TALKING NATURAL GAS TODAY WITH THE CITY GAS COMPANY

An Important Meeting Being Held—Big Men Are in London in Connection With the Proposition—Pipes Are Ready To Be Laid.

A conference is in progress this afternoon between the directors of the City Gas Company and the company behind the project to bring natural gas to the city.

Today Messrs. S. L. McKay (Sarnia), L. G. Neely (St. Marys, Ohio), J. W. Smith (Muncey, Ind.), T. J. Driscell (Indianapolis), C. McCauley (Montpelier, Ind.), D. A. Little (Buffalo), E. L. Willett (Buffalo), and E. R. Curtin (Lima, Ohio), arrived in the city to take part in the discussion.

They are confident that they have a sufficient quantity of gas in the Tilbury fields to supply the city of London.

"We have the pipe ready to commence work," said Mr. McKay to The Advertiser. "We have had it on the ground for some time, and as soon as we can make arrangements with the City Gas Company for the distribution of our gas we will commence operations. We expect no difficulty in arriving at terms. That is the object of our visit today, and we are going to meet them this afternoon and settle the matter."

Distributing Agents.

"The City Gas Company will act only as distributing agents for us. They will have no holdings in our company, but will merely take the gas at the city limits and distribute it for us.

"Our pipe line will be 78 miles in length. It will be a 12-inch main, with a capacity of over 20 million feet per day."

"Have you sufficient gas to supply the city?" Mr. McKay was asked.

"Oh, yes," he answered. "If we did not think so we would not expend $800,000 in building a pipe line. I can assure you. We control about 75 per cent of the field at Tilbury, and have in sight from 30 to 40 million feet of gas. The field can be extended if necessary."

Mr. McKay stated that gas would be furnished private consumers at 25 cents per thousand feet, and large consumers would be given a better rate than this. Twenty-five cents would be the maximum charge to any consumer.

Matter of Rates.

"We have not definitely settled on the rates," said Mr. McKay. "I presume that they will be the same as in other places. The charge for ordinary consumers will be 25 cents per thousand feet. Large consumers, as in other places, will be given a lower rate."

"Do you think the field is permanent?" he was asked.

"I think so," he answered. "We would not build the line if we did not think so."

The City Gas Company are perfectly willing to talk business with the company. If there is sufficient to supply the city there will be no trouble in arriving at an agreement satisfactory to all parties and the citizens generally.

7TH MAY GO UNDER CANVAS AT GODERICH ON JULY 1ST

Boys Will Not Go Out of Town On Victoria Day—A Big Church Parade On Sunday Next.

It was stated to The Advertiser this afternoon that the Seventh Regiment will go under canvas at Goderich over Dominion Day, which falls on Saturday this year, and remain there until Monday, and perhaps until Tuesday evening, in view of this training, the regiment will not go out of town on Victoria Day. They will have to take part in the celebration on Coronation Day, and this, with their outing to Goderich and their regular drills, the officers deem a pretty good amount of work.

On Sunday, May 14, the men will march to St. Peter's Cathedral, to hear a special address by Bishop Fallon.

Col. Campbell has received an invitation from Niagara Falls for the regiment to attend an International carnival to be held there on June 27 and 28. It is unlikely that the men will go.

The hall was crowded with the relatives and friends of the graduating class and the students.

Ferguson, Rev. R. Whiting, and other prominent citizens.

Following a few introductory remarks by Dean Dr. Eccles, the hypocratic oath was administered to the students by Dr. R. Ferguson.

Dr. Eccles then introduced the class individually to the chancellor of the Western University, Dr. W. H. Moorhouse, who performed the interesting ceremony of "capping" the students. Certificates were also presented to them.

The Valedictory.

The valedictorian of the class, Dr. Cyril Imrie, then read the valedictory. He spoke of the happy relations that had always existed between the students and the faculty.—Dr. Imrie paid a tribute to the members of the class.

Dr. Werkes responded on behalf of the faculty. Rev. Richard Whiting, pastor of the First Methodist Church, addressed the students, laying particular stress upon the responsibilities undertaken by the graduates in their calling.

Music was furnished by the orchestra.

NEW OTTAWA HOSPITAL

Second Institution For Treatment of Tuberculosis at Capital.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, May 3.—Ottawa will by next year have another hospital for consumption, similar to the Lady Grey Hospital here. The latter has been found inadequate to the demands made for accommodations of patients, though it is doing a great work in reducing the death rate from the disease here. The hospital is now filled to capacity and new cases have to be sent to Gravenhurst. Mayor Hopewell made the announcement regarding the new institution today.

COUNTY IS SPENDING MUCH MONEY ON BRIDGES

A Big Batch of Improvements in Middlesex Being Tendered For.

County Engineer Talbot is proceeding with the work of awarding contracts for bridges and other works throughout Middlesex as rapidly as possible, and has called for tenders for ten additional jobs, the figures to be in his office on May 13.

About $35,000 or $40,000 is being expended this summer on bridges, and before the end of the season many wornout old structures, which are now in dangerous shape, will be replaced.

Concrete spans of very attractive design are being erected where possible, but for economy's sake the longer bridges will be of steel.

The List.

The latest work to be tendered for includes the following:

Abutments and floor for bridge over Bear Creek, between Caradoc and Adelaide Townships, opposite lot 18, concession 10, Caradoc Township.

Abutments and floor for bridge on the line between lots 12 and 13, concession 9, Lobo Township (over Bear Creek.)

Abutments and floor for bridge on the line between London and Lobo Townships, opposite concession 6, of London Township.

Concrete floor and addition to concrete abutments for bridge in concession 11, on Proof Line road, in London Township.

Concrete floor and abutments for bridge on the line between Lobo and East Williams Townships, opposite lot 12, concession 13, Lobo Township.

Abutments and floor for bridge over Sauble River, on Sauble line, Biddulph Township.

A reinforced concrete bridge on the line between Dorchester and Nissouri Townships, on the Governor's road—16-foot span.

A reinforced concrete bridge on line between the town of Parkhill and the township of West Williams—16-foot span.

A concrete culvert opposite lot 5, concession 6, McGillivray Township.

SCRATCH PROVED FATAL

Slight Bullet Wound Causes Death of Boy With Tetanus.

[Canadian Press.]

Brockville, May 3.—Albert Latham, aged 18, died at the hospital here of tetanus. Two weeks ago he engaged in playfully shooting at fish in Jones' Creek when a bullet in the hands of another boy grazed his knee, leaving nothing but a scratch. Little was thought of the injury until Saturday last, when lockjaw developed. The lad died in great agony.

LONDON DRAMATIC CLUB SPEAK IN WARMEST TERMS OF WINNIPEG'S TREATMENT

Local Organization Won Plaudits of All at Earl Grey Contest.

MAY BE MEDAL FOR MISS MICHIE

It Is Said She Has Good Chance for Honor Won Last Year by Miss Maclaren.

The London Dramatic Club, fresh from their triumphs at the Earl Grey dramatic competition at Winnipeg, arrived home early this morning via the C. P. R., and are most enthusiastic over the reception given them in the western city. While no announcement has been made as to the winners, the London players were given to understand that their chances for the trophy were excellent.

It is also stated that Miss Ruby Michie will probably be awarded the Margaret Anglin medal, won last year by Miss Patti Maclaren, at the contest in Toronto.

"We were given a right royal reception in Winnipeg," declared Mr. Campbell Becher to The Advertiser. "We were met on our arrival by many friends, and from that time until we left, there was a continuous round of functions and entertainments. The audience apparently appreciated our presentation of "Lady Huntsworth's Experiment," as we were given many re-calls. Leaving myself out of the matter, it must be said that all acquitted themselves most creditably. The performance was much smoother than the first presentation in London.

Congratulations.

"We were congratulated on all sides for our work, and everybody seemed to be highly appreciative of our efforts. The cast did splendidly. The Winnipeg newspapers gave us excellent notices, and some of them declared that the London Dramatic Club put on by far the best performance.

"Of course, the competition was keen. The Ottawa Dramatic Club have a splendid actor in the person of Mr. H. L. Hayes. He is really very clever, and he adds a great deal of strength to their company. Edmonton has also a very capable man in Mr. A. E. Nash. These two stand out head and shoulders above the others, and if London does not win the prize, it must undoubtedly go to Ottawa or Edmonton, probably the former.

"I was informed that Miss Michie stands a good chance for the Margaret Anglin medal. Her performance at Winnipeg was practically perfect.

London Old Boys.

"The London Old Boys were much in evidence there. They had a large section of the theatre for the performance, and they gave us a hearty reception. It must be said, however, that all the applause did not come from the London section. The rest of the house was fully as demonstrative, if not more so.

"From the time the performance was over until we left, there were entertainments in large numbers. Dinners at Government House, and at the hotel, and receptions at private houses, kept us as busy as we possibly could be. It was a great time, believe me.

"The London Old Boys are well organized in Winnipeg, and there will undoubtedly be a large number of them come to London this August. Walter Little and Walter Evans both informed me that the deputation from that section would be very big. We met a large number of them, and they used us splendidly. We are well satisfied with our trip."

PLUNGES HIS ARMS INTO MOLTEN METAL

Smith's Falls Workman Meets With Distressing Accident.

[Canadian Press.]

Smiths Falls, Ont., May 3.—Albert Rose, an employee of the malleable iron works, was terribly injured while at work last night. Rose was carrying a ladle of hot metal when he stumbled and fell. He plunged both arms up to the elbow in the molten metal. Almost crazed with pain, Rose rushed to a barrel of water and immersed both arms, thus intensifying his agony. He was removed to St. Francis' Hospital where his injuries are being treated. The outcome of the burns is not yet known, but his condition is serious.

STUDENTS HAD ALL THE SEATS

Annual Joke of the Western Medical College Is On the Faculty.

SEATS AT A PREMIUM

Frantic Efforts Being Made to Secure Accommodation, But Little Success Thus Far.

The medical students are enjoying a fine joke today at the expense of the faculty of the Western Medical College.

This afternoon, the graduating exercises were held in the Auditorium. Tickets of admission were issued, but in some mysterious way, nearly all of them found their way into the hands of the students.

This morning a number of the members of the faculty went to the Auditorium to obtain seats. When they arrived every seat in the house, including the boxes, had been taken by the students and their friends.

It was not until that moment that the members of the faculty came to the conclusion that the Meds. were having one of their little jokes.

Frantic efforts were made to secure some of the students to get the tickets, but to no avail.

Rather Hard.

Consequently, many members of the faculty of the school had to leave the family at home. However, some succeeded in getting them in, but they had to take chances on seats.

"It is a fine arrangement for the boys," said Dr. J. H. Campbell. "Dr. Eccles, the dean of the faculty, telephoned me for tickets, but I had none. Other members of the faculty were interviewed, but there were no tickets in sight. All the seats were reserved. I suppose the students are enjoying it, but it is hard on the faculty and their families, who must take pot luck. It will mean that many will be kept away from the Auditorium."

MAGUIRE RESIGNS.

Cleveland, May 3.—James Maguire, of the Cleveland American League baseball club, today tendered his resignation.

RECTOR'S SALARY $1 A MONTH!

The St. John's Vestry Passed Resolutions Despite Protests of Bishop and Pastor.

MEETING VERY STORMY

It Is Probable That the Matter Will Now Be Carried to the Synod for Settlement.

Moved by J. E. Johnson, seconded by E. J. James: That the salary of the present rector of this church be, from the first day of next July, reduced to $1 a month, and that from that date no larger sum be paid to him. Carried.

Moved by Henry Macklin, and seconded by Ross Clarke: That the vote of the meeting be now taken, against the ruling of the chairman, and that a vote on the motion presented to him be taken. Carried.

Moved by C. B. Edwards, seconded by Frank Lawson: That the present chairman do leave the chair, and that Mr. Henry Macklin be requested to act as chairman. Carried.

Declaring that they were acting on the advice of the highest legal authority in Canada on church matters, and despite protests from both his Lordship Bishop Williams and Rev. Rural Dean Hill, the foregoing motions were carried by the large majority of the members of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, who attended a meeting held in the schoolroom last evening. The situation that has resulted is a complete deadlock. As one prominent member expressed it to The Advertiser: "What was a breach is now a gulf."

Interviewed as to what steps would be taken next, Bishop Williams said he didn't just know. Asked if the matter would be dealt with at the approaching meeting of the synod, he said he thought not.

"I cannot say yet what I will do," said Rev. Mr. Hill to The Advertiser. "I do not know what the next order of procedure is."

It was stated to The Advertiser after the meeting last night that Mr. Hill has offered to resign, but that others have been urging him to hold out.

The attitude of the gentlemen who gathered last night was one of determination.

Very Determined.

"If Mr. Hill stays I will walk out of the church and never enter it again," declared one of the oldest members to Bishop Williams.

"The poor man is wrong in the head," said the bishop.

"My lord, I am not wrong in my head," was the reply. "I was never more in earnest in my life."

The meeting began sharp on time. Canon Hill asked for the auditors' report, which was certified to by the auditors, Messrs. Claude Brown and Ross Clarke, and was unanimously adopted.

"Any other business?" asked Mr Hill.

Mr. J. E. Johnson was on his feet immediately, and read the first motion in regard to reducing Mr. Hill's salary. It was seconded by Mr. James.

Bishop Williams was sitting in the audience.

Bishop Makes an Appeal.

"I understand that this brings up a motion which was made at the last meeting," he said. "I want to make an appeal to the members of this vestry to bury the hatchet if possible. We are met here as brethren. Our aim is not to gain a victory over this man or that man, but to advance the kingdom of Christ. It is not to triumph but to co-operate so that the whole force of the membership of the church shall be behind us. It is impossible for us to accomplish that work unless we work together. Many since this controversy started may have travelled far from their original position. There are no doubt extremists on both sides. I want to appeal to the sensible-minded men here. You should not be concerned with saving your faces. The publicity which has been given to this matter has made saving the face one of the most important things with some. I appeal to those on both sides to forget that and not try to gain a victory, but effect a compromise that will safeguard the interests of all. The original claim was that this vestry was not properly consulted. I heard that Mayor Beattie made a pacific speech offering a possible solution of the difficulty.

An Assurance.

"Unfortunately I was unable to be present at the last meeting. I am here tonight, however, to carry his suggestion even further. I am in the position to give you the assurance which the mayor could not give, that in all future matters affecting the rights of the vestry, affecting the dismissal or engagement of an assistant, your interests will be fully safeguarded. It is in my power to give effect to this. Supposing that some would not take the rector's word regarding it. I am prepared to guarantee that. Never mind your triumphs. I want to ask you, as fair-minded men, to forget any heat that may have been engendered, and work for the interests of the church. If we do not lay aside our personal animosity and spite nothing but bitterness can result. If we do lay it aside and agree to co-operate we can do a great work."

A Point of Order.

Mr. Johnson here interrupted the bishop by rising to a point of order.

"His lordship is imputing to us motives that are at variance with the facts," he said, "when he says there was spite."

Bishop Williams withdrew his remark in regard to spite, and then continued.

"Remember the good is never altogether on one side. It always takes two to make a quarrel. I am not prepared to say that the faults are all on one side. Is it not possible to acknowledge that you have been at fault?"

Loud cries of "No, no."

Bishop Williams again asked the centrally-minded men to work for peace and sat down.

THE PREMIER WILL GO ACROSS AN UNDERSTANDING REACHED

Probable That the House Will Be Continued in Session During Sir Wilfrid's Absence—Contentious Matters Being Dropped.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Ont., May 3. — Sir Wilfrid Laurier will likely go to the imperial conference and the coronation, after all, and will probably sail from Canada on May 12. It is understood that there has been a conference between Sir Wilfrid and Mr. R. L. Borden, and that the understanding reached, between them will be considered by a Conservative caucus which has been called for this evening. It is probable that the House will be continued in session during the absence of Sir Wilfrid and the other members of the Government who have been called to the conference and to the coronation, and there will be nothing of a contentious party nature taken up except reciprocity, the debate upon which will be continued.

MR. PAT MULHALL IS ON WARPATH

Ward Foreman Will Issue Writs for Defamation of Character.

MUST PROVE CHARGES

No Action Can Be Brought Against Ald. Tancock for Any Statements He Made in the Council Chamber.

"Somebody has got to pay for the insinuations and charges made against me at the council on Monday night."

Ward Foreman Pat Mulhall made the above statement to The Advertiser following it up with the announcement that he had engaged Mr. J. M. McEvoy as counsel to issue writs for defamation of character against those who informed Ald. Tancock of alleged crooked transactions, and circulated other stories in regard to him.

"They need not think that they can say these things, and prove them," continued Mr. Mulhall. "I have absolute proof for everything that I have done, and not a transaction can be found fault with. I am ready to meet them, and we will see who is right and who is wrong. I am going to have satisfaction, never fear."

Mr. Mulhall Explains.

Mr. Mulhall stated that he purchased gravel from Mr. L. A. Boss, who had no contract to supply gravel to the city. This was for his own use, and he has the receipts to show for that transaction.

One cord of gravel, however, was placed on a lot near Mr. Mulhall's, to be used in filling up holes. Mr. Porter, one of the teamsters in the employ of the city, looked after the distribution of this, and was held responsible for it.

Mr. A. O. Graydon, former city engineer, explained that transaction.

"You will remember the time that Dr. Ferguson, South London, wrote regarding the condition of certain streets," he said. "He complained about the number of holes in the streets, and I came to the conclusion that in certain sections of the city, a gravel dump should be located, so that the ward foreman, when he saw a hole could have some gravel put in it from the dump, in order to save time and trouble. I ordered a cord of gravel to be put near Mr. Mulhall's house, and it was distributed as Mr. Mulhall found holes in the street. This cord of gravel lasted all summer, and the city was saved a considerable sum of money by this course, in addition to having the holes filled up properly. Mr. Mulhall is absolutely free from any wrongdoing. I ordered the gravel there, not Mr. Wright. I doubt that he knew anything of it at the time. That is all there is to it."

Mr. McEvoy is obtaining all the facts of the case, before going ahead with it. As soon as he has done so, he will go after the men who made the statement.

Ald. Tancock cannot be sued for damages. As a member of the council, he is protected for what he says in the chamber, and Mr. Mulhall can take no action whatever against him.

However, those who circulated the stories will be gone after, and they will be made to prove their assertions.

ROADWAY VERY BAD

Farmer Upset His Load of Hay on Lovett Street.

A farmer who was about to deliver a load of hay on Lovett street had the misfortune to upset his load when in the act of turning unto that street from Rectory about 12:30 o'clock today.

At this point the condition of the street is very bad indeed, and turning too sharply while one of the wheels was in a deep rut, the driver tipped over his load, spilling it entirely over the street railway tracks.

The farmer himself slid down without injury to himself, but an old man who had gone out with him from the market to help unload the hay was less fortunate, and suffered injuries more or less serious by being thrown off the load. The street car traffic on the Ottawa Belt was blocked for a couple of hours, and in the meantime the cars from each direction came as far as the obstruction and after passengers had changed cars went back again.

IMMORALITY IN CITY IS TO BE DEALT WITH

A Special Meeting of the London Ministerial Alliance Is Being Held.

A special meeting of the London Ministerial Alliance is being held this afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. parlors to appoint a committee to deal with the problem of immorality in the city.

The alliance usually terminates its regular monthly meetings in May, and it has been deemed necessary in view of the evidence recently submitted by Mrs. May R. Thornley, to leave the matter in the hands of a standing committee, to be dealt with by them along with other cases and evidence which may arise during the months in which the alliance will not meet.

Considerable other routine business which has been left over from previous meetings will also be disposed of today.

WATCHMAN FOUND DEAD POLICE MAKE INQUIRIES

Some Possibilities That Death of Hamilton Man Was Not Natural.

[Canadian Press.]

Hamilton, Ont., May 3. — Wm. Hall, who for three years has held the position of night watchman at the Hamilton fencing mills, was this morning found cold and still in death by a G. N. W. night watchman, sitting in a chair on the second floor with his lantern between his legs. He was, from appearances, fast asleep when found, but an examination revealed the fact that he was dead. From indications there is a possibility that his death was not natural. Coroner Hopkins ordered an inquest, which will meet at eight o'clock on Monday evening.

$850 FOR WESLEY SCOTT ACCORDING TO VERDICT

In Addition He Is Given All the Costs of the Case.

The exact text of the judgment given by the divisional court in the case of Scott vs. Wingle, et al., handed down in Toronto yesterday, has been received here, showing that Wesley Scott, the plaintiff, is to receive $850 in addition to the money already paid him as wages by his father, whose executors are the defendants. As stated yesterday, he will also be paid his costs of the action and of the appeal from the decision of Justice Meredith, who dismissed the action here on Jan. 27 last, on the ground that the expression of an intention to give Wesley the land at his death as remuneration for his work did not imply a binding contract on the part of the deceased. The matter now goes to the court of appeal.

ROWLAND RUSK AGAIN REMANDED FOR WEEK

P. M. Graydon Refuses to Take Any Stock in His Promises.

Roland Rusk, who last week was found guilty of wife desertion, was not sentenced when he came up before Deputy Magistrate Graydon at the police court today, but was remanded for another week. Rusk told the court that was willing to agree to pay his wife so much a week and live apart from her.

"Your character is so dreadfully bad," said the court, "that I place absolutely no reliance on any promises you might make. If I let you go now you would just take advantage of the opportunity to run away. You will have to give me some security that you will pay the money to your wife, as you say you are willing to. I will enlarge the case a week to give you a chance to do that."

SEEK INFORMATION TECHNICAL SCHOOLS

Board of Education Will Send Delegation to Other Cities.

TO HOLD SPECIAL MEETING

Whole Matter Will Be Threshed Out at Length—Scarlet Fever in the Schools.

A special meeting of the board of education will be called in the near future to discuss the question of technical education, and in the meantime Trustees Graham, Wyckoff, Gammage, Teasdall, Balfour and Strong will visit a number of cities in Ontario where such schools are in operation to obtain information. Among the cities mentioned were Woodstock, Berlin, Hamilton and others.

At the meeting of the board of education yesterday afternoon, this matter was brought up. Mr. Strong thought the board should take some action on the request of Inspector Leake, that a committee from the board be named to confer with representatives of the Trades and Labor Council and the manufacturers to discuss this question.

A Special Meeting.

"We had better hold a special meeting to discuss the whole matter," suggested Chairman Weekes. "It is a big question, and I do not think we should attempt to take it up today."

The board agreed to that. Then Trustee Graham suggested that the board send a deputation to visit the various centres in the province for the purpose of obtaining information.

"Deputations can be very useful," he declared. "We should discuss this question from first-hand information, and that is the reason I suggest that the members of the board present visit the different centres and obtain the information necessary."

"I do not know that the board intends to discuss this whole question today," said Dr. Balfour. "However, the Dominion Government and the Ontario Government are looking into this matter, and we should wait until we see what they are going to do, before adopting any definite course."

Schools in London.

"It will be but a short time before such schools are in London," declared Trustee Gammage. "I consider that the board would make a good investment if the members were sent to these places to see for themselves. We have sufficient room in the Alexandra school for a beginning, for all we will need until the Government brings down their report. We had better go slowly, not build a large school, as they did in Hamilton, until we see what the Government does."

The motion to send the deputation carried, Dr. Teasdall and Dr. Balfour voting against the recommendation.

Scarlet Fever.

A communication from the board of health, recommending that whenever a case of scarlet fever is reported from a school, the school nurse be instructed to visit the room, and examine the other scholars was received.

"I do not see the necessity of that," declared Dr. Teasdall. "The nurse would not be able to note any symptoms whatever in the other pupils. She had better visit the home from which the case came, and see what conditions are like there."

However, the communication was sent to No. 2 committee.

Rev. C. Cameron Waller, on behalf of the Western Ontario Bible Society, wrote asking that a committee of the board be named to act with the society in arranging systematic Bible readings. Inspector Edwards stated that this was being done, and the letter was sent to No. 1 committee.

The Old Boys.

The London Old Boys' Association asked for the privilege of sending circulars through the schools for the purpose of obtaining the names and addresses of Old Boys. Permission was granted the association.

The Union Mothers' Club of the city invited the board of education to an "at home" in the Normal School on May 4. The invitation was accepted.

The co-operation of the board was asked in raising a fund to be subscribed to by the Marys of the city, but the communication was filed.

Mr. George R. Theobald, a member of the entrance examination board, tendered his resignation, as he has pupils who will write on the examinations. His resignation was accepted, and No. 1 committee instructed to name a successor.

The tender of the Connell Coal Company, for hard coal at $5 75 a ton, and the Lake Erie Coal Company for soft coal at $4 a ton, were accepted by the board.

The First Methodist baseball team asked for the use of the Collegiate Institute grounds for practice. The matter was referred to No. 2 committee with power.

The board will make immediate preparations for installing domestic science in the public schools and manual training in the Collegiate. No. 2 committee were instructed to equip the centres, and No. 1 empowered to secure teachers.

Inspector Edwards reported that the attendance of the schools for the month of April was as follows:

1911—On roll 5,165, 1910 5,032; increase 133.

Average attendance 4,570, 1910 4.489; increase 81.

Kindergarten—1911, on roll 868, 1910 843; increase 25.

Average attendance 629, 1910 645; decrease 16.

Total on roll—1911, 6,033; 1910, 5,875; increase 158.

Average attendance, 5,199; 1910 5,-134; increase, 65.

The School Nurse.

The report of the school nurse was as follows:

Number of inspections, 1,123; number of instructions, 1,062; treatments, 39; defective breathing, 31; defective vision, 11; carious teeth, 86; visits to homes, 37; visits to schools, 39.

At the suggestion of Inspector Edwards, it was decided to have uniform promotion examinations for grades 4, 5, 6 and 7, instead of the bi-monthly examinations during May and June. Mr. Edwards thought this would be a decided advantage. The other bi-monthly examinations will be held as usual.

Collegiate Attendance.

Principal McCutcheon reported that:

The attendance at the London Collegiate Institute for the month of April was as follows:

	On Roll.	Average.
First year, general course	203	183
Second year, general course	189	179
Middle school	190	173
Upper school	45	41
First year, common course	49	48
Second year, common course	35	33
Total	711	662

Truant Officer Weir reported that he had served five notices and visited all the schools.

Those present were Chairman G. N. Weekes, Trustees C. M. R. Graham, Dr. A. J. Wyckoff, W. W. Gammage, Dr. Teasdall, Dr. J. D. Balfour, W. T. Strong, Inspector Edwards, Principal McCutcheon, Truant Officer Weir, and Secretary McElheran.

DYNAMITE TRIAL TO COST $2,000,000

Estimate Made in Office of Los Angeles District Attorney.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 2.—That the trial of the men charged with complicity in the destruction with dynamite of the Los Angeles Times will cost approximately $2,000,000, is the estimate by attaches of the district attorney's office.

Each side, it was pointed out, stands ready to spend unlimited sums in the prosecution and defence of the two McNamaras and McManigal. The court costs will run up in the thousands of dollars expended in bringing witnesses and evidence here and in other necessary expenses.

Already detectives hired by the unions have been set to work to watch the detectives of the Burns agency and of the city. It is understood that this will be continued until the trial begins, and longer if found expedient.

With the arrival of Leo M. Rappaport, attorney for the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' Union, definite plans for the defence will be begun.

The accused men spent a quiet day in their cells in the jail. None showed any desire to attend any of the several religious services held in the building, and no attempt was made to get them to leave their cells. James McNamara amused himself through the long hours by playing solitaire with a pack of cards provided by the jailer. McManigal sulked alone, speaking to no one, not even to the attendant who brought his meals.

Labor Leader Cheerful in Cell.

John J. McNamara alone appeared cheerful. His day was occupied with reading. He sent out for several magazines. Among them was a technical magazine containing an account of the effects of a recent dynamite explosion in Wisconsin. Over this the labor leader spent much of the morning, evidently much interested. He asked for and ate a hearty dinner. The Burns men are working with detectives of the district attorney's office in an effort to discover the boy who saw the Times wreckers in that building the night of the explosion. It was not until McManigal made his confession here that it was known the band encountered any one on their errand of death. Now it is believed that they met an old watchman and a newspaper copy boy. Efforts are being made to find both of these, but so far the detectives have met with no success, and the opinion is slowly forming that one or both of them were killed in the explosion and fire.

TROUBLE WITH UNION

Cause of Poor Showing of Grand Opera Company at Montreal.

Montreal, May 3.—It developed yesterday that the poor showing made by the New Orleans French Grand Opera Company, which is playing at the Princess Theatre here, is due to trouble with the International Musicians' Union, which the New Orleans Company has refused to join.

The union got after the members of the orchestra at Providence and at Boston, with the result that it arrived here without eight of the star performers, who had accepted positions offered them by the union for the summer months at salaries somewhat in excess of what they had been receiving.

This is the second time that the Musicians' Union has succeeded in handicapping non-union organizations playing here. The French Grand Opera Company is attempting to fill the places of the deserting members with members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, another non-union body.

Be Warned by Headache

IT TELLS OF SERIOUS DERANGEMENTS OF THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

You can stop a headache with powerful drugs. But it is not generally wise to do so.

A headache almost always warns you of derangements of the digestive system, the liver, kidneys or bowels.

Awaken the liver to healthful action by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and you not only free yourself of headache, but remove the cause which will soon lead to more dangerous results than headache.

Invigorate the action of the kidneys by this treatment and you take away the dangers of Bright's disease as well as free yourself of headache.

Pains are the result of poison in the system and whether you have headache, backache or aching limbs, you can be almost sure of relief and cure when you cleanse and regulate the vital organs by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They are wonderfully prompt, as well as definite and thorough in action. You can depend upon them, no matter how long-standing or complicated your case, so long as the cause is the sluggish, torpid condition of the liver and kidneys.

ALPHA CLUB HELD A JOLLY BANQUET

Young Men of First Methodist Church Spent Pleasant Evening.

CLUB ROOM ADVOCATED

Some Place Should Be Provided For the Amusement of the Young—The Toast List.

The first annual banquet of the Alpha Club, an organization of young men in connection with the First Methodist Church, held last night in Wesley Hall, was a highly successful event. Over 150 were present, and enjoyed a programme of more than ordinary interest. Mr. W. G. Young, president of the club, occupied the chair.

The ladies of the church provided a very excellent lunch for the guests. After this was disposed of, Mr. Young introduced the toast list, which while long was nevertheless enjoyable.

"I think the church has been sacrilegious in the past in dealing with young men," declared Mr. Young. "I use the term advisedly, for it means anything that lowers and degrades. The church has allowed the young men to go elsewhere for their amusement. They have not been brought under the influence of the church as they should have been. I believe we should do more for them. Let them break windows or make a noise if they will. I would sooner have them break windows from the inside than from the outside. As inane as some of the church clubs undoubtedly are, they are much better than the poolrooms or the saloon. We should try and interest youths and keep them. They should not go elsewhere for their amusements."

Our Church.

The first toast introduced was that to "Our Church," responded to by Dr. F. R. Eccles and Mr. R. I. Watson.

Dr. Eccles gave an interesting account of the various clubs of history, among those of Samuel Johnson, Charles Lamb, and others.

"These clubs were great centres of influence," continued the doctor. "There is no doubt in the world that their influence today will be very great. I suggest that you study great questions, civic and otherwise, and discuss them. I suggest that you have frequent debates, schooling yourselves to use the very best English at your command. The club will then make manly men, and you will be in a position to take your place among your fellows."

"We should have a clubroom in this church, open every night," declared Mr. R. I. Watson. "We could have magazines, games and other things to interest the young men, and hold them. We can finance the proposition without any trouble."

Battles To Fight.

"Our Young Men" was introduced by Rev. Mr. Whiting, and responded to by Mr. E. R. Wilson, of the Y. M. C. A., and Mr. Jack Evans, president of the Epworth League.

"Young men today have great battles to fight," said Mr. Wilson. "The temptations are many, and we should do all that we possibly can to help them. The agencies for the benefit are multiplying, but there is still a great work to be done. This club should do some of this."

Mr. Evans gave a short history of the club, and mentioned the names of many former members of the church among the younger set, who had made names for themselves elsewhere.

Mr. E. E. Reid, of the First Presbyterian Church, and Mr. F. E. Perrin, of the Dundas Centre Methodist Church, responded on behalf of the visitors.

"There are greater problems for us to discuss and settle than our fathers had," declared Mr. Perrin. "There are questions of great moment before us. We should study them, debate them without party or personal bias, and endeavor to solve them."

Athletics in Church.

Jack Nash, in response to the toast to "The Church's Athletics," showed the important place they occupied in the church's activities, and urged that more attention be given to this department of work among young men.

"Education" was the subject of two excellent speeches by Mr. S. W. Perry and Mr. Gordon Munnoch.

Mr. Fred Screaton replied to "Our Ladies," pointing out in eloquent language the many good qualities of the sex, and touching lightly the faults of the men.

"The First Methodist Church represents an investment of over $100,000," said Mr. E. Sid Little, in response to the toast of "Our Club." "It is closed practically six nights a week. During that time the young men must go elsewhere for their amusement, and they are certain to drift into influences not for the best. There should be a clubroom in connection with it, and it should be open all the time. This would form an intermediary step between the Sunday school and the church. Little is done for the young men at the present time. This matter should be taken up seriously by the officials of the church, and at once."

Mr. Gordon Rutledge and Mr. J. H. Fowler responded on behalf of the press.

Sir George Gibbons was to have been present and reply to the toast of "Canada," but he was unavoidably detained in Toronto.

The Club Officers.

PROSPEROUS YEAR FOR ASKIN ST. SUNDAY SCHOOL

Average Attendance for Fifty-Two Sundays Was 466—The Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the board of management of Askin Street Methodist Sunday School was held last night in the schoolroom. There was a large attendance of teachers and officers. The pastor, Rev. A. K. Birks, occupied the chair. The reports of the different officers showed that the past year has been the best in the history of the school. The secretary's report gave a total membership at the present time of 700.

There was an average attendance for 52 Sundays last year of 466; officers 15, average 13; teachers 30, average 22. An average attendance of visitors during the year of 41 per Sunday. The treasurer's report gives the total receipts for the year to be $695 76, with an expenditure of $647 74, which includes $120 paid toward the building fund of the schoolroom, leaving a balance of $48 02 to carry forward. The following officers were elected: Superintendent, A. M. Hunt; associate superintendents, Dr. S. P. Reynolds and Wm. Courtis; secretary, C. Lewis; assistant secretaries, Floyd Maine and Harry Vanstone; paper secretaries, Misses Edith Vanstone and Ethel Johnston; librarian, C. A. McFarlane; assistant librarians, B. Childs, F. Kilbourne and R. Court; treasurer, R. Grey; auditors, J. H. Vanstone and Wm. Copp; orchestra leader, J. Ward; pianist, Miss Maud Norris. Votes of thanks were passed to all retiring officers and teachers, and plans were made for still larger work for the coming year.

ESTABLISH NIGHT CAMP FOR THE WORKINGMAN

The Women's Sanatorium Aid Society Plan to Do This.

The Woman's Sanatorium Aid Society held their annual meeting Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. (Dr.) Arnott, Mrs. John Stevely, the president, in the chair. Mrs. B. C. McCann, the secretary, read the annual report, showing that the society was formed in January, 1910, for the purpose of raising money for the sanatorium, and to take charge of the spring booth at the "Made in London" Exhibition. The idea of a system of checks was originated by Mrs. John Stevely, and was taken up with great enthusiasm by the members. The energy and zeal of the association and the generous response to their appeal led to results beyond the expectation of the most sanguine, the sum of $2,-222 20 being realized.

A Great Success.

The spring booth was a triumph of artistic skill, the financial results also being most satisfactory, $339 27 being added to the former, making the sum $2,561 47, which was paid to Miss Graydon the treasurer of the "Made in London" Exhibition. On April 16, 1910, the members held a meeting to collect in all the checks and to discuss plans for the future. It was unanimously decided to make the association a permanent one and continue the crusade against the "white plague." During the year the society has held seven meetings. The ladies who were kind enough to act as hostesses on these occasions were: Mesdames John Stevely, T. H. Purdom, A. B. Greer, David Cowan, C. W. Belton, Robert Barkile and D. H. Arnott.

It was decided early in the winter to provide all nourishments, warm clothes, etc., for patients unable to secure them, and to try and establish a night camp for workingmen. The active membership of the society numbers 32, and the associate membership 14.

The ladies owe their great success to the generosity of the employees of the different stores, factories and workshops, who contributed the greater part of the above-named amounts.

The Officers.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Honorary President—Mrs. George F. Jewell.

President—Mrs. John Stevely.

First Vice-President—Mrs. F. G. Rumball.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. A. B. Greer.

Secretary—Mrs. B. C. McCann.

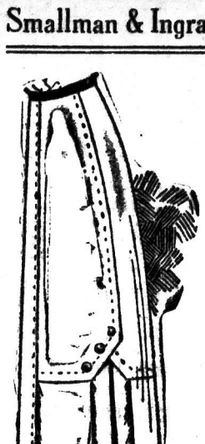
SKIRT-MAKING OPPORTUNITY

Made-to-Measure and Trimmed, for $1.49



One of the Styles. Making and Trimming, $1.49.

Today we begin our great skirt-making sale, an opportunity which is only possible at certain seasons, and which can only be continued for a limited time—during a little lull after the manufacturing season is over.

THE STYLES

We have chosen three styles, which we consider are three of the best and most up-to-date skirts of the season, two of which are pictured here, exact reproductions of the models made for samples, also another style not shown here, equally good.

These models will be exhibited on forms in Dress Goods Department, from which you may choose and have your skirt made to your measure in a few days. There will be no delay in making these skirts as we have arranged to have all orders executed in turn in the shortest possible time; no waiting for weeks for your dressmaker. You simply choose your material, select your style, have your measure taken and your skirt will be delivered in a few days.

Another Style. Making and Trimming, $1.49.

THE MATERIALS—Another special feature of this sale, and a great advantage, too, is the fact that you have the privilege of selecting your material from our entire stock of black and colored dress goods. This sale is not a means of getting rid of certain undesirable lines, and the great advantage is that in ordering your skirt this way you pay less than it would be possible to buy the same skirt for from ready-to-wear stock. They are made to suit and fit your own form, from your own measurements, and you may choose material at any price you wish; any kind, any color, from our complete assortment of black and colored dress goods: Voiles, cashmeres, lustres, serges, panamas, poplins, worsteds, etc.

THE PRICE, $1.49, is complete, including sewings, bands, etc., making it easy to figure the cost of your skirt. By adding $1.49 to the price of your material, you have the total cost. For instance, 4 yards of 50c material, $2.00; making, $1.49, skirt to measure, $3.49; or, material 75c a yard, to measure for $4.49; or $1.00 material to measure for $5.49. This estimate is taken from an average length of 4 yards. Your skirt may take less or more material, according to width of goods, and in most cases your skirt will total about what you would expect to pay a first-class dressmaker for making and trimming only, and wait weeks for your skirt.

We will commence taking orders today, and continue only until we have the number of orders which can be handled in the limited time allotted for these skirts. Make sure and get your order in at once. See models in Dress Goods Section—Main Floor.

THUMB PRINTS IN DYNAMITING CASE

Prosecution Will Use Them in Effort to Convict McNamara.

[Canadian Press.]

Los Angeles, Cal., May 2.—The chief detective of the district attorney's office has taken prints of James B. McNamara's thumbs. The prints, it is said, will be sent to San Francisco in an effort further to identify him as "J. B. Bryce," who, it is alleged, purchased dynamite with which to blow up the Times building.

Prints of all of McNamara's fingers also were taken, and these will be compared with the finger-prints discovered by detectives on the launch Pastime, which is said to have been used by the alleged dynamiters, in transporting the explosive purchased by them to San Francisco.

MIDDLESEX IS HONEST

Records at the Courthouse Are Very Favorable.

The County of Middlesex appears to have developed a remarkable streak of honesty and clean living this year according to the records at the court house.

Thus far this quarter there has not been a session of the county court judge's criminal court, the last prisoner to appear being up on the 10th of March last. The offence proved to be of minor importance, although the mails were interfered with, and the prisoner was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

SITE SELECTED FOR CHATHAM SCHOOL

Scane Property on Queen Street Secured For $7,000.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Chatham, May 3.—The board of education last evening decided to accept the offer of Mrs. E. W. Scane of $7,000 for her property on Queen street, and the work of erecting the new school will be commenced at once. There were several properties offered, but after consideration of the merits of each, the board by a majority made the choice of the Scane piece.

The school building will be modern in every respect, and the location is an excellent one, being also in the centre of Chatham South, and directly opposite the Canada Business College.

Some of the members of the board favored other sites on account of the piece of property being so near the Grand Trunk and its hog pens, but it is promised by the railway that the pens will be removed.

R. V. ROGERS DEAD.

Kingston, Ont., May 2.—R. V. Rogers, K. C., LL.D., died this morning, after a prolonged illness from sewer gas poisoning. He was also a leading Anglican and was for many years lay secretary of the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario. He was 68 years of age. A widow survives.

PROOF THAT PROVES

If one person more than another should know the value of medicine, it is the retail druggist.

Therefore when ten thousand retail druggists of the United States recommend Vinol, the delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, as the best strengthening tonic known, and are willing to return their customers' money in every case where it fails to give satisfaction, there can be no room for doubt.

Among others, one of the most reliable druggists of Lynn, Mass., Mr. Warren Topham, says: "From personal experience I know what Vinol will do. I had a chronic cold all winter, and was so weak I could hardly get about. Nothing seemed to help me, until I tried Vinol—the change was magic—and what surprised me most, Vinol not only cured the cold, but built me up and cured me of a severe stomach trouble that had bothered me for 20 years. Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person or any person suffering from chronic coughs and colds to try a bottle of Vinol, with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim.

PARLIAMENT REFUSES TO CENSURE FIELDING

Holds That He Was Not to Blame in Farmers' Bank Case.

Ottawa, May 2.—Parliament today voted down a motion of Mr. Houghton Lennox, censuring the Finance Minister and treasury board in connection with the Farmers' Bank failure. Mr. Lennox contended that Mr. Fielding had been careless, claiming that he had been notified of the unstable conditions of the bank.

Mr. Fielding replied that it was much easier to be wise at a later stage than at the beginning. After all that had occurred, however, they must come to the conclusion that it was a most regrettable transaction. The granting of the certificate was not the only step that was unfortunate, and for others Parliament itself was responsible. Four and a half years ago Travers was a reputable citizen. Accordingly, when Travers swore to the affidavit regarding the deposit money of the Farmers' Bank, it was accepted. If Travers was known to be a criminal, was it conceivable that the Province of Ontario would have deposited $25,000 in the Farmers' Bank, he asked. However, nobody had suffered any loss through the notes being irregular.

The vote was 97 to 63.

STRIKE RIOTS AT PITTSBURG

Two Union Men Are in Hospital, and Two Strike-Breakers in Jail.

[Canadian Press.]

Pittsburg, Pa., May 3. — The first violence in connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad shopmen's strike occurred in the vicinity of Twenty-eighth street shops last night, and as a result two union men are in the hospital, and three men, two of them strike-breakers, are under arrest. Geo. Kelsky and Joseph Czepura are the victims. Both were cut about the head and arms with a knife. It is alleged they set upon the strike-breakers as they left the shops.

HYDRO INAUGURAL AT QUEEN CITY

The City Hall Illuminated. Following a Banquet.

Toronto, May 2.—Shortly before 8:30 o'clock this evenig Sir James Whitney, standing on a raised platform in front of the city hall, pressed a button and the big civic building was instantly a blaze of lights and Toronto's formal participation in the cheap power policy of Ontario's Government was inaugurated.

The celebration began with a dinner at the King Edward Hotel, after which the participants, which included guests from other municipalities, paraded to the city hall, where the opening ceremonies were held. Sir James Whitney, Hon. Adam Beck and Mayor Geary were the speakers.

QUEEN GETS GEMS, ABANDONED IN FLIGHT

Portugal Sends $50,000 Necklace to Maria Pia.

[Canadian Press.]

Lisbon, May 3.—The Seculoj, one of the best informed newspapers of Lisbon, reports that the superintendent of royal palaces has returned to Dowager Queen Maria Pia a magnificent diamond necklace, valued at more than $50,000, which she had left behind in the Ajuda Palace in her flight. The necklace was a present from the king of Italy.

The most advanced Republican newspapers attack the Government for having returned the jewels and personal effects of the exiled royal family. The Government, however, states that it could not keep private documents, correspondence, and the personal property of members of the dethroned royal family.

FIRE AT EDDY'S.

Ottawa, May 2. Fire in the stockroom of the E. B. Eddy Company at Hull today destroyed three million matches. The blaze is supposed to have originated from spontaneous combustion. The room is constructed of cement and being absolutely fireproof, the matches were allowed to burn themselves out. The loss is not very heavy.

TWO SENTENCED.

Berlin, Ont., May 2. — E. Hammil and W. Southwell were today sentenced to four and three years respectively in Kingston on charges of theft.

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, MAY 3.

MORE IMPERIAL CO-OPERATION.

As the time draws near for the Imperial Conference, interest in the event grows keener, both in the dominions and in the mother country. There can be no denying the fact that imperial sentiment of one sort and another has continued deepening since the conference of 1907. That Mr. Chamberlain's visionary and perhaps not altogether sincere project of imperial preference fell through and was buried in the election of 1906, has only helped forward a more genuine, practical and reasonable feeling of British brotherhood. The desire grows for a more hearty co-operation between mother country and colonies in the solving of common problems of defence. Some Unionist jingoes advance as usual plans of formal centralization, compulsory articles and massed armaments; on the other hand thoughtful men of both the great parties are aiming at the preservation of complete local autonomy combined with a closer mutual understanding and confidence between the governments which shall bring about a more effective but peaceable common defence.

The political atmosphere being charged with such an aspiration, the conference is bound to be of great significance. It would be a great pity if the Canadian Premier, recognized as the leader of colonial statesmen, should be prevented by inane obstructionists from attending the first Imperial Conference of his majesty's reign.

In a recent debate in the British House of Commons some Unionists introduced a resolution that "a discussion on the international situation should be added to the programme of the Imperial Conference." The mover, Mr. Guinness, was of opinion that for the present the conference must remain an advisory body, but looked forward to a time when the dominions would share in the active control of the Empire, and consequently favored the consideration by their representatives this year of imperial foreign affairs in general. Ideally, Mr. Guinness seems to agree to what Sir Joseph Ward would like to have carried out at once, but practically even the advanced imperialist cannot see the way clear yet to a bi-cameral imperial parliament or council.

For the Government, the under secretary for foreign affairs, Mr. McKinnon Wood, stated that the resolution was unnecessary because the proposed discussion was to take place without it, and it would be undesirable to start a new precedent regarding the procedure of the Imperial Conference by having a mandatory resolution of the House of Commons. It would be better that this matter, as so many others in the relations between friends and kinsmen, should be spontaneous and natural, and not the result of a mandatory resolution. In this attitude Mr. Wood follows of course the Liberal tradition against coercion and formal bonds in the relations between mother country and colonies. Mr. Harcourt, the secretary for the colonies, then spoke, made the important declaration that the Government intended to summon the prime ministers to meetings of the committee of defence and to inform them, through its secret proceedings, of British foreign policy, to a degree beyond that enjoyed by the British Parliament itself. The Opposition speakers declared themselves satisfied with Mr. Harcourt's announcement and the motion was withdrawn.

At the same time, the line of cleavage was clearly manifested between the two present types of imperialism, that which seeks formal union and that which aims at tightening the bonds of sentiment, understanding and confidence. A powerful leader in the Manchester Guardian advances arguments for the looser and undefined form of union even from a military point of view. Foreign powers will want to know, said Mr. Guinness, with whom they are going to war in attacking England; but why should the British peoples oblige them beforehand by letting them know? What should we gain by doing that? "On purely political grounds," says the Guardian, "the arguments are strongly against the formal as distinguished from the sentimental bonds of union. It is difficult to imagine how a Federal Council could act without impairing local control over home affairs." The two departments of government, home and foreign, cannot be separated: if the colonies merge their foreign interests in a formal amalgamation with Britain, they are bound to lose something of their autonomy as well. A better form of imperialism will therefore be a plastic and voluntary co-operation

THE OTTAWA TIME-KILLERS.

The reciprocity debate has become an Opposition monologue. Yesterday's performance was left to Messrs. Taylor and Schaffner. Dr. Schaffner's participation heightens the farce. He attacks the Government because there has been no deep cut in the tariff on manufactured goods. In reply to a question a month ago, he said the reduction of duties on manufactured articles was the policy of the Conservative party. This is probably true of Dr. Schaffner's Manitoba constituency, but it is not Mr. Borden's policy, and he is the only man qualified to speak on the question in the name of his party.

The supporters of the Government would do well to leave the wasting of time to the Opposition. The reciprocity agreement has been discussed in and out of Parliament for over three months, with an exhaustiveness with which no public issue has been treated for years. There is nothing to say on it which has not been said. There is nothing that can be said which would be likely to change a single vote. Every thinking man in the country has made up his mind. Further talk in the House of Commons will be a beating of the air. This process, an expensive one for the country, should be left to the the Opposition. Apart from robbing Sir Wilfrid of the prestige he would gain at Westminster, what would it hope to gain? Our Ottawa dispatches indicate that a way out of the difficulty may be found which will permit Sir Wilfrid's attendance at Westminster. The reciprocity debate would be continued till his return, under this arrangement. The responsibility for this costly waste of time would then be wholly on the Opposition.

SPREAD OF THE AUTO.

Automobile making has been the phenomenon of modern industry. The United States census shows that the total value of automobiles made in the country in 1909 was $165,115,100. Michigan's output was $70,519,600. The average value of each machine is indicated by the census figures to have been $1,297. These figures are factory prices. For the entire country the value of the automobile parts produced in 1909 was $29,607,500 in 1909. Touring cars in 1909 numbered 76,433 and runabouts 36,406. Less than 5,000 were for public conveyances and business purposes. In this respect the United States is behind European countries. Gasoline cars are far in the lead. The number made in 1909 was 121,274 with a value of $155,068,100; in 1904, 19,837 with a value of $20,146,100. Electrics numbered 3,629 in 1909, valued at $6,563,500, compared with 1,425 in 1904, valued at $2,496,300.

The growth of the industry has been no doubt relatively as great in Canada. Economists are discussing the effect of the diversion of so much money into a luxury. The discussion would have some point if the majority of well-to-do people were not already spending a very large proportion of their incomes in luxuries, some of which yield less return in physical benefit than the automobile. A large portion of the outlay for automobiles is money merely diverted to one luxury trade from a number of others.

Money talks, and the talk at Ottawa is also costing money.

The Opposition is burning stage fire, but it throws no new light on the reciprocity agreement.

Hon. Frank Oliver has met his accusers by asking for a full investigation by Parliament. This is a keen disappointment to many partisans who prefer to fight with innuendo.

The anti-veto bill, the most radical piece of British legislation in many years, has already passed the committee stage. The British session began three months after the Canadian session, but the mother of Parliaments is not at the mercy of time-killers.

A Manitoba cabinet minister was accused of employing prisoners to do his house chores, at the public's expense. He ignored the charge and refused an inquiry. We hear nothing about this case from those who are greatly exercised over Mr. Lanctot's house-painting.

Hon. Robert Rogers is in Ottawa again, giving the Opposition lessons in tactics. The Winnipeg Free Press says this is the swill-pail era of Manitoba politics. If this is true the Honorable Bob is the leader of the swill-pail school of strategy.

A local journal accuses Mr. Duncan McIntyre of "applying the gag" to Opposition speakers yesterday in his capacity as deputy speaker. There is no fairer-minded man in Parliament than the scholarly member for South Perth The Opposition has never had occasion to impute partisanship to him, and made no appeal from his ruling yesterday. He has filled a difficult position with tact and ability. For such a public servant there should be something better than coarse insult. The office of speaker or deputy speaker would become an impossibility if both parties did not unite in upholding it and keeping it outside the sphere of party controversy.

Sir James Whitney yesterday tried to explain away his declaration at Niagara Falls eleven years ago that "Niagara power should be as free as air." At the time a by-election was pending in Welland, and the Ontario Government was attacked in Niagara Falls because it had not then given charters to private power corporations. The people on the Canadian side contrasted the state of things with the development on the American side. Sir James, then leader of the Opposition, appealed to local feeling. All his hearers understood his remark plainly as a reproach to the Government for withholding power charters. It is unworthy of the Premier to say now that he foreshadowed the present scheme, which was not then thought of, and which was literally forced upon him.

HE GOT HIS ANSWER.

[Canadian Collier's.]

Who says the Englishman is not a wit? The other day W. A. Fraser, the short story man, in search of human interest and a morning chat, got into talk with a couple of laboring men on the back platform of a Toronto street car. Fraser rather prides himself on his knowledge of dialects, so he made some guesses. "You," he said to one, "are a Devon man." The toiler with the dinner pail admitted it. "And you," he said to the other, "are from London." Right again. "And now," said Mr. Fraser, spreading his chest, "Where would you say I'm from?" It was the Cockney who replied. "I don't know, mister. You see, I'm not so blawsted inquisitive as you are."

RECIPROCITY AND THE FARMERS

[Ottawa Free Press.]

A determined attempt is being made to convince western farmers that the opening to them of the United States markets would be of no pecuniary advantage to them, but, in fact, would be detrimental to their interests. The enterprise is likely to end in failure, because the western farmers, whatever their faults, are not fools; and the advantage to them of having an additional market, of great and growing dimensions, opened to their superior milling wheat, is so obvious as not to require formal demonstration. If there is a case against reciprocity it must be based upon something vastly different from the theory now being advocated by the Monservative M. P.'s from Manitoba, that the western farmer will be ruined if he is given the option of selling his wheat in the Minneapolis market if he can get more money for it there than he can in Liverpool.

EVEN THE NOSE HELPED.

[Boston Transcript.]

Miss Peach—Now, senator, look me straight in the face and tell me if you don't think we women should have the vote.

Senator (gallantly)—The eyes have it.

BETWEEN FRIENDS.

[Boston Globe.]

"I don't like my new gown very well," said the lady. "The material is awfully pretty and the style is all right, but it needs something to improve the shape of it."

"Why," suggested her dearest friend, "don't you let some other girl wear it?"

PERFORATED STAMPS.

[London Chronicle.]

The man who invented perforated sheets of stamps made a big fortune out of the idea. It is said to have first occurred to a hunting man who wanted to stamp a letter but could not lay his hand on knife or scissors. He suddenly bethought himself of his spur. Running the rowel along, he perforated the edges of the stamp, tore it off, and thus started a revolution.

OF COURSE.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]

London is to have a dock that will accommodate ships 1,000 feet long. Germany may be expected to hastily begin the construction of a dock that will accommodate ships 1,100 feet long.

HAPPY.

[Toronto News.]

Oh, we are cheery as a clam,
And ah, our soul is overjawed,
For spring is here at last, and still
The peach crop hasn't been destroyed.

IN HIS FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS.

[London Daily News.]

The first name in the classical moderations honor list, issued at Oxford yesterday, is Cyril Asquith, of Balliol College. This is a son of Mr. Asquith, who is thus following in the brilliant footsteps of his father and brother at the same college.

The premier gained a scholarship to Balliol, and carried all before him, gaining firsts in "Meds" and "Greats," the Craven scholarship (the blue ribbon of Oxford), and a fellowship of his college. He was also president of the union.

HORRIBLE!

[Tid-Bits.]

"I suppose there's none of us better than we should be."

"Indeed, no; I was thinking it over last night. Why, only yesterday I was guilty of killing time, murdering a tune, smothering a yawn, stealing a kiss, cutting the creditor, and breaking into a perspiration."

CONSISTENT!

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]

A reader of The London Advertiser tells of a lady who is violently opposed to reciprocity, and who, nevertheless, smuggled her spring suit from Detroit. Such inconsistency is not restricted to women.

NOT SYNONYMOUS.

[Tit-Bits.]

Willie Good—Pa, our teacher says that "collect" and "congregate" mean the same thing.

Rev. Good—Well, you tell your teacher that you have information that there is considerable difference between a congregation and a collection.

A GREAT ATHLETE.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]

Bob Davis, who is editor of Munsey's Magazine, and the author of several plays, is the possessor of a sense of humor and a power of expression that is frequently picturesque. Speaking of a man who had achieved some distinction as a kill-joy, Davis said:

"That fellow is a great athlete. He can throw a wet blanket two hundred yards in any gathering."

BY WHAT METHOD?

[Toronto Saturday Night.]

By what method do the courts determine sentences? I am given to concluding that whatever rule does apply, if there is one, it requires revision. Here are three sentences dealt out last week in the Province of Ontario:

Police Chief John Mattson, of Pembroke, stole $11,246 of town funds and got twelve months in jail.

Daniel J. McGurk, letter carrier, Toronto, stole $1 50 from the mail and got five years.

M. T. Buchanan, of Ingersoll, member of the county council of Oxford, pleaded guilty to conspiracy, breach of trust and using his public office to procure bribes, and got away on suspended sentence.

NEW U. S. POSTAL RATES.

[Boston Globe.]

Cream-colored postal cards printed in red ink are soon to take the place of the present cards of black ink design. This is an effort to present an artistic card, and the Government is prepared to spend $65,000 more this year than last in this decorative effort. This may seem extravagant, but when one learns that the profit on the sale of postal cards exceeds $8,000,000 a year, the extra expense seems justified. Besides, the department secretly hopes that the cards will be so much more attractive that added sales will more than meet the extra expense.

THOSE HE HAD TRIED.

[Louisville Courier-Journal.]

"Yes, I have just done Europe."

"Can you give me a list of hotels to go to?"

"No; the best I can do is to give you a list of hotels to keep away from."

INCONSISTENT HAT.

[Baltimore American.]

Madam, I am astonished so ardent a teetotal advocate as yourself should wear such a hat."

"Why not, sir?"

"Because it is full of cock tails."

LIST OF DISASTERS.

[Louisville Courier-Journal.]

"Did the play have a happy ending?"

"It might have been worse. My wife only lost her handkerchief and one glove."

CAN'T FAIL.

[Houston Post.]

"I wish I knew which one of those young men to marry. I believe I shall consult a fortune-teller."

"That's a good idea. Consult Bradstreet."

ENUMERATORS WILL NOW BE INSTRUCTED

Work of Getting Ready for the Taking of the Census Proceeds.

Census Instructor McPherson has finished his work with the commissioners of Western Ontario, and the latter gentlemen are now preparing to hold classes for the enlightenment of dozens of enumerators who will have charge of the work, commencing the 1st of June.

All will attend school again for a couple of days, but will be paid for their worries at the rate of $2 per day. A few are now engaged in other employment, so this remuneration will be necessary in order to insure their attendance. However, Mr. E. W. Scatcherd, commissioner for London, will probably hold a meeting of the enumerators, when the contingent of about 40 for this city will be divided into four classes to attend when most convenient for the majority of each division.

Pamphlets containing instructions to the smallest detail have been published by the Government, and each enumerator will be provided with a copy. A letter containing further information will also be sent along from Ottawa to each man when the sheets and folios are expressed to London on or about May 25.

The number of schedules for the taking of the census will be estimated from the population figures of the last assessment. All information must be written on the official documents in ink, and as enumerators will have quite a little work to do in order to proceed with their duties with all possible speed, they must be provided with fountain pens.

PEACE MAKERS BLESSED SAYS CARDINAL GIBBONS

Makes Eloquent Plea for an Anglo-American Arbitration Treaty.

[Canadian Press.]

Baltimore, Md., May 3.—"I am persuaded that the signing of a treaty of arbitration between Great Britain and the United States would not only be a source of incalculable blessings to those two great powers, but would go far towards the maintenance of permanent international peace throughout the civilized world," said Cardinal Gibbons at the opening session of the Third National Peace Congress here today.

"Both of these great nations have many things in common. We speak the same noble tongue and the English language is more universally used today than any other language on the face of the earth.

"We also live under practically the same form of government. The head of one nation is a king, the head of the other nation is a president; England is governed by a constitutional monarchy; the United States is ruled by a constitutional republic. And I believe that both of these nations have been more successful in adjusting and reconciling the intimate authority with personal liberty than any other country of the world.

Great Is British Empire.

"England is mistress of the ocean. Her ships ply through every sea on our great globe. Her flag floats over every harbor of the world. Her Empire embraces a territory comprising ten millions of square miles, or about one-fifth of the whole globe. Great was the Roman Empire in the days of its imperial splendor. And yet the Roman Empire was scarcely one-sixth of today.

"The United States rules nearly one hundred millions of happy and contented people. Our Government exercises a salutary influence over the American continent. Our influence is not to destroy but to save, not to dismember but to preserve the peace and autonomy of our sister republics.

"Oh, if England and America were to enter into an alliance of permanent arbitration with each other, such a bond of friendship and amity would be a blessing not only to these two great powers, but to all the nations of the civilized world.

"The time seems to be most auspicious for the consummation of this alliance. It meets with the approval of the President of the United States, who honors this meeting by his presence. I earnestly hope it will have the sanction of Congress now in session. It meets with the approval of Sir Edward Grey, British minister of foreign affairs. It has the cordial sympathy of the distinguished gentlemen assembled here today, and I pray that these men may receive the title promised by the Prince of Peace to all who walk in His footsteps: "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God."

[Canadian Press.]

Brantford, May 3. Eight local employees of the T., H and B. freight sheds quit work last night, refusing to handle freight which had arrived late. It is not a strike, but simply a refusal of the men to do work assigned them, and their places are being filled. A similar walkout occurred at Hamilton.

SAME OLD SHAW.

London, May 3.—Mr. George Bernard Shaw, in correcting alleged inaccuracies in his biography, written by Professor Henderson, says that the book is attracting a stream of pilgrims to a house in Osnaburg street in which he never lived. With his characteristic modesty, Mr. Shaw declares that this "accuracy does not matter, as "an American can worship as devoutly at the ginger beer shop selected as he could if Osnaburg street were my first home in London, instead of my third."

"I had been given up to die by three of our best doctors,

I could not stand it to be on my feet and I was so swelled in the abdomen I could hardly breathe.

But thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Nervine I am able to be about the streets, a walking advertisement of the curative qualities of your remedies, although I am 70 years old."

JOHN R. COCHRAN, Lewistown, Ill.

Better than any statement we could make regarding the value of

are these words of Mr. Cochran. He speaks from experience, the highest possible source of knowledge. If you have any of the signs of a weak heart, such as pain in the left shoulder or arm, fainting and hungry spells, shortness of breath, smothering spells, fluttering or palpitation of the heart, you need

SHRIEKS AND CURSES BLOCK CAMORRA TRIAL

Caged Prisoners Become So Frenzied That Court Is Adjourned.

[Canadian Press.]

Viterbo, Italy, May 3.—Nicolla Morra, denounced by Genarro Abbatemaggio as one of the actual assassins of Genarro Cuocolo and his wife, faced his accuser today, and their exchanges provoked a scene so violent that President Bianchi was compelled to suspend the sitting.

As was the case yesterday, the informer and the defendant stood before the judges' bench, and appeared to be prevented from springing at each other's throat only by the intervening carabineers. Morra's associates in the prisoners' pen cheered and cursed his "traducer." Again Abbatemaggio described the murders, indicating minutely the part taken by Morra, who frequently interrupted with denials. The accused first rejoined with ridicule but anger soon overcame him, and rising cries finally silenced the voice of the witness.

"I must have been an idiot, and if I were an idiot I would not have been chosen to organize a crime. The truth is that you are a miserable epileptic now in an abnormal condition. I can prove my own assertions of innocence by witnesses who will be called at an opportune moment. I do not mention them now, because if their identity was known to the carabineers, the latter would intimidate them."

Then followed a verbal duel between the informer and the accused, in which they exhausted their knowledge of the Italian language in expressing their hatred and contempt of each other.

The priest, Ciro Vttozzi, looking as though he was on the point of apoplexy, screamed at the informer: "Thief, thief, thief."

The prisoners in the cage presented a sight horrible to look upon as they cursed, gesticulated and beat their manacled hands against the steel bars in a paroxysm of anger. Unable to proceed, the court declared a recess. Even then it was some time before the carabineers could calm the prisoners sufficiently to make it safe to take them out of the pen for luncheon.

RECORDER CLASHES WITH A JUDGE

Former Obects to Latter's Criticism of License Commissioners.

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, May 3.—Mr. Recorder Weir yesterday afternoon expressed himself strongly with regard to the remarks made by Mr. Justice Greenshields on Monday, when he annulled the decision of the license commissioners to refuse a license to Arthur Demers on the ground that Mr. Recorder Weir, in his capacity as license commissioner, had not been present when the evidence in the case was given.

"The terms of the judgment," said Mr. Weir, "whether correctly reported or not, are untrue. To suppose that I would pronounce judgment in any case upon information picked up on the street, and without acquainting myself with the evidence, is incredible, and such a statement cannot be allowed to remain uncontradicted."

St. John, N. B., May 3.—George Bedard, in the employ of the Grand Trunk Pacific at Baker Lake, fell from a trestle on which he was working. He was taken to the hospital at St. Basile, where he died Monday night. He belonged to Notre Dame, Que., and leaves a wife and child.

REBELS SAY FEDERALS BROKE ARMISTICE

Mexican Troops Enter Juarez Disguised as Laborers.

El Paso, Texas, May 3.—With Judge Francisco Carabajal, the Government peace envoy, already on the ground and Governor Miguel Ahumada, of Chihuahua, who is to act in an advisory capacity, expected to reach here before night, peace negotiations bid fair to soon be in progress.

The first move will be the extension of the armistice, which expires at noon today. Dispatches from Mexico city announced an extension of five days, but no official word has reached General Madero, who yesterday offered a three-day extension, including in the truce territory the town of Ojibery, which has been besieged by the insurrectos, and the relief of which by flying federal reinforcements, was related in dispatches from Presidio, Texas, and Mexico City last night.

Insurrecto leaders declare that the federals have violated the terms of the armistice by bringing reinforcements into Juarez disguised as laborers.

General Madero has called the attention of General Navarro to the matter.

Nearly every cellar in that district was flooded, and the full damage is not known yet. The cause of the break was a weak spot in the pipe, which had been laid five years

Of Interest To Women

DON'T YOU OWE HIM SOMETHING

An Editorial for Women by Cynthia Grey.

What does your husband owe you?

Ah—that's a question to which every wife has a long and detailed answer always ready.

But—what do you owe your husband?

That's quite another notion, isn't it?

And yet it is just as important, and altogether too much ignored by a certain class of wives—the young and vain and pretty ones, who in their shallow little brains imagine they can afford to ignore it.

Of course, there are many thousands of wives who always give more than they owe. But they are door mats, not helpmates. Of course, there are other thousands who enter intelligently into the new partnership and do their part of the work with cheerfulnesss and skill. And they are the happy ones.

But don't you know many others who seem to say with every flirt of their too expensive gowns, "Well he's got me—he's lucky he did. Now he can just firm in and get me everything I want, and be glad of the chance." And they are the failures.

Women like that seem to think that the gift of their own selfish persons is so great a boon that any man ought to thankfully go into perpetual slavery after receiving it.

Of course, she has given him a great gift—if she lives up to her promise.

But aren't women like that forever playing "Injun giver" and taking the gift away?

True, most men do enjoy the pleasure of the chase.

But they also like to be sure of the game sometimes. They like to get it, and they like to have it to show what they can do.

Where is the hunter who wants his antlers, his wolf heads, his fox pelts, off somewhere at winter resorts in winter—at summer resorts in summer, at sanatoriums any old time of the year?

He wants them where they belong—where he is.

And there in his home he wants too that other and that much more precious ornament—his wife.

"Oh, I've trained my husband so he can get along without me." Don't you hear it pretty often? And is there any sentence more pitiful for the thoughtful person to hear?

For it is the first symptom of that time that is surely coming when each not only can, but will, get along without the other one forever.

A little vacation is always good. A selfishly long, expensive stay often repeated, is the death blow at the happiness of the home.

How would you like it if your husband didn't stick to his job? Just think about that awhile and then do a little bit of sticking tight to yours!

THE CABLEMAN

BY WEATHERBY CHESNEY.

"I am no fanciful man, Elsa, but I have written those four words, 'I do not return,' deliberately. Of late I have had a feeling—a fanciful man would say a presentiment—that my end is not far off. I have lived a life of varied activities, some useful, and some perhaps not so useful, and the strain of old efforts is beginning to tell upon me. In the early years of my manhood I suffered great physical hardships, and they left a weak place; before I left London my doctor warned me that the weak place was becoming weaker. The effort which I must make today—an effort, which for your sake as well as mine, is inevitable—is of the sort which I have been warned to avoid, but I have no choice. I tell you this unwillingly, and for the first time, but it is necessary that you should be ready, if I fail, to take up the work where I leave it.

"Now, you will ask—what is the work? My daughter, it is the rehabilitation of my name. I have thought lately that you were beginning to doubt; whether my anxiety on this point was not becoming weaker. Elsa, I say to you solemnly, that it is as strong now as ever it was. But having said that, I am now going to add something which you will, perhaps, not understand. It is this: I hand over the work to you, but I lay no charge upon you to complete it. Nay, more, under certain circumstances I forbid you to complete it. I do not even make you the judge of those circumstances. That is an office which I leave, not to you, but to your mother.

"Your mother is on her way to join us. She will arrive on the Funchal from Lisbon on the tenth of the month. If on that date I am unable to meet her, if my presentiment—after all, I think it is a presentiment, Elsa—has by that time come true, I wish you to recover this package from the safe place in which you have bestowed it, and to give it into her hands. When you do so, tell her also that my last message to her, spoken by the lips of you, her daughter, is that she is to respect the wish I have expressed in a letter to her which the packet contains. She will understand; you will not. For the rest, be guided by her.

"Good-bye, little girl. I think this is the longest letter I have ever written to you. I have one thing more to add to it. If you have begun to doubt me in some things, at any rate you have never doubted that I love you. In days to come your estimate of your father may change; you will hear things that will try your faith. But never believe that he did not love you. It is for your sake that I am daring danger today; it is for your sake that I hope for success, that I may return to you to be happy for a little while longer in your love.

"It is time now that I was starting. I cannot write more. But again, darling, good-bye."

Elsa read this letter with tears streaming down her face. Whatever the man may have been in life, only a churl would deny that this message from him in death was pathetic. If he was a scoundrel, he had never been so to his daughter; and in his skillful discounting of the revelations that must come after his death, there was a melancholy cleverness. He fought for the continuance of her love, and it was plain that while he pleaded he feared. At present Elsa saw only the pleading; it was not until later days that she recognized with a sorrowing pity, that the fear was there too.

There was much in the letter that she did not understand. Her father plainly looked for death as the issue of his effort; but what sort of death? At the hands of the enemy whom he was going to meet—murder? Then why that reference to the hardships of his youth, and the weak place they had left? For the first time she allowed herself to hope that her father's end had not been violent, after all. Sudden it must have been, but perhaps—

Her love carried her at once to the other extreme of speculation. Was her father not a victim, but a hero? He had made a great effort, and he said that he made it for her sake; she did not understand that, but he had written the words. Did he know that the effort would cost him his life.

She canvassed this thought, and it seemed to her that it was the truth. She found a certain comfort in it, and she took a dreary pleasure in carrying out the task which he had laid upon her. The safest place she knew. That was surely the Ring Rock, round whose flanks she could now, through the fog, hear the water swirling.

She had the packet with her, sealed in a great stone jar. It was thin and flat, and had rolled easily into a shape that would pass through the jar's neck.

She took the boat in through the opening, and made for a spot on the east of the circle. There was a funnel-shaped fissure in the rock wall here, which even at low water contained a fathom of black water. She had sounded it on the last occasion on which she had visited the Ring Rock and it was this funnel-shaped fissure that she meant to use for her hiding-place. She had painted the jar black, so that it should not be visible against the basalt, and she had tied many loops of strong picture wire about its neck so that she could recover it by grappling when her mother came.

She brought her boat close to the rock wall, and was feeling with a boathook for the mouth of the fissure, when a sound from the outside struck her ears.

She was not alone. Voices of men close at hand came to her through the fog.

CHAPTER XI.

The Piling-Up of the Sea Horse.

Elsa drew back her boathook from the fissure, and stood up in the boat listening with a strained intensity of concentration. She was quite sure that they were men's voices that she had heard; but were the men a long way off or close to her? She knew how deceptive is the nature of sound in a fog on the water. Probably some boat was passing in the distance.

She heard the voices again, and this time they seemed quite close. She could almost distinguish the actual words, and she could hear plainly that the language was English. The fog swept down upon her again in a thick blanket. She could not see three yards ahead. The thickening of the gloom was sudden, and probably only local. But while it lasted she was safe from observation.

She must finish her work before it lifted to betray her.

She lowered her stone jar into the fissure, and pushed her boat quickly away from the side. Hardly had she done so, when by some caprice of the air currents the fog cleared away so completely that from the middle of her little harbor she could see the whole circle of the basalt walls. It was only a local clearness; in the gathering dusk of the evening she could see through the narrow entrance that the heavy billowing masses of whiteness were still twisting and heaving on the sea outside.

She put an oar in the stern-notch, and began sculling towards the entrance. A voice from close at hand rang sharply on her ears:

"Rocks dead ahead! Starboard!"

She heard the rumble of a wheel, and the sharp rattle of the rudder chains. A shadowy form loomed out of the vapors, and came slowly on towards the entrance. The next moment the bowsprit of a large vessel passed between the rock walls of the narrow opening; there was a grating noise, and a sharp jerk; the vessel heeled till her bulwark touched the basalt, shivered a moment, and swung back again the other way, the bell on her forecastle tolled with the violence of the oscillation, and then, balanced on the fulcrum of the grounded forefoot, she settled down with long slow swings, like some giant metronome, or like the dead rolling of a derelict in the trough.

There was a confusion and shouting on her deck, and Elsa thought that she saw a woman's form. The fog crept round again and blotted out the view of the stranded vessel.

She sculled nearer, as quietly as she could. It did not seem that there was any immediate danger, the vessel apparently was not sinking, and as the sea outside was calm, the people would easily make the shore in their boats. She did not wish to be seen, so she waited until they were gone. But meanwhile she must know whether it was possible for her to get out at all.

It was not possible. Under the light air the ship had taken ground slowly, but her weight had carried her well into the opening. There was not room on either side of her for a boat to pass out. Elsa was a prisoner.

She looked up at the name painted on the bows. It was almost dark now, but she could just make out the white letters. She nearly betrayed herself by a cry of dismay. The vessel was the Sea Horse, the circus people's schooner.

She pushed back quickly, but a head appeared over the forward bulwarks, and a woman's voice hailing her told her that she had been seen.

Boat ahoy! We want help. Bring your boat alongside."

It was Mona de la Mar.

Elsa drew back further into the fog. Her first impulse was to refuse help. Mona shouted again, and Elsa brought her boat alongside.

"Do you need help?" she asked.

"Yes."

"Are you filling?"

"No, I don't think so. But we're hard aground. If it comes on to blow we shall break up."

"You had better take to your boats."

"We haven't any boats, that's why we need yours. Can you come aboard if we let down a ladder?"

"Yes."

All Around the Home

CYNTHIA GREY.

Now it is that those who are so fortunate as to live in the country may gather all sorts of delectable spring greens, for their physical well being. The tender leaves of the dandelion, the homely mustard greens, the wood and field sorrel, tender docks and cowslips, horse radish leaves and rhubarb leaves, are all specially wholesome, as well as chicory, corn salad, purslane; milkweed, marshmallow and chickweed. Each and all of these may be cooked and served as boiled greens or in a salad. In looking over all greens and salads thoroughness is essential. Every leaf should be closely scanned for slugs, bugs and other undesirable tenants, and at least three waters be used in their washing.

Olive Oil For Thy Stomach's Sake.

If persons who are inclined to be anaemic or are possessed of delicate digestive powers would learn the hygienic value of simple greens, dressed with salt, olive oil and lemon juice or a little pure vinegar, there would be fewer dyspeptics, to say nothing of bad complexions. Olive oil is much more easily assimilated than animal fat, and is, besides, rich in nutriment and healing power.

Dandelion Wine.

The cheerful-faced dandelion is still offering great medicinal advantages to whomsoever cares to avail himself of nature's free dispensary. For the wine, pick the blossoms and stems, and over three quarts of them pour four quarts of boiling water and let stand over night. Strain in the morning. Take three lemons sliced fine, three and one-half pounds of granulated sugar and cup of raisins cut open, and add to the liquid. Better add a little water to dissolve the sugar and let it come to a boil before adding to the rest. Pour into a covered jar, allowing it to stand twelve days, and stirring every day. Strain again, let the liquid stand for a month, then bottle.

To Serve as a Vegetable.

Cut off the coarse outer leaves, wash well, then leave in cold water for an hour to crisp. Drain, throw in a saucepan of boiling water that has been salted and simmer for twenty minutes or half an hour, if full grown. Turn into a colander, press so as to extract all the liquor, then chop. Place a tablespoonful of butter in a stew pan, and when melted add a tablespoonful of flour. Add the greens, toss lightly with a wooden spoon, an I when the butter is absorbed season with salt, pepper and nutmeg and moisten suitably with broth or gravy. Toss ten minutes longer, add if you like a tablespoonful of cream, sweet or sour, and serve hot with a garnish of toast points or croutons.

Dandelion Sandwiches.

Have ready a number of tender dandelion leaves, washed, dried and chilled. Pound in a mortar or chop fine cold cooked meat, poultry or fish preferred, mixing with a little butter, salt and pepper to season. Spread this mixture on thin slices of bread and butter, put a few dandelion leaves on top and cover with more buttered slices. Cut into squares, triangles or fingers and serve. These are delightful for picnics, as the leaves keep the sandwiches moist and fresh.

Soft Shell Eggs.

Dear Miss Grey.—I have a hen that lays a soft shell egg every second or third day, and has since the early part of March. Can you or some of the readers of your columns tell me the cause? I am told she is too fat. I have reduced the feed for some weeks, but she is no better. If you can tell me I shall be very grateful. Thanking you for your trouble. MARY D.

A.—Lighten up on the grain feed; give green stuff, and keep lime, grit and crushed oyster shell before your hens all the time.

To Clean Blinds.

Dear Miss Grey.—Can light-colored window blinds that have become soiled be painted, and is there any special kind of paint to use? INQUIRER.

A.—I don't know that painting would be very satisfactory. Rubbing with stale bread crumbs is a good way of cleaning.

To Remove Stain.

Dear Miss Grey.—Some oil of smoke from a stovepipe got on a navy and white silk skirt. I washed it off, but the stain remains. Can you tell me of anything that will remove it? PERPLEXED.

A.—Apply first a very little olive oil or lard; then sponge with benzine or turpentine.

Dear Miss Grey.—Just recently, in answer to a correspondent, you stated that blushing was something a girl had no reason to be ashamed of. Do you think the same would apply to a boy? STUDENT.

A.—I do.

Tennis Clubs.

Dear Miss Grey.—Kindly let me know through the paper the names of some tennis clubs in the city. Could one become a member. READER.

A.—There are several clubs connected with various churches in the city, but they are usually composed of the young people of the congregation. An inquiry among your acquaintances would, no doubt, put you in touch with the officers of some of these clubs.

More Stains.

Dear Miss Grey.—As I am a constant reader of The Advertiser, would you please answer a few questions for me. 1. What would take a spot out of light blue and tan shot silk? 2. Are velvet shopping bags the most fashionable at present? Thanking you in advance. ANXIOUS.

A.—1. You do not state what kind of spot it is; if a grease spot, try a paste made with ammonia and magnesia; when dry, brush off with a fine brush. 2. Velvet handbags are very popular; many of them are ornamented with bead work in gold or jet.

Wedding Etiquette.

On the day following the marriage of their daughter, I was sent by the father and mother an announcement of the wedding. 1. What reply would I be expected to give? 2. Would I be expected to send a present? There being only a few relatives present at the wedding ceremony, I being only a friend of the groom. ANXIOUS.

A.—It is not necessary to send a present unless you wish to do so, but you should call on the young couple after they are settled in their home.

KITCHEN HINTS

Always spread cornmeal out on paper to dry thoroughly before putting it away.

Burn all scrap papers, coffee grounds, egg shells and sweepings.

Never wrap steel or silver in a woolen cloth. Use softest tissue paper.

Never use carving knife in cutting bread. It will ruin it.

To save fingers, always use a small clean cloth wrapped on a stick to grease hot pans and bake-tins.

Try putting pancake batter in a pitcher and pouring it out to bake.

Have a paper flour sack handy for sewing clippings, threads and waste paper and dispose of it to the ragman for articles needed.

Ticking makes substantial kitchen aprons. Large, plain white ones may always be handy to use for emergencies.

Never set coal oil near butter, lard or milk.

Bread crusts and odd pieces may be dried in the oven and put away in paper bags until wanted for use.

Always wash cut glass in hot water and polish with newspaper.

Skillets, griddles, iron gem-pans and waffle irons should be well greased and burned off once or twice before using.

In lime water localities keep an oyster or mussel shell in the tea kettle to prevent lime from forming in the kettle.

The best soup is made by cooking the stock the day before and cooking the vegetables in it the second day.

To fringe celery cut it in pieces two inches long and cut down into several parts with water to curl.

Lobster salad should be eaten as soon as possible after dressing is added, else it is unwholesome.

Always sift all flours before using. Sift a small quantity to keep on hand in case of emergency.

To freshen a salt fish lay it skin side up in an earthen vessel—never in tin

In stewing an old chicken a little soda or vinegar added to the water will make it quite tender.

Lay a garment which has been scorched in ironing where the sun's rays will fall directly on it.

AS a finishing touch to a careful toilette use Sanitol Face Powder. It enhances a good complexion, eliminates blemishes, and remains undetected on the face. Soothing to a skin irritated by extremes of heat, cold and wind. A scientific antiseptic preparation, beneficial to sensitive skin. Made in three tints—flesh, white and brunette.

GUELPH OPENS WITH LONDON ON MAY 17

Teams Will Play Two Games in Royal City and Came to London on May 19.

FITZMAURICE IS AN UMP.

Londoner Selected as One of Permanent Staff at Yesterday's Session—Schedule Out Soon.

Fitzmaurice, of this city, carrying a recommendation from Mooney Gibson, London's representative on the Pittsburg National League crew, was yesterday afternoon selected as one of the three regular umpires for the Canadian Baseball League at the executive meeting held at Victoria Hotel, Guelph.

Bielor, of Rochester, N. Y., and "Strike Toh" Smith, of St. Thomas, are the others. The substitutes are Conkle, Hamilton; Burke, Brantford, and Dyson, Guelph.

The London team will commence the season on May 17 at Guelph, and will be at home for the first time, with the same team, two days later. As the local crew is assured of strong support, the smaller towns on the circuit agreed to allow this city many of the holidays dates, and as a result the Forest City squad will battle at Tecumseh Park on May 24, Coronation Day, June 22, Civic Holiday, Labor Day, and Dominion Day. The team will also be in this city for morning and afternoon games during Old Boys' and fair week.

Schedule Not Issued.

Owing to numerous changes in the schedule the card was not issued at yesterday's meeting, but will be sent out by Secretary Robinson, of the Hamilton Spectator, within a couple of days.

Guelph, St. Thomas and Berlin have the opening dates, while London, Hamilton and Brantford will be home on May 19, two days later.

All teams were represented at yesterday's session at Guelph, which was presided over by league president, Donald Ferguson, of this city.

Manager Knotty Lee, of the Hamilton team, has everything in fine trim. Several players have already reported at the Ambitious City, while a couple more will be there tomorrow. The first practice game will be played at Niagara Falls on Sunday.

Abby Johnson has his men at Strathroy, where they are working out on the field and in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The Guelph men will meet a picked Strathroy crew this afternoon and tomorrow, and will go to St. Thomas on Friday and Saturday.

Andy Kane, of Whitman, Mass., who is in charge of Brantford, has everything satisfactory for the Telephone City. It is full force will be on hand shortly, and will be in good shape for the season's opening.

Berlin After Phyle.

Berlin is still dickering with Billy Phyle, of Toronto, for manager, and will close with a leader as soon as possible. The troubles of the Dutchmen have all been smoothed over, and that stand will be in the park when needed.

Chancer Elliot, of St. Thomas, is very enthusiastic. The great coach who is in charge of the Railway city declares the project is received most enthusiastically there, and that the team will have plenty of support.

Don't Phone for Scores

The Advertiser is unable to give scores of baseball games to fans over the telephone. If you want the results, read the bulletins, posted each night in front of this office as soon as the games are finished.

MULLIN WINS 5TH GAME FOR TIGERS

Detroit Twirler Has Been on Mound Five Times This Season and Has Won All.

BROWNS WERE TOO EASY

Onetime Champs Batted Around on Bill Bailey's Offerings, and Won by 7 to 1.

St. Louis, May 3.—George Mullin pitched his fifth game of the season this afternoon and for the fifth time he came out victorious. Today his victims were the St. Louis Browns, and the Tigers won with another of those one-sided scores, the tallying: Detroit 7, St. Louis 1.

The game was a listless affair. Neither side seemed to have the pep which has characterized the majority of the games the Tigers have played this year. The contest was a long drawn out affair, lasting nearly two hours, and while the Tigers did not have the contest cinched until the ninth inning, when they batted all around against Bill Bailey, there did not seem to be any doubt as to what the outcome would be. FORD OF YANKEES WINS GAME FROM ATHLETICS

New York, May 2.—Ford had a shade on Bender today in a sharp game between the Highlanders and Athletics, New York winning, 2 to 1. Otis Johnson made two triples and a single, driving in one run and scoring one himself. Poor base-running kept down New York's score. The weather was uncomfortably cold. Score:

GIANT BACKSTOP WILL TRY TO BEAT GABBY STREET'S RECORD

EDWARD SWEENEY.

Catcher Ed Sweeney, of the New York American League club, wants to catch a ball dropped from the Metropolitan Tower, New York City. The distance is 638 feet, 162 feet higher than the Washington monument.

Sweeney, while in Washington, took a look at the monument, and remarked that he believed he would try to duplicate the feat of Street and Billy Sullivan.

"Why not go them one better and catch a ball tossed from the Metropolitan Tower?" suggested Russell Ford.

The pitcher was joking, but Sweeney took him seriously, and says he will make the attempt this month when the Highlanders return from their western trip.

Two Record-Making Hits by Well-Known Ball Players

Youthful as the season is, some stellar performances have been recorded by chroniclers of baseball.

At Newark, N. J., where the Giants played an exhibition game, Fred Merkle, first baseman of the New York club, caught a fast ball on the beezer and lined it to the left field fence, exactly 400 feet away. The fence is 20 feet high.

Merkle hit the ball with terrific force and when it struck the fence it bounded high and fell outside the inclosure instead of back into the field.

Another long hit was made by Joe Jackson, ex-New Orleans star who plays centre field for Cleveland. Jackson has a trick of taking a toe hold when he thinks he has out-guessed the pitcher. He did in this instance and slammed one of Roy Mitchell's offerings over the Cleveland right field fence and screen, which rises 45 feet.

Last season Sam Crawford hit one of Falkenberg's offerings over this screen, near the first base foul line and it was predicted the feat would never be duplicated. The fence is 290 feet from the plate, measured along the foul line.

Jackson's hit was longer than Crawford's, as it cleared the screen on a line about 20 feet from second base, sailing over the head of the centre fielder. The spot the ball cleared the screen is 326 feet. Jackson's hit scored Jack Graney also.

(Note: Jackson is the player George Mullin said was suffering from a weakness.)

GOTCH AND HACK TO MEET ON LABOR DAY

Wrestlers Will "Rassle" at White Sox Park, Chicago, for Championship.

Chicago, May 3.—The long-talked-of Gotch-Hackenschmidt match for the wrestling championship of the world will be closed today. Champion Gotch reached Chicago yesterday after a successful tour of the west, and announced at once that he was ready to sign articles for the big bout, which is to be staged in Chicago Labor Day.

Matchmaker Joe Coffey, of the Empire Athletic Club, which is promoting the affair, failed to get an interview with the giant Iowan yesterday, but has an appointment with him for today, at which he thinks all the details of the great wrestling struggle will be closed.

"The match is as good as made," said Coffey last night. "Gotch has kept faith with us throughout the negotiations, and I have no doubt that he will sign up when I meet him today. He is in Chicago May 1, you will observe, as he wired the Examiner he would be. I think it will be a matter of a few minutes to close the match.

"The contest will be decided Labor Day. The site has not been named as yet. It may go to Hawthorne or Harlem, but it is very probable that the White Sox baseball park will be the place where the old rivals will battle it out for the championship once more."

"THREE EYE" CLUBS RECEIVE WARNING

Players Transferred as Planned Will Become Free Agents.

Cincinnati, May 2.—The national baseball commission today issued the following:

The attention of the national commission has been called to various newspaper publications, wherein it is stated that certain clubs known as the "Southern Clubs" of the Three-Eye League are contemplating the transferring of surplus players to the Decatur, Ill., club, an independent league, and are arranging a series of exhibition games with that team. A transfer of players in this manner is illegal, and contrary to the provisions of the national agreement and the rules governing the national commission. All players transferred in this way are hereby notified that they are free agents.

"Who is Albert?" may not be answered, as the bout between Carl Morris and Albert Palzer is called off. In fact, Manager Ufer asserts it never was on.

Baltimore, May 2.—Rochester won from Baltimore, 8 to 5, today by bunching hits in the first and fifth inning. They fell on Atkins' delivery and batted out enough safeties to net four runs in the fifth inning. Pope then relieved him and held the Bronchos to one run in the ninth inning. Good fielding by the Brownies, and the Orioles' score down. Baltimore found Holmes pretty freely in the sixth inning, and he was relieved by Dessau. The score:

BATTLING NELSON WILL BOX IN JUNE

Former Lightweight Champion Starts "Come Back" Campaign Today.

Chicago, May 3.—Oscar Matthew Battling Nelson departs today on the first stage of his "come back" campaign.

The literary light of Hegewisch goes direct to Hot Springs, where he will spend ten days, after which he will rush to the Maine woods for a short fishing trip. If he finds he is showing symptoms of his former ring prowess, he'll at once start negotiations for some try-outs bouts before going after a return go with Wolgast. Nelson has offers from New York, New Orleans and Boston for fights to say nothing of chances to box in Fond du Lac, Vancouver and Kenosha. A New Orleans club is after him to meet Freddy Welsh in May, while the Armory A. C. of Boston, has Matty Baldwin lined up as an opponent for him. The Dane stated last night that he did not expect to be ready to box before the latter part of June or early in July.

RINGERS EXPELLED BY TROTTING ASSN.

Duvenicks, Father and Son, From Missouri, Lose Out for Second Time.

Chicago, May 2.—H. L. Duvenick, sen., and his son, H. L. Duvenick, jun., both of California, Mo., whose names have been connected with trotting horses for many years, were finally expelled on appeal from the American Trotting Association today, and were forbidden ever to enter in events conducted by the association. Theodore Christian, of Centretown, Mo., and J. E. Roberts, of St. Louis, were also declared by the board of appeal of the association to have been implicated with the Duvenicks, and a previous order of expulsion was upheld against the four men.

The Missouri men were charged with having entered Marie Van Hook, a pacing mare with a record of 2:09¼, in a 2:17 race at Monroe, La. The mare was entered, it was charged, under the name of Lulu Alle, and won the race easily. The case was decided against the men some time ago and they appealed.

SHORT PRICES ON HORSES IN DERBY

Madden's Adam Bede Is Now Thought to Have Good Chance.

SUNSTAR IS THE FAVORITE

But Betting on Him Is Light at 6 to 1—Lord Derby's Steadfast Also Good.

London, May 2.—First betting posted on the English Derby in London today revealed some remarkably short prices. J. B. Joel's Sunstar, winner of the 2,000 guineas at Newmarket, is the favorite, but there is only light betting on him at odds of 6 to 1. Lord Derby's Steadfast, which was second to Sunstar, is also being supported at 10 to 1. The announcement that Louis Winans has bought Adam Bede from John E. Madden for $35,000, and a share in the stakes should he win the Derby, has created a demand for the American horse, and he is being well backed at 20 to 1. Before that news there was as good as 100 to 1 posted against the big son of Adam's chances on the continent, and it is rumored that a select coterie of Americans who are close to Madden backed him at these odds to win a fortune.

Adam Bede Favored.

He is under the care of Trainer J. Cannon at turf headquarters, and the experts who have watched him gallop are sweet on his chances if he can be turned up for a bruising contest as soon as he is acclimatized.

Richard Croker's Clonburn and James R. Keene's Iron Mask II., who were supposed to have a chance prior to the running of the two thousand guineas, are not mentioned in the quotations as yet. Neither showed that he could go a distance in their public trial, although both may improve before May 31, the date of the Derby. Following are the quotations on entrants who are in demand: Sunstar, 6 to 1; Steadfast, 10 to 1; Shetland, 7 to 1; Pic Try, 9 to 1; Collin, 8 to 1; Sobieski, 100 to 6; Eton Boy, 20 to 1; Adam Bede, 20 to 1.

SOLD TO BUFFALO PLAYER DISAPPEARS

Beckendorf Borrowed $200 From Jennings and Disappeared Two Weeks Ago.

HE IS NOT IN BUFFALO

Heine Took His Release From Majors Hard and Said He Wouldn't Carry Detroit String.

Detroit, May 3.—For more than a week the Detroit and Buffalo clubs have been endeavoring in vain to get track of Catcher Heine Beckendorf, who dropped out of sight more than two weeks ago and has since then been released by the Tigers to the Bison club. Beckendorf has disappeared as completely as if wiped off the earth. The fact that, on his departure from Detroit, he drew $200 advance money lends strength to the possibility that something may have happened to him.

Beckendorf left the Detroit club when his release was informally decided on, claiming that he had been called to New York by the death of his wife's mother. On this excuse he touched Manager Jennings for the $200. An attempt was made by the Detroit club to notify him by wire of his release to Buffalo, but he had left his former address in New York and could not be found.

Manager Stallings then instituted a search among Beckendorf's usual haunts in New York, but none of his old cronies had seen or heard of him. It is known that Beckendorf took his relegation to the minors very hard.

Down to Weight.

He had, for the first time since his joining the Detroit club three years ago, worked himself down to playing weight in the south, and believed until the return of the club that he had a chance to beat out Charlie Schmidt for the job of third catcher on the club. Some time before his departure, however, he was told by the Detroit management that he had had his chance last year when loaned to Washington, and had failed to make good. He was in a reckless mood shortly after, and told a reporter that he would never allow the Detroit club to send him to any minor league club, while retaining an option on his services. "They can release me to any club they choose," said he, "but I shall never go, if they try to hold title to me."

Deal Is Optional.

President Navin, of the Detroit club, admits that the Buffalo deal was of the optional variety, but says that it involved no sacrifice in salary by the player. He also points to the example of Jimmie Archer, whom the Tigers released to the same club, but who took his medicine and got back again into fast company.

"Beckendorf had his chance. He looked like the most promising catcher in the minor leagues when we got him," added the local president. "He failed to take care of himself and always overweighed until this spring, but by that time it was too late."

MORAN EARNS DECISION OVER PHILLIE BROCK

Englishman Takes Ten-Round Bout at Cleveland With Ease.

Canton, Ohio, May 3.—Owen Moran, the English lightweight, won the decision over Phil Brock, of Cleveland, tonight in a ten-round bout here. Moran fought brilliantly all the way, while Brock put up the worst fight of his career. Moran landed what looked like a solar plexus blow in the sixth round and Brock went down, claiming a foul, but it was not allowed. Moran had the better of every round.

PAL MORE HAS NO TROUBLE BEATING JACK REDMOND

Easton, Pa., May 3.—Pal Moore, of Philadelphia, had little difficulty in securing the decision over Jack Redmond, of Milwaukee, their 12-round battle at the armory tonight. During most of the bout Redmond was handled at will.

Ankle in Good Shape Moore Is Effective

EARL MOORE.

Twice this spring has Earl Moore shut out the Giants. In the first game he let them down with two hits, and in the second with one solitary safety.

Moore as a member of the Phillies is one of the National League's leading pitchers. He was released by Cleveland some years ago because of a broken ankle. Evidently the ankle is working splendidly these days. So is Moore's curve ball.

JOHNSON DEFENDANT IN $50,000 SLANDER SUIT

Action Is Outcome of Controversy Over National League Presidency, and Is Brought by J. M. Ward.

New York, May 2.—The $50,000 suit for slander brought by John M. Ward against President B. B. Johnson, of the American League, will be argued in the United States circuit court before Justice Hand tomorrow morning. The suit is the outcome of the controversy over the election of the National League president two years ago, when the deadlock between Ward and John A. Heydler resulted in the selection of Thomas J. Lynch.

Ward, in his complaint, sets forth that Johnson made remarks reflecting upon his integrity and dignity as a baseball man and a lawyer. Ward is represented by Stephen C. Baldwin, his former law partner, while Johnson's attorneys are James Schell and Elkus. Many baseball men will be on hand when the case is called.

PIRATES DROP TWO PITCHERS.

Pittsburg, May 2.—Manager Clarke announced today that Pitcher Malloy had been sold to the Nashville Southern League club and Pitcher Noel to Oshkosh, Wis. Malloy was secured from the St. Louis Browns in the spring, but failed to come up to expectations.

DOOIN WANTS TO FORM "BASEBALL QUARTETTE"

Philadelphia, May 2.—Manager Charlie Dooin, who is baseball's sweetest-voiced singer, is thinking of organizing a Phillie quartette of himself, Earl Moore, Dode Paskert and Jack Rowan, and going on the road with it after the baseball season. Dooin believes that such a stunt would prove a big attraction.

The World of Sport

"They aren't through honeymooning," said Connie Mack in explanation of the Athletics' slow start. Connie might just as well have said "we."

It does beat all how much you can ram into a handkerchief when you do not own a suitcase.

Ed Barrow, president of the Eastern League, insists he has never seen so much enthusiasm as exists in his league.

It's good for the blues to watch Hal Chase play first base.

Larry Doyle has started batting at a fearful clip, and his work has been a feature of the games in which the Giants have played.

Roger Bresnahan seems to have recovered the eye that made him feared by pitchers a few years ago.

First game the Giants won this spring was on American League grounds, following the fire which destroyed the Polo grounds.

Jack Johnson's adieu to the gold-kissed hills was not via the gasoline route. He took no chances. The Big Smoke says he is afraid to fight in the state now for fear he'll be pinched for working too fast.

Hal Chase believes that infielder Johnson is more valuable than an ordinary player because he is a humorous cuss and keeps the team on edge with his quaint remarks.

The Brooklyn outfit is a splendid fielding team, but up to date has been a bit weak with the wallop.

The game the lamented Addie Joss was proudest of was played in April, 1908, against Detroit, when he relieved Walter Clarkson, and poled out a three-bagger and two doubles.

It may be spring form that puts "weak teams" in the first division until June 1, but why are the "strong teams" weak at this time?

For a man "with a weakness," this Joe Jackson man is as strong as a goat.

Chicago papers say that Frank Schulte is "hitting the ball hard." No news that. If he wasn't the fact would be worth while.

Players Gandil and French tried to show the National commission Comiskey owed them. They failed. The man Commy treats roughly has not been born.

Phil McGovern acts and looks the fighter. He is willing and knows how, and would be a champion if he took better care of himself.

Pa Cordon is sifting the class for something nice for Sam Johnny, but the 18st. weight-in-air-2 victims are as bashful as brides of fiction.

Roy Corhorn, fence buster of the St. Joe Western League team, has replaced Rolly Zeider in the White Sox outfield.

Carl Morris and Albert Palzer are to fight at Sapulpa. Who is Albert?

Although a major league club will carry a recruit through spring training and a few weeks more, he is sent to a class B team instead of to a first class A outfit. Why?

Strange how these cast-offs go crazy. Earl Moore, dropped by Cleveland, is pitching one-hit games in the National. He has blanked the Giants twice, allowing but three hits.

If losing 25 pounds in six weeks affects Jack Coombs so that he pitches three-hit games the day the news breaks, we suggest medicine for a few pitchers of our acquaintance.

Louis Evans, Cardinal right fielder, is jealous of Hezzie. His two homers in one afternoon off Cannitz is some performance.

A sporting goods house has placed a new mask on the market. The weight between the eyes is removed without weakening the mask. Incidentally the change prevents the backstop's lamps crossing at inopportune moments.

By winning from Philadelphia, Brooklyn broke its own losing streak and checked the Philadelphia speeders.

Three 5-to-2 games in succession between the Naps and Sox might indicate the rival managers had fixed up a rig to suit themselves, but it doesn't.

Having his right handers trounced, and watching his southpaws win, has given Hugh Duffy a hunch, and he will work the sidewheelers as much as possible.

It isn't always the kids who dazzle. Last season Fred Clarke made a record of four assists from the outfield. This year he has set a mark for the sharpshooters by making ten putouts in one game.

With Mathewson rounding to, the Giants shape up better than a week back.

Josh Devore appears to be after the base-stealing record.

Hal Chase's base-running, hitting and fielding furnishes an example his players strive to emulate, with the result that the team is going along nicely.

Walter Johnson's debut wasn't the sort calculated to make Owner Noyes feel cheerful over his $7,000 investment.

Doctors want to remove cartilage from Artie Hofman's knee, to speed him, but the Cub outfielder says he will wait until after the season to be Blackburned.

Why do fighters grab off Celtic monachers? "Eddie O'Keefe," for instance, is a Hebrew.

Harry Forbes, the candy come-back kid, will probably meet Phil McGovern at ten rounds, in South Bend In. Some mill this.

Although dropped for eight in the second, Buck Crouse Pittsburg, rallied, and in the third knocked out Ted Nelson, of Australia.

Keep your eye on Jim Jeffries while abroad. If he starts another reducing stunt it will be significant.

Theatre at Sycamore, Ill., was crowded every evening by women who wanted to watch Cyclone Thompson train.

Mickey Sheridan needs only experience to make him a factor in the lightweight class. Properly handled, he will come fast, and in a year should give the best of them an argument.

DEATH KNOCKS OUT OL' HANK GRIFFIN

Negro Fighter, Once a Match For Jack Johnson, Dies in Ann Arbor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 2.—Hank Griffin, a former well-known negro heavyweight, of late years proprietor of Griffin's Hotel in this city, died this morning of typhoid pneumonia, after an illness of two months, at the age of 41 years. Griffin retired from the ring about five years ago, after a more or less successful career, during which time he met some of the really good men. His best fights probably were with the present champion, Jack Johnson, with whom he fought a 20 and a 15-round draw in 1902. Griffin was bested by Jeffries in four rounds on Sept. 17, 1901. He leaves a widow and two children.

KNAUPP TRADED FOR LINDSAY, IS REPORT

Naps Said To Be Bolstering Up Infield With Pelican.

Cleveland, May 2.—Negotiations are on hand today, it is understood, for the transfer of William Lindsay, New Orleans shortstop, to the Naps, as a strengthener for the infield. Lindsay was one of the sensations last year of the Southern Association, but as the Pelicans have more left-handed hitters than right-handed ones, and as Lindsay is one of the former, it is planned to trade him for somebody who hits right. Shortstop Henry Knaupp, of the Naps, was today released to the Pelicans, and it is confidently expected that Lindsay will at once take forth as a result.

DILLON FIGHTS OFTEN.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 2.—Jack Dillon, just at present Indiana's most sensational offering in a pugilistic way, is fighting an average of a battle a week, and has been doing this since the first of the year. When Dillon finishes with Tony Caponi in Winnipeg, Canada, on May 16, it will have marked his nineteenth fight since Jan. 1. Jack is billed to fight Bob Moha in this city tomorrow night. On May 8 he will go fifteen rounds with Frank Mantell in Dayton, O.

SUTTON WANTS TO PLAY HOPPE

Chicago, May 2.—George Sutton, former 18.1 and 18.2 champion billiard player of the world, whose high average of 300 for 500 points still remains a world record, announces that he is ready to meet Willie Hoppe, present holder of the title, for a side bet of $1,000 a game. Sutton declares he will post $500 on Sept. 1 to bind a match with Hoppe, to be played in November for either the 18.1 or 18.2 championship, optional with Hoppe. Also he said he would post $500 for the alternate championship, the game to be played in January.

ABE ATTELL MAY BE OUT OF RING FOREVER

New York, May 2.—Following the announcement of Featherweight Champion Abe Attell that he cannot enter the ring for at least a year, because of a broken bone in his left arm, sustained in the recent bout with Frankie Burns, Attell's friends have about despaired of his ever shining in the ring again. Attell is 28 years old, and at this age the long rest can do him no good. It is doubtful if his arm will ever be strong again. Should Attell announce his retirement, which is now expected, there will be a lively scramble for the title. The fact that Attell is realizing handsomely on his vaudeville venture makes his return to the game all the more doubtful.

COULON MAY MEET HARRY FORBES

Chicago, May 2.—In all probability Johnny Coulon and Harry Forbes will meet before a Toronto athletic club on May 19. "Kid" Howard, Forbes' manager, has received an offer from the Canadian club for a match during the Derby meeting. "Pop" Conlar has agreed to the bout if suitable inducements are agreed.

THE FICKLE FAN.

[By Tom Akers.]

I saw him at the baseball game,
The day our team lost out;
His glance was like a flashing flame,
His hectic brow suffused in shame,
He swore the pitchers had gone lame,
He "bawled" each player out by name,
And shook his head in doubt.

Again I saw him at the game,
The day the home club won;
I could not think this fan the same,
Upon his brow no blush of shame,
He made the other bugs feel tame,
He urged the players on to fame,
And cheered each hard-won run.

HOW THE CHINESE LIVE IN LONDON

Few People in This City Know Anything of the Lives of the Celestials.

THEY ARE GOOD CITIZENS

Chinks Make Little Trouble—When in Police Court They Are Generally the Injured Parties.

How many Londoners know how the local Chinese population spend their days and nights? All told, there are half a hundred Celestials who help to swell the population of this city. The majority of these are employed in Chinese laundries, and the remainder to a large extent in the mercantile trades, a number of Chinese shops being found on Clarence and other streets. Half a dozen, more or less, are employed in the restaurant business, and as cooks or chefs in local hotels. Occasionally a Chinese servant is to be found in some wealthy home.

Hot and steaming from his laundry operations, coatless, and collarless, the Chinaman does not present a very imposing appearance. But when he appears on the Dundas street promenade, in the evenings, or on Sunday, his dress is as neat and as well-tailored as that of a prospersous merchant.

All day long, from early morning to night, he toils over his tubs and irons, or sells tea and Chinese bric-a-brac in a quaint little shop. But at night he sallies forth, having donned his Sunday garb, and in groups of three or four, or five, betakes himself and friends to the theatre.

Like the Theatre.

It may not be generally known that in proportion to their numbers, the Chinese are easily the best patrons of the theatres in the city. Strange as it may seem, the Chinaman has well-defined theatrical tastes. He does not care for a problem play, and you will rarely see him attending one. He is rather fond of musical comedies, and will even go to hear grand opera.

But it is the moving-picture show where he abounds. You cannot enter one of the picture-theatres in the evening without seeing in the audience several Chinamen, and when you remember that they represent but an infinitesimal fraction of the entire Chinese population of the city you have some idea of the frequency with which they attend. Many of them never miss a change of programme in the nickelodeons, but regularly make a tour of the local circuit several times a week.

Doing the picture-shows, playing fan-tan and dining with an air of refinement and good-breeding in a little cafe kept by a compatriot, there you have the favorite pleasures of the Chinese man of leisure, who in the vulgar light of day is none other than your laundryman.

Fan-Tan.

Fan-tan is the Celestial's only vice, if, indeed, it can be called a vice. Beyond any doubt a more moral-living class or nationality cannot be found in the city than the local Chinese colony. Rarely have they ever figured in the police court annals, and then, they have always been the accusing parties.

But the old provincial sport of beating a Chinaman or defrauding him out of his well-earned laundry tolls, has now become vulgar and obsolete, and the yellow-skinned foreigner is allowed to go his way in peace. He is no longer ridiculed by the street urchins for his pigtail, his clothes-hamper, and the-loose fitting smock, which used to serve him for a coat. He has cut off his queue, he calls for your washing with a green and yellow delivery wagon, and he appears on the streets only in a regulation Canadian business suit.

Epicurean Tastes.

As an epicure the Chinaman is even more fastidious than the Parisian or the Englishman. On market days he mingles freely with the crowd of housewives, kitchen-maids and hucksters on the old market square, and with the eye and training of an expert easily discerns whether the spring chicken, so requisite for his loved chop-suey, was born in this or other years. There may be Buddhists galore in China, but the vegetarian tenets of Buddhism do not trouble the conscience of the Chinese in Canada, who one and all delight in smacking their lips over the toothsome duckling and tender squab.

Through the week the Chinaman dines at home in his laundry with the odor of soapsuds for an appetizer, but on Sunday he invariably seeks out a Chinese restaurant, where he gathers at table with his native countrymen. He does not bolt his food American-fashion, but dines leisurely and at his ease. After dinner he goes to a Chinese "club," or drops in at the Chinese Empire Reform Association, to which practically all the Chinese in London belong.

Chinese Teetotallers.

The reader may be curious to know what transpires at the Chinese clubs of the city. There is very little that would warrant a ministerial or civic investigation. For the most part, with the exception of the Reform Association, the Chinese clubs of London are unorganized groups of friends who meet week-evenings and on Sundays in some shop or laundry. But the Chinese are teetotallers. They do not drink, there is no immorality practiced, and no opium smoking. Some of them are inveterate cigarette smokers, but that is the limit of their dissipation. They meet primarily for the discussion of questions of interest to themselves and their native land far away in the east.

Many of them are deep students. Almost all of them spend a portion of their time in the diligent study of the English language. Perhaps a score or more of them are helped in their studies, or were being helped by Sunday school classes, but the Sunday schools have lost their hold on many of the Celestials in London since the opening of the Chinese Empire Reform Association.

Policy or Sincerity.

Instead of going to Sunday school now, they go to the club. Yet a great many of them will tell you they are Christians; whether from policy or sincerity, it might be hard to say. If they are not Christians it will be very difficult to learn just what they are, whether Taoists, Buddhists, Confucianists, or what-not. The Chinese will ask you with guileless naivete where you live, what you do, where you go to church, and many other things which are of no concern to him, but he is exceedingly loath to tell you anything of his own private life and opinions.

There is no Chinatown in London, but Clarence street is in all respects the centre of their colony, just as it is the centre of several other foreign nationalities. Three or four laundries and a couple of tiny shops there, and all Chinamen meet on Clarence street in London.

Tax on Wives.

Should the Dominion Government eventually remit the tax now collected on the wives of Chinese entering Canada, the local Chinese population would, of course, be doubled and segregation might be a natural result. As it is, however, the Chinaman lives wherever his laundry or shop happens to be, and comes and goes with the remainder of London's 50,000 inhabitants.

FIREARMS AND BAUBLES STILL APPEAL TO INDIANS

Story of a Brave and His Squaw Who Were Sightseeing in London.

A stolid Indian, accompanied by his patient and tired-looking squaw, passed along Dundas street today. Unheedful of the hurrying crowd that jostled them on every side they moved slowly along, with the slow, swinging steps common to their race when not stimulated by war, sport or other excitement.

They passed a fruit store, a confectioner's, a shoe merchant's, a drygoods store, the window of which was filled with dainty lingerie, and a music store, without betraying by the merest twitch of an eyelash that these shops were on the street down which they were so leisurely strolling.

But suddenly they came upon a gunshop with a window full of sporting goods. The face of the redman brightened. He stopped short and pressed close to the window crowded with what were to him the treasures of fairyland. His squaw stopped, too, and gazed upon them with the recognition of her Indian's valiant qualities clearly gleaming from her eyes.

Guns, fishing tackle and cartridges! After years of the virtual imprisonment and the "cowing" influence of the reserve, the mere sight of these things can yet call back to the breast of the redman all the warrior-traits of centuries of freedom and savagery.

The dusky pair turned away at length. Only in the happy hunting-grounds could the brave hope to attain to such a wealth of treasure. They passed by an art store, another music store, and a candy shop looking straight ahead. They bestowed a passing glance on the green and purple bottles in a druggist's window, nothing more, and passed on.

But the next store was a jeweler's. Here both halted resolutely and gazed long and steadily with eyes that brightened to an immeasurable degree.

Guns, and baubles, powder, shot and necklaces. The heart of the savage still retains the old primitive love of war and ornament.

SILK HANDKERCHIEF FOR GRANDDAUGHTER

Old Lady Made a Rather Unique Will, Which Was Probated in London.

The will of an old lady, residing on a farm a few miles from London was recently probated here, revealing a story seldom heard of in real life but frequently in fiction.

The testatrix in the document named about forty articles in her household, practically all of which were willed to different friends and relatives. Her china tea set, her silver spoons and pieces of furniture were disposed of to her satisfaction, as well as a silk handkerchief, for which she appeared to have had a particular liking. This she bequeathed to her granddaughter, who she directed should keep it for her granddaughter for use on the day of her wedding.

Another peculiar will was drawn by a physician in Victoria Hospital for a patient. The document, which was probated, was written on the note paper of the institution, with a Victoria Hospital billhead. It was one of the briefest wills that has ever appeared in local legal circles, but owing to the absence of phrases which usually require the construction of a court, the testament went through without trouble. It simply declared that "I hereby give and bequeath all my property to my sister ——, for her own use."

BASEBALL'S BIG SWATTERS

Sam Crawford hitting .526 and Lajoie .455, lead the American League batters as the result of the first few days of play. For the first time in years Lajoie has started out at a murderous clip, while Crawford's work is marvellous. The latter cannot, of course, hold his pace, and, the Frenchman will drop back to his normal figure when the pitchers are more seasoned.

In the National League, "Red" Dooin, the Philadelphia manager, leads all comers with an average of .571. His closest rival is another manager—Fred Clarke of the Pirates, who has been worrying pitchers with a .445 average.

Clarke has also been starring in the field, his feat of corralling ten putouts in one afternoon being a record.

SCARLET FEVER CASES

Every Bed in the Isolation Wards Is Filled.

The situation in London in regard to scarlet fever is very serious at the present time. Every bed in the isolation building at Victoria Hospital is filled, and any new cases will have to be treated in their homes. There are at present 21 cases in Victoria Hospital.

Superintendent Heard stated to The Advertiser that on Monday a case was discovered in the men's medical ward. The patient is a man who has been in the hospital for some time. It is supposed that he developed the disease from some visitor who came to see him. He was at once removed. No more patients will be placed in the men's medical ward for some days, and a very close watch will be kept to see if any other patients there have developed the disease.

CHANCE STILL IN BAD SHAPE.

Chicago, May 2.—Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago Cubs, who has been out of the game since he twisted his ankle previously in Cincinnati, probably will not be able to resume play for some time. Chance had hoped to be able to go back to first this week but his ankle pains him so that he can hardly walk.

BADLY RUN DOWN

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Came to the Rescue After Doctors' Treatment Failed.

The life of any constant traveller is always a hard one, but those whose work compels them to take long tiresome drives over rough roads, exposed to all conditions of weather, are in constant danger of losing their health. The extreme heat of summer or the piercing winds of winter sap their strength, the kidneys become diseased or rheumatism sets in. What is needed to withstand this hardship is rich, red blood—the pure blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills alone can make. These pills are the travellers' never-failing friend. Concerning them Mr. George Dulpe, of St. Eloi, Que., says: "I am a grain dealer and am obliged to make frequent trips, sometimes very long. I returned home from one of these trips last summer very much fatigued. I was overheated and tried to cool and rest myself by lounging on the verandah till late at night. I caught cold and the next day I did not feel at all well. I had a headache, pains in my stomach and was very weak. I went to see a doctor but he said I would be all right in a day or so, so I started on another trip. I had not gone far before I felt very ill and had to return home and go to bed. I had chills, headache, pains in my stomach and kidneys. The doctor came to see me and he said I was overworked. He treated me for several months but instead of improving I continually grew worse. I wasted away almost to a skeleton and really thought I was going to die. One day my wife returned from the village with a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She urged me to take them as she said they had been very highly recommended to her. I did so and by the time I had taken four boxes I felt enough benefit to decide me to continue them, and I took about a dozen boxes. They fully cured me and today I am able to go about my work without feeling fatigued."

Fatigue, on the least exertion is a sign that the blood is poor. Replace the bad blood with good blood and labor will be a pleasure. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make pure, red blood. That is why they cure anaemia, rheumatism, kidney trouble, indigestion, heart palpitation, and the nerve-racking ills of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2 50 from The Dr. Williams Co., Brockville, Ont.

PASTOR'S SALARY

Mr. C. B. Edwards rose and said he did not think the bishop had meant what he said, when he used the word spite.

"Personally," he said, "I feel that there is none."

Professor Jeakins' Dismissal.

Mr. Edwards brought up the question of the dismissal of Professor Jeakins, asking if it was true that no assistant could be dismissed without his consent."

"I answered the letter in regard to the matter immediately said the bishop. "I had no reason to believe that all was not right. If there had been any intimation given me, I would have refused to have accepted the resignation."

A voice: "There was no opportunity."

"I am here," said the bishop, "in the role of a peacemaker. I want all to have the welfare of the church in mind."

"The fact of so many men coming out to our meetings," said Mr. Henry Macklin, "shows that we have the welfare of the church at heart. We feel that we have been treated in a very shabby manner. (Applause.) It is a way in which no congregation should be treated. (Applause.) Mr. Hill told me he would accept the responsibility of whatever happened. It seems to me that it is rather cowardly in a man after he has accepted responsibility to try and shirk it. (Applause.) The congregation met legally and addressed a letter to him. It was worded very carefully. That letter has been received with silent contempt, and no reply whatever was made. We have been treated anything but courteously. We are not struggling for victory, you may be, but we want freedom and right." (Cheers.)

Complain of Treatment.

Bishop Williams rose and asked why the canon which deals with a rector, having outlived his usefulness, was not set in motion to remove Mr. Hill.

"We found that the rector was treating the church wardens as the dirt beneath his feet, as a mob, someone said he called us," continued Mr. Macklin.

"I deny that," said Mr. Hill.

"We went to the bishop," continued Mr. Macklin, "as ordinary members of the congregation. He appointed a commission. We had nothing whatever to do with it. Three of them were ministers, of whom I suppose the rector had the choice."

"No," said Mr. Hill, as those present laughed heartily.

"These men sent in a report," said Mr. Macklin. "When the members heard it they were up in arms. It said we were wrong, because we had demanded the impossible in asking the rector to resign. Surely he is not here in perpetuity. There is no canon which says so. He ruled as out of order when we wanted to reduce his salary. Mayor Beattie got up, and I think he did himself little credit in what he did. (Applause.) Mayor Beattie comes here as a stranger and says 'Be good boys, and the rector will not dismiss anyone that way again.' I think there is a good deal to be said on our side. We want freedom." (Cheers.)

The Bishop Corrects.

"Mr. Macklin," said the bishop, "undertakes to inform you that I appointed the commission off my own bat. That is not the fact. The rector demanded a commission. That is his right. You have the same privilege."

"The congregation did not ask for it," said Mr. Macklin.

After an argument the bishop admitted that he had misunderstood the matter, and no more was said about it. No reason, he pointed out, was given why the canon on discipline was not used. That, he stated, would have been the proper legal way, as the methods taken since were not to the honor of the congregation.

"Emphasis," he stated, "was laid on the fact that the commission consisted of five clergymen. If you will only stop to think you will see that that is right. I have the right to set forth penalties against a rector if he is wrong. But if a congregation is wrong I can do nothing. I intend to bring this matter up at the next synod meeting, and ask for more power along this line. I do not want to triumph over a congregation, but so long as punishment can only be meted out to the clergy it is a one-sided arrangement. Mr. Macklin has told you that members asked for the dismissal of Mr. Hill, not one word was said about that."

Was Misunderstood.

"I did not say that, at all," said Mr. Macklin, and many of those present agreed with him.

"I misunderstood you, then," said the bishop. "All Mr. Macklin has done is to show that you have been angry. Do not let your anger run away with you, and do things which in your saner moments you will be sorry for."

"I want a word of explanation," said Mr. Macklin. "The canon to which the bishop refers goes further than he says. It takes away our right of having a representative at the synod; children of the church are denied the rite of confirmation, and of episcopal visitation. All because we refuse to accept what we consider an unjust decision." (Cheers.)

Mr. T. H. Kingsmill, jun., said there was no deputation sent, but that men had gone individually to see the bishop. He stated that the members had no official representation.

"Do you repudiate those that came?" asked the bishop.

"Not as individuals," was the reply, "but as being a deputation from the members."

Standing by the Canon.

Mr. Hill said he would like to ask Mr. Macklin what he would have done had the commission ruled against him.

"As a member of the synod for many years," said Mr. Hill, "you would have been the first man to see the canon honored. Wouldn't you, now? I want a fair answer."

"If the commission ruled that you were wrong," said Mr. Macklin, "I would think that their judgment was right, and ought to be sustained." (Cheers and applause).

"Do you blame me for what I did?" asked Mr. Hill.

"Yes," said Mr. Macklin.

"Then I am sorry to say that you have not read the canons properly," said Mr. Hill. "I want to ask you another question. Is the opinion that you have formed of me after being associated with me for 22 years that I would try to tamper with the commission?"

Regard for Mr. Hill.

"I don't think that you tried to tamper with it," said Mr. Macklin. "I have been in this church more than 20 years. I had the highest regard for Mr. Hill. I admired him and spoke of him well to all. It seems to me lately that there has been a complete change in him. Some evil spirit seems to have taken possession of him. I cannot understand how any Christian man can hold the position that he takes. It is not two or three of the congregation that think this, but many, and they think it is time for a change as Mr. Hill's usefulness is past here. I cannot understand how he can say that he has the whip hand of this congregation because a canon gives him some authority. Sunday after Sunday I have heard people say, 'I cannot come and take communion with that man there. He is an enigma to me.'"

Praise for the Rector.

Mr. Stephen Grant spoke a word in eulogy of Mr. Hill.

Mr. Edwards said he did not think there was a man in the church who did not want peace. He reviewed the history of the Church of England and its fights for freedom. He hoped some way might be open for settlement.

"The people," he said, "who vote the supplies ought to have some say as to how they will be utilized. That has been a principle of British justice for centuries."

Bishop Williams again spoke, saying that he wanted both sides to realize that they were equally favored.

"There seems to be an idea that I am favoring Mr. Hill," he said. "Both the vestry and he have their moral and legal rights. The rector is held responsible to the synod for the welfare of the church. The majority is not always right. You remember they crucified the Lord."

Col. Fisher briefly reviewed the work of the commission.

Crown Attorney McKillop spoke briefly also in regard to this matter.

Not Out to Fight.

Mr. Hill said the impression seemed to be that he was out to fight tooth and nail. Such was not the case.

"If I have done anything," he said, "I have made a mistake. I apologized from the pulpit. (Laughter.) I hope none of you may ever be placed in the position I was."

"We are wasting time. The motion, the motion," called several.

Mr. Hill said he didn't think he could put it, as he had no power.

Mr. Macklin wanted to know why, and he was referred to canon 19. Mr. Macklin read this and contended that it had nothing whatever to do with the matter. Mr. Hill contended that the motion was ultra vires.

Matters rapidly approached a crisis.

Mr. Hill said the question was disposed of at the last meeting, anyway. Cries of "No, no."

Mr. Grant said he would move an amendment, but the rector said he couldn't, as the motion of Mr. Johnson was ultra vires, and he ruled it out of order.

Appeal Against Ruling.

"I appeal against the ruling of the chair," said Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Macklin then moved, seconded by Mr. Clark, that a vote be taken against the ruling of the chair.

"You are not the chairman here," called Mr. Hill as Mr. Macklin stood up.

"Will you do it" asked Mr. Macklin.

"No," said Mr. Hill.

Mr. Macklin called for a standing vote, and nearly every man in the room stood up, voting for the resolution, which carried amid cheers and hand-clapping.

Mr. Hill protested against the proceeding as it was out of order.

Mr. Lawson then rose and said he regretted that he had to move that Mr. Macklin take the chair.

Mr. Hill said the rector was the lawful chairman of all such gatherings. Mr. Macklin, however, went up to the front and took charge of the meeting. "This is the saddest moment in my life," he said. "Is there any motion before the chair?"

"No," said Mr. Hill.

Not the Chairman.

"You are not the chairman now," called many voices.

"You are running full tilt against the canons," said the bishop.

"The rector as chairman has refused to put the motion," said Mr. Macklin. "I will put it," and he read Mr. Johnson's motion and called for a standing vote.

All except three stood up. Again there was a round of applause.

Both the bishop and Mr. Hill protested.

"We are acting on the best legal advice," declared Mr. Macklin.

"I am sorry to see you go to this length," said the bishop.

"We are driven to it," said Mr. Macklin.

A motion was put by Mr. Johnson that the meeting adjourn. This carried, notwithstanding that Mr. Hill asked the men to remain quiet for a while. No further business was done, but for half an hour the men gathered around in little knots, eagerly discussing the outcome of the meeting.

It was stated to The Advertiser this afternoon on good authority that teh members of the Church of St. John the Evangelist took the action they did at Tuesday night's meeting, after consulting with Mr. S. H. Blake, of Toronto, considered to be the best-posted lawyer in Canada on Anglican church law. Mr. Blake, it will be remembered, handled an almost exactly similar case for a Hamilton congregation a few years ago. At that time the matter threatened to involve lengthy proceedings in the courts, but Mr. Blake's clients finally won without the case being tried.

Not a little comment is being heard about the city today regarding Bishop Williams' intimation that he will ask for more power at 'the next synod to penalize congregations. It is likely that if he presses this matter there will be the very strongest opposition.

Those who attended the meeting held in St. John's Church schoolroom Tuesday night were: Rev. W. T. Hill, chairman; Bishop Williams, Col. Fisher, Crown Attorney McKillop, C. Brown, Frank Lawson, Henry Macklin, A. Ellis, J. E. Johnson, C. B. Edwards, C. H. Beard, Fred James, Edward J. James, James Lutman, Stephen Grant, H. B. Archer, Ross Clark, Rev. George Cox, H. Callard, G. F. Theobald, Arthur E. Wood, Thos. F. Kingsmill, jun., Albert E. Ferte, David Wilson, Samuel Harding, George Bowman, C. Quigley, W. N. Humphries, G. Geogheghan, A. Butchart, Wm. Boug, Robert G. Mercer, W. C. Whitaker, W. Young, W. Perkins, W. Callahan, J. Woods, Wm. McLoud, Ed L. Guillemont, Arthur H. Keene, W. Parker, J. E. Tydd, Adrian Zimmerman, Chas. Reeves, Samuel Milling, Messrs. Stanley, Hardy, Hodgins, Barnard, Johnson, Owen, and others.

New York Hotels Supreme

With the Hotel St. Regis at the Highest Attainable Point

Says a prominent New York daily newspaper: "New York's hotels lead the world. Not only are they larger and finer than the great hostelries of Europe, but in convenience, service, cuisine—in fact, on all points—they excel anything that foreign lands can offer the travellers. * * Not only is there a greater degree of hotel comfort to be obtained in New York, but the service is a marked improvement over that found elsewhere."

The writer of the foregoing must have had in mind the Hotel St. Regis, at Fifth avenue and Fifty-fifth street, New York. In the St. Regis nothing has been sacrificed to expediency. In its design and construction the St. Regis is the very best of its kind. In its fittings and furnishings, the personnel of its staff, and the quality of its service, there has never been the slightest departure from a standard that aimed at perfection and was satisfied with nothing less. The St. Regis restaurant has no superior in all the world in quality of food, skill in preparation and perfection of service; while the charges are no higher than those of other first-class hotels. Transient guests coming to New York and stopping at the Hotel St. Regis will find accommodations of the very highest grade in every particular, and at standard rates. Single rooms are $3 and $4 a day; the same with private bath for $5 a day for $6 for two people); while for a parlor, bedroom, and private bath the rates are $12 a day and up.

SUPREME COURT HELD A SESSION

Over 200 Delegates Attended the I. O. F. Meeting in Toronto.

RAINBOW SANATORIUM

Splendidly Established Institution in the Heart of Adirondack Mountains Visited During Past Few Days by Prominent Members of the Order.

Toronto, May 3.—The triennial meeting of the Supreme Court of the Independent Order of Foresters began at 10 o'clock yesterday, under the direction of Supreme Chief Ranger Elliott G. Stevenson. The two hundred and more delegates represent a membership numbering over 240,000, that are distributed among 5,000 subordinate courts. No other fraternal society can show such a wide range of membership, or such a splendid financial condition, coupled at the same time with sound prosperity. The progress of the society is best illustrated by considering the finances. At the last session of the supreme court, on Dec. 31, 1907, the accumulated funds of the society amounted to $11,903,358 04. On the first of April last the accumulated funds amounted to $17,179,440 49, making an increase of $5,276,082 45. This financial condition represents on the one side what the membership does on the other. The personnel of the I. O. F. is made up of men in every station in life, and is thoroughly characteristic of men holding positions in the gift of the people. Judges, members of Parliament, lawyers, physicians, clergymen and others all take a leading part in the work of the society. Not only is the I. O. F. the strongest fraternal insurance society in the world, but it operates the most complete system of fraternal insurance offered by any society, and perhaps the most complete system of insurance by any company.

I. O. F. Philanthropies.

Since the former triennial conference of the supreme court delegates an important addition has been made to the philanthropies maintained by the Independent Order of Foresters. Besides the generous sick, mortuary, total disability and old-age benefits, Orphans' Home at Oakville, Ont., the fraternal and lodge privileges, a splendidly-appointed sanatorium has been established at Rainbow Lake, in Franklin County, New York State.

In order that the project might be properly understood, when the policy of the order in this respect is under consideration during the week, a party of high court officers and members of the various committees concerned, under the joint ciceronage of George Bailey, superintendent of the sanatorium, and C. A. Stone, left Toronto on Friday night last for Rainbow Lake, spending most of Saturday inspecting the grounds, buildings and surrounding country. What they saw told in eloquent language of all that had been accomplished in one short year.

In the Heart of the Mountains.

Geography first. Rainbow Lake is situated on the Adirondack division of the New York Central, in the heart of the mountains of that name, about eighty miles southerly from Montreal, midway to Utica. The route of the railway runs from Montreal over the C. P. R. bridge, southwesterly through Valleyfield, and then almost southerly to Malone, and on to the mountains. Striking the foothills shortly after leaving Malone, the land rises quickly until on one section of twelve miles the grade is equal to 900 feet to a land well wooded, well watered, delightful alike to mind and body.

Though the latest, Rainbow Lake is by no means the least of the sanatoria maintained in this district of the Adirondacks, or, for that matter, the least of the I. O. F. philanthropies. Rainbow Lake is virtually the hub. Due east, about fifteen miles is Saranac Lake, the delight of all true rest lovers; northeast, a somewhat similar distance, lies Lake George, and farther on Lake Champlain; a few miles to the north the railway passes Stonywold in Kishaqua County, an establishment maintained exclusively for women, whose simple rustic beauty suggests comfort and healing; nearby—but two miles, in fact—the Gabriel sanatorium, supported by a religious order, contributes its quota of kindness to those upon whose health the white plague has cast its ravaging symptoms; while fifteen miles in another direction the state sanatorium at Weybrook is found.

A Life-Giving Climate.

Much has been written about the Adirondacks, and the subject is by no means exhausted. One often hears about the infinite variety of landscape, hillcrest and mountain brook, but the Adirondacks present unending kaleidoscopic scenes of beauty. The climate is superlative; it is life-giving. The altitude of 1,750 feet above mean sea level, combined with the location removed as it is from the dust and grime of industrial activity—eliminates all those deteriorating elements of urban life that foster germs and feed disease. Muskeg or swamp is not found in the district, but clear, limpid lakes, nestling between the peaks that grip with sinuous arms tentacle-like the narrow valleys and interstices of the land, sparkle beneath the clear blue sky, or again reflect mirage-like the wonderful cloud effects which make the region that Mecca of the disciples of Eastman; while in the twilight the outline of the higher hills in the distance dissolve into the shadows, and one thinks of mythical monsters of an age before history, crouching for their prey. The district is a trifle wild, but perhaps more rustic than wild, enjoys its full endowment of bird and animal and piscatorial life. Fish abound in large quantities; trout, bass and pickerel sport in the waters of both lake and stream. Deer haunt hill and dale, and an occasional black bear makes bold to come under the discerning eye of the hunter. Folk of the feathered fold, too, are plentiful, and the voices of the spring songsters fill the woods with music. This, indeed with the close touch maintained with the busy marts, and centres of civilization, fills one with a touch of nature and a sense of security and comfort.

The Administration Building.

The administration building of the sanatorium is practically new. The supporting work is concrete, the finishings hardwood. Accommodation is maintained for 60 patients, and this is to be increased soon to 100. It is three stories in height, with dimensions of 53 by 100 feet. Each story is flanked by wide, airy verandahs, protected by glass in winter and screens in summer. Every bedroom opens upon the verandah, so that the patients after retiring may be wheeled into the open air to sleep. The building stands upon a slight elevation, which slopes gently down to Rainbow Lake. The westerly end is provided with a large sun parlor, entirely protected by glass. Throughout the building is splendidly appointed. The resident physician has his private rooms there, the office and laboratory are located on the ground floor. The fire protection is of the latest type. Steam heat throughout maintains an equable temperature, from a powerful plant stationed in the basement, where is also found the laundry, storeroom and other necessary paraphernalia of an up-to-date hospital. An incinerator some distance away takes care of the garbage, sputum boxes and accumulation of rubbish. The water supply is excellent, a large concrete tank half a mile away receiving a generous supply of nature's beverage from a well-protected spring, whose overflow forms a gurgling stream that winds its way through the grounds to the lake. Sewage is disposed of by a modern septic tank system, and there is a splendidly appointed lavatory system.

Estate of 600 Acres.

The estate itself comprises some 600 acres, of which 450 is wooded. There is enough cleared land to grow root crops to supply the institution throughout the year with fresh vegetables at the lowest cost. A dairy on the grounds insures a constant supply of milk handled under sanitary conditions. The state retains ownership of the lake, but a long shore line provides many sites for summer cottages, and a well-stocked boathouse, combined with walks and drives, offer the patients many means for profitable and helpful diversion.

The patients are cared for under the most painstaking conditions. The food is of the best. Fresh meats are obtained under unexampled conditions from the large packers, with an ample supply of fresh fruits and high-class groceries from the most reliable concerns. The medical superintendent of sanatoria in New York state has placed his imprimatur of approval upon Rainbow by stating that he knows of no other institution of the size which is better appointed or offers better accommodation for those seeking relief from tuberculosis.

On the whole, the advantages are unexcelled. The location almost appears to have been designed for the very service it is now rendering, and all this for what? Not a dollar. Not a dollar of cost is levied on the patients. The sanatorium is maintained at the expense of the I. O. F. Members of the order can go there and receive treatment free of any expense beyond transportation, and many within the short year that it has been open have gone away permanently cured or much improved.

A Twofold Service.

The genius of Rainbow Lake Sanatorium is twofold. Its social aspect is commendatory to a remarkable degree. In this respect the I. O. F. is one of the foremost to move towards securing for its affected members those conditions that make for restored health and prolonged life. Then, too, it is one other add—and a formidable add at that—to the noble army of men and women who are striving hard to wrest from the dread terror the fear its symptoms strike into the heart of every victim. Also from a business standpoint the wisdom of the institution can be discerned. Insurance, as the primary element of the society's progress, is based upon longevity. Every life prolonged among the society's membership is money saved to the insurance funds and so in turn to the order. The policy is sound for social reasons, it is sound for economic reasons, and its enthusiastic indorsement is assured.

Too much cannot be said in favor of this form of philanthropy. It is right in its charity and is in competition with none. It helps all in the fight against tuberculosis, and disassociation from convalescent and other patients by means of the cottage—a separate and splendidly appointed building on the lake front—gives greater effect to its successful ministrations.

MINISTER OF INTERIOR WANTS FULL INQUIRY

The Hon. Mr. Oliver Denies All Charges of Wrong Doing.

Ottawa, May 2.—On the request of Hon. Frank Oliver, whose name a Toronto evening paper published recently alleging graft, Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved, when the Commons met this afternoon, the appointment of a special committee to fully investigate the circumstances. The Minister of the Interior, who rose at the opening of the House, made a brief denial of the insinuation that anything other than the public interests had inspired his actions, and asked that a committee should be forthwith appointed to thoroughly investigate. His statement was greeted with prolonged Liberal cheers.

The Insinuation.

Hon. Mr. Oliver, on rising, directed the attention of the House to an article which appeared in the Toronto morning paper of Friday last, in which his name had been associated with certain insinuations previously made anonymously in the evening paper in question. The minister read the article, which told of the "sensational charges" which had been made at Ottawa against him in connection with the transfer to the Canadian Northern Railway of lands of the Manitoba and Southeastern Railway. The article went on to say that Mr. Oliver had an order in council passed on May 8, 1907, giving the Canadian Northern Railway power to select in Saskatchewan the land granted to the Manitoba and Southeastern.

It further alleged that on October 3, 1907, $50,000 was deposited from the Manhattan Bank of New York to the Imperial Bank of Edmonton in the name of Mr. Oliver, while about a year later, before the general election of 1908, the sum of $19,000 was also deposited in the same way from the same source. "It is known," added the article, "that he checked out this money for campaign purposes."

"It will be observed," said Hon. Mr. Oliver, "that without making a direct statement the dispatch gives currency to two separate rumors. No connection between the land transaction and the deposits in the bank is alleged, but the two paragraphs are placed together for the purpose of creating an impression in the public mind that there is some connection, and an improper connection between them.

"So that there may be no misunderstanding I desire to state, without equivocation or qualification, that there is no foundation for such an insinuation. In regard to the land transaction the action of the Government was taken upon my recommendation. I made the recommendation in pursuance of what I believed to be sound public policy and with due regard to the public interest. No money consideration was received as a result of that recommendation and decision, nor consideration in any other way.

"No specific charge has been made, but I desire that the fullest opportunity shall be given to any who may desire to lay such a charge. I would therefore ask that a special committee be appointed to hear and thoroughly inquire into any charge made in connection with the transaction mentioned."

The minister's brief statement was received with cheering from the Liberal side.

"Before proceeding with the orders of the day," put in Mr. Campbell, "I would like to ask the first minister the name of the man who made the charge to him, which has just been referred to by the minister of the interior.

"Mr. McGillicuddy," replied Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"Will the Prime Minister lay upon the table of the House all the correspondence with regard to this charge made by Mr. McGillicuddy?" pursued Mr. Campbell.

"I am just about to move for the committee desired and asked for by my hon. friend the Minister of the Interior," observed Sir Wilfrid, "and the correspondence will be at the disposal of that committee."

"How many interviews had the First Minister with Mr. McGillicuddy, and what took place at these interviews?" persisted Mr. Campbell.

"My hon. friend is very inquisitive," commented Sir Wilfrid, smiling. "I must tell him frankly that I do not remember how many interviews took place. I stated the substance of these interviews the other day."

Mr. Campbell then asked as to the source from which the money came and how it was expended.

Sir Wilfrid replied that he had stated the other day that he believed the Minister of the Interior, who was, moreover, a personal friend, to be an absolutely honest man. He would continue to so regard him until he had been proven otherwise.

Mr. Campbell wanted to know what sums had been expended by the minister, and whether for personal or political purposes, but the Speaker ruled that he was out of order in further pursuing his inquiries at the present time. He would have to give notice of any further questions. The Speaker pointed out that such questions were not permissible, and had only been admitted and answered by the Prime Minister as a matter of courtesy.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier then, at the request of Mr. Oliver, moved for the appointment of a committee of the House to conduct an inquiry into the matter referred to, with power to summon persons, call for papers, examine witnesses under oath, and report from time to time. The Minister of the Interior sought the fullest investigation.

Mr. Borden inquired as to the scope of the committee.

ROBBERS BECOME LITERARY CRITICS

Many Prisoners Refuse Everything But Standard Works.

London, May 3.—When the English criminal is put away for a long term of imprisonment he is in the way of becoming a connoisseur of literature. While practicing his highly developed trade of annexing other folks' property, his acquaintanceship with books is usually confined to the volumes kept by bookmakers, but once inside jail he becomes an intellectual persons. At least, if one is to judge by home office reports, he develops distinct literary preferences.

There is a library in every big convict prison, run by the chaplains, assisted in some cases by well-behaved prisoners. Educated prisoners are just as prone to intellectual fads in jail as in the cultured society from which they are drawn. There are men at Maidstone jail who demand the works of Bernard Shaw and Herbert Spencer, who despise the fiction of the day, and will only accept works by their favorite high-class author. Often enough their demands cannot be met by the prison librarians.

Shakespeare in Demand.

Curious fashions in books sometimes run through a prison. The less literate prisoners are subject to a curious form of vanity, and think that to be seen reading Shakespeare is a hallmark of respectability. There is consequently such a demand for the works of the Bard of Avon that it outruns the supply.

Sometimes Dickens becomes the rage. Recently an ex-convict had something to say about "Oliver Twist" in the way of criticism. "The general moral of that story is all wrong," he said. "Look at Bill Sikes, with his black eye and his bulldog. A man who was getting such a lot of money as he was wouldn't be knocking about a neighborhood like Seven Dials. He'd be with the swell mob. Then's there's Fagin, teaching boys to thieve. You'd never see an old man teach a boy. If a man in the swell mob was found taking an innocent boy out with him nowadays, he'd stand a good chance of having his brains knocked out by the other professionals."

Among the most popular authors are six living writers. No American figures in this list of prison preference. Mrs. Henry Wood heads the list, followed by Charles Dickens, G. A. Henty, Rider Haggard, Sir Walter Scott, Wilkie Collins, Capt. Marryat, Alexander Dumas, Silas Hocking, Miss Braddon, Charles Reade, Lord Lytton, Clark Russell, Charles Kingsley, Rolf Boldewood, Walter Besant, Rose N. Carey, Edna Lyell, Hall Caine and Conan Doyle.

FIRST CHILDREN POOREST

English Doctor Thinks Law of Inheritance Should Be Changed.

London, May 3.—"The law of inheritance should be altered so that not the eldest, but the second or the third son comes into the possession of title, property and position on the father's death."

This revolutionary opinion was given by a physician with a large family practice when discussing the examinations of only and eldest children recently made in Vienna by Professor J. Friedjung, from which it would appear that only the eldest children are usually timid, neurotic, unstable and hysterical.

The professor had under examination 100 such children, forty-five of them being boys. Of them all only thirteen were fully normal. Eighteen were severely neuropathic and sixty-nine showed nervous instability.

"I have frequently noticed that the eldest children are often backward and neurotic," said the family physician referred to. "The eldest child has usually been the only child for a considerable period, and the only child is the hub of the house. Everybody has to give way to it; everything is sacrificed to it, and the child speedily suffers from exaggerated ego. Such a child is spoiled, pampered and improperly fed. Even supposing that it is not true that the first child is naturally not so good as later children, he soon becomes not so good because of the way he is treated.

"In large families the healthy children, physically and mentally, are those which, having been born latest, are left to grow up by themselves and look after each other, instead of being coddled and shepherded by the parents. Children of a big family are far fitter than those in a family of one or two children only."

"Professor Friedjung is quite right," said another physician. "The best children are born when the mother is aged from 28 to 35."

BALLOONIST SCHUACK DEAD.

Berne, Switzerland, May 2. — Col. Theodore Schuack, the Swiss aeronaut, who competed in last year's international balloon race at St. Louis, died today.

MANY RULERS ON ISLAND KINGDOMS

Americans Prominent Among Owners of Great Estates.

London, May 2. — There are other kings in Britain besides King George. Though no coronation ceremonies attend their assumption of power, these minor monarchs of island homes wield almost regal influence over their tenants.

Prominent in the list is the Hon. Cecil Baring, who with his American wife, a daughter of the late Pierre Lorillard, passes part of each year on the island of Lambay, in Dublin Bay. Three miles in circumference, the island is four miles from Ireland's capital, and every inhabitant is peculiarly dependent upon the owner.

The biggest island property is Arran, ruled over by the beautiful Marchioness of Graham, wife of the eldest son and heir of the Duke of Montrose. This tiny kingdom is 19 miles long, 10½ miles broad, and has an area of 168 square miles.

The beneficent despot reigns at Brodick Castle, visited in 1902 by King Edward when cruising in Scottish waters. Near by are the ruins of Loch Ranza Castle, once the residence of the Scottish kings. Along the cliffs of the south coast are several caverns, in one of which Robert Bruce hid himself, while it was from Brodick Bay that Bruce sailed to Carrick on his expedition for the recovery of the crown.

Another island realm, the Calf of Man, was for several years the property of a wealthy American family. There the late Col. Gary, a man of scholarly attainments, lived immersed in his books, without so much as visiting the neighboring Isle of Man for months at a stretch. William L. Cary, who succeeded to this unique property, emigrated to the United States when quite a boy, and amassing a fortune in California, came back to his island home and lived there for ten years. Tiring of its seclusion, he sold the estate for $100,000 last fall.

LITTLE STREET SINGER TO MAKE GRAND DEBUT

Stella Carol, Who Was "Found" in London Last Christmas Eve, Is to Appear for Princess.

London, May 2.—Operatic impresarios are watching a tiny, but bright, new star which has just appeared on the horizon. When little Stella Carol, to use the new phrase which has been adopted for her, made her last appearance as a singer it was on a Hampstead sidewalk in the chilly dusk of last Christmas Eve. Her next appearance will be under the auspices of a princess, for at Hoxton Hall next week the Princess Alexandra of Teck will be on the platform when little Stella sings, and there will be other masters to hear and to weigh up her talent and the prospective value of her young voice.

The story of Stella's discovery is no new one. Other great singers have been found in the same casual way. The little girl set out to sing in the streets in order to earn some money to buy a Christmas present for her mother. But a good fairy was abroad that night, and Mme. Amy Sherwin, who heard her, was so charmed with the sweet child with the silvery voice that she adopted her, taught and trained her. So rapid has been her progress that, though still in the beginning of public life, possibly fame and fortune await her. Such, at any rate, is Mme. Sherwin's opinion.

"Stella's progress has been remarkable," she said to a correspondent. "Several very great musical critics have heard her during her months of practice, and they have been astonished at the wonderful purity of her voice.

"Her training during her stay with me has not been purely musical, either. She has a governess to superintend her lessons. Princess Alexandra of Teck is very anxious to hear her, and the opening ceremony of the new institute of the Girls' Guild of Good Life, at which her serene highness is to officiate, will make it a suitable opportunity.

LORDS SHOULD GIVE IN, DECLARE TORIES

Fight May Be Shorter Than Expected in the House.

London, May 2. — Will the Lords yield in their struggle over the Parliament bill, designed by the Commons to limit their veto? That is the question that is agitating England, and it is by no means so certain that the attitude of the peers will be irreconcilable as appeared at first.

There is importance in the fact that most of the Conservatives have abandoned the contention that the country did not give a mandate to the Liberals against the Lords at the last election, because they rely on the support of Labor men and Nationalists for their maintenance in power. "That cock will fight no longer" is the decision of the wire-pullers. Whatever the combination is that maintains the ministry, it is solid against the privileges of the Lord.

And now one hears Conservatves quoting a late and great leader of their party, Lord Salisbury, as to the limits to which the Upper House should go in a crisis. When Mr. Gladstone sent the Irish Church from the state, Lord Salisbury led 35 Conservatives into the lobby in support of the measure, though he and they disapproved of it. He judged it unwise to run counter to the national will, and he explained his reasons.

"I quite admit," he said, "everyone must admit—that when the opinion of your countrymen has declared itself, and you see that their convictions—their firm, deliberate, sustained convictions—are in favor of any course, I do not for a moment deny it is your duty to yield. It may not be a pleasant process, it may even make some of you wish that some other arrangement was possible; but it is quite clear that, whereas a minister or a goverment, when asked to do that which is contrary to their conviction, may resign, and a member of the Commons, when asked to support any measure contrary to his convictions, may abandon his seat, no such course is open to your lordships. And, therefore, on those rare and great occasions on which the national will has fully declared itself, I do not doubt that your lordships should yield to the opinion of the country; otherwise the machinery of government could not be carried on."

On that view of the matter the dominant question is whether or not the national will has been fully declared on the Parliament bill, and, as I have said, there is a weakening in the Conservative opposition to that view. So, after all, if the cooler heads prevail, there may be a shorter fight than was looked for on this vital measure, so enormously important to British parliamentary progress.

RUSSIAN DANCERS AGAIN IN TROUBLE

Lively Scene in London Theatre When a "Turn" Was Omitted.

London, England, May 2. An extraordinary scene, of a kind that has not been witnesed for many a year at a local theatre, took place at the Palace Musical Hall. The star "turn" of the evening—the performance of the famous Russian dancers, Pavlova and Mordkin—was the cause of the amazing incident. The two artists declined, in spite of repeated calls, to appear in the most popular piece of their repertoire, Glasnov's "Bacchanale." The audience expressed their dissatisfaction by tumultuous booing and hooting, which even the comic pictures of the bioscope could not stop.

It is an open secret that since their first appearance on Easter Monday at the Palace, a spirit of discontent had prevailed among the leading members of the Russian troupe. On that day the two stars of the company were seen together on the stage, and then matters grew strained. At subsequent performances Pavlova appeared alone, and Mordkin also appeared as a solo dancer. A reconciliation was attempted, and at one time it was thought that friendly relations would be restored, and that the two famous artistes would consent to dance their famous duos.

Even that night Mr. Alfred Butt, the manager, confidently anticipated they would work again harmoniously together, but after giving several turns separately they declined to interpret the famous "Bacchanale." The curtain was hurriedly lowered, and M. Mordkin appeared in front of the bioscope pictures apparently willing to satisfy the demands of the audience.

But, standing in an appealing attitude, he intimated in dumb show that he was unable to prevail upon his lady partner to join him. The audience set up a tumult, and it really was a tribute to their patience that damage was not done. The management of the Palace must be exonerated from any blame. Everything possible has been done to induce the artistes to work in unison.

M. Mordkin retired, and reappeared several times garbed in the character for the "Bacchanale," but Madame Pavlova remained obdurate. Finally, the curtain was rung down amid a perfect storm of booing and hissing.

FORESTERS' SANATORIA

Supreme Chief Ranger Intimates That They Will Be Established.

Toronto, May 2.—The banquet to the members of the supreme court meeting of the Independent Order of Foresters in the assembly hall of the Foresters' Temple tonight was one of the most successful in the long list of successful banquets in the long history of the society. The proceedings were international in character and the speeches bore pleasant reference to the kindly relations existing between Canada and the United States. The keynote was struck by Lieutenant-Governor Gibson, of Ontario, when he intimated that wooing was all right in its place, but that cousins should not be too intimate.

Supreme Chief Ranger Stevenson referred to the noble work the order had undertaken in providing for the orphans of deceased members. He intimated that a further advance might shortly be undertaken in the establishment of sanatoria, with full equipment of nurses and outdoor hospitals, to look after the victims of tuberculosis who are members of the order. The chief institution would be erected in Ontario, he said.

GERMANS TRYING TO CORNER RADIUM

Expect to Bring Rare and Expensive Product Into More General Use.

London, May 2. — One of the biggest deals on record in radium has just been carried out between the British Radium Corporation and a number of leading German scientists. The arrangements provide for practically the whole output of the Trenwith mines in Cornwall, the total cost being put at $500,000 annually.

Germans will thus establish practically a corner in British radium. The success of several huge schemes of putting radium within popular reach the world over depended upon an assured unlimited supply. Among the plans proposed by the German scientists is one providing for the introduction of radium into various medicines and compounls which are guaranteed to cure maladies like rheumatism, gout, sciatica, diabetes and heart weakness.

Then a "radium exhaler" is also promised. This is a machine which, if placed in the centre of any room, gives forth emanations which have the same effect on the clothed occupants of the room as if they had been taken on a journey to the radium baths at Johannsthal or Badgastein.

The mud, which is the refuse of pitchblende after radium has been extracted, is also to be treated and sold for "radio mud baths." Radium salts, another invention, have universal use. For example, a piece the size of a pin's head, placed on electric light switches, keyholes, etc., will in the darkness indicate the location, while the same principle is also to be applied with artificial light.

When the scientists' plans have matured an extensive campaign is to be prosecuted in the United States for the wider use of radium compounds.

TIGERS ARE CAUGHT WITH FLY PAPER

London Man, on Trip in India, Finds New Way to Trap Animals.

London, May 2. — A new way to catch tigers has been revealed by Payson Stewart, who has just returned from India, where he learned about it.

A certain Indian gentleman of wealth and title has a hobby of taming and domesticating wild animals. His last experience, according to Mr. Stewart, was with tigers which he had captured and brought to his place at great expense. For a long time they were kept in a compound until they seemed to have become as harmless and tame as house cats. Then they were let loose to be pets of the neighborhood. Immediately their jungle tastes and habits returned.

The first night they cleaned out a native village and ate up something like a score of inhabitants. In spite of all the ensuing excitement, the would-be tiger tamer insisted that the animals must be captured alive and returned to the compound; they were too valuable to be killed and so the hunting party was disbanded.

No volunteers came forward, however, to catch the tigers as you do sheep, or even by putting salt on their tails. Then western ingenuity came to the front. Mr. Stewart suggested fly-paper. Hundreds of sheets of it were spread around the lawns. While the anxious people in the houses were peering out that night the tigers prowled up, stepped on the sticky flypaper, seemed very much disconcerted when it did not drop off, and that the more they rubbed around to wipe it away the more they got on.

In a minute or two what might have been an approaching tragedy was turned into a burlesque. The tigers changed from terrors to clowns in the struggles with the fly-paper. They rolled on the ground to rub it off and finally became wiggling, howling bundles of paper instead of ferocious wild animals. They were so stuck up that they couldn't even see and hardly move, and were easily captured. Mr. Stewart recommends this method to Col. Roosevelt.

COULDN'T FOOL VIENNESE

When American Posed as Royalty the Band Played "Yankee Doodle."

London, May 3.—"One night in Vienna, a little while ago," said Avery Hopwood "Bobby Dempster and I did the variety shows and then started in on the late places of entertainment. We became bored and yearned for something to break the monotony.

"I conceived the idea that I wanted to be mistaken for royalty, or nobility at least, so I decided to pose as a grand personage incognito. It was arranged that Bobby was to call the head waiter to our box and tell him that his highness wished the band to play a certain air. Well, Bobby can't speak a word of German, so I wrote the request on a piece of paper and Bobby handed it to the head waiter with a very large tip.

"Then I assumed what I thought was a royal attitude and we waited. Nothing happened. We waited and waited some more and still nothing happened, so we got mad and left in disgust. We decided that we didn't start right and should begin on the royalty business as we entered. With this idea in our heads we hunted up another music hall, determined to act our roles consistently. Bobby was to be my ald-de-camp. As he entered he took my coat and began calling me 'your highness' and doing all sorts of salaaming. When we got in our box and had ordered some of their most expensive champagne I again assumed a royal attitude and sent word for the band to play a certain tune.

"Pretty soon the leader of the orchestra came over and stood in front of our box. I thought sure we had won this trip and were really being mistaken for royalty. I puffed all up and looked very haughty.

"And then the orchestra began to play 'Yankee Doodle.' We left in a hurry, but the waiter caught us and demanded a lot more money for the band."

THREE EXPEDITIONS IN ANTARCTIC DASH

The Japanese Have Given Up Attempt and Put Back to Australia.

[Canadian Press.]

San Francisco, Cal., May 2.—The recent meeting on Antarctic shores of Ronald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, and Capt. Scott, head of the British expedition, was no surprise to either, according to a message received from Amundsen yesterday by Henry Lund, Norwegian consul-general at this city. The message stated that Amundsen had notified his rival from Madeira of his plans.

The meeting of the two at Whale Bay was very short.

Capt. Scott learned that eight men of the Fram's crew were at the time established in winter quarters about two miles inland. Amundsen's plans for reaching the South Pole are revealed in mail advices received here. He informed the British officers that he hoped to reach the pole via Beadmore Glacier. He had 116 dogs and enough sleighs and skis to work his dogs in two shifts.

Amundsen expected to have all his supplies packed and his winter quarters ready for occupation a few days after the Terra Nova left for New Zealand. As soon as he was settled in his shore camp he intended to dispatch the Fram to Buenos Ayres, while he remained with nine men to make his dash for the farthest south. The ship will return in December or January to bring the expedition back.

Had Severe Pains In His Back.

Could Hardly Work.

Mr. Alfred E. Davis, Gorrie, Ont., writes:—"For some years I suffered from severe pains in my back and could hardly work at all, and when I stooped down to pick up anything felt as if my back must break. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after taking two boxes I was entirely cured, and feel that I cannot speak too highly in their favor.

"This was nearly four years ago and I still remain cured."

Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble do not know the suffering and misery which those afflicted undergo.

Weak, lame or aching back comes from the kidneys, and when the kidneys are out of order the whole system becomes deranged.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages.

BOUND TO HAVE MINISTERS PRESENT

Opposition Obstructionist Determined That They Hear Him.

Ottawa, May 3.—In the Commons yesterday, when Mr. George Taylor started the obstructionist period of prolonging the reciprocity debate the Liberal members, who have now concluded their contribution to the discussion, busied themselves with other work, and the only ministers in the House were Hon. Messrs. Pugsley, Templeman and King.

The Leeds man at first refused to go on. "The three ministers responsible for reciprocity," he said, "are the premier, the finance minister and the minister of customs. I don't propose to speak in their absence. We propose to continue this reciprocity debate, but we don't propose to let them escape hearing it. These three ministers have got to remain in the House all the time. They have to be present at all times when this thing is under discussion, and, for my part, I propose to insist upon it."

Hon. Mr. Pugsley felt assured Mr. Taylor's comment was occasioned by the very natural disinclination to discuss them in their absence. (Laughter.) The minister of public works, however, was confident that the member for Leeds need not harass himself over that fact. He was sure the ministers in question would not mind if the members spoke in their absence. (Renewed laughter.)

Mr. Taylor declared, with some gusto, that the Minister of Public Works was "not running this institution. The Opposition have some rights, and they are going to insist on them, too."

"The perennial right of incorrigibles," put in Mr. Smith (Nanaimo), amid renewed laughter.

A message, however, was dispatched to the offices of the three absent ministers, and a moment later Sir Wilfrid Laurier entered, smiling, and took his seat. Mr. Taylor, who had been standing silent at his desk, then proceeded.

Mr. Taylor sought to read the letter of Sir Charles Tupper, but the document was, after discussion, ruled out of order, the deputy speaker quoting the recent precedent established in connection with the letter from The Globe's correspondent dealing with the comments made on the report of the Sealey division. Dr. Schaffner followed Mr. Taylor.

DIVERS IN PERIL

Narrowly Escape Death at Bottom of Toronto Harbor.

Toronto, May 2.—Percy Legge, diver, in the Ottawa waterworks department, had a harrowing experience under water yesterday while working at the temporary intake. While feeling his way along in the dark interior of the iron tube, he felt something clutching at him and catching him about the arms and legs. The sense of touch enabled him to identify it as a coil of barbed-wire, which had got into the broken end of the pipe and had been carried shoreward by the current. He tried vainly to get clear of the wire, which threatened to tear his suit and break his air tube. He signalled for help, which was sent down from the tug above, and he was extricated from his dangerous situation.

Last night Charles Margison, another diver, entered the pipe at the shore tank, and walked along the bottom out under the lake for about 300 feet. Then he stumbled over something, which, upon investigation, turned out to be a fence post. To it were attached staples and small bits of barbed-wire, evidently torn from the coil which had attacked Diver Legge some hours earlier in the day.

SEEK MURDER PLANT IN STATE OF INDIANA

A Mysterious Disappearance of Three Farm-Hands Causes Arrest of Farmer.

[Canadian Press.]

Fowler, Ind., May 3. — Charged with murder by his own son, who asserts that three farm-hands have disappeared mysteriously, John Poole, a wealthy farmer was arrested yesterday following the finding of a mangled and partly decomposed body, supposed to be that of Joseph Kelsoer, on the Poole farm.

Several years ago it was reported to the sheriff that Charles Clark and Charles Mack, employed by Poole, disappeared mysteriously. A further search of the farm is to be made on the theory that their bodies may be found.

WIND BLEW MEN AGAINST DEATH WIRES

Two Killed at Cornwall in an Unusual Manner.

Cornwall, May 3.—Peter Roch, of Cornwall Township, and George Cook, an Indian from St. Regis, were instantly killed here Tuesday afternoon. They were walking along the canal bank, and stopped to lend a hand to some men, who were hoisting a new boom of a derrick at J. E. Chevieres' coal sheds.

Several men were hauling in a wire rope, to which a hemp rope was attached, when the high wind swung them against the wires of the St. Lawrence Power Company, which were carrying a current of 10,000 volts to the Canada Cotton Mill. The wire rope came in contact with the power wires, and Roch and Cook, who were in front and had hold of the wire rope, were electrocuted.

Moss Beaudoin, who stood near at hand, touching the wire cable, escaped with a severe shock and partially disabled arms. The others having hold of the hemp extension of the wire rope escaped unhurt.

Several doctors were on the scene within a few minutes, but death had been instantaneous.

Cook was a son of Andrew Cook, of St. Regis, who is at present hunting muskrat at Irish Creek, Ont. He was 22 years of age, and unmarried. Roch was about 35 years of age and leaves a wife and six young children. Dr. C. J. Hamilton, coroner, who was early on the scene, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

THE VETO BILL HAS SAFEGUARDS

Liberals Will Still Be at Disadvantage Says Churchill.

CLAUSE TWO IS PASSED

Balfour Declares Measure Was Launched For Securing of Home Rule.

London, May 2.—After the application of the closure, clause No. 2, of the Parliament bill, which is the most important clause of the Government's measure for the curtailment of the powers of the House of Lords, was carried in the House of Commons tonight, 229 to 195. Later clause No. 3 of the bill, providing that any certificate of the speaker of the House of Commons given under this act shall be conclusive for all purposes and shall not be questined in any court of law," was carried after closure, 225 to 132.

During the course of the debate on clause No. 2, the Government agreed to accept one or two minor amendments moved by the Opposition, but rejected all which would weaken the scope of the clause. This clause relates to any bill other than a money bill, and provides that if any such bill is passed by the House of Commons in three successive sessions and is rejected by the House of Lords at each of these sessions, it shall become an act of Parliament on the royal assent.

Prior to amendment yesterday clause No. 2 provided that it should not take effect unless two years should elapse between the first introduction of the bill and the date on which it passed the House of Commons for the third time. In amended form it provides that the two years' delay shall be calculated from the date of the passing of the second reading of the bill in the House of Commons, which somewhat extends the period in which the Lords can delay a bill.

Plenty of Safeguards.

Before the vote was taken Winston Spencer Churchill, the home secretary, said that the adoption of the clause was imperative, because there had come about complete paralysis of the working constitution and denial of all form of redress to those who did not belong to the Conservative party. The safeguards which the clause left the House of Lords for delay and revision, he said, would still place the Liberals under great disabilities as compared with the Conservatives. That was the reason why reform of the House of Lords should follow as the complement of the Parliament bill.

Mr. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, declared that the real purpose of the bill was not improvement of the constitution, but the carrying of home rule. The Government had succumbed to the threats and cajoleries of the Nationalists and Laborites. Again by the aid of the closure, the remaining clauses, Nos. 4, 5 and 6, were adopted without amendment, by large majorities.

There remained a number of proposed new clauses on the amendment paper, but the chairman immediately ruled most of these out of order.

Clause No. 4 provides that "nothing in this act shall diminish or qualify the existing rights and privileges of the House of Commons."

Clause No. 5 provides for the duration of Parliament, reading: "Five years shall be substituted for seven years as the time fixed for the maximum duration of Parliament under the Septennial Act, 1715."

Clause No. 6 declares: "This act may be cited as the Parliament Act, 1910."

The House adjourned after rejecting the proposed new clauses, thus disposing of the committee stage of the whole bill, with the exception of the preamble.

ARK AND THE CENSER VANISH FROM JERUSALEM

Serious Disturbances Due to Disappearance of Sacred Vessels.

[Canadian Presss.]

Jerusalem, May 3.—The inhabitants have been aroused to the point of rioting by the oppressions of a party of French archaeologists who are accused of having excavated beneath the Mosque of Omar and removed relics reputed to include the Ark of the Covenant, the Censer and other sacred vessels, which belonged to the Tribes of Israel. Asemi Bye, the Turkish governor, was mobbed on the streets for supposed complicity in the profanity, and hooted as "A Pig." The Mosque has been closed and is closely guarded pending the arrival from Constantinople of officials of the Government who will make an investigation.

The expedition worked for two years on a large scale beginning at the village of Siloam, which lies at the southeast end of Jerusalem in the southern slope of the Mount of Olives overlooking the Valley of Kedron, and the Pool of Siloam. The explorers are credited with having excavated a passage from the Pool of Siloam toward the place, where once stood Solomon's Temple, built in 1012 B. C., pillaged and restored and finally destroyed by Titus, A. D. 70. Failing to reach the relics sought in this manner, the explorers, according to alleged confessions of the guards of the Mosque, bribed the guards, entered the Mosque, and after digging on six nights, spirited away the treasures, "the whereabouts of which," says an Arab chief, "none know except God and these English."

Mystery surrounds the expedition whose operations have been of such magnitude as to make evident that a large sum of money was invested.

A Costly Strike

Montreal, May 3.—In an official statement issued Tuesday at the Grand Trunk Railway headquarters, the cost of last year's big strike on that road is made public.

The direct loss to the company, altogether apart from the increase in operating expenses, is placed by the accounting department at $700,000. With the increased operating expenses the sum reaches nearly $1,000,000.

GOVT. READY FOR POLLS IF BLOCKING GOES ON

Action of Opposition Certain to Arouse Widespread Resentment.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, May 3.—Every member of the Government and every supporter in the House of Commons is in favor of going to the country, as an answer to the Opposition obstruction of reciprocity. There is only one thing which stands in the way of dissolution today, and that is redistribution. When the census has been taken next month the provinces west of the lakes will be entitled to twenty more seats than they have in the Commons now.

If an election were held this summer the west would remain unrepresented for four or five years. The Government, therefore, feels that an election would be unjust to the west and would be likely to leave a permanent sore spot. However, if the minority in Parliament continues its obstruction to a point where the attention of the west is focused upon it the resentment of this will be an appeal to the people.

If the Opposition wants a vote taken upon reciprocity they can obtain the vote by continuing obstructing. The Government strongly believes that the reciprocity pact is the most popular thing which has ever been presented to the Canadian people by a Government, and that it will be the most beneficial.

However, in spite of rumors there will be no serious talk of dissolution until there has been at least another month of obstruction and certainly not until the supplementary estimates have been brought down.

HOW SKIN-TROUBLES HAVE BEEN CURED

A Remarkable Record of Itching, Burning, Disfiguring Eruptions Successfully Treated.

That those who have suffered long and hopelessly from eczema and other torturing, disfiguring eruptions of the skin and scalp and who have lost faith in all manner of treatment, may learn that there is one way to find immediate relief, the following remarkable series of condensed testimonials is published:

W. H. White, 312 E. Cabot St. Philadelphia. Knee to ankle a mass of eruption. Suffering simply indescribable for six long years. Had to scratch till blood ran and health was undermined from lack of sleep. Cuticura Remedies cured it without a mark.

Mrs. M. C. Maitland, Jasper, Ont.: Itchy rash on her baby's head when but three months old. It spread over entire body. Put mittens on him to prevent tearing skin. Reduced to a skeleton. One bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment soothed him to sleep. A single set cured him. Thinks child would have died but for Cuticura Remedies.

Mrs. Wm. Hunt, 259 Fairmount Ave., Newark, N. J.: Whole body a mass of raw, torturing eczema. Agony was beyond words. Hair all fell out and ears seemed ready to drop off. Clothing would stick to bleeding flesh. Hoped death would soon end fearful suffering. Cuticura Remedies cooled the itching, bleeding flesh at once and soon cured her.

Mrs. J. B. Renaud, 277, Montana St., Montreal: Treated by doctors 25 years for bad eczema on leg. It peeled from knee down; foot like raw flesh. Doctor advised cutting leg off. Decided to try Cuticura Remedies first. In two months' use of Cuticura Remedies she was cured.

Mrs. Nora Emmott, 26, Lena Gardens Brook Green, London: Two little girls had dreadful scalp trouble that doctors called ringworm. Cried with intense itching. Hospital treatment gave frightful pain but did no good. Suffered three years, cured by three sets of Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

H. A. Krutskoff, 5714 Wabash Ave., Chicago: Itching eruption spread from hands to body. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured. Doctors and remedies did no good. Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills stopped itching quickly and cured disease in three weeks.

Frank Gridley, 226 E. 43rd St., New York: In twenty-four hours he became raw from head to foot with a dreadful burning itch. Suffered agonies and could not lie down or sit up. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment cured him in a single day.

Mrs. Kate Brougham, 200 Dewey St., Bennington, Vt.: Rash came on her baby and soon turned to watery, crusted eczema over face, head and body. He was a fearful sight and all attempts at cure were fruitless. Vastly improved in a week by use of Cuticura Remedies and soon skin was clear and healthy.

G. J. Dance, 27, New Road, Brentford, England: Tortured for five years with bad skin disease. Attended hospital five months without success. Covered with eruption. No sleep nor rest. Felt like tearing himself to pieces with terrible itching. With first application of Cuticura Ointment was relieved and got good night's sleep. In a fortnight Cuticura Ointment cured him as if by magic.

Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Pills are sold by druggists everywhere. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, Mass., for free 32-page Cuticura Book on skin diseases.

FINANCIAL.

[From Charles Head & Co., by private wire to J. J. Tearney.]

NEW YORK, May 3. Noon Letter—There was continued irregularity all through the first hour. Union Pacific receded about a point, with Raymond Pynchon & Co. supplying about 30,000 shares in the last two days. This selling caused a good deal of conjecture and more importance was attached to it because of the fact that the same house was the heaviest seller of Missouri Pacific on recent decline in that stock. The declines were offset in part by aggressive buying of Atchison, which rose to above 110.

U. S. SHOE INDUSTRY IN GRIP OF "TRUST"

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, May 3.—The declaration that a "trust" grips the entire shoe manufacturing industry of the United States, was made before the senate committee today on finance, which began hearings on the Canadian reciprocity bill. Manufacturers from the middle west told the committee they were practically at the mercy of the United Shoe Machinery Company, of Boston.

NOT WORRYING OVER TAFT'S SPEECH

Mr. Asquith Does Not Consider It a "Blazing Indiscreition."

[Canadian Press.]

London, May 3.—John Norton Griffiths, Unionist member for Wednesbury, who gave notice on Monday that he would ask Mr. Asquith to immediately instruct Ambassador Bryce to cable a verbatim report of President Taft's recent speech in New York, received his answer today.

On behalf of the Premier, Thomas McKinnon Wood, under-secretary for foreign affairs, said that he had found in the speech no reason whatever for making any representations to the United States Government.

John R. P. Newman, Unionist member for the Enfield division of Middlesex, wished to know if it was not the opinion of the foreign office that the expression of the President in urging the American editors to advocate Canadian reciprocity before a system of preferential tariff, had bound the British Empire together, was "a blazing indiscretion."

"No sir," replied Mr. Wood, "I certainly would say nothing of the kind. I would think that a remark of that sort (Newman's) would be extremely improper addressed to a great and friendly country."

FORESTERS EXPECT A GIGANTIC CROWD HERE

Say Coronation Celebration Will Be Greatest City Ever Knew.

Dozens of inquiries from outside points are being received every day by those in charge of the big coronation celebration that the Canadian Order of Foresters are arranging.

"There will be the biggest crowd here that ever came on a holiday," said one of the committee to The Advertiser today. "People all over the district are going to come here in thousands. A number of special trains have already been arranged for. We are mailing 10,000 circulars this week to various people telling them all about the big programme we have arranged."

The programme shows that there will be a monster parade, including Foresters in uniform, floats of all kinds, an automobile show, vaudevills, bands, fireworks, a Marathon road race, a motorcycle race, horse races, acrobatic specialties and many other fine attractions.

"We will have something for everybody, and everybody is going to have a first-class time," said a committeeman. "It will be one of the finest exhibitions we have ever had in London and will be worth coming miles to see."

LADY IN HOBBLE SKIRT WAS UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Unable to Step Over Maze of Tracks at Corner of Dundas and Richmond Streets.

One of the disadvantages of the hobble skirt was demonstrated rather forcibly at the corner of Dundas and Richmonds streets shortly before noon, when a rather stylishly-dressed young woman attired in one endeavored to make her way across the mae of tracks. She was unable to step over them, and to the amusement of the crowd started tumbling over each one. Not being used to such athletic exercise apparently, she tired before she got across the last track and jumped a little too slow, with the result that her foot caught and she fell in some gravel. Some people nearby assisted her to her feet and she disappeared as quickly as possible.

SHIRASE CAME BACK

Got as Far as 74 Degrees in South Pole Hunt.

[Canadian Press.]

Tokio, May 3.—A cable dispatch received here states that Lieut. Shirase has returned to Sydney after reaching 74 degrees south on March 10, severe weather compelling the abandonment of further efforts to proceed toward the South Pole.

Lieut. Shirase cables to the Tokio press that he reached Coulman Island on March 14, but was unable to proceed owing to stormy weather and many ice packs. The schooner Kainan Maru proved unit to resist the ice pressure, as was predicted. Lieut. Shirase landed at Coulman Island for several days, and arrived at Sydney, N. S. W., yesterday afternoon.

All of his dogs died from lack of exercise. The schooner needs repairing. Lieut. Shirase will remain at Sydney with his schooner, and will make a fresh start in September when the ice melts, enabling the schooner to reach Edward VII Land. Captain Nomura will return to Tokio.

Count Okuma expresses satisfaction at Lieut. Shirase's achievement.

DRAINAGE DEMONSTRATION.

The Ontario Agricultural College is emphasizing the value of drainage again this summer, for which purpose drainage demonstrations are being held in many parts of the province. The following demonstrations are announced for Middlesex: At the Farmers' Advocate farm, concession 2, lot 24, London Township, on Wednesday, May 10, at the hour of 2 o'clock. At Messrs. E. and G. Moore's, concession 14, lot 15, Metcalfe Township, on Saturday, May 13, at the hour of 2 p.m.

These meetings should be of special interest, as some difficult places to drain are involved. Besides the discussion of the particular problems of these farmers, there will be a demonstration of methods of finding the fall over a ditch, determining the grade, digging through to grade, etc. Those of our readers interested in drainage should not miss this meeting.

Anyone wishing information about the drainage work should write Professor W. H. Day, O. A. C., Guelph.

LONDON AND DISTRICT

A Fernhill Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Beechwood Women's Institute will be held at Mrs. Dougal Campbell's, Argyle street, Fernhill, on Friday, May 5.

A Brief Runaway.

A delivery wagon of a local laundry had a small smash-up this morning, when the horse attached suddenly bolted on Talbot street and dashed too close to a telephone post. The only damage was a broken wheel, the horse being taken in charge before going very far.

Real Estate Sold.

The London and Western Trusts Company yesterday afternoon disposed of the property at auction on Oxford and Maitland streets, forming part of the Clancy estate. Mr. R. M. Berry purchased the house and lot at 426 Oxford street, for $990, and Mr. J. L. Whitehead the house and lot at 803 Maitland street, for $1,060.

Building Permits.

Building permits are not moving very rapidly this month so far. Monday, the following were issued: R. G. Kirkpatrick, one-story brick-veneer house on Grosvenor street, to cost $2,200; B. H. Kershaw, story-and-a-half veneer house on Charles street, costing $1,000, and the Huron and Erie Loan Company repairs to premises at 4 and 6 Market Lane, to cost $1,200.

Mayor in Toronto.

Mayor Beattie was in Toronto yesterday attending the celebration to commemorate the turning on of Niagara power in the Queen City. Hon. Adam Beck was the guest of honor. Chairman Pocock, of the water commissioners, and others, received invitations, but were unable to attend. Ald. Wilson is acting mayor yesterday. Other than sign a few checks, he had nothing to do.

A Busy Inspector.

Inspector McCallum has no less than 28 cases in the police court at the present time. Of these 17 are for nonpayment of statute labor taxes, and three against bakers for violation of the bread act. The rest are for various other offences. "I want to get these cleared off the slate before I start any more," the inspector stated today.

Epworth League Officers.

The regular meeting of the Kensington Epworth League was held on Monday evening, at the close of which the annual election of officers was held. Rev. Mr. Anderson, the pastor, presided. The officers were as follows: President, Mr. C. R. Smith; first vice, Miss Wade; second vice, Mrs. Stevens; third vice, Mrs. Smeltzer; fourth vice, Mr. Smeltzer; secretary, Miss Smeltzer; treasurer, Miss Clugston; missionary treasurer, Miss Kelly; organist, Miss G. Newton; assistant organist, Miss M. Littlejohn; local union representative, Miss Kewell.

Keep Lanes Clean.

A number of citizens who have been dumping ashes in various laneways, in the vicinity of their homes, will shortly appear in the police court, as a result of summonses that have been issued by the board of health. One man is alleged to have been very abusive to one of the members who went to see him and expostulate with him about the nuisance the citizen was creating by dumping stuff in the lane. "We intend to prosecute all citizens whom we find breaking the law in this way," said an official to The Advertiser. "It is a very dirty practice. Next week our inspection of the city yards will be made."

SCHOOL PICNIC DATE IS SET FOR JUNE 1ST

If the Weather Is Wet, Outing Will Take Place the Following Day.

The annual school picnic will be held on Thursday, June 1.

If the weather is bad on that date it will be held on June 2.

At the meeting of the board of education held yesterday afternoon, Trustee W. T. Strong brought the matter up, and advocated holding the picnic. He thought them a good thing for the children.

There were no objections raised on the part of any of the members of the board. All favored it.

The question of a suitable date was discussed at some length. Some thought that owing to the number of holidays this year, it would be better to hold the picnic on one of these holidays, May 24th or King George's birthday, June 3rd.

However, it was found out that arrangements could not be made with the London street railway for accommodation on these dates, and it was decided, on the suggestion of Inspector Edwards, to hold the picnic on June 1.

Trustees Dr. A. J. Wyckoff, John M. Gunn and W. T. Strong were named a committee to make the necessary arrangements.

There are four languages in general use in Switzerland, but German is encountered to the greatest extent. French, Italian and Romansch follow in the order given.

CORRESPONDENCE

Pulpit and Pew.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I have followed with much interest the development of the trouble between the rector and a few of the unstable members of the congregation of the Church of St. John the Evangelist. The odds seem heavy against the reverend gentleman, who has led his flock into spiritual prosperity during the last 23 years. The trouble does not lie in Mr. Hill, but in the men who oppose him, and who passed a resolution a year ago at their vestry meeting, as follows: "And, lastly, but by no means least, your wardens desire to express their unstinted admiration and esteem for the beloved rector of this parish, who for so many years has been the faithful leader of his people, and a welcome visitor to every household, and return their earnest and sincere thanks for his kindly advice, and ever friendly greeting.

"It is our earnest prayer that the Great Father of All, who is ever generous in the distribution of his beneficence, may continue to preserve and protect him, that he may be spared for many years to minister to the spiritual wants of his parish, and discharge those duties which Divine Providence has assigned to him."

Surely, then, the crime (if such it can be called), of which Mr. Hill is accused, does not merit such insults as were heaped upon him at the recent Easter vestry meeting. If we take the above as evidence, Mr. Hill was much respected by those Christian men, who are now doing the exemplary and charitable act of depriving him of his salary, because he dismissed a man not required by the church, without consulting these pillars of the church.

Mr. Hill is only human. If he did err (which has yet to be proven), it was a slight error. Which of his enemies have not made greater mistakes every day, and still they draw their salary and are not being daily insulted? It is the old story of the pew wishing to dominate the pulpit, which cannot be.

I can only say that these dissenters will soon see their error in putting aside the tried for the untried, the loved and admired, for the stranger. Yours, etc.,

LOYAL TO THE OLD.

Sunday Picnics.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

A letter which appeared in your paper on Friday last re Sunday picnics concludes by saying, "The physical benefit derived is more than counterbalanced by the moral and religious loss incurred."

May I refer the writer to the Great Teacher who said, "Consider the lilies" and "Behold the fowls of the air?" May I ask him how much chance many a poor worker has to do these things on six days of the week? During this time he must consider, not the lilies, but how to eke out a living; and he must behold, not the fowls of the air, but the interior perhaps of some busy factory. If, on the first day of the week he and his family withdraw from the turmoil of the city to some quiet spot under God's great canopy where he can obey these two commands of Jesus, must he be censured therefor?

Let me remind our friend that there is not only a "physical benefit" by such communion with Nature, but there is also a great spiritual uplift, greater perhaps than may be felt inside the four walls of a church. Let those who wish go to church, and honor be to those who go with good intentions. But many, unlike our friend, must toil six days of the week where they cannot enjoy God's blessed sunlight. Surely they may be allowed to drink in its lifegiving strength on one day.

Then, too, let us not forget those whose Sabbath does not fall upon the first day of the week. I am neither a Jew nor a Seventh Day Adventist, but I say that if these people in obedience to their religion, abstain from work and pleasure on Saturday, why should we compel them to do it again on Sunday? Must they, of necessity, observe two Sabbaths every week? Have they not as much right to picnic on Sunday as our friend would have to picnic on Saturday?

Jesus said, "This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoreth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me." This applies to many churchgoers today. But, on the other hand, do not let our friend imagine that all who are outside of a church during Sunday services are suffering a "moral and religious loss." Sincerely yours,

A CHILD OF NATURE.

FORMER LONDON DOCTOR DIED IN VANCOUVER

Dr. D. L. McAlpine Left the Forest City for the West in 1884.

The Vancouver Daily Province has the following to say of the death of Dr. D. L. McAlpine, a former resident of London:

In the death of Dr. D. L. McAlpine, who passed away peacefully late yesterday afternoon, Vancouver loses another of its rapidly diminishing number of pioneers. After a long and active life devoted to his profession in Ontario and British Columbia, Dugald Leitch McAlpine, M. B., died in his seventy-sixth year, probably partly from the results of injuries which he received in a street car accident on Hastings street, near the corner of Abbott street, over four years ago.

Not only was he a pioneer of Vancouver, but also of the lower British Columbia mainland, for he had come to this province in 1884, before Vancouver's municipal birth. In that year he was surgeon to the construction laborers on the C. P. R., which had then reached just west of Kamloops. Continuing in that capacity for some time, he later took up his residence in the infant Terminal City about the time that the railway reached it, and in this city had since resided. He took an active part in its early development. Of its Caledonian Society he was its first physician.

Born in Argyleshire, Scotland, he came to Canada at an early age. After a brilliant course at the University of Toronto he graduated in 1863, taking the degree of M. B. For eighteen years he practiced his profession in London, Ontario, and in 1884 determined to take up his residence in the great city that he then saw would crown the Pacific terminus of the great highway that was then under construction.

Deceased is survived by four sons, three of whom are physicians, and four daughters. Dr. J. A. L. McAlpine of this city; Dr. Kenneth K. McAlpine, of Seattle; Dr. Thomas R. McAlpine, of the medical staff of the General Hospital, St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Florence Donaghy, D. D. S., of this city; Mrs. Laura Krenkel, of Oakland, Cal.; Miss Olga McAlpine, of New York city; Mrs. James Leslie, of Cobalt, Ont.; and Harold McAlpine, of Vancouver. The late Mrs. McAlpine died in Vancouver in 1896.

The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon from the residence of Dr. J. A. L. McAlpine, 1131 Barclay street, to the family plot in Mountain View Cemetery.

Dr. McAlpine was well known among the older medical practitioners in the city.

TAFT AT WORK ON PEACE TREATY

Several Tentative Drafts of Proposed Arbitration Plan.

DIFFICULTIES DISAPPEAR

No Agreement Yet as to How Arbitral Court Will Be Formed.

Washington, May 3.—Several tentative drafts of the proposed arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain were discussed by President Taft and his cabinet on Tuesday. Following the cabinet session, Secretary Knox and officials of the state department continued the discussion of the details and phraseology, but last night the President told callers that no draft had been accepted as final and that it might be weeks before the treaty could be submitted to the Senate or to Great Britain for ratification.

Some difficulties in framing the treaty have disappeared, according to the White House view. The criticism of English newspapers that the United States Senate must be consulted before disputes could be arbitrated was hardly a valid objection, the President thought.

The treaty probably will be general in character. It will provide, according to the present idea, that when disputes arise between the United States and Great Britain, they be submitted to an arbitral court for settlement. In the opinion of the President and his advisers it is perfectly natural that the Senate here, and Parliament or the British foreign office should be concerned in arranging the details for the settlement of each dispute.

So far no agreement has been reached among the framers of the treaty here as to how the proposed arbitral court shall be constituted. One proposal is that the questions at issue be submitted as they arise to The Hague tribunal. Another is that as each question comes up a court be constituted by the agreement of both governments to settle that question alone.

The President is of the opinion that Great Britain will not frame a separate proposal, but that it will await the submission of the one drawn up here. The President told his visitors that he did not know how long the treaty would run.

BETTER RATES WANTED BY LONDON OLD BOYS

Notice Has Been Received That Certificate Rates Will Be as Far West as Winnipeg.

The railway committee of the Old Boys' Association held their inaugural meeting last night in the city hall, with Ald. B. W. Bennett in the chair. There was a good representation of the members of the committee present, and they immediately got down to work. Mr. J. O. Weldon, general secretary of the association, was named secretary of this committee.

The first business brought to the attention of the committee was the announcement made by the Eastern Passenger Association that certificate rates would be granted as far west as Winnipeg, the limit of their jurisdiction. This was very favorably received, but the association will be communicated with to see if better rates cannot be secured from places close to London. For instance, Detroit Old Boys want an excursion rate, and other cities are asking for the same privilege. Ald. Bennett will take this mater up with the Passenger Association at once. He will also get in touch with the various Old Boys' organizations in order to form an estimate of how many will come to the city during the week.

Western Rates.

The rates for the Western Old Boys have always caused trouble. It will be remembered that low rates could not be secured three years ago, and as a result, a large number of them were prevented from taking the trip home. However, the railway committee are of the opinion that arrangements can be made with the Western Passenger Association for a cheap rate. It is proposed to run a special from Winnipeg to Port Arthur, charter a special boat to Sarnia, and convey the party to London from that city. In this way it is thought probable that a reasonable rate can be obtained. Secretary Weldon was instructed to take this matter up at once with the Winnipeg Old Boys and the Western Passenger Association.

"We are very hopeful that we can make the proper arrangements," declared Ald. Bennett.

Rates in United States.

The rates over the American roads were not dealt with to any extent. Secretary Weldon reported that he is endeavoring to get in touch with the various Old Boys' Associations, in order to form an estimate of the probable number who will attend the reunion, in order to present a definite estimate to the railway committee. Then it will be easy to obtain better rates from the railways.

Another meeting of the committee will be held very soon. The chairman and secretary will have much correspondence to submit to the members on that occasion, and it is expected that final arrangements with some of the associations will be made.

"Prospects are very bright," declared Chairman Bennett. "We expect good rates, and everything points to a successful reunion." Among those present were Ald. Bennett, R. E. Ruse, Thomas Evans, B. S. Murray, W. M. Guy, L. E. Tillson, A. W. White, J. O. Weldon and others.

Big Anglin Sale.

The coming to London on Thursday night of that celebrated Canadian actress, Miss Margaret Anglin, and a distinguished company in the new Liebler comedy, "Green Stockings," will be an event which will be received with enthusiasm by the playgoers of this city. Already the sale for this attraction is very heavy, and Miss Anglin, fresh from triumphs at Ottawa and Toronto, will be greeted by a large audience. Last season she appeared in a highly emotional role and during the summer at the Greek Theatre of the University of California she played the tragic role of Antigone in the Sophocles tragedy, and now she appears as a comedienne.

"House of a Thousand Candles."

The advance sale for "The House of a Thousand Candles," which will be presented at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, matinee and night, indicates that a large audience will witness the first production of that much-talked-of play here. The fact that it is a drama of unusual qualities is becoming well-known and the oddity of its story is receiving no end of comment.

LEGAL QUERIES

High School Books.

THAMESVILLE.—Being a subscriber to your paper, I will take the privilege of asking you if the same high school books are used in Vancouver, B. C., as are used in Ontario? Please answer at once. Yours sincerely, A Reader.

Ans.—Some of the books used in Ontario may be included among those used in British Columbia, but there is no uniformity in this regard in the Canadian provinces.

A Legal Question.

RIDOUT.—Can I compel my neighbor by law to build his half of line fence? He is paying for his place monthly, but has no deed. If not, what means can I take to have a fence erected? The place is inside of city limit

Answer.—Owners of occupied adjoining lands must by law maintain a just proportion of the line fence. Your neighbor, who has an agreement to purchase by monthly payments, is in law the owner, but in any event in order to call on the fence viewers by notice to them you may notify the occupant of the land whose duty it is, if he is not the owner, to immediately notify the owner.
