STORM IS GENERAL IN EASTERN STATES

Fishing Vessels Driven Ashore at Sandy Hook

Crews Saved with Difficulty—New York Anticipated Blockade From the Storm, But Successful Coasted.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—With promises to be another of the winter's blocking snowstorms was expected at day-break this morning. A turn in conditions at the fall and level about a cessation of the rain and left about four inches of snow on the beach this city and vicinity. The storm was severe while it lasted, the snow being driven along by a 20 mile an hour gale in the half-like flakes that pelled and cut. Towards morning a rise in temperature softened the snow masses and stopped the drifting process that had caused some trouble to transportation companies. The storm's worst effect was on the water of the harbor and lower bay, where craft of all kinds had difficulty in finding their way. Two fishing vessels were victims of the storm's fury. They were blown ashore in Sandy Hook in the early hours and only heroic work on the part of the fishers prevented disaster to the men on board. From one vessel, the Franklin D. Nelson, eight men, comprising the entire crew, were safely landed. The Nelson, first feared will prove a total loss. Shortly after the Nelson struck the schooner Libby was blown hard and fast on the sands of the Hook. She had nine men on board, and the men in saving crew at the station got them safely to land after a hard struggle. The Libby was holed in a hole on the beach that it is believed she can be saved.

BODIES DRIFTING ASHORE FROM WRECK

Still Nothing Definite of the Wreck of the Chanzy

The Only Survivor Is Unable to Give a Coherent Account of the Disaster—Several Americans Aboard.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—Advices received today by the French Transatlantic Steamship Company state that the loss of the General Chanzy occurred on Wednesday night while the vessel was running before a terrible storm in the vicinity of the Zairearic islands in the Mediterranean. When the vessel struck a reef north of the island of Minorca the ship was wrecked and the crew was scattered. Several Americans were on board, but their fate is not yet known. The only survivor, a French sailor, is unable to give a coherent account of the disaster. Several Americans were on board, but their fate is not yet known.

ISAACS SENT UP ON ABDUCTION CHARGE

Preliminary Hearing at Sherbrooke Finished

Bail of $4000 Returned—British Columbia to Help C. N. R. Development in Stool Work.

SHERBROOKE, P. Q., Feb. 12.—The preliminary hearing in the case against R. D. Isaacs of St. John, charged with the abduction of Miss Rheault, was resumed this morning before Judge Mussen. Argument on both sides was heard and after reviewing the evidence the Judge sent the defendant up for trial. In his address Judge Mussen referred to the seriousness of the charge against Isaacs and considered that sufficient evidence had been given to warrant his action in committing the defendant.

PROFESSIONALS ARE BUMPED AT LAST

Whole Nova Scotia League is Suspended

Half the Men are Declared Professionals—M.P.A.A. Takes the Step That Has Been Needed for Years.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Feb. 12.—The axe has fallen. M. P. A. A. officers last night decided to professionalize and suspend practically all the players, thirty-six in all, of the Nova Scotia Hockey League, and four players of the Fredericton hockey team of 1908, now playing in Cape Breton. The men under the ban are being paid and have been paid money for their services. The M. P. A. A. officers say they were obliged to take action two weeks sooner than they expected, but their action was hastened by the open confession of New Glasgow players and the disowning of the team by the New Glasgow Athletic Association.

HALIFAX EXPRESS RAN OFF THE TRACK

Narrowly Escaped Disaster

Wrecked Near the Station—Bumped Over the Tracks—Broken Tires—No Casualties.

A railway accident of a most peculiar nature which narrowly escaped developing into a serious one occurred to the Halifax express which left here at 11:30 last night. The train jumped the rails at two o'clock, when about 300 yards east of Annapolis and about 60 miles from St. John. The engine leaped on to the rails and dragged the passenger coaches with it. Before the train could be stopped it had ploughed along beside the track for a considerable distance, but escaping overturning by what appears to have been almost a miracle. The cars finally stopped in an upright condition and although those on board were somewhat shaken up no one was injured. The only explanation of the escape from a serious wreck was that the train was running on a high grade, which caused considerable friction in its passage.

"An Eruption, a Distortion and a Superficial Amusement" are Some of the Mild Terms Which He Applies to Manhattan in These Modern Days.

THE NICARAGUAN REVOLUTION.

If it were not for the tragedy of the thing, the present turmoil, dignified by the name of a revolution, in Nicaragua, would be really funny. Two pitting little armies, neither one of them big enough to form a good sized regiment, equipped with a couple of machine and machine guns under the name of artillery, are running about the country taking pot shots at each other whenever they find it impossible to get away from the scene of supposed danger.

One of these armies, so called, represents the present government of which the executive is President Madrid; the other is the insurgent force composed chiefly of a body of mercenaries in the pay of one Estrada. The number of generals in the opposing forces is remarkable. Indeed there appears to be more general officers than there are privates, and perhaps this is a very large measure accounts for the small numerical strength of the active combatants.

This man Estrada was the leader of a revolt against former President Zelaya. Now Zelaya entertained views regarding government policies which resulted in permanent banishment. Through the active participation of the United States which upheld the affirmative side in the international long distance dispute, Zelaya found the country getting so warm that he decided it would be to his personal advantage to unobtrusively disappear.

As a rule forgetting is not due to defective memory, but to heedlessness, thoughtfulness, and forgetfulness in youth can in almost every instance be prevented.

If parents could realize that forgetful children are incompetent, and are of no use in important positions or in business, they would not regard it as lightly as they do.

No business man wants a forgetful boy in his office or store; he is not trust-worthy no matter how honest he may be.

SATURDAY SERMONETTE

FORGOTTEN

If they are not the saddest words in the English (or any other language), they are the saddest, for they have provoked more madness than rabid dogs.

Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these—"I forgot." "What wife has not suffered when she has asked her husband "if he mailed that letter," or got what she asked him to get?"

In view of the inevitable loss of money, time and temper because somebody "forgot," forgetfulness ought to be punished by fine or imprisonment, but since that law will not likely ever be put on the statute books, in all seriousness, the children in our schools and homes ought to be systematically trained not to forget.

A person who habitually forgets, who has a reputation for absent-mindedness, ought, in view of the sufferings they cause, to have something done with them to minimize the evils they cause.

I know the forgetful loses and suffers, but he keeps on his forgetful way, and his repentance rarely leads to thorough amendment.

Household Hints

When running dates, figs or raisins through the food chopper, add a few drops of lemon juice to prevent its fruit from clogging the chopper.

To make a tough steak tender, rub it on both sides with vinegar and olive oil, thoroughly mixed, and allow it to stand for two hours before cooking.

A tasty salad is made of chopped celery, seasoned with chopped mint and mayonnaise. Put between slices of bread, it makes a dainty supper sandwich.

To revive root-vegetables that have withered, slice off the end of each and lay in cold water. In a few hours they will be as hardy and healthy as ever.

Water may be added to the beaten white or beaten whole egg used for dipping croquettes. The proportion is a tablespoonful for the white and twice as much for the whole egg.

Brown bread, cut into thin slices and spread with strawberry jam or peach marmalade, and covered with a layer of cream cheese, makes novel and delicious luncheon sandwiches.

A dry shampoo of cornmeal is very cleansing if properly done. The meal should not be allowed to get too close to the scalp, and should be brushed out with a gentle, lifting stroke.

Fashions and Fads

Narrow bands of stunk, milk and another fur that simulates sable are used to border the beautiful scarfs that are worn with low-necked evening dresses.

The waist-line is now normal, but it does not appear so on account of the size. The reason for these waists is the effect of the corsets made at present.

Stable skins on chiffon or soft satin arranged in scarf effect are considered very smart, and the beauty of the fur shows to great advantage in this fashion.

The new embroidered French linens are very attractive and will be used for waists.

The newest black silk stockings are embroidered up to the instep with tiny jet beads.

Quint is a bag of white suede in a raised pattern of a swan outlined in brilliant.

Mary a summer gown will have the skirt made up of a series of ruffles of varying length.

Dresses of colored embroidery on white will be among the unusual gowns for summer wear.

It is not unusual to find four, five and even six kinds of lace in combination on a single gown.

Silk and cotton, and silk and linen mixtures are to be much in evidence in the spring materials.

The newest theatre bags are of gold cloth with a raised embroidery of gold cord in a pattern.

Work with auto coats are gloves of brown or grey chamois or reindeer, with wide gauntlet cuffs.

FRENCH ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION RETURNS

PUNTA ARENAS, Chile, Feb. 11. — The French Antarctic expedition steamer Pourquoi Pas, with Dr. Jean M. Charcot, head of the expedition, on board, has arrived here. The Frenchmen did not reach the South Pole. The expedition under Dr. Charcot was fitted out in France in the summer of 1908 and sailed from Punta Arenas, December 17, of the same year. Its purpose was to make scientific observations in the south polar region, particularly in the almost unknown Alexandra Land and to obtain specimens of rare fossils. The South Pole was not the objective of the explorers. Dr. Charcot has frequently said that this task should be reserved for the Englishmen, Scott and Shackleton. As told in these despatches Thursday, the Pourquoi Pas, was sighted recently at anchor in the Strait of Magellan. It had not been expected that the expedition would return to civilization until next month.

Sunflower seeds make better bait than cheese for the mousetrap. A ro-round fern soon indicates its condition by drooping fronds. Equal parts of milk and lukewarm water are excellent for sponging palms. Jellied veal can be deliciously seasoned with lemon juice and celery salt.

HOW GAYNOR AND GREENE SPEND TIME

Both Have Sixteen Months Yet to Serve

In Prison at Atlanta—Gaynor Has Been an Invalid Ever Since Doors Closed

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 11.—Approximately sixteen months more of the service confront Benjamin D. Greene and John P. Gaynor, who are serving sentences of four years each in the United States prison near Atlanta, as a result of their conviction of conspiracy with former Captain Oswald M. Carter, of the United States engineer corps, in robbing the government of some $300,000 more in connection with the harbor contracts at Savannah, Ga., and Fernandina, Fla. The exact date of the termination of their sentences cannot be learned. A request for it from Warden William H. Meyer, brought the courteous but firm reply: "I regret that, under the rules of the department, I cannot give you that information."

Hon. Marion Erwin, United States attorney, who procured their extradition from Canada, after long effort, and their final conviction, figures that with the time allowance for good behaviour, Greene and Gaynor will regain their liberty in about sixteen months.

ARE MODEL PRISONERS.

They have both been model prisoners, tractable and obedient to the rules of the institution and will get the full time allowance from their sentences which is approximately eight months. Greene is at work and has been absent most from the day he entered the institution. He is a clerk in the construction department, where his engineering knowledge—he was formerly a captain in the United States engineer corps before he undertook harbor contracts—has served him, or, rather the department, well. Under the construction department is engaged in building a solid granite addition to the prison. This addition, when completed, will be about 1915, will become the main building, with the offices and administration quarters in the rear, and will contain the entrance, and cell tiers on either side, practically exact duplicates of the tiers in the present prison. Some 200 of the 785 inmates of the prison are engaged in this construction work which is being rapidly done by the prisoners. When completed it will furnish cell room for an additional 800 prisoners, making the total capacity between 1900 and 1900.

It is clerical, supervisory and engineering work in connection with the construction that Greene is doing and has been doing for the last two years.

GAYNOR AN INVALID.

John Gaynor, on the other hand, was an invalid when he came to the prison and has remained so ever since. At that time he was so far gone from locomotor ataxia that he could not walk. Under the care of the prison physician, Dr. A. L. Fowler, he has improved wonderfully since coming here, and is said to be in a fair way to get up on his feet. At present he is in a better condition than when the disease was at its worst, Gaynor can now walk about the room without the aid of crutches or stick, and while complete recovery may not be possible, it is said he will leave the prison in much better physical condition than when he entered it. He is kept in the hospital under the supervision of his health he may enjoy a good many years of life yet. He is kept in the hospital under the supervision of his health he may enjoy a good many years of life yet.

MORSE IN SAME PRISON.

When Mrs. Charles W. Morse came to Atlanta, following the incarceration in the same institution, of her husband, who was convicted in New York of violations of the national banking laws one of the first things she did after seeing her husband at the prison, was to seek out Mrs. Gaynor and call on her.

Green and Gaynor went into the prison, as shown prisoners, as prisoners of the "first class" in which certain privileges are allowed, including visits to relatives and friends, permission to write and receive letters, and others equally important and enjoyable in the course of their detention. Visits and letter writing are allowed once in each fortnight and sometimes often by special permission of the warden, which is given when good cause is shown. They have remained consistently in the first class, having in all respects obeyed the rules and regulations of the institution. They wear blue denim suits, and as neither of them has done outdoor work or been reduced in grade, neither of them has ever worn stripes.

Greene and Gaynor go through the regular daily routine with the other prisoners—Greene with those of the able-bodied class, Gaynor with that prescribed for those in the hospital who have their meals brought them and other things done for them by other prisoners who serve as hospital nurses and attendants. Here no distinction of race is made; negroes and whites are known and distinguished solely by their prison numbers. A white hospital steward may carry meals to a negro invalid; or vice versa.

At 7.30 a. m. the prisoners file into the big dining room for the first meal of the day, having risen an hour earlier and spent the time in attending to the customary morning duties. Dinner is at 12 noon and supper at 4.25 p. m., and an hour later every cell in the building is closed and tightly locked for the night. Prisoners of the privileged class may read or otherwise occupy themselves in accordance with regulations until 9 o'clock when the lights go out.

WILL NOT HAVE TO DISGORGE.

Mr. Erwin is making no further attempt to recover from Greene and Gaynor any of the money alleged to have been stolen from the Government as the result of their conspiracy; there

Bill Limiting Veto Principal
Legislation of the Year

But Budget Comes First—Radicals
Back.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—According to an official statement given out tonight the cabinet council arrived at an absolutely unanimous decision of the course of procedure early today. This statement was the outcome of numerous rumors of serious cleavage among the ministers regarding the policy to be followed.

It is confirmed that after the passage of the budget, a bill limiting the veto of the Lords will be announced as the chief legislative work of the year.

It is understood that Premier Asquith has completed his cabinet appointments and only awaits the King's approval to publish them. Mr. Asquith will have an audience of His Majesty on Monday, after King Edward's return from Brighton.

The speech of John E. Redmond at the banquet of the United Irish League in Dublin, last night, has caused considerable stir in the Liberal press and party. He is gently reproved by the moderate section of the press for what is declared to be an attitude calculated seriously to embarrass the government, but is warmly praised by the Radicals who have been urging the ministers to adopt a stern and vigorous policy towards the House of Lords.

The Liberal editorials regard Mr. Redmond as a hearty dilute of the budget. The Liberal editorial regards Mr. Redmond as a hearty dilute of the budget. The Liberal editorial regards Mr. Redmond as a hearty dilute of the budget.

BY A. T. ASHMORE.

It is a fact that at all times and under all circumstances it is considered the duty of every woman to-day, and in consequence just as much interest is taken in the choice of the evening wrap as in the choice of the gown. After all, it is a test of a woman's beauty to look her best under the glare of artificial light when leaving the play, the restaurant or wherever the evening may have been spent, and would there be any greater mistake after having been a belle and beauty in the ballroom, than suddenly to become faded and shabby by reason of an unbecomingly warm wrap, not heavy enough, or a stand such as looking cold and poorly clad, but oddly enough it is only of late years apparently that women have realized this and have been willing to spend money lavishly upon their evening wraps. Always have there been worn superb opera cloaks of brocade, velvet or satin, but one such evening wrap was all sufficient; now there must be several, and of quite distinct style, to carry a fashionable woman through the season.

GORGEOUS OPERA CLOAKS. The gorgeous opera cloaks are, as ever, superb garments, shabby and yet graceful, all enveloping, lined with fur and trimmed with fur, all the more of these, at least, is included in the modern outfit, and if the truth be known, remains in fashion a surprising length of time, and is as a rule handed down from "generation to generation," if not in the immediate succession to some less fortunate in this world's goods.

With the constant and sharply contrasting changes of temperature that prevail during the season when social life is at its height it is not possible to get along comfortably with only one of these superb opera cloaks. There are so many evenings during the winter when quite a light weight wrap is all that can be comfortably worn, and the next evening the fur lined or wadded cloak will be essential to comfort. There are so many informal entertainments now given in the fashionable world when a too elaborate evening wrap is quite out of keeping with the gown over which it is worn that there must be provided some coat or cloak which is very smart, and which, while apparently simple, is in reality delightfully expensive, for it has that touch of individuality and distinction that cannot well be obtained without paying a high price. For the play a wrap that can be easily slipped on and off and that is not too large or cumbersome is demanded, and for this purpose it can be seen at a glance the elaborate opera cloak would not be suitable for the smart, times having changed for the better in that it is now realized that simply because a gown or cloak has cost a lot of money it does not mean that it is appropriate for all occasions. Just a few things, these few well chosen and made after the latest becoming fashion, have been proved to be the surest way to obtain a reputation of being always smartly gowned.

The more simple evening wraps this winter are charmingly graceful and most becoming, for so many different colors and materials are provided that a woman must be most painfully ugly who cannot find what suits her and is becoming. There are not nearly so many all white evening wraps this winter, dark, light and queer odd colors being more popular, and in the softest velvets, the satin finished cloaks and satin there is fascinating variety. All shades of pink from deepest cerise to a pale blush rose, this last not so smart, however, as the more unusual shades: blue in all the pastel shades, in most fascinating "old blue" shades, in most fascinating "old blue" shades, also in the sapphire and the royal blue; green in dark, light, emerald, Nile, sage and abisynth; yellow, including the orange shades and the golden brocades as well and, not to be forgotten, the shades of rose and a few, but not many, shades of which may be worn. Purple has been fashionable for so long a time that at least it has been relegated to the background and there are very few purple cloaks to be seen; those few are in the more unusual tones and the bright, vivid shades are quite out of date.

RASPBERRY AND AMERICAN BEAUTY. Among the pinks are classed shades of raspberry and American beauty that are fascinatingly becoming. These have been touched with flat jet buttons or buckles, or there may be black velvet instead of the satin. The velvet is not nearly so becoming and is therefore not so popular, for again must be remembered that this is an era in the history of dress when the becoming is to be consulted on all occasions, and if a velvet collar looks best with the material of the cloak but is not becoming to the wearer, the satin is invariably chosen. Many yards of material are apparently required for the newest evening wraps. There must be sufficient fulness to allow of the points being crossed over one another, one side caught up on the opposite shoulder; the back, too, must hang in graceful lines, but must not have one inch too much width over the shoulders, for the fashion demands that the lines of the figure be distinctly shown about the neck and shoulders. There is something delightfully graceful in the long draped folds of these cloaks and the shewn on the new materials is displayed to the greatest advantage.

Another interesting detail is the manner in which it has been found possible to gain the maximum of warmth with the minimum of weight. This has been accomplished with the inner lining of wool wadding or sometimes of fur, with the thinnest silks imaginable, but the latter the practical long coat is deemed almost too practical, and is therefore being relegated to carriage and afternoon wear. But she is indeed a woman of indomitable will who can be insensible to the fascination and comfort of a fur coat for

Fashion Details That Every Woman Should Know

A CHARMING blouse is shown in illustration No. 1. The design is meant to be developed in soft material for wear with a cloth or velvet skirt. The model shown was made up in gray-green crepe, with yoke and trimmings of embroidered net of the same shade. The blouse is made with sleeves and bodice cut in one piece. The net is used for the yoke and high collar over a lining of plain white silk. There is a pleated collar of the net, which lies flat and conforms down the front in a double row to the high round neck. The short, plain sleeves are finished with a full of the net. A touch of deeper color may be given to the blouse by the velvet cravat, which is set at the top of the bodice and which may be of a darker tone of velvet or black. A smart attractive blouse on this order was made of black satin, trimmed with black net embroidered with gold dots and finished with a bow of gold ribbon. Another blouse of coral crepe is evening, so that there are still being turned out the most elaborate of evening wraps. Seal and with it all that now is known as seal, trimmed with sable, bear or skunk, is made up for evening in far more elaborate design than for day wear, while the chinchilla coats must be exempted from the rule and be ranked with the evening wraps.

To be practical in these days of tempting luxury is not an easy task, but the really truly economical woman finds it possible to accomplish much that her heart craves for if she is willing to take time and bestow thought enough on what is really necessary to the outfit she requires if she is to take any part in social life. She knows a velvet, a velour or brocade evening wrap in back is one of the most useful investments she can make. It will be in style longer than a lighter color, and if well cut and carefully fitted will look well through many seasons. The style can be changed, or rather the effect can be changed, by putting on a different fur collar, while the original lines will not require to be touched. A fur or warm wadded wrap is also essential, for neither velvet, brocade nor satin has any warmth. Not too marked a model should be taken, the loose straight front, with half fitted or straight back and medium sized sleeves is the best model. But there must be becoming lines and the coat must fit well over the shoulders. If economy must be consulted in every particular then it is well worth while to search the shops for bargains in materials, as a length sufficient for an evening wrap is often to be found.

By way of change from the plain tailor coats for street wear the accompanying model is offered, and would look well made either in cloth or in a wide wale serge, if not too heavy. The skirt effect requires a rather lightweight material, as the coat should cling somewhat to the figure instead of standing out. It goes over a gored skirt, which is finished quite simply at the bottom with a stitched hem.

The front panel of the coat is unbroken and turns away low at the left side, where it fastens with two fancy braided frogs. Instead of lapels the cutaway neck is trimmed with a shaped strip of satin along, ever so little on the front, that goes inside, while the outside one ends in a blue. The skirt has a front panel, with a plain yoke going all round from this panel. The lower part of the sides and back is pleated. The bodice has also the front panel effect, bands of embroidery being set into the sides just above the belt. The embroidery is blue on a ground of black satin.

Plain black satin is used for the sleeve and lapels and for the bands around the sleeves and the front panels. The globe is worthy of special attention. The upper part is in one piece with the bodice and is close fitting. The close fitting under-sleeve is finished with a straight band of satin at the wrist. Six diagonal bands of satin, folds of cloth or tucks are carried from the wrist up across the sleeve, as to which of these patterns shall be used that is a matter of personal taste.

Small buttons covered with black satin are also used on the bodice. It is popular just at the moment to have such small covered buttons of the material of the gown, if one desires it, instead of the trimming.

A very charming color combination for such a costume showed the brown of soft chinese had trimmings of coral net with gold dots and a deep coral velvet bow.

So universal is the custom of having a big fur coat for all occasions that the wise ones are predicting a sudden end to the fashion. The white fur coats for evening are already only considered smart by the younger women. The superb sable and ermine wraps are not so smart in the evening as the costly brocades, lined with the often almost priceless fur, while made leather, golden brown serge and heavy cloth. With this was worn a fox stole and hat. Many of these costumes are made with bodices to match in accordance with the present effort to get away from the separate blouse.

SMART WALKING SUITS.

FOR women who go in for out of door life at all seasons of the year the London tailors have evolved some very

CAMPAIN SO FAR A GRAND SUCCESS

THE CENTENARY GROUP.

The interest in this group is well maintained, the heartiness of the singing being a special feature. There was a good attendance last evening and the address of Dr. Sykes was strong and searching. He spoke of the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision. Be not afraid, but speak and hold not thy peace; for I am with thee and no man shall set on thee.

THE HORROR OF IT.

Vigorous, healthy folks simply cannot imagine what a horror, what a dread-inducing, indignation really is. They speak lightly of it and say, "poor Mrs. So-and-so has some trouble with her stomach." "Some trouble," forsooth. Of all the ills that afflict humanity none causes more misery than Indigestion. It destroys annually more lives than consumption, cancer and cholera combined. If you cannot digest your food—as a steam engine burns coal—your heat, power, energy, must run down. Continue this condition and your organs will stop. Food that lies in your stomach undigested distils poisons that are carried by your blood all through your system. This poison clogs the brain, inflames the nerves, muscles and joints, and staggers all the natural functions. Constipation, headaches, sleeplessness, pains and wind in the stomach, dizziness and other wretched feelings, follow. Mother Seigel's Syrup cures indigestion by toning up, strengthening and aiding the digestive organs to their natural work. Mr. Burton Sheriff, of Central Grove, Digby County, N.B., writes—"I was troubled with Indigestion a long time and found no medicine to give such immediate relief as your preparation, Mother Seigel's Syrup. For Indigestion, or Stomach Trouble, it must be a boon to those who use it."

Madame Elvira Nowe, of Cherry Hill, Lunenburg Co., N.S., says—"I have been troubled with Dyspepsia two years and my food would rise as soon as I had eaten it. Nothing relieved me until, at last, I began to use Mother Seigel's Syrup and by taking one bottle and a half I was cured."

Allan Macfarlane, of Rockland Farm, Vale Park, P.Q., writes—"I used your well-known remedy, Mother Seigel's Syrup, while suffering from Indigestion, with excellent results. Previous to taking it I always suffered sharp pains after eating—so violent that I dreaded my meals. I was completely cured by taking the contents of two bottles."

Mother Seigel's Syrup is made of roots, herbs and leaves which exert a remarkable curative and tonic effect on the stomach, liver and bowels. That is why it so surely cures indigestion.

to hurt thee for I have much people in this city." The speaker referred to the circumstances under which the vision was given to St. Paul, describing also the city of Corinth with its customs, its culture and wickedness, and would be much the same as St. John in morals, sin prevailed and wherever it prevailed there is a deadening influence. To Paul it was a time of discouragement, such an experience has often been repeated in the lives of Christian workers and ministers. The tendency is to get used to environment. The church wants men of courage, men to speak out, men who will not shrink from their peace. It is the work of the Holy Spirit to make one discern the existing conditions that are not healthy and to be aggressive on moral and religious questions. His hearers were exhorted to put their life with all its trials, its burden, difficulties and discouragements in the care and keeping of Jesus, who was mighty to save and would carry them to victory and bring them to peace.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

The seating capacity of St. Andrew's church was not a room for all those who attended the services in that group. Rev. A. Gray was the speaker, and he delivered an eloquent address. Man, said Mr. Gray, is made for God and he cannot satisfy the yearnings of his heart unless he finds God. Man cannot worship God and live in a place where his name is dishonored. The only pure life was in living for others. The text of the true Christian was not "What can I get," but "What can I give." Speaking of business Mr. Gray stated that the business which was not consecrated to God could not prosper. He mentioned several great concerns which owed their success to the Christian lives of their promoters. The business which was not consecrated to God would gradually draw its owners away from Him. The speaker also mentioned several men of wealth and influence who were giving time and money to the work of Jesus Christ. The world, said Mr. Gray, was getting better and the people in it were beginning to see that no matter what business they were engaged in the help of God was necessary to insure its success.

AT ST. STEPHEN'S.

The congregation in St. Stephen's church last night was much the largest yet during the campaign. All the four congregations in the group were well represented. Rev. Mr. Winchester was again the preacher of the evening while the ministers of the different churches assisted. The combined choir was led by Mr. Hare. The services opened by the singing of a number of hymns, some by the congregation and others by Mr. Hare with the congregation joining in the chorus. "My Saviour's Love" and "Wonderful Power" and other favorites from the Alexander song book were sung. Rev. Mr. Winchester spoke of David, although he did not know anything about modern astronomy, did understand the immensity of the universe. He knew that the stars were not just comic dust thrown into the blue of the celestial dome. Yet David sang that in the whole universe there was nothing so great as man. Rev. Mr. Winchester closed with an appeal to seek the power of the Holy Spirit. At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Hare sang a solo appropriate to the remarks of the preacher of the evening and the service closed by a short prayer by the Rev. Mr. Crisp.

BRUSSELS STREET.

W. A. Cameron spoke to a crowded house in Brussels street church last night. Mr. Wood was not able to hold an account of a sore throat and Mr. Cameron was forced to perform a double duty. Before beginning his discourse Mr. Cameron spoke a word of appreciation to the newspapers. In his experience he had never found a city in which such a campaign had received such constant and intelligent support from the press. His address was on the "Uniqueness of Jesus." In glowing sentences he described His personality. Throughout the discourse a word of appreciation to the newspapers. In his experience he had never found a city in which such a campaign had received such constant and intelligent support from the press.

MAIN STREET.

The Main Street Church last night was packed to the doors to hear Dr. Smith every available seat being occupied both in Sunday school and in the auditorium. Dr. Smith is a very forcible speaker, and drives every word home to the hearts of the hearers, arousing those that have become cold and indifferent and bringing conviction to the unconverted. No one can listen to Dr. Smith without being awaked to a revival. One way it resembled a genuine revival was that Lazarus was dead, so is the soul of a person whose sin is not forgiven. The sisters of Lazarus were greatly concerned by his death, so are Christians when they realize that a soul is dead that is in sin. The sisters stand for Jesus, so do we when we are anxious for souls. Dr. Smith said as to how many wanted Christ to come into their lives and to our homes and city and were willing to do what God wanted them to, one after another arose until hundreds were standing.

Baby Eczema Skin Irritations

Splendid Results obtained by Using DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT the greatest of healers

Fortunate mothers are forsaking pre-logging and unsanitary powders for the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment and find there is no treatment so effective for chafed and irritated skin, scald head and eczema.

This ointment makes the skin soft and smooth and ensures healthful natural action of the pores of the skin. A trial of Dr. Chase's Ointment is usually enough to convince anyone that there is nothing like it as a beautifier of the skin and as a means of overcoming painful and annoying itching skin diseases.

It is so pure and clean, so delightfully soothing and healing and so pleasant to use that it soon finds a permanent place in every home where its use is known. 40 cents a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for a free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

SALVATION ARMY.

The splendid results of the simultaneous campaign were shown at the service in the Salvation Army Citadel last evening, when over fifty persons asked for the prayers of the congregation. Mr. Matheson was at his best and delivered a telling sermon on the need of a new heart. Rev. F. A. Robinson, who conducted the musical part of the service, remarked afterward on the enthusiastic singing, saying that in his experience it far surpassed that of any of the other gatherings. The large hall was crowded and those present were deeply stirred by the remarks of the speaker. While his humor is irresistible, Mr. Matheson was more serious than usual last evening and the atmosphere of the meeting indicated that the night is on in earnest. Mr. Matheson took as his text Ezekiel 36: 26: "A new heart also will I give you and a new spirit will I put within you, and I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh and I will give you a heart of flesh."

IN THE WEST SIDE.

The West End group met in Carlton Methodist Church, after an inspiring song service of fifteen minutes. Mr. F. A. Robinson, the speaker, the scriptures were read by Rev. H. R. Read, and prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. R. H. Hine. Dr. Hine then delivered an able address from Genesis 2: 2. The text was "Adam, where art thou?" The speaker pointed out that instead of Adam seeking God, God was seeking Adam, and so today God is seeking lost sinners to bring them back to Himself. The speaker then made the question a personal one. First, to those who were church members, and second to those who had never made a profession of religion.

IN FAIRVILLE.

Certainly the rhythm of those Alexander songs have power to inspire those who like to sing and when they are sung by those who like to sing and who know how, they inspire others, plus well-balanced chorus which from night to night gathers a behind and around the preacher and his group. The speaker then made the question a personal one. First, to those who were church members, and second to those who had never made a profession of religion.

SAY "HALIFAX" TO EASE YOUR TEMPER

Ex-Policeman Finds Himself in Trouble

Wood-hawker Forced at Axe's Edge to Take 60c. for His Load—Boys Up for Throwing Snowballs.

The police magistrate had a busy session in the court this morning. There were in the number of cases against boys and men, the boys for throwing snowballs, striking people and breaking windows, the men drunk who had caused trouble. A liquor case in which J. Everett Waiters is the defendant, was also resumed.

The boys were Roy Winters, Thos. Murphy, John and Wm. Hayes, Frank Chasack, John McQuarrie, Wm. Case, Wm. Cook, Robt. Coffey and John Eagles. With the exception of the two Hayes boys and Wm. Case, all pleaded guilty. They were talked to in an earnest manner and told of the trouble they might get into by throwing snowballs. Fines of eight dollars were allowed to stand and they were all dismissed on promising to be good in the future.

Frank A. Boves, the ex-policeman, pleaded guilty to drunkenness on Brunswick street, but said he did not remember having been profane and assaulting Policeman McColm. The policeman gave evidence that Boves had been acting badly in a bar-room at the March-Howe Hotel. Boves was found on Brunswick street. He was using profane language and refusing to get up with his sister or friends. Policeman McColm said he was asking Boves to go home when Boves struck him a blow on the side of the face.

The magistrate told Boves he was liable to fourteen months imprisonment for his actions or a fine of $86, but a big fine did not seem to amount to much to some of these people who get drunk, for despite the trouble they get themselves into they will continue to get drunk. If he sentenced Boves this morning he said he might give him the full penalty, so he remanded him to jail.

John Herrick pleaded not guilty to being drunk and assaulting a boy named McLaughlin on Water street last night. Police Constable Temple said the man had been drunk. He was fined $5 or a month in jail.

John Dickson was fined $8 or one month hard labor. He asked for a chance to go to a vessel in Carleton to get the money. The magistrate told him he allowed him to go under such a pretence six years ago and that he paid part of the fine but lied about the balance.

Thomas Dibbles was charged with assaulting Arthur London and pleaded guilty. He said he had a violent temper, which he could not control, that the trouble arose over the pay for a load of wood. He did not receive the kind of wood he ordered from London. He offered sixty cents to London, who refused to accept it and wanted ninety five cents. He then caught hold of London and dragged him into the house to make him take the money, which he did.

London said that in addition to his talk Dibbles picked up an axe and said he would split the complainant's head open. He pulled him in the house and locked the door and said that he would not let London out alive. His wife started to cry and London took the 60 cents and was allowed to leave the house. He said that he did not wish the court to be too hard on the man. The prisoner was fined $10, which was allowed to stand, and told by the court that the next time he felt his temper becoming unmanageable to say the word "Halifax" five times.

Harry Hoffman was fined two dollars for driving his horse furiously round the corner of Mill and Pond street. His honor spoke at some length of teams going round this corner and said any team going over a crossing faster than at a walk made the driver liable to a fine.

As a witness for profane language the defendant was allowed to go.

The case of illegal selling of liquor preferred against J. Everett Waiters was resumed. Inspector Jones gave evidence that he visited Mr. Waiters' drug store yesterday and was told by Mr. Waiters that he kept a book of his payable and bill receivable, and a book he entered prescriptions. He produced a file. Some of the prescriptions on the file were not signed by physicians. He said he sold four ounces of gin to Frank Griffith and asked him at the time if he wanted spirits of nitre in it. Witness told the druggist that he could not sell any quantity, large or small, without a prescription, and Waiters seemed ignorant of the law.

G. A. Henderson for the prosecution made application to alter the information and made the charge read "unlawfully supplying gin to Frank Griffith without a medical certificate."

The case was adjourned until Monday afternoon at 10 o'clock.

At Phillips, Union street, Saturday night, walnut maple chocolate cocoa nut fudge, 20c. per pound. Cream chewing candy, 8 flavors, pineapple, wintergreen, strawberry, peppermint, vanilla, orange, lemon, 12c. per pound. These goods will be sold fresh Saturday night.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 12.—While loosening a small mountain of prepared coal which had become frozen in the storage yards of the Philadelphia and Reading Company at Landisville, near here today, six workmen were buried by a sudden slide of one thousand tons and one of their number, Samuel Blasco, of Landisville, aged 25 years, was crushed to death. The other five were rescued, badly injured. Clinton Graft, a foreman is the most seriously injured and may die. The men had excavated under the coal and were throwing it with a stream of hot water when the great mass gave way without warning.

On Thursday evening last the members of Thorne Lodge, after their regular business meeting in Haymarket Square hall, spent a very pleasant time in games and music. Refreshments were served before the gathering dispersed. During the evening Mr. D. C. Fisher, on behalf of the lodge, presented to Mr. E. N. Stockford a handsome mahogany writing desk in remembrance of his birthday. Mr. Stockford, though greatly surprised, made a very suitable reply. Speeches were given by Mrs. W. Washburn, Mr. G. TRAGIC STORY TOLD BY EMPRESS PASSENGER

Mrs. Willard, Returning Home Alone, Los 1 Husband, Two Sons and Daughter In One Week.

A lonely little woman bowed down with grief and sorrow, was a pathetic figure among the passengers on the Empress of Britain which sailed from this port for Liverpool yesterday afternoon. Bereaved within a week of her husband, two young sons and a little daughter, she is now on her way back to the Old Country to seek a home among relatives there. Her story is an extremely sad one and elicited for her the deepest sympathy of those who heard it.

A year ago last August she came to Canada with her husband, Francis Willard and her two sons and daughter—all strong, healthy and happy, for her husband, a mechanical engineer, was on his way to take up position in connection with the erection of a plant for the treatment of ores in the iron country behind the Blind River. Now, in less than a year and a half, all are dead and the little widow was on her way to join her brother, who is a foreman in the Grey shipbuilding yard at Birkenhead. Her griefs came with awful swiftness like a stroke of fate.

First her two sons, Edward and George, were drowned, while skating on the river within half a mile of their home. It was at New Year time and the ice was thick, but in the excitement they went chasing each other to a place where the ice was thin, and they and two other boys went down and all four were drowned. A week later her husband was killed by an explosion at the Cyanide Company's new plant. The little girl at this time was suffering from meningitis, caused, the mother did not know by what, and she died three days after her father.

WERE NOT INCLINED TO PAY FOR THEIR SUPPERS

Chatham Hockeyists Say They Were Slightly Treated Here—The Other Side of the Story.

A despatch to the Star from Chatham, speaking of the North Shore hockey team, says:—

"The Chatham team returned from their trip yesterday. They were delighted with the treatment accorded them in St. John and Sussex, but in one instance do not have much of an opinion of St. John's sportsmanship. They say that after the game they were invited out to supper at a restaurant and had to foot the bill themselves.

In connection with this, Harold Claverton, one of the members of the St. John team which played with the Chatham visitors, says that this was certainly a misunderstanding on the part of the outside players. After the game the Chatham men went back to their hotel and during the evening Mr. Claverton with Mr. McQuarrie and Mr. Corbitt, dropped in to have a chat with them during the evening. Mr. Claverton mentioned that he was going to have some lunch and asked if the others felt the same way. They all went to one of the Charlotte street restaurants for a light lunch, the St. John boys paying for their own and the Chatham boys for theirs. There was no invitation about it, nor did Mr. Claverton have any intention of putting a supper for the visiting team. The St. John players got nothing out of the game, all the receipts going to the rink. Mr. Claverton regrets that the Chatham players misunderstood the situation so as to unfairly reflect on the sportsmanship of St. John boys.
