LADY LAURA'S RELEASE

THE STORY OF A SPOILED BEAUTY.

CHAPTER III.

This morning, when he heard that Lady Kinloch was away from home, he hastened to Looch House, and found Gladys there and alone. She looked so charming, and he read such love for himself in her eyes, that it was almost more than he could do to restrain himself from asking her there and then to be his wife; but the conversation interested him, and he wished to see this Lady Rooden whose beauty was as fascinating as her fortune.

All that Gladys told him were true, he could do nothing better than win her for himself. Not that he should ever love her—so long as the world held Gladys Rane, he should care most for her; but, if he could woo and win the mistress of Rood House, he could afterward fashion his future as pleased him best. He need never let Gladys Rane pass out of his life; he could retain his friendship for her. His mind was filled with these thoughts as he left her. He had not seen Lady Rooden; but he felt that it would not be an impossible task to win her—for he was not ignorant of the many advantages in his favor. He was handsome, with the gay debonaire bearing that women love, he had laughing blue eyes, lips always ready to smile, a frank face that at first sight charmed every one. Only keen readers of character detected how much of cruelty and selfishness lay beneath the mask of the handsome features. He had the manner which most women love—suave, caressing, graceful. The slightest word he uttered had a charm which few could resist; yet the same melodious voice could be coarse and almost brutal when he chose. He had the art which some exercise

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Really and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying cough, ticks and wheezed cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic cough, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

that she is a brilliant member of society, and her true place in the world of fashion. But one glance at the daughter's face tells quite another story. There you discern a sweetly ingenuous nature and a poetic soul. The girl's dress was all white lace and white lilac; and I never noticed before what a lovely flower white lilac is."

"Should you think there is any prospect of the mother remarrying?" asked Wynyard.

"Yes, I should think it is certain; and I think I can guess who the man is who will marry her."

"Who is he?" asked the ex-captain, anxiously.

"The one who flatters her the most," laughed Mr. Ashton; "he will be the one to win her. That is her ladyship's weak side."

"You soon found it out," said Wynyard, "Most ladies have something of the same weakness, I think."

"I should not like to be the man who tried to flatter Miss Rooden," continued Mr. Ashton. "One look from her pure eyes would extinguish all flatters."

"You admire the daughter most?" queried Wynyard, quickly.

"Yes, I think I do. I have met women like Lady Rooden, but never one like her daughter."

Neither billiards nor cards had any charm for Vance Wynyard that evening; he was usually thoughtful and engrossed. If he sighed at times, it was because memory brought to him vividly the beautiful, sorrowful face of Gladys Rane.

CHAPTER IV.

Rood House, the town mansion of which Sir Charles had been so proud, was situated in one of the most charming parts of Kensington. It was a house that combined the advantages of town and country. The beauty of rippling green foliage surrounded it; tall-spreading trees sheltered it; flowers of brightest hue grew in the gardens. A long grass lawn lay at the back of the mansion, with a number of fine old trees. No country garden could have looked greener and fresher than did the garden at Rood House.

Angela Rooden was delighted with it. To her it was a matter of indifference that Lady Rooden spent a small fortune in refurbishing and redecorating the house until it was one of the most perfect in town; but she could not tolerate the thought of any change being made in the garden.

Travelling through the loveliest lands in Europe had only made England dearer to her. She had seen the fairest cities in Italy, she had lingered by the shores of the sunny Mediterranean, she had gazed in wonder at mighty mountains the summits of which pierced the clouds, on picturesque German rivers, fair Swiss valleys and lakes; but, after all, to her there was no place like England. When she returned to the ivy-clad Abbey, she felt that it surpassed in beauty anything they had seen in their travels, and, above all, it was home.

Lady Rooden and her daughter had been absent from England considerably more than four years. They had lived for some months in Spain, longer in France, longest in Italy. They had been up the Rhine, they had explored quiet German towns, they had visited Switzerland, they had lattered in Florence and Milan, Rome and Venice; but Angela Rooden found the sweetest and the greatest beauty in her quiet English home.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love the "Fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." A teaspoonful never fails to clean the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the souring food and nasty bile out of the stomach and bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

ANCIENT HISTORY.

Theophilus P. Dickens embelized fourteen chickens from Absalom G. Crow; 'twas when we lived together at Punktown in the Heather, a long, long time ago. And now where were abiding t h i s Dickens' gent is riding upon the crest of fame, and I'm the only fellow who knows his record yellow, who knows his hen-roost game. Now he is walking straightly, and men admire him greatly, he's honored in the town; for honesty unbending, for virtues never ending he has a wide renown. Yet I am fixed to shatter his prestige at one clatter, by telling of these fowls; the plaudits and the praises that now arise like blazes would change to ribald howls. I'm but a human duffer, and oftentimes I suffer to tell that ancient tale; that year of Brother Dickens' kidnapping fourteen chickens would make the town grow pale. But when I'm primed to tell it, I always sternerly quell it, my conscience is on deck; my conscience says severely, "Your duty looms up clearly, so follow it by heck! His soul is foul and bitter who would degrade the critter whose outgrown evil things, all past mistakes surviving, now diligently striving to earn a pair of wings!" So I don't tell the story that might disturb the glory Theophilus has won; the stately name of Dickens is free, from faint of chickens, it glitters in the sun.

Why They Wore Black.

The train was late, even later than usual on this slow line, and as they crawled through one station a weary traveller was heard to exclaim: "What a terrible station this! Look at those girls in the refreshment room! Why do they dress them all in black?"

"Don't you know?" said the fellow-passenger in a most solemn tone of voice. "No," replied the curious passenger. "Why," said the other, "because they are in mourning for all the late trains."

Mixing It Up.

After years of perseverance the struggling actor had at last received a speaking part. It consisted of these few words: "Hark, a pistol shot!" At the last moment, stage-fright got the upper hand, and, rushing on the stage, he yelled: "Hark! a pistol shot!—Not no—a pistol shot." Then, desperately determined not to be done, he shouted: "Did you hear that bang?"

He Apologized.

Pat was visiting the house of a friend who was the proud owner of a parrot. Pat had never seen a parrot before.

"Hello there!" exclaimed the bird, as the visitor walked past the cage. Pat turned in amazement, and, after staring at the parrot for a moment, raised his cap.

"Good morning to you, sir!" he said, politely. "Sure, at first I thought ye was a bur-rd!"

FULL SPEED AHEAD.

He: "I understand that she fairly threw herself on him."
She: "Yes! They met in a motor accident."

Just Folks.

I WOULD NOT GRIEVE TOO MUCH.
I would not grieve too much. The promise tells
That rest is his who sleeps so sweetly there;
Beyond the dull, slow tolling of the bell—the hills which pass his, life is free from care.
You would not mourn if one you love should rise
To wear the royal purple and the crown,
Should gain the glory of the great and wise
And put the tools of humble service down.
Suppose that life should call some friend you know
Out of the ranks, and end his days of care,
You would rejoice and smile to see him go,
Though you remained to work and struggle there.

Should high promotion call some friend away
To crown with conquest all his early years,
You would not beg and plead with him to stay,
The loved one has been called away from care
To high promotion, rest and happiness.
So when death comes, though hard it seems to bear
And long the years with all their loneliness,
The loved one has been called away from care
To high promotion, rest and happiness.

He has been called from pain and hurt and strife,
From all the hills which fall to flesh and clay,
He has been raised into an ampler life,
Nor should we mourn too much who still must stay.

A good dinner deserves a good cigarette, a bad dinner needs one. Let your choice be CUB.

"I Now Feel Fine"

Mrs. P. G. Mirdock, Box 433, Portage la Prairie, Man., writes: "I was troubled for years with biliousness, constipation, kidney and liver troubles. I tried many different kinds of medicine, but nothing did me much good until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I now feel fine, but am never without these pills in the house. Dr. Chase's Ointment has relieved my husband of piles, from which he used to suffer badly."

New Direction For Our Trade.

Southborough on the Coming Commercial Revival.

Southborough contributes to the Post Annual Trade the following interesting article: "A New Direction for our country is preparing to be the fruits of five centuries of effort by promoting commerce with our Colonies and Dependencies. The British Empire Exhibition at Wembley in 1924, is to hold the great instruments in this development. It will come none of the depression from which we are emerging taught British manufacturers a lesson by their having profited. The boom that produced this depression has been most in quarters that should have been regarded with suspicion. There was a rush to buy on the part of those whose entire wealth of the money they were hoarding and who had no hope of return. At home, the last war savings grants were dissipated; buyers were spending borrowed money—largely British loans. It is the final gesture of a man who bankruptcy staring him in the face the sequel was a complete failure of business. No one would buy so no one any longer could pay. It is now improving, but there is not as yet for years little hope of a return to normal conditions generally. Our old markets; to extend our commerce in impoverished countries of the world, therefore, be wasteful, for we do not want customers who cannot pay. We must find buyers, and only the British Empire provide them, since the high cost of America will make future trade with that country more difficult and comparatively unremunerative. The British Empire Exhibition manufacturers in this country opportunity of seeing for themselves what raw material each can produce, and what they they landed in this country. It is now, by the right investment of present unutilized resources that the most undeveloped might be turned into wealth. The Exhibition will demonstrate exactly what our prospective customers in the Dominions require. So to industrial country as York, has, therefore, the keenest interest in its success.

Colony and Dependency, but this summary of the arrangements that the larger British lands have already made may be taken as proportionally illustrative of them all:—

CANADA.
The Canadian Government have indicated that they will require an area of 150,000 sq. ft., and some two acres of land in addition. They will co-operate also in the organization of the Imperial Exhibits.

AUSTRALIA.
A building covering 150,000 sq. ft., will be erected. The Commonwealth Government are prepared to spend £250,000 on their participation. They will also co-operate in the Imperial Exhibits.

NEW ZEALAND.
A minimum expenditure of £50,000 has been agreed to, and the New Zealand Government desire space reserved for 1922-23 for participation. It is proposed to erect a building occupying about 25,000 sq. ft.

SOUTH AFRICA.
The Government will make provision to the extent of £50,000 on the estimate for 1922-23 for participation. It is proposed to erect a building occupying about 25,000 sq. ft.

STOMACH BAD!! MEALS SOUR OR LAY UNDIGESTED

Instantly! End Flatulence, Gas, Heartburn, Indigestion

Chew a few! Stomach fine! So pleasant, so inexpensive, so quick to settle an upset stomach. The moment "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches the stomach all pain and distress from indigestion or a sour, gassy stomach vanishes. Millions know its magic. All druggists recommend this harmless stomach corrector.

OF BRITISH MOVEMENT.
It will be a year of movement for British people. Special arrangements are already being made to attract tourists from every Dominion and colony; Britain will call home. Canadian, Australian, African will come to visit this exhibition, to see their own display and the vast evidences of our Imperial supremacy in manufacturers of the world. The critical is every day are already aware that the British goods can only be woven in the British Empire, but the numbers will see our cloth, our steel, our machinery at the British Exhibition will awaken a desire such excellence in their own that a generation of intensive propaganda and advertisement could overcome. The best way to sell merchandise is to show it. There has been such an honest display for British merchants to their goods as this Exhibition does them. Every exhibitor knows that the public than he could have it to reach will see his goods under the most favorable circumstances; these visitors will be in a receptive mood; they have money to spend; any who are proof that the Dominions will have only to learn the extent of every overseas government, and some of its people, has pledged support. There is no room in this article to describe all the details of participation of each Dominion.

The Government will co-operate in the Imperial Exhibits, but reserves the right to include a Mineral Resources Exhibit in their own Pavilion.

NEWFOUNDLAND.
Newfoundland has asked that a site of 8,000 sq. ft. should be reserved for her, and has indicated that her minimum expenditure will be £12,000.

INDIA.
The Indian Government have asked for 100,000 sq. ft. to be reserved. A site has been provisionally allotted. An expenditure of £167,000 on participation has been decided upon.

BURMA.
A site of approximately two and a half acres (on which a Burmese Village will be built) has been applied for and provisionally allotted, and buildings are being planned to occupy a space of about 22,000 sq. ft.

SPECIAL TRANSPORT.
The site of the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley Park should commend itself to the whole business community of Britain since it possesses railway facilities far in excess of any enjoyed by previous exhibitions. Exhibits will be conveyed direct to their places by special railway lines running into the main building, and visitors from the furthest Highlands of Scotland and the remotest corners of England and Wales will be able to travel without change to either of the two main line stations, the Great Central, Wembley Hill, and the London & North Western, Wembley. Londoners can take their choice of train, tram, underground, omnibus or taxi. Trains from Baker Street and Marylebone will take only nine minutes to reach the Exhibition. From no fewer than 126 stations in the London area the Exhibition may be reached in an average time of eighteen minutes, and when the opening date is reached and the special traffic arrangement have been completed, Wembley Park will be the most readily accessible point in all London. Apart from the display of merchandise on an unprecedented scale, the British Empire Exhibition will be a centre for the ventilation of all matters of national and Imperial importance. The first World Power Conference under the presidency of the Earl of Derby will be held there in the Congress Hall and Education, Oversea settlement, Imperial Policy, Unemployment—a hundred topics are all to be debated. The British people for the first time will be provided with an Imperial Forum. All the profits of the Exhibition will be devoted to public objects in Britain and the Dominions.

JUSTICE DONE.

LIFORD MURDERERS HANGED—GREAT PUBLIC INTEREST.
Frederick Edward Bywaters and Edith Jessie Thompson were executed at 9 a.m. on Tuesday for the murder of the woman's husband, Percy Thompson, at Liford on October 4. Bywaters was hanged at Pentonville and Mrs. Thompson at Holloway. Only officials were present at the executions. It is understood that Bywaters walked firmly to meet his death. Mrs. Thompson, however, is stated to have been in a dazed condition, and had to be almost carried to the scaffold. Outside each prison a large crowd gathered to read the grim notices stating that the couple had paid the penalty for the murder. At the subsequent inquests the juries found that the deceased were duly executed according to the law.

BYWATERS' END.
The time fixed for the execution of Bywaters at Pentonville Prison was nine o'clock. Sometime before that hour a small number of people congregated in Caledonian Road, but there was by no means so great a number as has been seen there upon some similar occasions when the crimes committed had attracted great public interest. It was evident that the police were expecting a crowd of more than usual proportions, and care was taken by officers posted at each end of the private road leading to the main gate of Pentonville to see that no unauthorized persons approached nearer than necessary. The duties of the police, however, until after eight o'clock were very light. By nine o'clock a crowd of several thousand people was in the Caledonian Road and the other thoroughfares adjacent to the prison, and the police had to be constantly on the alert to keep the roadway clear for traffic. In accordance with the arrangements existing at the present time no bell was tolled to indicate that the solemn scene was in progress inside the prison, nor was any black flag displayed to show that the sentence had been carried out. The whole of the roadway leading to the prison behind the outside wall was kept entirely free of people, even including pressmen, who were ordered away from the crowd outside. By ten minutes past nine the crowd had grown to such dimensions that it was necessary for mounted police to clear the roadway as well as the pavements on both sides of the Caledonian Road and in Market Street, which was also crowded. In about 30 minutes, however, the crowd gradually melted away, and by half-past nine there was little indication in the neighbourhood that such an event had happened. The official notices stating that the execution had been carried out were not posted until about a quarter to ten. It was apparent, however, that the prison authorities did not invite the presence of pressmen outside the gates, as it was not until an inspector of police inquired at the prison that the reporters were allowed to take a copy of what is actually a public document. The first notice posted was as follows:—

We, the undersigned, hereby declare that judgement of death was this day executed on Edward Francis Bywaters in his Majesty's Prison of Pentonville in our presence. Dated this 6th day of January, 1923.
FRANCIS H. R. C. WHITMORE, Sheriff of Essex.
F. W. H. BLAKE, Governor.
ALFRED PUGH, Chaplain.

The other notice was the usual formal surgeon's certificate. Mr. Walter Schroder and a jury held an inquest on the body after the execution. Evidence was submitted by the officials that the sentence had been properly carried out, and that there had been no hitch whatever. Dr. E. J. W. Cass, medical officer at the prison, said death was instantaneous. The jury returned a verdict that the judgement of death had been duly executed and carried into effect according to law.

THE SCENE AT HOLLOWAY.
Outside Holloway Jail, where Mrs. Thompson paid the last penalty, a crowd began to gather about 7.30. A solitary mounted constable was on duty in Parkhurst Road, and a small force of police guarded the main entrance to the prison. As the time for the execution approached the police force was augmented, and shortly before nine o'clock the crowd had grown to several hundreds. The police kept them on the move on the footway on the prison side, but allowed people to stand on the other side of the road. There were a number of women in the crowd, but men greatly predominated. The Under-Sheriff of Essex, Mr. Hamilton Gepp, arrived at the prison soon after eight o'clock and a little later was joined by the prison chaplain. It was not until 9.33 that the official notice stating that the execution had been carried out was posted outside the prison. It read:—

We, the undersigned, hereby declare that the judgement of death was this day executed on Edith Jessie Thompson in his Majesty's Prison at Holloway.

HAMILTON GEPP, Under-Sheriff.
J. H. MORETON, Governor.
G. MURRAY, Chaplain.

Dr. Waldo, the City Coroner, and a jury held an inquest on the body of Mrs. Thompson at the prison in the afternoon. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Graydon, the executed woman's father and mother, and a lady friend. Mr. Graydon formally identified the body of his daughter, and officials of the prison testified that there was no hitch of any kind at the execution. The jury found that the sentence had been carried out according to law.—Glasgow Weekly Herald, Jan 12.

The rich young sportsman slept soundly, and it was with difficulty that his man woke him in the middle of the night.
"I hear noises downstairs, sir," chattered the servant.
"Are you sure, Norris?"
"Quite sure, sir."
"You think it's a burglar?"
"Yes, sir."
"Oh, very well," yawned the young man, resignedly. "Get me my gun, Norris—and—let me see—I'll wear my grey tweed."

Bridesmaid Buys Husband.

An extraordinary incident occurred at a wedding which has just taken place at Louisville, Kentucky, U.S.A. A bride and bridesmaid—Miss Ruby Henderson and Mr. Raymond Fowler—were on their way to the residence of the magistrate to be married, when a suggestion was made that the bridesmaid might alter his choice. Mr. Fowler, declaring that either the bride or Miss Helen Francis, the bridesmaid, would make an excellent wife, agreed to the letter's purchasing him from Miss Henderson, the price being the bridesmaid's gold bracelet which she was wearing at the time. The bargain was closed there and then, and the party having reached the magistrate's house, Mr. Fowler was married not to the bride with whom he set out for the ceremony, but to her bridesmaid, Miss Francis. After the wedding the party returned home, everybody being very pleased with the unique transaction.

Debts and Debts.

"Let us be fair," the Advocate howls one day, and the much unobviously and with much linguistic flourish, perpetrates the half truth assertion that the National per capita debt of Newfoundland. Figures are twisted and contorted to prove this, but few details are given, merely general totals. There is no mention of Canada's resources as compared with those of this Colony, and even if the Federal debt were $444 per capita—which it is not—the gain would be to the Canadian people, and to their advantage. But figures can be made to perform strange tricks at times and the numerical juggler of the Advocate quotes them to suit himself and those whom he wishes to impress. Truth does not enter into his calculations, and he is penuriously frugal in his dispensing of that attribute. The Financial Post, published in Toronto is an extremely conservative weekly commentator on money and other matters, nor is it likely to make any spectacular excursions into the realms of finance for the purpose of deceiving its large clientele of readers. Therefore we prefer to accept the statements of this journal, rather than those of the Duckworth Street foglehorn, whose sole intent is to preach a financial gospel, whose application is both devils, un-sound and untrue. Canada's National Debt to-day amounts to the sum of $275 for everyone in the Dominion from Glac Bay, Cape Breton, to Queen Charlotte Island in the Arctic circle. In round figures it heads the per capita Public Debt of Newfoundland by $60. To drag in the Provincial debts and calculate them in a similar way, adding the per head sum of these to the Federal Debt, may be good politics, but not good argument. Canada has two forms of government—Federal or National, and Provincial. Each Province has its Upper and Lower House of Parliament, the administration of which handle their own internal affairs apart altogether from the National Government and separate in legislation, so long as the said Parliaments do not run counter to the British North America Act, nor the Covenant of Confederation. The application of National debt figures must therefore be based on conditions named. Canada's debt, per capita, was less than $50 before the war. How much was Newfoundland's at the same period? At the end of the fiscal year—June 30, 1914, our Funded Public Debt was $30,450,765, approximating $122 per head of population. If this has not increased in the same ratio as that of Canada, it must be remembered that we are but a handful of people, our population being merely that of an ordinary city elsewhere. All the more reason then why our debt should never have assumed such proportions. What have we to go against it in the way of assets? Practically nothing, because the bulk of the $215 which must remain forever a tax on the people—unless the Premier succeeds in selling out our rights on Labrador, a task which should not be difficult now in view of the recent gold discoveries—has been piled on and squandered in useless and unnecessary expenditures, and not one public utility can be shown for the millions borrowed by Sir Richard Squires and literally wasted. There can be no comparison between Canada's Public Debt and ours, even if the zealous politicians and scribes of the Government do emphasize some of them in an illogical attempt to show that we are infinitely better off than the big dominion—which we are not.

Appreciation of Firemen
TRIBUTES TO THEIR EXCELLENT SERVICE.

During the progress of the fire at the residence of Mrs. Mary Power, Queen's Road, and before it was quenched three buildings were gutted and a fourth badly damaged. The damage is estimated at about $35,000. The house in which the fire originated adjoined a dry goods store owned by Mr. A. H. Pierpoint. The blaze was first discovered by Mrs. Power's servant girl, who found the wall near the hall stove on the second floor burning. She immediately informed her mistress, and both attempted to quench the blaze with buckets of water. In the meantime an alarm was rung in, and the Central and East End Fire Companies quickly responded. The fire had by this time gained considerable headway and tongues of flame were shooting through the windows. The upper portion of Pierpoint's building was burning fiercely after a few minutes, as it was separated from the Power residence only by a wooden partition. The firemen realizing that they had a big job to tackle quickly connected hose with all the hydrants in the vicinity. Streams of water were run from Queen's Road, Rennie's Mill Road, Bond Street, Prescott Street and King's Road. At first scarcely any pressure could be obtained and for a few seconds the water barely projected a dozen feet beyond the nozzles. This was due in a great measure to citizens having the taps running to prevent freezing, and also to the many breaks in conduct pipes. At the Water Store the pressure registered 40 pounds, but by diverting the higher level supply, a sufficient head was obtained after a short delay. The Pierpoint store and Power residence appeared doomed before the supply came on, and the firemen, in consequence, devoted their attention to saving the adjoining buildings on Queen's Road, as well as those on Rawlin's Cross to the north. Fanned by a strong N.W. wind the flames shot skyward and burning embers flew all over the neighbourhood. Despite the tons of water used, the residence of Miss Summers, adjoining the dry goods store, took fire and it looked as if the whole square to King's Road was doomed. The management of the Imperial Tobacco Co. became alarmed for the safety of their buildings, though they were some distance from the scene and separated by Queen's Road, and Manager Hartnett and the staff assembled on the roof of the premises with buckets and other apparatus prepared for any emergency. With the Summer's residence in a blaze the Blue Pettes was also threatened. The upstairs portion of this building is occupied by ex-Captain Winsor of the Fire Department and family, and the building was only separated by a small passage way, which undoubtedly saved it from becoming enveloped in the general destruction. Cantata at Cochrane St. YOUNG FOLKS GIVE GOOD PERFORMANCE.

A most delightful entertainment was given at Cochrane Street Lecture Room last night by the members of the Kindergarten Class. Despite the inclemency of the weather the affair was well attended. The chair was taken by Lady Crosbie, who carried out her duties in a splendid manner. The programme was an excellent one and consisted of songs, dialogues, duets and instrumentals, in numbers of which the young people excelled themselves. The outstanding item was however, the Cantata, entitled "Queen of the Year," which undoubtedly would do credit to much older performers. The "Queen of the Year" was presented and so were the four seasons, who were dressed handsomely in dainty and appropriate costumes, beautifully designed. The credit for the success of this entertainment is due Miss Nellie Maund and Clarice Taylor, who were untiring in their efforts in training the youngsters the past few weeks. The platform was nicely decorated with trees and balloons, this work being done under the supervision of Mr. Max Davis, whose artistic skill is clearly shown in the work. It has been decided to repeat "The Queen of the Year" on Monday next, when it is hoped the weather man will be more generous in his forecast.

Concert And Tea. AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

A delightful concert in aid of the Church Poor Fund took place at St. Mary's Hall, South Side, last evening. Songs, solos and recitations by a number of the city's best talent, made up a very entertaining programme. Following the concert the ladies of the parish served teas. From this source, and the sale of candy, a considerable sum was realized. Despite the inclement weather the hall was crowded, and those in charge of the affair are to be congratulated on its success.

Card Party And Dance. ENJOYABLE EVENING AT T. A. HALL.

An enjoyable card party and dance, held in the T. A. Club Rooms last night, was largely attended. The prizes for the card games were won by Mrs. Kavanagh and Mr. W. Cullen. After supper a short dance was held, music being supplied by Bennett's Orchestra made the dance most enjoyable. At 2 a.m. the affair terminated with the National Anthem.

Hurricane at Port aux Basques.

76 MILE GALE REPORTED. The Reid Newfoundland Company was advised yesterday that for a time a heavy gale was raging at Port aux Basques. The force of the gale was estimated at about 76 miles per hour. No report of any damage has been received. Last evening a message was received stating that the storm which raged along the line had abated, with indications of higher temperature. At Clarenville the thermometer registered zero and at Bishop's Falls it was 3 below.

Devoted Hebrew Scholar.

DIES IN PALESTINE. JERUSALEM—Palestine Jewry has met with a great loss in the recent death here of Eliezer Ben Yehudah, the father of the revival of the Hebrew language. Educated in Paris, Yehudah came to Palestine forty-one years ago at the age of twenty-three. With the faintest of constitutions and without friends or money, but with an iron will and a steadfast purpose, he set himself to arouse the depressed and discouraged Jews of Palestine to self-consciousness and self-respect. He believed that through a revival of the tongue of the great Hebrew prophets his oppressed brethren would awaken to a new life, and by every means within his power he sought to arouse them. How well he succeeded may be judged by the fact that to-day tens of thousands of Jews in Palestine are speaking and reading pure Hebrew; it is the language of instruction in all the excellent Jewish schools of the country, and it is recognized by the government of the land as one of the three official languages. At his death Yehudah had all but completed the compilation of a Hebrew dictionary that will stand as a final monument to the memory of one who gave his entire life to install new life into the Hebrew people of Palestine. It was a notable procession of people of all creeds that followed the funeral procession as it wound its way to the Hebrew cemetery on the Mount of Olives. The casket was covered by Zion's flag, and a drizzling rain could not hinder his many friends from showing the deep respect in which he had been held by all classes.

Millions of Working Days

LOST THROUGH DISPUTES. LONDON—The industrial record of 1922 has been "disastrous for employment and workers generally," according to labor commentators, who declare that during the year reductions in wages totalled 5,000,000 pounds sterling a week, and affected 7,500,000 work people. This followed a fall of 7,000,000 pounds sterling in 1921, and it shows a severe cut in the incomes and the spending power of workers. To it should be added the loss involved by unemployment and under-employment. Some 19,823,000 days were lost in the course of 535 disputes involving 552,000 work people. The engineering and shipbuilding industries were responsible for over 17,000,000 of these lost days; Unemployment figures are described as representing "an enormous waste of skilled, trained, human power in productive capacity," but it is noted that the latest surveys show some improvement from the worst. In January 1922, 1,925,450 persons were unemployed, the figures gradually decreased to 1,412,557 in October, but they rose to 1,454,256 in November. The cost of living, which started the year 92 per cent above normal, was down to 78 per cent in October, but rose to 80 per cent at the end of the year.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR BURNS & SCALDS.

Appropriate Holiday Bill at The Nickel.

Everybody in St. John's knows of the great success of Rupert Hughes' "The Old Nest," which was screened at the Nickel Theatre last summer, and which in spite of the warm weather prevailing at the time, attracted thousands of people each night during its run—now the same company, Goldenwyn offers you another such picture, "The Poverty of Riches" which deals with a theme that is even more vital. "Poverty of Riches" goes to the very source of life—it reveals one of the greatest problems of civilization—it carries a message that wings straight to the heart of every man and woman in the world. It is the honest opinion of the writer that this is a picture that stands out among recent photographic successes, and as for a holiday attraction, it is certainly most appropriate. See it and you will agree with me that it is a truly wonderful picture. To-night is positively the last showing of "Poverty of Riches."

Kyle Headed to Sea.

A radio from Capt. Stevenson of S.S. Kyle, received at 11:30 last night, advised that the gale was still raging, and that the ship had been put before it. It is probable that by now the force of the gale has abated, and the gallant little ship may shortly be reported as arriving at Port aux Basques.

In Aid of The Poor.

TONIGHT AT GOWER STREET. A concert and sociable, in which several well known performers will take part, is being held tonight in the basement of Gower Street Church. A splendid programme has been prepared and in view of the urgent need of funds to meet the requirements of the poor, it is hoped that this evening's entertainment will be largely patronized and a substantial amount raised.

Last Night's Hockey.

FELLDIANS DEFEAT ST. BON'S--SCORE: 4-3.

In a rather uninteresting game the Felldians took the St. Bon's to their camp in the time of 4 goals by 3...

In the second period the play was fast, but the players were not playing their positions and the play became very open.

The final period saw some good bursts of speed, but not much hockey was being played.

The line-ups were as follows: FELLDIANS--Goal, Hunt; defence, Tall and H. Rendell; centre, Pay; wings, Winter and Ewing; substitutes, Alderdice, Jerritt, Rendell.

ST. BON'S--Goal, H. Halley; defence, E. Phelan, G. Halley; centre, Murr; wings, Collins and Callahan; substitutes, J. Higgins, Dr. Fox, Cull.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

Doc Fox scored all the goals for the St. Bon's; three of them at that--now he is "Barry the Goal Getter."

Lloyd George Sets English Press by Ears.

LONDON PRESS SAYS TELE-GRAPH'S REFUSAL TO PUBLISH ARTICLE IS IMPORTANT REBUKE.

LONDON, Jan. 22. (Canadian Press).--The refusal of the Daily Telegraph on Saturday to publish Lloyd George's article on the French occupation of the Ruhr is receiving considerable comment in the English press.

The Times thinks it is an important rebuke to Lloyd George, marking a definite, it rather debated, stage in the public stand of the press against his abuse as a platform by former and possibly future ministers of the crown whose temporary irresponsibility to their own countrymen does not by any means extend to foreign nations.

The Telegraph, like ourselves, the Times continues, "is profoundly concerned with France's present action, which is the subject of Lloyd George's irritating articles. It is not from any sympathy with the current French policy that the article is suppressed, but from the conviction that the delicacy and difficulty of the situation can only be accentuated by the incautious polemics of an ex-premier, who was dealing but yesterday with the tremendous problems he now surveys, and may yet be called upon to deal with them again."

Further, the Times says: "Lloyd George's position in the world, which was very great, has not been improved by his journalistic engagements just before and after his fall from power."

KU KLUX KLAN.

A correspondent fears the introduction of this body in Newfoundland, but we are of opinion that such fears are groundless. The authorities would be the first to prevent it, and altogether, apart from such a contingency, no class or body of Newfoundland people would stand for the K.K.K. or any similar organization becoming active in this colony.

For Gentlemen of good taste.

Cub Cigarettes. The Yorkshire Post, which published Lloyd George's article on Saturday, says it publishes the Lloyd George articles as it would publish Lloyd George's speeches. Not for a moment, however, does it think the tone of the former premier's newspaper articles represents the feelings of the great majority of his countrymen, but it believes that this is more truly reflected by Bonar Law, who declared that Great Britain discredited from the French method in the matter of reparations, but quite frankly expressed the hope that France would succeed in her task.

The Daily Express.

The Daily Express, Lord Beaverbrook's paper, declares that if Lloyd George had made a speech embodying the same views as were contained in his newspaper article, the Telegraph would have reported it. "Why, then, did it refuse to publish the article for which it had paid a high price?" the Express asks.

A Royal Engagement.

The announcement of the engagement of Prince Albert, Duke of York, second son of King George and Queen Mary, to Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon will give pleasure to His Majesty's subjects everywhere. When it was announced that the Princess Louise would marry the Marquis of Lorne, an old Scotch lady is reported to have remarked: "The Queen will be a proud woman the day." And if the old lady were still living she would probably remark that there would be another proud mother in England. The lady who is to marry the Duke of York traces her ancestry back in unbroken descent almost six centuries to a great-granddaughter of Robert Bruce. This latter lady was also a granddaughter of Walter the "Steward," who married Bruce's daughter, Marjorie, and founded the Stewart line, and a daughter of Robert Stewart, the first Stewart King. During the entire period the Lyons, into which family Robert's second daughter married, have lived in Glamis Castle. It is a curious coincidence that the last Stewart who reigned in Britain was a Duke of York, and the last of the race was still another Duke of York, Henry Cardinal York, who was the second son of James, the "Old Pretender," and who died in 1807.

Glamis Castle stands a little way off the road from Dundee to Kerrymuir, and in general appearance reminds one of a French chateau of the sixteenth century, but the old portion known as King Malcolm's room is of remote antiquity. Like many other relics of feudal days, it has its secrets and its mysteries, and Sir Walter Scott, in his "Letters on Demonology and Witchcraft," writes that Glamis, or, as he spells it, Glammis, is "favorable to that degree of superstitious awe, which my countrymen expressively call eerie."

Mirrors Used by Ancient Greeks.

In Greece and in Rome wealthy people adorned the walls of their houses with polished, shining plates of copper, gold or silver. The pieces were square, provided with a nicely carved frame and were polished afresh by slaves every day so that their masters and mistresses might look at themselves in the metal mirrors.

Up to the Fifteenth Century Europe did not know the glass mirrors. These were first made in Venice and acquired an enormous fame which they have held to the present time.

It seems as though no other city is able to rival Venice in the manufacture of mirrors.

Gold Found in Germany.

CORRACH, GERMANY—Gold deposits have been located in the forest mountains near here. One ton of clay earth, which was analyzed as an experiment, was found to contain 44 grams of the precious metal. This assay aroused the interest of German experts, in view of the fact that there are gold mines in operation which net only 10 grams of gold per ton of earth. Bearing deposits have been uncovered in several different parts of the mountains.

Wreck of H.M.S. "Orpheus."

On February 7, 1883, H.M.S. "Orpheus," a new vessel of 1,700 tons, was wrecked, with terrible loss of life, on a sandbank which forms a bar facing the entrance to the harbour of Manukau, on the west coast of the North Island of the three constituting New Zealand. From the inquiry afterwards made, it appeared that either the vessel was not kept far enough to the north or that the middle bank had very recently extended itself unknown to the pilots; for, very shortly after passing the bar, and when about two miles from the Head, or promontory at the northern entrance of the harbour, the ship struck on what was subsequently discovered to be the extreme edge of the middle bar in that direction, at about 50ft. from the deep water. The order was given to back astern, but the engines never moved, and the ship immediately broached, with her head to the north, and the water made one complete sweep over the port, broadside, or the whole length of the vessel on that side, tearing to pieces and carrying everything before it; and as the heavy bumping of the ship then forced up the fastenings or coverings of the hatchway, through which persons pass from one deck to another, the ship filled with water. A small steamer, the "Wonga-Wonga," picked up a number of survivors from the wreck; but of 260 officers, sailors, and marines on board, no fewer than 150 were drowned, many of them being carried beneath the wreck by the eddies and undercurrents, which formed about the vessel, when the strong flood tide, or high tide, set in. About eight hours after the "Orpheus" had struck, the masts went one by one, the brave people in the tops—the platform that projects on all sides from the head of the lowest mast—being heard cheering and encouraging one another as they fell. The commander, Commodore Burnett, C.B., was among those drowned. Although this wreck occurred 80 near the coast, and although the loss of life was so large, these lamentable facts were not due to any inhospitality or inhumanity on the part of the natives, for they recovered the commander's body and buried it on their own shore, though it was afterwards disinterred and removed to the neighbouring city of Auckland of which Manukau is the western harbour, and his remains were there reinterred with military honours.

Loneliness of Lepers Relieved by Radio.

SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO, (Associated Press).—Cabros Island, the home of Porto Rico's leper colony, after years of dreary days and silent nights, can now listen to the voices of the world. A radio receiving set has just been installed there, within a few days a loud-speaker will be attached, and thirty-six new radio fans will be enchanted with the marvels of science—and occasionally, of course, disgusted with the perverseness of static. The radio set was made possible by an anonymous gift of $100 which came from New York, to which were added local contributions. Probably not since its invention has the setting up of a radio set been watched by a more interested group of spectators than that which followed the movements of the Rev. Charles B. Rare and two employees of the Porto Rico Telephone Company as they installed the instrument. Not that there was much animated comment or boisterous enthusiasm. Life on a bare, shadeless reef on which the hot sun's rays beat fiercely, and against which the surf pounds ceaselessly, is not conducive to an exuberant display of feeling.

LEPERS ARE DELIGHTED.

"When the loud speaker comes you will be able to hear concerts, music and singing in San Juan, in Havana and in the big cities of the United States," they were told. There was a chorus of "Magnifico" and "Que bueno," and one man remarked—"It was meant for such exiles as we are." For, near as they are to San Juan, the lepers regard their isolation as exile. "Somos pobres desterrados," ("We are poor exiles") they tell you. They complain of the loneliness of their lives more than they do of the disease itself. Even the prospect of hearing nightly the strains of famous orchestras and the words of eloquent speakers does not reconcile them to their lot. "They hate the glaring sunlight, for it pains their eyes. They hate the salt and misty night air, for they aggravate their sufferings. They hate the dreary darkness of a night relieved by nothing but little oil lamps. "Help to get us away from here," they urge the visitor.

WILL LISTEN IN.

The radio concerts will be heard in the club house of the Philanthropic Society of Cabras Island. The club house is rather meagerly furnished, a broken victrola, a rather unsteady table, and some benches and chairs. Superintendent Rubin has promised to see that everyone has a seat—and so on nights when Pittsburg and Havana "speak out clear and bold" the exiles of Cabras will be listening. But one who used to be of their number will not be there. During the year a new grave has been dug in the burying ground at the extreme point of the island. The living never go there, while the wireless was being installed a cat played among the graves. At the approach of two men it paused alert, then ran, frightened, into the tall grass.

TRUTHFUL.

Employer: "John, I wish you wouldn't whistle at your work."
Office Boy: "I wasn't working, Sir; only whistling."

Famine And Disease.

MENACE NEAR EAST REFUGEES.

CONSTANTINOPLE — (Associated Press).—One hundred thousand refugees are seriously ill or dying on the coasts of Asia Minor, Thrace and the Greek mainland. No nation as yet has come forward to help them. Private relief organizations seem helpless to cope with the entire problem. It is too vast. Greece is face to face with a social catastrophe. Internal order and security are menaced by the hordes of starving and distracted fugitives pouring into the country. Famine and disease are stalking through Anatolia, Thrace and the Aegean Islands. Women and children are dying everywhere. Even so great and precious a thing as mother-love cannot survive the agony and despair wrought by the sudden breaking up of families and homes. At Samsoun, on the Black Sea, mothers in their desperation are abandoning their children and fleeing for their lives on board any ship that will take them. The parentless children are left to the merciful hands of American women relief workers. Their fathers have long since been deported or killed.

GREEKS ROBBING AND LOOTING.

In Thrace, Greek soldiers and refugees, maddened by hunger, are robbing and sacking the countryside. In Constantinople, a city of a thousand sorrows, pedestrians at night stumble over the half-dead forms of children huddled in doorways and alleys. Today a caravan of dejected and exhausted refugees from Anatolia swarmed up the Grande Rue de Pera of the capital like famished wolves. Fifty thousand Turkish refugees, 45,000 Greeks and Armenians, and 14,000 Russians fill the capital's cup to overflowing. Typhus, smallpox, and dysentery are devastating the refugee areas in Thrace, Pinaros, and Salonica. In Anatolia, where the Greek army burned, sacked, and killed, there are 600,000 shelterless Turkish peasants, whose plight is rendered doubly acute by heavy snows and lack of clothing. In the great storm of indignation following the Smyrna fire, they have been forgotten. Many of them are innocent, law-abiding, home-lovers of the soil, who deserve some measure of the world's sympathy.

WILL PERISH WITHOUT AID.

Correspondents who have travelled throughout the affected territories report that unless foreign government relief measures are undertaken, a majority of the two million or more refugees will perish this winter. There is virtually no fuel, no shelter, no clothing. The relief work of the Athens and Ankara governments is pitifully inadequate. They are both bankrupt. Help must come from the outside and as yet this help has not proved effective, particularly in Salonica, Thrace, Constantinople and the Aegean Islands.

NOT WHAT SHE MEANT.

They had been picnicking, the girl, her little sister and the eligible young man, and as they ferried across the river at sunset, the little sister exhibited some signs of fear.
"Why, Amy," said her big sister, "if you are so nervous now, what will you be at my age?"
"Thirty-nine," promptly replied the little sister.

When you are "wandering around again" or in functions where full dress is usually worn, don't feel out of place with a jacket on? Now is the time to leave your order for Full Dress or Tuxedo. Our prices for these Suits are remarkably reasonable. For special parades, or social calls, we can give you something within your means in a Prince Albert, or Morning Coat. We specialize in these garments.

ON FAMILY FRANKNESS.

Family frankness, what cruelties are often committed in thy name!

A letter friend writes to me asking me to tell her why she is so hard, she couldn't understand the abnormal type, self-analytic, a bit of the kind that finds it hard to get along with the world and has an extra need for sympathy and understanding in the home. She says: "I should say not."

Do you imagine this? The things she said about explaining her case was very pleasant but my mother says "mean look."

My girl had only signed her name and had been accepted by the mother and ask her if she would make in an already signed letter, and why she wanted her daughter instead of help usually our mothers that say "Yes."

More like the old fashioned one, was looking around at you the other night! Such are the sharp little straws of family frankness. Poison tipped by the victim's own sensitiveness, they often leave a wound that festers and endures in a way the offender never dreams of.

Family frankness, how many cruelties are committed in thy name!

Method of Deciphering Records.

Upon requests to decipher documents and papers, particularly those that have passed the without being burned to the bureau of standards has a method, illustrated in many Popular Mechanics that is very effective and simple. It is based on a photograph of a photographic film, besides being sensitive to light also sensitive to certain vapors. The specimen under examination is placed between two glass plates and kept in contact with the sensitized film in the dark for a period of time in the case of fast plates. Development in the usual manner, and a copy of the writing and drawing is obtained.

They are good stuffed with some white sauce and cold pork. Season well and bake.

Regulated Dog Fights Banned in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY.—Dog fights have been prohibited in Mexico City. The decree, recently issued by Mayor Prieto Laurens as one of the first acts of his administration, refers to regulated fights, and not the ordinary street affairs between belligerent dogs. Mayor Laurens says it is a disgrace for blooded animals to be matched in a death struggle, and there are strong intimations that a ban will be placed soon on cock fights, which vie with bullfights as the favorite Sunday afternoon diversion. To many Mexicans, however, there is nothing brutal or inhuman in bullfights, dog fights or cock fights. In many quarters boxing is considered an uncivilized sport, and the newspaper El Mundo recently conducted a vigorous campaign to prevent further bouts in the capital, asserting that it is most disgraceful for men to pummel each other until blood flows.

Continuation School Work.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATIONAL REMEDIES.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Why are people so indifferent to the fact that only one pupil out of every seven between the ages of twelve and seventeen is receiving any kind of education in this country? Only 14.9 per cent. of the pupils enrolled in our schools appear to reach the Elementary School Standard, (the 4th) each year, according to the official report, (page 24) of the Dept. of Education for 1920-21; and only 15.64 per cent. go further, which is one and a half out of the ten, or about one out of seven. Other progressive countries with compulsory education, in Day and Continuation Schools are therefore receiving at least five times as much education as Newfoundland is receiving. Then how can the country prosper when education, its best asset, is being lost to those who need it most. This is a serious matter. Reflect upon it—six-sevenths of our children and people barely literate. Are we doing our duty in this? And what is the remedy?

The first operation is co-operation between the Elementary and the High Schools and the Business Firms and the Evening Schools, so that pupils will pass right on to Continuation Study when they leave the Day Schools. A great difficulty at present is that many boys and girls leaving waste a couple of years doing nothing, or waiting for good positions or promotion, only to find that their sorrow how hard it is to make up for lost time. A boy finds he has a leaning toward engineering or accounting, for example, and his elementary arithmetic is so backward that he cannot take up the technical training required, and has to abandon the idea with all its prospects. Our young people are wasting their most valuable spare time after leaving school. They should attend Evening Classes to prepare themselves for the battle of modern life and to render the best service possible to their employers and the country.

Then again the apathy and indifference of both parents and young people must be overcome by making Evening Schools attractive, especially in winter, by the giving of entertainments, the holding of debates, games, etc., in them under proper instruction and supervision; and by appeal to the public by press and pupil, in the interest of industrial education.

A specially important remedy is the securing of the co-operation of employers who may not recognize their great responsibility in this matter. Someone says: "We want to make each workman a better man, and each man a better workman"—an economic gain to Newfoundland! Too many of our employers of labor are indifferent to this matter, I fear, and the time has come when provision must be made and an opportunity given to employers to do more than at present to further the cause of education, and to help the youth of Newfoundland deprived of the advantage of school education. A compulsory education act cannot be afforded if it is claimed. It is certainly needed, and has been asked for by the Synod, the Conference and the N. T. A., and a plebiscite would give it a majority vote, I believe; but more teachers and more schools would be necessary first to carry it out, and free education also, so that the cost of all this, and the additional taxation needed, must be calculated. Can we not do more for ourselves?

Another immediate remedy would be the help of the captains of our industry in actual teaching in Evening Schools and this would be of great value in demonstrating to elementary classes the methods and theories by which they have risen, the instructors to give the special additional pedagogical effect for clearness, putting the knowledge to a practical use by clear psychological development, otherwise pupils would not understand, possibly, and might become discouraged, and, indeed, and gradually drop off as the subject advanced. This has been the experience. The trained practical expert makes the best teacher. No price is too great to set upon his service in teaching the youth of our school to think, observe, and understand elementary principles, so that they can afterwards receive these principles from the man whose knowledge comes from the school of experience, the man for whom I have great respect. Such teachers when found and trained should be retained by making their service more attractive to them, financially, so that they would not leave to accept appointments in business for which they are equally fitted and for which they receive much greater remuneration. Another important matter, in connection with Evening Schools, is the difficulty experienced in securing rooms in which to conduct Continuation Classes notwithstanding that they are of such value to the community and all concerned.

THE EXTENSIVE USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Why should not school property be used after hours? This is the philosophy of the community centre and it used to be the plan in Newfoundland years ago more than it is to-day. Public education is an ideal of the people, and it is the people's funds that are invested in the school buildings and property. The idleness of the school plant after 6 o'clock each day and on Saturdays and during long vacations is a distinct economic and civic loss. The product of the school is education in its broadest sense. Closed schools curtail the productivity of the school plant. The school should not only educate, it should arouse a desire for education. The opportunity for the use of the school encourages initiative in seeking culture and the development of leadership among citizens. The citizens themselves should supply the supervision and expert guidance which the State must furnish in other instances. The purpose of education is to develop an intelligent democracy guarded by law and recognizing no political belief. It should harmonize and inspire a community. Its schools should be thrown open to its citizens as a meeting place to discuss the means whereby they could best benefit their children and country. The school would contain its own cinematograph, hold dramatic concerts, contest in basket ball, physical and social education as well as literary—athletics, debating, prize-speaking, etc. This is the atmosphere that tends to create loyalty to our institutions and ideals. Acting on this proposition some such law as the following adapted from that in many places in Canada and the United States, should be enacted:—

USE OF SCHOOL HOUSES AND THE GROUNDS OUT OF SCHOOL HOURS.

Schoolhouses and the grounds connected therewith and all property belonging to the district shall be in the custody and under the control and supervision of the trustees or board of education of the district. The trustees or board of education may adopt reasonable regulations for the use of such schoolhouses, grounds or other public property, when not in use for school purposes, for such other public services as are herein provided. Such regulations shall conform to the purposes and intent of education and shall be subject to review on appeal to the Minister of Education. The trustees or Board of Education of each district shall, subject to regulations adopted as above provided, permit the use of the school houses and rooms therein and the grounds and other property of the district when not in use for school purposes, for any of the following purposes:

- (1) By persons assembling therein for the purpose of giving and receiving instruction in any branch of education.
- (2) For night schools and continuation

The chorus girl rushed distractedly up to the manager. "My bag has been stolen, and all my diamonds were in it," she sobbed. "Will you let the newspapers know at once?"

The manager remained unmoved. "Dear, dear," he said, soothingly. "Don't upset yourself over a little thing like that."

"You don't understand," she cried wildly. "There was fifteen shillings in the bag."

The Manager: "That's a different matter, he declared. "We'll send for the police at once."
