TECUMSEH'S AGAIN WIN

Great Game of Lacrosse Yesterday at the Exhibition Grounds.

St. Thomas Team Defeated by Score of 4-1—Manager Babcock's Star Still in the Ascendant—A Record of Victories.

For the ninth time we have the pleasure of recording a win for the Tecumsehs. Ten games with nine wins and one draw is a record to be proud of, and such is now the record of the Tecumseh Lacrosse Club. They are without a doubt the fastest aggregation of lacrosse players ever seen in Chatham, and nobody realizes or appreciates this fact more than their local supporters.

Yesterday, in the game with St. Thomas, the Tecumsehs went in to win and they came out covered with glory. The game was all theirs from the start to the finish, with the final score 4-1, and the spectators were witnesses of a fast, clean game of lacrosse.

It was a merry and a hopeful crowd that came from St. Thomas with their team. It was their last chance to be in the finals, and they were determined to make one last attempt to land on top, but they failed to do so, and the Tecumsehs are now proclaimed the winners for this district in the Intermediate C. L. A. series.

The game itself could not be called as fast a game as the one in St. Thomas, probably, because the Tecumsehs took a lead at the start and held it easily throughout the game. The St. Thomas men seemed disheartened when the game went against them at the start, and they apparently never recovered. At times, however, they worked hard, and they kept the Chatham boys on the move all the time. They were even brilliant at times and gave the spectators some pretty exhibitions of lightning home work, but whenever they shot, Robinson, the Chatham goal keeper, was always there with his stick in the right place. Robinson played a remarkably brilliant game and stopped shot after shot.

The first quarter had been in progress but 31-2 minutes when Stewart netted the ball for the Tecumsehs, after some pretty combination work on the part of the home team. In fact, every goal was earned. There were no flukes, and every goal was preceded by brilliant work on the part of every one of the home players. In six minutes more play MacFarlane made the score 2-0, and was ruled off for rough play, and so the first quarter ended.

In the meantime, St. Thomas had been doing practically nothing. They seemed to be half asleep and their defense was called upon to do all the work. The St. Thomas spectators were somewhat surprised and were not saying much. They didn't expect to see Chatham ahead on the start, and they couldn't understand it. There was no scoring in the second quarter. McBride was struck in the eye, and this delayed the game a few minutes, but the quarter was not very exciting. St. Thomas seemed to rally a little and made several rushes, all of which were well met by the Chatham defense and well stopped. It was practically impossible to do anything with the defense; they were impregnable.

In the third quarter there was something doing. Stewart scored again in 81-2 minutes, making the score 3-0. Cuthbertson was ruled off for striking McLaren. McBride got ten minutes for striking Northcott, and Carter took a position on the defense. Raymer put in the only goal for St. Thomas, in five minutes, and the quarter ended 3-1, with St. Thomas playing a better game.

They lost it in the last quarter, however. They seemed to go to sleep, and they played poorly. The Chatham boys "played rings around them." Carter scored in 10 minutes, making the final score 4-1. Smith and Carter were both ruled off during this quarter.

Brown Jackson, of Seaforth, the referee, was a favorite with the crowd. His decisions were impartial and fair.

For Chatham, Robinson was the favorite. He is certainly a wonder in goal and he was also admired by the St. Thomas rooters. McBride played well and Elliott showed up in his usual good form. Francis and Pickering played well together and Dowling plays his best at third defense. Haydon at centre was all over the field wherever he was needed and Grace, McLaren and Carter showed the spectators a few in the line of rushes on goal. MacFarlane and Stewart did effective work and the combination of the whole home was almost perfect.

The St. Thomas team was composed of the same men that played at St. Thomas, with the exception of Smith, who played the Oliver's at cover point. McIntyre and Leddy seemed to be their weak men. Raymer and Blythe are fast and the former particularly is a dangerous shot. Launt showed up well.

The following was the line-up:—

CHATHAM.
Goal—Robinson.
Point—Francis.
Cover point—Pickering.
1st defense—Elliott.

2nd defense—McBride.
3rd defense—Dowling.

SIDE SHOTS.

It was easy.

The result pleased the crowd.

Now for the tour and the finals.

They came to us and we took them in.

Mr. Greenlaw sang a couple of solos at half time.

St. Thomas strengthening was all in the newspapers.

There were about 395 from St. Thomas on the grounds.

I guess nine was a draw is good enough for anybody.

It was the biggest crowd Chatham has ever had at a lacrosse match.

The St. Thomas boys are good players but the Chatham boys are better.

The 24th Kent Bugle Band turned out to celebrate last night. They did too.

McBride is the brains of the defense but he has a close second in Walter Elliott.

Good fast lacrosse was played but the game wasn't as thrilling as the other two.

Chatham had a half holiday and everybody got good value for their money at the lacrosse game.

ARABIA SEIZED

Shippers of Flour Protest to the U. S. Department—Cargo Was Valued at Over $100,000.

Washington, July 27.—The state department has finally received a formal protest against the action of the Russian navy in seizing American goods, and as a result of its preliminary study of law and precedents governing the subject, it is prepared to act energetically and promptly. The protest relates to the seizure of an American cargo on board the Hamburg-American steamer Arabia, bound from Portland, with flour, for Hong Kong, China.

J. H. Mitchell, an attorney, of Portland, telegraphed the state department a statement of the condition under which the Arabia carried out the cargo. Mr. Mitchell stated that he represented the Portland Milling Co., which had shipped on the Arabia for Hong Kong 99,000 sacks of flour worth about $100,000. He declared that this flour was in no sense contraband, for it was not destined for Japan, and it was part of the normal trade of the company, and was not a war order. Mr. Mitchell requested the state department to take the necessary steps to secure indemnity and satisfaction for the owners of the flour, and also protect legitimate neutral trade from such serious interference as these attacks by the Vladivostok squadron.

Maxwell Everts and D. A. Chambers, two attorneys, came to the state department in connection with the same seizure, and the Acting Secretary referred them to the Solicitor of the department, who also has before him the protest of the Portland Milling Company.

The department positively declined to say what course they intended to pursue, save for a declaration that there will be no inconsiderate action, that the whole subject of interference with American trade by belligerents in the present war will be considered, and that each protest that may be forwarded will be part of a uniform and consistent policy to be followed by the department. So far the department has little information as to the circumstances connected with the seizure of the Arabia and her cargo. As the vessel was under a German flag it is presumed that Berlin will be apt to receive the first official reports. None of the attorneys actually knew from any of their own principals that the ship has been seized. The basis for that belief rests, so far, upon newspaper publications.

DRIVEN FROM POSITIONS

Japanese Compel Five Divisions of Russians to Retreat.

Daring Attack by General Oku—Japs Lose 800 Men—Artillery Duel Lasted Until Night.

Tokio, July 28.—In the daring night attack against a Russian force estimated at five divisions with 100 guns, General Oku drove the enemy from their strong line of defenses south of Ta Tche Kiao. Advancing on Sunday, General Oku found a superior force confronting him, and that a heavy artillery fire from the enemy was checking his men. He thereupon decided to attempt a night surprise. This was successful; the Japanese troops hustling the Russians into retreat to Ta Tche Kiao. The Japanese had eight hundred casualties.

The Takushan army fought and won a separate action on Friday, July 22, at Fanning, losing thirty-one men. The Russians left fourteen dead. The Japanese began the advance against the Russian positions south of Ta Tche Kiao on Saturday, July 23. On this date the vanguard occupied positions in the vicinity of Chuichiatun, to the southeast of Ta Tche Kiao, developing the position and strength of the enemy. The Russian line was through the hills south of Ta Tche Kiao, extending almost due east and west of the railway. The position of the enemy was fortified. The strongest point was at Tai Ping Mountain, to the southeast of Ta Tche Kiao and here the heaviest force had assembled. The Russians had two battalions of artillery posted near Chatangnan, due south of Ta Tche Kiao and ahead of the main line. The Japanese deployed to the westward from Chuh-tian, and confronting the Russian line east of the railway advanced early Sunday morning. At 9 o'clock the Japanese right had reached a bluff less than two miles from Tai-Ping mountain. In the afternoon the Russian batteries, posted on the heights, shelled the advancing line. The strength of the Russians gradually developed, General Oku estimating it at five divisions and one hundred guns. The Russians prevented a general advance, and Gen. Oku decided on a night assault. Two divisions of Russians occupied the Hai-Cheng road, and Gen. Oku took the precaution to engage this force with artillery. The Russians replied similarly; the duel lasting until darkness.

At 10 o'clock Sunday night the entire Japanese right was hurled against the first Russian position east and west of Tai-Ping mountain, and easily captured it. At midnight the second position was attacked, and by daylight the Japanese occupied the eminence east of Shanchiatun, the Russians retreating toward Ta Tche Kiao. At 7 o'clock Monday morning the Japanese seized Chongshishan without resistance, and pursued the Russians toward Ta Tche Kiao.

TORPEDED BY JAPS.

Che Foo, July 27, 6 p. m.—Russian refugees, who have arrived here, report that the Liouing Burukoff, and two other Russian torpedo destroyers were torpedeed and destroyed by the Japanese on the night of July 25.

OKU MAKES CAPTURES.

Tokio, July 27, 10:50 a. m.—The army of General Oku, combined with what is known as the Taku-Shan forces, attacked Ta Tche Kiao on Sunday night, and on Monday captured the important topographical keys. The Russian forces consisted of five divisions. The losses are unknown.

THE FINALS

The Blenheim and London rowing club rinks each won in the semi-finals for the Labatt trophy this morning. These two rinks then had to play each other. The Chatham bowlers would like to see R. L. Gossnell, who is skipping the Blenheim rink, win, as he has been putting up a game fight all through the contest for the Labatt trophy. J. W. McDougall is the skip of the London rowing club's rink and it was his rink that defeated the Chatham rink skipped by J. S. Black, yesterday, in the same contest.

NEUTRAL SHIPPING

The sinking of the Knight Commander avoids one difficulty attendant on Russian attempts to hamper Japanese communications, comments the Toronto News. The recent Red Sea seizures were made by vessels of the Smolensk are admitted not to be warships in the full acceptance of the term, and this imparted an element of irregularity to the transaction. The seizures on the eastern coast of Japan have been made by ships whose standing as vessels of war is unquestioned. The Vladivostok ships, however, have sunk a neutral ship without sending her before a prize court. The situation thus raised is bound to be exceedingly grave.

The fairest way of looking at the matter is consider first the position of the Russian admiral. Vladivostok lies on the Sea of Japan. Opposite it lie the islands of Japan along the arc of a circle. Access to the Pacific Ocean can be gained only by traversing one of several straits, all narrow and all guarded by Japanese torpedo craft. It follows that the only thing the Russian admiral can do with merchant ships which he intercepts is to destroy them. If he attempts to send them to Vladivostok they are almost certain to be recaptured while passing the straits. What is he to do? Look on while contraband goods slip under his nose into Japanese ports? Necessity sometimes makes laws. The changed conditions of modern naval war may lead to an effort to establish the right of a warship to deal summarily with a captured neutral when the circumstances are difficult. The prime difficulty is, of course, that the Russian admiral has not sent the ship before a prize court. That difficulty probably is insuperable. Neutrals are growing more and more impatient under the examination of their ships. The old savagery of sea warfare is passing away, and the nations are working towards the condition which obtains in land warfare—that all private warfare is sacred.

NATIONAL FEELING VS. PARTY FEELING.

The mistake which the leaders of the Liberal party are making at the present time is in endeavoring to harness national feeling and sentiment within the traces of partyism. It is having a hard task and the task will be yet harder. The leaders of the Liberal party of this country are endeavoring to narrow Canadian feeling and sentiment down to a purely Canadian horizon, just as Mr. Lloyd George and the Little Englander party have tried unsuccessfully to combat the Greater Britain idea. They refuse to recognize that there is a national, imperial sentiment in Canada which is above party and on a higher plane.

It is to that higher sentiment that the Dundonald incident, so-called, appeals. It is not the first time the present administration has endeavored to ignore this sentiment. At the outbreak of the South African war a direct effort was made to suppress and ignore it—not by all the Liberal leaders but by a clique of the most influential. At the outset the Premier endeavored to squelch it decisively by announcing that, notwithstanding the sentiment in favor of Canada taking its share in the war, "not a man, not a gun" should go to South Africa. The extent to which Sir Wilfrid Laurier misjudged the strength of national sentiment on that occasion, not only among the people of Canada but among the members of his own cabinet, is historic. The men and the guns did go, and the Liberals of Canada, no less than the Conservatives, were behind the rapidly accumulated influence that forced a reversal of that decision.

There has been another outburst of national sentiment in connection with the Dundonald affair—not so tumultuous, because the issue is not so grave—but it is the same non-party, non-political sentiment—the British sentiment of nationality and empire. With the faculty of the monarch who bade the waves of the ocean recede Sir Wilfrid and the Little Canada party endeavor to sweep back the tide. They shout to their followers that it is "the Tories making political capital," but it is not the Tories. The Tories do not monopolize the national sentiment of Canada.

In endeavoring to create the impression that sympathy and kindly feeling towards Lord Dundonald, the British officer whom the government has badly used, is confined to Tories the government makes a tactical mistake. It practically says, Any Canadian who places national sentiment above party fealty is a Tory. The great mass of Canadians do this, and to abuse and insult those who do so and read them out of the Liberal party, is to abuse and insult thousands of men who have hitherto been Liberal in their party affiliations.

If the leaders of the Liberal party find themselves not in accord with national British sentiment in this community and this country—so much the worse for the Liberal leaders. It is not the leaders who make the party but the party who make the leaders. The farewell to Lord Dundonald to-night is an expression of national British sentiment on the part of the community. If the government insists that the expression of that sentiment is "antagonism to the government," so much the worse for the government.—Ottawa Citizen.

It will gratify the friends of Lord Dundonald to learn to-day that The Globe is not opposed to demonstrations in his honor. Our aged but agile contemporary "has not the slightest desire" to curb the enthusiasm of those who wish to give him a cordial send-off. This is kindness, condescension and a concession to popular feeling. In spite of all that has come and gone The Globe is prepared to permit the people to do as they please. It will not throw a single cabbage at Lord Dundonald's departing form nor place a rock on the railroad he goes over. Persons found at Dundonald meetings will not be put in the stocks. Let us rejoice at this spirit. The growth of such Liberal views, even in the most unexpected quarters, is a source of much comfort to all lovers of true liberty.—Toronto News.

OR TALK ABOUT THE WEATHER.

Brookville Times.
What on earth did the Globe editor expect Lord Dundonald to say at the Massey hall meeting? Did he think Lord Dundonald would lecture on the Boer war, or discuss golf, or give his theory about the Lost Tribes of Israel?

LAND MARKS.

Montreal Gazette.
The Ottawa city council has resolved to name one of the city's parks after Lord Dundonald. There will be in the country soon quite a number of things to recall how Mr. Fisher once meddled with the work of the department of militia, how the minister of militia permitted the discreditable business, and what followed.

LOYAL BRITISH SUBJECT.

Ottawa Citizen.
If to be a loyal British subject, with the feelings and sentiments natural to a loyal British subject, is to be "antagonistic to the government," and if to express those sentiments and feelings by turning out to say farewell to Lord Dundonald is "attacking the government,"—then so much the worse for the government.

MORE INDISCRETION.

Woodstock Express.
It is to be hoped that the cable correspondent has been misinformed. It is scarcely possible that a man who understands his position and his duties so well as the chief justice should have offended so grievously. Even if true, the statement that "the Times was loaded up by Ottawa Tory sources," and that "a few Scotchmen were back of the whole agitation" was a most injudicious one for the chief justice to make; but the reference to the Scotchmen will be indignantly repudiated by large masses of the people of Canada, without distinction of race.

In Nature's Wonderland.

There is but one Grand canyon. The name should never have been given to lesser gorges. The very fact that there is a so called Grand canyon in Colorado is misleading. "The Grand canyon of Colorado" does not sound much different from "The Grand canyon of the Colorado." Hence many people confuse them.

The canyon of the Colorado river, which flows through Arizona, forms the boundary line between that territory and California and then empties into the Gulf of California.

It is the grandest gorge in the world. In it 3,000 of the wonderful gorges of the state of Colorado could be buried. With its tributaries, many of which have never yet been explored, it would reach, if all the canyons were placed one after another, nearly around the world.

The Queer Man.

Of all forms of temper there is none more tiresome to deal with than that which is known as "queer." Down comes a bolt from the blue in the midst of apparent sunshine, and a sudden gloom and moroseness hide our friend completely from our view. An injured attitude is assumed, a martyr's halo carefully pinned on, and happy, everyday life becomes an impossibility. People who want to be loved or even liked should never be difficult. Society has not time, even if it had the inclination, to study their idiosyncrasies and play up to all their petty prejudices. The passionate and even the sulky temper is forgiven sooner than the difficult one and is perhaps more possible to cure.—Edith H. Fowler in London Mail.

Lovely Liverpool Ladies.

Can you or your readers give any explanation of the remarkably heavy percentage of splendidly handsome ladies to be seen in Liverpool's city thoroughfares? When I say handsome, I refer not only to facial beauty, but also to symmetry of form and perfect physique. Walk from the Central station via Lord street to, say, the Landing stage, any day in the week, and you will behold a phalanx of superb womanhood. I am a Manchester man by birth and sentiment, but I must confess our city can produce nothing to compare with Liverpool's battalions of tall, lovely girls.—St. James' Gazette.

THE WOMEN OF TURKEY

INDIAN SQUAWS HAVE MORE LIBERTY THAN THEY.

Women of China, Too, Have Better Education and Liberty Than Those of the Sultan's Realm—The Slippers at Harem Door Indicate the Sole Right Possessed by Married Women in Turkey.

Turkey takes rank among nations as a civilized country. China does not, yet the women of China have more liberty and better education than those of the Sultan's realm. Investigations show that while the red Indian squaw does the hard work of the family she has rights and authority that are never contradicted. The Turkish married woman appears to have just one right; the Turkish girl has none at all. Turkish women have their apartments sacred to themselves. When a Turk wishes to go into his wife's room he advances cautiously toward the threshold. If a pair of slippers lies upon the threshold that is a sign that some woman friend is visiting his ladies. No Turk or Mohammedan may look upon the face of any woman except a relative or inmate of his own harem, so if the slipper be at the door the lord and master must withdraw.

It is said that many a time the women of a harem put a pair of slippers upon the threshold of their apartments when they have no company, merely because they do not want to be bothered with their men around. In this respect the Turkish wife has the advantage of her western sister, who has no den or corner sacred from the intrusion of her husband when she does not wish to see him. Western law and custom give him the right to break in upon his wife by force, if he chooses, at any time and place.

The Mohammedan religion and oriental views of the sex question are together responsible for the degradation and subjection of Turkish women. Recently one or two Turkish women have escaped from their country to tell the western world of the life of woman in the Ottoman Empire. In Constantinople the Turkish women and girls of the wealthy classes have occasionally opportunity to make the acquaintance of western women. At once the desire to be free and to know something arises in the soul of the woman of Islam. She longs with the longing of the slave to be free. She is restive and rebellious. So true is this that three years ago Sultan Abdul Hamid issued an edict forbidding Turkish families to employ foreign teachers in their families.

One Turkish girl was handed over by her father to be the property of another Turk, old as her father himself and extremely repellent to her, but that was nothing. The girl was not even the first wife of the man to whom her father gave her, but that again was nothing. The girl accepted the situation and hid her time. She associated all that was possible with western women; she learned all she could of their ways and languages. Finally one morning the girl was missing. Her western women friends had aided her to escape from Turkey in disguise, and the so-called civilized land that degrades and oppresses women worse than is done among the savage Moros of Sulu saw her no more. She is now in Europe trying to interest free white women in the hapless, hopeless condition of their sex in Turkey.

Another Turkish lady is Princess Haima Ben Ayad. Her husband, a member of the party of Young Turkey, had incurred the suspicion of the Sultan's spies, but managed in time to elude them and get away "to Europe," as Europe outside of Turkey is significantly and fittingly called in the Ottoman Empire. After a time Princess Haima got away with her children and joined her husband. She, too, is lecturing to European audiences on the deplorable condition of Turkish women. She is telling her story in the hope that somehow a way will open for the uplifting of womanhood in her native land.

When a wealthy Turk wishes to make the most acceptable present to a friend or a man high in authority, to this day he gives that individual the most beautiful girl slave he can find. He dresses her gorgeously, adorns her with the richest jewels he can afford and hands her over.

In all Turkey there is scarcely an educated woman. It is the policy of the Government to keep women in absolute ignorance and to encourage in all ways the traditional belief that women has no soul, only a body. Abdul Hamid knows well that educating women will sound the death knell of oriental despotism.

Detroit Specialist Discovers Something Entirely New for the Cure of Men's Diseases in Their Own Homes.

method and the ability to do so, as he says, Dr. Goldberg, the discoverer, will send the method entirely free to all men who send him their name and address. He wants to hear from men who have strictures that they have been unable to get cured. Prostatic trouble, sexual weakness, varicocele, lost manhood, blood poison, hydrocele, emaciation of parts, impotency, etc. His wonderful method not only cures the condition itself, but likewise all the complications, such as rheumatism, bladder or kidney trouble, heart disease, nervous debility, etc. The doctor realizes that it is one thing to make claims and another thing to back them up, so he has made it a rule not to ask for money unless he cures you, and when you are cured he feels sure that you will willingly pay him a small fee. It would, therefore, be a pity if it is the best thing that you will willingly pay him a small fee. A Dutch Fishing Village.

Almost every fishing village in Holland has its special dress and its own quaint customs. One can see from old Dutch pictures that these have not varied for the last 200 years. One most interesting place is the island of Marken, a tongue of land on the margin of the Zuider Zee, which can well be inspected in a couple of hours. It is so little above the sea level that the clusters of houses or tiny villages are built on mounds connected by bridges, and nearly every little house has its own little moat and its own little boat—everything except the people is on a diminutive scale in Holland—moored near the door so as to be handy in case of flood. The houses, with the exception of the church and the clergyman's house, are built of wood on high piles. They are none of them very old, as the place has often been flooded and burned. In winter Marken is often under water, and the inhabitants use boats to pass from one village to another. The cottages, which are painted blue, green or black, with pointed gables, and roofed with red tiles, are all exactly alike and possess only a ground floor built on high piles.

A Novel Time Glass.

"During a trip which I took through the West Indies several years ago," said a traveler, "I saw a sight in one of the villages which brought the old proverb, 'Necessity is the mother of invention,' forcibly to my mind. In the front of one of the houses on a veranda stood a sentry whose business it was to keep the time for the village by means of a primitive sandglass. Two bottles were firmly tied together, mouth to mouth, and fixed in a wooden frame, made to stand in reversible positions. 'A quantity of black sand ran from one bottle into the other in just half an hour, and when the upper bottle was empty the frame was reversed. Twelve short sticks marked with notches from 1 to 12 were hung upon a string, and a hook was placed between the stick bearing the number of notches corresponding to the hour last struck and the one to be struck next. The sentry announced the time by striking the hours on a large gong.'

Camels in War.

The camel is a good soldier. It may be stupid, and it may be brave, but a camel is as steady under fire as a tower. The Persians mounted small cannon on the backs of their camels and called them zamwabs, or little wasps. This fashion was adopted in India, and after the battle of Sobraon 2,000 of the artillery camels were captured. In the Indian mutiny the British had a camel corps of 150 beasts, and on the back of each camel sat a Scotch Highlander in his kilts.

In 1878 the British used camels against the Afghans, and the government paid for 50,000 camels that died in those campaigns. Many of these were driven to death by their owners in order that they might claim the government bounty. There was also a camel corps which did good service in the Sudan war against the mahdi.

RUBE WADDELL AGAIN.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 27.—"Rube" Waddell returned from his fishing trip to-day and was feeling so good that he shut out the Detroiters. They were, in fact, lucky to get three hits. "Rube" had great speed, striking out eleven, including every man on the team except McIntyre and O'Leary. The latter was the only man to get a real solid drive off Waddell. In the sixth inning O'Leary got the first base hit made by Detroit, and in the eighth he got two bases on a fly which dropped safe between Murphy and Seybold. The only other hit made by the Tigers was a scratch by McIntyre in the ninth. The eighth and ninth were the only innings in which Detroit had a chance to do anything, but each time the side was retired with a man on third and on second.

A SPLENDID MAGAZINE.

The Four-Track News is a magazine that appeals strongly to persons interested in travel, exploration and history; not exploration of new lands, but out-of-the-way, forgotten places that for some historical or other reasons are entitled to remembrance to-day; quaint villages, mountain nooks, hidden lakes and the like are frequently described and illustrated in the pages of this magazine. The reader finds innumerable suggestions for little journeys, and in addition there are articles on subjects of current interest, stories and verse. It is a magazine that should be brought to the attention of readers especially in the summer, as it is strongly suggestive of outdoor life. From the Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer, New York.

ASSASSINATED

Russian Minister of the Interior and Czar's right hand Man, Killed by a Bomb.

Carriage Blown up on a crowded Street—News of Murder overcomes the Czar.

Special to The Planet.

St. Petersburg, July 28.—Minister of the Interior Von Plehwe was assassinated this morning while driving to the Baltic station to visit the Peterhof.

A bomb was thrown under the minister's carriage, completely shattering it. M. Von Plehwe was terribly mangled.

The crime was committed at ten o'clock.

The coachman was killed, and the wounded and maddened horses dashed away with the front wheels of the carriage, the only portion of the vehicle remaining intact. Immediately there ensued a scene of the wildest confusion. Police and gendarmes hurried up from every direction and vast crowds gathered about the spot where the mangled body of the minister lay weltering in his blood.

The Associated Press correspondent was at the scene of the tragedy within five minutes after it occurred. M. Von Plehwe's shockingly mangled body was lying in the middle of the road. It had been partially covered with a police officer's overcoat, with the left arm the bone of which was broken off, projecting.

A policeman came up and raised the overcoat in order to re-arrange it, revealing for an instant the strong features of the dead minister, whose head was battered almost beyond recognition. The roadway was strewn for a hundred yards with the wreckage of the carriage and pieces of the red lining of the minister's official overcoat. A few yards from M. Von Plehwe's body lay a shapeless heap of the coachman's remains.

M. Von Plehwe was on his way to visit the emperor when the tragedy occurred.

GREAT CASE

Joseph Smith, of Ridgetown, arrested in London on the charge of theft after some clever detective work of ex-Chief Grant, was arraigned before Judge Dowlin this morning and elected to be tried by Judge without jury. His case will come up before Judge Bell on Saturday at 11 a. m.

The charge is that Smith stole $60 from Mrs. Sarah Brander, Ridgetown. It is said that he got the $60 saying that he would marry her in Detroit. When they got to Detroit the story goes that he disappeared. Ex-Chief Grant, however, got him in London the other day. Miss Brander was his housekeeper in Ridgetown.

...WILLIAM GORDON...

SERENADED

Manager Frank Babcock of the Tecumsehs Given Evidence of Appreciation.—He Responded.

There is no place in the world where people are more appreciative or more enthusiastic and demonstrative in their appreciation than in Chatham. Just at present their appreciation is directed towards the successes which Manager Frank Babcock has met with in lacrosse circles. The old town was certainly wild last night after the victory over St. Thomas.

Last evening a number of the supporters of both teams, headed by the 24th Bugle Band, started out in search of Mr. Babcock. They found him in the Garner House and gave him a hearty serenade. A number of the prominent citizens carried him on their shoulders up to the balcony of the hotel, and the crowd below all cried for a speech.

Mr. Babcock was still flushed with the excitement and he was still wearing the happy smile which has never left his face since the opening of the lacrosse season. He bowed his acknowledgments to his hearty supporters, thanking them for their interest and support, and expressing his pleasure at being able to win for them the championship for this district. He hoped for success in the finals for the Intermediate Championship of the Dominion. As Mr. Babcock concluded he was greeted with rounds upon rounds of applause.

Treasurer John M. McCoig also made a speech, after he was found and carried to the balcony by the crowd. The executive wishes to thank the merchants who declared a half-holiday for the game.

CROPS GOOD

Ald. John Edmondson returned yesterday from St. Mary's, where he attended the funeral of Mrs. Edmondson's brother.

The alderman says that the country along the line is looking fine. "The oats and barley are positively grand," he said. "In St. Mary's, they say they have had the best hay crop in years. Meat is higher down there, Spring lamb brings 18c a pound, while good cuts of beef bring 15c." "By the way, while I was in London I saw several military men from Chatham who are going to military school down there. They were in the best of health and looking fine."

"That nine o'clock G. T. R. train is a beauty. I guess we came up from London, in an hour and five minutes."

FOUND GUILTY

Mickie Bryan, charged with attempting suicide at Wallaceburg, appeared before Judge Dowlin this morning and was found guilty.

Bryan is a man of about 32 years of age and bears a good reputation in Wallaceburg, being pronounced by employers sober and honest. He was sentenced to a week in the County jail.

PROBE MYSTERY

A strange case was investigated by Chief Inspector John Murray, Dr. John Caven, of Toronto, and Dr. McCrimmon, of Palermo, Halton County, yesterday. The body of a woman named Margaret Logan was exhumed at a cemetery near Glen Williams, in the same county, and a post-mortem examination made, the result of which will be known later. The Government officer and doctors returned to Toronto last night, but they would make no statement as to the result of their investigation.

Mrs. Logan was the second wife of Robert Logan, a well-to-do farmer. According to the gossip of the neighborhood her married life was unhappy and it is said that she made frequent allusions to her married infelicity in letters to her relatives. Early on the morning of June 5th her body was found partially submerged in a pool of water near the railway track. She was lying face downward in water so shallow that the back of her head was dry. Dr. Nixon of Georgetown, decided that an inquest was unnecessary, and it was supposed that the woman had committed suicide during a temporary attack of insanity.

The talk which arose after the funeral resulted in the demand for an inquiry, and the investigation of yesterday followed. It developed that the body had been embalmed, and that externally the body offered no opportunity for investigation. One of the post-mortem physicians however, said that there were evidences that the woman was alive when her face was buried in the pool.

The result of the post-mortem will be handed to the Attorney-General probably on Friday.

Uncle Terry

By CHARLES CLARK MUNN

Copyright, 1900, by LEE & SHEPARD

"I wish you would keep away from the lighthouse, boys," Albert said, as they were getting into their boat. "Mr. Terry's family are rather sensitive people and may not like to have a lot of us trooping around their place. I am going over there this afternoon to make a sketch, and then I'll ask permission and we'll all go there some other day."

He had whispered to Frank to remain on the yacht, and when the rest were gone he said to him: "Frank, I am going to confide something to you. The fact is, Frank, I've tumbled into an adventure and fallen in love with a girl on sight and without having exchanged ten words with her! She is Mr. Terry's daughter, and has eyes that take your breath away and a form like the Venus of Milo. She paints pictures that are a wonder, considering she never has taken a lesson, and has a face more bewitching than any woman's I ever saw. It is like a painter's dream."

"Well, you have gone daft, old man," replied the astonished Frank.

"But you haven't heard it all yet. This unique old man, who saved me from sleeping all night in a thicket of briars and who has opened his heart and home to me, has fallen into the clutches of—Nicholas Frye!"

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Frank. "And how on earth did he ever find Frye, or Frye find him? Was your old man of the island hunting around Boston for some one to rob him?"

"That I do not know yet," replied Albert. "All I know is that Mr. Terry has paid Frye about $400, and, as he says, so far has nothing to show for it. What the business was I expect to learn later. Now, what I am coming at is this: Can't you manage to leave me here for the rest of the day, or, better still, make it two days? I'll tell the boys I've tumbled into a bit of law business, which is what I think will come out of it, and you can run down to Bar Harbor and back here tomorrow night."

"Well, I'll do that gladly," replied Frank, and then he added with a droll smile, "It will give you a chance to say a few sweet things to this girl with the wondrous eyes, eh, Bert?"

CHAPTER XXII.

IT was nearly noon when Albert left the yacht. He had exchanged his bedraggled yachting suit for a neat gray one, and with a small satchel, his sketch-book and a box of choice Havanas for Uncle Terry he rowed ashore. For three hours the Gypsy had been the cynosure of all the Cape eyes, old or young, for a handsome 200 ton yacht was a novelty in their little harbor. When she steamed slowly out, with Frank and his companions, in natty white duck suits, grouped on her stern, she was a pretty sight, and as she cleared the narrow entrance the crew fired three guns and dipped her flag in honor of Albert, and then he picked his way over the rocks to the lighthouse. Uncle Terry had not returned from hauling his lobster traps, and Aunt Lissy and Telly met him at the door. It is likely that his being one of the yachting party impressed them a little, for they were both dressed in their best. He was invited in, and then Aunt Lissy said, "Please excuse me, for I have dinner to get, an' Telly will entertain ye."

"And show me her pictures, I hope."

put in Albert, with his most persuasive smile.

It was an awkward position for Telly and one that she had never before been called upon to fill. Rather shy naturally, and her sole acquaintance with the usages of society limited to the few people among whom she had been brought up, to be called upon to entertain a smartly dressed and citted young man was a decidedly new experience. Albert saw her embarrassment and with true gallantry at once set about making her feel at ease.

"Please do not feel that you must try to entertain me, Miss Terry," he said. "Only show me your pictures and tell me about them."

"I am almost ashamed to," she replied timidly. "Father says you are an artist yourself."

"Oh, no, Miss Terry," exclaimed Albert quickly. "He misunderstood me. I only sketch a little and once in a while make an effort to put a sketch that is of interest on canvas. All I can tell is when one looks lifelike. For instance," pointing to it, "that shipwreck scene. It is wonderfully well done. Did you paint it from a real wreck?"

Telly colored. "No, sir," she answered, "that was all done from father's description of a wreck that took place off the point one winter when I was a baby." Then, as if to check further questions, she stepped to a closet, brought him a small unframed picture and added, "There is one I have just finished."

It was a view of a tall cliff with a low shelf of rock at its base, over which the waves were breaking. Albert recognized it at once. "Why, that is the very point," he exclaimed, "that I was sketching yesterday when my boat drifted away. Did you paint it from a broad flat rock on the west side of the cove?"

"Oh, yes, that is the spot," replied Telly, looking pleased. "It is shady there, and I used to row up and paint in the afternoon. It is strange you went to the same place. Father told me about finding you," she said, "and that you were turned around. You must have had a hard tramp, for it's all of two miles from where you were to this cove, and an awful tangle all the way, he said."

"I was decidedly turned when he came to my rescue," Albert replied, "and the sun seemed to be setting in the east. It was very kind of your father to take care of me the way he has, and I shall never forget it."

It is not hard for two young people of opposite sex to get acquainted when each desires to entertain the other and they have at least one well defined taste in common. Albert did not talk much, but adroitly induced Telly to do most of it. In the hour they passed together he discovered that two impulses were nearest her heart—the first and strongest her devotion to Uncle Terry, and after that a desire to paint.

"I do not ever hope to do much," she admitted rather pathetically. "I never have taken lessons and maybe never shall. I would not think of asking father to let me go away, and all I can do is to work blindly. I often sit for hours trying to put things I see on canvas, only to fall utterly and begin all over again. I should not mind it if I could see that I made any progress, but I do not. I can't let it alone, though, for the most happy hours I have are when I'm painting."

"You certainly have perseverance," responded Albert encouragingly, "and the pictures you have shown me seem very lifelike. I wish I could do as well. You have done good work for one self taught as you are, and you have no reason to be discouraged."

Then Uncle Terry came in and announced dinner. It was rather a state affair for the Terry household, and the table bore their best dinner service, with a vase of flowers in the center.

"I hope ye feel hungry," said Uncle Terry as he passed a well filled plate to Albert, "for we live plain, an' it's good appetite as makes good vittles. I s'pose ye are used to purty high livin'."

"Whatever tastes good is good," replied Albert, and, turning to Aunt Lissy, he added, "This fried lobster beats anything I have tasted for a long time."

When the meal was over he handed the box of cigars he had brought to his host with the remark, "Please accept these, Mr. Terry, and when you smoke them think of the forlorn fellow you found by the wayside."

"I've got to leave ye to the tender mercies of the wimmin folks," said Uncle Terry, after thanking Albert, "for I've got work to do, and tonight we'll have a visit. I hope you'll be willin' to stay with us a day or two," he added, "an' tomorrow I'll take ye out fishin'."

"I will stay until tomorrow, thank you," replied Albert.

"I should like to row up to where I was left boatless yesterday," he said to Telly after Uncle Terry had gone, "and finish the sketch I began and also try to find the cushions I dropped in the woods. May I ask you to go too?"

"I should be glad if mother can spare me," she answered.

When he rowed out of the little harbor where he had left his boat Telly sat in the stern holding the tiller ropes and shading her winsome face was the same broad sun hat he had seen on the rock beside her the evening before. It was a long four mile pull, but he was unconscious of it, and when he helped his companion out and secured the boat he said: "Now, I am going to take a favor of you, Miss Terry. I want you to stand in just the position I first saw you and let me make a sketch of you. You were leaning on a rock and resting your head on one hand."

Telly looked puzzled. "You did not know I saw you out on the point last evening, did you?" he added, smiling. "I stood and looked at you for five minutes and then walked away. I did not know who you were then, but I should meet you later. If I had I would not have been so rude."

The color came to Telly's face at his evident admiration, but she did not say no to his proposal, and stood patiently in the position he wished while he made the sketch. "There," he exclaimed when it was finished, "I shall transfer that to canvas when I go back, and whenever I look at it I shall recall this day and you."

"Will you need the picture for that?" she replied with a smile.

"That sounded like Alice," he said, and added hastily, "Alice is my only sister, and I think more of her than of any other woman living."

Telly sat on the boat's cushions in a shady nook and watched Albert finish his sketch and then listened to his talk. He told her all about his home and sister and Frank as well. In a way they exchanged a good deal of personal history of interest to each other. Then they gathered flowers, and

"Draw yourself as holding the oars," Telly insisted on decorating the boat. When it was done she wanted him to make a sketch of it for her. "Draw yourself as holding the oars," she said, "and I will try to paint a picture from the sketch to remember you by," she added with a smile.

Then, as the sun was getting low, they started for home. The breeze had vanished and the sea was like glass. Only the long ground swells barely lifted their boat and made the shadows of the trees along the shore wave in fantastic undulations. When they reached the Cape Telly said: "You had better go around to the cove where father keeps his boats. It's nearer to the house, and there is a float there where you can pull your boat out."

She waited until he had done so, and then stooped and selected a few of the flowers with which they had decked the boat. "I am going to paint them," she said quietly as she turned and followed Albert up to the house.

FOUND A CURE FOR SEA SICKNESS

Veteran Traveller Says Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are so Good no Party Should Travel Without Them.

This is the season of lake excursions and ocean voyages, and, sad to relate, of sea-sickness. How many people are afraid of the two former on account of the latter. To all such that veteran traveller, H. Hutchinson, of Chatham, Ont., sends a word of cheer. He crosses the Atlantic four times a year and has consequently a splendid chance to study the terror of the seas.

"I find," says Mr. Hutchinson, "that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best thing as a preventative against sea-sickness, and I think any party travelling should carry them for that purpose."

"On my last trip I gave away several Tablets to different passengers who felt the sickness coming on and in every case it seemed to settle their stomachs and prevent the sickness."

HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED.

(From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.)
In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by All Druggists.

HINTS FOR THE HOSTESS.

Entertaining the Unexpected Male Guest at Mealtime.

It often happens that a woman will have an unexpected male guest at mealtime. I have found through long experience that men are more easily entertained than women. If the table be ordinarily neat, the meal plentiful and above all the welcome cordial the average man will not notice the absence of the best china nor the darn in the tablecloth.

To insure a plentiful meal have a plentiful supply of such things in the house as will keep well and can be cooked at a moment's notice. With the proper stores on hand it is an easy task to prepare a palatable soup, cook some ham and eggs and make an extra cup of coffee. If the cloth be not spotless spread a fresh napkin at the place of the guest, fill the saltcellar neatly, see that he has a dainty cup and saucer, and, believe me, he will carry away with him the memory of a pleasant repast if the hostess be at her ease and does not make him feel by her worried manner that his visit is an intrusion.

It sometimes happens that the head of the house is an unexpected guest when he comes to share a meal which he is not in the habit of taking at home. In that case he should not be greeted with "Oh, dear, I have nothing for you to eat; we had a cold lunch today," but the wife should make quietly and cheerfully the preparations she would make if a stranger had called. The husband will appreciate her action. A little thing like this may form another link in the chain which binds him to his home.—New Idea.

MILK SHERBET.

A Delicious and Inexpensive Dessert For Any Season.

In our house milk sherbet is the most popular dessert on the hottest day of summer or the coldest day of winter. To make it you take one quart of rich milk, three lemons, three-fourths of a pint of granulated sugar and one tablespoonful of granulated white gelatin.

Put the gelatin to soak in half a cupful of the cold milk, putting the remainder of the milk to boil in a farina boiler with half the sugar. Stir well. When it boils add the soaked gelatin, remove from the fire and stir until all is thoroughly dissolved. Strain into the ice cream can; put away to cool. While it cools prepare the flavoring thus: Wash the lemons well, dry them, grate the rind of one and squeeze the juice of three in a dish, add the remaining half of the sugar, stir and mix thoroughly; stand in a cool place until needed.

Pack the tub in which the freezer is placed in the regular way with very finely broken ice and coarse salt. Pour the lemon and sugar into the prepared milk. Cover and freeze in the ordinary way, which will take from fifteen to twenty minutes. Remove the dasher, pack away and give at least one hour to ripen before using. If these directions are followed exactly the result will be most satisfactory, producing a delicious and inexpensive dessert for five or six persons.—Table Talk.

CULINARY CONCEITS.

In blending flour and water for thickening, if a fork is used, it will not lump.

A little lemon juice added to the water for mixing pastry improves the flavor and helps to make it light. If you wish a cake to be light put it into a very hot oven at first and let the oven cool after the first twenty minutes.

For every use to which brandy is ordinarily put in cooking boiled cider is just as good. Boiled sweet cider till reduced to one-fourth its original volume.

Bones for soup should be chopped quite small and the stock in which they are put allowed to simmer only, never to actually boil, if you want to extract all the goodness.

A scant half cupful of strained tomatoes placed on the pan where lamb or mutton is roasting greatly improves the flavor of the meat. The tomato of course is used in the basting.

A Dainty Hash.

A sublimated sort of hash which deserves a more euphonious name is prepared very quickly and easily. Cold meat of any kind is put through the chopper, care being taken to eliminate gristle, etc. To this are added mashed potatoes in the proportion of one-third, half the quantity of canned tomatoes, a very small portion of grated onion and pepper and salt to taste. Cover the bottom and sides of a baking dish with cracker crumbs, put in the hash, strew more crumbs upon the top and let it bake gently for fifteen minutes. Can be used either hot or cold.

To Polish Linoleum.

Beeswax and turpentine polish for linoleum is hard to beat as far as its appearance is concerned, but it has one defect. It causes slipperiness, which may be very dangerous to children and old people. A polish which has no such objection is made of equal parts of linseed oil and vinegar. Apply a little to a flannel cloth, rub it well on the linoleum and polish with a clean, dry cloth.

The Matchmaker.

It is a common thing to deprecate a woman for being what is called in common parlance "a matchmaker," but if she possesses the necessary qualifications of discretion and tact she is an almost indispensable adjunct to social intercourse and may prove the greatest boon to lovers who lack time and opportunity to bring their affections to a successful issue.

A Mark of Culture.

Maund—That's a letter from Jack. Is it? What horrid spelling! Mabel—I know it. He does it on purpose. He says that bad spelling is a mark of high literary culture nowadays.

The heart of the wise man should resemble a mirror, which reflects every object without being sullied by any.—Confucius.

HE DESERVED PITY.

His suffering from sciatica was so great, but thanks to Nerviline he was cured. "I suffered for three years from sciatica," writes E. S. Jenkins, of Portland, "and no man ever suffered more. I spent a small fortune on different remedies, but the only one with real merit was Nerviline. I used a few bottles of Nerviline and was perfectly cured. I can recommend Nerviline as a safe cure for sciatica; it's excellent also for rheumatism and neuralgia." Try Nerviline, 25c. at all druggists.

Transformation of a Worm.

In China there is a kind of worm that regularly falls a prey to a species of parasitic fungus. In the course of time this fungus pervades the poor worm's entire anatomical structure, converting him into a woody being, in which state he is esteemed as being a valuable medicine.

The Deadliest Poison.

Cyanide of potassium and hydrocyanic or prussic acid are considered by most people to be about the most poisonous of known substances. This is an error. They are the most rapidly acting of all poisons, but not the most potent. One drop of pure prussic acid placed in the eye of a large dog will kill it within two seconds, and such a dose will kill a man. But there is an alkaloid in acconite root called pseudonitine, one three-hundredth part of a grain of which will kill a moderate sized animal. This is the deadliest poison known, being 300 times as toxic as prussic acid.

Her Case Is Hopeless. A little girl became so accustomed to exaggeration and misstatement that nobody could believe her, and her parents were greatly annoyed by the unfortunate reputation that she was acquiring.

One afternoon her mother said to her: "Now, listen, Lillian, and heed my words. What has happened to one zinner may easily happen to another. You know what happened to Ananias and Sapphira, don't you?"

"Yes, I do. They fell dead on the street corner, and I saw 'em carried into a drug store."

SUGAR GOES UP

Price of Granulated Advanced to 5 Cents Net—Other News from Proctor's Wire.

Special to The Planet.

New York, July 28.—London for American stocks was decidedly better this morning and prices are up from a quarter to a point on the assurance received from the foreign offices that Russia will make full reparation for the sinking of the Knight Commander, and the official announcement of this assurance will allay all apprehension of any further strain on the relations between England and Russia.

New York, July 28.—Arbuckle & Howell have advanced list prices five points, making fine granulated five cents net.

London, July 28.—Balfour announces that the Red Sea volunteer fleet will be withdrawn from the Red Sea and that the crisis has passed the critical stage.

London, July 28.—A protracted meeting of the British Defense Committee was held yesterday.

New York, July 28.—Nothing new in the foreign complications. The State Department has asked Russia to explain seizure of cargo of Arabia.

SATCHEL OF THE SATELLITE

Chatham was winning all the way, yesterday.

I wonder if Manager Babcock carries a rabbit's foot.

I wonder if the cricket club could take a few lessons from the lacrosse club.

The reputation of the Chatham girls for beauty and ability extends even to Colorado.

O. L. Lewis (by card), 4 a. m.—I see that the Chatham team can win even when I am not at the game.

I received a long despatch from Adj. Will Coltart explaining how the Chatham boys came to win. The despatch was very bulky and came by freight. Mr. Coltart proved by Hick's predictions for August and the Japanese successes in the war that Chatham would win.

H. S. Clements, Dr. Thornton and S. B. Arnold attended the church social at South Buxton last night. Coming home, it was a nice night and H. S. Clements explained that he was driving the long way around home. Dr. Thornton said: "Well we won't 'haul her.' That punster, S. B. Arnold interjected "No, but the horses will."

There was a lengthy discussion in the Commons respecting the retirement of Lieut.-Col. Gregory of St. Catharines, in which Opposition members accused Colonel Otter of allowing himself to be influenced by politicians. Sir Frederick Borden declared that Col. Gregory had worked a "peculiar little game" to retain the command of his regiment. After the debate had collapsed $1,085,950 was voted in supply.

SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL

The Ladies of the Baptist Church, South Buxton, gave a very successful and enjoyable church tea last evening. There was an excellent attendance, the eatables were good and the program was enjoyable. J. M. Gard acted as chairman, and he made an excellent one.

H. S. Clements, the Conservative nominee for the Dominion House, was present and delivered an able address, which was much enjoyed and warmly applauded.

The other speakers from Chatham were Dr. A. W. Thornton and S. B. Arnold. W. C. Estabrook, Dr. Oliver and Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Merlin, also delivered addresses.

The following was the program:—

Chorus—Choir.

Solo—R. W. Angus.

Speech—Mr. Estabrook.

Duett—Misses Lawrence and Johnson.

Song—Prof. Curtis.

Address—H. S. Clements.

Song—Ed. Hea.

Song—Dr. Oliver.

Address—S. B. Arnold.

Solo—R. W. Angus.

Address—Rev. Mr. Thompson.

Duett—Mr. and Mrs. Hatchett.

Address—Dr. Thornton.

Miss Rantall, a talented and accomplished pianiste, of Merlin, acted as accompaniste.

After the program, Misses Myrtle Chase and Charlotte Crosby collected money for the cutting of a cake, the former winning. Everyone was given a piece of the cake.

The proceeds of the evening will go towards building a new residence for the pastor of the church.

CHANGING SEATS

Kingston, July 27.—William McArthur, of Gananoque, made a gallant rescue at that place last night. He saw a skiff capsize, and he rushed to the rescue. He found "Sandy" MacDonald and Miss Kondry, of Gananoque, clinging to the upturned craft. MacDonald said, "Look for the other girl." Just then McArthur saw a head and arms come up at the bow. He jumped and grasped the woman by the waist and saved her. She was Miss Lottie LaChapelle, of Newmarket, and was going down for the last time. The boat had upset while MacDonald and one of the ladies were changing seats.

ECHOES FROM ERIEAU

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stevens spent the day in the city.

Mrs. Will Rutley and son Fred are staying at Thursavilla.

E. B. Northwood is talking of moving to the city during August.

Ald. E. A. Mounteer has taken Wm. Nichol's cottage for a short time.

Misses Kate and Bertha Garrett are guests at Sandy-Knowe, Eribeau.

Miss Lydia Northwood is the guest of Mrs. M. Houston, Hazeldean cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry O'Brien went to Chatham yesterday to see the lacrosse game.

Mrs. John Northwood, William street, has taken up her residence at Unedea Rest cottage.

Miss Jessie Harper has returned after a brief visit to Chatham to see the lacrosse match.

Miss Nell Young and Miss Georgia Morrison were sailing the yacht "Awa" yesterday. Both young ladies are becoming skilled in the handling of a yacht.

There was great excitement at Oscoc cottage the other evening.

Miss Bertram was carrying her bathing suit through the room where C. C. Greening, Sam Glenn, W. H. Harper, Alfred Glenn, A. E. Pilkey and Norman McLean were playing cards.

The bathing suit had been hanging outside and a bat had become entangled in its folds. The bat dizzied by the light left the concealment of the folds of the bathing suit. There was a fun. Sam Glenn secured a curtain pole and made several vicious swipes at the bat. He damaged most everything except the flying beast. Probably that is why A. E. Pilkey has a black and blue mark on his arm to-day. The bat disappeared and W. H. and Alfred returned to their chairs. They said it was very comfortable under the table, but they preferred the latter place when Mr. Glenn was swinging the curtain pole. Anyway they would sooner take chances on the bat than on getting batted with a curtain pole. The spring flew out of the curtain pole and up Mr. Glenn's sleeve. He yelled and grabbed his sleeve. He thought it was the bat. The game of cards was resumed, but Mr. Harper took great enjoyment at exciting stages in the play to warn the rest to look out for the bat. This always had an exceedingly disturbing effect on the game. Once Norman McLean got so excited that he gave away his pawns. Then the bat really did get tired of the monotony and started out to again create a little excitement. Mr. Greening got the curtain pole this time minus the spring, which was up Mr. Glenn's sleeve. The bat darted into the bedroom and Mr. Greening after it. On the white bed spread lay a spool of black thread and the way Mr. Greening killed that spool of thread was wonderful. He thought it was the bat. This last escapade of the winged monster was too much for the card party and it broke up in laughter.

A TREMENDOUS CRASH IN FINE CLOTHING AND HATS

The backward season forces us to dispose of this stock at a great sacrifice. The 2 T's Semi-Annual Sale Starts SATURDAY, JULY 30, and will be continued for the following two weeks. You do not doubt remember our last January Sale which was the largest in the history of clothing sales in Chatham. This August we propose going it one better for two reasons. First reason we have is, on Aug. 15 the contractors take charge of our store, which we propose altering and building an addition at the back, which will give us twice as much room in our Clothing Department than what we have at present. The 2nd reason is that our Mr. TRUDELL leaves on Aug. 20th for the Eastern Markets, such as Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal and New York, and wants an idea of what we want for Fall and Winter in order to reduce our stock. Therefore, we have concluded to give you a bargain such as we never have done before in Clothing, Hats, Sweaters, etc. You need the goods; we need the room, consequently we both derive the same benefit.

The Sale Begins Saturday Morning at 8 O'Clock

EVERY MAN IN CHATHAM AND VICINITY who needs a New Suit or Hat will find it to his advantage to make a purchase now—both from the standpoint of economy and selection. SUITS COME FIRST on the list. We do not have sales every week, but when we have a sale, it counts, as you all know. This Sale is Genuine. Everything is sold for cash only. No goods will be sold at the prices mentioned before Saturday.

PLENTY OF SUITS TO CHOOSE FROM. An extra staff of salesmen has been engaged so you can all be waited on properly.
