London, July 20—The official statement, issued tonight about midnight from British headquarters in France, says: "North of the Bazentin-Longueval line we advanced about 1,000 yards in the face of stubborn opposition. Heavy fighting still continues in the northern outskirts of Longueval village and in Delville Wood. On the remainder of the main battle front there is no change."

Paris July 20—The French forces have captured the entire first German positions extending from Estrees to the height of Vermandovillers, according to the official statement issued by the war office tonight. They have also taken on both sides of the river about 2,900 prisoners in today's engagements.

London, July 22—Some idea of the huge forces now engaged in the battle of the Somme, in Northern France, is given in the official statement from Berlin tonight, in which it is stated that more than 200,000 French and British troops attacked the German lines north and south of the Somme Thursday on a front of twenty-seven miles. Today's news from the battle ground, which has been contested bitterly since July 1, shows no great change in the relative positions of the Franco-British and German forces. The British have again pressed forward to the German third line in the Fouraux Wood, northeast of Longueval. This wood is an important strategic point, the capture of which would bring the forces of General Haig to the highest point on the ridge commanding the German positions in the less hilly country beyond, which is not so much broken up and not wooded, lending itself not too well to defence. This probably explains the desperate attempts of the Germans to hold the wood, where the heavy fighting continues. The Associated Press correspondent at the front states the Germans are bringing masses of troops from Verdun and guns from other points in an endeavor to stem the Allied advance. Meantime, the indications are that the Allies are testing the strength of the German line at other points. The trench raid by Australian troops in the neighborhood of Armentieres attracts much interest in this connection.

New York, July 21—A New York Times cable from London, dated yesterday, says: "General Haig's communique stating that more ground has been gained in Delville Wood and Longueval are regarded as affording convincing proof that the British are establishing a decided supremacy over the enemy. A German counter-attack was expected. If the Germans had failed to make one at this juncture, it would have been a clear proof that they were too weak or exhausted to take advantage of the opportunity given by the British occupation of new ground for the defence of which only hurried measures were possible. The German counter-attack was delivered in great strength and met a certain amount of success. In the light of General Haig's later despatches military critics here judge that the German claims to have recaptured the whole of Longueval and Delville Wood were made at the moment of their greatest success. German reports of progress in the fighting at Verdun showed frequently it was the German method to single out the moment when the attack was at its height for issuing a report. One of the best military critics here says: "If the British recover lost ground we shall have great reason to be satisfied, for it will show the enemy's strength is definitely on the wane and that the sanguine calculations about the depletion of his reserves which are being circulated in France have substantial foundation."

London, July 23—A Reuters despatch from the British front in France, filed at 3.30 p. m. today says: "Following a heavy bombardment last night British troops and Anzacs attacked towards Pozieres and Guillemont. Despite desperate resistance the Anzacs succeeded in establishing themselves in Pozieres where they are consolidating their lines. It is reported the casualties were comparatively light. "West of Pozieres the British successfully advanced. On the right of Pozieres the wire entanglements were insufficiently destroyed, and progress consequently was checked by heavy machine gun fire. Nevertheless, we gained a footing in Guillemont, but owing to a determined counter-attack we were unable to maintain the advance. "On the whole, our progress continues satisfactory, especially in the neighborhood of Pozieres, and along the road through the village northward, on which we are reported as established." The battle on the British front in Northern France was resumed today along the whole line from Pozieres, to Guillemont, the war office reports. The British carried German outer works at Pozieres, and violent fighting is in progress.

Petrograd, July 22, via London, July 23—Fierce engagements have taken place south of Riga, and Russian troops have penetrated the German first line at several points, says the official statement, issued by the war office tonight. In the Caucasus the forces of Grand Duke Nicholas have occupied Ardasa, about thirteen miles northwest of Gpmuskaneh on the Chit river. London, July 23—A despatch to Reuters' Telegram Company from Petrograd says: "A Russian advance of five miles is reported on the left wing of the Riga sector. Gen. Von Linsingen's recent losses on the Styra and Lipa rivers are computed at least 50,000 men out of the three corps engaged. "The Russians are on the point of entering the northeast corner of Galicia, General Boehm-Ermolli and General Count Von Bothmer being outflanked, both on the north and south. "The heights captured by the Russians are only four miles from the summit of the Carpathians and the Hungarian frontier, in the direction of Marancarus Sziget. "The Russians hold the whole of the Trebizond-Erzern road in Asiatic Turkey. Petrograd, July 22, via London, 8.10 p. m.—The Russians have driven the Teutonic forces resisting them south of the River Lipa, in Volhynia, near the Galician border, beyond the town of Berestechk, to the west. More than 12,000 prisoners were captured by the Russians on Thursday and Friday, making a total of 26,000 captured since July 16.

London, July 24—The British official statement from headquarters in France, issued tonight, reads: "The fighting has continued in the village of Pozieres where the number of prisoners taken by the Australians reached a total of six officers and 145 other prisoners. "In other parts of the battle front there has been considerable artillery activity on both sides. "Between the Anere and the sea nothing of importance has occurred."

Paris, July 23—The destruction of a German fortified work on the Somme front was marked by a tragic episode, says La Liberte. The order was given to destroy the fort at whatever cost. In less than six hours more than 2,500 great shells were fired at it, and the defenses gave way by one in a cloud of dust and smoke. The infantry then went forward and the German positions were conquered.

The Veiled Madonna.

It stood in a showman's window, in a crowd thoroughfare— An image of Mother Mary in attitude of prayer, A delicate, pure achievement of sculptor's highest art, Revealing in every feature the reverent heart. For over the head of the Virgin the master hand had thrown, As if with an angel's tenderness, a marvelous veil of stone: And over the maiden visage, so like a thing of flesh Like a spider's web o'er a lily, was cast that filmy mesh. Till, out of the airy shadow, the faultless lineaments Emerged in their gracious sweetness, their grave young innocence. Even as once they brightened (instinct with life and breath), The old Egyptian doorways, or the porch at Nazareth. 'Twas well to stand undiscovered, and watch the hurrying crowd Ebb and flow to the window, with praises low or loud; Like to the dark Egyptians, or the Nazarenes of old, The rabble was won by the magic of the image pure and cold. Unto the dusty workmen who halt in the sun or rain, Unto the ragged gamins who gaze thro' the crystal pane, Unto the merchant, prince, wordlings, or children young She spake, thro' the spell of her silence, with sweet mysterious tongue: "Come over to me," she whispered, "and be enlighten'd, all: And watch at my gates in patience till the dews of grace shall fall; Come over to me, my children—The Mother of God above. Am I—and of fear and wisdom, of hope and of holy love?" And they cannot choose but come over—not choose but pause for space, Till their hearts are filled with the glory of that veiled and virgin face: For she spreads the spirit of Jesus abroad in the sunny street; And the world, the flesh and the demon are drawn to her royal feet. And going their ways thro' the city to their haunts of toil and ease, Men carry about them a fragrance, an exquisite odor of peace, Sweeter than lilies and roses, subtle as light can be— 'Tis the breath of the veiled Madonna and her clinging memory! —ELEANOR C. DONNELLY, in Standard and Times.

How do you Tackle your Work.

How do you tackle your work each day? Are you scared of the job you find? Do you grapple the task that comes your way With a confident easy mind? Do you stand right up to your work ahead Or fearfully pause to view it? Do you start to toil with a sense of dread Or feel that you're going to do it? You can do as much as you think you can, But you'll never accomplish more; If you're afraid of yourself, young man, There's little for you in store. For failure comes from the inside first, It's there if we only knew it. And you can win, though you face the worst, If you feel that you're going to do it. Success: It's found in the soul of you, And not in the realm of luck! The world will finish the work to do, But you must provide the pluck, You can do whatever you think you can, It's all in the way you view it. It's all in the start you make, young man, You must feel that you're going to do it. How do you tackle your work each day? With confidence clear, or dread?

Itching Skin

Distress by day and night— That's the complaint of those who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with Eczema or Salt Rheum—and outward applications do not cure. The source of the trouble is in the blood—make that pure and this scaling, burning, itching skin disease will disappear. "I was taken with an itching on my arms which proved very disagreeable. I consulted it was salt rheum and bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two days after I began taking it I felt better and it was not long before I was cured. Have never had any skin disease since." Mrs. Ida K. WALK, Cove Point, Md.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

rides the blood of all impurities and cures all eruptions. What to yourself do you stop and say When a new task lies ahead? What is the thought that is in your mind? Is fear ever running through it? If so, tackle the next you find By thinking you're going to do it. —EDGNAR A. GUEST, in Detroit Free Press.

A Crust of Bread.

(BY FLORA HAINES LOUGHEAD, in Ave Maria.)

I remember wishing it were all over, and making a feeble effort to crawl toward the dead-line, in the hope that a shot from the guard would put an end to my misery. A man pulled me back. He dragged me to the shade of a tree, and brought me water from a pool the boys had scooped with their hands. Then he took from his pocket a crust of bread,—homemade bread, dried and dirty. He handed it as a miser might his gold. I had no money left. My blankets had been bartered away long before. I was nothing but a poor, penniless, miserable wretch, clothed in rags; but I felt that I would barter all I might ever have to get possession of that crust. I looked at him. He was older than I, a living skeleton with a skin like parchment,—written in his face. But I begged him for it. He gave it to me without a moment's hesitation, and I ate it to the last crumb, while he looked on. In the hour of his humiliation, Eleanor Duncan came to her father, and wept softly on his shoulder. "That crust of bread saved my life. Four days later I was exchanged. Now, friends," concluded James Duncan, "I need scarcely tell you that I am not a man of sentiment, but I have an uncommonly strong grip on a purpose. Lying in that sweltering swamp, gnawing that dried crust of bread—the sweetest morsel I ever tasted,—I promised myself that if I lived to get away, I would share my last cent with the man who had given me his last crust. But I lost all trace of him after I came away. The Lord knows I've tried hard enough to find him, but I had little to go on: only his name—unfortunately a common one,—the State in which he enlisted, and the fact that he was a private soldier, I've fancied him old neglected and homeless. I've thought of him ill and in want. I've often feared that I might find only a grave.—Private Brown, of New Hampshire, I've been looking for you twenty-five years!" After the lapse of more than a quarter of a century the two men clasped hands and gazed at each other with eyes that were not ashamed of the tears that gathered in them. "It wasn't much, but it meant a great deal to me. Do you know how hard I've tried to find you—confound your name! I've had the war records searched; I've put detectives on your track; I've even had personals in the daily papers. But when Fate tried to lend me a hand by marrying your son to my daughter, I turned the lady with a distaff out of doors. Never mind!" he added, lowering his voice. "She's found her way in again and her web will be finished yet." Across the room Eleanor and

Horace were standing, their hands joined in a cordial clasp. Tears stood in their eyes as in those of their fathers—tears of joy.

Going to John.

"Going north, madam?" "No, ma'am." "Going south, then?" "I don't know, ma'am." "Why, there are only two ways to go." "I don't know. I was never on the cars. I'm waiting for a train to go to John." "John. There is no town called John. Where is it?" "Oh, John is my son. He's out in Kansas on a claim." "I'm going right to Kansas myself. You intend to visit?" "No, ma'am." She said it with a sigh so heart-burdened the stranger was touched. "John sick?" "No." The evasive tone, the look of pain in the furrowed face were noticed by the stylish lady, as the gray head bowed upon the toll-marked hand. She waited to hear her story; to help her. "Excuse me—John in trouble?" "No, no, I'm in trouble. Trouble my old heart never thought to see." "The train does not come for some time. Here, rest your head upon my cloak." "You are kind. If my own were so I shouldn't be in trouble tonight." "What is your trouble? Maybe I can help you." "It's hard to tell it to strangers, but my old heart is too full to keep it back. When I was left a widow with three children, I thought it was more than I could bear; but it wasn't bad as this—" The stranger waited till she recovered her voice to go on. "I had only the cottage and my willing hands. I toiled early and late all the years till John could help me. Then we kept the girls at school, John and me. They were married not long ago. Married rich, as the world goes. John sold the cottage, sent me to the city to live with them, and he went west to begin for himself. He said he had provided for the girls and they would provide for me now—" The tears stood in the lines on her cheeks. The ticket agent came out softly, stirred the fire, and went back. After a pause she continued: "I went to Martha's—went with a pain in my heart I never felt before. I was willing to do anything so as not to be a burden. But that wasn't it. I found that they were ashamed of my bent old body and withered face; ashamed of my rough, wrinkled hands—made so toiling for them. The tears came thick and fast now. The stranger's hand rested caressingly on the gray head. "At last they told me I must live at a boarding house, and they'd keep me there. I couldn't say anything back. My heart was full of pain. I wrote to John what they were going to do. He wrote right back a long, kind letter, for me to come right to him. I always had a home while he had a roof, he said. To come right there and stay as long as I lived. That his mother should never go out to strangers. So I'm going to John. He's got only his rough hands and his great warm heart; but there's room for his old mother—God bless him—" The stranger brushed a tear from her fair cheek and awaited the conclusion. "Some day when I'm gone where I'll never trouble them again, Mary and Martha will think of it all. Some day when the hands that toiled for them are folded and still; when the eyes that watched over them for many a weary night are closed forever; when the little old body, bent with the burdens it bore for them is put away where it can never shame them—" The agent drew his hand quickly before his eyes, and went out as if to look for a train. The stranger's jeweled fingers stroked the gray locks; while tears of sorrow and sympathy fell together. The weary heart was unburdened. Soothed by a touch of sympathy, the troubled soul yielded to the longing for rest and she fell asleep. The agent went noiselessly about his duties, that he might not wake her. As the fair stranger watched she saw a smile on her careworn face. The lips moved. She bent down to hear.

Nearly Lost Little Girl from DYSENTERY She Was Cured By Using DR. FOWLER'S Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Dysentery manifests itself with varying degrees of intensity, but in well marked cases the attack is commonly preceded by loss of appetite, and some amount of diarrhoea, which gradually increases in severity, and is accompanied by gripping pains in the abdomen. The discharges from the bowels succeed each other with great frequency, and the matter passed from the bowels, which at first resembles those of ordinary diarrhoea, soon change their character, becoming scanty, mucous or slimy, and subsequently mixed with, or consisting wholly of, blood. Never neglect what at first appears to be a slight attack of diarrhoea or dysentery may set in. Cure the first symptoms by the use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Mrs. John Peterson, Radville, Sask., writes: "I cannot speak too highly for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I nearly lost my little girl, aged three years. I took her to the doctor, and he told me her temperature was 104, and forbade me taking her out to our home, six miles from town, but I was forced to do so. We managed to get her home, but the fever did not go any lower, and we thought we would lose her sure, as she was so bad with dysentery she even passed blood. A neighbor came in and brought me a change for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and told me to give her a few doses. This we did, and the next day she took a change for the better, but she was quite a time before she was on her feet again. I do believe if it were not for Dr. Fowler's, my little one would have died." The genuine "Dr. Fowler's" is manufactured only by the T. Mittletrud Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price, 25 cents.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DANDRUFF. To be thoroughly good nature and yet avoid being imposed upon shows great strength of character. W. H. O. Wilkinson, Stratford says: "It affords me much pleasure to say that I experienced great relief from Muscular Rheumatism by using two boxes of Milburn's Rheumatic Pills. Price 50c a box. "The last time I saw him was thirty years ago, when he was a baby." "Well, I saw him yesterday, and he hasn't changed a bit." MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES COLDS, ETC. How soon are we forgotten! Do you ever recall your friends who are dead? Will any one think of you a year after you are in your grave? What shadows we are and what shadows we perse! Mary Ovington, Jasper Ont writes: "My mother had a badly sprained arm. Nothing we used did her any good. Then father got Hagyard's Yellow Oil and it cured mother's arm in a few days. Price 25 cents." The man who never makes any blunders seldom make any good hits. Heart Palpitated Would Have to Sit Up in Bed. FELT AS IF SMOTHERING. Mrs. Francis Madore, Alma, P.E.I., writes: "My heart was in such a bad condition I could not stand any excitement, and at times when I would be talking my heart would palpitate so that I would feel like fainting. At night when I would go to bed and be lying down for a while, I would have to sit up for ten or fifteen minutes, as I would feel as though I was smothering. I read in the daily paper of a lady who had been in the same condition as I was, and was cured by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I bought a box, and they did me so much good, my husband got that word from me, and before I had used half of the second box I was completely cured. I feel as though I can never say enough in favor of your Heart and Nerve Pills. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are composed of the very best heart and nerve tonics and stimulants known to medical science, and are for sale at all dealers, or will be mailed direct by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25.
