FIND GREAT TREASURE IN OLD WIAN'S HOME

Retired Clergyman, Unknown as Rich, Had Jewels Worth $375,000

LIKE ARABIAN NIGHTS

Diamonds, Pearls, Opals and Other Precious Stones Neatly Put Away in Little Boxes—Chalice Worth $75,000 One of His Possessions

Berlin, May 17.—Precious stones worth $75,000 have been discovered in the home of Doctor Liebe, a retired clergyman, whose mysterious death a week ago is still puzzling the police. He was taken violently ill after drinking some liquor from a bottle labeled "anisette" and in spite of a medical aid he expired. He lived with a housekeeper and her husband, who also drank the poisonous liquid, but in their case medical aid proved efficacious. The police had discovered that Doctor Liebe was interested in several commercial undertakings, and they were at first inclined to the view that he had committed suicide on account of financial difficulties. This theory, however, was abandoned after these amazing discoveries. The lawyer charged with the duty of examining the contents of the house was surprised to find a number of diamond pins, studs and links in the minister's dressing room. It appears that Doctor Liebe had a passion for precious stones, and could not refrain from wearing them. It was known that he had a fine chalice, but the lawyer was startled when he discovered that it was of solid gold studded with jewels. There were 218 diamonds, 164 turquoises, forty-eight opals, and 230 pearls, and the chalice was surmounted by a cross formed of enormous diamonds and a huge emerald. Astonishment grew as the searchers pursued their work. In the safe were found dozens of pill boxes named "Arabian Nights," "opals," "rubies," "emeralds," "turquoises," "pearls" and "anisette." The boxes were opened and the contents of the labels accurately described the contents. The safe in which they were kept was veritable "Arabian Nights" chest, flashing with gems. The value of the chalice alone is estimated at $75,000. It is estimated that Doctor Liebe was worth over thirty years ago as a missionary in India. There, touched, perhaps, by the generous spirit of the land, he began to collect jewels. He wandered through Asia, every where searching for precious stones, and finally arrived in Japan, where he acquired many beautiful specimens of pearls. Some years ago he returned to Germany to end his days, and, except for his habit of wearing diamonds, which was regarded as an eccentricity, he was distinguished for his simplicity of life. He lived alone with the man an woman to attend him, and nobody who saw the old man taking his daily "constitutional" knew of his passion for gems, or would have believed if they had been told of his secret hoard of jewels worth thousands and thousands of dollars.

THE WEATHER

Maritime probabilities—Fresh south to southwest winds, showery, clearing on Saturday.

St. Andrews and Chatham Eastport, May 16.—St. Andrews, N. B., is experiencing a boom this year, which is causing the residents of this usually quiet little town to make an extra effort to keep pace with the times and the new improvements which are to be introduced. The large force of men at work on the construction of the Canadian Sardinia Cola plant at Chatham, three miles from the town, adds new life to the place. The American Can Co. is to erect a can making establishment at Chatham and the Sardinia Cola Co. is to have its own electric power plant and has made arrangements to supply the town with electric lights. Rumor also has it that an electric road is to be built from Chatham to St. Andrews and may be extended to connect with the electric road at St. Stephen. A large number of concrete cottages are to be built for the accommodation of the employees.

MAY HAVE BEEN SCHOONER COMMANDED BY NEW BRUNSWICKER

Was it the Ann C. Trainor in Collision?—Body of Fisherman Found in Halifax Harbor

Halifax, N. S., May 17.—(Special)—A wireless message from the steamer A. C. Perry this morning states that no trace of the schooner with which the steamer was in collision, the schooner Ann C. Trainor, could be found and the steamer proceeded for Boston. It is thought possible that the vessel may have been the schooner Ann G. Trainor from New York for Halifax. She is commanded by Captain Wason of New Brunswick. The body of William Martin of Herring Cove, one of the crew of the fishing schooner Ermytrude, was found floating in Levi Hart's dock this morning. CASTLE FOR PRINCE OF WALES

State May Buy Penryn for the Heir to British Throne

London, May 17.—There is a likelihood that the Prince of Wales will have a home of his own in his own principality. The recent death of the Dowager Lady Penryn makes it possible to put through a scheme which has been a long time in the making. The castle stands on an eminence, two miles from the town of Bangor, in North Wales. It is a very imposing affair, with a high Norman tower and curving, its interior is notable for its fine old furniture, sculptured chimney pieces, oak carving and high ceilings. HON. G. E. FOSTER SAYS SYSTEM IS WRONG

Too Much of M.P.'s Time Taken With Patroage and Correspondence

Fredericton, N. B., May 17.—(Special)—Speaking at the banquet of the Alumni Society last night Hon. George E. Foster deplored the fact that the public men of Canada were kept so busy that they had no time to carefully consider the real needs of the members of parliament he said that while in Ottawa many were harassed by an enormous correspondence and pondered by a patronage system which was simply demoralizing. Because of this, he went on to say, members of the government and parliament had no opportunity to earnestly consider matters which came before them. Consequently their decisions were often hastily given.

British Archaeologists Find Sphinx, Great Earthen Walls and Cemetery Older Than the Pyramids

London, May 17.—Details of the season's results in exploration by the British school of archaeology in Egypt are described by Professor Peirce as gigantic. An alabaster sphinx was found at Memphis, twenty-six feet long and four feet high and weighing sixty tons. The sphinx is as perfect as when it was carved 1300 years B. C. Earthen fort walls more than 100 feet thick and a quarter of a mile across, were discovered at Heliopolis. They probably date back to the earlier barbaric invasions. MARITIME PROVINCE ATHLETES NOT SHOWING VERY MUCH INTEREST

News of the Canadian Representatives at the Olympic Games

Montreal, May 17.—Although separate positions on the Canadian Olympic team in the west have been busy for some time preparing for the final elimination trials, which is to be held here on the M. A. A. grounds on June 8, there has been but little done so far by Quebec and the maritime province athletes, and corresponding little interest among those who follow the doings of cinder path and field athletes in this part of the country. During the last few days, several of the M. A. A. and National A. A. A. athletes, have been getting down to work and both associations have turned in the names of several men. These entrants will be excused from the necessity of preliminary trials owing to the fact that the Quebec association is responsible for the conduct of the final games on June 8, but they will participate in the final eliminations. Frank Lokenham has been training probably more consistently than any of the other local athletes. Lokenham intends entering in both the pentathlon and decathlon and expects to compete in the Ontario provincial trials on June 1. The big sprinter will probably run under M. A. A. colors.

Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, on Visit to Canada and States, a Wonder When It Comes to Work—His Many Activities

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Com.)

Americans and Canadians who happen to meet Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, who has just arrived in New York on the S. S. Mauretania, may as well be reminded that by one of those extraordinary freaks of pronunciation which are not uncommon in England, "Beaulieu" is pronounced "Bewly."

It is a business trip, pure and simple, though as it is such a social favorite, I do not see very well how he will be able to resist the progress of the French party of those Americans and Canadians with whom he is acquainted.

The Mother Who Was Too Busy

By RUTH CAMERON

IN a beautiful big back yard upon which one of my study windows looks, seven youngsters were having the time of their lives the other day; and the central feature of all their fun was a most wonderful tent constructed out of two shawls and a sheet.

And as I watched, there suddenly came to me from across the years—as poignantly as if it were something actual like a fragrance or a strain of music—the memory of similar undertakings. I remember one gloriously arduous Saturday spent in building for the telephone, the wash pail for the window of the little boy next door; and another dedicated to manufacturing an aquarium out of an old wash pail, a few water weeds, some minnows, and three lichen-pollywogs; and still another holiday when we built a house in the woodpile, and fitted it up like a log cabin, and played pioneer all the long afternoon.

How I used to trot in and out of the house, excited, busy and absolutely happy! How I used to rush to the little mother for the string for the telephone, the wash pail for the aquarium, an old blanket for the log cabin, and mercy knows what not! And how patiently she always gave them to me!

You see, she was a mother who understood that when the concrete of the seven decided to have a tent the other morning, they dispersed to their separate homes in search of materials. From one home came a plaid shawl; from another came the sheet and the grey shawl; but from two homes the scouts came back empty handed.

Mothers and fathers, especially mothers, don't forget that little things like these are very big to children. Disproportionately big! A plaid shawl may mean so much to them, may give them more pleasure, perhaps, than some of your most expensive formal gifts. Can't you manage to have the time to find the plaid shawl?

I used to visit sometimes at a home where the children were never allowed any such liberties, where such requests were invariably denied. The home was expensive and beautiful, but the children liked to go to other homes to play. And now that they are grown up they are never so happy as when they are away visiting.

Little things like these mean so very much to children that we must be careful how we refuse and deny, for we may be spoiling more happiness than we have any idea of.

MARINE NEWS.

The new steamer Stadium, owned by C. T. White & Sons, Ltd., of East Apple River, N. S., is ready for service.

The agent of the marine and fisheries department in Halifax, yesterday received two messages from the steamer A. W. Purry for Boston from Halifax, stating that the steamer had collided with an unknown schooner off Little Hope, N. S., in a dense fog. The steamer was not damaged, but it was not known to what extent the schooner was damaged. Search failed to locate her.

The steamer Grand Manan is starting on her route again after having been laid up for the winter. She has been thoroughly overhauled and repainted. Captain J. A. Ingersoll is again in command.

Worth Knowing

Use a coarse cloth when rubbing the skin from new potatoes. A little tomato catsup added to the fillet of herring served on toast, as an appetizer, is a tasty touch.

Asparagus slipped through rings of red pepper makes a pretty salad. A ring cut from carrots answers nicely, too, and makes a pleasing color scheme.

Often one is annoyed by the swaying back and forth of a Japanese porch screen, when it is dropped. When putting up the screens fasten the rope which rolls and unrolls the screen in the center, rather than to one side; this done, the flapping will be prevented.

Dustpans with the long wooden handles or others which may be held in position with the foot, are more sensible than the old-fashioned kind with the short handles, for these necessitate constant stooping.—Newark News.

Blood is made from the food we eat and purified by the air we breathe. It naturally follows that to eat good wholesome food and breathe pure air would ensure pure blood.

GRIP IS DREADED

Because it Lowers Vitality—What to Do

It is not the disease itself, but the dangerous complications that follow it that people fear with such good reason; the lingering cough, the terrible weakness, and the liability of being attacked by pleurisy, pneumonia or some other serious illness.

We say it is highly important to free the system of every trace of grip and nothing is so good for this as Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation which creates strength and builds up the body.

Mrs. C. L. Edwards, Long Branch, N. J., says: "Last February I had a very bad attack of grip and it left me with a terrible cough. For fully six weeks I could get a great deal, and nothing had any effect on it, until I tried Vinol which soon gave me relief and has since brought about a complete cure."

Can anything be more convincing that Vinol is just what you need to build you up and make you strong? We guarantee it, most positively. Watson's—100 King Street.

I wouldn't mind ma's washin' 'uv My hands on 'face each day, If she would only do it in A gentle sort 'uv way. I wouldn't mind the cloth at all, Or mibble two, if 'twasn't for 'The cold ends 'tappin' round."

I wouldn't mind the scrubbin', too, Although I'm awful thin, If ma would just be satisfied To not remove the skin. An' then the water, deary me! She gets a peck, I bet; But still I would kick at that If 'twasn't so awful wet.

But worst 'uv all 'ev'ry day! Three times a day 'uv more! No wonder I'm behind at school, An' always thin an' sore. The way ma washes I should say, An' I had orter know. Had orter last a boy like me About a week or so.

BACON AND EGGS.

He liked showing off, did young Brown, and he thought that the occasion of his dining with some friends at a restaurant would be a good occasion for exhibiting his talents.

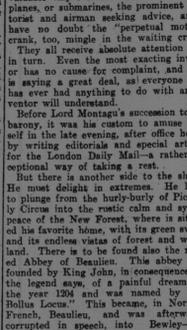

"Waiter," he cried, in a swaggering voice, "bring me some verulam and ova."

"Bacon and eggs, sir!" he exclaimed. "In ordinary English that would be a shilling, but in classical language it will be half-a-crown. Let the punishment fit the crime, as we used to say at Oxford! Anything else, sir?"—Answers.

Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, on Visit to Canada and States, a Wonder When It Comes to Work—His Many Activities

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Com.)

Americans and Canadians who happen to meet Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, who has just arrived in New York on the S. S. Mauretania, may as well be reminded that by one of those extraordinary freaks of pronunciation which are not uncommon in England, "Beaulieu" is pronounced "Bewly."

It is a business trip, pure and simple, though as it is such a social favorite, I do not see very well how he will be able to resist the progress of the French party of those Americans and Canadians with whom he is acquainted.

He is married to a daughter of the ninth baron, the youngest aged three. Unless he has a son, the barony will go on his death (he is only forty-six) to his younger brother, Robert Henry Montagu. Notwithstanding all his multitudinous occupations, he is wholly thorough in all he does and never superficial. "If I were to die," when anyone speaks of his marvelous industry.

The offices of "The Car" in the Piccadilly Mansions in London, have become indeed a sort of clearing house and museum for every kind of literature and information regarding locomotion by land, sea, and air. His office looks down upon Piccadilly Circus, where London's life is busiest. Throughout his long working day, the waiting room adjoining his editorial sanctum is thronged with a crowd of inventors and others, waiting to see the genial editor and publisher. Genesius who believe that they have something that will revolutionize the existing order of things, the clever mechanic with a valuable improvement in automobile, aeronautics, or submarines, the prominent motorist and airman seeking advice, and I have no doubt the "perpetual motion" crank, too, mingle in the waiting crowd.

They all receive absolute attention each in turn. Even the most exacting inventor or has no cause for complaint, and that is saying a great deal, as everyone who has ever had anything to do with an inventor will understand. Before Lord Montagu's accession to the barony, it was his custom to amuse himself in the late evening, after office hours, by writing editorials and special articles for the London Daily Mail—a rather exceptional way of taking a rest.

But there is another side to the shield. He must delight in extremes. He loves to plunge from the hurly-burly of Piccadilly Circus into the rustic calm and sylvan peace of the New Forest, where is situated his favorite home, with its green sward and its endless vistas of forest and woodland. There is to be found also the ruined Abbey of Beaulieu. The abbey was founded by King John, in consequence, so the legend says, of a painful dream, in the year 1204 and was named by him "Hollus Locus." This became, in Norman French, Beaulieu, and was afterwards corrupted in speech, into Bewley—the present pronunciation.

A more beautiful site it would be difficult to imagine. The building itself must have been magnificent, for the present walls, portions of which are still standing, enclosed a space of fifty-eight acres. The old refectory is now used as the parish church of the village of Beaulieu. At the time of the reformation the abbey was confiscated by Henry VIII, and sold to Thomas Wriothesley, afterward Earl of Southampton. In the reign of William III, it became the property of Ralph, Lord Montagu, (afterwards created Duke of Devonshire) by marriage with the heiress of the Wriothesleys. His son John transmitted it to his daughters, from whom it descended, by another marriage, to Edmund Hussey, who assumed the name of Montagu and was created Baron Beaulieu in 1702, and two years later, this title became extinct on his death in 1802, when the manor went to the last Lord Montagu, from whom it passed to his nephew, the fifth Duke of Buccleuch and Queensberry, from whom it descended to his son, Lord Henry John Douglas-Scott-Montagu, who was created a baron in 1885. He died in 1905 and was succeeded by his son, the second baron, that is to say, the active and industrious gentleman who has just set foot on these shores. As to the country seat of Lord Mon-

SEEK LOST WILL FOR $20,000,000 IN RUINED ABBEY

British Chancery Mystery of Hundred Years Recalled By Secret Visits

London, May 16.—A sensation has been caused in North Wales by the operations of mysterious visitors to the ruins of Valle Crucis Abbey, Llangollen, who are supposed to be searching for the will of Anthony Pritchard, whose vast estate, valued at $20,000,000 went into chancery 100 years ago in the absence of a next of kin.

The will was supposed to have been left in the custody of a caretaker named Jones, but after Pritchard's death it mysteriously disappeared, and claimants to the estate have been hunting for it ever since.

Some years ago the grave of the caretaker, Jones, who appears to have exercised a weird fascination over Pritchard during his life, was twice dug up at midnight, and the coffin was searched for the will that was alleged to have been buried with the body. No will, however, was found.

Visitors, accompanied by London solicitors, have from time to time appeared at Llangollen and asserted their claims to the Pritchard millions and the estate which includes Llansyilo Hall, the land on which St. George's Hall, Liverpool is built, and large tea gardens in Calcutta.

They have declared that a missing will for which search was being made alone stood in the way of their taking immediate possession. The custodian said that since Easter several secret visits have been paid to the enclosure by unknown people, sometimes late at night, but always during the absence of the guardians of the place and the historic treasures it contains. The visits are not likely to be repeated without official sanction, for an effective cordon of watchers has been established. Farmers in the neighborhood of the abbey, one of whom was a very old resident, say that before the abbey was enclosed as a show place the chapter house was the living room of a large farmstead, where, it is understood, relatives of Jones, the caretaker at Llansyilo Hall, lived, and some say that Jones frequently visited the abbey at night. It is thought that he may have concealed documents under the floor of the chapter house, and it is asserted that certain documents on which the claim to the millions is based bear indications of having been kept for a considerable time in a damp place and under conditions similar to those obtaining under the chapter-house floor.

Whether anything has been discovered or not is not known, but the principal claimant who some years ago asserted that her case was all but complete, has, after a long stay suddenly left the locality.

LIQUOR CASES.

Case against Charles Lannon and William historic, charged with violation of the liquor license act, came up for hearing in the police court this afternoon and was further adjourned until Monday.

LITTLE THINGS TELL.

Getting into a railway carriage the other day, a gentleman happened to treat upon the foot of a young lady sitting next to the door. "Clumey creature!" "Many men would have looked foolish and apologized, but he merely exclaimed: "My dear young lady, you should have set large enough to be seen, and then they wouldn't be trodden on." The way in which the frown changed into a beaming smile was a sight to see.—Pearson.

Ladies' College Vacancies

Sackville Tribune:—There will be three vacancies in the teaching forces of the Ladies' College this spring caused by the resignations of Professor Robert Pichard and Miss N. A. Clark, of the Musical Faculty, and Miss Edna Weatherhead, teacher of oratory and physiology. The lady last mentioned may be succeeded by Miss Sarah Kingston of Ottawa, who last year was a very competent assistant in the oratory department. It is possible that Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe, steward and stewardess, formerly of St. John, may not return next year—a contingency that will be very deeply regretted by all connected with the college.

FURTHER ADJOURNED.

The case against Joseph Neely in the Fairville police court was further adjourned this morning until Tuesday next. More evidence was heard.

Several St. John people will leave this evening for Moncton to attend an at home to be given by the Columbus Club to the Knights of Columbus Hall there.

THE KINGS-CONVENTION The result of the Liberal convention at Hampton yesterday will greatly strengthen the cause of Liberalism throughout the province. The manner in which the new leader is rallying to the support of his new leader, Mr. A. B. Copp, and nominating strong candidates, of high character, is very gratifying to friends of good government.

RELIGION AND THE STATE Confirmation of the theory that religion plays a large part in national development comes from an unexpected source. The Times recently referred to a great religious conference called by the government of Japan. This government has come to the conclusion that the best way to prevent the social unrest which ends in anarchy is to promote moral and patriotic ideals through religious channels.

A PARSON'S FUNERAL A searcher among old parish records has unearthed the fact that a century ago it cost $20.12 to bury the parish minister of Balfron, this sum including more than £12 for rum, wine and brandy, and 2s. for shortbread. If death then was a luxury almost beyond the reach of the poor, on the other hand, one could be kept alive at a cheap rate; for the Balfron doctor charged $1 a visit when he attended a child professionally in Fintry, five miles away.

THE WINNER'S TEST Who are the winners in life? Some of them will be found among those who have won wealth or gained fame, but their winning will not be because they have gained these things. The Greeks had a foot race in which speed and endurance were not the only tests. Each man at the start was given a lighted torch, and the laurel wreath was for the one who came in first with his torch alight. As we strive for the victory let us at any cost, keep the fire of honor, truth and kindness alight in our lives.

MOTHER DRIVES THE CAR. When mother ran her old machine, she put some puffs upon her head. Then all us stunk-up children were the best dressed in the park. For mother dear was humble, "Childhood blooms but once," she cried; "And why was I created? Save to find in you my pride!" Now mother runs the new machine; The old one's full of dust; Like orphans, we're unloved. Unfeathered and unfused, "Don't wait your lunch for me; I'm running down through Jersey And can't tell how long I'll be." Yes, mother's got us gussied; From right down the line; She's put some puffs upon her head, And looks just twenty-nine; And now she crows triumphant; "I shal motor near and far; For the hand that rocked the cradle Is the hand 'at drives the car." —By Augusta Kortrecht.

IRELAND'S BEST FOOT IS FORWARD

A Marked Improvement is Following Upon Good Legislation

LAND PURCHASE WORKING

About $225,000,000 Already Spent—Prosperity Attends Upon the Farmers Becoming Owners of the Soil—Good Results in Many Ways Seen

(Times Special Correspondence)
Dublin, May 14—Nearly every English correspondent who visited Dublin this week for the great national convention which accepted the home rule bill, commented on the appearance of comfort and prosperity which characterized all the delegates. The visitors seemed surprised, and they may well have been if it were their first visit to Ireland. In the twenty years, for in that time a great change has come over the face of the country.

The prosperity of Ireland indeed is being used by the Unionists as an argument against home rule, their position being that now that Ireland is prosperous she does not need self-government. They forget, or rather they do not wish to remember, that every measure aiding the growth of that prosperity has been forced from England by the nationalist party, and the fact that some of the best measures have been forced from Unionist governments does not alter the essentials of the case.

Twenty years ago Ireland was a poor country in a double sense. There was not much money in the country and what there was, was badly distributed. The farmers were rack-rented and most of the rent they paid went out of the country. Today Ireland still is a poor country in the sense that her total possessions are small, but in another sense she is growing rich. Her agriculturists are becoming the masters of their own soil, and the landlord is disappearing and the property which has its foundation in the land is spreading to all classes of the community. At this turning point in Ireland's history it seems appropriate to examine her present economic condition and I propose to do so in a series of articles dealing with various phases of her economic and moral progress.

The Land

First of all it is proposed to deal with the land, for on the land in Ireland more perhaps than in other countries all property depends, and the great source of present day Irish prosperity are the land purchase acts of 1902 and 1909. These acts, particularly that of 1903, worked most beneficially until the present Liberal government came into power, when their operation was suspended almost completely owing to financial difficulties. Land purchase finance, however, is a subject full of intricacies which few people even in Ireland understand and it is proposed only to deal with the broad outlines.

The land purchase act provided for buying out the landlords of Ireland and establishing the tenants as owners of the soil. The prices paid for various estates are fixed by agreement or, in cases of extreme obstinacy by landlords, by compulsion. The money is raised by the issue of Irish 3 per cent. land stock at 85, and in many cases the landlords accept this stock in whole or part payment for their land. This is an excellent bargain for the landlords, for, in addition to getting a good price for their estates, the stock, which is issued to them at 85, is redeemable at par at the end of 6 1/2 years.

The tenant comes at once into possession of his land paying 3 1/4 per cent. on its value to the government. Of this 2 3/4 per cent. is interest and 1/2 per cent. capital repayment. At the end of 6 1/2 years he will own the land free and clear. In almost every case the annual payment under the land purchase act are much lower than the old rent. In the act of 1909 some changes were made which, on the whole, were unfavorable to both landlord and tenant and were designed to save the pockets of the British taxpayer, for, under both acts, the deficit—and there is sure to be a small deficit—must be made up out of the general taxation.

Under the act of 1909, 121,022 farmers had been settled on their own land in January of this year at a total cost of $20,938,110 and 4,437 landlords' estates had been purchased. Applications are on file from 129,447 more persons covering 4,677 more estates, and it is estimated that between $750,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 more is needed to complete the freeing of the soil of Ireland from landlordism. Under the act of 1909 only $3,432,455 has been spent.

Means Better Farming

These bare figures can give little idea of the growth in general prosperity which has been brought about by land purchase. Apart altogether from the fact that the farmer has more money to spend because

PLEASD WITH PATRICIALAND

England Appreciates the Compliment Paid By Ontario to Canada's Princess

(Times' Special Correspondence)
London, May 16—Much satisfaction is expressed by newspapers here at the title chosen by Sir James Whitney for Ontario's new territory. Says one journal: "We all beg to approve with enthusiasm Canada's very charming compliment to Princess Patricia in naming the new strip of Ontario 'Patricialand.' Her Royal Highness captivates wherever she goes. The proud Lady of Snows was at her feet from the first moment of her arrival, and, afterwards, in a few crowded hours in New York, she became the most popular personage in the United States. Her name on the map will be a reminder far into the ages of a princess who in every point of character and charm is truly woman and truly royal."

It may be said that members of the royal families of Britain during the last few centuries figure very handsomely in the gazetteers of the world. Maryland was named in honor of Henrietta Maria, whose husband granted it to George Calvert, first Lord Baltimore, and his heirs for ever. The Carolinas are named after Charles II, while Georgia was named in honor of George III, in whose reign it was colonized.

An island was named after Princess Patricia's great-great-grandmother, the good Queen Charlotte.

Land birds, says a naturalist, make their journeys in the day-time, water birds at night.

TO HIM WHO WAITS.

Jack and Dolly had not been married very long. A few days ago they went together on a shopping expedition to the end of frills and frocks.

"Now, dearie, I sha't be long," said Dolly, as they entered the emporium. "You sit in this comfortable chair, and wait while I match these two samples of ribbon."

Jack duly sat down in the furnishing department, and Dolly disappeared in the nether regions.

"Oh, I haven't minded a bit!" came the reply. "I just jumped on a car and went to the baseball match; then I had some tea, and went for a ride on Fred's new motor car. Did you match your ribbon?"

"One of them, dearest. But it's so provoking! I shall have to come again, for they're just closing the shop!"

Wall Street Notes. New York, May 17—Americans in London heavy 1/8 to 3/8 off. Since May 1 the Steel corporation has booked more business than at any other corresponding time in its history.

News this morning is meagre as affects stock values. More and more people are beginning to believe that Roosevelt will think the buying yesterday was better than the selling. The traders have had a hard time lately. The market is a puzzle to them. No one understands the decline of nine points in Steel one week and a recovery of seven points the next week.

ANTHRACITE MINERS IN CONVENTION TODAY

Some Favor and Some Oppose the Agreement With the Operators

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 17—Leaders of the opposition to the ratification of the tentative agreement between the miners and operators are expected to take the floor in the anthracite miners' convention today, and try to counteract the effect of strong speeches made yesterday by John P. White, international president, and John T. Dempsey and John Fahy, district presidents of the union, who favor the proposed new wage agreement.

When the convention adjourned yesterday the delegates were considering the wages paragraph in the agreement, which provides for a ten per cent increase in wages and the abolition of the sliding scale. The miners declare that the increase with the sliding scale abolished, means a net advance of about five per cent.

THE MILLINERY REBELLION. The Eastern Milliners' Association meeting in New York, discussed the present form of simplicity in dress, a condition from which all milliners now suffer, and it was decided that the hobble skirt and the present fashion of simple dresses were to blame. "I have," he said, "a bonnet sweet, Made of a dove, a parakeet, And two small mice, Well chosen for the hair."

"Is not extremely dear?"

"It is the cost, my dear, that is the trouble. But fashion's Dame Bids us prefer, 'No Simple Hats Sold Here.'"

"Or this," he said, displaying it. "Your style of coiffure will fit. It has two trees, Dwarf Japanese. A corn-field in the rear. A bunch of spinach valente. And stacks of dejected hay. To crown a phiz. Our motto is, 'No Simple Hats Sold Here.'"

There are few men better able to stage a great play than Sir Herbert Tree, and his latest Shakespearean production, "Othello" is another great achievement from every point of view. Sir Herbert's idea seems to be that if a thing is worth doing, it is worth doing well, and every production of his Majesty's Theatre bears the imprint of his genius.

Somebody was recalling recently the day when she will attend the school (then Mr. Tree used to watch the building and completing of His Majesty's. One day he saw Sir Squire Bancroft passing along Charles street, and he caught him by the arm and triumphantly pointed to his colossal theatre.

"Well, Bancroft," he cried, "what do you think of it?"

KINGS COUNTY LIBERALS RICK THREE EVIDENCES

Dr. G. N. Pearson, S. H. Flewelling and O. W. Wetmore Candidates to Redeem Constituency

Stirring Speeches at Enthusiastic Convention in Hampton — Mr. Copp Announces Strong Policy and Flays the Fleming Administration—Conservatives Already Think They are Beaten

Hampton, N. B., May 16.—A sweeping Liberal victory in Kings county can be predicted after today's rousing convention. The gathering was large and enthusiastic. Delegates were present from all parts of the county and their sentiments left little room for doubt regarding the success of the opposition ticket at the coming election. Three strong candidates representing the upper, middle and lower parishes, were chosen with the unanimous votes of the convention. The candidates are Dr. G. N. Pearson, S. H. Flewelling and O. W. Wetmore of Clifton.

In addition to strong speeches by the candidates the convention had the opportunity to hear the leader of the opposition. A. B. Copp, M. P., who delivered a rousing speech. J. H. McEldown, county president, called the gathering to order. F. E. Sharpe moved and Doctor Master announced the nomination of Doctor G. N. Pearson as the representative of the upper end of the county. There were no further nominations and Doctor Pearson received the unanimous endorsement.

A delegation returned with the doctor's acceptance the second nomination was then considered. George Lamb moved and Alex. Gillies seconded the nomination of Mayor O. W. Wetmore. This was also carried unanimously and Mr. Wetmore was called upon to speak and give a capital address.

S. H. Flewelling was called upon as one of the candidates and Doctor Pearson advised that the convention accept the name of F. E. Sharpe as the representative of the middle parishes. The fact that he had been chosen at a convention held some months previously, Doctor W. B. McVey moved and Charles Reynolds seconded the nomination of Mr. Flewelling. F. W. C. Nae moved and A. Sherwood seconded the nomination of Mr. Sharpe.

Harry Morton and Thomas Gilliland appointed scrutineers and announced the results as follows: Flewelling, 29; Sharpe, 34. On motion of Mr. Sharpe a standing vote was unanimous and expressed by a cheer. Doctor Pearson entered the hall at this juncture and was asked to speak. He thanked the convention for honoring his record and made a few remarks. He referred to the Liberal sweep in Quebec as a cause for encouragement and predicted a similar success for the Liberal government in the coming year.

Mr. Flewelling congratulated the delegates and Mayor Wetmore promised for himself honest and independent service in the interests of the county. He was vigorously attacked the government for its extravagance and incompetence and for its absolute failure to carry out the law to produce anything but graft. Mr. Sharpe followed and remarked that any government which would not carry out the law at this time of the year deserved to be beaten. He dealt with the highway policy of the government to the extent that money was diverted to their followers instead of being spent on the roads.

HOME AFTER THEIR FEARFUL EXPERIENCE

Arrival of the S.S. Lapland at Plymouth, Eng., with the survivors of the Titanic's crew. The survivors are being taken off in a Great Western Railroad tugboat.

The extent of $10,000 a mile, and this line runs from a point on the G. P. R. to J. K. Pinder's saw mill. The people of the province are liable for $100,000 because Mr. Pinder wants to haul his lumber and the C. P. R. wants the freight rates on this same lumber. Members of the government had not the slightest knowledge of this road when the bonds were guaranteed. Speaking of the question of aid to agriculture, Mr. Copp said it must be grappled with boldly and a progressive policy laid down.

He said that the province can afford to guarantee bonds for railways and take for security the public credit in order that our own people should not be forced to pay for the bonds. He said that the province can afford to guarantee bonds for railways and take for security the public credit in order that our own people should not be forced to pay for the bonds.

Mr. Copp's Fine Reception. Mr. Copp was called upon and could not begin his address without a cheer, so hearty was the reception given. He thanked the convention for the demonstration which he knew came from hearts warmed by their delight at choosing a Liberal ticket in the great old county of Kings. The government supporters had said that it would be impossible for the opposition to get candidates to face the inevitable tangle led by Mr. Murray and "various persons" under the name of George B. Jones. He was proud to see the stalwarts of the Liberal party who had stood for their principles since Confederation mingle with the younger men in the gathering, united in their determination as were the Liberals of other counties to hunt for the pledge-breaking and extravagant government.

"In Kings the outlook is doubly hopeful for I can tell the government members that they have let go their right bow, as well as their jokers, in discarding Fred M. Sprout, who was forced to run the ticket to please the whim and fancy of those who were deeper in the treasury than he was himself. I can tell them that when they go further and seek to displace from office to make room for Mr. Sprout a trusted address of the country they will pay the price when they come before the people wherever they may be, and let me add the sooner they come the better for the Liberal party in this province."

Hazen's Dream. Mr. Copp caused some amusement by stirring an apology for carrying the Standard in his pocket, but said that it had provided him with the best campaigning material he could find by producing Mr. Hazen's review of the acts passed by the government, as given by the late premier at the Fleming love feast. "One of the first acts I see mentioned here," was Mr. Copp, "is the act to appoint an agricultural commission. That commission was appointed and cost the province about $10,000 but I fail to see where the farmers have benefited one dollar from that commission, and I charge that the purpose of the act was to give Dr. Landry, W. W. Hubbard and George E. Fisher, and some two others a junking trip and some money at the expense of this province."

"I see here as an act for an enquiry into the Central Railway as a result of which there was paid to Messrs. Landry, Teed and McDougall and a legal adviser named Powell, handsome B. Jones. He was proud to see the stalwarts of the Liberal party who had stood for their principles since Confederation mingle with the younger men in the gathering, united in their determination as were the Liberals of other counties to hunt for the pledge-breaking and extravagant government.

UP PARISH TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Evidence Points To This in Case In France

PARIS NEWS LETTER

M. Clemenceau is to Undergo Operation—Woman Ends Life to Spite Landlord and Give His House a Black Mark—Hurt at Bull-fight

(Times Special Correspondence.) Paris, May 4.—Evidence seems to show that the Belgian aviator, M. Jean Verpe, really did commit suicide. Spectators of the accident had the impression that the fall of the machine to the ground was intentional. The aviator had wanted to escape he would have shot off the motor. He did not do so, and the aeroplane came to earth at a terrific speed. It is also said that this was not the first time of suicide by aeroplane. A Russian aviator, described as a Nihilist, made a flight in 1910 in the course of which he took up his mission, when it was his mission to kill, but when up in the air he changed his mind and came down safely with his passengers. The revolutionary tribunal condemned him to death, and the aviator in one of his flights afterwards escaped arrest, had returned to Paris after his fall, and had promptly joined the extreme revolutionary party, so when the Communists broke out he placed his sword at his service. Florens exercised a sort of ascendancy over the Belleville battalions, and he was deeply humiliated by the flight of his twentieth legion in the affair of April 3. He would not follow it, but remained with a single companion.

The two men, after a brief halt on the banks of the Seine, had gone to an inn at Clatou to take a meal. They were discovered there by a patrol of gendarmes. The house having been searched, Florens was brought before the captain, while Cipriani, who had just been wounded, disappeared. He was dragged away covered with blood. A conversation between the officer and Florens ensued.

"Ah! it is you who have fired on my men!" said the former, and as the other protested he clove his head with a sabre cut, without probably knowing who was the personage whom he had thus killed, as he was in all likelihood acquainted with his identity only through Cipriani's statement. Such was the end of this unhappy man, to whom his real intellectual power and his courage should have reserved a different fate. He was only thirty-two years of age.

When on the following day the Communists were routed, "they" left in the hands of the army 1,500 prisoners, with their rifles and cannon, and the general who commanded them, in her will which was dated May 12, 1912, she said that she was weary of life, so had resolved to die, and on the belief that she had committed suicide she was buried after the usual formalities. As, however, her son, a lawyer in practice in his active land, is distinguished, his mother having left all her movable property, including furniture, jewelry and other objects of art, to one friend and her estate to Rueil to another, and as he moreover, regards the circumstances of his mother's death as suspicious, he has lodged a complaint with the judicial authorities at Versailles against some person unknown for homicide by imprudence. On the intervention of M. Lewalsky, the Russian ambassador, the authorities have ordered that the corpse shall be disinterred and they have appointed a magistrate to institute a thorough investigation.

Auction bridge is devastating the Paris saloons. Conversation is killed. It is the coup de grace delivered to a dying art. The influence of women is threatened. The spread of clubs in Paris began the downfall of the salon; it has been hastened by the rage for bridge. Perhaps the day will come when Parisian women will group themselves in clubs—the League is already under French feminine control. Then, presumably, the salon will expire and other objects of art, to one friend and her estate to Rueil to another, and as he moreover, regards the circumstances of his mother's death as suspicious, he has lodged a complaint with the judicial authorities at Versailles against some person unknown for homicide by imprudence.

WEDDINGS. W. A. Bridges, of Scotland, was married in St. Martin's yesterday to Miss Mabel D. Calhoun, and they left last night for Montreal en route to Scotland to make their home. Mr. Bridges is a former member of the Bank of B. N. A. staff in St. Martin.

Miss Pota Theodorakou, of Quebec, was yesterday married to John Speardack of St. John in her home city by Rev. P. Agapheos, of Montreal. A large number of guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. Speardack will reside in this city after a honeymoon trip to New York and Boston.

A PROFITABLE CASE. "Where did you get that fur overcoat, doctor?" asked one of his patients. "I got this when Mr. Burrows had appendicitis," the doctor replied.

NO MORE CONSTIPATION, BILIOUS HEADACHE, BAD BREATH, SOUR STOMACH OR LAZY LIVER

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. KAISER HAS CREATED ANOTHER SENSATION

Threat to Smash to Pieces The Alsace-Lorraine Convention Berlin, May 17—Nothing the Kaiser has said or done in many months has created such a sensation or so much widespread comment in the German press as his threat at Strasbourg to "smash to pieces" the recently granted constitution of Alsace-Lorraine and make it a Prussian province if political conditions there do not change. The Kaiser's threat and warning was delivered to the Alsatian Diet, which passed a vote of censure on the Alsatian government for boycotting the Grafenstadt Locomotive Works because of the pro-French agitation of its managers and employees who carried French flags at picnics.

THERE WILL BE ONE BIG CAMP

Change of Plan for Summer Drill of Troops—3,300 Men Under Canvas

Officers of the local militia have received orders which countermand those issued from headquarters some weeks ago to the effect that there would be two camps at Sussex this year. The new orders call for only one camp, and there is no doubt that from present arrangements, the gathering will be the largest in the history of military circles in the maritime provinces, as there will be about 3,300 men under canvas. This number is much greater than in other years.

The first orders issued indicated that the camp established last year, namely the holding of two camps extending for about a month with three or four days intervening, would be adhered to this summer, but now they have been countermanded the rural regiments and corps are preparing to enter camp in an assembly from June 21 to July 7, a period of sixteen days.

The regiments taking the annual drill this year at Sussex will include one from Prince Edward Island, the P. E. I. Light Cavalry brigade, which will take their drilling there for the first time. The others will be the Princess Louise Hussars and the 26th N. B. Dragoons, which compose the balance of the mounted brigade, the 13th infantry brigade, Army Service Corps, Army Medical Corps, Signalling Corps, Engineers and Corps Guides. Contracts have already been entered into for some of the supplies.

ACTIVITY AT WALLACE, N. S. The Annsboro News has it on good authority that the Dominion Coal Company will start construction work on their new pier at Wallace Harbor at an early date, in fact that the timber for the pier has already been ordered and the railway department and coal company are now conferring with regard to the construction of a branch line from the main line of the Intercolonial to the town of Wallace.

FISHING TRIP. There have been no stories told of the "Big ones that got away," or "the hard time we had getting those large ones in," etc., thus far this season, but the time is getting near and there may be expected a choice new crop on the return of four local anglers who left this morning. They were J. A. Sinclair, W. H. McQuade, L. R. Ross, and Charles Clarke, who went to the grounds of the Chiswick Lake Fishing Club.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS. Robert J. Murphy, deputy grand knight, who was one of the St. John delegates at the state convention of the Knights of Columbus this week in Antigonish, N. S., at the meeting of the local council last evening reported upon the convention. A class of forty candidates presented themselves for the examination of degrees in St. Ninian Council. There were many distinguished visitors at the convention, he said, and many of the addresses were eloquent and inspiring. The next convention will be in St. John.

IN THE COURTS

In the summary ejection matter of Mrs. M. Grace Mullaly vs. J. Major Howell, His Honor Judge Joseph H. Howland gave judgment for the plaintiff, ordering that the defendant, who is the tenant, to give up possession of the plaintiff's premises at 183 Sydney street, Geo. H. V. Byles, who appeared for the defendant, gave notice of appeal, and a stay of proceedings was granted pending the appeal. H. W. Robertson appeared for the plaintiff. Hearing was commenced in the case of Harris vs. Fowers, which is an action under the mechanic's lien to recover $172 for mason work done by the plaintiff on the defendant's house. The amount being contention is that the work is unfinished, and defective in places. Only $35 of the claim is in dispute, this amount being alleged extra work. The plaintiff and James Sproul were examined this morning and the case was adjourned until this afternoon. D. Mullin, K.C., and G. Earle Logan appeared for the plaintiff, and H. H. Pickett for the defendant.

LATHERTON SENT UP FOR TRIAL

Preliminary Examination Concluded—Liquor Dealer is Fined $50 in Police Court

The preliminary hearing in the case of Frederick Latheron, former purser on the C. P. R. liner Empress of Ireland, charged with misappropriation of funds, was concluded in the police court this morning at the next sitting of the county court. G. Earle Logan appeared for the prisoner, and Colonel H. H. McLean for the prosecution. The prisoner dispensed with the reading over of the evidence, and in reply to a question asked by the court as to whether he wished to make a statement or not, answered "I have nothing to say." He was then sent up for trial. The case will come up about the latter part of this month.

One prisoner charged with drunkenness was fined $4 or ten days in jail, while another was fined $8 or ten days in jail. George Morris, reported for conducting a meat business on the West Side without a license, explained that he was making arrangements to comply with the law. The matter was allowed to stand for a week. Thomas Parks, reported for driving across the sidewalk in Mill street in front of the Union Depot on Tuesday last, was fined $2. His Honor spoke briefly of the excellent work being done by the police around the depot in handling the traffic there.

John O'Brien, charged with allowing a drunken man to remain on his premises in Mill street contrary to law was fined $10 or thirty days in jail. Policeman Wiltson, who made the report, said that he saw a drunken man go into the saloon and remain there more than an hour. The defendant said he did not know the man was asleep in a corner and he (O'Brien) did not know he was there.

Five prisoners, in jail on remand, were brought into court and fined $8 or thirty days in jail each.

NONE SIGNED YET FOR MOUNTED POLICE

Better Times in St. John Make Recruiting Officer's Task Harder This Year.

With St. John's present prosperity and its even better prospects, it seems to be a few attractions for the recruiting officer. This local situation is too attractive to make the west look as desirable as it once did. Inspector Gordon of the Royal North West Mounted Police, who has been here for the last couple of days, has not signed any men yet. He will leave tomorrow evening for St. John's and Sydney, and will visit his maritime tour in Halifax.

Speaking to a Times reporter this morning, Inspector Gordon said that he could get some men here but those that offered in most cases were not the type he wanted. On account of the peculiar duties of the police they require men of more than average intelligence and men who can be depended upon in cases when they have to act on their own initiative without a superior officer at hand.

Last year they had no difficulty in securing desirable recruits here, but this year the change in local conditions has made it impossible to secure the same type of men as there are greater opportunities here for them.

LIBERAL PRIMARIES IN THE CITY TONIGHT

Liberal primaries will be held tonight at eight o'clock for St. John. The Liberal candidates and all opposed to the present provincial government are to meet for the purpose of electing delegates to select candidates to contest this constituency in the approaching provincial elections. The meeting places are:—Northwest and South End Wards, Assembly rooms, Nickel Theatre. Wellington Ward, Dalzell's Waterloo street. West End Wards, Oddfellows' Hall. A large attendance is looked for.

GUN CLUB PLANS

The St. John Gun Club has decided to hold an extra club shoot throughout the summer, on Wednesday evenings, starting next Wednesday and to commence at half-past six sharp. This will give those who want to go to the country on Wednesday a chance to shoot on Wednesday. The trout rod donated by J. O. Smith will be contested for from Saturday, May 18 to June 8 inclusive, seventy-five birds only to be shot at, and the scores made in the regular club shoot only to count. Each contestant must attend three shoots between these dates, and the first seventy-five (twenty-five each day), will count all contestants will be handicapped according to their averages. In future, when shooting for trophies, scratch will be 25 and the handicap—the difference between twenty-five and their average. Then if the average is seventeen, the handicap will be eight. This gives the poor shot an equal chance with the good shot. The gun race will be shot for later.

DEATH OF FELIX MCGIRR

A well known resident of this city passed away this morning, when Felix McGirr, a bachelor, died after a brief illness. Mr. McGirr was born in County Tyrone, Ireland, in 1838. He came to St. John when he was five years old and had resided here ever since. He was respected by all acquaintances who will learn with regret of his death. His first wife was Miss Margaret Brophy and his second wife, who survives him, was Miss Anne McFarlane of Colchester, Kings county. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Taylor of this city, two sons, Felix and Joseph, both of this city, one brother, Frank, of the post office department, Chicago, and one sister, Mrs. Henry Starkey of Waverly, Ohio.
