TAP TREES FOR MAPLE SUGAR

Movement on Foot in Simcoe

Provincial Fire Warden Approves Plans For New Fire Hall

Simcoe, March 14.—(From our own correspondent.)—A movement is on foot here this morning to effect the tapping of Simcoe's maples, which line almost every street, for the making of maple syrup. Many farmers set a good yield from fifty trees. Did any ever count the number of good maple on Market Street and the market square?

As an encouragement in the enterprise, Principal McPherson will to-day warn school children that they must not interfere with sap buckets or pails on trees along the streets. Perhaps the teachers will use persuasion by telling children that sugar may not be so plentiful next year as by accident it is at present. A little talk about the "sugar line" across the border may assist. Hundreds of gallons of good syrup may be made right here in Simcoe during the next three weeks—if persuasion, warning, and the police are worked to the limit. It will be conceded that the adult urchin who interferes with the sap pail this year is a public enemy and deserves severe punishment.

The drawback

We are aware that some unmanly pranks have in the past been perpetrated on private sap pails, but this only because of an indulgent court.

We have been talking production. The writer a few years ago, thick, for it carried maple syrup from part of the sap drawn for the moment, and trees in his back yard, over in Ingersoll. Hundreds of quarts can be made right here in Simcoe, without loss of time.

How to Overcome It

Let this organization of Cadets, who are enjoying themselves of evenings at the armories, form themselves into an organization of detectives, and adding others to their number, watch for and inform on the individual who meddles with the sap bucket, and the thing is done. And in case some offenders are caught, let the Magistrate forget his sympathy for the moment, and Simcoe can make sugar. Let every Courier subscriber in town assist the boys in their vigilance. Or shall we still choose the line of least resistance? That is not what boys overseas are doing. We can do this thing if we will.

Lynnville Women's Institute

Spinald Meeting at Home of Mrs. Fred Peacock.

Simcoe, March 14.—The Lynnville Women's Institute assembled with their knitting needles yesterday at the home of Mrs. Fred Peacock. Country roads are not the best just at present, but the women turned out to discuss problems of spring-time and summer and to deliberate on how best to keep their war work in motion, even through busy summer on the farm.

The president, Mrs. Thos. Hambley occupied the chair.

The more serious part of the day's deliberations over a variety program followed.

Miss Edna Robins delivered a well ordered address in splendid form, talking for her subject, "Gambles." Mrs. Cecil Yeager followed with a musical selection, and Miss Elsie Baxter recited.

Moving

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Cecil Yeager. Approves of Plans for New Firehall.

While in town on Tuesday, the Provincial Fire Warden met the Fire and Light Committee of the Council, with a view to learning what was contemplated regarding further efficiency in the civic fire protection program. The Warden approved of the plans for converting the market building into a fire-hall and suggested methods of overcoming the present inefficient manner in which alarms are turned in.

To Replenish Brook Trout

Local anglers are contemplating the building of a feeding pond here in which to keep young trout from the hatcheries. As they become finger lengths, as it is thought many of the young heretofore liberated in the streams are not able to take care of themselves.

Water Saturates Town Streets

Any observant citizen should be convinced after a casual walk about town, that what Simcoe has most need of in the way of street improvement is a drainage system sufficiently below the surface that it will not freeze up. Everywhere water passages under sidewalks have been filled with ice water, ice backed up in ponds or lying on the sidewalks.

Permanent Underground Drainage

Properly located catch basins would let the water away and leave the streets dry. We have hauled sand onto the streets for a generation to no avail.

TOWN TEEN BOYS TO GO ON FARM

Frank Reid Appointed Director of "Soldiers of the Soil" Movement

(From our own correspondent.)
Simcoe, March 14.—Mr. Frank Reid, who has been appointed director here for the Soldiers of the Soil movement called a meeting of citizens last night to carry on the work here.

The object of the movement is to get boys of teen from high school colleges, continuation school or soldiers, into the "second line of defense," the production line on the farms. Boys who will work three months will get a bronze war workers' medal, and this even though they work on their father's farm.

Boys out in the township will have to enrol to obtain the medal, and should it living near Simcoe, do so before March 24th, applying to any of the following enrolling officers: W. C. J. King, Bank of Commerce; H. S. Falls, J. D. Christie, B.A., H. S. McPherson, H. F. Cook.

I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using 'Fruit-a-tives', and I know now that I have not known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain."

Publicity Committee

The following publicity committee was appointed: Messrs. H. A. Carter, W. G. Jackson, L. S. Aiken, Henry Johnson, G. Curtis and T. E. Langford. By Monday the matter will have been pretty thoroughly set before the people.

100 Boys Wanted

The committee wants 100 volunteers to fight in the fields during the summer. It has come to this that all must work or some will assuredly starve. When the situation is appreciated, the boys will fall in. But any talk of golf or bowling during the summer of 1918 is not likely to be conducive to enlistment. It might be well to at once let the boys know the situation is so serious that these non-productive amusements are off the boards for 1918 and let them know at once.

Enrolment week begins Monday morning.

Wedding Bells

Henry Stanley Oakes and Elsie Edith Walsh, both of Charlotteville, were married yesterday by Rev. H. C. Newcombe.

At Remon on Tuesday, Rev. T. H. Bole joined in wedlock Charles Mianer of Woodhouse, and Miss Margaret Alice Renton of Townsend.

Rev. A. B. Farney was obliged yesterday to postpone a wedding in Lower Woodhouse, owing to the fact that the young couple were very obliging, or that smile of the dictator's irresistible was accepted most cheerfully, and we believe his reverence will not tarry long.

Simcoe, March 14.—(From Our Own Correspondent)

The Norfolk Development Association met here yesterday. There was under the conditions a very good turnout. Reports from all quarters go to show that the winter just fitting has not gone well with the bees.

It is estimated that there are today only half as many colonies of bees as there were last year. Foul brood and the discharging of sickness have made ravages in the stock and have discouraged many to the point of going out of the business.

James Armstrong, of Selkirk, president of the Provincial Association, addressed the meeting on the "Disappearing" disease, and Mr. Gowan of Hagersville, inspector for Haldimand and Norfolk counties, followed on "Foul Brood."

Odd Ends of News.

Ausley Yeager will close Derby Stables.

And a Government dog tax of $2 on top of that, is abroad. Verily, these are dog days.

Charlotteville's uncollected taxes for 1917 amounted to $257.63. Sundry accounts, a debt of which was for snow shovelling, and totaling $232.76, were passed at the last Council meeting at Walsingham.

It is announced that Dominion Farmers have decided to pay all passed dividends tending war bonds for fifty per cent of the overall profits to shareholders.

Government garbage regulations are putting collectors off the route in town and considerable inconvenience to the public. It hopes to look as if the garbage question will bring the Town Council to attention in the near future.

INDUSTRIAL GROUPS MEET

An error crept into the report of the Central Industrial Group night at the Y.M.C.A. It should have been stated that the Brantford Scale Co. bowling team defeated Good's, Shapley and Muir by 64 points.

The Southern Group committee met at the Y.M.C.A. last night and arranged an excellent program for their social night. The following are representatives:

Waterous—G. Collington, W. McHutcheon, T. Littich, C. Clayton, Scarfe and Co.—G. Scarfe; J. Kiersby, R. Ryan, O. Featherstone, A. Jones.

American Radiator—M. McGaw, H. P. Campbell.

Hartley Foundry—Messrs. Crowley, Van Every, Harrington, Wilson. The program includes a lively number of gymnasium events with several items for the lady employees and other lady friends.

W. J. Downes was appointed conductor of the musical program. Special events are arranged for older men and employed boys. The committee purpose making the Southern the best yet.

HAS MEN TO COLLECT GARBAGE

Mayor Says City Will Not Suffer if Present Collectors Quit

His Worship Mayor MacBride, this morning informed The Courier that he has arranged for six teams to take up the garbage collector on Monday of next week, provided the present collectors agree to their intention of quitting on Saturday night. All but one of them have now tendered their resignations, but the mayor is given to understand that some at least may reconsider their action. If so, they must notify him at the city hall between eleven and twelve o'clock tomorrow.

"We will give them fair treatment and let them have their jobs back if they wish," observed His Worship. "If not, we are fortified against an emergency."

Bowling

The Printers took the "odd" game from the Radiator men at the Assembly Alley last night, both teams rolled poorly, no one getting the 500 mark. Destroyed high with 497. Brown led for the Radiator team with 493. The score:

NEW RIDER SIGNED

By Courier Leased Wire
New York, March 13.—Old Rosebud will have a new rider this year. Trainer Weir signed Jockey Moleworth for the season of 1918 yesterday. Weir has had experience with many star race riders, including Willie Shaw and Jack Martin, but he says Moleworth bids fair to be one of the best jockeys ever seen on the New York tracks.

Moleworth will also ride Jack Haro, Jr., in all of his stake engagements. Weir will train for H. C. Applegate and other turfmen this year and will handle a powerful string of thoroughbreds.

SEVEN PHILLY HOLDOUTS.
By Courier Leased Wire
Philadelphia, March 13.—Although the Philadelphia National League baseball team is scheduled to leave for its training camp at St. Petersburg, Florida, on Friday, seven players have refused to sign their contracts. They are Outfielders Whitford, Williams, and Fitzgerald; Infielders Niehoff and Stock; Catcher Dillhoefer and Chief Bender, the Indian pitcher. Nothing has been heard from Gabby Gravesh, but he usually is late with his contract and seldom signs until he reaches the training camp.

BAD COLD? TAKE "CASCARETS" FOR BOWELS TONIGHT

They're fine! Live your liver and bowels and clear your head.

Get a 10-cent box now. Colds—whether in the head or any part of the body—are quickly overcome by urging the liver to action and keeping the bowels free of poison. Take Cascarets to-night and you will wake up with a clear head and your cold will be gone. Cascarets work while you sleep; they cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember the quickest way to get rid of colic is one or two Cascarets at night to cleanse the system. Get a 10-cent box at any drug store. Don't forget the children. They're like this. Candy, Opheatic and it is often all that is needed to give a cold from their little systems.

Music and Drama

"THE IRISH 15TH" "The Irish 15th" is the title of a new Irish military song-play written by Theodore Burt Sayre for Al H. Wilson, the singing dialect comedian, in which Mr. Wilson will make his appearance at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, March 16th. In addition to an interesting present war story of Erin, told in a pleasing manner by a capable company, there are numerous stage settings which lend interest to the performance. The comedy part of the play is fresh, bright and original, and is a most enjoyable type of character that will prove a pleasant diversion to the spectator. In addition to this, the different scenes afford a chance for the introduction of a number of new songs by the star. These are not "jugged" in, but on the contrary, fit in naturally as a part of the play. They include "I want to be a Soldier," "Ireland is Your Home, Sweet Home," "My Mother's Wedding Ring," "A Lily from Heaven" and "The Irish Will Be the Irish." The scale of prices will be 25c., 50c., 75c., $1.00.

FILMLET'S Mary Pickford is weaving her autobiography. During the show interludes she has had between her Artcraft pictures she has been busily engaged in the writing of her own career. Mary is literally "taking her life in her hands," and her own story will go to the world in serial form in a few months. Edith Fox and his seven young-steres visited Douglas Fairbanks at the Arctur star at his California studio recently. The youngest Foy, Irving, asked "Doug" what color necktie he was wearing. The actor, who is an athletic star, replied, "I don't know." The Foy kids were deeply interested in "Doug's" scaling a church steeple. Roxana McGowan has among her collection of cash notes a burning epistle from a Porto Rico swain, written with red ink on blue paper and mailed to the Paramount. McGowan, one of the Paramount Mack Sennett comedy beauties, says she feels like she has been drinking a pousse-cafe every time she reads the epistle. "It must be awful to love like he does," she admits. Roscoe Arbuckle stood in the lobby of the Alexandria Hotel in Los Angeles with a rumbler frozen on his face. "I'm looking for a street car," he remarked. His friend chirped in return. "There are in front of the hotel, but not behind yourself to one of those?" "That isn't the kind I want," he said. "I want an old-fashioned horse car."

Word comes from Chicago that Mary Garden, star of the opera and motion picture, will not sing this year for the hoboes, as has been her custom in the past. Miss Garden has been informed that her friends the tramp are fighting among themselves and have split into factions. If she must sing to uniformed kind, she prefers the "Reds." She hates to tell you the size you ought to be, but I will tell you. "Tell me," I answered, turning pale; "I shall try to be brave." "So he told me. But I am not going to tell you. And now he was determined to hold nothing back. He told me that I had incipient bunions and that my instep arches might break at any time. There were other things which I have forgotten, but it was clear that I had been living in a fool's paradise. And in the end the tramp said, 'I have a pair of shoes a size and a half larger than I had even worn before; trading fearfully lest the condemned arches should suddenly collapse beneath me.' Dear Salespeople, we, the feminine public that has to be served, have our faults, we tempt, we have no proper notion of the value of the 'line-up'; we buy things without deliberation and return them without rhyme or reason; at the Christmas season we are a hybrid-headed monster. But bear with us a little longer; for we are a vanishing race. The New Woman is on the way, tramping along the corridors of time in her sensible No. six and a half shoes. There are clerks without number who know who are human and accessible and long-suffering. And the following we would extend apologies and greetings. To a certain clerk—a treasure laid up in the book department who sought long and earnestly for an obscure work of fiction by a still more obscure Frenchman and was as grateful as myself when he could not find it. To a kind young woman in the military who, on one occasion, saved me from myself by telling me that a certain hat "looked fierce in the back." And to another, it does not matter where, who handed me my parcel at nine o'clock at night on the 24th of December, with a strict but pleasant smile and wished me a Merry Christmas.

REASONABLE PAYMENT PLAN. H. J. Smith and Co., the well known music dealer, have some exceedingly fine pianos at very low prices. They are well known makes, and intending purchasers are invited to call and compare quality and price and get the reasonable payment plan by which one can be secured.

STORE CLERKS ARE IN CLASS BY SELVES

The High, Middle and the Low all Shrink Before Their Haughty Attitude (By Urbante). Society, as we all know, is divided into four classes—the lower classes, the middle classes, the upper classes and store clerks. And the position of the latter class is beyond question, unique. The power and knowledge of the remote and inaccessible young woman behind the downtown counter is a thing not generally recognized. She knows all the things about us that our nearest friends have never been able to discover; the secrets of our complexion, the depths of our Christianity, the size of our feet. It occurred to you that the moment you entered the downtown department store you surround yourself with a vast and inescapable cloud of witnesses? The woman on the way, as we are all aware, America, her, doubtless, the store clerk will have no terrors. She will look unflinchingly into the face of the haughtiest of us, and she will say something cheaper, please; she will stretch out her feet without a trace of self-consciousness and ask for a silk and a pair of shoes. Her scornful figure, she will stalk unheeding past the Drugs and Lotions into the Books and Current History. She is smiling, beyond a doubt, and it is useless for us to dig our French heels into the ground and try to hold off the Evolution of Women. And when she comes the scornful saleswoman disappears. For all our feminine weaknesses and vanities will be swallowed up and there will be nothing left to be scornful about. I have to confess that I find salesclerks terribly disconcerting. I never stand before one without being instantly aware of my rumpled hat, or of my combed hair, or of my ante-bellum suit. They render me incoherent and absurd. I can remember, as I dig out my teeth to let me see her invisible hairpins. And, on another occasion, when in search of ammunition for the air rifle of a certain Hattie boy, I was told to get them to let me see her invisible hairpins. And, on another occasion, when in search of ammunition for the air rifle of a certain Hattie boy, I was told to get them to let me see her invisible hairpins.

Rippling Rhymes We're building up a mighty force, to do some heavy scarping; and now then our work is coarse—mistakes are bound to happen. We haven't made of war a trade, like some bloodthirsty nations; so we get sidetracked and delayed in handling guns and rations. If while we carry two million men, that will-helm may be lighted, we pull a lonesome now and then, oh, friends, don't get excited! Consider that for fifty years we've spent our summers farming; we've slopped out hogs and fat our steers, while war struck kings were arming. We're strung along on peaceful jobs, our barns and silos filling, while Europe mobilized her mobs, and set the fall of rilling. Now, a thing we all abhor, we thought, we'd turned our backs on it, we were green at making war—perhaps it's to our credit. Oh, we have snubbed in our feet, and raised a lot of what, and turned the wildernesses. And what a great, sturdy strangled to us and all our leaders, who spent our lifetime at the grange, a-pushing plows and hoes, and fat our steers, while war struck kings were arming. We're strung along on peaceful jobs, our barns and silos filling, while Europe mobilized her mobs, and set the fall of rilling. Now, a thing we all abhor, we thought, we'd turned our backs on it, we were green at making war—perhaps it's to our credit. To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fumes, and poisons. This is done by taking a hot water bath each day. The water is absorbed into the blood, just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incandescent material in the form of ash, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, forms toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the various ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body. If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Girls and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or sallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should be taking this phosphate hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is infinitely more important than outside cleanliness because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood while the bowel pores do. Women who desire to enhance the beauty of their complexion should just try this for a week and notice results.

THE SITUATION.
The Germans launched quite a heavy attack in the Champagne region. It was repelled with heavy losses to the foe. In the Ypres sector the British conducted two raids and succeeded in entering the German lines.

It is said that there are indications that the Austrians will attempt to break the Italian line at the same time the Germans launch their much talked of offensive on the Western front. General Maurice, British Director of Operations, now thinks that the latter attack is imminent. The foe concentration on the Italian front is placed at from 750,000 to 1,000,000 men.

The official record of British ships torpedoed last week is fifteen of over 1,600 tons and three under that figure. The total is the same as for the previous week with the exception that there are three more in the heavier class.

There has been still another advance on the part of British troops in Palestine.

German troops are announced to have entered Odessa, the most important port of Southern Russia. The place has a population of about half a million, and is believed to contain stores of grain and munitions.

The Huns are not through with their robbing of Roumania, and they are seeking still further territory on the plea of further "rectifying the boundary."

British airmen dropped nearly ten tons of bombs on munition works and barracks in Freiburg, Germany, and three tons of like missiles on the docks at Brugos.

In the trial at San Francisco of Hindus and other persons charged with conspiring to overthrow British rule in India, plans were referred to of a German plot to wrest Canada from the Empire.

SOCIAL AND OTHER CONDITIONS AFTER THE WAR

That matters will revert to the old order of things after the war is utterly out of the question. There will be a vast and mighty change with regard to industrial and social conditions, and all people who are giving the subject any attention, fully realize that fact.

The Archbishop of York, who is also Primate of England, and at present on a visit to the United States, is expressing himself very freely and cogently with reference to the subject. He emphasizes the fact that the first and immediate task is to conquer the Germans, and then we "must conquer ourselves."

"We feel in England," the Archbishop is reported as saying, "that the war has compelled us to reconsider in a very wide and deep way the whole character of our social system. The thought of social reconstruction is only less constantly in the minds of the people than the immediate progress of the war itself. We all feel that the war came to us at a time when we were all becoming conscious that our social system was revealing very deep defects, and our great trust is that the spirit of common fellowship which the war has called out will be transmuted after the war into an impulse toward wider social reconstruction, carried through in the same spirit of common fellowship and sacrifice. Certainly our soldiers at the front feel this. They seem to respond readily and with enthusiasm to the prospect that they will return home to take a place in the building up of a new and better social system. Indeed this is coming to fill a larger place in the consciousness of most people than the appeals for soldierhood and enthusiasm in the war. The ready response to these latter we take for granted, as is our national way; the forefront of our minds is full of thoughts of what is to be done at home after the war is won."

"The main impulse for the re-shaping of society, according to the Archbishop, will come from the great labor organizations; but a great deal will depend on the decisiveness of the victory in the war. An indecisive victory, he is convinced would have a profoundly depressing effect on the spirit in which all classes would approach the future. A patched-up peace would leave everybody sore and querulous, and would render more likely the outbreak of bitterness of party spirit and party class antagonism."

MUNICIPAL RAILWAY.

The report of the third year's operation of the Municipal Railway may be regarded as very satisfactory. The deficit for the twelve months was less than $200 and that, too, in face of largely increased operating expenses and an advance in the pay of the employees. It will be noticed that the number of passengers carried is steadily increasing. On the city lines the total in 1915 was 1,051,120; in 1916, 1,421,298, and last year, 1,667,860. On the Grand Valley the figures read 1915, 238,802; 1916, 180,011, and 1917, 196,538.

The falling off after 1915 is accounted for by the sale of the line from Paris to Galt, a move which was fully warranted because of the new and more direct line competition afforded by the construction of the Lake Erie and Northern Railroad. In this regard also it should be mentioned that the operation of the Grand Valley is less by several thousand dollars and the earnings per car mile on this section are 30.6 as compared with city earnings of 24.6.

It should also be remembered that passengers picked up by Grand Valley cars after they enter the city limits are credited not to the Grand Valley, but city account. A great many excellent people thought that the late Dr. Ickes was a dreamer when he decided to extend the rails from this place to the neighboring town, but the results have abundantly shown that he was a very far-seeing man in the respect named. As far as L. E. and N. competition is concerned, the municipal line will always have the call as passengers at both ends can board and leave cars at various street points without being confined to depots. It is suggested in the report that the passenger cars between the two places should be bettered and this most certainly ought to be done. Increased revenue would almost assuredly offset the outlay.

The system has taken care of all interest, sinking fund and pavement charges, and on top of all that there is the greatly improved service to the public in every way. A feature commented upon is that it has not been found possible to set aside an adequate sum for depreciation and this is something which certainly needs to be provided for. Another feature is that nearly two million passengers were expeditiously and safely carried. Altogether the report is one which does much credit to Commissioners Turnbull, Hartman, and Calbeck, together with Mr. John Creasser, the efficient secretary and the help generally.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

"The idea of March remember," quoth Will Shakespeare. And in addition, also look after your own hides in the variable weather.

The Huns have made another attempt to sink a hospital ship. There is nothing sacred to them except dishonor.

Guelph also owns its own street railway and the annual report has just been issued. It shows a total income of $50,149, not quite half that of Brantford, and expenditure of $41,000. The Agricultural College, with its large numbers of visitors each year, constitutes one of the chief sources of revenue.

UNREST IN CHINA

report was received in London on March 2 that President Feng would probably be forced to resign. It was added that he was virtually a prisoner of the northern military leaders. In July, 1915, General Chang Soulin was reported to be preparing to make an attempt to reinstate the Manchu dynasty in China, but his efforts never bore fruit.

The many friends of Mr. F. J. Calbeck will be pleased to know that he is progressing favorably, after an operation at the Brantford General Hospital, and it is expected that he will be around in a week or ten days.

COL. E. M. HOUSE A MAN OF MYSTERY

Some intimate Pages in the Life History of the Little Known Personality Bearing a Well-Known Name.

Some men are pitchforked into big jobs. Others are not. In the limelight after a whole lifetime of effort. Occasionally there are some who soft pedal along the path, and the first thing the world knows they are well up toward the top of the heap. Apparently that describes fairly accurately the case of Colonel House. He is prominent because Woodrow Wilson is president of the United States. Were some other man in the presidential chair, Colonel House would probably slide back in the lesser groove, and once more be a plain citizen of Austin, Texas. Edwin Wildman in the "Forum" refers to him as "The Man of Mystery."

Colonel House is a name known the world over, but only a small group of intimates know the man—the man who has just been selected by the President to gather data preparatory to the conference that must come when the world shall lay down arms and take up the discussion of permanent peace—a position of vast potential influence and international power—a position so great that one is appalled at the responsibilities that may fall upon the shoulders of the man who will have the data in his hands to determine peace is not in sight, but Colonel House is the first man officially designated to prepare the way. He may even be a precursor of that happy day. May we with propriety lift the veil and glance at his position? It concerns us immensely, vitally and hopefully. To begin with, he is a noticeable millionaire. He is a quick-witted, egotist. That is a hopeful sign. He has achieved far-reaching political results, noiselessly, for his achievements are in the closet, the achievements of alert judgment and calm thought.

There has frequently in the history of our government, been a man or men, behind the "throne." There was Emma in the days of McKinley, when you had to "see Emma" before you saw Wood, when Roosevelt ruled. Wood was his most intimate "chum." You didn't have to see Wood, but a word from him was a prized token that reached Roosevelt's ear direct. There was Hay, who was his power—afterward Consul-General at London, the most valued prize financially, in the executive gift box. And there was Hornblower in the Cleveland days.

Was Harbly Outside of Texas. In 1912 Col. E. M. House of Austin, Texas, was scarcely known outside the home—Star—State. By February, 1913, the name of Colonel House had appeared in practically every newspaper in the country. "Who is he?" was asked. "A man from Texas," was the answer. "Yes, but what has he done?" "Nothing, except dabble in state politics." "Ah, a politician. What offices has he held? What office does he hold?" "He holds no political office, he never has held political office, but he will never accept any political office—and what he says goes!"

"Well then," comes the puzzled query, "how did he get into print?" And the reply was then as it is now. "He is the closest friend of Woodrow Wilson. We believe he is a political adviser of the President. The President advises him probably more than any other man. Doubtless Colonel House's suggestions in regard to the cabinet and scores of other things we know not of, nor will ever know, have been followed."

Now comes the politician's leading question: "What is his background?"

Who is he? Colonel House was fifty-nine years old on the 26th of last July. He is the son of T. W. House, a successful Texas banker. The colonel was born in Houston, but made his home in Austin. His father sent him to the Hopkins Grammar School in New Haven and to Cornell, he was graduated in 1881. He married Miss Louie Hunter of Austin, the same year, and has two daughters, both now married.

He inherited some money but made the larger part of his fortune in agriculture, investments and similar ways. He became a director in some banks and railroads, but only in corporations where he made much money with his many farms and ranches. He owns many of these and they all pay him well. No one knows the extent of his wealth. It isn't great, as so many millionaires are ranked, but all sorts of guesses from one to twenty millions have been made. The favorite "guess" and the wild probably approaching the nearest to correctness, is $2,000,000.

He has said that he has enough money, he doesn't care to make any more than he can use, enough for his children, and that he sees no reason to struggle for more. He has a business office in Austin, one small room with an old-fashioned flat-top desk and has seen better days, a few filing cases, some chairs and a small old-fashioned safe, and upon a glass door this lettering, Mr. Edward M. House.

No "Copy" in Him Texas newspaper men got tired years ago of trying to make "copy" out of Colonel House. But of course outside newspaper men knew nothing of the residence that seemed to amount to a bashfulness on the part of the Texan, and when he went in and worked so successfully for Mr. Wilson's nomination in 1912 the newspaper men flocked to him. It was then that he made, for him, a record breaking statement:

"We want a Sunday feature story about you. We want to quote you for a column or so in this story. We have told the colonel almost shouted his reply, he was so agast at the idea. He started with his old favorite:

"Please do not, I am only just a plain Texan who wants to see Woodrow Wilson elected. Please don't."

Then in explanation of this, he made his record-breaking statement. "To a man such as I am, publicity is not only annoying, but injurious. I am not seeking anything for myself and I am not seeking anything for anybody else; I am simply trying to do the best I can for the measure I favor. I favor measures not men. To say that I have been able to accomplish anything would only be to draw upon me attention which would be most distasteful. I am not working for any influence that might be obtained or favors that might be granted. I am just a plain citizen and determined to remain one."

Margaret Garrett's Husband
By JANE PHELPS

THE WEDDING
Chapter IV.

We were to be married at home. Several of my friends helped me decorate the living room and it really looked lovely. We banded the mantel with palms then had growing plants and flowers placed about the room. We had no attendants, and but about twenty guests, mostly relatives of very close friends. Edie and Tom Barton, and a couple of Bob's college chums. We were married at noon, then went away immediately after the wedding breakfast. But it had been so lovely, so tender those last few days that my heart overflowed with happiness. Even Edie told me that I looked ten years younger. My going away dress was a soft shade of blue, with a long coat and hat to match. It was really very pretty and becoming, and I flushed with pleasure when Bob told me he was proud of his bride.

That I was proud of him goes without saying. I wondered if ever another bride had loved the man she vowed to love, honor, and obey, as I loved Bob. I know now that I thought of nothing but my love, that to me it was the ne plus ultra, the one thing in life.

Edie found an old pair of shoes and Bob's chums had come prepared with rice. The throwing of which we left the house added quite a festive air to the occasion. That came to be the happiest time of the day for me. After lunch Bob would recommend a siesta for me while he wandered off with some of the men in the hotel with whom he had made friends. Then often in the late afternoon taking another horseback ride in their company. He never failed to ask me to go along, but I was so sore and lame that the very thought of a second ride made me shiver.

Bob did not care for dancing, as it was almost the only thing to do in tion itself. He anticipated my every wish, and was as lover-like as ever I could desire. Once I had to reproach him:

"Everyone will know we are bride and groom," I told him, glad at the same time that he cared enough for me to forget the conventions.

"We are, aren't we?"
"Of course," and we both laughed merrily.

We were to spend the two weeks at Pinehurst. As I never had been south, I was delighted. Bob rode horseback, and said I must learn. But I saw I spoiled his pleasure in his ride, so told him I would ride alone with the instructor while he went on ahead.

When he took me at my word I felt a twinge of disappointment, though I was mortally afraid of a horse, and wouldn't have ridden for anything or anybody save for Bob.

Every morning Bob took a two hour gallop while I moped along with an instructor, looking and feeling terribly awkward. We used to meet Bob on his return, his face refreshed, his eyes bright, rested and uncomplaining; while I was so stiff and uncomfortable that all the hot baths and rubbings he recommended couldn't make me feel comfortable.

After our breakfast we would laze on the broad verandah of the hotel, reading our letters and the two day old papers from home. That came to be the happiest time of the day for me. After lunch Bob would recommend a siesta for me while he wandered off with some of the men in the hotel with whom he had made friends. Then often in the late afternoon taking another horseback ride in their company. He never failed to ask me to go along, but I was so sore and lame that the very thought of a second ride made me shiver.

Bob did not care for dancing, as it was almost the only thing to do in the evening, we usually sat and watched the merry crowd for a few minutes that took a short walk when Bob would again join his men friends in the smoking room while I went up stairs.

The two weeks were soon over and we were once more at home. They all told me how well I looked, and another said:

"It is easy to see that you are a happy daughter."

"Indeed I am, mother, so happy I am almost frightened."

"I don't see anything to be afraid of. You have married a good man, and will make him a good wife. That is all there is to it. Just go on being happy, and be thankful instead of frightened."

I was a little disappointed that Bob couldn't shop with me as much as I had hoped. His business had accumulated while we were gone, and he often could not meet me as we planned before he left the house in the morning. Yet we were nearly ready to move into our own home.

Bob had been as generous as his income warranted, and we really had a lovely home. Not elaborate, but comfortable, almost elegant. Bob had a large library, which he brought from home, and a few new prints. He had brought nothing else save a large picture of his mother which he hung in the place of honor over the piano.

I had never seen Bob's mother, but she must have been a beautiful woman judging from her picture. I am almost ashamed to own it, but at times I was jealous of that picture; so jealous that I felt like pulling it from the wall and destroying it. Yet it was nothing that Bob said or did which caused this feeling; it was the way I often caught him looking at it, his expression as he gazed on the face he had loved so well.

GALLANT RESCUE BY American Seamen

Crew of Destroyer Parker West to Aid of Hospital Ship Survivors

By Courier Leased Wire
London, March 14.—Sir J. Fortescue, member for the Maldon division of Essex, announced this morning that he would call the attention of the first Lord of the Admiralty to-day in the House of Commons to the remarkable heroism and seamanship displayed by the American crew of the destroyer Parker in rescuing nine survivors, including the unconscious navigating officer of the hospital ship Glen Ardshe, sunk in the Bristol channel late in February. The member said he would suggest that the Admiralty suitably recognize the skill of the navigator of the Parker and the gallantry of the eight American sailors who jumped into the sea and swam to the rescue of the survivors on rafts and wreckage. The Glen Ardshe sank at four o'clock in the morning of February 26th. The destroyer, although far distant, picked up wireless messages and hurried to the scene where she searched the choppy sea for survivors. The first one was sighted at eight o'clock in the afternoon—a man on a raft. In these submarine-infested waters, it was impossible for the destroyer to halt and launch boats. She threw a line to the survivor, but he was so weak that he became entangled in the line and was carried astern of the destroyer and severely cut by her propellers. He managed, however, to climb back on the raft. The destroyer circled the raft, and as it passed the raft again, Quartermaster J. C. Cole jumped aboard, succeeded in swimming to the raft and brought the man back to the destroyer. He was a freeman, Jesse White of Southampton. He died later on board the destroyer, while continuing his search, and in the course of the afternoon sighted three more groups of survivors clinging to rafts and wreckage, all of whom were similarly rescued.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Grandma's recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur dardens so naturally that nobody can tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmothers made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's" which darkens the hair so naturally so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies is that it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

His eighth time will soon prove whether I am right. But, right or wrong, I have now seen the war at home—and until the haunting picture of those murdered children and women and little children, and of that splendid Priest of God, is erased from my brain, "To Hell with Germany and all that," is Germany's daily prayer—John Bull.
