CHAPTER XXVII

"I cannot tell you," she replied vaguely; "you are one of them."

"One of them!" he repeated. "One of whom?"

"One of the Scaradales," answered Diana promptly.

"I understand," Sir Lisle laughed. "I could not think at first what you meant. Of course I am a Scaradale; but that is no fault of mine. And why should that take away your confidence in me?"

"I do not say that it does," said Diana, conscious of the intense delight it gave her to be talking to him there in the moonlight.

"Do you consider all the Scaradales your mortal foes?" he asked.

"Don't ask me such questions," said Diana. "Talk to me of something less unpleasant."

"You must not think me curious," he went on—"I am simply interested. I never thought about the matter until I came to-day; then it occurred to me that it must have been hard, after reigning here as queen and mistress, to see another take your place."

Gracefully she drew the rich sables more closely around her.

"It was hard," she answered, quietly; but he saw that she shuddered as with cold.

"Tell me the hardest part of it, Diana," he said.

"The hardest," she questioned, "it was not the loss of rule and power; it was not the loss of position or of liberty; it was not the feeling that home was no longer home, but an abode for strangers. It was that I was no longer with my father."

"I thought so," said Sir Lisle, emphatically.

"And now," added Diana, "I refuse to say another word upon the matter. I did not come out into this lovely moonlight to talk of myself. Change the subject, Sir Lisle."

"I will. Let me tell you that in this moonlight you look to me like the goddess Diana."

She laughed a sweet tenuous laugh that stirred the blood in his veins.

And the Worst is Yet to Come—bare to her, and that she saw there the great truth of her life, that she loved him with a supreme love.

"I am afraid you will take cold, Diana," said a voice near her, which she knew to be Sir Royal's.

He shrank as from a blow when the radiant face was turned to his, and he saw that the love he had been denied had been bestowed upon another.

Sir Lisle touched Diana's cloak lightly.

"Miss Cameron is safe in this," he said.

"Her love is reciprocated. May Heaven bless the child!" said Sir Royal to himself as he turned away.

Indoors music and cards were resorted to, and the young heiress was eagerly sought to charm them with her fine contralto voice. Diana's repertoire was extensive enough. She was equally at home in France chansons, Italian love-songs and German lieder; but she loved best the old English ballads and the old Scotch songs. She sang first:

"Oh, my love is like the red, red rose
That sweetly blows in June!
Oh, my love is like a melody
That's sweetly sung in tune!"

with its sweet refrain:

"An' I would come again, my dear,
Were it twice ten thousand mile."

Sir Lisle listened with rapture.

"She could not be commonplace if she tried," he said to himself.

He determined to ask her to be his wife, and then he wondered whether she would accept him. When he came to think of what had passed between them, every word, every look, she was mystified. It seemed at times that she loved him, and then again, as when she flung the flower beneath her feet, it seemed as though she must hate him.

This evening she had been sweet and loving; she had given him the flower that he asked for; she had looked into his face with love-lighted eyes; and yet her haughty little head had been raised once or twice in a fashion that did not speak of love.

Sir Lisle pondered this puzzle; but he failed to arrive at a satisfactory solution of it. Did she like him, or did she not? He would have given much that night to have the question answered. He could not quite understand Diana. With so much that was noble and lofty in her character, there was something, he fancied, of caprice—and yet caprice was foreign to her.

So he dreamed of the future, and wondered what time would reveal.

CHAPTER XXVIII

"I knew I should hate this day," said Diana, when she saw the dawn. "It will bring anything but happiness to me."

She knew that; but even she never dreamed of what would happen before the day closed. It broke beautiful enough, with just a chill touch in the air which made it fresh and invigorating, this day that brought to her father the realization of his heart's desire. The Duke and Duchess were coming; and his wife had given him a lesson in demeanor.

"Try to be quiet," she impressed upon her husband. "There is nothing betrays want of good breeding so much as fuss, eagerness, and undue ceremony. Let everything take its natural course; do not excite the servants. I assure you nothing would displease the Duchess more than fuss."

"Poor papa!" she said to herself. "He ought to enjoy his triumph; he has paid a stupendous price for it."

Something had softened her heart, and made the earth and sky seem brighter, had made the flowers seem sweeter. She did not wait to ask herself what it was; but she gave herself up to its gracious influence. Seeing her father walking with a preoccupied air on the terrace, she went to him. Ah, surely something had softened Diana's heart! She clasped her white hands round his arm. A sharp pang came to her as she remembered their last long talk on the terrace and all that had happened since then.

"Papa," she said, "I believe this is the happiest day of your life."

He turned to her a face glowing with undisguised satisfaction.

"I think it is, Diana," he replied.

She could not tell why the words hurt her; but it seemed as though neither she nor her dead mother had any part or share in this happiness of her father's.

"I hope," she said, gently, "that it will go off as you wish, papa."

"I have no time to talk to you now,

KING OF SPAIN IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Oct. 24.
King Alfonso of Spain, whose regu-

King, Princess Beatrice, the staff of the Spanish Embassy and many of

STATE OF WAR AT AN END.

PARIS, Oct. 24.
The official publication this morning of a law declaring the state of war to be at an end fixes to-day as the date from which will run time limits on moratoriums excepting those which may be further prolonged by decree.
The publication ends state of war only as far as concerns internal affairs in France. The nation remains in state of war with Germany until the Treaty of Versailles becomes effective through deposit of ratifications at the Foreign Office.

DO NOT EXPECT GOVERNMENT TO RESIGN.

LONDON, Oct. 24.
Political experts and the editorial
utterances in the papers this morning generally express the view that no one expects the Government to resign as a result of the adverse vote in the House yesterday, and that the circumstances of the defeat of the Pilots Amendment in no wise need entail such a step. The incident, however, is regarded on all sides as one which has given the administration a severe shock, a repetition of which it could hardly survive. The vote generally described as an assertion of the independence of the House of Commons and a revolt against dictation of Ministers. A determination to reassert the supremacy which the Commons surrendered to the Cabinet during the war. More than one hundred supporters of the Coalition, among whom Sir Edward Carson was conspicuous, voted against the Government. These represented the intense anti-alien feeling prevailing among the Conservative Coalitionists, and the fear that the Government is trying in the present stage of the bill to annual amendments which these hostile to aliens secured in the Committee stage. Some surprise is expressed that the labor members and the so-called free Liberals joined in the vote against the Government on this issue, thereby identifying themselves with the anti-alien faction contrary to the avowed principles of their leaders. It is believed in some quarters that the Government on Monday will ask the House to reconsider the vote and in view of certain circumstances, it is regarded as possible that the House may comply.
These circumstances concern the convention entered into between Great Britain and France in 1913 in which it was agreed that French pilots might bring French ships into certain English ports, and that English pilots should be granted a reciprocal privilege in French ports.

LAST APPEAL MADE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.
Unless the unauthorized strike of longshoremen at this port is called off by to-morrow night the United States Shipping Board will undertake to stand to tie up loading and unloading its ships with men who will be quartered on a vessel now moored at one of the trans-Atlantic piers, according to an announcement by Board officials here to-night. The Government has made its last appeal to the striking longshoremen to return to work, the statement adds.

Men of St. John's

What Do You Think of These Attacks on You and Your Town by the Abusing Coaker.

(Coaker's Advocate, Jan. 7th.) "Strapping looking men standing at the corners in St. John's who ought to be in the woods picking birch brooms."

(Coaker's Advocate, Jan. 14th.) "St. John's is as great now as a mouse in a hand-box. Ah! St. John's you'll get an awful fright when the fishermen absent themselves permanently bye and bye."

(Coaker's Advocate, Jan. 28th.) "Card playing is being indulged in to a great extent this winter in the city. . . . The time given to card playing and tournaments would be better spent if occupied in the pursuit of living."

(Coaker's Advocate, Aug. 19.) "A sport mad city, a pleasure crazy community such as St. John's. It is travelling a fast pace towards something. It has already slaughtered many business men." "We have seen more drunkenness during a Wednesday half holiday than ought to exist during a month. Every third man we meet with on half holidays is intoxicated with liquor. The half holiday is the saloon keepers' harvest day. The north side of Water Street is lined with saloons, all reaping rich harvests."

(Coaker's Advocate, Oct. 31.) "If our fathers and mothers were to return to this town they would never recognize their grand-children as their offspring, owing to their lax spendthrift sporting habits and disregard of the value of hard-earned money. Outport folk should do all possible to prevent their children coming to St. John's to finish their education. The old truly genuine habit of industrious moral worth and religious sincerity has departed from St. John's. The limit has been reached. We often ask ourselves where St. John's is journeying to. If all the cities are traveling the pace of St. John's to degeneracy, it won't be many years before the world will possess thousands of Sodoms and Gomorras."

(Coaker's Advocate, Nov. 5, 1910.) "To-day St. John's is one of the worst cities for its size in moral degeneracy in North America. The one mad rage is enjoyment and sport. At the clubs there is a continual course of gambling, and even boys play cards and gamble till midnight. There is absolutely no sign of restraint on moral degeneracy. To what fate is St. John's travelling! Is a questions often asked by the serious minded."

PRINCE STILL UNDECIDED. LONDON, Oct. 24. (Reuter's Agency) — The Daily Chronicle says the question as to whether the Prince of Wales will go to the United States is still undecided, but every endeavor is being made to arrange a meeting between the Prince and President Wilson. In any case the United States tour may be regarded as not abandoned but postponed, and the visit of the Prince may take place at a later date.

AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT IN AFRICA. BLOEMFONTEIN, S.A., Oct. 24. (Reuter's Agency) — The Unionist Conference to-day passed a resolution in favor of the vigorous development of the agricultural resources of the country by means of closer settlement and the systematic and continued introduction of British settlers. The Congress also favored the taxation of land values. General Byron expressed the opinion that South Africa would get a thousand settlers with brains, experience and capital. Sir Thomas Smartt was re-elected President.

Reviving Victims of Drowning.

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO. Many lives would be saved if there were only someone on the spot, who knew how to deal with the victim of the bathing accident. Of course, it is wise to get a doctor at the earliest moment, but time must elapse before the arrival of the medical man.

Very simple instructions for the treatment have recently been issued by an American doctor. These are so simple that everyone can keep them in mind, and not a moment need be lost in executing them.

As soon as the victim has been taken from the water, place him face downwards on the ground, with his arms extended right above the head. Turn the head on one side, and gently force a stick, or anything of a similar nature, between the teeth, so that the mouth is kept open. Now stand astride the body, grasp it about the waist with both hands, and lift it up. Hold it a few moments in order to allow the water to escape from the lungs. Next replace the body gently on the ground, and proceed to the treatment for restoring breathing as quickly as possible.

Take hold of the lower part of the chest firmly with both hands, squeeze with all your strength, and then suddenly release. This movement should be repeated fifteen or twenty times every minute. If one person tries of the work another might take his place, though the treatment must be carried on without a pause.

If good results are not soon apparent do not despair. Apparently drowned people have frequently been restored after an hour or even longer.

At first the patient gives a gasp for breath, and in a little while there is something like a regular respiration. When breathing has been established get the sick one into bed between the blankets as soon as possible. Hot bottles are useful to keep up the bodily warmth, and steaming lemonade is a splendid crick in this time.

Freak Cricket.

MATCHES PLAYED UNDER HOME-MADE RULES.

Two teams of allotment holders and cultivators recently played a very lively cricket match. Two daughters of the rival "cabbage-patch" communities happened to be quite good cricketers. Thus upon these fair Amazons fell the selection and captaincy of the rival teams.

No runners were provided, although one of the batsmen was a wild young shaver, of eighty-two many were over sixty, and some under forty, except the "captains," and they confessed to "sweet and twenty."

The great feature of the match was a system of fines for doing and leaving undone. Every batsman who made a "duck" forfeited sixpence the moment his ball flew off, or the instant he was stumped or run out, or the very identical instant he was caught by the spade-banded hands of an all-rounder.

On the other hand, the wight who made twenty runs or more was fined a shilling for hiding his light under a bushel so long, and not being in the county team. Yet to prevent anyone from "hitting wicket" when he had made nineteen, and thus escaping the impost, every all-rounder was put upon his honour to do his level best, and, if possible, to make a century. The money was paid—ten sixpences and one shilling—was added to the gate money, which went to the Prize Show Fund.

One Arm vs. One Leg. Another curious match was that played lately between the one-armed and one-legged pensioners of Grenwich College. It caused a great deal of fun, and ended in a victory for the "one-armeders."

About the same time six unmarried ladies played six married ones, and there was much spirited wangling on the result, as much as six to one in pennies being risked in favour of the still eligible fair ones by the "lads of the village," who would find favour in their eyes and qualify them for the other team.

As a matter of fact, the single ladies won, although for the other side twenty youngsters were yelling, "Go it, mummies!" "Well run, mummies!" which ought to have bucked the married women up.

But freak cricket is by no means a new invention, for the "Kentish Gazette" for 1794 announced a singular match to be played between Gentlemen of the Hill and Gentlemen of the Dale for a guinea a man. The newspaper does not say whether the match was ever played, but if it was the players can claim that they invented polo with extra difficulties.

Some Well-Known Expressions.

AND WHERE THEY CAME FROM AND WHY.

"By hook or by crook" is said to have originated during the Great Fire of London in 1666. After the destruction of some 13,200 houses, there were many claims for land, and the verification of such claims was no easy matter. To surmount the great difficulty, two arbitrators were appointed—a Mr. Hook and a Mr. Crook—both surveyors of the City of London. Thus the expression "By hook or by crook" arose, though later it applied to "the performing of any difficult thing no matter what happened."

"Villain"—This expression formerly referred to farmhouses, for in the olden days "vill" meant "farm." "Feather in his cap" originated many hundreds of years back, when a hero in battle, instead of being awarded the V.C. or other such medal for bravery, had a feather put in his head-dress. Thus the Red Indians and blacks wear many feathers around their heads—each feather representing one of the enemy killed—signifying compliments.

"Corporations have no souls" originated with Sir Edward Coke, the great sixteenth century lawyer. In one of his treatises he said: "Corporations cannot commit trespass, nor be outlawed, nor excommunicated, for they have no souls." "Cleanliness is next to Godliness" is said to have originated amongst the Cossacks, who believe that "they will enter heaven if they are personally clean when they get killed in battle."

Lord Sumner To Try the Kaiser.

Lord Sumner of Istone, one of England's most eminent jurists and perhaps the greatest authority on commercial law, has, it is announced, been chosen as "president of the allied court that will try the ex-Kaiser." Awarded a life-peersage in 1912 after a career of exceptional brilliance at the bar and on the bench, Lord Sumner is perhaps best known as "Hamilton, K.C.," or MA Justice Hamilton. This great lawyer's part in the recent peace conference was notable, and his work has been described as invaluable. Many of the most important documents and declarations of the allies were prepared by his hand. These included the reparations clause of the treaty, and his wording leaves the wily Germans no loopholes.

Soapsuds for Whipped Cream in Berlin.

The German public received a shock on learning they had been eating soapsuds when they thought they were eating whipped cream. This knowledge resulted from an order issued by the Food Ministry forbidding "Ersatz" whipped cream to be made from soap, jam and sugar without the Ministry's special permission. Permission to "Ersatz" whipped cream will not be given while the only materials for its manufacture are such unsuitable substances as soap shavings and such scarce raw materials as sugar and gelatin.

Births and Deaths Illegal in Paris.

It is illegal to be born in the Paris suburbs, and it is equally illegal to be married or die there. This strange situation is a feature of the strike of municipal employees in the suburbs, including clerks, inspectors, firemen, cemetery hands and garbage collectors. Since there are no clerks to record births, marriages or deaths they cannot be recorded, and hence are illegal. Seventy-eight communes of the Department of Seine have been deprived of administrative labor. Secretary Verrier, of the workers' syndicate, declares that the demands for a minimum wage of 14 francs 50 centimes ($2.80) a day have been ignored by the Perfect of the Seine since January last. To the original demands have been added claims for a pension system, half-pay on retirement, and accident insurance. Thus one strike follows another in Paris. The taxi drivers are next on the list.

Side by Ruth HOW MANY

What a sure thing, when you stop to think of it, a really pretty girl is! There are plenty of girls, to be sure, of whom we say, "Yes, she would not take pretty if only she hadn't those poor teeth!" or "if her nose weren't so high!" or "if she had a better skin."—In short if mother nature had done a very creditable job, had been a little more careful at the last minute, had fallen down on some one feature.

"Mere Prettiness."

Then there is the girl of whom we have had rather a surfeit in our magazine fiction, lately, who is "so exactly pretty" but is possessed of a charm far greater than mere prettiness. I always wonder if some of these heroines, brought to life, would give the choice, would not take the "mere prettiness" that their creators viciously despise for their "Charms," "fascination," "attractiveness," are three of the words involved in honor of this type of heroine, and while we realize the potency of all these characteristics, we sometimes get a little tired of hearing about them.

The Girl With Nothing But Curly Hair and a Color.

The exact opposite of this type of girl, is the girl whose skin and crinkly hair gives her a reputation for prettiness which when one tries to analyze it, proves to have no basis in really good features or beauty of expression. It is my belief that five out of every ten girls who are casually spoken of as pretty, get that name because of their clear, rosy skins and curly hair, and other advantages so easily cast aside in favor of prettiness over a girl who is really commonplace. I am sure you can easily name half a dozen of this type in your acquaintance.

The Girl Who is Pretty at Times.

One must not forget, in such a catalogue, the girl who is not constantly pretty but who is ex-

HOW MANY DO YOU KNOW.

What a rare thing, when you stop to think of it, a really pretty girl is! There are plenty of girls, to be sure, of whom we say, "Yes, she would be really pretty, if only she hadn't those poor teeth" or "if her nose weren't so ugly" or "if she had a better skin,"—in short if mother nature, after doing a very creditable job, hadn't gotten careless at the last minute and fallen down on some one feature.

"Mere Prettiness." Then there is the girl of whom we have had rather a surfeit in our magazine fiction, lately, who is "not exactly pretty but is possessed of a charm far greater than mere prettiness." I always wonder if some of these heroines, brought to life and given the choice, would not take the "mere prettiness" that their creator vicariously despises for them. "Charm," "fascination," "attractiveness," are three of the words invoked in honor of this type of heroine, and while we realize the potency of all these characteristics, we sometimes get a little tired of hearing about them.

The Girl With Nothing But Curls and a Color.

The exact opposite of this last type of girl, is the girl whose fresh skin and crinkly hair gives her a reputation for prettiness which, when one tries to analyze it, proves to have no basis in really good features or beauty of expression. It is my belief that five out of every ten girls who are casually spoken of as pretty, get that name because of clear, rosy skins and curly hair. No other advantages so easily cast a semblance of prettiness over a girl who is really commonplace. I am sure you can easily name half a dozen of this type in your acquaintance.

The Girl Who is Pretty at Times.

One must not forget, in such a catalogue, the girl who is not consistently pretty but who is exalted

CHEER UP AGAIN.

We say the prices now are high, so high we're often stricken dumb; we shudder when we go to buy; cheer up, the worst is yet to come. The shoe-men say there are no hides, and daily leather grows more rare; and so the price of footwear slides ten parasangs up in the air. The clothiers say there is no wool, the sheep are dead and on the ice; it takes some influence and pull to get a suit at any price. The bakers say there is no flour, and so the children have no bread, and we are weeping every hour because our hopes are lying dead. The barbers say there are no barbs, and we must let our whiskers grow until they spread like noxious yarbs, and wave and wiggle to and fro. The grocer says he cannot groce for less than ninety-five per cent; he sees the sheriff drawing close when profits sink in his lament. And so things go, from day to day, the whole blamed world is out of plumb; but let us all be blithe and gay; cheer up, the worst is yet to come. The worst reaction will appear; and we will carry to the dump the pirate and the profiteer.

Sandy Scores.

Stories told against Scotsmen are legion. Here are a few in which Sandy scores—sent in for the Guinea Prize we recently offered for the best story told by Scottish readers about Englishmen.

The prize was won by Mr. William Neil, 113, De Vere Gardens, Ilford, who sends the following:—

An English tourist, conversing with a Scotch station-master in the Highlands, referred to the popular definition of a Scotsman—a man who keeps the Sabbath and everything else he can lay his hands on.

"Aye, mon," replied the Scotman, "dae ye ken why the Englishman belongs to the land on which the sun never sets? Because the Lord cannot trust him in the dark."

The following stories are selected from many others received, and will be paid for at our usual rates:—

An officer got into a tramcar in Glasgow one day, and after the conductress had taken his fare, he turned to her and said:—

What is Phoraton?

Phoraton is a preparation manufactured by Dr. F. Stafford & Son for all kinds of Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and various Lung Troubles. It is the result of 25 years' experience and thousands of bottles are being sold every year. At the present time quite a large number of people are suffering from Sore Throats, Coughs and Colds, etc., and if you will only try a bottle of this Phoraton you will be surprised with results. You can purchase same at Stafford's Drug Store, Theatre Hill, for 30c. a bottle. Postage 10c. extra.

"I suppose you will be going back to service when all the boys come back again?" "Yes," she replied, "and no doubt I'll have the tuppence ready when you call for the dust."

The guide had conducted the Englishman safely to the summit of Ben Nevis. Unfortunately, the view was hidden by a thick mist, and the tourist, in his disappointment, considered that it was all Sandy's fault. His remarks were scathing.

"I suppose you will tell me you can see Edinburgh from this anti-hill?" he asked.

"Aye! And farther than that. On a clear night ye can see the moon fine!"

Two Scottish grain merchants met at market. One of them had advertised for a reliable warehouse man, and among the applicants was an Englishman who had been in the employment of Scotsman No. 2. When asked by Scot. No. 1 if the Englishman, amongst his other qualifications, was strictly honest, the cautious answer was:—

"Oh, aye, for anything above a hundredweight."—Ex.

THE LONE TREE.

All summer long it stood out there—
A straggling tree, ill-shaped and poor.
The field that mothered it seemed bare
As any wind-swept Scottish moor.
I saw it first one sunny day
As I was passing in a train
And something in me seemed to say:
"There stands a tree which grows
in vain."

Behind it were the distant hills
On which were ranged majestic trees.
"Surely," thought I, "this weakling fills
No place in nature's harmonies.
Is an outcast from his clan,
Deserted by its fellow-kind,
Of little use to God or man."
And then I dropped it out of mind.

There came a day in autumn, when
The woods with gold seemed all ablaze.
I passed along that way again
And turned upon the scene to gaze.
There stood the outcast, garbed in red,
Blending its scarlet with the green
And brown and purple, richly spread—
No longer poor and gaunt and mean!

It seemed as if some Master Hand
Had rightly placed that lonely tree
Upon that stretch of barren land
Exactly where it ought to be.
The landscape with its splendors,
rare,
An incomplected work had been
Without that straggling standing tree
To splash its scarlet on the scene.

Who knows, when life's great tasks
are done,
But what the outcasts, mean and base,
Shall, in the scenes we look upon,
Find that they also fill a place?
Perhaps as lonely trees they stand,
Seemingly lost to God and man,
Yet spending their days on barren land
To serve the beauty of His Plan.

MUTT AND JEFF—The national game is as clear as mud to Sir Sidney. By Bud Fisher.

SIR SIDNEY, I KNEW YOU'D GET TO UNDERSTAND BASE BALL ALL RIGHT. IT'S REALLY SIMPLER THAN CRICKET.

BUT, OLD DEAR, TELL ME WHY THE AMERICAN LEAGUE ALMOST ALWAYS WINS THE WORLD'S SERIES?

THE EXPERTS CLAIM THAT THE AMERICAN LEAGUE PLAYS A SWAPPER BRAND OF BALL. LOOK AT THE CRACK PITCHERS IN THAT LEAGUE! OH, BOY!

I FANCY THESE ARE NONE BETTER THAN CICCOTTE AND JOHNSON!

YOU SAID AN EARFUL. IT'S TOO BAD JOHNSON IS ON A PUNK TEAM LIKE THE SENATORS. GEE, YOU'VE GOT OUTO THE GAME QUICK.

I WONDER WHO KID GLEASON WILL PITCH IN THE SERIES?

I RECKON HE'LL HAVE TO DEPEND MOSTLY ON CICCOTTE AND WILLIAMS!

BUT I SAY, OLD DEAR—

IF JOHNSON'S SUCH A RIPPING GOOD TWIRLER, WHY WONT THE KID START HIM IN A COUPLE OF GAMES?

Saturday, October 25, 1919.

Another Week.

Nomination Day is past and we see seventeen candidates lined up for the six seats in St. John's. The last lap of the race is to be run in the next eight days, for there is no doubt but that Squires and his team will make a last desperate "spurt" on the Sunday preceding the election. All the various catch cries which were the supposed unfaillable means by which the Liberal Reform Party were to be elected, have been exploded, and the explosion has hurt those responsible for the usage of such despicable means as has characterized the Opposition campaign. The Post and Star again seek refuge in wholesale republication of letters, but "nary" a sign of that letter which Coaker alleged Squires asked H. D. Reid to sign swearing that he had not given $5,000 to Squires, while he (Squires) was supposed to be working for the interest of the Colony and not to please Reid. Why does Coaker, who tried to have Squires dismissed from the Government then ask the fishermen to elect Squires as Premier now? There's a reason, but both Squires and Coaker say naught of it to the public. The Opposition, like the physicians of old, talk of moral rectitude, and yet by their actions belie their words. Will the leaders of the Opposition tell how much money was spent by their agents in trying to get up a demonstration for last night, and will they admit the failure of their attempt to gain the people's support and enthusiasm? "Wait and see," they boldly declare, and yet isn't it correct that some of the Opposition have laid bets on the Government's winning (secretly of course). In view of Mr. Squires and his imported workmen, it seems pertinent to ask also if he paid for the letter that appeared in yesterday's paper from a continental journalist? Did he?

The Advocate is indignant because the News says scurrilous pamphlets have been sent out to the outports, full of sectarianism, and sent for the purpose of fomenting sectarian strife and aiding the Opposition candidates. Of course the Advocate is such an example of the Star's idea of rectitude that no one believes its protestations. The Advocate says the Government press started the sectarian cry, and yet what about the big articles in the Advocate last week on this very subject. (We say nothing of the Squires organs, as they were beneath contempt in dealing with the same matter). What will the Advocate say when the proof is produced of the Opposition's guilt in this matter, and that proof will be produced in short. We assert boldly that the Opposition today is doing its utmost to win the election, and are not scrupling about the means used to bring about that, to them, desired result. Will the voters be fooled by this frenzied attempt of the Opposition to gain the Government? During the next seven days, insidious doctrine will be disseminated through out the city and outports by the Opposition agents for the Squires-Coaker combination is desperately in earnest to get the chest, and the stakes played for are temptingly great. Voters, be on your guard. Listen not to every sectarian cry and prophesied evil raked up by the Opposition. Use your common sense. Give the slanderers and mischief makers the cold shoulder, and rest assured that you defeat Newfoundland's and yours, greatest enemies when you elect the Liberal Progressive candidates, with Cashin as their head, back to power.

First and Last.

Realizing the futility of all that it has done in order to befoeg the intelligence of the thinking men of this city and dominion, the Star has had recourse to its old-time custom of re-writing, in its own peculiar and exaggerated language, lengthy accounts of the men now fighting to save Newfoundland from becoming the victim of such reckless financial schemers as Coaker, and such political tricksters as Squires. Every cry used by the Opposition thus far has lacked the weight and force necessary to gain public opinion. The Board of Trade is ridiculed because it expressed disapproval of the Opposition press, and of course in this the Star fulfils the advice of Mr. Coaker who is death on all the merchants except when he wants them to save the F.P.U. from financial collapse as witnessed when Crosbie, Cashin and others saved the fishermen's money by backing with their own means the fishermen's, not Coaker's business. The first step in the Opposition fight was that of, abuse, then it grew more erratic in its writings and utilized confederation, taxation, and even sectarianism, and now, all else exhausted, abuse again is reverted to. How weak is the manifesto of the Opposition leader when even his writers can find nothing in it to hold up to the public as a reason why the Squiresites should be voted for. Perhaps, however, they note how that Squires made his manifesto so lengthy that it was impossible to make it longer without making the same too absurd and too ridiculous. Will the use of pernicious statements and abusive personalities win the day? The Opposition are afraid, and well they might of the result. They see the handwriting plain now than they thought possible a few weeks ago, and gradually the language is growing plainer. Squires can't be trusted. Coaker is not wanted. Cashin Will Come Back.

Sectarianism.

The "Advocate" made a hypocritical protest last night against the imputation that sectarian feelings were being appealed to in the District of Bay de Verde in this election by the Opposition, and declared flatfootedly that no such methods are being resorted to by the Liberal Reform Party. If this is not the case, we should like the "Advocate" to explain just who is responsible for the circulation of the letter respecting the late Archbishop, and also the Greenspond letter. Perhaps the "Advocate" forgets the recent unprintable headline which appeared in the "Morning Post" and which was designed for no other purpose than to stir up sectarian feelings among the people. Will the "Advocate" say that none of the papers containing this headline or similar rotten and dishonourable matter were circulated in the district of Bay de Verde. The person who wrote the "Advocate's" denial either pretends he is ignorant of the methods being resorted to in the present campaign, or he is deliberately deceiving his readers. It is common knowledge that the Greenspond letter, the letter respecting Archbishop Howley, and other matter of a similar nature, are being widely distributed and circulated throughout, not alone Bay de Verde, but all the Catholic Districts of the Island, and if this work is not being done by the Opposition Party or their paid hirelings, perhaps the "Advocate" will explain just who is responsible for it.

A Few Questions.

Will Mr. Coaker explain how he means to give Reid $1,000,000 or more, as he stated in the House of Assembly, for repairing the railroads, and yet allow Squires, his ally, to deal effectively with Reid for their past neglect? Does he mean to do it by getting private cars, etc., for his personal use and a few more thousands for Hon. R. A. S?

Has Mr. Squires told the workmen of St. John's that they are capable of repairing the next house he moves into, and if not, does he mean to tell them so, and when?

Has Coaker explained how he can raise the price of fish and why he hasn't done so this year? Also, how he can make the Government guarantee the price of fish and yet reduce the taxation?

Has Coaker apologized to the laborers of St. John's for calling them loafers?

When is Squires going to explain what W. D. Reid is getting out of Newfoundland should Squires and party be elected?

Has Squires always been the friend of the Union (F.P.) as Coaker said Morine was? and is the title "Black Rascal" still worn by the Hon. R.A.S?

Did Coaker settle satisfactorily with Squires over the business that brought him to the city during the week, and likewise how much he got out of the "barrel"?

CAPE BROYLE, Oct. 25.
It was laughable at Ferryland yesterday when Hojery and English arrived for nomination. The crowd that assembled to witness the nomination of Sir M. P. Cashin and Moore left after bidding them God speed and with the usual cheering. It was reported that three men were paid to come from Cape Broyle to do the business for Hartery & Co., with the help of a disgruntled one from the Poole of Ferryland. The horse was sent for John but it was reported that he was hiding and wouldn't turn up. Hartery and English are now waiting for Polling Day to go home with the balance.

THE HAND THAT DECIDES

ALL THE VICTORY

Free and independent voters of John's in the East, as well as in the West, let your aim be now, from day to the close of the polls, to elect up for the six True Liberal candidates the biggest majorities ever given in the history of the city. Every man who values his freedom and independence, and the security of his home, make up his mind to shirk his duty to his country and his own very self, as the neglect of his obvious duty will only injure his own interests. Take a hand in the struggle every freeman of St. John's and use your influence and cast your votes against despotic Coakers and Tory Squiresism. Let no man forfeit his vote by remaining away from the polls and leaving the matter to others in the hope that a sufficient majority will be given by those candidates against the Coaker-Squires candidates. This is not the viewpoint to take when your country and your own salvation are at stake. Look

MOORE NOMINATED AT CARBONNEAR.

Addresses the Electors at Public Meeting, in St. Patrick's Hall.

(Special to Evening Telegram.)
CARBONEAR, Oct. 24.
Mr. James Moore was duly nominated as the Liberal Progressive candidate at the Court House to-day, being supported by Messrs. Robert Duff, J. Mackey and M. J. Hawker. A large enthusiastic gathering greeted the candidate as he appeared on the platform to deliver his maiden political address. He dealt graphically and convincingly with the principles outlined in Sir Michael Cashin's manifesto, leaving his hearers fully convinced that he was the right leader to be entrusted with the future conduct of the affairs of the country. He also successfully exploded the ideas put forward by his opponents in relation to the conduct of local affairs, making it quite evident that he was the best man that could be entrusted with the future control of local affairs in the district. The applause which greeted him at the close of his address left no doubt in the minds of those present that when the votes are recorded on polling day, Moore will "go over the top" with an overwhelming majority for Carbonnear District. A bumper house greeted Moore again in St. Patrick's Hall to-night, when he held his first public meeting in the interests of the Cashin party. Mr. Robert Duff, the chairman, introduced the candidate in a few well-

THE MAN WHO STANDS FOR THE COUNTRY AND ITS BEST INTERESTS

THE MAN WHO STANDS FOR THE BARRELI AND WHAT IS IN IT

ALL TOGETHER, FREEMEN OF ST. JOHN'S!

Roll up Big Majorities for the Six True Liberal Candidates.

Free and independent voters of St. John's in the East, as well as in the West, let your aim be now, from to-day, to the close of the polls, to roll up for the six True Liberal candidates the biggest majorities ever given in the history of the city. Let every man who values his freedom and independence, and the security of his home, make up his mind not to shirk his duty to his country and his own very self, as the neglect of his obvious duty will only injure his own interests. Take a hand in this struggle every freeman of St. John's, and use your influence and cast your votes against despotic Coakerism and Tory Squiresism. Let no man forfeit his vote by remaining away from the polls, and leaving the task to others in the hope that a sufficient majority will be given by those others against the Coaker-Squires candidates. This is not the viewpoint to take when your country and your own salvation are at stake. Look at it from the standpoint that in order to give a crushing blow once and for all to the menace of Coakerism, the force of every man's vote must be brought to bear in the attack. The aim of St. John's now is to bring about the victory of the six real Liberal candidates; that is the ideal you have set before you, but in determining to achieve it let every true Liberal gather up the forces to the very highest limit. Let the majorities now be greater than we have ever witnessed before, on behalf of any of those who have appealed to you in the past, and great indeed have been many of the records you have made in favor of those who won your support.

As the popular cause to-day in St. John's East is represented by the three great favorite candidates—Higgins, Vinnicombe and Fox—so let that cause be sustained to the utmost by voting straight for all three, no more or no less. No true Liberal worthy of the name, should cast a vote otherwise, for a split vote weakens the strength of the victory you aim to obtain, and helps to only bolster up the menace of Coakerism and the hypocrisy of Squiresism. On behalf of these twin dangers, Coaker and Squires have put into the field four candidates for the purpose of weakening the true Liberal cause; to seduce the votes of the unwary, not for the self-interest of any one of those four candidates, but simply and solely for the interest of Tory Squires and his colleague Coaker. Let your straight ticket vote then go well up into the thousands, swelling steadily every moment in one unbroken continuity for Higgins, Vinnicombe and Fox, and when you do that with the vigor of your hearts, you will sink your opponents well down to the bottom of the poll. You will be all the prouder then that your victory is a big one, not measured by a majority of hundreds, but by a majority of thousands such as were never seen before.

In St. John's West, the chosen trio of the popular cause are Bennett, Mullaly and Martin who are on the field of battle to defeat the Tory-Coaker cause. Notwithstanding all the ingenuity and intrigue of the enemy and all the noise and bluster they created, the free and noble voters of St. John's West are firmly resolved to place Bennett, Mullaly and Martin at the top of the poll. Here also no supporters of the popular cause should weaken the strength of his blow by splitting his vote in favor of any other man, more especially for any of the three candidates represented by Coakerism the deadly enemy of the city's interests. True there are three labor candidates in the field here, and the pity of it is that these gentlemen, at such a moment, should step in, not we know with any deliberate intent to serve Coakerism, or to injure the cause of labor, yet unfortunately for themselves they simply play into the hands of those who are their bitterest enemies. We are proud to learn, however, that many laboring men, realizing the fact that Coakerism must first be got rid of, are identifying themselves day after day with the Liberal Progressive cause and that whilst regretting to tender that support to the three labor men, which under other circumstances they would gladly give, their slogan now is to put Coakerism down first, so that a fair and open field may then be left for labor. The hundreds of workmen who have volunteered their services thus to the cause of the Liberal Progressives will be the means of adding considerably to the big majorities already assured for Bennett, Mullaly and Martin, and we feel certain that the three labor candidates themselves, as well as their friends, will not begrudge a great victory to the three Liberal Progressives considering that the purposes and desires and sentiments of the latter, and the influence they will be able to wield in the Government, will be more to the benefit of St. John's workmen than the purposes and designs of Squires and Coaker, the man who vilified you and threatens to disturb your industrial conditions. Though the three true Liberal candidates are assured, and doubly assured, of a victory as great as ever won by Sir Edward Morris in his most popular days, yet no supporter should neglect his duty now to swell up that big majority even higher than it ever went before. Let the same advice we tender above to the voters of St. John's East be accepted also by the noble, sturdy voters of St. John's West; let it be the straight ticket, and no other, for Bennett, Mullaly and Martin; in a word let your slogan be six Liberal Progressives for the District of St. John's, with the biggest majorities ever recorded.

VICTORY MESSAGES.

MOORE NOMINATED AT CARBONAR.
 CARBONAR, Oct. 24.
 Mr. James Moore was duly nominated as the Liberal Progressive candidate at the Court House to-day, being supported by Messrs. Robert Duff, J. Mackey and M. J. Hawker. A large enthusiastic gathering greeted the candidate as he appeared on the platform to deliver his maiden political address. He dealt graphically and convincingly with the principles outlined in Sir Michael Cashin's manifesto, leaving his hearers fully convinced that he was the right leader to be entrusted with the future conduct of the affairs of the country. He also successfully exploded the ideas put forward by his opponents in relation to the conduct of local affairs, making it quite evident that he was the best man that could be entrusted with the future control of local affairs in the district. The applause which greeted him at the close of his address left no doubt in the minds of those present that when the votes are recorded on polling day, Moore will "go over the top" with an overwhelming majority for Carbonar District. A bumper house greeted Moore again in St. Patrick's Hall to-night, when he held his first public meeting in the interests of the Cashin Party. Mr. Robert Duff, the chairman, introduced the candidate in a few well-chosen remarks, and Mr. Moore then started a terse, piquant criticism of his opponents' arguments as advanced at the Court House earlier in the day. He then proceeded to indicate the programme he intended to carry out in the interests of the district when elected as our representative next polling day, and quite convinced his audience that local affairs would be conducted in a safe, sane and sound manner for the welfare of all classes in the community. Rousing speeches then followed by Messrs. John Rorke, M. J. Hawker, and John Mackey, making it quite conclusive that the arguments of the Squires-Coaker candidate carried no weight with the electors of this district, and that the cause of Sir Michael Cashin and his candidate in this town will be sustained with a sweeping majority. The meeting closed with the National Anthem, followed by enthusiastic cheers for Sir Michael Cashin and his local candidate, Jim Moore.

 Hickman and Whitway had a very successful meeting here last night. A 1904 impression was made on the audience. Hickman and Whitway will poll large vote in Broad Cove. It is reported by members of men who passed down the shore, bound for Western Bay for nomination, that Squires was at Freshwater last night, and got a very chilly reception. His speech there has turned the whole population solid for Hickman and Whitway.

 (Special to Evening Telegram.)
 BRIGUS, Oct. 24.
 Crosbie was nominated at 11 o'clock. Proposed by F. C. Jerrett, Brigus, seconded by Abram French, Barened, witness Abram Boone, South River. Crosbie made one of his usual fearless speeches, backing up the policy of Sir M. P. Cashin and the Liberal Progressive Party. His election is assured. No doubt of result whatever. BUNTING FLYING AND SALUTES
 For the Government candidates at Open Hall, Tickle Cove and Surrounding Places.
 (Special to Evening Telegram.)
 OPEN HALL, To-day.
 The Government candidates spoke at Tickle Cove on Friday night. There was a fine show of bunting and salutes at Tickle Cove, and all the people in the place attended. The meeting. The largest audience ever seen in Open Hall gathered at night, many people coming from Tickle Cove and Red Cliffe Island. Both meetings were marked by good order and great enthusiasm, not a dissenting note was heard. The speeches seemed to give great satisfaction and pretty nearly unanimous vote from this section may be looked for.

THE DAILY DOPE BY THE CUB-EDITOR

WHAT SHE THOUGHT.

The bashful sultan coughed, his face grew red. Then, as he pressed the maiden's hand he said: "You'd think it most important, I'm afraid. If on your hand a kiss I gently laid. Although a host of fears his soul obsessed, His hand the lovely damsel softly pressed, And murmured shyly as she raised her face: "I think it would be very out of place."

AN ENCOURAGING SIGN.

"The cost of living must be coming down," declared a Boston man, quoted by the Transcript of that city. "Why do you think so?" "I've got a nickel left from my last week's pay."

THE COLUMN WRITER.

The column writer's life is sad— Sometimes his path is rough. But when, like this, space he can "pad," It's not so awful tough.

VARIETY NECESSARY.—Englishman: "I always try to wear clothes suited to the weather." "Foreign visitor: "What are you, then—a lightning change artist?"

NATURAL HISTORY NOTE.—Although of song-birds the nightingale is unquestionably the sweetest, it is the common or garden hen that pleases most people with its lay.

TO THOSE CONTEMPLATING MATRIMONY.—A man should not be too sure that his future wife is of an economical turn of mind because she makes one chair do for two.

HIS WISH.

A certain young and pretty teacher in the fourth grade asked each boy in her class one day, what would he like to be when he grew up. Each had his own idea. One wanted to be a movie actor, another a sailor, and still another a cowboy. Presently it came the turn of the quietest boy in the class, but instead of answering he stammered, hesitated and blushed. "Come, Johnny, tell me your wish," coaxed the teacher. "Please, er, that is my wish is to be your husband," spluttered Johnny.

DUTCH SMOKE THE MOST.—Australians are the greatest tea-drinkers;

we are the biggest meat-eaters; the Dutch are the greatest smokers; and Americans are the greatest pickle-eaters!

When a young woman of the Philippines marries, her husband's name is added to her maiden name. If she becomes a widow the husband's name is discarded.

Wine tasters, employed in their professional duties, seldom swallow the wine they taste. They merely hold a sip of the beverage in their mouth for a few moments and breathe through their nostrils.

THEIR RELATIVE VIEWS.

The Optimist exclaims about the "wonderful age we live in," and wishes he might fall asleep for a week, just for the joy of waking up and finding how much better the world has grown. The Pessimist, observes the New York Evening Post, feels the same way about it—only he sees no reason to wake up.

DEGREES OF COMPARISON.—Wait. Waiter. Get it yourself.

PHYSIOLOGICAL QUERY.—Is the nose placed in the middle of the face because it is the scenterpiece?

TROUBLES OF A GENIUS.

"Why do you waste your days and nights on these pictures?" asked the wife of a struggling painter, quoted in The San Francisco Chronicle. "You don't get enough for them to pay for the paint you use." "I know, my dear," he answered, "but think! Rembrandt and others painted pictures and sold them for trifles, and now they are the masterpieces of this world and sell for a million dollars. I am not painting for us, I am painting for our descendants." "Humph!" was the wife's discouraging reply. "You don't make enough for us to raise any descendants."

HER TESTIMONY.

Mrs. Harit—Yes, I have no doubt there are unhappy marriages, but really I cannot understand how they are possible. Now, there's George and I, we are so devoted. He says he could not exist without me, and I'm sure I live only for him. Mrs. Green—You really are to be congratulated, both of you. By the way, how long have you been married? Just a week the day after to-morrow.

TO GET THE SERIES.

He was running a small grocery store in a newly developed district, and the big wholesale dealers found him very backward in payment of his accounts.

They sent him letter after letter, each more politely threatening than the last. Finally they sent their representative down to give him a last chance.

"Now," said the caller, "we must have a settlement. Why haven't you sent us anything? Is business going badly?"

"No; everything's going splendidly. You needn't worry. My bankers will guarantee me all right."

"Then why haven't you paid up?"

"Well, you see, those threatening letters of yours were so well done that I've been copying them and sending them round to a few customers of my own who won't pay up, and I've collected nearly all outstanding debts. I was holding back only because I felt sure there must be a final letter, and I wanted to get the series complete."

Obituary.

MRS. BRIDGET JACKMAN, WIDOW LATE CAPT. W. JACKMAN.
(H. F. SHORTIS.)

The people of the whole country will learn with deep regret the passing of a well-known venerable lady Mrs. Bridget Jackman, widow of the famous sea-killer and master-marine, Capt. Wm. Jackman, who predeceased her forty-two years ago (Feb. 25th, 1877).

Mrs. Jackman was born in St. John's 81 years ago, and was the daughter of Mr. Samuel Burbridge, an English gentleman, who for many years was the faithful and trusted storekeeper in the employ of the late J. and W. Boyd of St. John's, whose premises are now occupied by the enterprising and popular firm of Alan Goodridge & Sons.

For some time past the deceased lady had been in a delicate state of health, and for some months she had been confined entirely to her room. During her tedious illness she was a constant example to those around her of resignation and patient faith in the designs of Divine Providence, in that she ever displayed a beautiful submission to, and a cheerful compliance with the trials so inevitably characteristic of a prolonged and somewhat painful illness.

She was a woman of sterling character, devoted to her home, her children and her church, of which she was a most consistent and exemplary member, being a leading member of various Societies for many years. Like her famous and heroic husband, she was a friend and neighbour to be valued for real worth, and her charity towards the poor, and needy, was most extensive and unostentatious. Although having reached beyond the allotted span of years upon earth, she has left a vacant place that none other can fill. She has passed to the reward of a devoted life, fortified by all the rites of the Catholic Church. Being kind-hearted and courteous, she won the respect of all who came in contact with her. And thus has passed away another landmark of the glorious past of our country. To a cheerful and deeply religious disposition, she added the practice of thrift and instilled these qualities into the minds of her children. As I said before, she was known for her charity, though she wished it to remain unknown.

Mrs. Jackman was the mother of six children, viz.—Late Rev. Wm. Jackman, for several years of the Cathedral, St. John's; James, of Bowering Brothers, Ltd., and two others who died very young, leaving Mrs. James J. Maher, of Garrison Hill, with whom she resided for several years; Thos. J., Chief Clerk in the Statistical Office, E. M. Customs; seventeen grand-children, and hosts of friends, to mourn their sad loss, in which the Evening Telegram respectfully and sincerely extends to them its heartfelt sympathy. Reunited in peace.

The Thin Red Line.

On October 25, 1914, thirty thousand Russians approached the Allied positions near Sebastopol, attacking some redoubts held by Turks, who at once hastened to seek safety in flight. A large force of Russian cavalry, moving in the direction of Balacava, came in view of the 88th Highlanders, in a two-deep line. Their Brigadier—Sir Colin Campbell—knowing the quality of his men, did not think it "worth while" to form square, and the Highlanders justified his confidence. They waited until the charging mass came within 150 yards, and then poured in a fire which emptied many saddles, and caused the Russians to retreat in haste. Our Heavy Cavalry Brigade, under General Scarlett, stood some distance away, watching their opportunity. A strong body of Russian cavalry advanced, but as they came near, they paused and reined in to observe. Our trumpets rang out, and the gallant Heavy Brigade rode at and through their enemies, trampled them down, chasing them away in hopeless rout—five minutes sufficed for our magnificent cavalry to defeat the more numerous force of Russians. After these reverses, the Russians drew back, and took up a position about a mile and a half from the Allies, covered from attack by thirty guns. Up to now our Light Cavalry Brigade, under Lord Curzon, had not been engaged. Lord Lucan—the commander of the Cavalry Division—now received, by the hand of Captain Nolan, a written order to advance nearer to the enemy. On reading it, Lord Lucan asked its bearer how far they were to advance, and received a reply which he construed, with fatal inaccuracy, to signify that it was his duty to charge the enemy. So the Light Cavalry Brigade made itself ready to attack the Russians. Every man knew that some terrible mistake was sending the Brigade to destruction but no man shrunk from his duty of obedience. They rode straight down the valley towards the wondering Russians, and in full view of the chiefs of their own army, who were powerless to restrain them. As the excitement of battle gained power over men and horses, their pace increased. The shot of the Russian guns tore through their ranks, but it did not abate the speed of their advance, the fierceness of their attack. They charged through the Russian guns, cutting down the gunners as they passed, then rode on and scattered several squadrons of cavalry. They now paused, turned back, and galloped towards the shelter of the British lines, while the Russian guns re-opened upon them with grape and canister. Their return was beset by one overwhelming force of Russian cavalry, but they cut their way through, and reached the position they had left scarcely half-an-hour before. 670 men went forth on that memorable ride and only 198 returned; but these brave lives were not spent in vain. No guns were brought off, no prisoners were taken, and there were none of the gains of victorious battle. But deeds of rare heroism, which lay upon the enemy the consciousness of inferiority, may do more to terminate a war than the capture of enemy cities.

Crown Prince—Comedian.

At last a rival to the one and only screen comedian, Charlie Chaplin, has been found, and it is no less a personage than the former Crown Prince of Germany.

It all happened like this. A few weeks ago, while the "uncrowned" Crown Prince was idling the merry hours away in Holland, the idea entered his head to advertise his behaviour, and show the world how democratic he really was.

What better medium could he want than the motion picture-screen to show how he looked dressed as a humble civilian, eating farmer's food, and even breathing the ordinary air!

Immediately £3,000 were produced and offered to a film company in Holland to allow the Crown Prince to play a little part in front of the camera. Special scenes were fitted up, showing Willie living his daily life in a peasant's cottage.

In order further to impress the world of his humility, papa's pet picks a muddy road to walk on, and stops on his way to chat with mere human beings, while the camera clicks merrily. With a sweet and saintly expression, young Willie actually refuses to ride in a motor-car, indicating that he prefers to toil laboriously along on his old push-bike.

Those who saw it simply had to roar with laughter.

This film will shortly be seen throughout the world; the Crown Prince being advertised as "The World's Greatest Natural Comedian!"

Frozen Out at Logy Bay

Not One Vote for the Opposition.

Another link in the chain of the Liberal Progressives was forged last night when the Fighting Trio held what was pronounced by the oldest inhabitants of the prosperous settlement of Logy Bay as the most enthusiastic meeting ever remembered in that portion of the district. St. John's East. The candidates drove to the settlement in the early afternoon and spent the intervening hours between their arrival and the meeting in renewing acquaintances and discussing local matters. At 8 o'clock the meeting opened in the school house, Mr. Michael Carrigan, one of the oldest and most respected residents, being elected chairman. This grand old veteran conducted the meeting in a manner which was an object of admiration by all those who were present, and was fittingly referred to in the most complimentary manner by the different speakers. In chaste and appropriate language, he introduced the members of the team that has now become famous in the district, referring to the manner in which Mr. Higgins had looked after the interests of his constituents regardless of their political affiliations, and his unflinching attention and courtesy at all times, to the popularity and strength of Mr. Vinicombe, and to the legacy of good work left Mr. Fox by his father and uncle, whose names stood so well in the district.

It would be impossible to describe the scenes of wild enthusiasm with which each of the candidates was greeted on rising to speak. Nothing of a similar character has ever been seen around St. John's. It was with difficulty that the popular trio could secure sufficient cessation in their cheering to deliver their usual vigorous and eloquent addresses. The leader of the ticket, Mr. Higgins, was obliged to ask repeatedly that the immense audience refrain from expressing their enthusiasm in order that they might have delivered to them the reasons why the team, although recognizing the evident lack of necessity for it, should show the voters of Logy Bay that their loyalty and enthusiasm were not altogether undeserved nor misplaced. In turn, the candidates reviewed the record of the

Well Done, St. John's West!

FERRYLAND VOTERS THANK YOU FROM THEIR HEARTS. Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir:—Your paper containing the joyful news that St. John's West will elect Bennett, Mullaly and Martin has gladdened the hearts of the voters of Ferryland District, for it shows that St. John's West appreciates the noble Premier, Cashing, Ferryland's leading representative. This act of St. John's West is a great tribute to the people of this District, a tribute which we appreciate very highly, and for which we thank St. John's West from the bottom of our hearts. We who have known Sir Michael Cashing in all the long years that he has so well and faithfully represented us, can testify to the many characteristics which he possesses, and the very fact that we have always returned him at the head of the poll by immense majorities, is a further proof of how highly he is esteemed in every settlement along our shores. He stands to-day not the less appreciated than ever, but rather more so, since his colleagues in the Government selected him as the chief of their Executive, and the Premier of his native land. So far as Ferryland District is concerned, we will endorse that selection with a majority exceeding even the great majorities that Sir Michael obtained before, and that St. John's West is standing by him also gives to us the confident hope that the great majority of the voters elsewhere will do likewise. Sustained then and endorsed by the people as Prime Minister of the land of his birth, our cherished and respected representative will, I feel confident, so bear the burden and carry the honors of his office in a manner that will do justice to all and redound to the credit of New-

Reply to Rhody Callahan.

Dear Sir:—Mr. Rhody Callahan, the noted life long Tory, and touter now of the Coaker-Squires cause, in St. John's West, is out in yesterday's Advocate with a long scrawl that somebody wrote for him in which he endorses the crazy idea that the Colony should back Coaker's notes. The Colony has no more right to back Coaker's notes than to back the notes of Mr. Rhody Callahan or anybody else. Of course we know the reason that such men as Mr. Callahan would like to see the Colony put such a scheme in force. Anybody then who would be such a rabid supporter of Coaker as Rhody is would insist on getting the same privilege himself. Oh, no, Mr. Callahan, that is too thin, that idea of yours; if you or any other toilers want notes backed get some other guarantee behind it than the Colony's revenue. Suppose for instance, Mr. Callahan, that you got the Colony to guarantee your notes and that your business was unfortunate enough to go in the hole to the extent that you could only pay thirty cents on the dollar, would you think it fair then that the voters of St. John's West, among whom you are touting for Coaker, should be asked to pay their share of the loss? You are wrong there Mr. Callahan, that is not the way to do business, it must be done according to certain recognized standards then if anybody goes up the spout it is only the individual backers who stand to lose and not the industrious workmen and the public generally. Yours truly, NO COMPROMISE. St. John's, 25 October, 1919.

How to Avoid Flu.

WHAT AND WHAT NOT TO DO. "You have to live with Influenza to get it," says the Health Commissioner of New York. "Outdoor life, sleeping with windows open; taking exercise and using common sense with regard to food are the best preventatives. Apparently, the germs of Influenza are conveyed by the hands more easily than other ways. People should make it a rule to wash the hands and face several times a day with soap and water." Special attention should be paid to keeping up the general health. A wise precaution is to take a reliable saline like Abbey's Effervescent Salt, and thus make sure that the system is in the best possible condition to resist the disease.

Hands Off the Dead!

(A censure for the ghouls who tried to make political capital out of Fr. Nangle's report.) Hands off our dead! For all they did, forborne To drag them from their graves to point some speech; Less sickening was the gas reek over there. Less deadly was the great shell's hurtling screech; You cannot guess the uttermost they gave; Those martyrs did not die for chattering daws To loot false inspiration from the grave. While chattering fools turn ghouls to gain applause. —Harvey's Weekly.

McMurdo's Store News.

SATURDAY, Oct. 25th, 1919. Nyal Cherry Cough Syrup is a cough remedy a little out of the ordinary vim. It contains no narcotics but is dependant entirely on expectant and gently soothing drugs for its value in coughs, colds, and bronchitis. It is thus particularly valuable for children and young persons, and no mother need sample to give this pleasant and effective mixture to the little ones. Price 30c a bottle. Japanese Honeysuckle Talcum Powder is not the least favorite among the famous Lazzell line of talc powders. The perfume is very much to the taste of some good judges, and the talcum itself is of A1 quality. Price 30 cents a tin.

At the Casino.

The above theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity last evening to witness the Gladys Klark Players production of Carl Mason's great success entitled "For the man she loved," a murder story in the third degree. The acting was of the usual high character and received well merited applause. The shooting scene in the first act and the complications which led from same to the vindication of Mary Balarad (Gladys Klark) and Billy Worthington (Mr. B. Mallory) must be seen to be appreciated. The comedy was supplied to the satisfaction of all by Miss E. Bryan and Miss A. White. Theatre goers will have one more opportunity to see this piece as it will be repeated to-night. The Angelus for Saturday's matinee and on Monday and Tuesday "The Marriage Question." Seats now on sale.

Only One of a Kind.

Then again Lady Copy duplicates Lady Duplicate's tour and decides on the same course as she did. MILLEY'S

That "Change."

If the country wants a "change" as the Squires Party wish to make out, it is not a change for the worse—and that is just what the election of the Bolsheviks would mean. Any man who will vote for that combination will only have himself to blame for the disaster which will eventually ensue. It would be utter madness on the part of any self-respecting citizen to cast his vote in favor of Coaker control for this country. Everyone recognizes the menace which Coaker's rule will imply should he get in power. Many evidences of it have been given in the past. Still more evidences are manifest at present. The disorderly conduct and ruffianly behaviour of Coaker's followers within the past few days at Elliston, Twillingate and other places, are only a sample of what will happen should men of this type obtain any scope or freedom. The country wouldn't be able to hold them. They would probably, come up and take charge of the city and inaugurate an era of mob rule and lawlessness which would be a disgrace to a western mining camp.

On Whom so Much Depends.

It is a singular thing that the two professions which are worst paid should be those of the National School teachers and the clergy, and both in their respective fashions have to deal with the moulding of juvenile intelligence. It is a strange paradox that while we recognize that education is of fundamental importance to a State, and that the training of the citizens of the future is one of the most serious tasks which can be laid on the shoulders of those responsible for public instruction, we yet pay such a miserable pittance to men of whom we ask so much. Only very slowly, it would seem, is an adequate view of what education involves making its way in our community. One of the first things we have to do is to recognize that the nation which is going to succeed in our new world is the nation which has properly organized its elementary and secondary education, and which is every respect tries to secure a thoroughly scientific and practical training for its citizens.—London Daily Telegraph.

A Fall of Trousers.

One wholesale firm at least is reducing the price of serge trousers, and the Outrigger is right in claiming that "tremendous interest" will be felt in the fact. Many millions of us have to wear trousers and to pay for them. What we used to pay, what we have to pay, and what we might have to pay have been very serious matters for consideration. The climate forbids a general fashion of shorts, and woad is now out of the question. But when one firm makes a reduction in price others will follow, and those who have patiently worn frayed and shabby trousers rather than be forced to wear iron- or its kind, strong and steady. It was the field marshal glorified into a sort of Germania-Wagner hero, but it bore some resemblance to the original in his long, tightly buttoned coat.

Hindenburg in mufti is not in the least like himself. Wearing a short, rough coat and a panama hat, and not very well cut trousers, his burly figure looks as though it were bursting out of its clothes. His straight-backed head runs without a pause into the bull neck, for which no ordinary collar looks large enough.

I have seen a bank manager look as does Hindenburg in mufti—or, for that matter, any ordinary German business man.

until she is twenty-one; sixteen year old Vera Kohler, who must make both ends meet on $25,000 a year; Miss Lorena Carroll finds it difficult to "live" on the income from $150,000; Miss Cornelia Vanderbilt must, until she come into her inheritance, get along on $5,000 annually; while several other lesser heiresses have to "scrape" along on from $3,000 to 2,000 a year. All of which may tend to make us envious; but on the eve almost of Thanksgiving Day, it is well to remember that wealth may supply amusement—but not happiness; education, but not brains to take advantage of it; medical skill and attention, but not health; and envy, but not love.—Halifax Chronicle.

Here to Stay.

Bootlegging is a great evil, and no thoughtful person would deny that liquor is brought in and sold, sometimes in large quantities, under the noses of the inspectors, no matter how energetic and faithful these officials may be, but the injury done in this way, including the drug habit and the drinking of lemon extract and other objectionable mixtures, is slight compared to the suffering and privation caused by the unrestricted liquor traffic. The prohibitory laws must be amended as conditions warrant, and to meet unforeseen problems new methods must be found of enforcing them and eternal vigilance exercised in detecting and punishing the bootleggers, but the results so far have justified the steps taken to put down the liquor evil. The more one learns of these results and the longer the law is in force, the more convinced one becomes that prohibition is here to stay.—St. John Telegraph.

AMERICAN.

St. Michael, Alaska, when the time comes, will presumably "do itself proud" in entertaining the Eskimo forces which were a part of the United States Army in France. The entertainment will be somewhat condensed, for the Eskimo forces are said to have consisted of one soldier, Private Geo. Saggak. Other Eskimos were in the American Army, but Private Saggak alone, it is said, reached the trenches. "I certainly like to see Germans lost the game," he wrote home from France, "and we are all good American boys very anxious to go over the top." Evidently Private Saggak had the "will to victory" which Marshal Foch has said is the first qualification of the effective soldier.—Christian Science Monitor.

Artemus Ward.

So often does one meet the name of Artemus Ward in American print that one is surprised to learn that a recent biography of the humorist and lecturer is the first that has been written. One can imagine, however, that Charles Farrar Browne, to give him his family name, was something of a problem for the biographer, for he once wrote a clear and circumstantial account of much of his career in less than a newspaper column. "I wrote the first Ward sketch," he said, "on a purely local subject, not supposing I should ever write another. Somehow the name Ward entered my head and I used it." Yet the sketch, little as the writer thought of it at the time, led to fame.—Christian Science Monitor.

Germans Seek New Homes.

Recent announcements that emigration on a large scale from Germany would soon begin are seemingly corroborated by the news that a shipload of Germans has just arrived at Buenos Aires, and that a representative of the German Government is making in Mexico City arrangements for the reception of something like 30,000 of them.

It is easy to understand why Germans should want to escape the taxation they will have to bear at home, but that they should be allowed, and even encouraged, to go is decidedly mysterious. Certainly no country needs the whole of its man power more than Germany does at this time, and while there may be an immediate advantage in decreasing there the number of mouths to feed, there is an immediate disadvantage still greater in the loss of hands to work and minds to plan. The arrivals at Buenos Aires are described as "young, robust, and edu-

A large antique crown, covered with jewelry, supposed to have been worn by Queen Elizabeth, has been stolen from a safe in the south of England. Von Hindenburg in Mufti.

Just now Hindenburg can be seen every day in Hanover going for a walk with his wife and their little dachshund, a dog whose behavior is not always worthy of his exalted company. Hindenburg is a striking example of the difference made by the uniform to the average German. The wooden statue in Berlin was a representation of a giant of blood and iron—of its kind, strong and steady. It was the field marshal glorified into a sort of Germania-Wagner hero, but it bore some resemblance to the original in his long, tightly buttoned coat.

Get Your Money's Worth

Hearing The New Edison for the first time is like opening the blinds to the sunlight.

You expect to hear the familiar "talking machine tone."

Instead—there pours forth the voice, or the music of the instrument, in all its natural beauty—pure and full, and indistinguishable from the living artist.

When you choose an Edison RE-CREATION, you receive the actual voice of the artist or his masterly instrumental performance—nothing more, nothing less.

We know that when you select an Edison RE-CREATION, you are getting your full money's worth because we have proof.

Two thousand musical critics have endorsed our claim that

The NEW EDISON
"The Phonograph with a Soul"

RE-CREATES the human voice and the music of human played instruments without the slightest deviation from the original.

"What the Critics Say", tells the story completely. Ask for a copy; and also for our beautiful new book "Edison and Music" when you come to hear the New Edison.

Going to the Next Dance? DO and Make a Hit!

I don't know, feel sort of indifferent, could not get a proper dress, one that I feel is just right. She that black satin dress she had at the last dance? Would like something similar, she MADE SOME HIT. This is being said daily, remarked her friend. Do you realize, sayeth she, that at New York on Water Street, at the Grace Building, there are on display 650 Dresses, of Satins, Georgettes, Crapes de Chine, Serge and every other kind of dress made, and where she got hers, where you will get yours and make a hit, because every dress has been designed by an artist with individual ability. John Berryman, V.C.

In the Balacava charge, October 25, 1864, Troop Sergeant-Major John Berryman gained the V.C. for a noble deed. His horse was shot under him in the rush, and he received a wound in the leg, but was able to walk. He captured a riderless charger, and started to follow his comrades, but this horse was also shot under him. While making his way home to the British lines he came across Captain Webb, of his own regiment, the 17th Lancers, wounded and proceeded at once to render the officer assistance. He sent a soldier off for a stretcher, and, in spite of the officer's entreaties, refused to leave the latter to his fate. Fortunately, the Russians did not molest them, and Berryman, calling to a comrade, managed with the other's assistance to carry the captain about two hundred yards, when, owing to the pain of the wound, they were obliged to lay him down. The officer was bleeding profusely from his leg, which had been shattered by a grape shot, but, managing to procure a tourniquet, Berryman, though he had never handled one before, fixed it in a proper manner, for when they reached the doctors, Berryman was told by them they could not have done better themselves. While the sergeant was engaged with the captain, a tall French officer, who turned out to be General Bosquet, rode up. "Your officer?" he asked, pointing to Captain Webb. "Yes, sir," was the reply. "Ah, you are a sergeant!" touching the chevrons on Berryman's sleeve. "Yes, sir." "You are a brave man. If you were in the French service, I would make you a lieutenant on the spot." Then, standing in his stirrups, and pointing down the valley, the general made use of the phrase which became historical, "Mon Dieu!" he said, "it was grand! It was magnificent! But it is not war!" After Captain Webb's wound was dressed, Berryman was examined, and it was found that a piece of flesh had been cut right out. For his devotion Berryman, and the two soldiers who helped him, received the V.C. The gallant sergeant also received a commission, and when he died in 1896 he was Major John Berryman.

Over 3,000 garments in LADIES' SUITS, SWEATERS, DRESSES, WINTER COATS are here in galore for your selection and at prices to suit you of small as well as large means. Invention and Output.

Everybody is talking about the need for increased output by mill, mine and foundry. How is it to be done? Not by longer hours, because the tendency of the times is to regard long hours as an economic mistake. Not, as a general rule by closer application, because the British workman is no idler, and can do more work in a given time than any other nation.

How are we going to increase output, then? By labour-saving, and labor-speeding devices, by scrapping old machinery for new.

The old idea was that the machine ousted the man. The contrary is the truth. When the wonderful inventions of a century ago in the cotton trade—those of Arkwright, Crompton, and Cartwright—came into use, the workers thought it would ruin them, and went about the country smearing the frames. Yet, to-day, the trade which used to employ hundreds employs thousands, and the output has increased a thousand-fold.

The introduction of machinery, too, by vastly increasing output, brought down prices with a rush; the fall of prices enormously increased the demand, and the demand produced ever better and more efficient devices and improvements of machinery to cope with it.

It behoves everybody to give invention the "good hand," to give inventors every facility, to welcome every new device for labor-saving and labor-speeding.

Invention and Output.

Everybody is talking about the need for increased output by mill, mine and foundry. How is it to be done?
Not by longer hours, because the tendency of the times is to regard long hours as an economic mistake.
Not, as a general rule by closer application, because the British workman is no idler, and can do more work in a given time than any other nation.

How are we going to increase output, then? By labour-saving, and labor-saving devices, by scrapping old machinery for new.

The old idea was that the machine ousted the man. The contrary is the truth. When the wonderful inventions of a century ago in the cotton trade—those of Arkwright, Crompton, and Cartwright—came into use, the workers thought it would ruin them, and went about the country smashing the frames. Yet, to-day, the trade which used to employ hundreds employs thousands, and the output has increased a thousand-fold.

The introduction of machinery, too, by vastly increasing output, brought down prices with a rush; the fall of prices enormously increased the demand, and the demand produced ever better and more efficient devices and improvements of machinery to cope with it.

It behoves everybody to give invention the "glad hand" to give invention every facility, to welcome every new device for labor-saving and labor-speeding.

Squires and Coaker Mean Trouble For All.

The Guppyites of St. John's West are making a desperate effort to win the electors over to their side, but apparently they are meeting with very little success. The chief offender, R. A. Squires, is centering all his attention, and making tools of unsuspecting people to further his own ends. Nothing is too vile or too outrageous for this man to attempt in his frantic effort to gain a few votes. Look at his low-down actions regarding the Hon. J. R. Bennett, for instance. Mr. Bennett has represented the West End for sixteen years, and during all that time he has done nothing to be ashamed of. He knows the people and the people all know him to be an honest, manly man, whose word is his bond. The residents of the outlying sections are well aware of the fact that they can trust him, knowing that their interests are his interests and that he will do nothing against the betterment of the city which gave him birth. The people are alive to the fact that all this abuse has been heaped upon him by the political desperadoes—Coaker, Squires and Mosdell. St. John's trusts neither one of them. Can they forget the Coaker attacks on the Harveys, the Bowings and other citizens who have done more for the city and country in a day than Coaker, Squires or any of the Guppyites are capable of doing in a lifetime. No honest, peace-loving Newfoundlander can associate with Coaker after his vicious attacks on those we have learned to respect and honor. His diabolical outbreak on that fateful morning after the sinking of the Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue can never be forgotten. One of Newfoundland's honored sons was commander of one of the cruisers, and gave all that he had—his life—in the interests of humanity. While the aged widowed mother's heart was breaking, and while we were all sympathizing for those who mourned, Coaker, knowing nothing of finer feelings, published a story in his paper which will bring discredit to him for all time. Then there were his uncalculated, un-der-served and unjust attacks on the Bowings, men whose shoes he is not fit to wipe. For more than a hundred years the name of Bowring has stood for all that is honest and just. They have been liberal to the extreme, giving largely of their wealth to all charitable and good works, and these are the people Coaker has seen fit to vilify. And now he has associated with him Squires, who is also capable of doing anything that is mean, and the object of their onslaughts is the Hon. Mr. Bennett. Coaker did not hurt the Harveys or the Bowings, and neither he or Squires can injure the "People's Choice" in the West End. Everyone is sick of the Opposition tactics. Squires cannot conduct a manly fight; the very fact of him now being the bosom friend of Coaker proves that. On Nov. 3rd, St. John's will avail of the opportunity in proving to the unreliable R.A., that it resents his despicable conduct. SQUIRES CAN'T BE TRUSTED, and the whole Colony knows it.

Newfoundland Prospering.

Mr. H. D. Reid, President of the Reid Nfld. Railway, who has been at the Ritz for the past week, left for his home in St. John's, Nfld., Sunday evening, accompanied by Mrs. Reid.

Before leaving he told The Gazette that the Ancient Colony was prospering in a greater degree than ever before. Her natural resources were being developed and her internal wealth of mineral lands, timber and fisheries was attracting attention from all quarters.

The price of fish during the last two years had been high and money was in consequence plentiful as was evidenced by the increased bank deposits and the improved conditions throughout the Island.

Confederation had ceased to be regarded as even a possibility and there was no sentiment there in its favor, and he personally did not believe it would be in the interest of Newfoundland.

There would be a general election in November, when the Government led by Sir Michael Cashin would go to the polls.

The effort of Newfoundland in the war had been generous and praiseworthy both financially and in the achievement of her sons, and the resultant effect had been to develop local pride and patriotism so that her people feel that they can paddle their own canoe and were able to do so, and were more confident than ever before of the future of their country.—Montreal Gazette, June, 1919.

Rebuilding Louvain.

Whilst it would be a futile task indeed to attempt anything in the nature of an appraisal of the varying degree of barbarity of the deeds committed by the Central Powers during the war, there are certain of these deeds which have always stood out from the rest with almost startling vividness. The sinking of the Lusitania is one, and the sack of Louvain is certainly another. When the news of the orgy of destruction which was being carried on by the Germans in Belgium began to filter through into the outside world, during that terrible third week of August, 1914, there were many hundreds and thousands of people, utterly steadfast in their determination to fight Germany, who refused to believe it. It was very generally hailed as unquestionably an exaggeration, not to say a distortion of the facts of the case, and many people determined to wait to learn "the real truth" before passing judgment.

When the real truth came at last, however, it was found to be worse, far worse, than the original rumors, and, with the story of the sack of Louvain, the wholesale slaughter of its people, and the burning of its famous university and library, the eyes of the world seem to have been opened for the first time to the real nature of the thing against which it was up in arms. From that moment the allied peoples appear to have registered a vow that Louvain should rise again, if possible, more wonderful and more potentially useful than ever before. Scholars, the world over, took up the matter, and all manner of proposals were put forward for replacing the many treasures which had been destroyed in the fire.

As long as the Germans were occupying Belgium, and the great war continued, practical work was necessarily restricted, but no sooner was the armistice signed than the great task of rebuilding Louvain passed out of the realm of theory into that of realization. A national commission was formed in the United States, with the president of Columbia University as chairman; whilst in France, which had always shown a special interest in the matter, the work was rapidly organized. An international committee formed by Etienne Lamy of the Academie Francaise and Imbart de la Tour, has been at work for some time, whilst several national committees and a general council are being organized. The international committee comprises men of learning from many countries, and already its plans, so far as they have been disclosed, reveal a determination that the restored Louvain shall indeed be one of the great centers of the world's learning.

Offers of help, moreover, seem to be flowing in from all quarters. Mr. Veneloso, for instance, has asked the Greek Government to vote the necessary funds for the foundation of a chair of history of the Byzantine civilization. Spain is to found a chair of Spanish art; the United States a chair of international law; France a chair of French art; whilst Great Britain has undertaken the task of reconstructing one of the famous technical institutes of the university. Meanwhile, the great work of book collecting for the library goes forward, and the general council promises to publish a bulletin, from time to time, in which the progress of the work of restoration will be duly set forth. Thus a great and necessary task is already well in hand.—Christian Science Monitor.

Notes and Comments.

(Christian Science Monitor)
Despite the fact that everybody in and out of the universities agrees that the teaching staffs are underpaid, one finds among them a most admirable attitude of good humor toward the situation, while awaiting the increases which the endowment fund drives are to bring. One professor of the classics bore well with an unintentional test of his good temper, one day this summer, when, seeking to eke out his income, he went into the headquarters of an organization devoted to work for boys, and inquired if he might write one of the booklets on vocations which, he had heard, the organization was preparing. He was told that no booklet remained to be assigned except that on plumbing, which he might write if he felt qualified. The professor smiled cheerfully as he shook his head, and remarked: "If I knew anything about plumbing, do you think I would be teaching Greek?"

Report that the former German Emperor has purchased a residence near Utrecht, Holland, only about six miles from Amerongen, has no doubt caused much turning of the pages of history, and brings to memory the fact that at Utrecht the royal house of Prussia practically came into being and the historic sequence of events which has deposited a German Emperor and made him a private resident in Holland had its beginning. By the Peace of Utrecht, ending the War of the Spanish Succession, England and her continental allies virtually established the Kingdom of Prussia. That was 206 years ago, and France was then regarded as the continental power with the most serious tendency to imperial aggrandizement. As Senator Henry Cabot Lodge recalled, the other day, there was, at the time of the Peace of Utrecht, a strong sentiment in favor of some agreement among the nations to prevent future wars; and the amount of unhappiness that might have been prevented had such an agreement been made and kept deepens one's hope that the League of Nations will become an established and successful fact.

How far can a man travel on his feet in one day? So far as known, a record made in 1882 has never been equalled in Madison Square-Garden, New York, on February 27, 1882, the Englishman Charles Rowell, starting at midnight, walked and ran 150 miles during that day, or, to be specific, in 22 hours 28 minutes 25 seconds. An extraordinary thing about this record is that it was intended to represent merely the first day in a six days "go-as-you-please." By Wednesday night he had covered more than half of 700 miles, but on the next day he left the contest. His first day's record remains, however, as a world's distance for 24 hours.

One of the most remarkable pedestrians ever known is probably Edward Payson Weston, who walked in one day from Philadelphia to New York, a distance of ninety-five miles. He left the City Hall in Philadelphia at five minutes after midnight, and reached the City Hall in New York at 11:35 p.m. A year later he walked over the same route he had walked forty years before, beating his own previous time by many hours, and going 1200 miles in 24 days 20 hours. Of all the rivals an athlete has to face, the most difficult to overcome is his past self.

The auction sale which is taking place at the Salle Drouot, in Paris, of the chairs on which Mr. Clemenceau, Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Balfour and President Wilson sat at the signing of the Peace Treaty, and of the plate and glassware used at the official dinners is likely to be only one of many similar events, if the natural craving of the average souvenir hunter for something really unusual is to have anything approaching its fill in connection with the war and the subsequent peace observances. It almost staggers imagination, however, to think of the many possible relics that may be offered to the public, unprepared for proper discrimination in their own behalf.

This is the day of propaganda. It would seem as if every political organization in the world, with a wrong to relate or an ambition to gratify, had employed a corps of eloquent and ireless writers to plead its cause in the United States. A search for the right time-table in the railway station rack is liable to yield only a cry for recognition from, for instance, the Trans-Caspian-Jugo-Ruthenians. In the hotel writing room the stationery is mysteriously replaced by appeals for funds from, perhaps, the Nationalist Party of the Patriotic League of the Police Ukraine. And in the morning mail one expects nothing less than a direct and personal demand that one shall explain why Ireland is not free. Now the "movies" are threatened with the deluge—Bolshevism, hygiene, and drink, while there comes also the report that the Democratic Party is to campaign through the films. Must, then, the dust of conflict rise from the most modest amusements, and the humble price of admission buy only a violent argument?

Fifty-odd years is a respectable age for any periodical, and more noteworthy in the case of a college magazine published by undergraduates for undergraduates; but perhaps the Harvard Advocate has a more special distinction in that it reached its fifty-third year before having a permanent editor. The Advocate has just moved into permanent quarters, after many changes of temporary residence in the rooms of successive editors, and there seems to be no good reason why it should not prosper for another half century. Yet its beginning was dubious. It succeeded the now forgotten Collegian, which had been suppressed by the college authorities for its opposition to compulsory attendance at chapel, and the official word had gone out that the "editors would be expelled if they dared publish any paper." The first appearance of the Advocate led, therefore, to an immediate call for the editors at the college office, and except for the intervention of distinguished alumni, among them Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, its career might then have terminated. Times have changed, and college periodicals may nowadays comment on college matters with a freedom which, fifty years ago, would have been considered scandalous.

How Plumer Made Good

BY A CONTRIBUTOR WHO KNOWS THE WONDERFUL RECORD OF A FAMOUS SOLDIER.

Among the list of our greatest generals, who were recently "rewarded" for their services during the Great War, none is more popular in and out of Army circles than Field-Marshal Lord Plumer, who is better known perhaps as "Sir Herbert."
His jollity, his smartness, his "youthfulness," despite 62 years of age and over three years of holding the Hun at bay at, perhaps, the most crucial point of our line, and his undimmed record in France and on the Italian front, combined to captivate the public's fancy, and to make Sir Herbert almost a second "Bobo." It is safe to say that the fitting record of his great services has given the utmost satisfaction to the Army at large.
It was the writer's good fortune to serve under the F. M. at, possibly, the turning-point of his career. This was when, a major on the H. Q. staff, Capetown, he was selected to organize and command the Matabeleland Relief Force in 1896.

His First Great Chance.
Following the Jameson Raid which demanded Rhodesia of B.S.A. police, the Matabele, further provoked by "rinderpest" having killed off their cattle, and a plague of locusts having destroyed their crops, rebelled, and started murdering outlying settlers and prospectors, and seeking to drive the whites from the country. Bulawayo was cut off and beleaguered, though, in point of fact, never seriously attacked.

Many thought a mistake had been made in choosing Major Plumer for the M.R.F. job. He was—and still is—a dandy. He was a Staff College graduate, and he wore an apparently formidable monocle in his eye. Hardly the sort of man at first sight to appeal to the decidedly 'ornery crowd of irregulars he was to command.
The M.R.F. was a mounted corps, and a good many of the recruits had never been on a horse before; also, their mounts were not exactly perfect ladies' hacks. Sir Herbert sometimes recalls a conversation he overheard between two of his troopers while the force was assembling and hurriedly training at Mafeking. One of them had just returned from "riding school." "How did you get on, Bill?" asked his chum. "Get on!" growled the other, sitting down carefully. "It took me twenty blinkin' minutes to get on the brute, and twenty blinkin' seconds to come off over his head!"

But the novices had to learn to ride—quick, and the whole force had to learn to do other things "one time"—to obey orders on the jump, to put their backs into their work, and to show respect for authority.

All the General wanted.
Before the M.R.F. started on the long trek to Bulawayo, its members knew that they had a born leader, an O.C. who was always considerate, always fair, and willing to hear both sides of a case, always careful of their comfort and well-being, but emphatically a man who stood no nonsense.
The Field-Marshal retains these characteristics to this day, and as far as his genial nature will allow he fairly hates hypocrisy or humbug of any description.

At the occupation of Cologne, Sir Herbert temporarily took up his quarters in a splendid villa belonging to a German financier, who suddenly developed marked pro-British sympathies. Through an A.D.C. the Hun kept bothering to know whether there was anything he could do for the general? Had he everything he wanted? If not, he had but to express the slightest desire, and so on.
At last the A.D.C. brought back this message: "Sir Herbert's only desire is that during his occupation of your villa, you will be neither seen nor heard."

To return to Matabeleland—from first to last, the O.C.M.R.F. made good. He had not the easiest of tasks. The Bulawayans had organized a defence force of their own, and were inclined to be sore when it was superseded by the M.R.F. But Col. Plumer, as he had become, smoothed away all difficulties, and the majority of the B.D.F. joined the M.R.F. Of these days the Field-Marshal tells this story:
What He Thought of It.
The M.R.F. camped in the shadow

Who's Who AND WHY IN NEWFOUNDLAND AND CANADA— 1919-20.

"Who's Who and Why" is designed to provide a record of the men and women who in one capacity or another are contributing to the building up of Canada and Newfoundland.
In the brief account of their career in these pages their relation is shown to the outstanding events of the history of the sister dominions, and the book, therefore, has a value for the historian quite beyond its use as a current work of reference. Included also are portraits of persons dealt with in the biographical sketches, thus adding to the permanent value of the book. Only a few copies on sale.

PTORRHEA.
 Of all the poison taken into the blood, the germs and pus contributed by diseased gums (Ptorrhea) are the most destructive to the human system. If every red blood cell is forced to fight against numbers of germs to the cell, the blood cannot attend to the building up of the body, and if allowed to continue the system is bound to break down and eventually you are an invalid. Kidney, stomach, heart trouble, rheumatism and many other diseases are brought on by diseased gums and teeth.

FISHERMEN!
 This is the great Fishkiller with which the Norwegians catch such large quantities of fish. Place a sinker with a swivel on each end about one fathom above the hook, which spins like a minnow, and the fish bite ravenously.

SIZE, STRENGTH, LIBERALITY
 The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, with over $340,000,000 of business in force, has all the advantages that size can bring to a life company.
 With assets of over $97,000,000 and surplus of over $8,000,000 it has decided strength and safety.
 Its policy, conditions and dividend record have earned for it an enviable reputation for liberality, while its record for fair dealing is unexcelled.

MOTORISTS!

I have just purchased the Highlanders' Armoury and have storage space for 100 cars. In order to facilitate quick repairs and the most up-to-date service, I am leaving for the United States and Canada about the 27th and while abroad will purchase the finest service station equipment obtainable, also a line of repair parts and accessories for Briscoe, Ford and Chevrolet cars, and can guarantee first-class overhauling and repair work. When you are finished with your car send it in and we will overhaul it and put it in first-class condition for next season. One part of my new equipment will be an electric drive motor test stand where engines will be thoroughly tested under their own power before being put back in the car, where oil or other leaks can be detected and rectified, thereby insuring a good and lasting job. Parties storing their cars at my garage will be supplied with a key so that they can get their car at any time; cars will be so arranged that there will be no necessity to move other cars to get any one car out.
 Thanking my customers for their past patronage and assuring those and others I am doing the best possible to obtain quick repairs and prompt service.

New Relief For Constipation, "LES FRUITS"
 Physicians agree that with the modern habits of living, constipation is likely to be always with us. They also agree that the constant use of any drug for the relief of constipation is exceedingly unwise—unwise for two reasons. First, a drug constantly used loses its effect and requires a constantly increased dose. Second, because the constant use of any drug is bad anyway.
 So the cry is constantly going up from the constipated, "What can we do?" It will be interesting to a great many to know that an answer has been found in the re-discovery of a method which was used with great success by our Forefathers, and in Arabia far back in the twelfth century. The food is called "Les Fruits" because it is composed entirely of figs, dates, prunes, raisins and the leaves of each with the substitution of the Alexandra leaf for the raisin leaf. The taste is pleasant, if not to say delicious, and the effect is exceedingly satisfactory. Try it and be convinced.
