Ruled BY Destiny!

CHAPTER XXI.
THE HOUR OF TRIUMPH.
"Shall I tell you why I asked so large a sum, Lady Blanche?" he said, flinging his cigar away and taking off his hat with an air of easy assurance. "I am not, I think you will admit, a vulgar adventurer—an adventurer truly, but not a vulgar one—and I have no wish to descend into the condition of the vilest of mankind; the creature who exists upon blackmail. Lady Blanche, I have resolved upon asking for this large sum of money from you, who can spare it so well, that I may be able to leave England forever. When I say forever, I mean what I say to the hilt; I shall never return. The twenty thousand pounds properly invested will produce an income which will enable me to live in ease and luxury on the Continent. If I had asked for a smaller sum, I should have been compelled to come to you again, not once or twice, but continuously; that would not have been pleasant for either you or me."

Lady Blanche flushed, and bit her white lip.
"No! Very unpleasant, rather. Therefore I have asked for this sum in a lump. As I say, I shall leave England; you will never see me again, unless you chance to meet me by accident in one of your continental trips—perhaps on your honeymoon with Lord Norman—"
A fierce flush dyed Lady Blanche's face, as he looked up, and saw the sardonic smile in his eyes.
"You will be relieved of all dread of blackmail, and may, if you please, forget that such a person as Oscar Raymond ever existed. In time, I have no doubt, you will be able to convince yourself that the little comedy we enacted in the house yonder was never performed, excepting in your fevered imagination. At any rate, if you cannot forget me, it will be agreeable to reflect that I shall never put myself in evidence against you—"
She stopped him with a gesture.
"I am not afraid of that," she said. "You may have sunk as low—you may be what you are now, but you were once a gentleman—"
"And once a gentleman, always a gentleman," he finished for her, with a very soft laugh.
"But if I do not fear you, I have still to deal with your assistant—Josine!" said Lady Blanche.
He shrugged his shoulders.
"Josine will give you no trouble, Lady Blanche," he said, with quiet confidence. "She will invest her two thousand pounds in a husband and some comfortable cafe in the region of Leicester Square, and will settle down into entire oblivion of Ballyfoe and all that occurred there. Besides, I think Josine has too wholesome a fear of your humble servant to ever dream of betraying us."
There were a few moments of silence, then Lady Blanche looked down upon him.
"You shall have the money you ask for," she said, gravely. How shall I

SHE COULD NOT STAND OR WORK

But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health and Stopped Her Pains.

Portland, Ind.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it that at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my housework, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the credit."
—Mrs. JOSEPHINE KIRKLE, 965 West Race St., Portland, Ind.

Thousands of American women give this famous root and herb remedy the credit for health restored as did Mrs. Kirkle.
For helpful suggestions in regard to such ailments women are asked to write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its long experience is at your service.

give it to you? I do not know how I can draw so large an amount from the bank without attracting some attention and remark.

"Draw two checks for ten thousand each," he said, coolly; "and if any remark is made, say that you are buying jewelry."

She inclined her head.
"If you will please send them to this address," he said, handing her a slip of paper—it was the name of a large London hotel—"I will wait until I receive them, and then leave England at once; so that, Lady Blanche, we may say farewell."

He came close to the balustrade, and held up his smooth white hand, and Lady Blanche touched it with her finger tips.
Some impulse, too strong to be resisted, prompted her to say, in a very sudden whisper:

"You have no remorse, then, for what you have done?"
He smiled up at her, a smile of perfect calmness and repose.

"Remorse! Certainly not; only the supreme satisfaction. For the first time for months I feel at ease—as if my self-love had been avenged and satisfied. Oh, you mean that young lady's account," he added, and he laughed softly. "No, no remorse on her account, either. She is too young to feel deeply; she will get over this little disappointment very quickly. Josine tells me that she is good looking. I may presume that she is beautiful."
"You saw her," murmured Lady Blanche.
He shrugged his shoulders.

"For a moment; I did not notice her particularly, and I do not think I should know her if I met her. Well, she is beautiful, and will soon get another lover. What is love? Men have died, and worms have eaten them," as Shakespeare says, "but not of love." As for Lord Norman—and his face darkened—"he and I are quits, more than quits, for the balance is in my favor. I think. Good-night, Lady Blanche—farewell! I wish you every happiness."

And raising his hat, disappeared in the dimness of the night.
Lady Blanche shuddered as if a chill had passed over her.

"Bad men's blessings are good men's curses," says the Spanish proverb, and she felt as if she had been banned.

Drawing her shawl around her she went into the house, and the first person her gaze fell upon was Lady Betty, sitting pale and anxious over the fire, her hands clasped, her brows knitted.

She looked up as Lady Blanche entered, and tried to smile, but there were traces of tears in her eyes, and a most cruel triumph filled Lady Blanche's heart.

"This woman," she thought, "triumphed over me a short time ago. She helped Floris Carlisle to rob me of my lover. Now it is my hour of triumph. They are parted forever, and I shall win him back."

With this flow of unholy satisfaction within her bosom, she went to bed and slept the sleep of an innocent child, for the simple reason that the awful excitement she had undergone had resulted in complete exhaustion.

The man rode fearfully hard, and soon passed into the road leading to the house; and they saw that the horse was covered with foam and nearly exhausted.

One or two others, attracted and alarmed by the sight of the horse, had joined them on the terrace, and as the man rode up and flung himself out of the saddle almost at their feet, one of the gentlemen ran down the steps to him.

It was Donald.
"A letter for Lady Pendleton," he said, hoarsely; he was nearly as exhausted as the poor beast he had ridden.

"Give it to me!" exclaimed Lady Betty, snatching it.

The rest drew away from her, all but Lady Blanche, who remained where she stood at her side.

Lady Betty tore the envelope open, and glanced at the scrap of paper inside, then staggered against the balustrade with a faint cry.

Lady Blanche, without the slightest hesitation, took the letter from her hand and read it.

She did not stagger as Lady Betty had done; no cry escaped her lips; but they all noticed that she turned white to the lips, a deathly white, awful to see and remember.

For a moment she stood as if turned to stone, her eyes distended and fixed firmly on vacancy, her fingers clutching the scrap of paper.

For a moment only, then she looked around and in a low, hard voice, so unlike her usual smooth tones, said:

"Lord Norman has met with an accident; he is in great danger."

There was a murmur of alarm and sympathy as the group gathered around Lady Blanche.

With a piteous cry Lady Betty held out her hand.

"Give me the letter! Oh! what shall I do? Poor Bruce! Poor Bruce! I can't read it!" she sobbed. "Will someone—"

One of the gentlemen took it from her trembling hand and read it aloud.

Sir Joseph had written a few lines only, saying that Lord Norman had met with a serious accident, and that one or both of the medical men who were staying in the house was to come on to Scarfross with the necessary things.

He added in a postscript: "I need not exhort you to be careful not to alarm Miss Carlisle!"

As those words were read out, Lady Betty groaned and put her hands before her face.

"Oh! what is to be done?" she wailed. "Do you think he is killed?—no, not killed or they would not send for a doctor! Where is Dr. Greene?"

Some one set off to find the young doctor, who was playing tennis, and came bounding on to the terrace alert and ready witted.

"What is to be done?" panted Lady Betty, who, like most of her class, was thrown into a complete state of helpless despair.

Suddenly a shiver ran through Lady Blanche's frame, and, as if she had recovered from an awful stupor, she turned to Dr. Greene.

"There is no time to lose," she said, in a low, hard voice. "Will you start at once, Dr. Greene? I will see that a conveyance follows you with anything you may order."

He glanced at her white, set face approvingly.

PENBERTON BILLING AND MAUD ALLAN.

The trial of Member of Parliament Penberton Billing for a false and defamatory libel of Maud Allan, the famous dancer, and of J. T. Grein, a naturalised Dutchman who privately produces plays here, practically collapsed after a very sensational hearing lasting many days. The facts will be known to readers by cable long before this, but it is perhaps interesting to record that no law case for many years has made such a public sensation. People stood about in crowds round the various spots from whence the afternoon and evening editions of newspapers were distributed to grab hold of early copies with the latest reports in. When the trial ended with the acquittal of Penberton Billing, the cheering was so loud that the other charges against him were withdrawn, the scene inside the Central Criminal Court baffled description. Nothing like such tempests of cheering and applauding have ever before been heard in those almost sacred precincts. Outside the Old Bailey the cheering was taken up and the victorious defendant, Penberton Billing, had to practically fight his way into his motor car and out of the thoroughfare. The newspapers of the following morning here appeared to universally disagree with the verdict of "Not Guilty," calling it striking but undeserved. In this the newspapers were at variance with the general public who were predominately pro-Billing. In the mind of the average citizen in this country the feeling remains that there is something wrong in high places and that while this is so the definite forward action of the war is being impeded.

very significant. The All-Highest does not think much of the designs which have been sent in; but is too busy to design a monument himself. The conclusion which my informant draws is that the Kaiser, although his perverted mind blinds him considerably, apparently still knows a great deal of the full unadorned and damning character of the facts, and is accordingly disinclined to have anything to do with a failure—if he can help it. If he had been as sure of the U-boats' success as von Capelle professes in public to be, he would certainly, I am told, have taken a day off to design this memorial, and probably also to be filmed in the act.

LENNIN AND TROTSKY.

"There is, I believe, only one real Bolshevik in the world, and that is Lenin," said Dr. Harold Williams, the Russian correspondent, lecturing this week at the Lyceum Club, London, on the extremely muddled Russian position. Lenin, he said, was first and foremost an extremely cold fanatic, possessed with the one idea of creating a world revolution, taking advantage of the world war to seize the opportunity he had been looking for, making Russia the ground for his great experiment, caring little whether Russia were ruined in the process—hardly expecting, perhaps, that the experiment would succeed there, and probably convinced now that it had failed, but satisfied that he had advertised his idea, that it had become a living thing in the minds of people in many countries, and hoping that now it would march until the world revolution became a reality. Trotsky was more difficult to understand, said Dr. Williams. He was exceedingly clever, with a shrewd sense of reality, and knew perfectly well what was going on around him. He was an excellent speaker, with a personal magnetism that carried his audience with him. If he gave an impression of superficiality, and if he had no depth of doctrine, he had great practicality and a strong business sense. At present the Bolsheviks had installed themselves in the Kremlin, Moscow, and issued commands, as if were, from the throne of Ivan the Terrible, but the Russia they had thought of ruling, Dr. Williams said, had slipped from their grip. Russia was transformed, the Russians themselves were changed out of knowledge, all stability, traditions, customs, habits and beliefs had been swept away, and there was no constructive impulse or inspiration. Dr. Williams made the most earnest plea for England's help for the stricken nation. Left to Germany, Russia, where there is to-day no peace, would in all probability be the centre and the source of war for the next hundred years. With England's help alone could regeneration come. And England's aid would be welcomed. He told how in the journey north from Petrograd he found everywhere a pathetic belief that "the English are coming," and the conviction that, with the English, law and order and the possibility of normal life would return.

THE BATS福德 GARDEN.

Every garden lover—and to many of us in London, as in every great city, the cult of a garden is an ennobling passion—will note with sorrow that Batsford Park is included in the sale of the Midland estates of the late Lord Redesdale, and will hope that the famous gardens will pass into the ownership of some one worthy of them. Lord Redesdale was a very fine character, as pure in spirit as he was wise and learned; and in the varied achievements of his long and crowded life his personality found no more fitting and beautiful expression than in the wonderful garden at Batsford, in which he sought to re-create in England something of the charm and mystery of the pleasure-garden of Japan, which he had learned to love in the far-off days when he represented Queen Victoria at Tokio. What reader of good literature does not know his book "The Bamboo Garden," and who that has seen or learned something of the nobler gardens of England cannot call to mind the great statue of Buddha against its umbrageous background, and the Japanese rest-house, with its alluring vistas, where Lord Redesdale spent the meditative but fruitful years of his later life? One would like to think that whoever buys the place will be a man steeped as Lord Redesdale was in the lore of the Far East, and endowed with his contemplative and fanciful spirit. The sale, it appears, is one of the consequences of the war. Lord Redesdale's eldest son fell in France in the spring of 1915, after a career, brief but glorious, with the Expeditionary Force under Sir John French. The aged father bore the blow with high courage. He found solace in his reveries in the Batsford Garden, and then produced "Veluvana" and some other fragments, which his friend Edmund Gosse has collected and edited with affectionate care.

LAST STAGE VILLAIN.

For many years, W. L. Abington, the actor, whose death in New York is announced, was known as the "Adelphi villain." "Billy," as his int-mates called him, was genial and popular in private life. In the eighties and nineties at the old Adelphi Theatre, Strand, London, Abington's villains were almost as indispensable to the long sequence of Sims and Pettit melodramas as William Terris's heroes, and his performances in "The Harbor Lights," "London Day by Day," "The English Rose," and "The Fatal Card," are remembered even now. His last Adelphi villain was Professor Motrarty, in "Sherlock Holmes," with William Gillette in 1902. A year later he went to the United States, and did not return to England. The Abington out-and-out villain as a type has almost disappeared from the West End stage.

The International "Fourth."

It is a tender and heartening thing for France to celebrate our Fourth of July, but—let it be freely acknowledged—it is a nobler thing for England to celebrate it. Among the words which we made immortal in the Declaration of Independence, adopted on our first Fourth of July, are many phrases of deep scorn of England's Sovereign and Government. "A history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States"; "that our senses, ravaged and our rights, burnt out towns and destroyed the lives of our people"—the fundamental document of our independence, read at every celebration of the day, is a terrible arraignment of Britain. But we see now that something has happened not only to make us forget these old reproaches, and the bitter words that were founded upon them, but to render those very words no longer an insult to our British brethren, but actually sympathetic to them. There is no occasion whatever to put the Declaration of Independence aside, even in our joint celebrations of the day with these British brethren, for in truth they have come to see George III., and the Prussian aggression which he practised against us, with our eyes.

What is the cause of the change of sentiment and relation in and between our two nations? It is not altogether a matter of reflection—of the ripening reason of the people. It is simply this: that Americans and Britons have risen above the old plane of the maintenance of their own particular interests, and have placed themselves on the common and exalted ground of the service of humanity. For ourselves, we are surely seeking no aggrandizement, no material advantage. Our French friends are good enough to put it in this way: "America, pacific by principle and tradition, entered the most atrocious war because human liberty and the rights of democracies had to be defended." Probably there is not a real American between our two oceans who is not conscious of the service of this ideal. The Declaration of Independence was for our defence against invasion—in its own language, it was put forth in order that our coasts should not be ravaged, our towns burned, the lives of our people destroyed. That was surely a sacred cause. But for more than a hundred years we needed no such defence. No one (except ourselves) ravaged our coasts or burnt our towns. We grew fat and morally indolent in our security, and dull to the appeal of world service—until the call came, and at last was heeded, and we took our place with France, our old-time ally, and with Britain, twice our enemy. And then we found no difference at all in our ideals. The old differences had disappeared in a new duty loftier and more stirring than the mere defense of our own rights. The union of purposes and sympathy became complete in this new spirit of sacrifice for a cause higher than that of the nation because it is of the nations, and of man.

Already the British people, just by the process of thinking about the matter in their cool, reasoning way, had come to recognize the fact that our Declaration of Independence was not really against them, but against a Government of theirs that was really foreign to the principles of the British constitution. It was not George Washington, John Hancock, Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin, who were the rebels in 1776, but George the Third and Lord North, and their following. As we all know the better part of the British nation was then on our side in sympathy, though it could not prevent the war upon us. And when the misnamed "rebellion," by the aid of France, had prevailed at last, in so far as the territory of the thirteen colonies was concerned, it simply vindicated the principles of the British constitution, against a foreign attack, within those colonies, now made through that vindication an independent republic. Little by little, Britain has come to share in that vindication; and under the inspiration of a greater and a higher cause than the immediate affairs of either of our nations could ever supply, the two great countries have come to stand at last on identical ground.

Not only we, but Britain, the Mother, can afford to celebrate the Fourth of July this year with peculiar earnestness and profound gratitude to the directing intelligence of the world for bringing the three nations who stood at Yorktown, two upon one side and one upon the other, into an alliance which, let us hope, will last forever.—Boston Transcript.

Feed Your Nerves

What tired nerves need is nourishment. Your blood has failed to supply this. To get the system right again you must supply nutrients in condensed and easily assimilated form, as it is found in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The blood is quickly enriched, the vigor of the nerves is restored, digestion is improved, and soon you feel through the whole body the energy and vigor of health.

American Commanders Praised.

Through its ambassador to this country the British government has just conferred exceptional honors upon the commander of a United States navy vessel operating in foreign waters. For service in an encounter with a German submarine the British admiralty has recommended the decoration of the Distinguished Service Order for Lieut. Com. George F. Neal, U. S. N., who was in charge of an American destroyer. This ship was one of a number escorting transports through the war zone when the quartermaster sighted the wake of a periscope, 1,800 yards distant. General quarters were sounded and the commanding officer at once began to manoeuvre with the enemy. He immediately shot his ship head on at the U-boat. Getting ahead of the periscope he ordered a depth charge dropped. Nothing more was seen of the submarine and it was evident that her damage had been serious. The British admiralty credits the success of the destroyer to the alertness of the commander and the manner in which he handled the attack. Lieutenant-Commander Neal is a native of Tennessee. He graduated from the naval academy in 1897. Under the laws of this country officers are not allowed to receive decorations from foreign powers—N. S. paper.

The Housing Problem.

This all important problem which is at present engaging the attention of our local labour organizations must have, in the interests of all concerned, a satisfactory solution. Unless that is brought about, it were better to have left it alone. So far the Telegram has not commented in any way upon the propositions put forward, first because the scheme is in but a nebulous stage at the moment, and second because until something of a practical nature is accomplished, newspaper discussion is not of any permanent help. We are, however, in full sympathy with the movement, and will do whatever is compatible with the wishes of the originators of the scheme to help it out and bring it to a perfected consummation. But one thing in connection with the proposal so far, we deplore. That is the introduction of politics; party and personal politics. It is rather unfortunate that in Newfoundland no utilitarian project for either municipal or national good, can be brought forward without the inevitable political tinge being given it. All the evil that we have suffered in the past, does not appear to bring us to a realization that in certain matters politics must be eliminated, and it is therefore, not surprising that a political twist has already been given the Housing Problem. In the discussion which must necessarily follow the introduction of such an important object as that under review it is absolutely necessary that it be approached from the point of doing the greatest good to the greatest number. This is the reverse of political dogma which is, to do the greatest good to the smallest and most favoured number. We, therefore, look to the labour unions which have undertaken the better housing of the worker to rigidly exclude all politics or simulation of politics from their proceedings, and to sit down hard on any man attempting to make political capital out of the proposed undertaking. Politics and business will never mix. This has been proven. As a business proposition there is much in favour of this erection of habitable dwellings for the workman. From a sanitary point of view the fulfilment of the undertaking will bring added blessings. Too long has the laborer been sheltered in dwellings unfit for him and his family; dwellings which are menaces to health, which are unsightly and ramshackle, and what should long ago have been torn down and new structures built on their sites. But conditions have been against any amelioration, and it is only now that a movement strong enough to be carried to a successful termination, has been created, and this movement can be brought to the desired end if the promoters and backers work together on a proper business like basis and carefully exclude anything of a nature, the introduction of which at their assemblies, may have the effect of wrecking their ideals ere they are perfected. There is no reason why the workmen of St. John's should not be housed in up-to-date, well ventilated, roomy dwellings. If any class of men deserve comfortable, sanitary homes they do. In order to obtain them, the means is in their possession, and we hope shortly to have the pleasure of hearing that the problem has been satisfactorily solved, and that a new day will be ushered in when the scheme is brought to fruition, and the laborer becomes the owner of his own habitation. But, as we said in the beginning politics and political influences must be rigorously and rightly guarded against and prohibited.

Notes and Comments

And echo answers—whose?
That is referring to the I. O. U.'s in the Treasury, as collateral for cash advanced without authority.

There must be something radically at fault in an accounting system which permits of such sums being loaned by individuals, without the cognizance of higher officials, and the sooner such an antiquated system is changed the better. Meanwhile the taxpayer wants to know who is withholding the information asked for.

July 4th was one time the day of the Big Noise in the United States. Last Thursday it was the day of the Big Splash, when every previous ship-building record was broken, and that 600 tons of shipping took to its native element. This kind of celebration spells doom to the Kaiser.

Vice-Admiral Sir Roger Kyles has presented to St. George's Church (Cathedral), the signal flag which preceded the sending of the message "St. George for England" to the ships when they assembled for the attack on Zeebrugge. In an accompanying letter Sir Roger wrote, "I feel it is very fitting that the flag should rest in St. George's Church, in the mother country of England."

Six thousand dollars would pay a number of old age pensions, or would go a long way toward increasing the widows and orphans' fund, but I. O. U.'s would do much toward either. What about it?

New Bread Rules.

PROCLAIMED BY FOOD CONTROL BOARD.

In another column of this issue will be found a series of regulations drafted by the Food Control Board and approved by the Governor in Council, which go into effect this morning. These regulations, we understand, have been rendered necessary by the action of the American and Canadian Food Boards. The American authorities have had very severe restrictions in force for some months with the idea of economizing in the use of wheat flour. The Canadians last winter introduced a new system of milling which produced a standard flour generally known as War Flour, for the entire Dominion, and which has been coming here lately. Latterly, however, the demands of the Allied armies for foodstuffs and especially as a result of the enormous number of American soldiers sent to France, have become so great that further measures have become imperative in order that (1) a sufficiency of wheat flour may be available for the needs of the soldiers during the coming Fall and Winter, and (2) that a reserve may be accumulated on this Continent to protect both North America and Western Europe from the serious consequences which might arise from a failure in the grain crops next year.

As our readers will remember, a representative of the Canadian Food Board came here last month to place before our authorities the serious situation in that country and the imminence of new regulations. These went into force on the 1st July. They provided that for the first fortnight of this month, or until Monday next, every private household and public eating place, should use for any food products should substitute ten per cent of other grains, such as rolled oats, oatmeal, corn flour, corn meal, rye, barley, etc., most of which are not obtainable here. After next Monday this proportion is increased to twenty per cent, or one pound of substitutes to every four pounds of flour, and this regulation is expected to continue in force for the next twelve months at least and possibly longer. Certainly it will not be relaxed until the extent of the harvest of 1919 is determined.

The Canadian authorities have called upon us to make similar sacrifices, if such they can be called, in the interests of the cause. The Food Control Board, after a conference with the importers of flour into the Dominion, have framed regulations which provide that from to-day until August 5th the 10 per cent. of substitutes shall apply in this Colony, and that after that date there shall be an advance to 20 per cent. The 10 per cent. is provided in order that a sufficient stock of substitutes may be distributed among the outports, and after that date our people will have to make up their minds to accept this new form of breadstuff for about 12 months at least. It is to be hoped that everybody will realize the spirit in which these regulations are framed, and conform with them in that spirit. It will be observed, however, that ample powers are taken by the Food Control Board for the enforcement of the regulations, and that penalties as high as $1,000 and 3 months' imprisonment, or both, may be inflicted for breaches of the rules. Arrangements are being made for the importation of a sufficient quantity of substitutes, and by combined action between the Food Control Board and the importers it is hoped that the new system will work smoothly and without causing any serious inconvenience to anybody.

After all, if these restrictions are the worst that this Colony has to face for the remainder of the War, it will hardly be denied that we are getting off lightly. Thus far it may truthfully be said that Newfoundland has not known, except for the losses in men, that there was a War in existence. Our people were never more prosperous, and conditions were never more favorable. None of the hardships and drawbacks from which our neighbors are suffering are being borne by us yet, and if we are now to feel the pinch somewhat, it is a debatable question if it will not be for our good, rather than the reverse.

Black Diamonds.

Though black diamonds are pure carbon they in no outward appearance resemble the diamonds worn as ornaments. They are slightly harder than the crystal or gem diamonds, and in fact are nearly the hardest substance known. Black diamonds, or carbons, are without crystalline form, and are found in irregular pieces ranging in size from half a carat up to three, four and five hundred carats. They are dark grey, black, or brownish in color, and opaque. The real diamond of the jewelry trade is also pure carbon, but translucent and crystalline in form. Two objects so alike in composition could not be found so opposite in appearance as these two forms of carbon.—Family Herald.

Cpl. Shea's Lecture.

Some seventy people attended Corporal Shea's lecture in the Casino last evening. Among those present were His Excellency the Governor and Lt.-Col. W. F. Rendell, who was Chairman. In his opening address Lt.-Col. Rendell remarked on the extremely meagre attendance, and pointed out that a lecture given in aid of the Returned Soldiers and Rejected Volunteers should be well patronized by the Association, and all their friends, as well as everybody who had the good of the soldiers at heart.

Corporal Shea, after a splendid concert programme had been gone through, was introduced by Lt.-Col. Rendell, and for an hour and a half told in an interesting manner of the life of the Newfoundlanders on the Somme. Although the Gallipoli campaign was considered a fiasco by many, yet we should know that for every Britisher that fell, two Turks were killed. After the withdrawing of the Newfoundland Regiment from Gallipoli, it was appointed to occupy a sector in France. On June 30th the Newfoundlanders moved forward and reached the reserve lines. On the 1st of July the village of Hamel, in which were the Hun reserves, was blown up with an explosion which shook the earth for two miles around. About 8.45 a.m. "Ours" went over the top, formed up, and on to the enemy trenches. Men fell on all sides, but their comrades carried on, crossed the anti-tank positions, and swung into extended line for the charge. Beaumont Hamel exacted a heavy toll on the Newfoundland Regiment, but the day of reckoning is not far off when Ours will avenge the death of their comrades.

A vote of thanks to Corporal Shea was proposed by Mr. Harold Mitchell, and accorded by acclamation, and the evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

HARRY J. MURPHY.

There passed away, after a lingering illness, at the residence of his father, on Tuesday, 9th inst., Harry Joseph, beloved son of Nicholas J. Murphy, Inspector in the Municipal Council. Deceased had been ailing for some time, and had the best available medical care and attendance, but an all ruling Providence saw fit to call him to his reward, and he passed away at the above date at 2.30 p.m., fortified by the rites of Holy Church, and perfectly resigned to the Divine Will. The deceased was educated at St. Patrick's Hall and was employed up to the time of his illness at the east end branch of Messrs. Parker & Moore, Ltd. He was a young man who gave promise of a bright future, was possessed of bright and kindly disposition, and his taking off on the threshold of life, came as a sad blow to his immediate family and friends. He leaves to mourn their loss, besides his father and mother, five brothers, John, of the G.P.O., Patrick, who is in the employ of the City Council; Gerald at the Royal Stores, Nicholas and Thomas, and one sister, Molly, at home, to whom the Telegram extends sympathy.—Com.

266 Water Street, St. John's, July, 1918

Dear Sir, or Madam:

I beg to approach you as one-whom I am of the opinion appreciates the good things of life with regard to some new drinks I am about to place on the market.

The wines in question, a list of which you will find at the head of this letter, are manufactured by a Toronto concern who, since that Province went "dry," have made a special study of wines that were popular in the "good old days" and have endeavored to imitate these wines as closely as it is possible to do when same have to be made according to the Prohibition law.

The Wines which I am now offering are the result. Nothing like them has ever been on the market since Prohibition days, and they should in no way be confounded with brands of non-alcoholic wines which have previously been on the market and which in the main are syrupy and nauseating.

Especial care has been taken to imitate the original flavors as far as it is possible, in fact it is practically impossible to distinguish the two Liqueurs mentioned above from the real thing, while the other wines are very similar in flavor to their namesakes. A not unattractive feature is that the drinks are bottled in quart bottles, absolute counterparts of their real namesakes.

It is my desire to get a sample bottle of each of these wines into your home, for I am of the opinion that once you try them you will become a steady user of one or other of the kinds offered. I am therefore going to ask you to give me an order for One sample bottle each of "Royalo" Port Wine, London Dock Sherry, Creme de Menthe, Sloe Gin, Black Cherry Brandy and Ginger Wine Cordial at One dollar per quart bottle delivered (the same price as in Canada), that is Six Dollars in all.

(These sample orders will be filled through one of the St. John's dealers handling these goods, and delivery will be made as soon as the first shipment is received, probably some time in September.) Orders may be phoned to my office—telephone number 60.

Special prices to the trade upon application.

I am sure you will be pleased with this sample order and I hope to hear from you at your convenience.

With best wishes,

Yours very truly,

P. E. OUTERBRIDGE,

Agent for The Gordon Wine Co., Toronto.

Germany Threatens.

There are signs that Germany is preparing to see if it can shock the world by a new kind of atrocity, though one would have supposed that nothing she could do now would even startle the human race. She seems to be seeking an excuse to commit some horror or other as a "reprisal" for imaginary injuries. The first sign we recall was her threat to the United States Government that unless we released a German convicted of felony in the civil courts, Franz von Rintelen by name, she would inflict certain undescribed injuries on American prisoners of war. At about the time of that occurrence, or soon after, there appeared threats in the German papers against American prisoners, based on the false charge that German officers are being maltreated in American prisons.

Now comes the announcement of the Deutsche Tageszeitung that if it proves to be true that China has interned 10,000 Germans, Germany will seize and imprison an equal number of French people—not in Germany, but in the occupied districts of France. The Tageszeitung announces that the Germans must not only be removed from their status of internment, but must be "compensated for their losses."

It need not be pointed out that any country at war with Germany has the right to intern German subjects, and that if such a country does so, there is no reason or excuse for reprisal; or that it is not reprisal at all, but mere barbarity, to imprison the inhabitants of an occupied district. Neither need we waste any words on the futility of all these threats. Germany has acquitted the world so well with her savagery that words are not called for. All we aim to do is to prepare our readers for some new manifestation of her peculiar gifts, which seems to be either forthcoming or else in contemplation as a thing she would like to do if she dared. It has often been observed that when Germany suffers a reverse on the battlefield she avenges herself in some atrocious manner on the helpless, and something of this kind seems to be what she has in mind now, and for the same reason.—N. Giants of the Sky.

The largest warplanes are the bomb dropping machines. They must be capable of carrying heavy loads of explosives. They are usually slow machines, speed being sacrificed to carrying capacity. The Italians have specialized in big bomb machines. The huge Caproni airplanes carry three men and three guns, besides 2,750 lbs. of explosives. That makes a useful load of 4,000 pounds. The machine is driven by three engines with a total of 900 horse power. Such enormous machines are rather exceptional, however. Bombing machines are usually covered by fast fighting planes, and do not have to defend themselves from attack in the air. Often bombing raids are made at night, and the big Italian machines are provided with "search-light bombs" to enable them to locate important spots on the ground beneath. These are brilliant magnesium torches suspended from parachutes, so that they fall slowly and give a broad illumination, while the airplane itself is shielded from the light by the parachute.—St. Nicholas.

According to a despatch received from Berne, The Koelnische Zeitung published the letter under the heading "American bluff." The despatch says and comments as follows: "Mr. Baker thinks he will be able to dissipate all doubts about the exactitude of his figures which he recites. It is, however, only the usual American bluff. We know from reliable sources that the figures in question are inordinately exaggerated and in no way correspond to the truth."

PROTESTS AGAINST FURTHER RESTRICTIONS.

AMSTERDAM, July 9. According to the Vorwaerts, Herr von Waldow, President of the German Food Regulation Board, speaking in the Reichstag, Saturday, created a sensation by foreshadowing the imposition of the meatless week in Germany. The harvest assuredly will not fulfill the good prospects of last spring, but thanks to the recent rainfall we may hope for a medium harvest, so that with additions from the east, we will be in a considerably better position than we were last year, he said. In the Reichstag on Saturday Deputy Matzinger, a member of the centre party, protested against any further supplies of grain being sent to Austria. Deputy Wils, a Socialist, declared that further reduction in rations was unbearable. Many people, he said, had no idea of the misery prevailing among the masses. Unemployment was increasing in Berlin and the wages were insufficient to procure the necessary food.

RAILWAY COLLISION.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 9. Two passenger trains on the Nashville-Chattanooga and St. Louis railway collided early to-day near Belle Meade Park on the western suburbs of Nashville. Telephone reports from the scene of the wreck are to the effect that 25 were killed and between 50 and 70 injured. Six passenger coaches in all were demolished and two cars of the third train caught fire and were burned up. Wrecking crews and volunteers worked heroically in the wreckage to rescue the injured.

DOWLING CASE CONCLUDED.

LONDON, July 9. The court-martial of Corporal Joseph Dowling, who was seized by the British authorities on the Irish coast after landing in a German collapsible boat, was concluded to-day. Corporal Dowling did not give any evidence in his own behalf or call any witnesses for his defence. His attorney, however, argued that the indictment the Corporal offered to his men to join the Irish Brigade while in Germany was to get out of Germany and help his fellow countrymen to fight against Germany. There was no evidence, the attorney said, that the prisoner endeavored to get into communication with any one after he had landed in Ireland. Dowling's army record, he pointed out, showed that he had served for fourteen years and had never been convicted of any offence.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. Denying rumors which have been circulated in Austria-Hungary, regarding Empress Zita, the correspondent at Vienna of the T.M., says it is true that the Austrian Empress partly desires peace, and had with proper dignity advocated it, but the rumor that an energetic Austrian offensive against Italy was delayed by her influence is slanderous, as also is the rumor that the Empress was to blame for one or two setbacks which followed the offensive. It is still more slanderous to involve her honor as a woman with imperial statesmanship and the Imperial House.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. The Empress, whose sensitiveness is well known, suffered not a little under the imputations which have driven her to a sick bed. The slander is more painful as it even assailed the wedded felicity which so distinguished the conduct of the imperial couple, which the non-existent correspondence, which was said to

On the recommendation of the Food Control Board, and under the Provisions of the Food Control Act, 1917, and the War Measures Act, His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to approve the following Regulations regarding the Importation, Sale and Consumption of Breadstuffs.

- (1) In these Regulations (a) "breadstuffs" shall mean wheat flour, rolled oats, oatmeal, corn-meal of the quality known as granulated or bolted table meal, and corn-flour; and "substitutes" shall mean any or all of the foregoing, except wheat flour. (b) "person" shall mean any individual, firm, partnership, or corporation. (c) "importer" shall mean any person duly licensed by the Food Control Board under these Regulations. (2) From and after this date no person shall import any "breadstuffs" into the Dominion unless he shall have first obtained a license to do so from the Food Control Board. Such license shall be issued without charge. (3) No importer shall import any such breadstuffs without previously obtaining a permit from the Food Control Board for each and every quantity of breadstuffs he may desire to import. (4) Every permit so issued shall authorize him to import wheat flour and substitutes in the proportion of four-fifths of wheat flour, and one-fifth of substitutes. (5) Any importer, who, prior to the issue of these Regulations, shall have purchased abroad for import into this Dominion any wheat flour, may be granted by the Board a permit for the importation of the same on an undertaking by him that he will import within two months thereafter substitutes to the extent of twenty per cent. of such imports of wheat flour, and if such person has made contracts with any dealers within this Dominion for the supplying of such wheat flour, or any portion thereof to such dealers, he shall be regarded as satisfying the terms of such contracts if he furnishes four-fifths of the flour on its arrival, and the remainder in the form of substitutes within two months thereafter. The kind and proportion of such substitutes shall be settled by agreement between the parties, and if they find themselves unable so to agree, by the Food Control Board. (6) When any importer shall satisfy the Food Control Board that he has not any agency or connection through which he can purchase the required proportion of substitutes, he shall be entitled to a permit to allow him to import wheat flour, the Food Control Board may, on being satisfied that he has purchased the requisite stock of substitutes through any other person or firm in St. John's, grant him a permit to import such wheat flour. (7) The Food Control Board may, at any time, if satisfied that applications for excessive quantities of flour and substitutes are being filled, with the result that the purposes of these Regulations may be defeated, or complications caused with the Canadian or United States Food Control Departments, issue permits for only part of the quantities set out in such applications, or decline to issue permits for any such quantities. (8) On and after Wednesday, July 10th, 1918.— (a) Every merchant, planter, trader, broker, commission agent, provision dealer, grocer, shop-keeper, or any other person in Newfoundland who shall sell or deliver to any other person any wheat flour, shall only do so in the proportion of not less than one pound of substitutes to every nine pounds of wheat flour; and (b) Every person in Newfoundland who makes for public or private consumption bread, cake, rolls, pastry or other product in which wheat flour is used shall, in making the same, use not less than one pound of substitutes to every nine pounds of wheat flour. (9) On and after Monday, August 5th, 1918.— (a) Every merchant, planter, trader, broker, commission agent, provision dealer, grocer, shop-keeper, or any other person in Newfoundland who shall sell or deliver to any other person any wheat flour, shall only do so in the proportion of not less than one pound of substitutes to every four pounds of wheat flour. (b) Every person in Newfoundland who makes for public or private consumption bread, rolls, cake, pastry or other product in which wheat flour is used shall, in making the same, use not less than one pound of substitutes to every four pounds of wheat flour. Our Baseball Column. PLAGIARISED AND OTHERWISE.

WANDERERS DEFEAT B.L.S. The game between the Wanderers and B.L.S. last evening resulted in a win by the former by a score of eight runs to three. The crowd of spectators was somewhat disappointed at the rather poor exhibition on the part of the Irish team. Their batting was very feeble and when they did get the bases they seemed to have "water on the knee." Carow, pitching for them had nine strikeouts and allowed eight bases on balls. McIsaac, the Wanderers' pitcher had four strikeouts and allowed two walks. In the fourth inning a double play was pulled off by McCrindle and Brien of the Wanderers.

GAME THIS AFTERNOON. A game has been arranged between a City nine and a nine composed of some of our American visitors and will be played this afternoon at three o'clock. As the latter team, according to the line-up has a "near professional" aggregation and our own nine is a pretty strong one, class ball will likely result. The proceeds are for the W.P.A. and a large crowd of fans should attend. The line-up is as follows:—

The Albums of Yesteryear.

RUTH CAMERON

When cleaning out the garret, the other day, I came across a big paste-board box labeled, "Photographs." In it were several dozens of photographs—some of my classmates at high school, some of college classmates and some of friends and relatives. As I sorted them over, it seemed to me as if the pictured faces looked up at me reproachfully. Surely they had a right to, for had I not treated them shabbily in putting them into a box and banishing them into a dusty attic. I felt as if I owed each one an apology.

And yet what should I have done with them? What do you do with such pictures? It is usually a pleasure to receive the picture of a friend.

One is hurt if one does not get a picture.

If one finds that one has been left out, in a distribution of photographs, one is hurt.

And yet, after one has admired or criticized the pictures, and shown it to everyone who is likely to be interested, one is inevitably puzzled as to what to do with it.

There was a time when people covered the walls of their homes with framed and passepartouted photographs. But that custom is falling in to happy disrepute. We have come to feel that photographs, while interesting, and valuable as memorabilia, are not perhaps the most suitable form of permanent decoration, especially for those rooms in the house devoted to general use.

One Way Out.

In the bedroom or den, a few photographs of the people whose faces one really likes to look at every day are desirable, but all ones photographs do not fall under that category, nor would there be room for them if they did.

It sounds as if there were no way out, doesn't it, but I think there is, a perfectly good one.

Did We Not Banish Too Much? Where are the albums of yesteryear?

SHAPING THE MOUTH.
When we were babies we were taught to keep our fingers out of our mouths, but how we did love to suck our thumbs! There are many reasons for breaking ourselves of this habit.

Your Boys and Girls.

The first three months of a baby's life he should sleep 22 hours out of 24. At six months he sleeps twelve hours at night and has a two hour nap both morning and afternoon. After six months one nap, preferably in the afternoon, is sufficient.

Children with poor appetites should not have sweets, nor should they be allowed to eat between meals. Milk and eggs are important elements in the child's diet up to the tenth year; the latter should never be given fried. Meat should be given after the third year, once a day, preferably at noon.

Fads and Fashions.

There are four things in fashion that are often discussed to-day; the severe, uncollared neckline, the short sleeve, the cape back and the lack of chiffon blouse.

There are great numbers of sleeveless sweaters and coats of velvet, jersey and satin, and they seem likely to keep a firm place in fashion throughout the summer.

The coffee bag skirt will hardly last through the summer. It is not an admirable model for thin materials and is likely to be gradually displaced by the pleated skirt, which may be much more gracefully worn.

Quilted designs continue to please the dressmakers, and women are being persuaded to wear them. Elaborate bits of quilting done on chiffon tulle are used for collars and cuffs, patches on the hips, girdles and hems on skirts.

Women's shoes of this season have four distinct heel fashions—the college heel, which is flat; the military heel, distinctly masculine; the Louis heel, high and slender, and the always favorite Cuban heel, moderately high and very sensible.

THE TIRED HARVESTER.

WALT MASON

I went from town, on joyful feet, to help the farmers harvest wheat. My breast was full of loyal fire; I said, "No man should paw a tyre or monkey with a fountain pen, when farmers call for working men. I'll show these grangers which is which; they'll marvel when the snaves I pitch; they'll wonder how an urban pote can do such stunts with wheat and oat." At sunrise, then, I started in, to labor, with a cheerful grin. The farmers watched my trail of smoke and smiled as though they saw some joke. At 8 o'clock I'd lost some pep; I moved along with dragging step; my joints began to groan and crack, I had nine stitches in my back. At 9 o'clock my brain went bum; I yelled in wild delirium; I thought that I was on the rack, such shooting pains ran up my back; I called on those around, in vain, to take an ax and end my pain. At 10 o'clock I left the field, my head on fire, my feet congealed. On hands and knees I crawled away, and asked the farmer for my pay. "You guys from town," he coldly said, "aren't worth your share of wartime bread. I want no more silk-shirted gent; here is your pay, just sixty cents."

At Ease in Zion or How Germans Pray

(By A. A. Milne of "Punch")

An interesting booklet was recently found in a raided German dwelling. It was published in Germany in the interests of "Amol"—which is supposed to be a remedy for all ailments of the fire service, such as frost-bite, scalds, and bayonet wounds.

One does not propose to advertise this precious specific any further, but the extraneous matter in the booklet is worth notice, containing as it does all, or nearly all, the mental recreation which the German soldier is allowed, including two pictures of Hindenburg, four of the Kaiser and one of the mark. "Gott strafe England" is the "Hymn of Hate" also makes a welcome re-appearance in it, and there is a really delightful poem called "Land's Lament," with the sub-heading "Goddam! Flo. Ug!" Indeed, the booklet given every opportunity of forgetting one's lumbago.

But the most typically German contributions are two prayers; one is "Prayer by Capt. Kurt Anker, and the other a prayer for the Kaiser. The latter begins in this manner:

"Dear God, thou who hast helped us to conquer our enemies, hear my prayer and— (you will never guess)—and harden the heart of our noble Kaiser against weakness. How it must annoy the Kaiser to be prayed for in this way! "Thou knowest that the Russian in his hatred is fighting against us"—(this part is revising)—"the Frenchman desires Alsace-Lorraine again and is fighting for it."

Having as far as possible brought the Ditty up-to-date in this way, the writer of the prayer goes on to make his great point.

"But the Devil lurks behind the bushes, and he is our cousin the Fishman; he grudges us Germany and light and bread for our children. With the memory of man he has always set people against people, and when they lie bleeding on the ground he robs and destroys them."

At a political meeting this would be a signal for a cry of "Shame!" But though it is not a political address, a prayer, one feels that the devil German on his knees would pray instinctively, too, lest it sink in before he went on with his petition. "Therefore, dear God, steel the heart of the Good Kaiser and let him not make peace until the Englishman's footpad, lies prostrate on earth."

It is just possible that up to the point the author—Herz Eberle;—has given him the credit—genuinely believed that he was praying to God.

ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS BET

THAT ONE OF OUR PATRIOTIC CITIZENS WILL PUT UP
A Piano for the Recreation Hut
 IN A WEEK'S TIME FROM THE TAKING UP OF THIS BET.

Bets for unlimited amounts are also open to be made that the other requirements of the Recreation Hut as previously advertised, will also be donated by other Patriotic Citizens. Following are some of the requirements:—

A GRAMAPHONE.
 A good Victor or Columbia is good enough! We won't ask for an "Edison," but perhaps one of you millionaires who have been lately buying an "Edison" from our friend Fred Chessman can donate an older machine. (We trust that this may not pass Fred's eye, but may score a hit.)
 We shall want some records for that Gramophone. Everybody can help here. A few Concertinas and Mouth Organs would not go astray.
 We want some comfortable Chairs, and we will not refuse Morris or Chesterfield Chairs, as taking up too much room. We can do with a whole lot of Books and Magazines, and some Book Cases would be all right.
 Some Pictures would brighten up the walls, and some Oil Heaters are wanted to warm up the place for "the Boys."
 Some of these things have been asked for before in an advertisement, but perhaps you did not see that ad.
 All the boys love music, and we need that Piano badly. It will keep them in, wet evenings, and may keep them from wandering into many pitfalls, as well as from getting colds, etc.
 There are many families in St. John's who have a Piano that is not being used.
 WE KNOW that one of these families is going to distinguish itself by helping the Regiment with a Piano. This appeal is made jointly by
