Report has it that the troops here are to be retained for a full year from the time of enlistment.

Accident on the Grand Trunk. A TRAIN OFF THE TRACK. This (Tuesday) morning, about half-past ten o'clock, a train on the Grand Trunk, coming from Rockwood to Guelph, met with an accident opposite Mr. Fletcher's, York Road. The two hind cars, with the caboose, owing to a broken rail, ran off the track. The caboose, in which were the conductor and two brakemen, rolled over two or three times into the swamp. One of the freight cars ran completely off the track, and the other partially. The conductor and brakemen are both hurt, and as soon after the accident as possible were conveyed to town in a sleigh belonging to Mr. Kennedy, of Acton, which happened to be passing. On reaching Guelph they were conveyed to the medical care of Dr. Herod, who dressed their wounds, which we are glad to be able to report, are not likely to prove of a serious nature. We congratulate Messrs. Hardman (conductor), Jones and Wood, on what appears to have been a marvellous escape from a frightful death.

MASONIC PRESENTATION.—On the conclusion of a grand Masonic conversation, held in Orillia on Thursday evening, Worshipful Bro. B. Ramsay, 32nd degree, was made the recipient of a very valuable and handsome present from the members of Orillia Lodge, A. F. A. M., No. 192, G. R. C., as a token of their recognition of his valuable services and untiring efforts in the cause of Masonry, in both the lower and higher degrees. The present consisted of an elegant Past Master's silver collar, and chain, richly chased, and one ornamental clock, which was a beautiful unique specimen of rare workmanship and rare skill, being chased heavily with gold, &c. It is very elegantly designed, and certainly reflects great credit on Mr. W. C. Morrison, jeweller, King-street, Toronto, who not only manufactured, but designed the Past Master's Collar.

Another heavy snow storm began in New Brunswick on Sunday morning, and the railway tracks which had just been cleared are again blocked up. The mails are being conveyed by stage. The storm closed on Monday morning.

"Man's inhumanity to man"

Makes countless millions mourn.

A Story of the Saint of Cornwall.

One Joseph Carter alias Carter, aged 72, and a cripple; his wife of about the same age, and three grown-up children, who, being deaf mutes, had never left their home on part of lot No. 3 in the 8th Concession of Cornwall Township, were, we are credibly informed, turned out of house and home on one of the coldest days of the week before last, at the instance of the Hon. John Sandfield-Macdonald. The circumstances are stated to us as follows:—Carter's father, many years ago, owed a debt of $70 to one Donald McDougall, and in order to get rid of the creditor, in an evil hour the son mortgaged his homestead and farm of 60 acres to the Hon. Sandfield. This was after execution had been issued and a pair of horses of Carter's had been seized for the debt and costs, amounting in all to some $112. All the money Carter ever had from Sandfield, besides the debt and costs, amounted to fifty cents, with which to pay for a night's lodging in Cornwall when the business was being concluded. About seven years ago, Sandfield told Carter that he wished to foreclose the mortgage for his own security—but Carter need not fear his doing so, as he would never disturb him; on which Carter expressed a wish to sell a part of the farm and so, at once, extinguish the debt. This Sandfield would not listen to. "What necessity was there for doing that, when he knew he could remain in possession of the whole?" The poor fellow suffered himself to be lured into a false security, and so remained until the Deputy Sheriff, along with a couple of unscrupulous neighbours, presented themselves at Carter's homestead. Sandfield recently sold the farm to Mr. Julius Waite, and in order that the latter might be put in possession, execution issued against the Carters who were ruthlessly turned out on the spot—their furniture smashed, grain scattered about, and themselves left utterly helpless. But for the charity of Bella McLeod, a neighbour, who took them in for God's sake, these poor people would have been left to perish! Since then, we learn Mr. Archibald Campbell has given the Carters a lot on which to build a house, which they may retain as long as they live. The contrast between the conduct of Mr. Campbell and Bella McLeod and the Hon. Sandfield, in the treatment of these poor people, is striking, and will not fail to bear fruit in Cornwall Township, where the remembrance of similar proceedings of Sandfield years ago, is bitterly cherished.—Cornwall Gazette.

Changes in the American Tariff.

The New York Tribune of Saturday says:—

The unexpected vote by which tea and coffee were placed on the free list by the Senate, has settled many doubts as to what the present Congress will do with the Tariff, and will, it is believed, remove much of that uncertainty which is so injurious to trade and manufactures. In the first place, though the duty on tea and coffee has not yet been technically removed, since the same bill has not yet passed both Houses, the importers and dealers in these articles may consider it certain now that these duties will be removed before the end of the session, and arrange their business with a view to free tea and coffee on and after the 1st of July, 1872. In the next place, the action of the Senate is considered by leading men here to indicate that no general revision of the Tariff laws will take place, and, therefore, that there will be no wholesale reduction of duties on articles manufactured in this country. This fact was recognized by Mr. Sherman, and he gave notice that he should support the amendment moved by Mr. Morrill of Vermont, to strike out the second section of the bill, which proposes to reduce the duty on textile and metallic fabrics to 10 per cent. There is little doubt that this amendment will be agreed to. The indications are, too, that the Senate will vote to maintain the duty on rice and soda ash at its present rates, while that on salt may be somewhat reduced, and that on coal abolished; though, with regard to the two articles last named, no positive prediction can be made, as the vote on them is expected to be close. It is pretty safe to say that salt will not be placed on the free list by the Senate, and that the duty on coal will be at least reduced. The Finance Committee will ask the Senate to sustain them in placing 400 or 600 articles named in their bill, most of which are not produced in this country, and from which little or no revenue is derived from the free list.

THE GUELPH POST OFFICE.

The Herald of yesterday has some severe comments on the Guelph Post Office, and on the loose way in which business is often done there.

The conduct of the Government in connection with this matter is disgraceful, and affords the strongest possible evidence that it cares nothing for the interests of the people so long as it can keep its friends in power.

THE MANAGEMENT OF THE MILITIA.

The Toronto Telegraph severely censures Sir George Cartier for his partiality in managing the Militia Department. Coming from an avowed supporter of the Dominion Government, these strictures have all the more weight.

The treatment of the French officers of the Red River expedition has been in marked contrast to that of the English officers of the same force. A number of French officers were given leave to come home by way of St. Paul, and attended the camps of instruction of their respective regiments at home.

Compare this with the treatment of the English officers of the expedition. They were obliged to work their passages back up the swift currents, and over the numerous portages of the Rainy Lake route, carrying their food and luggage on their backs over the portages.

Then take another instance. French regiments in Montreal are said to have been issued two suits of uniform clothing in as many years, while the English volunteer battalions in the same city were in rags.

The British Canadians went in rags to the front, while Cartier's well uniformed pets staid at home. This favoritism shown to skulkers must have a most pernicious effect.

HELEN MOIR

OR LOVE AND HONOUR. A TALE OF THE CLYDE. CHAPTER XXIII.

ANXIOUS DAYS AT ARDENHAM—EDWIN AND RITCHIE IN LONDON. "My dear sir," he quietly observed, "your ardour carries you to a preposterous conclusion. Your uncle—if, indeed, he be your uncle—must have taken great pains to deceive you, and I fear—"

"No, I think not," replied the lawyer, as he took into his hand the piece of paper which Edwin held out to him. "I was sure of it. I am certain that my uncle's unfortunate admission closed the door against all examination. "As well it might," returned the other. "Who was to think of investigating with a view to prove a man innocent of what he had already confessed himself guilty?"

"Quite so," said it was dreadfully unfortunate, for, notwithstanding that confession, it is my fixed belief that he never saw, never touched, that forged bill, and my sole business in London is to prove this, if it be possible. "Aye, if it be possible," echoed Weggate, with the same incredulous smile.

"The difficulty does not lie in the direction you imagine. I tell you, Weggate, if I did not know you so well, I would be provoked to—to—I don't know what. "Knock me down, perhaps," suggested the blandly smiling lawyer. "I shan't say, but my time is coming. Before I leave this room I shall have the satisfaction of hearing you express a very different opinion."

"Your pardon, my dear sir, I have expressed no opinion. How can I without your statement? to which, however, I am ready to listen. "Then, give orders to your clerks to allow no one to enter, for the story is a long one, and needs patient listening."

The lawyer gave the requisite order through a speaking tube, and subsided into his chair to listen, little imagining what an intensely interesting and highly romantic tale was to be communicated. The reader knows the tale already, and can imagine the effect it had on Mr. Weggate. Edwin told it much in the order in which we have related it; consequently it embraced the love-story of Hermann and Helen, which was in truth the primary fact round which all the other facts gathered themselves. To that love-story and the course it took was it owing that all the wonderful discoveries and revelations had been made. But for that David Bridgenorth might have paid his sad visit to Kilman Churchyard, and gone away again without meeting his child, or indeed knowing of her existence. But all things had been providentially arranged, and out of the first trial—the painful opposition and harsh conduct of Herr Rheinbach—all these events had sprung.

The effect of the story on Mr. Weggate was very marked indeed. He was a thorough lawyer in his habits and modes of thought, and it was seldom that he was moved from his professional calmness. Nor did he manifest much external feeling even now, but the rapid attention with which he listened to Edwin, never once interrupting him, but following him from point to point and incident to incident with unflinching interest, betrayed the influence to which he was being subjected. And this was the air and attitude he maintained till the close.

"Now," exclaimed Edwin, "when he had brought his narrative down to the very hour of their departure from Scotland, "that is the story. What do you think of it?" "Think of it?" said the lawyer, drawing a long breath. "I have listened to many a tale in our law courts, but this surpasses anything I can remember. There are two things I must do before anything else is either said or done. I must ask pardon for making the insinuation of imposture."

"I knew that would vanish from your mind. My poor, noble, suffering uncle!—you see how his heart was broken. But what is your opinion as to his guilt or innocence? Do you—?" "One moment, please, before we come to that. I said I had two things to do, and the second is to shake by the hand this worthy fellow who has acted such a noble part to the poor, friendless, unprotected girl. I honor you, Ritchie, from the bottom of my heart. I honor I repeat, I admire you, beyond the power of words to utter."

"Bravo, bravo," exclaimed Edwin, as, to Ritchie's blushing astonishment, Mr. Weggate rose and, crossing to where he sat, took his hand, horny hand with the greatest fervour. "I do not remember Ritchie speechless with distress, which the lawyer understood and speedily relieved by returning to his seat and giving his attention once more to Edwin."

Dollinger on Luther. In a recent lecture delivered at Munich the distinguished "old Catholic" made the following pertinent observations on the remarkable points of resemblance between the events of the last few years and those immediately preceding the Reformation:— "Before the Reformation an Ecclesiastical Council—the fifth council of the Trent—was held by Leo X., which destroyed all the hopes of church reform, and I only pursued one—the unconditional elevation of the Papal power. Then, too, as now, the German bishops basely consented to the destruction of the organic constitution of the Church, and every attempt at concession or mutual understanding was rejected as heresy. The Reformation in Germany was, thus, Dr. Dollinger, a necessity based on the nature of the German people. 'Luther's overpowering greatness of mind and wonderful versatility made him the man of his time and of his people, and there has never been a German who understood his countrymen so intuitively, and was at the same time himself so impregnated with the national spirit. The wills and minds of the Germans were in his hand like the lyre in the hand of an artist. If he gave to his countrymen more than any man has given to his people in Christian times—language, popular school-books, the Bible, religious hymns—all this was poor and colourless by the side of his overpowering eloquence. His adversaries stammered—he spoke; he impressed his spirit on the German nation, and even those of the Germans who hate him as the deceiver and seducer of the people can only speak with his language and think with his thoughts. And yet more powerful than this Titan of the intellectual world was the desire in the German people for liberation from the bonds of a corrupt Church. Even if there had been no Luther the Reformation would have taken place."

D. MOULTON'S

A gentleman died recently in Buckingham County, Va. who owned, at the surrender of General Lee, twenty-two negroes. Twelve of them left him, but the other ten remained with and worked for him until the day of his death, taking for their services just as much as he chose to give them. At his death, to show his appreciation of their services and his gratitude, he gave them his farm, on which they could all live comfortably.

A FREE PRESS.—Mr. William Mitchell, proprietor of the West Sussex Gazette, has received a letter from Mr. John Bright, M. P., in which, referring to the press and the repeal of the taxes on paper, he writes: "I think the great revolution of opinion on many public questions which is now being witnessed in this country is owing mainly to the freedom of the newspaper press. It is silently working a change of the most important, and I hope, of a most beneficial character. Newspaper property to an enormous extent has been created or extended; the literary character of newspapers has been improved, and the tone of writing is higher than it formerly was. All that we foretell in our agitation for a free press has come to pass—nothing that the most timid feared has arisen in consequence of our success."

Breakfast—Epps' Cocoa.—Grapefruit and Compote.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor bills.—Chief of St. Louis Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet is labelled "James Epps & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London." Also, makers of Epps' Milky Cocoa (Cocoa and Condensed Milk).

A SAVORY volume would not contain the mass of testimony which has accumulated in favor of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry as a safe, efficient and reliable remedy in curing colds, and pulmonary diseases. Many of the cures are truly wonderful.

I PERSONALLY recommend the use of Felton's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites to all who suffer in any way from disease or weakness of the Lungs, Bronchial Tubes, or from general debility. J. W. Scott, M. D. Gagetown, N. B.

PILLS which contain antimony, quinine and calomel, should be avoided, as severe griping pains would be their only result. The safest, sweetest, and best pills are Parson's Purgative or Anti-Bilious Pills.

More than forty years have elapsed since Johnson's Anodyne Liniment was first invented, during which time hundreds of thousands have been benefited by its use. Probably no article ever became so universally popular with all classes as Johnson's Anodyne Liniment.

FELLOWS

HYPOPHOSPHITES

All life-endowed bodies, whether they be Beasts, Birds, Reptiles, Insects, or even Zoophytes, and subjects of the Vegetable Kingdom are governed by vital force, which binds all the springs of existence, and as nothing can save them from destruction when this principle leaves them, the discovery of means whereby vitality may be sustained, and the living body is in need a boon to the world.

Modern Chemistry has ventilated the question and discovered the ingredients constituting the Brain, muscles and nerves, and finds that by introducing these ingredients in proper proportions the brain and nervous system are strengthened.

This then is substantially the basis on which Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is based. Its direct action is upon the Blood, the Brain and Nervous System, and the Muscles, strengthening the Nerves, it causes the rapid distribution of Vitalized Blood in the Muscular Organs of the Body.

Restoring the Sluggish Heart and Liver, strengthening the Action of the Stomach and Bowels, and enabling the Lungs to be fully inflated with Oxygen.

It is adapted for all cases of Weakness and Emaciation, whether arising from a Sedentary life, a tropical climate, from fever, or debility from any cause, and is efficacious in Pulmonary Consumption, many confirmed cases having been cured and all benefited, where its use has been continued over a fortnight.

In Bronchitis it is a specific, and in Asthma it gives relief where every other remedy fails.

For Nervous Debility it stands unrivalled, and may be used with confidence in all cases.

As this is entirely distinct and different from every other preparation of Hypophosphites, be careful to ask for Fellows' Syrup, and take no other.

SOLD BY APOTHECARIES

PRICE, $1.50. SIX FOR $7.50.

Dr. Harris, of Middlebury, Vermont says: "I had been troubled with Bronchitis for two years so affecting the organs of speech that I could not speak aloud for a fortnight. I had tried every other cough medicine I have ever tried. My wife also used it with the most satisfactory results. The Balm is sold by all druggists. Price 5 per bottle."
