LLOYD GEORGE ANSWERS HUNS

hamulation, of servitude, of anxiety, of agony—but at the end of Belgium will be greater than she ever was. Her sacrifice will be her discipline, her fortitude will be her redemption. In the words of her heroic king: "A country that is defending itself is respected by all; that country will not perish."

"Three years, even of agony, are not long in the life of a nation, and the delivery of Belgium is assuredly coming. But when it comes that deliverance must be complete. France owes it, Britain owes it, Europe owes it; the civilization of the world owes it to Belgium that her deliverance shall be complete when it comes. "But what have we in the way? There is a new chancellor in Germany. The junkers have thrown the old chancellor into the waste paper basket with his scrap of paper and they are lying there side by side. (Laughter and cheers.) "You will not have long to wait before junkerdom will follow. What hope is there in his speech of peace? I mean an honorable peace which is the only possible peace of Michaelis. "It is a dextrous speech; a facing-all-ways speech. There are phrases for those who earnestly desire peace, which the military powers of Germany will understand; phrases about making the frontiers of Germany secure. That was the phrase that Anne-Lorraine that was the phrase which has drenched Europe in blood since 1914; that is the phrase, which, if they dare, will annex Belgium and Courland; that is the phrase that will once more turn Europe into a walter of blood inside a generation unless it is wiped out by the statesmanship of Europe. "There were phrases for men of the democratic mind in that speech. Many. He was going to call men from the Reichstag to co-operate with the government. They were even to get offices, the men of all parties. That was for democratic sentiment in Germany. But there were phrases to satisfy the junkers that the others meant nothing. There was to be no party with imperialistic rights, as they will call the men from the Reichstag to offices, but they will not be ministers, but clerks. (Laughter, etc.) "Germany's Aims. "It is thus the speech of a man waiting on the military situation, and let the allies, Russia, Great Britain, France, Italy—all of them, bear that in mind. It is a speech that may be made better by improving the military situation, and if the Germans win in the west, if they destroy the Russian army in the east, if their friends the Turks drive Britain out of Mesopotamia, and if the U-boats sink more merchant ships; then that speech, which I believe me, means annexation all round and military autocracy, more established than ever, theirs. "But if, on the other hand, the Germans should be driven back on the west front and beaten on the east, and their friends the Turks fall in Baghdad and the submarines are a failure of the high seas, that speech is alright. "We must all help to make that a good speech. There are possibilities of it of excellence. Let us help the chancellor; let us give assistance to the new chancellor to make it a real success. But for the moment, it means the military party has won. "Enemy Chooses War. "Well, now, I want to repeat in another form the statement I made before. Whatever manner of government they choose to have rule over the German people themselves. But what manner of government we can trust to make peace with, that is our business. Democracy has not its guarantee of peace, and if you cannot get it in Germany, then we must secure other guarantees as a substitute. The German chancellor's speech shows, in my judgment, that those who are in charge of affairs in Germany have, for the moment, elected for war. There is no hope for Belgium in that speech. It is not even mentioned. Its philosophy is full of menace. Belgium and it will take Liege and the control of Antwerp away. That is not pleasing to a good woman for Belgium, but that is the necessity for seeing that the economic interests of Germany have been secured. It means that if they restore Belgium, the restoration will be a sham. The destruction of the allies is this: That Belgium must be restored as a free, independent people; that Belgium must be a free people, not a protectorate. We must not have merely a Belgium shattered by the Prussian sword. The sceptre must be Belgian, the sword must be Belgian and the soul must be Belgian. "Sham Peace. "I have read that speech as it was my duty to read it—once, twice and thrice—to seek anything in it from which we could hope for the end of this bloody struggle, and I see in it a sham independence for Belgium, a sham democracy for Germany, and a sham peace for Europe. And I say that Europe has not sacrificed millions of her gallant souls to set up a soil consecrated by their blood as a mere stimulant and encourage his people by doting them with illusions. And Germany will see much illusions as others which have been dispelled in the harassing six weeks that have just gone. "Piracy Has Failed. "The circumvention of the blockade by the opening of the road to Baghdad has gone; the seppelin raids—where are they? And now it is the Turks and the U-boats—both equally barbarous and good company, one for the other. (Laughter.) The U-boats are to put England out of business. Owing to the submarine attacks, we cannot last much longer. Well, I am sorry to disillusion him at the outset of his career, but surely, we are entering our production and diminishing our losses at sea. April was hoped to be a veritable triumph. They can look back to it as a month's laurel for Germany. The last two months—I want to give these facts to you three weeks with the corresponding three weeks in April, we have not lost as many ships as we did in the month of April. (Loud cheers.) "Building Many Ships. "That is not all. Our shipbuilding has gone down disastrously during the last two years, but this year we shall turn out four times as many ships as we did last year. The last two months—I want to give these facts to you three weeks with the corresponding three weeks in April, we have not lost as many ships as we did in the month of April. (Loud cheers.) "Powers of Endurance. "The people of this country have not yet been called upon to face privations comparable with those which the German population have endured for nearly two years. And do they really imagine that the British people are less capable of sacrifice for their free institutions than the German people are for their autocratic institutions? And we have got that power of sacrifice in reserve if the harvest of 1918 fails. I do not want them to harbor any delusions that they are going to put Great Britain out of this fight until liberty is re-established throughout the world. "But," says Michaelis, "America has no ships; as a matter of fact, no army, and when they bring them across the sea." And so he says to the Germans, "Don't you worry too much about America." "He doesn't know America. He knows America as little as Germany did Britain. "They are going to make the same mistake about America as they did about Britain. They said we would not fight. If we would, we could not raise one. "I think they have discovered their mistake about us, and now they are just going through the same process with America. "I want to put this to them: If Britain, if this country, were a very large country, while she is maintaining and equipping and even building up equipment for an army of millions in the field, while maintaining the largest navy in the world, can organize herself in the third year of an exhaustive war to turn out millions of tons of new shipbuilding, it is actually declaring that the world, can organize herself in the third year of an exhaustive war, with endless natural resources, going to be beaten merely because she puts forth no effort. A man who talks like that is a dangerous man. I predict—it is dangerous to indulge in predictions.

even if our losses are increased. Those are such distressing facts, but we have to mention them. We cut down our imports very considerably, by several million tons, in order to save our ships. "Want Free Germany. "A great German newspaper said the other day that the Germans were fighting for the freedom of the fatherland. It was never truer and it is less true today than it ever was. The freer Germany is, the better we like it. Those who are enemies of freedom and independence in Germany are her own rulers and not the allied powers. We prefer to free Germany. We could make peace with a free Germany, but a Germany dominated by autocracy we cannot make any terms of peace with. (Cheers.) When they were fighting perhaps a corrupt and narrower autocracy in the east, they had some specious pretext for appeals of that kind to their own people. They have none for what has happened. Russia has not merely become a great democracy which is not fighting to extend its own territory. It has actually declared that it is prepared to concede independence to a nation which was once under the Russian flag. It has now become a struggle between two definite groups in Germany: one a democratic group, a group of democratic free men; another a group of nations governed by military autocracy—Germany, Austria, Turkey, King Ferdinand—its associates—that was the whole situation. "Liberty's Cause. "In coming to the great struggles on the east and on the west every German soldier must know in his heart that if he falls he will be dying for military autocracy in fighting against the confederation of free people. On the other hand, every Belgian soldier, every French soldier, every Russian soldier knows that he is risking his life for the freedom and independence of his native land. Every British, every American, every Portuguese soldier knows that he is fighting side by side with others for international right and justice throughout the world, and it is that growing conviction, more even than the knowledge of our vast unexhausted resources which gives them all heart and gives us heart to go on fighting to the end, knowing full well that the future of mankind and our trust to maintain and to defend it." (Loud cheers.)

CHURCHES WARNED OF GREAT CHANGE

Masses Too Long Deceived By Those Who Parade as Paragons.

OLD ORDER MUST GO

Men Who Have Bled Will Stretch Hands to Grasp Reins of Power.

Rev. A. E. Ribourg, D.D., preached at Saint Albany's Cathedral, Sunday morning, on "Christianity That Counts," emphasizing the idea that the Christianity that counts is not the Christianity that incessantly repeats "Lord, Lord," but the Christianity that does the will of the Father. The revelation of Jesus Christ must be lived by, and lived in terms of the needs of the world we know, or we do not possess it.

It possesses the qualifications to heal mankind of its errors. "The failure of Christianity to bring better conditions in the world has no doubt disappointed many, and we are being told that there will be more irreligion after the war than ever before. That the days of the 'Religio depopulata' may be forthcoming, would not be a matter of surprise, if we judge by the present indifference of the masses, during these days of national anxiety. Must be Purified.

Churches must stop worshipping at the altar of "Mammon and stand for social justice and political honesty. They will exact that capital and labor effect an understanding so that both may be able to work on a just and equitable basis."

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR LOST SAILORS

Men of Sunken Battleship Vanguard Remembered at Trinity Church.

UNIQUE CEREMONY

British Naval Ensign Hoisted in the Pulpit at Half-Mast.

Unique, in that it was possibly the only service of its kind ever held in Toronto, an impressive memorial service was conducted in Trinity Church, East King street, last night for the 500 officers and men who died when the British battleship Vanguard blew up and sank following an internal explosion, July 9.

Rev. Alfred Hall, senior chaplain of Canada's sea forces, who delivered the sermon, praised the British navy, its officers and men, declaring that the sailors were now sober sailors and lived Christian lives. After he had paid rich tributes of respect to their memory, a standard-bearer marched to the pulpit with the British flag at half-mast. Prayer and song was offered in eulogy and the congregation sang the National Anthem as the flag was hoisted to the top of the standard.

RETRACTS EVIDENCE REGARDING TEACHER
 Letter From Counsel for Ellis Family Changes Aspect of Case.

INQUEST CONTINUES
 Harry Ellis Cross-Examined By Crown Attorney as to Girl's Illness.

Under a grilling examination by Crown Attorney R. H. Greer, which lasted about an hour and a half Saturday night, Harry Ellis, an undertaker, of 323 College street, added his testimony to the coroner's inquest into the circumstances surrounding the cause of death and burial of his seventeen-year-old niece, Florence W. Cook, in the inquest being conducted by Coroner Dr. W. G. Graham in the city morgue, Lombard street.

The prosecutor was particularly severe in his questioning when Mr. Ellis apparently failed to satisfy him as to the exact cause why he (Ellis) did not learn the correct nature of the illness of the girl. More than once the witness stated that he had seen the girl in the city morgue, Lombard street.

Retracts Statements.
 Following his examination, W. E. Raney, acting for the teacher whose name had been connected with the case, read to Mr. Ellis a letter he (Mr. Raney) had received from James E. Raney, counsel for the Ellis family, which stated that Mrs. Ellis desired to retract the statements supposed to have been made by her connecting the name of a Harbord Collegiate teacher with Florence Cook's sickness. The letter said in part: "Confirming what I said to you in our conversation, I desire now to retract any statements that have been made by Mrs. Ellis in any way connecting the name of a teacher of the Harbord school with the matter which is the subject of this enquiry, were made by her when she was suffering from great mental and nervous strain, and she now regrets having made them, and desires that I should on her behalf retract them unreservedly. She does not even know the teacher to whom reference was made, and all that she knows about him is that her niece (the dead girl) always spoke of him in terms of praise.

"I may add that I have myself made careful inquiries for the purpose of ascertaining what, if any, ground there was for connecting the teacher's name with this case, and I can find none."

Mr. Raney read the letter in order to record its statements. Ellis acquiesced in the attitude of his wife in this particular. Shortly before Mr. Ellis concluded his testimony, Crown Attorney Greer questioned him regarding books in his home to which the young girl had access. The undertaker admitted that Mrs. Ellis had given Florence a book entitled "Plain Facts," which dealt with zoology, instructing her to read it.

No Adverse Reports.
 The undertaker in opening his story described his niece as a girl who was inclined to obesity, who liked to have her own way. She was about 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighed about 120 pounds, he said. She was of average brightness normally, the undertaker testified, which she had attended for two years after passing thru primary schools. He said that teachers compared her work.

After explaining details concerning his wife's departure for a visit and Florence's home life following that departure, Mr. Ellis began to tell of the latter's illness. He said that the maid, Edith Copeland, came to him on Saturday and asked for money to buy powders for Florence, as she was suffering from a headache. He didn't see her around the house often in the next two days, but said that he asked how she was and he passed her room on Monday night, receiving no answer.

On Wednesday morning she explained to him that her chest was sore and she asked him to bring Dr. Dawson when he told her she must have either Dr. Dawson or Dr. Green to give her treatment. Ellis said that Dr. Dawson arrived soon and was at Florence's bedside alone except for the presence of the maid. Afterward the physician explained that the girl had a "nasty cold and some little bronchitis," the witness said. The physician also said that Florence's stomach was in a bad condition and she had some temperature. Mr. Ellis testified.

The physician visited the girl twice daily until Friday, when he ordered a nurse, Mr. Ellis told him that he would send for Mrs. Ellis, whom Florence called "mother," instead.

"Of course you asked what was wrong?" queried Attorney Greer.

"No, sir," said Mr. Ellis, who then went on to tell of his wife's arrival in response to his telephone message and the ensuing hours, which brought from the physician the statement that he would like to have a consultation.

"Why?" asked Mr. Greer.

"He didn't say why, except that there was something he wanted to know about. He said it might be necessary to send Florence to the hospital. He mentioned a special technical term, which I thought meant something about bowels or appendix."

"Now, don't lose your memory," ordered the crown attorney, "did you think it was something to do with the appendix?" the witness replied.

"Did he say appendix?"

"I'm not certain. He was talking in my office and the cars were going by. I think he said something about appendicitis trouble."

"Will you swear to it?"

"I'm not certain. I'm pretty sure he said appendix."

"Now, are you going to stick to that?"

"I can't stick to anything else," Mr. Ellis retorted.

"You refrained from asking definitely what the trouble was?"

"I was satisfied to leave the case in his hands," Mr. Ellis said.

Held Consultation
 "You were responsible in part for her. You knew she would perhaps have to go to the hospital and yet you didn't ask the cause of the trouble. Did you discuss the seriousness of the case with your wife?"

"I said I didn't like to see Florence not improve. My wife didn't say much. I didn't ask her the cause."

Mr. Ellis declared that his wife came to him about 1 o'clock Sunday morning saying that Florence wanted Dr. Green. Mr. Ellis went for the physician in his motor car, brought him to the house and then went for Dr. Dawson. The two physicians and Mrs. Ellis held a consultation later in Ellis' den and when they came out the ambulance was ordered.

"Do you mean to say you didn't take sufficient interest to find out why she was going to the hospital?" asked Mr. Greer.

"I thought it was because of the certain treatment she was to get," explained the witness, "I was very much alarmed. Dr. Green said there would have to be an immediate operation for appendicitis."

"Will you swear to it?"

"To the best of my belief, yes. Then they said it might be too late for that."

Mr. Ellis told how the girl was taken to the hospital and of his driving Dr. Green to his home. He said he didn't ask Dr. Green the cause of the illness. He said he asked Dr. Dawson in the hospital how she was and he said in a very bad state.

"But you were trying to keep away from the fact," declared Mr. Greer.

"At the house they said something about peritonitis and I didn't want to know any more," Ellis said.

"Why?"

"Because I thought it was bad enough."

The undertaker explained how he obtained the services of a nurse and of his wife's visits to the hospital on the following day. He said he didn't remember whether he talked to either physician, because he was feeling

"broken up" over the girl's illness. The first intimation he was given of Florence's previous illness, he said, was on the veranda of the hospital when his wife came to him and told him that Florence had had a miscarriage.

Refused to Tell.
 He said Mrs. Ellis exclaimed to him: Florence has had a miscarriage. You'll have to help me out of this. Just to think after all we have done for the child to think she would have got into this trouble," Ellis said he asked his wife who was responsible and she said she didn't know. He testified that his wife told him that she had asked Florence repeatedly who was responsible and the girl said: "You're killing me. Don't do it."

The witness described the cement vault and the arrangement under which the girl was buried. He said the idea of the vault was his, because he had buried his little son in the same way. He explained that he failed to notify the authorities of the exact cause of death because he didn't want to disgrace the family or the child and thought it was unnecessary.

"Did you ever suggest to Mrs. Gordon that the body should be cremated?" asked Mr. Greer, and the witness replied, "No, sir."

Ellis said that he heard from his wife that the miscarriage took place on Sunday and that the girl ordered the nurse to keep the matter a secret, threatening to commit suicide if it became known. He said the girl confessed to Mrs. Ellis before she was taken to the hospital.

Ellis' examination closed with his description of the fight as a "scrimmage" which took place in his den between the maid and Mrs. Gordon and the latter's daughter after Mrs. Gordon had begun to stop to obtain an enquiry into the death of the girl. Attorney Eaney asked him a few questions before submitting the letter, to which Ellis replied that Florence's teacher, a man, had invited her to his home to do

"Does better all things a tube is meant to do"

A tube is meant to hold air—well—as long as possible; to resist air leakage.

The fulfilment of this purpose lies in the word "laminated." Lamination is a quality-giving process that marks the line between the best tubes and substitutes.

For we take the best rubber and roll it out tissue-thin for inspection eliminating all sand holes and air bubbles. Then we build up, layer on layer, an extra thick, extra good tube. To finish with we vulcanize in the valve patch, instead of sticking it on.

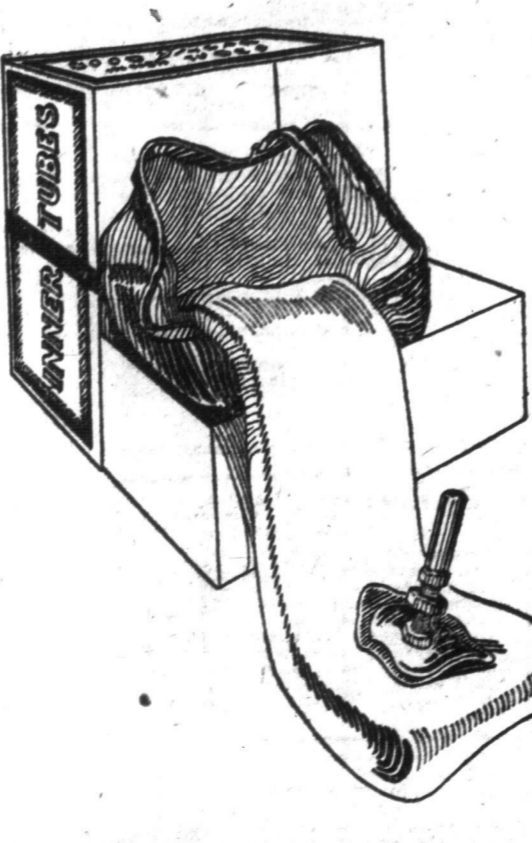

A costly process—yes. A cost that we pay. But we pay it gladly for it but follows our fixed policy to put the name Goodyear only on quality products.

When tubes are suggested, for your tires' sake, say "Goodyears."

THRIFT IN THE HOME ESSENTIALLY NECESSARY

Food Controller Will Explain the Need at Convocation Hall Meeting Tonight.

No meat for two days in the week in hotels and restaurants, bacon only at breakfast and a substitute, if possible, for white bread. That is the beginning of Food Controller Hanna's policy. But it affects only public eating places. The next problem to be faced is how can this be applied to the home. To make the conservation of food and the practice of thrift and economy felt at all in the country, it must be practiced in half a million homes in the province of Ontario. That is the object of the mass meeting in Convocation Hall tonight, the inaugural session of a conference of women called by the organization of resources committee to take up this question. The relation of food conservation and the practice of thrift and economy to the task of winning the war will be told by Food Controller Hanna. Sir William Hearst and Mrs. Buchanan. The meeting, which will be open to men and women, will have a two-fold significance: It will strike at the high cost of living from the standpoint of the household, and it will lengthen the food resources of the country in the prolonged struggle that is facing us.

Lady Hendrie will be honorary chairwoman of the meeting. The doors will be opened at eight o'clock, and a musical program will be rendered on the large pipe organ in the hall.

LEAFS AND REBELS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

First Easy for Thompson, But Leafs and Forester Were No Obstacle in Second.

The Leafs and Rebels split up the double bill Saturday before a great throng, in real baseball weather, at the island. Thompson was master of the situation in the first incident, while LaJole's boys sounded Young at will. Conditions were reversed in the second, when Adams had the Leafs guessing for nine innings and Leafs and Forester were pie for Richmond, these two, with Blackburne, all suffering from the terrific bombardment in the fourth. Leafs finished the game and gave the fans a run for their money that he could not keep.

GREAT THRONG OF TURF LOVERS SEE FINE RACING PLANT AT THORNCLIFFE

Patrons Well Pleased With Events on Opening Day of Toronto's New Mile Track.

The Thorncliffe Racing and Breeding Association displayed a real running turf plant to a fine crowd Saturday at new Thorncliffe Park. Seven races were decided and the patrons went away well pleased. The transportation was meagre, but the great throng went by staves, man-cars and hooped it with commendable efficiency.

The sport was conducted in a thoroughly racing manner. The mutual accommodations are excellent and there was no complaint concerning the prices handed out by the iron men. You may wonder if you were not at the track, how the horses were so well cared for, and there was no confusion or undue crowding in getting your money or seeing off the "totalizer" showing the amount wagered on the different horses.

Good fields faced the starter and the contents were well worthy the name. The starter's work would hardly be improved upon.

PLAYS, PICTURES AND MUSIC

THE ROBINS PLAYERS.

For the thirteenth week of his summer engagement at the Alexandra Theatre Edward H. Robins with the Robins Players is presenting one of the most sensational detective dramas ever presented on any stage. "The House of Glass." This play when it was presented at the Canadian Theatre, New York, enjoyed a run of one solid year to capacity business. It has only been released this summer, and the production to be given by the popular Robins Players, starting tonight, will be the first presentation on any local stage. The theatre cooling system has been placed in commission, and the theatre will be kept at an average temperature of 65 degrees.

"THE WHIP" AT THE GRAND.

The talk of filmdom in Toronto is the remarkable run of "The Whip" at the Grand Opera House, where this big feature enters upon its fifth week at the same theatre today. The reason for its popularity is easily understood by those who have seen it, for it contains all the elements necessary to a successful action picture. It is a picture that one can see again and again. It advertises itself on its merit. The Canadian rights are controlled by Toronto Interiors, the Superfeatures Company, managed by George Williams and Charles Stevens. During this, the last week at the Grand, a matinee will be given every day.

THE HIPPODROME.

For this week the Hippodrome management announces as the headline attraction the new release starring Viola Dana. "God's Law and Man's" is the picture is a Metro feature in five parts, and tells a thrilling story on the evils of "wife-purchase" in India. The Herbert sisters are two well-known Toronto girls who have danced themselves to the highest rung on the ladder of vaudeville fame. They offer a series of society, modern and old-time dances. Interpreted with bright songs. The "Roma Troupe" is a rapid-fire, vaudeville offering introducing a number of new and novel feats. Kitty Flynn, the musical comedy girl, has some new songs and new gowns, while Holden and Graham, in a vaudeville novelty, present a melange of mirth and music. Vardon and Perry, presenting their "musical" song and dance revue; Apala's Zoological Circus, and feature film comedies complete an all-star bill.

LOEW'S ALL-STAR BILL.

Tom Edwards, America's premier ventriloquist, assisted by Alice Melville, is the headline feature of an all-star vaudeville program this week at Loew's Yonge street theatre and winter garden. The special feature photoplay is "High Finance" a sparkling comedy with George Walsh, the film star, in the title role. Other acts on the bill are Mrs. S. and Mrs. Sydney Patne in the domestic playlet "The Drudge"; The Symbionist, xylophonists; Flo and Ollie Walters, singers and dancers; Evans and Moore, presenting a "Revue of Revues"; Dave ...

Highlanders on their recruiting tour in the United States. The pictures taken of the "Kitties" are simply splendid, and it will warm every Canadian heart to see the rapturous reception which our lads met with on every side from our neighbors to the south.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS AT THE REGENT THIS WEEK.

There has never been a better Douglas Fairbanks picture than "Wild and Woolly," the feature attraction at the Regent all this week. Such is the opinion of the motion picture critics across the line. Clean fun, action that fairly gallops from start to finish, sub-titles that are a feature in themselves, make this entertaining story one that gives the star every opportunity to score, and he does it in his characteristically winning manner. There are stunts galore, and many of them new. Fairbanks rides, ropes and shoots his way straight to the heart of the heroine and wins the unbounded admiration of the feet of the Bitter Creekers. This production is directed by John Emerson. Added features will be shown, including the Canadian Topical Review and the Universal Weekly, with harp solos by Joseph Quintelle, the celebrated harpist of the Regent orchestra.

PETROVA AT THE STRAND.

Can a woman plot out an accusing part by means of good deeds? Will falsehoods told by a mother influence her unborn child? These are some of the questions that are asked and answered in "The Waiting Soul," the magnificent Metro production which with Mme. Olga Petrova in the leading role, will headline the bill at the Strand Theatre today and tomorrow. "The Waiting Soul" can be well described as a photoplay of conscience. It affords Petrova an opportunity of displaying strong emotional power, and also, incidentally, of wearing many beautiful gowns. Another feature to be shown this week is the motion picture of the 48th ...

FELL OFF STREET CAR.

Mrs. Mary Murphy, 736 Lawrence street, London, Ont., fell off a street car at the corner of Queen and Church streets, yesterday afternoon, and injured her back. She was removed to St. Michael's Hospital in the police ambulance.

GOOD DRAMA AT MADISON.

Fannie Ward in the exceptionally strong "Lucky" photodrama, "Her Strange Wedding," will constitute the chief attraction at the Madison Theatre today, tomorrow and Wednesday. This is a splendid combination of a popular star and a powerful story, which ensures a great picture.

THIRTY-ONE CHINAMEN HALED TO THE STATION

Police Smash Way Into Alleged Chinese Gambling Resort With Axes and Hammers.

When two police patrol wagons ran thru a crowd of Chinamen holding a religious meeting opposite 24 Elizabeth street late Saturday night to reach an alleged gambling house at that address, no one seemed to mind one little bit. The crowd opened up, allowed the wagons to pass and secured John Wong and Young Sing, alleged keepers, and 29 frequenters, then continued the meeting. Plainclothesmen Scott and Noll, Sergeant Slagjury and Policeman Peacock made the raid, and "mashed" the door of the den down with axes and hammers. When the haul had been ensconced within the vehicles, the crowd opened again and allowed them to pass on their way to Agnes street police station.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE HOSPITAL.

The June report of the Women's College Hospital shows that it was the most active in the history of the institution. The report of the government inspector says: "This hospital has an active and useful service, and already 17 patients have been refused in June because every bed in the hospital was filled." The new building will be at once begun.

BETTER RESULTS BY CO-OPERATION

Voting on Shares Owned Did Not Work Out Satisfactorily.

CHANGED VOTE SYSTEM

Fruit Growers United Interests, Resulting Significant Market Figures.

Co-operative marketing of fruit in Door County, Wisconsin, is the outgrowth of the usual selling conditions that take from the producer and give to the commission merchant. The growers could take them or throw the fruit into the lake.

After several years of this kind of marketing the Door County Fruit Exchange was organized for the purpose of selling fruit. The membership included the entire production of raspberries and very satisfactory results were obtained. However, the exchange had been incorporated as a stock company, in which every share was entitled to a vote, with no limit to the number of shares each man could own, so it was not long before two or three growers controlled the organization and many of the smaller stockholders had a real grievance because they had no voice in the affairs of the exchange.

After a spirited annual meeting in 1914, at which an attempt was made to change the voting from a share basis to "one man one vote," a large number of growers seceded and organized the fruit growers' association. This was incorporated under a recent statute which provided expressly for a "one man one vote" method of representation, without any limit to the number of shares each man could hold.

The condition in the market was very little better than it had been when each man sold his own fruit to the buyers, because the association and the exchange fought each other at every point, and the commission men laughed openly while the two organizations cut prices. Of course the growers paid the bill.

Knowing that the state of affairs was harmful to the fruit industry, several growers got together the following winter and prevailed upon each organization to appoint two members of its directorate as directors of a new union, which took over the actual selling of the fruit. This union was successful in that it presented a solid front to the outside buyers and there was no more price cutting.

Plans have been made for a continuation of the union in its present form this year, because it is impracticable that a compromise will be effected between the two organizations.

ARTICHOKE TOPS MAKE FAIR SILAGE

Comparative Analysis Made Between Artichoke Leaves and Corn Silage.

SUBSTITUTE WELCOME

Owners of Silos Advised to Experiment With Corn Substitutes.

Artichoke tops make a silage of very fair quality. For comparison of this silage with corn silage I submit the following figures, which are taken from Farmers' Bulletin No. 77. In each case the figures given represent 100 pounds of material in a hundred pounds of feed, or the percentage.

|                       | Artichoke Leaf Silage | Corn |
|-----------------------|-----------------------|------|
| Water                 | 77.1                  | 79.1 |
| Protein               | 2.3                   | 1.7  |
| Nitrogen-free extract | 10.1                  | 11.0 |
| Fibre                 | 6.0                   | 6.0  |
| Palatability          | 5.0                   | 5.0  |

From the standpoint of chemical composition these feeds compare quite closely. One would expect, however, that corn would make the better grade of silage, owing to the larger content of nitrogen-free extract, which is largely sugar and starch. A crop, in order to make good silage, must have enough sugar present for proper fermentation. There is, however, enough of the nitrogen-free extract present in the artichoke leaves to make a good silage. Corn, of course, is the best silage crop that we have.

The farmers of Tillamook County, Oregon, have used artichoke leaves for silage the past year or two and they are well satisfied with it.

Contentment in a sheltered vale.

POTATO GROWERS MUST CULTIVATE

Hilling Potatoes Generally Correct, Tho Not on Sandy Soil.

PROTECT FROM BLIGHT

Experimental Farm Instructions for Successful Harvesting of Your Potatoes

Many are growing potatoes in Canada this year for the first time and, as a result of the greatly increased number of growers, the crop will probably be greatly increased. But to insure a good crop there must be an abundance of moisture in the soil and the tops must be protected from insects and disease.

Cultivation—The soil should be kept cultivated with the cultivator or hoe until the tops meet sufficiently to shade the ground. As most of the tubers develop in the three or four inches of soil nearest the surface, and as the tubers will not develop well in dry soil, quite shallow cultivation is desirable at this season of the year. In hilling the soil is dry there may be good development of tops, but there will be few tubers. The roots in such cases have gone down deep into the soil to obtain moisture, but the tubers bearing stems, which are quite different from the root system, do not develop well.

When the soil is a loose, sandy loam, hilling is not necessary and may be injurious, as the soil dries out more than if left on the level. In heavy soils it is desirable to hill the potatoes as it will loosen the soil and the tubers will be shapelier than when the soil is left level. When there is sufficient rainfall and moisture in the soil hilling is likely to give best results in all kinds of soil, as the soil will be looser and the tubers can push thru it readily. As a great development of tubers takes place during the cooler and usually moister weather of the latter part of summer, it is very important to keep the plants growing well until then. In one experiment it was shown that during the month of September there was an increase of 119 bushels of potatoes per acre.

Protection From Late Blight and Rot. In some years the crop of potatoes is much lessened by the late blight disease, and when rot follows little of the crop may be left. It is, therefore, very desirable to prevent this disease from spreading. This is done by keeping the plants covered with Bordeaux mixture from about the first week of July, or before there is any sign of the disease, until September. At least the first application of Bordeaux mixture is made before the potato beetles are all killed when the poison of the disease is mixed with the Bordeaux. While the disease is not very bad every year it is well to be prepared. There was an average increase per year of 24 bushels of potatoes from spraying with Bordeaux mixture in three years.

The formula for Bordeaux mixture for potatoes is six pounds copper sulphate of blue stone, four pounds slaked lime to 40 gallons of water. While the bluestone will dissolve more quickly in hot water, if it is not convenient to get this, it may be suspended overnight in a cotton bag in a wooden or earthen vessel containing four or five or more gallons of water. The lime should be slaked in a separate vessel and before mixing with the copper sulphate solution should be strained thru coarse sackcloth or a fine sieve. The copper sulphate solution and slaked lime should be mixed in a wooden barrel, if it has not already been dissolved in one, and enough water added to half fill the barrel; the slaked lime should be diluted in another barrel with enough water to make half a barrel of the lime mixture. Now pour the diluted lime mixture into the diluted copper sulphate solution and stir thoroughly, when it is ready for use.

The concentrated lime mixture should not be mixed with the concentrated copper sulphate solution as the result is a very inferior mixture which will result. If the barrels are kept covered so that there is no evaporation, stock solutions of potassium cyanide may be kept in separate barrels through the season. It is important to have the quantities of lime and copper sulphate measured, but in order to be sure that enough lime has been used and there is no danger of burning the foliage, let a drop of ferrocyanide of potassium solution (which can be obtained from a druggist) fall into the mixture when ready. If the latter turns reddish-brown, add more lime mixture until no change of color takes place.

Get Together Spirit. Yesterday noon we had a very heavy shower here which was apparently local. About two dozen willing helpers from stores and professions went to the country in autos to assist needy farmers who are certainly appreciating the help given by townspersons. Many have been out for several days and the farmers speak highly of the workers. It is to be hoped this fine spirit will continue.—Fergus News-Record.

CONDENSED INFORMATION FARMERS AND THEIR CLUBS

Clairville District.
The hay makers are in a good humor this week since fine weather came and the grain crops are excellent.

The strawberry crop is about finished. The growers have had a good crop and good prices. Two for a quarter retail is the lowest market reached. The usual price has been 15 cents, today 18 is quoted. Mr. Ed. Orr of Clarkson is said to have had a grand crop. He has been up to town with several truck loads. He sold a load to Linder's jam factory on Tuesday at 12 cents a box and got back his crates and boxes. Monday night the price at Clarkson was 12 cents.

A small handful of wheat was pulled from a field of wheat belonging to Mr. A. Ford, London road north, which showed remarkable growth. Three of the stalks measured five feet four inches long with the heads pretty well developed. The growth this year in most lines has been away above the average and some warm, dry weather is now needed to harden and ripen the grain.

Crops Near Coldwater.
The prospects for a bumper crop this season are very bright, and there was no time when a large crop was needed more. Garden and field crops are looking fine. Corn appears to be the only crop in delicate condition. This is due to too much rain and not enough heat. Possibly with some nice, warm weather it may recover from its present unhealthy condition.

Markdale Crops.
Notwithstanding the superabundance of rain during the past six weeks or so the country presents a very promising appearance. The numerous well-tilled potato and vegetable plots are also looking excellent.

Minerva Crops Good.
Excepting on dry low and level land the continuing heavy rains have done little damage to growing crops. Corn alone looks rather yellow and backward. With sunshines and the warmth which are now with us, excellent crops of grain, hay and roots are anticipated.

Good Shipment of Hogs.
Messrs. Jones and Willert last week shipped from Exeter an exceptionally good carload of hogs. Seventy-nine of the hogs averaged 217 1/2 lbs. each. Included in this were 17 hogs delivered by Mr. J. Creery of Osborne, which averaged 229 pounds for which

Farmers' Clubs

The World, as a believer in co-operation along democratic lines, will be glad to hear from the secretaries of farmers' clubs. When you have four meetings write the farm editor what action your committee took, how many were present, what policy you intend carrying out and include a short report on the crops in your neighborhood. The World will publish such accounts on the Monday farm page and in this way give you a helping hand.

Seventh Line Will Be Fixed.
A large deputation of ratepayers from Escouping and Gosportown waited on the county council yesterday and requested that they take some action to repair the 7th line from Stewartstown to Ballinacree and make it safe for travel. Mr. J. R. Lindsay, the chief spokesman on the deputation, introduced the subject to the council and numerous short speeches followed by other ratepayers present. The deputation were well pleased with the consideration they received from Warden Beauden and his colleagues, and believe the result of the heart-to-heart talk between council and ratepayers will be a better 7th line to travel on in the very near future.

Farm Changes Hands.
Mr. Alfred Ward of Quaker Hill has just bought the 100-acre farm from J. H. Wilson, Quaker Hill. There is a nice piece of bush on the farm and it is just about three miles from town. Mr. Ward is at present on Mr. Wm. Ferguson's farm.

Hornings' Mills.
The weather these days is all that anyone could wish for. After the recent rains the crops are doing splendidly.

The crops are looking fine near Melancton and with continued fine weather we may look for a bumper crop. The root crop is also excellent.

Mr. Dan Teeple brought to town Tuesday morning a sample of the second cutting of alfalfa on his farm at Jaffa, which measured from roots to the top of the plant over five feet.

Kodaks from $2.00 up. Caughell's-Aylmer Express.

Real warm weather these days is making growth very rapid after all the rain.

Sow Makes Record.
A Yorkshire sow owned by Mr. Norman Brocklebank of Brant Township gave birth this week to 21 pigs, 20 of which are still living. This is one of the best records we have been able to learn. With the price of pork now Norman will be able to go south for the winter.—Hanover Post.

A special meeting of the members of East Grey Agricultural Society will be held Friday night, July 27, in the town hall. All members are expected to be present.

Deputy Reeve T. H. Moffatt of Mono has purchased R. G. Canning's 100-acre property on the Hockley road.

W. A. Knox of Whitevale is installing a milking machine and later intends to erect an electric lighting plant.

Seventh Line.
Crops are looking fine at present. Some of the grain is lodging. Some have cut hay, but it does not seem to dry much.

Mr. Israel Welch of Petchville delivered to Mr. James Crockett, drover, 1721 and one hog which netted him $81, making a total of $602 for 20 hogs.

BRUCE COUNTY FRUIT CROP PROMISES WELL

Abundant—Apples Are Only Failure.

It looks as tho the people of Bruce will have no difficulty in following the food director's advice to put down the very little wheat the exception of apples the crop in this district promises well. Apples are an entire failure.

Strawberries are fairly good. The plants suffered from lack of moisture last fall, and some of the fruit is rotting from the present excess of rain. A local grower informed The Telegram on Tuesday that the strawberries were about one-half done for this season.

Prospects are good for an abundant cherry crop. One grower says his raspberries will be the best yet. Plum, cherry, pear, apple, gooseberries and currants a medium crop. Some growers state that their tomatoes are not developing owing to the excessive rain during the pollinating period. Mr. N. P. Schmidt, who has 6000 plants this year, says his tomatoes are coming along fine, and he anticipates a fine crop for picking in three or four days.

SANITARY HIVES ARE DESIRABLE

Cleanliness in Bee Culture as Necessary as for Animals.

Much of the bee disease of today is spread by the unclean conditions tolerated by beekeepers. Many give the matter no thought whatever, some know just enough about bees to take the honey from them, and do not think that there is any more to learn. Sanitary conditions are just as important in beekeeping as elsewhere. I think the greatest thing that can happen would be to devote a certain day or week of each year to cleaning up, all the beekeepers to get busy on that day.

In getting things sanitary, first look into the location of the apiary. Are the grounds clean? Cleanliness is next to godliness. I have found it best to place the hives so that the sun will shine on them during the whole day. The rays of the sun are known to kill many germs. I do not advocate shade here, as some bees are inclined to be cross in a cool shady place and will not work as early and late as those in the sun. Of course, in a hot climate a little shade during part of the day is desirable.

See that the hives are well up off the ground, so that plenty of air may circulate under them. Never let grass grow so tall in front of the hives that they will keep the grass clipped short; and if you haven't time to mow it yourself, put a few sheep in front of you, and they will keep it short for you.

When examining a colony, and the frames have burr-combs on them filled with honey, do not allow this honey to drip to the ground to attract other bees. Hold the dripping frame over the hive so that the bees of that hive will take care of it.—Gleanings in Bee Culture.

Malvern.
Few farmers in this locality up to the present date, July 16, have attempted haying owing to the continued wet weather of the past week. Those who made a start have since feebly waved their hand in order to surrender when the rain comes with the situation. It was like cracking a nut with your false teeth. However, given promising weather, the hay harvest will be in full swing right away, and generally speaking it's a good crop.

J. V. Millson has disposed of his 160-acre farm near Whaley to Mr. French of North Dakota for the handsome sum of $12,000. Mrs. French is a sister to Robert and John Knowles. They take possession this fall.
