"It is a sad retrospect when we think of the number of young lives that have been quenched, the splendid hopes cut the war in South Africa. It is a grievous retrospect. Yet from it any suggestion of wrong on the part of the empire is absolutely absent. Indeed, there are circumstances which can make every lover of his country look back with exultation and gratitude upon the two years just passed. These circumstances have been able to show that the spirit of our countrymen has burned as bright as at any other period

TO VISIT ENGLAND

Premier George W. Ross Will Take a Buelness and Pleasure Trip.

Toronto, May 14.-Premier Ross yesterday announced that he would shortly visit England on a trip, combining business with pleasure. He will sail by the Dominion Line on July 3, and will return early in September. He will visit Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, and intends to confer with the imperial authorities with reference to the establishment of a remount station in Ontario, and on other matters in which the province is interested. The trip is, of course, intended to combine rest with such public duties as can be discharged at the same time.

The announcement of Mr. Ross dis-poses effectually of the statements made every now and then that an election would be held this summer.

WOULD USE DYNAMITE ON THE DAM

Strong Sentiment Among Farmers Against Cashmere Dam.

They Would Adopt Desperate Expedients to Rid Themselves of the Nuisance.

Tale of an Angler Who Fished for Three Days Without a Bite-Some Opinions.

What do you think of the Cashmere dam?"

This question asked of any of the hundreds of farmers and other residents along the River Thames, between London and Cashmere dam, in Colombia. will bring answers, whose variety of expression is limited only by the temperament and personality of the individual of whom the question is asked. The answers range from the mild disapproval of the quiet and contained man to the vigorously-expressed and strongly-worded denunciation of his more excitable and fiery neighbor. But every answer has the same underlying sentiment, and that is the opinion that the Cashmere dam should be either removed entirely or so improv ed as to make provision for the ascending of the river by the fish which are so plentiful in its lower reaches. Some hotheads are so extreme in their opin-ion that they do not hesitate to express their approval of the adoption of even such violent measures as the USE OF DYNAMITE to remove the obstruction, and indeed so high is the feeling among those interested that such an occurrence would not be a surprise to anyone under-standing the conditions. It is, how-ever, believed by the majority of the formers and others along the river that the vigorous and courageous stand taken by Col. Leys, M.P.P. in the matter will result soon in the abatement of what they regard as worse than a nuisance—as a positive wrong and injustice to them and a serious infringement on their rights.

In a trip down the river to and be-yond the dam, an Advertiser representative had an excellent opportunity to ascertain and gauge the strength of the sentiment among those most affected by the dam.

QUESTION A VITAL ONE.

That the question of fishing on the Upper Thames is a vital one to a considerable section of the population of the counties of Oxford, Perth, Middle-sex, Elgin and Kent, was evidenced by the thousands of lines seen set on the banks all the way from Delaware village to the dam, and by the hundreds of people seen enjoying them-selves by trying (and generally with-out success) to hook a fish or two. Among those seen on the banks were many parties of fishermen who had driven a distance of from five to ten or more miles to enjoy a day's angling. All who were spoken to on the subject expressed themselves as in favor of having the dam at Cashmere

FISHED THREE DAYS WITHOUT A BITE

One enthusiastic sportsman, a Glencoe merchant, who had driven over to the river, said that he and a companion had been fishing for three days, and had not got a bite. He said that not only did the fishermen at Cashmere dam rob the river of its fish, but they absolutely refused to sell any of their catch to the farmers and fish dealers of the vicinity, shipping them instead to Buffalo, New York and other points outside of the province. It would be difficult, said this man, to find anyone for eight or ten miles back on either side of the river who was not in favor of the abolition of the dam. Asked as to his opinion of Col. Leys' stand, the Glencoe man said: "Why, Col. Leys is the most popular man in this part of the country. I'm a Conservative myself, but the colonel could have my vote if I were living in his constituency. If the government carries out the colonel's wishes in regard to the dam, I'll venture to say it means 50 votes turned to the gov-ernment in Glencoe alone."

UNANIMITY OF OPINION.

Many farmers living along the river were also asked their opinion of the dam, and of Col. Leys, and in effect their answers were the same. The following two are fair examples of their utterances, and they might be multiplied indefinitely.

Farmer John N. Clarke, of lot 4, east side Muncey road, Caradoc, said enthu-

"Col. Leys is a gentleman! Tell him from me he is a gentleman! The gov-ernment should take away that dam,

The world of their ter set in the state of

we stake aretall altica

for we want the fish up here. I signed a petition some years ago to have the dam taken away, and I would give $10 out of my own pocket now to see it go. I don't believe there's a farmer from the dam clear up to St. Marys and Woodstock but wants to see the river open for fish. Col. Leys has certainly received a great deal of braise for his course."

Farmer Holmes, of let 7, con. It Delaware, thus expressed himself:

"Certainly the dam should be taken away. I have not fished for pears, because we cannot catch anything, but if the fish could come up we would take advantage of it. I'm not exactly a Reformer, but I think Col. Leys is all right."

PUBLIC SENTIMENT STRONG.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT STRONG. There is thus no doubt whatever that opinion is overwhelmingly strong in favor of the abolition or improvement of the Cashmere dam. When this change has been carried out, and with the continuance of the strict enforcement of the fishery laws, which has been enjoined by Head Inspector Bastedo upon his subordinates, there is no reason why the upper portions of the River Thames should not prove the finest fishing grounds in Canada.

Strength and Endurance

Are factors of the greatest success.

No person can do full justice to himself without them.

In no season of the year are they more easily exhausted than in the spring.

We need not discuss the reason for this here. It's enough to say there is one, and that Hobd's Sarsaparilla gives strength and endurance, as thousands annually testify.

MERCHANT SUCCUMBS SUDDENLY

Mr. E. N. Hant Fatally Attacked While Out Wheeling.

Expired in a Richmond Street Store Before Medical Aid Arrived.

Ex-Ald. E. N. Hunt, the well-known nerchant of Dundas street, died very suddenly last evening. Except for an attack of bronchorrhea, which he suffered some weeks ago, Mr. Hunt had been in fair health, and he went for a spin on his wheel last evening, in bright spirits. While he was on Richmond street, near Central avenue, he became unexpectedly ill, and hurried to Dr. Smith's drug store, where he asked that a doctor be sent for. He told Dr. Smith that he felt sick, but if he could test for a while he would be all right again. He had been there only a short time when the attack, which was similar to the previous one, proved fatal. Dr. Stutt and Dr. J. D. Wilson had been called, and said when they came that death had occurred ten or fifteen minutes before. Heart trouble also had been induced by the excitement of the approach of the attack.

The news of his death circulated rapidly throughout the city, and was received everywhere with expressions of profound regret.

Mr. Hunt had conducted an art store on Dundas street for many years.

Mr. Hunt was the son of the late Robert Hunt, of this city. He was born in Preston in 1856, and in 1881 was married to Miss Ella Lyons of Brant. married to Miss Ella Lyons, of Brant-ford, Ont. For many years he had been a prominent figure in the com-mercial life of the city, having been at various times a member of the board of trade, the school board and the city council, as well as of several of the prominent social and benevo-lent societies. For many years he attended the Dundas Center Methodist Church, taking a deep interest in its prosperity and contributing largely to its activities. The Independent Order of Foresters loses in him an earnest worker and devoted member.

MANITOBA BILL BECOMES A LAW

House Discusses the Measure Until 4.30 A.M.

Other Bills Standing for Third Reading Also Disposed Of-In the Senate.

[Special to the Advertiser.] Ottawa, May 14.-It was 3:40 this morning before the house adjourned. The Manitoba railway bill was read a third time, and passed, and nearly all the other bills standing for third readings were also disposed of.

IN THE SENATE. In the senate yesterday Hon. Mr. Mills moved the second reading of the bill to amend the act respecting judges of provincial courts. In doing so he stated that the measure was the same as that defeated in the senate last year, for creating three additional judges in the Province of Quebec, for the appointment of a chief justice in the supreme court of the Northwest, and for the appointment of a second judge in the Yukon district. The latter had been appointed last year, but this act would enable them to provide permanently for his salary. The government had reasons to believe that the objections of last year to the appointment of more judges in the Province of Quebec would not be persisted in. Hon. Mr. Miller did not intend to oppose the second reading, but regretted that the increase in salaries was not general. He objected to this piecemeal method of dealing with that question. As regarded the increase of the number of judges in Quebec, had he been present last year he should have supported the bill. Hon. Mr. Macdonald (B. C.) asked when the general question of increases to judges' salaries would be taken up. Hon. Mr. Mills said he had submitted a bill for the general increase of salaries, but he thought his colleagues felt that public opinion was hardly ready for it. Hon. Mr. Ferguson said that last year he opposed this bill, but only tentatively. He felt now that the view of the province should prevail. The bill was read a second

Shape-retaining,

When you step down, your foot sinks into the Resilia Centresole, away from the toe cap.

This makes the shoe a size larger inside, when your foot is widest, so the upper leather is never stretched out of shape over ball.

When you lift your foot, the insole expands from the outsole, thus taking up slack in the leather, preventing wrinkling and over running on sides.

The shoe thus retains shape and wears longer, because it is never over-stretched.

 A NEW LEADER FOR CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS

Mrs. Mary B. G. Eddy's Successor Likely to Be Alfred Farlow.

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.-A special to the Chicago American says: According to Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, her successor as head of the Christian Science Church is to be a man. It is probable, in view of this, that the successor will be Alfred Farlow, formerly a reader in one of the Kansas City Christian Science churches and cations of the church.

Mr. Farlow is one of the foremost Christian Scientists in this country. His relations with Mrs. Eddy have been cordial. When he left Kansas City to be her personal assistant in 1899 it was considered a very signifi-

BARRED FROM ROYAL ARCANUM. Christian Scientists and faith curists will hereafter be barred from membership in the Royal Arcanum in New Jersey, and it is said that other beneficial societies will follow suit. The resolution accomplishing this result recited that whereas one of the principal objects of membership in the Royal Arcanum is insurance, and that it has been deemed wise and judicious to restrict membership with the view to avoid jeopardizing the financial standing and resources of this order, therefore be it resolved that all persons, when ill, who reject, refuse, or neglect the aid of medical science, are a very dangerous risk from an insurance standpoint, and that hereafter they should not be eligible to membership in this order, unless agreeing or contracting to obtain or submit to such aid when ill, under penalty of forfeiture of insurance.

CANADA AND THE VATICAN. London, May 14.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, who is a recognized authority on news from the Vatican, telegraphs to that paper an explanation of the reasons for the coming transfer of Mgr. Falconi from Ottawa to Washington. Some com-plaints had reached Rome from Can-ada that the Catholics of the Domin-ion were dissatisfied at being deprived special representation by a papal delegate, and the correspondent states that the reported opposition of Canadian Catholics to the suppression of the papal delegate there has surprised the Vatican. The sole reason of the change was purely to effect an economy, owing to the fact that the estate of the pontiff at the present time necessitated a reduction of expenditure. It is acknowledged now, however, that the Canadian Catholics are the more justified in their disapproval as they have recently acquired a special residence at Ottawa for the delegate. It seems that the Vatican acted without having five the value of the side of the delegate. out having first obtained sufficient information, but as Cardinal Martinelli will not leave Washington for a year or so, it is felt that the matter may yet be arranged to the satisfaction of Sir Henry complained that the proposals of the government were showy pretensions, expensive and ineffective," and he asked for figures and definite statements. Mr. Wyndham, the Irish secretary, in defending the general economy of the military establishment, said that while the British soldier cost in all £111. or $555 annually, the American soldier, not taking into account the pensions, cost £287 annually before the war with Spain and prior to the date when the United States had foreign stations. After several other speeches the debate was adjourned. The civil list resolution was adopted by 248 to 49 votes, and the civil list bill passed its first reading.

The only really interesting speech was made by Mr. Winston Churchill, who, following in his father's footsteps, entered a strong protest, in behalf of economy and against "overgrowing military extravagance." The house listened in impressive silence to Mr. Churchill's eloquent appeal. His style of speaking is still unequal, but he has the power to dominate parlia-

The English Census.

The announcement is made by cable that the census recently taken shows that there are in England and Wales now 32,525,716. This is a gain of over three and a half millions in the last ten years, and when we take into account the very large immigration that annually takes place, it proves that the English are a pretty verile race yet, despite the prophecies of their detractors of years ago and even at this day. For the purpose of comparison we give the population of England and Wales at each census during the past 100 years:

How Malthus and the fearful ones of 100 years ago would open their eyes today if they could gaze on the spectacle of the supposedly crowded England of the last half of the eighteenth entury with a population four times greater and still growing. These investigators then believed that the limit of England's ability to feed her population had been about reached when the population was under nine millions; now it is 32 millions. Yet they tell us that in many parts of the country workmen are today scarce. She is a really wonderful country, and though men there are who assert that now, as it was alleged 100 years ago, she has reached her zenith, and must begin to go back, as other great powers did which preceded her, there are no indications of that decadence, and there is not a well-wisher of civilization and progress who will wish that that day may soon come. It will not The acquirement of some old tome in come if her sons and daughters be true to those principles which enabled their forefathers to build up a great world-wide empire, which has never yet been equaled by any other.

Will Speak Up for Canada.

Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton, the eloquent Baptist minister, who will shortly leave bravely, and sank to rest amidst an Toronto for Cleveland, says his belief in the future greatness of Canada remains unshaken. In Dr. Eaton, who is one of the manliest of Canadians, this vigorous northern land will ever have an outspoken and sympathetic advocate, wherever he may be. There are compensating advantages in planting influential Canadians in the nell, of Burlington, has made investigations into the use of narcotics in the State named, and he is astonished at the facts laid bare. The statement which he makes is almost incredible. "In the regular drug stores and in 160 of the 172 general stores in the State there is sold every month 3,300,000 doses of opium, besides what is dispensed in patent medicines, and besides what the doctors dispense, which gives one and one-half doses of opium to every man and woman in the state above the age of 21 years every day of the year. By dose, I mean one grain opium, one-eighth grain morphine, one-half ounce paregoric, and 20 drops laudanum. The amount consumed each month means a half-dose for every man, woman and child in the State every day of the year." Dr. Grinnell adds that the facts on which this statement is based were conservatively considered. In some cases information was refused: in these he made no estimates, and he considers the showing of consumption would be even larger if all the sales could be tabulated. The doctor does not give any explanation of this under use of narcotics, but it is ascribed by others, in large part, to the difficulty of obtaining intoxicants in places where the prohibition law is enforced. That is to say, there is a considerable class in the community who are bound to have artificial "exhilaration," and if they cannot get drinks that "stimulate," enjoy better health, this conduct may appear foolish, but there seems to be no doubt that there is a good deal of truth in it.

London-1837 and 1901-Judge Robertson.

On a sultry day in August, 1837, there arose an unwonted commotion in the quiet little town of London, about which the great primeval forest of Western Ontario stretched in a projecting circle. There was a distant rumble of drums, and presently a flag or two fluttered into view. The villagers, wearing their smartest holiday attire, began to gather expectantly into little groups in the grass-margined main thoroughfare. The uncertain rumble developed into a rythmic beat of drums, and the Thirty-Second Regiment of Her Majesty Queen Victoria swung into view. The regiment was halted at a point near where the Tecumseh House now stands, and the adjutant, holding aloft in his hand a royal proclamation, exclaimed: "The King is dead. Long live the Queen." The band struck up the National Anthem, and the soldiers, elevating their busbies on their muskets, cheered three times, with a tiger. This was the manner in which Victoria's accession to the throne was greeted in her distant Canadian Dominion.

In the crowd who witnessed simple ceremony was a sturdy youth, who watched the affair with unfeigned delight. He was the present Mr. Justice Robertson, one of the oldest and best known of Ontario judges. It is 64 years since-a generous lifetimeyet the scene is impressed as vividly upon his mind as though it had happened but yesterday. It is an interesting fact, illustrative of the marvelous scientific and mechanical progress of the century, that although Queen Victoria ascended the throne on June 28, 1837, the news of the event did not reach this London of ours until Aug. The other day, Britons, in every part of the world, exclaimed, at almost the same moment: "The Queen is dead! Long live the King."

His career illustrates how gladly long life may be spent without great wealth or great position. Dr. Scadding had neither, yet the peace and beauty of his life might well be envied by many who have both in the greatest extent. If he had taken for his motto the words of Epictetus, that man's happiness does not consist of acquiring great possessions, but in limiting his desires, he could not more successfully have fulfilled the philosopher's conditions for a happy life. reference to the early history of Canada, or of some stained print or map that constituted a link in the historic chain, engrossed the acquisitiveness that in other men is expended on more material things. Indulging tastes thus easily ministered to and doing what good he could to his fellow-men, the venerable divine grew old slowly and esteem that was virtually confined no creed or class.-Toronto Globe.

Noises of the Night.

A correspondent writes a local contemporary respecting the unmelodious, ear-defying efforts of certain young gentlemen to acquire proficiency in the military bugle, at the expense of the auditory nerves of persons endeavoring to exist in the neighborhood. Another reader calls attention to the emitted at uncanny hours of the night from the throat of a peacock kept in a thickly-populated section of the city, with the effect of murdering human sleep. Where is the propriety of sending missionaries to the Senegambians, so long as there are ratepayers whose ideal of loving their neighbors as themselves allows them to kill the repose of the sick and the tired by keeping a screaming peacock? Add the wailing cats, the barking dogs, and the admirable persons who bawl everybody awake as they go home boisterously singing, and one gets an idea of the thoughtfulness for others that distinguishes some people!

Setting the Sun to Work.

From time immemorial men have realized that the greatest power in the universe is the sun. Until of late, however, very few attempts have been made to utilize the immense possibilities for practical mechanics. There is in operation in San Diego, California, a sun-motor, which consists of a series of mirrors set in a concave circle thirty feet in diameter. This is so poised as to be automatically adjusted to the sun, while in the midst of the blazing rays reflected is a small but exceedingly stout steam boiler, upon which the concentrated rays from all the mirrors fall. Within an hour after sunrise, until a few minutes before sunset, the engine continues to they will take poisonous drugs. To run, and is used to pump water for many people who thoroughly enjoy life irrigation purposes. The sun as a mowithout eiter agency, and in addition tive power may have other achievements in store.

There seems to be a doubt in some minds as to whether one should say, "The United States is" or "The United States are." We would naturally prefer the former, suggesting as it does the idea of national unity, and we maintain there is no violation of the to use a verb in the singular. But the

We are glad to observe from the Hamilton Spectator that our former townsman, Mr. Samuel Barker, M. P., for Hamilton, who has been ill, is recovering, at all events physically; The Advertiser is not so hopeful as to his recovery politically. Your Uncle Samuel is one of the London Old Boys who have come to the front.

At the coming meeting of the United States Presbyterian General Assembly, the question of a revision and shortening of the creedal statement will come up for discussion. The creed subscription is only for ministers; it may not be generally known that the individual members are not required to subscribe to any doctrinal statement. As for the creed revision for the ministers, here is the expectation of that breezy paper, the Chicago Interior:

"That is what the church has set out for, and what she will get; a brief, clear, irenical, evangelical creed, with such a Presbyterian flavor that on tasting it, as one would a teaspoonful of fresh maple syrup, he will say with a light in his eye, "That is the genu-ine thing! Take my order for a weekly supply of it as long as I live."

Interesting Reminiscence of a Pioneer of Windsor.

The Windsor Record publishes some interesting reminiscences of Mr. Sterne J. Ball, a resident of Windsor, who recalls many events of the troublous times of 1837-38. He was at that time an officer in the 4th Middlesex Volunteers. In blood - curdling screams suddenly the course of the interview with the Record, he said:

When the rebellion of 1837 broke out, Col. Ball was residing near London, then Col. Ball was residing near London, then Canada West, and was commissioned by Sir John Colborne to raise a battalion for active service, which the colonel did in short time from the first, second and fourth battalions of Middlesex Militia. He appointed a number of young men as officers, many of whom afterwards became prominent in the legal and other professions of Canada—John Wilson, who became Judge Wilson; D. J. Hughes, who is the present judge of the county court of the county of Elgin; the late H. C. R. Becher, who was made a Q. C., and others. The appointment of such young men did not please the older officers of the Middlesex Militia, and they petitioned Sir John Colborne to annul them, but the petition was not granted. On the

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT Springbank

A sublimer thought cannot be conceived than a kindly regard for the welfare of others.

Now that the outing season has commenced we have conceived a plan to benefit our large army of customers which we have no doubt will be appreciated and taken advantage of by them.

On today and following days, with each and every purchase of goods amounting to $2, we will present a street railway ticket, entitling bearer to a Free Trip to Springbank and Return. The purchase need not be confined to any particular department, but a customer can get a transfer slip, and if necessary make up the amount from part or whole of our thirteen different departments. With our immense stock to select from this will not be a hard thing to do. At this season of the year when manufacturers and wholesale houses are cleaning up their stocks, many lines came our way at immense reductions from regular value. Our great purchasing power, which smaller houses have not, enables us to secure these, and our customers get the benefit of our shrewd buying. We instance some of the lines below. Come early, make your purchase, and secure a Free Ticket to London's great summer resort.

contrary, Sir John confirmed them, and thanked Col. Ball for the efficient manner in which he had placed the battalion. It took about three weeks to get the battalion in shape after the call to arms had been issued. The battalion was attached to the 22nd Regiment of regulars, stationed at London, and afterwards ordered to the front, marching to Gosfield by way of St. Thomas. Some of the volunteers took part in the battle of Pelee Island, in February, 1828, when the "patriots" retreated across the island, closely pursued by the regulars through the deep snow. However, the main body of the "patriots" managed to get to the American shore, after losing thirteen men killed and forty wounded, and a number taken prisoners. The regulars lost two killed and had twenty-eight wounded, and one volunteer from St. Thomas was killed. The prisoners were taken to London under a guard furnished by the fourth battalion, and they had all they could do to keep the prisoners from being set upon by the people as they passed through the country, so bitter was the feeling against them. Among the loyal people who came to the front at that time were 200 Indians from Delaware and 200 colored men from Kent and Essex.

Purity of speech and accent lies largely with the ladies; mo-thers and teachers go far to give the accent one carries through life. High standards should be sought and used. Home arts and handicrafts offer useful and interesting ways of passing spare time and accomplishing charming results. There are so many which can be carried on at home by the table while some read or sew, and others work in wood, leather, paints, embroideries-too many arts to name. This subject ought to be very attractive to young people.

ACTIVITY OF THE AFGHANS. London, May 12.—British statesmen are sharply reminded by the recent news from Cabul that Afghanistan cannot long be maintained in its present state as a buffer state between Russia and India. The Ameer is giving out large orders for guns. One of the Englishmen best entitled to speak regarding the Indian borderland, Col. Hungerford Holdich, who has just published a comprehensive work dealing with the situation on the northwest frontier of India, says Afghan disintegration has already set in, and that the partition of the country is bound to come, at no late date, with the Hindu Kush as the Anglo-Russian

He asserts-that it is not generally known—that an important school of Afghan politicians only awaits the death of Abdurrahman to promote an neath of Abdurranman to promote an internal uprising which might be the beginning of the end. In his opinion a Russian occupation of Herat would have to be followed by a British advance on Kandahar and Jelalabad, after which Afghanistan would "gradually fall to places"

'gradually fall to pieces." This pronouncement on a subject always fascinating, because fraught with such perils, is a smashing reply to the argument that, in the event of the Afghan frontier being violated by Russia, the Italian army should be held back, leaving the battle to be fought out on some other field.

With this view Col. Holdich has no ympathy. "The inevitable result of sympathy. "The inevitable result of that sort of masterly inactivity would be," he declares, "that we should have another great mutiny on our hands." His theory is that Afghanistan, even reduced by a partition at the Hindu Kush, should be made to pay, and with the help of British officers rendered secure against further aggression. His cold, matter-of-fact presentation of the case has startled military circles and emphasized for civilians the difficulty of a peaceful solution of the compicated Anglo-Russian problem in

The announcement of Mr. John Calander's death, which occurred early yesterday at the family residence, 63 York street, caused sincere sorrow to his many friends in this city and to those whom he had made during the years he traveled for Robinson, Little & Co. Mr. Callander was one of the best known and best liked men on the road, and when failing health forced him to retire from active life, gen-eral regret was express. Several months ago he went to Colorado and Arizona in a vain attempt to regain his strength, and since his return he failed steadily. Mrs. Callander, and three daughters, Mrs. J. R. SPORTING NEWS.

An exciting game of ball was played Friday night between the Hortons and the Victorias, resulting in an easy victory for the former by a score of 9 to 0. Whiteall was on the slab for the Hortons and proved a puzzle to the opposing team. James Carrothers' excellent throwing and batting was a very striking feature of the game. Toronto Man Goes Through a Living Purgatory - Dyspepsia Makes His Life a Torment - Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Have Proved His Greatest

James Beck, 561 Shaw street, writes as follows:

"I have suffered over five with dyspepsia I could not touch any kind of pastry. I could not eat the simplest dishes without pain and sour uprising from the stomach. "I lost all relish for food and ate, not because I felt hungry, but because I knew I must eat. The slightest variation from a plain, monotonous diet-and I would suffer for it. "I was told of several remedies and tried them all. I saw others adver-tised and tried them. Nothing whatever did me the slightest good. I could nowhere get any relief.

"Then I heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. But not knowing that they were different to other remedies I ex-pected little from them. However, I tried them. "I used three boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Today I can eat any thing that's put before me. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets made all the difference in the world. Not only is my Dyspepsia entirely cured, but I feel better in every way."

That is the way Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets acted in the case of Mr. Beck. That is exactly the way they will act with you. That is exactly the way they act with everybody.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are indorsed by physicians. They are a compound of pepsin, diastase and other er natural digestants mixed in sugar. There is no secret about their composition. AT POLICE COURT Eighteen Offenders Face Magistrate Lovs-Alleged Profanation of Lord's Day.

Yesterday's session was a busy and lengthened one at police court, no fewer than 18 offenders facing the magistrate's bench, and having justice, tempered with mercy, handed out to them in properly proportioned doses.

Wm. Torrance and Wm. Taylor, employes of the London Street Railway Company, were charged with profanation of the Lord's Day, by working at the repairing of a portion of the company's overhead wires. The evidence for the defense was to the effect that the work could not be done at night after the cars ceased running or in the morning before they started, there-fore Sunday was the only day in which it could be done. The case was dismissed.

Tim Sullivan and Thomas Morkin were charged with fighting on King street. The evidence showed that Sullivan was the aggressor, and he was fined $2, while Morkin was discharged. The charge of breach of the liquor license act laid against Wm. Mahon, of the Hodgins' House, by Inspector Henderson, was dismissed, the evidence being inconclusive.

James Watson, against whom charges were laid of drunkenness and assaulting P. C. Walter Smith, was bailed to appear today for trial.

Thomas Hadden, charged by Henry Clifford with assault, and charged also with being drunk, was found guilty on both charges, but was let go on sus-John Brown was found guilty of using abusive language towards P. C. Barnhill. He was fined $5 or twenty

IS WINSTON CHURCHILL THE COMING PREMIER?

The House of Commons Listens Spell-Bound By His Eloquence.

London, May 14.—Mr. Henry W. Massingham, writing in the Daily News this morning regarding Mr. Winston Churchill's speech in the House of Commons last night, says nothing like it has been heard since Gladstone died, and he predicts that Mr. Churchill will one day be premier of Great Britain.

Mr. Churchill created a deep impression by reading Lord Randolph Churchill's letter to the Marquis of Salisbury on his (Lord Randolph's) resignation, fifteen years ago, emphasizing the need of public economy.

to raise the tattered flag of economy again," he said, and, proceeding to point out that the ex-penditure for defenses had doubled since the date of his father's letter, he asked whether the population had doubled or whether the offensive force of other nations had doubled. He argued that the navy was England's real defense, and the result of present policy would be a weak navy and a usestrong army. He declared himself unable to support either Mr. Brodrick's resolution or the amendment of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman. The house listened in impressive silence to Mr. Churchill's eloquent appeal.

New York, May 14.—Following the announcement of the visit to this city of Director-General Albert Hallin, of the Hamburg-American Steamship Line Company, comes the statement that this line has acquired the Atlas Steamship Line, which, for the past 30 years, has plied between Jamaica, Hayti and Central America. The At-las Line was owned by an English corporation, but under the Hamburg-American Line will fly the German flag. This addition makes the Hamburg-American Steamship Line the largest in the world, the entire tonnage being 630,000, divided into 120 vessels, sailing in 30 different services. By its acquisition of the Atlas Line it has gained seven new steamships of an average tonnage of 3,000 tons. The consideration is said to be $4,000,000 to $5,000,000.

HUNTON'S INHALER CURE; CATARRH.

"Why, what should have made her faint?" innocently exclaimed Miss Lovering, as she came forward and peered curiously into Shirley's white, still face. "It is very strange, isn't it? for the room is certainly very cool and comfortable."

Lord Wallace thought there was a peculiar inflection in her tones and glanc-

Lord Wallace thought there was a peculiar inflection in her tones, and, glancing keenly into her face, he was sure that it was gleaming with an expression of malicious triumph.

"She has been saying something to wound and insult her, after all," was his inward comment, as he gathered Shirley's slight form closer in his arms and bore her from the room, remarking to madame as he did so:

"I will take her directly upstairs to her own room if you will kindly come with me."

Then he was gone before a crowd could gather about her, and, a few minutes later. Shirley opened her eyes to find herself lying upon the bed in her own chamber, white Madame Marton, Lady Waliace and her son stood over her, applying restoratives and chafing her hands to bring her to herself.

"Oh, Clif!" the girl unconsciously breathed, with a quivering sigh, but no one caught the words save Madame Marton, to whom they were a sudden revelation, and who compressed her thin lips into a line of stern displeasure.

"What did she say?" questioned Lord Wallace in an eager tone.

"I don't know," retorted madame, who was not over-conscientious about stretching the truth a little when it suited her purpose to do so, and of course she was not going to betray Shirley in this delicate matief.

The question and answer served to recall the fair girl more fully to herself, and, lifting her head from the pillow, she flashed a wondering look upon the faces around her and inquired:

"What is the matter? What has happened?"

"The matter is that you are tired out me."
Then he was gone before a crowd could

"The matter is that you are tired out after your trip, and, as soon as you have taken this, I am going to command that you go to bed and sleep quietly until morning," Lord Wallace gently replied, as he held to her lips a restorative which he had prepared.

Shirley smiled feebly, but unhesitatingly drank the potton, and then, with a deep sigh, lay back upon her pillow again.

The young man felt her pulse, after which he gave Madame Marton some directions to follow in case the fainting should return; then, telling her to call upon him if he should be needed, he bade Shirley a kind good-night and left her with the ladies.

Shirley begged Lady Wallace to return to her guests and Madame Marton to accompany her.

"I shall be well enough by myself," she pleaded. "I would rather lie here quietly, just as I am, for awhile, than to go to bed so early."

"Indeed, she felt too utterly wretched and shaken by the greather nearest and he hades." "The matter is that you are tired out just as I am, for awhile, than to go to bed so early."

"Indeed, she felt too utterly wretched and shaken by the crushing news she had learned, to make the slightest effort just then—she only wished to be left alone with her grief and pain.

Madame Marton seemed to realize this, and added her entreaties to persuade their hostess to return to the drawing-room, saying that she should also retire presently, and, until she did, would look after Shirley.

Lady Wallace finally yielded, and, after bady Wallace finally yielded, and, after obtaining her promise to call upon her maid if anything should be needed, she bent over Shirley, kissed her softly on the lips and went away.

Tears started to the young girl's eyes at this motherly caress, for no one had kissed her or offered her a caress of any kind since she left New York, and her heart was hungering for some token of affection.

Marton sat down in a low chair by the bed, a thoughtful look on her face.

She had been very much startled by Shirley's swoon, and she could not account for it in any way, until she caught those two half-conscious words the girl had uttered just as she was beginning to members of the court. Judgments were pronounced in a number of cases argued last term, among them the following from Ontario: Ince vs. city of Toronto-Appeal dismissed with costs. Schell vs. Finkle—Appeal allowed in part. which had been forming in her fertile brain.

As she sat there beside Shirley, thinking of this, with a feeling of deep disappointment, a long-drawn sigh from the bed attracted her attention. Glancing at the girl, she saw that her eyes were wide open and staring at the foot-board, a look of dumb misery in them that smote her heart with a keen pain.

As we are aware, Madame Marton was impulsive, and not noted for her tact; so she must not be too severely censured for trying to sift the matter which now troubled her, with her usual bluntness. "Child, what had Clifton Vining to do with your fainting?" she asked, abruptly, but with a note of kindness in her tone.

Shirley shrank from the harsh terms applied to Cilf, for she loved him still; but, after thinking the matter over a little, she resolved to tell madame her whole story; she felt so friendless and heavy-hearted that she longed for sympathy and comfort, even though it might be rudely expressed, as was characteristic of the eccentric woman.

Shirley started, and darted a swift, astonished look into the woman's face. Then the hot blood dyed her cheaks and brow with crimson, and all her forced composure gave way.

"Oh!" she cried, throwing out her hands with a gesture of misery, "he has broken my heart!" and then she burst into a flood of passionate weeping.

Madame's thin lips were instantly compressed into a straight, stern line, but by no other sign did she betray that she was moved in the least by that grief-stricken cry. Neither did she attempt to make any reply until Shirley's sorrow had somewhat spent itself; then she remarked, with the same note of gentleness that she had used in speaking before:

"Broken your heart! Humph! Well, that is about what you might expect from most men. Now, child, just dry your tears; shut down the sluice-gates, and tell me all about it, and we'll see exactly how far this thing has gone."

LOSS OF THE STEAMER CITY OF PADUCAH

She Sank in Five Minutes After Striking a Snag-Two Persons Drowned and Twenty-two Missing.

St. Louis, Mo., May 14.—A special from Grand Tower, Ill., says: The steamer City of Paducah sank in 25 feet of water Sunday night in less than five minutes after striking a snag, and while backing out from Brunkhorse Landing. The bodies of the two passengers who were drowned of the crew, most of them negroes, are missing. All the officers were saved.

First Mate Tobias Royal, of St.

Louis, says only about twelve passengers were on board and all were saved except two. The body of Dr. J. W. Bell, of Bell's Landing, Tenn., was taken out of his state room. The remains of a young woman, on which was a visiting card reading, "Mrs. Harry L. Allen, 3,430 Eads avenue, St. Louis, Mo.," was recovered from her state room. Two friends traveling with the drowned woman, who start-ed back to St. Louis on the steamer City of Clinton, said that the young lady was engaged to marry Dr. C. A. Meredith, of St. Louis. Several hun-dred dollars' worth of jewelry was found on her body. The passenger list has not been recovered. A diver is searching for it. Only the hurricane deck is above water, which reaches to the skylights of the cabins. All the staterooms are completely filled with water. The steamboat drifted a third of a mile below the landing where she sank.

The first mate says the boat went down within three minutes after striking the snag, He was on the cabin deck and escaped by climbing through the skylight. It is supposed that most of the missing deck hands, who were on the lower deck, were washed down the river. The boat appears to be a total wreck.

Thomas J. Johnston, watchman for the boat, who is said to be among the lost, was 85 years old, and had been a steamboat man for 60 years. He lived in St. Louis.

Early reports sent yesterday said that 35 persons were drowned.

STILL ANOTHER STORY. St. Louis, May 14.—The first authentic information concerning the wreck of the steamer City of Paducah, of the St. Louis and Tennessee River Packet Company, which occurred at Brunkhorst Landing, Ill., late Sunday night, was obtained upon the arrival of the steamer City of Clifton at this port early today.

FIFTEEN LIVES LOST. Fifteen persons lost their lives in the catastrophe, six whites and nine

The officers acted with coolness, and as the boat settled, helped the pas-sengers to the cabin roof from which the boats were launched.

Miss Mabel Gardiner, of St. Louis, was asleep in her stateroom when the shock came, and probably lost her life by remaining to dress. Her body was found in the forward part of cabin. The passengers lost all their belongings, and had to be supplied with clothing by those on shore.

INMATES OF THE WOODSTOCK JAIL ESCAPE

Augustus McGuire Coolly Walked Away-Frank O'Neil Gains Freedom.

Woodstock, Ont., May 14.-Frank O'Neil, a prisoner, on Saturday night succeeded in making his escape from the county jail. He was employed in the kitchen and was at work there about 6 o'clock when he decided to carry into action the plan which was to effect his freedom. He went down the cellar from the kitchen and up into the jail proper. Mr. Cameron and Mr. Forbes were both at supper at the time. O'Neil went to the latter's desk, pried it open, and got hold of the turnkey's bunch of keys and his revolver. Armed with the latter, he went to the room where the clothing worn by the prisoners before entering the jail is kept, and took what belonged to him as well as that of the two men sent down with him from Tilsonburg a month ago-Frank Griffin and Edward Smith. He invited them to join him in making his escape, but they declined. O'Neil dressed himself and went down to the office, where he broke open Mr. Cameron's desk and took $4 or $5. He started back for the kitchen by way he had come and let himself out over the iron bars into the yard. It was easy sailing after that, and he was probably some distance from the jail by the time Mr. Forbes was through with his tea, about a quarter of an hour later, and made the discovery of his escape. O'Neil was dressed in a dark suit of clothes and a dark cloth cap. He wore a pair of prison shoes, fastened with a buckle in front. He was sent down with Griffin and Smith a month ago from Tilsonburg, where he had been caught stealing a ride on the M. C. R., evidently being en route to the Pan-American. They were given 40 days each, so that O'Neil had only ten days more to serve. It is supposed that he has gone east, and the au-thorities expect to catch him before the week is up. The trio are all young fellows, about 18 years of age. It was well for the officials that they did not happen to come into the jail at the time O'Neil was at large there for his two companions say that he had the revolver taken from the desk, and told them that if anybody put in an appearance he was going to

ANOTHER PRISONER ESCAPES. Ottawa, May 14.-About 1 o'clock on Friday afternoon Augustus McGuire walked out of the prisoners coolly dock in the police court, before the eyes of the constables, and has not yet been captured, although his home on Maria street has been searched, and the byways of the capital have been scoured thoroughly by zealous policemen. McGuire was charged with stealing some household articles from George Chenier, whose house on Clarence street was burned a few days

Could we read the hearts of every man we meet, what a load of sorrow and despair would be disclosed. Indiscretions and Blood Discases have caused more physical and mental wrecks than all other causes combined. They strike at the foundation of manhood; they sap the vital forces; they undarmine the system, and not only do they often disrupt the family circle, but they may even extend their poisonous fangs into the next generation. If you have been a victim of early sinful habits, remember the seed is sown, and sooner or later you will reap a harvest. If your blood has been diseased from any cause do not risk a return later on. Our New Method Treatment will positively cure you and you need never fear any return of the disease. We will give you a guarantee bond to that effect. We would warn you sincerely against the promiscuous use of mercury, which does not cure blood poison tut simply suppresses the symptoms.

-The Imperial Waltz Club enter-tained a large number of their friends to a very enjoyable dance at the Palace Academy last evening. The club in-tended giving the party at Springbank, but owing to the decision of the comot to allow any private parties at the pavilion this season, it was transferred to the academy. The dances promise to be just as popular as though held at Springbank. -A big field day will be held on June 7 at Guelph, when representatives from the various colleges comprising the Business Educators' Association of Ontario will compete for a banner, to be held for one year by the school making the largest number of points. The col-leges at London, Sarnia, Galt, Hamilton, Berlin, Guelph, Toronto and Ot-tawa will be represented, and a successful day is anticipated. A Cleveland telegram says that before Christmas electric cars will be making daily trips between Cleveland and Detroit. Contracts have been made for rails and other equipment. The new line will be about 135 miles long. The present fare demanded by steam railroads is to be cut in half. There remain about 40 miles of railway to construct before the connection between Cleveland and Toledo will be complete. The entire line will represent a total investment of about $3,000,000, and is another of the schemes in which Mr. Everett is interested.

EARLY CLOSING. The shoe dealers of the city met in Pocock's store last night, and formed an association, with Mr. R. C. Brown as president; Mr. Ed Cook, secretary; and Mr. Wm. Morrison, treasurer. It was unanimously agreed to close the retail shoe stores at 6 p.m. beginning on June 1, except Saturdays, when the closing hour will be 10 o'clock. It was further resolved to close at 5 p.m. dur-ing the months of July and August. LONDON HORSES WON. At the Montreal horse show last week, the string of Mr. Adam Beck, of this city, captured no less than a dozen prizes and two others highly commended. The prizes included a pair of championships, five firsts, two seconds and three thirds. The championships were in the hunter and sad-dle classes. In the saddle class, Mrs. Beck showed her own saddle horse, and won the championship, against 27 entries. Mrs. Bryce Allen, of Boston, was

AN IRREPARABLE LOSS.

Speaking of the demise of Dr. D. J. McKillop, brother of Mr. J. B. Mc-Killop, deputy crown attorney of this city, the Belleville Ontario says, in reference to his connection with the Ontario Institute for the Deaf and Dumb: "He was a man of the most kindly disposition and enjoyed the warmest esteem and regard of every officer, teacher and pupil in the institution. . . . With the deaf stitution. . . . With the deaf throughout the province he occupied a position as counseior, confidante and friend that will make his loss irreparable." The last tokens of respect to the deceased were paid by the staff and pupils of the institution on Friday morning. day morning. Superintendent Matheson and Professors Coleman and Denyes eulogized the character of the de ceased, and the sorrow of all was evi-denced by the tear that filled every eye. The remains were taken to Duart for interment. Mr. McKillop leaves his parents, four brothers and two sis-

PICKEREL FISHING IN

Catch Last Year Amounted to 34,064 Pounds.

In 1899 Amount Yielded by River Was Nearly Double.

How the Total Catch of 1900 Was Divided Among the Various Waters of the Province.

Tomorrow is the last day of the close season for pickerel; and on Thursday, if you should chance to have plenty of time on your hands and to possess the necessary love for the gentle sport of angling, you may pack your basket, instruct your cook to pickerel supper, and start off down the

Oh, the memory of those pickerel suppers of days gone by. You recall them with a deep, passionate yearning that only the angler who has eaten pickerel caught with his own hook and hands can understand. Adapting the historic remark of a famous man about the strawberry, you think that doubtless God could have made a better fish, but doubtless he never did.

The pickerel—they call it "dore" in Quebec-is undoubtedly in the front rank of Ontario foodfish, and is only inferior, economically to the lake trout on account of its smaller numbers. It is an alarming fact, too, that it is steadily decreasing in Ontario waters. Last year the total catch for the province was 2,605,618 pounds, which, 5 cents the pound, was worth $130,-280 90. The total catch of fish of all kinds in the province for the year was the pickerel catch was only exceeded by that of trout, herring and white-fish. In 1899 the pickerel catch exceeded that of last year by 774,508 pounds. In our own district the decrease is very marked, but do not think, gentle angler, that the pickerel has disappeared. Last year the Thames yielded 34,064 pounds, valued at $1,703 40. No other catch of fish in the Thames exceeded it in quality or value save that of what is classed as "coarse fish." In 1899 the catch in the river amounted to 58,931 pounds, or nearly twice as

The pickerel catch of last year was divided among the different waters of the province as follows: Lake of the Woods and Rainy River, 75,589 pounds; Lake Superior, 40,306 pounds; Lake Nipegon and Thunder Bay, 2,000 pounds; Lake Huron (north channel), 496,666 pounds; Georgian Bay, 194,039 pounds: Lake Huron proper, 281,551 pounds; River St. Clair, 113,247 pounds; Lake St. Clair and Detroit River, 44,-878 pounds; Thames River, 34,064 pounds; Lake Erie, 1,218,171 pounds; Lake Ontario, 34,270 pounds; Lake Ni-pissing, 4,009 pounds; inland waters, 66,837 pounds. These figures are not intended to blast the high hopes of the angler who has made preparations to go pickerel hunting on Thursday, but, rather, to encourage him. If he should catch a big, plump dore in the Thames, he will have the greater cause to boast of his achievement. In the meantime, having instructed the cook about the pickerel supper, he will, if he is a cautious man, have the butcher leave a steak at the back door in case-well sometimes the fish won't bite.
