SAVE FOOD

In a time needing food economy many people are not getting all the nourishment they might from their food. It is not how much you eat, but much you assimilate, that does you good.

The addition of a small teaspoonful of Bovril to the diet as a peptogenic before meals leads to more thorough digestion and assimilation and thus saves food, for you need less.

How Much Do You Pay for Grocery Delivery?

Messrs. Wilson Bros., Importers and grocers of Victoria, B. C., in their trade letter say:

"The Groceries or Cash and Carry System has come and is here to stay. It is no longer an experiment but a clear demonstration that the receding expense which has been the fashion in connection with the delivery of goods can be done away with. The assertion has been made that it costs the average grocer from 5 percent to 8 percent to maintain his delivery system, and our own experience shows that these figures are not exaggerated, certainly 5 percent is well within the mark. Put it this way: The monthly grocery bill of a family is $25; if the delivery of the goods bought with this sum costs the storekeeper 5 percent, then the value of the goods actually received only amounts to $23.75, the remaining $1.25 going to pay for what undoubtedly is a great and much appreciated convenience, but which at the same time can be and ought to be done without. Purchasing one's own goods in person is much more economical and satisfactory than ordering by telephone. How much better to have that $1.25 to do towards buying a much needed pair of boots for one of the youngsters, an extra supply of rolled oats, a little more butter or some article of household necessity, than to contribute it towards carrying on an altogether unnecessary and extravagant delivery system. It is one of the wastages which is going on, and until this abuse is corrected we shall be leaving at least one of our duties unfulfilled."

A Sheep Instead of a Dog. SIX DOLLARS WORTH OF GOOD FOOD TO FEED ONE BELGIAN ORPHAN.

In many parts of Canada there are hundreds of useless dogs which not only necessitate a waste of food, but are a deterrent to the keeping of sheep. It has been estimated that the food consumed by these dogs is worth about $2 per dog per year. The food consumed by six dogs would be enough to feed one Belgian orphan. A sheep can be purchased for the cost of a dog. It is just as good a pet, and, in addition, will yield $5 worth of wool yearly, and fit worth of meat when killed, as against a merely nominal killing value on dogs in case their hides are turned into gloves. The replacement of dogs with sheep would prevent wastage of a large amount of food supply.

Impure Blood in The Spring. THE PASSING OF WINTER LEAVES PEOPLE WEAK AND DEPRESSED.

As winter passes away it leaves many people feeling weak, depressed and easily tired. The body lacks that vital force and energy which pure blood alone can give. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an all-year-round blood builder and nerve tonic, but they are especially useful in the spring. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood. Returning strength commences with their use and the vigor and cheerfulness of good health quickly follows.

There is just one cure for lack of blood and that is more blood. Food is the material from which blood is made, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills double the value of the food we eat. They give strength, tone up the stomach and weak digestion, clear the complexion of pimples, eruptions and boils, and drive out rheumatic poisons.

If you are pale and sallow, if you feel continually tired out, bristling after slight exertion, if you have headaches or backaches, if you are irritable and nervous, if your joints ache, if your appetite fails and food does not nourish nor sleep refresh you, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will make you well and strong. To build up the blood is the special purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and that is why they are the best spring medicine. If you feel the need of a tonic at this season give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and you will rejoice in new health, new strength and new energy. Do not let the trying weather of summer find you weak and ailing. Build yourself up now with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—the pills that strengthen.

Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and do not be persuaded to take something else. If your dealer does not keep these Pills they will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Time is money," said the man who paid a jeweler $1.50 for repairing a 98-cent watch. As long as the earth is inhabited men and women will continue to stir up trouble for each other. Peas—The Stockman's Crop

(EXPERIMENTAL FARM NOTES) The high price at which peas have sold on the market for the last two years has given a decided impetus to their production. Canadian production in 1917 exceeded the previous year by a million bushels. This is as it should be. The production of peas is more than that of any of the cereals. Insect pests, diseases and low yields decreased the production of the important legumes previous to the war, since then due to the rapidly rising price of the last three years, the production has greatly increased, especially in the provinces of Ontario, Quebec and Alberta.

When we consider the numerous ways in which one can utilize this crop either in the seed or in the vine it is surprising that peas growing has not received an even greater impetus than it did last season. Split peas and whole peas especially in Canada occupy a prominent place in human diet in that detectable food pea soup. Peas meal is a very nutritious and whole excellent for use in a balanced ration for stockfeeding purposes, furnishing as it does a low priced concentrate. Considering the high price of concentrates, the farmer who has a crop of peas, that he can convert into pea meal, is doing much to free himself from danger of exploitation by the hands of feed dealers. Unbreeders are of great value for sheep feeding purposes, being an ideal winter roughage for breeding ewes while they are likewise an excellent feed for young cattle. They can be successfully grown with oats and timothy, furnishing where corn cannot be grown one of the most valuable staple foods, or again the same mixture can be cured as hay and fed with profit throughout the winter. As a summer pasture for hogs, they return profitable gains, an acre of peas forming a most valuable adjunct to the summer ration coming in at a time when the young hogs are able to make the best use of this kind of feed.

The successful culture of peas is largely a matter of climate. Being a legume instead of a cereal, they are classed among those crops known as soil improvers. While they do not improve the soil as much as the legumes during a period of dry weather, yet almost any heavy well drained soil that has not been robbed of its virginity will produce a good crop. The best results are obtained by planting them on soil which has been ploughed the previous autumn and thoroughly top-worked before seeding.

Peas cannot be sown as early as wheat or oats, owing to the tenderness of the young vines which a late spring frost is apt to damage seriously. Also the cold and dampness of the seed bed may cause a rotting of the seed. It is impossible to give an exact date when it is desirable to start pea seeding, but this is a general rule that may be followed: If you have sown your wheat on the earliest date possible, the seeding of peas may be commenced from ten to fourteen days afterward. This rule might be modified in certain localities, depending entirely on the local weather conditions.

We would recommend farmers who are in extreme northern districts, and who are desirous of trying out peas, to start in a small way. As peas are subject to severe injury from frost both in the late spring and early autumn, it would be poor advice to recommend any farmer, who is situated north of the 50th parallel in the prairie provinces, to sow a large acre until he is certain that they will escape late spring and early fall frosts.

The many ways in which one can utilize a few acres of peas with profit, should tend to make this most popular crop instead of occupying, as it does a lower place than any of the Canadian cereals. There are no cultural difficulties to discourage the farmer while the chief insect pest, the weevil, can always be successfully controlled by the sulphide treatment. There is a large place for peas in our farming and stockfeeding practices, much larger than has been thought by most of our practical agriculturists.

Husbands and wives should remember that they married for worse as well as better and act accordingly. People encourage the lady of the man who is willing to spend money on them. It would be pretty tough on some men if others did the right thing by them.

Out fits of a romantic girl is one who sends out invitations to her elopement. How happy a woman might be if her husband would appear on her back instead of her face. The average woman is willing to stand up for her rights anywhere except in a crowded street car. It is a small consolation to a man to know that his neighbor's wife is less extravagant than his own.

Selecting Seed.

Selecting seed for planting is one of the most, if not the most, essential starting points in spring work on the farm and in the garden. It is a well known fact that like produces like to great degree of quality, but not always in color and shape. It is, however, an established fact that a percentage of the crop of whatever is planted will develop an inferior product, and here is where lies the necessity of selecting the best seed.

Best turning cabbages, cabbages that are to produce a crop of seed should be selected by a grower as to size and shape. The seed should be exercised by 12 to 18 hours in maturing qualities this is done by selecting specimens that are well filled with fertilization than another will not make a large growth, but being perfect in shape and maturity will produce as desirable seed as the large one. The general tendency in shape and habit of any one variety of vegetable is the point to strive for.

The cucumbers, squashes and pumpkins, as well as tomatoes from which next season's seed is taken, should be selected after the same rule.

Be Ready for Emergencies.

The best way is to always keep a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house ready for emergencies. Then when you are cold or coughed suddenly they can be promptly cured before they have time to reach an acute and dangerous stage. To meet this requirement we have put the syrup up in family size bottles which contain nearly three times as much as the 25 cent bottle and sell at 60 cents.

The Spirit That Counts.

A Nova Scotia clergyman, replying to a communication from the Canadian Food Board, says: "Certainly I shall do all that you ask. Last year I was given the use of a small plot of land by one of my friends and upon it I raised over 30 bushels of potatoes. In my garden I produced all the vegetables we needed, including a large quantity of beans. Our store bill never goes above 50 per cent for a family of three and frequently it is much less."

"I have offered twice for active service in any capacity but the doctor said that I am no good and I guess they are right—my health recently confirms their opinion. But I have a boy who was in the artillery and later resigned to join the Royal Flying Corps."

"In our church we have cut out all church socials that would in any way cause waste of food needed overseas, it shall help in every way possible."

ANCESTRAL HABITS CLING TO ANIMALS DESPITE DOMESTICATION. Sheep when frightened, always run to an elevated place because their ancestors originally came from the mountains. They always follow a leader, because in the dangerous mountain passes their ancestors had to go in single file. Hogs grunt because their feeding grounds were thick with woods, where they could not see one another, and sound was necessary to keep them together.

Dogs have a way of turning around several times before they lie down. This looks very foolish, but when they were wild things centuries ago, they slept in the tall grass and turned around several times to hollow out a bed, and they have never outgrown this habit, but to this day they will turn around on a rug just as if they were in the tall grass.

Cats have, perhaps, the most traces of old ancestral habits. Many times they do have a trace of a lion or tiger very near the surface. Their uncertain temper, their purring and growling, their sudden bounds, their tendency to scratch, all come from the forest and the jungle.

This is difficult for a woman: To believe the nice little things she tells other women about her husband. A man who probably speaks from experience says: "When a wife reigns, look out for domestic storms."

Cupid is a sorry leader. After leading people into trouble he leaves them to fight it out themselves. A gentleman who fights with his wife should not think himself entitled to a service flag.

There are millions of reasons why a man can love his wife, and each one of them is a silver dollar. "Any complaints, Corporal?" asked the Colonel, making one morning a personal inspection. "Yes, sir. Taste that, sir," said the Corporal. "Why," the Colonel said, "that's the best soup I ever tasted."

"Yes, sir," said the Corporal, "and the cook wants to call it coffee."

These are Anxious Days

NEVER in the history of this old world have the people lived under such tremendous nervous strain as to-day. Millions awake each morning in fearful dread of what the day may bring forth, and live each hour with nerves at highest tension.

While many are falling under the strain, others have found one means or another of fortifying the nervous system so as to maintain health and vigor.

The treatment most widely used is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, popularly known as the food cure, because it feeds the exhausted nerve and stores up nerve force and nervous energy.

Nothing breaks down the nervous system so quickly as worry and anxiety, and this is why so many people are suffering from nervous headaches, sciatic and neuralgic pains, nervous indigestion and general failure of the vital organs to properly perform their functions.

When you get so nervous that you do not rest and sleep well nights it is time to be alarmed, for it is very much easier to prevent nervous prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia than it is to cure these dreaded diseases.

After years of testing under the most severe circumstances Dr. Chase's Nerve Food stands in a class by itself as the most successful nerve restorative to be had. This is being proven every day by new evidence. Ask your neighbors and friends about it and read the reports in this paper, from time to time, from persons who have been cured.

The members of the Social and Men's societies of the Baptist church have, by a majority vote, placed themselves on record as being opposed to the serving of refreshments in connection with church functions. This is a very commendable action at this time when food must be conserved in every possible way and will so doubt lead to the complete doing away of all food being served in the war lasts. This is what the Food Controller asks.

Personal Mention.

Contributions to the relief work will be kept by Mrs. McKee, out Easter in Berwick.

Mr. Robt. Tufts spent Sunday in Margareville.

A SMASHING SUCCESS THE WHIP

For powerful gripping and intense, interesting scenes no photo-play ever shown in Wolfville eclipses 'The Whip,' which opens a two days' engagement at the Opera House.

The story is a combination of love and romance of the race track, and shows some startling original scenes that make the audience sit almost breathless for minutes at a time.

There are thrilling gallop and tense situations throughout the two hours it takes to unfold the pictured story which is a monument to the photographer's art and the director who conceived the situations and effects.

There are several climaxes, each one more exciting than the other, but the real startling effect is produced when the Saratoga express running at a high rate of speed crashes into a box car cut from a train by an adventurer, splintering it to kindling wood and throwing engine and cars over the embankment a twisted mass.

'The Whip,' a race horse is the centre of the plot, of course. It is scheduled for the famous Saratoga handicap. Besides the owner and a bookmaker attempt the destruction of the thoroughbred, but in spite of all their attempts, every one of which is frustrated, the Whip, with the owner's daughter on its back, runs under the wire a winner, and the villains receive their deserts.

Not the least exciting incident is a race between an automobile and a train, in which the train forces ahead for a short time only to be headed and beaten by the big racer. Those who are fond of horses and dogs should see this picture. There are several packs of hounds and a fox hunt from the start to the killing. There is a real horse show with the finest driving horses on the continent on exhibition, and a most intimate scene at the Saratoga race track.

To M. J. Tournant, the famous master of photo-play art, belongs the credit for staging this stupendous production, and into this effort he has put action, love story, fight and everything interesting to an amusement seeker. The selection of the scenes must have taken a considerable length of time, and the making of the picture months of patient effort.

The outdoor as well as the interior is most artistic and realistic, not a detail is lacking. To show the world of this, there is a scene in the snow on an ocean liner. As the picture advances the floor gently rises and falls in perfect rhythm with the roll of the waves.

Thousands of spectators have been brought into the action of the play by the camera man, and the bandstand gowns and smart costumes of the men add greatly to the effect.

President Red Cross,
Dear Madam:—My letter acknowledging the parcel addressed to me must have gone astray, as I was asked in a letter from home if I had received it.

The parcel was received in good condition just a day before we moved into the line for our Xmas tour. There were just enough socks so that each man from home received a pair. Gloves were scarce at that time in so the ones you included with the socks completed us fine, and as it was a cold trip they could not have come at a better time.

I wish through you to express our many thanks to the members of the society. It has been long remembered that the Wolfville Red Cross sure looks after their boys. With best wishes, I am,

Very sincerely,

N. S. Women to Vote.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE AT OPENING OF LEGISLATURE—GRANT FOR HALIFAX.
Halifax, Feb. 21.—The extension of the electoral franchise to women on the same terms as now enjoyed by men is promised in the speech from the throne delivered at the opening of the Nova Scotia Legislature this afternoon by the lieutenant-governor.

"To the Day"

We are told has been the drinking slogan for many years among the German and Prussian women of the same rank in this country. They have been planning, waiting and hoping toward "to the day," but not the day of it; Klieber's dream of world domination and a people under an iron heel.

We have been looking forward to the day, when every boy should have more than a fighting chance given to him to develop sobriety—and every woman should have her chance to vote on oppression, greed and graft—and to vote in purity, liberty and justice.

THAT DAY IS AT HAND.

The boy is to have his chance, and the woman to have hers and what is she going to do about it?
We must not forget that there are women and women, just as there are men and men—and that all women have not got the right vision—and that her possibilities may develop for good or for evil.

Whether or not this shall come to pass depends largely upon the efforts the women of broader vision exert during these historic making days. Is not this the time for us to bend our energies more than ever along the lines of educational work among all classes of women?

A vote is a dangerous thing in the hands of one who has not made any study of public affairs and who has left herself open to the impulses of the moment and the strongest pressure that may be brought to bear upon her when the time for action arrives.
It is a dangerous thing in the hands of one who has never given much thought to moral issues—or who may have an indifferent or even a low conception of moral standards. This class of people is always with us, and they will continue to come in greater numbers from other countries.

Is it possible for us to start here.

Is it possible for us to start here, to it possible through the right kind of literature or personal effort to train their conceptions of right and wrong as when the day comes to vote in more impartial laws?
Is it possible to cancel all classes in the interests of non-partisanship in politics and of an open mind to the moral issues at stake?

Is it possible to arrest thought among thousands of our own younger women, in reference to the weakness of the law so it affects their own sex?

As it affects widows and orphans, the mother and father of the illegitimate child—the Red Light question—and the Scarlet Women, etc., etc?

In short the question comes to us not only are we prepared to make good when our hour comes, but what can we do that others—the great mass of uneducated Canadian womanhood—may make good also?

Draining.

(EXPERIMENTAL FARM NOTE.)

At the Experimental Station, Ste. Anne de la Pêcherie, Que., an experiment on drainage has been conducted, the results of which should be of great interest to farmers, as they teach soil drainage, a practice which should be encouraged as much as possible in these days when maximum production is the duty of every farmer.

A certain area of level land was taken for the experiment and divided into two fields. A and B. Absolutely similar in every way. Field A was under drained by means of three-inch tiles placed at a depth of four feet and thirty feet apart. Field B was not tiled, but had perfect surface drainage. The soil in both was cultivated in corn. The results were as follows: rotation cultural in-toda manure, choice soil quality of seed etc., being the same in each case.

Close observation shows the larger yield was obtained in the tiled drained soil each year, the one that which was only not so drawn. The difference was rather small the year following the laying of the tiles, was larger the following year and became quite marked the third year. It was most marked among crops like corn which require more warmth. In 1917 the crop of corn on the tiled drained area was more than twice as great as that on the undrained field, the exact difference being 100 per cent., whereas yielding 75 per cent. more and 50 per cent. It might, however, be noted that the fact that the season of 1917 was exceptionally late and damp and gave special advantage to the drained area and the results might not be so marked in a normal year.

The difference in crop yields, however, is not the only point in favor of the drainage, there are other good effects also. After three years the experiment has proved that the soil of the tiled drained area has become much more porous and more mellow than the soil which was only surface drained. It can be cultivated more easily and can be worked and sown earlier in the spring. It will be readily seen that this is of great importance in Eastern Quebec where the springs are often late and the growing season relatively short. Beside this while the soil on the undrained area dried and cracked, allowing the crop to make hardly any growth during the dry weather in July, the drained land did not show the least cracking, and the plants continued their development uninterrupted. This difference is easily explained; the drained soil was left permeable to air and moisture, the air circulated freely and the moisture rose by capillary action without difficulty through the soil to the roots, while the undrained soil hardened and split, and the roots withered for lack of air and moisture.

The Minister's Missing Wife.

A most astounding scandal is reported in the columns of a church paper. As it often the case, this scandal was directed against a minister. It was said that his wife was attending a certain meeting, that he went there in a rage, that he violently dragged her from the hall, and that he by force compelled her to go home with him. He allowed the story to circulate for a time, then jiggled it in the following manner:

"In the first place, I never attempted to influence my wife in her view or her choice of a meeting.
Secondly, my wife did not attend the meeting myself.
In the third place, I did not attend the meeting myself.
To conclude, neither my wife nor myself had any inclination to go to the meeting.
Finally, I never had a wife."

The Husking Bee

By Sarah Estelle Balcom

The husking bee was at its height of jollity and excitement when Ned Dawson was lifted to the seventh heaven of ecstasy. All the evening he had moved about and made a show of stripping the long crisp ears of corn, with eyes only for Arline Woolson.

Three times she had brought to view a red ear and had been speedily captured by Ned's voracious hands. Then, with pain and longing Ned had seen a kiss stolen from her damask cheek.

Just now he was passing her. The seat beside her was vacant. He darted a bright glance at this shy, but deserving suitor at a distance. She drew aside the skirt of her tasteful evening dress invitingly, making room for him.

"Oh, thank you!" he almost gasped, and amid his confusion upset the high-backed chair, and fell on the floor. This was the end of the husking bee. "You won't go away from home?" "You won't go away from home?" "You won't go away from home?"

"You won't go away from home?" "You won't go away from home?" "You won't go away from home?"

Middle Aged Women

Are Here Told the Best Remedy for Their Troubles.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run-down condition. It was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared.—Mrs. M. Gordon, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

North Haven, Conn.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health after everything else had failed when passing through change of life. There is nothing like it to overcome the trying symptoms.—Mrs. Florence Jones, Box 197, North Haven, Conn.

"Yes, I will leave home," spoke Ned half audibly. "I must forget her. I may in time and good-by her!"

Gently he brushed the earth over the cherished red ear, as though he were shirring from sight and memory the most sacred memento of his first love experience.

"Don't oh, please, don't!" Ned Dawson lifted his eyes to gaze transfixed at the girl who had been the trail foliage. She was at his side, pale, though resolute, flushed and pained by turns, the ring of real pearls in her necklace, the glow of true love in her honey eyes.

"Why, Arline," stammered the poor fellow. "You here?" "I followed you," voiced Arline in a whisper.

"And ran away from me that night of the husking bee, and let the other fellows kiss you, and not me. You did not run away from me?" "Because I did not love them—can't you see?"

"But you did—me?" She covered her burning face with both hands and kept it from full view. In muffled tones she sobbed out:

"You won't go away from home?" "You won't go away from home?" "You won't go away from home?"

"You won't go away from home?" "You won't go away from home?" "You won't go away from home?"

Residents of Small Islands Off Coast of Caylon Find Plenty of Food Near at Hand.

A correspondent of a Caylon journal gives some interesting information about the turtles on the coast in the neighborhood of Jaffa, in the north of the island, which are said to be innumerable. They are of three species, called sea, milk and pariah turtles, respectively.

The ordinary, or sea turtle, is generally large, in size, and is met with everywhere at sea around Jaffa. Two tiny islands, called Inavavai, are literally swarming with these creatures, and the inhabitants are poor and ignorant of agriculture, and live chiefly on the shells of the turtles.

In the town of Jaffa the ordinary turtle is always procurable, and is a favorite article of food. It is small in size and is to be found only in wells and banks. It is not an article of food except with the poorer classes. The shells of the milk turtle is rich in oil, and is used for medicinal purposes.

The shells of the pariah turtle are used for medicinal purposes. It is found in marshes and ditches. It is highly valued by native medical men, because its flesh and blood are supposed to be a panacea for ailments peculiar to children.

Burns Inconsistent in Love. But the product and the inspiration of his genius. Although he had written to Clara and to her mother, that compared with her, Jenn Armitage was as the sparkling diamond of a fortune to her beside the story of the medianian moon. He married Jenn within two months. Last year at Rothob's a letter written a week after his marriage, indicating Jenn entirely, fetched $250.

Later a curious Burns letter was offered, dated June 20, 1798 (Burns was married August 8, 1796), in which he states: "I have written to Mr. Armitage about my marriage affair and stated that I was legally fined for an irregular marriage by a justice of the peace. He says if I bring in a testimonial of this by the two witnesses there shall be no more litigation about it."

The "legal" marriage which followed August 8 was apparently the marriage of the two witnesses in the apartment room at the authority of the letter were dispelled.—London Telegraph.

"Is this your factory?" asks the nurse over the telephone. "Yes," answers the physician. "Well, you know my wife, don't you? She would not allow me to go to the factory for five or six days."

"Yes," "Well, this is only the second day and he is a great deal better already. When I give him anything to eat he will eat for the other three or four days?"

One day while on the trail of a mope, he saw a big black wolf looking toward the country. The wolf turned and fled, and when the man turned the rim he saw his dog nearly a half mile away still persistently pursuing the wolf which had just entered the mouth of a steeply sloped draw. Half way up the draw the wolf stopped, and down from either bank swept two more wolves. The dog barked and acted as decoy for the dog, whined and ran toward his master, but the wolves were not to be deterred.

The Wolves Were Hungry

Angus McGregor and his college left the Canadian Pacific Railway main line at Kamloops and went into good trapping and hunting territory for a winter's work. They made several trips into the snow camps and when winter shut down there was much cold weather and not an excessive amount of snow. The rabbits were scarce and the dog extended their time twenty miles further. Big snow came in the wolves found hard work to get a living, though the rabbits and partridges were fat and conical. McGregor took a list of fur, milk, eggs, and a few days later, having placed out "bait," he had the satisfaction of picking up the other two big, black bodies.
