Poetry.

A Woman's Execution, Paris, May, 71.
BY EDWARD KING.

Sweet-breathed and young—
The people's daughter:
No nerves unstrung—
Going to slaughter!

"Good morning friends!
You'll love us better—
Make us amends!
We've burst your fetter!"

"How the sun gleams!
(Women are snarling!)
Give me your beams, Liberty's darling!"

Marie's my name—
Christ's mother bore it.
That badge? No shame;
Glad that I wore it!

(Hail to her waist;
Limbs like a Venus; Robes are displaced.)
"Soldiers, please screen us."

"He at the front?
That is my lover;
Stood all the brunt;
Now the front!"

"Powder and bread
Gave out together.
Droll to be dead
In this bright weather!"

"Jean, boy! we might Have married in June!
This wall? Right!
Vive la Commune!"

Literature.

Love in the Oil District.

In Clarion County, near the celebrated oil-producing district known as Parker's Landing, and not a great distance from where the Clarion river mingles its pellucid waters with the swifter rolling tide of the Alleghany, has lived for years a man named Howlin, who, coming to the country in its early history, erected a cabin and maintained an humble existence by following his profession of horse-shoeing.

When the oil excitement brought numbers of speculators to that section of Pennsylvania, it was discovered that the blacksmith's farm was a series of oil wells, and he sold it for a large sum, purchasing for himself a stylish residence in the neighborhood.

Here, with his only daughter, Laura, now of marriageable age, he lived happily, until fate threw in his daughter's way an affluence—a young man named Harry Richardson, a driller by occupation, and poor as a church mouse.

She sought his society (her father had long since forbidden his coming to the house), and hardly a day passed but that she was seen in the derick, watching the pulsations of the walking beam and her heart at the same time, and listening to his stories of adventure by flood and (oil) field.

She loved him for the dangers he had passed, and he loved her because she believed his yarns, and no one else would.

Finally, one bright day, as he had just finished a terrible recital of escape from death by the falling of the sand-pump pulley, she shrieked, and said she "wished that Heaven had made her such a man," when Harry abandoned the timber-crow rope and caught the fair Laura to his petroleum stained bosom, wiped the benzine from his brow and lips, kissed her and said:

"I am the man!"

While enjoying the few moments succeeding their betrothal—blissful moments, that only comes twice in a man's lifetime; once when he finds his mother's preserves, and the other as mentioned—the lovers were startled by the entrance of the "village blacksmith, who seized his daughter, and without a word to the disconsolate Harry, carried Laura home and locked her up.

Days passed without communication between the lovers, and while Laura grew then, Harry also experienced bad luck. His tools got lost; the sand pump burst, and his heart, pained soon to follow suit.

The Condition of Queen Victoria.

The New York "Post" says that for several years Queen Victoria has shown symptoms of mental disorder, and as her family has been similarly afflicted, there is some fear of the result. The "Post" says:—

"The Queen has a firm conviction that Prince Albert is always present with her, and that she can hold communion with him. Her private rooms are arranged as they were when he was alive. His chair is placed opposite to her own in the library, and the books which he delighted to read to her are arranged lovingly, in order, upon the table. In some of her moods she will converse with him for half an hour together, conducting her own share of the conversation aloud and with the vigor and interest of old times.

He had taught her by his example, the success of his business enterprises—especially by his management of the Duchy of Cornwall—to superintend as much as possible all the private affairs herself; to reduce all unnecessary expenditure, and to forbid extravagance. Hence the greatest simplicity is observed at the Queen's table, and she imagines that her husband looks on, well pleased.

At times, when she is more than ordinarily impressed with a sense of his presence, the poor, fond woman will order a knife and fork to be placed on the dinner-table for him, and cause the servants to place every chair as if the master still occupied it. Every morning a pair of boots are cleaned and set down against the door of the room which he once occupied; and at breakfast, when in Scotland, she will often sit a long time in silence, waiting for the Prince.

The Queen's strong belief in the communion of the living with the spirits of the dead she received, no doubt, from Prince Albert himself, who was sort of a theosophist—a something between Jacob Behmen, the mystic, and J. G. Fichte, the philosopher of transcendentalism. Whatever may be thought of it as a theory of philosophical or religious belief by sober, common-sense people it is to Victoria a source of great consolation, and she often talks with the Prince concerning the state of the soul after death.

She has been gradually withdrawing from life for some years past, and she lives in a world of her own. Her harp and her easel are neglected, and she neither sings, plays, nor paints, except at rare intervals, when she sweeps her harp strings for a few moments in memory of some sweet German air her husband loved to sing or to hear sung.

And now for the sequel.
In his anxiety to see "how it was himself," old Howitt remained too near the pipe, and when the glycerine went off, he did also, and was picked up in Armstrong county, a few days later.

But where was Henry?
Instead of applying his ear to the hole, he had stepped to the derick for a moment, during which the explosion occurred. He was only stunned, and a few minutes later met his betrothed running to see if he was hurt.

They fled at once to a neighboring justice of the peace and were married. They have patched up the old house, and are happy, though the mysterious disappearance of their father was a subject of conversation for months after.

This is the story, as told by an old man who lives near Henry and Laura, who heard the noise, and also saw where the ground had been torn up by the father's vengeful experiment.

If any one doubts the story, the derick is still to be seen.

WARNING TO PERSONS ABOUT TO MARRY.—A friend married the other day in South London made a discovery in regard to wedding law which he is anxious to have made public in the interests of all bachelors "about to marry." On stepping into his carriage, after the wedding breakfast, he found he had left something behind and returned into the house to fetch it, instead of getting his "best man" to act on his behalf. On his return to the carriage he was besieged by a score of pretty girls, and had to pay the penalty of "kissing every one of 'em" before he was allowed to rejoin his bride. Now, isn't that a awful warning?

Speaking by Machinery.

[From the New York Sun.]

There is soon to be exhibited in this city a combination of wood, wire and indianrubber—a machine, which can talk in any language, say anything, pronounce distinctly, laugh, cry, hiss, shriek, squeal, sing divinely in alto, soprano, basso; in short, do anything of which the human voice is capable. This extraordinary result of ingenuity and perseverance is the invention of Professor Faber of Vienna and his nephew. The latter has brought it to this country, after an extended tour throughout Europe, during which it has enlisted the commendations of the greatest scientists of the old world. It consists of a fancy gilded table beneath which is a foot lever for moving a bellows above. On top are a combination of wires, strings, delicate wooden levers, rubbers, tubes, and trawlework, forming the speaking machine. Behind is a bellows which represents the lungs. The air is forced through a narrow aperture into a tube which represents the windpipe, and thence into a large swelling representing the glottis. Thence it passes out through a vent representing a human mouth, with movable jaws, lips, and tongue of indianrubber. A small box, furnished with piano keys and filled with wires and wooden slates, produces the singing in combination with a weak made in imitation of the human face and its organs of speech. Madame Faber, a most modest looking lady, played upon the keys with great skill. There was no humming about it. Its style of talking is as follows:—

"I—am—a—mere—mach—ine—buth—I can—talk—as—well—as—you—sirs." Mr. Faber said that he was seven years endeavoring to produce the sound of it. The utility of the machine may be questionable, but as a curiosity of ingenuity its success cannot be disputed. It is the only one ever perfected. There have been others invented at different periods, but their articulation has been confined to a few set sentences. This can articulate anything.

A SYSTEMATIC SUICIDE.—The Paris correspondent of the "Echo" writes:—"A man, name unknown, was discovered poisoned in one of the streets of the Champs Elysees on Saturday night. On searching the body at the dead-house a paper was found in his side pocket, on which he had carefully written, minute by minute, his 'impressions' at the approach of death. I subjoin a part of this strange document: 'T—o—o—c—k—at—night—I must finish. I will get into a garden, and end all in an unknown corner. Five minutes past ten—Here I am in the corner, covered up with my cloak. The air is cold and damp. But what have I to fear from cold? The gas-light just reaches me. Quarter-past ten—Everything is ready. I take my bottle of poison. How strange! to think that those few drops will separate my soul from my body. Twenty minutes past ten—'Tis done. I have swallowed the liquid! What is going on within me? I feel nothing but curiosity. The cafes below are gay, I hear them. Ah! Half-past ten—Fearful pains in my legs and back. My ideas are confused. The world is disappearing from me. My childhood appears before me, mother, father, all! Quarter to eleven—Sleep is overcoming me. The beginning of my end is at hand, my legs are dead. Where is my soul? Will it wander from globe to globe through thousands of centuries? What matters? I came into the world without thinking. I must leave it the same. Eleven o'clock—What do they say? The cold has reached my stomach. My head is heavy. I cannot see. Oh! I should know.— There were a few words more, but they could not be deciphered.

NEVER SAY DIE.—Young lawyers sometimes despair of defences which give no encouragement, but old practitioners—more especially when the fees are remunerative and certain—can see no discouragements held forth by the evidence, not to be counterbalanced and overcome by professional acuteness and sagacity well paid.

A prisoner was once arraigned in Kent county, Michigan, for stealing pork. He retaining a young, talented and ingenious member of the profession for his defense.

Having listened to the prisoner's own story, and heard from him what in all probability the people's witnesses would swear to, he candidly informed his client that it was useless to waste money in his defense.

"Never you mind," was the confident reply, "you argue my case good and strong, just as if you believed me a persecuted man, and here's twenty dollars for you." "The lawyer worked up the contract, and before he had summed up he had the jury in tears, at the bare idea of snatching such a bright example of domestic and social worth from the bosom of his family and the society of his neighbors, to be thrust among felons in the common jail.

To his astonishment his appeal was effective—the prisoner was acquitted. Closed together after the verdict and discharge of the culprit, and the twenty dollars having been paid over, the lawyer said:

"By-the-by, B., that was a most surprising verdict, considering what the government proved."

"Not at all," was the cool reply, "six of them jurymen had some of the pork."

The mercury in that lawyer's bump of self-esteem fell to zero.

A NEW CALIFORNIA INVENTION.—A Californian has after several years of labor and expense of many thousand dollars, succeeded in producing a machine for grading railroad tracks, turnpikes, and other embankments, which will reduce the labor cost at least fifty per cent. It consists of a common plow, with a somewhat extended mould board, which may be raised or lowered at pleasure. A circular table or wheel, twelve feet in diameter, inclines at an angle of about twenty five degrees, toward the plow. Within the outer edge of this wheel is arranged a series of scraper-shaped buckets, with adjustable bottoms. To avoid friction, this wheel or table is geared to a certain shaft, at the top of which a cam is attached, with rods leading to each bucket for the purpose of discharging the same. This circular table derives its motion by means of a driving wheel similar to that used in a reaping machine. There is a steering apparatus at the rear. To do thorough work it takes sixteen horses, four abreast, or what would be better, it should be propelled by steam.

It is claimed for this machine that it will do the work of 12 men with shovels, or of twenty-five common earth scrapers drawn by fifty horses, and requiring two men to each scraper. One man can handle this machine, and two men are all that are required to manage the team.

PHYSICAL LAZINESS.—Physical laziness is one of the most destructive vices of the age. It causes weak, flabby, spongy bodies, which are always getting out of sorts, and are so weak that a strong mind is completely thrown away upon one. In fact a strong mind in a weak body, is like a superior knife blade in a weak and miserable handle. Its workmanship may be ever so finished, its temper ever so true, its edge ever so keen, but for want of means to wield it properly it will not cut to much purpose. Ambitious youths who intend to carve out fame and a fortune with their sharp intellects, should think of this simile, and see to it that their bodies—handles by which they are to manage that wonderful weapon, the human mind—are kept in sound-jointed, firmly-directed, perfectly cleansed condition.

ON DRAINAGE.
The most important of all sciences is that of farming, to know how to cultivate the soil so as to raise the largest crops with the least expense, and without permanent injury to the soil.

The best authorities on Agriculture say, that thorough drainage will add at least one-third to the product of the soil.

Drainage will often save a crop. Drainage will enable a farmer to work his land much earlier in the Spring, and thereby his crops escape risks to which late planting exposes them.

Drainage will often convert useless land into the most productive. Rain should not be permitted to run off the surface of the soil, nor should it remain in it to sour, but should percolate through it, and then be removed, thus imparting to vegetation the valuable properties it contains, so necessary to the sustenance of vegetable life.

For this reason the farmer should understand something of the chemistry of nature, know how to appropriate to the soil all the fertilizing elements that the clouds and atmosphere contain, the heat, the oxygen, the carbonic acid and ammonia: how to open the pores of the earth to receive these disintegrators and fertilizers, to enable the soil to yield up its concealed nutriment.

This is the function of successful drainage. It is the process of removing everything from the soil that is deleterious to the growth of plants.

Chiquito Post.

SACKVILLE, N. B., NOV. 2, 1871.

POST OFFICE ROBBERIES.

Our readers will remember we have a few weeks since that some money mailed by Mr. Winslow at Montreal for the Bank of Montreal at Halifax had been lost and an investigation respecting it was in progress. We saw by the Halifax paper that Mr. John Dewe, an Inspector of the Post Office Department from Quebec, had been sent to all in the province, and that after going over the route from Montreal to Halifax, he satisfied himself the money reached the Halifax Post Office. He confirmed his investigation in this suspicious way, and then upon John C.
Campbell, a clerk in the Halifax Post Office. A search of the money was made and Campbell's house searched but nothing was discovered, and Mr.
Dewe's presence was resented in failure. Having been unsuccessful in obtaining by legal means proof of Campbell's guilt, he then went to him and gave a pledge that if Campbell confessed, and made over his property to the Post Office, no further action would be taken by the department. Campbell upon this confessed to stealing the money, and to having previously stolen other money, and he then conveyed all his property to the department.

We are not in a position to judge of the propriety of Mr. Dewe taking the course he did; if his ground of suspicion against Campbell was so slight as not to justify criminal proceedings against him, the importance of knowing where the guilt was might justify it. If he had evidence of a free passage for rain water and head on the surface of the earth to the level of the drain, specially elects most important changes in the condition of the soil and subsoil.

The first enquiry will be, what kind of lands require draining?

The general answer might be, that all lands require draining that contain too much water for the intended crops. To be more specific, all lands which at some seasons of the year become filled with water which has no natural outlet but remains on or near the surface until it is removed by evaporation.

When a plow is pulled on the whole or part of its surface a constant appearance of dampness, indicating that as fast as water is disposed of its surface, it is forced up from below, so that after a rain fall it is much longer than other lands in assuming the color of dry earth, and undoubtedly needs draining.

Lands of whatever kind of soil in which the openings or spaces between the particles are filled with water, whether from rain falls, springs or surface overflow within less than three feet of the surface of the ground immediately after heavy rain, require draining.

In the water of heavy rains standing for some time on the surface of the earth, or if it collects in the furrow while plowing, draining is necessary to bring it to its full fertility.

Swamps and bogs require draining.
No argument is required to convince any one that the large tracts of land usually known as swamps and bogs, must in some way be relieved of their surplus water before they can be rendered fit for cultivation.

All high lands that contain too much water at any season, require draining.

There are other indications which may be observed even in dry weather, such as wide cracks in the soil, caused by the drying of clays which by previous soaking have become pasted together. The curling or cracking of shoes that in its early growth it has been prevented by a wet subsoil from sending down its roots below the reach of the sun's heat, where it could find, even in the driest weather, sufficient moisture for a healthy growth.

Alloys of ordinary richness which contain a fair amount of clay, will withstand a drought without great injury to their crops, if thoroughly drained, so as to keep the pores open at the surface. Very slight difficulty will be found in determining what lands will be benefited by draining, much less than in ascertaining what lands will not be benefited by draining.

To be continued.

The Chicago "Times" figures the total loss up to the date at $150,000,000.

The School Trustees of Kentville have voted $2,500 for a new school house.

their native country to be foisted by Nepotism into the best office in the department, but occupied places that had fairly won in a manly struggle with their fellow colonists. Wood-gate in this Campbell matter pursued his well beaten path; he denied the letter had ever been received in the Halifax office. Mr. Jones swears he seemed positive it was not there, and the whole weight of Mr. Woodgate's official character pressed heavily upon them the suspicion of a crime committed in his own office and under his own eye. His imbecility in refusing to entertain any charge against his officer, encourage the perpetration of their crime in fact if we are correctly informed, the style he assumed towards country officials in investigating the matter, was harsh, offensive, and tyrannical, and productive of any thing but respectful feelings.

Had Mr. Dewe not taken the matter in hand, Mr. Woodgate's office would not have been purged of the black sheep it contained, and the imbecility, to call it by no harsher name, exhibited by Mr. Woodgate in the investigation of the Campbell theft, shows more plainly than argument, his unfitness for his position, and being a detriment to the public service, and without regarding the qualification it would afford the country post offices, his removal from office is a duty the government owe to the country.

Since the above was in type we see Campbell has been discharged from custody, on the ground of his confession being inadmissible, and he has since suddenly left for parts unknown. Before he went, however, he took time to instruct his lawyer to dispute the validity of the judgment he had given Mr. Dewe with which to pay his robberies. This last piece, a fitting climax to his rascality, and utterly destroys any sympathy which might have been created by the breach of faith towards him.

PARSBORO' RAILWAY.

It is rumored that the local Government of Nova Scotia intend having a line of Railway surveyed from Spring Hill Coal Fields to Parrsboro', that is, from the mines belonging to the General Mining Association to Mill Village. It may not be generally known that several years ago when the Association and the Government settled their mining disputes, the former secured the right to select four square miles at any place they thought proper at Spring Hill. They accordingly sent a thoroughly competent Engineer from England, and expended a large sum in prospecting and boring before they located their area, and they now own forever four square miles of the very best of that coal field. They also surveyed the route to Parrsboro' for a Railway and found no engineering difficulties whatever, but on the contrary an excellent line, twenty-four miles in length, terminating at a harbour accessible all the year around. It is said that the local government intend having this line again surveyed, and will offer the General Mining Association a large subsidy towards building it. We have never doubted that Parrsboro' is destined to be connected with the outside world by a railway but we sincerely hope that an enterprise of such promise may be consummated now, that the present generation may enjoy some of the advantages such a road would confer.

With railway communication, and the shipping point of extensive coal fields, Parrsboro' has a brilliant future in store. Possessing a fine harbour, beautiful scenery, a mild climate, great shelving beaches, it will some day be a sea side resort where the wealth and fashion of the country will in the summer months find relaxation. In the meantime the place is not asleep. She is taking advantage of her superior ship building facilities and abundant birch timber, and at least one youthful but vigorous manufactory attests her enterprise.

RAILWAY TO RIVER PHILIP.

We are not all surprised that considerable dissatisfaction exists amongst the people of Maccan, Parrsboro', and River Philip, at the course pursued by the Railway Commissioners in not opening the road from Amherst to River Philip this fall. Messrs. Smith & Pittblado, the contractors, have had their work done in advance of their contract time. A great part of the road was ready for rails, ballasting and bridging months ago, and yet it is only a few days ago that a portion of the rails and a bridge arrived from England. The grading is now completed; the Engineers have been notified their services will not be required after the end of the present year; and the sleepers and rails are at last on the ground, yet the road will not be opened this fall! It is boldly asserted that there is jobbery, or nepotism or something going on with reference to the ballasting.

More than a month has elapsed since the tenders for this work were opened, and yet not a glimpse of the contractors is to be seen. Not a station house has been commenced, nor is there any sign of an early opening of the road apparent. Dr. Pupper, (who is supposed to be the Alpha and Omega of the government so far as Nova Scotia is concerned), we think, owes some things to the people of Maccan and Parrsboro', and should compel the Commissioners to do their duty. It really is monstrous that the Dominion cannot build 25 miles of railway through a level and well settled country in four years.

The Island Railway Troubles.

The Islanders have been a good deal exercised lately on Railway matters. We have read the correspondence between the Government and the contracting parties, and the impression on our minds is that the Government did the ninety and nine things for Mr. O'Brien of Halifax, but because they did not do the hundredth, Mr. O'Brien has taken it hard, and the outs think they can get in by using the O'Brien whom it seems one of the Island orators judiciously enough calls an Irish hero. The chief fault we see is that the Government put up with O'Brien's broken promises so long. He should have been dealt with somewhat less con-siderately, and very likely he would have thanked the Government more than he does.

The assertions of some of the papers that the Government are in collusion with a ring, we must say, cannot be answered in any other stronger way than by using the Scottish verdict—"not proven."

Judging from the Examiner, the friends of the Government are not afraid of the result of a judicial examination. Mr. O'Brien threatens the editor of the Examiner with a libel suit for making certain misstatements about a mortgage which Mr.
O'Brien offered for security. The Examiner gives his proofs, as the document published, in its face shows conclusive evidence that $100,000 were required for extending O'Brien's Railroad, and the natural inference is that the money was raised. The editor of the Examiner says he will be happy to meet him before a jury.
Mr. O'Brien will not likely "meet him" as evidently there is not a judge or jury in Christendom that would not "laugh him out of court." It does not say much for O'Brien's organs that they are not able to defend him without the attempt being made to crush out an opponent with the "terrors of the law."

One word to the Islanders about their railroad. We, in New Brunswick, who have been paying from $25,000 to $30,000 per mile, can't understand why they are not thankful that they are getting a road for about $15,000. The characters of Messrs.
Shieber & Burpee is a guarantee that they will get a good road.

VESSEL LOST.—A cable telegram to R. M. Dixon, Esq., on the 28th ult., states that the brig Janie Moody, Crawley master, owned by Clark Dixon & Co., of Glasgow, Scotland, from Glasgow to this Port, was sunk; 22 days out. She was loaded with pig iron for C. Fawcett & Co., and Fall goods for Dixon & Fawcett and others of our merchants.
Vessel and cargo insured.

We direct the attention of our agricultural readers to the article on Drainage we commence this week on our first page. As no draining has been done in Westmorland, beyond what was absolutely necessary, and its money value to the Farmer is discussed and strongly insisted upon, and its cost stated to be within the means of any ordinary Farmer, we hope they will carefully read the articles as they appear.

BREED LOCALS.—Rev. Dr. Pickard has contracted with Mr. Cope of Joliette for the erection of a cottage near the residence of Thos. Pickard, Esq.—Mr. Andrew Ford opens a Branch Store at Point de Bute next week.—Late American papers received from G. E. Mottion & Co., News Agents, Halifax.—King's College Calendar for 1871-72 has been received.

FOREIGN SUMMARY.
LONDON, Oct. 27.

Sir Roderick Murchison was buried today. The services were attended by a large number of distinguished personages, including Gladstone and Professor Huxley.

It is reported that the French National Assembly and Government will return to Paris before December.
The Governor of the Portuguese colony of Gao, West of India, telegraphs that a revolt is threatened, and asks for assistance.

LONDON, Oct. 29.

In closing his address at Greenwich, Mr. Gladstone said the nation could not but be gratified by the economics effected by the present Government, through abolition of the official patronage, the concentration of military and naval force, the withdrawal of troops from Canada, New Zealand, the introduction of a system of army reserves, the abolition of the purchase system in the army. The House of Lords might need reform, but nothing should be done precipi-tately. The Lords had not acted wisely in rejecting the ballot, which would again be introduced at the next session. The contagious disease act would be dealt with at the next session in a manner that would command the sympathies of the nation. Other measures would be brought forward which he hoped would meet with the approval of Parliament and country. At conclusion of his speech, the resolutions of thanks were enthusiastically passed.

A PROCLAMATION.

WE have just received a New Revised Map of the Dominion of Prince Edward Island, issued February 25th, 1871. Price 25 Cts. Size 46x55 inches. We declare that the many changes and improvements that have been made in our Dominion, have rendered the Map of the late Provinces comparatively useless and created a general demand for a New Map, that will show our Country as it now appears. This Map will show all the Cities, Towns and Post Villages in the Dominion, and all the Railways and Canals, etc. The divisions into New Counties, all the New Townships, Free Grant Lands are given on this Map. On the back of this Map will be shown a Map of British America, United States, Mexico and West Indies. The Map of British America, will plainly and correctly show the new Province of Manitoba, British Columbia and Vancouver Island, together with all the British Possessions and Settlements in North America, also the proposed Canadian Pacific Railroad to British Columbia. In the United States part of the Map, will be shown all the New Territories of the United States, the Great Pacific Railway to California, and a Table of Distances to all parts of the World, also Ship Routes, etc. The Map is printed from Steel Plate Engravings, and every letter and line is perfectly distinct. It is beautifully Coloured in Landscapes and Townships, and Variously and Handsomely Mounted on Robers. See School, Office, Library or Hall, is completely furnished without a New Map of the Dominion.

LIVE AGENTS WANTED to sell this Map in every County and Township in the Maritime Provinces, also in P. E. Island, to whom will be given exclusive Territory, and the most liberal terms. For particulars address SYDNEY KINER, GENERAL AGENT, Amherst, N. S., Dominion of Canada. oct 26

CLEANINGS.

A Western youth was mobbed the other day by the nuptial spinners of his town for having married a widow.

An Alabama newspaper speaks of a coloured orator there having "discovered his shadow in a perforation."

It is said that certain aristocratic temperance men have refused to have anything to do with water, because it is so often drunk.

A SARATOGA belle, who dressed nineteen times a day, has gone into a decline. So has her father. He declines to pay his notes.

Alcohol was first invented, and used to stain the cheeks of the ladies of Arabia, 320 years ago. It still reddens portions of the human face.

"Murdering," "Yankee Flat," "New Jerusalem," and "Devil's," are some of the towns in which California glories.

An Illinois lover managed to elope by means of a light buggy with two horses, while an accomplice, with a heavy lumber vehicle, drew pursuit in another direction.

To Tell Good Eggs.—Put them in water if the butts turn up, they are not fresh. This is an infallible rule to distinguish good and bad eggs.

A VEMONTER has invented a new and cheap plan of boarding. One of his boarders mesmerizes the rest, and then eats a hearty meal, the mesmerized being satisfied on sympathy.

The Bull Calf which took the first prize at the Pictou Exhibition, last week belonging to Mr. Alexander Ross of Mill Brook weighed 610 lb., and was 5 months and 1 week old. Standard.

A WRITER says that more than 150,000 acres of the best timber in America are cut every year to supply the demand for railway sleepers alone. In a single year the locomotives in the United States consumed $90,000, 000 worth of wood.

He took her fancy when he came; he took her hand, he took a kiss; he took no notice of the shame that glowed on her happy cheek at this He took to coming afterwards; he took an oath he'd never deceive; he took her father's silver spoons; and after that he took his leave.

A man in Kansas was present at the funeral of a neighbor of whom no good could honestly be said. But everybody was saying something, and this man, not wishing to appear singular, but being incapable of lying, enquired, remarked that it was "a nice quiet corpse."

The St. John Freeman in an account of the opening of the railway to Bangor, says, "that the luncheon given on the occasion was substantial and abundant. The absence of vines was a novel feature in such an entertainment, and to many of the provincials not the most agreeable."

Josh Billings says: "Most men will concede that it looks foolish to see a boy dragging a heavy sled up hill for the fleetness, pleasure of 'din, down, again. But it appears to me that the boy is a sage by the side of a young man who works hard all the week, and drinks up his wages on Saturday night."

A GREAT FIG.—Mr. Rich. Blackie, Green Hill, is the owner of a hog not altogether 2 years old, which measures from the nose to the tip of the tail 9 feet 1 inch or 8 feet to the extremity of the hind quarter. His height is four feet and eight round the body 6 feet. This is larger than the hog referred to in a recent issue as belonging to Mr. Joseph Porter, of River Hebert, Cumberland County, Standard.

Heak's an expression which needs not to be explained.

"Charlie! what is osculation?"

Osculation, Jenny dear.

Is a learned expression queer.

For a nice sensation.

I put my arm thus, around your waist.

This is approximation.

You need not fear—

There's no one here—

Your lips quite near—

I then—

"Oh, dear!"

"Jenny, that's osculation."

The Far Western press glows over the adventures of a Southern Carson, one Joe Peavey, who rivals the great Kit in the completeness and intrepidity of his Indian raids. Recently Kiowa chief, Leaping Panther, scalped and burned alive a white borderer. Joe was set upon the war-path, and penetrated hundreds of miles beyond Arkansas civilization to capture the assassin. Coming to the Indian camp he took up his home with the red-skins, and finally, after a two-week's sojourn, inveigled the unsuspicious chief and two of his squaws to take a ride with him to another tribe. By a dexterous stratagem Joe induced his Indian companion to take a safe distance from the tribe, and when at a safe distance from the tribe, he turned upon his astounded convoy and leveled his revolver at the head of the chief, and threatening instant death, compelled the affrighted squaws to disarm and bind the helpless brave. In this fix the blue of the forest was resumed, 200 miles of unbroken forest traversed before the intrepid scout landed his prisoners at Fort Smith. To insure himself at night, Joe tied each squaw to a tree, and the chief he tied to himself, having first bound his feet and arms securely.

ANILINE DYES.

ONE of the most remarkable discoveries of modern times is that by which Perfumes, Flavors, Colors and Chemicals, are eliminated from the tarry oil obtained in the distillation of coal, amounting in all to no less than fifty. One of the most wonderful and important of them being ANILINE, which under treatment at the hands of the Chemist, is made to produce a series of colors called—ANILINEDYES.

which are now most extensively used, and even bid fair to supersede almost every other variety of Dye Stuff.
The following are put up in packets, with easy directions:—

ROSEINE.
Magenta Pink.
Rosa Purple.
Fine Violet.
Soluble Blue.
Nicholson's Scarlet.

PONCEAU.
Phosphine Yellow (deep).
Eclipse Green.
Bismark Brown.
Aniline Yellow (light).

INKS, which flow easily and are free from sediment or corrosive substances, and of splendid colors can be most easily made by merely dissolving Rosci-noline, Ponceau, Blue or Ponceau in soft water. The ink is excellent for thunder, and a quantity only is required. Ponceau makes beautiful coloring to be used in ink, and is used for the English Dyes.
