

SULTAN OF TURKEY DEPOSED; HIS BROTHER ON THE THRONE.

Abdul Hamid Taken From the Palace a Prisoner and Conveyed Across the Bosphorus.

Rev. Mr. Gibbons Tells of the Horrors of the Massacres of Armenians at Adana--Loads of Corpses Thrown Into the Water.

Constantinople, April 26.—Abdul Hamid II. has been deposed as Sultan of the Turkish Empire. Mehmed Reschad Effendi, his brother, will be proclaimed his successor, probably by 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The deposition will be through the regular form prescribed by the tenets of the Mohammedan faith. It is understood that the Sheikh Ul Islam, the head of the church, will issue the decrees of deposition.

The news of the deposition of Abdul Hamid and the selection of his brother to succeed him caused great excitement throughout Constantinople.

Crowds at once began to gather in the principal quarters and thoroughfares and around the imperial palace of Yildiz in anticipation of the proclamation of a new Sultan.

between Turks and Armenians owing to the political activity of the latter and their open purchasing of arms. "Early last Wednesday morning while I was in the market I noticed that the Armenians were closing their shops and hurrying to their homes. An Armenian and Turk had been killed during the night and the corpses were paraded through their respective quarters. The sight of the dead inflamed the inhabitants and crowds at once began to gather in the streets armed with sticks, axes and knives. A few young Armenians assembled in the centre of the covered market and began firing revolver shots into the air. By 11 o'clock in the morning the crowd had begun the looting of shops.

"The military commander of Adana was by my side in the market when the firing commenced. He had not the courage to endeavor to disperse the mob, he returned to his residence and did not venture out for two days.

"William Chambers, field secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, and myself, proceeded to the Koumak, found a howling mob demanding arms with which to kill the Ghoures. We then went to the Turkish office to step on the British consul. On the steps of the building we saw three Armenians who had been massacred. Their bodies had been mutilated.

"We began to make our way into the next room, where we made representations to the Wali. This official said he could do nothing. He was afraid even of his own life, and he made no attempt to protect us.

"Somehow we managed to get to the interior of the Koumak, where we remained at the side of government officials for the next 48 hours. That afternoon the situation grew distinctly worse. The Armenians withdrew to their quarter of Adana, which is situated on a hill, and converted their houses that held advantageous positions into fortresses. Here the fighting went on for two days, during which the Armenians succeeded in beating off their Turkish assailants. Wednesday evening Major Daugherty-Wyllie, the British Vice-Consul in Mezina, arrived in Adana and established headquarters in the house of a dragoon of a wealthy Green resident, where many refugees have been received. The wife of the British Vice-Consul was brought into Adana under fire on (Continued on Page 12.)

Killed In Auto

Katowitz, Prussian Silesia, April 27.—Count Gustav Von Bellestrem was killed yesterday when his automobile crashed into a tree. The count's skull was fractured. Baroness Von Fuerstenburg and her two children also were thrown out of the car, but were uninjured. Count Von Bellestrem was 42 years old.

THE MAN IN OVERALLS

What became of the mad dog scare that came all the way from Stoney Creek? I haven't seen my friend, the doggie, muzzled yet. Has Mr. John Brick muzzles for sale? Now if Andrew Carnegie would supply a lunch counter with this new public library there would be fewer objections to the taking of his tainted money. A ham sandwich and a cup of coffee would go good on a cold day.

A murder a week is Toronto's average output now. And there is no mystery about them, either.

Gentlemen of the Board of Works, the Jolley Cut sidewalk is again slipping down the hill.

The coal merchants want it to be understood that there are no bargain days for coal.

Bishop Hamilton's friends will be glad to hear of his preferment in Toronto yesterday.

But suppose the School Board refuses to touch the Art School, will the Mayor stand by and see its doors closed and the hands of the clock put back twenty years?

So far no one has accepted Mr. Pugsley's invitation to bring a charge against him. Nothing doing.

There is a pretty fair crop of holding permits this season. There should be a house in the city for each family now.

It's quite insulting the way they are treating the Sultan.

Whitney has got a coat-of-arms now. He has more need of a coat of white-wash.

Put in a good word for the Times when you get a chance. It would do the same for you.

Wide streets and plenty of breathing spaces are what we need. Don't let the builders crowd us up too much.

No request to-night. You can take in Bennett's for a change.

The brethren are wondering when the Ontario Government is to take a peep into the working of the lodges. Can't Mr. Strohme make a move to see if our lodge dues are finding their way to the proper spot?

Are you thinking about taking out an age annuity? This is no wild cat scheme.

Now if the Grocers' Picnic Committee could have secured some of that ice jam for the excursionists' lunch baskets it would have been a big thing.

When the power by-law is being voted upon we might take a census of the public feeling as to the tearing down of the Gore fence.

If the Board of Health will take my advice it will take a walk some nice afternoon through some of the alleys in the centre of the city. Prevention is better than cure.

Murder Done

New York, April 27.—The body of Thos. Brown, aged 80, was found in the kitchen of his home in Brooklyn to-day, where he had been murdered some time during the night. His skull was crushed, probably with a stone. The police began to search for Edward Brown, his son, with whom he had a disagreement on Sunday.

KINRADE MURDER MYSTERY WILL SURELY BE SOLVED

Crown Has Made Very Important Discoveries Which Will be Brought to Light When the Jury Meets Again.

Detectives Will Not Talk or Say Upon Whom the New Evidence Will Cast Suspicion--Other Features of the Case.

The celebrated Kinrade mystery will be solved. The cruel murder of Ethel Kinrade will be avenged. The Crown authorities are in possession of the evidence with which to accomplish this. The Crown has an exceptionally strong card up its sleeve, and it will play it just as soon as the courts straighten out the legal tangle and make it possible for the coroner's investigation to proceed. It is impossible to get the details. In fact, it was difficult this morning to get a confirmation of the fact that the authorities have a thrilling surprise that they will spring at the first opportunity. "There is positively nothing new," said Provincial Detective Miller, who dodged the newspaper men all morning and seemed annoyed when they finally rounded him up. But from another source the news leaked out and the Times learns that there is something new, the biggest sensation this remarkable murder mystery has yet developed. The public would probably be in possession of it by now had not the coroner's investigation been delayed by the failure of members of the Kinrade family to obey Coroner Anderson's subpoena. It was learned to-day that strange officers, probably the Pinkerton detectives, who made the investigation in the south, made a search of the Kinrade home yesterday. The Times learns from a source that there is every reason to believe it reliable that they discovered there evidence that fits in and substantiates things that were discovered in the south. The evidence, it is understood, is of such a nature that it was entirely unknown to any of the officers, Provincial or local, who had already searched the house time and again. The Crown will produce this evidence when the Kinrade investigation is resumed on Thursday night. The Crown is confident of a sweeping victory when the question of the validity of the bench warrant for the arrest of Florence Kinrade is tested before the Divisional Court to-morrow. It is said that the application made by the Kinrade counsel for the writ is illegal in view of the fact that the warrant has not been executed. There would have been no difficulty getting the chief Coroner of Toronto to endorse the warrant, so that the arrest could have been made, but the legal proceedings that would have followed would probably have blocked the inquest for a longer period than the Crown officers desired. Provincial Detective Rogers, who is at the Royal again to-day, will leave with Jimmie Baum for Toronto to-night.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Toronto, April 27.—The contest of wits between Crown and defence in the Kinrade case becoming more and more intense and complicated. The finding of the Divisional Court to-morrow is the one topic of conjecture, together with the steps which may follow a possible rejection of Coroner Anderson's warrant. It was pointed out to the Times this morning that to-morrow's hearing would compel the defence to show its hand. So far as the warrant at least is concerned, Mr. Lynch-Staunton will have to declare in what grounds the warrant is being attacked, whether because of an illegality in the issuance of it, or as a direct motion to quash it. Should the Divisional Court uphold the warrant, and on this opinion is less divided than would be imagined, Miss Kinrade's presence is, of course, assured. But should the warrant be quashed there is every probability that she will be there all the same. That the Crown is contemplating some steps which it is unwilling to discuss, but which will result in the girl's presence may be very safely assumed.

HELD CONFERENCE TO-DAY.

Another Toronto despatch says: The Attorney-General's Department, it is learned, is proceeding with its preparations for the renewal of the inquest on Thursday, although both the Attorney-General himself and Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright refused to discuss the matter after a long conference, in which all the details were gone into this morning. The Attorney-General said there had been too much said on the case. Reiteration of the story that Magistrate Denison refused to back the Coroner's warrant for Florence Kinrade is causing some amusement, both at the Attorney-General's Department and to the general public. As a matter of fact, the warrant has never been brought before the Magistrate, and he was not and has not yet been asked to back it. In addition to James Baum, the Crown officers here admit that several other witnesses whose names have not yet been mentioned, will be called at the inquest. It developed this morning that instead of sending the original writ of certiorari obtained as a result of Lynch-Staunton's motion to Hamilton for service on the Coroner, the copy which should have been registered here was forwarded. The original was sent down to-day by special messenger. SERVED ON CORONER. Crown Attorney Washington announced this morning that the writ of certiorari had been served upon Dr. Anderson, Coroner, yesterday afternoon, and that he was sending back to the clerk of the Court of Records and Writs the original summons and warrant and a copy of the evidence of Detective Miller proving the service. Lees, Hobson & Stephens served the writ on Dr. Anderson.

LAST NIGHT'S PROCEEDINGS.

For the first time since the Kinrade murder investigation opened there was no crush of spectators around the entrance to No. 3 Police Station last night, when Coroner Anderson mounted the throne and called upon the jurors to answer to their names. The temporary success of the Kinrade family lawyers yesterday in preventing the Crown executing the bench warrant for the arrest of the sister of the murdered girl, to compel her to attend and give evidence, killed interest in last night's proceedings. Florence Kinrade, the chief figure in this most remarkable inquest, is un-young men's clubs throughout the city, will be held in the Assembly hall of the Collegiate Institute on Thursday night, April 29. It is expected that the most interesting event will be well attended, being the last public function this season, under the auspices of the Canadian Club. There will be no admission fee. The contesting clubs are "Sodales," of Central Presbyterian Church, represented by Clarence C. W. Grace, and Frank O'Brien, and for the Men's Guild of St. John Presbyterian Church, Robert J. Menary and J. Taylor will be the speakers. The subject is of a national character. "Resolved that the Canadian Government should contribute to the support of the British navy, rather than form a navy of its own." St. John will uphold the affirmative, while Sodales will defend the negative side. Wm. M. McClelland, L. L. D., will preside, and the trophy, which is a valuable shield, will be presented to the winning club by Mr. Adam Brown. The judges will be Dr. E. A. Thompson, principal of the Collegiate Institute, Kirwin Martin, M. A., and Rev. Canon H. P. Almon Abbott, M. A. An excellent musical programme will be provided.

TWO CLAUSES YET TO BE DISCUSSED

And Then Cataract Agreement Will be Ready For People--Council Almost Unanimous.

At an informal session after the regular meeting last night the City Council went over the Cataract power contract, and by the time the aldermen were through with it they were pretty thoroughly convinced that it was a good deal for the city. Practically the whole contract, with the exception of two clauses, which the sub-committee desires to have a better understanding with the company about, was approved. One of these clauses is the one which gives the city the right to demand a new lighting system if advances and improvements in electrical art and apparatus justifies it. The other is the clause which provides that this contract shall not interfere with any other existing by-laws. The aldermen don't want it to, but some of them wonder if the company lays claims to franchises the city knows nothing about. There will be another conference with the company to-day and a special Council meeting, probably at noon on Thursday, when all the by-laws, including the one for a Board of Control and Hospital site will be sent on to the people.

It is expected that the first of the concrete laid by the street railway company between the rails on James street south will be sufficiently settled before the end of the week to enable the city to make a start in laying the creosote blocks. It is the intention to bring an expert here to give the city foremen pointers on how to do this work. The members of the Board of Health are said to be divided about the legislation it is proposed to introduce regarding the dog nuisance, and there promises to be a lively discussion when the matter comes up to-night.

The permit for the new Y. W. C. A. building on Jackson street, between James and MacNab streets, was taken out by Charles Mills, architect, this morning. It calls for the erection of a three storey brick building to cost $30,000. Other permits were issued to-day as follows:

- Chas. Widdup, brick cottage, Stirton street, between King and Wilson streets, $1,000. Howard and Webber, brick dwelling, Orchard Hill, and Cottage avenue, $1,400. W. H. Northcott, brick dwelling, Mount Royal avenue, south Aberdeen avenue, $2,500. Thos. W. Reid, brick dwelling, Eastbourne avenue, between Main street and Delaware avenue, $2,000. W. A. Noble, brick dwelling, Hess street, between Bold and Luke streets, $2,000. W. A. Noble, brick dwelling, Kent street, south Aberdeen avenue, $2,000. W. A. Noble, brick stable in rear of 80 George street, $300. W. A. Noble, brick addition to stores, Cannon and James streets, $250.

BRAVE GIRL SUFFOCATED.

Dashed Into Burning House to Rescue Her Crippled Brother

Who Had Been Forgotten in the First Alarm.

Lost Her Head After Rescue and Tried to Hide From Flames.

Buffalo, April 27.—Charles Steifler was tarring his fish nets in the back yard of his home back of the Erie station at Blasell when at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the kettle in which he was boiling the tar exploded. A sheet of flame enveloped the wooden shed attached to the house, and, before Steifler got to the front of the house to tell his wife, the whole rear of the house was in flames. Mrs. Steifler ran back into the house to get the baby while her husband ran to call the fire department. Up to that time no one had thought of Carl, eleven years old, who was lying in bed with a broken leg. Helen, sixteen years old, heard the boy's cries just as the firemen arrived at the burning house. Wrapping her shawl about her head, the little girl dashed back into the house, yelling, "I'm coming for you, Carl!" The mother and the father seemed panic-stricken, for the baby, who had inhaled smoke, was crying pitifully. Firemen followed the little girl into the house. One of them found the boy and carried him out. Helen had been lost in the burning house. Friends called to the child, but no answer came. Firemen went back into the flames and the smoke to search for her. Finally one of the firemen found a door opening on a closet under the front stairway. He broke it down, and in the closet saw the dead body of the girl. She had probably become panic-stricken after searching for her brother and had run into the closet and locked the door, hoping in that way to save herself from the flames. She had been suffocated.

The house is practically destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Steifler, their son Carl, and the baby were housed last night at the Blasell Hotel. The body of the little girl was taken to the home of a neighbor, where the funeral will probably be held.

Mrs. Steifler was so wrought up that she needed the attentions of a physician last night.

TRYING TO SECURE THE HAINS JURY.

Flushing, April 27.—The new special panel of 150 men with the regular panel of forty was reported to Sheriff Harvey early to-day and that official says that the new allotment contains a number of men who ought to make good jurors for the trial of Captain Hains for killing William E. Annis.

The seven jurymen already secured arrived in court a little before 10 o'clock. Foreman Sundling looked none the worse for his reported indisposition of the early morning.

The prisoner followed the jurymen almost immediately. He was conducted by Deputy Sheriffs Garbe and Debraque, being handcuffed to the latter. When the manacles were removed he settled down into his seat without removing his overcoat, although the court room was quite warm. Garbe asked him if he did not want to take it off, but he paid no attention.

Twenty-three talesmen were examined without result. Judge Garretson showed a disposition to limit the examination which at times became involved.

A Fair Invalid

CHAPTER VIII.

Dr. Fletcher had gone with the two patients to the River House, and remained some little time longer with Miss Vane. We saw the wounded taken away to the different hotels and the hospital; we saw the dead carried in mournful procession, and we saw the few passengers who were unharmed, pale, trembling, hardly daring to believe that they were saved. We could do no more. Slowly and sadly I rowed down the stream to the River House. Miss Vane looked very pale.

"I shall never like the river again," she said to me in a frightened voice. "I used to delight in it; it was music and poetry to me. I shall never like it again, for it has been transformed into a grave."

"You trembled so violently and looked so ill that when we reached the River House I made her drink some wine and retire to her room."

"I went first to the north room, where the lady was lying. There was not much the matter with her; she had been stunned, terribly frightened, the maid who was watching by her said, but the doctor had given her a composing draught, and she was fast asleep. That was good news. I went gently to her bedside and looked at her."

"No, ma'am; I heard the doctor mention it, but I do not remember it. It was not of much importance, I thought. How little I guess of what importance it was! And then I went to the Blue Room, where the gentleman who had been carried there, the nurse was far more solemn. The doctor, with a grave, troubled face, bent over his patient, engaged in counting the beats of his patient's pulse. I went up to the bed. One of the handsomest men I had ever seen in my life was lying on it, pale, exhausted, with closed eyes and parted lips. 'Is there danger?' I asked of the doctor."

"Yes," was his brief reply. "Danger! Was the shadow of death everywhere? I stood in silence, never remembering to have seen anything like the face and head before me. It was beauty of the purest masculine type—a noble head, with clusters of dark-woolen hair, tapers that waved in a careless, graceful fashion—a broad, noble brow—a face oval-shaped and perfect in contour. 'What is the injury?' I asked. 'Brain concussion,' replied Dr. Fletcher briefly."

"Will you have further advice?" I inquired. "Yes, if no change takes place in a short time."

"No change did take place; the patient did not open his eyes. He seemed perfectly unconscious, and the doctor's face grew more and more anxious. I watched him as intently as he watched the sufferer. 'Do you think it will end fatally, Doctor?' I asked. 'I am afraid so, Mr. Neville. While there is life, though, we will hope.'"

"Had you not better try to find out who he is? If anything serious is likely to happen, his friends ought to be sent for."

"The lady is his wife," said Dr. Fletcher. "She is sleeping soundly. Perhaps you are right, Mrs. Neville; it would be as well to know who he is."

"Oh, Mrs. Neville! I wish that I could forget the scene! Who are the people that were fortunate enough to help?"

"We have been trying to find out. The doctor examined the gentleman's letters and papers. He is Lord Clive Wynton, and the lady is his wife."

"Never while I live shall I forget the awful, ghastly change that came over her face, lighting up its pallor only to deepen it again. The white lips sprung apart, the dark eyes had a wild, despairing look. Twice saw her try to speak, but all sound died away in a gasping sigh; and then she came over to me, and her fingers clutched my arm as though it were held in an iron grasp."

"Say that again!" she hissed. "Lord Clive Wynton," I repeated, wondering, and half alarmed. She raised her face, and I heard her groan: 'Merciful heaven!'

"She turned from me to the window, and a laugh, as strange and unnatural as ever came from human lips—burst from her. 'I have gone mad!' she cried, in a hoarse voice. 'Lewis said I should brood over my sorrows until they drove me mad. I am mad!'

"It is true—it is neither dream nor fancy, but truth." "Can you tell me," she asked—"is it a curse or a blessing? That man is my mortal foe—my greatest enemy. There is no curse that I have not heaped up on his head; for his sake I hate my kind, the whole human race. Is he brought here that I may see what angels do 'spitefully and forgive?'

"I fear so; the doctor does not give much hope," I replied. She looked at me with pleading eyes. "Suppose that anyone injured you—mortally injured you, blighted your life, killed the heart within you, although your body lived on—and you cursed them; if danger or deadly peril came to them, should you think it was your curse fulfilled?"

"A great sorrow came to me," she said, dreamily—"greater than falls to the lot of most people. I knew when it came that there were two ways of meeting it. One was to bow my head in lowly submission, to pity, to pardon; the other was to curse the hand that had snatched in twain the very chord of my life, to harden my heart against my kind, to render myself forever for the wrong done to me. I chose the last."

"It was the wrong one," I said, gently; "but it is wrong too late to repair an error."

"My mortal foe," she continued, speaking in a low, pleading tone, "brought here under my roof! Is it a curse or a blessing?"

"I whispered to her some sacred words—sweet, gracious words of pity, pardon and infinite compassion. When she raised her face again it was so changed I hardly knew it being softened into an inexpressible loveliness."

but she does not wish him to recognize her. I have suggested that she should dress herself in some of your clothes. Will you help her?"

"Ah, my poor lady, that I will. My poor mistress! This will kill her—my poor lady."

"So, moaning and lamenting, the faithful old servant hurried to her lady's dressing-room, and I went to the doctor. 'There is better news,' Mrs. Neville," said the doctor, "I can see an improvement. I want you to attend to these used clothes, and see that they are applied regularly. I must go home—I want several things which no one but myself can find."

"I will remain until you return, Dr. Fletcher," I promised, thinking that his absence would give Miss Vane a fair chance of seeing the invalid. He went. Some twenty minutes afterward I heard a sound outside the door. I opened it hastily, and there stood Miss Vane, so skillfully disguised that at first sight I hardly recognized her. Her lips were white and trembling, and her eyes appeared piteously to me."

"You must be brave," I said, "if you break down the consequences may be serious."

"I never break down," was the laughing reply, and then she stepped into the room. She had disguised the loveliness of her face, but she could not disguise the immortal beauty of her stately figure. As she went up to Lord Wynton's bedside she seemed to grope with her hands as one suddenly blinded, and then she sank on her knees by his side, and buried her face in his hands. There some time she raised her head slowly as she looked at the white face and closed eyes, a great, gasping sob coming from her lips. The sound must have reached him, for he moved uneasily."

"You will be very careful," I whispered. (To be Continued.)

Sore Throat Catarrh With the many remedies you have tried you surely know that no liquid medicine can cure your throat or nose. Even a gargle only bathes the entrance of the throat—it can't really get inside, nor can it reach the inflamed bronchial tubes.

With Catarrhzone, it's so different from medicine-taking, you simply breathe its healing vapor, inhale its balsamic fumes, which carry cure and relief to the minutest air cells in the lungs, nose, throat, and bronchial tubes.

In his scientific way the soreness and inflammation is rapidly allayed, relaxed cords are toned up, the entire mucous membrane invigorated. Every trace of Catarrh disappears, the disagreeable drooping of mucus in the throat, hawking, spitting, and stopped-up nostrils—all these sure signs of Catarrh and bronchitis are permanently cured by Catarrhzone.

OUR MARRIAGE Laws Held Good in State of New York. Buffalo, April 26.—The question of whether a marriage solemnized in Canada can be annulled in New York State was decided by Justice White in a special term of the Supreme Court today, when he handed down his decision in the case of Frank J. Donohue against Ada Donohue, in which he dismissed the plaintiff's case to annul the marriage, which was performed in Ridgeway, Ont., on August 18 last. Both of the people were residents of Buffalo, and neither is yet eighteen years old.

Justice White holds that so long as the license was issued in good faith and the marriage performed it is indissoluble in Ontario because the people have lived as man and wife since then. In arguing the case the attorney for the defendant stated that the laws of Ontario should govern, and Justice White's opinion upholds this contention, stating that the laws of New York State upon the question of annulling marriages have no effect. If the marriage had been performed in this State the contract would have been voidable. Justice White stated that a marriage that is valid in the country in which it is performed is valid here. He adds that the plaintiff created the conditions from which he now seeks to escape and was aided by the defendant, and that he must leave them as he found them. Costs are assessed to Donohue.

WOMEN MURDERERS. Bloodthirsty Gang Arrested in a Russian Village. St. Petersburg, April 26.—A band of female cut-throats, which for many months past have been committing a series of murders, was discovered and arrested yesterday in the village of Kurchino, thirty miles from St. Petersburg. The principal culprits are a mother and her two daughters, who kept a tavern. Assisted by other women in the village, they murdered travellers who stopped at the inn the night, disfigured the bodies beyond recognition, and then threw them into a rapidly-moving stream that passed near the inn. Many of these corpses were found, but the distance of the village was so great that suspicion never centred there.

Clatham, April 26.—On opening the door of the Union School at Cedar Springs early this morning the janitress discovered a disreputable-looking, red-whiskered tramp in possession, who declared that a doctor told him he could stay there over night. Before the woman, seized by his profanity, could give the alarm, the man escaped along the railway track. To keep himself warm the tramp had burned the school dictionary and also the pupils' text-books.

TUESDAY, APRIL 27, 1909.

THE LAWYERS' BATTLE.

The question raised by Mr. George Lynch-Staunton in the Kinrade inquest case, and which is to be considered tomorrow by the Divisional Court, involves a very important matter. On the decision to be rendered may depend the usefulness, or worthlessness, of the coroner's inquest as a means of elucidating facts bearing upon the discovery of the most serious of crimes, the taking of human life. If a witness may at will defy the authority of the coroner and refuse to attend and testify, or having been examined, refuse to again enter the witness box, then there is an end to the utility of coroner's inquiries, and they must give way to something which shall prevent the interposition of fewer technical obstacles to the discovery of the facts. We have ever contended for the utility of the coroner's inquest, and its importance in our court process for the discovery of evidence in murder cases. We still think that it will survive attacks upon it; although we are not oblivious of the fact that where lawyers differ laymen may well hesitate to decide.

Reports of the proceedings at Toronto yesterday go to indicate that Mr. Staunton could hardly be accused of undue moderation in his statements as to the crown counsel's conduct of the examination of the witnesses at the inquest. Mr. Justice Teetzel, however, was not carried away by his somewhat florid rhetoric, and his remarks in stopping its flow produce the impression that it was very far from sympathizing with Mr. Staunton's attack upon the crown's case, and that so far as he has to do with the case it will be a cold question of law. The Attorney-General's department disputes the regularity of the entire proceedings, and reserves the right to object thereto, while expediting matters by consenting to the argument.

Reading Mr. Justice Teetzel's remarks, one is struck with his frank declaration of belief that the authorities had not been guilty of any abuse of their privilege, and that in such an important and baffling case they should not be limited so closely as Mr. Staunton contends. The natural desire of the courts is to do justice—to ferret out the perpetrators of crime. It is not an unfair presumption to conclude that Mr. Staunton will try to put forward high authority to persuade the Divisional Court to deny to the coroner's court a recall of an important witness in such a case.

To the average man, who has in view that the Province, the city, and the father of the cruelly murdered girl are offering large rewards for the discovery and conviction of the criminal, the action taken in the endeavor to prevent a critical point in the inquiry the further examination of Florence Kinrade, offers a puzzle. People must just wait the outcome of the legal battle. Law is a sort of red-and-ink-hole game at best. Sometimes, however, justice emerges from these struggles.

A RADICAL CHANGE.

There is no longer any doubt that the Government has determined upon a radical change in the method of management in the Intercolonial Railway, and that an earnest effort will be made under the new policy to try to place the "national white elephant" upon a paying basis. The Board of Commissioners, composed of Messrs. Butler, Pottinger, Tiffin and Brady, is organizing for the task set it, and yesterday Hon. Mr. Graham placed before Parliament the order-in-Council under which the board is brought into existence. This order shows that the board will have very wide powers, and that it will make monthly and yearly reports to the Department of Railways. The office of General Manager of Government railways is abolished, his powers being exercised by the board of management to be styled the "Government Railway Management Board." The board is empowered and authorized to supervise and direct all departments of the Government railways; to exercise the powers usually vested in the executive of railway corporations; to make rules and regulations for the organization of staff and officials, prescribe conditions of employment, control the purchase and sale of supplies and materials, and deal with tolls, dues and revenues.

It is obvious that under such an arrangement the board will have very wide powers, and will be in a position to exercise a good influence on the prosperity of the road. The Government, in taking this step, shows a desire to retain the Intercolonial under public management if there be any chance of taking the burden off the shoulders of the people. The Board of Management will be given a reasonable trial. It is constituted of practical men who will, we are satisfied, endeavor to secure the best results. If it succeeds in "making good," Hon. Mr. Graham will have scored an important point.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

Switzerland's excursions into public ownership have been very extensively used by partisans of the system from which to draw arguments in its favor. The Swiss people are thrifty, industrious and law-abiding. It is a country of cheap living. Salaries of public officials are small, and the sense of duty and public responsibility is comparatively high. Such a country ought to be one in which the "ownership" system should reach its highest realizations, if anywhere.

But Switzerland is already discovering that, inoculated with this dry rot, even her people deteriorate. The Trade Review calls attention to the fact that in the year 1900 Switzerland voted to buy up her railroads and by 1908 such roads as could be acquired were completely under public control. No one expected a profit in the first year or two, but there was a fourth deficit in 1907 which added to that of 1908 makes up a total of considerably over 5,000,000 francs, which it need hardly be said is a lot of money for that little country. As some 25,000,000 francs have been put into construction in the last fiscal year, there is another million francs to be added here for interest and sinking fund and the result taken all around is by no means cheerful.

Added to these troubles we have largely increased operating expenses, coincident with decreased efficiency under public ownership. There is a deterioration in the service in respect to speed, punctuality and discipline, and there are loud complaints of increasing bureaucracy and decreasing intelligence from the patrons of the roads.

Our contemporary points out, the Swiss official is little less human than his fellows elsewhere. He has an assured position in the Government employ. The extent of possible promotion is marked out for him, providing he makes no serious mistakes compromising his superiors; he is taken care of at the end of his service, and his only real ambition is to serve out his time with as little exhausting effort or friction as possible. Like most public servants anywhere, he has everything to lose and nothing to gain by intelligent initiative and enterprise, and the result is there it has been elsewhere. And it continues:

It need hardly be said that such improvements as have been made have been dictated by political considerations, or in other words, that they have been made to benefit districts and voters who could make the best political return, irrespective of the larger proposition of the general railroad service of the country. The management during the five years in which the Government control has been complete has been increasingly extravagant, with the same disposition to regard the public pocket as inexhaustible, and the same indifference to running at a loss properties which were formerly conducted privately at a profit.

CONGRATULATIONS!

The choice of Rev. Dr. Charles Hamilton as Archbishop of Ottawa and Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada, made yesterday by the Provincial House of Bishops, will give much pleasure to the people of this city, where he so long resided and officiated as Bishop of Niagara. The new Metropolitan is a man who both in his ecclesiastical capacity, and as a private gentleman, had a very wide circle of friends in Hamilton, and he enjoyed to a large degree the esteem and respect, not only of the members and adherents of the Anglican Church, but of all those with whom he was brought in contact. His friends here will wish him a happy and successful career in the high office to which he has been elevated.

WHEAT MARKET RECORDS.

A United States commercial authority declares that last week's Chicago price of $1.29 per bushel for wheat was "utterly abnormal," even for recent years of generally high commodity values. It says that only in five years since the days of paper money inflation in the United States has the last week's price been passed. But higher figures were common during greenback times. Here is the record of low prices since the close of the United States civil war:

Table with 4 columns: Year, Month, Price per bushel, and Location. Includes entries for 1868, 1870, 1871, 1872, 1873, 1874, 1875, 1876, 1877, 1878, 1879, 1880, 1881, 1882, 1883, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887, 1888, 1889, 1890, 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900.

It is pointed out that five of these sixteen high records were achieved in April or May, six in July or August, two in the autumn months, and three in the winter time. Prior to 1879, prices of every thing were so far influenced by the American paper money inflation that they are not a fair criterion. But taking the period after specie resumption, January, 1879, the 1879 high price was the result of disastrous European crop failure, which affected prices not only that year, but also the next. The world-wide shortage in 1881—a decrease of 147,000,000 bushels in the yield from the year before—was the cause of the high prices that year and the next. There was a 50,000,000 shortage in the United States wheat crop in 1888, but the 82¢ price was merely the result of a paper corner, very effectively planned and operated. The $1.85 price of May, 1898, was largely caused by European harvest failures in the preceding year and by fears of complications growing out of the Spanish-American war. It is to be remarked that comparatively little of the benefit of these high prices brought about by speculative movements goes to the man who actually grows the wheat.

A new page has been turned in the celebrated Goebel murder case. Governor Wilson has "pardoned before trial" all the accused, including the absconding Governor and officials. Some months ago he pardoned Caleb Powers and James Howard, both of whom had been convicted. Powers was tried four times and Howard three. Youtsey is therefore the only one to be punished for the heinous crime. It remains now for Governor Wilson to have a medal of honor struck for Youtsey.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

But in our interest in the struggle over hair-splitting technicalities let us not forget that the blood of a cruelly murdered girl cries to heaven for justice.

The United States leads the world in cocoa consumption. They imported last year 97,419,700 pounds, valued at $12,999,856. The price last year averaged 12 1-3 cents, as against 17 1-2 cents in 1907.

Former United States Senator W. M. Stewart, who wrote, reported and secured the ratification of the fifteenth amendment to the United States constitution, died at Georgetown on Friday last. He was quite a famous character at the capital.

Town Topics, the society organ of the New York "hon-ton," has been mulcted in $10,000 damages for libel in a suit brought by a Pittsburg man who was alleged to have bought and fitted up a house for a pretty milliner. Col. Mann may now have to switch from champagne to beer. He proposes to appeal.

The School Board is represented as holding to the idea that Victoria Avenue School should be abandoned—that it is not worth putting fire escapes on—and at the same time that it complains of criticism of reckless spending. It is said to favor this abandonment policy and the building of a big new building!

Abdul Hamid has been deposed, but it is too early yet to consider Abdul as being out of the reckoning. He has before escaped from many a tickling situation. It might be said of him in the words of the old Scottish song:

"Oh, he was sly and sleek; But ne'er say a herring is dry Until its bath raised an' roekit."

Nobody will be astonished at the course of the Kinrade jurors in taking strong exception to Mr. George Lynch-Staunton's statements before Mr. Justice Teetzel, as to the conduct of the inquest by the crown officials. There has been some talk of them passing a resolution condemning Mr. Staunton's language. Perhaps it is just as well that this was not done. The Hamilton public is seized of the facts, and doubtless the courts will be fully informed of anything which may have a bearing upon the issue raised.

In an appeal to our people to consider the economic value of our game fish, the Belleville Ontario draws attention to the importance of our fisheries to the tourist and summer resort traffic. It estimates that $15,000,000 a year is spent by summer resorters and pleasure seekers in the State of Maine; and it thinks that Ontario might count upon even three times that amount as the annual price of her attractions of this kind were they properly managed. It says the yield of silver at Cobalt for 1907 but slightly exceeded $6,000,000. The presentation is one to set people thinking.

The cause for disallowance of the Ontario Act of the recent session amending the Chartered Accountants Act is found in section 13 of the measure, which assumes to give the Ontario association power to prevent members of the Dominion Chartered Accountants' Association practising their profession in this province. The Ontario Attorney-General had been notified, and it had been suggested to him that the clause should be eliminated, or that it should be stipulated that the prohibition should not apply to members of the Dominion association. The suggestions were not acted upon, hence the disallowance. If the change is made the bill may become law next session.

The Montreal Transcript points out that while its Tory contemporary tells its readers much about Dr. Daniel, member for St. John, is doing in Parliament, it overlooks mention of the fact that "the courageous Dr. Daniel produced in Parliament the notorious Hayes affidavit, yet when asked if he would assume responsibility for the affidavit declined to do so. Dr. Daniel was willing to throw out insinuations, but would not accept the responsibility." The simple fact is that Dr. Daniel from behind parliamentary privilege was quite ready to asperse Hon. Mr. Pugsley and to make vile insinuations against him; but he had not the courage or manliness to make a charge or even to bring the matter before the Public Accounts Committee, which had ample power to investigate.

It is a pity that the present very proper feeling against opening new streets with narrow streets had not made itself felt in Hamilton many years ago. Narrow streets are a disadvantage to any city. Hitherto there has been a kind of go-as-you-please system, or lack of system, as to the opening of new streets, and the result has been a condition of affairs bordering upon chaos. Comparatively few streets in the city run from east to west without "jogs," and we have numerous short and blind streets, which might, by a little care and foresight, have been avoided, to great public advantage. It has long seemed to us that the Council might very properly exercise a closer oversight of the launching of new streets and the laying out of new streets.

A CURE FOR TOOTHACHE.

A London physician at a meeting of a medical society stated that extraction of teeth was unnecessary. He was enabled to cure the most desperate case of toothache, he said, unless the case was connected with rheumatism, by the application of the following remedy to the diseased tooth: Alum, reduced to an impalpable power, two drachms; nitrous spirit of ether, seven drachms; mix and apply to tooth.

THE WIND-UP. Wesley Epworth League Had a Very Pleasant One.

The Epworth League of Wesley Church held its closing social for this season last evening in the parlor of the church. There was a splendid turnout of the members, and a most enjoyable time was spent in song, story and games. In the earlier part of the evening Rev. Dr. Towell spoke at some length of the union of Gore and Wesley, and emphasized the need the church would have for the young people. Charlie Conant read the Eye-Opener, the official organ of the league, and within its pages were many bright and witty sayings about members of the league and their doings, and these sayings caused many a hearty laugh. Then followed some interesting games, and these in turn were followed by substantial refreshments.

YORKE CASE.

Mrs. Yorke-Longaker Still Trying to Get Children.

The Court of Appeal yesterday heard argument partly on an appeal in the case between Elizabeth Longaker, wife of Alfred W. Longaker, of New York City, formerly Mrs. George Yorke, of Hamilton, and the Sisters of St. Joseph, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Hamilton, Ont., the appeal being brought by Mrs. Longaker from the judgment of Mr. Justice Jelfs, in the Chamber of December 8th last, on an application for a writ of habeas corpus, directing the defendants or their Mother Superior, to produce before a Judge of the High Court the bodies of Annie Reilly and Mary Elizabeth Yorke, who are alleged to be unlawfully detained. The application was dismissed by Mr. Justice Jelfs without costs, and the applicant's claim for the custody of her children was refused. A motion was made before a Divisional Court, and was by that court ordered transferred into the Court of Appeal.

A CLEARING HOUSE.

Lucid Description of a Most Valuable Banking Auxiliary.

The hall-mark of a modern commercial centre is a bankers' clearing house, writes John S. MacLean in the May Canadian Magazine. Though the saving of time and labor is great and the process is simplicity itself, yet the origin of the institution is clouded with doubt. In the sixteenth century, the merchants who met at the great annual fair in Lyons were in the habit of making their bills payable only there. This, among other advantages, relieved them of the necessity of keeping large sums of coin in their homes at a period when Dogberry and Verges were on the watch. In the meantime their bills, circulated largely, became covered with endorsements, and at a very set-off, as we learn from Boisguillebert, transactions involving $80,000,000 were settled without the exchange of a sou in money. Notwithstanding its obvious advantages, the Montreal Clearing House was not established until January, 1889, and then apparently in a tentative fashion. It is now domiciled in the palatial head office of the Bank of Montreal, on St. James street. Each morning at 10 o'clock representatives of the banks gather in the clearing house with the notes and cheques of one another enclosed in separate envelopes. Arranged in a semi-circle around the room are wickets for each of the banks. The messengers line up, and at a signal from the manager make a tour of the wickets, depositing with the clerk at each one the packages of notes and cheques belonging to that bank. Each messenger then returns to the wicket representing his own bank and receives the packages deposited there from the other banks. They then leave for their respective offices, having done in three or four minutes what otherwise would take the better part of a day. The clerks remain to calculate the difference between the amounts delivered and those received, for which difference the manager of the clearing house issues vouchers to be used later at the settling bank.

LADIES' NIGHT.

A splendid program of gymnastics, marching and drum bell exercises, also a basketball game by the Y. M. C. A. girls will be given on Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The girls have been practicing hard for the closing event, and promise a rare treat for those who attend. The clever Y. M. C. A. gymnasts will do some of their advanced work on the high bar. The reserved seat plan for gallery and floor is now open at the Y. W. C. A., 17 Main street west.

SNOW SLIDES.

Snow slides, Mont., April 27.—Earth and snow slides, which have continued intermittently for the last sixteen hours, at a point on the Great Northern, one mile east of Nyack, have blocked traffic and the dozen trains, including four passenger trains, are tied up on either side.

PASTOR PHILPOTT IN SOUTH.

Pastor P. W. Philpott left yesterday for Macon, Ga., where a large Bible conference is to be held, beginning next Sunday, and continuing until the 16th of May. During his absence in the south, the pulpit of Gospel Tabernacle will be occupied on May 2 by Rev. Mr. Western, on the 9th by Rev. H. McKenzie, of London, formerly of this city, and on the 16th by Rev. Mr. Scott, of Detroit.

the various members of the association. The record clearing for 1908 was on the eighth of November, when transactions involving $8,392,236 were settled in ten minutes with the interchange of only one-fifth of that amount in legal tender.

FAIR TRIAL.

Justice Riddell Sustains Police Magistrate Jelfs.

That there is no inherent right in any alien that the proceedings taken in our courts shall be made wholly intelligible to him, even though he should be charged with crime, is Mr. Justice Riddell's opinion, expressed in his judgment, given in a Hamilton case at Toronto yesterday, in refusing a motion by Mr. T. C. Robinson, K. C., for the discharge of Pompo Meeklette upon the return to a writ of habeas corpus granted by Mr. Justice Teetzel. The return, he says, was admittedly good upon its face, showing a warrant of commitment by Magistrate Jelfs, of Hamilton, which recites the conviction of defendant for indecent conduct in public places. His Lordship finds ample evidence to support the conviction, and is convinced that defendant had a fair trial, and understood reasonably well what was said in the court. In any case, he says, the capacity of the interpreter is a question for the Magistrate. The present disposition of the matter will not interfere with any proceedings by way of appeal.

EMERALD LEAGUE.

The Epworth League of Emerald Street Methodist Church met last evening and elected officers, the result being: Hon. President—Dr. Williamson, President—Amos Vipond, First Vice-President—H. Lyburner, Second Vice-President—Geo. Lush, Secretary—Oscar Warner, Treasurer—A. Evans, Superintendent of Junior League—Miss J. Kerr, Assistants—Miss G. Rickards, Miss Townsend, Miss E. Featherston and Miss Frank McComb, Pianist—Miss Irene Miner, Assistant Pianist—Miss Vera McComb. The conveners of the different committees are: Look-out, Mrs. H. Lyburner; Prayer Meeting, Mrs. H. Gibson; Missionary, Miss Annie Medler; Social, Miss Medler; Literary, Mrs. O. Warner; Flower, Mrs. May McComb.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

There will be a full rehearsal for the coming musical trial in the board room at 8 o'clock this evening. Eight names have been sent in already for the summer cruise around Lake Ontario. An Association football club will be organized on Thursday evening of this week, at 8 o'clock. All interested should attend. May 1st closes the Y. M. C. A. fiscal year. Members and subscribers in arrears would greatly oblige the management by settling themselves right on the books before that time.

COOPER MURDER CASE.

Nashville, Tenn., April 27.—Judge Hart to-day overruled the motion for a new trial in the Cooper murder case, and an appeal was taken to the Tennessee Supreme Court.

Bethesda. Mr. Frederick Shaver is very poorly. Mrs. A. Bradshaw is very sick. Mr. J. Smith is very happy for a little boy came to his house last Sunday. Mr. Jacob Olmstead spent last Saturday with his mother. She was 80 years old that day. Misses Pearl and Ida Smith spent yesterday afternoon at Mr. Sam Smith's. On Sunday evening the 18th, a terrible thunder storm passed over here. The lightning struck a tree by Mr. James Ross' house and it fell against the house, broke the window and tore slings off. Some of the limbs fell on the beds, where Mr. and Mrs. Ross and children were sleeping. They were terribly frightened. The farmers here commenced spring work. Quarterly meeting will be held in the White Church on May 29th. There was a large gathering of friends and relatives on Thursday afternoon at Mr. James Ross', to pay their last tribute of respect to his brother, Alpha, who died in the hospital last Tuesday. After a short service at the house the funeral procession went to the Presbyterian Church, Anaster, where Rev. Mr. Webster preached a good sermon, after which deceased was laid away in the cemetery. Alpha was a very industrious young man and highly respected by all who knew him. He will be greatly missed in his brother's house, as he had lived there a long time. He leaves two brothers, William, in Lynden; James, in Anaster, and five sisters, Mrs. Isaac Teetzel, Anaster; Mrs. B. Weir, Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. Shaver and Mrs. Crockley, of Hamilton, to mourn the loss of a kind brother. The floral offerings were very beautiful.

ROGERS COAL. The Very Best Genuine Anthracite at Lowest Prices. Head Office, 6 James N. PHONE 1481. S. GILLIES, Pres. G. J. GUY, Mgr.

Kelvin. Mr. and Mrs. John Cooper entertained a few of their friends one day last week. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kelley, of Vancouver, were visiting relatives here recently. Mr. Jamieson, cheesemaker, has commenced operations for the season. There is not a very large supply of milk coming in the factory at present. Mr. and Mrs. J. Fiddings spent a few days last week with their son. Mr. Eugene Messeci and family, of Woodstock, have moved to their new home just west of the village. Mr. and Mrs. C. Almas were visiting relatives in Scotland a few days ago. Quite a number attended Sabbath School here on Sunday last. Mr. J. Turnbull, of Scotland, was calling on Mr. W. Robertson one day last week. House cleaning is the order of the day in this locality. A few of the farmers around here have commenced their seedling. The weather continues quite cold for sowing grain.

Mountsberg. A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the parsonage, Freeport, on Wednesday, the 14th of April, when the Rev. Mr. Southerman united in the holy bonds of matrimony Miss Minsie A. M. Campbell, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Campbell, of Mountsberg, and Mr. Norman L. Mills, of Carlisle. The bride was beautifully gowned in cream tulle, trimmed with insertion, and cream silk diaphanous sash. The only witnesses were Miss L. Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bell. After the ceremony the company drove to the residence of the bride's parents, where a dainty wedding dinner was served. The bride's going-away gown was of black tulle and she wore a cream hat with two large ostrich plumes and a lovely fur-lined coat, the gift of the groom. Mrs. Mills' many friends here join in wishing her and her husband a happy wedded life.

Trouble Settled. Scranton, Pa., April 27.—Agreement between the anthracite mine owners and the mine workers will be signed at a meeting to be held in the Reading Terminal building, Philadelphia, at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, unless present plans fail. The agreement expected to be signed in Philadelphia provides for the renewal for another period of three years of the old agreement, with a few concessions of importance to the miners.

Monarch. The Light Touch Monarch Typewriter may be rented at the following rates: One month, $4.00. After that, $3.00 per month. Six months, $15.00. Part of rent allowed on the purchase of a new machine.

The Monarch Typewriter Co. LIMITED. A NEW START. Movement on Foot to Set Up Ennis & Stoppani.

New York, April 27.—A plan for the rehabilitation of the bankrupt brokerage firm of Ennis & Stoppani was announced yesterday by Irving L. Ernst, one of the attorneys for the brokers. The plan provides for the formation of a co-partnership, which would take over the assets of the firm and issue notes maturing in a year and a half. These notes would be given to creditors in part payment of their claims, the remainder to be paid in cash. Mr. Ernst was confident that this cash payment would approximate 20 per cent.

New Publications. The May issue of the Home Journal, Toronto, gives abundant evidence of the changes promised for the new volume. The prizes for the photo contest are announced in this issue and afford an interesting exhibition of amateur photographic art. The Home Journal announces for June an increase in size and a four-colored cover with a four-page insert in limits. It will be a "Quinquennial Number," illustrating the forthcoming International Congress of Women to be held at Toronto. A full-page portrait of the Countess of Aberdeen and photos of the principal delegates will be given. June will also afford many useful hints as to wedding methods and customs.

DECIDED ON EXTENSION.

Geo. T. Tuckett Makes All Saints' a Magnificent Offer.

Will Give Half of the $14,500 Required.

Church Now Has More Communicants Than Sittings.

The adjourned vestry meeting of All Saints' Church was held last evening in the school house. Archdeacon Forneret presided. The principal item of business was the question of the extension of the church. Mr. W. W. Curry read the report of the committee appointed to look into the matter. He stated that the seating capacity would be increased from 440 to 700, and would provide for an infant class, larger choir gallery, lavatories, etc. The estimated cost of the extension was placed at $14,500. That amount covers the buying of the 15 feet of property to the east of the church.

Archdeacon Forneret announced that Mr. George T. Tuckett had offered to pay half the cost, according to this estimate, on the understanding that the church pay the other half—$7,250 when the contracts were signed and $2,500 any time during the next year. This left $2,250 to be paid later. Mr. Tuckett wanted it stipulated that $5,000 be subscribed before the work should be started. Mr. F. J. Leishman said that one method would be to mortgage the rectory and school for $5,000, and go on with the work as soon as possible.

Several of those present expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the furtherance of the scheme, but Mr. Charles Lemon discouraged the idea of placing a mortgage on any of the property and holding it over the heads of the congregation. It was not an advisable thing to do, he argued. While he was willing to see the church go ahead, he did not think it should be saddled with a debt.

Archdeacon Forneret pointed out that the church was in a flourishing condition, there being more communicants than there were seats in the church.

Mr. R. M. Roy moved that a committee be appointed to go into the matter.

Mr. T. W. Hand said that he would be willing to be one of ten members of the congregation to contribute $500 each. The congregation, he said, would pay the $2,250, making up the $7,250.

Some of the gentlemen thought the price was a little too high, and Mr. Wm. Nicholson suggested that the $5,000 be divided among twenty members.

Mr. George Bristol moved that the committee, which was appointed at the previous meeting, be empowered to go among the congregation and see if the money can be raised. This motion passed unanimously.

Mr. Roy suggested that a circular be issued at once containing the information regarding the extension and stating that the congregation should enter heartily into the work.

A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Tuckett for his very generous offer.

The committee which has the matter in hand is as follows: Archdeacon Forneret, R. M. Roy, P. J. Leishman, H. Wilkinson, W. Curry, T. W. Hand, D. O'Connor, Wm. Nicholson and R. B. Ferris.

A congregational meeting will be held in the near future, to further take up the matter.

FROM CHINA.

Mrs. Duff Gave Fine Address in Wentworth Church.

The young people of Wentworth Street Baptist Church heard a very interesting address last evening by Mrs. George Duff, a returned missionary from China. Mrs. Duff outlined the existing missionary conditions in China in a thorough and comprehensive manner, telling of the important part the young people should take in a work of this kind for the advancement of the Christian cause and the uplifting of the Chinese. She gave a general view of China, speaking of its beauty, greatness and geography. There are 350 walled cities in China, and the country contains 400,000,000 immortal souls. The Chinese are shrewd, trust-worthy people and well worth evangelizing, and are the oldest race in the world. The Chinese boy is taught to read and write, and also how to behave himself. In conclusion, she said the greatest need was not money nor our eastern civilization, but the gospel, and expressed the hope that some among the young people would devote themselves to the work of evangelization.

A hearty vote of thanks was given Mrs. Duff for her address.

LONDON WEDDING.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) London, April 27.—One of the prettiest weddings of the season was celebrated this afternoon at St. Luke's Church, Brompton, when Miss Helen N. Richardson, daughter of Archdeacon Richardson, married Henry A. Drury, civil engineer, of the Railway Commission, Winnipeg. Bishop Williams officiated. Many guests from Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal were present. They will reside in Winnipeg on their return from New York.

GOOD TEMPLARS.

F. W. Ambrose, Chief Templar, presided. The reports of the financial secretary and treasurer were received, and showed that the lodge, for a young lodge, was entering on a new term in a most satisfactory condition, the membership and state of funds being good. The officers elected at last meeting for ensuing term, were installed by John Porteous, D. G. C. A. A short programme was presented by Miss Lizzie Taylor and Messrs. Robert Yuill, Duncan Campbell and John Porteous. Next Monday evening Miss May Larner, Vice-Templar of the lodge, will do her best to provide a good programme, and apply to touch.

The estimated value of new buildings in Toronto this year is nearly $16,000,000.

The Norland power plant and Raven's Lake cement works have been sold for some $500,000.

Mr. James Hutchison, the oldest Toronto civic employee, died suddenly.

Daily Health Hint

HOW IT WORKS.

A noted authority on vital statistics says that if only everybody could have pure air, pure water, and pure milk the effect in a short time would be to lengthen the average duration of human life by eight years.

The same authority also shows that whenever sanitary measures are enforced against any particular disease that is amenable to sanitation, that is, a preventable disease, the result will be a saving of lives in all of the diseases that are due to bad sanitary conditions. For example, the enforcement of sanitary measures in protecting a community's water supply has a bar against typhoid will also result in the saving of lives from the other intestinal ailments due to the use of impure water. Prevention pays.

ST. CATHARINES.

Sold Residence—Sold Business—Two Old Residents.

(Special Despatch to the Times.)

St. Catharines, April 26.—The residence of Mrs. John Dawson, No. 6 Gates street, has been sold to Arthur Hargrove, formerly of the Lakehurst station, Oakville, who will establish therein an institute for the treatment of persons afflicted with alcoholic and drug habits.

W. H. Merriman, wholesale grocer, has disposed of his business and will retire from active life.

Captain Alexander Muir, the well-known shipbuilder and Port Dalhousie's most distinguished citizen, celebrated his ninetieth birthday to-day by visiting the shipyard he had conducted so many years. D. N. Moore, the veteran assistant collector, of this city, exchanged congratulations with the captain, this being his eighty-second birthday.

The average citizen is suspicious of anything he does not thoroughly understand, so that if he views the Co-operative idea with suspicion he is not much to blame. The average citizen has the idea firmly imbedded in his cranium that he will promise him anything in order to get him to join us, and when he comes here asking us to explain our plan he is simply dumfounded when he finds that we absolutely refuse to promise him anything.

There was a time when we did make promises—promises which we based upon what had been done elsewhere—but that time is now long past. We have learned that loyalty is the price of dividends, and that there will be dollars to divide in exactly the proportion that each member and all members BY THEIR PURCHASES to make such dividends of dollars possible.

A man who will pay into this Society only a single dollar, and will become a customer, is a far better Co-operator than he who pays in a full hundred dollars and then purchases his supplies elsewhere. The dollar man and the hundred dollar man each give us their dollars so that we may stock our shelves with goods, but those goods might remain on our shelves till doomsday, if neither of them became purchasers, and the store would not make a dollar out of the investment. It's the man WHO COMES IN AND PURCHASES the goods that makes the profit for the store. Now comes in the Co-operative idea. We believe that the purchaser should have a square deal. We believe that he is the man who really made the money for the store, so we pay all our dividends on the PURCHASES. In Co-operative store the books are closed twice a year, then, after paying the cost of running the store, and seven per cent. interest on the amount invested, the balance of profits returned to the customer on the PURCHASES. Say Yes

It's a great thing to be able to candidly say "Yes" when a customer asks you if these are the BEST SHOES—at the price—that can be had. We can candidly say "Yes" whenever that question is asked about our Shoes. Come and see them.

Every Foot to Its Own Shape

We know the foot, and we know the Shoe that fits it. We know that we have the Shoe you want, it's here waiting for you. We don't figure how to fit your feet to our Shoes—we study the shape of your foot and find the Shoe best adapted to it.

By the way, Mr. Heavy-Weight, do you know that your feet would not be so tired if you wore a pair of the celebrated "Hurley" or "Stinson" CORNDODGER SHOES? price $5.75 and $7.00!

SORASIS SHOES—We have but one fault to find with Sorasis Shoes. We can't get enough of them. That sounds like "blowing," but it's a fact all the same. The demand for Sorasis is so large in Canada, Europe and the States that it is impossible to supply the demand, although the floor space in the Sorasis factory would cover three acres of ground.

FAMILY SHOE STORE—This is a family Shoe Store, and consequently we keep Shoes for the whole family, and at prices you are ready to pay. Men's $2.50 to $7.75, Women's $1.50 to $5.25, and children's, at all of the popular prices. Bring the baby in.

SUNDRIES—Our stock is complete in Silk Laces in different colors, Polish, Shoe Trees, Bunion Protectors, Arch Supports, Heel Cushion, Rubber Heels, Insoles, etc.

Suggestions For The Well Dressed

BY ELLA STANSFIELD

I want to tell you about two gowns that seem to me to be very stunning and have the additional merit of suiting almost any type of feminine beauty. Mrs. Speakman has drawn them for you here and perhaps that will do better than anything I can say. But a word or two in addition, may not be amiss.

The first one is of amethyst chiffon broadcloth with yoke of fine tucked chiffon and trimmings of the same color. There is also a tiny yoke and collar of white lace.

The other gown is of "Marron" crepe de chine with yoke and trimming of heavy lace, dyed the same color.

There is a sash and hat in a deeper shade of the same color and a smaller yoke of net and lace.

A dress of chiffon, voile, marquisette or sheer silk will be greatly enhanced by a band of louisine silk in a matching color heavily braided or embroidered.

A remarkably pretty dress intended for evening wear is of pale gray marquisette, over a pink silk lining. The upper portion had a tucked waist of the marquisette, over which was worn a heavy lace jacket trimmed with bands of silk.

The jacket finished at the front a few inches above the waist line, but at the sides and back fell in deep points and were finished with tassels of silk.

To conceal the joining of the waist and skirt were worn a broad, soft girthing of gray the ends of which were knotted at the left side, of the front and fell almost to the hem of the skirt.

Little need be said in reference to underclothes as literally almost anything may be worn, for she does not need to take pains to see that every inch of extra material is done away with, or is it necessary for her to add any great bulk to her form.

Of course, she should avoid fitted corset covers or extremely tight underskirts. The nicest models are the combination skirt and corset cover, the corset cover being moderately full and the skirt of the gored pattern, with a good deep flounce at the lower edge.

It is hats that these women may luxuriate in, for it is they who can wear the fascinating picture hats of the Gainsborough type, with their long brims with a slight roll will be becoming and if the crown is low, a massive wreath of large flowers, such as roses, will be all that is needed to complete a most attractive chapéau.

Then, long, soft veils are here and can be tied over the hat and knotted at one side of the head or wound round and round her shoulders.

And last, but not least, comes the Assyrian cloak that wraps round and envelops the figure.

These are the newest of wraps and will be worn during the coming summer. Doubtless they came in fashion through the opera "Salome." They are thrown about one in Arab fashion, with the end of the right side over the left shoulder.

To purchase them ready made is expensive, but they are not difficult to cut and may be easily made at home. In selecting the material for one the color is most important and a shade that will go nicely with all gowns should be given preference.

It might be said that these wraps were specially designed for the tall girl, for in them she surely is a picture. They will be worn for the street as well as for evening, the only difference being in the shades selected. The lower edge should come just below the knees.

There are being shown in the ready-made garments, skirts of tub materials that fasten directly down the center back from the waist line to the hem. This is done invisibly by ball and socket closings, being completely hidden by the inverted box-pleat at the centre back. Such skirts when laundered, can be opened out perfectly flat and ironed without difficulty.

There is also in tub garments what is known as the envelope waist. In this the sleeve buttons on the under side from the wrist to the armholes and then on down to the waist line. While these waists have certain advantages, as much cannot be said in their favor as can be said in favor of the buttoned skirt, for while they can be laid out flat and ironed, the work of making them is considerable and it is a question whether it pays for the time required.

The latest novelty in veils is known as the inauguration. It is of Russian net in black, white and colors, and is perfectly square in shape. It has a Grenadine border in a matching color to that of the net. When worn the square is placed over the crown of the hat and the four corners swathed around the neck and shoulders. The effect is most peculiar but very pleasing.

In the way of accessories, Dutch collars must not be forgotten. They may be worn with dresses and waists of any character. They vary in depth from three to five inches and are made from lace, fine lawn, or linen and lace combined.

For this style of neck finish, it is necessary to have a large old-fashioned brooch. If one happens to be the possessor of a cameo, nothing could be better. When the collars are cut away at the front, they will be pretty worn with a jabot of matching material.

The chemise is a garment in which the small woman may indulge, and when wearing it she is saved the continual annoyance of having her corset cover crawl up her back, or else having it attached to drawers, which is only a degree less annoying.

The garment in question should be of soft, fine material, made in ample proportions, so that it will add some width to her figure. If, for some reason, she does not care for the chemise, then there are the pretty ruffled corset covers, or those made very full that slip over the head and draw up at the waist and bust.

The most practical model for drawers, either for stout or slender women, is the circular, and when they are intended for the latter type of figure, the lower edge may be finished with a very full ruffle.

Petticoats are almost as attractive as dresses, when they are daintily made, if intended for wear under short-waisted frocks, and prettiest models are made with full body portions, cut with low round neck and a high waistline, to which is attached a slightly full skirt finished at the lower edge with a deep flounce of embroidery.

Of course, such a garment can be satisfactorily made only from fine cambric, lawn or China silk.

Dainty blouses, appropriate for occasions where full dress is not required, are always in demand. Very smart effects can be achieved by the use of transparent yokes and sleeves, and, by the way, this style might recommend itself to slender people who do not appear to advantage in décolleté.

SILKS OR SATINS PROPER CAPER FOR THE BATHING SUITS OF 1909

Silk bathing suits this year. If you can't afford silk, use satin. It will last longer.

Here are two bathing suits from Palm Beach.

The girl standing wears a black and white striped taffeta, with both skirt and bodice cut on the bias. The seam is down the middle front and back. There are Gibson pleats at the shoulders. The short circular skirt is given extra fullness by a side pleat that is stitched only to the hip. A cap of the same material, draped over an oiled silk foundation, fits the head closely. Silk stockings, with no shoes, made up the costume of the Palm Beach girl.

The other suit of navy blue taffeta, with a black stripe, piped in white with sailor collar, and tie, also of white taffeta. The waist is trimmed with bands of the material, which extend from the shoulder line to the hem. This young lady wears shoes, but she's a bit old-fashioned for that reason, for there were no shoes or sandals on the beach at Palm Beach this spring.

Parasols match the costumes.

MARRIED, BUT "PALS."

Mrs. Jos. W. Folk, wife of the former Governor of Missouri, went to school with him in Brownville, Tenn., when she was 5 and he 9 years old. They have been pals ever since.

Folk went to St. Louis as soon as he graduated from Vanderbilt University Law School in 1894. It was not until two years afterward, when young Folk had built up something of a practice, did Gertrude Glass—that was her name—go north and become Mrs. Folk.

Mrs. Folk is of a modest and retiring nature, but she possesses a wonderfully tactful brain and an almost uncanny knowledge of human nature. She knows politics as well as her husband.

Folk has been known to telephone her at midnight for her opinion on this or that, before he would give a definite answer on propositions broached to him at Jefferson City.

TO CLEAN FEATHERS BY WASHING.

Feathers are treated in the washing exactly the same way as feather boxes, only the cleaning must be done more by shaking and drawing the feather between the fingers and thumb in the soap lather.

When clean, it must be well rinsed and the water pressed out of it. The feather is greatly improved in appearance if after rinsing it is dipped into fairly thick cold water starch and pressed between the folds of a towel.

The feather must be shaken in front of a fire and as it dries the starch falls out in the form of a fine powder and at the same time separates the little fibres, making the feather more fluffy in appearance and greatly adding to its beauty.

The curling of the feather is done in the same way as for a feather box, but the style of curling depends on the fashion; sometimes the fronds are all turned toward the under stem, at other times they are curled all over the top.

But either style is easy to do.

WAYS TO COOK EGGS.

Shells of break 1 1/2 inches thick, are the basis of eggs prepared this way. They should be trimmed and the centre of each slice scooped out to make a box. Dip in beaten egg and fry to a light brown in hot fat. Drop an egg into each box, sprinkle lightly with salt and cook in oven two or three minutes.

Mrs. Wm. H. Taft, now first lady of the United States, will overhaul the White House from cellar to garret. One of her first reforms was to station two coachmen at the entrance, replacing the familiar old police guard. She did that the day after her husband's inauguration.

Gold slippers, which are unmistakably popular, come in gold cloth and gold leather.

FASHION NOTES.

The extra long corset has won out.

Many variations of bolero are seen.

With the tailored suits moire silk belting of every color is being worn.

With the tailored suits coarse mesh net waists will be much worn.

The turnover linen collar with jabot will be worn as of yore.

The old-fashioned sailor collar has come back for the younger set.

Among the small hats are turbans of silver with colored aigrettes.

Because of the demand for softly woven fabrics, many of the woollens are woven with a silk surface.

A novelty of the spring openings is rapped monard, called Ottoman royal.

Miss Florence May Kennedy, Boulder, Col., waitress, has just fallen heir to $100,000 left her by a maiden aunt in Pittsburg, Pa.

Mrs. Gabrielle Stewart Mulliner, of New York city, chairman of the legislative committee of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, advocates a separate court for women evidence. "Present methods are not adequate," she argues.

It should instead be washed by shaking in a good soap lather and, when clean, rinsed in warm water and pressed to remove the moisture. It must then be shaken to separate the down and hung in front of the fire to dry.

It ought to be occasionally shaken during the drying process. When quite dry it will look almost like new.

TO WASH SWAN'S DOWN FUR.

This fur is very delicate and soft and forms a pretty trimming for children's clothing. Being a white fur it soon becomes soiled and unless some method could be adopted to restore its appearance it would be rather expensive trimming.

Washing is one of the cheapest and simplest methods for cleaning fur and restores its new appearance in an almost incredible manner.

Method of Washing.—As the fur is very fine and easily destroyed, all rubbing and even squeezing to any extent must be avoided, as either would break off the down.

It should instead be washed by shaking in a good soap lather and, when clean, rinsed in warm water and pressed to remove the moisture. It must then be shaken to separate the down and hung in front of the fire to dry.

IN BRIDAL GOWN, AT LEAST, DIRECTOIRE STILL IN VOGUE

Here's the June bride of 1909.

Since the time of the 1908 bride the directoire style has come and partly gone. But the 1909 bride has touches of the directoire style in her gown.

This gown, fresh from Paris, is of soft white satin, with the high empire waist line, draped bodice trimmed with hand embroidery, long chiffon sleeves, a collarless chiffon yoke.

The skirt is of the rigidly simple directoire lines with a long train cut square.

A pearl band-trimming outlines the yoke, the embroidered bands and finishes the sleeves.

The veil is of real duchesse lace and extends quite to the end of the train.

MORAL SIDE OF THE CHILD.

Fine Address by Principal of University of Toronto

Before the Woman Teachers' Association of Hamilton.

Difficulties Introduced by the Children of Foreigners.

A large number of teachers and others interested in educational work heard a very instructive, well thought out talk in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute last evening by Dr. Falconer.

Dr. Falconer impressed upon the audience the importance of developing the latent moral powers, as they are most essential to the welfare of the student in after life, as it is while in school that the foundation of the student's life is laid.

The part the teacher occupies in the moulding of character is forcibly outlined and he said that those who are doing this service for the nation should feel the responsibility resting upon them.

Dr. Falconer spoke of the existing conditions in the different countries and said the teacher would need to exercise her knowledge to the best advantage when coming in contact with children of other countries, as the ideals would be different.

One of the most serious difficulties the teacher has to contend with is due to the divers ideals, caused by foreign children, who have been taught other ideals than Canadian, coming under the direct influence of the teacher.

CANADA'S FAMOUS MEN AND WOMEN

Gladly Testify to the Great Value of "Fruit-a-tives."

Hon. Senator Costigan (member of the Cabinets of five Premiers of Canada), says: "Fruit-a-tives is the only medicine I ever took that did me any good for Constipation."

Mrs. J. R. Flock (widow of one of the most prominent physicians in London), writes: "I was a constant martyr to Stomach Weakness all my life and no physician could cure me, but Fruit-a-tives gave me entire relief and I strongly recommend this medicine."

"Mr. James Dingwall (Superintendent of St. Andrew's Sunday School in Williamstown, Ont., for nine years) states: "I am now over eighty years old, and I can strongly recommend Fruit-a-tives for Bladder and Kidney Trouble and Chronic Constipation."

Mr. H. Marchessault (High Constable of Quebec), testifies: "I suffered for ten years with Severe Pains in the Back. Nothing did me any good until I tried Fruit-a-tives."

Mr. W. J. McComb (the leading merchant of Trenton, Ont.), writes: "I was a martyr to Headaches—consulted doctors—wore glasses—without the slightest relief. Then I took Fruit-a-tives and this remedy cured me."

This is the kind of evidence that convinces Dealers everywhere have "Fruit-a-tives" 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. Sent postpaid on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

NO GENERAL MANAGER.

The Intercolonial Board is to Have Wide Powers.

The New Management Will Buy the Supplies.

Will Fix the Rates and Control the Staff.

Ottawa, April 26.—The Minister of Railways to-day tabled in the Commons the order in Council under which the new board will be constituted to conduct the management of the Intercolonial Railway.

The order states that Hon. Mr. Graham has for some time been considering the various complicated questions involved in the operation of the Government system of railways from both the administrative and financial points of view, and has concluded that a change from the present system of management is desirable.

It has therefore been determined to place the management under a board, usually styled the Executive of Railways, and looks upon it as something he can and will control. The teacher ought to be able to give strength and stability to the character, as the national spirit depends upon it.

One of the most serious difficulties the teacher has to contend with is due to the divers ideals, caused by foreign children, who have been taught other ideals than Canadian, coming under the direct influence of the teacher.

The Hero of Quebec

In the autumn of 1759 the banks of the majestic St. Lawrence witnessed a remarkable occurrence. There a battle was waged for the conquest of the land.

There a wonderful soldier by his genius and daring achieved a victory which was far reaching in its results—one of the landmarks of history—the passing of a Greater France, the coming of Greater Britain and the birth of the United States.

In the days of yore, from Britain's shores, Wolfe, the dauntless hero, came, And planned firm Britannia's flag, On Canada's distant domain.

Here may it were, our boast, our pride, And join in love together, The Thistle, Shamrock, Rose entwined, The Maple Leaf forever.

In that Battle of the Plains, Wolfe wore the scarlet, Montcalm the white. In death robes of glory, he lay, The name of Wolfe is among the immortal names that were born not to die.

To follow him through his history and to give an account of the diplomatic and political achievements of his time would require volumes. To discuss his career involves the growth of a mighty Empire.

The writer has consulted the best authorities and shall recall the facts which obtained.

Behold Wolfe the supreme soldier and masterly leader! His strategy and tactics were superb. He possessed swift vision, cool judgment and the insight that forecast each move of his antagonist. Wolfe was the military Nelson.

Both were gifted to lead and were popular with their men, one was the soldiers' friend—the other the sailors'.

Wolfe, who had that magnetic quality of swaying troops, and who so inspired that in his hands they became terrible in war, was no ordinary man. In addition to his magnificent courage, he exhibited consummate skill and a rare talent for command; and it is a notable fact there was no better field force in the British army in the 18th century than that under the leadership of General James Wolfe.

Like Nelson, he was invincible in battle. Both had a profound knowledge of the science and art of war. Wolfe manifested these qualities which gave evidence that he was a military chieftain of the highest order.

Again we exclaim, what a career! At 12 he decided to follow the profession of his father, who was a prominent British soldier; at 14 he received his commission as ensign and saw service in Flanders. A year later he took part in the famous battle of Dettingen; and though a mere boy he made adroit of his regiment.

Wolfe was made captain and brigade major in this capacity he served with the army in Scotland. In 1747 he was again abroad on service and for his distinguished valor at the battle of Lawfield he received the public thanks of his commanding officer, the Duke of Cumberland. On the 5th of January, 1747, he was made a major; and on the 29th of March, 1751, was commissioned lieutenant-colonel.

While introducing perfect discipline he secured the personal affection of every soldier. In the mismanagement expedition against Richbourg, Wolfe was appointed quartermaster-general of the force. The failure of the operation brought disgrace to nearly all concerned; but had Wolfe's counsel been followed the result would have been different, and his reputation, already brilliant, was enhanced. He attracted the attention of Pitt, that unsurpassed statesman of his time, who was now decisively drawn to him, as a commander of whom great things might be expected; and in 1758 with the rank of brigadier-general he was given a command in the expedition against Cape Breton, under General Amherst.

The capture of the strong fortress of Louisbourg was chiefly due to Wolfe's skill, and his splendid organization made him the popular "Hero of Louisbourg."

The great Pitt was now organizing his grand scheme for the overthrow of the French in Canada. He "sought for merit wherever it was found," and selected Wolfe to command the expedition, which had for its object the capture of Quebec, the stronghold of the French.

Wolfe to the rank of major-general and commanding an army of between 8,000 and 9,000 men. Wolfe sailed from England on the 17th of February, 1759, and on the 26th of June landed his forces at the Isle of Orleans, across from a prominent point on the city of Quebec.

He proceeded to form plans for an attack on that city. To do this proved, on a closer examination, a stupendous, indeed an almost hopeless task. The skillful Montcalm had adopted a system of defence which offered no point of vantage. After several unsuccessful attempts, in which Wolfe was ably assisted by Admiral Saunders, the commander of the British fleet, he decided upon another plan, which was crowned with success.

At an early hour on the morning of the 13th of September, 1759, Montcalm beheld through the mist a red line coming swiftly over the Plains of Abraham. There could be no doubt that it was the British army under the intrepid warrior, the "Hero of Louisbourg," Wolfe had during the night succeeded in scaling the cliffs at a point unsuspectedly gained, through the disobedience of the orders of Montcalm. The facts show that Wolfe had resolved to make this daring enterprise, and had admirably thought it out; that by his orders, in which he said: "Officers and men will remember what their country expects of them," and that it was brilliantly executed, and shall forever abide as one of the masterpieces in the annals of war.

Wolfe was confident of the result. The forces actively engaged on each side seemed nearly equal.

What stays the Victor of Carillon, who is restless for the strife? Why lags Vandercul when battle calls? Why guard the peaceful lines? Why linger Ramezay's guns behind the sheltering walls?

"On with the charge," Montcalm cries, and a portion of the French troops advance eagerly. On! On! they come. Behold the English stand firm as a granite wall, waiting the onset of the French. Wolfe with that calm possession which he revealed had fortified his men to fire a single shot till he gave the word.

Suddenly while the columns in fire are close up to the scarlet line, there is a sharp command. "Fire!" rings from right to left. Immediately from end to end of the British line, a burst of flame pours, which is very calm and steadfastly trusting and believing in their chief. The smoke clears away. The wearers of the white waiver; their line is crumbling and the ground is strewn with their dead and dying. Wolfe gives the order to advance and the scarlet line instantly moves forward. The result is decisive and the French are driven from the field. So ended the supremacy of France in Canada.

Both sides in this historic battle lost their great commanders.

Two wounded—Wolfe recks not, but still leads the charge. But fate guides the fatal ball, With bleeding breast he claims a comrade's aid.

And exclaims—"let not my soldiers see their leader fall!"

He lived long enough to know he was victorious; then like one believing in sleep he gave up the ghost; then murmured his last words—"Now God be praised, I will die in peace."

The pitying fate in death delay Till Heaven for him delays the day—He heard, rejoiced and died.

The illustrious Wolfe had fought his last battle and died bequeathing to his mother a conqueror's name: to the Anglo-Saxon race the continent of North America, and an example which is an inspiration to all mankind.

No better French General than Montcalm could have been chosen to command the forces of France in Canada. But nothing short of a miracle could have saved Canada to the French, for it was evident that it would be sacrificed for European prestige. The King of France had directed Montcalm "to hold the colony to the last with the forces in it." Montcalm replied—"I shall do everything to save this unhappy colony or die."

He kept his word. He labored like a hero, fought like a hero and died like a hero, and his life was wasted. So perished one of the ablest soldiers of France. Before the "Battle of the Plains" he had defeated all of the English Generals who had opposed him.

The deeds of Wolfe and of Montcalm and their heroic sacrifice on the same field of battle, gave them undying fame; and the facts concerning the military careers of these celebrated leaders show that they are numbered among the modern world's foremost soldiers and military commanders.

Montcalm and Wolfe! Wolfe and Montcalm! Quebec thy storied citadel, Attest in heroic song and psalm How here thy heroes fell!

Some time after the battle one of the warships which sailed away from Quebec to the land across the sea, bore all that was mortal of one of Britain's noblest sons.

England gave his body a grave; Parliament a monument to his fame and memory.

The joy of Great Britain over the triumph of Wolfe was saddened by the well known fact that there was no widow's weeds mourned; she had given her all—her heroic son so that the banners of England might forever float over the ramparts of Quebec.

Montcalm rests in a warrior's grave, unused of sunshine, storm and battle. On the Plains of Abraham a noble pillar marks the spot where Wolfe fell, and upon it is inscribed,

"Here died Wolfe victorious."

As future generations visit Quebec they will behold a tall shaft erected to commemorate the heroism of Wolfe and Montcalm.

Though Wolfe was only 32 years of age when he died, he had won imperishable military renown; and it is a well known fact that there was no greater British general from the days of Marlborough to those of Wellington than he who became a conqueror in a glorious death on the Plains of Abraham.

James Wolfe was a gift from God for the performance of a great task.

Behold from the icy fogs of the north to the sparkling chain of lakes and the silvery thread of the St. Lawrence on the south; from the broad Atlantic on the east to the Pacific and the land of the setting sun on the west. One Dominion. One country. One flag.

O sons! O daughters! of Canada and of all lands under the British flag forget not those who gave their lives that your emblem of glory shall forever wave and honor evermore the immortal Wolfe.

For on that day no nobler blood stained the soil, Than his who for his country laid life down; And for an empire battled there, Who from his rival's brow took the laurel crown.

HE GOT RELIEF RIGHT AWAY

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure Kidney Disease of Eight Years' Standing.

That's What They Did for William O. Cain, and Now He Says: "Dodd's Kidney Pills Are a Great Medicine."

Mapleton, Albert Co., N. B., April 26. (Special).—When I began taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I got relief right away. I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills a great medicine. So says William O. Cain, well known, highly respected in this neighborhood. And Mr. Cain has a very good reason for making so emphatic a statement. For eight years he was a sufferer from Kidney Disease, and did not seem to be able to get relief.

"Why, I was so bad," Mr. Cain goes on to state, "and my kidneys bothered me so that if I would go to pick anything off the ground I would fall! But Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me just as they have cured thousands of other sufferers all over Canada. They never fail to cure Kidney Disease of any kind. Not once, but scores of times, they have vanquished Bright's Disease, the most deadly of all kidney troubles, while every day brings stories of cures of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Dropsy and Heart Disease from various parts of the Dominion. Other kidney medicines may cure. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure."

$5, $6 and $8 hats Three hats for the price of one

"A HAT for every gown? What extravagance!" "Not extravagance at all, my dear. You see I buy my hats at the Right House. This dear little blue straw, which I shall wear with my tailored suit, was just $5. This pretty little Tuscan—see how delightfully it goes with my pongee dress?—was only $6.00. Isn't it charming? I shall wear it with my linen suit, too. Then with my white lingerie dress and also my pale blue evening frock. I shall wear this large black hat, which cost me $8. So you see for a total of $19 my head is pretty well equipped."

"Well I shall say no more about extravagance. You are a wonder."

"Not at all. Try the variety and beauty in Right House $5, $6 and $8 millinery for yourself. Some seasons I purchase my entire three hats there for $15!"

FIGHT IN COUNCIL FOR WIDE STREETS.

Three-Fourths Vote of Whole Council Required to Legalize Street Less Than 66 Ft.

The City Council had two sessions last night, the regular one to dispose of routine business and an informal meeting immediately after to go over the power contract, which will be submitted to the people shortly for their verdict.

Had it not been for a lively debate over a clause in the Board of Works report, asking for authority to introduce a by-law authorizing the opening of a street fifty feet wide, from Erie avenue westward, and south of Main street, the first session would not have lasted more than fifteen minutes. Although sixteen out of the twenty-one members present voted in favor of the by-law, it was bowled out by Mayor McLaren, who discovered that it required a three-fourths vote of the entire Council to authorize the opening of a street less than sixty-six feet wide.

The Mayor challenged the wisdom of passing this by-law. Permission was refused for this last year, and the parties took the matter in their own hands. Why should it be opened as a private street, and the improvements paid for?" he asked.

Chairman Allan said he was not in favor of it, and moved that the clause be struck out. The street ran half way through the block, and Ald. Allan said he did not favor cutting the city up in this fashion.

After considerable discussion, the Mayor said: "If you grant this, we are getting worse instead of better, letting people do as they like. I think the time to come and get a privilege is before doing the work. If they go on and do the work in face of the law they take us for a pretty easy crowd."

In spite of His Worship's strong remarks the Council, by a vote of 14 to 7, voted down Ald. Allan's amendment.

The yeas for the amendment to strike out the clause were Mayor McLaren, Ald. Cooper, Forth, Allan, Wright and Ellis.

Ald. Lees was the only absentee. The vote had no sooner been taken than the Mayor pointed out that no street, less than sixty-six feet wide, could be opened, except by the vote of three-fourths of the members of the Council. Therefore, he said, the clause would have to go out.

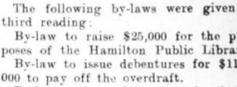

"A three-fourths vote is 16 2/3," said City Clerk Kent.

"I have been in the Council seven years and this is the first time I have seen that clause taken advantage of," observed Ald. Sweeney.

"Not taken advantage of," corrected his worship, "you mean the first time it has not been neglected."

There was a long discussion over the Mayor's ruling and his worship said in view of this he would let the matter be decided in committee of the whole.

When the by-law came up in committee of the whole Ald. Wright and Ellis, who voted against it before, flopped and this made the vote 16-5, the Mayor, for the said city.

The following by-laws were given a third reading:

By-law to raise $25,000 for the purposes of the Hamilton Public Library.

By-law to issue debentures for $112,000 to pay off the overdraft.

By-law to issue debentures for $125,000 for permanent roadways.

By-law to issue debentures for the purchase of a Hospital site.

By-law authorizing the investment of a portion of the sinking fund in the purchase of local improvement debentures.

Ald. Milne wanted to know what was being done regarding the agitation to have all dogs runned in large muzzled and Chairman Gardner informed him that the Markets Committee was considering the matter.

Chairman Jutten invited the Mayor and all the aldermen to inspect the sewage disposal and new annex disposal plant on Saturday afternoon.

Opening of International Woman Suffrage Alliance in London.

London, April 26.—Mme. Sarah Grand made by far the most telling speech to-day at the opening of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance at St. James' Hall. The reason women were clamoring for enfranchisement, she said, was that they could not help it. It was as much a need of the nature as the modern progressive woman as it was for birds to fly or fish to swim. The movement was altogether evolutionary. Women could save modern civilization. The great business of life was happiness, and wherever there was competition there was strife and no happiness. She hoped to see the day when competition would be exterminated and co-operation take its place everywhere.

Lady McLaren pleased the delegates by the pungent irony she directed at the Prime Minister, whose name was hissed. She declared that the majority of the Liberal members of the Commons, including twelve members of the Cabinet, were pledged to be with the suffragettes when the new Liberal reform bill was brought in. There were scolding cries at this, but Lady McLaren added: "Let us not cry out before we are hurt. Wait until the time comes for the pledge to be redeemed. Do you wonder that with the growing tide of sentiment in our favor, so many of our enemies in Parliament are not going to stand at the next general election?"

Ceylie Hamilton, the actress, voiced the adhesion of her sisterhood to the cause of suffrage. Ida Husted Harper spoke for the American Council of Women; Mrs. Despard, President of the Women's Freedom League, and a leader of the militant suffragettes, made an address in a vein of old-fashioned oratory, and as she stood on the platform with her straight falling grey hair, her slender form, her high Roman profile and simple Victorian dress she was clearly the most striking figure of the assemblage.

There were speeches by delegates of all the national bodies represented, and two were newly admitted to membership, those of France and Belgium. Mrs. Chapman Catt presided in the morning and Mrs. Millicent Garrett Fawcett in the afternoon.

Rev. T. B. Clarke, the rector of All Saints' Church, London, announced yesterday that $18,000 had been wiped from the church during the past eighteen months, and that the total debt on the new edifice which was opened in 1907 now amounts to but $9,942. The church cost $25,000.

KINRADE MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED.

questionably the centre of attraction at the sittings of the coroner's jury. When it is expected that she is going on the witness stand the officials are always flooded with twice as many applicants for admission tickets as at any other time.

The coroner stepped briskly up on the platform, promptly at 8 o'clock, the jurors quickly responded to their names, and then the Crown Attorney arose and explained that in view of the writ of certiorari having been granted, as they do not doubt were all aware, the inquest would have to be delayed for a few days.

The jury agreed to meet on Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Mr. Washington stated it was the Crown's desire to have the inquest raised by the Kinrade counsel was settled.

JURORS DEFEND BLACKSTOCK. After the adjournment a few of the jurors got together and their statements made by Mr. Staunton during his argument with Justice Teetzel regarding the manner in which the inquest had been conducted.

When Mr. Washington was asked why the Crown did not go on with the inquest and take some of the other witnesses, he intimated that it was not the intention of the Crown to show its hand until it was assured that Florence Kinrade would appear and give evidence.

MUCH EXAGGERATED. The Times was informed this morning by one of the jurymen that the reports of the jurors criticizing Mr. Staunton for the remarks he made yesterday about the Crown counsel were much exaggerated.

"Why," said this juror, "the whole discussion did not last more than a few minutes. Just after we decided to adjourn last Thursday night the foreman, R. B. Spira, turned to us and asked, 'Do you intend to take any action regarding insurances and remarks Mr. Staunton made in Toronto this morning, according to the papers, about the Crown counsel, the jury, and the way the inquest is being conducted?'"

"Never saw Miss Elliott." Smiling Jimmie Baugh, as he has been dubbed by the newspaper men, was around the Royal Hotel when the inquest was held. He does not seem to mind it in the least, but takes a keen delight in dodging behind posts and then watching them search for him.

"Never knew it was anything like this," he said. Hamilton in particular he said met with his idea of a city should be the cleanliness of the streets impressed him very favorably.

"Why, d'y'you know, the principal street in Portsmouth is never as clean as your streets here. This certainly is a live town." A hardened reporter ventured to ask Jimmie if he had ever seen Miss Elliott in Virginia. Jimmie forgot himself and answered before he knew it.

"No," he said, "I have seen a woman like her before, but I never heard her name." "Say, what kind of a looking fellow is Mr. Wright?"

The reporters described him, and Jimmie said he was anxious to see him. Mr. Baugh did not know whether he would stay in this city until Thursday night, but expected that he would go to Toronto to-night with Detective Rogers.

MR. HOBSON'S AFFIDAVIT. Following was the affidavit made by Solicitor Thomas Hobson, in the proceedings in the Kinrade case before Mr. Justice Teetzel yesterday morning: IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

In the matter of James Anderson, Coroner, and in the matter of the inquest to enquire into the death of Ethel Kinrade: I, Thomas Hobson, of the city of Hamilton, in the county of Wentworth, barrister-at-law, make oath, and say as follows:

I am one of the counsel and solicitor for Florence Kinrade, one of the witnesses at the inquest in the above matter.

The said Florence Kinrade, on the tenth day of March, was called as a witness on the inquest, and was examined by George Tate Blackstock, K. C., the examination lasting from ten o'clock in the evening to two o'clock the next morning.

On both occasions, counsel was allowed the greatest possible latitude in examining and cross-examining the witness, Florence Kinrade, and he availed himself of that latitude to the uttermost, examining her into the most minute details of her life, whether relevant or irrelevant, connected or not connected with the matter of the said inquest, and no objection was taken thereon.

On both examinations the examinations were so severe that the witness fainted at the completion thereof, and on the second occasion the examining counsel by his questions, in my judgment, practically charged said Florence Kinrade with the murder of her sister.

On the nineteenth day of March another sitting of the inquest took place, when the Crown asked for an adjournment for about one month, and between that day and the first day of April, 1909, no intimation was given, as I am informed and verily believe, to Florence Kinrade or myself that it was desired she should appear again for examination.

On April 21st Mr. Washington wrote to Mr. Thomas L. Kinrade, father of Florence Kinrade, a letter in the following words: "We may require further evidence from Miss Kinrade and Mrs. Kinrade at the inquest to-morrow night. Will you be good enough to see that they are on hand when they are needed?"

On the twenty-second, when the inquest was resumed, the representative of the Crown did not appear till half-past eight, though the inquest was called for eight o'clock, and then, after examining two of three unimportant witnesses, about nine o'clock counsel for the Crown called Florence and Mrs. Kinrade, and when they did not appear, he asked for an adjournment to compel them to attend.

It has been stated on several occasions when Florence Kinrade was examined, and I believe that she was asked every possible question relating to the matter in question (besides innumerable irrelevant other questions) that could be asked.

She went over the same ground practically on both occasions, and as I recall the evidence, she swore that she had told everything that she knew in connection with the case, and in my opinion it is an abuse of the process of the court to insist upon calling her again.

CRITICISES CORONER. The coroner did not exercise any control over counsel whatever, allowed him to examine the witness without any restriction, and to keep her on the witness stand for a time beyond all physical endurance, and, in my opinion, instead of it being an examination, it was torture, and on both occasions the coroner should have adjourned the inquest, on the first occasion to allow her to rest, and on the second to see that she was suffering from physical and nervous weakness—weakness from the beginning to the end of the examination.

The court room was crowded with newspaper reporters from all over the United States and Canada. It was impossible for the witness to get over to the witness stand without climbing up behind the desk and chair of the coroner. The place was overheated and badly ventilated, and the nocturnal investigation was carried on under the most distressing and unfair conditions. It represented a theatrical spectacle more than a judicial enquiry, even the telegraph companies instruments being set up in the building in order to carry the sensation over the country, and all reports were printed in almost every paper in the country.

On the 23rd day of April, Florence Kinrade was called as a witness to attend. On advice of counsel, she did not attend at the sitting of the inquest. After evidence was given proving the service of the subpoena, the counsel for the Crown proposed that a bench warrant be issued, and without giving counsel for Florence Kinrade an opportunity of replying or explaining the absence of Florence Kinrade, the coroner immediately replied: "I will grant the request."

As the coroner and Crown counsel were closeted from eight o'clock until 8.30, it was evident that they had arranged for the issue of the bench warrant, and the time to which the inquest would be adjourned. This inquest was opened at 8.30. The counsel for Florence Kinrade thereupon stated to the coroner that Florence Kinrade was acting on advice of counsel, that he had exhausted his authority, and had no power to bring her there again, and telling him that he had no authority to issue a bench warrant, to adjourn the inquest for a reasonable time, to allow such application to be made.

After this application was made counsel for the Crown opposed it on the ground that it was not made in good faith, and urged the coroner not to grant the request, although he gave no reason why it should not be granted other than the statement that counsel was not acting in good faith. Counsel for Florence Kinrade, thereupon addressing the coroner, assured him that he was acting in good faith, and hoped that he would not be hectored into acting unreasonably. The coroner immediately presented this as a reflection upon himself, and stated that he had already subpoenaed Miss Kinrade, and she having failed to obey the summons, he must issue a warrant. The inquest then closed.

"Every once in a while some florist put some odd colored blossoms in his window as an extra attraction to 'the display,'" said a chairman. "I just noticed one down street. It consisted of a bunch of impossibly green carnations. Now anybody who wants to have any of these freak flowers can get them by buying some kind of aniline dye in color desired. Carnations are the easiest to color, white ones, of course. Put their stems in a glass filled with ink. Their stems are soft, and in a short while the larger veins of their petals are filled with the ink. Don't let them absorb too much color, they are prettier with just so much. Then remove them and put them in a vase of salt water. Lilies of the valley lend themselves to this scheme also; in fact, any white, soft stemmed flower may be used."

White Flowers Easy to Dye. During the cattle plague of 1866 a farmer who had lost a number of his cows grew so depressed that he fully persuaded himself he had also contracted the disease. The medical man whom he consulted tried in vain to laugh him out of his fears, but subsequently, being fond of a joke, pretended to agree with the patient's views, and solemnly told him if he would attend to his instructions he would be cured. He then gave the farmer a prescription, which he directed should be taken to a neighboring druggist, but when the latter opened the envelope and read the contents he was as much started as the farmer. For the prescription was as follows: "This man has the cattle plague. Take him into the back yard and shoot him, according to act of Parliament." Needless to say, the cure was instantaneous. From the Dundee Scotland Advertiser.

White Flowers Easy to Dye. During the cattle plague of 1866 a farmer who had lost a number of his cows grew so depressed that he fully persuaded himself he had also contracted the disease. The medical man whom he consulted tried in vain to laugh him out of his fears, but subsequently, being fond of a joke, pretended to agree with the patient's views, and solemnly told him if he would attend to his instructions he would be cured. He then gave the farmer a prescription, which he directed should be taken to a neighboring druggist, but when the latter opened the envelope and read the contents he was as much started as the farmer. For the prescription was as follows: "This man has the cattle plague. Take him into the back yard and shoot him, according to act of Parliament." Needless to say, the cure was instantaneous. WANT STATION.

One Needed in Beamsville and Jordan District. Deputation Before Board of Railway Commissioners.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Toronto, April 27.—E. A. Lancaster, M. P., appeared before the Board of Railway Commissioners to present the plea of the fruit farmers of Beamsville and Jordan district for another station in that district on the Grand Trunk Railway. The application was backed up by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, represented by the Hon. James Duff. The railway objected on the grounds that a station was not only impracticable at that point, but unnecessary and unprofitable.

Chairman Mabee doubted whether the board had power to order the station. "Supposing," said Mr. Lancaster, "that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway undertook to run from Winnipeg to Calgary without stopping, would you not have power to interfere?" Commissioner MacLean—"That's a subsidized road."

C. J. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, pointed out that the Provincial experimental fruit farm was located near this spot. Unless the G. T. R. located a station between Jordan and Beamsville the work of the fruit farm would be seriously handicapped. H. S. Peart, director of the farm, added a few statistics to show the importance of the district.

M. F. Rittenhouse was also a witness. Mr. Rittenhouse is an interesting character. He was born on the Niagara Peninsula, but spent his youth in Chicago, and has returned to the fruit district to spend the rest of his life and invest his fortune. He lives near Jordan, and he made a gift of the experimental farm to the Ontario government. He has spent a great deal of money in road building and other public improvements, outside the line of taxes. Naturally he wants the best possible railway facilities, and he told the commissioners so to-day. Other fruit growers of the district offered the railway property for a station site.

Superintendent Brownlee said that the station demanded would cost $3,600 altogether. It would necessitate the installation of four switches, and switches were always an element of danger on a line where twenty trains a day passed through on an average. "And the time is not far distant," said Mr. Brownlee, "when a four-track road will be required and laid from Hamilton to Niagara Falls. It will then be necessary to decrease rather than increase stations."

Mr. Lancaster suggested that the people of the locality interested might raise sufficient money to pay for the station for a time, and that a great deal of cost of erecting a station, and a great deal of money would be conserved. Chairman Mabee suggested that the Ontario Government was interested in a test case might be made as to the jurisdiction of the court in the way of ordering a station on the line, and that the commissioners will consider the case.

OXYGEN FOR ATHLETES. An English physician returning before the London Institute on the use of oxygen in athletics said that athletes used up their oxygen faster than inhaling air could supply it. The beat of the heart and pulse was reduced and the blood pressure raised after inhaling oxygen. He had induced two runners to experiment, and they overran their own records after taking oxygen. He thought taking the gas before an athletic event would lead to record breaking.

All athletes are exhausting their hearts by using up oxygen faster than they can replace it, and their hearts are damaged for want of it. If they took oxygen before, during and after the game the heart, he said, would be restored and they would not suffer the ill effects of their exertions.

AN INSTANTANEOUS CURE. During the cattle plague of 1866 a farmer who had lost a number of his cows grew so depressed that he fully persuaded himself he had also contracted the disease. The medical man whom he consulted tried in vain to laugh him out of his fears, but subsequently, being fond of a joke, pretended to agree with the patient's views, and solemnly told him if he would attend to his instructions he would be cured. Not all followers of racing are thrillless, if the remark is well founded with which a Kentuckian greeted the announcement of the intended coming to Toronto of a certain well known owner.

Frank Murphy, of Toronto, started from this city this morning at 10 o'clock to run to Toronto, and, if possible, make a new record for the distance.

From London Advertiser: Moderation in Maratons is the slogan of some American papers, but as the game will be confined largely to Indians in this country, it will not hurt much, as most of them die anyway at about the half-way station.

London Morning Leader: I wonder how this Royal patronage of football strikes those who never lose an opportunity of deriding the "muddled" and his game.

Toronto Globe: The Hamilton Marathon A. C. cannot be accused of lack of modesty. All it asks for is a A. A. U. date of July 1st for a Marathon race this year, and May 24th in all the years to come.

MAN RUN HORSE TRAIN

From H.J.C. Track to Woodbine.

O.J.C. Can Not Take Care of All Gallopers.

New Barns Building at the H. J. C.

The officers of the Ontario Jockey Club are considering the question of running a horse train from the H. J. C. track to Toronto during the spring meeting at the Woodbine. The reason for this is that there is not nearly enough accommodation at or near the Woodbine for all the gallopers that will be shipped for the big meeting.

A new 30' tall stable is being built at the H. J. C. track, and the directors at a meeting yesterday decided to build at once another one of the same size. The stables will be built at the east side of the track.

The day course is in fine shape now, and the horses quartered at the track are being galloped daily. Barney Cole has nine head, including two King's Platers. The Platers are Tom Crook's Doctor Glenasha, and G. Maggoch's Good Likeness, a Stogram cast-off that Johnny Campbell, of Burlington, tried hard to win last season.

DID HE BRIBE THE UMPIRES?

New York, April 27.—According to an official bulletin received by all organized baseball clubs, including the New York Nationals, New York Americans and the Brooklyn Nationals, the much-disputed man who tried to bribe Umpires Klem and Johnston to throw the deciding game at the Polo grounds last fall between the Chicago Cubs and the Giants to the latter team is Dr. Joseph M. Creamer, of this city.

The matter today was emphatically denied that he was the guilty man. The affidavits of Klem and Johnston tell a remarkable story. The one signed by Klem is particularly sensational. It sets forth that just before the final play-off game between the Cubs and the Giants at the Polo grounds, "a man named Dr. Creamer, the official physician of the Giants," met Klem, physician of the Cubs, and offered him a bunch of greenbacks to throw the game.

"Any talk of my trying to avoid Jeff Johnson when he was in New York is nonsense. I knew I was in town, I announced from the stage I was ready to meet him, and as I am the champion, I think I did my share without going around looking him up."

"When I left here on my way East," he said, "I said I would meet anyone in the world who covers my forfeit. The first one to do it was Ketchel. Corbett had his money up, but he put it up after Ketchel had first sent Britt out here and secured my consent for a meeting. Ketchel failed to put up his money and I agreed to take on Corbett. Then Britt posted his and of the money and as I had already given him my word, I took on the bout."

"Everybody that met me in New York or Pittsburgh can tell you that I have always stuck to my first statement—that I wanted to fight Jeff more than any other man in the world. I want to keep my title. I told McIntosh to go ahead and arrange a meeting, and that his offer of $50,000 was satisfactory to me. In other words, I made him a free agent in the matter."

"He did everything he could to reach Jeff. He tried to arrange an interview or get him on the phone. Jeff finally said over the wire that he didn't care to discuss business with him until he knew whether he could get back in town."

"What was the use of my following him around town? It wasn't Jack Johnson that failed to do his end of making a match. I'm glad Jeff will meet me, but I don't know just when he will do it."

Johnson said that he had kept at light work when away and that he was taking on little or no weight.

Toronto, April 27.—Chairman J. E. Willows has lost no time in getting to work on the projected revival of interest in the sport of cycling, and called his committee together yesterday. The other members in attendance were Messrs. H. B. Howson, G. S. Peary, W. G. Maclelland, R. Falconer, A. E. Walton and James Poole. Messrs. Maclelland, Falconer and G. L. McKay were appointed a subcommittee on tracks and locations, and Messrs. Willows, Howson and Poole will look after the matter of enlisting the support of the manufacturers and the leading dealers.

Knocking Down the Pins

At the H. B. & A. C. last night an interesting game was played between two teams of the Commercial Club, the "Yanigans" and the "Regulars." The Yanigans turned the tables on the Regulars this time, and the standing is now one match each. The deciding game will be played next week. The teams were banqueted in the cafe parlors after the game, and this gave the boys an opportunity to hurl the usual challenges which will help to make the final game the most interesting of the series.

An interesting bowling match took place at MacDonald's alleys last night between the Scamps and the Japs, the former winning two out of three games. The scores:

Scamps—J. Burke 98, 149, 139, 386; D. Orr 128, 86, 81, 205; J. Jarvis 118, 129, 134, 381; A. Semmens 151, 114, 152, 417; C. McFarland 136, 177, 180, 493. Total 631, 655, 686, 1972.

Japs—G. Baker 107, 158, 114, 379; W. Frid 142, 150, 139, 431; A. Holman 132, 147, 145, 424; E. McFarland 134, 120, 103, 357; A. McFarland 102, 112, 114, 328. Total 617, 687, 615, 1919.

There is no falling off in the interest in the two-men tournament at the Brunswick alleys. Fred Smith and B. Johnson are in the lead with 1,137. Following are the scores made yesterday:

Owens 188, 116, 141, 445; Gray 166, 166, 166, 498.

Mitchell 175, 161, 147, 483; Peacock 121, 182, 128, 431.

R. Johnson 178, 185, 170, 533; Mitchell 181, 132, 172, 485.

Peacock 170, 162, 180, 512; McFarley 118, 200, 157, 475.

Tom Longboat at Welland House at St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, April 27.—Tom Longboat is at the Welland, accompanied by Sol Mintz, of Hamilton, who has the Indian in charge for his preparation for the coming race with Shrub in Montreal on May 8th.

Longboat expressed his confidence that he would trim Shrub, though the latter did win from St. Yves in New York. Tom proposed to follow the bats and rest at the Welland, then go into active training for the purpose of going after Shrub's scalp.

Mintz called on Tom Coley, who is to run in the Marathon Derby at Toronto next Saturday.

"Will you beat Shrub?" Longboat asked. "Sure I will," said Longboat. "I ran fifteen miles in 1:24 in the Montreal Star race at Montreal, and Shrub's time Saturday night was 1:26. Barring something turning up which I can't see now, the race will be run May 8th at Montreal, and I'll beat Shrub."

SELLER'S PLEA. Toronto, April 27.—The list of entries for the Canadian Marathon Derby close at last night, and at the last moment two well-known long distance runners turned professionals to enter the contest at the Island next Saturday. Percy Sellen and Charlie Petch were the new ones. It is noted that the latter broker with the C. A. A. some time ago, and did his running as a Federation man, but he never gave up his amateur standing until this great contest tempted him into the "pro" ranks. Sellen made his reputation as a five-mile and ten-mile runner. It is a distinct loss to the amateur ranks. In 1907 he twice established a record for his favorite distance, and then went in to see what he could do at the Marathon number of miles. Sellen is rather an erratic runner, but if he proves to be at his best next Saturday, and his friends say that he will, he may be counted upon to chase the best of them home. The sale of reserved seats began yesterday at Love's, 180 Yonge street.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

Before an audience that completely filled Association Hall last evening the celebrated Kneisel quartette maintained its reputation as the very best band of musicians, in its line of work, on the American continent. This quartette, consisting of Franz Kneisel, first violin; Julius Roentgen, second violin; Louis Svecanski, viola, and Willem Willeke, violoncello, devotes its efforts to the best of music, and to spend an evening with it is to gain an inspiration. The quartette's interpretation of the masterpieces of Mozart or the other great composers of old or modern days gives the purest enjoyment. It leaves nothing to criticize; everything to emulate in the musician; everything to long for in the non-musician. The gathering that heard Kneisel's last night was an eminently musical one, and it took supreme enjoyment out of the numbers presented. These began with a Mozart group, ex-

"Canzonetta" in E flat major, by Mendelssohn, and the "Sella solista's" encore number was a berceuse by Renard.
FOR TO-NIGHT'S RECITAL.

MISS EDITH MILLER.

quisitely played, included two Debussy movements and two by Greig, with a cello solo by Mr. Willeke. To describe the quartette's work would be a hard task. They play as one man, so perfect is their action, their balance of tone, their light and color work and their intonation. The audience enjoyed the Mozart music greatly, and got from the musicians an encore. After the Greig number they applauded and applauded until Mr. Kneisel and his fellow musicians had come in and bowed their acknowledgments two or three times. The solo number of Mr. Willeke was superb—his execution of the Jeral "Gypsy Dance" simply marvelous—and was most heartily encored. Mr. Roentgen played the piano accompaniment. The programme was:
 Mozart . . . quartette in G major
 Allegro vivace assai.
 Menuetto (Allegretto).
 Andante cantabile.
 Molto allegro.

Claude Debussy. Two movements from quartette in G minor

AT BENNETT'S THEATRE.
 One of the most spectacular acts ever seen at Bennett's Theatre was presented there yesterday, afternoon and evening, by Gird's International Zouaves—seven teen soldiers. First, an extraordinary exhibition of team drill and fancy and counter-marching is given, then gun drill and the handling of various types of machine guns, picturesque incidents in camp life are depicted, and a sham battle makes a fitting climax to an extraordinary act. Some very elaborate scenery is used in the act, which is a real thriller.

Offered for Public Subscription

7% Cumulative Preference Stock
 1,000 Shares at a Par Value $100 With a Bonus of 20 Per Cent
 in Common Stock

The Slater Shoe Company, Limited

Authorized Capital	$1,000,000
Common Stock Authorized and Issued	$500,000
Preference Stock Authorized	500,000
Preference Stock Paid Up	200,000

One Thousand (1,000) Shares of Slater Cumulative Preferred Stock is now offered for Public Subscription with a Bonus of 20% in Slater Common Shares which will make the Capital Preferred paid in and subscribed $300,000; Capital Common Authorized and issued $500,000 and leaving in the Treasury Preferred Shares $200,000.

This is the best known and one of the most progressive and prosperous of the Canadian Industrial Corporations, and it is seldom that investors are offered such an opportunity to secure a sound and substantial dividend-paying stock with a bonus of 20 per cent. of common stock.

The Subscription Books will be open until Wednesday, May 15th, and shares will be allotted in the order in which subscriptions are received. As most of the recent stock issue has been taken up by the Directors and Shareholders, only the 1,000 shares of the 7 per cent. preferred stock is offered to the public.

This 7 per cent. preferred stock is both cumulative and preferred as to Assets, Capital and Dividends. Dividends are payable quarterly on January 1st, April 1st, July 1st and October 1st. The Company has no bonded indebtedness.

This great industrial corporation has for its Directors and Shareholders some of the most careful and successful business men and investors in Canada.

The authorized capital of the Slater Shoe Company is $1,000,000. The business was founded over forty years ago (in 1869) by the late George T. Slater, and the Company has been under the continuous management of his son, Charles E. Slater, the President and General Manager of the Slater Shoe Company, Limited.

Dividends have been declared and paid regularly on the Slater Preference stock.
 To those who understand the organization of a large manufacturing company, and the substantial value of a prosperous going concern, with its good-will, Trade Marks, and its World-wide reputation, the investment offered must be both attractive and profitable.

In the first five years after the organization of the Slater Shoe Company in 1869 the sales were $1,823,847. In the second five year period, or, to be exact, in four years and eleven months, the sales were $3,390,822; or nearly double the first five-year period.

In the "depression year" of 1908, the sales, like those of all the Canadian industrials, showed a decrease. But the Company have completed arrangements to double their factory capacity, and thus be in a position to meet the constantly increasing demand for their high-class shoes.

The new capital is required for the enlargement of the present factory and for the development of the growing business of the concern.

The present Board of Directors of the Slater Shoe Company, Limited, is composed of the following gentlemen:

- CHARLES E. SLATER, President and General Manager.
- WILLIAM STARKE, Vice-President (President of Starke-Seybold, Limited, Montreal).
- JAMES W. WOODS, President of Woods, Limited, Ottawa.
- ANSON McKIM, President of A. McKim, Limited, Montreal.
- LT.-COL. ROBERT STARKE, of Starke-Seybold, Limited, Montreal.
- WILLIAM SMITH, gentleman, Montreal.
- W. F. BORLAND, Guardian Insurance Co., Montreal.
- J. NELSON McKIM, of A. McKim, Limited, Montreal.

Subscription list opens to-day at the office, of the following:

gerty's Father," was presented by Thos. J. Ryan, Mary Richfield & Co. The sketch has to do with a hard working Irishman—a hod carrier—whose charming daughter marries a man of wealth. The daughter tries to make a "gentleman" out of the old man, but the father does not take kindly to his change of condition. Mr. Ryan, in the titular role, kept the audience in roars of laughter. Another very good act was presented by the two Heim children—a boy and a girl. The boy is a clever little comedian, and made a big hit. Mr. Evans and Leo appeared in a clever dancing and singing sketch.

George B. Reno & Co. appeared in a burlesque military act, which was very amusing. The act was in striking contrast to that of the Zouaves, and tended to give the bill a strong military flavor.
 Kretore, in a musical novelty act; Princess Waldemoroff, Russian dancer, and new moving pictures completed the bill, which should draw big houses all week—the closing week of the season.
DICK KNOWLES TO-NIGHT.
 Mr. R. G. Knowles, whom everybody knows here as an old Hamilton boy and a brilliant entertainer, will open a three nights' engagement at the Grand this evening, when he will appear in a humorous description of his travels through London and rural England, all of which will be illustrated by moving pictures. To-morrow night Mr. Knowles will take his audience through Auld Scotland to New Zealand, via Ceylon, and on Thursday evening through Ireland as it is. Speaking of Mr. Knowles' entertainment the New York Sun says: Knowles has a personality that cannot fail to affect his hearers pleasantly. His value in his half-humorous, half-serious, wholly entertaining descriptions of life in many lands is marked, and in consequence the lecturer never fails to hold an audience from start to finish. His aim, he says, is amusement with a purpose. If the purpose is to educate pleasantly, Knowles has hit the bullseye.
A POWERFUL DRAMA.
 The famous drama "Parsifal," which left such a favorable impression here last season, comes to the Grand next Saturday, matinee and night. A writer says: "Parsifal" teaches the lesson which is the luminous soul of the noblest religions. It tells us that not only is love the greatest thing in the world, but that it is the only light that leads the wanderer to the throne of the Infinite. "Parsifal" points the way to the heights, not merely for the individual, but for society as well. All nations and civilization which are not destined to suffer eclipse, must tread more solemn truth confronts mankind to-day than is taught by the victorious struggle of "Parsifal." A people, nationality or civilization may seem to flourish for a time through might of force, as did Babylon of old, as did the empire of the Medes and Persians, as did Rome as she approached the summit of her world-wide rule, as did Spain in the fifteenth century. But all triumphs based upon force and injustice, on victories won by love, are only for the day. If history teaches any lesson in clear and unmistakable language, it is that whatsoever is sown shall be reaped—and the nation or civilization which disregards the eternal demands of justice, freedom and fraternity will sooner or later follow the pathway trodden by Egypt, Assyria, Greece, Rome and Spain. Victory to be permanent must depend on the cohesion of love, which is ever creative and constructive, and not on the disintegrative influence of force and hate. It must do right because it is right. It must imitate the sun, which bathes the world in light and warmth; the violet, the lily and the rose, whose fragrance and beauty delight the senses and bring into the human heart a message from the Infinite.

"BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK."
 "Beverly of Graustark" comes to the Grand next Monday. "Beverly of Graustark" is a sequel to Graustark. George Barr McCutcheon's romantic novel, which established as America's most popular writer of romantic fiction. In addition to the characters appearing in Graustark, several new ones are introduced in Beverly, the most important of course, being Beverly Calhoun, of Virginia, who is accompanied on her visit to Graustark by Aunt Fanny, her old colored nurse and servant. All dramatists agree that a good love story is one of the most essential qualifications of a successful play, and no more charming love story was ever told than that of Beverly Calhoun and Prince Dantana, who woos and wins the impulsive American girl, in the guise of a poor goat hunter, before she is aware of his position. Jessie Busley will appear as "Beverly." Seats will be put on sale Friday at the box office.

A SLOW GROWTH.

The English Public Schools Are Always Unique.

The public school is an institution distinctly English in its origin and development. Some writers have maintained that it is an outgrowth of English life and civilization, and others with equal positiveness have declared that England has been made by her public schools. The truth is, both classes in a measure are correct, for the school is not a result of attainment along a certain fixed line. The more correct figure is that of an are in a circle. That English ideals, civilization, traditions have produced these great schools is true; but it is equally true that they have created or modified the traditions, civilization and ideals, and each in turn has become both cause and effect. The public school is at once a growth and an outgrowth, an expression and an impression, a starting place and a goal.
 The manifest excellencies of these great schools have led to many attempts to imitate or even to transplant them to other lands; but even the sincere flattery of imitation has not succeeded in more than a weak dilution, and as for transplanting—one might as well try to transplant a London fog. The schools are as distinctively English as are the climate and soil of the British Isles. Suggestive they certainly are, a careful study of them may be inspiring, but they can be reproduced on other soil no more than Florida oranges can be grown in Vermont.

What is a public school? The question is natural and the answer well-nigh impossible. Even the head master smiles at the oft-heard query, but he seldom attempts to give a categorical reply. He knows, but it is difficult, indeed, almost impossible, for him to impart his knowledge to you—doubtful if you are an American.
 There is a certain Act of Parliament which seems to imply that these schools are limited to Eton, Harrow, Rugby, Winchester, Westminster and Shrewsbury; but these names by no means complete the list.—From "The Great Public Schools of England," by Everett T. Tomlinson, in the May Scribner.

COTE ST. PAUL EXPLOSION.

Two of the Victims Dead—Third in Serious Condition.
 Montreal, April 26.—Two persons are now dead as a result of the boiler explosion which took place yesterday in the basement of the Notre Dame convent at Cote St. Paul. They are Florence Nauha, twelve years old, a girl attending the school, and Bernadotte Dubreuil, nineteen years of age, the furnace man. The Sister Superior of the convent is also in a critical condition.

ONLY WAY OUT.

Little Mary hated to say "vinegar" because she had been laughed at so often for her queer pronunciation of the word. So when her mother sent her to the store to buy some, she presented the jug to the clerk and said: "Smell of that and give me a quart."

JP BUILDING.

Will Spend $95,000 For New Collegiate.

Alleged to Have Threatened to Hang Old Man.

Hotels Had to Close—Rev. Dr. Gee Preached in Darkness.

(Special Despatch to the Times.)
 Brantford, April 27.—Brantford rate-payers by a vote of 1,124 to 380 decided yesterday to have a new Collegiate Institute building. The electorate was given the choice of two sites, the present George street one near the Grand Trunk Railway and a new one on Brant avenue on the spacious grounds owned by Mr. John Hewitt, of Chicago. The decision was in favor of the latter by a vote of 975 to 438, although it cost $20,000 more. The new building will mean an outlay of $95,000. The vote was in the nature of a referendum, and the Council will authorize the issue of debentures.

ILL TREATMENT.
 An old man named Knight, who resides at Harrisburg, appeared here yesterday, charging two young men of the community with gross ill treatment. They were alleged to have taken the old fellow at the point of a revolver to a shed in the rear of his house, placed a rope around his neck and with threats of hanging, abused him to the point of desperation. Magistrate Livingston adjourned the case until Thursday, when several witnesses will be heard.

HOTEL TRADE SORE.
 The hotel keepers here yesterday were very much disgruntled over the action of the license inspector, who, acting on the advice of the city solicitor, ordered them to close up their establishments until an account of the voting progress. They claimed that merely property owners were voting, and this class forms a small percentage of the populace. The city solicitor, however, said the law was strict in this regard, and had to be enforced. The hotel keepers are talking of entering suits for damages because of the undue cessation of their licensed business.

RECEIVED JEWELS.
 A. B. McBride, Grand Master of the I. O. O. F., was a visitor with Gore Lodge here last night, when ex-Magistrate Woodruff received a Past Grand jewel, and veteran jewels were bestowed upon John Muirhead, A. E. Harley, John R. Allen and W. E. Long.

LIGHTS WENT OUT.
 For the third successive night at an impressive point in the pastor's sermon the electric lights were suddenly extinguished and the remainder of the sermon was finished by Rev. Dr. Gee in darkness. Fortunately the pastor was not accustomed to referring to his manuscript. The switch-room door had been locked previous to the service, but the lock had been found picked at the conclusion, and it was discovered that church officials that some boy disturbers had been creating the nuisance. The joke is on the pastor, however, who previously announced that the slightest vibrations in the church caused a disturbance of the electric connections on the switch board. It was thought that the deliriance of the eloquent passages of the discourse had caused the trouble.

A NEW CANAL.
 A proposal has originated at Selkirk to construct a canal joining Lakes Erie and Ontario, and the Brantford Board of Trade has invited a representative of that place to address a meeting to-night in this city. It is said that the scheme is feasible and has found much favor in the Selkirk district.

GENERAL NOTES.
 Court Endeavor, A. O. F., will pay a fraternal visit by special Riald car to Hamilton to-night.
 At the City Council meeting last night a new by-law limiting the hours of local bowling alleys to 11 o'clock p. m. was passed. The measure also applies to pool rooms.
 In spite of the fact that the price of wheat is being quoted at $1.10 locally, buyers here state that no wheat is available for purchase in Brant county, and all has been cleaned out.
 Much sympathy is expressed here at the death of Charles Campbell, head of the Grand Union Hotel Company, which controls the Kerry House in this city.
 C. A. Depey, who was charged with a relative list, who returned here intoxicated after a spill in Dundas, was fined $12.85 by Magistrate Livingston, who held that it made no difference where an Indian lister secured his liquor.

TWO YEARS FOR BIGAMY.
 Walter Blizard Pleads Guilty at St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, April 26.—Walter Blizard, on trial before Judge Carman on a charge of bigamy, secured several remands, chiefly because of the difficulty of obtaining the evidence of Rev. William C. Gates, Lockport, N. Y., said to have conducted the ceremony that united Blizard to Alice Krick, previous to which the accused had gone through another ceremony with Mrs. Goff at Niagara Falls, N. Y. After being brought to trial it was discovered that before the ceremony with Mrs. Goff, Blizard had been married to a Miss Maloney, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and that the real wife was now living in Chicago. Blizard sent word to the Crown Attorney that he wished to change his plea to guilty, and desired a speedy trial. He was accordingly brought into court this afternoon, pleaded guilty of bigamy, and was sentenced to two years in the Kingston Penitentiary.

SHERIFF MAY BE HANG AAN.
 New Brunswick Official Considers Radcliffe's Fee Exorbitant.

Andover, N. B., April 26.—Unless he decides to abandon his present intention, this week Sheriff James Tibbits, of Andover, will perform the double execution on Tuesday, May 4, when Tony Aroscha and Leon Seppell, confessed murderers of Edward Green, will be hanged. As he believes the fee for hanging Radcliffe's services is exorbitant, as double the amount of a single execution is asked, Sheriff Tibbits says he intends to act as executioner himself.

NEXT.
 A broken pitcher was offered as testimony that Ephraim Jackson, the colored prisoner, had whacked his wife on the head.
 "The testimony doesn't hold water," said the learned judge.—From the May Bohemian.

SULTAN MAY BE DEPOSED.

His Brother Mehemmed Reshad Effendi May Succeed.

Young Turks Keep Guns Trained on Yildiz Palace.

Sultan May Save His Throne For $50,000,000.

London, April 26.—A Times special from Vienna says: The Constantinian correspondent of the Nieuw Prentze was informed at midday by Mahmud Chekret Pasha that, for the present, the Sultan will not be deposed. He is likely to be detained as nominal ruler until further notice, and will, in the meantime, defray from his private means the cost of the advance of the Macedonian troops upon Constantinople, and make to the Ottoman nation a present of the greater part of his fortune, amounting to some £50,000,000. The walls and barracks of the Yildiz Palace are being demolished, and the garrison limited to one company, which will be supplied daily by regular regiments.

The Daily Mail has received the following despatch from Constantinople: Parliament met in Istanbul today for the first time since the mutiny on April 13. The session was secret, though it is understood the House considered what measures would be necessary to secure the Sultan's abdication. There was a strong opinion in favor of Yussuf Izzeddin, the nephew of the Sultan, as Abdul Hamid's successor, but the law of succession cannot be set aside without serious risks. Mehemmed Reshad, the heir-apparent, is an amiable nonentity. Abdul Hamid remains at the palace hopeful that new trouble will pass and leave him untouched. Though his garrison has surrendered, Parliament suspects that a guard of a few thousand strong is still hidden in his walled citadel. The palace guns, therefore, remain trained on the Yildiz.

ABDUL'S DOWNFALL IMMINENT.

Constantinople, April 26.—The deposition of Sultan Abdul Hamid appears now to be certain, and the one hundred and one guns saluting Mehemmed Reshad Effendi as the new ruler of the empire probably will be heard before the next Salamiik on Friday. The dignitaries of the church are little for Abdul Hamid, as does the Committee of Union and Progress, but the higher clergy are seeking to curb the agitation of the enthusiasts of the Mohammedan League. Senators and Deputies who have incurred among the Ulema find them in different degrees favorable to the Sultan's removal.

A caucus of Senators and Deputies today determined to make an effort to compel him to abdicate under ecclesiastical law, by the terms of which a decree may be issued by the Sheikh-ul-Islam, the highest authority of Mohammedanism next to the Sultan, pronouncing the Sultan incapable of ruling.

The grounds upon which the issuance of a canonical receipt will be demanded are that the Sultan's supremacy is harmful to the Church, contrary to the sacred law and unjust to the Turkish people. The programme as agreed upon by the committee is that a demand shall be made for the abdication of Abdul Hamid simultaneously from the highest court of the Church, from the National Assembly, and from the military chiefs. The Sultan will be offered a palace and liberal allowances.

THE HEIR-APPARENT.

Mehemmed Reshad Effendi, the heir-apparent to the throne, who would probably be selected for a prisoner for 25 years in the large palace and gardens not far from the Yildiz Kiosk. Since the July revolution, however, he has often been in the streets of Constantinople, looking from the balcony of the palace, which must have been strangely interesting to him. He is grey-haired and not very strong, to judge from his appearance. He is 65 years of age and well-educated, although inexperienced in the affairs of the world.

SURRENDER OF THE ALBANIANS.

This afternoon witnessed the final act in the siege of the Yildiz. General Choket, commander of the Constitutionalists, overawing the Albanians into surrender. The force, which was composed of 200 men, was stationed in the Imperial palace. The Albanians were not engaged in the fighting on Saturday, but they persistently refused to lay down their arms. General Choket and six field pieces were placed in a prominent position above the palace. Other guns were disposed on the neighboring heights, while troops commanded all the approaches. The red flag continued, however, to fly defiantly until 2 o'clock, when the weather was dropping slowly down the flagpole, making place for the white token of surrender.

TEN THOUSAND PRISONERS.

The Salonikans show great severity. Many of the arrested sofas, credited with being reactionaries, have been brutally treated, and others, concerning whose loyalty there is doubt, have not entirely escaped. The vigorous search continues even into the European quarters. It is estimated now that at least 10,000 prisoners are in the hands of the Salonikans. Those liable to severe punishment, such as the rebellious Salonika chassans, have been securely roped. Among the civilians arrested in great numbers are the editor of the Mizan; Abdurrahman Effendi, Assistant Minister of Finance, and several high officials of the Porte. A number of reactionary newspapers have been suppressed.

ARMENIANS AND MOSLEMS.

Alexandretta, Asiatic Turkey, April 26.—Refugees who have made their escape from Deiruz, which is a small town not far from Alexandretta, bring most alarming accounts of the situation there. They affirm that 10,000 Armenians are beleaguered by 50,000 Moslems. The besieged are half starving, and the conditions within the walls of the city are pitiful. It is difficult for foreign residents here to credit these numbers.

The commanders of the British and other warships at this port have had under consideration the landing of a force to relieve the besieged town, which is within one day's march of Alexandretta, but they finally decided that they had no right to interfere in a purely internal affair, and the Governor declined to give his permission to the landing of an armed force.

If relieving forces were sent out in opposition to the Governor's wishes it would be equivalent to a declaration of war, and in addition the largest command would stand in great danger of being overwhelmed if they attempted to force their way against such immense odds.

USED A KNIFE.

Man Who Was Stabbed Gave His Assailant Sound Beating.

Belleville, April 26.—A serious stabbing affray took place during a row at the Lehigh Cement Works on Sunday afternoon, when Malcolm McMillan, a carpenter, of this city, and Steve Samson, a Hungarian, who acts as special constable among the Hungarians, had an altercation, with the result that McMillan was stabbed in the back with a jack-knife, the blade snapping off in the flesh. Notwithstanding his wound, McMillan went at his assailant and gave him such a beating that the man will be laid up for some time. The knife blade was extracted with difficulty. No arrests yet.

Rheumatism

Eats Up Strength Racks the Joints Prevents Sleep.

UNCHECKED—It Finally Strikes the Heart and Kills Its Victim.

It originates in the blood and develops most quickly in the system of persons who are run down and lacking in vitality. The only specific of ALL forms of Rheumatism is Ferruzone, which is perfect solvent for uric acid and a splendid stimulant for the kidneys and liver. No remedy is so successful as Ferruzone. It has never failed to cure, because it attacks the cause of the disease. It neutralizes the diastolic acid poisons, quickens the sluggish circulation, and relieves the system of all irritating matter. Every distressing symptom is cured, swollen muscles and aching joints are relieved of their pain. The disease will not return if once cured by Ferruzone, which does its work thoroughly. Unlike other treatments, Ferruzone does not depress the heart or weaken the nerves. It rebuilds the system, promotes better health, establishes good appetite, sound sleep and freedom from weakening pains and aches. The perfection of all rheumatic remedies is found in Ferruzone. It is a tablet form, easy to take, convenient to carry, guaranteed to cure, and costs only 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50 at all druggists; don't fail to test Ferruzone.

DRIVE AWAY WITH SAFE.

Calgary, April 26.—A remarkable burglary was committed last night during the great windstorm. The thieves entered the store of L. Turcotte out in the suburbs, hitched up his delivery horse to a rig and loaded the safe in it and drove out about a mile, where they broke it open, securing about $200. They then took the horse back to its stable.

The customs receipts at Montreal show a heavy increase.

THE DEBATE ON BUDGET.

Dr. Neely Criticizes Mr. Glen Campbell.

Mr. Scott Never Held Stock in Companies Named.

Capt. Wallace Pleads For Market Gardeners.

Ottawa, April 26.—The budget debate in the Commons entered upon its second week with about a score of speakers waiting to be heard, and progress was so slow as to preclude the possibility of a conclusion being reached before tomorrow night, if indeed then. Before Mr. McLean (South Huron) resumed the discussion an hour was occupied by miscellaneous matters.

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth introduced a bill to permit a member of the bar of the Yukon Territory to be appointed as a Judge of the Territorial Court in the event of a vacancy arising.

WATERS OF HECAETE STRAITS.

Mr. Borden called attention to a despatch in the Globe to the effect that the United States Government had applied several times to the British Ambassador to ascertain the attitude of the Canadian Government with reference to the waters of Hecate Straits, but had received no reply.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied there had been some correspondence on the subject, but what the position was at present he could not at the moment say.

Replying to Mr. Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised to bring down the order in council disallowing an act of the Ontario Legislature referred to in the Canada Gazette.

Hon. Mr. Fielding, in reply to Mr. Macdonnell, said the supplementary treaty with France had been approved by the French Senate, but had still to be approved by the French Chamber of Deputies. The latter body had adjourned for several weeks, but he anticipated that at an early date the supplementary treaty would be approved by the French Chamber of Deputies, and at the same time steps would be taken to present to the Dominion Parliament a measure for the approval of the new treaty.

MANITOBA GOVERNMENT SCORED.

Dr. Neely proceeded to castigate the Manitoba Government for their electioneering methods, declaring that justice had been prostituted. Mr. Campbell rose to a point of order and asked Dr. Neely to withdraw the expression.

Dr. Neely said that if Mr. Campbell had read the newspapers shortly after the election, he would have observed that the Attorney-General for Manitoba had been humiliated by having a substantial piece of boot leather applied to his anatomy (laughter) for the way in which he had interfered with the rights of the people. Mr. Campbell had also made a charge against a present member of the House, without mentioning his name. Why did he not rise in his place and charge that member with having been guilty of a corrupt practice? But what reliance could they place upon the statements of a man who was a confessed briber? Mr. Campbell had stated in his constituency that in order to get a close grazing lease through the Department of the Interior he had spent $2,000 in bribing a high official of the Department of the Interior.

Mr. Campbell again rose, and made a statement about having done nothing to prevent either a Liberal or a Conservative from making application for a lease. He added that Hon. Mr. Sifton and Mr. Burrows knew all about the matter to which he referred, and if they closed their eyes to the fact, as official, they were welcome to do so. Dr. Neely challenged Mr. Campbell to make good his statement. If the number for Dauphin knew that a grazing lease had been obtained by bribery, it was his duty as a member of Parliament to suggest the appointment of officers to ferret out combines and to prosecute them.

THE GERMAN SURTAX.

Mr. Armstrong devoted his speech to a denunciation of the German surtax, followed by a plea for closer relations with Germany.

Col. Warburton, one of the new members from Prince Edward Island, met Mr. Armstrong's argument by pointing out that the removal of the German surtax would necessarily affect the preference given to Britain, and that the responsibility for that surtax lay upon Germany herself. He refused to subscribe to the view that Canada should climb down from the position which she had been forced to take in regard to Germany.

Mr. Madden put in a strong plea for more protection for the coal industry in Nova Scotia, which he depicted as being in a languishing condition.

DR. NEELY DEFENDS PREMIER SCOTT.

Dr. Neely, one of the youngest members of the House, endeavored to debate by applying the rod to Mr. Glen Campbell for his attempt to besmirch the name of Hon. Walter Scott, Premier of Saskatchewan. The member for Dauphin repeatedly interrupted Dr. Neely, and appealed to the chair on points of order. Asked whether on his honor he believed that Hon. Mr. Scott did not get a stock certificate for services rendered to the Saskatchewan and Manitoba Land Company, Dr. Neely replied that he did not require to be put on his honor to give a true statement. "I will say, on my honor, if he likes, that I do not believe for one moment that Hon. Walter Scott, Premier of Saskatchewan, ever received one dollar of stock. I have the word of Hon. Walter Scott himself in this connection, and I have the sworn affidavit in my possession of the officers of the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company nor in the Saskatchewan Valley & Manitoba Land Company does Hon. Walter Scott hold, or ever did hold, one single dollar's worth of stock."

Mr. Campbell, rising amid cries of order, said a statement without proof. He had the declaration of Hon. Mr. Scott and the sworn declaration of the secretary and treasurer of the company referred to, and when these charges were made at the last provincial elections in Saskatchewan a Conservative came forward like a man and gave an affidavit that these statements were absolutely untrue.

Mr. Campbell again interrupted to say that Hon. Mr. Scott had taken no proceedings against the man who said he had handed him the stock. Dr. Neely explained that the reason why Mr. Scott did not prosecute the man and the newspapers withdrew the charge.

PRIMATE OF ALL CANADA.

Choice Falls Upon Archbishop of Rupert's Land.

Bishop of Ottawa the New Metropolitan.

Rev. White to be Bishop of Anglican Synod in China.

Toronto, April 27.—The Archbishop of Rupert's Land, the Most Rev. Samuel Pritchard Matheson, was yesterday afternoon chosen Primate of All Canada, and representative on the General Consultative Body of the Lambeth Conference by the Dominion House of Bishops in the Synod offices on Wellington street, thus consummating an event to wards which all Anglican Canada has been looking forward with the greatest interest. Another event, which was of scarcely less importance to Anglicans in eastern Canada was the election of the Right Rev. Charles Hamilton, Bishop of Ottawa, as Archbishop of Ottawa and Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada by the Provincial House of Bishops in the morning.

COMMUNION AT ST. JAMES'.

At 10 a. m. there was a holy communion service in St. James' Cathedral for the bishops. Bishop Hamilton, of Ottawa, conducted the service, assisted by Bishop Sweeney, of Toronto. After the service the bishops of Eastern Canada adjourned to the Synod offices for the purpose of electing the Metropolitan, which resulted as above.

Rev. W. M. Loucks, M. A., rector of St. Matthew's Church, Ottawa, was elected secretary and registrar of the House, in place of the Bishop of Ottawa. The House adopted a resolution of sympathy with the family of the late Archbishop Sewardman, of Toronto.

The Archbishop of Ottawa was appointed chairman of the Board of Examiners in Divinity Degrees. The House of Bishops of all Canada convened at 2.30 p. m. for the purpose of electing the Primate, and of attending to some other matters that called for attention.

Rev. Canon Phair, of St. John's College, Winnipeg, was appointed secretary of the House of Bishops, in the place of the Bishop of Toronto.

A BISHOP FOR CHINA.

Rev. William White, who was recommended by the Board of Missions to be appointed Bishop of the Anglican Synod of Canadian Clergy in China, was elected to that position yesterday afternoon by the House of Bishops, although his consecration will have to be arranged for in China.

The following were present at the meeting: Archbishop Matheson, of Rupert's Land, the newly-elected Archbishop of Ottawa, and the Bishops of Calgary, Quebec, Niagara, Algoma, Ontario, Huron, Yukon, Athabasca, Montreal and Toronto.

THE MEN AND THEIR SERVICES.

The new Primate, Most Rev. Samuel Pritchard Matheson, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, has had a long experience in Canada than most other bishops of the Anglican Church, having been born in Kildonan, Manitoba, in 1852, received his education in that province, and there was ordained into the Anglican Church in 1876. He became Archbishop of Rupert's Land in 1903, after having filled very many useful offices in the Church, more especially the post of Bishop of Ontario, headmaster and headmaster of St. John's College School in Winnipeg. He is an evangelical churchman.

The Bishop of Ottawa, Dr. Charles Hamilton, was born in 1834 in Hawkesbury, Ont., and was educated at Mount Allison University in Sackville, N. B., and at Oxford University in England. He was ordained in 1857, and has held the following appointments: Incumbent of St. Peter's Church, Quebec; rector of St. Matthew's Church, Quebec; was Bishop of Niagara, and was elected to the Bishopric of Ottawa on the creation of that diocese in 1896. Archbishop Hamilton is a representative of the high church.

Rev. William White is a graduate from Wycliffe of the year 1897. After spending a year as curate with Rev. T. R. O'Meara in Toronto, he went to China, where he has remained ever since. Rev. Mr. White is the third Wycliffe graduate to become a bishop.

THE WEST IS PLEASED.

Winnipeg, April 26.—The elevation of Archbishop Matheson to be the Primate of all Canada gives unbounded satisfaction here, as it will throughout the entire west, where he was born and raised.

What's the Matter with the Blood

It is thin and watery, the lips and gums are pale, the whole system is weak and run down. The food fails to supply the necessary nutrition and to get well you must use such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Your mirror shows you that the lips and gums are pale and the inner eyelids without color. What can be the matter? You are anemic. There is a deficiency in the quality and quantity of blood in your body. The food you eat fails to make good this shortage. You must use some preparation that will supply in condensed form the elements from which blood is made.

Now Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is exactly what is required in ailments of this nature, for it is above all else an enricher and builder of the blood. Women and girls are particularly subject to anemia. The feminine system demands an immense amount of blood in carrying on its functions, and unless the system is strong and well nourished there is likely to follow a bankruptcy in the blood supply.

Such symptoms as loss of appetite, lack of interest in the affairs of life, feelings of languor and fatigue, impaired digestion, shortness of breath, dizziness and fainting, cold hands and feet, heart palpitation and weakness and irregularities are an indication of anemia of bloodlessness.

Do not delay treatment, thinking that you will get all right, for anemia in its pernicious form is often incurable. Get all the sunlight and fresh air you can, and add to the richness of the blood by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You will soon note improvement under this treatment, and can prove the benefit derived by keeping a record of your increase in weight. 50c cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

ALL DROWNED.

Man, Wife and Horses Swept Away by Current of Black Creek.

Belleville, April 26.—While Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarke, two well-known residents of Elgin township, near Queensboro, were driving over the bridge at the Black Creek, the bridge gave way, precipitating them and their team and wagon into the rushing stream. As there is a very strong current at this point every spring Mr. Clarke and his wife were carried down stream and drowned. The horses met a similar fate. It was some hours later before the bodies were recovered.

The Toronto Canadian Club elected officers and heard an address from Colonel Hugh Clark, M. P. F., on "Imperial Defence."

BEATEN AND ROBBED

James Cox, of Blenheim, in Critical Condition.

Chatham, April 26.—His head crushed in, his pockets turned inside out, and to all appearances lifeless, James Cox, a prominent Blenheim man, was found by his brother about 3 o'clock on Sunday morning, lying at the door of his improvement shop. Closer investigation showed him to be alive, but he is still unconscious and his condition is critical. Cox had considerable money about him on Saturday night, though the exact amount is unknown. He was evidently struck violently from behind with a billy. There is no clue to his assailant, though tramps seen hanging around lately are suspected.

AGAINST WAR.

Rev. Dr. Eby Condemns the Strathcona Gift.

Toronto, April 27.—A strong protest against the war spirit was made last night at the seventy-sixth annual meeting of the Upper Canada Religious Tract and Book Society, held in Carlton Street Methodist Church. The principal speaker, Rev. Dr. Eby, after an earnest plea for support for the work of the society, said in part: "Here I wish to say a word about Canada. Lord Strathcona has given $250,000 to damn the Dominion with the war spirit of Europe. We want a Strathcona or some noble citizen to give a similar amount to counteract this war spirit, and to help show that Christ did not lie when He said, 'Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth.'"

Britain's greatest victories had been won by peace, said the speaker, and then he proceeded to urge that the awakening in the far east called for renewed effort to spread the Gospel among the people of eastern lands. If China was not conquered by the teachings of the Bible she would in the future never be conquered by the sword. The speaker was heartily applauded. He concluded by moving a resolution of gratitude to God for the success of the society's work.

This was seconded by Rev. Dr. Taylor of Cooke's Church, and adopted unanimously.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company estimates the cost of a viaduct in Toronto at $6,000,000 and the new Union Station at another $2,000,000. The $6,000,000 does not include land damages which the company is said to estimate at about $4,000,000.

A charge of murder has been laid against Fella Steff in connection with the death of Evan Simoff at Toronto.

INVASION OF RATS.

Southern Manitoba Afflicted With Pest of Rodents.

Winnipeg, Man., April 26.—In Southern Manitoba a most remarkable phenomenon has occurred in the shape of an invasion of rats. The pests are of a large size, and are most destructive. A despatch from Regina says they are doing a vast amount of damage just now, more especially among the chickens, the raising of which is quite an industry in the district. One farmer said it was almost impossible to tell the extent of the damage, as there is so much covered up that does not appear on the surface. One of the residents of the town showed a correspondent where they had gnawed holes in the studding and sills and rafters of a building. Very little more of the same work would make the building unsafe. They also worry hogs, houses and chickens.

Some idea of the numbers in which the rats infest this district can be gathered from the fact that in one trap set nine large rats were caught one night. The trap would hold no more. The next night seven were caught in the same trap, in the same place. Another resident caught nine with a large trap.

The town of Morris is also worried by the pest. Mr. R. C. T. Collins, one of the councillors, has interviewed the authorities on the subject. He says farmers around Morris are catching from 8 to 20 rats per day. The vermin are similar to those found in the Old Country. They are doing much damage to farmers' granaries, and also to dwellings. They first appeared in Emerson. Then they were found at Regina, and now they are at Morris, and are moving north. "We are overrun with rats," said Mr. Collins, in an interview. "They will reach your city this summer."

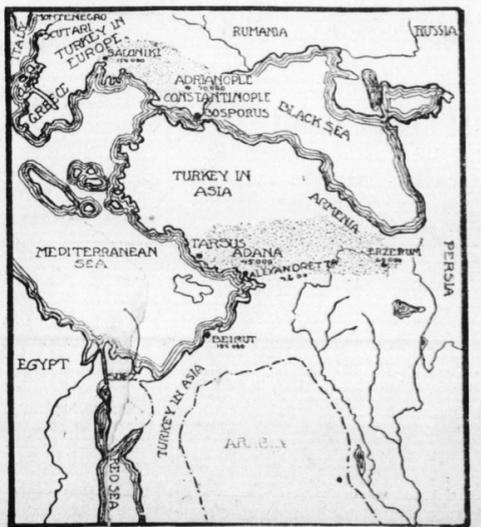

The matter is so important that the Deputy Minister of Agriculture has been sent south to make inquiries, and Messrs. Sanford Evans has announced that the city will take action.

Two Boys Were Drowned.

Vancover, B. C., April 26.—Fire broke out in a dwelling house in a lane near Hastings street, Westminster avenue, at 6 o'clock to-night. Two boys, aged six and four years, were burned to death. The parents went out shopping and left the children locked in a room. The firemen found them under the bed, with a dog dead.

WHERE THE TROUBLE IS.

WHERE THE TROUBLE IS.

HE FOUND NO CONSPIRACY,

Although the Rate of Interest Charged Was Enormous.

Prosecution of Sylvester Nelson Failed in Case.

Thomas Simpson Declined to Elect on Wounding Charge.

Judge Monk found Sylvester Nelson not guilty of the charge of conspiring, with some persons unknown, to commit the indictable offence of lending money at a larger rate of interest than the law allows...

Mr. Ferguson and his wife were the only witnesses. Ferguson said that he had been in the city about eight months, and that about 4 months ago he went to M. Malone and asked him for a loan of $50...

Witness swore that Mr. Malone told him that he and Nelson had had to adopt a new system in regard to the loaning of money...

Mr. Malone told him that $5 was all he made out of the transaction and that Nelson got the other $45 above the $50.

Mrs. Ferguson corroborated the evidence of her husband, and admitted that repayment had not been made.

"There has been a breach of the act," said Crown Attorney Washington, "as has been made clear by the evidence. I am satisfied that there is somebody else behind Nelson."

"Well, Mr. Washington, I think the onus is on the Crown to prove that such a scheme exists," said his Honor.

"That is just what we can't do," replied Mr. Washington, "we are trying to assume from the evidence that somebody is acting in concert with Nelson, and the inference must be drawn from the evidence."

"The way the charge has been drawn up is not sufficient to cover the case in its present condition," said his Honor, "I will have to discharge the prisoner."

Thomas Simpson, charged with intent to commit grievous bodily harm to Roscoe Wallace, through his lawyer, Mr. George S. Kerr, K.C., declined to elect, and was remanded until the next court of competent jurisdiction.

—In James Street Baptist Church lecture hall to-morrow evening Mr. W. A. Noble will give a report of the recent Laymen's Missionary Congress, held in Toronto.

—Arthur Sykes, 35 Princess street, left home a week ago and his parents have been unable to get any track of him since.

—Mrs. Ferguson corroborated the evidence of her husband, and admitted that repayment had not been made.

"There has been a breach of the act," said Crown Attorney Washington, "as has been made clear by the evidence. I am satisfied that there is somebody else behind Nelson."

"Well, Mr. Washington, I think the onus is on the Crown to prove that such a scheme exists," said his Honor.

"That is just what we can't do," replied Mr. Washington, "we are trying to assume from the evidence that somebody is acting in concert with Nelson, and the inference must be drawn from the evidence."

"The way the charge has been drawn up is not sufficient to cover the case in its present condition," said his Honor, "I will have to discharge the prisoner."

Thomas Simpson, charged with intent to commit grievous bodily harm to Roscoe Wallace, through his lawyer, Mr. George S. Kerr, K.C., declined to elect, and was remanded until the next court of competent jurisdiction.

All the members of the Roosevelt party are busy to-day sorting out their baggage and making it up into loads and otherwise preparing to start on more extended hunting expeditions.

FIVE CENTS IN QUESTION,

But It Resulted in Arrest of Two Men.

It Was Only a Case of the Price of a Drink.

Stratford Man Given a Chance to Get Back.

Only half a dozen names appeared on the Police Court roster this morning, and as there were no more serious offences than drunk and disorderly, Magistrate Jelfs was not delayed long.

Alexander Jackson, a Bethel Mission lodger, imbibed too freely last night, and, according to P. C. May, was in a condition of mental blank.

Harry Wigner, who also makes the Bethel his abode, was charged with vagrancy. P. C. May accused Wigner of trying to hold Jackson up. He said that early last night he heard Wigner saying to Jackson in a very stern voice, "Give me all you've got."

Being refused, he made another demand, but apparently having a poor idea of Jackson's finances, asked for only five cents. The scene occurred opposite the police station, and May decided to arrest both men.

Jack was increased on a charge of drunkenness, and Wigner as a vag. Both pleaded not guilty, and Jackson, when asked by the Magistrate if Wigner had tried to hold him up, replied that he had not.

"What was he doing to you?" asked the Magistrate.

"Nothing," replied Jackson.

"Didn't he ask you for a nickel?" "Yes, but that is nothing."

"That is nothing, eh? Is that the kind of men you are accustomed to hang around with? Men who are always trying to get the price of drinks out of you?"

Jack had nothing to say to this, and Wigner was told to take the stand. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of vagrancy, and said that he was working every day.

When asked if he had tried to hold Jackson up he replied in the negative, saying that Jackson had asked him if he was going for a drink, and he replied that he would if Jackson had a nickel he could give him.

"Oh, let them go," said the Magistrate. "It isn't of much importance."

Herbert Dickens, no address, strolled into Hamilton last night, and promptly began to get "skin full." When he appeared in the Police Court this morning he was perfectly satisfied that he had accomplished his object.

He said that he had just come from Stratford. "How long have you been in the county?" asked the coroner.

"About twelve months."

"How long in Hamilton?" "Just arrived last night."

Dickens was certainly inspired when he delivered the following: "Give me a chance to get out and I will get out."

"Well, get out," said the Magistrate. "We don't want such men as you in Hamilton."

The alacrity with which Dickens descended the court stairs evoked his intention of getting out of there at least as soon as possible.

Sidney Hardman, Barton street east, was charged by P. C. Tuck with playing ball on Sunday at the corner of Barton and Mary streets.

Hardman is only a youth, and was allowed to go with a warning.

WAS DROWNED.

Body of Sarnia Man Fished From Detroit River.

Detroit, Mich., April 27.—The body of J. Urquhart, aged 39 years, a native of Sarnia, Ontario, was taken from the river last night.

Urquhart had been missing from the home of his sister with whom he boarded since last February, but as he was of a particularly roving disposition and in the habit of disappearing in a similar way, no special inquiry was made at the time.

His relatives made the idea that he took his own life as his watches and some money were on the body, which bore no indication of foul play.

The drowning is believed to have been accidental. The body will be taken to Sarnia.

BRICK MEN RIOT.

Fifteen Hundred Employees Out on Strike at Mattawan.

Mattawan, N. Y., April 27.—Disorders quickly followed the declaration to-day of a strike by employees of many brick yards in this section. Men of various nationalities made up a mob, which, armed with clubs, marched to the various yards, where guards had been stationed in preparation for trouble.

Conflicts with the special officers developed early in the march and in one of the encounters Thomas Farling, a New York Central Railroad detective, was struck and rendered unconscious.

Several of the leaders of the marching mob were arrested.

After the arrest of four leaders, who were secured during a hard fight, the men remained quiet, but it was feared that further trouble might arise at any time. Special deputies were sent down from Poughkeepsie to cope with the trouble.

CANADA LIFE BILL

Now Before Parliament After Being Advertised.

House Wants to Finish Business by May 19th.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Ottawa, April 27.—The Standing Orders Committee of the Commons this morning decided to report to the House that the Canada Life bill was now finally before Parliament in regular form.

The original objection as to insufficiency of notice in the Gazette having been overcome by re-advertising the bill in the last five issues of the Gazette. In addition to the advertisement a circular letter has been sent to every policy-holder in Great Britain, giving notice of the proposed legislation respecting the distribution of capital investment to shareholders prior to the allocation of 30 per cent. of the net profits to the policy-holders.

No fewer than 25,000 copies of the bill and circulars have been sent out, while to every policy-holder in the Province of Quebec copies of the bill have been sent in both French and English.

Mr. David Henderson and Mr. Turiff both objected to reporting the bill before it had first been advertised, but the committee finally decided to report that the bill will go through this session, as in the limited time left for the discussion of private bills the opponents of the measure can easily talk it out.

In the Commons Railway committee this morning Chairman Guthrie announced that at the last meeting of the committee would be on Wednesday next, as the Government objected to beginning morning sessions of the House on Monday next. It is the intention of both sides of the House to thrust through the remainder of the business of the session, as the prorogation may be reached by May 19.

IN THE DARK.

Inquest Into Murder Being Held Behind Closed Doors.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Beauharnois, Que., April 27.—Coroner Bessner this morning announced that the resumed inquest into the murder of Domina Pelletier would be held behind closed doors. A Goyette, K. C., counsel for Houle brothers, who are under arrest, at once declined to leave the hall unless all the journalists and the public were also excluded. This was done. This caused much comment, as did the action of Goyette, who called out to Aime Houle on the latter's arrival from Montreal, attended by Detective Samson, "I tell you not to say a word." No information as to what is going on at the inquest is so far obtainable.

ANOTHER JERKY SIMPSON.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Kingston, Ont., April 27.—An aged man wandered away from the House of Providence this morning, and when making for the railway station was caught by the wind and rolled over rough cobblestones to fifty feet. He was arrested and taken back to the house. The sisters say that he never wore a stocking in his life. Though about 80 years old, he would not weigh forty pounds.

MUST BE LICENSED.

Windsor, Ont., April 27.—After a week it is announced that detectives in the employ of Detroit agencies will be barred from working in Windsor and other Canadian cities unless they obtain licenses, costing $20.

Major Daughly-Wylie, at the head of troops which he compelled the Wali to supply, went to the railroad end of the town and was successful in preventing the villagers from coming into Adana.

Later, while the major was attempting to pacify the town he was shot and disabled. Missionaries of the Central Turkey mission had assembled for a district conference in the centre of Adana on the day of the outbreak.
