A Russian inventor has a new smokeless gunpowder, said to exceed in power any explosive yet invented for guns. The Government is constructing immense new works for the manufacture of the powder, and the inventor has been taken into the service.

The Central Shoe Blacking Institute has opened its doors in Berlin. It undertakes to clean boots and shoes for its clients as often as required between 6 a.m. and 9 p.m. for monthly payments at the rate of 50 cents a month for men and 35 cents for women. The performers in an Alger theatre, which closed its doors while the influenza raged, sued their manager because he devalued the time they were willing to play right on. The manager claimed that the influenza was an act of Providence, and that however able the actors may have been to play the public was incapacitated from attending, and the closing of the theatre was thus necessary through no fault of his. The court sustained this view of the matter.

A Cossack officer named Poyetoff is taking a horseback ride from Bielovetehensk, on the River Amoor, in Eastern Siberia, to St. Petersburg, a distance of 5,000 miles. He goes quite alone on an ordinary cavalry horse and carrying his provisions with him. He started in November, and when last seen by a party of merchants near Irkutsk, was in good health and spirits, and made about a quarter of the distance. He expects to reach St. Petersburg in April. It will be the longest ride on record.

Mr. Zachrisson, who is to lead the Swedish expedition to Central Africa, expects to make the first white colony in the far interior of the Dark Continent. He is said to have contracts with 100 Swedish artisans who have agreed to start with him in May next, and carrying his provisions with him. An expedition would certainly have involved tragic consequences, and its prospects to-day are by no means brilliant. The project, however, is not quite so foolhardy as it would have been before white men knew as much as they do now about the best means of keeping their health. It would have been regarded as impossible a few years ago for Stanley to safely lead five white men clear across Africa, as he has just done, or for missionaries to be thriving like Mackay, on Victoria Nyansa after a dozen years' residence. But, after all, these Swedish workmen would be better off at home.

The route of the tunnel can be traced by depression of the earth over it, and last of the brick building directly over it, which is owned by the company, cracks so badly that it is liable to fall. The Pope and His Brother.

ROME, Feb. 18.—It is reported on good authority that the Pope, during the illness of his brother, Cardinal Pecci, broke his manner in which he had subjected to surveillance during his recent visit to Ireland. He confessed he had been privileged in one particular, for he had used language which, if used by any Parnellite, would have led to his imprisonment. The improvement was that he had not used coercion; Ireland, he held, was not due to coercion; he had a word to say to a good harvest.

ment leader, said the Government intended to ask the House to adopt the report and to thank the Commission for its just and impartial conduct. He also said the Government would ask the House to enter the report on its journal. (Cries of "Oh! oh!") He further said he hoped, subject to the progress of business in the House, to make a motion on Monday next to carry out the Government's intentions.

The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne was resumed. Mr. William O'Brien said the Nationalists had grown strong under coercion. During Mr. Balfour's term of office as Chief Secretary for Ireland, £120,000 had been subscribed by the people to carry out the objects of the League. The boycott still prevailed everywhere, and the Nationalists had triumphed even in the districts of the "Ulster Ministers," with Mr. T. W. Russell as a member, and Major Sanderson as a member, were accustomed to perform.

Mr. T. W. Russell attacked the Parnellites, saying they had no hesitations in praising the Gladstones, whom they had covered with the worst epithets. Thus Earl Spencer was charged with having been an effort made to blacken his character.

Mr. O'Brien, interrupting, said: "I certainly would not let any man say that about the House." Mr. Shaw-Lefevre severely criticized the manner in which he had subjected to surveillance during his recent visit to Ireland. He confessed he had been privileged in one particular, for he had used language which, if used by any Parnellite, would have led to his imprisonment. The improvement was that he had not used coercion; Ireland, he held, was not due to coercion; he had a word to say to a good harvest.

Mr. Tupper presented a bill to amend the Fisheries Act, explaining that it was designed to extend the official powers of fisheries officers as justices of the peace. The bill was read the first time. An act respecting the Goderich and Canadian Pacific Junction Railway Company, and to change the name of the company to "The Goderich and Wingham Railway Company," passed through Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Charlton called attention to the fact that in the speech from the throne at the opening of the Imperial Parliament no reference had been made to the Behring Sea trouble, and asked if the Government could account for the neglect.

Sir John Macdonald said all he could say was that negotiations are now going on between the Imperial Ambassador at Washington and the United States Secretary of State with a view to an arrangement on this subject.

Hon. Mr. Laurier, on rising to resume the adjourned debate on Mr. Parnell asked for information as to the Government's intentions regarding the report of the special Parnell Commission.

Right Hon. W. H. Smith, the Govern-

I can find nothing in this bill, he said, but the old, old spirit of domination and intolerance, which in this land and in the mother country has always characterized the course of pure, unadulterated Toryism. This measure, taken by itself, and disconnected from the motive of the honorable gentleman, would not be of itself of very great importance. But it is of the greatest importance for this reason, that it constitutes a declaration of war by him, and those who are acting with him, against the French race. In Ontario he spoke of the French race in terms of opprobrium, which he would not dare to repeat in this House concerning French-Canadians, who are on a par with him on the floor of this House. He would not dare to apply here to my fellow-countrymen the same terms and epithets he applied in Ontario. He would not dare to call it, as he did last year, a bastard nationality. (Hear, hear.) I have here his language used at St. John's on July 12. He said then:

In Barrie last election I pointed out the great danger, the overshadowing danger, from the French nationality, which will take us in as we would take them in, but which begins and ends with the French race and the Roman Catholic faith, and which now means the dismemberment of Canada.

He speaks here of a bastard nationality and a danger to Canada. Sir, the day is not far distant when the "bastard nationality," to the honorable gentleman, will be the choice expression of the honorable gentleman, when you could have counted on your hands the members of that race in this House who did not belong to the Conservative party. In those days, and so long as that race had the controlling weight in the political scale, we never heard of any danger to Canada from this French nationality. The sensitive-ness of the honorable gentleman now so easily alarmed did not then seem to be shocked, though his fellow-countrymen could and did appeal to all the prejudices of his race. But that was legitimate warfare, for then it was made to do service for the Conservative party, and give them and to retain for themselves, but no word was heard from them of the danger to Canada from the French nationality. This is all altered to-day. The honorable gentleman, who was once the champion of the French party necessary to the Conservative party, but what was unobjectionable to those days has now become a danger to Canada, and the future by the past. If French-Canadians were again to be needed to give their whole weight to the party to which the honorable gentleman still belongs, not one word more should we hear of the danger to Canada from the French nationality.

It has been asked, was the honorable gentleman acting in sympathy with the Prime Minister, or did he start a movement of his own? This is a most useless question, for whatever the aim of the honorable gentleman, it is quite certain he means no harm to the party, and still less to the leader of the party. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Laurier made it clear that, to his mind, the enacting clause of the bill is one thing and the preamble, with the introductory speech, quite another. He could not pretend to be blind to the fact that the measure is a declaration of war against the French race and language, and that the promoters of the bill are so to the French race, said Mr. Laurier, I denounce anti-Canadian and anti-British, as contrary to all the traditions of the British Government in this country, as fatal to the hopes we had at one time and which I am not disposed to give up, of forming a nation on this continent. (Cheers.) I denounce it as a crime, the consequences of which are simply appalling. It is a crime, which is simply a party device, but he is opening the floodgates of passion, which, once loosed, no human power can control. (Cheers.) The honorable gentleman went out of his mind in the speech to which I alluded to refer to the Riel rebellion, and did not hesitate to attribute the storm of indignation which convulsed a race to the lowest sentiments which actuates the human heart—and these sentiments were, I am sorry to say, reproduced, to some extent counteracted, by the honorable member for the Conservative Ministry, Mr. McCarthey, who did not hesitate then to say, after the people of Quebec took the stand they did from the most disinterested motives, that it was a crime, and that it was a crime and justice because this so-called criminal was one of their own race.

This sentiment is recalled here, and I have this morning to say to the honorable gentleman, taken then by the people of Quebec was an honest one is guilty of a slander he cannot prove. The honorable gentleman has the honor—It has been the stock phrase of the Conservative Ministry press in Ontario for the last three or four years, and so long as it was confined to obscure scribbles it might very well be passed in silence, but when the honorable gentleman (Mr. McCarthey) does not hesitate to give the countenance of his reputation to it, and when it is brought up in the House especially, I cannot allow the charge to pass unrefuted. The honorable gentleman (Mr. McCarthey) could not forget that 23 of his colleagues, 25 members of the party to which he belongs, 25 of those who generally supported the Administration, and who, like himself, are not to be read out of the party, telegraphed to the Prime Minister that Riel's execution would be a crime. And he cannot forget that the press of the civilized world gave their opinion that upon that occasion mercy should be the rule and not severity.

There is not to-day a more honest, more race than the French-Canadians, and if the honorable gentleman were to come with me to Lower Canada it would be my pride to make him to one of those noble parishes either on the St. Lawrence or on one of its tributaries and show him a population which, prejudiced as he is, he could not but apply the words of the poet to those who inhabited the Basin of Minas and the meadows of Grand-Pre:

Men whose lives gladden, like rivers watering the woodland; Darker by shadows of earth, but reflecting the image of heaven.

(Cheers.) I believe, sir, I claim no more than is due to my country. Let the two races stand together, each with its own characteristics, and they will be all the more speedily united in the same aspirations, British in allegiance, Canadian in sentiment. We want to be a nation, and Protestants and Catholics, English, Irish, Scotch, French and German, everyone to be a member, with his passions and traditional prejudices. But, sir, in each of those parties, there is a common spot of patriotism, and the only true policy is that which reaches that and makes it vibrate towards a common end. (Cheers.)

In dealing with the propositions before the House, he rejected the bill because of its preamble and surroundings of passion. He viewed Mr. Laurier's amendment as premature, endorsing the Territories with autonomy in one matter before they were granted it in all, and he disliked the proposal of Mr. Beauséjour to make the present temporary constitution of the Northwest permanent. When Mr. Laurier set down there were rounds of warmest applause. Determined cries of "Question" from the Opposition brought the Premier to his feet. He said first that the Tories had been since the Union better friends of French Canada than the Reformers; and secondly that he that he would support the Davin amendment. He condemned Mr. McCarthey very mildly, and expressed his fervent hope that peace might prevail.

Mr. Alonzo Wright spoke in opposition to the bill, as did Mr. Landry (Ken), Mr. Weldon and Mr. Dussault.

At 11:30 Mr. Chapleau moved the adjournment of the debate, which will be resumed to-morrow afternoon.

It is said there is deep discontent among the Blues at the course of Sir John. They expected something better, they say, from a man who so loudly proclaimed that "Columbia, not Short, is your friend."

In connection with the comment which the action of Mr. Dawson, of Algoma—a Roman Catholic—in voting for the Orange Bill has occasioned, it is learned that ex-Speaker Muller, of the Senate, also a devout Catholic, will support the Orange Bill when it comes before the Senate for the reason that he is opposed to giving any class of people a ground of grievance.

A Dinner Pill—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Farnie's Vegetable Pills are a wonderful corrective of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. dian capacity for self-government should it be decided as Hon. Mr. Chapleau proposes, that the correction of the voters list is to costly a luxury to be indulged in annually, with its logical consequence that every election that takes place is liable to be decided by the votes of those who have no legal right to franchise, or by the denial of the franchise to those who have a legal right to it.

The spectacle foreshadowed by our contemporary has already been presented in Haldimand, where, through the suspension of the Dominion Franchise Act, the voters' lists were not revised for several years.
Then two elections were decided on the old lists; hundreds of men were permitted to vote who, if a revision had taken place, would have had no right to vote, while hundreds of young men, who were qualified and who had voted in two municipal elections on the Ontario lists, were deprived of their rights. A more shameful disfranchisement of power than this wholesale disfranchisement of electors, to suit the whims of men like Chapleau, who confesses he is a Tory of the Tories, and will have nothing to do with the principle of "one man one vote" put on the Ontario statute book by Premier Mowat, could scarcely be imagined.

NEWSPAPERS have devoted columns of space to arguments showing the value of advertising, says the experienced journalist, but the practical lesson has been taught by extensive and successful advertisers, who have demonstrated the value of intelligent and liberal advertising by example, and who have, by their own work, compelled their competitors to follow or be left hopelessly behind in the race for business.

LORD HOWE, the new Governor of the British colony of Victoria, would have done well to spend a few months in this country, for the purpose of becoming inured to handshaking, before he assumed the duties of his office. Four thousand sturdy and brawny Australian gentlemen attended the first reception which he gave after his arrival at Melbourne, and so vigorously did they grasp the hand of Queen Victoria's representative as they filed past him that the poor little man fainted away before the function was half over, and had to be carried out of the hall. A somewhat similar incident occurred a few years ago at the Castle of Dublin. The Viceroy of Ireland is bound by court etiquette to imprint a kiss on the cheek of every debutante presented to him at an official drawing-room, and on the occasion in question his Excellency was forced to retire in the midst of the ceremony owing to the fact of his being nearly choked with powder.

BILINGUAL TEACHING.

The subject of bi-lingual teaching has received a good share of attention in our Province during the past year or two, owing to the attitude for political party purposes assumed by Mr. Meredith and his friends, and out of this agitation has grown the far larger one started by Mr. McCarthy at Ottawa for the suppression of the French language. Mr. McCarthy has succeeded in imparting more bitterness to the discussion than Mr. Meredith, partly because he is a narrower partisan, but chiefly because he would go farther and root out French speech on this continent altogether. His behavior is more becoming to a madman than to a statesman, and could he succeed in drawing many people into line with him the consequences could hardly fail to be disastrous to the Canadian Confederation.
Mr. McCarthy has never been accused of a desire to break up his country and drive it piecemeal into the arms of the United States for refuge; his having posed for some time as the leader of Imperial Confederation in this country has saved him from that imputation, and yet if his course during the last two years is looked over the suspicion grows that he has been the first in acting in hearty accord with his journalistic co-agitator, the Toronto Mail. We were disposed at one time to regard Mr. McCarthy as the dupe of that clever newspaper, just as Mr. Charlton, Bishop Carman and others have been; but recent events favor another view. The crusade against the French, carried on in Parliament since the exposure of the Mail's hand, leaves hardly any doubt that Mr. Mc-Carthy and that journal have been working all along with a single and common purpose.
And to be frank about the matter, we do not know that Mr. Charlton should be regarded as anybody's dupe; but no one will question the good faith of the fealty to Canada of Principal Caven and Bishop Carman.
These worthy men appear to have withdrawn from the movement against the Jesuits in which they were so earnestly engaged down to the time when the Mail's policy was exposed; while Mr. Mc-Carthy and Mr. Charlton have forged ahead with more vigor and enthusiasm than before. We do not say that they are inspired with the same motive as the Mail. That would be unfair in the absence of very convincing evidence.
But the circumstances are strong enough to justify a suspicion; and the circumstances which tell against them must also tell against Mr. Meredith and his friends should they persist in moving upon parallel lines at Toronto.

A document issued by the Education Department calls attention afresh to the subject of bi-lingual teaching, and the information which it presents goes far to show the wisdom of the Ontario Government in dealing with a delicate subject. Why it should be necessary to waste time or printers' ink in proving that the best way of instructing boys and girls is to begin by using their own language—by making use of what they know—is one of the wonders in the field of narrow party politics. But why of all people clergymen should be among the foremost to demand that in settlements exclusively or largely French or German the children must be taught in English only, when they do not speak or understand a word of that language is more incomprehensible still. When the Presbyterians or Methodists or Baptists send missionaries into the French settlements of Quebec, or among the Indian tribes of the Hudson Bay region, or to the Indian or Chinese, or British Columbia, or to India or China, do they dream of instructing those missionaries to preach the Gospel in English only? Is it not the first business and duty of the missionary to acquire the language of the people so that he may be able to tell them the glad news in their own tongue? This is common sense, and it is the common practice. If he preached in English he might as well preach to stocks and stones; but the missionaries know what ought to be done, and they do it. Why do some clergymen require the opposite plan to be taken in teaching little boys and girls who do not know a word of any other speech but French and German? We cannot understand it excepting upon the assumption that they have not thought upon the subject, or because they have never apprehended the golden rule. To such men the report on bi-lingual teaching ought to come with the force of a revelation, and we trust that they may be persuaded to get a copy of it through their members in the Legislature and read it in cold blood. A portion of this report is taken up with extracts from the report of the Royal Commission on Education in Great Britain, and we give from it one extract as to the practice of teaching English to the boys and girls in Wales. The witness was one Beriah Gwynne Evans, a man who had been for the greater part of his life engaged in educational work. In replying to the question of how the prevalence of the Welsh language affected education in Wales he said:

"In Welsh schools (and by Welsh schools I should say that I here mean schools in the Welsh-speaking parts of Wales) the majority of children come to school with absolutely no knowledge of English, but with a colloquial knowledge of Welsh.
In my own school at Gynfe I can say that at least 80 per cent. of the children admitted, ranging from 4 to 10 years of age, came to me without possessing any knowledge of English. The simplest phrases in English conveyed no meaning to them. They had the whole vocabulary of English yet to learn. I was at one time carried away by the feeling which then prevailed, that, at whatever cost, nothing but English should be heard in the school. I never permitted a word of Welsh to be spoken under any circumstances inside the school room or even on the playground. I am to this day ashamed to own that I, as a schoolmaster, did what was at one time a universal custom, and caused my boys for using in my hearing their mother tongue, the tongue in which all their heart's associations were bound up, the language of their homes, of their parents' religion, of their own sym-paties and intelligence. I shall regret it to my dying day. Permit me to give you one instance of how this operated. On one occasion a boy in the second or third standard, a big lad of 11 years of age, came to school an hour late; he was accompanied by his sister and a school-mate a year older. I called him up and asked him in English where he had been; the reply took my breath away. "Please, sir," said he, "I am dead." "You are dead?" I asked in surprise. "Yes," he said, "I am dead on the road." On breaking through my own rule, and inquiring in Welsh what he meant, I found that the poor boy had been ill on the road, and that neither he nor his sister nor school-mate could distinguish in English between having been ill and being dead. That I think, was the last time I ever insisted on the rule to exclude Welsh from my school." Again, on another important point, as to the effect of Welsh being ignored and passed over in the day school, the same witness made the following answer:

"The result is injurious in many ways.
In the first place, it lessens the child's confidence in himself, it makes him nervous, afraid to give expression to his thoughts, and doubtful of his own powers. In the second place, it instills into his mind a hatred of one of two languages. Either he must hate the language of his home, which he is led to regard as a thing to be ashamed of, or, if he has any spirit in him or the least spark of patriotism, it fills his youthful mind with a deep-seated hatred of the foreign language, in favor of which his legitimate mother tongue is placed in the position of a basterd. In the third place, again, it affects the light in which he regards school.
He associates school with English and home with Welsh; these counteract each other where they should assist. In the fourth place, school is thus made a greater burden in the child's eyes than it need be; there is nothing attractive for him there. His lesson books, all in a foreign tongue, present nothing to his intelligence but the few pictures which may contain. There is nothing, in fact, but the companionship of his schoolmates to give him pleasure, and even this pleasure is limited by the restriction placed upon him and them to use only English whenever possible."

The commissioners in their report strongly favored the bi-lingual method of teaching young children in the Welsh schools, the same as has been recently adopted in Ontario for French districts. Important information is also given in the report respecting the teaching of Gaelic in the schools of the Scottish Highlands, for which provision was made a few years ago and on teaching Ewe in the Irish schools; besides reports and statements on the teaching of German in the schools of the United States and in the Indian schools of Ontario. The regulations respecting these last-named schools provide that "every teacher in an Indian school shall be able to speak the Indian language, and shall as far as possible give his instructions in English." We wish the Francophones could be induced to get this report and read it.

CONSUMPTION.

IN its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.
"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice.
This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."
—A. J. Eldon, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill.
The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remained good to the present day."—James Richard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by way of I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. S. Chandler, Junction, Va.

A LONG WALK.
Harriman to Tramp 3,000 Miles Against Time.
Kinslow's Story of His Treatment in London—Fanny Donovan's Picture—General Sporting News.

PEDESTRIANISM.
Harriman, a pedestrian of considerable celebrity, on Saturday at Wabash, Ind., signed articles for a 3,000 mile walk against time. Harriman, who claims to have walked in matches in London, New York and Sydney, Australia, says that he has defeated Watson and O'Leary. The wager is for $5,000 a side and $1,000 has already been deposited. A New York sporting man made the bet and will win if Harriman fails to make the distance in 65 days. He will start from Indianapolis in April.

BASEBALL.
The New York Sporting Times will hereafter give away elegant photo engraved supplements of prominent ball players. The first one given away with the issue of Feb. 16 will be a portrait of P. J. Donovan, the center fielder of the Boston League Club, who last season played for the "Patsy." It is a very good one of "Patsy."

A MACHINE PITCHER.
The "Fried Carroll and Billy Kuehne," says the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette, "have invented a very curious yet simple machine for training the eye to judge swiftly pitched and erratically curved balls. The machine, or whatever it may be called, has been erected in the extensive back yard of an Allegheny residence, and the boys expect to do business with it daily. At the upper end of the yard is machine is set up. It is a powerful spring securely fastened to a piece of heavy timber. In the top of the spring is a cup-like arrangement in which the regulation baseball snugly fits. This is pulled down and fastened to an ingeniously made catch, or series of catches, rather, for it can be set at any curve or angle to suit the operator. The spring in a line with a metal plate at the lower end of the yard. One of the players manipulates the machine while the others take turns with the bat. A ball is placed in the cup, the operator fastens the spring down to any catch he chooses, the combinations of catches and straight balls being almost innumerable, while at the same time it is an utter impossibility for the batsman to anticipate how it is going to come. When the operator releases the catch and the ball is thrown with the force of a bullet. It requires a mighty quick eye to get onto it, and furnishes one of the most perfect means of training the eye to judge swiftly pitched and erratically curved balls. The balls go over the plate much swifter than it is possible for the strongest pitcher in the country to send them, and by becoming proficient in sifting them the batsman will have no difficulty in hitting the most skillful twister, as the hardest pitched ball would look slow and easy in comparison with those thrown with the spring. The inventors will probably apply for a patent."

Ben Mulford, jun., in the Cincinnati Times-Star, says: "Pete Wood, the pitcher, will soon be an M.D. He is studying medicine at London, Ont. Dr. Wood will continue to prescribe curves, downshots and 'ins' for patients at the bat next season. His mission on the field will be to make the other fellows sick."

New York amateur clubs are canceling their dates with the Brotherhood. President Young, of Washington, sports a beautiful golf cricket badge, the gift of an old admirer in New York. Nick was one time very clever about the wicket and the decoration he wears recalls many interesting anecdotes concerning England's game.

Tom Kinslow is happy and content with his prospects with the Brooklyn Brotherhood team. In a short chat with him a few days ago I learned his side of the trouble which induced him to shake London, Ont. He says he worked like a slave for the London team, until he was taken ill, and instead of giving him an increase of salary for the extra catching he did they docked him for being absent. He thereupon resolved that he would not play with the team again. He says he is going to make a good record for himself in the Brooklyn team if steady, sober, industrious work will accomplish that end. Good boy, Tom. "That's the stuff!" "That's the stuff!" (Sporting Life).

According to the rule laid down by the national agreement no clubs belonging to the National League, American Association, Atlantic Association, New England League, Inter-State League, International League, Tri-State League, Western Association, Southern League, Texas League or California League, can play games with members of the Brotherhood League. Any amateur clubs who play with Brotherhood teams will be debarred from playing any clubs of the leagues under the protection of KILRAIN BEATEN.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 18.—Corbett, of San Francisco, bested Kilrain in six rounds last night. Kilrain agreed to knock Corbett out in six rounds for a purse of $3,500, of which $2,500 went to the winner. Corbett out-fought Kilrain at every point. Cleary whipped Mike Smith in two rounds. A LIGHTWEIGHT SCRIMMAGE.

A letter of the St. James Gazette suggests a series of football games between picked English and American teams. The English, who will be delighted to welcome a team from the United States.

CRICKET.
Since the wearing of gloves by baseball players has come into vogue, the question has been discussed in cricket circles as to the advisability of changing the rules so as to admit of gloves being used by "point" players in cricket, in which position they have frequently to stop hard-hit line balls likely to break fingers or split their hands. Last season some players in one of our local cricket clubs used gloves in a match game. This, under cricket rules, is illegal, as no catch can be made by any player wearing gloves in a cricket match except the wicket keeper. (Sporting Life).

LACROSSE.
Mr. Fred W. Garvin, of the Toronto Lacrosse Club, has received a letter from Mr. A. E. Suckling re the proposed visit of a Toronto lacrosse team to British Columbia next season. Mr. Suckling states that Vancouver, New Westminster and other places there will doubtless guarantee the Queen City team's entire expenses on the trip.

While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot but praise the medicine to the proprietors this expression of my gratitude.

REV. H. D. HUNTER.
London, Feb. 17, 1890.
Farwell Address and Presentation at Congregational Church.

The farwell social given to Rev. H. D. Hunter last evening in the school room of the Congregational Church was very largely attended, a large number being obliged to stand around the door. Deacon Mathewson occupied the chair and on the platform were Dr. Leonard, United States consul, and Rev. Mr. Hunter.

A musical programme was presented, which consisted of recitations by Mrs. Gould; solo, Miss Mutch and Mr. Pink, and a suitable hymn by Mr. C. Fink. Misses B. and V. Kinkirine. The principal event of the evening was the presentation of the following address and a well-filled purse on behalf of the congregation to Rev. Mr. Hunter, the address being read by Mr. J. B. Hicks, secretary of the church, and the presentation made by Mrs. Mathewson:

Congregational Church, 1.
Dear Pastor.—On this, the last occasion that we may have of meeting together in social way as pastor and people, we are moved by a common impulse as individuals and unitedly by this address as a congregation joined by many friends present from sister churches to express to you our warmest regards and the regrets felt at the near termination of your nine years' pastorate.

We desire in the most hearty manner possible to assure you that you go from us as a friend from your former home, and that we pray that your good will and the regrets felt at the near termination of your nine years' pastorate.

Your faithful and patient efforts to instruct us in the truth of God, your public ministrations as a Christian minister, your kind and tender sympathy in times of bereavement and sorrow, and your unswerving adherence to what you felt was right will not be forgotten, nor their results be effaced by your removal. We trust that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master.

While we are cheered by these thoughts a sadness which we know is mutual steals over us as we contemplate the separation yet we are sustained by the thought that in all these things God is working out his own divine purposes.

To your dear wife and family we extend the hand of loving sympathy and regard; may all needed grace be theirs to enjoy. In leaving you carry with you our very best wishes for the future, and hope that you will be able to frequently visit us and share with us the joys of the Holy Spirit, who shall lead you into all truth, so that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master.

We trust that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master. We trust that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master.

In the hope of future meeting. In the joy of future meeting. In the joy of future meeting. In the joy of future meeting.

Not for ever, blessed measure. Not for ever, blessed measure. Not for ever, blessed measure. Not for ever, blessed measure.

Go, but not without a blessing. Go, but not without a blessing. Go, but not without a blessing. Go, but not without a blessing.

Be your portion evermore. Be your portion evermore. Be your portion evermore. Be your portion evermore.

Mr. W. H. Rowlands, on behalf of the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society, read the following address from that organization:

Dear Pastor.—It is with the deepest sorrow and regret the young people have learned of your departure from amongst us. Your general bearing, kindly advice and every tender sympathy for the young have won for you a place in our hearts which will never be forgotten. We are proud to have had you as our pastor, and we are sure that your plans have endeared you greatly to the hearts of all. The many pleasant hours spent in your society will ever remain a precious memory to us. We are sure that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master.

We are sure that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master. We are sure that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master.

We are sure that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master. We are sure that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master.

We are sure that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master. We are sure that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master.

We are sure that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master. We are sure that you will be able to bear much fruit to the glory of our dear Lord and Master.

THE ONTARIO HOUSE.
A Grant to the University Recommended.
Message from the Lieutenant-Governor—Business of the House.

[SPEAK AT THE ADVERTISER.]
TORONTO, Tuesday, Feb. 18.
As I foreshadowed in yesterday's dispatch the Government lost no time in coming to the rescue of the Toronto University. It will be seen that the grant is given as aid, and not as involving the responsibility of replacing the ruins. The friends of the institution are expected to replace at the library, which, in addition to the $50,000 amount, will cost $100,000. The prompt action of the Government is commended on all sides, and there is little doubt but that its honor's recommendation will be endorsed almost unanimously by the Assembly. The Senate of the University met to-night. It is understood that an appeal will be made to the graduates.

The first business of the House this afternoon will be the consideration of the motion to go into supply. Mr. Clancy (Kent) has the floor.

The Private Bills Committee met this morning and passed the bill consolidating the debt of the town of Brampton. The promoters of the bill wanted 40 years as the limit of the payment of the debt, but the committee in spite of protests made it 30 years. The bill amending the incorporation of the town of Tilbury Center passed, also that consolidating the debt of the town of Orillia and that incorporating the village of Norwich into a town.

The Standing Orders Committee met and among other things ratified the submission to the House of a bill defining certain trusts of the Diocese of Huron.

TORONTO, Monday, Feb. 17.
When the House assembled to-day the following message was received by the Attorney-General from the Lieutenant-Governor and announced to the House by the Speaker:

The Lieutenant-Governor recommends to the Legislative Assembly that a sum not exceeding $100,000 be set apart from and out of the moneys forming part of the consolidated revenue fund of this Province to aid in the reconstruction of so much of Toronto University as has been injured or destroyed by fire, the said sum to be in addition to all other sums which may be received or recovered by or on behalf of the University under the policies of insurance effected against loss or damage by fire to the said building.

It was expected the matter would come before the House in some form, but such promptitude and decision surpassed expectations. The announcement was received very generally with applause from the Conservative as well as the Government side of the House, and on motion of the Attorney-General the communication was referred to the same special committee which will have to deal with the special resolutions which the Government will introduce on the subject shortly. Among other petitions received was one from Duncan McMillan and others, of Malahide, praying that an act may pass to incorporate the Aylmer and Port Burwell Railway Company.

Among bills read a first time were one to further amend the Liquor License Law—Mr. Gibson (Hamilton), and one to provide for the purchase of debentures issued by Councils for drainage purposes—Mr. Ross (Huron).

Mr. Phelps moved for an order showing the number of stationary steam engines in use in Ontario. The motion was carried with a majority of 22 to 14. The following notices of motion appear on the paper: Attorney-General—Bill respecting junior judges in unorganized districts. Attorney-General—Bill to amend act to secure to wives and children the benefit of insurance.

Mr. Picaud—Bill to amend Municipal Act. Mr. Clarke (Wellington)—Return of the number and designation of School Boards in the cities, towns and incorporated villages of Ontario which have adopted the use of balloting at annual school elections under section 105, chapter 225, R. S. O., with the number of School Boards in cities, towns and villages which have not adopted a ballot for such purposes.

THE RAILWAYS.
Full Dividend Announced by the Grand Trunk—C. P. R. Earnings.

The Canadian Pacific Railway's earnings for the week ending Feb. 14 were $218,000; the same week last year, $207,000. The earnings on the Southeastern were not included.

A cablegram says: The Grand Trunk announced full dividend for the year on the guaranteed stock—42 1/2 % on first preference, leaving a small balance. The market is a trifle weaker.

JAIL DELIVERY.
Three Desperadoes Break Out of the Port Huron Lock-Up and Escape to Sarnia.

PORT HURON, Mich., Feb. 18.—Three prisoners escaped from the St. Clair county jail at 7 o'clock Sunday evening. They were allowed in the corridor during the day, and when the time came for them to return to their cells the turnkey gave them notice, and then asked before entering if they were in their cells. A prisoner named Goodman said yes, and another prisoner, named Joe Hand, stood by the door with a new-made revolver in his hand, and when the turnkey entered to lock the cells suddenly yelled to Goodman: "Say, Goody have you seen what this paper says about the turnkey?" With that the three, who by this time had got close to the unsuspecting turnkey, made a rush and forced him through the open door into the office. He was able to draw his revolver and shot Hand in the side and Hickey through the wrist, but they succeeded in knocking him down and stamping upon him until he was helpless. They then made their escape through the dining-hall, and were rowed to Sarnia by a party who was in waiting for them.

The sheriff succeeded in locating them in Sarnia, but as their offices are not extantible the Sarnia are not pleased as to what to do. Goodman says that Hand, who was shot in the side, is dying. The doctors have told him he cannot live. Goodman was awaiting trial for burglarizing John Morrison's jewelry store in this city, and John Hand for breaking into a C. and G. car at Goodville, and Dan Hickey for stealing bed brass and iron from Henry McKim, of this city.

went away Lizzie was only 9 and Polly 7. nine years is a long time, and they could only just remember him.

Mr. John Orpington—Mr. John Orpington, Esq., as he now was—soon settled down to his new condition. When one has once been rich and lived a life of ease it is not very hard to go back to one's old habits. But the lesson of the bitter past had not been thrown away, and Mr. Orpington determined that he would make the most of his sudden good fortune and take the rest and peace that had come to him in his middle age philosophically.

He rested all his hopes upon his boy now. The girls would get sweethearts and make good marriages, and Will would come back to be his right hand and take his place when he died.

How proud his poor wife would have been to see her dear ones happy and prosperous again. As he sat in his beautiful dining room in the evening and smoked his cigar, John's eyes rested lovingly on his two pretty daughters, but they would now and then wander to the chair opposite him in which his poor wife would have sat had God spared her to him.

The girls had long ago calculated how soon their brother would arrive. They got a room ready for him, which was called Willie's room, and the made it as pretty as hands and money could make it, while their father looked on and proud and full of delight at the idea of seeing his boy home again—the "young master," and the heir to all the wealth and comfort around him.

It was just about the time that they had calculated Willie would be due that they received a telegram from Liverpool.

"Arrived safely; with you to-morrow."

And on the morning a fly drove up to the house laden with luggage, and a handsome young fellow stepped out of it. The girls and their father were out in the grounds in a moment.

"My boy," exclaimed Mr. Orpington. His arms were held out, but suddenly he paused. "How you have changed, Will," he exclaimed. "Why I shouldn't have known you."

"Yes, dad, I have," said the young fellow, with a laugh. "Roughing it out yonder does alter a fellow, and nine years makes a difference." He kissed his father heartily, and then turned to the girls.

"Why, Lizzie," he said, "how you've grown; and you, too, Polly. Good gracious me, it seems hardly possible that you're the two little girls I can remember."

Taking Lizzie's hand he stooped to kiss her.

Almost instinctively the girl shrank back, and a deep blush covered her cheeks. It seemed so odd for this handsome young fellow to be kissing her.

But she laughed and held her cheek to him and then kissed him in return.

"It seems odd at first, Will, dear," she said. "We are really almost strangers, but you're my brother, and I suppose I shall understand that you are by-and-by."

"I hope so, Liz," he said, and then he turned to Polly.

Polly was less bashful, and she put her arms about her brother's neck and gave him a real sisterly hug.

And then father and son and the two sisters all went into the house together and were soon at their ease and talking about all times.

Will had forgotten in that nine long years in a new country, much of the old days, but things came back to him as they reminded him of them, and before the day was over the little strangeness had worn off, and they were all in the highest spirits and full of plans for the future, and the young gentleman from Canada was fully established in the house as the young master.

Lucky Hamilton Ladies.

The Times received word to-day that Mr. John B. Young, of No. 33 Hannah street west, had been so fortunate as to hold a winning ticket in the Louisiana State Lottery.

A reporter called on Mr. Young, and that gentleman was reticent about giving any particulars of the affair. He, however, told the Times representative that his wife had taken a chance in the great lottery, the drawing taking place on Dec. 17. The ticket which she held (in which Mrs. Young's sister had a share) was a 140th of No. 98,455, which drew the first capital prize of $800,000. The share which comes to the Hamilton ladies is $15,000. Mr. Young told a reporter that he received the money promptly from a New Orleans bank, by draft through one of our leading banks here. It is needless to say that the ladies are receiving congratulations on account of their good fortune. They would not have gone into the affair but for a friend who urged them to try their luck for once.—(Hamilton Ont.) Times, Jan. 4.

What Will He Do with It?
A passenger on the train going west, telegraphed to Constable Logan that she had left a Bible on the seat in the waiting-room here. Mr. Logan, on looking, found only the paper the Bible was wrapped in, someone having purloined the book. The problem now is whether the thief will see the error of his ways after reading a few pages and return the book, or whether he will be disgusted and send it back.

On Friday and Saturday.
J. B. Polk, the well-known and justly-popular American eccentric comedian, will be at the Grand Opera House on Friday and Saturday next in "The Silent Partner," written by Herbert Hall Winslow. It is described as having a strikingly original plot and situation, pathos and humor being in sharp contrast. The story of "The Silent Partner" turns on a young lawyer who invents a partner in order to help his business. His attempts to prove the partner's existence in reality lead to serious complications. The famous Edison phonograph is used on the stage and is an important factor in the development of the plot. The play is a strong one, and summer houses Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon are looked for.
Ministerial Association.

There was a large attendance of ministers at their regular meeting yesterday.
A committee composed of Revs. Roger, Courtice and Bond was appointed to make suggestions on items needed in the bill to submitted to Parliament on Sabbath observance. Rev. J. A. Murray gave a paper on "Mr. Moody and his work," and a very general conversation ensued. All were agreed that Mr. Moody is a man wholly devoted to the work of God and exerts great power for good. His influence is more manifest in making Christianity more appreciated among the masses than in the number of actual converts into the Kingdom of God. After his presence and work the people are more accessible to the Christian ministers and workers generally, and as more ready to hear the Gospel. Initiatory steps were taken to have a pulpit exchange in April.

Central Chautauqua Circle.
Under the auspices of the "Central" Chautauqua and Scientific Circle Mr.
Gillingham, of East London, who was at one time a pupil of the celebrated Prof.
Faraday, gave a series of beautiful experiments in atmospheric electricity the other evening. By special request the request they were chiefly of an elementary character which, coupled with Mr. Gillingham's facility of expression, made a most enjoyable and profitable evening. The circles from London South and Dundas Center Methodist Church were both present by invitation, and Chautauquans are to be congratulated on being able to secure such admirable extraordinary lectures on the scientific part of the course of study, and for which, in this case, they were entirely indebted to the kindness and generosity of Mr. Gilling-ham. In moving a vote of thanks, Mr.
Stevenson, president of the London South Circle, invited all present to a similar entertainment to be given by them in the near future.

LONDON SOUTH.
A Jolly Social at the Methodist Church
—Other News.

The sixteenth anniversary of the London South Methodist Church was held last evening, and, despite the weather, a spacious lecture hall was crowded with a merry and well-pleased audience. The windows, doors, in fact, every aperture was unapprisingly draped with curtains, and the walls were literally covered with engravings, paintings and other works of art. In the center of the room was a cone of flowers about five feet high, and the roses hanging in bunches from each chancel, together with tables and groups of happy faces presented a brilliant and home-like scene. The class rooms had been divided off by a museum of small scale established, which contained some very interesting Indian and other relics, among the latter being a screwdriver of the very latest pattern, used by George Washington to fix up his father's cherry tree. The programme was short, as the occasion demanded, consisting of chorus, "Radiant Morn"; Harmony Band selections and solo by Mrs. L. Williams, which were all well rendered.

The Treasurer's report was very interesting and showed a balance on hand of $302.41. It was as follows:

Jas. Shannon, Leaskdale, writes: "For many years my wife was troubled with chillblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days, the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and bruises I ever used."

A GOOD CIGAR.
Few 5-cent cigars have enjoyed such an unprecedented run of success as the "Highland Lassie," and it is continually finding new admirers in the large army of smokers who one and all unite in its praises. The sale of this fine cigar is daily on the increase. Some persons have a prejudice against an article manufactured by a local firm, but the "Highland Lassie" has been a large factor in overcoming this prejudice, and is to-day the most popular 5-cent cigar ever put on the market. Manufactured only by H. McKay & Co., London.
