JUSTICE PEG

AND

HIS JUSTICE SHOP

In the City of Win.

IN FOUR ACTS.

DESGRIPTIVE.

ดow, this City of W'm is :m important city, being the eapital of the Province of 'Tobio. It is peopled, mostly, by a peacefal, energetic, law-abling, cosmopolitan chass of citizens.

The bas and enstoms governing the people are male by legislators selecton in the comstituencies in Win and throughont Toba. These lejifitans assemble in their legishative buihlings once in each year and e met vich laws as the public welfure and the fond sovernment of the people re fure.

An inmortant matter is now before the legislators amt the people known a; the Temprathee Guestion.
'lie people are diviled into chases of thase who want, and require, the nse of stimulants, or drinkers. and mon-drinkers. To control and ereate a ravente for envermment parposes, tho Legis'ators chact certain laws of restriction in the traflic in wines, beer, and alonholie liguors ; and bargain with a certain mmber of eitizens, known as license-hohlers, to sell umber theip estrictive laws to than demanding the emmmerated goods.

The Licuse-holders are, individually, in open-heated, hospitable chass of men, not any better and mot mach worse than ham:mity in general, a!though made in*o onteasts ly foolish prejudice and intemperate bigotry.

The temperance protion of the people - many of them extremely intenperate in ther methods and utteranes - can be divided into very distinct chases. 1st, the honest, emmest, nseful temp erance man, who does not aeed stimalants : who dues not nee them on proneiple: who by his example and practice is the best advocate of true temperance reform, aml while exereising an individual right does not attempt to coerce or prevent his fellow man from using his juelgment and equal individual right. :ond. the temperance man who keeps at growler" and a cellarsupply. Brd, rhe busybories, mischief-matiers, fantica, bigots who want to drive all who diffe: with their pot bobly after "Pwe L.,"

In Tobr this third c'ass is :epresented by Mother Mulo, Mrs. Cism, Rev. Ogg, and Litigation Graindealer. Surely they are descendants of some of Cromwell's adherents. These people manage to exert an undue influence owing to their perseverance, backed, as they pretend, by a reserve force.

Legislators should carefully consid $r$ the possibility of making laws so restrictive that the $p$ 'ople lose respect for them, and in this way defeat the objects intended.

The re is no poss ibility of making laws that will make men consider, believe, or feel that it is $n$ erime to partake of their favorite beverage. Alcoholic heverages have been in use sinee the dawn of history, mad will be used until makind is regenerated and human tastes nad customs are eompletely chathger.

Jentice Pea. 1 retired soldier, knows little of law, less of justice, nothing of the amalysis of evidence, and whose decisions depend largely upon the conditions of his stomach and rheumatism. Prominent features in his decisions are bomptious assumption and relentless prejudice.

Giant Chier. They are, your worship.
Justice Peg. Are the spies also present?
Giant Cinef. They have departed hence, your worship.
Justice Peg. Why are the spies not within the jurisdiction of this High Court?

Giant Chief. They have likely taken alarm at popular indignation and have fled for safety.

Justice Peg. Does there remain even one spy upon whose evidence this court can convict?

Giant Cifief. Yes, your Worship, one spy remains, but his evidence cannot be corroborated.

Justice Peg. Away with such technical folly! This Court requires no such idle and useless form as corroborative evidence to convict these victims. This Court is a law unto itself.

Enter License Holdes, sharged with selling during prohibited hours. Scribe reads summons and complaint.

Justice Peg. How does this victim plead; guilty or not guilty?
License Holder. Guilty, your worship.
Justice Peg. Fifty dollars and the cost of Court.
First Cirizen. (To License holder). Why did you plead guilty to the charge?

Ladense Hobobr. Because I knew the court would convict. Thvillainous court spy, assuming to be a stranger, cold and weary, securen, as a guest, the hospitnlities of the house, and this complaint is tha result.

Second Cimanen. Too bad. They are pushing these restriction laws far beyond the contines of reason and justice. Like a belated travel. ler on the prairies finding a settler's cabin, is given entertaimment, and for gratitude burns the cabin that gave him shelter.

Their money we have ; its sound fell upon my ear with a peculiar and indescribable charm, like the rentle murmur of a low fountain stealing forth in the midst of roses, of the soft, sweet accents of an angel whisprer in the bright, joyous drean of sleeping innocence. Money! Their money : Our money !

Sixtil Cithex. I was trying, your worship, to give the truth - the whole truth.

Justice Pea. Enough truth. This Court cannot stand two much truth. Where was the victim, if not in the bar?

Somon Cetizen. In his room, sulfering painfully from his sickmoss. In his rom which he did not leave. In his ronm in which his knowledge of the world was contined to the space of the rom, and his information of things mundane might have dyallod mine of Mus.

Lawrea. Your worship, according to the evidence of the Court Spy, and six other witnesses that the doors were locked, how can you necount for the presence of the Court Spy in the lar! The rourt Spy does not attempt to necount for it ?

Justice Plag. A trivial matter, indeed.
Lawyer. On the contrary, your worship, aceording to all the rules of evidence, practice and precedent, it is a most important and vital circumstance in arriving at a jurlicial conclusion.

Juspres l'bi. (Secms greatly surprised at the widence for the defonce. Tirrning to the defendant). Did you serve the crown wit. ness with drinks on the night in question ?

Defendant. No, I did not, and never saw the man until seated in that chair.

Justice Pea (Solitoquising). A strong defruce indeed. So different from the ordimary case of its kind. I have it in my mind to dismiss the charge against the victim, and were I my own master I would not be forced to the extremity of dissimulation; hut, alas! I must dissemble, and, therefure, will reserve my lecision.

Lawren We are here, your worship, to obtain a warrant for the arrest of the Court Spy, for perjury.

Justice Pes:. I demur at taking information and issuing warrant to arrest the Crown witness. It interferes with my administration of justice on these victims; however, as there is no legral escape for me you can have the warrant.

The warrant is issud.

of one oclock, the Victim and his lawyer wrung from me a warrant for the arrest of our beloved Crown Witness. But be careful and see that you do not execute the warrant until the Crown Witness has delivered his evidence, the victims have been sentenced, and the good work completed. Look well to expediency, and your duty.

Ginnt Chmef. 'Tis well, your worship, your instructions shall be obeyed most serupulousiy.

Justice Peg. I am now rady to deliver the judgment I have had under advisement and reserve. Is the victim in the Court?

Pettrfogger. Hu is, your worship.
Vactim standis uf.
Justice Peg. It is the juisment of this Court that you be fined fifty dollars and costs.
[Aside] It had to be. We cannot allow the evidence of our Crown witness, though unsupported, to be discredited, "Veni, vidi, vici."

Enter another victim.
A urangle ensues between Lawyer, Petthfogger, and Justice Peg.
Lawigr. I am entitled to ask these questions, as we have a right to know the character of the Court spy and informer. Your worship allowed similar questions on a previous occasion, and if your worship persists in overruling questions of this nature there is no use of going on with the case, and I will leave your Court. I will no longer be a party to such a discraceiul farce and travesty upon justice. It is about time some of these informations were laid before another magistrate if there s going to be any justice.

Justice Peg. Be careful, Mr. X., there mast be no reflections on the magistrate.

Lawyer. I am very well able to take care of myself. I am simply expressing the truth and the cpinion I entertain. I am through with this roaring farce.

Exit Lawyer.
Justice Peg (to rictim). As your counsel has abandoned your case we will waste no more time of the Court; I therefore condemn you to pay a tine of 850.00 and costs of prosecution.

Justice Peg. Scriba will now read the information and charge against the prisoner.

Schibe reads the information charging the prisoner with the crime of perjury, committed in swearing that he had procured intoxicating drinks at 9.30 o'clock from a license holder.

Prisoner enters plea of not guilty.
Enter License Holder.
Lawyer. Did you serve the prisoner with intoxicating drinks at the time he swears in his deposition?

License Holder. No, I did not.
Lawyer. Will you furnish the court with your reasons for your emphatic statement differing with the evidence of the prisoner given on a former occasion in this court?

License Holder. Not having two distinct material personalities it is not possible for me to be in two separate and distinct places at one and the same time.

Lawyer. Where were you at the time referred to ?
Licesse Holder. In my room, where I remained all night. In my room excluded from knowledge of anything outside its space. In my room suffering the agonies of painful sickness.

Petthfogicer. How long, sir, have you been a license holder?
Licexse Holder:. A time, a time, and half a time.
Peitifoghen. During the time have you broken Toba's laws?
Jacense Honder. Sir, be specific, make your question detinite, and you will receive a responsive answer.

l: inter Finst Witiness.

Lawrer. Where was defendant on the night in question?
Finst Wirness. In his room contined to a bed of sickness.
Euter Second Witness.
Lawrer What do you know of the whereabouts of the defendant on this particular evening?

Second Witness. I know he was in his room, sick and feeble, attended by a physician.

Enter Tinird Witness.
Lawrer. You are a physician. Can you tell the court anything about the condition of the defendant, on the occasion referred to in this case?

Thimb Witness I know he was a very sick man at the time, and quite unfitted to be attending to business. If he obeyed my instruc. tions he must have been in his room. More than that, I have always known him to be a trustworthy man.

Lawyer. Your worship, we have not only raised a reasonable presumption, but we have clearly proven, by good credible witnesses, that the prisoner is guilty of the crine charged in the complaint, and, therefore, ask your worship to commit him for tria!.

Justice Peg. ( $A$ side). I would that this ease were not so clearly established. An evil hour that brought this disciple of Blackstone and these witnesses before me. The law, evidence, and justice, demands that I commit the prisoner. But, should I commit him it would cause a fatal break on the machine, and therefore I cannot decide now while the evidence is fresh in the memory of the multitude. Delay! time ! when! where! how! escape! I must resort to my old and only expedient, reserve my judgment until many things are forgotten and some others are thought of.

Jusice Pect. I am now prepared to render my decision in the case against the prisoner.

The prisoner (COURT Spy) is led in by a griant.
Justrice Pec. It is my opinion that the wituesses in this case are so closely identitied with the "tratfic" that their eviclence cannot be taken by this Court ; therefore, my judgment is that the prisoner be and is hereby dismissed from the further custody of this Court.

First Citizen. Truly an outrage. This is worse than Russia.
Srcond Citizen. We are not in it. He will not believe anything that does not suit his purpose. The machine must have its victims.

Timrn Citizen. An absolute failure of justice. Tohase commitied

Amermen Certas So this is Euglish law ; British fair play! Now, in our country wo would yank that ohl chap out of his seat, and string that spy up to the nearest pole. Life is too shore to monkey with getting justice as you do. Surdy your temperaments are as cold as your climate.

Justree Pea. Sirrah, how to you plead before this court of law, equity, and justice. (inilty or not guilty !

Licexse Holder. I am not guilty, your worship I have prepared no defense, because I knew how unasailing a perfect defence would be in this court. I can only appeai to your humanity for a mitisation of your pre-determined sentence.

Justice Peg. Mercy, do T hear aright! Mercy to one of yoln class in this court would be quite out of place. Stand up, sir, and I will do you the justice of this court, and enforce the laws of Toba in such cases made and provided. You have been brought into this court and and charged with selling intoxicants contrary to law, the extreme penalty for which violation must be visited upon you. I, therefore, condemn you to pay the sum of $$ 500$, to forfeit your license, and to pay the costs of this prosecution.

Licesse Holder. Your Worship, the fine is more than I can pay. Justice Peg. The wisdom of our Letislature has made provision -broad and ample enough to meet such a contingency. In default of the payment of this fine, the sentence of this court is that you be imprisoned for the term of two years in the common jail, and at the expiration of your term of imprisonment it is further ordered and de. creed that you be banished to the north end of Lake Winnipegosis for the period of seventeen years.

Justice Peg. State your plea, sirrah.
Victim. Guilty, if you like.
Justice Pfg. I sentence you to accompany the next relief expedidition to the north pole, and there to remain until Prohibition becomes one of Toba's laws. And while there it shall be your duty to analyze the recent vote on prohibition, and satisfactorily explain the majority given for it at the late election, and to further explain what possible effect it will ultimately produce in Toba. > Reception Room of all Hotcl. Tourists and Fricuds. Enter Toumist, (a (ilobe Trotter). A friendly greeting.
> First Friend. We are delighted to see you, hope you are quite well, and that you dave had a pleasant time of it.

> Tourist. Well, very well, indeed, and am glad to be back with my old friends again in Win. What's the news here?

Second Firiend. We have had a vote on Prohibition, and the Legis$l_{\text {ature }}$ is now in session.

First Friend. The most important recent event is that poor old Justice Peg, enfeebled by intirmities, became so rank in his decisions that an indignant people, thoroughly aroused at last, demanded his retirement.

Tourist. I am not greatly astonished at the information. What now? Who occupies the position of lolice Magistrate?

Sbcond Erand. Mr. Judex, a young man of good ability, skilled in the law, possessed of solid character and strong individuality, quite incapable of being unduly intluenced in his opinions and decisions. Under his administration of that oflice all classes receive fair treatment and even handed justice. In fact, we now have a police court with a police magistrate presiding.

Touristr. Guide, what do these figures mean?
Guide. Justice Peg, Court Spy and Pettifogger.
Tourist. And this mournful looking female figure?
Guide. That figure, sir, represents Russia mourning that after centuries of experience Russia had been outdone in outrageous injustice by these three citizens of Win, under British laws, in a British colony, and in the boasted civilization of the nineteenth century.

THE RAW EDGE OF RESTRICTIVE LAWS.

The reading room in an Motel. Merchasy and Proprempor of the Howse.
Mememany. Ah me! This is wearying work, taking stock. It's Friday night and 9 o'clock and I have been umble to leave the store till now and to-morrow brings Saturday again. 1 an feching a slight cold, possibly before I go home a hot toddy might help me and stimu. late. Will you join me and take a cigar?

The followiner might at sume home:

Memenasy. My friend, I amhere again : whall weremeat last night's stimulant and pleasures?

Pbopmaron. My dear sir! You forget it is siturday night. To comply with your request under the present law and spy regime might be the utter ruin of my business, and think of my family and responsibilities.

Mercuant. 'Tis true. I did forget, and what a lesson this teaches. How little personal individual right we possess and now little they are considered by the fadidists. My taste, my desires, my appetite, my wants, my mind and resolution are the same. There is no fair play in it, it is simply laws enacted to please a class.

Think of my only alternative now : a doctor's preseription and so drug store. This suggests another line of thought The drug stores are allowed to sell on Sunday as a business and at a protit the most aoxious drugs and trashy patent medicines. If my home was burnt out to night, myself and family escaping with our lives and night. clothing, we could not purchase anything to supply our necessities on the Sunday. Have simply to accept the charity of the world, friends, and neighbors.

Money can hire a livery or procure a cab. The man without money, unable to indulge in those luxuries, may twiddle his thumbs or possibly seek harmful pleasures. Our wealthy citizels can indulge in horses, keep servants and coachmen, and ease their weary selves on the way to hear the desired Sunday service, see the latest and the parson and the duty paid to conscience.

The street cars are stopped. The working man is helpless in the hands of the powers that make, decree and enact these laws in conformity with the designing machine power of the ohureh. Pratically it is a day of moping and weariness ; to the many, frimmlly sosiability, rent and recreation are denied; instead of liberty and pronal freedom, street cars to convey people as their pleasure and individual right should dietate, to churches to enjoy the socie'y of friends and rebations. to pure air and sunshine, to open parks. Nincterenth enntury laws wen beyond those that our Saviour condemmed whon he said that the Sathbath was made for man and not man for tho sabhath.

Propmaror. You are right. But how few of our people "think;" they simply glide along in the swim. I must tell you of rather an amusins scene that took place in the bar to-night when chosing. Youknow of the distinctly social talkation habit of the Gemmans in grouping themselves when sipping their schomers of lagere Well, three of them cance in about five minutes before the time to close and ordered the usual three sehooners of beer, each taking a sip with the talk, but leaving on the bu the lager with glasses more than half filled. The bartender asked them to drink their beer, as it was the to close. 'Ihey naturally objected to swallow it offhand, chaming that it was theirs and they had paid for it, wanting time to drink. The; had alse to be informed that they could not remove it to another place nor drink on the premises. It does sem absurd to make a matter thet is profectly logal, (according to existing laws, during the consumption of a drink, an illegal nct and crime two minutes later, and acompmied with the outrageons penalties attacherl.

Extracy.

Ifas it come to this, that professing to be a Christian mation, professing to believe the power of God superior to all powers, that Christian tenchings and Christian influeners are the safety of the world and the salvation of man, get we virtually say to the world: We have tried the power of the sunlight of truth, we havo applied in main the principles of love and practice of virtue which mankind wis promised should beget in man $n$ desire to overeome the lusts of the Ilesh, and commonicate a power equal to the task. We have invoked the aid and ossistance of the erer living God. We have tried all these and they have failed-they are utedy inadequate. The divine law, if such there be, is powerless. 'The teachings, the precept, the holy exmple and influence of Christ has failed in our hands, and we are now determined to place our hope and our confidence in laws made by $m: n$, and in the constable. This is the position of Prohibitionists, acd worse still, it is the true position of every clergyman who has borne a guilty part in an agitation which has for its objeet the most insolent and uscless invasion of personal liberties and popular rights known in the history of motern times.
