LITTLE KIDS ALL THE DAY MERRY

A Visit to St. John Supervised Play Grounds RUSH AT OPENING

Children Eager for Pleasures Provided at Every Day Club Field and Centennial School—What They Find—A Hint for This City from Massachusetts

The attendance at the openings of the supervised playgrounds on the Every Day Club and Centennial School grounds this season indicates that the movement is increasing in popularity and has made great headway in St. John during the four years it has been enjoyed here. Each season has seen improvement till this year has eclipsed all others.

It only remained for the school holidays for the hundreds of children, free from their studies, to seek the recreation provided for them so liberally and carefully on Every Day Club and Centennial grounds, and when the gates were officially thrown open to them and it was made known that the games and other amusements were at the disposal of the young ones, a rush of children came to the grounds, and the localities were a steady stream winding their way in the direction of both play grounds. Inside the grounds there was a rush for swings, about the chutes, basket ball and the other amusements, and the locality resounded with the merry laughter and enthusiastic chatter of the little ones.

A glance at the roiling little men and women of the future is sufficient proof should good that is being done by the ground movement, and of the gladness it brings into many little lives. Both play grounds are particularly well supplied with supervisors and teachers this year and it is well within the truth to say that they are equal to any in Canada, in this respect.

The Supervisors

Both the supervisors on the Every Day Club and Centennial grounds are from well known training schools, and have been appointed by the board of education. Miss Frances Kerwell, the supervisor of the former grounds, is a graduate of the best training schools in London, England, and she had the distinction of being the winner of the king's scholarship which entitles her to a year's study at the University of London.

The Assistants

Miss Kerwell has as her assistant Miss Janet Maxwell, who also has had much experience. Miss Buchanan has as her assistant Miss Susie and Bertha Turner. The latter has had experience in play ground and kindergarten work in Chicago.

The equipment this year, with the exception of the "flat slide" is about the same as last year. This slide has lately been installed in the Centennial grounds, and is very popular.

Teaching Men to Sing

This week it is the intention to bring the organ from the Every Day Club rooms to the grounds when the children will be taught singing to better advantage. Both Miss Kerwell and Miss Maxwell are proficient at sight reading of music and thus far they have been instructing the little ones without the aid of organ or piano. The hours are from 9 a. m. to 12 and from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. in the evenings. It is the intention of those in charge on these grounds to place an exhibit of the work in the dominion fair here in September.

German Cruiser to Nicaragua

Callao, Peru, July 9.—The German cruiser Bremen has arrived here and is coaling before proceeding to Nicaragua, where she is going to protect German interests.

Paris, July 9.—A dispatch from Lisbon says that the crew of the yacht Tonia, which is owned by Count Rudolphe Festetics de Toins, of Austria, mutinied yesterday with the purpose of looting the vessel. They bound two of the officers, but the count quelled the mutiny with a revolver and the crew were handed over to the police.

REASON FOR PRIDE IN CITY

Boom Essay Which Won Board of Trade Special A GOOD ARTICLE

Miss Waterman Reviews Conditions Leading up to Present Prosperity, Speaks of Matters as Now Existing and Makes Suggestions for Future.

The essay which follows was written by Miss Rosalie Waterman of Waterloo street in connection with the contest conducted by the board of trade, and Miss Waterman was awarded a special prize of $10. This paper covered the subject of steady growth and progress, with a reference to the present conditions and the future. It was thought so noteworthy that the judges recommended it to the committee for special consideration and the prize was awarded accordingly.

The daring lover of adventure may thrill as with his stirring tales of life in the growing western cities; the enthusiastic farmer of Manitoba may boast of his broad wheat fields and the wealth of his city, in the natural beauties and advantages that surround it on every side, in the wide fertile lands who have recognized these advantages and devoted their time and energy to the task of putting them to the most profitable use; in this city's name, bestowed three centuries ago by a great discoverer, and a history of steady growth and progress, with a flourishing present and a bright outlook towards a successful future. It is that man who, in the year 1492, called himself a citizen of St. John, New Brunswick.

Time of Prosperity

It is evident that the present time of prosperity is not a new thing for our city; and with the winter port business progressing as it is, the prospect of having another year of important industries being held here in the fall, we have every reason to expect continued good fortune in the future. What a grand subject would be the complete history of St. John since the time when Champlain and DuRoi first sailed into the harbor.

And yet, even as we may experience more happiness in one day than in a lifetime, so in the fifteen years that have passed, our city has seen some of the most important improvements of its whole history.

Water Port Growth

It was not until fifteen years ago, however, that the government consented, unwillingly, to subsidize lines of steamships to run between St. John and Liverpool, and to give the city a fair chance to develop the exportation of Canadian produce through Canadian ports. During the first winter season, twenty-two sailings were made, carrying fifty thousand eight hundred and ninety-two tons; and the success of the attempt was so evident that in the next year subsidies were also granted to lines running from St. John to London, Glasgow, Belfast and Dublin, and the number of sailings increased to forty-six, with a register of ninety-two thousand four hundred and ninety-two tons.

Since the winter of 1897, when the mail subsidy previously granted to ships making their terminus at Portland, Maine, was withdrawn, we have not only increased our trade with the United Kingdom by adding Manchester and Bristol to the list of our steamship connections, but we have also opened up a service in the last few years with South Africa, Mexico and the West Indies, and in the winter of 1908-1909 one hundred and eight sailings were recorded, carrying four hundred and seventy-four thousand six hundred and twenty tons. In the month of May, 1910, the first ship will sail from St. John to New Zealand.

In order to provide for this steady growth in winter trade it has been necessary to improve the harbor to insure the safer passage of ships in the Bay of Fundy, and to enlarge the terminal facilities for the coal trade. A large number of warehouses have been erected; the McLeod wharf and Intercontinental pier have been built, and other wharves repaired; a steam wharf has been placed between Partridge Island and Lepreau, and a lightship on the Larcher shoal; the I. C. R. has enlarged its wharves by a new yard and round-house, a freight shed and elevator, and a large number of freight offices, while the C. P. R. has constructed a network of yards.

CAMP WAS GOOD ONE THIS YEAR

Excellent Work Done in the Various Branches of Military Work—Recruits Different Men Than They Were at Start—Feeling Proprietary a Big One

The some has changed once again at Camp Sussex. The big military camping grounds for the past two weeks, the home of nearly 2,000 men, are now deserted. An air of quiet and loneliness now dwells over the spacious campus, replacing the atmosphere of expectancy and excitement prevailing during the past fortnight. No more is seen the inspiring spectacle of more than 2,000 men, in many colored uniforms, performing interesting manoeuvres of drill; no more are presented to the eye the long straight lines of white houses of canvas standing erect, in striking contrast to the green on which they rest and also the different hues of uniforms of the occupants; no more are heard the familiar marches of the regimental bands, the sharp notes of command, the clear, crisp notes of the bugle, or the heavy booming of the cannon—all these have gone for another year.

A GLANCE BACKWARD

To compare the mind of the week accomplished in these two brief weeks is to wonder at the possibility of it all. Almost at a moment's notice an empty field, many acres in area, was populated with hundreds of men in uniform—many lacking in knowledge of the duties required of them as soldiers, but to rapidly improve under competent instruction. It seems almost incredible that such an amount of work was performed in so short a time.

THE CAMP REVIEWED

It seems hardly possible that only two weeks ago today a remarkable change was effected in the environment of Sussex. In an incredibly short space of time the quiet little town was transformed, as if by some magic wand, into a bustling military encampment, bustling with life and spirit. Its streets and rustic roads alive with red coats and its whole exterior presenting in an attractive manner, a picturesque and realistic idea of the life of Tommy Atkins on active service.

AT THE HIGHS

The Hague, July 9.—Replying to Latham who asked what significance Britain attached to the word "bays" in the recent clause of the treaty of 1818, Mr. Root said that Britain understood by this word, all bays in a geographical sense without taking into account if they were or were not included in British territorial waters.

AT THE LOWS

Attorney-General Robson said that the bays in which the United States renounced fishing rights were in fact territorial waters, but that from the British viewpoint this question was secondary in importance as the treaty of 1818 excluded Americans from all bays on the coast not expressly mentioned in the treaty.

AT THE MIDS

Mr. Warren then continued his speech, and said that Britain had never seized American vessels outside the three mile limit.

FIGURES THAT TELL STORIES

STEAM AND ELECTRIC RAILWAYS.

The electric railways are developing a freight traffic that is growing by leaps and bounds. The pictures show that while freight earnings on steam roads are more than twice as large as in 1901, the electric railways are earning from this source four times as much as in 1901.

The figures for tonnage also show corresponding advances. In 1901, the steam railways carried 36,999,371 tons; in 1909, 66,842,258 tons, not quite doubling the tonnage, although the earnings have more than doubled, owing, it is obvious, to an increased carrying per ton.

The latest compiled figures of tonnage for electric railways are for 1908, and show that freight tonnage has almost trebled, being 287,926 tons in 1901 and 732,475 tons in 1908.

Judging by the freight earnings, however, a conservative estimate would place the freight carried by electric railways at 800,000 tons for 1909, as the earnings in 1908 were $346,021, and the figures for 1909 show an increase of $40,071.

COMPLETE A 1-2 MILES OF PANAMA CANAL

Panama, July 9.—The Panama Canal Commission has completed the excavation of a one-half mile of the canal channel at the Pacific entrance. The complete section extends from the deep sea at Panama Bay to a station about 2,800 feet from the end of the Panama Railway wharf at Balboa.

Between these points the channel has been dredged to an average depth of forty-five feet, some parts a little more, in others a little less, allowing for a certain percentage of fill, which will be constantly carried into it by rents and tidal movements.

Fashion Hints for Times Readers

THE TURBAN—A NEW SUMMER INNOVATION

For many years have turbans been a feature of midsummer dress, as they promise to be this season. Of course the new turbans are very large, and they set far down on the head which somewhat disguises the size; but they are turbans, and not shade hats nevertheless. This turban is made of leghorn straw, faced on the brim with black velvet and trimmed more with an ostrich feather drooping toward the back. The tailored suit is black and white checked mohair and the hat of snow white neckwear with a black velvet bow at the throat makes this costume very chic.

But Trimmer was alert. "Stand still, there, Opal, I've got the drop," he said. "I'll look out for number one this morning, understand? You ring the bell. A sudden loud knock at the door broke in upon his speech, and both men started in alarm.

"Opal!" cried a muffled voice in accents of warning just overhead. "Come out! Come out—hurry! Too late! You'll have to get out of the window!"

The roar and excitement of the coming crowd, aroused to wild indignation, broke over to the den. An army of citizens, leading the way for Christie's deputies, was storming McCoppet's saloon.

He knew too much to attempt to explain, to accuse even Trimmer to a mob in heat. Nothing but flight was possible, and perhaps even that was a risk.

He started for the window. Trimmer leaped before him.

"No you don't!" he said. "I told you Opal, 'take that!' the gambler cut in sharply. His gun leaped out with flame at its end, and the roar, fire, bullet, and smoke, heaved him back. A second shot and a third did the same—and Trimmer went down like a log.

His gun had fallen from his hand. With all his brute vitality he crawled to take up one of the bullets pierced his chest, but yet he would not die.

McCoppet had snatched up a chair and with it he beat out the window. Then Trimmer's gun crashed tremendously—and Opal sank against the sill.

He faced his man, a ghastly pale, and went down slowly, like a mass of molting snow, his cigar still hanging on his lip.

He saw the lumberman sliver. But the fellow crowded his cigar stump in his mouth, with fire and oil, and chewed it up as he was dying.

"Good shot," said McCoppet faintly. His head went forward on his breast and he crumpled on the floor.

CHAPTER XLVI.
Wasted Time.

Van was conveyed to Mrs. Dick's. The fever attacked him in his helplessness and delirium claimed him for its own. He glided from unconsciousness into a wandering state of mind before the hour of noon.

His wound was an ugly, fiery affair, made worse by all that he did. For having returned from his lethargy, he promptly began to fight anew all his battles with horses, men and love that had crossed his summer orbit.

Gettysburg, Dave, and Napoleon begged for the burnt of the battle. They got it. For three long days Van lay upon his bed and fang them all around the room. He hurt them, bruised them, even called them names, but ever like three faithful dogs, whom beatings will never discourage—the beatings at least of a master much beloved—they returned undaunted to the fray, with affection constantly increasing.

There were three other nurses—two women and Algy, the cook. But Beth was the one who kept the least, who glided most often to the sick man's side, who was his faithful nurse.

"How much time have we wasted?" "Oh, don't," she said, warmly blushing, "ever speak that night on the desert." He shook a smiling negative.

"Why, we've wasted all our lives." He raised her again, then sank into slumber with the dusk.

CHAPTER XLVII.
A Trip to the Desert.

Love is a healer without a rival in the East. Van proved it—Van and Beth, of course, together, with Gettysburg, Dave, and Napoleon to help; and Algy to furnish the sauce. All were present, including Glen and Mrs. Dick, on the summer day of celebration when at last Van came down to dinner. At sight of the wan, wasted figure, Algy, in his characteristic way, fought down his heathen emotions.

"What's mallow you, Van?" he demanded, his face oddly twitching as he pointed back his own, "His strength's superstitious! Nobody's got time to cry for you come home—make my dinner!"

He looked for the kitchen, swearing in loving Chinese.

But with that day passed, Van soon snatched back his own. His strength returned like a thing that was capable of glances, lodging where he belonged. His spirit had never been dimmed.

Boatwisk, who had been detained by the sheriff, faithfully waiting till Van should "get back on his feet," was almost relieved when his day for departure finally dawned. He was dressed, at Van's express desire, in the convict suit which he had worn on the day of his arrival.

Van was on hand when at last the stage, with Boatwisk and Christie for passengers, was ready to pull up the street.

"Searle," he said, "for a man of your stature you are really to be envied. You're going to about the only place I know where it's even remotely possible to be good and not be lonesome."

Searle went. Lawrence, perhaps more fortunate, had managed to escape. He fled away to Mexico, taking the bulk of his plunder.

Gettysburg, Dave, and Napoleon returned once more to the pier and sluices on the hill. Glenmore Kent was of the party, as superintendent of the mine. He held a degree from a school of mines, and knew even more than he had learned. Moreover, he had saved the gold pilled by Boatwisk and McCoppet.

Then one sunny morning Van and Beth were married by a Justice of the Peace. Algy and Mrs. Dick were the lawful witnesses of the rite. The only nuptial present was a gold mine in the mountains to the bride.

"You see," said Van, "you are my 'Laughing Water' claim—and just about all I can handle."

They were alone. She came to his arms and kissed him with the dimity passion of her nature. He presently took her face in his hands and gave her a rough little shake.

"Where shall we go to spend our honeymoon?"

REMOUNTS FOR THE BRITISH ARMY ON RANGH NEAR CALGARY

Major-General Benson, who will be in Charge, Has Just Been Knighted

Toronto, July 8—A cable conveys the information that Major-General Frederick Wm. Benson has been made a knight. General Benson is soon to leave the old country for Canada, where with General Cook, he will establish a ranch in the vicinity of Calgary for the raising of remounts for the British Army.

The new knight was born in St. Catharines in 1849. He is the third son of the late Hon. J. B. Benson of the Canadian senate. He was educated in Upper Canada College, and joined the 21st Hussars in 1869, when he was sent to the 17th Lancers in 1878, passed into the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in 1881, and became a D. C. to the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-west Provinces of India. He served during the South African war and was mentioned in despatches. From 1903 to 1909 he acted as director of transports and remounts.

TWO PLUCKY BOYS SAVE SEVERAL LIVES

Trenton, July 9—In two acts of heroism performed here in each instance the hero was a mere boy. Thomas Boyd, sixteen years old, a plumber's apprentice, was the first youth to achieve fame. Boyd rescued an entire family consisting of father, mother, and child, from the Trenton water tower reservoir.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus, of Lafayette street, and their daughter started out to enjoy a canoe trip, unladen hurch on the part of one of the party unskilled in the use of a boat, and the centre of the stream and rescued them in turn.

In the second case, Leonard G. King, eleven years old, jumped into the Delaware and Baritan Canals at one of its deepest points, and rescued a man who had fallen in. Young Gurdy heard a shriek when about fifty yards away, and ran to the spot, and rescued the boy who was unconscious for nearly an hour.

WARM WELCOME TO PREMIER AT PORT ARTHUR

Memorable Scene on Sir Wilfrid's Arrival at First Stopping Place in His Western Tour—Great Throng Gathered

Port Arthur, Ont., July 8—Throbbing with commercial activity and development, alert, optimistic, energetic and enterprising, this gateway to the great west gave Sir Wilfrid Laurier a memorable welcome on the arrival of his train tonight. At the depot were the mayor and aldermen, parliamentarians, members of the board of trade, citizens' reception committee and a throng of 5,000 men, women and children, waving flags and red-ribbed streamers. On the hillside beyond were banded a thousand sailors and navies, many of them newcomers from older lands, celebrating their Canadian citizenship in the remarkable demonstration.

By request the banding scheduled for yesterday was postponed until the arrival of the Canadian premier. Amid the roar of explosions, echoed in sturdy cheers taken up by the great throng below and the playing of bands, Sir Wilfrid alighted from the train, and was met by a throng of admirers, illuminated and decorated. Two evergreen flag-bedecked arches spanned the main thoroughfare in by myriads of twinkling electric lights and streamers: "Port Arthur welcomes Sir Wilfrid." "Our gratitude and thanks for progress and prosperity." The premier, who was accompanied by Senator William Gibson and E. M. MacDonald, M. P., Picton, was driven at the head of the procession of decorated automobiles to the residence of James Gannon, where a short informal reception was held.

Hon. Geo. F. Graham and F. F. Pardee, M. P., are expected from Toronto at midnight. Ald. J. M. McDevore, chairman of the civic reception committee, with Mayor L. Matthews, J. Bowman, J. G. King and S. W. Ray did the honors.

The premier did not speak tonight, contenting himself with bowing to the cheering crowds who lined the streets. He frankly expressed his appreciation of the enthusiastic reception.

Throughout the trip westward Sir Wilfrid was met at divisional points by representative gatherings. The premier did no speech-making but alighted on the platform and shook hands with many. Near Chappellau he was the recipient of a picturesque greeting which much delighted him. The children of the schools, some hundreds in number, grouped on a rocky promontory, waved handkerchiefs and flags as the train passed. The premier went to the back platform and waved to the little folks.

Sir Wilfrid stood the long journey well and expressed himself as thoroughly enjoying it. Tomorrow a formal reception will be driven around the city and take a trip on Thunder Bay in James Whelan's yacht and on return will visit Fort William, where Mayor L. L. Pelletier will

PASSENGER LINE OF "GYROPLANE" SHIPS
Missouri Corporation Has Plans Which Rival Dreams of Jules Verne's Imagination

St. Louis, Mo., July 9.—The incorporation of the Universal Aerial Navigation Company, to conduct business in Missouri, has revealed plans for a commercial passenger airship that rival the dreams of Jules Verne. Officials of the company declare that within a year they will have ships sailing the skies that will carry up a hundred passengers in a forty mile hour, if desired.

The machine is the invention of J. V. Oman, formerly of San Antonio, Texas, but now a St. Louisian. One in process of construction in the shops of the inventor. The inventor asserts that his ships can start either from the land or water. He declares it will ascend straight into the air or be launched in the manner of an aeroplane. The new airship is not a gyroscope, as named from the fact that it is a combination of gyroscope, the helicopter and the aeroplane.

John had neurasthenia. Cannot tell you why. Knew there was no hope for him, and so he came home to die. John announced his tragic fate, and said unto his chums, "I might as well enjoy my life. Until the summons comes." And then he went sailing. Every morning for a week, took a swim each afternoon. And then in manner meek, began to take an interest in work—heard nature's call; but instead of moaning around, he whitewashed the house, the barn, the garage, the chicken house and the corn crib; installed a grand lawn from a gravel pit. The woods, and made paths. Where paths were necessary; chopped wood, carried water, did more fishing, more swimming. More driving; large quantities of plain food; drank large quantities of water and Buttermilk. And didn't die at all.

Govnor Against "Tag Days"
"Tag Days" may be all right for the sake of the country resort, but Mayor Gaynor thinks it no proper diversion for a woman or a young girl in New York. He is inclined to be in favor of such a charitable purpose, as raising money for the benefit of the board of aldermen designed to allow it in one of the boroughs, in aid of a hospital, and the mayor said "the authorization sought was of doubtful legality and more than doubtful propriety. The practice of allowing women and young girls to accost strangers in the street and extract money from them, no matter how worthy the cause, should not be permitted. "Tag Days" have never been tried in New York."

DRUNKEN FINNS
TERRORIZE CAMP
Cobalt, Ont., July 9.—(Special.)—Wild with whiskey and desire for vengeance five Finns chased William James, foreman at the Flynn property in South Lorrain into the bush and kept him there for a night.
The trouble began when James put on a number of Italians at the mines. The Finns objected and James discharged them. The men, demanding that their pay cheques be cashed, but James, not being empowered to do this, refused, and one of them went at him with a knife and told him to cash his cheque or he would stab him. James got the storekeeper to cash one cheque and stealing upstairs, secured a revolver. When he came down he found four other Finns waiting for him, with knives. James managed to get out of doors by pointing a revolver, though he ducked just in time for one knife slash to pass under the chin. Then he ran to silver Centre and telephoned for assistance. In the meantime the foreigners had terrorized the whole camp.

SIR WILFRID'S TOUR Sir Wilfrid Laurier has set out on his western tour. He was given a magnificent reception at Port Arthur yesterday and delivers an address there this evening.

Speaking of Premier Roblin and the Manitoba campaign the Ottawa Journal observes—"In addition to his other troubles Premier Roblin, the Conservative Manitoba chief, has in each of his speeches to face the charge, or rather to explain the embarrassing fact that he was once a strong Liberal, and in one of his speeches of that epoch in his career he spoke of his opposition to the party of which he is now leading as 'fighting with the beasts of Ephesus.'"

Chief Koehler of the Cleburn police department is known as Golden Rule Koehler, because of his kindly methods of dealing with persons guilty of minor offences.

St. John will see something new in horse racing during the next week, and beginning today. A few of the old timers remember when running races for horses on Courtney Bay sands were a great attraction.

ASEPTO SOAP POWDER

Is Your Home "Surgically Clean"?

It is the fact that both its soap and germicidal properties work against illness, against disease—is disinfectant. Let Asepto help you keep your home clean—surgically clean.

For Asepto sterilizes everything it washes. Everything touched by water in which Asepto has been dissolved—and only a little Asepto at that—is left absolutely antiseptic, sweet and clean.

Ordinarily the application of disinfectants requires considerable work. When Asepto is used, it enables one to carry on a complete course of sterilization ALL THE TIME without any additional work—both cleans the home and KEEPS it clean.

Yet Asepto is more than merely an antiseptic—more than a germicide; it is also a soap powder—as good as the best soap on the market.

Prof. Robertson Saw Only Virility and Progress

HE'S HOME AGAIN

Says England is Well Supplied With Technical Schools—British Parliament Sets High Standard of Debate—Bonar Law's Eminent Position

(Ottawa Citizen)

"After nearly four months spent in England and Scotland, in which I took every opportunity I could find of studying conditions in as many lines of life as possible, the impression left on my mind is that England is still a great leader in agriculture and in the adaptation of her educational systems to the needs of her people."

Such is the opinion of Dr. James W. Robertson, U. M. G., who has just returned from the old country to begin his duties as chairman of the technical education committee of the commission of conservation. Dr. Robertson began his tour with the object of visiting the most progressive countries of Europe for the purpose of gathering information upon conservation and educational methods that would be of value to the commission. His journey was cut short owing to the necessity of his proceeding with the work of the technical education committee while in England Dr. Robertson took what he called a holiday. But a holiday with him means activity and that of a very intense kind. So he spent the time visiting schools, universities, colleges, members of parliament, and leaders in public thought in education and in agriculture and in studying the conditions of the people and of the country.

"My deep faith in Canada is not one which is shaken," Dr. Robertson said to the Citizen regarding his tour. "The progress has been made during the past ten years under the joint efforts of the board of education and the county councils that even the several critics have been partially silenced."

"I was amazed," the doctor went on, "to find England so well provided with technical schools and at the same time planning for further advancement. She is not slavishly copying any system or system but is taking the best from the best and using it as she sees it to suit her own needs."

"She sees many references," Dr. Robertson added, speaking with his characteristic enthusiasm, "to the opinion that England is far behind Germany in educational matters. But I think as far as I was able to learn, that England has made quite as much progress in the last ten years as Germany and that in practically all her large industries her educational methods meet the people's needs fully as well."

Dr. Robertson turned next to the subject of agriculture, to which he has given so much thought and experience. He said: "Two things deeply impressed me in British agriculture," he said. "One was the refreshing beauty of the country and the other was the excellence of their agriculture as a business and the first rate quality of the workmanship in farming operations. Two simple things in particular evidenced this and they were the care taken in straight ploughing. Even drainage and the general cleanliness of the fields, through the absence of weeds. The latter, I am sorry to say, is a striking contrast to Canada. I know that it is impossible here for the farmer to put as much labor upon his land as the English farmer does, but a great deal can be accomplished by selecting the most suitable crop rotation. I didn't see any evidence of the decadence of British agriculture. I was deeply impressed with the general excellence of the live stock. Here we have individual herds that are the equal of any in Britain, but there every herd seems to be of a high standard of breeding. It is refreshing also to see the beauty of the houses and neatness of the farm buildings. The houses almost invariably are surrounded with flowers, shrubs and climbing plants. England, too, is a great place for porches which when decorated with climbing plants give a touch of humanized beauty to the houses that nothing else gives."

"In the towns and cities, too," stated the doctor, "there seemed to be quite a wholesome condition of progress in all industries. The general feeling among business men was that they were not only holding their own, but growing. Even unemployment seemed less of a menace than two years ago, and the recently established government employment bureaus seem to meet the needs in this respect in a very effective way."

"The well-kept appearance of the towns was a good tribute to the excellence of administration."

In a good many places now there is a movement called "the garden suburb movement." It is pointing the way to the escape from the conditions the slums. His Excellency Earl Grey took some time out of a very busy day to show a party of Canadians a garden suburb near Hampton Heath. It is an example of how, by competent, economical business management, attractive and comfortable homes are provided for workers at exceedingly low rent without one cent of charity entering into the transaction. There is a scheme of investment which sets a limit of five per cent. on the money invested. Some cozy and comfortable homes are available at a rental as low as $1.75 per week. In the same scheme detached houses of a more expensive character can be had for $400 per year. The people have a common club room with bowling green and tennis courts, etc., at a cost of only two dollars per year. The suburb is artistically laid out with beautiful grounds, and there are no square blocks. Mr. Harry Vivian, ex-M. P., has been the chief leader in this movement.

Dr. Robertson has a high opinion of the quality of debate in the imperial parliament. "I couldn't help remarking, particularly," he said, "the consciousness of expression and the directness of their arguments. The British house of commons wouldn't tolerate a man talking to the gallery or speaking merely to satisfy public opinion in some far off constituency. We need have no fear of the British houses of parliament losing their standard as the place of debate for the great questions of empire."

The doctor added a few terse epigrams upon the styles of noted speakers. "Asquith's debate is compact and logical, concise and expressive. Balfour is most attractive in his facility and dexterity; Rosebery is brilliant, artistic and dramatic, and I was very pleased to see that Bonar Law, a native of New Brunswick, holds a very high place among British debaters."

While in England Dr. Robertson gave addresses before the County Councils' association and at the Royal Counties' Agricultural show. He will take up work pertaining to his position as chairman of the technical education committee at once. He will be at the meeting of the conservation commission today.

ARBITRATION BOARD FORMED

Permanent Organization to Deal With Matters Between Montreal Longshoremen and Shipping Interests

Montreal, July 8.—A permanent board of arbitration to deal with disputes between the longshoremen and the shipping companies has now been appointed, to continue in office during five years. The board has been completed by the appointment of Farnham Robertson, ex-president of the board of trade, as chairman of the board. When the longshoremen raised their annual trouble this spring a board of conciliation was appointed, consisting of Judge Fortin as chairman; William Lyall, representing the Shipping Federation, and Gustave France, representing the men. In bringing down their award they recommended, amongst other things, a five years' agreement, and the appointment of a permanent board of arbitration to deal with any disputes that might arise during that period. This was agreed to, and in pursuance of this J. H. Lauer, secretary of the Builders' Exchange, was appointed by the Shipping Federation, and G. H. Brunet by the longshoremen. These two, after considerable discussion, agreed upon Mr. Robertson in his claims to writing. The board will meet at their first meeting they were addressed by President Poliquin, of the longshoremen, who was, however, told to put in his claims in writing. The board will continue its meetings until all matters at present unsettled have been dealt with.

A Vancouver company is planning to import a number of Japanese rikshaws for use in that city. There are many trained rikshaw-boys in the Japanese district of Vancouver and it is the intention of the company to station these men with vehicles about the city. It is thought that there will be a demand for this method of transportation by business men and women shoppers.

DESECRATION OF CHAMPLAIN MONUMENT

Some One Hangs Whiskey Bottle on Extended Finger of the Figure

Some one, probably regarding his act as a very humorous proceeding, climbed upon the pedestal of the Champlain monument in Queen Square last night and hung on the extended finger of the figure an empty whisky bottle. There it dangled as people passed this morning on their way up town. This being insufficient to satisfy, a "keep off the grass" sign was removed from its place and placed on the monument. No one will envy the perpetrator his sense of humor.

ROBBED ON WAY TO ST. JOHN

Miss Latschaw, Guest of Mrs. G. F. H. Buerhaus, Lost Jewelry and Money in Pullman Car

To be robbed to all her valuables while on the way to visit relatives here, was the unpleasant experience of Miss Latschaw, a young lady whose home is in Iowa. Miss Latschaw arrived here yesterday on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Geo. F. H. Buerhaus, who is summering at Drury Cove. While asleep in her berth in the Pullman car, travelling between Toronto and Windsor, Ont., someone stole her travelling bag in which she had deposited her jewelry and money, and no trace of the missing valuables has yet been discovered.

The young lady discovered her loss about 5 o'clock in the morning and notified the conductor and porter, who made a searching investigation, but without result. Miss Latschaw had placed her watch, several rings, a bracelet and her money in the bag along with other things before retiring and stuffed it down between the back of the berth and the mattress, so she is at a loss to know how it could have been taken without waking her. Nevertheless it was gone when she awakened, and she does not expect to see her property again. A claim has been made against the Pullman Company for the value of the articles.

THIRTY-THREE MOTOR BOATS OFF IN RACE TO FREDERICTON

It was a pretty sight at Millidgeville this morning as a big fleet of motor boats started off on the R. K. Y. C. long distance race to Fredericton. All were on hand last night at the R. K. Y. C. anchorage and as the sun made its appearance this morning the fleets presented a most satisfactory appearance. There was hustle and bustle as the time for starting approached and by 9.30 the commodore's boat gave the starting signal all were at the line and ready.

At 9 o'clock the starting gun boomed out and a vigorous chug chug chug announced the start, while the water was churned into foam as they sped away. The sight was one of the prettiest seen in conjunction with racing at Millidgeville in a long while.

THE FOLLOWING IS A LIST OF THE BOATS:

Bonnel, Fleasna, Keonik, Ferro, Arrow, Phoenix, Ogataki, Sagwa, Zuluks, Amigo, Fred, Pleada, Don, Johnson, Effie M., Essex, Ethel R., Hobo, Bunting, Crawford, Kineto, Swastika 2nd, St. J. L. Co., Grayling, Datsaw, Chick, Cupid. The first mishap in the R. K. Y. C. long distance motor boat race to Fredericton occurred this morning when the "Essex," the fast boat of H. J. Fleming, was towed to Marble Cove, Indiantown. Something went wrong as the Fleming flyer was crossing Grand Bay.

COUNTRY HOMES READY IN "FRESH AIR" WORK

The King's Daughters' Guild held their combined monthly and quarterly meeting yesterday afternoon. Most of the circles have disbanded for the summer months. The Fresh Air committee was reported to be in good working order. It was stated that there are now seven homes in the country waiting to receive children and the committee is preparing to send children to them. The Guild boarding house, 13 Prince William street, is being prepared for transient guests and placards are being put around in public places giving information about the rates of board, etc. A competent matron is in charge of the house. Young ladies visiting the city find it a very homelike place to stay.
