nova Scotia Swept by Storm—Arthur Henderson's Address to Combined Clubs Cancelled.

BRITAIN'S HOPE IN SCHNEIDER AIR RACES CRASHES.
 BAYSHORE PARK, Balt., Oct. 23. Great Britain's mystery plane, the "Sperminine Napier" S-4, crashed this morning during navigability tests. Developing wing trouble, 200 feet above the water, Commander Macdonald attempted a landing, when the plane nose dived and sunk. The plane was saved. The plane was England's star entry in the Schneider Air Races, scheduled for to-morrow.

BULGARIAN TOWN DESTROYED BY GREEK BOMBARDMENT.
 PETRICH, Bulgaria, Oct. 24. A mass of ruins last night was all that remained of the town of Petrich, which is completely deserted except for the Mayor and town officials, as a result of a twenty-four hour bombardment by the Greeks. The fighting between the Greek and Bulgarian soldiers in this part of Macedonia, following the frontier encounters between the two nations, claimed 25 killed, 15,000 rendered homeless, and 10 square miles occupied by the Greeks. The League of Nations Council will consider the problem today.

LEAGUE MEETING MAY HAVE QUIETING EFFECT.

LONDON, Oct. 24.
 Anston Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary, will represent the British Government at the meeting of the League of Nations' Council, at Paris, next Monday, to consider the Greco-Bulgarian situation. It is believed in official circles that the action of the League in calling a meeting, will have a quieting effect upon the chaotic situation on the Greco-Bulgarian border, where warlike activities of undetermined proportions are reported underway.

Takes Exception to John Cabot

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir,
 In last night's issue of your paper, a writer advocates "John Cabot" as a name for the new hotel now building on the site of Fort William. Why "John Cabot"? Is it because of the myth that John Cabot anchored in the port of St. John's? If so, I would say, no. There is no historical evidence that John Cabot ever saw St. John's or that his ship was anchored in Newfoundland. Among the names of places in Newfoundland that appear in Sebastian Cabot's map, St. John's is not found, and it does not appear on any map until 1546 or forty-nine years after Cabot's voyage. The first recorded notice we have of St. John's is in Rutt's letter of 1527, although it was known to the fishermen of the Norman Isles long before that. I would advise writers about Newfoundland to study Biggar, Harriss, Dawson and other authorities respecting the Cabot voyage. These men have had access to the records in Spain, Portugal, France and Italy and all of the ancient maps in existence. Anspach, Pedley, Harvey and Prowse did not have such data hence it is that much they have written respecting the discovery of Newfoundland is hearsay or guess work.
 Yours truly, VERITAS.

Doctors Watch Pin Pass Through Boy

LONDON—For two days doctors at the Metropolitan Hospital, Kingsland Road, E., watched, by the aid of the X-rays, a pin passing through a five-year-old boy's body.
 "Albert Smith, of 4 Watson place, Kingsland Road, swallowed the pin which he was using as a toothpick when he was left in the house alone. He went to a neighbor's house and told what had happened.
 He was taken at once to the Metropolitan Hospital, where he was kept without food for two days, while the doctors watched the progress of the pin.
 "Thus he was discharged cured and he went home to a big meal. If he had eaten anything after swallowing the pin, he might have pushed the point into the wall of his stomach and set up peritonitis.

Our Dumb Animals

REPORT OF CHIEF AGENT WEEK ENDING OCT. 23.
 Humanely put to death a horse for a West End teamster. The horse was suffering from a greasy leg; humanely put to death three dogs, owned by residents of Duckworth Street, the Higher Levels and Torbay Road. The latter was reported to me by the police. The dog had bitten a child and the owner wished to have it destroyed. Humanely put to death a number of cats. I should like the owners of these animals to understand that they are supposed to contribute something towards the funds of the Society. Five horses were sent in this week suffering from lameness. Attended two cases at the Abattoir Coy's premises; also to the landing of twenty-five head of cattle from the "Ceuta." Several complaints about dogs being out all night. These dogs are the cause of considerable annoyance. These reports have been received from John St. and Pennywell Road. I would like all cattle owners to understand that the time has come when all cattle are to be kept in at night. I would also like to call the attention of persons making purchases on Saturday to make them early enough so that it will not be necessary for expressmen to be out early on Sunday morning. In most cases the horse has been in harness all day. It is a common occurrence for people to make their purchases at 9.30 and have them sent to all parts of the city. I do hope the general public will take notice of this fact and do all in their power to remedy it. The felt which was found entangled in a barbed wire fence on Topsall Road was delivered up by Mr. James to the rightful owner, Mr. Gordon Miller. All cases have been attended to.

Great Feature Programme at the Nickel

Padre Nangle Seen in "Pathe News" With Earl Haig on Canadian Tour.

The Pathe News which is one of the extra attractions at the Nickel Monday contains views of Earl Haig's Canadian visit accompanied by Padre Nangle. The feature of the program is the big special which we called your attention to a few days ago, namely "Un-guarded Women" starring Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix. We may therefore look for the ultimate in screenplay when the production is flashed on the local silver sheet. China, with its age-old civilization, is the interesting background of this gripping photoplay which James Creelman adapted from the Saturday Evening Post story "Face" by Lucy Stone Terrill. Those who know something of the story will recall that it concerns a man who sacrifices himself to save the widow of his friend whose death he inadvertently caused on the battlefield during the war. There have been many post-war stories but none as dramatic and soul-stirring as this.
 We can think of no one who is better fitted for the part of the gay and reckless widow than vivacious Bebe Daniels; handsome, virile Richard Dix is the ideal type of "the man of honor"; and Mary Astor, with her winsome beauty is perfectly cast in the appealing role of the "true-blue" fiancée. The others in the strong supporting cast include Walter McGrail, Frank Losee, Harry Mestayer and Joe King.
 Dr. R. T. Stick has resumed practice from to-day, Oct. 20th, 196 Water Street, opp. City Club.—Oct.20.51

Says British Hope in Empire's Hands

COL. AMERY SAYS TRADE WITH DOMINIONS HAS DOUBLED VALUE.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(Star Special Cable)—COL. L. C. Amery, in addressing the City of London Debating Club, declared that Britain's hope rests with the development of the unlimited resources of the Empire, and in giving direction to British trade which would enable those resources to be fully developed. The Empire trade is worth twice as much to Britain as the European, he said, and declared that he had no patience with the people who said that the Dominions' preferences were sham.
 "There is not the slightest ground for pessimism," he said, "and if we only realize the opportunities Britain's future will be infinitely greater and more prosperous than her past."
 Lord Birkenhead, who addressed the Constitutional Club, went even further, saying, "What ought never to be forgotten is that the Conservative party made it perfectly plain that it had certain advice to give the country, which it believed would afford the greatest alleviation to depressed trade and unemployment, and that advice was a reconstruction of the fiscal system. It has never abandoned that for a moment. The Government has made some progress by means of safeguarding the Industries Act. Information which is being accumulated will convince the nation that the course that the Conservative party has advocated, since the days of Joseph Chamberlain, is a wise course. There are many indications that the Socialist party is gradually undergoing an educational conversion regarding economics."

BESCO'S OUTLOOK SHOWS IMPROVEMENT.

Iron and Steel Operations at Record Level - Corporation Obtain Good Rail Order.

Montreal.—There has been a marked increase in activity at almost all the plants of the British Empire Steel Corporation during the last week of the year. Another blast furnace commenced operations this week—this makes a record for the number of units working at one time. All the open hearth furnaces are turning out steel, and arrangements are being completed for starting up the rail mill once again, as the corporation has closed contracts with both railroads for rails.

The corporation has a large number of orders on hand now and the outlook is more hopeful than possibly it has been during the last three years, as there are three or four months of market activity in view, with the possibility of orders which might be sufficient to carry the company through the winter months with considerable activity at its plants.

Although Besco is not able to make any earnings, yet it has been able to improve some of its plants to such an extent that lower costs will result—incidentally, any further financing which the corporation would require would be used in making cost-reducing extensions.

The coal mines are also working at capacity, both night and day.

Magistrate's Court

A drunk was discharged.

Three drunks were each fined $1 and blacklisted.

A motorist convicted of driving a motor car without a driver's license, and also with driving a car in a manner dangerous to the public, was fined $20 or in default 40 days' imprisonment.

A case against a man charged with a breach of section 24, sub-section 3, of the Alcoholic Liquors Act, was postponed until Monday next.

Fifteen delinquents were summoned by the St. John's Municipal Council for non-payment of the Poll Tax. An amicable settlement was made in each case.

A resident of the West End was charged with being a loose and disorderly person on the public street on the night of the 22nd inst. The accused upon being asked to plead to the charge would not say whether he was guilty or not. It appears he attended the political meeting at the Casino Theatre under the influence of liquor, when he became quite excited. He remembered leaving the hall and taking charge of the torchlight procession, but when asked if he had anything to do with blowing out the red lights placed on the streets where excavation work was going on, he replied in the negative. He stated "Cashin" gave him charge of the lights but he could not remember whether they were red ones. Judge Morris in summing up said it was only a crazy man who would do anything like that, but in view of the circumstances that he was drunk and did not know what he was doing he was allowed to go with a $20.00 fine.

Hockeyists Elect Officers

A meeting of the Feldian Hockey players took place at the St. John's Hotel last night before a large attendance of members and supporters. The election of officers took place, while preliminary arrangements were made for the coming season's games. The election resulted as follows:

Capt.—E. G. Ewing.

Vice-Captain—M. G. Winter (Jr.).

Manager and League Delegate—H. W. Dickinson.

Hon. Secretary—H. C. Hayward.

Asst. Secretary—W. R. Martin.

All last year's material is available with the addition of some new blood, and everything points to the Feldians having a very strong line-up. The meeting was very enthusiastic throughout and it was decided to start training in the C.L.B. Armoury shortly.

Applications For Sweepstakes and Raffles Refused

We understand that several applications have been made to Judge Morris for permission to hold sweepstakes and raffles of poultry and other goods during the Christmas season, but that permission has been withheld in all cases.

The Judge's decision will, we think, meet with the cordial approval of the general public. While it is not our intention to enter into a discussion of the merits or demerits of the Lottery Act, the fact is patent to all that the practice has in the last year or two not only been overdone but abused, and the effect of restricting it will be beneficial without a doubt.

Everyone who patronizes the Annual Regatta deplores the presence of the numerous wheels of fortune; the magnetic influence of which has tended to make the athletic contests of secondary consideration, and the result of a race important only so far as it decides the value of the ticket held.

Apart from the influence exercised by the raffle, it has materially interfered with legitimate business on the street, and while a few may be deprived of a cheap bird by closing down on the wheels, it is certain that the great majority will be considerably less out of pocket in connection with the expenses at Christmas time.

Women and the Vote

On Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Nfld. League of Women Voters, Mr. J. L. Paton, the President of the Memorial College is delivering an address in the Casino on "Women and the Vote." A small entrance fee will be charged to defray expenses in connection with the hiring of the Hall and the net proceeds will be devoted to the Permanent Marine Disaster Fund.

The philanthropic object of the meeting is one upon which nothing can be said, particularly at this season of the year, that will add to the solicitude of the citizens for those who "go down to the sea in ships and do business in great waters," nor is it necessary to write at length upon the importance of making the women of this city and the country generally realize fully the privilege and power which they possess by having secured the franchise.

their full share of interest in public matters and to make their influence felt now that they have the vote. It is not some form of ornamentation, and it adds nothing to their importance unless they use it, and use it with discretion and judgment.

Rev. Dr. Chown at Cochrane Street

The congregation of Cochrane Street, Continental United Church is to have the honor of hearing the Rev. Dr. Chown of Toronto, who laid the foundation stone of the "peace" church, preach at both Thanksgiving services to-morrow. Dr. Chown up to June 19th last, when union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches was consummated, was the General Superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada and Newfoundland.

CHILD WELFARE

HEALTHY BABIES

"An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

Cold Weather—And Babies!—Sunshine and fresh-air are wonderful factors in a baby's life. During the cold weather many mothers keep the baby indoors—they fear baby will catch cold—this is all wrong. If comfortably dressed, with a hot-water bottle, or hot brick in the perambulator or sleigh, baby may safely spend a portion of each day in the open air.

Draughts are a common cause of colds, guard baby against them, and there is little fear of his catching the dreaded enemy cold.

St. John's possesses a great advantage in having been built on a hill. Utilize this gift of fresh-air and sunlight by giving baby a chance to grow healthy, strong and happy.

Life Savers for Dancers

During the dance at the Fair last night Mr. W. A. McKay presented all the dancers with complimentary packages of Life Savers and judging from the enthusiastic manner in which Mr. McKay was welcomed on the floor by the dancers the Life Savers were highly appreciated.

Nfld. Runners Tendered Splendid Reception at Star Hall Last Night.

The Newfoundland Track Team which brought fame and glory to their island home at Halifax on October 17th, were tendered a reception at the Star Hall last night by the Halifax Marathon Sweepstakes Committee in honour of their great achievement. At the appointed hour of opening the Hall was filled with an enthusiastic gathering of citizens, and when the athletes and Manager Robertson appeared on the platform they were the centre of an admiring crowd.

Mr. Myler opened the proceedings at nine o'clock, and in his remarks thanked the gathering for their presence. It was the celebrating of the homecoming of men who had placed Newfoundland on the map athletically, and in this the audience showed their great sense of appreciation by rising and giving hearty cheers for the team.

The drawing of tickets for the balance of prizes occupied the rest of the evening. This was watched by a considerable number of citizens. Further particulars of this will be found in our advertising columns.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE IN CITY AND SUBURBS.

Damage to the extent of thousands of dollars is reported as a result of the N.W. storm which swept over the city and country side shortly after midnight. At times the wind reached a velocity of 80 miles per hour. The city was plunged in darkness about 1 a.m. due to the smashing of a pole near the Sub Station, which carried the transmission lines from Petty Harbour House. The street car service and all electric power machinery was in consequence kept at a standstill until repairs were effected at 11 a.m. Wild reports of vessels being lost were circulated, this forenoon, but so far as can be ascertained the rumors are without foundation.

Large contingents of Greek troops continue to be sent toward the Bulgarian border, the Bulgarian Telegraph Agency announces. It considers this an indication that the Greeks intend to enlarge the scope of the present offensive. Athens reports maintain that the continued advance of Greek troops on the Bulgarian frontier is destined merely to relieve a post at Demirkapu which the Bulgarians are still attacking in order to prevent the Greeks from re-occupying it.

Children's Day at Heart's Content

Children's Day, or Religious Instruction Sunday, was observed at St. Mary's Church, Heart's Content, on the Evangelist's Day. Despite the heavy rain storm a large number of communicants were present at the 8 o'clock celebration of Holy Communion. At 11 a.m. the service was sung Eucharist, with special intercessions for the Sunday School children of the Diocese, and for the Religious Instruction of Children throughout the world.

The special Festival Service for the children took place in Church at 3 o'clock, and commenced with the office of Public Baptism for Infants by the Rector, the Rev. J. G. Joyce, B.A. Children of 3 years old up to 18 years, accompanied by their teachers, were in procession, singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," as they made the circuit of the church. The Rector for the occasion told the story of Christ in a most interesting manner, and the children with a goodly number of parents and grandparents listened most attentively.

The day's services ended with Choral Evensong, special intercessions, and a sermon on the Child, the Parents' Teacher.

The offering amounted to $181.64. Children's envelopes were collected out of 240 distributed, and 129 envelopes were collected out of 129 given out. Only twelve families failed to bring their "mite," either through forgetfulness or parents. The whole day was early Eucharist to Choral Evensong with the goodly attendances, special intercessions, joyous singing and liberal offerings, was a splendid occasion, the simple appeal issued to children, teachers and Rector.

Wedding Bells
SMITH—CLARK.
On Monday last a quiet but pretty little took place at Wesley Church, the Mr. Jirus Smith, of Boston, MA, and Miss Edith Clark, of this town, were united in the bonds of holy matrimony, by Rev. J. G. Joyce, B.A. The bride was daintily attired in a silk costume with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of roses and maidenhair fern. After the ceremony the party motored to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception and supper held. The bride was the recipient of many handsome presents.

A few days spent with friends and relatives; the newly married couple left for the S.S. Newfoundland, for Boston, where Mr. Smith resides, and took with them the best wishes of all their friends. By a curious coincidence, the wedding ceremony was held at the same time as the wedding of the mother of the groom, arranged in the city from Port Rexton, and was astonished to meet him on his way to the church. Needless to say she was a very welcome guest.—Boston papers kindly copy.

Dominions and Defence Responsibility
LONDON, Eng., Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press Despatch)—Sometimes it is said that the Dominions should not be expected to contribute much to defence, since they are doing enough in helping for the development of these young countries, writes the Hon. A. S. Robinson, member of the New Zealand Dominion Council in the "Nineteenth Century" review published here. I have never felt that those who resort to these excuses had much faith in them, and I have never heard any responsible person make use of them.

Why, then, do the Dominions not pay their fair share of the cost of defence? Simply because Britain is too generous. If Britain likes to pay more than her share of the cost, well, let her. I would not like anyone to think that the Dominions are out deliberately to take advantage of Britain's generosity.

What happens is possibly something like this. In making up its budget the Dominion finds that this, that and the other expenditure must be provided for. When it comes to defence the Government must know it is paying a fair share, but taxation, in the opinion of the taxpayer, is high, and one asks for increased defence expenditure and, anyway, safety is assured by Great Britain, so just now there is no compulsion to spend more.

The Government does not want to change on the Old Country and it catches a point and increases its defence vote by 50 per cent. Though this amount is far less than the proportionate share, the Government winds up by thinking it has done something very generous. In all the circumstances perhaps it has reason for thinking so.

The Strangest Ship Afloat

THE "CARNEGIE" HAS SAILED 300,000 MILES TO MAKE THE OCEANS SAFE FOR MARINERS.
 BY HAWTHORNE DANIEL.

Tied at her pier in Washington, D. C., is the strangest ship in the world. At present she is laid up, with her decks hidden beneath a tentlike structure that covers her from bow to stern. But within a few weeks she will set out on the latest of a series of cruises around the world, engaged in one of the most unique missions on the seas.

The ship is the Carnegie, a 155-foot brigantine, owned by the Carnegie Institution of Washington and operated by the Institution's Department of Terrestrial Magnetism. Her task is to voyage all over the navigable waters to make a magnetic survey of the oceans, to cruise in search of the mysterious magnetic and electrical phenomena that appear to occupy all space, that attract the needle of compasses, that cause the brilliant displays of the aurora borealis, that produce the radio bugbear—static—and that assist in banking the waves sent out by radio stations.

In her 16 years of voyaging she has passed through many thrilling adventures. She has been within 600 miles of the North Pole, and is the only ship that ever circumnavigated the South Pole regions in a single season. The scientists on this little wooden ship, which already has sailed 300,000 miles.

The Carnegie is like no other ship ever built because she is put together with practically no iron or steel in her. It was extremely important that ship investigating the world's magnetism carry nothing to deflect the instruments.

She is made of wood fastened with locust treenails, copper, and bronze. All rigging is of hemp, anchors are of bronze, and she has no anchor chains, using instead great manila hawsers 11 inches in circumference. The chairs on board are put together with aluminum and copper ketles. If the sailors carry pocket-knives aboard, they must throw them overboard before sailing. Every bit of metal must be tested carefully with a magnetic needle before it is allowed on board. While the Carnegie is a sailing vessel, she carries an auxiliary motor and in this, steel could not be eliminated entirely. The specially built engine is made of brass, bronze, and copper but the pistons and cams are of steel.

As the ship wanders from North to South Pole, the scientists on board determine the variation of the compass. This information, used in charts prepared by the United States

Hydrographic Office, in collaboration with the British Admiralty and the French, Japanese, and German governments, has saved hundreds of sailors from shipwreck.

Compasses, as generally is known, rarely point exactly to the north. Because the earth's magnetic poles are approximately 1200 miles from their respective true or geographical poles, compasses may point in any direction, depending upon where they are used. The difference between true north and the direction indicated by the north end of a compass needle, is known as the "variation of the compass." This always must be determined by a navigator to find his real position. The calculation is complicated, because the magnetic poles and the magnetic lines of force connecting them are shifting constantly and not in a regular manner.

In the cruise that now is planned, the Carnegie will cross many hitherto unstudied regions, check up on earlier data, and gather new information about the electrical phenomena of the oceans.

The End of an Imperfect Story

(Judge)

Mr. Crabbe threw his copy of the almost-complete-final-home-pink-peach-into-the-floor in disgust, called for his stenographer and dictated the following letter to the city editor:

"Dear Sir: I have just finished reading The Evening Blah of this date. Although there is mention in your columns of a murder I wish to call your attention to the fact that nowhere in the story is it stated that:

"The police dragnet is out."

"Detectives are scouring the city."

"The murder mystery is the most baffling in local crime annals."

"Every available clue is being run down."

"The slayer evidently planned a perfect crime."

"A strange man was seen loitering around the place."

"The slain girl was pretty and known to have been friendly with several men prominent in the business and financial world whose names are being withheld by police."

"Sensational developments are expected."

"Capture of the slayer is but a matter of a few hours."

"The murder is believed to have been the result of a love triangle."

"In view of those omissions it is apparent that your reporters are laying down on the job. When I read a paper I expect to get all the news. I hereby cancel my subscription."

I. W. CRABBE."

As Little Jack Rabbit hopped along, whistling a merry little song, by and by he came to a tree in which sat Peter Possum. It was a persimmon tree, tall, with a handsome round head, and covered with zig-zag branches. Peter Possum had waited a long time for the green persimmons to change from a green color to a red-dish-yellow, but now that the frost had mellowed the pulp, taking away the puckery taste, he had decided to have a feast. It was now dark, for the little rabbit had hopped into the Old Hollow Stump Telephone Booth to tell Lady Love that he would not be home for supper. Yes, he was too thoughtful.

"My, these berries are fine," cried Peter Possum, loosening his tail about the limb and propping himself upright in a crotch in order to talk more easily to the bunny boy. "I declare, if I eat many more I shall be too fat to squeeze into the old hollow tree. That would be unpleasant, maybe dangerous. Yes, I'd better stop before it's too late," and he scrambled down the trunk to the ground.

"You'd better look out for the Farmer's boy," advised the little rabbit. "He may be out with his old gun. I once heard

"Pssum meant is nice and sweet; Possum meat is good to eat."

"Dear me," shivered Peter Possum, "guess I'll hurry home. Mrs. Possum and the youngsters will be worried," and off he went and so did the little rabbit, only faster. As the bunny boy passed the Big Brown Bear's cozy cave, he noticed a light in the window.

"It'll just stop for a minute," he thought, and the next moment he rapped, tuppety tap, on the front door.

"Who's calling on me when the moon is bright?"

Asked the Big Brown Bear, coming out in the night.

Yes, sir, he opened the door so quickly that he almost frightened the little rabbit.

"Oh, it's you," laughed the big kind bear, smiling down on his small, long-eared caller. "What are you doing out so late? It's nearer nine than half past eight."

"I know it," answered the bunny boy. "But mother won't worry, for I telephoned her from the Hollow Stump Telephone Booth that I'd be late."

"That's a good boy," chuckled the Big Brown Bear. "Never make worry for mother. She had enough when you had the measles," and with another chuckle, he invited the little bunny to come in.

"Don't make any noise," he whispered, as he closed the door. "My little cubs are sound asleep; or almost," he added, as Mrs. Bear's lullaby song came from the bedroom:

"Go to sleep, your curly head; The moon looks like a trundle bed."

"S-sh," cautioned the Big Brown Bear, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

ON LETTING OUT THE TUCKS.

"Still is it extraordinary how quick you get in the way of its spending. There are the things that are necessities but which you must have simple because others do, and these are the most costly and the most needless of all."—Gamaliel Bradford.

Do you know a thing in the world easier than finding ways in which to spread out when your income is enlarged?

And do you know of any way in which to retrench when your income is restricted?

It is so easy for a thing which was once a debated luxury, as soon as you give it a room, to establish itself as a thing you cannot get along without.

When Five Is Better Than Ten.
If I had my choice of gradually increasing to an income of $5,000 a year or having that all my life, or living for a few years on $20,000 a year and then being cut down to $10,000 a year, I think I should choose the first, because I believe that I should get a great deal more contentment and comfort out of the five thousand than the ten.

People often laugh at the idea of there being any hardship in cutting down from a large income to a moderate one. "If we had $5,000 a year," says the $3,000 a year man sarcastically, "we shouldn't be talking poverty. It's all nonsense to think there's any hardship in cutting down from ten to five thousand." Yet the $3,000 man would find it hard to cut down to $2,000. "That's different," he says. "Three thousand supports me with my family, nobody can say that's giving much chance for luxury nowadays with things costing the way they are." But the man who lives in considerable comfort at $2,000 can say just that.

Easiest Thing in the World.
There is nothing in the world easier than to find ways to spend money and justification of those ways. The greatest safety and surety of financial happiness lies not in going ahead too fast, but in thinking that you ought to have all the things that all your neighbors have.

You cannot conceive of the movie actress with the huge salary spending it all and going into debt. Easiest thing in the world. She thinks that she ought to have all the luxuries that all the other actresses have, the houses, the clothes, the jewels, the motors, the travel. So she lives right up to her income and a cramp in it leaves her just as embarrassed financially as the man who has been getting $50 a week and finds himself out to $40.

So Don't Be Hasty.
It's not what you eat but what you digest that makes you strong, not what you learn but what you remember that makes you wise, and not what you earn but what you save that gives you financial independence.

So don't be too hasty in letting out all the tucks when your income increases. You've got all the time in the world to do that and it's fifty times harder to take them in if you find you've gone too fast than to let them out if you find you aren't going fast enough.

GEORGE GISSING.

WALT MATON

When George was turning out his books, in squalor and despair, we sat in comfy inglenooks, and read his stories there, and sometimes said, "Well, now, gad, looks this chap does pretty fair!" We sometimes thought he ought to stand with writers famed and great, but when we heard his books were banned by some official skate, we threw his volumes out of hand, we gave poor George the gate. Thus while he lived his toilsome days were cheered by no applause, he herded off with frowny jays where grin starvation was, and as he went his dreary ways he met no Santa Claus. He had to fold his hands and die, and rest beneath a stone (as many unknown artists lie) before he gained his own, before men learned to say, "That guy was in a class alone." Now anything that Gissing wrote more precious is than gold, and you have seen the book fans riot o'er tomes he used to hold, and George, who early lost his goal, lies pulseless in the mold. The news is flashed from pole to pole, all round the earth it's shipped, that some one, in a cubbyhole, has found a manuscript that George had written when his soul by travail dire was gripped. It truly is a great event, it jars this mundane sphere, it sends a thrill through every gent to whom good books are dear; but Gissing, in his small green tent, sleeps on and does not hear. When George was toiling for his bread, a sad and tired ghost, we hung no wreath upon his head, no trumpets did we toot; we praise him now when he's too dead to care a tinker's hoot.

Death of Mr. Fred Bramley
T. U. C. GENERAL COUNCIL SECRETARY.
We regret to announce the death of Mr. Fred Bramley, secretary of the General Council of the Trades Union Congress, who died in his sleep on Oct. 9th at an hotel in Amsterdam, where he was attending a joint meeting of the International Federation of Trade Unions and the Socialist International. Death was due to heart failure. The body is expected to reach Liverpool-street Station tomorrow morning. To the many intimate friends of Mr. Bramley, who was 51 years of age, it had been apparent for some time that, with his handicap of a weak heart, he could not continue the struggle he was persisting in loyally against overwork. He had in view three main objects—to prevent the multiplication of trade unions, to eliminate by a merging process redundant societies, and to have every trade and craftsman served by an appropriate union. His influence towards this end was just beginning to be felt when his health became precarious six months ago, and he was compelled to go on a sea voyage.

Anti-Red Polky.
His other intentions—inspired by what he learned in Russia when he accompanied the delegation of the General Council of the Trades Union Congress there—were to bring British trade unionists to a clear understanding of the folly of ever assisting a social revolution on the Moscow principle and to foster Anglo-Russian trade union relations. The two motives were not regarded by him as opposed to each other; he earnestly believed that in an international industrial alliance of the kind, the influence of this country would predominate, and that it was the surest method of uprooting the Communist growth.

Mr. Bramley's record was a typical demonstration of moderation of view brought about by responsibility of control. Thirty years ago he had begun to outpace in zeal the contemporary Socialist leaders, and his extreme ardour threatened to prejudice the prospects which his ability, gained by self-tuition, justified.

For some years before he was almost automatically appointed secretary of the General Council of the Trades Union Congress in 1923 Mr. Bramley was assistant to Mr. C. W. Bowerman, who then held the office and who on his retirement made it known that a vast amount of work had been done by his colleague behind the scenes in the critical post-war period for the remoulding of trade unionism in policy and administration.

Polish Anglophelia

Lwow Courier: To-day Germany is demanding a gift of Polish provinces, to-morrow she will be wanting to devour Austria, and a little later she will threaten France and "beg" Britain to return her colonies. How then can one avoid being astounded at the readiness with which British smiles at German chauvinistic aggression? There is not a shadow of doubt that British policy, so consistently opposed to that of France, is only masked protection for Germany. It is enough to spot the grinning countenances of German politicians and the enthusiasm of Berlin journalists while they sing their hymns of glory to Chamberlain.

Apple griddle cakes are tempting. Use one cupful of chopped apples to little sugar and salt, two egg yolks, and beat until light. Then add one cupful of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, fold in the egg whites, and add the apples. Bake on a greased griddle.

Fill the centers of pared, cored apples with mince-meat, bake, and serve with cream. Your dishes can be drained dry in a wire basket which you can stand on the ledge of the sink.

Just Folks.

LITTLE MISS CHATTERBOX.
Little Miss Chatterbox, all the day
Never was brook that could babble
like you;
Never was rivulet, rippling and clear
Could pour such a good of sweet sound on the ear;
Even the fairies who live in the glen Know that the song birds keep still now and then.

Little Miss Chatterbox, lovely and young,
Never a bell had so active a tongue,
With the first sunbeam you start in to shout
And of words, until evening, you never run out.
Never a waterfall, tumbling at play
As it runs to the sea could have so much to say.

Little Miss Chatterbox, where did you learn
All the big words which you twist and you turn?
How did you gather that volume of speech?
Even the waves which roll in on the beach
Sometimes are silent, but all the day through
Somebody has to be listening to you.

Little Miss Chatterbox, babble away,
There is more joy in the things which you say,
More lovely laughter, and more tender
mirth
Than in all of the brooks and the rivers of earth.
Nothing in nature untutored and wild Approaches the charm of a chatter-box child.

Why Simple Inventions Have Proved Most Profitable

EVEN THE SAFETY-PIN MADE A FORTUNE—EVERYBODY NEED-ED IT.

By ARTHUR GRAHAME.

A man of inventive turn of mind
spent an afternoon on the golf links.
He watched each player, before he drove off, take a handful of damp sand from a sand-box on the teeing ground, kneel, and fashion a more or less symmetrical mound of sand upon which to perch the ball. It seemed a mussy, bothersome process, and it had to be gone through 18 times on each round of the course. There must be a better way.

He thought it over inventively. The result of his thinking was a patented zolf tee consisting of a pointed pin of light wood with a slightly concave head.

There is nothing startling about this invention. The tee is not much more in effect than a glorified carpet tack.
It is one of those simple but ingenious things that "anybody might have thought of." But golfers buy it. Several million have been sold. There was a ready-made demand waiting for the novel little tee, and its retail price is so low that almost any player is willing to "take a chance" and give it a trial.

Another man of an inventive turn of mind saw London nursemaids pushing baby-carriages along the sidewalks. He decided to invent a motor baby-carriage. He did invent one, and patented it. The nurse stands on a platform behind the carriage and pilots it along at a dizzy speed of five miles an hour.

This motor baby-carriage is a much more complicated apparatus than is the little golf novelty. It cost more in time and effort to perfect and to manufacture, and it costs a great deal more to buy it. Yet it is extremely unlikely that its inventor will reap nearly as large a financial harvest as will be gathered by the inventor of the simple little golf tee. There are even more babies than there are golfers in the world, but only a few parents are able and willing to invest in motor baby-carriages.

If you want to make your inventive ability pay you big dividends, invent something that great numbers of people will want and will be able to buy—something that will do away with or lessen some petty annoyance of ordinary life, and that can be manufactured and sold cheaply.

Many of the most profitable inventions have been extremely simple—among others, the safety-pin. "Mrs.
Potts" flat-iron with the detachable handle that stays cool while the iron gets hot, which made a half-million dollars for its inventor, the crinkled hairpin that stays put in a woman's hair, and Ektimo pie, that comparatively new hot-weather delicacy that earned a big fortune for the man who patented it. A big demand was waiting for every one of these inventions.

"I have found that a much larger consideration can be secured for an invention if you can prove that a market exists for it," said a professional inventor of small articles, when I asked him what, from his 20 years of experience, was the first requisite of profitable invention.

"The first step in invention, if one has no particular invention in mind," he went on, "is to examine various articles in general use and see if an improvement can be made on one of them—an improvement that will make the article do better work, and that will make it less costly."

"I drifted into the business of invention during a long siege of ill-health," another inventor told me.
"Trying to find some way of passing the time, I bought a guitar. I soon tired of merely strumming the chords and playing a few simple exercises, and devised a new method of string-ing that, to my surprise, made it possible for me to play popular airs on this heretofore rather limited musical instrument. I secured a patent on my improvement, and before long two manufacturers were paying me substantial royalties.

"After I got back my health I devised another musical instrument, a combination of the mouth harp, or harmonica, and the zither, the tune or melody being played on the harp while the accompaniment was being picked out on the strings. Local capitalists financed this invention and we soon had a prosperous business, which was under my management.
And from that time I have devoted myself exclusively to inventions."

"Have You Tested My Blood, Doctor?"

"YES, I have."
"And what is the result?"
"Not very satisfactory."
"What seems to be the trouble?"
"Well, your blood is thin. It is lacking in what we call the red corpuscles. It does not contain enough of the nutritive qualities to properly supply nourishment to the nervous system."
"But I am not nervous."
"No, you are not, in one sense. Your hands do not tremble. You are not easily startled or excited. But nevertheless your nerves are not in good condition. There is not enough nervous energy in your system to work the machinery of the body."
"Perhaps you never thought of the vital organs of your body as requiring any motive power—any propelling energy—but they do, and this force comes through the nervous system."
"Because you are not conscious of every heart beat and of every breath you breathe is no indication that this action is not the result of nervous energy."
"You really have two brains—one with which you think and act voluntarily, another one which, without any conscious effort on your part, controls the action of the various organs and members of the body. It is the failure of this sympathetic nervous system, as it is called, which most frequently causes trouble.

"Because nervous energy is lacking there is weak functioning of the vital organs. The digestive fluid does not flow properly in the stomach, and you have nervous indigestion—the action of the liver and bowels is slow and weak, and you suffer from constipation. And so it may be with other organs. While they are not really diseased, their action is weak for lack of nervous energy. What you need is a good restorative."
"What do you think of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"
"There's nothing better. You know we doctors prefer to prescribe our own favorite treatments, but I have seen such splendid results from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food by my patients that I no longer hesitate to recommend it."
The active and concentrated ingredients of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food are approved by the best medical authorities as a means of building up the exhausted nervous system. The experiences of many thousands of people go to back up the professional opinion, and hence the enormous success of this great restorative. 60c a box, all dealers or The Dr. A. W. ### Social and Political Reforms

PROPOSED IN N. S. W.
SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct 16 (C. P.)—The first working session of the present Parliament of New South Wales, which has just been opened, promises to be a strenuous one, and if all the proposals submitted by the Labor Government be given effect it will be a notable one also. The programme contained, in addition to important industrial proposals, ameliorative measures relating to primary producers, economic correctives—especially in the direction of reducing the great difference between the prices paid to primary producers for their products and those paid by the consumer, as well as social improvements, and the vigorous application of a development policy as affecting both primary and secondary industries.

The most important of the industrial proposals is the re-introduction of the 44-hour working week, and the setting up of a State system of unemployed and social insurance. With regard to the former Hon. T. T. Lang, the Premier, claims that the State's previous experience of the shorter working week had shown clearly that the fears expressed by political opponents had not been realized, and that on the contrary the progress of New South Wales had been just as sound and vigorous as ever. In support of that he has quoted comparative official statistics, prepared by an unbiased authority, which shows that in both primary and secondary production there were marked increases while the 44-hour week was in force before.

"The only trouble," Premier Lang remarked in a recent interview, "is the desirable concessions of this character have to be forced very often in an atmosphere of bitterness, when the ready recognition and voluntary granting of them by the employers would be of inestimable benefit, not only to employees but to the employers themselves, as well as to society in general."

There are instances not only in the United Kingdom, but in the United States and in New South Wales, where employers have voluntarily given special consideration to the health, comfort, and financial prospects of their employees, and in return are receiving the most energetic and loyal service of which the staffs are capable. Unfortunately for general industrial efficiency and harmony such cases are rare. There would be less bitterness, less revolution, and greater individual well-being, if employers as a whole paid more attention to the human and less to the selfish and grasping side of their business."

The abolition of capital punishment, extension to women of eligibility for appointment to the Legislature Council, and a change in the electoral system by a reversion to single seats are outstanding proposals. Although while in office on previous occasions labor governments have always exercised the Executive Privilege of mercy in cases where the death penalty had been pronounced by the Court. The law itself has never been altered. The passage of the amending Bill this season will, therefore, constitute an historical change in the criminal law of the State.

Equally historic will be the advent of women in the Upper House, for the establishment of eligibility is sure to be followed by the appointment of one or more women to the Legislative Council. Such action would be in accord with the public wish in view of the return at the last elections of a woman member to the elective branch of the Legislature.

The proposed abolition of proportional representation marks the end of a practical experiment in a system which is considered by the great majority of members of Parliament, and possibly of the people, to have been wanting because of its intricacy.

The measures framed to remove disabilities under which settlers of the Murrumbidgee Irrigation area and settlers in general have been placed are welcomed in the country districts. Their passage through Parliament will, it is confidently expected, lead to more effective occupation of the land and stimulate settlement. The Government's proposal to call a conference of producers and consumers with a view to evolving a scheme of marketing beneficial to both is regarded as a practical step towards the solution of one of the most difficult economic problems. The provisions of pensions for widows in necessitous circumstances has been generally applauded, although a few critics have questioned the Government's ability to find the necessary funds for the purpose. Premier Lang, who has made a close study of the finances since his return to office, does not, however, anticipate any difficulty.

Prince Accorded Rousing Welcome on Arrival Home

ROYAL FAMILY AND THOUSANDS OF CITIZENS GREET HIM AT VICTORIA.

London, Oct. 16.—(Associated Press Dispatch)—London gave the Prince of Wales the most affectionate welcome of all his homecomings this afternoon when he returned from his 20,000 mile voyage to South Africa and South America. He was greeted at the Victoria station by the King and Queen, other members of the royal family, and thousands of spectators. The prince stepped from the train which brought him from Portsmouth wearing the uniform of the Welsh Guards.

After shaking hands with the King the young heir apparent bent low over the Queen's hand. Then, dropping all formal salutations, he placed an arm about his mother and kissed her affectionately on both cheeks.

His sister, Princess Mary, and his new sister-in-law, the Duchess of York, were the next to greet the homecoming "ambassador of the empire."

The prince kissed both the young women and then shook hands with the other members of the royal family, cabinet ministers and foreign diplomats who crowded the platform.

Brothers on Train.

The King and Queen, the Duke of Connaught, Prince Arthur of Connaught, Princess Mary (the Viscountess Lascelles) and the Duchess of York were waiting on the platform with the host of officials in the background when the train, with flagbedecked engine, drew into the station.

The Duke of York and Prince Henry were on the train with their brother. Victoria station was more elaborately decorated with flags and gay bunting than ever before in its history, and the picturesque Welsh Guards were drawn up at attention to greet the prince, who in their colorful uniforms was the focal point of the great station. It was crowded, and train service in that section where the prince's special train arrived was held up for a considerable time.

After the formal greetings were finished the King, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and Prince Henry drove out in an open carriage to be met with tumultuous cheers by one of the greatest crowds that ever greeted royalty in London.

Thousands Pack Streets.

In spite of the cold and drizzling rain scores of thousands packed the streets through which the royal carriage proceeded toward Buckingham Palace.

The Queen and other members of the royal family drove unostentatiously in closed cars direct to the palace.

The enthusiastic cheering at Victoria station, which lasted several minutes, was broadcast by radio throughout England, giving those in the farthest parts of the kingdom a chance to participate in the welcome. This cheering continued in great volume all along the route. The Prince of Wales appeared bronzed and happy but tired, although not too weary to greet the crowds with his famous smile.

Streets Decorated.
Not even the Lockhart security conference with its momentous promise of European peace was able to displace the Prince of Wales from the leading news and editorial columns of the morning papers.

The principal pages were devoted to detailed accounts of the preparations for his home-coming, with directions as to the best vantage points from which to view his triumphal passage from Victoria station to Buckingham palace.

His experiences in South Africa and South America were recounted, and a variety of portraits published, showing him in all manners of costume, participating in the ceremonies of reception at the various points of his tour.

The route of the procession from the station to the palace had been elaborately decorated, and was densely packed long before the hour of the prince's arrival from Portsmouth.

Two Injured in Generator Blast

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Vehicular and trolley traffic on the Williamsburg bridge between Brooklyn and Manhattan was halted for an hour and a half to-day, when a generator on a car exploded and caught fire. Two transit employees were injured.

The accident occurred before the customary rush hour crowd travels over the bridge, but traffic at both ends was jammed.

More than 3,000 passengers on six stalled elevated trains were imperilled by the blaze.

Mutual Investments Help Men Sleep at Night

THE MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA has had the benefit of shrewd, far-sighted counsel in the placing of its investments. Government bonds, Municipal bonds and debentures and such securities form a very large proportion of the total investments of the Company. Many of these, purchased during the war period and its aftermath, will yield high interest for long terms to come.

The strength of these selected investments means absolute security for Mutualists. The profitable income they assure lowers the cost of Mutual insurance, because under the Mutual principle, the entire net profits are paid back to policyholders.

Let us send you the Mutual Book which explains in full detail.

Mr. Archibald's Address.

DELIVERED AT BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

Gentlemen of the Board of Trade:

Your time is valuable and we have therefore committed our words to the definite confines of a paper which, with your permission, we will read.

The subject chosen is a wide one and in the interest of rounding out a complete idea in a limited time it has been necessary to drop out a host of details.

The matter has been prepared with due regard to the fact that it was for business men and not necessarily for popular consumption.

Our subject is "Nfd. Industries, their value and the great need of their development."

The prime necessity of established industries in any and every community must, in these days of enlightenment, be taken without question. Material things of great variety have come to be essential to the most ordinary living of the people.

The production of things is what is known as industry and its exchange from producers of one kind to producers of another kind constitutes our everyday systems of Trade and Commerce.

Things that can be moved about from one place to another and things that may be set up as permanent fixtures for purposes of production, transportation and the necessities and conveniences of the lives of men constitute, in the last analysis, the wealth of the nations. These material things are the wealth of the nations.

The exchange value of the total of all the things produced in a community or a country is thus a measure of its earning power or purchasing power or income or whatever you may choose to call it.

It consequently becomes paramount to any scientific consideration of the industries of a country to have some statistics of the industries and an analysis of them.

We have collected some figures that may in some degree indicate an approximate measure of the total net income of Nfd., from all the branches of her production and will set them before you.

It must not be thought that we presume to set these down as the last word or that they represent the exact situation without error. The difficulties have been very great and were it not for the willing help and advice of our friends it would have been impossible.

Let me take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to them for all

Although we are quite sure that the following figures represent a fairly accurate statement, yet we would not expect them to be correct to within five or ten per cent.

Total net income from all branches of production in Newfoundland, taking figures for the year ending June 30, 1924.

|--------------------------|---------------------|
| 1.—Agriculture           | $ 8,100,000        |
| 2.—Fishery               | 7,560,000           |
| 3.—Construction          | 3,700,000           |
| 4.—Paper and Pulp        | 4,500,000           |
| 5.—Factories             | 2,600,000           |
| 6.—Lumber                | 2,650,000           |
| 7.—Mining                | 1,900,000           |
| 8.—Pit Props and P. Wood | 700,000             |
| 9.—Miscellaneous         | 450,000             |
| Grand Total       | $33,860,000 |

These figures are staggering when you come to realize that the total national income from all branches of production is only 24 millions and that this, added to the comparatively small amount of our income from foreign going, shipping, from investments abroad and the amounts sent home to families by Newfoundland workers abroad, constitutes the total amount of our national earnings.

When this 24 million is divided between 263,000 people you will observe the astounding fact that the average total earnings per capita amount to only $123.28. Out of this amount we have to live and pay our taxes.

Is it any wonder, then, that thoughtful people are beginning anxiously to wonder just what is going to happen next?

After some observations on the various headings showing us how these figures were arrived at we will show a few comparisons with other countries that we may all realize the seriousness of our situation and the necessity for action.

1. Agriculture—Figures are deducted from the report of the Agricultural Department based on 1921 Census reports. As this branch of production has been steadily increasing we have made due allowance for quantities and values in setting down a value for 1924.

2. Although we are not an agricultural country, in, say, Canada's sense, yet we have only tapped lightly the avenues of development in this direction.

The possibilities of wool production, for instance, are beyond our most sanguine thoughts to-day, and this will one day be the basis of several great manufacturing industries in our midst. A beginning has been made by one manufacturing house, and an inspection of their exhibit at The Fair will show an exceedingly high degree of perfection.

Right here we may be pardoned for also paying a well deserved credit to Dr. MacDermott, of Fortune Bay, and to Lady Allardyce and the "Nonna" ladies for their truly patriotic services in pioneering this great (Home-craft) industry to be.

Spinning, knitting and weaving, producing wool, stockings, socks, mitts, underclothing, outerclothing, mats, rugs, carpets, etc., will one day employ a real army of Nfd. sons and daughters.

There is an industry in our berries, and untold possibilities in each product as celery. The world market is at our feet in this latter product as a comparison between the local and the imported will readily show. I am told that an acre of celery is worth several thousand dollars and if it were worth only half, it would still be an exceedingly rich crop.

This branch, like all the others requires the industrial type of mind to bring it to maturity.

3. Fishery—The net income shown from this branch is derived from the total value of all fishery products, with due allowance made for the imported materials entering into the operations, such as salt, twine, rope, raw cotton, etc., vessels, sail cloth, oils, gasoline, kerosene, anchors, chains, iron and a host of other hardware items, and insurance taken with outside companies.

The value of wood packages had also to be deducted as it was already included in lumber. Unless some new activities are undertaken and a great deal of energy is scientifically applied to this branch of production it will very soon take a fourth or fifth place in the scale of values.

4. Construction—These figures represent the income to labor of all kinds from these works. Owing to the special nature and extent of the Humber operations we have separated it from the more general construction average.

5. Paper and Pulp—Figures are taken from total production with deduction for costs of imported materials and insurance, etc.

This promises to become our leading industry in the very near future; in fact, there is a certainty that it will become by far the greatest within this year 1925-26. The ultimate capacity of this country from the production of pulp and paper does not seem to be more than started and every effort should be put forth to instill into the minds and consciousness of the whole people, young and old, a true sense of the value of our forests. Wanton destruction by the axe or fire should come to be thought of as a suicidal crime of the first order.

At present we are only thinking of paper but just for a moment let our imaginations run along the possibilities of the production of "Rayon" or Artificial Silk, from the products of our forests.

Cellulose, which is the present valuable product of wood is filled with more promise of possible developments than any other known world product to-day. It may easily be conceived that our forests may some day supply us with all those essential materials at present derived from cotton, flax and other sources of cellulose. Through chemical and practical research there seems to be no limit to its possibilities.

We must protect and nurture our forests. They are a great heritage, especially coupled as they are in this country with abundance of water-power.

6. Factories—These figures were gathered very carefully and of course do not represent the total value of the products of our factories but only that portion of it that has gone into the pockets of the workers of all grades.

Due allowance has been made for that portion of overhead expenses that represents Newfoundland employment outside of the factories in the shape of Banking, Insurance, Telephone, Postal, freight, cartage, heat, light and power and other essential services.

All the essential figures covering this branch were not available to us in their detail and it was not necessary.

Wood-working factories have not been included, except as to their manufacture from imported materials, although they belong under this branch and would swell the total value considerably. We considered that they were so closely allied to the lumber branch that it would not be fair to that great industry to make any separation.

This, however, must be remembered in giving the factories their rightful place in the national income. It will come as a great surprise to some people to see an amount of national income, derived from this source, that is fully one-third of that of the entire fishery.

Under a properly distributed Customs Tariff, which may at the same time be greatly reduced in total, this branch can be made into a very much greater earning power to the people. A great army of men and women can find employment here in their own towns rather than be driven as they are into strange lands.

Taxation per capita can be reduced by increasing the number of contributors and every producer added to the list lifts a little of the burden off his neighbour's shoulders. Let Newfoundlanders produce every possible article needed by a maximum of employment which is the life of any country.

7. Lumber—This branch includes logging, saw-mills and wood factories. The figures have been obtained by the aid of friends in the industry and we are confident that they are, if anything, on the conservative side.

This does not represent total products even from Newfoundland wood, as allowance had to be made for replacement-machinery, oils and other imported materials entering into these products. Insurance composed a considerable item of reduction.

This branch has great possibilities, but is very much hampered in development by the enforcement of the Timber Laws, enabling holders to keep areas of the market indefinitely at practically no cost to themselves.

8. Mines—Here deductions have been made for imports such as coal, oils, replacement machinery, tools, insurance, etc. The laws affecting this branch are also very much antiquated and are the first question to be dealt with if the proper development of this great industry is to take place as it should.

9. Pit Props and Pulpwood—This shows almost the full export value.

10. Miscellaneous—This includes furs, berries and other minor exports.

This tabulation and analysis, we trust, will give each industry its true perspective and will serve as a starting point from which we can view the future prospect of Newfoundland without the usual prejudice. The fishery holds a great and proud place in our life and for a great period was the almost only source of income.

Those days are passed and we must learn to adjust our thoughts to the new order of things. The fishery is a great industry and we must make it greater, but it is not by any means the one and only mainstay that people thoughtlessly claim for it.

We can easily conceive of Newfoundland going on to great prosperity and the fishery drop out almost entirely. We say this, not because we think any such calamity will occur, but merely to bring out our point and to stimulate thought and enthusiasm into the whole field of industrial endeavour, and not wear itself out bemoaning a difficulty in some one direction, when great progress lies open in another, just as near at hand.

Whatever our thoughts or regrets it has now come to be absolutely necessary that we apply ourselves diligently to the development of greater earning power for one very pressing reason, if for no other, that we have allowed our cost of government to almost overwhelm us.

The following figures will be very illuminating:

|   |              |
|---|--------------|
| Total net income from all products, 1923-24 | $24,000,000 |
| Taxation, 1923-24                           | 5,401,609    |

| Taxation per cent. of income, 23-24         | 24.7%        |

For comparison we submit Canadian figures as follows:

| Canadian Taxation per capita          | 75.00    |

A further comparison will show the seriousness of our situation still more clearly:

unheeded for we have endeavored to set out the facts without prejudice and for our short comings we can only ask your kindly and charitable consideration.

Many thanks for your patience.

At the close of Mr. Archibald's address, a vote of thanks was proposed by Capt. A. Kean, in a vigorous speech, in which he pointed out the opposition with which all new industries had to contend, and quoted numerous instances in support of his argument. Amongst those cited were the first saw mill in Bonavista Bay; people then claimed that all standing timber would be quickly used up. The railway, the Grand Falls industry, Rope-walk, etc., were in the same category. The vote of thanks was ably seconded by Mr. Milligan, Manager of the Bank of Commerce, and was spoken to by Mr. Thomas Peel, who suggested that a public market was essential in connection with the agricultural industry. Mr. W. A. McKay, also spoke and offered suggestions for attracting attention to our resources that were undeveloped for want of capital or enterprise. The vote was carried by acclamation.

Our Montreal Letter

(From Our Own Correspondent)

THE CITY ENRICHED BY MILLIONS FROM TOURISTS

Montreal enjoyed the largest number of visitors, through tourists this summer, known in its history. Canadian and American tourists numbered 45,000 and left approximately $5,400,000. It is estimated that the increase in the tourist trade over last year was 50 per cent.

Hotel managers and those concerned with the promotion of tourist trade to Montreal claim that an unprecedented business was done, and that the prospect for the winter months are brighter than ever before.

At present hotel managers report that business and say that this year's season will not end until the last week in October.

Conventions will total about 50 with an attendance of 12,000. This year the greatest in the history of Montreal as regards conventions and tourist traffic, will be eclipsed in 1926, already 20 conventions are booked, which will bring 25,000 people to the city; and this number is expected to be greatly augmented before the season commences in view of the fact that since last April, 40 more associations and societies were persuaded to hold their annual assemblies in Montreal.

The largest convention ever booked is that of Kiltaris with some 7,000 delegates expected.

"Cars from the United States and the Canadian provinces have never come to Montreal in such numbers," was the opinion of G. A. MacNamee, secretary of the Tourist Bureau. He said that final figures would probably show that 75,000 more than last year visited the city.

More than 2,000,000 American automobiles, it is estimated, have crossed into Canada already this year. They carried approximately 9,000,000 tourists or one tourist for every man, woman and child in the Dominion. Every province shared in the tourist business. Ontario received the larger traffic. Last year 1,276,388 cars from the United States entered Ontario, 163,878 of which stayed from two to thirty days, 1,645 from one to six months and the remainder shorter periods.

DECLARES WOMANHOOD TO-DAY ON WRONG TRACK

Rev. Father Brossau, Professor of English at the Ottawa University, in an address said, "That the present generation of women are not so good as those of the last generation."

In dealing with the relative qualities of the sexes, Fr. Brossau said it was a question of fifty-fifty with regard to the faults of men and women. The trend of womanhood to-day was to a great extent in the wrong direction.

Speaking generally, he said, the young girls of to-day were not fit to be mothers for good; the kind of help-mate God intended them to be to their husbands; and the mothers to-day are not sufficiently serious about the question of their influence over their sons and daughters.

Father Brossau singled out as the causes for the lower standards of influence over men on the part of women to-day, first, the lack of proper scientific, methodical training of young girls for the state of womanhood. There was little training in the things that make for the beauty, grace and strength typified in the scriptural women. Girls are left to grow up in a hit or miss fashion to-day, he complained, and this was one of the cases of much trouble and wrong.

VIEWS ON EDUCATIONAL MATTERS

At the annual Convention of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers held here the first week in October, R. L. Calder, K.C., and Rev. Dr. R. W. Dickie, Chairman of the Protestant Board of Education, were the principal speakers.

Mr. Calder thought the whole school system of to-day was all topsy-turvy. He advocated no home lessons, no examinations, no grammar, and only such history and geography that could be made interesting and entertaining. A thorough grounding in subjects that taught children to observe, generalize and deduct for themselves was sufficient. English Grammar was useless. English composition just as foolish, for children should only be taught to write enough to express themselves. Mathematics, he said, would go alright if they weren't taught upside down with arithmetic first instead of last.

Rev. Dr. Dickie spoke on a growing evil in education, "The young person who wasn't interested in education but whose parents insisted that he must have it." A pupil in a class not interested in the work of the school curriculum was only retarding the progress of those who earnestly desired learning.

"It would be infinitely better for the home, school, and society if these boys and girls at the age of fourteen or fifteen were advised to take up something else in which they were interested."

to visit the schools, armed with charts and posters which forcibly pointed out the dangers of 'hitching' on automobiles and trucks, of roller skating in the streets and of crossing streets carelessly.

"Next we turned our attention to the men at the wheels. Our greatest problem was the youth with the 90-horsepower automobile and the 10-horsepower brains. There are two checks on pinhead drivers: the courts and the office of the State Registrar of Motor Vehicles. We have had splendid co-operation from both, but we have found it more effective in most cases to take the direct route to the registrar's office. On our recommendation, licenses are suspended for periods ranging from thirty days up.

"It is of little avail to place reckless drivers in the dock. They pay their fines and step blithely out of court and, as like as not, within fifteen minutes are endangering lives again. Suspension of licenses, however, has a more lasting effect."

New Bedford has no "silent policeman" and no automatic traffic-control lights or other devices. Its traffic policemen are trained, according to their chief, to be traffic dispatchers, rather than merely law enforcers. All the policemen of New Bedford go to a police school during the winter months on their own time.

DEATH OF A FORMER NEWFOUNDLANDER

The death of Mrs. Harry E. Lalonde, formerly Miss Elizabeth Heffernan, of the Goules, Petty Harbour, took place at her residence, 227 Oxford Avenue, Notre Dame de Gracy, on Oct. 14th. Her husband predeceased her a few days ago. The funeral took place on Friday morning, Oct. 16th, to St. Augustine's Church where a Solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated. The chief mourner was Mrs. Lalonde, and a large number of relatives. Interment took place at Cote des Neiges Cemetery, R.I.P.

WHAT THE CANADIAN PRESS SAYS

Vancouver Sun: The average man takes more care of his motor car than he does of his body. He anticipates motor troubles. He sees that his car gets clean gasoline. He feeds it just the right kind of oil. But he goes on stuffing into his body any old kind of foods that comes along.

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph: Our Farmers and Fishermen have been kicked out of the American market; and our Industries were never allowed in. On the other hand, American Farmers, Fishermen, Industries and Mines are welcomed here almost with open arms. This difference leaves us every year with a trade balance against us of from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000.

Ottawa Citizen: The public can be a hard taskmaster—particularly the election public. Sometimes it seems as though the leader in party politics must have the hide of a rhinoceros, the digestion of an ostrich and the patience of an ox. The gift of humor must have been a lifebuoy to many a man in the cross currents of politics.

SOME HINTS FOR SUCCESS IN LIFE. Dear Readers.—In the battle of life there are many storms to be encountered, many hard paths to be trodden, many difficulties to be overcome. Face them courageously, nobly and bravely and with a strong hand, a stout heart and a firm will, and the victory will be yours. Don't be a pessimist. Don't recount your troubles. Don't gossip. Don't attract attention for yourself. Choose well your companions, real friends, and be true and loyal to them. Remember beauty nor money is not essential to popularity nor to happiness. Those who render the most service to their fellow-men will gain real and lasting popularity. Shun deceit. Ring true in all your actions. Strive earnestly to show a good example at all times and on all occasions, so that in departing from this life you may have "a clean record," which will fill you with joy and peace to go Heavenward for your everlasting reward.

Five things you should know about your tooth brush

- 1 Is it made of the best bristles the world produces?
2 Are the bristles serrated (saw-toothed), and set in a curve to fit against all your teeth, and to reach the crevices between?
3 Does it have a large end tuft, and a properly curved handle so that the end tuft can reach and clean back teeth?
4 Will it keep germs, tartar, food debris, and other unclean substances off your teeth?
5 Is it fully guaranteed?

When your tooth brush is a Pro-phy-lac-tic, you can answer all of those five questions correctly. The Pro-phy-lac-tic Tooth Brush has for more than forty years been the standard, correctly designed tooth brush for keeping teeth clean, white and beautiful.

LAURETTE TAYLOR STARS IN "ONE NIGHT IN ROME." A Laurette Taylor just as scintillating and charming as the Laurette Taylor of "Peg O' My Heart" and "Happy Days," but entirely different, is the star of "One Night in Rome," the Metro-Goldwyn screen version of her stage success which will be shown for the first time at the Majestic Theatre Monday night.

Berlin Taegliche Rundschau (Government): Germany has decided, during the last few weeks, that the signature of a Western Pact does not map any new interpretation of the Treaty of Versailles, that she will have nothing to do with granting France a right-of-way across her territory to convert it into a base for military operations in a war against the Russians, and that Germany's entry into the League of Nations will not clothe her in a new mantle of aggression against the Union of Soviet Republics. We regret to see that Moscow believes the contrary. Naturally, there can be no question of making Germany take part in a systematic boycott of the Soviets.

Messrs. Job's Stores, Ltd. have a booth in which they are specialising in Vesta and Durado English Paints, for which the firm is agent. Plomblance is also given to Walpamur Water Paint, Durado Enamel Paint, Mjradoo Enamel, Walpamur Enamel Paint, Old Varnish Stain, Yeoman Varnish, and Vesta Ready Mixed. There is also to be seen an excellent exhibit of the well-known Carnation Milk. On one side of the booth a Fried Eastman Radio 5 tube set is on exhibition for which the firm has secured the exclusive agency. The radio is all connected up with aerial, etc., and nightly splendid receptions have been given from several foreign stations. A full line of radio equipment is also carried in the display, including the Cottone Crystal set, which has given excellent results locally. The arrangement of the various exhibits enables visitors to see at a glance the extensive nature of the business carried on by this company.

BOWRING BROS., LTD.

Messrs. Bowering Bros. have a large amount of space, in which they have arranged some of the large stock carried by the firm. The popular and well-known Victor Flour takes up a prominent place, the most of which is displayed in 14lb. bags and the balance in barrels. Adjoining this booth can be seen an array of cakes manu-

PIMPLES ON FACE AND HEAD

Itching and Burning Terrible. Cuticura Heals.

"My trouble started by little pimples coming out on my face and the back of my head. After a few weeks the pimples scaled over and the itching and burning were something terrible, causing me to scratch. I lost rest at night because of the irritation. I heard about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it a few times I got relief so purchased more, and after using about four cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." Welfare Association and the Marine Disaster Fund. "You'll have constant satisfaction if you continually smoke Imperial products." The whole forms a very pleasing exhibit and is one of which the designer, Mr. Salt, may well feel very proud.

JOSEPH P. MOORE.

The extensive variety of cakes, bread and pastry on display at Moore's booth is both pleasing to the eye and appealing to the palate. That the goods compare favorably with the costly imported article cannot be gainsaid. From a small beginning about five years ago, Mr. Moore has built up a lucrative trade. The factory is situated on Brien Street, in connection with which a retail store is operated on Water Street West near the Royal Bank of Canada. From the factory the products fresh from the ovens are distributed to stores all over the city. The variety on exhibition is too great to enumerate, but worthy of special mention are the wedding cakes with their ornamental icings. Dark fruit and Sultana cake, wholesome bread recommended by doctors, and a nutritious white bread in which the mixing liquids consists principally of milk.

NFLD. LIGHT AND POWER.

Every housekeeper desiring a modern and up to date home has a fascination for labor saving devices and a display of such is an attraction that none will miss, and hence it is that the attendants at the Nfld. Light and Power Company booth have had a very busy week. On exhibition are electric light fixtures, fans, heaters, vacuum sweepers. To display the modern way a special electric kitchen is fitted up in a stall at the side of the rink. The range is installed with a coal-burning attachment and is connected to the sink and hot water boiler. The latter has a separate unit heater for use when the range is not in operation. The latest type of washer stands are in one corner of the kitchen, and in the other is a refrigerator. The former named a "Gain a day washer," has none of the usual gears or wheels and is fitted with a reversible wringer. It will wash a tub full of clothes in from three to five minutes. The refrigerator is of the ordinary type, but is fitted with a motor and compressor which cools the chambers eight degrees lower than ice. The operating cost is less than the cost of ice. The attachment is a product of the Reivinator Co. of Detroit. With its small cubes of ice useful for drinks, can be made.

Holbrooks Booth.
Holbrooks products! You never saw anything like them for variety and goodness. That cold joint tastes like food for the gods if you use Holbrooks pickles with it, and their Custard Powder makes a most delicious dessert which is particularly welcome now that eggs are getting scarce. A dash of Holbrooks Sauce used in cooking will make the most commonplace dish taste like a chef's masterpiece. We don't advise those who are dieting to try them—they will never be able to restrict themselves to small helpings when their appetites are roused by those delicious flavourings. We can't describe half of the good things that are displayed at this booth. But the lady in charge will be delighted to give you literature on the subject.

Golden Pheasant Booth.

Have you been to the Fair yet? You are missing a lot if you haven't. Everyone there seems busy and happy. Amongst the busiest are those who are serving Golden Pheasant Tea at the stall of Ferguson Holness & Co., Ltd. and among the happiest are those who sit for a few minutes at the white-covered tables and sip the tea and watch the crowds. The cup of tea which is beautifully made and served by the Misses Furlong is given you free with the compliments of Ferguson Holness & Co., Ltd., J. B. Mitchell & Son, Ltd., Selling Agents. Newfoundlanders have a reputation for hospitality which this firm seeks to maintain, and they are glad to welcome all comers to their tea-garden to demonstrate to them how good a cup of Golden Pheasant is when one is tired. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to make use of this stall. A third booth owned by J. B. Mitchell & Sons, Ltd., is that of our Nugget Shoe Polish Stall has already been described.

Distinctively Fascinating

Of all the exquisite productions of Richard Hudnut, none has more closely suited the cultivated taste in perfumes of the smarter young women than the matchless essence Three Flowers—and none have better satisfied their requirements in the other arts of the dressing table than the delightful preparations carrying that same fragrance. Each Three Flowers preparation is distinctively fascinating. The talc is so soft and soothing, the face powder so fragrant and appealing, the creams so beautifully blended that the use of each one is a delightful experience. Ladies declare that Three Flowers cosmetics have ushered in a new era for the woman who takes pride in the selection of her toilet things. You too, will love the dainty Three Flowers, all of which may now be obtained at local toilet counters.—oct21.w.a.f.

ENGINEER PLANS CHANNEL TUNNEL BUILT ON GREAT CONCRETE PIERS.

For more than a century, one of the most fascinating problems to the European engineer has been the building of a tunnel under the English Channel to link France and England. One of the latest schemes is that of a Frenchman, Commandant Veurier. He proposes that, instead of boring a tunnel through the bedrock of the Channel, a succession of great reinforced-concrete piers shall be anchored to the sea bottom by means of strongly ballasted caissons. The piers would be sunk 340 feet from the surface. Once the piers were anchored securely, Commandant Veurier's plan calls for a double-tube railway laid upon them, a section at a time, and fastened firmly to the supports. At the end of every section of the tube railway would be a watertight compartment similar to the watertight bulkheads with which all modern vessels are fitted. These compartments would insure a greater amount of safety in the tube, since if one part of it were flooded, the rest could be shut off immediately. Each tube would hold only one railway line—one for eastbound and the other for westbound trains. Another engineer's plan, submitted to the British Houses of Parliament not long ago, was to bore a tunnel through the bed of the Channel. This tunnel was to be slightly higher at each end, sloping downward perhaps a quarter of the distance, then slightly arched across the center. This was planned so that, in the event of enemy invasion, the tunnel could be flooded from either end.

No British Trade for Soviet Russia

OTTAWA, Ont.—There are no early prospects of trade relations between Soviet Russia and Great Britain being restored with the Baldwin Government in power, declared Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, former Labor Government, in an interview here last night. When it was suggested that such happening might have distinct effects on Canada in the matter of wheat marketing, Mr. Henderson said that there were other considerations beside wheat, and if Russia was to regain her large production of wheat she would need agricultural implements, many of which Canada was able to supply.

General Mulcahey Visits Montreal IS OPTIMISTIC.

Irishmen gathered at 2 o'clock to give a hearty welcome to General Richmond Mulcahey, member of the Dail for Dublin North, who is to-day a guest at the Mount Royal Hotel. Not so long ago the distinguished visitor's presence in Montreal would have created quite a stir, for in the recent troubles General Mulcahey occupied the position of Chief of Staff and Minister of Militia to the Sinn Fein forces which warred against Britain in the struggle for Irish independence. General Mulcahey is accompanied by the Speaker of the Dail, Michael Hayes, and by Patrick Magilligan, Minister of Industry and Commerce in the Irish Free State, all of whom were on this side in connection with the Inter-Parliamentary Conference. The experiment of a protective tariff now being tried out in the section of the Empire which General Mulcahey represents has so far proved very satisfactory, he stated. Not until the trial had run two years would he be prepared to say whether or not the

Obituary

THOMAS BAKER.

By the death of Mr. Thomas Baker, which occurred on Thursday, 22nd inst., fortified by all the rites of the Catholic Church, a well-known and highly respected citizen has passed from amongst us. Mr. Baker was in his 77th year.

The deceased was born in St. John's in the year 1848, and when a young man entered the employ of the extensive and enterprising firm of Messrs. P. & L. Tessier, in which, for a period of 38 years he was a competent and trusted employee. He was always attentive in his daily work and was never reluctant in the performance, being courteous to all with whom he had business transactions connected with the firm. Those who had the privilege of his intimacy fell under the charm of a nature essentially simple and sincere. Being so long connected with the great firm of P. & L. Tessier, he attained a thorough knowledge of not alone the business of St. John's, but of the outports. During the weary months of his illness the loving care of family surrounded him, and a service unstinted and unselfish ministered to his every want, but the utmost resources of medical skill could not avert the inevitable end, and he faded out of life. As a public servant in the employ of the Municipal Council for a number of years, until retired, he was noted for his exemplary courtesy, consideration and tact. He was respected by the staff and esteemed by the community. The patience and fortitude were edifying to those who administered to his dying hour. For years the deceased was a member of the Holy Name Society.

Left to mourn are two daughters, Mrs. James Quigley and Mrs. R. C. Cleary; also four sons, Harry, of Somerville, Mass., U.S.A.; Francis, in Montreal; William, in the East End Fire Department, and Edward, Proprietor of the Railway Cafe. Requisite in pace.

Avalon Telephone Rates

October 24, 1925.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—I have it on the best of authority that the Contract made between the Government and The Avalon Telephone Company fixes the rates for telephones at $40.00 for business and $30.00 for residence, and that the Company cannot increase these rates without the consent of the Governor in Council; and I have it on equally good authority that the Governor in Council has not been asked and has not consented to any increase. Subscribers will, therefore, see for themselves that the attempt of the Company to collect larger rates than those set by the contract is illegal and should be resisted.

For this increase nothing is offered. The service, which was fairly efficient when the new system was installed, has fallen off. "Central" is deplorable at times. Only too frequently calls are not answered quickly, or the reply comes—"line busy."

The Company has a good thing, and should give better service to the public. It is given free entries, and pays but an insignificant tax of $1.00 per telephone.

Yours very truly,

ANOTHER SUBSCRIBER.

ANNUAL SALE OF WORK A GREAT SUCCESS.

The annual sale of work of Victory Lodge, No. 277, L.O.B.A., which was held on Wednesday of this week, proved a most enjoyable and successful event. The sale was officially opened in the afternoon by Mr. C. E. Russell. Afternoon and six o'clock teas were served and the ladies in charge of these tables were kept very busy indeed. The various stalls did a rushing business from the opening time up until 8.15, when a very pleasing concert programme was given in which the following took part: Mr. Russell, Mrs. J. S. Earle, Mrs. Noseworthy, Mrs. Osmond, Misses Condon, Hayes, Murphy, Driscoll, Rose, Hancock and Rosetter; Messrs. Neville, Dobbin, Redmond, Wylie. Mr. Walker was the accompanist. During the evening the M.G. Band rendered several selections.

At the conclusion of the concert a vote of thanks to all was moved by the worthy Mistress, after which the singing of the National Anthem brought to a close a very successful sale of work.
