TORONTO WOMAN BRUTALLY BEATEN IN RIVERDALE PARK BY FOUR MEN WHO ESCAPED BY SWIMMING RIVER

Mrs. E. Ford Was Set Upon by Thugs, Who Kicked and Beat Her Into Unconsciousness, Then Swam the Don and Got Away Thru the Bush—Worst Assault Case Toronto Police Have Had For Years.

Riverdale Park was the scene of a brutal assault last evening, when Mrs. E. Ford of Dawes road, a woman about 50 years of age, was set upon by four men, who beat her into unconsciousness and submission by kicks and blows from their fists.

Mrs. Ford had spent the latter part of the afternoon in the park, and had crossed the river to climb the grassy slope to the car line. It was growing dusk and the woman evidently was hurrying to reach the car before dark.

As far as the police could learn last evening, the men leaped on her from behind a bush. She had but time to utter one scream, when one of them dealt her a blow on the side of the head which partly stunned her.

In Serious Condition. Mrs. Ford afterwards stated that she had been kicked and punched by her assailants; she said that they took a purse containing $2.75 from her before the hospital attendants scared them off.

QUEBEC VILLAGE SUFFERS FROM COSTLY FIRE

Practically Whole Business Section Wiped Out, Many Residences Burned and Loss of Hundred Thousand Dollars Sustained in Conflagration Lasting Two Hours.

Canadian Press Despatch. OTTAWA, May 18.—Practically the whole of the business section and part of the residential area of the Village of Fortage du Port, Que., which is about 50 miles from Ottawa, on the Ottawa River, and has a population of nearly 500, was destroyed by fire this afternoon.

The fire, it is said, started in a sample room at Dolan's Hotel, about 2 o'clock. A few minutes later the building was a mass of flames and the village being without any fire-fighting apparatus, the fire spread rapidly to adjoining buildings, and in two hours it had wiped out the whole of the business section, without even giving time to the occupants to save any of their personal effects.

GUN-RUNNING AGAIN DISCUSSED

Lloyd George and Birrell Called Upon to Answer Queries of Unionists.

LONDON, Tuesday, May 19.—There is a full in the Irish crisis for the moment and it is improbable that much will be done before the debate on the third reading of the home rule bill commences.

Lord Castlereagh asked for particulars of this provocative move on the part of the government, and the chancellor replied that they had no information as to the reported movement of troops. He said that the government could not assent to the proposition that the fact of troops having rifles in Ireland was provocative. Asked whether Craigavon had been surrounded, Lloyd George remained silent. Hon. Mr. Birrell, asked whether government officials concerned in the recent gun running would retain their offices, said the matter was under consideration.

FORMER ALLIES ARE TRAITORS TO BECKER

Plitt Testified That Ex-Police Lieutenant Warned Him to Keep Away From Times Square on Night of Rosenthal Murder—Defence Will Open Case Today.

NEW YORK, May 18.—District Attorney Whitman today completed his case against Charles Becker by placing on the witness stand two men whom he considered his star witnesses—Charles B. Plitt, Jr., the former policeman's friend, companion and press agent, and James Marshall, a negro youth who said he saw Becker and Jack Rose talking at the "Harlem Conference," which was declared by the court of appeals to have been the "heart of the conspiracy to murder Herman Rosenthal." The gambler's widow and several other persons also testified before the prosecutor declared his case ended.

Plitt swore that Becker had asked him while on board a train on the way from New York to the deathhouse at Sing Sing prison following his conviction, to kill Jack Rose. Plitt also said Becker had made him carry messages to Jack Rose, both before Rosenthal's murder and after Rose was locked up in the Tombs charged with having taken part in the crime.

Becker's "Stool Pigeon." Marshall went fully into the details of his alleged operations as a "stool pigeon" for Becker. He was placed on the stand as the "disinterested witness" to the "Harlem Conference," which the court of appeals said was essential to legally convict Becker as the instigator of the plot that resulted in the killing of the gambler.

Becker warned Plitt before the murder to keep away from Times Square the night it occurred and also to establish an alibi for both himself and Plitt according to Plitt. Up to two months ago, Plitt had been considered by Becker's counsel to be one of Becker's best friends and in fact he made several affidavits calculated to help the former policeman's case. His testimony today was a complete surprise to the defence.

Mrs. Becker to Testify. The defence will open its case tomorrow morning. Becker will not be the first witness. His attorneys, after a conference tonight, refused to say later, although it is known that Becker has demanded that he be given an opportunity to speak for himself. Mrs. Becker will positively go on the stand and try to save her husband from the electric chair. She is expected to contradict much of the testimony given by Rose and her husband were very friendly. It is understood that she will also attack Plitt.

If Becker testifies it is understood he will admit that he met Rose on many occasions, but will assert that the relations between them were simply those that exist between every policeman and his "stool pigeon," which Rose admitted he was. There are about thirty witnesses under subpoena to testify in Becker's behalf.

WAR ON SKEETER HAS CONVERTED PANAMA INTO A HEALTH RESORT

Dr. Hastings Tells Housewives League Some Essential Facts Regarding the Conservation of Public Health — Emphasizes Need of Cleanliness in Home and Hospitals.

"Safeguarding the public health and how this can best be accomplished" was the subject of a most interesting and instructive address by Dr. Hastings, medical officer of health, before the members of the Housewives' League in the parlors, McGill street, yesterday afternoon.

In the matter of transmissible and communicable diseases many fallacies are abroad, Dr. Hastings told his audience. Such diseases as scarlet fever, diphtheria, pneumonia, affect the respiratory tract and in these cases we must safeguard ourselves against the secretions of the mouth, nose and lungs.

Sanitaria are essential for tuberculosis, but they are but one link in the chain of methods which we have to adopt. It is only for the earlier cases that the sanitarium can hope to assist. Therefore control of the home and of advanced cases are things to be secured. The department of health is now receiving a patient, the department is notified and a nurse is sent to the home from which the patient came. In a family of five or six two or more are almost sure to be infected. This, however, does not mean that the disease is hereditary.

Contrary to popular opinion there is little to be feared from organisms floating about in the air. A mother might take her children thru the ward of the isolation hospital, provided their hands were held behind them with but little fear of their getting any disease, because absolute contact alone is the source of infection.

Wards for mixed communicable diseases have been tried both in Paris and in Providence, R. I., and seldom has any case of cross-infection resulted when proper precautions are taken and exits had been taken. A great deal is heard about prevention, by general sanitation and by simple cleanliness. In this connection Dr. Hastings stated that there was not one person in five thousand who knows how to wash.

Great emphasis was laid by the speaker on the necessity for cleanliness in the matter of sterilizing all utensils used in the kitchen, about the sink. A nurse might carry out every principle in a hundred except this one and by so doing she would nullify all her good work, for thru means of spoon, knife or cup she might carry infection. Safeguarding the food supply is half the battle.

Flies and Skeeters. The house fly is the greatest enemy to the health of mankind. In making during the past year had cost the United States $250,000,000. The mosquito had at one time made the Panama region uninhabitable. Now, owing to work in the laboratories it had become one of the greatest health resorts in the world.

The school curriculum is abominably overcrowded, according to Dr. Hastings. Home work should be altogether done away with and every child should be the earliest at which the school age should be set. Dr. Hastings prefers nine years and advocates always keeping the physical ahead of the mental. The women of the C.H.E.A. and Housewives' League were commended for the good work they are doing in the matter of securing cleanliness conditions of food. Regarding factories, Dr. Hastings stated that 20 per cent of efficiency is lost thru unsanitary ventilation and heating.

A number of questions were asked by the ladies present in the discussion which followed the address. This was the last meeting of the Housewives' League for the season. Previous to the chief address the ladies listened to a farmer who lives about 30 miles outside of Toronto, who promised to supply direct to their homes garden produce at wholesale prices, provided there were enough in certain districts to warrant him in bringing his garden stuffs to their door.

Economic Aldermen. The following motion was passed by the meeting: "That the C.H.E.A. hereby protest against the unwarranted misuse of civic money by Aldermen David Spence and Sam McBride on their trip to Atlanta, Georgia. What particularly impresses the Housewives' League is that these two representatives of the citizens should be guilty of such an offense. In view of the fact that they are such strict advocates of civic economy when market deputations are appearing before them."

member that all surface-rooting plants are easily killed by drought. Now, the first point. Slow growth means sturdy, healthy plants, capable of producing great flower heads. Attain this end by little bottom heat in the first stages of growth and plenty of fresh, cool air.

Do not neglect to keep cultivating. I find that the best time of all the day to run over some of the garden beds is very early in the morning, about 5 o'clock, while yet the dew is on the ground and the soil is fairly moist.

A four-pronged gardening fork is often used in the kitchen for the purpose of pulling up the plants. This, being smaller and stronger, may be used around tiny roots where a larger tool is not so easily managed. Of course, long before spring is over there are no forks left in the kitchen, since if you leave that fork down one little second it is lost, and the easiest time-saver is to steal another kitchen fork. But the plants are the main things. Besides, you will find the forks next year when digging. Use the fine spray hose constantly on your lines of asters, especially after they are four or more inches high. Just sweep them with the hose. They love a shower bath morning and night. And the droppings settle into the earth and provide for the gross feedings. Use these splendid manure, which is a good plan to make several sowings of seeds. For the first plantings now, in May, indoor sowing of course was necessary. But outdoor sowing early in May will provide flowers for early September. Early June sowing will provide late autumn bloom. The plants must be well insured against August drought.

Recipes for Wrinkles And Bad Complexions. Of all the beauty recipes that have been published, here are two that have successfully stood the test of time. Wrinkle Remover—One ounce powdered saffron, dissolved in 1/2 pint witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion. It brings instantaneous results. Face cream—Pure meringue was applied at night like cold cream, only not rubbed in; wash off in the morning. It causes the wormiest dirt skin to come off in tiny, almost invisible flakes, a little each day, until the fresh young under-skin is wholly in evidence. The beautiful rose-tinted complexion thus obtained is not to be compared with one made over with cosmetics. If the old skin is marred with freckles, pimples or other blemishes, these defects are of course discarded with the skin itself. An ounce of the wax is sufficient in any case. The ingredients named are inexpensive and can be found in any drug store.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

BY HENRIETTA D. GRAUEL DOMESTIC SCIENCE LECTURER

Selected Recipes

THE following recipes have not been tested by the editor of this department as is usual with the majority of recipes used herein, because they come from a unusual source and are highly recommended. There is a neighborhood club of housekeepers in South Dakota who have a recipe exchange and when an economical and tasty dish meets with the approval of any member it is exchanged among the club members. One of these ladies reads this department daily and it is she who has contributed the following list.

Recipe number one is for a dried fruit cake: Blend a cup of white sugar with two-thirds of a cup of butter, add three eggs, three tablespoons of sour cream, one-half a teaspoon of baking soda, and one teaspoon each of cinnamon and nutmeg. Add enough sifted flour to make a batter suitable for layer cake. Drain one cup of soaked, dried apricots, prunes, or peaches and cut them in small bits. Put fruit in at the last, stir well and bake in layers.

Custard cake, our correspondent says, is very moist and tender: One cup of sugar, two well beaten eggs and half a cup of sweet milk are stirred into two cups of flour sifted with two teaspoons of baking powder. Flavor this and bake in a shallow tin. It may be spread over jelly when done and rolled up like any jelly roll or cut in squares and built into a loaf with filling between each section.

Beet salad is popular and this recipe seems to be a pungent mixture that will please those who like horseradish and spicy things. Dice cold boiled beets until you have cut enough to fill two cups, add two cups of raw chopped cabbage, season with salt and pepper, mix one-half cup of grated horseradish. Mix one-half a cup of light brown sugar with one cup of vinegar, heat this and pour over the salad. Chill and serve with cream or lettuce.

Another dressing may be used if preferred; mix a half a cup of hot vinegar with a half a cup of white sugar, beat two eggs and pour the sweetened vinegar upon them, beating continuously. This must be cooked in double boiler, not of tin. Add salt, pepper and mustard to suit taste and, still stirring, a half a cup of sour cream. This will soon begin to thicken, when it may be removed from fire and poured over the cabbage or beet mixture. It should not be served until it has cooled and stood on ice for an hour.

Steak a la Suisse is for tough cuts, it makes the meat tender and furnishes excellent gravy: Pound the steak with a mangle or edge of heavy plate, then rub several tablespoons of salted and peppered flour into the incisions. Have two tablespoons of fat smoking in a frying pan, put in the steak and let it brown, turn over and cover, move to back of range where it may cook slowly. When done, add more flour to the fat in the pan and when it browns a little, a cup of water and two cups of milk. Stir until rich looking and thick. Pour this over the steak or serve in a tureen.

arma. A stern, low-spoken command came from the rear. I saw the look of hate in his eyes as he turned to Montreal, but that brave front straight into the coward's eyes and he slunk away.

But, to return to my story. In the general hospital I came upon Hubert, who had been wounded. Even as I bent over my brother, I heard a voice faintly whisper my name. My heart gave a great throb, and I looked about me. Straightened up and looked about me. There, on the next bed, lay Edwin.

As I later learned, Hubert had been fighting upon the same side as I. He had come to his aid just as I was being bent over him. He drove forward and about his rifle at Hubert.

Returning home, I reported to General Wolfe that I had found Edwin. Although he was undergoing intense suffering as the result of his illness, he smiled and rejoiced with me. It was a relief to him to hear of his own life affair, of which I have already made mention.

A few days later, I made another trip to the hospital and, to my great grief, learned that Lieutenant Arleigh had died and was buried the day previous. Hubert broke the news to me. Little did he know at the time that it almost robbed me of my reason.

As Edwin told me later, this is what actually occurred. A French soldier lying upon a cot next to mine died during the night. A darling idea occurred to Edwin. Cautiously creeping over to the dead man's bed, he exchanged clothes with him, and then placed the body on his own cot. Edwin then lay down on the cot which had been occupied by the dead man, and when morning came, the surgeon discovered the supposed Englishman had died, and immediately ordered his body removed.

Stopping at Edwin's side, the doctor found him in such an improved condition that he ordered him returned to duty. With light heart, Lieutenant Arleigh left the building only to find that the body of Bourgainville's men who had been ordered to march to Quebec and form part of the city's defense. The officer in command espied the distinguished soldier and ordered him to fall in with the rest of the body. Without a word, Edwin complied.

Meanwhile, General Wolfe had been stricken mortally ill. His disease had become aggravated to such an extent that the surgeon, in response to the sick man's request, bluntly informed him that recovery was out of the question. Instead of being cast down by the awful news, the intrepid soul begged the doctor to so make him up that he might last a few days longer.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble vitality. Who, having tried advertised "flesh-makers," food, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to life-long skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative force, known as Sargol, after years of thinness, and is also unequalled for its power to restore strength and vitality. It is a natural, scientific, and safe method of regaining weight and strength. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

A month's systematic use of Sargol should produce flesh and strength by increasing the food value of the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten. The additional fact that this people need are provided, leading to a greater supply of Sargol and says there is a large demand for it.

While this new preparation has given splendid results as a nerve tonic and vitality, it should not be used by nervous people unless they wish to gain at least ten pounds of flesh.

Training by Punishment

Teasing has ruined the disposition of many a child. It is particularly cruel because it is so unfair. The child does not retaliate—except by naughtiness; and just as soon as he becomes naughty he is punished. Parents, of course, will never be guilty of tormenting a child; but older children in the house, or unthinking relations, can make the little life almost unbearable. This is a little life almost unbearable. This is a little life almost unbearable.

However, when a child's conduct demands punishment, there is only one thing to do—punish. But let the discipline be very positive, so as to leave no doubt in the child's mind what his future course of conduct is to be.

The spirit of anger is never part of good discipline. And sternness is seldom necessary. Allow the child as much liberty as possible, but teach him definitely the limits of his freedom. Use few "don'ts," but when once you have said "don't," enforce it. Make the child as happy as possible and encourage him to do his best. Be as enthusiastic as you know; but, when you give the word, see that he obeys without hesitation. Speak once; if he does not obey, do something to impress upon him the fact that you meant what you said. The parent who threatens punishment a dozen times, once that he administers it, is never obeyed.

Some children are harder to manage than others; but the child who does not mind casts doubt upon the training he has received rather than on his own character. It is his parents' fault always. It requires not only good judgment but a fondness for children to obtain good discipline in one's family, and an unlimited supply of tact, faithfulness and perseverance.

Compliment is a losing its popularity, fortunately, but there are children yet who need it occasionally. The same kind of punishment repeated time and time again is often ineffectual in a child who is hard to manage. A child who is shut in a cupboard every time he is naughty soon learns to amuse himself and have a pretty good time there.

Scorn of the misdeed, shown in some unexpected way, is far more apt to make an impression.

YELLOW HAS COME INTO ITS OWN

Color Formerly Banned by Fashion, is Now at Height of Popularity. For a long time yellow was hardly counted in with pale pink and pale blue as an appropriate color for all occasions—for use on lingerie and negligee, for the touch of pale color on the lace or chiffon blouse, and for the light-colored blouse itself. Yellow is now in all its glory. Not only are yellow ribbons used to lace up all sorts of lingerie and yellow roses and ribbons used on negligees, but tiny yellow muslin borders appear on handkerchiefs and yellow blouses of chiffon and crepe de chine and linen are much worn. Probably "maize" is the best of the light shades for general wear.

Along with the increased use of yellow comes the increased use of yellow roses for corsage flowers and trimmings for evening frocks.

The smartest and newest of handbags remind one of a tiny trunk or square jewel case. On the top of the box, which opens with two flap-like covers that meet under the handle, is the owner's monogram in gold or silver. Inside the box are coin cases, bill pockets and expensive vanity sets, including mirror, file and manicure set.

Another bag, very new and roomy, as well as effective, is a handsome design from Austria, containing a Swiss watch and framed in silver.

Some of the new high chapeaux from Paris are of waxed flannel and wonderfully fashioned pink tulle roses.

The latest styles in gloves embrace a varied range: Bandolee gloves, with stitching and wristband of contrasting colors. A very effective sports glove is of mocha, chambray or cashmere with flare wrist and strap buttons, kid gloves with bracelet effect and embroidered wrists, and gloves in white kid with colored seams, stitching and fancy embroidery are equally chic.

MOTION PICTURE STORIES

WOLFE OR THE CAPTURE OF QUEBEC

Continued from Yesterday. A day or two later, by General Wolfe's orders, the English general, Monkton, seized Point Levis, which lies opposite Quebec. Here, heavy guns were mounted and the battery, aided by the guns of the fleet, poured a rain of shot and shell into the city. The cannon fire was so continuous and the sound of the bombardment could be heard for miles. The English shells struck many houses in the city, crumbling them to ruins.

About this time some bushwhackers, those despicable nondescripts who fight first on one side and then on the other, according to which profited them most, came upon my father's chateau. The English had apparently withdrawn, hence we were quite helpless.

The leader of the band, among which were some Indians, requested water with which to quench his thirst. As I brought him a pitcher of cool milk, he attempted to seize me in his arms. My father saw this and struck the villain a vigorous blow across the face with his sword. The man's surprise enabled us both to dash into the house and bar the door.

Even so, we should not have been able to hold out for long but for the timely arrival of a party of Royal Americans. Thus, you see, Edwin came to my aid for a second time. His men fell upon the bushwhackers and drove them off. Shortly afterwards, General Wolfe, in person, came from thenceforth our chateau was his headquarters.

The next move in the English campaign was an attack upon the redoubt at Montmorency Falls. By this time I was torn between conflicting emotions. I had already grown to love Lieutenant Arleigh. He was among the troops who were to take part in the attack upon the redoubt. I did not know whether to pray for the success of the French soldiers, of whom my beloved Hubert was one, or for Edwin's countrymen.

As you know, the battle resulted in a glorious victory for the French. I have been told that the impetuosity of the Grenadiers attached to the British forces brought this about. Edwin frequently informed me that these men disobeyed orders and rushed forward to engage the enemy without waiting for the rest of the army.

Their very impetuosity almost carried the day, for they swept the opposing force before them for a few moments. Before long, however, the Grenadiers were repulsed. But for the brave stand made by the Highlanders, a body of Scottish soldiers of exceeding bravery, they would have been annihilated.

I awaited the report of the battle with intense eagerness—an eagerness as great as that of the noble Wolfe. And when Edwin was reported among the missing, I was as downcast as the great English commander-in-chief upon the knowledge of his men's defeat.

Unable to stand the suspense, I hastened to the scene of the battle. The silent, sprawling figures would have rendered me ill with nervous strain had it not been so greatly concealed about the fate of Edwin. Unable to find him, I made my way into the French lines. There I at once went to the quarters of the brave Marquis de Montcalm. From him I secured a pass to the general hospital.

I might tell you that the noble man had added me once before. It was while I was in the general hospital some months before. Governor Vaudreuil had chanced to lay his wolfish eyes upon me and later came smirking to the corner of the balcony where I sat. It seems that the Marquis de Montcalm must have read the villain's mind, because he had taken the liberty of following him. He came upon me just as the governor was attempting to seize me in his

By MADGE MARVEL

The Old-Fashioned Woman, who likes to be well dressed after conservative ideas of what "a lady should wear," went shopping in New York city for her summer wardrobe. When she returned to her hotel, after what she described as a "most shocking day," she confessed that she had been forcibly impressed with the fact that she was an almost extinct type, and that the fashion world had moved on and left her at the cross roads.

According to her views her demands were perfectly reasonable. She wanted "simple, neat things," a tailored suit, a practical silk gown quite good enough for church and semi-dress wear, a light-weight street gown, two or three plain and becoming hats, suitable for the woman of mature years, and some dainty collars and accessories.

Next, a draped skirt of blue serge. Over it a coat, bolero in front, position in the back of striped gabardine in lighter blue with rose, yellow and white lines. A suit of moire in Alsatian blue, the skirt very full about the hips and draped to simulate a bustle. Wide straps of the blue moire over a lace blouse. A giraffe of dull yellow. A ruffled coat of crepe, the ground the same shade as the moire, the figures little Chinese design of yellow with a touch of lighter blue and dull red. Blue linen with a long tunic embroidered in colors in a deep border. These are just a few of the blue frocks noticed in less than an hour.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie: I am in great trouble. I have good reason to suspect that the girl who is all the world to me has not been as discreet in the past as she should have been. So far as I know she is not aware that I am in possession of this information. PERPLEXED.

Three Minute Journeys

Where One Man Is the Whole Show

By TEMPLE MANNING

It is typical. A mummer came into the compound, introduced himself and he departed, but reappeared almost at once—rather, there came before us a weird hooded apparition, its movements were mainly gyratory, the accompaniment being a rhythmic clashing of hidden ankle-bells and a droning reiteration of "Bhoom-bhoom bhoh-nath sibil saukar," a chanting invocation to the god Mahadeva.

At almost every part of India the fakir is met—the man who does strange tricks, charms snakes, etc.—but the real histrionic ability of the native is not appreciated until one has seen a "bahurupi" (literally a "man of many shapes"). These men travel alone invariably, and, once having obtained permission to exhibit their talents, proceed to mystify their patrons in a most extraordinary fashion, appearing in all words of clever disguises and deceiving travellers and natives alike.

Famous Prima Donna Writes First Article on How to Be Beautiful

of the famous Lucrezia Borgia, about whose real character there has ever been mystery.

Mlle. Lucrezia Bori, the youngest star in the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York, has finally been prevailed upon to write on beauty for this paper. She herself is petite, with an exquisitely rounded figure, wonderful hands, with an expression in her gestures as there is in her liquid black eyes, eyes that show a glint of warm reddish brown in certain moods and lights, and that glow with limitless, inky depths in other tempers.

Whatever one believes, the beauty and charm of the original Lucrezia Borgia have never been questioned, and her descendant has inherited her undeniable beauty from her.

When Mlle. Bori became an opera singer she dropped the latter part of her family name, for she was not willing to gain any prominence through the advertising which her father's position would give her.

Now that she has succeeded, she feels "that it would not matter."

By LUCREZIA BORI

It seems very difficult for me to speak to American women about beauty, because they seem so well to know how to make themselves attractive. They are very fascinating to me, these fine, tall, independent women, with their splendid health. They seem so competent, so alive, so ready and able to meet any emergency.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

How You Can Gain Weight; Why Lankiness Is Common

By Dr. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins)

ARE all thin persons concave? The original meaning of the word lean so indicates. The Anglo-Saxon, Middle English and Scandinavian words, from which this term is derived, mean bent, bowed or stooping.

A gap-cheeked man is usually pictured by poets and painters as lean as death, yet a scrawny man is best for a long journey.

Those of us who are scant of flesh and far from plump, with spare ribs, spindle shanks, lanky legs and hollow cheeks have often the better half of Goldsmith's verse: "The fat were so pale, and the lean were so ruddy."

Honest toil by honest men make them lank and lean from their exertions. Chastity itself is associated often in the public mind with a wasplike thinness. Edmund Spenser phrased this universal view when he clothed chaste Diana in silver buskins from her nimble thigh, and described her "lank loins ungraced."

"Common Folks" Thin. Personified trusts, sleek senators, corporations and other unpopular individuals who "sleep o' nights" are all as rotund and globular as the equator or a theatrical magnate.

The "common people," Socialists, reformers, clergymen, poets and other professionally honest creatures are drawn as thin as the eye of a needle. Self-satisfied, content, equatorial individuals with squab-like breasts, squat hips, dumpy corporeities and bay-windowed incontinently may fear the hawk-like penetration of the slim, tapering slightly-bodied.

Since all the fair and fat would be thin, and all the gaunt and skinny would wax buterflies, it is always a serious sanitary problem to discover whether he who drives fat oxen should himself be fat.

If you are thin and have a cough, not only is your ambition to grow rotund justified, but your very life may depend upon a rapid gain in weight.

Tenuity of your tissues and tuberculous are an unhappy combination. You must overcome these unheavenly twins at once. If you are lean and have an annoying bronchitis, laryngitis, bronchial infection, or any other sort of cough, do not believe either the "cough" or the "lankiness" upon smoking or eating.

What makes you so thin? was a query levelled at a club acquaintance recently. "Oh, just a slight cough," he smiled. "What's that from?" was a friend's question.

Way to Get Fat. "Oh, the doctor said it was only a cigarette cough or a stomach cough." This man or the doctor lied. No doctor nowadays prescribes a cough to smothering or to the stomach. Ninety odd times in the hundred any cough of great duration, accompanied by a waste of flesh, spells tuberculosis.

An admission of the truth that it is this malady means early and strenuous measures to eradicate it. Self-deception as to the truth means death or disaster. The way to grow fat, to gain flesh, to "make weight," is to live in the sunlight, in the fresh air, in the dry country, where rich cream, clean oxygen, fine butter and "honest-to-goodness" often watched flashes of the keenest impatience and disgust with men as a sex, haven't you?"

"And mother," said mother, "Of course, but whatever her attitude, son, a woman is usually more on her guard than a man. She's rather beautifully situated in a woman's life. She's the most marvelous work of creation, and then when he turns away and begins to strut she laughs up her sleeve. With men it's a little different, and there isn't the same necessity for subtlety that there is with women. Men as a race are not economically dependent upon another sex. Most men therefore blunder less poise once in a while and reveal a flash of that colossal egotism which is as much a part of their nature as their intelligence."

"Oh, come now, mother," I protested feebly, knowing well enough that she was right, "you're a little hard on men. You know, when all's said and done there is a certain secret egotism among women, too. I believe there is a strong conviction of inherent superiority in the heart of every woman. She thinks she's something subtler and finer than mere man."

"She is," said mother promptly, and we both laughed.

"And, moreover," I went on, "she's pretty sure man doesn't understand her." "He doesn't," said mother with instant conviction. "No man ever understood women half so well, Peter, as women understand men."

"It's a queer situation," I mused, "half of one sex ineluctably and chivalrously deferring to a sex at whose weaknesses and viewpoint they secretly jeer. All carefree of the other sex pandering instinctively to men—for what?"

"Economic support—good of the mother. 'Economic support' means 'whatsoever you may choose to call it.'"

"An 'economist' man," I suggested, "like the clinging vine. It's disconcerting to a man's sense of indispensability to feel two feet and get along without him. It's a monstrous perversion of the fitness of things in his sight."

"And the remedy?" wondered mother. "A draw!" said I. "With veiled antagonism and a mutual sense of sex superiority, the man and the woman are some strong-minded lady who boxed him about a bit, and he takes revenge on the sex in general. The casual chap I imagine is most sincere."

"The last," ventured mother, "is probably not quite so genuine as it appears. It's rooted in a very headstrong sex egotism which the man may have been driven to adopt for purposes of self-defense. Likely, Peter, he's known some strong-minded lady who boxed him about a bit, and he takes revenge on the sex in general. The casual chap I imagine is most sincere."

NEWMAN HORSES ARRIVE AT TRACK

Hearts of Oak and Plate Glass Supply Feature Trials at the Woodbine.

There was considerable work yesterday morning at the track and most of it was of the sprint variety. Very few were sent more than 3/4, and the majority of them were only breezed 3/4 and 1/2. There should be a good lot of work this morning, as the time is not far away when the bugle will sound for the first race. As opening day draws nearer more interest is manifested and the attendance of rail birds grows larger each morning.

H. S. Newman of Sweet Water, Texas, arrived yesterday morning with a string of six. Among the lot was that noted sprinter Panaretta that in a match race against Iron Mask at Juarez, although beaten, made her opponent break a world's record, going the 3/4 in 1:02 2-5. The stable is made up of the following: Panaretta, b.g. (3), by Saint Sarin-Alma Gorda. Uncle Ben, b.g. (7), by The Irishman—Bess of Biddan. Ben's Brother, b.g. (2), by The Irishman—Bess of Biddan, full brother. Panaretta, ch.f. (4), by Abe Frank—City Girl. Fawn, ch.g. (4), by Abe Frank—Burnice Bunton. Josephine Zepeta, ch.f. (2), by Abe Frank—Missus. The horses all shipped in first-class shape and look in the best of condition.

Willie Martin got in with his stable of seven from Baltimore. They are: Kaydarses, b.g. (4), Cope, b.h. (4), Mediator, b.h. (5), The Pin (3), Pied Piper, b.h.g. (3), The Rump, ch.g. (5), Sun Home, ch.c. (3). This stable also shipped well and are in good condition.

Mrs. Livingston's string of sixteen are expected today or tomorrow. The stalls were being put in shape to receive them. Silberry worked 3/4 miles, nice and handy, in 2:11 1-4.

The Seagram two-year-olds were worked a half around 5:30. The platers, Dark Rosalie and Sea Lord, together, and Vastatio and Frolasart, three-eighths from the barrier in 37-2-5. Booser, from Wm. Walker's stable, breezed five-eighths in 1:05, very easily; Tom Horn, 1/4 miles in 2:08 1-4; Letourne a mile in 1:44 4-5; Banjo Jim a mile very easily in 1:47.

TWO MEDIATORS ARRIVE AT FALLS

Envoys From Argentina and Brazil Were First to Appear.

WELCOMED BY DUKE

Hon. Mr. Perley is Expected to Represent Dominion Government.

Special to The Toronto World. NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 18.—With two Argentina, Brazil and Chili mediators, Romulo S. Naon, minister of the Argentine states from Argentina, and Dominico da Gama, Brazilian ambassador, here, the stage is set for the opening of the mediation conference here Wednesday. The American delegates will arrive at the Falls shortly after midnight. Minister Suarez, Chili, is expected tomorrow afternoon; so are Huerta's representatives.

Also no one will talk tonight, it is understood the mediators will take up the settlement claims of the United States immediately upon opening the mediation here. Working out a system of government for Mexico will be left till after the differences between the two North American republics are settled, it is said.

First of Mediators. Dr. Romulo S. Naon, minister of Argentina, was the first of the three mediators to arrive. He reached Buffalo at 7:30 o'clock this morning, and was met by Robert F. Rose, representative of the United States state department. The party came in a Buffalo automobile over the state boulevard.

Dr. Naon refused to talk with newspapermen. He said he was tired and desired to rest. With him were his 12-year-old son, Romulo, and daughter, Yvonne.

It is understood that the Dominion Government will send a cabinet minister to the Falls to welcome the mediators and representatives of the United States and Mexico to Canada officially on Wednesday. Hon. George Perley is expected to be the representative. No official advice has been received, it is expected that Hon. Mr. Perley will arrive at the Clifton House tomorrow or early Wednesday.

Royalty's Greeting. Minister Naon received this message today: "As governor-general, I welcome you on your arrival on Canadian soil, and express my hope that the mediation efforts of yourself and your colleagues to preserve peace may meet with speedy and lasting success."

BANK CLERK FLED ACCOUNTS SHORT

Montreal Man Leaves Wife and Elopes With Young Woman.

Canada Press Dispatch. MONTREAL, May 18.—A dashing young woman, the stock market and a young bank clerk are the three elements in a sensation in Montreal banking circles. The clerk and the woman are gone from the city. A deserted wife is disconsolate in a Westmont home while an aged heartbroken mother refuses to be comforted in another home. Across the continent the Pinkerton detective agency is spreading its net for the capture of the fugitive.

Vassal L. Delmage, until he fled, collection clerk in the hand office of the Montreal Bank of Canada here, is wanted by the detectives on a charge of using the money of the bank for his own purposes. A hurried scrutiny of the accounts this morning revealed already $1,000 missing, but as this is in recent transactions, it is thought that the clerk never showed up in the bank.

The young man is said to have lost heavily recently on the stock market. Delmage is about 35 years of age, and well known in Quebec banking circles. It is said an examination of the books of the bank will reveal a defalcation of almost $100,000.

OLD ISSUES ARE FIRM

There was no great response to the local market's invitation to buyers yesterday and the volume of business was light. NEW YORK, May 18.—There was a broad inquiry for stock today, and the level reached on last week's rise. Buying was confident and sentiment optimistic. TRADE CONDITIONS MUCH IMPROVED

Developments of Last Week Favorable on the Whole Says New York Bankers.

Hearsey Cues & Company in its bulletin says: "The developments of the week as a whole have been favorable. Notwithstanding family discouragements and pessimistic habits to which many are weakly submitting, there are several very important and fundamental reasons for taking a more confident view of the future. The crop outlook is more encouraging than for many years; and even if some setback should occur, it is not improbable that the margin of advantage is so great as to still afford splendid promise. This is especially true of wheat, and the corn outlook is also excellent and promises a liberal increase in acreage. Moreover, the industrial situation is satisfactory, and indications point to a fair increase in the acreage of cotton. May has been a cold month in all parts of the country; consequently some crops are retarded, but a few days of warm weather would quickly recover all lost ground from this cause. Another satisfactory element is the general soundness of business conditions. Persistent liquidation has weakened the market, but a few spots of business have been over-expansion in any direction. For some time past business has been conducted on a hand-to-mouth and bedrock basis. Commodity prices have shown a fairly considerable decline. There are no over supplies of desirable merchandise, and basic conditions generally are exceptionally ripe for a fresh forward movement in that the industry has confidence in the future. Confidence is the chief element lacking."

Random Notes on the Mining Stocks

The mining market was very strong on the second exchange, and the only stock that was not more active was the scarcity of stocks. The broker's market Monday was quiet, but the prices are below present market prices. A few days of active markets and these prices will be raised, and the result must be a higher and more active market.

IPSWICH WILL HAVE THREE-CORNERED FIGHT

But So-Called "Rebel Candidate" is Not Taken Seriously.

Canadian Associated Press Cable. LONDON, Eng., May 18.—Polling takes place on Saturday in Ipswich. To the surprise and disgust equally of the Unionist and Liberal candidates, a third warrior has appeared suddenly. Scour to wit, who is vaguely described by his backers as the rebel candidate. Local Laborites don't own him. The general supposition is that if he really goes to the poll he won't secure above a hundred votes.

A fourth candidate is even talked about, a dissenting minister having expressed his willingness to stand on the modest program, "The Democratization of Europe."

Two years in Kingston was imposed by the police court magistrate yesterday upon Thomas Ward, who threw bricks thru three plate glass windows at Eaton's store, in the hope of deportation. The prisoner had previously been arrested on a trivial charge and was acquitted. He asked on that occasion to be deported, but was told to go to work. With a view to securing a free passage home to England, he adopted militant tactics, breaking windows and doing damage amounting to $300. He was probably dejected by the government when his sentence expires.

TORONTO GRADED UNION. The Toronto Graded S. S. Teachers' Union will meet on Tuesday evening in High Park Presbyterian Sunday School.
