DIRECTIONS TO FARMERS and GARDENERS.

AS some Springs are much earlier than others, the following Directions ought not to be too literally adhered to in point of time; but may rather serve to point out the order in which things may succeed each other; but as to the precise time of beginning, the judgment of the planter must be in some measure regulated by the appearance of the Spring.

The last week in April, sow early pease, cabbage, parsnips, parsley, onions, turnips, radishes, lettuce and mustard.

However, those mentioned for the last week in April, may be put in whenever the snow is gone, the frost out of the ground, and the earth so dry as not to be muddy, and the others succeed in their order.

The first week in May, sow oats, wheat and rye; also some early English beans, (and the main crop by the 10th or 12th), spinach and orrize; and by the 20th of May a few hills of cucumbers, and a few early bush beans.

The middle of May, sow hemp and flax; and any time between this and the 10th of June will do for potatoes; such as are planted about the first of June, are frequently the largest, but the earliest planted are as commonly the best to eat, being drier in consequence of their being more thoroughly ripe.

The first week in June, plant all sorts of kidney beans; also cucumbers, squashes and pumpkins.

The 20th of June, sow buckwheat; this is also a good time to sow in herds-grass, clover, or any sort of grass seed, which is thought to succeed better if sowed in now with buckwheat, than in the spring with oats. Herds-grass that is sowed the latter part of June or through the whole of July, instead of running up, heading out, and ripening as that does which is earlier sown, spends the summer in spreading into a large bunch, and rooting firmly, by which it not only bears the severity of the winter, but sends up from each seed many more stalks the ensuing summer. The farmer should be careful to sow his clover, if possible, before the end of July; for it is very apt to be killed with the winter, if not well rooted, and it often happens that crops which come up well, late in the fall, are wholly killed, so that a single plant cannot be found the next summer.—The first week in July sow field turnips—the early Dutch may be sown as late as the 25th.—The 20th is a good time to sow turnip radish, and for a late crop, some salmon, ditto, as late as August 10th.—About the middle of August is the best time to sow winter wheat, and rye, as by being sowed early it will be better rooted to stand the severity of the winter, and be more likely to escape a blast by coming in earlier next summer. In the fore part of September, corn fallad, which may then be cut any time in the winter or spring when the snow is off.

ECLIPSES for the Year 1796.

THERE WILL BE FOUR ECLIPSES IN THE FOLLOWING ORDER.

THE first will be of the Sun, January 9th, at 13h. 51m. or the 10th day, at 1h. 51m. in the morning, consequently invisible.

The second will be of the Sun, July 4th, at 6h. 46' 16" after noon, scarcely visible. The elements from which this eclipse was calculated are as follow, viz. At the time of the conjunction, the place of the Sun and Moon will be $3^{\circ} 13' 31'' 22'' 2-10$; Obliquity of the Ecliptic $23^{\circ} 27' 55'' 5-10$; and the angle between the axis of the ecliptic and the equator $5^{\circ} 47' 45''$; Moon's lat. $14' 49'' 4-10$ North ascending; Sun's declination $22^{\circ} 46' 39'' 6-10$ North; the angle between the ecliptic and Moon's orbit $5^{\circ} 37' 17'' 5-10$; hourly motion of the Moon from the Sun, in the ecliptic, $35' 19'' 3-10$; but in her relative orbit $35' 29'' 5 10$; hourly motion of the Moon in lat. $3' 28'' 6-10$; Horizontal parallax of the Moon $61' 16'' 3-10$. The first contact of the Moon with the Sun, as it respects Halifax, will be at 7h. 39m. apparent time, and the time of the Sun's setting, as it stands in this Almanack, is 7h. 40m. but if the refraction of the atmosphere be brought into the account, then the apparent setting of the sun will be at 7h. 44m. I would advise, therefore, the Astronomers of Halifax, with good Telescopes, to look diligently for the Eclipse, at the setting of the Sun, on the South Limb. Should the Moon's latitude be ever so little different from what it is here calculated, there may be a visible Eclipse, with duration, or none at all.

The third will be of the Moon, the 14th day of December, at 10h. 7m. morning, invisible.

The fourth will be of the Sun, the 28th day of December, at 13h. 45m. P. M. or the 29th day, at 1h. 45m. morning invisible.

ON WINTER.

LO! the fragrant flowers decay,	Around' him kindred tempests
The balmy zephyrs haste away,	croud,
From the storm-engendering	And sweeping whirlwinds howl
north	aloud.
Black embattled clouds come	Ushered with awful storms that forth,	roar
And Winter through the lurid air	Impetuous from the mountain
Rolls his fable-courser'd car:	hoar,

II. FEBRUARY hath XXIX Days. 1796.

Darkness descending spreads her veil Of thickest gloom on hill and dale, On lofty hall and turret high, And not a star illumines the sky. Social pleasures now I share, While Friendship, of enlivening air, Fills the gaily sparkling bowl: To joy unbending all my soul, While blithe good humour brings along	Malice, and whispering Calumny; The witty tale, the lively song, Laughter free, and Convertie gay, Stealing the gloomy hours away. Hence Reserve, with searching eyes. Hence Revelry profane and rude, Rusticity's unpolished brood; Ye fell corroding Cares away! On Avarice or Envy prey.

INVOCATION to SPRING.

TO what more favour'd clime, reluctant Spring, Haft thou retir'd? to us thy beauty lost, Thy balmy breath, thy birds that wont to sing, Subdued by boist'rous winds, or chill'd by frost!	Return, ye verdant scenes, to sooth the eye, Weary of winter-snows and ruffet fields: Return, ye fragrant flowers of many a dye, And that mild air, which soft refreshment yields!

SPRING.

LOVELY beauty-breathing
spring,
Waving soft thy balmy wing ;
Fairest glory of the year !
On our longing plains appear.
Sweet inspirer of my song !
On a sun-beam glide along ;
Shedding round, in mingled showers,

Verdant herbs and fragrant flowers.

See the lovely nymph appears,
And a crown of roses wears ;
Pinks and lillies mix'd are seen
On her robe of flowing green.
Welcome, welcome to these plains !
Welcome to the longing swains !

MAY hath XXXI Days.

1796.

These with ravish'd voice I sing,
 Bounteous all reviving spring!
 Now the mornings fairer rise;
 Gayer lights now gild the skies:
 Now a gentle whisp'ring gale
 Softly steals along the vale:
 Now the husbandmen prepare
 To improve the coming year,
 Flinging free the gen'rous grain,
 Hoping pleasure, bearing pain.

Living verdure clothes the hills;
 Wild along the crystal rills,
 Gillyflowers and dailies spring,
 And invite the muse to sing.
 Here the spreading blossom see,
 Bursting forth from every tree!
 Music wakes throughout the grove;
 All is harmony and love.

SUMMER EVENING.

COME ye chearful swains
 from labour,
 Let us share the jocund day
 Bring the pipe, the flute, the tabor
 Banish sorrow far away.
 Why should we while youth is blowing,
 And our breasts with virtue glow,
 Seek to shun, while all are knowing,

Pleasures meant to reign below.
 Join ye nymphs and swains in dancing,
 And break forth in chearful
 song,
 While our time is thus advancing,
 Joyful mirth shall crown the throng.

SUMMER MORNING.

SWEET sings the Linnet from the blossom'd thorn, The foaring Lark proclaims the blushing morn, And while the Turtle warbles from the grove, The plaintive Bullfinch mur- murs forth her love, The Shepherd's lute re-echoing from the hill,	Is sweetly soften'd by the gurg- ling rill, Whose moss-fring'd banks re- flect a various hue, Of blooming cowslips crown'd with pearly dew, There, the low daizy, with the violet grows, And braids of jasmintwine the blushing rose,

Whose fragrant blossoms, opening with the day, Are deck'd with bees, who o'er them careful stray; Select the flowers, their balmy sweets exhale, Then wing'd on air they sweep the dewy vale, The happy swain, from yonder meadow views,	His chearful ploughmen whiffling, guide their ploughs; In sportive mood, his bleating lambskins run Around the hill, to meet the rising sun; While from the fold, with teeming milkpails crown'd, The maids come tripping o'er the dewy ground.

IX. SEPTEMBER hath XXX Days. 1796.

AN AUTUMNAL EVENING.

NOW day departing in the west,
 With gaudy splendor lures the eye;
 The sun, declining, sinks to rest,
 And Ev'ning overshades the sky.
 And are the green extended lawn,
 The waving grove—the flow'ry mead,

The charms of hill and dale withdrawn,
 And all their blooming beauties hid?
 They are—but list aloft thine eye,
 Where all these sparkling glories roll;
 Those mighty wonders of the sky?
 That glad and elevate the soul.

X. OCTOBER hath XXXI Days. 1796.

THE SADDNESS OF AUTUMN.

FOR six drear months, the sun, to human fight, On the chill'd earth obliquely pours its light :	Spoil'd of its purple flow'rs, lies waste the plain ; The grafs is ever wet with foak ing rain.
Adieu, fair walks ; no more your beauty calls ; I now must live enclosed in lonely walls.	I see the trees resign their leafy pride, Fell Boreas rage, and spread de struction wide ;

XI. NOVEMBER hath XXX Days. 1796.

The various colours I behold with grief, With which sad Autumn paints the fading leaf; Their beaut'ous green is chang'd and now we view The yellow, purple, red, and orange hue;	Most, falling from their spread- ing boughs, descend, And on the earth a wretched heap extend; Where driv'n along they o'er the plains are cast, The sport of warring winds and northern blasts.

XII. DECEMBER hath XXXI Days. 1796.

ODE to DECEMBER.

ENROB'D in fur, December comes,
 To close the fleeting year:
 In fulen sadness now he reigns
 With countenance austere.
 In icy chains the earth he binds,
 And shuts her fertile womb;
 All nature shrinks beneath his hand,
 (December's nature's tomb.)

Where, where are now those beauties fled,
 That charm'd the ravish'd eye,
 When Sol, in all his glory clad,
 Triumphant rode the sky?
 How languid look the landskips all!
 The eye with discontent
 Dejected views the cheerless scenes
 December does present.
