ANNALS.

On January 3, 1826, pursuant to notice published in the newspapers of the City of New York of December 31, 1825, a number of commissioned officers and ex-officers, who resided or were stationed in the vicinity, and who had served with reputation in the Army of the United States in the War of 1812, met at the Broadway House, corner of Broadway and Grand Streets, "to take into consideration the expediency of presenting a respectful petition to Congress, praying for a grant of public lands, agreeable to rank and former practice, as a reward for their services, sufferings, and losses during the Second War of Independence."

Major George Howard, formerly 1st Regiment, U. S. Infantry, was called to the Chair; Captain Mordecai Myers, formerly 13th Regiment, U. S. Infantry, was chosen Secretary, and Major Clarkson Crolius, formerly 27th Regiment, U. S. Infantry, was appointed Treasurer. The meeting then, after due consideration, unanimously resolved that it was expedient to present to Congress a respectful memorial, praying for lands as a reward for past services.

A committee was, thereupon, appointed to draft and forward the memorial as called for by the action of the meeting.

This committee consisted of Brigadier General, the Honorable Robert Bogardus, formerly Colonel 41st Regiment, U. S. Infantry; Captain Mangle Minthorne Quackenboss, late 8th Regiment, U. S. Infantry, together with Majors Howard and Crolius and Captain Myers.

The committee met on January 8, 1826, the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, at the residence of Captain Myers, No. 45 Mercer Street, in the City of New York, and prepared the memorial to which Colonel Joseph Watson, formerly District Paymaster U. S. A., Colonel Joseph Lee Smith, late 3d Regiment, U. S. Infantry, Colonel Gilbert Christian Russell, formerly 20th Regiment, U. S. Infantry, and Colonel James R. Mullany, formerly 32d Regiment, U. S. Infantry, and then Quartermaster General U. S. A., who had been added to the committee after the meeting, also affixed their signatures.

In this memorial the committee declared that they had "in vain sought for reasons which should deprive the officers of the Second War of Independence of the same munificence which was extended by the United States and by several of the States to those of the first. They held the same stake, they exhibited the same valor and love of liberty, and, although they may not as a body have suffered as much, yet their zeal was not less, nor their exertions less willing. . . ."

"If the soldiers of the late war, and the heirs of volunteers who were killed or died, had claims on the bounty of the nation, why have not the officers, whose skill and industry, by daily toil and sleepless nights, brought them into the field and drilled them into efficiency?"

A second meeting was held by this committee on February 26, 1826, at the residence of Major Crolius, No. 10 Cross (now Park) Street, in the City of New York, when report was made of the presentation of the memorial to Congress.

On September 15, 1826, the Association of officers re-convened at the Shakspeare Tavern on the southwest corner of Nassau and Fulton Streets to hear the final report of their committee on the memorial.

Having concluded this business, they decided that their organization should be perpetuated, and constitute a Military Society.

Permanent officers were accordingly chosen, and it was unanimously resolved "that from and after the first day of October ensuing, the officers of the late Army will meet at the Shakspeare Tavern, corner of Nassau and Fulton Streets, on the first Monday in every month, at 8 o'clock P.M."

At this meeting were present a number of commissioned officers who had, during the War of 1812, belonged, when in the military service of the United States, to regiments of volunteers or militia.

During the nine years following, the meetings of the Society were held at the Shakspeare Tavern, and afterward at the residences of the members.

At first these meetings were held monthly from October to April, inclusive, the January meeting being designated "the annual meeting," and always held on January 8.

After 1832, in consequence of the decease of many valued officers and inability of others to attend, by reason of physical infirmities or removals to a distance, the number of meetings was reduced to four, viz.: October 5 (Battle of the Thames); January 8; February 18 (Proclamation of Peace); and April 27 (Capture of York, Upper Canada).

After 1840, only annual meetings were held, and on January 8, 1848, the Military Society of the War of 1812 consolidated with "The Veteran Corps of Artillery," in which many of its members were already enrolled, and was afterward generally known by the latter title.

This Corps had been formed, as an independent military organization, on Evacuation Day, November 25, 1790, by a number of ex-officers and soldiers of the Continental and State troops in the War of the Revolution, who met, for that purpose, at the City Arms Tavern, corner of Broadway and Thames Street, in the City of New York.

Subsequently Congress, on May 8, 1792, in "an act more effectually to provide for the national defence, by establishing an uniform militia throughout the United States," declared that :

"Whereas sundry Corps of Artillery . . . now exist in several of the said States, which, by the laws, customs, or usages thereof, have not been incorporated with, or subject to, the General Regulations of the Militia: Be it further enacted, that such Corps retain their accustomed privileges, subject, nevertheless, to all other duties required by this Act in like manner with the other militia."

The exemption and privileges constitutionally conferred by this law were recognized by the Legislature of the State of New York in an act to organize its militia, passed March 9, 1793.

The Act of Congress itself was re-enacted by that body on June 2, 1874, as Section Sixteen Hundred and Forty-one of the Revised Statutes of the United States, thus again confirming the prescriptive privileges of the Corps.

At first, and for a number of years after its formation, the Corps merely paraded on Independence Day, in uniform with side arms, until the unprovoked attack, in 1807, off Hampton Roads, of the British Ship of the Line Leopard, upon the American frigate Chesapeake.

In the preparations then made for apprehended war, the Corps applied for and received from the State of New York two brass, twelve-pounder guns, which were kept at the State Arsenal, corner of White and Elm Streets, near the Collect, and were used by the Corps in drills, parades, and escort duty, and for national salutes.

On April 13, 1808, the Corps was present at the laying of the corner-stone of the Tomb on Hudson Avenue, near York Street, Brooklyn, intended for the Martyrs of the British Prison Ships in the War of the Revolution, whose remains had been collected from the shores of the Wallabout, and, on May 26, 1808, the Corps assisted in the funeral ceremonies when the remains were deposited in the completed tomb.

The British Government having continued, with constantly increasing severity, its hostile aggressions against the territorial rights and commerce of the United States in violation of the Law of Nations, and in disregard of the most earnest remonstrances of the United States, the Members of the Corps, as an evidence of their patriotism, on October 19, 1809, subscribed a declaration "pledging themselves to bear arms and take the field in the city and county of New York, or the counties of Kings, Richmond, and Westchester, in the State of New York, whenever the same or any part thereof may be or is likely to be invaded."

On November 6, 1809, His Excellency, Daniel D. Tompkins, Governor of the State of New York, in recognition of the status of the Corps as an independent military organization, formally commissioned all its Officers by Brevet.

In the chronicle of its celebration of July 4, 1810, it is recorded that "the Corps of Veteran Artillery Volunteers, consisting of soldiers of the Revolution from forty-five upwards, commanded by Captain John McLean, turned out in honor of a Day dear to every American heart, and especially so to those who fought and bled to achieve the invaluable blessings we now enjoy."

"They met in the Park at nine o'clock, fired a salute from their brass twelves of seventeen guns at the commencement of the march of the Societies, then fell into the rear of the procession and marched to the Church, and returned to the Park and dismissed until four o'clock, when they sat down to a dinner at Mr. James Mitchell's Tavern in Cherry Street, after which the usual toasts were drank, accompanied by a gun each, and cheers occasionally, interspersed with song and sentiment, and attended by that hilarity and joy which the company and occasion were so well calculated to inspire."

On June 19, 1812, the President of the United States, James Madison, promulgated the Act of Congress of the preceding day, which declared war to exist between the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the dependencies thereof, and the United States of America and their territories, and, on the following day, the fact was announced in General Orders by the Commanding General of the United States forces in the City of New York.

On June 22, 1812, Commandant McLean, of the Veteran Corps of Artillery, ordered the Corps to assemble, in uniform with side arms, at the Arsenal, on the 25th instant, to proceed and take post at the North Battery, foot of Hubert Street, Hudson River, in the City of New York, until a regular garrison could replace them.

In this order the Commandant called attention to the fact that it was at the North Battery where the first shot was received from H.B.M. ship Asia at the commencement of the War of the Revolution, and added :

"I trust you will show by your punctuality and prompt attendance that the flame of Seventy-six is not entirely extinguished by the frost of time."

This patriotic duty was performed by the Corps, at its own charge, for several days until regularly relieved.

It was the first organization in the State of New York to volunteer for military service after the declaration of war.

On July 4, 1812, the Corps fired a national salute at the Arsenal at 11 o'clock A.M., and then escorted a number of civic societies to the First Baptist Church in Gold Street, for the usual services of the Day.

On August 14, 1812, the 1st Brigade New York State Militia Artillery had target practice at the Battery, foot of Whitehall Street in the City of New York, and at Castle Williams on Governor's Island, with field and siege guns, against the hulk of a brig anchored at a distance of one thousand yards.

The Veteran Corps of Artillery, having been invited to assist, took post on the Battery and repeatedly struck the target with shots from a "long nine."

On November 25, 1812, the Corps fired a national salute at the Battery at noon, at which time salutes were also fired by all the forts in New York Harbor.

A regiment of artillery and infantry from the Hudson River counties, which had just completed a three months' tour of duty in the United States service, together with the uniformed militia of the City of New York and the Veteran Corps of Artillery, paraded and were reviewed by the Governor of the State of New York and by the Commanding General 3d U. S. Military District.

The Corps then proceeded to Philip Becanon's restaurant, No. 19 Park Row, where they dined together and drank thirteen toasts.

In the next year, for the celebration of Independence Day, the Commandant of the Corps issued the following orders :

"The Veteran Corps of Artillery are hereby requested to assemble in complete uniform at the Arsenal in Elm Street, at 10 o'clock A.M., on the 5th of July next, to commemorate with their brethren in arms the Birth-day of American Independence.

"And they are likewise requested to appear with badges of mourning on their swords as a tribute of respectful sorrow for our departed young heroes, Pike and Lawrence, who gloriously fell maintaining their Country's rights.

"By Order of

"Captain JOHN MCLEAN, Commandant :

"ISAAC KEELER,

"Adjutant."

The duties of the day included a national salute by the Corps, a parade as escort to civic societies, and the usual church service at the Irish Presbyterian Church in Orange Street, near Grand, with address and reading of the Declaration of Independence, followed by the annual dinner and reunion.

On September 16, 1813, during the funeral services at Trinity Church over the remains of the gallant Captain James Lawrence, U. S. Navy, who had been mortally wounded in action off Boston Harbor, June 1, 1813, the Corps fired minute guns at the Battery.

On November 1, 1813, Brigadier General Jacob Morton, commanding the 1st Brigade, New York State Artillery, in Brigade Orders from his Headquarters in the City of New York, directed his brigade, to which, for such purpose, the Veteran Corps of Artillery was voluntarily attached, to parade at the Battery on November 3, 1813, for review by Major General Henry Dearborn, General-in-Chief U. S. Army, and for target practice with twelve-pounder guns.

The brigade having been reviewed at eleven o'clock, began firing at noon at an unseaworthy vessel of sixty tons, which had been anchored at a distance of one thousand yards, and which was soon sunk.

In the next day's chronicle of the event it is stated that "Justice requires us to notice the excellent firing of the Veteran Corps, commanded by Captain Chapman, which did much execution."

The General-in-Chief, in Orders, commented as follows :

"Major General Dearborn has the pleasure to announce to Brigadier General Morton, of the First Brigade of New York State Artillery, the high satisfaction he experienced in the review of his brigade.

"Their appearance was every way military, and their firing at the target would do honor to the oldest artillerymen.

"He observed with peculiar pleasure the Corps of Veterans who, at an advanced period of life, evince a determination to be first in the defence of their Country and its rights.

"ARMY HEADQUARTERS,

"NEW YORK, November 3, 1813."

For the celebration of Evacuation Day, November 25, 1813, the record states that :

"The Independent Veteran Corps of Artillery assembled at the Arsenal in Elm Street in the morning, and, after performing the duties of the Day, adjourned to Kent's Hotel (now Fraunce's Tavern) and partook of a dinner with usual toasts.

"Volunteer toasts were given by Captain Chapman, Captain-Lieutenant Richard Nixon, Lieutenant Isaac Keeler, and Orderly Sergeant Asa Hall."

On June 26, 1814, official intelligence was received that, in consequence of the success of the Allied Powers in their operations against the Emperor of the French, and his abdication on April 7, 1814, a large detachment had been made from the veteran British Army, which had served in the Peninsular Campaigns under the Duke of Wellington, for service against the United States.

Long Island Sound was then occupied by a British Squadron, while the port of New York was blockaded by a powerful fleet.

In anticipation of speedy invasion, the defences of New York Harbor were strengthened, all classes of citizens, civic associations, and military organizations assisting.

On July 4, 1814, the Corps assembled at the Arsenal at 3 o'clock A.M., and, at sunrise, waited on His Excellency Daniel D. Tompkins, Governor of the State of New York, with the compliments of the Day, and fired a national salute in front of his temporary headquarters.

Having returned to the Arsenal and been dismissed, they reassembled at 9 o'clock A.M. and marched to their Commandant's residence, No. 309 Washington Street, where the Corps was presented with the National Colors, after which, having returned to the Arsenal and fired a national salute, the Corps escorted the civic procession to the new theatre in Anthony Street, to hear an address and the Declaration of Independence.

Later in the day the members dined together as usual, with patriotic and commemorative toasts.

On August 11, 1814, the Veteran Corps of Artillery crossed the East River to Brooklyn, and, with pick and shovel, worked on the entrenchments of Fort Greene, which formed a part of the line of defence from Gowanus Creek to the Wallabout.

On August 29, 1814, Governor Tompkins, in General Orders from his Headquarters in the City of New York, called for volunteers, and also earnestly requested all Corps, who were disposed to offer their services in defence of the Country at that moment of danger, to report for duty.

He also ordered into the military service of the United States a large detachment from the organized militia.

Pursuant to the Governor's urgent request, volunteers from all the counties on and near Hudson River, as far north as Albany County, hastened to form themselves into companies, and as fast as they arrived in the City of New York, they were organized by the Governor into regiments.

The Veteran Corps of Artillery, then composed exclusively of those who had served in the War of the Revolution, promptly tendered their services, and were accepted and mustered into the military service of the United States on September 2, 1814, and attached, for the campaign, to the 3d Regiment New York State Artillery, now the 8th Battalion, Infantry, New York State National Guard.

Their duty was performed in the defences of New York Harbor, and, on November 25, 1814, the Corps was reviewed by Governor Tompkins, as Commander of the Third Military District of the United States.

mander on October 14, 1814, comprised the State of New York from the sea to the Highlands of the Hudson, including West Point, and all of the State of New Jersey, except the Delaware River counties.

The Governor held the command, under the President's orders, from October 28, 1814, until December 25, 1814, with the rank, for the time being, of Major-General, pursuant to the resolve of the Continental Congress of August 25, 1780.

The capture of the British Squadron on Lake Champlain, and defeat at Plattsburg and retreat of the invading veteran British Army under Lieutenant-General Sir George Prevost, together with the diversion to Louisiana, from the Chesapeake, of the second invading British Army with their reinforcements from abroad, having dissipated all fear of further offensive operations against the Northern States, the Veteran Corps of Artillery was, pursuant to General Orders of November 29, 1814, after inspection by Colonel Nicholas Gray, Inspector-General, U.S.A., honorably discharged from the military service of the United States on December 3, 1814, with the thanks of Governor Tompkins.

A detachment of the Corps was, however, kept on duty, in United States service, as a Guard at the Arsenal, and periodically relieved by another detachment of the same, until March 2, 1815, during which tour of duty Dr. John H. Steel was assigned by Governor Tompkins, in General Orders, dated Headquarters, Albany, January 11, 1815, as attending Surgeon of the Corps, and also of the Militia, in United States service, on duty in Harlem.

On February 11, 1815, the British Sloop of War Favorite arrived in New York Harbor with the Treaty of Peace concluded at Ghent and ratified by the Prince Regent of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

It was received with rejoicings by the citizens of New York, and the Veteran Corps fired a national salute at the Arsenal.

For many years, after 1808, the Corps was, at its desire, charged with the duty of firing the national salute of one gun for every State in the Union on Independence Day and Evacuation Day until the venerable members became too feeble for artillery duty, when they paraded in uniform, with side arms only. These salutes were fired at the State Arsenal or in the City Hall Park, or at the Battery.

After the Peace of 1815, a detail was regularly made, in every year, from the Corps, by the Commandant, to raise the United States Garrison flag on the staff on the Battery, and on the stone Block House near McGowan's Pass, Harlem Heights, in Central Park, where the staff, still standing, was erected by the Corps.

From that time onward the Corps was recruited exclusively from among those who had served as officers or enlisted men in the Armies, Navies, or Letter of Marque service of the United States in the War of 1812.

Most of these had belonged to the volunteer forces or organized militia of the State of New York, and had uniformed, armed, and equipped themselves for such service at their own expense.

One by one the honored Revolutionary members, of whom sixty-eight had served in the Corps during the Second War of Independence, passed away, retaining their interest in the Corps to the last, and parading when able.

After 1815, the Corps assisted in many public events.

On the occasion of the funeral ceremonies attending the reception from Canada of the remains of Major-General Richard Montgomery, killed December 31, 1775, in the ill-fated assault on Quebec, and their final interment on July 8, 1818, in the chancel of St. Paul's Chapel on Broadway, the Veteran Corps of Artillery was detailed by Major-General Jacob Morton, of the Society of the War of 1812, commanding the New York State Artillery, in Division Orders of July 6, 1818, "to fire the signal guns at the Arsenal, and minute guns from Fort Richmond at Staten Island."

On August 16, 1824, the Corps officially assisted in receiving Major General, the Marquis de Lafayette, on his arrival at Castle Garden, much to his gratification, several of the veterans of the Revolution being in the ranks.

On November 26, 1830, Evacuation Day was celebrated and also the then recent Revolution in France, by a parade of all the organized militia forces and principal civic associations in the City of New York and vicinity. On this occasion the duty was assigned to the Veteran Corps to fire a national salute at sunrise at the Battery.

Upon the announcement of the decease at Paris, on May 20, 1834, of Major General, the Marquis de Lafayette, funeral ceremonies were held in the City of New York on June 26, 1834, which were participated in by all the military of the city and neighboring towns, and by the principal civic associations.

Officers of the War of the Revolution acted as pall bearers, and the Veteran Corps of Artillery fired minute guns as the procession moved through Chatham Street, Bowery, Broome and Broadway, to the Battery.

Upon August 14, 1836, Captain-Lieutenant John Van Arsdale,<sup>1</sup> of the Corps, died at his residence, 134 De Lancey Street, in the City of New York, in his eighty-first year, and was interred the next day in the First Street Cemetery, with funeral honors by the Corps, assisted by the Napoleon Cadets.

<sup>1</sup> In the War of the Revolution he served in the New York Continental Infantry in the severe winter campaign of 1775 in Canada and assault on Quebec, and later in the stubborn, but unsuccessful, defence of Fort Montgomery on Hudson or North River, where he was shot in the leg and made prisoner of war, October 6, 1777. He was, thereafter, confined, at different times, in the Sugar House in Liberty Street, and Presbyterian Brick Church in Beekman Street in the City of New York, and on the prison ship Whitby, until exchanged, July 20, 1778.

In 1780 he served in the Continental Light Infantry Division under Major General, the Marquis de Lafayette, and, when honorably discharged, on December 28, 1782, from his last enlistment, was First Sergeant of his Company.

Upon the Evacuation of the City of New York by the British Army under General Sir Guy Carleton, on November 25, 1783, the flag-staff on the Battery was left with cleats and halyards cut away and staff greased.

Mr. Van Arsdale, happening to arrive immediately afterward, found means to ascend the staff and fix new halyards, so that the American flag was promptly hoisted in view of the retiring forces.

He joined the Veteran Corps of Artillery, October 6, 1813, and was mustered with it into the military service of the United States in 1814, and was elected its First or Captain-Lieutenant, November 25, 1835.

On October 19, 1836, His Excellency, William Learned Marcy, of the Society of the War of 1812, Governor of the State of New York, officially inspected and reviewed the Veteran Corps in the City of New York, as an independent military organization, and, in General Orders from Headquarters, Albany, October 29, 1836, expressed "the high satisfaction afforded him in witnessing the discipline, subordination, and patriotic spirit" evinced by the Corps, which gave them "an enviable standing as citizen soldiers."

On December 3, 1836, Major General Jacob Morton, of the Society of the War of 1812, died at his residence, No. 9 State Street, in the City of New York.

Brigadier General Henry Arcularius, of the Society of the War of 1812, thereupon issued the following Orders:

"FIRST DIVISION NEW YORK STATE ARTILLERY,
"NEW YORK, December 3, 1836.

"Division Orders:

"The melancholy duty devolves upon the Division of paying the last solemn honors to Major General Morton, who died this day in the seventy-sixth year of his age.

* * * * *

"Captain Chapman of the Independent Veteran Corps of Heavy Artillery, having volunteered the services of his Corps, is requested to fire minute guns at the Battery, during the movement of the procession, corresponding in number with the age of the deceased.

"Ammunition will be furnished on application to the Commissary General.

"By order of

"Brigadier General ARCULARIUS:

"HENRY H. ELLIOTT,

"Division Inspector."

The Veteran Commandant of the Corps thereupon issued the following Orders :

“VETERAN CORPS OF ARTILLERY,

“NEW YORK, December 5, 1836.

“Orders :

“It becomes the Commandant’s painful duty to announce to the Corps the death of Major General Jacob Morton, the long-tried Commander of our Division of Artillery, — a man who to the dignity of the office united the politeness of a gentleman, and, while we bow with resignation to the all-wise dispensation of Providence, we feel it our duty to unite with our younger military brothers in rendering the usual funeral honors accorded to departed worth.

“The Commanding General having assigned to the Veteran Corps the honorable duty of firing minute guns during the march of the Procession, the Veteran Corps will assemble at the Arsenal Yard on Tuesday the 6th of December instant, at 1 o’clock P.M., and take post at the Battery at 2 o’clock P.M.

“By order of

“Captain GEORGE W. CHAPMAN, Commandant :

“CHARLES ROBB,

“Adjutant.”

On the following morning Brigadier General Arcularius, in Division Orders, directed the “Veteran Corps to commence the firing of minute guns as soon as the column should be in motion.”

The route of this procession was up Broadway from State Street, and through Bond Street to the cemetery in Second Street.

On June 24, 1845, under arrangements of the Common Council of the City of New York, funeral ceremonies were held in honor of the memory of Major General Andrew Jackson, ex-President of the United States, then lately deceased.

The procession consisted of thirteen divisions, military and civic, and among those who took part were the General-in-Chief of the Army of the United States, and the Commanding General of the Military District, with their respective staffs; the Commandant of the New York Navy Yard; the Corps of Cadets from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, and detachments of regular troops and marines, besides all the organized militia of the cities of New York and Brooklyn and neighboring towns, together with very many civic associations and the faculties and students of institutions of learning.

Among the pall bearers selected to represent the Veteran Corps were the Commandant, Dr. George Warren Chapman, and Abraham Dally, Jr., Esq., subsequently Commandant.

In the published programme it was officially announced that "the troops of the United States, stationed at the different posts in the harbor, would fire minute guns from noon to sunset"; also that "the Veteran Corps of Artillery would fire minute guns, answering in number to the age of the deceased, commencing at noon."

On September 10, 1845, the Corps had to mourn the loss of its last Veteran Revolutionary Commandant, Dr. George Warren Chapman, who died at his residence, 93 Canal Street, in the City of New York, in consequence of an accidental injury received a few days before.

He had been a member of the Corps from its organization in 1790, and its Commandant continuously from October 6, 1813, and had commanded it when in the service of the United States in 1814.

On November 25, 1845, the Corps celebrated Evacuation Day by raising the flag as usual, and by firing a national salute at the Battery at sunrise, which was answered, gun for gun, from Fort Washington Heights.

Later in the day, John I. Mumford, Esq., a veteran member and ex-officer of the War of 1812, delivered an address before them.

On the celebration of Independence Day, July 5, 1847, the Corps fired a national salute at the Battery at sunrise, "with guns originally sent here by George III. to protect the Colonies, but which afterward became American trophies."

Later in the day public officials, including members of Congress and of the State Legislature, and invited guests, assembled at the old State Arsenal, in Elm Street, and proceeded, under escort of the 1st Brigade, 1st Division New York State Militia, to the present Central Park, where, at 4 o'clock P.M., at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street, the corner-stone of a new State Arsenal was laid with appropriate ceremonies.

The Veteran Corps of Artillery preceded the procession to the site, and, at the proper time during the ceremonies, fired a national salute with guns taken at different times by the Americans from the British.

Upon the consolidation of the Military Society of the War of 1812 with the Veteran Corps of Artillery, January 8, 1848, Evacuation Day was continued as the day for annual meetings for business.

Many veterans who had served in the Third Military District in that war joined the Corps in the following years, including a number of eminent citizens.

This enrolment so increased the Corps that, in 1849, it took a Regimental formation, and in 1852 an Artillery Brigade organization for military purposes.

On July 4, 1848, Independence Day was celebrated as usual by a national salute at the Battery at sunrise, and raising of the flag there and at the Block House.

In this year the public mind was agitated by political questions connected with a Presidential election, in which two of the candidates, representing great political parties, were veteran ex-officers of the War of 1812.

Four veteran members, displeased that the Corps would not enter on political questions nor declare in favor of one of the veteran candidates, thereupon resigned and organized, with assistance of other persons, including descendants of several veterans of 1812, not members of the Corps, an Artillery Company which was subsequently, on April 7, 1856, regularly incorporated with the 1st Regiment New York State Militia Artillery, and eventually disbanded, January 17, 1874.

On July 4, 1851, pursuant to the Commandant's orders of June 21, 1851, the Corps paraded, in uniform, with side arms, at the Superior Court General Term Room in the then new Court House, City Hall Park, in the City of New York, where the Honorable Ambrose C. Kingland, Mayor of the City, presented to the Corps a flag of the United States.

In the course of his remarks he said :

"It is with pride, I can assure you, that I am invited to be with you, and, most of all, to perform the pleasing duty of presenting to you these colors.

"It is a tribute most justly due you. . . . On this banner are the stripes and stars of our national Union; under its graceful folds, freedom and protection are dispensed to all, unsurpassed by any nation upon earth.

"This has been achieved and secured by the labors, privations, sacrifices, and deaths of very many of our citizens in the War of 1776, and in the War of Completion, declared June the 18th, 1812, of which last, yourselves are the honored survivors. You were participants in the great struggle of 1812, which secured the liberty and happiness we now enjoy, which was commenced and contended for by your honored predecessors in the War of 1776.

"Under the ensign of the stars and stripes, and with the reveille of the soul-stirring drum and fife, did you and others cheerfully labor to form those entrenchments extending from Gowanus Bay to the Navy Yard, at Brooklyn, and on this island from Hell Gate to Manhattanville, and subsequently under the command of His Excellency, our then worthy and honored Governor, Daniel D. Tompkins, were you found, with others from adjoining counties, at your posts as soldiers, in those entrenchments, and elsewhere in and about this harbor, forming an impenetrable wall of defence to this great city, against any force that our powerful enemy could command, which they tacitly acknowledged by changing their scene of operations to the South, where your brethren in arms received them and gave a satisfactory reception, the record whereof is now on file in the archives at Washington, and enrolled on the pages of our National History.

"Veteran Survivors of the War of 1812! it would ill become me to charge you to defend and protect this banner—our national ensign,—you have already been tried and proved, and not found wanting as defenders of our nation's rights, our nation's honor, and our national independence, which we this day celebrate, and of the national flag which this day I have the honor to present. . . ."

In accepting the colors, the Commandant of the Corps said :

“ . . . This Corps received in 1812 the national flag, with thirteen stripes and eighteen stars in union. They stood by it in peril and in need, in war and in peace, until time has numbered thirty-one, all in union. We now receive this flag . . . still to be our guide, our polar star through the remainder of life, and pass down to posterity what we have done. . . . ”

The Corps was then reviewed by the Mayor in the City Hall Park, and afterward marched to the Presbyterian Church, corner of Canal and Greene Streets, where one of the venerable members, the Reverend Gardiner Spring, D.D., LL.D., pastor of the Presbyterian Brick Church in Beekman Street, made a prayer; another veteran member, Gilbert S. Nixon, Esq., read the Declaration of Independence, and the veteran chaplain of the Corps, the Reverend Peter J. Van Pelt, D.D., formerly Chaplain U. S. Army, 3d Military District, delivered an oration.

The Corps concluded the day by dining together as usual with toasts and songs.

On December 5, 1851, Daniel Slocum, the last of the soldiers of the War of the Revolution enrolled in the Corps, died in the City of New York, after a membership of sixty-one years.

On July 4, 1853, the Corps having, as usual, fired a national salute at the Battery at sunrise, and raised the flag, subsequently met at noon and admitted to membership in the Corps, at his desire, Daniel Spencer, a soldier of the War of the Revolution who had served successively in the 4th Regiment Connecticut Continental Infantry and 2d Regiment Continental Light Dragoons until honorably discharged, and who appeared at the meeting, although then ninety-four years old.

On Evacuation Day, November 25, 1853, the Corps raised the flag as usual at sunrise, and at noon fired a national salute with four field pieces in the City Hall Park.

It was then reviewed by the Honorable Jacob A. Westervelt, Mayor.

In the evening the Corps assembled, by invitation, at Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, where the Reverend Henry Ward Beecher delivered a discourse before them on the events and results of the War of 1812.

On July 4, 1854, after the usual national salute at the Battery and flag raising, the Corps, under escort of the Washington Continental Guard, took steamer for the Ocean House, Shrewsbury, N.J., where they were entertained at a banquet by the son of one of their members.

On July 4, 1855, after the national salute and flag raising, the Corps paraded, in uniform, with side arms, and then dined at the Star Hotel in Leonard Street.

On Evacuation Day, November 26, 1855, instead of a national salute, the Corps fired the original United States salute of thirteen guns at sunrise, and afterward dined at the Battery House.

In later years these banquets were held either at the Star Hotel, Mercer House, or Astor House, and finally, for several years in succession, at the Sturtevant House.

On July 4, 1861, the Corps, under escort of the Continental Guard, proceeded to the Battery and fired the national salute and raised the flag.

Later in the day, one hundred members in uniform, with side arms, assembled at the Mercer House, and, after luncheon, marched in the afternoon to the Everett House, and escorted from there to the Academy of Music, the Honorable Edward Everett, LL.D., of Massachusetts, the orator of the Day.

On July 4, 1862, after the early duties of the Day, the Corps reassembled at the Mercer House and marched down Broadway to the Park Barracks, where they distributed supplies to sick and convalescent soldiers, and then dined together as usual.

On July 4, 1863, the Corps, whose veteran members were becoming feeble by advancing years, fired a national salute for the last time, pursuant to the following Orders :

In the following year the Commandant of the Corps issued the following Order:

“Orders:

“The Veteran Corps of the War of 1812 will assemble at the Mercer House, corner of Broome and Mercer Streets, on Monday, Fourth of July, 1864, at one o'clock P.M., in full uniform, to celebrate the eighty-eighth year of our National Independence.

“The Veterans living in adjacent counties are respectfully invited to unite with us in the festivities of the Day.

“By Order of

“HENRY RAYMOND, Brigadier General:

“ISAAC M. PHYFFE,

In the next few years many veteran members passed away, but the Corps continued regularly to meet on Independence Day and Evacuation Day and raise the flag at the Battery and at the Block House.

The last public performance of this duty by the venerable members was on November 25, 1890. It is, however, still performed in charge of the Corps.

On November 25, 1881, the Corps was the only organization in the City of New York which officially celebrated Evacuation Day.

On May 30, 1882, a detail of twelve veteran members, with the Commandant of the Corps, united, by invitation, with Mansfield Post, Grand Army of the Republic, in the City of Brooklyn, in celebrating Decoration Day.

At the dinner which followed, Samuel Ryckman of the Corps sang “Ye Sons of Columbia,” and all his venerable comrades joined, as usual, in the chorus.

This song, always a favorite with the veterans of the War of 1812, was set to the old English tune "To Anacreon in Heaven," which was also appropriated, in 1814, to the words of "The Star Spangled Banner."

On July 4, 1882, the Corps again paraded and raised the national flag at the Battery and at the Block House, Harlem Heights.

On November 25, 1882, after the performance of this duty at the Battery, the Corps, under escort of the Old Guard of the City of New York, marched to the Stevens House, corner of Broadway and Morris Street, where it was joined by the detail sent to the Block House, and there dined, as guests of their escort.

For the National Centennial Celebration, on November 25, 1883, of the Evacuation of the City of New York by the British Army, delegations were invited to assist from the several military societies of national wars, namely: the "Society of the Cincinnati" of the War of the Revolution; the "Veteran Corps of Artillery" of the War of 1812; the "Aztec Society" of the Mexican War, and the "Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States," and "Grand Army of the Republic," of the War of the Rebellion.

The delegation from the Veteran Corps of Artillery, which reported in uniform, with side arms, at the reviewing stand in Madison Square, consisted of the venerable Brigadier General Abraham Dally, the President and Commandant, Henry Morris, Lieutenant Charles Oakley, formerly 2d Regiment New York Militia Infantry in 1814, Lieutenant Michael Moore, U.S.A. retired, George Crygier, William John Surree, Thomas Megson, Robert W. Ryckman, Charles Coombs, Elijah P. Jenks, Frederick L. Fowler, Thomas Bloomer, Samuel Ryckman, and Gardiner Robert Lillibridge.

In the next six years, many of the remaining veterans died or became too feeble to parade, until, on the occasion of the National Centennial Celebration in the City of New York, on April 30, and May 1, 1889, of the inauguration of the Government of the United States under the Constitution, but five members, including the Commandant, were able to parade in uniform with side arms, to meet the President of the United States at the reviewing stand in Madison Square to officially assist in the military and civic reviews.

It was then realized by the veterans that unless measures were speedily taken to perpetuate the Corps it would become extinct like the Association of Defenders of Baltimore in 1814, the Delaware Veteran Companies, and the Pennsylvania Association of Defenders of the Country in the War of 1812.

Twenty-two veteran members survived, of whom fifteen constituted a quorum.

After consultation, they unanimously, in writing, designated five of their number as Trustees with full powers to prepare amended Regulations in the form of constitution and by-laws, which should provide for hereditary succession. The Trustees were also, in like manner, authorized to admit hereditary members to perpetuate the Corps; to choose permanent officers, and, finally, to incorporate under the laws of the State of New York as a military Institution, retaining accustomed privileges in manner analogous to the incorporated Honorable Artillery Company of London with its President, Vice-President, and Court of Assistants equivalent to a Council of Administration, or Board of Directors.

The veteran Trustees, under date of September 10, 1890, the anniversary of the battle of Lake Erie, agreed upon and subscribed the amended Regulations, and, under date of September 11, 1890, the anniversary of the battle of Lake Champlain, admitted certain hereditary members, and appointed new Officers and Council of Administration.

Although duly empowered by all their associates to perform these several acts, the Trustees, nevertheless, submitted their proceedings, as before recited, to the Corps for approval.

Three venerable members had meanwhile died.

The nineteen surviving veterans, however, constituting more than a quorum, over their hands and seals, duly acknowledged, unanimously united in ratifying and approving the amended Regulations for the Corps, and in the admission of the hereditary members and appointment of new Officers and Council of Administration.

In the amended Regulations the name of the Corps, as a military Society, was resumed, and the date of annual meeting was restored to the anniversary of the signal victory achieved by the American army and Naval force in the battle of New Orleans over a greatly superior veteran British army and naval detachment.

Under these Regulations, descendants of enlisted men in the Regular, Volunteer, Militia, or Letter of Marque forces, in the War of 1812, who had not been original members in one of the veteran military societies, were rendered eligible.

The total State volunteers and militia forces which had been called at different times into the military service of the United States in the War of 1812, amounted, in the aggregate, to 410,603, of which the State of New York had furnished 77,887, and, as it was not intended that the Corps, in its capacity as a Military Society recognized by Congress, should enter on the enlarged field of usefulness of patriotic societies formed by descendants of participants in the First or Second Wars of Independence, it was deemed desirable to restore, with certain necessary exceptions, the rule of the Society of the War of 1812 adopted in 1826.

Accordingly, on October 26, 1893, the anniversary of the action on the Chateaugay, Lower Canada, a meeting of the Corps was held in the Governor's Room of the City Hall, in the City of New York, on which occasion, with the written approval of all the surviving veteran Original members, an amendment was unanimously adopted to the Regulations, restricting and limiting, thereafter, the admission of hereditary members to the proper descendants of commissioned officers, aides-de-camp, and commanding officers of private armed vessels of the United States which served at sea under commissions of Letters of Marque and Reprisal from the United States, and to the proper descendants of original and hereditary members of the Corps heretofore duly admitted, and to the proper descendants of original and hereditary members in military societies formed prior to January 8, 1856, by men who served in the armies and navies of the United States in the War of 1812, and to the proper descendants of the veteran delegates to the National Conventions of 1854 and 1855, who were eligible to original membership in the Corps.

The rolls of the Corps show that, since 1790, there have been seven hundred and fifteen veteran original members, of whom two hundred and thirty were commissioned officers.

Of the sixty-nine members who actually served with the Corps in the military service of the United States in 1814, George Crygier was the last survivor, he having enlisted as a musician, October 29, 1814, to take the place of George Clarke, a soldier of the Revolution, who was unable, by reason of physical disability, to properly perform the duty. The other members at that time were all veterans of the Revolution.

Mr. Crygier continued an active and interested member of the Corps until his decease, in the City of New York, March 31, 1888.

For many years the headquarters of the Corps were at the Star Hotel in Leonard Street, and then at Military Hall, 193 Bowery, and finally at Room No. 4 in the City Hall, the use of which was accorded by the Common Council.

Upon the establishment of Cypress Hills Cemetery on Long Island, six lots on Mount Victory were dedicated to the Corps.

Here, since June, 1854, thirty-six deceased veteran members have been interred with funeral honors, the last being the venerable Abraham Dally of the Council of Administration of the Corps, on February 19, 1893, in the ninety-eighth year of his age.

On January 8, 1892, pursuant to previous authorization from their venerable Associates, the veteran Trustees, with consent of the Special Term of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, incorporated the Corps as a Military Institution and body politic, for certain purposes, under the laws of the State.

On November 25, 1893, upon the occasion of the unveiling in City Hall Park of the bronze statue of Captain Nathan Hale by the patriotic society of the Sons of the Revolution, a delegation from the Corps and from the other regular military societies of the Cincinnati, Aztec, and Loyal Legion, proceeded, under escort of a detachment of the regular army and navy from Fraunce's Tavern in Broad Street, to assist in the ceremony.

On March 9, 1895, the Legislature of the State of New York, by special Act amending the incorporation of the Corps, conferred on it certain rights and confirmed it in all its prescriptive and statutory privileges.

One of the prescriptive privileges was the right to select its own uniform for purely military purposes.

Upon the formation of the Corps, the uniform worn by the Continental Corps of Artillery at the close of the War of the Revolution was, as far as practicable, adopted.

That uniform consisted of a blue or black coat reaching to the knee and full trimmed, lapels fastened back with ten open-worked buttonholes in yellow silk or thread on each lapel, and ten large yellow Artillery Corps buttons at equal distances on each side; three large yellow Artillery Corps buttons on each cuff and a like number on each pocket flap; the skirts hooked back, showing red lining; bottom of coat cut square, red lapels, and standing collar or cape each two inches wide, and red cuffs three inches wide; single breasted white waistcoat with twelve small yellow Artillery Corps buttons, and short pocket flaps with three small buttons on each; blue, black, or white breeches, black gaiters reaching nearly to the knee; white cravat for officers and black stock or cravat for sergeants and rank and file; shirt ruffled at the breast and wrists for officers; black cocked hat bound with yellow tape or braid; black cockade, and, after 1782, black plume topped with red, rising therefrom six inches; cut and thrust sword, yellow mounted, two feet six inches in length, with black or yellow gripe; gilt epaulets for officers, one or two according to rank, and, after May 14, 1782, yellow worsted shoulder knots for sergeants on each shoulder, and on the right shoulder only for corporals; white waist belts and white shoulder belt over right shoulder; red silk sashes for officers and red worsted sashes for sergeants, and white gloves.

The musicians' coats were deep red with dark blue facings and dark blue vests and breeches.

As pantaloons, instead of breeches, with black half gaiters seven inches long, were prescribed for the Army of the United States in General Orders from Army Headquarters, Loftus Heights, January 19, 1791, they were adopted by the Veteran Corps of Artillery.

The figures "1776" in yellow metal were, at the same time, put on the cockade of the Corps.

The Corps also adopted a distinctive plume for the officers, red topped with white, upright hackle, eight inches long.

In 1802, the present civilians' silk hat, then termed a "round hat," made of beaver skin, which had its origin in the Army of the Revolution, came into use in the Army of the United States, and, as it had already practically supplanted the cocked hat in civil life, was adopted by the Veteran Corps, with chapeaux for the officers, as prescribed in United States Army Regulations, the cockade and respective plumes being retained.

In 1809, after the officers of the Corps had been commissioned by brevet, the question arose, in view of material changes then contemplated in the uniform of the Army of the United States so as to conform more nearly in fashion to the uniforms in Foreign Services, whether it was obligatory on the Corps to discard its own uniform for the somewhat antiquated one prescribed in State Regulations, or whether it could adopt such bill of dress as might be found desirable.

Accordingly Commandant McLean wrote to the Governor of the State of New York, and received the following reply :

ALBANY, November 27, 1809.

Dear Sir :

* * * * *

"The law neither prescribes a uniform for the Veteran Corps nor authorizes the Governor to do it.

"If, therefore, they think proper to uniform, they are at liberty to select such dress as the taste and wish of the Company may suggest.

* * * * *

"I am, Dear Sir, Respectfully,

"Your obedient Servant,

"DANIEL D. TOMPKINS."

In 1810, dark blue single-breasted coats, without facings, were prescribed for the Artillery of the Army of the United States, and adopted by the Veteran Corps, instead of the old-fashioned Revolutionary coat; but, from the difficulty of procuring blue cloth from abroad, black was used until 1816.

Except that, in 1821, trousers were substituted for pantaloons and gaiters, this uniform, for any military purpose, continued to be the uniform of the Veteran Corps until 1865, when black frock coats with black buttons, civilians' shape, and black trousers took the place of the single-breasted dark blue uniform coats and trousers, and the Artillery Corps buttons of the Revolution disappeared from the bill of dress.

The original insignia or distinctive badge of the military Society of the War of 1812, was a plain gold or gilt "Cincinnati" eagle, with wings displayed, inverted,—typical of the Second War of Independence,—holding in its talons a scroll bearing the figures 1812 and suspended by a deep red and dark blue ribbon.

The form of the insignia was subsequently changed by the Veteran Original Members in their Amended Regulations, but the eagle was retained.

The distinctive ribbon was also retained because its colors were the primary colors of the Flag, as well as the distinguishing colors, for many years, of the American Artillery.

In several States, during the War of 1812, dark blue coats edged with red were the Regulation uniforms of both the militia artillery and infantry, and the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania, by Act of March, 1814 (General Orders, State Headquarters, Philadelphia, September 13, 1814), not only prescribed such colors for those arms of service, but also enacted that the State cockade for all of the State's militia should be blue and red.

STATE AND NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

---

ON July 4, 1853, the surviving officers and soldiers of the War of 1812 in the State of New York held a State Convention in the General Term Room of the New York Supreme Court in the then new Court House, City Hall Park, in the City of New York, at which the Veteran Corps of Artillery was represented by a delegation of its officers.

Among the resolutions adopted was the following :

“Resolved :

“That this Convention deem it expedient to the furtherance of the various interests of the Soldiers of the War of 1812, that ‘The Veteran Corps’ of the City of New York be so extended as to embrace the several counties and the enrolment of the names of those residing therein throughout the State.”

This State Convention also resolved that they would have a general-in-chief and accordingly appointed one of their number.

The recommendation to the Corps to enroll in their ranks all the veterans throughout the State was not favorably considered by the Corps, and not accepted.

On June 20, and 21, 1854, a second State Convention of Veterans of the War of 1812 in the State of New York was held at Syracuse, N.Y., at which the Veteran Corps of Artillery was again duly represented.

This Convention had reference only to bounty lands and pensions for disabled veterans and claims of proper reimbursement for clothing destroyed in service.

In the following year, on January 9, 1854, a National Convention of all veterans of the War of 1812, who chose to attend, was held in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, for the purpose of urging upon Congress the propriety of granting land bounties and pensions to those who served in that war.

To this National Convention, the Veteran Corps of Artillery sent a delegation, in uniform, of twenty one members, including the Commandant, Chaplain, and Adjutant, which was met at the Camden and Amboy railroad depot in Philadelphia by a Reception Committee and by a Company of Pennsylvania National Guards and escorted to Independence Hall, where they were received with nine cheers by the assembled veterans.

The only other Military Societies of veterans represented at this National Convention were the Second and Third Companies of Artillery and First Company of Light Infantry, of Delaware, now extinct, and the Association of Defenders of Baltimore in 1814, which had been formed April 1, 1842; but, having refused, on August 25, 1886, by formal vote, twelve members being a quorum, to admit descendants, has since become extinct, by the decease, on December 17, 1888, of the last original member.

At this National Convention of 1854, a motion was adopted for "the appointment of a committee to consist of nine, to devise means to organize a National Society of the soldiers of 1812, to meet on the 4th of July, at Independence Hall at Philadelphia."

The committee was appointed by the Chairman, but never reported, and nothing further was done. The subject was, however, resumed at the next National Convention.

The National Convention of 1854 also, by resolve, "respectfully recommended to the soldiers of the War of 1812, to form a Society in each of the States of the Republic, and that the 8th of January be set apart as the day of annual meeting."

At the request of the delegates from the State of New York, the Convention also recommended and advised "that the General-in-Chief of the Veterans of the War of 1812 in that State, organize the said Veterans into brigades and regiments, and that he appoint suitable and efficient officers to command the same."

After providing for memorials to Congress, as to bounty lands and pensions, and for a committee to wait on that body, the National Convention became functus officio by adjourning; sine die.

On September 17, 1854, a third State Convention of Veterans of the War of 1812 in the State of New York was held at Fonda, N.Y., at which the Veteran Corps of Artillery was duly represented.

This Convention of Veterans approved the action of their General-in-Chief, taken on recommendation of the late National Convention, to form them into regiments and brigades, although such formation did not long continue throughout the State.

The Veteran Corps of Artillery, which had previously taken a brigade formation, was declared to be a separate brigade. Its Commandant was given the permanent title of Brigadier-General, and its Vice-Commandant the title of Colonel, and for temporary sub-formations for any military purpose those who acted as officers were to be designated by the titles appertaining to such functions.

On January 8, 1855, a second National Convention of all Veterans of the War of 1812 who chose to attend, was held in the Presbyterian Church, 4 $\frac{1}{2}$  Street, Washington, D.C., for the same declared purposes as the National Convention of the previous year, and the ex-officer who had then presided was again chosen Chairman.

To this National Convention the Veteran Corps of Artillery sent a delegation of fifteen members.

The Delaware Companies of Veterans and Old Defenders of Baltimore, which comprised the remaining military societies, were also represented.

Under escort of a regiment of District of Columbia militia, the members of the National Convention proceeded to the Executive Mansion and were formally received and welcomed by the President of the United States.

The Senate of the United States, by resolve of January 9, 1855, extended to them the privileges of the floor during the sitting of the Convention.

This Convention, in order to give effect to the suggestion in the General Convention of the previous year, for the surviving veterans to organize themselves into a national or general society, adopted resolves as follows, namely :

Resolved: That the surviving soldiers of the Army and Navy in the War of 1812, do now form themselves into a Society to be known as the 'United Brethren of the War of 1812.'

Resolved: That it is expedient for the United Brothers of the War of 1812, in the several States of the Union and in the District of Columbia, to organize themselves into divisions, brigades, and regiments.

Resolved: That at every Convention hereafter called and held by the United Brothers of the War of 1812, each delegate shall record his name, place of residence, and his military services in that War.

Resolved: That when this Convention adjourn, it adjourn to meet in the City of Washington, D.C., on the 8th of January, 1856."

These resolutions provided for a society in the form of a National Convention to be composed exclusively of Veterans and to meet in Washington in the following year, but the Veterans never held another National Convention, nor was any strictly military organization into divisions, brigades, and regiments in the several States other than New York subsequently effected as contemplated by the resolves.

This convention of 1855 also resolved, "that in order to obtain justice for ourselves and the widows and orphans of our deceased brother soldiers, it is important to have a complete organization in each State of the soldiers of the War of 1812."

This was a repetition of the recommendatory resolve of the previous National Convention of 1854, "to form a society in each of the States of the Republic."

But one State society was thus formed, namely, "The Pennsylvania Association of the Defenders of the Country in the War of 1812," which was organized in Philadelphia July 4, 1857.

Under its constitution, as amended July 4, 1860, "the sons, or in default of sons, the grandsons, of those who served their country in the War of 1812" were made eligible to be admitted as members of the Association, but the right, thus limited, was but infrequently availed of, and, as thirteen members were necessary for a quorum, the veteran original members passed away without adequate provision having been made, under the amended constitution, for the perpetuation of the Association, and it became extinct.

On October 17, 1856, a fourth State Convention of Veterans of the War of 1812 in the State of New York was held at Schuylerville, N.Y., to celebrate the anniversary of the capitulation of the British army under Lieutenant-General John Burgoyne in 1777.

The Veteran Corps of Artillery was duly represented at this Convention, which was the last ever held.

REGULATIONS AS TO THE INSIGNIA

(Vide Constitution, Article VIII.).

1. The Order of this Military Institution will always be worn at its meetings and on any detached or representative duty.

It shall never be worn at other times, except on "occasions of ceremony," including special commemorations of a national character, and should only be worn in the manner prescribed in the Regulations for the Army of the United States, unless a member be in the Navy of the United States, in which case the Regulations for that service will control.

Occasions of ceremony where Medals and Orders may properly be worn should be determined by the custom of the Military or Naval services of the United States, respectively, or when no such custom exists, by Continental usage.

The prescribed Rosette may be worn on other occasions, but shall not be worn at the same time as the Order.

2. Medals of Honor conferred by the President of the United States, in the name of Congress, for distinguished gallantry or extraordinary heroism in action, under the joint resolution approved July 12, 1862, and Act approved March 3, 1863, or Section 1407 U. S. Revised Statutes, shall take precedence of all Orders, and, when worn, shall be placed in the same line furthest from the left shoulder.

Medals conferred under any special act of Congress should, if awarded for the same kind of service, take precedence with Medals of Honor according to the date of the acts, respectively, for which they were conferred; otherwise such official Medals should, when worn, be placed next in line towards the left shoulder.

Medals or Crosses conferred by Foreign Governments for "distinguished" services, and authorized to be worn, should, when worn, be placed in line according to this Regulation, but if not conferred for such services, should follow in line after Military Orders.

3. Foreign Orders, when worn in the same manner, take precedence with the Orders or Distinctive Badges of Military Societies recognized by Congress, according to date of foundation or organization, respectively, of such Foreign Orders as compared with the date of the war of the United States symbolized and commemorated by the formation of the Military Society.

They should, when worn, all be in the same line, and precedence between Military Societies should be determined in like manner.

When, however, two or more Military Societies shall have been formed by men who served in the same war of the United States, the elder of these in date of foundation or organization should have precedence.

4. Army Corps Badges of the Armies of the United States, authorized by Section 1227, U. S. Revised Statutes, to be worn on occasions of ceremony for honorable service during the War of the Rebellion, should, when worn, be placed on a line two inches to the left and one-half inch below the lower point of the first Medal or Order in the line prescribed for Medals of Honor.

5. U. S. Marksman's Medals awarded in the military service of the United States under sanction of the Act of Congress, approved September 12, 1888, and subsequent acts, should, when worn, be placed next in the same line with Army Corps Badges towards the left shoulder.

The Order of this Military Institution should never be worn at the same time as a U. S. Marksman's Medal, unless when in uniform on an occasion of ceremony, where, by custom of the U. S. service, such medal is an appropriate part of such uniform.

6. State Medals for honorable service in any war should, when worn, be placed in the same line with Army Corps Badges and next on the left of U. S. Marksmen's Medals.

7. State Marksmen's Medals or Badges or prescribed Badges of Militia Hospital Corps should, when worn, be placed, in the order named in the same line with Army Corps Badges and next to the left of State Medals for honorable service in war, except when required by Militia Regulations to be worn otherwise.

The Order of this Military Institution should not be worn at the same time as a State Marksman's or Hospital Corps Badge, unless when, in full dress uniform on an occasion of ceremony, such medal or badge is required by Militia Regulations to be worn.

8. The Congress of the United States having, by joint resolution, approved September 25, 1890, recognized the material distinction between Military Societies, as Institutions formed exclusively by men who served in the armies and navies of the United States in one or other of the four national wars declared by Congress, and Patriotic or Historic-Commemorative Societies, as Associations organized for patriotic, commemorative, or kindred purposes, by descendants of civic, military, or naval participants in former events of local or national importance, and, as the particular badges of such Patriotic or Historic-Commemorative Societies are not authorized by Congress to be worn, the Order of this Military Institution should never be worn at the same time as the particular badge of any of such societies unless on a National Commemorative occasion, where the celebration is under the direct charge of one of such societies, or except in uniform in the militia service of a State, when authorized by the Regulations thereof.

When worn, under such circumstances, the particular badge of the patriotic or historic-commemorative society should be placed on the same line with and to the left of Army Corps and State Marksmen's and Hospital Corps Badges.

9. Medals, Badges, or other decorations presented by Municipal or other corporations, or by Civic or Military Associations or Military Commanders, or by Divisions, Brigades, Regiments, Companies, Boards of Officers, or individuals, should never be worn at the same time with the Order of this Military Institution, except that, when in uniform, Long Service Decorations, conferred by Military Authority of a State and sanctioned by the Regulations thereof, may be so worn on the line to the left of State Marksmen's Badges.

10. The members of this Military Institution are enjoined to prevent, under the authority conferred by law, any abuse of its insignia of honor, or unlawful interference with or infringement on its chartered title and prescriptive privileges confirmed by law.

Intentional departure from these Regulations will constitute an opposition to the particular interests of this Military Institution, and any member cognizant of the same should report the fact to the Secretary and Adjutant.

CONSTITUTION

AS AMENDED.

PREAMBLE.

Whereas: the Congress of the United States, by Act approved June 18, 1812, declared war to exist between the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the dependencies thereof and the United States of America and their territories, and

Whereas: this appeal to arms by the American people, after unexampled forbearance, was made necessary by a continued series of hostile encroachments and aggressions on their rights, interests, and territorial jurisdiction, and in defence of certain great principles of the law of nations which had been oppressively violated, for several years, to their great injury; principles which may be summarized as follows:

1. That the Independence and territorial sovereignty of the nation is inviolable.
2. That the National flag protects seamen on regularly documented American vessels against Foreign impressment.
3. That the Neutral flag covers enemy's goods with the exception of contraband of war.
4. That neutral goods, with the exception of contraband of war, are not liable to capture under an enemy's flag; and

5. That blockades, in order to be binding, must be effective; that is to say, maintained by a force sufficient really to prevent access to the coast of the enemy and preclude a reasonable chance of entrance; and

Whereas: it is fitting that the principles for which "The War of Eighteen Hundred and Twelve" was waged by the United States should ever be borne in remembrance and upheld by the American people,

Therefore: this Military Society has been instituted by men who served in the Armies and Navies of the United States in the War of Eighteen Hundred and Twelve to inspire among the Members and among the American People, the patriotic spirit of those who, in the military or naval service of the United States, or in service on private armed vessels of the United States bearing commissions of letters of marque and reprisal from the United States, during that war, defended their country against hostile encroachments on its rights and interests, and caused its sovereignty and independence to be respected; to inculcate and maintain the great principles of the Law of Nations for which they contended; to collect and preserve the manuscript rolls, records and other documents relating to that War, and to commemorate the Land and Naval victories of the American arms in that war; to undertake and assist in the erection of proper memorials thereof; to perpetuate the mutual friendships formed in that war under the pressure of common danger, and to promote fellowship among the members of every degree; to participate in the celebration of other historic patriotic events of National importance, and generally to take such measures, patriotic, historical, literary, benevolent, and social, as may conduce to the general intendment of this Institution and better accomplish the objects thereof.

3. No person shall be admitted an Honorary Member except by the Society at an annual or specially called meeting by a vote of three-fourths of the members present, and upon the unanimous recommendation of the Board of Directors as a prerequisite to a vote.

In case of his decease, resignation, neglect to serve, or inability from any cause to act as President, the duties of the office shall devolve on the Vice-President

In his absence from any meeting, a secretary pro tempore may be designated therefor by the presiding officer, unless there shall be an Assistant Secretary present to act in such capacity.

SECTION V.

TREASURER.

(Quartermaster.)

The Treasurer shall collect and keep the funds and securities of the Society; and as often as those funds shall amount to one hundred dollars, they shall be deposited in a National or State bank in the city of New York, which shall be designated by the Board of Directors to the credit of "The Society of the War of 1812," and such funds shall be drawn thence on the check of the Treasurer for the purposes of the Society only.

Out of these funds he shall pay such sums only as may be ordered by the Society, or by the Board of Directors, and shall perform such other duties as the Society, or Board of Directors, or his office, may require of him.

He shall keep a true account of his receipts and payments, and, at each annual meeting, render the same to the Society, with a full statement of the financial condition of the Society, when a committee shall be appointed by the Society, if it so chooses, or else by the President, to audit his accounts.

For the faithful performance of his duty as Treasurer, he shall give such security as the Society, or Board of Directors in lieu of its action thereon, may from time to time require.

SECTION VI.

CHAPLAIN.

The Board of Directors shall have power, in their discretion, to elect a Chaplain from among the members who shall be a regularly ordained minister of a Christian denomination, and it shall be his duty to open and close all meetings of the Society with customary chaplaincy services, and perform such other duties as ordinarily appertain to such office.

SECTION VII.

REGISTRAR.

(Commissary.)

The Board of Directors shall have power, in their discretion, to elect a Registrar from among the members, who shall keep a detailed record, to be deposited with the Secretary, of all the historical and commemorative celebrations of the society; and he shall edit and prepare for publication such historical addresses, essays, papers, and other documents of an historical character, other than a register of members or notices as may be required to be published, and, at every annual meeting, if there shall be a necrological list for the society year then closing, he shall submit the same, with carefully prepared biographies of the deceased members.

He shall also perform such other duties, not the particular function of any other officer, as may, from time to time, be devolved on him by the Society or Board of Directors.

SECTION VIII.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY.

(Paymaster.)

The Board of Directors shall have power, in their discretion, to elect an Assistant Secretary from among the members who shall assist the Secretary in the performance of such duties of that office as the latter may, from time to time, devolve upon him, and may, in such cases, give required notices, and certify, and authenticate, when necessary, any acts, documents, or records of the Society.

All required notices subscribed by him, and acts, documents, or records of the Society, authenticated by him, shall have the same force and validity as if subscribed or authenticated, as the case may be, by the Secretary.

In case of the absence of the Secretary from any meeting of the Society or of the Board of Directors, or of his decease, resignation, neglect to serve or inability, from any cause, to act in that capacity, the duties of the office shall devolve on the Assistant Secretary until the Secretary shall return, or until the vacancy caused by such decease, resignation, or neglect to serve, shall be filled, or until the inability shall cease.

SECTION IX.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

(Council of Administration.)

The Board of Directors shall judge of the qualifications of every candidate who shall make proper application to the Society for admission as an Hereditary member, and shall have power to admit him to hereditary membership therein, if found eligible and qualified under the Constitution of this Society. No person shall, however, be admitted an Hereditary member except by a unanimous vote of the Board of Directors at a legal meeting thereof.

The Board of Directors shall also have power to nominate to the Society any qualified person for Honorary membership, but no such nomination shall be valid unless made by a unanimous vote at a legal meeting of such Board.

The Board of Directors may, through the Secretary, call special meetings of the Society at such times and places in the State of New York as they may see fit ; and they may arrange for Commemorative Celebrations by the Society wherever they may deem desirable.

They shall recommend plans to the Society for promoting its purposes, and, when practicable, may digest and prepare business for its meetings, and shall supervise all publications issued in its name, and decide whether copies of records or other documents or papers may be furnished on request of any party, in cases not pertaining directly to the business of the Society, and the proper conduct of its affairs.

They shall generally superintend the interests, and shall have the control and management of the affairs and funds of the Society, and may appoint any necessary committee, representation, or delegation to kindred or other associations, or subordinate officials.

They shall also perform such duties as may be prescribed by the Constitution and By-Laws of the Society; provided, however, that they shall at no time be required to take any action, nor contract any debt, for which they shall be jointly or severally liable.

They shall be competent to remit the fees or dues of any member or members, and also to consent to and to accept the resignation or voluntary withdrawal from membership of any enrolled member of the Society.

They may require the attendance of any member of the Society, or of any official or committee thereof, at any meeting, for consultation and advice, and they may appoint, from time to time, a committee of three members of the Society, to be designated a "Committee on Admissions," to whom any and all applications for hereditary membership may be referred for preliminary investigation as to eligibility and qualifications, and for careful and exhaustive report certified to on honor by the members of such committee.

The Board of Directors shall meet as often as they may desire, or at the call of the President, or upon the written request of any three members of the same, addressed to the Secretary.

A majority of the Board of Directors shall be a quorum to constitute a legal meeting for the transaction of business.

At every annual meeting, and at such other times as may be required by the Society, they shall submit a general report of their proceedings during the period which may have intervened since their last report.

SECTION X.

INCORPORATION.

The Society shall be duly incorporated as a body politic and corporate under the laws of the State of New York, with its principal office in the City of New York.

The Board of Directors, or a majority of them, shall, in the month of December in every year, make and file in the office of the Clerk of the City and County of New York, in the State of New York, a certificate under their hands, stating the names of the Directors and Officers of the society, with an inventory of the property, effects, and liabilities of the Society, with an affidavit of the truth of such certificate and inventory, and an affidavit that such Institution has not been engaged directly or indirectly in any other business than such as is set forth in the original certificate on file.

The amendment of the statute of the State of New York, at any time, under which the foregoing certificate and affidavit and the filing thereof are required, shall ipso facto amend this section accordingly.

[This section amended by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York, approved March 9, 1895.]

SECTION XI.

NUMBER OF DIRECTORS.

The number of Directors may, at any time, be increased by the Board of Directors to not more than twenty, or diminished to not less than five, and such Board shall, in case of increase, name the additional directors, and, in case of reduction in their number, shall name the directors to continue as such, and the persons so named shall be directors until a new election shall be had. In case of increase, the Board of Directors shall divide the whole number thus increased into classes, so that not less than one-fourth of their number shall be elected annually by the Society.

No action, however, of the Directors changing the number thereof shall be valid until ratified by a majority of the members of the Society at a meeting called for the purpose, nor until the certificate and transcript thereof, required by law by reason of such change of number, shall be duly filed as provided by the law under which this Society shall be incorporated.

Any amendment of such statute in any of these requirements shall ipso facto amend this section.

Upon the due incorporation of this Institution, nine qualified persons shall be designated as the Board of Directors, who shall divide themselves into classes, so that not less than one-fourth of their number shall be elected annually.

Nine shall thenceforth continue to be the number of Directors, unless such number shall be increased or diminished as herein provided.

SECTION XII.

VACANCIES AND TERMS OF OFFICE.

Whenever an office in this Society shall become vacant by reason of the decease, resignation, or neglect to serve of the member elected thereto, or from other cause, the Board of Directors may fill the vacancy for the unexpired term from among their own number or from the members at large, as the case may be.

Whenever an officer shall be suspended or be unable properly to perform his duties by reason of absence, sickness, or other cause, the Board of Directors shall have power to appoint a member to such office pro tempore, who shall act in such capacity until the inability due to suspension, absence, sickness, or other cause shall cease.

Provided, however, That the office of President or Secretary shall not thus be filled by the Board of Directors either permanently or temporarily, when there shall be a Vice-President or Assistant Secretary to enter upon the duties of those offices respectively.

In like manner, the Board of Directors may supply vacancies among its members, under the same conditions and limitations; and in case any member thereof shall be absent from three consecutive meetings of the same, held at intervals of not less than three weeks between each of said meetings, his place therein may be declared vacant by the Board of Directors and filled by an appointment of a member of the Society thereto, which appointment shall continue in force for the residue of the term, as a director, of the member whose place has thus been declared vacant, and until the Society shall elect a successor.

The Board of Directors may also fill vacancies in committees due to death, resignation, neglect to serve, absence, sickness, or other cause, or may, in particular cases, devolve such power of filling vacancies upon the President of the Society.

Subject to the provisions of this section, all Officers of the Society and the members of the Board of Directors shall, from the time of their election or appointment, continue in their respective offices and places until the next annual meeting, and until their respective successors shall be duly chosen.

SECTION XIII.

RESIGNATION.

No resignation nor voluntary withdrawal from membership of any member enrolled in this Society shall become effective as a release from the obligations thereof, unless consented to and accepted by the Board of Directors.

Upon such consent and acceptance all and every right, title, and interest of the person whose membership is so determined, in or to this Society, or in or to its property or effects by reason of his former membership therein, shall cease and be forever at an end.

SECTION XIV.

DISQUALIFICATION.

No person who may be enrolled as an Hereditary member in this Society, shall be permitted to continue in membership where the proofs of claim of eligibility by descent shall be found to be defective and insufficient to substantiate such claim, or not properly authenticated.

The Society, or the Board of Directors, may, at any time after thirty days' notice to such person to properly substantiate or authenticate his claim, require the Secretary, if such person shall have failed or neglected to comply satisfactorily with such notice, to erase his name from the list of members, and such person shall thereupon cease to be a member as fully to all intents and purposes as if he had resigned his membership and such resignation had been consented to and accepted by the Board of Directors.

Where the Board of Directors shall direct the erasure of a person's name for a cause comprehended under this section, such person shall have a right of appeal to the next annual meeting of the Society; but he shall not be restored to membership unless by an affirmative vote of three-fourths of the members present on that occasion, or at a subsequent meeting to which the consideration of the appeal may have been specifically postponed.

SECTION XV.

EXPULSION AND SUSPENSION.

The Board of Directors shall have power to expel any enrolled member of this Society, who, by a conduct inconsistent with a gentleman and a man of honor, or by an opposition to the interests of the community in general or of this Society in particular, may render himself unworthy to continue a member, or who shall persistently transgress, or, without good excuse, wilfully neglect or fail in the performance of any obligation enjoined by the Constitution or By-Laws or any standing Rule of this Society.

Provided, That such member shall have received at least ten days' notice of the complaint preferred against him under this section, and of the time and place for hearing the same, and have been thereby afforded an opportunity to be heard in person.

Whenever the cause of expulsion shall not have involved turpitude nor moral unworthiness, any member thus expelled may, upon the unanimous recommendation of the Board of Directors, but not otherwise, be restored to membership by the Society at any meeting by an affirmative vote of three-fourths of the members present.

The Board of Directors shall also have power to drop from the Roll the name of any Hereditary member of the Society who shall be at least two years in arrears in the payment of dues, and who, on notice to pay the same, shall fail and neglect to do so within ten days thereafter, and upon being thus dropped his membership shall cease and determine; but he may be restored to membership at any time by the Board of Directors on his application therefor, and upon payment by him of all such arrears and of the annual dues from the date when he was dropped to the date of his restoration.

The Board of Directors may also suspend any officer from the performance of his duties, for cause; which proceeding must be reported to the Society and acted upon by it within thirty days, either by rescission of the suspension, or removal of the suspended officer from office, or otherwise the suspension shall cease.

Whenever a member shall be expelled or dropped from the Roll under the provisions of this section, all and every right, title, and interest of the person whose membership is so determined, in or to this Society, or in or to its property or effects by reason of his former membership therein, shall cease and be at an end.

SECTION XVI.

RECOMMENDATION OF CANDIDATES.

No member shall approve and subscribe an application for hereditary membership in this Society, nor recommend the applicant for admission, unless he shall know him to be worthy, and shall have satisfied himself by due examination of proofs that such applicant is eligible and will, if admitted, be a desirable member.

Any member who may thus approve and recommend an application shall be accountable therefor, and may be required by the Board of Directors to give full information in relation thereto.

SECTION XVII.

NOMINATING COMMITTEE.

Elections.

The Society may, at the annual meeting in any year, choose a Nominating Committee of not less than three, nor more than nine members, to nominate members for election to the vacancies which may arise at the succeeding annual meeting.

In case the Society shall not choose such a committee, the President shall, prior to every annual meeting, appoint such a Nominating Committee from among the members longest enrolled as such, who may consent to serve on such committee, exclusive of Officers or members of the Board of Directors.

The Nominating Committee shall select and nominate a ticket of names of members to fill vacancies in the Board of Directors at the ensuing annual meeting due to expiration of terms of service as such, and accidental vacancies which may not then have been filled by the Board of Directors.

The ticket prepared by the Nominating Committee may be printed and shall be distributed as the "regular ticket" at the ensuing election, but such action shall not preclude any member from making nominations different from those thus recommended.

All elections of Directors by the Society shall be by ballot, and a majority of the ballots given for a Director shall constitute a choice thereof; but, if on the first ballot, no member shall receive such a majority, then a further balloting, in such case, shall take place then and there, or on a specially adjourned meeting, in which a plurality of votes given shall determine the choice therefor.

SECTION XVIII.

DECEASE OF MEMBERS.

The membership of any person in this Society shall be determined by his decease, and all and every right, title, and interest of the person whose membership is so determined in or to this Society, or in or to its property and effects by reason of his former membership therein, shall cease and be forever at an end.

Upon the decease of any member residing within the State of New York, notice thereof, and of the time and place of the funeral, shall be given by the Secretary by publication, and it shall thereupon become the duty of the members, when practicable, to attend the obsequies.

Any member, upon being informed of the decease of a member, shall make it his duty to see that the Secretary is promptly notified of the fact, which fact shall also, in due time, be communicated to the Society.

SECTION XIX.

CERTIFICATE OF MEMBERSHIP.

Every member shall be entitled to receive a certificate of membership, which shall be authenticated by the President and Secretary of the Society, and to which the seal of this Military Society shall be affixed.

The certificate shall be in form following :

"THE SOCIETY OF THE WAR OF 1812.

"BE IT KNOWN, That.....has been duly admitted a member of this Institution in right of the services of ..... in the..... (Army or Navy or Privateer service,) of the United States during the War of 1812, in the defence of American Sovereignty and Independence against hostile encroachments and in vindication of the Laws of Nations.

"Dated at the City of New York, this ..... day of ..... in the year ..... hundred (L. S.) and ..... and of the Independence of the United States the .....

"President and Commandant."

"Secretary and Adjutant."

SECTION XX.

MARSHAL.

The President of the Society may, from time to time, in his discretion, designate a member to act, under his direction, as Marshal of the Society in its Commemorative celebrations, parades, and other meetings, and to perform such duties as usually appertain to such a position.

SECTION XXI.

SERVICE OF NOTICES.

It shall be the duty of every member to inform the Secretary, by written communication, of his place of residence and of any change thereof, and of his post-office address.

Service of any notice under the Constitution or By-Laws of this Society upon any member thereof, addressed to him at his last recorded place of residence or post-office address, and forwarded by United States mail, shall be deemed sufficient service of such notice.

SECTION XXII.

ANNUAL AND SPECIAL MEETINGS.

The Society shall hold an annual meeting in the City of New York on the eighth day of January in every year, except when such date shall fall on Sunday, in which case the meeting shall be held on the following day.

Unless the hour and place of meeting in said city shall have been fixed by the Society at the last previous meeting thereof, the Board of Directors shall designate such hour and place.

The annual meeting shall be for the election of directors and the transaction of general business concerning the Society which it may be competent to attend to.

During any election the regular order of business may be proceeded with.

Special meetings of the Society shall be held by direction of the Board of Directors, or upon the written request of not less than thirty members of the Society, at such time and place as the Board of Directors may direct.

At such special meeting no business shall be transacted except such as shall be specified in the notice therefor.

One week's notice of time and place of annual or special meetings shall be given by the Secretary by mailing through the United States Post-Office in the City of New York a written or printed notice to every member of the Society.

In lieu of such notice by mail, the publication thereof once a week for a period of three weeks in two daily newspapers published in the City of New York, shall be deemed sufficient notice.

The Society may, from time to time, by resolve, at an annual meeting, fix the number of members who shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business in future meetings, and in like manner alter the number at any annual meeting.

In the absence of such action by the Society, the Board of Directors may, by resolve, designate the number which shall constitute a quorum until action thereon by the Society at an annual meeting.

The majority of the number, thus fixed from time to time as a quorum for business at any meeting, shall be deemed and taken to be a majority of the members of the Society in any meeting for any lawful purpose.

SECTION XXIII.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

The meetings of the Society for business shall be generally conducted according to Parliamentary Law, and the following Order of Business shall, as far as the same may be applicable, be followed, unless the Society shall direct differently at such meetings.

SECTION XXIV.

ALTERATIONS AND AMENDMENTS.

No alteration nor amendment of the By-Laws of this Society shall be made unless notice thereof shall be duly given in writing, signed by the member proposing the same, at a meeting of the Society, nor unless the same shall be adopted at a subsequent meeting, held not less than thirty days nor more than ninety days after such notice, by a vote of three-fourths of the members present. Such notice may, in like manner, be renewed and acted upon as herein prescribed when there shall have been a failure of action in the time limit.

§ 2. In addition to the burial lots dedicated to its use in eighteen hundred and fifty-four, for burial of deceased veteran members of the War of Eighteen Hundred and Twelve, the said Corps may procure and hold such other real estate as may be required for interment of its deceased members and erection of memorials thereon, and such property shall be exempt from taxation and other liabilities in the same manner as other cemetery lands while used for cemetery purposes and no longer.
