CANADA IS NOT RECEIVING ANY

Railway are, it is understood, very much depleted, and a doubt is expressed as to whether the road could long continue in operation under present conditions. As stated by Fuel Controller Magrath, Canada would, in all probability under normal circumstances, have imported at least two million tons from the United States during November and December. If this country should succeed in getting the 150-car allottment, it would mean the 150-car allottment, it would mean an importation of approximately 6,090 tons a day, of 150,000 tons per month. It can, therefore, be readily seen that even at the best supplies of coal are

CLOSING DOWN OF MANY PITTSBURG INDUSTRIES

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 4.—The fuel situa-tion in the Pittsburg district took on a more serious aspect today when officials of the federal fuel administration here made public an order cutting off coal supplies to many industries. Under the order, permits for coal will be issued only to the first five consumers on the Government's essential list, including Will Appeal to Hines.

It is stated that, unless the shipment of coal from south of the line to Canada starts very soon, the Canadian Government will find it necessary to go to Director-General Hines of the United States Railway Administration to obtain Supreme Council Will Send Note To Germans Demanding Consent To Accept Responsibility For Sinking of Ships At Scapa Flow-Small German Torpedoboats Given To Minor Powers.

Paris, Dec. 4.—The supreme council spent the greater part of today's session discussing the attitude of Germany towards the signing of the protocol, putting the peace treaty into effect, Germany's representatives having declared they could not sign it in lits present form, including its provision for reparation for the German warships sunk at Scapa Flow and with other features objectionable to them. The form of a note to Germany on this question was considered by the council, but no final decision was taken.

It is anticipated, in this connection, that the reply to the German note regarding the Scapa Flow question will contain very strong representations as to the consequences of further resistance by Germany.

CITY SCHOOLS NEED CHANGED CONDITIONS, STATES INSPECTOR

Heartily in Favor of Urban Trustees' Association.

School Inspector C. B. Edwards is neartily in favor of the Urban Trustees' Association which the local board of education has decided to join.

"Sixty-two per cent of all the pupils in the province are from urban centres." he said. "And yet all the forms issued by the department of education are based on the one-room rural school. The intention of the Urban Trustees' Association is to formulate the problems of the urban schools in such a manner as will be readily grasped by the provincial educational authorities." Red Tape.

"At present places such as Toronto with 1,500 teachers must make reports on the same schedule as the country school. A further complaint is that while the school year begins in September and ends in June the department resolutely refuses to change the books and registers accordingly. This means confusion and makes the annual means confusion and makes the annual report of the minister valueless for in-

"Different problems face the urban and rural trustees. The amount spent by the urban trustees for building and equipment is far in excess of that spent by the rural trustees. Signs of the times point to an improvement in the latter schools in the matter of expenditure. Even as it is, the cost per pupil based on the salary paid the teacher is as great in many rural districts as in the cities. It is not infrequent to find rural schools with a class of 7 to 15 pupils, where there used to be as many as 40 and 50 pupils. In the city we can seldom avoid classes of less than 40 while sometimes there are as many as 60. We feel that these conditions require special consideration and the Urban Trustees' Association has been formed for that purpose."

PROGRESSIVE LIBERALISM.

The progressive ideas of the August Liberal Convention are being strictly carried out by the National Liberal Organization Committee at Ottawa. It is announced that no contribution to party funds will be accepted if there are "strings" to it. We are to have clean politics in Canada if Liberalism has its way.

Who will subscribe, then, if there is to be "nothing in it?" some of the anxious old hacks will be asking. Particularly old dyed-in-thewool Conservative campaigners will be disposed to rub their hands and chuckle at the enemy's foolish innocence. "We expect help from the tens of thousands who support our principles, we intend using the funds not for 'campaigning,' but for the spread of the Liberal gospel of industrial, social and political freedom; we do not look for the support of special interests and privileged groups, but the Liberalism of this new age will unite and harmonize what is best in the demands of the various elements of our population, and will thus deserve and win the support of Canada's rank and file"-that is what the Liberal leader and his associates say, and they say it in accents of confidence.

If the old hands laugh for a moment at such virtuous bearing, they suddenly turn sober at the thought of what happened to the Hearst Government and its liquor friends. Money in plenty was available for their campaign, but the public is in no humor to be dominated by big interests and their lucre. Liberalism at Ottawa, led by a simple, honest man, perfectly trained in finance, economics and the school of life, scorning the dodges of old-line politics, has caught the trend of these after-the-war times. It throws over the stale professionalism, the wire-pulling and place hunting, and thinks today what the old hands will regretfully think tomorrow. There is no shadow of a doubt that since the war the general public takes a different attitude towards government. "Our world has passed away in wanton overthrow," sighed Kipling. Some of that old "world" can be dispensed with to our gain, especially the unchallenged dominance of money in politics. The public calls now for openness, clean honesty, fair fighting and a square deal for all, in place of the old underhandedness and Pharisaism. Liberalism is doing its part valiantly to ring out the old, ring in the new.

WHY GERMANY BALKS

The German Government refuses to sign the protocol to the peace pact guaranteeing that the armistice terms will be put into effect This action is just what might have been expected, following the American Senate's rejection of the treaty. Germany's main official reason for refusing to ratify the agreement is that it cannot be held responsible for the sinkings at Scapa Flow. The real reason is that the German Government hopes to secure better terms through what it believes to be a split in the Allied ranks. It is known that for weeks Government and political circles at Berlin have been secretly rejoicing over the Senate's efforts to "Americanize" the treaty. They consider it quite likely that the United States, in the event of President Wilson "pocketing pact." will negotiate a separate arrangement. In that case the whole peace business would be up in the air. The negotiations would necessarily be prolonged, adding to the exasperation of the situation. At some points American conditions would be certain to clash It is not to be supposed that politics would not play a part in the matter. American pro-German and Irish vote would not be neglected with a presidential campaign at hand. If she did not derive any great relief Germany would, at least, have a magnificent opportunity to encourage discord between America and the Entente nations, and the chance would not be neglected

It is true that Foch has an army of occupation a million strong and at any moment the Allies can apply the blockade in order to en force obedience at Berlin, but the United States is still a member of the Versailles con-To put on the screws in order to compel Germany to sign a treaty which the United States Congress has not ratified, would be inclined to cause bad feeling between the Entente cabinets and Washington. This is what Germany counts on to help evade well deserved chastisement. Discord in the ranks of her enemies is what she has been plotting and hoping for Senator Lodge and his band of treatywreckers appear to have brought about a touchy situation that might easily explode into another catastrophe.

EXIT EMMA.

Emma Goldman, anarchy's high priestess in the United States, is about to return to her native land, Russia, impelled by Uncle Sam's boot. Emma's career in the republic spectacularly illustrates the tolerance and patience of democracies. For many years she has been active in preaching Red revolution in the United States. She has been directly associated with outlaws of society who are today serving life farms for dynamiting and murder. Czolgosz. slew President McKinley, was this woman's close friend, and his abominable deed she openly praised. She actively supported every move for the destruction of constitutional government. Yet, outside of an occasional brief visit to some penitentiary or jail, she has been left free to preach her infamous doctrine. It was only when she attempted to interfere with the American people's war preparations that the patience of the United States Government came to an end and she was ordered de-

Emma does not appear to thrill over the prospect of returning to the happy hunting grounds of the Red where the anarchists never cease from anarching, and the decent and liberty-loving are sent to their rest. She has fought desperately to prevent expulsion. Maybe Emma knows that while in the new world she is a sort of Red queen, in Russia she will be outclassed by those supreme experts in murder and destruction, Lenine and Trotzky. Emma's most lurid stunts are dark as the shadows in a coal bin compared to the doings of the detestable pair Isn't that wonderful? who have prostrated Russia. She is a piker compared to the Red chiefs who have pulled down a great nation, foully murdered tens of thousands and brought misery to millions. In Russia Emma will be an also ran, a third or fourth rater to this pair who think nothing of putting entire cities to the torch, merely to advertise their coming. Nick and Leon propose to grab all the limelight in Red Russia and unless Emma sings low when she gets back home she may swing high. That's a way the Bolshevist leaders have of treating possible rivals or aspirants to leadership. Probably the real reason behind her unwillingness to de and comfort of "tyranny" for the peril and discomforts of "liberty." It is cold in Russia and there isn't much to eat or wear. such conditions it would be difficult to enjoy the glorious industrial and social rules which the application of the methods she preaches has achieved in Russia America, the "downtrodden" looks pretty good to

A REAL BIOGRAPHY WE LACK.

The publication in the Century Magazine of Professor Skelton's "Life and Letters of Sir Wilfrid Laurier" can hardly fail to suggest to anyone interested in Canadian political history the lack of a really great biography of Laurier's predecessor. Sir John Macdonald. We are not without biographies of Canada's first premier, for we have several, but no one can read any of them without feeling that the real biography is yet to be written. It is probably true that not until the present could Macdonald's career have been dealt with properly, because the letters and papers of the Canadian statesman were not available until recently when they were turned over to the Canadian archives. Indeed, it is quite possible that some of them may still be under certain reservation.

Of Macdonald's biographers in the past, Sir Joseph Pope had best facilities for his work. As private secretary to Macdonald he secured the intimate view of his character, which is of incalculable value to understanding him. But Pope's large two-volume life practically closes with the election of 1878, leaving thirteen most uneventful years unrecorded. A later. account of Macdonald's career by the same writer, published in the Chronicles of Canada series, added nothing to our knowledge documents they reprint, but are too partisan in character to be satisfying. Parkin's life, in the Makers' of Canada series, while less partisan in its character, nevertheless bears some stamp of propaganda in its general tone and has a tendency to pass lightly over questionable political tactics in Macdonald's career.

Fulsome eulogy is the last thing that is needed in the case of John A. Macdonald. He lived in a time when politics was far lower in tone than today, and he did not hesitate to adopt tactics that would injure his opponents, however questionable they might be. His gerrymander of the Ontario ridings in 1882 was a disgraceful piece of business for which there was no excuse and was described rightfully by an Opposition paper as "An act to keep the Conservative party in power until the next census." Equally despicable as a piece of political trickery was his Franchise Bill of 1885, which, even his own best friends found a bitter pill to swallow. For the rebellion of 1885 there is abundant evidence that the Government was directly responsible. In 1879 provision was made by Parliament for settling the claims of the Saskatchewan Metis, but for six years the whole business was pigeon-holed. Macdonald must take personal blame for this, because after the election of 1878 he, himself, took charge of the department of the interior for a number of years. Col. George T. Denison in his "Soldiering in Canada" deals caustically with the inaction of Ottawa at this time. Warnings came from every quarter that trouble was brewing, but the Government was indifferent. Says Col.

The whole dispute was mainly about or 50,000 acres of land in a wilderness of tens millions of acres, for which the Government was crying for settlers. It cost Canada the lives of two hundred of her people, the wounding of many others, the expenditure of about $6,000,000 in cash, and the losses of time and business that cannot be estimated. The whole dispute was maining about some red tape regulations as to surveying.

It is not often a country suffers so severely

These were some of the blemishes on Mac donald's career to which the Pacific Scandal might, of course, be added, and knowledge of these is quite as essential to an understanding of his character, and his place in history as knowledge of the great constructive work that he did in bringing about Confederation, building the Canadian Pacific Railway, settling long-standing disputes with the United States, and welding stronger the ties between Canada and the Motherland. One might wish that the fine judgment, historical insight and literary accomplishments of Sir John Willison might be turned to the writing of a biography of Macdonald. Sir John Willison has the advantage of having been a close observer of Macdonald's career from the early eighties on, and would bring to a work of this kind certain qualities that perhaps no other Canadian possesses in like degree. It would be a worthy work to set along

Perhaps the fumbler is a necessary part of the scheme of things. Philosophers say evil is necessary, for without evil there would be no good. Be that as it may, there is nothing essentially bad in the fumblers of the world. They merit neither condemnation nor scorn, provided they fumbled in a good cause. To lose a battle is no disgrace. He who bravely loses, even if he fumbles is none the less a hero. The man if he fumbles, is none the less a hero. They had discovered that evening the great coay chalse lounge in the pink bedroom, its back invitingly banked with pillows of softest chiffon and at its side a reading lamp with a chiffon-shaded lamp that made David smile, so feminine was its charm. "We must have pink roses in that pink vase—when my wife returns." he suggested.

Hubald Martin was the guide's name, who hauled me on a springless wagon man miles above the St. John River, over "stump lanes, but mostly up creek beds we drove, until, after several days, we came to the "Portage," and sent our driver back, while we pitched our tent and ate our potatoes and butter in great content.

Day after day we waded down stream, never lifting our feet above the water, to avoid the splash of a "break water" step. At last "the" morning came. How fast my heart beat as we cautiously waded around each river bend and peered down the next stretch. How fervently I prayed the good God to bless us. We were rounding the bend. How the primeval instinct came back! There on a low, gravelly-bare island, unconscious of us, stood the argest animal to me in the whole world-a veritable mammoth. The Lord was with me and I feared not. I could feel Hubald tremble. The shots rang out on the frosty air. He turned; few faltering steps; dead moose; crimson waters; I, the happies hunter of hunters.

With true Latin emotions Hubald grasped my hand, threw up his hat and shouted: "Ain't you glad! Ain't you glad!" He could not understand my apparent indifference. True, I felt proud and happy. A dream had come true. But when I look even now on that noble head, I feel that same sad desire to put him back in his "bogen. The days passed, I had killed "my moose." but I could not leave that heavenly country of fish and game. With back packs we went to a long-abandoned camp to stay two days. There were many old tote road. Down we crouched as two moose came around a bend, cow and calf. The wind in our faces, we held our breath behind a screen o moose weeds. Slowly the two moose came down the road nibbling, unafraid. The calf wandered off the road, the mother, with proper solicitude, now and then calling it back. But all is not well. He must be near, there are so many cows and calves. Pierre knows it. "We go ride; boil tea; maybe dusk; bull come to cow. We stop for tea; no smoke must be there: we break small, dry twigs.'

Pierre lays over the faggot pile to start the little smokeless fire. Is he crazy? Just as the fire catches he falls on it, puts it out, grabs his gun and jumps behind a big tree. I do likewise. PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

URGES PEOPLE TO DO THEIR LOVE-MAKING IN FICTION AS ECONOMY

Millions Spent Yearly on Women When Literary Love Affairs More Thrilling.

I am always falling madly in lovewith the fair ladies created by novelists. Indeed, no novel with a "love interest" can hold me until its finish if the heroine is not the kind of young person who makes me wish to be the hero and go to church with her in the last chapter. Confession is good for the soul, and as it is not my business to review novels as works of art in the psychological manner new in fashion, no reader of this will "raise a horrible beef" or think me a fraud when I admit that I often get great pleasure out of very bad stories. When my study door is locked, and the children tiptoe past for fear of interrupting the business of inventing jewel phrases, and the little copper kettle sings joyously above the grumbling flames and a fresh bottle of usquebaugh has been cannily uncorked—then ah, then, you picture me working deftly with the edged tools of rhetoric or deeply imwith the fair ladies created by novelists, serious criticism. The worse it is, the better I seem to like it. And I own to a strange predilection for the story of the persecuted governess, which is, or used to be, one of the most popular forms of canned fiction—as it is two months since such a delicacy came my way, I fear it is not being so freely way, I fear it is not being so freely way, I fear it is not being so freely produced as in former days.

Which reminds me that only production will save this country from bankruptcy. My poor heart throbs for the sorrows of that poor young gentlewoman who is so shockingly put upon by her uncultured employers and their objectionable offspring, and even by the servants. And joy comes in like a tidal wave and fills my heart to overflowing when she is loved at first sight by the handsome young man in rough tweeds handsome young man in rough tweeds and carrying a gun, whom she takes for a gamekeeper (else why should he carry a gun in the month of roses?). I Eagerly Read On.

Well, I know who he is, if she doesn't -the owner of "The Hall," of course, who has been so long absent on his travels that even the old curtseying dames in the village have forgotten what "the young lord" looked like. Eagerly I read on and on, awaiting the betrothal kiss by the old style, and the revealing of the young man's distinguished identity, and the humiliation of the snobbish household, and the noble way in which the heroine smiles forgiveness at them and invites them. forgiveness at them and invites them all to the wedding. My eagerness is surely pardonable—for about half way through the story I have completely because the story I have because the story I have completely because the story I have bec through the story I have completely merged my own personality in that of the young man in rough tweeds and carrying a gun in the month of roses. That is the secret of success in literary love affairs. You must learn how to identify yourself with the hero; you simply must; it is the only way. With practice it is quite easy; so easy that I have been John Ridd, Colonel Esmond and Louis Moore in the space of a single week, and embezzled all their lawful ecstasies without turning a hair.

Economical Love-Making.

Economical Love-Making. This form of love-making has many advantages. It is economical as regards time, trouble and money. At a single reading, in an hour or two, you pass through the whole gamut of a grand passion for the most adorable and various of other-worldly women. She comes and goes faithfully at your behest. Open the book she haunts, and she steals out in her white ghostly perfection. Close it, and she is gone, meekly and mutely awaiting a recall to do your pleasure.

o do your pleasure. Some Dangers.

There are small subtle dangers in this cult of literary love affairs. It is said a certain ardent poet imagined the presence of a Shakespearean lady so intensely that she turned up one morning in the flesh and boxed his ears soundly for his cheek, which happened to be unshaven. A story has also been told to me of a young man who goes and the story has also been told to me of a young man who goes and the story has also been told to me of a young man who goes and the story has also been told to me of a young man who goes and the story has also been the story has a s to be unshaven. A story has also been told to me of a young man, who got so wrapped up in Tess that the girl he was engaged to refused to meet her engagements. Millions of Germs

Breed in Tooth Film-Keep It Off

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Film Wrecks the Teeth

THAT slimy film which you feel with your tongue causes most tooth troubles. The tooth brush does not end it. The ordinary tooth paste does not dissolve it. In crevices and elsewhere that film clings. That is why your brushing fails to keep teeth white, free from tartar, clean and safe.

That film is what discolors - not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhes. So all these troubles have been increasing despite the wide use of the tooth brush. Dental science, after years of search, has found a film combatant. Able authorities have amply proved this by careful clinical tests. Leading dentists everywhere now urge

The method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent, And we offer a 10-Day. Tube free now to everyone for home tests.

See the Results, Then Decide

The results of Pepsodent are quickly apparent. Some are instant. We ask you to see them—watch them ten days—then decide for yourself about them. Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it. Pepsin long seemed impossible. It must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. But science has discovered a harmless, activating method. The inventor has been granted patents by five governments already. It is that invention which makes possible this efficient film combatant.

Christmas and the New Year

Dear Mail-Box Friends,-Just that we may get a little closer in touch with each other as the happiest season of the year approaches, may I make a request of all friends of the Mail-Box? It is that everyone who cares to will send in a few words of either Christmas or New Year's greetings, to be used, at that time, in our Mail-Box Corner of the Woman's Page. These contributions must of course be brief-just a sentence or two, or if in verse, not more than four lines. You will understand by these limitations that we are expecting a splendid response, and please will you send them in before December 15? Just a few words, for either Christmas or the New Year (choose which you will, not both), sign your pen-name, and inclose your name and address (which of course will not be published), and may our Mail-Box be crowded with jolly, happy, helpful little messages for us all.

Straight lines denote peace, tranquility and long line; long, wavy lines denote vexations and long, wavy lines denote vexations and losses; square figures foretell happiness and security; obling figures, family discord; curved or twisted figures are sure signs of annoyance; circles predict money; a crown signifies honor; a triangle denotes an unexpected journey; an anchor, success in business, if at the bottom of the cup, or success in love if at the top; the cross predicts to do your pleasure.

Somebody once compared women with bandits to the disadvantage of the former—bandits take your money or your life, he said, but women take your money and your life and even then are most dissatisfied. But it is not so with the heroines of fiction. All they ask, sweet souls, is that you should love them and wreak on them the rights of a blameless and impeccable polygamy. There is also a secret zest of a most intriguing kind in these literary love affairs. You, perhaps elderly like myself and very far from decorative, are yet capable of making them unfaithful in a sense to the lovers provided for them in the way of authorship.

Promptly at 12 o'clock, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Margaret Graham of Union, cousin of the bride, the bridal party entered the drawing-room, the bride leaning on the arm of her father, and took their places before a beautiful bank of evergreens and 'mums.

The bride was charmingly attired in ivory silk, and wore the accustomed bridal veil, caught with orange blossoms, and carried Ophelia roses. Little Helen Baker of London, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She was daintily dressed in white organdy and lace, and carried a basket of pink and white carnations.

After congratulations, Miss Eva Vandelinder of Lambeth, sang a solo very sweetly. To Ward Off Winter

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all winter, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolized wax. Rough, chapped or discolored skin. Inevitable in this weather, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, the latter being applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear conspicuous at this season, because of alterating expansion and contraction of the skin, due to changing temperatures. You are advised to try this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolize at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any complexion at once, and in a week or so the skin will look remarkably youthful and healthy.—Advt.

BLENHEIM, Dec. 3.—The matter of erecting a monument in memory of the soldiers from here who made the supreme sacrifice overseas is attracting attention again. At a meeting of the council held this week it was brought up again by Councillor McTavish. After some discussion it was decided to lay the matter over until December 15, when the council will decide whether or not a vote of the electors shall be taken on it. The council seems quite favorable towards doing something.

Mr. Bredin said the deputation was also representing the interests of the people to whom an increase of one cent in the cost was a vital matter. Much more so, he thought, than a cent on a quart of milk. Commissioner Murdock challenged this, pointing out that cheaper millfeeds, which the bakers objected to, would not only bring about cheaper milk but also cheaper ineat and dairy products.

and the same was true in other cities. All should be required to report or none at all. The bakers, however, were always ready to co-operate with the government departments, but they wanted this matter placed on a fair basis.

Mr. O'Connor explained that as soon as the board was able to it would see that every one of the bakers was reporting. That was the law, and it would be enforced. If the bakers did not wish to make reports they must This Famous Cabinet I have the law, and it would be enforced. If the bakers did not wish to make reports they must have the law changed. have the law changed. As to the falling off in the number of reports, that had come as an unpleasant surprise to him when he returned to the cost of living work after an absence of a year and a half. The war had made government supervision of business necessary, and when there had been an attempt to drop it a loud outcry had arisen from the people, but by that time the reporting system had fallen off considerably. The only way the board could conduct its work properly was by getting accurate reports, and these it meant to have.

Mr. Bredin then said that the constant flood of letters to the bakers should cease. Some time there were tiree or four on the same question.

"Then why not answer the first one properly?" asked Mr. O'Connor.

The bakers' spokesman said it was not always possible to tally the number of loaves produced from the amount of flour used. Mr. O'Connor replied that the experts who received those letters and tabulated the monthly summary, which many bakers said was valuable to them, made allowance for all necessary losses and wastage. Mr. Bredin admitted that the reports were very valuable and that the bakers were pleased with the work the board was doing at present.

Dent Harrison, Montreal, said the necessary accounting for the reports was costing his firm $2.000 a year. He admitted that the record obtained was valuable. John Bridge of London, Ont., and G. C. Morrison also addressed the board, the former suggesting that there might be group gatherings at which the board was dather the board was district or province could be met by the board of commerce and have explained to them just what the board was dathed the motod. At the conclusion of the hearing Mr. O'Connor thanked the bakers for their visit and said he thought there would as a result be a better understanding of the board's work.

SAYS A PROSPEROUS RURAL POPULATION FIRST THING NEEDED

Canada's Wealth Comes From Soil, Declares Drury.

UXBRIDGE, Dec. 3.—Premier Drury spoke at a meeting held here tonight in the interests of R. H. Halbert, president of the U.F.O. and the farmers' candidate for North Ontario in the federal by-election. In addition to the premier and Mr. Halbert, Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer, addressed the gathering.

Premier Drury said the first thing needed in Canada was a prosperous and contented rural population. Canada's wealth came from the soil, he said, and it would be many hundreds of years before Canada would become chiefly a manufacturing country. Anything that interfered with the development of agriculture interfered with the development of the whole country. Protect on had led to the iniquity of combines. The whole question of combines was a federal one. "It is your big question in the Dominion elections," he added.

Touching on the farmers' movement the premier said:

"All over Canada the farmers are taking the lead in a great clean-up reform movement. It is a great thing these days to be a farmer, because you are taking a lead in a movement that will shortly be a people's movement."

President Halbert assured the meeting that the farmers were not out to hurt the businessmen of the towns.

One way to lessen the cost of production, he said, would be to knock the top off the tariff wall, behind which the manufacturers of the country had been pap-fed for years and had grown fat and had put lots of money into Victory bonds that were exempted from taxation. bonds that were exempted

As you age, the body tissues natural, relax. You see this tissue loosening in the neck. It goes on in your gums too. As you grow older, your gums shrink below the normal gum line. Through lack of care they become spongy and inflamed. Then you have Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. And many under forty, also.

Don't let a tender gum spot de-clop. These tender spots breed disease germs which enter the system through tiny openings-infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments. Immediately get Forhan's which positively prevents Pyorrhea if used in time and used consistently. Forhan's tones the gums and hardens them. They in turn keep the teet's healthy. Financial Outlook Favorable.

Another important factor in the early recovery of Belgium is its comparatively favorable financial situation. The public debt in Belgium in 1914 was slightly less than 5,000,000,000 francs. This amount largely represented advances for the purpose of the Belgian railways and the improvement of waterways. Both of these yielded a profitable return to the government, with the consequence that taxes were light. Interest by the net profits of the state railways.

forced idleness of others made for demoralization in industry, this was balanced in part, by the comparatively small loss of man-power, due to the suddenness with which the country was pounced upon. So unexpected was Garmany's descent upon the hapless people that it was impossible for Albert to mobilize his full military strength, with the result that many men of service age were unable to join the colors.

Textile industries suffered less than the metallurgical group, because the Belgian cotton and wool trades were considered less formidable rivals of Teutonic industry. The cotton mills of Ghent have attained 70 per cent of their normal output, and it is expected that by January 1 full normal production will have been restored. Necessary parts for looms and spindles all have been ordered from England, and deliveries are being made satisfactorily. Labor costs from 135 to 150 per cent more than it did before the war, but this increase has been compensated in some part by shop reorganization and increased efficiency in production. The sleven-hour workday of pre-war days has been cut to nine hours. Approximately half the workers are women. One interesting feature has been the substitution of an entire week's holiday for the various minor holidays to which the workers were accustomed. The mills of Ghent are booked well ahead with orders, and goods are being exported to Holland, Great Britain. France and to South America.

Resumption of normal production in the woolen mills of the Verviers district has been delayed longer because of the difficulty of obtaining raw manual production in the model of the difficulty of obtaining raw manual production in the metallurgical group in the ware from the workers and employers with gratifying results. [By Isabel Armstrong.]

As stated by Rev. Principal Gandier Knox Church tonight, the keynote P essence of the forward movement to make the world see God in the is performed. to make the world see God in the see of Jesus Christ our Lord. This is a summing up of our efforts and other continent, broke thousands of Canadian hearts, took toll of thousands of Canadian hives because of her unchristian spirit. The nations of the world have become to such an extent on neighborhood that no nation is safe. at the forward movement must begin one d be centered in ourselves personally. e must personally be prepared to go "Unless in this generation we present to the Orient the leaven of Christianity, the anti-Christian races of the Orient will take toil of the best blood of Christiangen in the years to come. then and that, and the Govern-of Christendom in the years to con the has been doing its part. "There is only one who can make democracy safe," he added, "and that is the Man of Nazareth."

Mr. Gunday declared he was more concerned about the respectable, well-to-do in Canadian cities, the dwellers in restricted suburbs, than those in the slums. "I fear more for those who are piling up wealth than those who are scantily clad. I don't believe in railing at the rich. There are more selfish men among the poor, because there are more poor. There are people in danger in the middle classes as well as among the rich. could not assert what was not to oss. Unity in the Churches.

In conclusion, he touched upon the subject of unity in the churches. "Perhaps," he said, "I am treading on an treashed, I am no fanatic on the subject, non do I advocate a union resulting from human manipulation and contract. I believe that unity is born, not made, and comes from the operation of certain forces."

At this point an allegorical picture was drawn of the five churches in the great national Forward Movement mitted in a world tray, with the unity of the attraction of "the divine, mighty, sonquering Christ." Visioning a more flustrious character than Jehr, with armenits bound with girdle of gold, air white as wool, and eyes of flame. rarments bound with girdle of gold nair white as wool, and eyes of flame, and a broad platformed chariot drawn by a great white steed, he pictured the sharlot driving down the great highway of human history. The progress of the chariot is interrupted at a street eading into the highway, a street of toble buildings, towers and steeples, and of the Anglican Church, which the treet represents, the question is asked by the driver of the chariot, "Is thine eart fight as my heart with thine?" he Anglican Church finds its place on the platform chariot. We knew that when we placed the facts squarely before our customers as to the absolute necessity of increasing the price of our bread, they would rally round us and help us maintain Neal's quality

We have always taken the lead in the reforms effected in the bread making business, because these reforms were in the interests of our patrons as well as ourselves. In all our reforms the bread-consuming public has stood by us, knowing that we were giving them better bread and better service than they could obtain elsewhere.

YOU HELPED US OUT

You were fair and broad-minded enough to see that we were forced to raise the price of our bread in order to maintain its high Quality. You gave us your unanimous support when you knew that we did not increase the price of our bread until we were absolutely forced to. We appreciate your fair-mindedness and we will not fall down on our end of the job.

Our customers know that it costs more to produce high quality bread than it does to produce inferior bread.

MONTREAL CAPITALISTS PROPOSE TO BUILD A SIXTEEN-STORY HOTEL

MONTREAL, Dec. 3.—Representatives of New York and Montreal capitalists waited on the board of commissioners at the city hall this morning and asked for permission to build a sixteen-sto y hotel to cost $3,000,000. They urged that the civic bylaw which limited the height of buildings in Montreal to ten stories should be lifted for the hotel, because it would not pay if of less height than sixteen. The site of the proposed hotel is the corner of Peel and St. Catherine streets.

The Montreal capitalists behind the venture include Lord Shaughnessy and E. W. Beatty of the C.P.R.

'HUSH MONEY" PAID IN TRANSACTION BY STANDARD RELIANCE

Former Manager Says $250 Paid to G. H. Cooper to Secure Silence.

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—When W. S. Dinnick, former manager of the defunct Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation, which is being judicially investigated here, stepped out of the witness box this afternoon he was promised a few days' respite and a week's time in which to refresh his memory and produce documents in connection with the Grand Valley Lansactions of 1905. He was unprepared this afternoon to go into details on Grand Valley Railway matters.

The probe will go on tomorrow with M. J. Kent, manager of the London Loan Company, as witness. It was stated today that Mr. Kent was being called at his own request to straighten out financial tangles in connection with the Huron and Bruce.

In connection with the taking over of the Canadian Homestead Loan and Savings Mr. Dinnick sain that a certain $10,000 check from the Homestead to the Standard never went into the latter company's assets, because A. I. TORONTO, Dec. 3.-When W. S. Savings Mr. Dinnick said that a certain $10,000 check from the Homestead to the Standard never went into the latter company's assets, because A. J. Pattison, president of the former concern, got it for retiring from office. It was shown that the Standard also purchased $10,200 of bonds in the Grand Valley, which transaction was somehow involved with the other. In connection with the transactions of the Canadian Savings Company Mr. Dinnick frankly admitted that a payment of $250 had been made to Geo. H. Cooper, a director of the Canadian Savings, to secure his acquiescence, or at least his silence. "We were up against this type of thing at every purchase," he said. "After a deal was made people would write and threaten, and amounts were paid to stave off these threats."

'MUST BE REVOLUTION"

B. Russell, on Trial at Winnipeg, Stated to Have Used the Words.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 3.-Reports of speeches made by George Armstrong, R. J. Johnson, R. B. Russell, and Blumenberg, at a meeting in the Majestic Theatre featured the evidence at the trial today of R. B. Russell for alleged seditious conspiracy.

The reports were prepared by W. F. Feppedly, a MacDonald Agency detective, who had attended the meeting at the instance of the city police authorities, and taken shorthand notes of what he called "startling slams." They were brought to the attention of the court by counsel for the crown with the object of snowing that the necessions. the object of snowing that the necessity for a revolution, bloodshed if possible and preierably, in Canada had sity for a revolution, bloodshed if possible and preierably, in Canada had been urged at the meeting.

In the report of Russell's speech the accused was stated to have said labor had never done anything by legislation, and that there must be a revolution. Russell was also said to have decared, with a snap of his fingers: "We don't care that much for the city, provincial and Dominion Governments of Canada."

Praised Bolsheviki. Russell also asserted according to Fepperly, that the only places in Russia, where anarchy nevailed, were the places where the allies were in control, and that the Bolsheviki were giving good order and government in that

Armstrong did not say "anything startling," according to the witness, but Jones, who "seemed kind of excited," asserted that revolution was coming and that he was present for the purpose of educating labor to seek control of everything throughout the country, "with or without bloodshed." "with or without bloodshed."

Blumenberg, whom witness characterized as the most vigorous speaker at the meeting, took occasion to correct previous speakers, who had said that the Socialists were not advocating revolution, Fepperly's report stated.

"If they were not advocating revolution they would not be here," was another remark attributed to Blumenberg.

Talked Too Fast.

The witness was put through a sharp cross-examination by Robert Cassidy. K.C., senior counsel for the defense, and to the test the ability of the witness as a shorthand writer Mr. Cassidy dictated a passage from a document. The lawyer read the passage at the rate of 200 words a minute, and the witness soon gave up the task of taking notes and protested that he was not supposed to write shorthand at such a speed. He explained that he did not profess to be an expert shorthand writer and only claimed that he could write shorthand faster than he could write longhand and found it useful for his own purposes on that account. He maintained that his report was a true report of portions of the speeches of which he had taken notes. account. He maintained that his report was a true report of portions of the speeches of which he had taken notes.

Most of the time of the court was taken up with the evidence of the Northwest Mounted Police in different parts of Canada. More than a dozen "mounties" were called in this connection, the familiar and popular red and gold of their uniforms giving a welcome touch of color to the scene touch of color to the scene.

At the suggestion of Mr. Cassidy the judge ruled that the jury should get a chance of reading the documents put in as exhibits, and when the proceedings closed for the day his lordship turned over a huge batch of exhibits as something with which to beguile the time on their "first night off" from regular court work since the jurors decided on holding night sessions four nights a week.

Afternoon Session.

Evidence of the seizure of documents was given by various police officials in the afternoon. Searches, it was shown, had been conducted at Vancouver, Edmonton, Bruce Mines, Alb., Windsor, Toronto, Montreal, North Bay and Ottawa. The crown then recalled witness Percy officials in the afternoon. Searches, it was shown, had been conducted at Vancouver, Edmonton, Bruce Mines, Alb., Windsor, Toronto, Montreal. North Bay and Ottawa. The crown then recalled witness Percy, a court reporter at Fernie, B.C., who reported the miners' convention in Calgary in February, 1919. He had been told to stand aside until the shorthand notes which he took at the convention could be obtained. These, said Mr. Andrews, were now available. The witness was asked to name any individuals at the miners' convention who were also present at the Calgary convention in March.

The witness said that there might have been some more that he could not remember.

DENY PUBLISHING SEDITIOUS LIBEL

WINNIPEG, Dec. 3.—F. J. Dixon. M.L.A., and S. J. Woodsworth were arraigned in the assize court today and pleeded not guilty to charges of publishing seditious libel. Both Dixon and Woodsworth appeared in their own de-fence with no counsel to assist them. At the request of Hugh Phillips, K.C., the crown, the hearing was post-ned until January 7, 1920.

CHICAGO HOTELKEEPER STARTS THE MOVEMENT TOWARD LOWER PRICES

CHICAGO. Dec. 3.—Managers of Chicago's biggest hotels today showed no indications of following the action of the Hotel LaSalle, one of the largest in the Hotel LaSalle, one of the largest in the city, which yesterday ordered a sweeping reduction in the prices of rooms and food. Ernest J. Stevens, manager of the hotel, explained today that the reductions were made in the hope of starting a general movement "back toward reasonable profits."

When Tinker Bob saw young Red Fox and his brothers lingering near the spot where Mr. Muskrat had been caught in the trap he knew that some mischief was in their mind.
"Why did you frighten Mr. Muskrat until he gnawed off his foot?" asked Tinker Bob.

"But he would never have thought of such a thing if you had not threatened him in some way.
"I only thought it would be better for him to be killed by his friends than by his enemy, the Hunter," said young Fox.

Making friends is a business familiar to everyone. Tinker Bob, King of the Forest, was especially glad to meet the newcomers in the great forest. Mr. Ground Hog had gone into his winter quarters, he had been a welcome addito the dwellers of the great woodto his forest palace, he noticed some piles of sticks and stones about the size of a bushel basket. They were not a great way from the throne. He examined them closely and found that there were little roads leading into these piles from every side. It seemed strange that he had never noticed these peculiar stick piles before. "These have not been here long." said he to himself. "I'll wait and see who comes to this place with-out asking my permission."

He lingered about until sundown and as the twilight gathered he saw the head of a small creature appear at one side of the odd-looking piles. Two large black eyes looked about to see if everytingent.

CRISIS REACH A

Could Invoke Govt. Regulations But Prefers to Trust People.

OTTAWA, Dec. 3,-"The fuel situation in Canada was never as grave at Magrath, Dominion fuel controller, in servation issued this evening. He drew attention to the fact that Canada had received practically no soft coal during the month of November and that the allotment of 150 cars a day which had been made was extremely small as compared with normal imports. From Arcsent appearances, he said, all that could be expected was to keep the public utilities and institutions supplied with fuel in addition to meeting the domestic needs. He believed, however, that an appeal to the public setting forth the gravity of the situation would result in the fullest possible response, and he therefore resorted to this means. The statement given out this evening follows:

The Statement. "While I have made two appeals to the public to conserve fuel in every posstible way in view of the existing coatstike in the United States I admit that I believed that the dispute would have been settled before this. Finally, I concluded to wait for three days in to concluded to wait for three days in the present month and see if the ininers would accept the increase of fourteen per cent offered and effective from the first instant. There is no evidence of the miners returning to work and the public of central Canada, depending upon supplies from the United States, might as well face the facts.

Should the miners not turn to work in a few days. turn to work in a few days we have lost so much tonnage that the situation, now serious, will shortly become quite critical. It never was as grave at any time during the war as it is at the present moment; and there one thing for our people to do, and that is to restrict the use of coal in every possible way. I could call upon the Government to pass regulations limiting the use of fuel as was done during the war, but I believe it is only neces-sary for me to make this appeal and that the tublic will respond to the full-

Applied After Shaving Dr. Chase's Ointment Keeps the Skin Soft and Smooth

Almost every man who shaves suffers, at one time or another, from irritation of the skin. .

In many cases this develops into a form of eczema and becomes very annoying and difficult to overcome.

Some have the misfortune to contract barber's itch, which is similar to eczema.

Because Dr. Chase's Ointment has conquered eczema it is the most effective treatment available for these skin troubles.

But the best way, after all, is to avoid skin disease by keeping the skin in a soft, healthful condition, and this can best be done by applying Dr. Chase's Ointment after shaving.

PREMIER OF ALBERTA APPEALS TO OTTAWA EDMONTON, Dec. 3,-A wire has been sent by Premier Stewart to Hon. Gideon Robertson, federal minister of labor, asking for early action department in connection with the coal situation in Alberta. In view of the present conditions in the United States coal field, and of the urgent fuel needs of the eastern provinces, the somewhat uncertain condition of the mining in-dustry in Alberta is considered by the prompt attention by the Ottawa au-thorities. Such action as will tend to stabilize the industry, and thus avoid the possible danger of further strikes and tieups is asked for from the min-istry of labor.

Sickness Cure or Sickness Prevention

Lauli Pasteur When Pasteur proved the relation of germs to infectious disease, he marked a big advance in that development of medical science which reigns today—the Idea of Sickness Prevention.

As a result, many plagues and epidemics that were the bane of former ages no longer terrify the world, and science has now developed an effective agent against the condition which is the first cause of over 90% of all human disease—constipation.

That effective agent is Nujol.

Nujol by relieving constipation prevents the absorbtion of poisons which otherwise would be taken into the blood and so under-mine the whole system.

Leading medical authorities agree that pills, salts, casto oil, etc., simply force and weaken the system. But Nujol is entirely different.

Nujol prevents constipation by softening the food waste and encouraging the intestinal muscles to act naturally. Nujol helps nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals - the healthiest habit in the world. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Will Be Given a Hearing on Tuesday—Owners Agree on New Scale.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 .- Representaives of all the larger coal mine corporations of the United States today eached an agreement upon a new wage scale for mine workers, after an allday session here, and announced that would be submitted to the fuel administration for ratification tomorrow. It embodied, it was stated, a little more than the 14 per cent increase for the men suggested by Fuel Administrator Garfield as the government's pro WITH HELP OF TUG posal for dealing with the strike, which the miners rejected.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 3.—For the first time since cold weather set in the ice was heavy enough today to impede the progress of the freighters, and fifteen boats were stuck in an ice field in Mud Lake for several hours until released by a tug sent from here to their assistance. After the tug had broken a passage through the location the freighters followed her through.

Duluth harbor is also reported ice-bound, while at Allouez ore dock the ice is ten inches thick. Strangely enough no trouble on this score has been reported from the Straits of Mac-kinaw.

Meanwhile the operators were keeping in close touch with developments at Indianapolis, where the federal ground, where the federal court, on the application of department of justice agents, cited 84 general and district officials of the United Mine Workers for contempt of Federal Judge Anderson's order calling off the strike. Some optimistic reports reached the operators, indicating that at several points in the central competitive field, around which the strike centers, miners were going back to work.

Attorney-General Palmer would not discuss tonight the steps taken at Indianapolis in advance of the hearing to be given the miners' officials Tuesday.

IN MEMORIAM. DANN—In loving memory of Edward G. Dann, who died Dec. 4, 1918. b—Father, Brothers and Sister. JOYES-In loving memory of our dear mother, Rebecca Joyes, who died Dec.

Oh, we miss you, dearest mother, And our hearts are filled with pain; This world would be all sunshine, If we could see your face again. b McQUILLAN—In loving memory of James McQuillan, who died three years ago today, Dec. 4. Three long years ago today, Since my dear father passed away; More and more each day we miss him-

Friends may think the wound is healed, But they little know the sorrow That lies within our hearts concealed, Our love for him will still keep green, And never fade away. b —His Loving Daughter, L. E. M. HUESTON—In loving memory of our dear son, Wilfrid, who passed to his eternal home, Dec. 4, 1918:

A year in heaven for him. Of things divine and true?

What glorious visions they are still unfolding
Which here he never knew!

MENT SERVICE OF CANADA.

HOUSEKEEPER OR YOUNG GIRL TO assist with work. 81 Ridout south.

A year on earth for us without his presence,
A year of loneliness and grief and pain; But still we smile amid our tears in Our loss is but his gain.

We miss him in our joys and in our sorrows;
He was our life, our centre and our sun; And yet we would not call him back,

For heaven and earth are very close together: Though he is there, he is not far away; He could not leave the dear ones loved so fondly, Even in heaven to stay. But still his spirit, like a guardian angel, Is bending o'er us with his own fond care. And sometimes he brings heaven so very near us,

We almost think we're there. A year in heaven for him of rest and blessing;
For us a year on earth with him above; But heaven and earth are both to-gether blending, And over all is love. -Father, Mother, Sisters and Brother

NO AGREEMENT REACHED AT FRIENDLY MEETING

At the meeting of London Town Council in the town hall, St. Johns, Reeve Robson reported re Haskett ditch friendly meeting that he had waited until after the hour appointed and that no one had appeared.

Councillor Taylor reported that no agreement had been reached at the friendly meeting held at the Wallis ditch. It was decided that unless agreements be made in the legal time in the Haskett case and within five days from the date of the friendly meeting in the Wallis case the reeve for each township to have its own way of showing its appreciation of the Council in the town hall, St. Johns, meeting in the Wallis case the reeve be authorized to sign a requisition for the township engineer to make awards according to the provisions of the D. and W. act.

A telegram was read from H. A. Harrington, fuel controller of Ontario, asking that the "town" proceed immediately to appoint a fuel commissioner and to report the name to him. No action was taken, as the municipality is a township, not a town.

On motion of Thomas Clare, seconded by W. G. Taylor, it was decided that the interior of the town hall be cleaned and redecorated. The matter was referred to Thomas Clark and E. Douglas with power. neeting in the Wallis case the reeve of showing its appreciation have not seen the inside of a church for many years have made public decision to live for God. To bring men to a knowledge of their standing in God's sight and to move them to get right and start off on the right read is a wonderful work. But I fear blind and deaf prejudice are keeping the columns if Gipsy Smith's work in London was the work of God? Not in any doubtful manner, as I am as positive it was as I am that I am writing these lines. If so, and the Forward Movement in the united churches is also the work of God, why is it that not one word of recognition was made of this city-stirring work which surely was a movement of God, when men who
