prisoners. The Moscow correspondent of The London Daily Telegraph sends the following on this subject:

"In a fight near Aeradz, on the River Warthe, the Russians captured the commander of the 17th German Army Corps, General Von Makenzel, with his staff; General Von Liebert, who was the commander at Lodz during the occupation of that town by the Germans, also is declared to be a prisoner.

"A Petrograd despatch says that according to a Lodz telegram the Russian troops captured at Ijeradz, General Mathiese and his staff."

Another report from the eastern theatre of war says that the Germans have lost 70 per cent. of their officers on that front; 323 officers, 21,750 men, four mortars, 52 cannon, 52 quick-firers, and a large amount of stores were taken by the Russians from Oct. 23 to Nov. 5.

PRINCE IN SUPREME COMMAND.

In the face of the continued disasters, the crown prince has received supreme command of the eastern German armies, it is reported from several sources. The Kaiser is said to have presided at a war council when this step was decided upon. General Von Hindenburg, the leader who drove back the czar's hosts in their first invasion, has been superseded, but continues in command of the left wing, while General Dankl, the only Austrian officer of high rank who holds German confidence, is in charge of the right wing.

Military authorities here who have been inclined to look with some scepticism on the reports of overwhelming Russian victories and the precipitate flight of the Germans, are now beginning to credit the full import of recent despatches. A message received late tonight by Petrograd says that the Germans are falling back as rapidly as their condition will permit from Radom along a line to Rzheyem and toward Klugutko.

TROOPS IN BAD SHAPE.

It is declared that the Kaiser's men are in a terrible state, many of them being without overcoats or shoes, the marches of the last fortnight having exhausted the supply. Some of these men are walking barefooted across plains covered with ice and snow, leaving a bloody trail behind them which stretches for miles in every direction. Nothing like the scenes which confront the Russians have been witnessed in Europe since Napoleon fell back from Moscow. It is weird coincidence that just a hundred years have passed since then, and that again the rigorous Russian winter is taking heavy toll of an alien foe.

However, stubborn fighting is in prospect for the czar's legions. The Germans are rushing men eastward from France, and preparations are under way to erect important fortifications at Mstow, where heavy artillery is being concentrated. The defenders' lines along the Warthe are steadily strengthening, and the fortresses in Posen, notably at Thorn, are ready to withstand siege.

It is believed that by this time the Russians are actually under the walls of Cracow. Last news from that city reports the inhabitants in flight and a feverish state of excitement among non-combatants and military as the invaders come hurrying on. They were last reported only 25 miles away.

REPORTS ARE MISLEADING.

With both Turkey and Russia claiming the victory in the fighting around Erzerum, and with Berlin issuing blatant but circumstantial reports of Turkish successes, it is a little difficult to arrive at the true status of affairs in the Caucasian field of operations. Constantinople despatches state that the conflict before Erzerum lasted two days, victory resting with the Ottoman arms.

The official Russian general staff says in its authorized statement that the Turks attacked their army before Erzerum, but that the Russians held all positions they had occupied.

A naval statement by Russian officials outlines that Russian men-of-war sank several Turkish transports in the Black Sea. A Turkish steamer was destroyed and considerable damage inflicted on the Porte buildings at San Goudalke. A transport laden with troops, which was on the point of going to sea, was also destroyed.

Leaving this port after completing its work of devastation, the Russian fleet came up with three Ottoman transports carrying automobiles, guns, ammunition and stores. All were sunk, 248 men and their German officers being saved. Several German staff officers were among the prisoners.

A late Constantinople despatch declares that a Russian fleet has bombarded the Bosphorus fortifications.

BLOODIEST CONTEST OF WAR.

The Germans have resumed their attack on the allied line between the coast and the Lys River, and while the French claim generally to have held their positions, the Germans have succeeded in capturing the Town of Dixmude, which has been the centre of some of the fiercest and most sanguinary fighting of the war.

The country between Dixmude and Ypres, where the belligerents have been engaged in violent attacks and counter attacks for weeks past, and where the losses have been heavier even than those in the battle of the Yser, is again the scene of a battle which for fury has seldom, if ever, been equaled.

MAY FORCE ALLIES BACK.

Behind Dixmude is the direct road to Dunkirk, one of the French ports on which the Germans have set their hearts, and if they can break thru here the allies will be compelled to fall back to new positions. The invaders have therefore been concentrating their forces at this point, and their success in taking Dixmude, where they claim to have captured 500 prisoners, and positions to the west of Lange-marck, where, according to the Berlin report, 2000 prisoners fell into their hands, shows that the statements so freely made, that they have been sending troops from the west to Poland, are without foundation.

RUSHED FROM WARSAW.

As a matter of fact, military men here believe that the Germans, as soon as they saw it was impossible to carry out their design of capturing Warsaw, despatched troops from that region to the west, not imagining that the Russian pursuit could be carried out with the rapidity with which it has been.

At other points along the battlefield in France, the French official communication claims successes for the allies, but the German headquarters staff declares that all attacks have been repulsed.

GERMAN LINES WEAKENED.

It is considered quite certain that with the enormous forces required for the effort to get thru to the coast and to protect their own country from Russian invasion the Germans will not be able to throw any additional troops into the lines which stretch thru northern France and along the Franco-German border.

On the other hand, the French, whose army is growing daily, might attempt an offensive against Lorraine or Alsace as a diversion, which would relieve the pressure in the west.

SERIOUS DEFEAT IN PRUSSIA.

The Germans, according to Petrograd despatches, have suffered a more serious defeat on the East Prussian border than the official statements have disclosed. Advances from the Russian capital today state that in the recent fighting there the Russians have captured more than 20,000 prisoners, together with quantities of guns and munitions.

The Russian advance in Poland, which has been at the rate of 14 miles daily, has astonished the military experts, and it is not surprising to hear that they are picking up many footsore and weary German stragglers. This advance of horse, foot and artillery has continued for 18 days.

SERVIANS HARD PRESSED.

In Galicia, the Russians continue to push the Austrians back, but the Austrians are having their revenge along the Serbian border, which they threaten to cross in an endeavor to crush Serbia before Russia can come to her assistance.

Of the fighting between Turkey and the allies, the reports are so contradictory that there is no reconciling them. Turkey reports victories against Russia and Great Britain which those two countries deny.

HOPE OF PEACE LESS REMOTE

Premier Asquith Leans to Optimism, But Gives Warning.

France and Belgium, they have frustrated absolutely and defeated the first designs of the German emperor." With Kitchener's Approval. Regarding the sending of British marines to Antwerp just before the fall of that city, the premier intimated that Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, subsequently would make a more detailed statement, but he said at once that the responsibility for the expedition was shared by the government as a whole. Earl Kitchener, secretary of state for war, was consulted and everything was done with his knowledge and approval and the expedition was a material and most useful factor in the conduct of the campaign.

The premier pointed out that the number of men authorized by the three votes of the present year for the regular army—not territorials—was 1,185,000. Of this total all but 100,000 are already in the service of the crown. A committee of enquiry, composed of all the parties, will be appointed to consider allowances to those dependent upon soldiers.

Another Big Vote. On Monday next, said Mr. Asquith, David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, will lay before the house of commons his financial proposals, including the question of a loan for which the government is going to ask the authority of the house on Tuesday. There will be a vote of credit of considerable dimensions, and an additional vote for men.

Speaking in reply to the speech from the throne, a Bonar Law promised the opposition in prosecuting the war. The opposition leader said: "We stand in a better position now than we have done for many years. We have a vote of credit of 100,000 men, and we have a vote of credit of 100,000 men, and we have a vote of credit of 100,000 men."

Bonar Law emphasized the importance of the financial position and said that already the economic effects were being felt in Germany. This was shown by the rate of exchange, and this would become more evident as time progressed. As soon as Germany resumed the war, the economic effects would be shown with a pressure of which there was no conception.

A Few Queries. The leader of the opposition wished to know why a British naval force went to Antwerp, why the first lord of the admiralty, Winston Spencer Churchill, accompanied a military expedition, instead of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, minister of war, and something more about the naval engagement of the Channel coast.

The attendance at the opening of parliament was unusually small. The Unionist party, which now numbers 287, has no more than 119 of its members in service, either at the front or in home forces. Of 261 Liberals, 28 will be absent; 28 of them are with the fighting forces and four engaged in other army work.

The usual ceremony accompanied the opening of parliament, the King making a military progress thru the streets to Westminster Palace, but like the lord mayors show the customary color was lacking. Instead of the brilliantly uniformed Household Guards lining the streets and forming the escort, sober khaki marked the military features of the display.

A Brief Session. It is not anticipated that parliament will sit for more than a fortnight from today, at the end of which time there will be an adjournment until a week or so before Christmas.

Report on Spy Paris. The Labor members are primed with questions in regard to pay for the soldiers, allowances for their dependents and pensions, but criticism of the government by the opposition probably will be restrained.

King's Message. In the speech from the throne King George said: "My lords and gentlemen: The energies and sympathies of my subjects in every part of the empire are concentrated on the prosecution to a victorious issue of the war in which we are engaged. I have summoned you now in order that, sharing, as I am aware you do, my conviction, that it is a duty of paramount and supreme importance, you should take whatever steps are needed for its adequate discharge.

"Since I have addressed you the arena of the war has been enlarged by the participation in the struggle of the Ottoman Empire. In conjunction with my allies and in spite of repeated and continuous provocations, I strove so, in regard to Turkey, a friendly neutrality. But, counsels and alien influence have driven her into a policy of wanton and defiant aggression, and a state of war now exists between us. My Mussulman subjects know well that our rupture with Turkey has been forced upon me against my will, and I recognize with appreciation and gratitude the proofs which they have hastened to give of their loyal devotion and support.

Traditions Maintained. "My navy and army continue throughout the conflict to maintain in full measure their glorious traditions. We watch and follow their steadfastness and valor with thankfulness and pride, and there is through my empire a fixed determination to secure at whatever sacrifice the triumph of our arms and vindication of our cause.

"You will be asked to make due financial provision for the effective conduct of the war and the only measure which will be submitted to you at this stage of the session are such as seem necessary to my advisers for the attainment of the great purpose upon which the efforts of the empire are set. I cordially commend them to your patriotism and loyalty, and I pray that the Almighty will give His blessing to your counsels."

Cemetery Board Makes Agreement—Transfer Properties to Syndicate.

By a Staff Reporter. HAMILTON, Thursday Morning, Nov. 12.—At a meeting of the cemetery board last evening Chairman Campbell announced that the sub-committee appointed to deal with the transfer of cemetery properties with the McKim-trick syndicate had made arrangements for the transfer, which will be completed in a few days. The question will be sent on to the board of control for its sanction.

The financial report for October showed the receipts to be $1748.33, as compared with $1788.44 for the corresponding month last year, and the expenditures to be $1720.78, as against $2272.97 for October last year.

Many Attend Poultry Show. Large crowds attended the silver anniversary show of the Hamilton and Wentworth Poultry Association yesterday at the Cadillac showrooms, North James street. Considerable interest was shown by the visitors and the competition was keen.

There are now over 4000 birds, including chickens, ducks, geese and pigeons on exhibition. This number is considerably less than last year. Over $6000 in prize money is offered, and some of the best exhibitors from Canada and the United States have entries. The judging will close this evening, but the show will continue until Saturday evening.

Held Benefit Concert. There was a large attendance at the benefit concert in the L.O.O.F. Temple last evening, under the auspices of the Hamilton United Relief Association, and a good program was provided. Among those contributing to the program were Mrs. Shirley Jackson, Jessie Irving, Jeanne Reekie, J. J. Lindsay and J. McComachie.

Daughters of Empire. The members of the Municipal Chapter L.O.E. were entertained by the officers of the Hamilton Art Gallery in the old public library yesterday afternoon, while those present inspected the various works of art. A musical program was rendered by the Lomas Orchestra and Walter Faocock, who sang several patriotic songs.

Many Soldiers on Parade. Although many soldiers have left town with the first contingent, and many others are now in Toronto preparing to accompany the second expeditionary force, 276 turned out to the parade of the 51st Highlanders last evening. Considerable interest is being taken in the work by the men, who are now busy getting in readiness for the call for a third contingent.

Following officers were elected: Hon. President, Mrs. James Watson; President, Mrs. Robert Evans; vice-president, Mrs. J. H. Herring; Mrs. R. Hebron, Mrs. W. E. Hawkins and Mrs. Backie; treasurer, Mrs. George Vallance; recording secretary, Mrs. J. Ferguson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. H. Levy.

Two Candidates in Field. Two names were put in nomination for the West Hamilton seat in the legislature yesterday—that of Mayor Allan the Conservative candidate, and of Walter R. Rollo the candidate of the Independent Labor party. No nomination was announced some time ago that he would probably be an independent candidate in West Hamilton. Addresses were delivered by the two candidates (Mayor Allan and Walter Rollo), Allan Studholme, M.L.A., and George Mathewson, president of the Independent Labor party, who spoke in the interests of Rollo, while George Evans and George Mathewson spoke on behalf of Mayor Allan.

Scenes Captured. "During the afternoon a German aeroplane was captured quite suddenly in the sky. It was seen to have fallen in her object and was fighting in order to obtain good views. What his opinion is worth remains to be seen.

During the afternoon a German aeroplane was captured quite suddenly in the sky. It was seen to have fallen in her object and was fighting in order to obtain good views. What his opinion is worth remains to be seen.

The maximum efforts of the Germans on this day, however, were directed to the south of Ypres, as if to form a wedge between that town and the Armentieres on the south, and bombardment of our position in the quarter of the field was very heavy, the fire was well replied to by those of the French.

The French delivered a severe attack in the direction of Willems, which remained disputed, and fiercely blasting amidst a hail of shells from both sides.

More to the south, the enemy advanced in force, but were still further towards our right flank attack in the neighborhood of Armentieres met with the same success. On our extreme right several companies were repulsed, but at one of the points the Germans gained ground, obtaining possession of Chapelle.

The inundation around Melle had by this day reached the trenches, and it is said that heavy fumes and some field work had to be abandoned in the night. "South of the river there were minor attacks against our position, which were beaten off. It was the violence of the German attack was abating even the night being in some places less than it had been."

"Naturally, in an encounter of this nature the battalion suffered a heavy loss, but, the inability to maintain its position, it acquitted itself with gallantry and coolness in a situation of peculiar difficulty and, following the national motto of 'Nemo Me Impune Lacescit,' inflicted far more damage on the enemy than it received.

Brilliant Bayonet Charge. "On Nov. 1 the full violence of the enemy's attack again fell on our left, their main efforts being still directed slightly south of Ypres. Such was the force of the onslaught and the weight of the artillery supporting it that our line was temporarily driven back. It was soon re-established, however, and by evening the situation in this quarter

WOMEN KNITTED THROUGHOUT MEETING

Even Premier Hearst's Oratory Could Not Drown Patriotic Industry

AT CONVOCATION HALL

Annual Convention of Women's Institutes Largely Attended Last Night

"You women have a large part to play in this war and perhaps a harder part than anyone else. Many of you have already with a smile on your face said good-bye to your sons, or some other loved one, but we know the stock from which you come and you are thinking that the call of the empire is louder than the call of the mother," said Premier Hearst to the women of the Women's Institutes who held their annual convention at Convocation Hall last night.

The large hall was crowded with women who represented the various rural districts throughout Ontario. The President, Miss Guest, is a short address spoke of the work which was possible for the women in this hour of need and told those present to proceed with their work of knitting during the meeting which was done in a large number of cases, even the platform not being free from patriotic workers who refused to stop during the progress of the meeting.

Students Should Help. President Falconer of the university told of the pleasures of being in Canada at the present time and of the duty of all Canadians. "Why should those in England, France and Belgium suffer and yet we in this country have every advantage remaining intact? We should not become selfish, but let us prove worthy of our heritage. He told how the universities could help women in their work. Two out of every three students at the Toronto University, she declared, came from outside of Toronto and many were to become doctors, lawyers, ministers, engineers and teachers. It was their duty to see that the smallest child in every home should be better educated.

School Consolidation. The question of the consolidation of the schools was dealt with by Mr. James. He gave an example of what could be done in this direction by referring to a case in Manitoba, where the schools were consolidated into one and children came nine miles in wagons to attend. He declared that the attendance was much larger.

During the evening the ladies of the institute presented their superintendent, George Putnam, with a purse of gold and silver, and a number of the very few men who had proved capable of managing 25,000 women.

OFFER OF FREE TEACHERS TO BE SUBMITTED TODAY

Net proceeds, $4,804.00.

To the Hospital Ship Fund the chapter sent $1000, leaving $444 for carrying on relief work.

Among the many pictures of reproductions of actual scenes in the war zone which appear in this week's Sunday World there are views of how the Germans make their prisoners work at road-making and as beasts of burden in taking the place of horses. There is a pathetic picture of a Belgian priest giving the last rites to a dying soldier. Views of English and Canadian Red Cross nurses who are taught to pitch in addition to their duties of nursing. There is a view of the battle fought in the trenches, a grim illustration of the deadly nature of this war. The Sunday World is for sale by all news-vendors and newsboys at five cents a copy.

CONCERT WAS GOOD

North Toronto Musical and Dramatic Association gave a magnificent performance of "The Mayor" at Columbus Hall, before a large and enthusiastic audience. All the characters were well taken and it would be impossible to give too many credits to the entertainment. Miss Vera Butcher sang exceptionally well, and also did J. A. Dawson and Rev. G. Davis, while the large chorus was well gowned and attractive.

BOOK REVIEWS

The Wife of Sir Isaac Harman. Any book by the author of "The War and After" articles from which appeared in The World under the pseudonym Looking Ahead, is bound to be of interest to lovers of the sane, the useful and the best literature.

While this latest book by H. G. Wells does not solve the problem of the war, it embodies a domestic theme that is not easily overlooked, even in such a stressful time as the present. The story, while most absorbing, is really the most important part of the book.

Lady Harman, a beautiful, brainy woman, is quite unconscious of either her very early marriage to her very possessive husband, Sir Isaac, or his domineering and unlovable nature. He had kept her, his wife, in a state of ignorance, but quite incapable of anything else.

Lady Harman after nearly eight years of Sir Isaac begins to see life as it is. She had been as one to whom the staff was made of black monkey fur, and she had had her mind had come to womanhood some years after her body, and now it was teeming with thoughts about all she had for years accepted about her husband, about her four children, about all her circumstances.

She was prominent in social and athletic circles. He graduated from the Royal Military College at the head of his class and had been promoted to battalion sergeant-major, the highest position with the cavalry. He was the recipient of the sword of honor.

The two were at Oxford University in England, six years ago. Commandant Cronje is a nephew of Gen. Cronje of the Boer forces.

Prof. Mulloy was one of the brightest young men at Oxford and a good fellow.

CANADIAN-MADE PIANOS FOR AUSTRALIA. Ye Olde Firms of Heintzman & Co. Limited, Have Entered the Field of the Antipodes.

A recent visitor in Toronto was Mr. H. G. Cutler, representative of W. H. Pianos & Co. Limited, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, the largest and wealthiest house in the piano business in that country. The Australians have been importing their high-class pianos from Germany, but "Made in Germany" is a slogan that does not count today in the sister colony any more than in Canada. This has made it necessary that the Australian piano men should seek other fields for business and this accounts for the visit of Mr. Cutler to Toronto.

Mr. Cutler went very carefully into the question of the merits of the Heintzman Co. Piano, as it was necessary that he should secure an instrument that would take as high a place in his country as do some of the high-class German pianos which have obtained years of standing there. The investigation satisfied W. H. Pianos & Co. that no mistake could be made in accepting the plan of Ye Olde Firms of Heintzman & Co. for their Australian trade and an order was placed for immediate shipment of samples of Grand and Upright Pianos and the Heintzman & Co. famous Player-Piano.

Mr. Cutler was frank in his statement that not only was he confident that the Heintzman & Co. Piano would become the high-class piano of Australia, but he was greatly interested in the strong Canadian support manifested by Mr. George Heintzman, president of the Heintzman & Co. Limited. In him he found not simply a native born Canadian, but one enthusiastically loyal to all British principles. He feels sure that Heintzman & Co. Piano made in Canada by strong and out-and-out Canadian firm as that of which Mr. George Heintzman is president, will create all kinds of enthusiasm among his fellow-citizens in this sister colony.

Mr. Heintzman is quite confident that it will not be long before they will be shipping pianos in carloads to Australia.

On the outbreak of hostilities he was removed from the staff college at Quetta, India, to South Africa.

Capt. Carr-Harris has a brother, R.R. Carr-Harris, and a sister, Miss Marguerite Carr-Harris, of Toronto. He was prominent in social and athletic circles. Worse Than War

Stale and Cracked Eggs a Menace to the Public Health

History records that more men have died through pestilence and disease than through actual warfare. Sanitation and pure food laws have done much to improve the public health by making it impossible to supply food that is not fit for human consumption. There yet remains, however, the menace of stale eggs which are sold regularly to the public at too high a price.

Fresh eggs are good and should be encouraged, but no woman who values the health of her family will put stale eggs in her pies, cakes and puddings. The men who sell stale eggs offer to the public a pure substitute for eggs in baking and cooking known as NO-EG.

NO-EG is pure and made from the egg product, containing nothing but the food elements we eat every day. NO-EG comes fresh every time it is required. NO-EG cannot get stale. It is a wholesome food product, scientifically prepared. NO-EG is economical because it gives the housewife eggs at an average of 6 1/2c a dozen.

Sold in 25c tins at your Grocer's.

Widening Upper Yonge Street

A movement in the city council to rescind the bylaw to widen upper Yonge street to a retrograde step that should not be permitted if a method of keeping the bylaw alive without the immediate expenditure of money can be devised. Much labor has been spent in getting the improvement to its present stage. Of all thoroughfares in the city, Yonge street should be a model highway, and even the war should be no barrier to the widening being put thru.

Perhaps legislation might be required to save the city becoming involved in litigation if the work is not proceeded with at once, and if so, the promise of such must be obtained from the Ontario Cabinet. The project is too important to the city's future to be allowed to drop, and if the financing can be delayed until conditions are more favorable, without having the suggested improvement killed by rescinding the bylaw, it will be a good public benefit.

Bar Them All Out

The World some time ago named The Literary Digest, The Saturday Evening Post and The American Review of Reviews as anti-British publications which should not be allowed to circulate in Canada. We were answered with flaming advertisements in the columns of our contemporaries, urging Canadians to subscribe to The Literary Digest.

This week, however, we are glad to note that The Winnipeg Telegram has returned their money to The Literary Digest people, has thrown out their advertisement and warned its readers against that publication. The Hamilton Spectator has taken the same course. Both papers unite with The World in urging the government to keep The Literary Digest out of Canada.

And now comes The Toronto Star, and sustains us in our objections to The Saturday Evening Post, while The Toronto News unsparingly condemns The American Review of Reviews. But our neighbor, The News, deals tenderly with, almost apologizes for The Literary Digest, saying: "We cannot require American publications to solicit British censorship." Perhaps not, but Postmaster-General Casgrain can help The Literary Digest out of Canada. We are not calling upon industry this or that paper as the country tries a man indicted for some crime. We have in Canada a mixed population, and we have a right to exclude any literature that might inflame any section of the people! The Kaiser is quite within his rights when he buys up or buys out American magazines, and we are quite within our rights when we keep them out or kick them out of Canada.

The Literary Digest, The American Review of Reviews and The Saturday Evening Post should be barred from Canada. Unfriendly, seditious or pro-German papers, all like spies, have got to be treated as enemies. We unhesitatingly reaffirm that these papers are in the service of the Kaiser, and because of their circulation in this country are doubly dangerous.

Independent Telephony

With a capital investment of $5,000,000 and 70,000 subscribers, the 500 independent telephone companies may be regarded as a vital and progressive factor in the social and commercial economy of Ontario. The association, which represents these companies, which opened its annual convention yesterday morning, listened to encouraging reports from the president and secretary, but further public interest must be aroused before the association has fulfilled the possibilities of its position. The present conditions of long-distance telephony cannot be regarded as satisfactory to independent companies, and steps must eventually be taken to secure a provincial trunk line for long-distance business, available to all companies on equal terms.

The Growing Demand for Bank Reform

The Montreal Financial Times is greatly exercised over the disposition of many newspapers to reprint, and favorably comment upon the articles which have appeared in these columns respecting the banking and currency situation. It chides La Patrie of Montreal, and rails at The Vancouver World for following closely the lead of Mr. F. Maclean. The Financial Times evidently thinks that something ought to be done about the matter. Perhaps the banks will request the postmaster-general to exclude from the mails all papers which dare to criticize the banks, including, in addition to La Patrie and our Vancouver namesake, The Toronto World, The Grain Growers' Guide, The Regina Province, The Edmonton Capital and many other papers in Ontario and the west.

We have more than once suggested to our neighbors, the banks, that they should frankly state their case and defend it with legitimate argument, instead of having their "poor relations," the financial press, call names. To say that a man is an anarchist because he agrees with every bank president in the United States, and with the president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, in favoring a national bank of rediscout under government control, is on its face ridiculous. It is on a par with the effort to tie up the banking and currency question with the French Revolution. We will have a word to say about the French Revolution further on.

We may pause here to note that The Financial Times seems to be joining "these weird financial creatures" who do not believe that a one hundred per cent gold reserve is necessary to support an issue of national currency. Indeed The Times goes so far as to say:

If the banks were deprived of their currency privilege the Dominion could then safely issue quarter reserve notes up to a total of about $150,000,000, that being about the lowest amount of paper currency required by the people of Canada.

That is to say that if all paper currency were issued by the government, it would be conservative and perfectly safe for the government to issue $150,000,000 of paper currency against a gold reserve of $37,500,000. So long as the volume of currency is not in excess of the needs of business, a 25 per cent gold reserve is, in the opinion of The Montreal Financial Times, quite sufficient.

So at last we are getting on common ground. Having ceased calling names for the moment, and being forced to admit that Mr. Maclean has never advocated an unlimited issue of irredeemable paper currency, our contemporary finally says that the head and front of our offending is the proposal to issue a national currency up to $500,000,000, against a gold reserve of $125,000,000. That proposal is condemned, not as being wrong in principle, but because, in the opinion of The Financial Times, only $150,000,000 of currency is required for the business needs of Canada. That is a question of detail. We think that the country needs more money and that credit is too restricted. Our contemporary thinks there is too much money and that credit is being generously extended to all persons, firms and corporations deserving of credit.

And now a word about the French Revolution. We observed on several occasions most laudatory notices in the financial press, and in The Montreal Gazette, of what purported to be a great work on the financial question by Hon. Alexander D. White, emeritus president of Cornell University. It was entitled, so we were told, "Flat Money in France," and dealt with the forty billions of worthless paper money issued by Robespierre and Danton during the reign of terror. Some of the journals that so loudly applauded the book, darkly hinted that greenbacks and the guillotine were inseparably associated.

We were naturally anxious to see this book, and searched the book stores for a copy, but none could be found. At last we learned indirectly that instead of being an elaborate work recently produced in opposition to the banking and financial proposals recently brought about by legislation in the United States, it was a pamphlet written during a political campaign years and years ago. A member of The World staff wrote to Professor White and received from him a letter, which we published in these columns, commending the federal reserve bank scheme and declaring that he was not opposed to a national currency, such as they have in the United States, but only to a paper currency so recklessly issued as to make its redemption out of the question.

The effort of those who hailed this reprint of a long forgotten pamphlet as a great discovery in the world of finance, was to discredit the bank of discount and condemn the national currency, and we, not unaturally, supposed the pamphlet was being printed and distributed by the chartered banks. We now learn from a letter to The World by Mr. John McKay, that he individually reprinted the pamphlet for private circulation.

Why? Was there any propaganda in Canada when this pamphlet was issued for flat money? What heresy was there about that time which he did, should now go further and tell why he did it.

The Toronto News comes forward and gives testimony as follows: It may as well be recognized that the excellent Canadian banking system was devised chiefly to promote industrial expansion, and that in justice to the farmers, we should establish such machinery for agricultural credit as has long been enjoyed in Europe, and as has more recently been adopted in most other countries. Canada, far from being a backward country, is in the vanguard in dealing with this fundamentally important question.

That fairly sizes up the situation. When the first Canadian banks were organized long before Confederation, there was practically no currency except the tokens put out by mechanics and business men. When men of substance proposed to organize banks and issue notes, the province of United Canada gladly permitted them to write their own charters. These charters were copied almost verbatim by succeeding banks, and when the Dominion of Canada came into existence, the Bank Act was framed on these old charters, and in spite of the so-called revisions, has remained force almost without amendment.

The chartered banks were intended to be purely commercial banks, they were never supposed to lend money to farmers or upon farm land, but to merchants and business men upon prime commercial paper. They ultimately established savings departments, altho they were never intended to be savings banks.

The News intimates that the government at Ottawa is waking up to the situation, and will do something to aid, or establish agricultural credit banks. In the United States, the Federal Reserve Act, by establishing government banks of rediscout and issue, is taking care of the farmer as well as the business man. Not only will the banks with the aid of government, advance money upon the collateral of crops and live stock, but in all country districts they will loan to farmers on farm mortgages for five years. We think The News is inclined to recommend the Borden government to go in for a national currency and a government bank of rediscout, it may yet win over Finance Minister White, who, two years ago, once signed the withdrawal of J. B. Forgan of Nova Scotia and Chicago, before the house banking and commerce committee. By the way, when Mr. Forgan went from Ottawa to Washington, he found that his ideas were as antiquated as the Canadian banking system. Before he left the witness stand in Washington, he was out for a national currency and a government bank of rediscout.

But we venture to think that a good many standpatters on the banking and currency question will be hurrying to the mourner's bench before long. Canada cannot forever remain a back number, and the people cannot be made to believe in a monetary system, which every country in the world, except Canada has discarded, is the best system. That Winnipeg confederate, who has been manufacturing and the farmers was not the graceful minstrel depicted by The News. The farmers demanded redress of grievances before discussing anything else. They complained bitterly of the banks and the banking currency, and demanded some such system for Canada as is now being inaugurated in the United States.

A New York despatch to The Montreal News says: If there were a unified or central bank under the direction of the federal reserve board at Washington it would not be necessary to retain the sub-treasuries of the United States. Almost all of those who have given study to banking and fiscal subjects have been persuaded that the best banking system of the United States would be based upon a central or unified bank.

A good many people will agree with this, and The World was much struck at the time by the plan submitted to congress along these lines by Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York. The Federal Reserve Bank Act would be more effective if the regional banks were branches of a central government bank of issue and rediscout, instead of being merely under the control of some detached board of control at Washington. Unfortunately the Democratic party could not, for political reasons, establish another United States bank.

No political party in Canada is so handicapped, and we believe that all will agree with us in saying that if anything like the great American reform is to be effected in the Dominion, it should be by the establishment of The Bank of Canada. That was the proposal made by Mr. W. F. Maclean in 1912, a year before the Vanderlip proposal was submitted to congress. A big central bank of rediscout and issue under government control, with the chartered banks deprived of their circulation, but entitled to receive national currency thru The Bank of Canada, would effect, in a more simple and direct manner, all the great benefits which we think are bound to accrue to the United States when the Federal Reserve Bank Act goes into full operation on the 15th.

And here's another letter of some account: Mr. W. F. Maclean, M. P., Ottawa, Ont.

Dear Sir—I am glad that in The Toronto World you have at least started a discussion regarding Canadian banking; let us hope it will be the means of leading the "common man" in Canada to devote some attention and study to the system that constitutes such a perfect weapon in the hands of the "classes," or whatever name one may choose to call them, to manipulate things, commercial, political, and social, for their own purposes. Do not forget in discussing United States banks, that their savings banks and national banks are separate institutions. Canadian banks, on the other hand, operate savings departments by means of which current liabilities are suspended and converted into interest-bearing liabilities payable after notice, or on a fixed date. By means of this practice Canadian banks, instead of facilitating clearance of debts, create them and prevent a clearance, also cause a stringency in currency.

In the United States, small local banks have developed and sustained a large number of manufacturing centres all over the entire country, while in Canada the banking system tends to centralize manufacturing industries and all commercial interests, creating and maintaining a small number of large centres—surely the former condition would be preferable.

President Wilson, by means of recent banking legislation, has created an instrument whereby currency will be withdrawn from illegitimate channels and placed at the disposal of the purely commercial interests of the United States, and in agitating that Canada follow in the lead of the United States in this matter you are certainly on the right track.

There are three important changes that should be brought about in the Canadian banking system: (1). Separate savings banks from discount banks. (2). Facilitate in whatever manner necessary the establishment of independent local banks, and supply them with national currency.

(3). Make it impossible for chartered banks to place currency and capital at disposal of speculative interests, trusts, etc., to facilitate "steals." The functions of a chartered bank should be only to serve the legitimate commercial interests of the country, to facilitate production and exchange, accumulation and distribution of products and clearance of debts incurred in carrying on these operations.

You have indeed taken up the task of a Titan in your endeavor to effect a reform in the Canadian banking system. It is a question that any wise government would do well to earnestly consider, it is of greater importance than the great tariff itself. A correct banking system would bring to Canada the prosperity she should have enjoyed, since Confederation. May God bless your efforts, and may overwhelming forces rally to your support in the arduous work you have commenced.

Yours for a reformed banking system. CALVIN ANDREW, Hamilton, Ont.

Some of the manufacturers here are already working night as well as day shifts and expect to keep this up the next six or seven months.

NEW MARKET, UXBIDGE WILL NOT STAND OUT

Representatives Declare Request for Co-Operation in Hydro Project Will Be Accepted to.

All the municipalities, 15 in number, directly interested in the construction of the hydro-electric radial line, attended an important conference at the Provincial Hydro-Electric Power Commission offices, at the Continental Life Building, Bay street, yesterday afternoon.

Controller McCarthy, chairman of the conference, congratulated the representatives upon the great victory attained at the polls when the proposal that the municipalities should guarantee the debentures for the construction of the road was carried by 13 out of the 15 municipalities in which it was submitted. In view of this unanimous vote by municipalities, it was highly desirable that the assent of Newmarket and the Township of Uxbridge should be obtained. He recalled that under the new conditions they would give a consenting vote.

The conference was also assured by the chairman that no time would be lost in preparation to extend to the consenting municipalities the benefits which would be followed up in detail by the construction of the radial line. He assured the Toronto representatives that Toronto would be prepared to give prompt co-operation in the construction of the line, and in financing the connection of it with the Danforth avenue car line, and in getting a suitable city terminal.

Conference unanimously expressed favor of asking the municipal councils of Newmarket and Uxbridge Township to re-submit the radial railway bill to the ratepayers.

The Newmarket and Uxbridge Township representatives would be certain to demand that the indications were that both places would now adopt the law.

Many Houses Vacant. A statement contained in the report is that the number of vacant houses in Toronto at the present time is much larger than at any time in the past since the war. The doctor estimates that there are now 4000 dwellings unoccupied.

Fifty lodgers' houses have been closed because of their unsanitary condition. No trace of the foot-and-mouth disease was found among the cattle killed at the abattoirs, the city health officer stated.

Plan Out Relief Work. The board of control are endeavoring to get estimates on how much work they can put on during the winter which can be used as relief work and in this connection the board yesterday morning decided to confer with the city solicitor.

Reports from the heads of departments show that the works department has $560,000 worth of work on sewers and waterworks; parks department, $48,300 on grading; street cleaning department, $10,000 on an incinerator plant; in addition to the erection of $50,000 worth of buildings at the Industrial Farm and the redecoration of the city hall. The total of the estimates is practically a million dollars.

League Factions Quarrel. It looks as if the British Welfare League must close its doors this winter at a time when the institution will be especially needed; yesterday morning two deputations of control and aired their differences over the issue of opposing factions in the district.

Business. The board ordered them to get together, but most of the deputation thought this could not be done and that they would have to abandon the work.

The recommendation of the committee followed an address by Garry Herrmann, president of the National Association, in which he declared that organized baseball leagues should have salary limits in keeping with the gate receipts.

INTERNATIONAL TO BENEFIT BY PEACE

Will Gain Higher Classification—Meeting Today in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—In an interview here today, President James A. Gilmore of the Federal League expressed the opinion that peace between the outlawed major and organized baseball was near and that the negotiations might be concluded at a conference scheduled for tomorrow in Chicago.

That the Federal League team will be reorganized into two separate leagues, one of which will be incorporated into another league, with perhaps a new name.

The first no-hit, no-man-to-first-base game in the history of modern league baseball was pulled off 10 years ago, on May 8, 1904, with old Cy Young as pitcher.

PEACE IN BASEBALL AT ONCE IF AT ALL

Organized Ball Magnates Meet the Federals Today in Chicago.

Special to The Toronto World. OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 11.—E. G. Barrow, president of the International League, met Omaha tonight in company with Garry Herrmann, en route to Chicago for another and probably final conference with Weeghman and the Federal League magnates.

That the Federal League team will be reorganized into two separate leagues, one of which will be incorporated into another league, with perhaps a new name.

The first no-hit, no-man-to-first-base game in the history of modern league baseball was pulled off 10 years ago, on May 8, 1904, with old Cy Young as pitcher.

FEDERAL LEAGUE MUST GET AN HONORABLE SETTLEMENT

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—The Federal League was organized on a constitutional basis and will continue as such under its own name, no matter what deal may be made with organized baseball, according to a statement made tonight by President James A. Gilmore of the Federal League, who declared that all the owners of the league still stood together for a fair settlement.

The Victoria hockey team is already practicing on the artificial ice in Detroit city ready for games. A continuation of this cold weather would mean good ice in Ottawa two weeks hence.
