WEDDED AT LAST.

CHAPTER XXX.

It touched her now to see with what a hesitating movement Sir Hugh, generally so proud and self-possessed, slipped his hand through her arm. Perhaps she had been harder even than his sin deserved—and, after all, he had loved her!

They stood for some minutes in silence, looking down at the quiet, almost empty streets. The shops were shut now, but two or three of the shopkeepers had brought out chairs and placed them on the pavement, and were sitting chatting and smoking and enjoying the fresh air, while beyond lay the sea, the waves breaking over the shingles with a soft little murmur which reached Shirley's ears. It was all so still and silent and peaceful! Ah, how well she remembered that night long afterwards!

Suddenly lifting her eyes, she found her husband's fixed upon her, with a passion of yearning tenderness in their gaze; he was looking deathly pale in the moonlight, and his hand, as it lay upon her arm, shook slightly.

"I am afraid you are suffering," she said gently. "Do you feel ill, Hugh?"

It was the first time during all the years they had lived together as husband and wife, that she had called him by his Christian name; and a sudden gleam of delight flashed into his eyes.

"Shirley!" he exclaimed, in a low voice, full of passionate emotion and yearning and remorse; and in almost uncontrollable emotion he bowed his head over her until his lips touched her hair; then, turning from her, he leant against the balustrade and covered his face with his hands.

Shirley watched him in silence for a minute. Had he been so unhappy, after all? Had he suffered? Had his punishment equalled his crime? Had she been more wicked even than he had been? His had been the crime of a few hours or weeks. Hers had been the sin of four long years, hardening her heart and cherishing vengeance and hatred.

She touched him gently, lifting her slim white hand and trying to draw his from his face; and at her touch he trembled violently, and, throwing himself upon his knees beside her hid his face upon her hands, kissing them passionately; and with the kisses came tears—a strong man's tears of remorse and pain and anguish.

"Hugh"—Shirley's broken voice was full of a new sweet music, although the low tones were very unsteady—"I have been very wrong. Will you forgive me, and let us begin again?"

"Forgive you, my darling!" he murmured. "Shirley, can I ever forgive myself? Even the excuse I offered at first makes my shame and remorse the greater now. But, my darling, I did love you—selfishly, unworthily, I know—and I was mad with rage and jealousy; but I did love you. Ah, love, I have suffered all these years; and the bitterest drop in my cup has been the sight of your suffering!"

"We will not talk of it now," she said very gently. "Shall we begin again? Hugh, I will try to be a good wife to you. I have been wrong—ah, how deeply wrong!—and you have been very indulgent and good to me always—and—let us begin again from to-night."

"I am not worthy," he returned huskily. "Oh, my darling, are you sure that you forgive? I could not bear to lose you again!"

She loosened her hands gently from his, and, as he folded his arm round her, still kneeling, she laid her head upon her breast and felt more his kisses and his tears.

From within, through the open windows, came the sound of gay laughing and voices and the dreamy waltz music which rose and fell so softly without all was still and silent, a Hugh Glynn knelt, with his head upon his wife's breast and his arm round her, and he felt it would be his to die thus, and leave her free to be happy, since she had forgiven him.

"Shirley"—he lifted his head and looked up at the beautiful soft face which had surely driven him mad at one time of his life—"is it a dream? It seems to me that such joy cannot ought not to be mine."

She smiled slightly; it was strange what a feeling of happiness this reconciliation gave her; and, oh, how thankfully she looked back to it, in the days that followed, and remembered that the last words she had spoken to him had been kindly ones—"You feel anything but dream-like,"

he said lightly, anxious to end the scene which was trying him so terribly. "Is you head better? Has the air done you good?"

As she spoke, she put her little cold hand upon his forehead and softly pushed away the fair disordered hair, looking frankly into the blue eyes raised to hers with such passionate adoration in their depths.

"Shirley—oh, my darling," he murmured, half beside himself with joy and pain and remorse, "will you—just to prove that this is no dream—will you kiss me once?"

She stooped forward instantly and kissed him softly; it was the first kiss she had ever given him.

"Come in, my darling," he said presently, thoughtful for her even in this delirium of happiness which possessed him. "It is cold for you here and I must take care of you now, my own precious wife."

And, as they re-entered the sitting room, Guy Stuart, glancing up again for a moment, saw the peace on both their faces, and it was reflected in his own.

"It is a still sultry night," Captain Layton said carelessly, as he went over to the open windows. "I think there is a storm brewing."

"I hope not," Mrs. Beaudesert said with a little affected shudder. "What makes you think so, Captain Layton?"

"It is so very still, and there is a kind of heaviness in the atmosphere," he answered. "After a storm comes a calm, you know, and after calm comes a storm, I suppose!"

Shirley's eyes met her husband's for a moment, and she smiled; but Hugh's glance was troubled. He saw any foreboding of the terrible term which was about to burst upon them. "Here Captain Layton's words prophetic? They seemed so to man present ere twenty-four hours had elapsed."

CHAPTER XXXI.
The night passed quietly, and the morning broke fair and cloudless, but with the same heavy sultriness in the air which had made Captain Layton prognosticate a storm. There was not a breath of air stirring; the sea lay like a vast smooth lake, not even a wavelet disturbing its calm here was no sunshine, no freshness—nothing but sultry heat, which made people feel oppressed and languid against their will.

"I wish there would be a storm or something," Lady Eastwell said pettishly, as they sat at breakfast, with all the doors and windows open to try and produce a draught, but in vain. "It is unbearably hot."

"A wise man does not seek danger, Mrs. Beaudesert."

"But only a coward flies from it," she replied gayly.

"Discretion is the better part of valor."

"You, a soldier, to preach such a creed as that! For shame, Major Stuart! Captain Layton, what do you say?"

"I think Stuart is very wise," said the young man, in a rather sullen tone, still angry with the pretty coquette for her neglect of the previous evening. "I have half a mind to go with him."

"But I promised to take you to church on Sunday, Captain Layton," Shirley said brightly from her seat by Sir Hugh. "Have you forgotten?"

"I had," he answered frankly. "Thank you for reminding me, Lady Glynn. But to-day is only Wednesday. How am I to exist until Sunday?"

"If you are very well-behaved, I will take you with me to call at the Vicarage this afternoon," she replied slowly.

"Lady Glynn, how can I thank you? I could say with perfect truth that I adore—"

"My dear fellow," said Sir Hugh, laughing, "if I hear a man saying that he adores my wife, I shall have to break his head."

"Thanks for shutting me up in time," said Captain Layton, smiling. "Lady Glynn must take my adoration for granted. Will you really take me to the Vicarage this afternoon?"

"I will indeed. I promised to go to hear some more songs, and I will take you, if you will give me your word that you will behave with the greatest decorum."

"I do," said the young man solemnly. "I will pay the greatest attention to the mother, and forget how to flirt for the occasion."

"I cannot think what you see in those insipid girls, Shirley," remarked Lady Eastwell languidly. "They are not a bit pretty, and have not a notion of dress."

"Have you seen much of them, Lady Eastwell?" asked Guy quietly. "Ah, I thought not—because, if you had, you would not call them insipid! I am afraid I am not a very good judge; but I must say that I have rarely met nicer girls, so thoroughly unaffected and charming."

For the New Year.
I know not what shall befall me, God hangs a mist o'er my eyes; And so each step I nmy onward path He makes new scenes to rise; And every joy He sends me, comes as a strange and sweet surprise.

I see not a step before me, as I tread on another year; But the path is still in God's keeping, the future His mercy shall clear; And what looks dark in the distance may brighten as I draw near.

So I go on not knowing, I would not if I might, I would rather walk in the dark with God than go alone in the light, I would rather walk with Him by faith than walk alone by sight.

My heart sinks back from trials which the future may disclose, Yet I never had a sorrow but what the dear Lord chose; So I send the coming year back, with the whispered words, "He knows."

Of brain worries, family concerns, and business troubles as sources of sleeplessness, I can say but little. The worried man's rest becomes disturbed naturally enough; his brain-cells have become ever-excited, and do not yield to the feeling of natural tiredness as do those of a healthy man. It is for him that medical aid desires to do its best, because brain-cells thrown out of gear, even for a short time, are apt to produce serious results on the whole system. Then comes erroneous habits, which may, and often do, need correction. Excessive smoking is a common cause of sleeplessness, and so is the excessive use of alcohol. Both causes send the nervous system into an unstable state, and so give rise to sleep troubles at last. First, we must endeavor to sleep in a quiet, dark place; the air of the sleeping room should be pure, any excess of bed-clothes is to be avoided, but the feet must be kept warm. Many a case of sleeplessness arises from chilled feet giving rise to disturbance of brain circulation, and so preventing repose.

One point I should like to make plain regarding sleep is that it represents a natural habit of body, just as sleeplessness, in its turn, represents an abnormal, or unnatural habit. Clearly, all we attempt to do—indeed, all we can do—in sleep troubles is to endeavor to abolish the unnatural state of things, and to replace it by the natural state. This, it is true, may be a difficult task, and in almost every case it is a slow proceeding. In fact, the latter, which impatient people will do well to bear in mind. Unfortunately, it takes little to develop a bad habit as a rule, while to restore the good habit may be, and often is, a slow and gradual process. Perseverance, with whatever remedies are used, is, therefore, an important point in connection with the work of cure.

Simple remedies should be tried first of all. A two-mile walk before bedtime is excellent, and a light meal—if food be needed late at all—taken not later than two hours before sleep may be found effective. No late smoking should be indulged in, and, above all, no late reading of any character such as tend to set the brain-cells reviewing the exciting incidents of the day. Sleeping or "napping" through the day must be forbidden. With regard to drugs, remember they are only useful to get the brain back into the "sleep-habit." To depend on any drug to procure sleep habitually is to defeat the very purpose for which it is taken. A simple remedy is twenty grains of bromide of sodium or of potash dissolved in water and taken at bedtime on an empty stomach. Two (or three) tablets of bromural dissolved in water and taken at rest-time for two or three nights should induce the return of the sleep-habit. These are harmless remedies, but even they must not be used continually. The real cure, as I have shown, is alteration of erroneous habits of living. All opium and like narcotic drugs must be left for a doctor to prescribe them if he regards them as necessary.

Schr. Checkers Given Up.

Practically all hope of the return of the schr. Checkers, now 100 days out from Cadiz to this port, has been given up. Many conjectures are given in shipping circles as to the fate of the vessel. While some think she met her doom on the Newfoundland coast, it is thought by others that her cargo shifted shortly after leaving the other shore, and it is quite probable that the vessel was thrown on her beam ends and became a wreck in European waters.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 23.

Mutiny broke out on board the steamer Devonian shortly after she left Liverpool yesterday for Boston, and she was compelled to put back to Holyhead, where nineteen of her crew were arrested. The outbreak of the trouble was caused by a dispute between union and non-union seamen, a few hours after the vessel left port. The union sailors refused to obey the orders of the ship's officers until the non-union men had been put ashore. The captain decided to run back to Holyhead.

SLEEP,

THE GREAT VITALIZER

MORE SLEEP AND LESS FOOD CONDUCE TO HEALTH—A TIMELY HEALTH TALK ON SOME SLEEP TROUBLES.
(By Dr. Andrew Wilson.)
The series of health talks which MacLean's Magazine is running cannot fail to be of much practical service as well as of timely interest. The outstanding object is to make the talks useful—to deal with medical problems in such a way that they will be understood by the average reader. In this brief article the importance of sleep is emphasized, and a course of remedial treatment prescribed for some of the more common sleep troubles.
Sleep is much more to all of us than food itself. We can do with less food if we go to bed and rest, and sleep warm, because in this way we both make up for lack of food, produce heat, and for limiting the body's work. This is what the Lancashire wives did in the great cotton famine of old. They put their menfolk and children to bed, and thus made the food supply go further. But, on the other hand, no amount of food can ever replace sleep. However much nourishment we take, it is impossible for brain cells which are wearied out—to say nothing of bodily organs, also, needing rest—to renew and repair their energies unless sleep comes to their floor. The high importance of a proper amount of rest is thus daily brought home to us, even if by experience we did not know how necessary for the maintenance of health sleep is. A man can live on a meagre diet; he may manage to get along fairly well on even insufficient food, and still maintain his health; but once he begins to lose his sleep and to pass disturbed nights, then, no matter how well he may be nourished, clothed, and otherwise have his physical wants attended to, he is bound to sink into a state of ill-health.

Disorders of sleep are not limited to those cases in which extreme wakefulness keeps a person from getting his modicum of repose. We get instances of sleep which is of the disturbed type, where the person sleeps, but where his rest is very imperfect because he dreams incessantly, or because he gets short snatches of sleep between intervals of waking. I have often thought it is an easier matter to deal with cases of outright sleeplessness than with those in which repose is disturbed and of erratic and uncertain kind. The causes of the former are more readily discovered, as a rule, while the origin of the disturbed rest-conditions may be very difficult of determination indeed. No doubt certain causes are common to both. The most frequent sources of sleeplessness, apart from mental worry and brain irritation, are ready to be found in some bodily state, such as is responsible for rendering our brain cells indisposed to accept the very rest they require. For example, the common habit of eating late at night, and what is more to the point eating heavily, is a cause of sleeplessness represented at both ends of the social scale. The fashionable person, who after a late dinner and the theatre, finishes with a supper which ends at half past twelve or one a.m., is very much in the same position as his humbler neighbor, who after the play, or at any rate, late at night, finishes a heavy, indigestible meal, which may range from cold beef, pickles, cheese and beer, to something hot, but equally heavy.
It is clear if we wish to have sleep come to us naturally, we must, above all things else, have the stomach clear and resting when bedtime

The Agricultural Farce.

Twelve Months Grant Overdrawn in Six Months.

At the last session of the Legislature $40,000 as has been usual of recent years was appropriated to run the Newfoundland Agricultural Board for the fiscal year commencing July 1st last and ending June 30th next. It was voted to provide in full for the work of the Board, run by the placemen, Messrs. Devereaux, M. H. A. and Downey M.H.A., for a whole year.

In answer to a question put by Mr. Clift, the Prime Minister, who is acting in the House as unappointed head of the Department of Agriculture and Mines, tabled a detailed statement of the expenditures of the Board. This statement shows that up to January 2nd 1914, $40,606.72 had had been spent. In other words that the grant had been overspent some six hundred dollars in six months. It follows therefore the Board was already $606.72 in debt on January 2nd, when it had to face the expenses of another six months. It follows also there is not a red cent of this grant to pay the salaries and expenses of the political commissioners or for any purpose and that the Board must be run on overdrafts until an Indemnity Bill can be passed. The Board began its career by a white-washing bill to permit placemen to run it, and its present state is that it needs another white-washing bill to pay its overdrafts and to keep it running for another six months.

In view of the extraordinary expenditures of the past six months, the marked shortage in revenue, the exhaustion of the two railway loans, the difficulty of finding money to pay for the building of another 50 miles of railway this year as the contract calls for, is it any wonder that a supporter of the Government, from his place in the House of Assembly, should call for a closing down of the operations of the Devereaux-Downey Board of Agricultural experts? We have yet to set forth the worst enormity of this mad expenditure by this Board. The statement of expenditures to which we have referred shows that $35,007.80 of this $40,000 annual grant was spent from July 1st 1913, to October 30th, the day of the General Election, up to October 20th, $34,938.65 being spent by October 20th. Yet in face of this fact, one of the Agricultural Board placemen waxed indignant in the House of Assembly at the suggestion that the Board was tainted with politics although his own appointment is political and he draws $125 a month and expenses out of the grant.

Burns' Anniversary.

To-morrow, January 25th, is the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns, the poet of Scotland who has obtained an extraordinary hold on the affection and imagination of Scotchmen throughout the world and whose verse is held in high esteem by the whole English speaking peoples. He is the poet of his people, racy of the soil, crying with their crying, laughing with their laughing, keen, witty, pathetic and joyous in their vernacular. He suffered and sang, toiled and talked, and had that large element of humanity in him that makes him akin to all the world. We have devoted a page to selections from Burns in this issue.

BONNIE WEE MARY.

On Monday night will see the opening of the great Scotch Pantomime Bonnie Wee Mary. Jack Rossley will be perfectly at home in this as he is in all others. There are all new and beautiful costumes. The gathering of the clans, the eight little girls that have made such a hit in all the Pantomimes, have a very beautiful number, and one that has never been seen in St. John's before, that is eight persons dancing a Sword Dance at one time. Then under crossed swords two of the finest members of the troupe will dance a flog. Some of the songs to be sung are "Bonnie Mary, McTudo," "Mr. John McKenzie, Oh," "Oh Where is my Wandering Wife to-night," "Mollie McIntyre," "My Lass fra Glasgow Town," "McGregor's Trip to London," "Heather Hills of Oban," "Come on and see a wee drapple," "We all go parading in our Tartan," "I come fra Scotland," "Bonnie Mary of Argyll," by Louise Arkandj; also reels, flings, hornpipes, and lots of comedy in the plot.

The White Sister At the Casino.

An audience that taxed the capacity of the Casino was present last evening to see the W. S. Harkins players present P. Marion Crawford's dramatization of his book, "The White Sister," and if applause counts for anything, both play and players made a distinct hit. The story is an intensely dramatic one, and in fact during the most dramatic parts last evening so still was the audience that the proverbial pin could have been heard to drop. The play follows very closely the story in the book and tells of a young couple who were betrothed. He is called away to the war, and in time words reaches his fiancée that he has been killed. She doubts this, but later it is confirmed and she decides to become a member of the White Sisters. Later her lover returns home, he having been held prisoner by the enemy. Finding that she has become a nun, he seeks an interview with her and endeavours to get her to apply for a dispensation from the Pope to relieve her from her vows. She refuses at first, but finally consents upon his threat to kill himself. Seeing the sacrifice she has made he tears up the application, he having had her brought to his rooms under the belief that she was going to a sick call. The end is a very dramatic and unusual one. As Sister Giovanni, "The White Sister," Miss Van Duser had a most difficult part, and the applause she received showed that the audience appreciated her clever acting. Mr. Conway as Captain Seneri gave a splendid performance, as did Miss Wafe as Countess Chirawonte, and Mr. Stark as Monsignor Saracinesca. The other members of the company in small parts gave splendid support, and many present last evening declared "The White Sister" to be the best yet given by the Harkins players. Some new scenery was painted for this piece and the stage settings were most effective. "The White Sister" will be repeated to-night and is well worth seeing.

New Sweaters

FOR OLD ST. BON'S.
Last evening the Old St. Bon's hockeyists appeared in their new sweaters, recently manufactured by the Art Ross Co. of Montreal from a special design by Mr. Frank Keating. The ground is blue with old gold extrimities and an old gold winged shield bearing the letters O. S. B. in monogram formation. The design is something new locally, and breaks away from the usual type which has become so monotonous. On the whole an excellent combination is made of two colors notoriously difficult to blend.

Some Other Business.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Now if I'd only gone into the newspaper business I feel as if I could have done something worth while," a man said to me the other day. "Don't you like your own business?" I asked. He is a rather successful cracker salesman. "Oh, yes," he said, "well enough, but there's so little chance to get ahead in it. I feel sure I could have done something big if I had gone into the newspaper business. There's more chance for an ambitious man there."

Now had he spoken of some other business I might have been impressed and convinced, but the newspaper business—well, that's something I happen to know about. And ever since I had anything to do with newspapers I have had it dinned into my ears by newspaper men that there never was a business where the chances of making money were so small. Almost every newspaper man I know is sure he would have made plenty of money if he had only put his brains and energy into some other business.

Some other business—how alluring it always is! How simple it appears to learn; how large its advantages seem; and its disadvantages—well, we don't really believe it has any. Of course, the other fellow says so, but then he's a pessimist anyway, and besides he is probably trying to discourage us because he fears our competition.

Now is it merely the disgruntled failure who laments what might have been? Even the successful man often believes he could have been still more successful if only he had chosen some other business.

Now, of course, there are plenty of square pegs in round holes—pegs that would be efficient and useful if only they had found their way into square holes. But on the other hand, there are a great many irregular, ill-shaped pegs that wouldn't efficiently fit any hole unless they were worked into the proper shape by education and training. And the man who thinks he is the first is quite often the second.

Your own business is the place to make good in. Choose it carefully with due attention to your talents and personal equipment, and then put the whole of yourself into it and you will probably do just as well as you would in some other business.

Of course, if at any time, after thorough investigation and, if possible, some tentative experiment, you become absolutely convinced that you are better fitted for some other line of work, it would be folly not to change. But remember that from the outside looking in one is likely to overestimate the advantages and opportunities and underestimate the difficulties and disadvantages. It is only when one is on the inside looking out—and quite often wishing one could get out—that one gets the whole of the picture.

Sometimes it seems sad to me that we cannot have half a dozen lives in which to find out if we couldn't do better at the other fellow's business. And then again I think it's unfortunate, for, after all, isn't it pleasanter to believe one could have done great things than to know one couldn't?

public no person may be kept isolated for more than forty hours before trial and even during that time must be permitted to receive close relations, like parents, wives, and children, but prisoners have been found who have been kept before trial for more than forty days in solitary confinement.

Why Is It?

Some find work where some find rest. And so the weary world goes on. Sometimes wonder which is best. The answer comes when life is gone.

Some eyes sleep when some eyes wake. And so the weary night hours go. Some hearts beat where some hearts break. I often wonder why 'tis so.

Some will fall where some will fight. Some love the tent and some the field. I often wonder who are right—The ones who strive or those who yield.

Some hands fold where other hands are lifted bravely in the strife. And so through ages and through lands Move on the two extremes of life.

Some feet halt where some feet tread. In tireless march, a thrifty way. Some struggle on where some have fled. Some seek when others shun the fray.

Some swords rust where others clash. Some fall back where some move on. Some flags furl where others flash. Until the battle has been won.

Some sleep on while others keep. The vigils of the true and brave; They will not rest till roses creep Around their name above a grave.

You're Bilious And Costive!—Cascarets

Sick Headache, Bad Breath, Sour Stomach, mean Liver and Bowels Clogged—Clean up to-night.

Get a 10-cent box now. Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headache come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gasses, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

WILL SING.—Mrs. Dawe will sing a solo at the George Street Church to-morrow night.

Radway's Ready Relief

J. L. Haddock of Meigs, Mo., writes: "I had a most peculiar ailment six weeks. Bad three doctors, but did not get much relief. A friend insisted on me trying R. R. and sent me a very little. In twenty minutes after the first application I could turn in bed with ease. Have had two bottles and am well."

Rheumatism

Apply the Relief externally to the part or parts affected, as quickly as circumstances will permit. Relief will also be derived from Radway's Pills, their laxative action being peculiarly suited to this disease. Where the pills are swollen stiff or contracted, the Relief, with sweet oil, is an admirable lubricant.

Regime of Terror Sweeps Portugal.

Lisbon, Jan. 17.—A reign of terror exists in Portugal, and not only are the jails overflowing with innocent men, but other places of imprisonment are being built for the accommodation of victims equally guilty.

Replying to an interpellation moved by Senor Machado Santos in the Chamber of Deputies, Dr. Alfonso Costa, the Premier, declared that in Portugal only guilty persons had been arrested, and that even those acquitted for lack of proof were strongly suspected of being enemies of the Republic, and were accordingly watched by friends of the Republic.

Deputy Camillo Rodrigues, having protested in the Chamber against the outrages committed by the Society of Carbonarios known as "White Ants," both he and the Civil Governor of Lisbon have been interviewed on the subject by a representative of the "Seculo." The former remarked that a "Portuguese society had for some time lived in such a regime of terror that it would have been impossible for me to protest, the more so because the perpetrators of these outrages are all so well known, and went on to say that "no liberty of thought or opinion or criticism exists. Especial indignation has been excited by the case of General Jaime de Castro, a man over sixty, who was arrested, insulted, and beaten by the Carbonarios, and whose arrest was maintained by the Government for over six weeks, after which he was released as innocent."

When the question was raised in the Chamber, the Minister for War declared that the Government did not know who had arrested General Castro, but that they could not be punished for an act of patriotism.

The Civil Governor, as reported in the "Seculo," admitted that the Society of Carbonarios existed in Lisbon to the number of over 2,000, and that they were used as spies by the Government. As to the arrest of General Castro, he said that "an individual accused of high treason may be arrested by anybody."

Wholesale Disfranchisement.

By a stroke of the pen nearly two-thirds of the Portuguese people were disfranchised as illiterates. Yet whether or not they can read or write these disfranchised people have no political ideas, they hunger for food, for liberty of conscience and speech. A lawyer and a doctor suspected of Royalist tendencies were among those wiped off the list by the word "illiterate."

But that precaution to ensure a Republican victory was hardly necessary. All through the country Royalists abstained from voting in the last election. Even in Lisbon itself, the stronghold of Republicanism, only 8,000 out of 27,000 people voted in one district. Senor Alfonso Costa's triumph, therefore, was that of a minority expressing itself loudly over the heads of a silent, voiceless multitude.

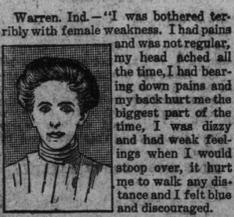

The prisons of Portugal do not tally with the statement of Ministers that all is well with the Republic. They are so overcrowded, and the numbers of prisoners are increasing so rapidly—after three years of Republican rule—that new jails are being built for them hurriedly, and they are being housed in convents and bishops' palaces from which the original owners have been evicted.

And the men behind the bars. Were they taken and condemned, sword in hand, in the early days of the Republic, or found guilty, upon good evidence, as conspirators? If so the Republic is justified if it has a right to defend itself. But scores of men, lawyers, doctors, and professors, have been arrested during recent months by spies, acting independently of the police, who have had no evidence produced against them, and who have not been brought to any trial. Although by a law of the Republic itself no man may be imprisoned for more than eight days without trial, men have been imprisoned for fifteen months without even being charged by a formal accusation.

LONDON GOSSIP.

PRINCE OF WALES AND HIS SISTER.

LONDON, Jan. 7, 1914. The Prince of Wales is to represent the King at the Coronation of the King of the Hellenes in Athens, next May. This has already set the tongues of the gossips wagging, since for some time past reports have been heard to the effect that the Prince will one of these days be betrothed to Princess Helena, the elder daughter of King Constantine. Queen Alexandra is given credit for being anxious to bring this marriage about, and it would certainly be a most suitable one in many ways. The King has decided that so soon as the Prince of Wales reaches the age of twenty-one he shall have York House, St. James's Palace, London, assigned to him as his town residence. Therefore this house is to be thoroughly overhauled and redecorated with this purpose in view. A substantial sum will be required for this purpose, and this will be set down in the forthcoming Civil Service estimates. Like the rest of St. James's Palace, York House was recently equipped with the electric light throughout, and other improvements are now projected. Princess Mary is not to go to Paris, after all, and she is very disappointed. It was thought at first that she would accompany the King and Queen on their visit to M. Poincaré, which has now been fixed to take place from Tuesday, April 21, until Saturday, the 25th. But, not having come of age, she is not yet quite old enough to participate in the State ceremonial which will mark the function, and consequently she is sorry she was not born two years earlier.

THE KING'S YOUNGEST SON.

It has now been definitely decided that Prince John, who has now attained the dignity of his eighth year, will shortly proceed to the preparatory school at Broadstairs where Prince George is now being educated. During his holidays Prince George has been telling his youngest brother all sorts of fascinating stories about the delights of school life, and these he quite believes, because only quite recently he was taken down to Broadstairs by his mother to visit his brother.

THE NEW EUROPEAN KINGDOM.

Prince William, of Wied, who is named as William I. of Albania, is getting less than his due. The advent of another Monarch in Europe ought not to go unheralded thus. At present he is simply the Prince of Wied, and will remain so for about a fortnight. On January 20, however, he will enter his future capital Durazzo, and will assume supreme command of his Albanian subjects. He has already been publicly acknowledged as Monarch by the French Premier in his recent address to the Chamber. A considerable loan has been arranged for the new State, though apparently the International Commission will have the spending of it. The Prince will have his hands full with his unruly and murderous subjects, whose civilization is hardly superior to that of the tribes of the North West Frontier of India. Nevertheless he has youth and courage, and earnestness, and powerful backing to help him through, and he may make as good a job of his sovereignty as King Ferdinand did. For the last two months the Prince has been secluded in his Castle on the Rhine, studying the Albanian language, or rather dialects. He is a thorough soldier, and has passed through every grade of the German army from Lieutenant to the General Staff. He is a close and intimate friend of the Kaiser, and has the protection of his aunt Carmen Sylvia, the Queen of Rumania, who was no doubt ultimately responsible for his appointment to the Albanian throne. The Prince has already made up his mind on one thing. He means to have a Royal order. It will be that of the White Star of Scanderbeg.

LONDON IN MILLIONS.
It costs £26,000,000 a year to run London. This cost is revealed in a return which the London County Council has issued. The County Council spends £11,000,000 a year, but as it gets grants from the Government for various purposes, such as education, it only asks the rate payers for £7,000,000. There are other authorities which have power to ask for money, and so chaotic is the system of local government that it is not even possible to say to a million or so the exact amount which the people have to pay. All that can be said is that it is somewhere in the neighborhood of £26,000,000. Since the London County Council was created 23 years ago it has on capital raised no less than £94,000,000. Of this as much as £24,000,000 has been spent on street improvements. Education has taken £18,000,000, and £12,000,000 has been spent on main drainings. London is an expensive place to manage, and despite the economies practised during recent years, it is getting very obvious that local government will cost the people much more in the future. Still there is a population of four and a half millions in the county of London only, which is not so wide, of course, as greater London, to bear the burden.

TROPICAL FORCED LABOR.
A correspondent who is interested in the question of tropical forced labor informs me that if the circular issued by the Foreign Office is to have any value, some provision must be made for travelling consuls in districts such as the Amazon Basin. He thinks this could easily be arranged for without giving rise to any suspicion of espionage such as the Foreign Office seems to fear. He also says that before any practical advance can be made the consolidation and amendment of the laws against slavery must be undertaken. This work might easily be done in the coming session. Although the Foreign Office has not yet agreed to undertake it, I believe such a request would not be refused were the matter pressed a little. At present there is hardly a lawyer in London who has any notion of what the state of the law relating to slavery really is, and, that being the case, it seems a little unreasonable to expect any greater knowledge from the ordinary company director.

IMPORTANT RUSSIAN ARMY DEVELOPMENTS.
The news that Russian time-expired soldiers will be retained with the colours until the incoming recruits have completed their preliminary training, is important. Hitherto this plan has been adopted only in an emergency measure, but the fact that on the 17th December the Imperial approval was given to an order regularizing a repetition of the arrangement for the current season of considerable European significance, denoting as it does Russia's complete grasp of the situation as modified by the new German Army laws and Austria's readjustment of her military resources. The proceeding gains point, moreover, from the fact that while both Germany's and Austria's efforts will cost them enormous sums, the expense to Russia of maintaining, at any rate until April, an abnormally high instead of a distinctly reduced establishment without having recourse to even a partial mobilisation, will involve only a comparatively trivial expenditure. The Russian soldier costs very little to house, clothe or feed, and his pay is insignificant. Still more important is the fact that the retention of an entire batch of time-expired men with the Russian colours creates nothing like the dislocation it would if Germany, where the whole relationship of the military system with civil life in time of peace must depend upon a somewhat delicate arrangement of balances. What is happening is, in fact, a useful object lesson in the skilful handling of military resources, of the magnitude of which we in this country have a very inadequate conception. Coupled with Russia's recent effort to improve her mobilisation arrangements it constitutes a hint which neither the German nor Austrian General Staffs are likely to disregard.

Buenos Ayres.

By GEORGE FTICH,
 Author of "At Good Old Slwash."

Buenos Ayres is the largest city in the world in which a man has to speak Spanish while campaigning for office.

This does not mean that Buenos Ayres is in Spain! On the contrary, it means that it is located so far from Spain that the latter could never get at it very handily. South America is full of fine large cities which would be several sizes smaller and about two hundred years behind time if they had been close enough to Spain to catch the Spanish idea of progress.

Buenos Ayres is the capital of the Argentine republic, the metropolis of South America and the white man's hope as far as roast beef is concerned. It has 1,100,000 inhabitants which only leaves about 5,000,000 for the rest of the nation. It uses the Spanish language, French styles and the latest American brand of hustle. In 1870 it only had 185,000 people and was a collection of fever in the midst of an imposing mud puddle. It is now a well drained, healthy city, full of magnificent buildings, great railroad terminals, and attractive parks and squares. Buenos Ayres is much handsomer than its North American rivals and claims to be more up-to-date, getting the new grand operas before New York hears them and having a newspaper which is published in a place with endowed aristocrats for reporters. But the pianola, the magazines and the ballot have not yet invaded the humble homes of the city to any extent, and if they did they would crowd out the occupants—for back of the imposing residence streets vast numbers of families live in one room and bathe in alternate years.

The principal business of Buenos Ayres is to transfer cattle and grain from behind it to the vast fleets of steamships in front of it. It is one of the great ports of the world and its citizens travel to Paris and London for new fashions with great regularity. Some of them have even heard of New York. There are more millionaires in the city than there are anywhere south of Wall street, and nowhere else can such high prices be paid for luxury. Buenos Ayres has magnificent clubs, opera houses and race courses, but it is a little shy on schools, social settlements and vice commissions.

Buenos Ayres is still growing rapidly, but has a gloomy future. Some of the Argentine people must stay out on the plains to tend the cattle, which means that the city can never become as large as London.

"When Other Lips" is Sun

AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.
 There was a large attendance at the Nickel Theatre last night as patrons were anxious to hear Mr. Koch sing "When Other Lips," and also to witness the thrilling story entitled "Foul Play" which is in three reels. It is a most remarkable story, full of startling situations and held the spectators spellbound. Every movement of it had the attention of all, and it was well pronounced as the most exciting tale ever told by "movies." No one should miss it. The other pictures were also good, particularly "The Artist and the Brute." Mr. Koch's rendition of "When Other Lips" was perfect and he was warmly applauded. The programme will be repeated this evening and all should make an effort to attend.

New York, January 19.—Henry Gescheidt, a lawyer and patent medicine manufacturer, who died at his home in Flat Bush last Monday at the age of 65, left half of his $300,000 estate to the corporation of Trinity Church for the establishment of a bread line. If the church is unwilling to accept the legacy for the purpose named, the $150,000 is to be divided up among the Five Points houses of industry and several hospitals.

L.S.P.U. Night School.

Over seventy pupils are now in regular attendance at the L. S. P. U. night school, and the lads are making decided progress.

Fieldians vs. St. Bon's--A Lively Exhibition--Fieldians Score the Winning Goal in Play-Off.

The second game of the championship series took place at the Prince's Rink last night between the Fieldians and St. Bon's and when full time was called both sides had five goals to their side, a play-off resulting in the Fieldians scoring the winning goal.

The game on the whole was comparatively better than the Crescents—Vics meeting and a larger attendance of spectators witnessed last night's exhibition. At 7.30 the teams set up like this:

St. Bon's—Walsh, goal; L. Edens, point; Golden, cover; Higgins, rover; Shortall, centre; Grant, right; Callahan, left.

At the outset Higgins captured the puck, made a splendid run and nearly scored in record time. Hunt cleared in style and was warmly applauded. The Fieldians went into a zig-zag direction, displayed clever stick-handling and was about to shoot when tripped by Strong who was despatched to the penalty box to mend his ways. The St. Bon's continued the aggressive and before five minutes elapsed Higgins scored the first goal for his side.

This stirred up the Fieldians who were equal to the strong pace set by their opponents and lively play followed. Pinsent made a splendid run, centered to Winter who banged in the equalizer.
Matters now became exciting, combination was at a premium but some good individual work was served out to the onlookers. A few of the players lost their heads and were sent to the witness box to cool off. Callahan made a pretty shot and recorded the second goal for St. Bon's, and a minute later Higgins cleared the rink and notched up No. 3.

The Fieldians kept it up and scored their second goal before half-time.

SECOND HALF.
The second half opened in favour of the Fieldians. They got in some effective combination work. The St. Bon's got the tired feeling and threw the responsibility on the shoulders of one man. In quick succession the Fieldians added three goals to their score.

Right away the game became more exciting than ever. Higgins got in some clever work and eventually passed all opponents and scored the 4th goal.
Enthusiasm at this stage was hot. Both teams strained every nerve to gain an advantage. The St. Bon's attacked hard and Callahan beat Hunt. Shortly after full time was announced and the score stood 5 to 5.

A play-off was necessary and about six minutes after the puck was put in motion Winter sent in the winning goal.

Mr. J. Tobin was referee.
Timekeepers—Messrs. Vinnicombe, Carmichael and Ellis.

NOTES ON THE GAME.
A grand game but off-sides was too frequent an interruption.

The Fieldians played the best combination.
Pinsent, Winter and Parnell, especially the latter, got in some effective work.

For the losers, Golden and Edens helped in no small degree. As for Higgins a better exhibition of stick-handling as displayed by him last night, has seldom been seen in the Rink.

The Crescents and Fieldians will contest on Monday night next.

S.P.A. Annual Meeting.

The Society for the Protection of Animals held their annual meeting in the Institute yesterday afternoon. A large number of ladies and gentlemen were in attendance, including the Hon. Mr. Justice Johnson, who presided. Rev. Dr. Curtis, Hon. R. Watson, Rev. Dr. Greene, Rev. Canon Bolt, Hon. J. Harris, I. C. Morris, R. A. Squires, Miss Morris, George J. Adams, N. A. Outerbridge, Mrs. W. G. Gosling, Mrs. G. Knowling, Jr., Miss Johnson, Mrs. J. B. Mitchell, Mrs. Schurig and Mrs. W. Clapp.

In the absence of Mr. Dunfield, Mr. G. Adams was appointed Secretary of the meeting. The President, after heartily thanking Mr. Sheard for the use of the room to hold the meeting, in a rather lengthy address reviewed the work of the directors during the past year and commended the aims and objects of the Society to a larger and more generous support of the public. He made particular reference to the excellent manner in which Mr. Bastow, the agent of the S. P. A., had performed his duties during the year. He alluded to Mr. Bastow's thorough competency and the impartial manner manifested throughout his work.

The Secretary's report was read, and on motion of Hon. R. Watson, seconded by Mr. R. A. Squires, was adopted, after which the Hon. John Harris moved the re-election of the officers and directors for the coming year. The motion was seconded by Rev. Dr. Greene and unanimously carried. The following are the officers and directors:

President—Mr. Justice Johnson.
Secretary—B. Dunfield, B.A.
Treasurer—N. A. Outerbridge.
Directors—Rev. Canon Bolt, Mrs. W. G. Gosling, G. T. Carty, R. R. Wood, Dr. Macpherson and Geo. J. Adams.
A vote of thanks was proposed to the officers and directors for their services during the past year was moved by Hon. R. Watson, seconded by Mr. I. C. Morris and was carried by acclamation. The President then thanked the meeting on behalf of the officers and directors for their appreciation as shown by the hearty vote of thanks accorded.
Mrs. Gosling asked the meeting for assistance in a particular work she had undertaken on behalf of the Society. It is her intention to train the children of the various schools in the proper care and treatment of dumb animals, and has been assisted in this direction by Miss Johnson. Mrs. Mitchell offered her services, which were gladly accepted. These ladies will visit the schools of the city from time to time, reminding the pupils of their duty as regards kindness to dumb animals.

At the City Hall.

Mayor Ellis presided at yesterday's meeting of the Council, and a full board was in attendance.

Object to Water Pipe Exhibit.

The minutes of the previous meeting being adopted, Councillor Myrick drew attention to the exhibit of the corroded pipes in the Board of Trade window, and the comments of the Press regarding the same. He severely criticized this action of the Citizens' Committee and intimated that though their intentions might have been good, the exhibit would likely be productive of harm.

Mayor Ellis agreed with the Councillor, and considered their action indiscreet, stating that the Council was well aware of the existence of defective pipes, and but for weather conditions the repairs would have been made long ago.

Councillor Mullaly considered the action of the committee a serious matter, and instead of assisting them he felt as if they were trying to embarrass them.

Councillor Ryan was of the same opinion and felt they would exhibit the Arrears' Book also, if they were given access to it.

The Engineer agreed with the Mayor and stated that the work had been provided for, but could not be carried out.

The Rev. C. A. Whitemarsh, Pastor of Cochrane Street Church, wrote thanking the Council for their expression of sympathy in the loss of their church.

J. King applied for position of watchman at Sanitary stables; position not vacant.

Water at the Dock.

The Solicitor wrote stating that he had had an interview with Vice-President Reid and Solicitor Furlong concerning the waste of water at the dock premises. The report of Inspector Rooney was discontenanced and the Council were invited to visit the dock premises during working hours and see for themselves. They will do so on Monday next in company with Mr. Rooney.

F. W. Knight, in a lengthy letter, asked that the Council consider appointing him as Inspector of Buildings for the city, in view of the many fires that have occurred of late. He stated that he had every qualification which could be endorsed by the Board of Underwriters.

The matter will be considered at a special meeting.

The Secretary then tabled the amounts of taxes received for 1913 and 1914 to-date from the theatrical houses in the city.

Councillor Mullaly gave notice that at the next meeting he will move to have a change in the present system of taxation.

Treasury's Salaries.
The question of an increase of salaries for the firemen was lengthily discussed, but it was shown that the Council is powerless to do anything in the matter.

Each of the Councillors complained of the defective street lighting and the persons responsible will be called to order and the matter satisfactorily remedied.

The meeting adjourned at 5.30 p.m.

Hockeyists Can't Come.

The St. Francis Xavier hockey team will not be able to visit St. John's this season to play a series of games with our boys owing to other arrangements having been made. A message to that effect was received yesterday by Secretary Tobin of the Hockey League. The St. Francis Xavier team have entered the eastern section of the inter-collegiate and are now obliged to continue their schedule. In view of this the League here will endeavor to get in touch with some team in the Lower Provinces, probably in Halifax, and extend them an invitation to visit St. John's. It is expected that the negotiations now being entered into will materialize and that we will have a team from abroad along here about the middle of February.

An Operation For Appendicitis

Was Ordered by His Doctor, But Complete Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Almost anyone who has suffered from appendicitis will assure you that his troubles developed only after months or years of derangements of the liver and bowels. Appendicitis can almost invariably be prevented, and very frequently cured, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In the case described in this letter the doctors had ordered an operation, but a thorough cure was brought about by this great medicine. Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis, and the doctors ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation, and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no need of an operation, or even of a doctor, as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure." Have Been An Untold Benefit.

NEW BRUNSWICK WOMAN PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

She Suffered for Four Years, and the Doctor Could Not Help Her, But Dodd's Kidney Pills Gave Her a New Lease of Life.

Porton, Carleton Co., N.L., Jan. 23. (Special).—"I find Dodd's Kidney Pills the best kidney medicine I have ever used. They have been of untold benefit to me."

The speaker is Mrs. John S. Dickinson of this place. She is enthusiastic in her praise of the great Canadian remedy, and not without reason. "I suffered from kidney trouble that started in a cold," she continues, "and for four years I was never free of it. I was treated by a doctor, but he did not seem to be able to do me much good."

"I had rheumatism and neuralgia and my joints were stiff; my muscles cramped, and I was always tired and nervous. I perspired freely with the slightest exertion. I was depressed and low spirited, my limbs swelled, and I had a dragging sensation across the loins."

"Nine boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made a new woman of me."

"Are not Mrs. Dickinson's symptoms those of any run-down, worn-out woman. They are also the symptoms of kidney disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills give new life to run-down women by curing their kidneys."

Granulation of the Eyelids

Is Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment—Scores of Uses for the Great Soothing, Healing Ointment.

Most people know Dr. Chase's Ointment best as a cure for eczema and itching piles. Now it is to be wondered at when you think of the remarkable record made in this class of cures.

But there are scores of other uses for this ointment, which are only discovered when it is kept constantly at hand.

Mrs. Martin, 13 Carroll street, Toronto, formerly of Bowmanville, Ont., writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years, and found it invaluable in treating skin irritations and all sorts of burns and wounds. In fact, we would not be without it in the house. It is a most excellent treatment for granulated eyelids from which I suffered without finding anything to help me."

Whenever there is itching of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can use Dr. Chase's Ointment with full assurance that it will prove entirely satisfactory. 50 cents a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

CHASE'S OINTMENT CURES COLIC, &c.

Open Season For Men's Bargains.

If you expected to buy a certain house next fall, and you could get it for $500 less money now, and you had the price in your pocket, you wouldn't say to yourself:

"I really don't need a house until next fall so I guess I'll wait and pay the extra $500."

If you did many things like that your friends would get you a little one-roomed house with soft walls.

Yet that is exactly what nearly every man does with his personal purchases.

He knows that he can get a good winter suit or overcoat at from $10 to $20 less than he will have to pay next October. He knows he is going to need a winter overcoat next October. He also knows that he can earn about 6,000 per cent on the money he will have to spend in getting it now.

And yet he waits. Verily man is the best waiter in the world. You have to freeze his fingers before he will buy a pair of gloves; he's got to sneeze his head off before he will get an overcoat, and by the way he buys his shoes you would imagine that shoes were going entirely out of style and that bare feet were going to be worn exclusively next fall.

If the average man made his business expenditures the way he makes his personal expenditures his wife would not only be aking in washing, but she would be delivering it on her shoulders.

Now for the sake of the common respect which we owe to the loss of our tails let us use a little ordinary sense in our personal purchase this winter.

We have had a mild season up to date. Nearly every store is overstocked with merchandise and every store that advertises is selling that merchandise at prices so low it seems a shame to take advantage of them.

Shoes are not good to eat, therefore they have got to be sold. A clothing merchant with a thousand too many overcoats can't wear them. Therefore he has got to make you wear them; and if he can't persuade you at one price he has got to try another.

Indeed the advertising in this paper is so filled with good bargains that if you don't take advantage of them now, somebody ought to take that high cost of living you have been talking about and make it double.

Let us go out and buy some of his good warm merchandise now, just as if we were going to have winter again next year, let us stretch our common sense to the breaking point. Let us make the chimpanzee ashamed of himself.

Bleeding Mexico.

In Mexico, in other days, fair maidens from their windows smiled, while lovers sang their buoyant lays, describing passions deep and wild. But that was in the dear old times before reformers took the helm, and filled with sorrows, tears and crimes, that once serene and happy realm. In Mexico, some years ago, the mother rocked her child to sleep, and prayed, in accents sweet and low, that holy saints the child might keep. But that was when the Tyrant held his country free from strife and storm, before the Patriots rebelled, and waved the banner of Reform. But now the land is stark and red where once the peasant turned the sods; the mother weeps above her dead, and shakes her fist at saints and gods. In Mexico the children played, through balmy evenings on the green; and little lad and little maid no ghost of trouble e'er had seen. But now their hearts are chilled with fear, their souls are shrunken with their pain; for death is ever stalking near and dead men lie in every lane. And Mexico, where grief had birth when once old things were overthrown, should teach the nations of the earth to let the "Well Enough" alone.
