THE EXPORT GRAIN TRADE

Ocean Freight Room Engaged for Months Ahead - Rates Average 60 Per Cent Higher Than Last Year.

In well-informed commercial circles there is no doubt that an extraordinary export grain trade will be developed this autumn and winter. Authorities say that enormous quantities of grain have already been sold to Europe to be delivered later on, and a full scale of ocean freight room has been contracted for from four to six months. It is stated that space now has to be sought earlier than for next March, except from those who are to re-ship cargo. This export movement in grain obviously will have a beneficial effect on the exchange rate. It is noted that the exchange rate has been rising since the beginning of the year, and it is expected that any gold which will be exported will be sold at a profit. It is also noted that the grain export movement will be limited by the capacity of the ships and railways to carry it. European demand is expected to be much more active in many years.

WALL STREET INTERESTED

Joseph H. Moody Says the Decision in Franklin, Scott & Co's Case is Very Sweeping.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The suit of Franklin, Scott & Co. against Joseph H. Moody and Letter, its partner in a blind pool, has been decided in favor of the plaintiff. The decision is a very important case ever tried relating to Wall Street. It is the first time that the full liability of whatever the pool contains, whether it be a stock or bond pool, is held to be a full partnership. This decision is of the greatest importance to the public, and it is expected that it will be a landmark case in the history of Wall Street. Moody and Letter were held liable for the entire loss of the pool, and the court held that the pool was a full partnership. This decision is a very sweeping one, and it is expected that it will be a landmark case in the history of Wall Street.

The case found today contained the arms and legs, said by medical experts to be those of a woman, and the police say there is no doubt they are the missing members of the torso found at Winthrop more than a month ago. On one of the hands there were three rings, which, it is hoped, will give a clue to the identity of the wearer.

THE FERRY SERVICE

The citizens have exercised much patience in relation to the new ferry steamer and the ferry service generally. In fact their good natured tolerance has been quite remarkable in a city which is somewhat noted for a little unconcern regarding the nature of civic services and expenditures. The new ferry steamer which was to have been on the route months ago, was naturally supposed that when she was taken over by the city she would be practically ready for service. Such, however, was not the case. Throughout the period of her building the city's officials preserved a mien of lofty indifference, even when the naval architect asked for suggestions, and urged that those who would have to run the steamer should take an interest in her, even while she was under construction. After she was handed over to them they discovered that quite a number of changes must be made, at the city's expense. This work is not yet completed, and it there does not appear to be any reasonable excuse for the over expenditure now being made. One of the difficulties in matters affecting this city is that certain officials think more of their own dignity and their own likes and dislikes, than of the city's interests. The city pays the bills. It is now rumored that there is no intention of making any more frequent trips with the new steamer, if she is ever ready for the route, than are made by the old boats. She should be able to make at least one trip per hour more than they make. Competent engineers say she can do it. This would enable her to handle the heavy traffic of the winter much faster, in a season when it is crucial to keep the boats running. The city's officials have a very large interest in this matter, especially the merchants. They should take care to impress their views upon the ferry committee, and ask the committee to use a little vigorous persuasion, to the end that the ferry officials will understand that the people have not paid all this money for the fun of the thing, but that it seems a rapid ferry service.

TIME TO PAY UP

The Winnipeg papers continue to remind bankers and merchants that while the talk of a magnificent crop is all very well in a way, and justified by the facts, it is of no less importance just now that the returns from the harvest should be used to pay the farmers' bills, before they branch out into land speculation on the strength of the big crop. For example, the Winnipeg Commercial says: "We have been hearing and seeing a great deal about the enormous wheat crop produced by Western Canada this year, and nothing too glowing has been said about either the crop or its effect upon the future of the country. It seems strange, though, that up-to-date this great asset should have had so little effect upon the financial situation. The question as to how collections are showing up is almost the commonest we hear in wholesale circles today, and the invariable answer is that they are about as slow as they have ever been known to be. Of course, it is a little to soon yet to expect returns from all parts of the country, and the fact that money is still tight is no proof that the thing is that all attention should now be concentrated upon this business and a determined effort made to get the money as soon as the farmer has it in his hands."

AN ADMISSION

At a meeting of the Insurance Institute in Toronto on Tuesday evening last Mr. John R. Laidlaw, the president, discussed the recent New York disclosures, and among other things he said: "The investigation now going on will certainly strengthen the hands of those who have in the past fought against the excessive commissions and high expense ratios indulged in by the leaders. It is all very well for the man in the street to say that such and such should not have been done, but in practice one cannot do business unless he is prepared to pay the market price for labor, and if a few organizations which are of themselves able to do all the business which is offered are willing to pay excessive remuneration to all who are capable of doing the required work, what are the companies with good intentions to do? They must either liquidate through inability to secure elements or meet the competition."

AN EDITOR'S JUBILEE

To have been fifty years in the editorial seat of a public journal is a rare distinction in newspaper work. The passing of the jubilee mark in any field of labor is an interesting event, but it is especially notable in journalism, the most exacting in its demands upon the brain and the strength of the worker, perhaps, of all the professions. A few weeks hence Rev. Robert Murray, LL. D., will have completed half a century's service as editor of the Presbyterian Witness, which he has conducted with signal success. It is not too much to say that Dr. Murray has placed the Witness in the forefront of religious journalism. Had he chosen to give his talents to the secular press, we have no hesitation in saying that he would have taken rank with the ablest editorial writers in the land. A facile and graceful writer, he has discussed forcefully and illuminatingly many public questions and has enriched the newspaper literature of his time with numerous articles of rare merit, touching a wide range of subjects. Occasionally the Chronicle has found it necessary to express its disagreement with Dr. Murray, but nothing that he has written has lessened our appreciation of the sincerity of his purpose and the merit of his work. The Presbyterian Synod resolved at its last meeting to celebrate Dr. Murray's jubilee, and a committee is now arranging for an appropriate testimonial in recognition of his services to the Church. It would be peculiarly fitting, if at the same time the press united in paying a tribute to the veteran editor who, we believe, the pastor of the newspaper craft of Nova Scotia.

companies have to follow suit or go out of business." The following contribution to the insurance revelations comes from St. Paul: "That the Northwestern National Life Insurance Company of Minneapolis sought to dictate the appointment of insurance commissioner in Minnesota by the payment of campaign contributions to both the Democratic and Republican state committees has just come out and has created a profound sensation. Payment of money for corrupt purposes, it is said, has been discovered to have taken place before the grand jury involves two former state officials, the alleged payment in a room at the Ryan hotel of a $5000 cheque for the suppression of a report exposing the condition of the company and a voluntary contribution of $1000 each to the two Democratic and Republican state central committees. Another state official is credited with receiving $300 in instalments of $100 each for Sunday work done in a clerical capacity. He figured as an expert accountant."

The "new thought" is ambitious. A despatch from St. Louis says:—"If the phrase of Mrs. Charles F. Joy, wife of the former St. Louis congressman, are carried out, a $1,000,000 university of which the object will be the study of occult and psychic phenomena, the human soul, and all the arts and sciences of the "New Thought" not recognized by established schools, will be built overlooking the Pacific, near Santa Barbara, Cal. In addition to the university, Mrs. Joy proposes to establish a sociological colony where the science of life, and the laws, duties and responsibilities of parenthood will be studied. Speaking at a teachers' convention in Portland, Me., this week, Supt. Stetson asserted that "We have quite a sufficiency of Hegelian mysticisms and more than we can use of Herbartian abstractions." But these are nothing to what Mrs. Joy's new thought may give us."

The man who is alleged to have paid money to Toronto aldermen to influence votes in favor of a site for a packing house denies the charge, but admits that he lobbied for the packing firm and was well paid for it. He also admits that he lobbied for other concerns which sought privileges from the council, and was paid in each case. Evidently his various employes believed he had influence, and were willing to give it a cash value.

The lengthened period of dry weather has prevented the lumbermen from getting out the millions of feet of logs stranded on the logjams of the St. John river, and unless heavy rain comes before the frost closes the streams, which are extremely low, there is likely to be some hardship because of drought, during the winter.

The situation in Russia grows hourly worse, and it does not seem possible that internal peace can be restored without bloodshed. A state of anarchy practically prevails. The country is like a vast powder magazine awaiting a careless spark. A despatch from Edmonton says that the Canadian Northern railway is within less than ten miles of the town and laying rails at the rate of two miles per day. It is expected the banks of the Saskatchewan will be reached by Nov. 1.

Now that Thanksgiving is over and the Prince has gone, the citizens will be able to return to the consideration of the fascinating question: How much will the waterworks extension really cost?

The announcement that the Royal Scots of Montreal are to have a $75,000 armory reminds us that there was once talk of a drill hall for St. John.

The political campaign in Alberta is described as at fever heat, with both sides predicting victory. AN EDITOR'S JUBILEE (Halifax Chronicle). To have been fifty years in the editorial seat of a public journal is a rare distinction in newspaper work. FREDERICTON GAVE PRINCE VERY CORDIAL RECEPTION

Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 27--(Special)--The Capital City has given her illustrious visitor and guest--H. R. H. Prince Louis of Battenberg--a royal welcome. The local government and the civic authorities here combined to make the day as a red letter one in the calendar of notable events, and to give to the prince a lasting impression of the city and its people.

The prince was received by the mayor and aldermen, and after the government luncheon, adjournment was made to the Opera House, which had been handsomely decorated. The address of welcome, as published in yesterday's Times, was then read by Mayor McNally.

Before reading the formal reply, Prince Louis stepped to the front of the stage and, facing the sea of faces in front of him, said: "Before I reply to the address in words which are perhaps couched in rather fine language, I would like to tell you from my heart how much I appreciate being here today, and to see that you have come in such numbers to give me a hearty welcome, particularly as I see so many children present. I have been much pleased to see your charming city, and I only wish my ships were not so big that I might have stowed up your river and anchored them opposite your town."

The little speech was greeted with loud applause.

The prince then read the reply as follows:

Mayor, Gentlemen:

It is a truly pleasant to find myself for the first time in the capital of the province of New Brunswick, and I thank you and through you the citizens all for the friendly welcome expressed alike in your eloquent address and in the demeanor of those outside the building.

You say that the loyalty of the Canadians is as sure as the empire itself. It has been my good fortune to visit the chief cities of Canada (including the dominion capital) within reach of the Atlantic shores during the last few months, and I am carrying away with me the feeling that exactly corresponds with the terse phrase I have quoted from your address. I also know that the king, our great and wise ruler, to whom we all owe so much, implicitly trusts to the loyalty of his Canadian subjects, no matter what origin, race or religion. I feel also sure that his majesty will recognize that the splendid reception which every city visited by him has accorded his humble kinsman, is merely a measure of the depth of the loyalty of its citizens towards his revered person.

However, the fact of my being connected with the royal house is merely a happy incident. It is in the proud position of one of the king's admirals that I find myself on the shores of Canada and in your midst today. By the terms of your address I gladly see that you fully appreciate at what a tremendous factor in the continued existence of our great empire, the navy of Great Britain is. What the free circulation of the blood through its veins and arteries means to the live human body, the safe transit of British ships both of war and of commerce along the ocean highways means to the United Kingdom and its overseas dependencies. It is the sacred duty of the king's ships to safeguard these open highways should they ever be threatened. For, once the control of these waterways passes from the king's ships to those of the king's enemies, the beating of the king's heart will gradually get weaker and it must eventually stop beating altogether as sure as the human heart ceases beating when its life's blood has run away. But as long as the king's ships do command the sea, the life-giving trade of the empire will continue, and its shores cannot be violated. Every citizen of the empire has therefore a direct interest in seeing that the British navy is kept up in sufficient strength to enable it to fulfil its task in the face of any probable hostile combination, whilst it develop-

DISASTROUSLY HIGH PRICES
The Crusade Against Them Has Reached the Iron Ore Industry.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 27--The Iron Trade Review says: The crusade against the disastrously high prices now threatening has reached the ore industry. Two leading producers of Cleveland have declared themselves as positively opposed to any advance in 1906 ore prices of more than 25 cents per ton, and as there is no longer an association for the control of ore prices these conservative interests will probably establish the market and prevent a repetition of the trying times of 1905 following a heavy advance. Coke for the first half of next year is quoted at $2 for furnace and $2.50 for foundry, but contracting at these figures is light. The market is feverish and buyers are complaining bitterly of what they term unreasonable prices. Some effort will be made through the market renewal of activity in the Toledo Furnace Company, which is to erect a second blast at once and will add a 160,000-ton by-product plant.

Pig iron is firm with fewer actual transactions, but with advancing prices. Bessemer is established at $14. Valley furnace and No. 2 foundry commands from $16.00 to $18.00, while furnace men are predicting $15 Valley furnace, and even higher if coke prices are not headed. To accommodate its enormous railway equipment orders, the

THE MAKING OF A SUCCESSFUL HUSBAND

VI--COURTESY AT HOME--It Is More Important to Be Polite to Your Own Wife Than to Your Neighbor's.

BY CASPAR S. YOST.

Copyrighted by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate—Published exclusively in this territory by the St. John Evening Times.

My Dear John—Do you remember Col. Hesse Perkins, who used to live just around the corner from us on William street? Of course you do. Nobody could forget that stately figure and that courteous bow with which he punctuated every greeting. Old Perkins is dead now, but I'll bet a horse that he's doing his crown every two minutes, that is if he's gone to a place where crowns are supposed to be a necessary article of wearing apparel. He was the most punctilious public man I ever saw. His genuineness and "beg pardon" used to get on my nerves until I could hardly refrain from a protest. He wouldn't wear his hat in the presence of ladies, and I've seen him standing on a street corner, bareheaded, in the boiling sun, for an hour at a time while he talked with a female acquaintance.

I am reminded of Perkins by some actions of yours that I noticed while you and Annie May were visiting us last week. That old hypocrite was the embodiment of exaggerated courtesy to every one he met, with the single exception of his wife. Unless he had company he would drop his manners on his front porch, and on the other side of his threshold became the most disagreeable creature that ever wore a long-suffering woman to the grave.

I don't mean to intimate, my boy, that there is any resemblance between you and old Perkins, but I saw, when you were here, that you were already beginning to follow the general tendency of persons who wear trousers and forgetting at home some of the amenities you would never overlook outside. It's so easy to do. We are naturally savages, we think nobody's looking, and our families are supposed to kindly shut their eyes. Yet the little ceremonies and verbal expressions which constitute our everyday code of etiquette were designed for the sole purpose of smoothing the rough edges of our intercourse with the world, the flesh and the devil, and keep us from flying at one another's throats as we would like so much to do. Next to the Christian religion politeness is the most potent force in the world today, and it is just as effective in one's own home as it is in the house across the street.

Now, without any more beating around the bush, I want to say a few things to you on this subject, and I want to put you to your straight. When you have read this letter once, read it over again, and get it stuck into your head, so it won't slip loose.

I wasn't around when you were setting up to Anna May, but I'll bet a pile of good, hard dollars that you were slightly particular how you acted when you were in her presence. There was nothing in the shape of courtesy that was any too fine for her when you came around. You had all your graces, and some you had borrowed. I have no doubt, out for her inspection. You had old Chestnutfield beaten so bad you could see daylight between you. Yes, you did. I wasn't there, but I know. That little girl you were exceedingly careful about then is your wife now, but in the change she has lost none of her rights. She is just as much entitled to the observance of the forms of courtesy as before. More than then, for as your wife she should hold a higher and more honored place in your life than as your sweetheart. Yet I noticed last week that you did not lift your hat when you met her downtown. I noticed that you allowed her to pick her own way along the street, to step up to the curbstone without any offer of assistance from you. I noticed when we dined at the hotel that you left her to grapple through the mysteries of the menu unaided, while you contemplated the most desirable dishes for the satisfaction of your own predilections. The old man isn't asleep, my son, if he does not occasionally after his meals, and when I heard anybody express any doubt on that point—it is certainly worth while to be a gentleman at home. The good opinion of your wife is of more importance to you than the opinions of all the rest of the people of the world put together. Yet you would fail to show to her the courtesy which you would bestow upon another as a matter of course and feel ashamed if you were remiss in the least particular.

No, you can't do a better thing than to treat your wife at least as well as you do your neighbor. She will appreciate it. I can say that with emphasis, for nothing hurts a woman more than the apparent loss of that fine consideration which distinguishes the wooing days. No matter if she does feel sure of your love. No matter if you prove your affection in numberless other ways. She who has resigned as queen is never fully satisfied with less than the honors due to royalty. And it is so easy to gratify her. It is only necessary to keep in mind all the time that your wife is a woman, and that good breeding works as well in a smoking jacket as in a dress suit.

I have a very strong recollection of a blacksmith who lived in the little village where I went to school when a boy. He was a great, burly, rough looking fellow, whose face and hands were grimed with the smoke of the forge. He seldom wore a coat, and never a collar, except on Sunday, but he was one of the truest gentlemen I have ever known, and his wife was envied by every other woman in the village simply because of his deference to her in private as well as in public. He was a rustic Bayard, but his chivalry was as pure and true as that of any broadcloth attired city man. No, my son, genuine courtesy is not a matter of dress nor of ceremony, and in practicing it at home you don't have to sacrifice your own comfort to an extent worthy of consideration.

On the other hand, it pays wonderfully in the pleasure it gives to your wife and, by reflection, to you. It pays in the grace it gives to your own character, and better than all else it pays in the influence upon the character of your family. Some of these days, unfortunately, you are different from the majority of mankind, you will be a father. Your children will be very much as you make them, and your actions will have more to do with the making than your commands. They will consciously or unconsciously copy your faults, as well as your virtues, and the courtesy you display in their presence will, in some part at least, become fixed habits with them. Your own training has been such that I do not fear you will go far wrong in this particular, but, notwithstanding this, I have seen evidence that you are not holding up to the old man's standard, and I want you to be right—all right.

Now, John, don't misunderstand me. I don't want you to be a jumping-jack in-the-box at home or anywhere else. Extremes are always odious, and politeness may be so overdone that it becomes a pain rather than a pleasure to the object. Men like old Perkins simply make themselves ridiculous. True politeness is never obtrusive. The test of a well-dressed man is your inability to remember what he wore. If he is inclined to forgetfulness the conspicuousness of his attire will arrest your attention, as well as your condemnation. On the other hand, the absence of any part of the correct costume, or an exhibition of untidiness or carelessness in the wearing, are equally conspicuous. So with politeness. It is greatly missed when it is absent. It should be unobtrusive when it is present. That is the brand to use in the home as well as outside of it. If you take it off when you hang your hat up in the hall, you can bet your life that Anna May will miss it, and the missing will hurt.

Don't greet her with a grunt, but with a kiss. I wouldn't advise you to apply that form of courtesy to others, but in the home the customary forms may be modified, or rather magnified, for love and not custom dictates there. Don't take the best chair in the room, unless she commands it. She probably will insist on reserving the most comfortable rocker for you, but you should never get her into the habit of taking things for granted. Show her that you think of her first; that her ease and health and happiness stand foremost in your thoughts, and there isn't any doubt about her recognition. However much he may wish to do, the man usually gets the best of the bargain in the matter of attentions at home, but he shouldn't get the idea into his noggin that nothing is expected of him. Everything that is tender and solicitous and courteous and loving is expected of him. It is so easy to feel that these things are of no avail, because they are so often unaccepted or apparently unnoticed, but you can't make a greater mistake than to omit them. Be polite to your wife, John, whether you are at home or abroad. It doesn't cost you a red cent, it need not inconvenience you in the least, but it means an all-mighty lot to Anna May and just as much to you. Yours affectionately, JOHN SNEED.

A MEDICAL TRIUMPH

An Ottawa Physician Unmasks One of Nature's Secrets.

A diamond is pure carbon. So is charcoal. Chemists say the difference is due to the arrangement of the atoms.

Fruit-a-tives are good for you. Fruit juices help to tone up the stomach—act on the liver—keep the bile flowing—make the bowels move regularly. But when disease comes—when Constipation poisons the blood, when indigestion upsets the stomach, when the kidneys are not working right—fruit juices in themselves can't cure.

Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices in tablet form. Fruit-a-tives get their wonderful power just as diamonds get their brilliancy and value—by a peculiar arrangement of the atoms.

An Ottawa physician tried to change charcoal into diamonds—that is, he tried to change fruit juices so they would act quickly and surely on stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys.

First, he found that the combination of apples, oranges, figs and prunes contained the medicinal properties of all other fruits and in a more marked degree. Then, by a lucky chance just as he was about to give up his tests, he succeeded in changing the atoms so that the medicinal action was intensified many times.

Now, Fruit-a-tives are not a mere cathartic or laxative. They are a bowel tonic. Where fresh fruit has only a slight action on the liver, Fruit-a-tives tone up and invigorate.

Fruit-a-tives

or Fruit Liver Tablets.

"I have much pleasure in stating that I have found 'Fruit-a-tives' the best medicine I ever used for Constipation and Biliousness. I suffered from headaches of a severe kind for a long time, but after taking 'Fruit-a-tives,' I have become entirely free of them. I can with every confidence, recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to any one suffering from Constipation, Biliousness or Headaches—and more especially that the tablets are exceedingly mild in their action—without producing any griping or distress."

Mrs. M. E. DEWAR, Ottawa, Ont.

You know how "liver pills," calomel, salts etc. act. They gripe, purge and flood the intestines with bile. This bile, which cannot return to the liver, is lost. There is none left to move the bowels the next day. That is why one is constipated for two or three days after taking a "purgative" or common cathartic. Fruit-a-tives tone up liver and bowels—strengthen them so they can do their own work without any help. They cure the bile flow freely but

CANADIANS WARNED AGAINST LUST FOR GOLD

Rev. Dr. Johnston Says it is the Peril of This Continent—The Dominating Desire is for Wealth—it Must Be Checked or Disaster Will Result.

The peril of this continent is its insatiable lust for gold. I sometimes wonder how long the day will be postponed when the decay which befalls Rome in its noontide of glitter will be withheld from our smiling land. These remarks were included in a stirring sermon delivered recently at the American Presbyterian church, Montreal, by Rev. Dr. Johnston, on the possibilities and perils of this country.

A SATURDAY NIGHT THOUGHT

Don't be all this now and then of our thoughts? Not that they are necessarily injurious or evil, but they are trivial, inconsequential, tame, self-centered. Oh, lift the cloistered pillars fair, lift the cloistered pillars fair, bearing heavenward, higher and higher, towards our European and American continents.

CHURCH FEDERATION CRITICISED

(Montreal Witness.)

The action of the executive committee of the National Church Federation Society, which is to meet next month in New York, including Roman Catholics, Unitarians and Universalists, delegates, has not been allowed to pass without protest. The movement, which primarily religious, is intended to secure the united efforts of the churches in combating the forces of evil in the political, social and business life of the people. It is, therefore, held by those who would include in it all Christian denominations, that no influence helpful to the cause should be excluded. A most emphatic protest in this sense was made by the Rev. E. F. Sanderson, pastor of the Central Congregational church of Providence, Rhode Island, last Sunday. He declared that no more severe blow could have been dealt to the Christian Church had there been a deliberate attempt to that end, than the exclusion of the sects named. If the conference had been called to form a general church, it might have been a different thing, but when the intention was simply to strike hands for more concerted action in the cause of religion throughout the country, it was a different thing.

THE AGENT GENERAL FOR NEW BRUNSWICK

Mr. C. A. Duff-Miller Mentioned as a Member of Council to Provide Funds to Support French Priests—Interesting News from Rome.

The custom adopted by the Vatican authorities permitting the hierarchy in England and America to have a voice in the selection of bishops for those countries, and making no appointment before three names are received in nomination from the countries, has proved highly successful. It was inaugurated but a few years ago, and it is likely to be adopted for other countries in the near future. In fact, there already consideration given to the possibility of appointing the new French bishops by this method. It is seriously proposed that after the abolition of the concordat, when the appointment of French bishops will be made by the Holy See without consultation with government authorities, the system now used in England and the United States should be extended to France. It is said also that the pope has planned to call a national council of all members of the French hierarchy to discuss the new conditions made for the Church in France by the laws of separation, and that the part that may be taken by the present bishops in naming their colleagues will then be discussed. Many disciplinary measures will be provided for the new conditions, and the administrative council of the French church will be empowered to make such changes as may be necessary to meet the altered conditions in the French church.

SOULS AS TEMPLES

(Birmingham (Ala.) Age Herald.)

These interviews, obtained by the Birmingham (Ala.) Age Herald, from clergymen of that city, are especially interesting in view of the fact that the delegates from the proposed general conference in November, of all Protestant churches, has been attracted to influences from the west and south.

PREFERS PROHIBITION TO GOTHENBURG SYSTEM

Writing to the Montreal Witness in reply to a letter in favor of the Gothenburg system, G. G. Huxtable says: I ask for space to review Mr. Macnaghten's last letter on the above subject. He states that, like other prohibitionists, I am prejudiced against the Gothenburg system. That statement may or may not be correct. It is absolutely irrelevant. I confess to a deeply rooted aversion to the Gothenburg system, and claim that my arguments against it are built upon facts, and studied the system on the spot, and studied the system on the spot, and studied the system on the spot.

WAVE OF SOBRIETY PASSING OVER ENGLAND

(Boston Transcript.)

Leaders in the movement for the Interchurch Conference on Federation say, regarding the division of opinion over their exclusion of the Unitarian delegates, that the movement is a great success. The conference to be held in New York in November is not an enlargement of the National Federation of Churches, but a voluntary organization, and exists largely for the purpose of banding together local bodies that are grappling with their respective local problems. The Interchurch Conference is very different. The call for it was issued by the National Federation of Churches, and it is not a voluntary organization, but a permanent body.

CONTAIN ALCOHOL

NO PLACE TO LIVE TEMPERANCE IN ONTARIO

"Things Are Coming Our Way" Says Rev. Dr. Chown. (Toronto Globe.) Rev. J. V. Smith has sent to the Toronto City Council the copy of a resolution from the Quarterly Official Board of the Central Methodist Church asking that a by-law be submitted to the electors on January 1st next in favor of a reduction of hotel licenses by fifty and of shop licenses by twenty.

Thirteen families of poor people, including over one hundred souls, who have searched in vain for house accommodation throughout the city and outskirts, are today in imminent risk of being turned out on to the street with their furniture left to shift for themselves—not because they are too poor or unwilling to pay rent, but because of the action of the health department of the city.

The poor people, in great distress, called on Ald. Gallery, who took some of them down to the City Hall to see what could be done in the matter. These people are not to be thoroughly respectable, hard-working, honest citizens, some of them residents in the city for the past twenty years and most of them well-to-do.
