ITALIANS TAKE 45,000 HUNS, VAST STORES AND MANY GUNS

STUPENDOUS LOSS FOR SHATTERED FOE AS ITALIANS RUSH ACROSS THE PIAVE

45,000 Prisoners, Great Numbers of Cannon and Enormous Supplies of War Material Fall to Diaz' Troops As They Pursue the Hopelessly Routed Teuton—Flooded River Filled With Enemy Corpses.

Washington, June 24.—Capture of 45,000 prisoners, many cannon and enormous stores of war material by the Italians in their counter-offensive, which has driven the Austrians across the Piave, is announced in an official cablegram received today by the Italian embassy from Rome.

"Offensive operations by our troops began Sunday," says the dispatch. "After violent artillery preparations that destroyed all bridges except one, the infantry drove forward with irresistible impetus. The flooded Piave contains thousands of enemy corpses. Divisions which had passed the Piave were decimated by our artillery and infantry.

Enemy Lines Broken.

"Montello was attacked in three columns. Enemy lines were broken at Cella Della, Madonna and Nervesa, and these places reoccupied. From Maserada to Sardona, the Austrians first resisted our attacks desperately, but finally were forced to retreat to the left bank. Battle continues fiercely in the Sardona sector. Forty-five thousand prisoners and enormous booty captured by Italians.

"American airmen displayed great bravery in the first encounter. Sub-Lieut. Young attacked by two Austrian chasers was obliged to land on the Lower Piave."

CROSSED BY ONE BRIDGE.

London, June 24.—After recapturing the Montello front the Austrians, according to news received in London this afternoon, the Italians began making bridgeheads at False and Neresa. The Italians met with little resistance.

The retreating Austrians crossed the Piave by the only bridge remaining to them, north of Zenson.

JESUITS DON'T LIE, SAYS FATHER DOYLE, REPLYING TO SPENCE

Declares Ministers "Lying Black and Blue" About Novitiate.

HAVEN'T GOT FACTS

Father Power Says Attackers Badly Mixed as to M.S.A. Act.

Toronto, June 23.—Rev. Kennedy Palmer of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Guelph, is a visitor in this city today in connection with the Guelph Novitiate affair. In addition to conferring with brother ministers of various Protestant denominations here, Mr. Palmer will, it is stated, endeavor to see Premier Hearst, and members of the Ontario Government, presumably to see if Ontario as a province can secure any status in the dispute. Mr. Palmer's conference here are private, and at 1 o'clock nothing had been given out for publication.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Guelph, June 24.—"It is absolutely false," replied Father W. F. Doyle, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Guelph, when today he was asked by a reporter if the statement of Rev. W. D. Spence yesterday was true, that a Jesuit in defence of the order was considered by him to be the highest virtue. "I was 25 years of age before I became a Roman Catholic and I know that statement made by the minister is false. They are accusing us of lying, but they are lying black and blue about us."

Asked about the O'Leary case at the Novitiate, Father Doyle said: "I merely answered to a man who inquired about O'Leary that he was a discharg-

"Y" MEN COME UNDER HEAVY BOMBARDMENT

Paris, June 23.—Charles R. Patterson of the University of Edmonton, Alberta, and Homer Toulon of Philadelphia, kept a Y. M. C. A. tent running day and night under a recent German bombardment and gas attack. One shell struck alongside the tent and upset a stove, which set fire to some of the contents of the store. Neither of the men was hit.

The Germans continued to throw shells into the flames, driving out the men who were trying to save the supplies. Patterson is suffering from shell shock, but is continuing his work.

PREPARE ARIGHT FOR WORLD PEACE

London, June 24—(Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—Premier Lloyd George, speaking at the Welsh Baptist Tabernacle in London, urged that we must prepare aright for peace. The world must be fit for everybody and all classes to live in. There should be no room for deformities such as militarism, mammonism and anarchy. All must have a fair share.

"The future of the Empire has already been committed to democracy," he said. "Problems of reconstruction must be arranged in an atmosphere of brotherhood and friendliness. The upper classes, middle classes and lower classes have all passed through the fiery furnace together, and it has changed the hearts of the people. Before the war I fought hard to get fair play for the people from whom I sprung and what I got was by fighting. I'm going to try another way this time."

DIAZ RIPPING RANKS OF KARL

Italian Army Headquarters, Sunday, June 23.—Afternoon, by the Associated Press. — Cruelly harassed by steady and accurate artillery fire, compelled to face bayonet attacks by the Italians and being constantly bombed by Allied aviators, flying low in defiance of machine gun and anti-aircraft fire, the Austrians have been fighting recently with the courage of despair. Local counter-attacks have been launched without regard for losses against the Allied trenches on the Montello plateau, but have been everywhere broken by the granite resistance interposed to the foe's progress.

How the Piave Aided.

The crest of the Piave River flood passed yesterday, but the falling waters came too late to relieve the positions of the Austrians. The inundation went sixteen feet above the low water mark.

Along the Lower Piave Italian pressure has been constant.

The tired enemy has been given no rest, although the fighting has been intermittent, owing to the fact that neither side has been able to see more than 50 yards through the heavy bushes and tall swamp grasses growing in the lowlands.

Italians Are Heroic.

The heroic deeds of the Italians in the fighting upon the Carso plateau, east of the Isonzo, are recalled by the repeated examples of valor and endurance shown in the present struggle. With the Italian armies along the front there is only a stern intention to do or die. There is no effervescent boasting, no victory chants, but a realization that harder fighting may yet come.

"The word 'Piave' is being written in blood-red letters on Austrian hearts," said a dust-covered, sweat-stained Italian officer, who has been fighting every day for a week with scarcely any rest save for Friday and Saturday's lull in the mighty contest for the banks of the river.

"We are saving the shouting until Austria's plunder expedition is defeated," said 70-year-old Deputy Bancchette, who is spending his time as an Alpini officer, tramping to and fro among the soldiers, telling them that victory is the one way to secure peace.

Behind the lines the civil population is undisturbed, there being but few refugees.

CAPTAIN MACAULEY WAS AT FAULT, IS VIEW OF MEWBURN

His Method of Investigation Unnecessarily Offensive.

Ottawa, June 24.—Apparently none of the young men, members of St. Stanislaus Novitiate at Guelph, are liable for military service. The militia department stated this morning that information had been received by telegram from the rector of the Novitiate to the effect that John O'Halleran, one of the young men referred to in a former statement as being liable for service, is an American citizen, and in possession of his U. S. registration papers. The other young man, John Holland, the rector states, was assured cleric before the proclamation under the military service act was issued. Investigation showed that these two young men were apparently the only members of the Novitiate liable for service. Upon the statement of facts, with regard to them, submitted to the department by the rector, neither of them is liable for service.

It was stated at the department that Capt. MacAuley, who led the raid on the Novitiate, and who has since been transferred to Winnipeg, was at fault, in wishing to find out whether there were any defaulters domiciled there, but in the method he adopted in doing it. He was acting under the authority of the department in investigating conditions in the Novitiate, but he should have chosen a more suitable time, and a less offensive method of procedure.

ENEMY IS AGAIN BADLY WHIPPED AT BLIGNY LINE

Thrown Back by Italians Holding Point With Serious Losses.

Paris, June 24.—Germans launched a new attack against positions held by the Italians at Bligny at 11 o'clock last night. After hard fighting the Germans were completely repulsed with serious losses, leaving prisoners in the hands of the Allies, according to a statement issued by the war office today. The French, have repulsed a German attack west of the Oise, in the region of Antheuil.

GOOD RAID BY HAIG.

London, June 24.—The British made a successful minor attack on German positions south of Meteren (in the Lys salient), last night. Many Germans were killed and 50 prisoners and some machine guns were taken by the British, according to a statement issued by the war office today.

The statement reads:

"A successful minor enterprise, in which many Germans were killed, 50 prisoners captured and some machine guns taken, was carried out by our troops last night south of Meteren.

"Casualties were inflicted on the enemy and a few prisoners were captured by us during the night in raids and patrol encounters on other parts of the front."

WATCHING FOR THE BLOW.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Another week has passed with the Germans containing to make threats to attack the British front, but without an offensive materializing. Both sides have been closely watching each other and each has carried out a large number of raids for the purpose of identifying opposing troops and inflicting damage.

The biggest and most successful raid was made by Scottish troops Friday southwest of Gavrelle, where enemy trenches were rushed along a front of 700 yards and penetrated to a depth of 400 yards. Every dugout in this area was destroyed and its occupants killed.

BRITISH RAIDS SUCCEED.

LONDON, June 23.—British troops last night successfully raided the German lines near Morlancourt and Bucquoy and captured a number of prisoners, the British war office announced today. A strong German attack on the British positions west of Merris was repulsed.

ATTACK ITALIAN SECTOR.

PARIS, June 23.—German forces last night attacked the Entente Allied positions at Bligny, about eight miles southwest of Rheims, and succeeded temporarily in gaining a foothold in the Allied trenches. A vigorous counter-attack instituted by Italian troops, however, quickly ejected the enemy and re-established the line in its entirety.

CZECHO-SLAV FORCE EN ROUTE TO FRANCE

London, June 24.—A member of Czecho-Slovak National Council is now at Tokio trying to arrange for the transportation of his compatriots at Vladivostok and in Siberia to the French front, which they are anxious to reach at the earliest moment, says a dispatch to the Times from Tokio. The Czech leader is a former captain in the Russian army, and after a few days in Tokio will go to the United States to consult Professor Masaryk, the Bohemian leader, now in Washington. He conferred with the French ambassador and had arranged to see the Japanese foreign minister and the Japanese chief of staff. He was hopeful of securing the Times says that correspondent of the Times says that ought not to be an insuperable task.

ALL AUSTRIAN WORKMEN STRIKE DEMANDING FOOD AND PEACE; GERMAN MUNITION WORKERS IN COLOGNE AND MULHEIM OUT

Internal Troubles of Central Powers Piling Up, Labor Striking Over the Reduced Food Rations — Meatless Weeks Are Likely for the Fatherland.

Zurich, Switzerland, June 24.—The Austrian troubles are extending, according to a dispatch from Munich, quoting the Neueste Nachrichten of that city.

The Vienna Zeit, according to these advices, states that the strike has become general.

MUNITION WORKERS STRIKE.

London, June 24.—Extensive strikes broke out Thursday in Cologne and Mulheim, on the Rhine, owing to a reduction in the bread ration, 20,000 persons quitting work in munition factories, according to a dispatch to the Daily Mail from the Hague.

A Dutch workman returning to the Hague reports that the military and police interfered, but failed to prevent a street procession of more than 9,000 strikers at Cologne. The strikers, who included women, marched in a dense mass to an open place, where a mass meeting was held. All the speakers, who included foremen and forewomen, made this declaration: "Unless we get more to eat we shall not work."

The Dutchman said that smallpox is increasing greatly among the Krupp workers at Essen.

VIENNESE WAIL FOR PEACE.

London, June 24.—Strikers in the various factories at Vienna on Saturday formulated a demand that the Austrian Government show itself ready for a general peace, and invite the governments of enemy countries to enter into peace negotiations, says a dispatch from The Hague to the Times. Representatives of the workers submitted the plea to Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister.

LITTLE CORN LEFT.

Amsterdam, June 24.—Although he has done what has been posible, there is only sufficient corn for half a bread ration in Austria, declared Food Minister Paul in an interview with the Vienna correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger. The food department is attempting to make up this deficiency with other foodstuffs, and in addition, 250 grammes of beef, two pounds of horse flesh per person will be distributed weekly.

Military mobile kitchens will be used to supply 100,000 persons daily for four weeks with a warm meal, consisting of soup, 100 grammes of meat and vegetables.

MEATLESS WEEKS FOR GERMANY.

London, June 24.—Meatless weeks for Germany is a possibility of the near future. Dr. August Muller, undersecretary for food distribution, at a meeting of the Reichstag food committee Saturday, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Capenhagen, announced that it would be impossible to increase the meat ration. He said that most likely it would be necessary to lower it or to introduce meatless weeks for the whole of Germany or, at any rate, certain parts of the population.

ILDERTON MERCHANT DEAD.

Ilderton, June 24.—E. J. Clatworthy died today. Deceased was a lumber merchant. Besides his wife he leaves a family of two sons.

GERMANY MAY TAKE CLOTHES FROM DEAD

London, June 24 — (British Wireless Service).—Clothing in Germany has now become almost as scarce as food. Perhaps nothing could more graphically reveal the clothing plight of Germany than a proposal just put forward by Justizarat Otto Feig, a prominent Berlin lawyer, that the Government should forthwith enact a law making it compulsory for the executors of dead people or the administrators of the estate to turn over to the state all clothing left by the deceased persons.

"After July 15 it will be illegal for any hotel, restaurant or other public house to serve meals on table cloths. Such table cloths and napkins as these establishments now possess will be confiscated and utilized primarily for baby linen.

CALGARY ENTERTAINS 1,200 OF SAMMY TROOPS

Calgary, June 24.—Carrying full military regalia, even to entrenching tools, 1,200 Yankee Doodle boys were given the freedom of the city yesterday. It was the first timed that armed American soldiers have ever trodden on Alberta soil. A public reception was held in the afternoon, followed by a big parade.

ESSEX FLYING CADET KILLED AT CAMP MOHAWK

Deseronton, June 24.—Cadet A. B. Laird was instantly killed in an air crash at Camp Mohawk this morning. He was a Royal Air Force cadet. His father, J. S. Laird, lives at Essex, Ont.

PERSHING REPORTS HIS POSITIONS IMPROVED

Washington, June 24.—Gen. Pershing's communique for yesterday, received today at the war department, is as follows:

"In spite of opposition, we again improved out positions northwest of Chateau Thierry. In this region the artillery on both sides continues active."

FLEET SUPPLY VESSEL PARTIALLY DESTROYED

Washington, June 24.—Partial destruction by fire of a river boat, used as a fleet supply vessel at an Atlantic port, was reported today to the navy department. An explosion preceded the fire, but no loss of life was reported.

GAUTHIER IMPROVING.

Ottawa, June 24.—The condition of his Grace Archbishop Gauthier is steadily improving, it is reported by the Water Hospital authorities. On May 22 his condition was reported grave, and little hope was then held out fora his recovery. However, about May 26 he took a change for the better, and since that time a steady improvement has been noted.

DISASTER GRIPS AUSTRIAN ARMS AT DIAZ' HANDS

THE WAR SITUATION

Shattered on the rock of Italian resistance, the Austrian offensive has turned into a retreat, and from Montello to the sea the enemy is hurrying back across the Piave before the closely pursuing Italians.

Austria's defeat is being hailed throughout Italy and allied countries, not so much because of the Italian victory, but because of the awakening of the Italian morale, which was shaken severely last fall by the Austro-German offensive. Holding the final barriers to the Venetian plain and Lombardy, the Italians by their steadfast resistance during eight days of heavy fighting, turned the great enemy onslaught into a disorderly repulse.

Huns May Not Escape.

Whether the several enemy divisions on the western bank of the Piave will be able to escape capture or destruction in attempting to cross the Piave to the opposite bank will be the most interesting development of the next few hours.

The river is swollen, and Vienna, in its latest communications, seems to be preparing the way for unwelcome news. It dilates at length on the burdens placed on the troops by the heavy rains and the torrential Piave. Most of the Austrian bridges are gone, and the Italian heavy artillery is still within range at points where the Austrians crossed and near the river bank where the Italian line has held fast.

Diaz In Hot Pursuit.

Undoubtedly Gen. Diaz's men realize the predicament of the enemy, and their pursuit of the fleeing Austrians will be pressed with ardor. In withdrawing from Montello, the enemy probably will meet with as much difficulty as in getting out of the rain-soaked towns and along the lower reachs of the Piave. To add to the troubles of the Austrian command, their advances across the Piave have been on unconnected sectors, with the Italians holding the sectors in between.

Previous to the beginning of the enemy retreat there had been little infantry fighting along the Piave for 48 hours. The Italians had occupied the time in shelling the enemy lines and communications heavily. In the mountains the situation is unchanged, although the allied artillery has been very active in some sectors.

Austrian Reports False.

Austrian official claims of the capture of 40,000 prisoners and on allied air losses are declared to be fabrications, in a semi-official note issued in Rome. It is asserted that the Italian losses in killed, wounded and missing aggregate 40,000. Austrian losses are placed at 180,000 by Italian newspapers.

Civil unrest in Austria-Hungary is still rampant, and there has been little alleviation of the food conditions. Failure of the Austrian offensive probably will have an appreciable effect on the situation in the Dual Monarchy. The Austrian cabinet is reported to have decided to present a collective resignation to the emperor.

Except for raids at night and in the early morning hours, there is no activity on the front in France and Flanders. The Germans show no intention of again taking up a forward movement, but the next effort, like previous ones, probably will begin unheralded, except by several hours of intense bombardment.

BERLIN FORCED VIENNA INTO OFFENSIVE AGAINST THE WISHES OF LATTER

London, June 24.—One of the principal objects of the recent visit to Germany of Baron Burian, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, was to obtain consent for an indefinite postponement of the Austrian offensive, the correspondent of the Daily Mail at Annemasse, on the Franco-Swiss border, says he learns from an unimpeachable source.

Baron Burian pointed out that failure of the drive in conjunction with the threatening food problem and race question might lead to the gravest internal disorders, even revolution, but if Austria were permitted to remain on the defensive the bread situation might be tided over.

Berlin, it is added, insisted that an immediate offensive was necessary to relieve the western front, and to rehabilitate Austria with the German public.

PACIFISTS TRYING TO EMBARRASS THE GOVT. IN WAR PROSECUTION

London, June 24.—The manifesto issued by eight labor members of the British Government, according to some of the morning newspapers, is connected with threats of serious splits in the Labor party due, some papers say, to efforts of a pacifist group to embarrass the Government in the prosecution of the war.

The Daily Telegraph says that the party stands in imminent danger of a cleavage which will divide it into several warring factions.

ALL SAUGEEN INDIANS OUT TO BE REGISTERED

Grand Offensive Ends In Disorderly Retreat Of Karl's Forces In Which He Abandons All His Artillery West of Piave.

ITALIAN ARMIES PRESSING MERCILESSLY ON FLEEING FOE

General Diaz Assumes the Off ensive Along Greater Part of Line and Is Administering Terrific Beating to Routed Austrians.

Italian Army Headquarters, Sunday 23.—(Night, by Associated Press).—The great retreat by the Austrians along the Piave front began under cover of darkness on Saturday night. The retreating troops left their cannon behind them.

Italian detachments are pursuing the enemy east of the Piave.

OLD POSITIONS RETAKEN.

Rome, Sunday, June 23.—Italian troops have crossed the old channel of the Piave River, west of the main stream, and recaptured several of their old positions there, according to a semi-official announcement tonight. From Capo Sile other detachments are advancing toward the main stream of the river.

The Italians have thrown numerous bombing detachments across the main stream, where the artillery and aircraft are hammering the enemy.

Austrian troops left to cover the retreat used their machine guns to set up a barrage fire.

PURSUIT PRESSES HARD.

When it was observed that the Austrians had begun a retrograde movement the Italians began to attack virtually all along the Piave line from Montello, on the north, well towards the mouth of the river. The attack was quickly pressed and became more insistent, accompanied by violent artillery fire.

The number of guns left behind by the Austrians as they retreated has not been computed, but is said to be very great.

The Italians began at dawn on Sunday. With the Montello on the left flank, the attack was carried out all along the lines through Candelu to San Dona di Piave.

MANY THOUSANDS SURRENDER.

Italian Army Headquarters, Sunday, June 23.—The Austrian retreat, which began in an orderly manner, soon became wildly disorganized and confused. Many thousands of Austro-Hungarians surrendered at the first opportunity when overtaken by their pursuers.

An Italian staff officer arriving from the fighting zone on the Piave River, exclaimed as he ran into the Italian army headquarters tonight: "Victory is ours! We have put the enemy across the Piave all the way!"

ROME REJOICES.

Rome, June 23.—The news that the Austrians have retreated across the Piave, pursued by the Allies, caused the greatest enthusiasm here. Extra editions of newspapers were bought up as fast as they were issued. Flags were displayed and bands played the royal march, while crowds cheered the King, the army and Gen. Diaz.

Dispatches announce similar manifestations in provincial cities.

FOE'S LOSSES 180,000, IS ITALIAN ESTIMATE.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Saturday, June 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—A large part of the Austro-Hungarian casualties, estimated by Italian military officials at 180,000, and probably more, sustained in the latest offensive of the enemy on the northeastern Italian front, were due to the fact that in the early hours preceding the assault a week ago the Italians anticipated the Austrian fire by pouring artillery fire upon troops concentrations which were being made preparatory to attacks upon the Italian lines.

The Italian losses on the Montello and at San Donna di Piave were particularly heavy after the first two days of the offensive owing to the fierceness of the attacks at these two points.

HEARTENING NEWS.

London, June 24.—The laconic bulletin from Gen. Diaz, announcing that the defeated Austrians are retreating in disorder, with the Italians in pursuit, is the most heartening news received in allied countries in many months.

Although nothing is yet known as to the exact extent of the Austrian defeat, or how far the Italians and the Allies may be in a position to take full advantage of it, the statement of the Italian commander-in-chief is hailed with enthusiasm by the morning papers.

Will Austria Collapse?

It is taken for granted generally that the defeat must have an important effect on the internal issue in Austria-Hungary, where some conspicuous Austro-German triumph was needed sorely to counterbalance the damaging influence of food scarcity and other causes of popular dissatisfaction. The suggestion is made that these causes may have had much to do with the failure of the Austrian offensive, which started with military resources much greater than those controlled by Italy.

Whether the decision of the Austrian cabinet to resign is connected with what appears to be a considerable disaster to the country's arms along the Piave, is not yet known.

WAIT OFFICIAL WORD BEFORE REPLYING TO BOARD'S ULTIMATUM

Teachers Decline to Say Anything For Publication.

For the present no statement for publication will be made by the Woman Teachers' Guild concerning the action of No. 1 committee of the board of education last week in deciding to demand that the guild inform the Local Council of Women that the resolution which the latter body passed, charging discrimination against women teachers in favor of male teachers was based on incorrect information given by the Teachers' Guild or its representative.

The ultimatum from the board, intrusted to Secretary R. M. McElheran to prepare and forward to the "discontented employees," has not yet been received by the guild.

"All we know yet," said a member of the executive to The Advertiser, "is what we have seen in the press. Until the board communicates directly with us we are not in a position to take any action or say anything on the subject."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

SABBATH OBSERVANCE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

At the closing session of the London Conference, held in Walkerville, a resolution concerning the observance of the Sabbath was moved by Rev. G. C. Gifford and passed by the conference. Your report of this resolution has left a wrong impression in the minds of many. Would you be kind enough to publish the resolution, which speaks for itself:

"In view of the trend away from the services of the church in summer resorts, and in view of the tendency to Sabbath desecration in those places,

"Resolved, that this conference instruct the committee on the pastoral address for 1919 to make a strong appeal to the Methodist people within the conference, that their moral support be given to the efforts of the churches in these places which rank as summer resorts within the conference."

Thanking you for this correction, sincerely yours,

B. SNELL,
Secretary Conference.

CRITICISM HEARD AT HOME SHAMEFUL, IS BISHOP'S WORD

Visit to the Front Disproves Them, Declares Right Rev. M. F. Fallon.

Bishop Fallon of this city is more than enthusiastic over his visit to the Canadian front in Flanders. A press cable from England says:

London, June 22.—Bishop Fallon of London, Ont., speaking to a gathering of Canadians, said: "I think it a good thing that the western premiers have been to France. I hope they will go again and stay longer. I hope Premier Borden will go from one end to the other. He will then see not only what an effort Canada has made, but how unreasonable, empty and shameful is some of the criticism heard occasionally in our own country. That sort of criticism has had no effect on the soldiers at the front.

"I am more enthusiastic than ever at the splendid co-ordination of Canadian effort. I am now visiting the Canadian camps in England. What I have already seen here shows me that the effort made in France finds its co-ordination in England."

LONDON ROTARIANS WILL BOOST CITY AT BIG CONVENTION

Juvenile Pipe Band Is Taken to Kansas City.

Rotarians, representing the London Rotary Club, left at 9 o'clock Saturday night for Kansas City, where a continental convention of Rotary Clubs is to be held this week. The local party was accompanied by Sergt.-Major MacDonald's juvenile pipe band, which will take part in the Rotarian parade to be held in Kansas City.

It is the intention of the local delegation to boost the Forest City at the convention, and the pipe band will prove a great factor in doing this, the large drum having "London, Ont." painted thereon, and every local member will carry a large streamer advertising this city.

The party arrives in Kansas City today, special cars having been provided on the train, which also carried delegates to the convention from Montreal, Brantford and Hamilton.

London Rotarians, with their private band and their banners and streamers announcing to the world who they are, will boost the Forest City first, last and always.

$400 SECURED FOR BUILDING FUND OF EGERTON ST. CHURCH

Special Anniversary Services Held There Sunday.

At the fourth anniversary of the new Egerton Street Baptist Church held yesterday about $400 was donated towards the building fund. Fifty dollars of this was taken up in a special offering of the Sunday School. Principal A. T. MacNeill, of Woodstock College, preached appropriate sermons at both services and addressed the Men's Bible Class in the afternoon.

Rev. A. C. Bingham also addressed the Sunday School.

A living picture presenting the finding of Moses in the bullrushes and a tableau by Harry Dean and Stafford Churcher were the features of the open session of the Sunday School in the afternoon. The following girls were the principals in the living picture: Bessie and Minnie Holstead, Verna Hawe, Nettie Blinkhorn, Evelyn McClean, Winnie White, Leona Althouse and Marguerite Connor.

Rev. T. T. MacNeill taking for his evening discourse the three graces, Faith, Hope, Love, pictured the well-rounded character of the man who possessed these. There are others, he said, who are broad-minded in all philosophies of life, but who lacking faith, have no depth. They cannot stand the billows of adversity because, without faith, they have no anchorage.

"This war would be to me a meaningless and useless slaughter if I had not an unshaken faith in the God who is infinite in wisdom, power and love.

"I am sure that out of all this disaster He will bring ultimate blessing. As the anchor of a ship holds it secure in the storms, so will faith steady a man in the winds of adversity. Hope, even as steam drives the boat across the sea to its destination, urges us to our best efforts.

"Love," said the speaker, "is the one quality that will make its possessor a wonderful power for good in the world. Without love Christian character can never reach perfection."

During the services solos were given by Miss Blinkhorn, Miss Wonch, Miss Sharratt, and R. Patterson rendered a duet. Clifford Read and Miss V. Saiche presided at the organ for the church and Sunday school services. R. Mills, the Sunday school superintendent, occupied the chair at the afternoon session.

TWO MORE VOLUNTEERS

Windsor and London Represented in Saturday List.

Only two volunteers enlisted for service at the local mobilization centre on Saturday.

R. R. Edwards, who came from Windsor, was placed in category A2 by the medical board and was attached to the Canadian Engineers. F. Bower was accepted in this city. The medical board placed him in category B2, and he was sent to the Army Medical Corps.

Five defaulters under the military service act appeared before the medical board at the mobilization Centre on Saturday, too. Three were put in category A2 and two in category B2. All were handed over to the W. O. R. for service.

FISH FOR SUMMER

Food Board Urges It as Health Measure.

The following has been issued by the Canada Food Board:

But I am a great eater of beef, and I believe that it does harm to my wit.—Twelfth Night.

Shakespeare was a genius, and wise. What was true about beef-eating in his day is likewise true today, and especially now that summer has come to stay a while.

Beef-eating heats the eater. The summer sun scorches him. He is hot within and without. High blood pressure ensues and getting through the day becomes a task.

Fish is the food to eat in a hot weather. It does not produce as much heat as beef and pork, is more readily digested, and in a well-balanced diet is as wholesome and nutritious. Fish with vegetables make an ideal summer meal.

And when you substitute fish for beef or pork, you may take credit to yourself for releasing the two latter foods for export overseas, where they will do most good.

Keep cool and eat more fish this summer. Or put it this way: Eat more fish this summer and keep cool.

CITY REGISTRATION CARDS WILL BE BASIS OF CALL TO VOLUNTEER FARM LABORERS

Those Signed in London Being Checked Over To Get Names.

MORE THAN 50,000 SIGN

City Returns Far Exceed the Original Estimates of Assessment Department.

Registration on Saturday was an easy-going, leisurely, pleasant social function sort of event, compared with the rush and squeezing of preceding days of the week. Instead of manifesting any desire to evade registration, the citizens of London and district as a whole, and including all nationalities, evidenced a grave anxiety lest by some mishap they should fail to be recorded at all. In practically every case, or at least, with very few exceptions, the registration places were over instead of undermanned in both the city and East Middlesex. The perfection of the organization prevented hitches of any description. It is believed by both Registrars Bayly and Fitzgerald that their districts, London and East Middlesex, have been thoroughly cared for, and no one overlooked.

Checking Up Farm Volunteers.

Those who have volunteered for farm work on the registration cards will probably have an opportunity to make good sooner than they had expected. Registrar R. A. Bayly has been notified by the Dominion Government to hold the city registration cards for a week in order to permit the Ontario Government authorities to inspect them with a view to ascertaining how much farm labor may be expected from the city, to be utilized at once to take care of the harvest.

The board of trade, with the secretary, Gordon Philip, in charge, will look after the inspection of the cards.

For this reason, Mr. Bayly requests that all deputy registrars in the city turn in their bundles of registration cards to the city treasurer's office in the city hall by this afternoon.

A staff of workers in an adjoining room will be on hand to begin the immediate inspection of the cards, and make a record of the names of those volunteering for farm work for the benefit of the Ontario Government. The cards will be forwarded to Ottawa the end of the week.

Following his original instructions, Registrar W. C. Fitzgerald will forward the registration cards for East Middlesex, a rural district, to Ottawa as soon as they are all turned in.

50,000 Registered Here.

The city registration was larger by several thousands than anticipated, owing to the numbers who took advantage of pre-registering here during last week. While City Assessor Stephen Grant estimated that there were 44,000 people over sixteen years to register within the city limits, in all, between 50,000 and 70,000 registration cards were given out by Mr. Bayly. A number of these will doubtless be returned. In any case, considerably more than 50,000 people have registered in London, among these large numbers of farmers from East Middlesex, who found it an easy matter when on the market to step into an adjacent registration booth.

To The Advertiser, Mr. Bayly said yesterday: "On behalf of the registration board, I want to thank the people of the city for the splendid support they have given in making registration here effective, and for the volunteer help given. The whole of the registration system from first to last in the city has been voluntary, an unbeatable record. All the women's organizations in the city have helped, and I believe every school principal and school teacher volunteered assistance. The Canada Registration Board is also indebted to the Normal School, Westervelt's Business College, the newspapers, factories, drug stores and other business houses for the splendid assistance given throughout the week. Indeed, thanks to the organization in factories, business houses, financial institutions and newspaper offices, about three-quarters of the registration was accomplished before registration day."

Foreign Registration.

Registration of the foreign-speaking citizens in the south end of the city was accomplished to a large extent under the direction of Mr. Webster at the rolling mills earlier in the week. The work was wound up on Saturday at centre 43, in the Aberdeen School, in charge of Deputy Registrar T. H. Main.

One of the developments in connection with registration day was the bombardment of Registrar Bayly with inquiries from American summer visitors if they would be required to register. The tourists, who are here for a few weeks, or few months, on being able to prove this, were exempted.

Registrar Fitzgerald was feeling rested and satisfied today over the success of registration in East Middlesex.

"We had registration arrangements in all the schools, but in two or three," he said, adding: "Our organization was most complete, and I was fortunate in having splendid deputies. Saturday afternoon, every registration place was open and every deputy and assistant on duty. In some places, the staffs were found larger than necessary, owing to the fact that numbers of the farmers had registered in the city during the week. I should say thousands of them from the whole district. In this way, registration isn't a very accurate census of the population of the citizenship over sixteen years.

Kept Busy During Day.

"At Thorndale, Lucan, Lambeth and Dorchester, I had special deputies, with reserve supplies and reserve assistants, in case there were calls for these. During the day, I had a call for 500 more cards for Lucan, which were immediately sent out by automobile, and for 50 more certificates for the Brick street centre, in Westminster.

"From 7:20 in the morning until noon, I was kept almost continuously at the telephone, answering long distance inquiries, both from the deputies and people wanting information about registering.

"The fact that only three or four came in during the afternoon seemed an indication that the work was pretty well completed by that time.

"In addition to the cards for the school centres, I gave out 700 to McCormick's, 200 to the Byron Sanatorium, and 400 to the Hospital for the Insane. The returns have not been made yet from these places, so I may get a number of blanks back. I should say that thousands had preregistered in East Middlesex."

And now, with everybody registered, the big problem for the majority of people is how they are going to keep from losing that precious registration slip. The precaution advocated is for everyone to make a note of the certificate number, put this in a safe place, then if by extreme misadventure the certificate should disappear, there will be a possibility of obtaining a duplicate.

The registration certificate is something that people are expected to have always with them, lest they otherwise be denied the privilege of boarding street cars or trains, eating in restaurants, obtaining houses, buying goods, or doing other important and necessary things.

85 ARE ENROLLED IN SUMMER SCHOOL WHICH OPENS TODAY

Huron College Courses Start Under Favorable Auspices.

If the number of registrations is any indication, the summer school to be held all this week at Huron College is destined to prove a success. In addition, a comprehensive and at the same time practical study program has been arranged, and leaders of outstanding ability and wide experience secured to conduct the classes and conferences.

R. A. Williams, the secretary, accompanied by his stenographer, Miss Giles, arrived from Toronto today to take over his duties. Principal C. C. Waller of Huron College having looked after the local end up to the present. In all, 85 have registered, of whom at least 75 will be in residence in the college. Of these, 25 are from Toronto, including 6 or 7 leaders; 6 from Brantford and 5 from Woodstock. Other places to be represented are Guelph, Ingersoll, Sandwich, Warwick, Mitchell, Preston, St. Thomas, Aylmer, St. Catharines, Wiarton, Galt, Waterloo, Lion's Head, Dundalk, Parkhill, Exeter, Stratford and Windsor, with a few from the city.

It is expected the majority of students will arrive this afternoon in time for dinner in the college dining-room at 6 o'clock this evening.

At 8 o'clock, the organization session will be held, when Principal Waller will extend a welcome in the absence of the Bishop of Huron, and, it is expected, Rev. R. Gay, dean of the summer school, will say a few words, outlining the work to be taken up, and other features in connection with the summer school. It is hoped that Rev. L. R. Scherman of Toronto will be present to deliver a devotional address.

The daily program for the week will be as follows:

7 a.m.—Communion.

8 o'clock.—Breakfast, followed by family prayer at the table.

9 a.m.—Mission study. Leaders: Mrs. C. C. Waller, Miss Woolverton, Rev. W. P. Robertson (Hamilton) and Rev. W. L. Brownlee, St. Thomas.

10:10 a.m. to 11 a.m.—Bible study, led by Principal C. C. Waller.

11 a.m. to 12 a.m.—Sunday school teacher training. Leaders: Dr. Silcox, principal Stratford Normal School; Miss Morley of Toronto, Rev. C. V. Pilcher of Toronto, Rev. S. S. Hardy of Wiarton.

12 a.m. to 12:15 a.m.—Intercession for war and missions.

12:20 to 1:10 p.m.—Conference. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday on social service. Wednesday and Friday on Sunday school work.

Special arrangements have been made for partial registration rates for people living in the city who are only able to take a part of the course, and a minimum fee is charged by the day.

EIGHT RUSSIANS ARE TAKEN INTO CUSTODY BY MILITARY POLICE

Men Did Not Have the Necessary Papers.

As the result of a tour in the foreign quarter of this city on Sunday afternoon by a squad of military police, working in conjunction with the civilian police, eight Russians were arrested and held for not having the necessary papers on their person when accosted. The police were in charge of Capt. Asa Minard, officer commanding the civil detachment of the military police for this district, and the bluecoats present were in charge of Inspector R. Birrell.

Among the places visited was a meeting hall at the corner of Ottaway avenue and Maitland street, and it was here that the majority of the arrests were made. Quite a number of foreigners were congregated here when visited by the police, but all were able to satisfy Capt. Minard as to their military status, except the eight taken into custody.

The prisoners were marched to the armories, being taken in charge by the military authorities, who will deal with them under the military service act. There was no violence shown during the visit in the south end yesterday, and everything was carried out in an orderly manner by the police, according to schedule.

The eight men arrested were today medically examined and categorized by the military authorities, and are now stationed at Carling Heights. They will remain in the army until they can prove to those in charge that they are not eligible under the military service act. Failing this proof an overseas trip is assured them.

City taxes are due July 2, three per cent allowed off second and third instalments paid by that date; five per cent added to first installment not paid by July 2. *18n

ONLY $90,000 PAID

First Tax Installment Not Due, However, Until July 2.

The first installment of taxes is due on July 2 and already $90,000 has been paid into the city coffers. The first installment amounts to $481,963.82, so there is a great deal of money which must be paid in this week.

There is a big change in the method of giving discount this year as compared with other years. This year the full amount of the first installment must be paid. If the second and third installments are paid at the same time a reduction of 5 per cent will be allowed. This, the city estimates, is equal to 12 per cent per annum. However, the big point for first installment payers to remember is that if they do not pay their first installment on the date which it is due, five per cent will be added, and the same applies to the second and third installments.

Last year one-third of a mill was allowed off when the taxes were paid on or before the due date, and at the end of the year, if all were not paid then five per cent was added.

The change in the discounts makes it worth while for the taxpayer to pay his taxes promptly.

GOOD REGISTRATION

Although the summer session of the arts department of the Western University will not begin till next week, a number of students of a high calibre have already registered for it. In accordance with the usual custom, the majority will probably not register till the opening day, Tuesday, July 2.

The courses will include the ordinary subjects of the first and second years, and the standard of work done will be equal to that of the regular session. In this way it will be possible to give university credit for those who successfully take these courses. If other summer sessions are attended, students can get sufficient credit to count rapidly towards the attainment of a degree, and this process can be the more accelerated by taking the extra mural work, which is so planned as to supplement that taken in the summer session.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

SOLDIERS AND CIGARETTES.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

It is said that courage is one of the finest things in life. And we sure admire the courage of that G. W. V. A. president that challenged the untutored remarks of Mrs. Gordon Wright.

We wish him every success, but we can't forget that a cynical old bachelor once told us that the main difference between an umbrella and a woman was that you could get the umbrella to shut up.

There is nothing like rugged lessons hewn from life, to transfer the surplus feathers from the wings of the imagination to the tail of the judgment, and when the lady in question has undergone that operation she will undoubtedly be more evenly balanced. When she has seen severely wounded soldiers lying under the parapet pleading in vain for a cigarette to soothe their shattered nerves, she may awake to the pitying social sense of human weakness.

Irvin S. Cobb says that nothing on this side of the resurrection morning will ever disturb the serene confidence of an inspired and magnificent ignorance. And we quite believe him.

At this stage of the game it begins to look as if the sad Sabbatarians intend to go the whole hog. No doubt they would have had a law passed long ago compelling the soldiers to attend church regularly if the K. R. and O. hadn't have beaten them to it.

Their present day actions remind us of the story of the Arab and his camel. You will remember how the camel thrust first his head, then his shoulders and then his whole body into the tent, and when there wasn't room for both of them in the tent, the camel told the Arab to get a hump on and beat it.

No doubt the poor devil found another tent in the course of his wanderings, but we'll bet a whole barrel of fiery two per cent against a case of Nip Tune's London dry ginger that that fool Arab never bought another camel. Nuff sed.

After all, human nature will only stand a certain amount of suppression. And when the breaking point is reached it will be a case of God help the nigger that is sitting on the safety valve. Yours, as ever,

FRED YOUNG.

KILLED IN WEST

MOOSE JAW, June 23.—John Carleton of Primrose Farm, Pasqua, Sask., and Mrs. John Harrison of Ripley, Ont., are dead, and Mrs. Smith of Sarnia was dangerously injured, as a result of an automobile accident, which occurred late Saturday afternoon at the C.P.R. crossing, near Moose Jaw College.

Mr. Carleton is a well-known farmer, 61 years of age. He was driving his two sisters, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Smith, into the city, and in attempting to head off the Saskatchewan express was caught in a collision broadside on. Mrs. Harrison was instantly killed, while Mr. Carleton was so badly injured that he died shortly afterward in the hospital.

Mrs. Smith sustained a fracture of the skull, but has a chance of recovery.

DARE NOT BE SAD, SAYS REV. G. Q. WARNER IN SUNDAY SERMON

Singing Spark of Divinity Shining Through Calamities.

"We do not dare be sad; we do not dare deny our God by refusing to sing, even though the night through which we are passing be black with the clouds of the world conflict," said Rev. G. Q. Warner, concluding his discourse on "Songs in the Night," in Cronyn Memorial Church on Sunday morning. "There are those who habitually look on the dark side of life even as others always see the sunshine," he began after announcing his subject. "There is no doubt as to which type is the most desirable to meet. How refreshing to associate with one who always has a song.

"It is a mark of humanity to be depressed with the blackness of the clouds which overshadow our pathway at times. The spark of divinity in all of us, however, quickly responds to the spirit of the optimist who can sing through all the calamities. God made the world pure and we have no right to judge the Creator by what we have made it. Contrast conditions as they are with what God intended they should be. Thus can be seen the need of the day of national prayer which has been set for next Sunday.

"There is a distinction between praise and prayer. Praise is for God, but prayer is primarily for the benefit of the people on earth. That we all recognize the great necessity of prayer today cannot be denied. We have a tremendous task, and it is impossible to accomplish it in one day's supplications. It will serve, however, to bring each one of us more nearly into the correct relation with God. We cannot expect him to change the whole world in a moment, but we may be shown his will concerning us."

That the real history of the war will be expressed in poetry, as all the deepest feelings of life are manifested through music, the speaker said. The power of singing in the night is God-given. It requires no effort to praise when the clouds are rolled away. Moses would have been a greater hero if he had sung before crossing the Red Sea.

"I have no patience with those who say that human nature is essentially depraved. Human nature is essentially good and everyone of us is most satisfied when we are responding to the best that is in us."

A touching reference was made to the death of D. H. Howden. The high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him spoke more eloquently of his life in the community than anything else that could be said about him, declared the rector.

During the service, a solo was rendered by Sergt. Stephen Warner of the Ordnance Corps.

NOT IN CITY YET

Many Londoners are still waiting for their Victory Bonds, which have failed to reach the city. No word of explanation has been received from Ottawa as to the cause of the delay. All the banks state is that the bonds have not arrived. In the meantime the bond purchasers have been unable to collect the interest which was due on June 1, three weeks ago.

The bank managers say they do not know when these bonds will arrive, and hesitate an estimate of the number missing here.

BOOZE AND GASOLINE POOR MIXTURE WHEN USED AT SAME TIME

St. Thomas Man Guilty on Two Counts as Result of Attempting Mixture.

Thomas Gorman Dalton, who gave his home as St. Thomas, appeared in police court today on two charges, the first of which was a breach of the Ontario temperance act, the prisoner pleading guilty to having liquor on premises other than a private dwelling. Magistrate Graydon fined him $200 and costs, with the alternative of three months in jail.

The second charge was a more serious one, the complainant being Thomas Richardson of 844 King street, who had Dalton arrested on Sunday evening on a charge of attempting to steal his automobile from in front of the house of a King street friend, whom he was visiting.

The complainant swore that after hearing the engine of his car start, he had rushed out, and found two men in the machine. An unknown man was at the wheel, and Dalton lunged at him with a whiskey bottle. Later, the prisoner jumped from the car and struck the witness.

Dalton ran east on King street, but was pursued and captured by William Constable, Richardson's host, who turned him over to the police. It developed that while running away, Dalton discarded a bottle of whiskey which was produced in court as evidence on the first charge. A long knife was also found by the police, of which Dalton denied any knowledge. When searched a hatchet was discovered in the prisoner's pocket, in explanation of which he told the magistrate that he was a carpenter by trade, and intended to go to work in Sarnia today.

Electing summary trial by magistrate, Dalton was found guilty on both charges. He stated that he had brought the whiskey from Montreal, and that Sunday evening he met an unknown man down town, who requested him to come for a ride in his brother's car, which they had bought on shares. They pushed Richardson's car down from the lawn, because the unknown friend did not want his brother to know they were going for a ride. Dalton stated to the magistrate that he had no idea that the car was Richardson's.

Magistrate Graydon remanded the prisoner until July 2 for sentence, and in the meantime an effort will be made to locate the unknown driver of the car, who escaped.

Magistrate Graydon stated in court today that he was determined to stop the practice of stealing cars, as it was getting monotonous, and in future all such offenders will be much more severely dealt with than before.

CONSIDERING WAGES

Utilities Manager Getting Data on Operators' Increase Demand.

General Manager E. V. Buchanan of the utilities commission announces that he is considering the request of the Horton street pumping station operators for a further increase in wages. He is gathering data and will likely have his decision ready in a few days. The men in question receive a wage of $1,030 a year. Those at Springbank, older operators, receive $1,050.

According to officials of the commission the work of the operators is much the same as that of a telephone "Hello" girl. They do no repairing or adjustments. When these are necessary they call in electricians. Their work is said to be nothing more than pulling out and replacing plugs into the different circuits.

LIBERATION ORDER COMES AT LAST TO FREE JAIL MENACE

Colored Tubercular Prisoner Will Be Deported to States.

An order has been received by Deputy Sheriff Ben Watterworth from the department of justice at Ottawa to release Higgins Hughes, a colored prisoner in the county jail, who is suffering from tuberculosis in its most advanced stages. Hughes was sentenced to serve not less than three months and not more than two years in prison by Police Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon in January last, having been found guilty of stabbing Dr. Shields of the Victoria Hospital staff while a military patient in that institution.

Owing to the danger of infection to other prisoners repeated representations were made by the jail authorities here to have Hughes released, but up until the present order no action had been taken by the department of justice. Ordinarily Hughes would have been sent to Burwash Prison Farm, but because of his condition he was refused there.

Hughes, who formerly resided in the United States, will be deported to that country in the near future by the local authorities. He will be turned over to the United States immigration officials, and arrangements are now pending for his deportation. Hughes will be sent from the border to his former home in South Carolina, and a railway ticket to this destination will be provided here.

Local officials in charge of the prisoner are elated over this order of release, as it was feared that if it were delayed many days more its purpose would be useless, as the condition of Hughes is such that local physicians claim he can live but a few months more.

KEEPS THEM BUSY

Garbage Accumulation Retards New System—250 Tons Collected.

More than 250 tons of garbage have been collected in London since the garbage collection was resumed on Tuesday last, though the full collection force did not get to work until Friday.

The whole city has not been covered yet. The collectors are now working in zone three today. The heavy collections resulting from the two weeks' strike has retarded them considerably, well over 50 loads being taken to the incinerator in one day.

City Engineer H. A. Brazier hopes, however, that in a week or so his new system will get a good tryout. He will then be able to give a steady service, he believes, until he has to break up the system for the ash collection in the winter.

ONE-SEVENTH OUT

City Engineer's Map Shows Street Lighting as It Is Now.

City Engineer H. A. Brazier is preparing an interesting map of the city, showing the number of electric lights and specifying, in colors, those lighted and those turned off by the utilities commission.

Some time ago when the utilities commission presented a credit to the city for the lights turned off, several of the aldermen expressed the opinion that it was far too low. They opined that there were far more lights out than the city was getting credit for. The engineer was asked to check the bill. This he proceeded to do. It is a big job. His inspectors have been obliged to cover every street in the city. The city has about 2,800 lights, and the estimate is that there are about 400 out. The engineer's map is not quite ready yet.

The Back Aches

Possibly you do not realize that this indicates derangement of the kidneys. Neglect usually means the development of Bright's disease. You know how dreadfully painful and fatal that is.

There is quick relief for the kidneys in the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This medicine is known in the great majority of homes as the greatest of regulators.

SIGNIFICANCE SEEN IN STATEMENTS OF PROVOST-MARSHALS

"Always Did My Duty," Says Capt. MacAuley.

SUPERIOR GOES FARTHER

"Obeyed His Instructions to the Letter," Was Major Hirsch's Tribute.

In view of the assertions which have been freely made in military circles here that Capt. A. C. MacAuley, assistant deputy provost marshal of Military District No. 1, was being made "the goat" for the raid on the Jesuit Novitiate at Guelph, considerable significance is attached to statements made by the captain and by Major John Hirsch, deputy provost marshal, and Capt. MacAuley's senior officer.

In replying to the address, which accompanied the presentations made to Capt. MacAuley by his subordinates of No. 1 Detachment, Canadian Military Police Corps, at the armories, the officer, who has been transferred to Winnipeg as a result of the sensational developments from the Guelph raid, said:

"No one feels this leaving more keenly than I do. I HAVE ALWAYS DONE MY DUTY AND ALWAYS WILL DO MY DUTY. When one does this, things must come out alright."

Major John Hirsch, in his address to his men, said, in part: "It is a distinct loss to the district and to myself to lose my right-hand man, Capt. MacAuley. He has work which he leaves unfinished, investigations which must be completed, though how, without his assistance, I do not know. He has his work at his finger tips, AND HAS ALWAYS OBEYED HIS INSTRUCTIONS TO THE LETTER.

"I have asked that he be allowed to remain here until his successor arrives, but do not know if this is to be granted. I have not lost hope of retaining Capt. MacAuley from the district, my work last minute. I have made representations to the provost marshal at Ottawa for the dictum of the minister of militia to be reconsidered, and if we lose Capt. MacAuley from the district, my work will be all at sea for several months."

Ottawa's connection with the affair is strikingly illustrated by censorship ban which was placed on the event, as witness the following from the Guelph Herald:

On Thursday the Herald wired Col. E. J. Chambers, press censor, Ottawa, asking him, inasmuch as we had faithfully carried out his instructions not to publish anything in reference to the raid of the Jesuit Novitiate, to be good enough to forward an explanation, which could be published, so that the people of Guelph will understand that the silence maintained with regard to the visit of the military police was by reason of the press censor's instructions and the terms of the order-in-council dated 18th April.

Col. Chambers' reply reads as follows:

"Ottawa, Ont. June 20.

"H. Gummer, Herald Guelph:

"Am sorry to learn that your loyal and conscientious compliance with request issued from this office for silence regarding happenings at the Jesuit Novitiate has exposed you to a misunderstanding as to your silence. When request was issued from this office it was hoped that an official statement would have been issued in time to prevent the spread of untruthful and aggravating rumors.

"CHIEF PRESS CENSOR OF CANADA."

NEED GODLINESS

Contentment, Without It, Avails Nothing, Says Preacher.

"Godliness with Contentment is Gain" was the subject of Rev. H. D. Moyer, pastor of Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church at the anniversary service of Colborne Street Methodist Sunday School on Sunday morning. The children of the Sunday School were assembled in the centre of the church and special music was provided by the orchestra under direction of Professor J. Tirri at both morning and evening services.

"Contentment without golliness is like a lazy, dirty, good-for-nothing man who cares for nothing," said Mr. Moyer. "The gain which you get from godliness and contentment is working like God; doing like God; living like God and doing what God wants you to do. Nothing but this is gain."

Diplomas were presented to the members of the Sunday school by S. J. Lovell for faithful attendance during the last year.

Rev. Dr. Louis Barber, the pastor, gave an appropriate address at the evening service.

"CULLY" ROBERTSON IS DEAD AT ALLANDALE

Eldest Son of Late John Ross Robertson Succumbs to Illness.

TORONTO, June 23.—John Sinclair Robertson, eldest son of the late John Ross Robertson, and familiarly known in the journalistic world of Toronto as "Cully" Robertson, died at Allandale, Simcoe County, this morning after a long illness, at the early age of 45, three weeks after the death of his father. He had been practically an invalid for the last two or three years, but had maintained his connection with the Toronto Evening Telegram as a regular contributor to the sporting page.

He was born in London, England, in 1873, when his father was correspondent there of the Globe, Toronto. As a sporting enthusiast, Mr. Robertson had a large circle of friends, especially among the devotees of hockey. He was one of the organizers of the Canadian Wheelman's Association. He was also a yachtsman and a member of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club.

In 1908 he married Jane Carlyle, daughter of W. J. Hendrick, counsellor-at-law, formerly attorney-general of Kentucky. His wife survives him, and one son, John Gilby.

DIES OF WOUNDS IN NO. 3 HOSPITAL, SAYS NOTICE TO FATHER

Son of Prof. W. J. Patterson of Western "U" Makes Sacrifice.

Notice was received in the city on Sunday evening of the death from wounds in France of Lieut. George Beattie Patterson, only son of Prof. W. J. Patterson and Mrs. Patterson, 835 Hellmuth avenue. Though he had been in France almost three years, this was his first casualty, to the knowledge of his parents. A second cablegram which arrived today from Lieut.-Col. Clifford H. Reason, D.S.O., stated that Lieut. Patterson had died in No. 3 Stationary Hospital on June 22.

Prof. Patterson was preaching in Lucan on Sunday, and when the news came, James Gray, who also lost a son in the war, motored out to break the news.

Lieut. Patterson, who was 27 years old, had many friends in this city, having attended the Collegiate Institute here. Following his matriculation he took the Normal School course in 1907, and the following year his honor matriculation. After teaching in the Canadian west for four years he entered Queen's University in 1912, graduating in engineering in 1915. Enlisting for overseas service with the 6th Divisional Engineers, he went overseas as a corporal. He subsequently was attached to the Royal Field Artillery, 168th Brigade, receiving his commission as second lieutenant in September, 1917.

He is survived by two sisters, as well as his father and mother.

VETERANS TO MAKE CHOICE OF QUARTERS FOR PERMANENT HOME

Walper House Favored Rather Than Other Suggested Locations.

Whether or not the Great War Veterans will secure the Walper House as a clubhouse, as was expected, will be known after Tuesday night, when a general meeting will hear reports from the executive.

Plans were under way to secure the Walper House, but several counter-proposals have been advanced, one of which is to have the association take the rooms of the Conservative Club, another being to rent a house on Queen's avenue. The Walper House can be secured for a rental of $25 per month, and the stables for $50 per month. The veterans would rent the stables for the same amount they would pay, and the city council has passed a bylaw granting freedom from taxation, free water, etc. The place can be heated for $500 per year from the Greene-Swift plant.

Many of the veterans believe the Walper House would be self-sustaining as a clubhouse. It has 40 rooms, and the furniture can be secured on a valuation. The dining-rooms are large enough for general meetings.

Objection to the proposal to have the soldiers use the Conservative clubrooms has been registered on the ground that not even a semblance of political control should creep into the organization. The house on Queen's avenue is declared to be nothing like as convenient and suitable as the hotel property.

The whole question will be before the veterans and a lively discussion will probably take place.

ABSENT—NOT DESERTER

Court-Martial Finds District Depot Man Guilty of Less Grave Offence.

Pte. George F. Burns of No. 1 District Depot, who appeared before a court-martial today at Wolseley Barracks, charged with desertion, pleaded not guilty. He was, however, found guilty by the court of being absent without leave, but not desertion. He was arrested in Pittsburg, and returned here, after an absence of about three weeks.

Lieut.-Col. H. L. Milligan, D. S. O., presided over the court. The promulgation of the sentence will be made later.

Capt. Peck will stop at the aviation camp at Deseronto for gasoline.

TREAT FOR SOLDIERS

Rotary Club Will Entertain Men From Byron at Port.

The Rotary Club will hold one more luncheon and then abandon these weekly events for the balance of the summer. The one luncheon yet to be held will be on July 8, when the club will receive a report of its delegates, who are scheduled to reach Kansas City today for the National Rotary convention.

Some of the grass widowers of the club wanted the luncheons kept on right through the summer months. Their wives are away, and they must suffice on hotel fare anyway. It was suggested that some scheme might be worked out to care for these orphans.

The Rotarians will take the soldiers of Byron Sanatorium to Port Stanley on Friday afternoon. The Rotarians will send cars to the Sanatorium and bring the soldiers to the city. The London and Port Stanley Railway will take the men to Port and provide a luncheon at the cafeteria for 70 cents. The Rotarians will take the men from the cars to the Sanatorium on their return.

The club voted to foot the bill out of its treasury.

WOMEN OF WINNIPEG SAY FOOD BOARD IS MAKING HIGH PRICES

WINNIPEG, June 23.—Several women's societies in Winnipeg have prepared a resolution which they propose to introduce at a mass meeting called for next Wednesday night in Winnipeg, criticizing the food board. The resolution accuses the food board of "agitating food shortages" to boost prices, and calls on the Dominion Government to reorganize the board.

HEAVY FALL OF RAIN TIMELY FOR CROPS IN SOME ALBERTAN PARTS

Regina, June 25.—An exceptionally heavy fall of rain on Saturday evening provided much moisture for the growing crops from Lang to Estevan, near the international boundary. Despite lack of rain up to Saturday, the crops presented a healthy appearance as seen by the Regina correspondent of the Canadian Pacific who traveled over the Soo line from Moose Jaw to Minot, North Dakota. While occasional fields showed a yellowish tinge, showing the necessity for rain in the near future, generally speaking, the crops along this line, especially from Rouleau to Yellow Grass were standing up well under the dry spell.

NO FURTHER TROUBLE BEING REPORTED FROM BORDER RUSS COLONY

Presence of Soldiers From Here Has Salutary Effect.

No further trouble in the Russian colony at Windsor and adjacent border municipalities, has been reported. Further military prisoners, arrested there for failure to report under the M.S.A., are expected to arrive here, however. Press reports from Windsor say that the presence of the detachment from the 1st Battalion, Canadian Garrison Regiment, under the command of Major E. B. Nelles, from this city, has had its effect.

One report says:

The presence of the troops, however, exercised a salutary effect, and no trouble occurred, although several groups of Russians were ordered to disperse Saturday afternoon when their talk became ominous.

No steps were taken today towards making a house-to-house canvass of the alien residents in Windsor and Ford, although this has been the intention. Other and perhaps more effective steps are contemplated, which will bring to light every single violation of the foreigners to register. Meanwhile the troops will remain here.

Fire believed to be of suspicious origin did serious damage to several houses on Montmorency street at 4 o'clock this morning, and sent four families into the street in their night-clothes. One of the houses was formerly occupied by foreigners who had been ordered out because of their opposition to registration, and the fire is believed to have been started out of malice. Morris Shafer is the owner of the buildings, and he places his loss at $5,000.

LABOR CANDIDATE IS OPPOSING DR. CODY FOR ONTARIO HOUSE

TORONTO, June 23.—Labor forces will contest Northeast Toronto against Hon. Dr. Cody, minister of education, on the ground that there is a grave necessity for more direct labor representation in the Provincial Legislature.

William Varley was named as the candidate at a meeting Saturday evening. Mr. Varley went overseas with the 77th Battalion and went to France in June, 1916, to the 48th Highlanders with a draft. In June, 1917, he was returned to England wounded and suffering from trench-fever. He came back to Canada shortly before the federal election and took an active interest in the campaign. After the election he was court-martialed on charges which the labor interests claimed were inspired by his election activities and sentenced to confinement at Whitby. Later an addition charge was preferred against him for communicating his case to the press. His case was taken up by the trades congress of Canada and some weeks later he was honorably discharged from the service.

LAST CHAPTER OF THE YORK LOAN CRASH IS ABOUT TO BE WRITTEN

TORONTO, June 23.—The last chapter in the checkered career of the York Loan and Savings Company, which went into liquidation in December, 1905, will probably be written this week, when the courts will be asked to ratify the report of the referee in settlement of the accounts. At the time of the failure there were assets of $2,371,050, of which $690,470 has been dispersed in expenses and $1,660,737 paid out to the shareholders and depositors, the more fortunate of whom received about 50 per cent of their claims. The sum of $33,691 remains in unclaimed dividend checks, and this will be placed in the Bank of Commerce to await claimants.

BULGARIA AND THRKEY QUARREL OVER RUMANIA

AMSTERDAM, June 23.—Differences have arisen between Bulgaria and Turkey over the division of lands taken from Rumania under the peace agreement with the central powers, Dr. von Kuehlmann, the German foreign secretary, indicated in addressing the Reichstag at Berlin Friday, upon the occasion of the first reading of the Rumanian peace treaty.

SIXTY-TWO PERISH, 129 ARE INJURED IN CIRCUS TRAIN WRECK

GARY, Ind., June 23.—Sixty-two persons are known to be dead, and 129 are in hospitals in Gary and Hammond, Indiana, tonight, as a result of the rear-end collision at dawn yesterday between an equipment train and a Wallace-Hagenbeck circus train on the Michigan Central railroad, five miles west of Gary. Virtually all the victims were members of the circus.

"Rev. Mr. Palmer states that the act came into operation on July 6, 1917, not October 12, 1917," said the reporter to Father Power.

"Oh, well, what can you do with a man who knows more than his own government on the matter. Our official intimation from the adjutant-general is that October 12 is the date the M. S. A. came into force," replied the superior general.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK, FEVERISH CHILD

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath hot and stomach sour?

Harmless "Fruit Laxative" Best to Clean Tender Liver and Bowls.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish, and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages, and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

LIBERALS AND THEIR DISAPPROVAL.

BECAUSE LIBERALS of North Huron dared to express disapproval of the course pursued by William Proudfoot, K.C., M.P.P., leader of the Provincial Liberal party, both during the December federal election campaign and in his speech on the address at the opening of the Ontario Legislature, they are subjected to a scolding by the Toronto Globe, which proceeds to read into their expressions meanings which only a vivid and hostile imagination could include.

The Globe asserts that some of the speakers stated their desire "to read out of the party Liberals whose convictions required them to differ from the position taken by their federal leader on the war issue of increasing Canada's man-power effectiveness by conscription." It condemns this attitude as unworthy of Liberalism and contrary to its principles.

Were there any truth in the statement that an attempt was made to read Liberals out of the party for supporting conscription there might be some reason for the Globe's diatribe, but so far as can be gathered from a careful reading of reports of the meeting, no such attempt was made.

The fact is, that North Huron Liberals, along with others, read reports of Mr. Proudfoot's speech in the Legislature in which he was quoted as saying: "The results of the recent election contest showed that the people at home were prepared to back up the boys at the front." They interpreted this as equivalent to saying that all who did not support the Government were averse to giving the help needed at the front, and how else could they understand it? If it be granted that this was the meaning intended by Mr. Proudfoot, was he not reading out of the Liberal party and out of patriotic and loyal citizenship all who did not support the Borden Government? Naturally, North Huron Liberals expressed their disinclination to accept as their leader one who placed them outside the pale.

Liberals have fully as much right to state their disapprobation of those who supported the Borden Government as have the supporters to reprove those who refused to countenance the war times election act and those who consented to take advantage of its provisions.

The Globe says further in its exposition of Liberal principles: "Parties attain power and increased usefulness by attracting to their support men of independent thought and men who were former opponents. Parties go out of office when they have ceased to enjoy the confidence and support of this influential and independent portion of the directorate." Do they? Is the Borden Government out of office? Did it have the confidence of the nation? Did it have the confidence of the Globe? The Borden party will go out of power when it fails to think up some trick or subterfuge to induce the electorate to give it another chance.

EXPLANATION LACKING.

THE IMPORTANCE of taking the people fully into its confidence is something which the Borden Government seems unable to grasp, and, because of the failure, trouble is experienced which might be avoided. Some time ago The Advertiser asked that a clear statement of the objects of national registration be given publicity by the authorities so that all could understand and help, but nothing was done in response. The people were urged to express their willingness to do farm work in order to increase production, but no explanation was given as to what methods were proposed to take advantage of this willingness.

History shows that any kind of census taking is regarded with suspicion in some quarters, even in peace time, and commonsense should have told the Government that this feeling would be more general under present conditions in Canada, especially among the more ignorant. In Quebec, men have been writing to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, asking him what was meant. He was unable to answer the question, not being informed by the Government, but he did his best to encourage all to obey the law and strongly advised them to register, pointing out that the word of a cabinet minister had been given that there was no thought of conscripting labor. Doubtless Sir Wilfrid's effort has been attended with success, but there are some whom it did not reach, and others who were inclined to believe that Sir Wilfrid was too trusting in his views.

The result of this ignorance of motives has been that there were disturbances in Quebec Province, dispatches reporting parades in some parishes, openly in opposition to registration, and other manifestations elsewhere.

There should have been no excuse given for these doubts and fears. The Government must have had certain aims in view when deciding on registration and these should have been given as wide publicity as the call itself. Sir Wilfrid Laurier ought not to have found it necessary to explain or indorse a measure with the framing of which he had nothing to do; that duty was entirely the Government's and should have been fulfilled before the premier left for England.

It may be that only a small minority of the people have failed to register, and the smaller the better, but the fact remains that some have become lawbreakers who would not have been included in that category had the reasons for registration been given. It was not sufficient for some one or other unauthorized federal or provincial minister to give what he believed to be the objects, especially since these disagreed; it was a subject for an official, full statement.

Sometime, somewhere a Tory Government will discover that a civilized nation must be led; it will not be driven blindfold.

DRIVEN BY DESPERATION.

AMAZEMENT has been expressed that the German leaders should show such utter disregard for the lives of their men as they do by throwing them against the Allied defence positions in wave after wave; even greater wonder has been caused by the apparent readiness of the German troops to fight under such conditions. Perhaps there is an explanation, which has a strong and direct bearing on the length of time the war will last.

Although there are not available exact figures of the food rations allowed Germans, it is known that they are exceedingly small, and of the poorest quality. Austria's weekly ration is known and may be taken as indication of Germany's. It is: Twenty-two ounces of bread, one pound of potatoes (of which half are not edible), one ounce of black bran mash, one ounce of another mill product, one ounce and a half of fat, six ounces and a half of sugar, one egg, seven ounces of meat (often unobtainable), a little jam and coffee substitutes; altogether about 58 ounces. To this is added what grain vegetables the people may be able to get, milk and fruits, a total of, perhaps, 70 ounces, or 10 ounces a day.

With such conditions existing among the masses of the people and equivalent scarcity of food for the armies, it readily is understood that the soldiers and leaders are in a state of desperation. The only way they can foresee any relief is by driving through the Allies and capturing stores and lands where food is to be found. They are faced with the alternative of attack or death by starvation, and of the two there can be but one choice. Hindenburg and Ludendorff dare not delay longer than is absolutely necessary in their attempted advance, for they know what is in the mind of the hungry nation, and a retirement would be almost certain to spell revolt.

If Austria's plight is anything approaching as desperate as is believed, she must either gain victory and food within a month or throw up her hands. Her collapse would leave Germany stranded.

Now, if never before, the Teutons are fighting for life. They are driven on relentlessly not by courage, not by ambition, not by patriotism, but by fear of starvation. They are in the position of a man, who cannot swim, fleeing from a blazing house on the brink of deep water. He will plunge into the depths without hestitation on the chance of escaping the death which pursues him. If massed attacks are the only way the Teutons can see of escape, this way will be tried without protest.

EXCUSE FOR CALLING.

[Exchange.]

A member of the American Lafayette squadron had to make a precipitate descent and was fortunate enough to come down at a British aerodrome behind the lines, not, however, without mixing up things a bit.

After rescuing himself from the tangle of wire he limped slowly to a "brass hat."

"Are you the big noise of this joint?" he asked.

"I am the commanding officer, if that has anything to do with it," was the reply.

"Well," said the American, "I just looked in to tell you I have spread the gasoline tank on your front grass plot."

A SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

HATS OFF TO US AGAIN!

[Boston Evening Transcript.]

On Vimy Ridge, that advanced point to which the Canadians carried the standard, they still stand like a rock. If the United States had answered the great call with the promptness and with the proportion of its man-power with which Canada responded, the German armies would have been hurled back beyond the Rhine long ago. Yes—we take off our hats to Canada.

THE ARCHBISHOP'S WORDS.

[Our Dumb Animals.]

Just in proportion as we carry the spirit of love into the struggle, we carry the Cross; in so far we may say In Hoc Signo Vinces. Lift your eyes and behold! Link the sacrifice that awaits you with His. Let the will to power be conquered by the will to love. So shall we attain the ultimate victory." These words of the Archbishop of York to American Christians probably stand for a level of life too high for the most of us. Alas that in war hate and revenge become to some, almost Christian virtues!

THE HORSE IN AMERICA.

[Our Dumb Animals.]

Though nearly a million horses have been shipped abroad since this war broke out, the Government reports 353,000 more horses, on farms in this country, January 1, 1918, than January 1, 1917.

FROM THE BEGINNING.
[By Lincoln Rothbium.]

Miss Zebiah Seagrave, unmarried, unbeautiful and of uncertain age, pulled the cane-bottom rocker closer to the window, and, folding her thin hands in her lap, heaved a great sigh.

"Zebiah," called a weak, complaining voice from the other room. And Zebiah lifted her angular form and listlessly walked to the bed where lay a frail, old woman.

"What is it, mother?" she asked gently, though her voice had a weary note in it, "aren't you comfortable?"

"It jest seems as if I can't get comfortable," was the querulous response. "If I face the window, the sun bothers me; and if I face the door, I don't see the sun; and if I set up, my bones ache." And the voice dwindled off in a whining wail.

Zebiah did not answer. She lowered the shade to cut off the bright glare of the sun, straightened the pillows, and, drawing up a chair to the bed, picked up a book preparatory to reading.

"I don't want to be read to and you ought to know it," the old lady muttered, her brow furrowing in a million wrinkles, "you don't pay no attention to me at all, though I don't know as I ought to be expectin' much more from a stepchild."

Zebiah seemed restrained from arguing by the invalid's weakness. "Now, mother," she softly replied, laying the offending book on the table, "don't work yourself up. You know Doctor Merrifield said you should not get excited—your heart won't stand it."

Mrs. Seagrave waved her shrunken hands dramatically. "There you go mentioning that doctor again to me. Ain't I told you how I hate him with his vile-tastin' medicines and pills that stick in my throat?" Her voice rose to a shrill accent. "Anyhow, 'pears to me he don't come to see me—every other day would be enough to take keer of an old woman, to say nothing of twice a day like he's been hangin' aroun'. I suppose it's my money what he's after as soon as I'm cold—running up a big bill like that." And the outburst of temper was followed by a protracted, racking cough, rendering the body so weak and helpless it scarcely seemed alive.

Zebiah petted the scant, ashy-white hair. "I am sure Doctor Merryfield does not want your money, mother," she soothed, "he hasn't taken a penny yet for all the medicines he has given you. We all want to see you get well."

Her ministrations were interrupted by the entrance of a quiet, earnest-looking man, whose bald head and bowlegs seemed strangely at variance. He smiled encouragingly at Zebiah. "How did she sleep last night, Miss Seagrave?" he questioned in a low tone.

"I was up all night, doctor, as the cough gave her no rest. She is not much better this morning."

As the doctor turned with professional interest toward the patient who lay so white and still, Zebiah stole quietly from the room. It was the mirror in the gilt frame, sole adornment of the bare walls of this "sitting room" that claimed her attention. The close inspection did not please her and quick tears of self-pity came to her eyes. As she stood off so that the small mirror might reflect her figure, the flat-chested, hipless, colorless reflection brought forth audible suffering.

"Yes, I've given her my best years, even if she isn't my mother. I've stood her abuse and I've given up friends."

The thoughts seemed too great for utterance, and Zebiah sank into the cane-bottom rocker which creaked sympathetically, as she buried her head in her arms, her shoulders shaking with her sobbing. Doctor Merrifield entered the room.

"Come, Miss Seagrave," he comforted, patting her head, "you mustn't take such things so to heart. Your mother has been ill a very long time and you know she has been getting steadily worse."

Zebiah rose and wiped her eyes in a handkerchief already sadly wet. "Oh, it's not that."

"I know you have been very patient and good," the doctor continued, and he added in a hesitating manner: "I hope you will be rewarded."

The pent-up gates of suppressed emotion gave way. "What has my goodness and patience brought me? I have become a recluse—even the children can point out 'old maid Zebiah.' our minister questions me what disposition I will make of her money, and but yesterday I heard Widow Bliss refer to someone 'as homely as Zebiah.' What reward can atone for all that?"

"You must not let such unkindness weigh upon your mind, Miss Seagrave. We all have our crosses to bear. Even my life has not been a bed of roses——"

Zebiah looked up at the kindly face in surprise.

"For a great many years," he continued, not noticing the interruption, "I turned over every cent I earned as a machinist to support my crippled father and invalid mother and to put my brother through school. I longed to study medicine, but——"

The memory seemed too poignant a pain to recall. Zebiah's faded countenance assumed a look of sympathetic understanding. "And for how long did it last?"

"When I was thirty-five," he spoke very softly, "father died, and mother lived but a month longer. My brother married and then I started to learn all I did not know. It is not easy to learn at thirty-five—not medicine, at any rate—and it was ten years later before I got the right to hang out that sign you see in front of my office. And at forty-five, a new doctor does not easily build up a practice in a small town—indeed there were some nights when I sent myself to bed supperless like a naughty boy being punished for having spoilt—his life," he added bitterly.

Zebiah forgot herself as she saw the need for quick sympathy. "But look how splendidly you have done, doctor, in the five years you have been here. Surely that is encouraging."

"It is, if it were not counteracted by hearing people speak of 'that old batch,' 'old baldy,' and 'bowlegs,' and wondering 'who'll he leave his money to when he dies.'"

A faint call from the sick room interrupted their exchange of confidences and both stood over the figure breathing so laboriously. The doctor felt the pulse and looked very compassionately at the lined features.

"Guess I'm done for, Zebiah," came in far-away voice, "and—and—don't let he Doc get my money. I'd ruther—I'd ruther——" A weak cough stopped her. In a moment she went on. "I'd ruther see you have it. I ain't been so kind to you, Zebiah, these many years. You'll forgive me, child?"

With tears coursing down her faded cheeks, Zebiah leaned over and klased the shrunken lips. "There is nothing to forgive, mother."

"I wish I'd been your real mother, girl, I might've done better by you. Don't give the Doc any of my money."

Silence ensued.

The doctor noiselessly arose and covered the body with the sheet. "She is dead," he said simply.

Zebiah retreated into the other room and the doctor followed. She was dry-eyed and felt horribly old. Irritating and complaining as her stepmother had been, she now had no one and the void seemed too immense to fill. Her head sank upon her chest.

"Zebiah," the doctor called.

Zebiah was aroused from her apathy by his use of her Christian name.

"Zebiah," he repeated, "will you marry me?"

Zebiah stared in incredulous amazement.

"We are both alone in the world," he continued, gently taking her hands. "Your goodness to your stepmother has aroused love I long thought gone. Don't you think you could learn to care for me?"

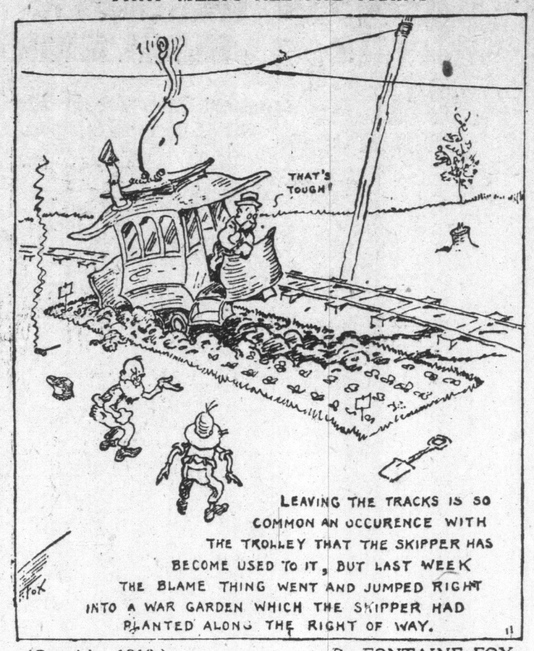

"But, doctor, doctor," Zebiah's voice seemed another part of her, "I'm only 'old-maid Zebiah, 'homely old Zebiah'."

"And I'm only 'that old batch,' 'old baldy,' 'bowlegs.' Come, it's not too late, Zebiah, let's start from the beginning."

Zebiah seemed to have lost her angles, her hair seemed to curl about her forehead, and long-absent color mounted her cheeks.

"Yes, let's start again," she whispered.

Ideals that Doubly Benefit

'Tis only twenty short years since the Goodyear institution was but a man and an ideal.

To-day the man and the ideal are still there—and in the last year Goodyear manufactured and sold more pneumatic automobile tires than any other institution in the world.

Such swift progress leaves no doubt as to the benefit we have derived from the ideal on which our business is based.

And that benefit has come to us only because the man who buys Goodyear Tires benefits first.

With that one fundamental truth we started our business. And so long as this business endures we will not depart from it.

So you will find, as have thousands of other motorists, that Goodyear Tires incorporate more than mere honesty of material and skill of construction. You will find in them the goodness that is born of the intention of the maker to give value unusual.

We believe that ultimately even a greater part of the motoring public will follow the trend of modern motoring—that many more will come to Goodyear Tires.

JIMMY COON STORIES

By Dr. Warren G. Partridge.

Copyright 1917 by George Matthew Adams.

JIMMY COON IS PROUD OF GUY CHUCK.

It was very laughable to see poor hungry Guy Chuck sitting for hours in the front hall of his brand-new house, while that horrid steel trap, which had been set by little William, the Farmer Boy, kept Guy a prisoner in his own house. How would you feel to sit hungry in your own front hall for hours at a stretch without any breakfast, while a big bear trap, with its awful jaws, was set in the door to snap upon your legs at your very first step? Well, that is the way little Guy Chuck felt.

But, as Jimmy Coon, Bobby Skunk, and the other neighbors watched poor little Guy and gave him lots of free advice, a strange light flashed in the little eyes of Guy Chuck.

And Guy looked daggers at that steel trap! And as little Guy thought and thought, suddenly a great and clever idea popped into his mind. Little Guy Chuck began to dig dirt like a house afire! And how the feet and legs of Guy did fly! Why, you would have though that Guy had a steam shovel at work for him in his front hall.

And Guy worked so fast and made the dirt fly so furiously that Bobby Skunk exclaimed: "I believe that little Guy has gone plumb crazy! Why, he will kill himself working so hard and fast!" You see, Bobby Skunk is so slow and lazy that he thinks everybody is crazy who works hard and fast. You have seen people just like Bobby Skunk. Well you could not have believed the words that little Guy Chuck did all by himself when he was a prisoner in his own house.

Little Guy dug and dug, until he had lots of loose earth piled up on that steel trap. Any Guy worked and dug like a steam shovel. You know, Guy is very strong, and he can work like fury when he wants to. And he wanted to work now because he would starve to death if he didn't work. And soon the little folk saw a marvel. Little Guy Chuck had covered that steel trap very deep in fresh dirt, which he had dug with his hands and feet. And it was a great sight to see proud little Guy Chuck walk right over that steel trap! And Guy was safe and sound, for the trap was covered with so much dirt that it couldn't spring.

Little Guy dug and dug, until he had lots of loose earth piled upon that steel trap.

And Jimmy Coon led the crowd in a mighty school-yell, "What's the matter with little Guy Chuck? He's all right! Guy Chuck! Guy Chuck! He's all right! Three cheers for Guy Chuck!" And they all got around little Guy and slapped him on the back, all shouting: "What a joke on the Farmer Boy! Did he ever get left!"

PIMPLES AND RUNNING SORES

WOULD HOLD HEAD DOWN FACE WAS SUCH A SIGHT.

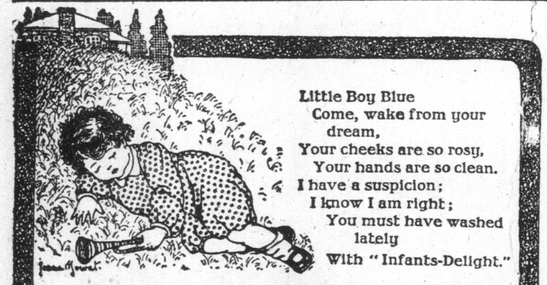

Pimples are caused by the blood being out of order. Those festering and running sores appear on the forehead, on the nose, on the chin and other parts of the body, and although they are not a dangerous trouble they are very unsightly to both you and your friends.

There is only one way to get rid of this obnoxious skin trouble, and this is by giving the blood a thorough cleansing by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

This sterling remedy has been on the market for over 40 years, during which time we have received thousands of testimonials as to its curative powers over all skin diseases.

Mrs. Victor G. Fry, North Battleford, Sask., writes: "I used Burdock Blood Bitters when I was about eighteen. I was so bad with pimples and running sores, that when I went down town I would hold my head down when I would see anyone coming, my face was such a sight. I got two bottles, and my face began to clear, so I kept on until I had a beautiful complexion. I have recommended it to everyone who is in a run-down condition, as it builds up the blood, and when the blood is Al the face is clear."

King Buchner and Einer Rechnitzer are home from Appleby College.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Daly of Princess avenue left on Saturday for their summer cottage at Bayfield, Ontario.

Miss Mona Fitzgerald, physical instructress at the Y. W. C. A. for the past year, has returned to Hamilton, accompanied by her mother.

Mrs. Tune of this city, who has been spending some months with her daughter in Stratford, is the guest of Mrs. Alfred M. Smith, Princess avenue.

Mrs. Gordon Wright and Mrs. May R. Thornley are in Ottawa attending the annual meeting of the Dominion Women's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. Wright has again been elected president.

Mrs. Frank McCormick of Central avenue returned on Saturday after a delightful visit with her brother, Mr. Stanford Ivey of Montreal.

A very pretty June wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cryderman of Thamesville, when their only daughter was united in marriage to David Reid Ritchie of Thamesville, the ceremony being performed on the lawn under an arch of maple bows and flags. The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly gowned in ivory crepe de chine and georgette crepe with satin and pearl trimmings and wore an embroidered veil wreathed with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and sunset roses. Rev. T. T. George performed the ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, the wedding march being played by Miss Velma Craft of Dresden. The young couple were unattended. The wedding breakfast was served in a room made beautiful with paeonies, roses and orange blossoms. When the happy couple left on a motor trip for eastern points, it was amid showers of confetti and the best of wishes of their friends, the bride traveling in a suit of dark brown poplin, with white milan hat. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie will take up their residence in Thamesville.

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL BOX

Yes, It's Hard.

Dear Miss Grey,—It is some time since I received the "Lonely Soldier's" address. I thank you very much for your trouble. My "Lonely" is in training camp yet. I have had two or three letters from him. I have a brother leaving for overseas. Oh, Miss Grey, isn't it hard to see our dear brave laddies go. I'll send you a snap of him some time if you'll return it, please. Well, I must stop or you'll think I'm an eight-day clock. Wishing all the Pageites, including yourself, the best of health this summer, I remain,

A SOLDIER GIRL.

Ans.—Yes, it is hard to part with those near and dear, even for so great a cause as that they are fighting for. If you sent the snapshot I should take the best care of it, I am sure. Now the same kind wish to yourself, "Soldier Girl," for truly health is one of the greatest blessings a loving Providence can bestow upon us!

He Is Not Worth It.

Dear Miss Grey,—May I break into your Mail-Box?

I. Could I ask you, Miss Grey, to please print a good recipe for canning ripe tomatoes?

2. Another question I would like to ask: Can you give me any information as to why any young man would give a girl a ring, leading her to think it is for engagement? If he dropped out of her company and had taken up with some other girl, would it be wise to make him stand up to his promise, or would you say to send him back his ring and have nothing more to do with him? AN ANXIOUS GIRL.

Last year someone told us of her way for canning tomatoes, so I am reprinting the directions:

"Scald and peel real ripe tomatoes and remove the core, as it is this white core that spoils first in the tomato; pack tomatoes in sealer as many as will go in, and fill to overflowing, and see that there are no air bubbles, for if one is not careful with the filling they settle too much; add a teaspoon of salt to each two-quart can, and cook in boiler of water for 20 minutes. I put a thin board on the bottom of boiler to keep the jars on. I put rubbers on and seal down, and if they have not settled more than an inch or so, I leave sealed, standing the jars on their heads until cold. I have had tomatoes keep for two years done this way, and have done 100 quarts to a season and have had no waste, and we have taken first prize at the fair."

2. Under such circumstances a girl could expect no happiness if she held a man to a promise of marriage. Should advise returning the ring and forgetting him. It will be hard, no doubt, but such a philanderer is really not worth fretting over.

What's Best for Blankets?

Dear Miss Grey,—Am coming to you for information. Tell me a good method for washing blankets. Some advise washing them in very hot water. I find that the very hot water tends to shrink them. Also tell me the proper time to plant maple trees for shade trees, also spruces or evergreens, also peonies and rose bushes. Some argue spring, others again fall. I will be greatly pleased if you give me the desired information. A life-long subscriber, LUCAN.

Ans.—1. Perhaps some of our practical housewives will wish to reply to your inquiry. Certainly water heated to near the boiling point will shrink woolens, blankets included. Should advise rather that the water be just hot enough to bear the hand nicely. Make a good suds, using rain water and Lux, and do not immerse the blanket until the flakes are thoroughly dissolved. Rinse twice in rain water warmed to about the same degree as the suds. Choose a breezy, sunny day for washing blankets; Old Sol's warm rays help to make them soft and fluffy—or seem to at least.

2. Have consulted two or three people who are considered well versed in such matters. All agreed that spring is the best season for setting out shade trees, evergreens, etc., and also for rose bushes, while the autumn is best for dividing peony roots.

Holiday vs. Hayfield.

Dear Miss Grey,—Isn't this a lovely day? I feel strongly tempted to throw up my job and go out into the woods for the rest of the afternoon, but I am afraid it won't do, so I suppose I will have to stay right here.

Miss Grey, will you give me your opinion on the following subject? I am a stenographer, and work week in and week out. In about a month from now I expect two weeks' holidays. I had intended going to a cottage at some beach for those two weeks, but when I happened to mention this to a certain lady, she said that she thought it was very wrong for us to go anywhere like that while our poor boys are fighting "over there," that we should go to some farm and pitch in to the work instead of enjoying ourselves. Don't you think that we deserve a rest for that short time—especially if we are not accustomed to farm labor? It seems to me that it would take somewhere near that time to begin to get into the way of doing the work and then we would be so tired at the end of the two weeks that we could hardly go back to our own work and consequently be no real help to anybody, whereas if we had a good rest, we could at least do our usual work a little better than before. Perhaps I am a little selfish, but please help me through your column just what you think about it. Sincerely,

FORGET-ME-NOT.

Ans.—I think you have exactly the right idea. "Forget-me-not," and advise you to stick to it. I know somewhat of office work and of stenography from personal experience, and there are few jobs—if one is a conscientious worker, and I know from your neat letter that you are one—more taxing on nerve force and strength. Under normal conditions a vacation spent in a country home may be quite as delightful and beneficial as at the lakeside, but it would not be so if, as you say, you were to "pitch into the work." No, you are already one of the world's busy bees, fully entitled to your two weeks' play-time (heaven knows it's short enough), so leave the "farmeretting" to those with longer vacations, or to those who do not work for their daily bread and margarine!

Country Home Preferred.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—I am making my first visit to your Mail-Box, and hope to obtain a little help. Will some kind reader obtain a nice home for my little girl during summer vacation? I prefer a home in the country. As I am a Catholic in religion, I prefer having her with Catholic people. My girl is 11 years of age, and am sure is able to help in many ways about a house.

Hoping to see this in print, I will sign my name just

A READER OF ELEVEN YEARS.

Ans.—No address accompanied the above, but I shall notify this mother via the Mail-Box if any replies are received.

"Friends in Youth."

Dear Miss Grey.—The lines, "Alas, they had been friends in youth, but whispering tongues can poison truth," may be found in Coleridge's exquisite poem "Christabel." I would have answered the query at once, but supposed that many others would do so. Could any department of The Advertiser find space for the accompanying verses, and by so doing oblige

A CONSTANT READER.

P. S.—The lines mentioned by A Reader in Monday's paper (June 17), are, I fancy, a misquotation of Byron's lines, "The past is nothing, and at last the future can but be the past." They may be found in "Parisina."

Ans.—Please accept sincere thanks for your help in regard to these quotations. I have handed your inclosure to the editor, with the request that he give the verses space.

Please Send Them, "Blondy."

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been a reader of your column for about a month. I saw "Blondy's" letter, saying she had some crochet patterns. Please send me some, and I am willing to let anyone have some that I have. I wish to know the meaning of Grace, Harry, Lulu and Louis. Wishing your Mail-Box all success. CHERRY.

Ans.—This is the second request for "Blondy's" patterns. I shall have to divide them, I guess, when they are received. The name Grace means favor; Harry (Henry) head of the house; Lulu, or Lucilla, same as Lucy, born at break of day; Louis, bold warrior.

Home Canning Methods

Corn.

Canning corn on the cob, except for exhibition purposes, is a waste of space. For home use remove the husks and silk, blanch tender ears 5 minutes, older ears 10 minutes, cold-dip, and cut from cob. Pack lightly to within ½ inch of the top of the jar, as corn swells during sterilization. Add 1 teaspoonful of salt and cover with boiling water, put on rubber and top, adjust top bail or screw top on with thumb and little finger. Sterilize 180 minutes in hot-water bath. Remove, complete seal and cool.

With steam pressure outfit sterilize 90 minutes at 5 to 10 pounds pressure.

Greens.

Wash until no dirt can be felt in the bottom of the pan. Blanch in steam 15 minutes. (Mineral matter is lost if blanched in water). Cold-dip, cut in small pieces and pack or pack whole. Do not pack too tightly. Add 1 teaspoonful of salt to each jar and cover with boiling water. Put on rubber and top and adjust top ball or screw top on with thumb and little finger. Sterilize 120 minutes in hot-water bath. Remove, complete seal and cool.

With steam pressuer outfit sterilize 60 minutes at 5 to 10 pounds pressure.

Lima Beans.

Shell. Blanch 5 to 10 minutes. Cold-dip, pack in jar, add 1 teaspoonful of salt and cover with boiling water. Put on rubber and top, and adjust top bail or screw top on with thumb and little finger. Sterilize 180 minutes in hot-water bath. Remove, complete seal and cool.

With steam pressure outfit sterilize 60 minutes at 5 to 10 pounds pressure.

Parsnips.

The method is the same as for carrots.

Peas.

Those which are not fully grown are best for canning. Shell, blanch 5 to 10 minutes and cold-dip. Pack in jar, add 1 teaspoonful of salt and cover with boiling water. If the jar is packed too full some of the peas will break and give a cloudy appearance to the liquid. Put on rubber and top and adjust top-bail or screw top on with thumb and little finger. Sterilize 180 minutes in hot-water bath. Remove, complete seal and cool.

With steam pressure outfit sterilize 60 minutes at 5 to 10 pounds pressure.

DAILY BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 30, 1918.

MONDAY.

Review—Jesus Christ our Redeemer and Lord.

The questions for this week may be used as an original lesson, or as a review of the twelve preceding lessons. The date and title of each lesson, where found, golden text and one question selected from each lesson follow during the present week.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

April 7—Jesus sets men free. Mark vii., 1-37. Golden Text—If therefore the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed. John viii., 36.

1. Verses 5, 6. Of how much service as worship are spoken prayers and good hymns well sung if the hearts of the worshippers are not loyal to God?

Golden Text—God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have eternal life. John iii., 16. Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. Matt. xvi., 16. I am not ashamed of the gospel, for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth. Romans i., 16.

GOD'S GREAT LOVE FOR THE WORLD.

A careful study of the infinite attribute of God's love will stir the wonder of the greatest intellect. His eternity, His power, His omniscience, His omnipresence and His knowledge are unspeakably and inconceivably wonderful, but His infinite love far exceeds all His other attributes in its magnitude and benevolence. When our first text states that God so loved the world, we can see what infinite depths and heights are in the little world "so." We have nothing with which to compare the wonderful love of God. If this love were manifested toward the good, the great and the meritorious, we could perhaps have some conception of it, but when we consider that God's love is towards a rebellious world, no man can form any adequate conception of its greatness.

LONDON SOLDIERS WALLOPED BY BRANT SEMI-PROS. 15---0

Hagel Found for Fourteen Hi ts, While Muir Holds Locals to Five Bingles — Both Teams Give Poor S upport.

Fifteen hundred fans braved cold, threatening weather on Saturday when they turned out at Tecumseh Park to see the local military baseball team go down to decisive defeat at the hands of the semi-pros. of Brantford by 15 to 0. The score sounds pretty bad at first hearing, but the fixture was not nearly so one-sided as one would suppose. The boys from the Telephone City played good ball, but they also had a great deal more than their share of luck. Muir dished up the slants for Brantford and only allowed five bingles. However, the fielding on the part of the visitors was poor, and London should easily have broken the duck's egg on several occasions, but Dame Fortune refused to smile on the soldiers.

After the Brantford aggregation had slammed the sphere for five runs in two innings they let up, and with the exception of the next frame were held scoreless until the seventh spasm. Then they commenced clouting Hagel of London again, and in the eighth inning secured five hits in succession, which, coupled with errors by the locals, notched their opponents five tallies.

Hagel was a disappointment to fans, who had read of his performance against the Chevrolets of Detroit recently. McLeod, at first sack, secured two bingles for London, being the only member of the local nine to achieve that feat. McKelvie of the Brants got four swats in as many trips to the plate.

Umpire Fitzmaurice came in for a bit of criticism by the fans. His calling out of Terry at the plate after Vanderlinder had smashed a two-bagger, with Terry on second, was generally denounced.

After the first two innings, when Brantford found Hagel for six hits and five runs, the game developed into a listless affair. Hopes of the fans were awakened every once in a while, however, when two, and in one case three, men held down the Brant bases. On each occasion the necessary hit by London or error by Brantford was not forthcoming, but a certain amount of excitement was provided, nevertheless.

Muir struck out nine men. His delivery was no mystery to the locals, but they had difficulty in placing their hits. Errors by London which amounted to six accounted for seven of the runs scored by the visitors.

The soldier team will develop into a first-class bunch of hickory artists with a little more practice, and their defeat can be attributed to the fact of the semi-pros having been playing for two months, while the soldiers did not commence playing until some weeks later.

GEORGE LYON AND HIS SON ARE TRIMMED

Reith of Montreal and Robeson of Rochester Win at Brantford.

BRANTFORD, June 23.—An amateur four ball match between George S. Lyon and his son, Seymour, T. B. Reith of Montreal, and Irving and Robeson of Rochester, golfing stars, attracted a large gallery here on Saturday. Robeson and Reith won with two up and one to go.

The conditions were anything but ideal for golf. There was a large crowd of golf enthusiasts from Hamilton, Paris, Galt and other places. A high wind swept the course which made good scores impossible. Over $300 was realized in aid of the Red Cross. The score of the foursome was as follows: George S. Lyon, 81; Seymour Lyon, 79; T. B. Reith, 75; Robeson, 85. In the putting and approaching competitions the following were the winners: Men—1 S. Large, 2 C. W. Aird; putting, W. H. Webing and H. Green (tied).

Ladies—Putting and approaching, 1 Miss Gibson, 2 Mrs. Webster; putting, 1 Miss Bishop, 2 Miss M. Cockshutt.

TIGERS LOSE DOUBLE BILL TO ST. LOUIS

After Winning Two on Saturday, Jungaleers Drop Games Sunday.

DETROIT, June 23.—St. Louis evened the series with Detroit today by winning both games of a double bill, taking the first contest 4 to 1 and the second game 4 to 2. Superior pitching and opportune hitting enabled the Browns to win both games. Ragged support given Coveleskie in three innings of the second game gave the visitors a lead the Tigers could not overcome.

WHITNEY'S JOHREN CARRIES OFF LATONIA DERBY EASILY

Favorite Walks Away With Third Classic, With Exterminator a Good Second—Canadian Steed, Hollinger, Gets Fourth Money.

LATONIA, Ky., June 22.—Johren, the crack eastern 3-year-old by Spearmint, out of Mineola, carrying the light blue colors of Harry Payne Whitney, annexed the Latonia Derby to his already long list of winnings when he traveled a mile and a half today in 2 minutes and 33 seconds, finishing three lengths in front of five other 3-year-olds, hailing from Kentucky and Canada.

Exterminator, Willis Shaner Kilmer's Kentucky Derby winner, made a bold try in the stretch run, but could never reach the fast flying Johren, and the Whitney colt, simply breezing the last sixteenth of a mile, flashed under the wire with Jockey Franklin Robinson having him under wraps. Exterminator, who was three lengths back, was a length in front of Free Cutter, George Long's entry, while the Canadian colt Hollinger, from the stable of D. Raymond, obtained fourth money.

Never in Trouble.

There was really never a time during the long journey that Robinson on Johren found his mount in trouble. Off to a perfect start, American Eagle shot into the lead, closely followed by Free Cutter. At the quarter pole Robinson had worked Johren into third place, and, passing the stand, it was seen that he had the Spearmint colt under restraint.

The field stayed bunched until the mile was reached, when Robinson let out a wrap on Johren, and in the next few jumps the eastern crack assumed the lead and was never headed thereafter. An eighth of a mile from home he was four lengths ahead of his field.

Among the Others.

Exterminator had been laying in fifth place during the first mile, and when Johren moved up Knapp likewise made his move with the Kilmer gelding. Turning into the stretch Exterminator hooked up with Free Cutter and American Eagle dropped back, completely beaten. It was a nip and tuck struggle for the place, but Exterminator had more in reserve, and was a length to the good at the finish.

Aurum was never prominent. The only other entry, Herald, was declared out of the race early in the day.

Johren enriched his owner to the extent of $9,225, as well as capturing one of the premier honors of the western turf. The race, 2:33 flat, was fair, the record being held jointly by Governor Gray, 1911, and John Gund, 1914, 2:30 2-5.

MRS. HARRIS AND H. SKEY WIN IN GOLF

With Smallest Handicap, They Win Mixed Foursomes.

With the smallest handicap on the card H. F. Skey and Mrs. R. Harris led a field of nine mixed foursomes at a prize golf match held at the London Hunt and Country Club on Saturday afternoon. The winning couple were given but 4 strokes advantage, coming in with a gross 91 and a net 87. Considering the unfavorable weather conditions this exhibition is commendable, and by far exceeds any foursome tourney yet held at the local club this year.

Mrs. D. McLean and Charles Glass came in second with a gross 108 and a net 92, their handicap being 16 strokes. Three couples tied for third honors, each notching 100 strokes before the final put was made on the 18th green. The remainder of the scores were remarkably close being all the way from 100 to 110 strokes.

On July 1 a men's patriotic handicap will be staged. This will be the big tournament of the year, the proceeds of which will go to the soldiers' tobacco fund.

The prizes on Saturday were two-dozen golf balls.

How to Get the Most and Best Out of Your Vacation

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

To train the young idea how to shoot and to bend the twig in the way it should grow, while simultaneously avoiding all work and no play, camps for boys, girls and adults have multiplied rapidly in recent years. There under sanitary conditions, with the various campers made immune to typhoid by means of anti-typhoid vaccines, productive use can be made of the general vacation months.

No child or adult ought to go to the country or to a camp, even for a day, without the three doses of preventive typhoid vaccines. Typhoid fever, with its weeks of ill-health and possible death, appears in the autumn and winter from infections caught in water, milk and raw fruits eaten during the summer months. The anti-typhoid injections are practically an absolute preventive. The members of my own family have no vacations until thus made immune.

Look to Sanitation.

Of nearly 50 summer camps investigated by Professor Eugene C. Howe of Wellesley College and his assistants 36 were either near bodies of water or marshy ground. Most of these camps receive their water from mountain springs. Some use both well and springs. The source of such springs is usually from a quarter of a mile to 20 miles away. Plainly, one animal or laborer who might be a carrier of typhoid or of meningitis or of tubercle bacilli could and often does contaminate hundreds of campers for miles around. Boiled drinking water, cooled in earthen jars or otherwise, is one of the solutions of this problem.

Plans to avoid contamination of the camps by means of screens from flies; disinfectants, sewers, incinerators and other modern methods of military disposal of sewage often seem to be as rare as a blizzard in the tropics.

Milk and Exercise.

Some vacation camps secure their meat and fruits from nearby cities. It is the milk, however, which vacationists and campers appear to misunderstand. Instead of using sterilized vessels and keeping them free from dirt and germs, milk is brought to the camp from farms or villages half an hour's ride or more distant, sometimes kept in insanitary conditions.

In hot weather milk handled in the average way yields a flora fauna thicker than that of an African jungle. Unless milk is put on ice immediately after it leaves the cow and is kept iced, billions of bacteria quickly "multiply over the face of the white waters." For this reason an ice box should be an important item in every camping outfit.

Moreover, only seldom do campers go to the trouble to find a milk supply from cows tested for tuberculosis. The health of those who handle the milk, their cleanliness, the sterilization of receptacles and the freedom of the cow and its hide from disease ought to be investigated.

When you bathe in a camp stream, two to five minutes in the morning is ample time, with a 15 to 20 minute swimming lesson either at 10 to 12 a.m. or 2 to 4 p.m.—preferably the former. Thirty minutes should not be exceeded altogether.

"Settling up" exercises and drills are better carried on for 15 minutes at 9 a.m. and again at 10 a.m. of 30 minutes. These, with hikes of from one to 70 miles, which last from an hour to three or more days, tone the muscles and improve the general physical and mental condition, which should be the sole result secured from your vacation.

Answers to Health Questions

A. B. C. Q.—Please tell me how to reduce excessively thick ankles.

2. I breathe through my mouth at night. Is there any way to overcome this, as I have no adenoids.

A.—Massage the ankles upward and learn to swim.

2. Have your nose operated on and the air space in it increased.

J. D. B. Q.—My heart beats only 45 to 48 on rising in the morning; after meals it rises to 70 or 72; through the day it is about 62 to 66. I can bear my heart beating plainly in the ear, and at times can feel it in the fingertips. Please advise me.

A.—If you will retire at 9 p.m. for a few months, and have your skin thoroughly massaged three times a week, you will soon find yourself in good condition.

J. L. S. Q.—Please give me a remedy for a rash on the chin and upper lip.

A.—Apply a little of the following to the rash:

Sulphur loti	2½ drams
Balsam peru	½ dram
Camphor	½ dram
Green soap	1 dram
Lanolin	½ ounce
Vaseline	½ ounce

LEE. Q.—I am very nervous and restless. What will relieve this condition?

A.—The word "nervousness" is often used without much thought by a great many persons, and in about ninety-nine times out of one hundred the term is used to conceal lack of diligence in searching for the real cause of the trouble. It is usually an emotional disturbance of some sort that has nothing at all to do with the nerves. Muscular exercises in a gymnasium as well as outdoor sports often help to counteract all this.

WINIFRED BLACK

Writes About "Living the Truth."

Copyright, 1918, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

She's a widow now, the woman I knew when she was a bride. I have known her for a good many years. She lives in a city far away from my home, but every once in a while I have met her, and every time I have seen her since the day I kissed her under her bridal wreaths she's looked a little more haggard, a little more discouraged and a little more tired of life.

She had a delightful husband, she said, one who was devoted to her and so kind in every way, not rich, but not poor either, just enough to be happy on, and there were children, too, three of them, two boys and a girl, fine, rosy, healthy, wholesome little creatures that made you want to hug them every time you caught a glimpse of one of them. But my little friend, the bride, never looked really happy—she only kept saying that she was—and I found that her husband was a drinking man.

He was all right for months at a time, devoted, energetic and successful in his work and fond of his home and of his family as few men are in these days. Then, at the end of six months or so, came the anxious time. The man grew restless, nervous, irritable, then moody and sullen, and then——

There would be a week or ten days when no one knew where he was and when his wife sat up night after night watching and praying for him.

Sometimes he came home repentant, sometimes the wife was rung up from the hospital, and two or three times the authorities at the city jail rang up and she went down and bailed her husband out and brought him home, a shattered, trembling wreck of what he was when she fell in love with him.

A Wonderful Change.

And the money went and the man's business ability began to deteriorate, and he lost one position and found another, and lost that and found another, and the family had to move from the pretty little house to a plain little flat and from the plain little flat to a drab tenement, and in the tenement at last the poor fellow gave up the struggle and died.

The other day when I met the widow she looked twenty years younger. She was rosy and prosperous and well dressed. Her children are in school, she has a good position in work she likes, makes a good income, has a comfortable living and a number of pleasant friends. I have not seen her look so happy and so hopeful since the day we threw old shoes and rice after her, when she and her brand new husband tried to dodge us all and slipped out of the house by the side door.

But when she talks to you she tells how her heart is broken, and she will never be happy again and that she has never smiled since poor Joe has been gone.

What's the Use?

I wonder if she means it? I wonder if she thinks she was better off and happier in all that misery and anxiety and humiliation, or does she just say so because she cannot bear the idea of any one realizing what it was she went through?

I hope it's that; I love to see any one make themselves believe they are happy when they are miserable, but, oh, what a strange mistake it is to make yourself believe you are miserable when you are quite content and happy!

I wonder if the time will ever come when women will stop pretending and begin to really live the real honest truth?

Five Recipes For Delicious Cherry Dishes.

Cherries should be on the menu frequently during the season, not only because they are a palatable and popular food, but also because they have some excellent tonic properties, and are considered a valuable remedy for colds and for other internal ailments. Cherries make excellent preserves and fruit drinks.

Preserved Cherries.

6 pounds of tart cherries
3 lemons
3 pounds of sugar
1 pint of water

Simmer the lemon rinds for thirty minutes, drain them and set aside the water they were boiled in. Cut the lemon pulp fine, freeing it from the seeds and membrane. Make a syrup of the sugar and the pint of water, using the lemon water. Skim the syrup, boil and add the cherries, allowing them to boil for five minutes. Add the lemon pulp and boil all for three minutes longer. Pour the whole into sterilized fruit jars, pouring the hot syrup over the fruit to fill the jar, and tighten the cap.

Cherry Syrup.

1 quart of cherries
1 cupful of water
Sugar

Add the water to the cherries and stew them until they are soft. Press the cherries and strain the fruit, allowing one cupful of water to each pint of juice. Boil the juice to a syrup, strain it, and bottle it while hot.

Cherry Cake.

¼ cupful of butter or shortening
1 cupful of bread crumbs
4 cupfuls of black cherries
½ cupful of almonds
½ cupful of sugar
½ cupful of milk
Cinnamon, cloves

Stone the cherries. Let the milk boil and melt the shortening in it. Blanch the almonds, run them through a food chopper and pound them to a paste. Mix the almond paste with the bread crumbs, sugar and a pinch each of cloves and cinnamon. Pour over the milk, mix and add the cherries. Bake the cake in a shallow pan for one hour in a moderate oven.

Maraschino Cherries.

Cherries
Vinegar
Sugar

Use large ox-heart cherries. Wash the cherries and remove the stones. Cover the fruit with mild vinegar, let it stand for two days and put it into jars in alternating layers with granulated sugar. Cover the whole with vinegar and stir it each day for one week. Allow the fruit to stand for five weeks, then add to each quart jar one teaspoonful of pure cherry extract and two drops of almond extract. These cherries will keep without sealing for some time.

Cherry Pie.

2½ cupfuls of stoned cherries
1 cupful of sugar
2½ tablespoonfuls of flour
1 teaspoonful of butter

Line a pie plate with crust, fill the crust with the cherries mixed with the sugar and flour. Dot the mixture with butter, cover it with a top crust and bake the pie in a hot oven for about 35 minutes. The oven should be hot for the first fifteen minutes, then the heat should be reduced to finish the baking.

The stars wield a peculiar influence on is day—making the mind keen, but, rhaps in some, irritable and turbulent, d the tongue sharp, vindictive and casstic, leading in extreme cases to utes, quarrels and perhaps litiga- . Affairs of every nature call for ible, careful and deliberate manipun. This applies in the home circles in affectional matters, as well as business dealings. Journeys and onges should be deferred, and accids and loss of credit should be arded against.

The Origin of Famous Sayings

Pliny the Elder—23-79 A.D.

Man is the only one that knows nothing, that can learn nothing without being taught. He can neither speak nor walk, nor eat, and, in short, he can do nothing at the promptings of nature only, but weep.—Natural History, Sec. 4.

Quintilian—42-118 A.D.

A liar should have a good memory.—Institutiones Oratoriae, iv., 2, 91.

Vain hopes are often like the dreams of those who wake.—vi., 2, 30.

Those who wish to appear wise among fools among the wise seem foolish.—x., 1, 21.

About 85 per cent of the peppermint grown in Japan is raised in the Hokkaido. The preliminary steps in the manufacture of menthol are carried out by the farmers themselves with the aid of stills of a simple design. The peppermint plants are first dried in sheds or under cover, are then placed in the stills, where they undergo a process of steaming. The resulting vapors are led off through pipes into cooling chambers, are condensed and deposited as crude peppermint oil.

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Why Madge Is Troubled by Thoughts of the Wounded Officer.

Lillian's parting words followed me disturbingly as I walked down the hall toward the wounded officer's room. It was not the first time since the young man, at the risk of his own life, had brought me in safety to the hospital, that I had been annoyed by references to his growing dependence upon me.

The observations were justified, moreover, by the attitude of the sick man. From the time when he had first come out of his delirium, soothed by my hand upon his head, he had repeatedly asked for me.

And when I was helping to care for him he clung to my hand as a sick child would to its mother's. If I moved away from the bedside his eyes followed me until I returned, and his nurse had found out that her rather obstinate patient would take food or medicine most docilely from me.

I half suspected that she had capitalized the discovery and was making a convenience of me—that in many cases she could have managed without sending for me to help her. But send for me she did, until I was becoming obsessed by the fear that the young officer's dependence upon me was a subject for humorous comment among the nurses.

The thought annoyed me greatly, but it didn't trouble me half so much as the discovery that I myself was looking forward each day with actual eagerness to my visits of ministration to the wounded man.

Swathed in Mystery.

All my life I have shamefacedly recognized, tried assiduously to hide and to suppress an element in my personality utterly incongruous to the rest of my make-up. This is a passion for the romantic, the adventurous, the bizarre. It is the secret room in my nature to which Dicky brought the unlocking key in the golden days of his whirlwind courtship of me.

But, alas, life is no longer a romantic adventure to Dicky and me. It is more like a humdrum jog trot up and down the hills and vales of a prosaic road, varied with only occasional spots of beauty, varied also—more's the pity—by stretches of exceedingly rough going.

Not since the days of my first acquaintance with Dicky, when every sight of his face was a romantic adventure, have I been so fascinated by any personality as I have been by the mystery-surrounded entity whom I know only as the "wounded officer down the hall."

He is a man towering above his fellows, this soldier chap, who saved my life in such splendid fashion, at the same time capturing, single-handed, a most dangerous enemy spy. The story of that day at the inn rivaled the most exciting romantic tale which I had ever read, put to shade the exploits of the favorite fiction heroes of my schoolgirl days.

The remembrance of that portion of the exciting drama in which it was my privilege to act a minor role, was ever present with me, while Lillian's recital of the wounded officer's arrival at the inn, with his sullen captive crouching at his side, and my unconscious figure in the tonneau of the machine he had driven from the inn, had thrilled me tremendously. Part of my unusual interest in the visits I made to his sick room lay in the hope I had that some day I would hear from his own lips the missing links of the exciting story, links which no one but himself could supply.

But so far there had come no word of enlightenment from him. He had talked, slowly, haltingly, of many trifling things, but after he had once satisfied himself of my safety he hadn't referred again to his perilous trip from the inn. He hadn't even mentioned his own name, and his mental condition had been so precarious that no one had dared to ask him concerning it.

Romance, mystery, valor, swathed him. It was no wonder that he occupied a far larger portion of my daily thoughts than I cared to admit even to myself.

Was It Fancy?

His nurse greeted me with relief just outside his door. She evidently had been watching for me.

"He is very restless," she said, "and has been asking for you repeatedly. But he seems better and brighter than he has yet been. I think if you sit by him a while and let him tell you the story of his life it will do him a world of good."

Her words were light, careless, her eyes smiling. Was it fancy, or did I read behind her manner a significance which brought the blood to my cheeks?

Three Minute Journeys

Where Gigantic Emblems Advertise What Shops Sell.

Progress may have retired some of the most gorgeous of the shop signs that used to glorify the streets of Mukden, and they tell me that since 1900, when the Boxers burned the rich shopping district of the Manchurian city, they are less resplendent than before, but still there linger some shop signs that assault the eye and grip imagination as in the old days.

One cannot come within even the greatest distance eye can reach without being impressed by those brilliant, gigantic emblems that make the shopping centre seem like a scene from the land of fairy stories. Golden sceptres and grinning dragons jut from the eaves of the shops, while heroes, unicorns and peacocks are perched here and there to vie with fiends, fabled gods and goddesses and mythical monsters, fantastic and gayly colored.

Besides, there are in some quarters gigantic images of the articles sold within the stores. Before a hat shop there will be found a mammoth hat, huge beads tell the tale of beads sold inside another store, gargantuan pipes advertise the fact that here pipes are sold, while the shoe shop has an enormous boot to lead the eye and the buyer to where foot gear is sold. Consider these emblems and decorations and then picture them done in all the colors of the rainbow, with gold and the more gorgeous shades predominating, to catch the sun and to dazzle the eyes.

True, we in some sections of this country have a few small and sometimes somber insignia to advertise goods emblematically, but there's nothing all our land that half compares with the gorgeous, gigantic emblems of Mukden.

How to Make Some Home Aids to Improve Your Complexion

BY LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCREZIA BORI

Frequently I am asked whether it is true that sour milk or buttermilk will restore a good complexion. There seems to be a conflict of opinions, and some women believe the belief is only a superstitious fancy.

Therefore I wish to say again, emphaticaly, that I know of no better or purer cosmetic than sour milk or buttermilk. Either may be applied to the hands and face as frequently as you desire, and can never do any harm.

It is a good plan to warm the sour milk or the buttermilk a little, but don't boil it.

Of course no patriotic woman will buy fresh milk and deliberately let it sour for such use during war time. I am advocating these remedies only for using up the very small quantities that are required and might otherwise be wasted.

A remedy sometimes helpful for freckles is a little scraped horseradish added to the buttermilk. Let the horseradish stand in the buttermilk for about nine hours, then strain and bottle the liquid.

If you wish to whiten your face and hands, keeping them soft and smooth, try this method once a day:

Wash your face and hands with a pure white soap and warm water, then wash in sour milk or buttermilk, wipe lightly on a soft cloth. Finally rub both the face and hands with a little cornmeal, but this latter isn't absolutely essential to good results.

Here is another face wash that will help to protect your skin from sunburn and will aid in keeping it smooth and white. If you use this frequently it will be unnecessary for you to use face powder:

Take equal quantities of bergamot, powdered snowflake magnesia, a little oil of lemon, bay rum and two cupfuls of rain water. Shake these ingredients together very thoroughly and bottle. Shake well before using, and apply to the face with a soft linen cloth.

Another simple method of keeping the hands white is salt. Housewives, especially those who do their own work, and yet have a desire to keep their hands as soft and as white as their less industrious sisters, will find it easy to use this remedy:

After the day's housework is finished rub the hands in a suds of pure castile soap and hot water. Then rub with dry salt, rinse and wipe dry.

A similar method can be used for whitening the complexion. Wash the face with a soft cloth dipped in a solution of pure castile soap and as hot water as you can bear. Rub the face vigorously, also the neck. Then rub face and neck with common table salt. Wash with clear hot water, removing all soap and salt, then with the tips of the fingers dash cold water swiftly over the face and neck.

This treatment will not only whiten the skin, but clear it, as it stimulates the circulation considerably.

Another excellent cosmetic for the hands is lemon and glycerine. Take an equal quantity of lemon juice and glycerine and mix well. If you make a large quantity so that you can keep it on hand for frequent use, it will be necessary to add a few drops of alcohol. The alcohol prevents the lemon from souring, and keeps it fresh for an indefinite time. A little rose water added to the mixture gives it a perfume.

Good Night Stories

Illustrated by Gruelle.

MR. WIND, THE HELPER.

"Oh, dear!" cried David as his hat blew from his head and sailed away over the meadows. "I just wish there wasn't any old wind!"

"Oh, no, you don't," laughed a merry voice, and David's little friend, Squeedee, popped up from behind a bush with David's hat in his hand. "Why did you wish that?" he asked.

"Because the wind always blows my hat away or throws dust into my eyes!" replied David, pulling his hat on tight over his ears. "I just hate the old wind!"

"But, my dear David," laughed Squeedee, "we couldn't get along without the wind."

"Well, I could!" exclaimed David. "The wind isn't good for anything, any way."

"There's where you're mistaken," laughed Squeedee. "Mr. Wind dries up the mud in the streets and yards."

"Yes, and if Mr. Wind didn't blow rain clouds here we wouldn't have any mud for him to dry up!" exclaimed David.

"True," laughed Squeedee. "Mr. Wind does blow up the rain clouds, but not until the earth is in need of water. Then he comes along and blows them away again and dries up the mud. Why, if Mr. Wind didn't blow the dead leaves over the flowers in the fall you'd have no pretty spring blossoms! For without a blanket of leaves the roots would all die during the cold snowstorms in winter. And over in Holland the people would have no homes nor ways of making a living if Mr. Wind didn't help them."

"I'd like to know why," laughed David, who was in a good humor now.

"Holland, you know, depends on its windmills to keep the water flowing through the canals so the land won't wash out into the sea," replied Squeedee. "Mr. Wind blows the great arms of the windmills around, making the waterwheels turn over and over pushing the water back into the ocean. Where would Holland be if your wish came true?"

"Well, I never thought the old wind was good for anything but to blow dust in folks' eyes or sail their hats away," laughed David.

"Most little folks never stop to think how useful Mr. Wind really is," said Squeedee. "Why, he's one of the greatest helpers we have."

"You're right, Squeedee," laughed David, "and I'm sorry I wished such a terrible thing."

But Squeedee had disappeared, and the wind playfully lifted David's hat again and sailed it away through the air. But this time David ran after it, laughing.

"I'm glad my wish didn't come true," he murmured to himself, as he picked up his hat and went into the house.

Lumber Mill Experience Endorses Extra Power Belts

Goodyear Extra Power Belting has won an outstanding reputation in the great industries of Ontario and the East. Sales of Extra Power to these belting users have grown rapidly. Everywhere we have found instant recognition of its advantages.

But Extra Power enthusiasts are not confined to one industry or one territory. We have in mind the experience of one of our many friends on the Pacific Coast.

The Beaver River Lumber Company were rather satisfied with the service rendered by their belting. But they had not then tried Extra Power.

Recently they wrote us regarding their two Extra Power installations, which "are giving satisfaction beyond our expectations." A year ago Extra Power was put on their carriage drive, "where it has been in continuous service ever since, under very severe conditions, without any attention whatsoever—not even having to take up any slack. Until we used Extra Power this drive was a constant source of trouble on account of slippage, heating and slack. If a belt stood up for six months it was considered extra good. From the present outlook the Extra Power Belt is good for another year at least."

Nothing that we could say of Goodyear Extra Power would be as strong as this. No evidence could be more convincing—unless it is the Beaver River Lumber Company's comment on their second installation—the conveyor's drive—"It is subject to steam and heat in the engine room and to cold and dampness outside. Although it has been in use for a period of five months there is no sign of deterioration, and there is no slippage."

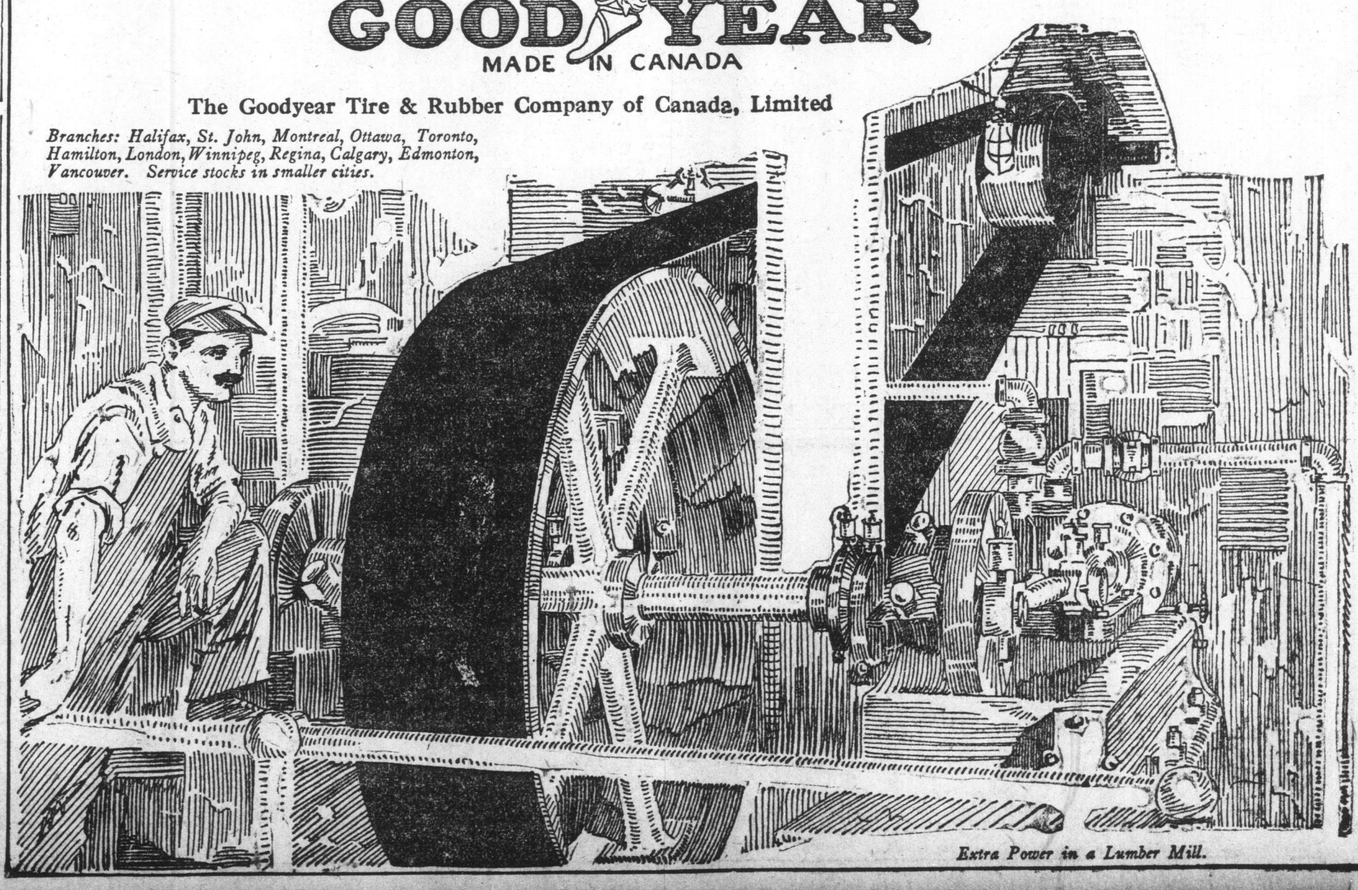

The Beaver River Lumber Company have tested Extra Power after experience with other belts—and they say: "Where we are replacing old belts we are putting in Extra Power." You, too, may find an Extra Power trial a source of satisfaction and saving. Get in touch with a Goodyear branch. Let them tell you what Extra Power has done for concerns in your own line.

THREE MONTHS HAVE COST GERMANY EASILY HALF HER EFFECTIVES; ALLIES FIRMER

Analysis of Great Campaign Shows Only Colossal Failure For Enemy---Terrible Fighting Still To Come, But August Will See Scales Turned.

By Frank H. Simonds

Author of "The Great War," "They Shall Not Pass."

(Copyright, 1918, Tribune Association, New York Tribune.).

NEW YORK, June 23.—The first thing to be said of the operations on the west front in the week of June 11-18 is that the record is the most hopeful single circumstance since the German offensive began, on March 21. The latest phase of the "Battle for Paris" practically ended after three days in a bloody check for the armies of the crown prince—a check recalling the Verdun episode and recalling it the more vividly because of successful French counter-attacks.

Recognizing that the enemy still holds half of his strategic reserve, anywhere from fifty to seventy divisions intact, and that he has gained some valuable ground in his latest attack and still possesses the power to deliver another blow comparable with those in Flanders and on the Aisne, we have still the right to a measure of optimism based upon recent events.

Five Blows.

Friday, June 21 closed the third month of the German offensive. In that time the Germans struck five blows. That towards Amiens, which was the heaviest and most successful; that toward Arras two weeks later, which was the least successful and amounted to a bloody defeat; that toward the channel, on April 9, which gained a good deal of ground and opened the way for other attacks, but fell short of larger success; that on the Aisne, on May 27, in some ways the most remarkable and discouraging of all, and, finally, that of June 9, between Noyon and Montdidier, which resulted in local gains won at great cost and ended in an approximate failure to achieve the objectives sought.

Now, at the end of three months, with a loss of above 500,000, the German has drawn some twenty miles nearer to Paris, made large captures in prisoners and in booty, reoccupied around 2,000 square miles of France, more than half of it a desert as a result of German devastations. He has won signal battle successes, but he has defeated only one army, the fifth British army, in such fashion as to impair its organization, and in the case of the French he has put no more than four divisions, those which held the Aisne positions, out of the campaign.

Where Hun Has Lost.

To balance his gains the German has lost three months, and these three months mean the arrival of not less than 400,000 American troops in France, the insurance of the arrival of another 200,000 by July 1, and the consequent presence in France by August 1 of some 750,000 fighting troops representing the United States. More than this, three months have been allowed the British to repair past errors and do two things: Draft more men from civil life into the army and draw out of "sideshows" and from home and foreign garrisons more regiments and divisions for service in France.

Thus, by August 1 at the latest, possibly earlier, the Allied situation in respect of numbers will be actually stronger than it was in March; despite any conceivable casualties they will have more men in line and in reserve than in the critical days of the battle of Picardy, and thenceforward the improvement will be rapid. The Germans, on the other hand, made their maximum concentration at the outset; they had either engaged or assembled all they had, and their situation, since they have no new reservoir of reserves, must henceforth worsen steadily.

Germany, as I have frequently pointed out in these columns, undertook to win the campaign of 1918, as Napoleon sought success in the Waterloo campaign by offsetting an eventual inferiority in numbers and resources by superior swiftness in concentration and attack. She caught her enemies napping, as the French emperor caught his. She has won her opening round, as Napoleon won Ligny, but time and eventual numerical advantage were bound to turn against her unless she won a military triumph quickly, and after three months she has not won the triumph, nor is she near to supreme success. She has spent half her time, at least a third of her reserves, and the element of surprise following superior concentration is passing.

The Compiegne Failure.

The measure of these assertions is found in the circumstances of the battle of Compiegne, the latest German attack. In this instance the German attacked on a front but little shorter than his operative front at the Aisne. He used at least twenty divisions at the outset, as in Champagne. He employed the brief and intense bombardment, the rapid advance of huge masses. His small mobile field gun, of one and one-half inches, was relied upon, as usual, and his troops were assembled by secret marches. In a word, he employed exactly the tactics which had won him his earlier successes.

This time, however, there was no surprise. The French were ready; they surrendered their first positions, after brief but sufficient defence; their reserves entered the struggle before the German masses had submerged the troops in line, whose mission it was to delay the assailant until the reserves arrived. Thereafter the battle line rapidly stabilized itself. By the third day French counter-attacks had won back a great deal of ground on the west flank; the German centre had been definitely halted, and the German left along the Oise had been narrowed into a salient too small to permit further advance until it was widened.

Ended in Six Days.

Accordingly on the sixth day the German broke off the battle. He had advanced eight miles south along the northern roads to Paris, the roads used by Kluck in 1914. He had taken the Lassigny-Noyon hills, exceedingly valuable high ground; he had just passed Ribecourt on the Oise, which was inside the French lines from September, 1914, to March, 1917. As a result of these successes the French centre between the Aisne and the Oise had been compelled to evacuate the Forest of Ourscamps and retire to the old trench positions based on the Forest of Laigue, several miles to the south.

If you desire a parallel for this German operation Verdun supplies it. In March and April, 1916, the army of the crown prince was compelled to attack first on the west about Dead Man's Hill and then on the east about Fort de Vaux, in order to relieve its centre. The latest German operation west of the Oise aimed at taking the high ground on the right bank of the river and thus compelling a retirement of the French centre. This object could not be attained by direct frontal attack owing to the nature of the country.

Now, within limits the German was successful, but he obtained only a small fraction of what he sought. His real purpose was to get south of Compiegne, open the valley of the Aisne, thus establishing communication between his right flank west of the Oise and his left between the Aisne and the Marne. Once he had accomplished this the German would be face to face with the French in the last position Petain would occupy, if he were to hold the German outside of artillery range of Paris—and by artillery range I mean effective range for the 450 and 380 centimetre guns; the "supergun" is not an efficient military weapon and its purpose is to destroy enemy morale, not hostile cities.

Colossal Failure.

In all his larger purposes, then, the German failed, and his losses were colossal. His appropriation of "cannon fodder," the casualties he was willing to incur to attain his object, was exhausted before the fifth day, and on this day he definitely abandoned his attack, covering his abandonment by a spirited but local operation on the left flank on the edge of the Forest of Villers-Cotterets, which was without importance.

In Picardy the Germans gained upwards of forty miles, in Flanders around twelve; the Aisne drive netted thirty-five, but the last venture yielded only eight, with a minimum of prisoners and guns, no considerable booty. And the French were able to undertake successful counter-attacks on the third day. In sum, two concentrated armies met, fought a pitched battle lasting five days, at the end of which the assailant gave it up after having paid a terrible price for local gains without decisive value. Here is solid ground for confidence, the more solid because all this happened in the third month of the offensive—proving Allied power and skill in defence to be growing, not diminishing.

As an evidence of the evil moral effect at home of the German check came the official utterance by the German war minister that Foch's army of reserve had ceased to exist and that the larger part of the French army had been defeated. A statement like this at the moment of a severe check could only mean one thing, namely, that there was growing unrest and apprehension at home over the long delay in getting to Paris. Just the same sort of official nonsense covered the great German disappointment at the Marne four years ago. At the very least our enemy is beginning to have as anxious days as we have recently known.

Foe Half Used Up.

As it stood on Tuesday, June 18, the 103rd anniversary of Waterloo, the German advance toward Paris was at least temporarily checked. In it the German had used, and for the moment used up, about half of all his divisions available for an offensive. He had left between fifty and seventy divisions concentrated in front of the British from the Somme to the sea. These troops had been resting for nearly two months, time had been allowed for the reorganization of divisions which had been heavily engaged in March and April, and it was the unanimous view of correspondents that they were in shape to deliver a new and heavy blow.

But would the blow fall against the British, with the channel ports as the objective, or against the French, with Paris as the goal? If the British were attacked the cost of the struggle might be so great as to postpone the Paris thrust indefinitely. But if the British were ignored and all the remaining German divisions sent south to blast their way to Paris, a British counter-thrust might be as fatal as Bluchers' march from Wavre to Waterloo.

As I write these lines the riddle remains unread. British and French observers continue to differ over the enemy's purpose, and both British and French armies expect to bear the burden of the next blow. But if it shall turn out that the next blow is no more successful than the last, we may feel that we are about over the pitch, that the skies are beginning to clear.

Enemy Will Be Held.

It is a very difficult task to write steadily of a campaign and preserve a true balance between that confidence which, within limits, is essential and the apprehension which is warranted by the local situation. I would like to say to my readers that I have never feared and do not now fear that our allies, with our growing aid, can lose the campaign of 1918. On the contrary, I believe we shall hold the enemy this year, and that this means beating him next year. But he is a dangerous enemy, with great resources left to him, with great military skill directing the employment of those resources. We can only win if America does her utmost in sending men and munitions promptly. But she is doing this, and I believe that by August we shall see a marked change in the face of things.

ALLEGES SON OF HON. C. J. DOHERTY DODGING SERVICE

Serious Charges Made Against Minister of Justice in Guelph.

DEMAND FULL PROBE

Asking Ottawa to Publish Capt. MacAuley's Official Statement.

GUELPH, June 23. — "I want to tell you to take with mental reservation any statement made by a Jesuit priest, for any lie that he tells in defence of his church or order is to him virtue of the highest truth."

Such was the startling statement made by Rev. W. D. Spence, pastor of the Congregational Church and president of the Guelph Ministerial Association to his congregation on Sunday morning, dealing with the military situation at the Jesuit Novitiate. He went on to declare that Protestant ministers in their theological studies at college studied the Catholic faith as well as their own, and he knew what he was talking about.

This matter, which has caused an agitation all over the country, was referred to today in nearly all of the pulpits of the city, and as it was generally known that it would be dealt with large congregations were present. The greatest interest, however, centred in the services by Rev. Mr. Spence and Rev. K. H. Palmer, both of whom have taken a leading part in the controversy.

Ministers' Attitude.

Mr. Spence in his opening remarks stated that the Ministerial Association, in taking the matter up did so not only because they felt that they represented an Ontario city, but because they are representing the whole body of Protestantism in Canada.

He declared the Christian ministers were not actuated in this matter by any sense of religious intolerance, but that their feelings were that the issues which are involved in the present war were issues of universal importance.

"If any blessings which are to come to Canada when the war is over from those of every form of faith, then we ought to share alike in the fight that is to make these blessings possible," he said.

He declared that the charges of shielding men at the Novitiate were not made by the Ministerial Association, but by the military authorities, and that the ministers had merely asked the Government to investigate certain charges that were made to them as ministers. He also stated that the pastors of the Protestant churches in this community refused to be regarded as incompetent and incapable of being leaders in this community.

Tried to Dictate.

"We have had ministers of the crown trying to dictate to us as to where our leadership began and ended, and advising us as to the legality and illegality of the position we are taking," he said. There have even been veiled threats that some of the Protestant ministers of Guelph would find themselves in jail. He declared that a cabinet minister had told him that it was Jesuit influence that was brought to bear on the minister of justice between the time of the M. S. A. was introduced in the Commons until it was given its third reading that resulted in the exemption clause, "Or members of any peculiar religious order."

"We have no quarrel with our fellow religionists of any creed or faith," said Mr. Spence. "But we have the quarrel with the lawmakers of our land. We declare that the unfair thing in the military service act must come out, and that Protestants and Catholics alike be treated on the same level by the Government."

Applause in Church.

Rev. H. B. Christie, pastor of Dublin Street Methodist Church, was applauded to the echo at the morning service, when, in dealing with the question, he stated that the Protestant people demanded fair play in this matter, and that it was not right that the Protestant colleges should be depleted of their young men, while the Catholic institutions of learning were filled to overflowing. They should all be treated alike.

Rev. Mr. Gordon of the Woolwich Street Baptist Church, preached a strong sermon on the subject, and declared that he was making no charges against the Novitiate, but that certain charges had been made by the military authorities, and these should be cleaned up.

He referred to press consorship in the matter, and declared that the time had come when the liberty of speech and the liberty of the press should not be gagged. It took the ministers of Guelph to pry off the lid, and it would stay off until this thing had been cleaned up.

Was Restrained.

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, of which Rev. K. H. Palmer is the pastor, was packed to the doors tonight in anticipation of his making some sensational remarks, and while he dealt with the agitation of the past week in detail, he made no startling statements. He declared that several times he had tried to go into the question of status of men at the Novitiate, but each time some restraining hand at Ottawa interfered and it was not until a new provost marshal took charge at London that the raid was actually accomplished. Following the raid it was hushed up by the censor, but he had taken steps to have the ban lifted, and then at last the news had been given to the public.

Mr. Palmer declared that the sermon preached to the Orangemen at Hespeler on Sunday last was not his own, but that it was handed to him by the military authorities, and it was only after that sermon had been delivered that the censorship was lifted.

Serious Charges.

He made a statement respecting the son of Hon. C. J. Doherty, and pointed out that he had information alleging he was in his 20th year, and also alleging that he entered the Novitiate on March 30, 1918, at a time when his father was framing new clauses to the M. S. A., knowing that it would take in his son.

He also pointed out that while it had been stated he was unfit for military service, it was alleged he had not been examined by a military medical board, but by a private doctor.

He declared that young Doherty should have reported to the military authorities here on the 1st of June the same as other young men of his age of 19 had to do. "Why should he be treated any different than other boys?" he asked. "Not one of the Novitiate officials has said a single word as to this young man's age, which is most significant."

He alleged most emphatically that the minister of justice had sent his son to the Novitiate in order to save him from military service.

Enrolled After.

Referring to the statement issued by the Government that the M. S. A. came into force on October 13, 1917, Mr. Palmer declared that in reality it was in force on July 6, and that after that date many of the young men now at the Novitiate were enrolled. He intimated that the Government was trying to mislead the people in this matter.

He also questioned the methods the Government were taking to find out the ages of many young men, and were too ready to accept their word.

In dealing with the case of Capt. A. C. MacAuley, who was the officer in command at the time of the raid, and who has since been transferred to Winnipeg, Mr. Palmer said: "I shall demand by wire to Ottawa tomorrow morning that the official statement of Capt. MacAuley to the minister of militia be published to substantiate my statements, because a confidential statement sent to the minister from Rev. Father Bourque, rector of the Novitiate, was given out for publication, and both sides of this matter should be presented to the public."

"The whole question," he declared, "should be investigated impartially, but it should be taken out of the hands of Hon. C. J. Doherty. It was not British justice to deplete all the Protestant colleges of men, while the Catholic institutions, such as the Guelph Novitiate, should be filled up, and planning to enlarge their premises."

In closing, he said: "I am in this fight to the finish. If I cannot fight with the boys in the trenches, I am going to fight for them here, and I am going to see that justice is done."

Mr. Palmer intimated that he had a lot of other information which he had intended to give tonight, but had decided to withhold it, as he was going to attend an important conference in Toronto on Monday.

W.C.T.U. EXECUTIVE REPLIES TO NOTE OF G.W.V.A. PRESIDENT

"Accusations Entirely Without Foundation."

MRS. WRIGHT IS LAUDED

Her Address in Full Will Be Sent to Interested Persons.

OTTAWA, June 23.—The executive of the Dominion W.C.T.U. has issued the following statement in reference to the criticisms made by Col. Pidgeon, president of the Ottawa branch of the Great War Veterans' Association:

"The executive of the Dominion Women's Christian Temperance Union desires to correct the impression which Col. Pidgeon's statement is evidently intended to convey to the public. Unfortunately the statements credited to Mrs. Wright are so fragmentary as to give no correct idea of what she really said, and some of the accusations are entirely without foundation.

Patriotic Organization.

"The address as given was emphatically indorsed by the whole convention, and the record of the past efforts of this organization, together with a perusal of its plans for the future, will at least give it a right to claim a place second to none, not only as a patriotic organization, but as one actually supporting our men at the front.

"This magnificent address will soon be published in full, and the secretary will be pleased to forward a copy to any who may be interested in knowing just what it actually contained.

Public-Spirited Lady.

"We regret that any personal reference should have been made to our president, as it only shows how utterly unacquainted with the fact of the case the author of the statement must have been. Mrs. Wright needs no introduction to the people of Canada and her past history as a woman of outstanding ability and public spirit is one of which all women, as well as those of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, have reasons to be proud.

"And perhaps few mothers in the Dominion of Canada have given to their country three sons with as enviable a record as the three sons of our Dominion president have made in France."

The statement is signed by Louise C. McKinney and A. C. Gordon, vice-presidents; Mary L. Brown, recording secretary; and Sara E. Mabone, treasurer.

BULGAR AND TURKEY IGNORING KAISER

Propose To Settle Dobrudja Business Themselves.

London, June 24.—Preliminary negotiations presumably regarding the Dobrudja have begun between Bulgaria and Turkey, and Germany only learned of them through its espionage service, the Daily Mail correspondent at The Hague says he is informed. Austria probably will participate in these separate negotiations in the course of the next few days.

The recent speech in the Reichstag of Dr. von Kuehlmann, the foreign secretary, it is added, resulted from conversations between Bulgaria and Turkey, which were begun on the initiative of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria. M. Malinoff, the new Bulgarian premier, is said to agree entirely with the plan of King Ferdinand to exact fulfillment of Bulgaria's demands at whatever cost.

Two-Thirds of Subs Built by Germany at Bottom of Sea

Montreal, June 24.—The record price prevailing at the local cattle market induced farmers to ship large quantities of cattle to the market, and this morning the offerings at both east and west end markets were exceedingly heavy.

West end offerings, 1,100 cattle, 700 sheep and lambs, 500 hogs and 1,550 calves. C. P. R. stockyards offerings, 950 cattle, 400 sheep and lambs, 500 hogs and 550 calves. The glutting of the market with live stock led to a stagnation of trade, and prices were very much weaker, declines of $2 per 100 lbs not being infrequent. Hogs were a better feature, although the decline in that section, which has continued for several weeks, was marked, and choicest selects were sold at $19 per 100 lbs, while some rough stuff was as low as $18 per 100 lbs. Quotations:

Steers, $15@15 50; good steers, $12 50@14; medium, $10@12; choice bulls, $11 50 @12 50; good bulls, $10@11; medium, $9@10; cows, $11@12; good, $10@10 50; medium, $9@11 50; calves, $8@14.

GRAIN.

Chicago, June 24.—Opening: Corn—July, $1 43¾; August, $1 46⅜.

Oats—July, 72¼c; August, 68⅛c.

Winnipeg, June 24.—Oats opened ⅞c lower for July and 1c lower for October, at 85¾c and 73½c respectively.

Flax, 2c and 5c lower for July and October, at $3 70½ and $3 63 respectively.

Inspections on Saturday were 98 cars, of which 48 were contract grades of wheat.

Chicago, June 24.—Frosts in Ohio, Michigan and Indiana gave a decided upturn to the value of corn. Bullish sentiment developed strongly, notwithstanding that Government reports said there had been no damage to crops, except in a few localities. At first the market showed a tendency to ease down, owing to beneficial rains in Kansas. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged to ⅝c lower, with July at $1 43½@1 43¾, and August at $1 46⅝@1 46⅞, were followed by an advance all around to well above Saturday's finish.

Oats were relatively weak as a result of hedging sales. Besides, demand from the east was very slow. After opening ⅛c to ⅝c down, with August at 68@68¼c, the market underwent a further sag, and displayed but little power to rally.

WALL STREET.

New York, June 24—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Stocks were decidedly strong at the active opening of today's market, the advance being accelerated by further advices concerning the successful Italian offensive. Equipments led the rise, United States Steel and Baldwin Locomotive gaining 1 and 2 points respectively. Other war shares, motors, oils, tobaccos and shippings participated in moderate measure, but rails were dull and little changed. Selling for profits caused fractional reactions before the end of the first half hour. Liberty bonds steady.

Noon. — Activity slackened toward noon, but trading assumed wider proportions, embracing additional industrials and equipments, coppers and related metals, also minor war issues and specialties. Aside from Reading, investment rails continued to hold back, but last week's inquiry for secondary transportations was resumed. Royal Dutch Oil at a further decline of 5 points, and moderate recessions in Brooklyn Transit and American Telephone, were the few exceptions to the sustained strength of the general list.

45 MOTOR CARS NEEDED TO GIVE CITY ORPHANS THEIR ANNUAL TREAT

Postponed Outing by Motor Club in Progress Today.

The outing arranged by the London Motor Club for the children of the Protestant Orphans' Home, which was postponed last Friday, owing to the rain, has become a joyous reality today. Some forty-five cars have been required to take everybody on the triumphal tour around the city, of which the route has been arranged by G. M. Reid.

Before starting at 2:30 o'clock, each boy and girl was presented with a flag and a horn. The youngsters are having the happiness of making all the racket they like. The engines don't mind in the least. A near view was obtained of the soldiers in a thorough inspection of the camp grounds at Carling Heights. At McCormick's Biscuit factory, each child is being made the possessor of a box of fancy biscuits and, during a pause at Queen's Park, ice cream and cake will be served. The outing planned includes a drive all over the paved streets.

Measles and whooping cough secured one victim each. Smallpox, typhoid, infantile paralysis and meningitis, four of the most dreaded diseases, drew blanks.

TAG DAY NETS $406 FOR BUYING SUPPLIES

Members of the 7th Regiment Chapter, I. O. D. E., are well satisfied with the results of their tag day on Saturday. They realized the sum of $406.69, notwithstanding the chilly weather which made it difficult for workers to stay out long. The excellence of the organization was due to the convener of the tag day committee, Mrs. W. G. Gough, who herself tagged all day as well as directed the forces.

The proceeds will be used to buy yarn to make socks for the soldiers in the trenches, and for supplies for the Queen's Canadian Hospital at Shorncliffe, where the chapter endowed the first two cots.

QUERIES REGARDING MILITARY SERVICE

Send in Your Problems and They Will Be Answered From Official Information by The Advertiser.

C. B. Q.—Would a young man, 20 years of age, who enlisted in the Royal Air Force, and was transferred to the Army Reserve, Class B, until called upon, have to register under the national registration law?

A.—It would be advisable to register. The regulations state that those on active service are not required to register. As it may be some time before you are actually called upon to serve, it would be wise for you to register. Go to the nearest postmaster.

M. J. W. Q.—I was granted exemption last fall as long as I remained farming, but did not get a certificate of exemption. I am not in the present draft called. Could I get a certificate of exemption and to whom would I write for it?

A.—Yes; you are entitled to it. Write the deputy registrar, Royal Bank Building, London, Ont.

CREDITON. Q.—1. Could my brother, a B2 man, get a transfer from Calgary to London? He is on the paymaster's staff.

2. What is the name of the officer in charge of No. 1 Company of the 1st Depot Battalion, London.

3. What is the number of the military district?

4. When transferred, does a soldier have to pay his own transportation charges?

A.—1. He can take it up with his O. C.; it is possible that his request might be granted by Ottawa.

2. The companies are distinguished by letters, not numbers, in that unit. Address to the O. C. of the company. You do not need his name.

3. Western Ontario is called Military District No. 1.

4. No.

ARNER. Q.—Will a man 22 years old have to comply with national registration law after having reported at London and put in C, and given leave of absence for a time?

A.—Only men on active service are excepted from national registration. If you are likely to be on leave for some time, it would be advisable for you to register. Go to any postmaster.

S. G. Q.—My son, 20 years of age, enlisted in the Canadian navy before June 1, and is now in training, but did not register before signing up. Has he to register and be transferred from the military draft into the navy?

A.—No.

R. E. A. Q.—Why is it that men that were raised from lower categories and placed in A, are getting notices to report, instead of getting a tribunal hearing to present their claims, as was told them by the registrars?

A.—If they are men who had not attained the age of 23 years when they filled out their applications for exemption last fall, they have no chance to claim exemption. Hence it would be wasting their time to take them before a tribunal. Exemptions for men of that age have been cancelled.

If they are over that age, they have a right to present any claims for exemption they may have before a tribunal. If ordered to report, it may be due to a mistake. In that case they should call the attention of the registrar of their district to the error. In any case, let them not fail to report on the day ordered, even though they do so under protest.

HEART WAS BAD, NERVES ALL GONE

Very important it is in this age to have a clear, cool head, a strong heart and steady nerves.

Too much rush and bustle, work and worry, fall to the lot of women attending to their household duties and social obligations. The constant strain under which they continue day in and day out will soon shatter the strongest system. Before long the heart gets weak, flutters and palpitates, the nerves become unstrung, you start at the least sound, the pulse becomes weak and irregular, then finally comes physical breakdown or nervous prostration.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the remedy you require to strengthen your heart and steady your nerves.

Mrs. Jackson, 457 Bolwar street, Peterboro, Ont., writes: "Fifteen years ago I was so bad with my heart I could not walk across the house; my nerves were literally all gone, and I was frightened at my shadow. I commenced to take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and was soon able to do my own work. I have told dozens of people about them, some as bad as I was, and today they are also doing their own work. If more people would take them there would not be so many weak hearts."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c per box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MORE GOOD THAN EVERYTHING ELSE

That Is What Tanlac Accomplished in the Case of Ottawa Man.

"Talking about things that help people, this Tanlac has done me more good than anything else I ever got hold of," said Stanislas Prudel, who is employed at the Watson & Todd Lumber Company, and lives at 52 Forest avenue, Ottawa.

"My stomach had been all upset for about two years," continued Mr. Prudel, "all my food tasted alike, and nothing seemed to agree with me at all. Soon after eating I would bloat up with gas, always had a pain in my chest, and sometimes it was hard for me to get my breath. My food would invariably sour and seemed to do me little or no good. I had dull, nagging headaches, carried a bad taste in my mouth all the time, and all my strength and energy seemed to leave me. I felt terrible, and just moped around like someone half dead. I tried to keep on working, but one time I just had to stop off and was laid up for several weeks.

"I tried all kinds of medicines, but kept getting worse, and finally decided to see if Tanlac was any better than the other things I had used. Well, sir, I am ready now to say Tanlac is a real medicine. Before I had taken it two days I began to straighten right up, and when I finished my first bottle I was feeling like a new man. I have taken three bottles now, and my stomach is in fine shape. I can eat just anything I want without feeling a sign of indigestion, and since the gas has stopped forming on my stomach I have no more pain or shortness of breath. The headaches are gone, my strength and energy have returned and I have never felt better. I never miss a day from my work now and I'm so delighted over what Tanlac has done for me, that I tell everybody about it.

"My brother-in-law was suffering dreadfully with his stomach and had been off from his work for about three weeks on account of it. I asked him to try Tanlac, and he said: 'No, I have been under treatment and have been told that nothing would do me any good.' That's all right, I said, you try Tanlac any way, it beats anything you ever saw. So he got a bottle and before he had finished taking it he was feeling better. Now he's as well as anybody, and you couldn't find a stronger booster for Tanlac anywhere than he is, unless it's me."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.
