See Victory---In for Spring Water at Every Stage---Mayor Gives His Views.

Chairman Darch, of the water commission, was seen by The Advertiser today in regard to the vote on the water question, and he expressed himsolf as well pleased with the result.

"The result of the plebiscite taken by mail, shows the people to be overwhelmingly in favor of spring water," Mr. Darch said to The Advertiser, "The spring water vote was split up so that on the first count the river water had a slight lead, but this was soon overcome by the opinions expressed by the high-pressure voters and the Titus, in their second

He had a talk with City Solicitor Meredith this morning regarding the legality of submitting two schemes to the people.

Mr. Meredith pointed out that the two bylaws could not be submitted, but that it would be quite legal to submit two schemes, and then ask the Legislature to issue debentures to carry out the wor kof the scheme which had received the highest number of votes.

Only a majority of the votes cast would be necessary in this case, Mr. Meredith says, to carry the scheme.

Of course, if an informal vote, such as Mr. Meredith suggests, wers taken, instead of putting a bylaw to the people for one scheme only, there might be trouble in getting the Legislature to sanction the issue of the debentures.

MAYOR JUDD SEES VICTORY FOR SPRING WATER.

Mayor Judd, like Mr. Darch, appears thoroughly convinced that the people are still strong for spring water. Had not there been three spring water schemes before the people, he felt that the Komoka scheme, which he and the commissioners championed, would have carried hands down.

The big votes cast for the Komoka scheme and the independent highpressure scheme, as well as the second choices expressed on the latter, and also on the Titus ballots, are ample proofs for his worship that the people of London want spring water an will have no other.

JUDGES PLEAD FOR BARRINGTON

Ask Commutation of Death Sentence for the Bogus Nobleman.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 23 .- Many celegrams have been received by Govenor Folk urging executive clemency for "Lord" Seymore Barrington, under sentence to be hanged at Clayton, Mo., Thursday for the murder of James P. McCann. Two were received from Missouri Supreme Court, asking for a commutation of sentence.

The first was a telegram from Judge Valliant: In my opinion, the State of Missouri cannot face the world with that record and say she gave Barrington a fair trial. (Signed) L. B. Valliant.

The second is the form of a petition signed by Judges Valliant and Graves. It says: We believe the ends of justice will be better served by a commutation of the death sentence imposed upon F. Seymour Barrington to imprisonment for life than would be his execution, and we therefore recommend such commutation." Judges Valliant and Graves were the judges who handed in a dissenting opinion when Barrington's case came before the court. Governor Folk promises a decision in the matter today. Jefferson City, Mo., July 23 .- Gover-

BARTEL'S FIGHT

Visits Father in Jail-Declares Brazilian Grandee Appears in Brewer's Fortune Has Shrunk $300,000.

Toronto, July 22.-Incensed at the sight of his father, the former Auburn, N. Y., brewer, tottering to meet apopleptic stroke, induced by excitement, Hermann Bartels, jun., states emphatically that he never will rest until someone has been brought to book in connection with this now celebrated case.

Hermann Bartels, jun., a determinedlocking Syracuse business-man, visited his father at the jail with Mr. Bartel's sister. They were shown into a side room where, after a time, Mr. Bartels, who was sent to jail for 90 days for escaping from custody, came in. The three stayed together only some fifteen minutes, and afterward Mr. Bartels, jun., returned to Syracuse, and his aunt went back to Auturn, N. Y.

"When I look at father now and think of him as he used to be it breaks me all up," said the son. "Yes, he was a millionaire and over some time age, but this affair, to my certain k (wledge, and I am business manser, has already cost him $300,000. How? Why, in the fact that his securities depreciated and he had not the time nor the opportunity to look after them. He is still, however, a man, of means, and these means will be used to see justice done."

The elder Bartels is now in the jail other stroke such as the one that has contracted his right side so that to speak is difficult for him.

GOOD-BYE TO EXETER HALL

Famous Home of Religious Thought Soon To Be Destroyed.

Londoni, July 22. - Many tourists today went to Exeter Hall to bid a last farewell to the famous home of religious thought and action which is soon to be destroyed. The farewell took the form of meetings lasting throughout the day. Many were presfor the charge that women are dealing ent and spoke who used to throng the building before it passed into the possession of the Y. M. C. A.

It is now the property of a restaurateur, who has promised not to use it Egg Harbor City to do some shopping, as a saloon, dance hall, theater, or for any other purpose not in keeping with team had disappeared. No one had the past. The Y. M. C. A. has taken seen the driverless horses go, and it temporary quarters in the Strand prior was thought they had been stolen. A BENEFACTOR TO ALL.—The soldier, the sailor, the fisherman, the miner, the farmer, the mechanic and all who live lives of toil and spend their existence in the duli routine of tedious tacks, and who are exposed to injuries and ailments that those who tell not do not know, will find in Dr. Thomas' Edectric Oil an excellent friend and benefactor in every time of

New York With Fifth "Venture."

New York, July 22.-Gossip murmurs through the corridors of one of Gotham's famous hotels, buzzes among him along the jall corridor, clad in the men in the cafe, and breaks out the women in the parlors, hums among jail uniform—the old man scarcely in queries to the clerks in the office. able to articulate as the result of an The object upon which all this attention is bestowed is a Brazilian, and the reason for it is that he is here on his fifth annual honeymoon.

Every summer within five years he has come to this hotel with a new wife. They have been real brides. and no mistake. They have been variegated as to sizes and shapes, complexions and temperaments, but alike in one particular-all have been young and exceptionally handsome.

The man is about 50, has the looks and manner of a Spanish grandee, and spends money as though he had plenty of it. He does not splurge or plunge, like a new millionaire, but behaves like a gentleman born and bred to affluence. He is said to be a mine owner. Upon his third arrival with a third bride in 1905 the landlord of the hotel deemed it expedient to find out whether it was a bona fide honeymoon, with a genuine marriage to authenticate it. He approached the Brazilian very cautiously on the subject, but was received with frank good temper.

"Come to my room," said the guest, "and I will show you a marriage certificate. I have brought along, also, papers to prove my divorce from each of the wives with whom I have visited your hotel before. Oh, you need not apologize, sir. It is quite right that you should take care of the reputation of your house." Upon his fourth advent in town a year ago an explanatory account of his matrimonial vagaries came along with him. A South American who knew him well was a fellow-traveler. "There is no secret about his singular conduct," said this biographer. "He is a pious man, in his own way, and a stickler for obedience to the law." Every year he picks out a beauty for a transient summer bride to take on his annual trip to New York. There is always a regular formal and duly recorded marriage service; and next day the couple set sail for the States. In two or three months they return to separate immediately, and with little delay he begins divorce proceedings. The law in Brazil grants a divorce to a husband who can bring proof that his wife before her mar-own country. The bride of 1907 is a smallish blonde girl of not more than 20, quite in the Edna May type of acutely sweet prettiness. The gossip of the hotel has it that she is different from her four predecessors; that she has no past at all, and that when the hisband comes to the divorce feature in her case he won't be able to carry out the usual programme, unless she voluntarily permits it. It may be that she has agreed to such a course, but it is a surmise that she has won, or is winning, the love of this whimsically marrying man, and that he may be glad to make this fifth marriage permanent.

Conan Doyle, meanwhile, is devoting more attention to the Edalii case than the Dublin Castle mystery. This is the case of one George Edalji, a minister's son, near Wrigley, England, who, in 1903, was sentenced to seven years in prison on exceedingly unsatisfactory evidence. Later he was released. The case was the outcome of a series of diabolical mutilations of Edalii's innocence.

The former matter came up in the House of Commons last week, when F. E. Smith, a young barrister member from Walton, who created a sensation by his maiden speech in the house, and who has been regarded ever since as a ministerial possibility, deagines he has succeeded too well and livered an impassioned plea for the compensation of the victim in this miscarriage of justice. THE WATER VOTE.

It is not easy to see at present wherein the result of the "mail-order" vote brings the water problem nearer a solution, or helps the commissioners out of a difficult position.

If the vote means anything, it means that the sentiment of the ratepayers is overwhelmingly in favor of the refantion of spring water for drinking purposes, but upon this point there has never ben a doubt. The commissioners to that extent have accurstely gauged public opinion.

The glowing made by the independent system is remarkable, consideras being much costlier than the Komoka or the river filtration scheme.

The emperor's debear far less heavily upon the general fense that the agreement of Novemtax rate than would other schemes.

By an unscrupulous advocate of river filtration the independent system was described as a scheme engineered by rich men, with large mercantile Interest, to get special benefits at the expense of the less well-to-do rate-"It is the rich against the poor; the strong against the weak," is a sample of this demagogic campaign. An attempt was also made to create prejudice against the meter system by strict the legitimate use of water, increase water rates, and "make the workingman help to pay for the protection of the downtown and mercantile districts." The appeals to classfeeling in a matter of this kind revealed more anxiety to carry a par-

The Komoka scheme had been rejected, and the engineer specially engaged by the board had recommended river filtration. As a resort to the river for drinking water was but of the question for a community which prides itself on its pure and palatable spring water, the independent scheme was evolved as a compromise, which would help the features were that it maintained spring on top. water for domestic uses, and applied river water to purposes for which it was suited. Although the scheme was the last to enter the race, it is not Yar behind, and it may be ahead at the finish. The proposal is made by advocates of the Maury plan that two schemes-Komoka and river filtration-be submitted jointly to the ratepayers, but the independent system is not to be crowded out in this ·fashion. even if it were possible. It a not possible, however, to have a vote on alternative propositions in the form of money bylaws. The various schemes must go before the public one at a time. Meanwhile no one will complain if the commissioners take a few days to think over the next step.

The first article of this agreement provides that inereafter the department of foreign affairs at Tokio should have control and direction of the external affairs of Corea, while the diplomatic and consular representatives of Japan should have charge of the subjects and interests of Corea abroad. Japan, by the second article of the treaty, undertook to see to the execution of the treaties existing between Corea and other powers, and Corea engaged not to perform any act or thereafter conclude any engagement of an inter-

A HOPPING MATCH.

[Sporting Magazine of 1807.] A match, twenty hops for 10 guineas, took place at Loughborough, Leicester-shire, between James Shipley, of Nottingham, and a person named Moore, of Lele ter. It was very closely contested, so much so that bets of 4 to 1 were laid and taken on each side. The match, however, was won by Shipley.

On measuring the distance it appeared that Shipley had hopped 75 yards 9 or 10 inches, and Moore something more than 75 yards. The latter was to have run and that gave his name to the wave. against Shipley on the same day, 140 yards for 40 guineas, but declined, and in conse-quence forfeited his deposit.

Mr. Recorder Dupuis judgment in a horse-mauling case has become as celebrated as that of Miss Justice Portia in the case of Shylock w. Antonio. The recorder virtually held that the good people of Canada might pound a horse to any extent that might give them pleasure or satisfy their wrath, so long as they did not draw blood. On this ground he last week liberated two prisoners who had beaten a horse most brutally and persistently, one of them with a piece of steel rod. Was, however, to the man who, while amusing him-

HISTORY OF MARCEL WAVE, [Pittsburg Dispatch.]

"The Marcel wave," said the hairdresser, "illustrates how capriciously fate often de stows fame on a man by giving his name as discoverer to something he never discovered. The wave which we know as the Marcel wave was invented long before ary shop in the Rue de l'Echelle began to use it. Then the wave was already widely dressers of Paris all practicing it, and difficulty. The wave was graceful and lent an air of great distinction, ah, yes. But it was so expensive, and, alas! lasted so short a time. In a few hours at most the beau-tiful waves had collapsed to their natural limp lankness. Here was Marcel's oppor-tunity. He devised an iron, a method, trained attendants. Under his enterprising hands the wave was put into, say, four or five days. Imagine the gratitude of the Parisiennes. To be kept chick for five five days. Imagine the gratitude of days running and that with one-fifth of the former trouble and expense! M. Marcel became the object of their gratitude. All Paris flocked to him—at least, until other hairdressers could, more or less effectively, copy his method. How the women of other nations came, saw and demanded spread, carrying with it Marcel's method

IN LITERATURE"

Writer's Eccentric Advertising That Failed.

ALL NEWPORT AWAITS PRINCE

New York Too, in Flutter Over Coming of Prince William of SWeden,

New York, July 19 .- That eccentric advertising pushed too far is unwise and expensive is indicated by the present case of George Sylvester Viereck. He came to New York a few months ago and before long had sprung into prominence-not fame, mind you-by his writings.

A mere boy-he is only 23 and looks younger-he was hailed by some critics as the creator of "A new spirit in literature," a seemingly intelligent looker-on at the City of New York and its people from an entirely new point of view. It cannot be denied that his poetry was curious, and it had in it some rather cleverly phrased salaciousness that won for it some vogue among certain persons. That almost any sort of a person who is in anyway "different" can command a following was indicated almost instantly by letters which poured in upon editors and reviewers demanding to know why there was a conspiracy-for such it seemed to be to those who were complaining - to stifle this genius which was budding in a desert of literary commonplaces.

What They Learned.

These appeals prompted some editors, who had put Viereck's efforts aside with no thought that they were worthily extraordinary, to inquire as to what manner of man this poet was. Their investigations were interesting, in about the same manner as were the poet's verses. He boastfully asserted his superiority over all poets of this age, declared that in him was born a new light destined to picture New York and America on a peculiarly illuminated page, and then some. Furthermore he boasted equally about several personal peculiarities which he asserted that he possessed, among which was that he was the son of the son of an illegitimate son of an early German Emperor of historic

His Publishers Delighted.

These and other things, naturally won for the youthful writer a certain wide publicity, and for a time increased the circulation of his few books. His publishers were delighted. Here was an author who not only wrote but was his own advertiser. They encouraged him in his efforts to keep in the public eve and the extremes to which the boy poet has gone in proclaiming his eccentricities has been a little short of astonish-

But the reaction set in and George Sylvester Viereck doesn't appear to be so much of a muchness as he thought he was. The bibliophiles, so it is said. are now able to buy, at retail, his poems at wholesale rates.

Newport Awaits a Prince.

When his royal highness Prince William of Sweden gets here about August 20, Newport will be all a-flutter, for, so it appears now, the visit of the prince was arranged by none other than Harry Lehr, when they met in Berlin last year, and socie'y, therefore, has a special lien on the royal envoy. There is small prospect of a superabundance of social lions at the social capitol this summer and the coming of a representative of the royal house of Sweden naturally will be selzed upon with avidity.

CITY TURNS UNDERTAKER

Vienna Extends Enterprise to Funerals and Burials.

Vienna, July 22.-Municipalization, which Socialists say is merely socialsm masquerading as something else, is carried further here than in any other city on the continent. Not content with buying out the principal undertaking companies, and monopolizing the funeral business, the city authorities have gone a step further. They have introduced a system burial insurance by which folk will be able to shuffle off this mortal coil without putting their relatives to any that the insured can arrange for simple or stylish obsequies, cheap or dear graves, a plain headstone or a monu-He ment, the inscription on which he may paying an additional sum, he may en-

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The wonderful power of Lydia E. /inkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant, not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered to act directly upon the generative organs, positively curin disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

If physicians dared to be frank and pen, hundreds of them would acknowlopen, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Ludia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound a severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience it can be relied upon to effect a cure. The following letter proves it.

Dr. S. C. Brigham, of 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass., writes:

"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable compound very efficacious, and often pre-metibe it in my practice for female difficulties. A hundred eager voices echoed the "The king."

A few weeks later the Oldcastle Chronicle published an account of a double wedding that turned the grim once more. The streets were lined and packed, and the decorations for the coming of the king were brought out once more, and Hetty Lancaster had full justice done her at last. She and Geoffrey, followed by another earriage containing Bessie and Ted Merrill, drove through to the station, and were wished God speed by a great crowd of mill hands and miners who had collected on the platform. And even the present from the king, which came to Geoffrey, and the medal which a few months later he himself pinned on Ted's breast, did not give them more happiness than the shouts of the workers as they stood-the mill hands they had both known and worked with, and the women whose lives Ted had saved-shouting themselves hoarse, until the train vanished from sight.

New York, July 22. - Upon his return from Europe aboard La Savoie, with his wife, who was Mabelle Gilman, the actress, William Ellis Corey, president of the United States Steel Corporation, denied that he has yet resigned the presidency of the trust. But he was less definite in his announcement regarding his future business

When first questioned upon the sublect of his resignation, Mr. Corey's replies were evasive, but when the recent rumors of his loss of support were called to his attention and a pos-Itive statement requested, he said: "I have not resigned from the presidency of the steel corporation. In fact, I have come back early in the summer on purpose to go to work. I am not informed regarding the details of any meetings that may have ben held during my absence, and that is all I can say upon that subject."

Jockey Club After Crooked Turfmer Who Fixed a Race.

New York, July 22.-The Pinkertons have been requested by the stewof the Sheepshead Bay meeting, It is rumored, to investigate the recent movements of a certain jockey and trainer thought to be concerned in the crooked running of a horse at enshead. All week the stewards have been investigating, and with the examination of the sheets of a certain bookmaker the stewards conoluned to get a report on the movements of the men before making known their findings. The running of the horse in question was charactersed as "a job," and followed a simiar shady race at Belmont Park. On this latter occasion the horse was lared to be able to win, and John W. Has Champion Sprinter

New York, July 22 .- "If there is any athlete in training at the present time who will establish a new world's mark in the 100-yard dash this year it is R. Cloughan," said Bernie Wefers, the noted sprinter and trainer of the Irish-American Athletic Club. Cloughan, who has recently been graduated from Fordham College, has shown great speed this season while representing the Irish-American Athletic Club.

He finished second in the 100-yard dash in the junior championship last Saturday and won the 220-yard race. In the former he did not run his best and allowed W. J. Keating, a clubmate, to beat him home by less than a yard.

Cloughan is a youngster, only 19 years old. He is a big fellow and has the form of a great runner. He is of ideal build, deep-chested and has long legs. Wefers predicts that before the year has ended his charge will have hung up a record of 9 2-5 for the 100-

Same Old Whimper

Hear that whimper from Hogtown? That's because of the Tecumsehs' defeat at the hands of those terrible Shamrocks. It looked such a good thing. But, of course, the Irishmen were not the better team. Oh, dear, no. Don't you ever imagine, Beau, that a Toronto bunch, lacrosse, football, or any other old aggregation were ever really beaten. Their opponents have scored more goals times without number, but it was rough house tactics or a crooked referee or an unfair umpire. Just now the Toronto press is busy explaining how Murton and Clarke, and the rest of the china boys were mangled and banged and held while an unsympathetic referee looked on refusing to interfere. Of course it wasn't necessary to dwell on the fact that three of Querries braves were sent to the side for rough work, and that Griffith put Paddy Brennan out for fifteen minutes with a levely wipe across the face. Griffiths really didn't mean it you know, and the other boys were merely warding of murderous attacks. Fudge! and another fudge.

Wants No Higher Honor Than to End His Days as a Plain Citizen.

Ottawa, July 22.-Ottawa's welcome home tonight to Sir Wilfrid Laurier may not have rivaled in spectacular impressiveness and exuberant enthusiasm the demonstration of Quebec and Montreal, but in addition to the universal Canadian pride in the nation's chief representative as manifested at Quebec and Montreal, there was evident in the capital's reception of her first citizen tonight a feeling of personal affection for a fellow-citizen, rier, who shares with him the popuiar esteem. The weather was not propitious. His arrival at the Central Station at 7 o'clock was accompanied by a steady drizzle of rain. But the cheering crowds at the station, lining the streets and massed in front of the city hall felt that the rain, like the return of the Premier "was good for the country." The station, the streets, the city hall, and Sir Wilfrid's re-sidence on Laurier avenue, were gayward and platform when the train pulled in. Sir Wilfrid on alighting Toronto, July 28. 12:45. was greeted with rousing cheers, followed by the singing of that compelling national air. "O, Canada," from a volunteer choir of two hundred voices. After greeting Mayor Scott, the members of the civic reception committee and Hon. Messrs. Scott and Templeman, who were at the station to velcome him, Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier entered a carriage in waiting, and, followed by the carriages of the aldermen, were escorted to the city hall, via Wellington, Bank and Sparks lands. Several years before 1796, Alexander Macomb, a rich fur trader of Detroit, acquired an enormous tract of land in the state where the ancestors of the Iroquois of St. Regis and of the Caughnawagas had their settlements. These Indians, though settled in Canada, never renounced their rights to the former home of their fathers, and entered into a treaty with the people of the State of New York, 1796, wherein, for a certain lump sum and a perpetual annuity of 213 pounds, 6 shillings and 8 pence, they gave a quit claim of all their lands situate within the state.

An eminent lawyer of Washington, D. C., has the Indians' case in hand and he is expected shortly in Caughnawaga, where he will meet the chiefs and people of St. Regis and the leading men of Caughnawaga.

The last payment of the annuity of 213 pounds, 6 shilling and 8 pence was made Aug. 19, 1800, at the mouth of the River Chazy, on Lake Champlain, as it appears on the treaty now in possession of the Indians of Caughna-
