No 24] SAINT ANDREWS, N. B., WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11, 1851. [Vol. 13

PROSPECTUS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN EXPOSITOR.

The appellation adopted for this Periodical will indicate its intention, which is, without meddling with the affairs of other Denominations, to defend Presbyterianism as a Scriptural and effective mode of Church Government, and the Evangelical Creed on which, in the realm of Great Britain and Ireland, the Presbyterian Churches are founded, against all assailants whatever, whether the attack be made direct or covert, by impugning its doctrines and usages, or by publicly inculcating opposing principles. As in this Province the Presbyterian system and doctrines have hitherto been left open to assault from several quarters, the want of an Organ pledged to represent them has been severely felt and loudly lamented by many of their friends throughout the Province. This want affects not only the present, but future generations; the youth, in many cases, being allowed to grow up without any precise knowledge of either the principles of Presbyterian Church Government, or the doctrines which that Church holds,—an evil which, if not remedied, would entail lasting injury upon the cause which this Journal is intended to represent. The Presbyterian Expositor will effectually remedy this evil. Hereafter it will explain as well as defend all the principles of the Presbyterian Churches.

The Expositor will earnestly advocate a perfect unity among all churches governed by the same system, publicly worshipping in the same manner, and professing the same adherence to the doctrines of the Westminster Confession of Faith, and will discountenance any attempts to create or perpetuate division among Presbyterians of every name. It will supply its subscribers and the public with information on the state of the several Ecclesiastical Bodies in Europe and America, and of Evangelical Religion generally throughout the world.

In aid of the Publishers, several Ministers and pious laymen in St. John have offered their services, which have been gladly and gratefully accepted; and it may with good reason be expected that others in the City and the Province will co-operate with them in the good work, as also that their several Congregations will, according to their means, support a Journal got up for the benefit of all equally.

It being the practice of the times, the Presbyterian Expositor will include in its columns all Political and Commercial intelligence. Its size will be, until more room be required, 32x22 inches, and the subscription 10s. per annum, payable in advance. Postage, when not on the business of the Publishers, to be paid.

Advertisements, to a limited extent, will be inserted at 3s. per square, or under, and 1s. 3d. for each continuation. Annual advertisements as may be agreed upon.

The Publishers of a Journal such as the Presbyterian Expositor, need not surely pledge themselves to the public, that nothing of which the most fastidious can complain will appear in its columns.

To be published every Friday evening, in the third story of Mr. Dunn's brick building, Prince William-street, St. John, immediately above Mr. Hall's clothing store; commencing early in June next.

MAY 24th, 1851.

Anecdote of Miss Baillie.—Being on a visit with Sir Walter Scott, she was taken to see the ruins of Melrose Abbey, we conclude as a matter of course, "by the pale moonlight," as the poet recommends. The wonders of the eastern window were especially pointed out to her by the complicated and delicate tracery of the arches, in some portions as clearly defined as when they first received outline and form from the chisel of the cutter. All stood silently round, and turned towards the great poetical lioness, expecting some burst of high flown admiration or fervid eulogium. Note-books were beginning to peep out, ears were erect, and expectation on the tip-toe. After gazing intently for some moments, she said quietly, and almost to herself, "It is really fine—What a beautiful pattern it would make!" The loftiest genius dwells not always on Olympus, but sometimes treads on level ground, and descends to the thoughts and feelings of every day humanity.

ATTEMPT TO MURDER EDITOR.—A woman about 45 years of age, named Jane Young, entered the office of the Athens (Geo.) Banner and after inquiring for the editor, and being informed that he was not in, walked up to the publisher, Mr. Thos. S. Reynolds, and drawing her pistol, shot him—the ball entered his side, and left him in a dangerous condition. She had two pistols and a bowie knife in her possession. The editor thinks she came from South Carolina, that she was made the instrument of some of his disunion enemies across the State line, to get him out of the way.

POETRY. BY PAST TIME.

The sky is blue, the sword is green,
The leaf upon the bough is seen,
The bee hums on from flower to flower,
Fill twilight's dim and passive hour,
The joyous year arrives, but when
Shall my past time come back again!

I think on childhood's glowing years,
How soft, how bright the scene appears!
How calm, how cloudless pass away
The long, long summer holiday!
I may not muse, I must not dream;
Too beautiful those visions seem,
For earth and mortal man, but when
Shall my past time come back again!

I think of sunny eyes so soft,
Too deeply felt, enjoyed too oft,
When through the blooming field I roved
With her the earliest, dearest loved,
Around whose form I yet survey,
In thought, a bright, celestial ray,
To present scenes denied; but when
Shall my past time come back again!

Alas! the world at distance seen,
Appeared all blissful and serene.
At Eden formed to tempt the foot,
With crystal streams and golden fruit.
That world, when tried and trod, is found
A rocky waste, a thorny ground,
We then revert to youth, but when
Shall my past time come back again!

OH WALK WITH GOD.

BY THE REV. A. C. COXE.
Oh walk with God, and thou shalt find
How he can charm thy way,
And lead thee with a quiet mind
Into his perfect day.
His love shall cheer thee, like the dew
That bathes the drooping flower,
That love is every morning new,
Nor fails at evening's hour.

Oh walk with God, and thou shalt smile
Shalt tread the way of tears,
His mercy ever ill beguiles,
And softens all our fears.
No fire shall harm thee, if alas
Through fires He bid thee go;
Through waters, when thy footsteps pass,
They shall not overflow.

Oh walk with God, while thou on earth,
With pilgrim steps must fare,
Content, to leave the world its mirth,
And claim no dwelling there.
A stranger, thou must seek a home,
Beyond the fearful tide,
And if to Canaan thou wouldst come,
Oh who but God can guide!

Oh walk with God, and thou shalt go Down death's dark vale in light,
And find that faithful walk below
Hath reached to Zion's height.
Oh walk with God, if thou wouldst see,
Thy pathway thither tend:
And lingering though thy journey be,
'Tis heaven and home at end!

FASTNESS OF RAILWAY WORKS.

The great pyramid of Egypt was, according to Diodorus Siculus, constructed by three hundred thousand—according to Herodotus, by one hundred thousand men. It required for its execution twenty years, and the labour expended on it has been estimated as equivalent to lifting 16,733,000,000 (fifteen thousand seven hundred and thirty three millions) of cubic feet of stone one foot high. Now, in the same measure, if the labour expended in constructing the southern division only of the present London and North Western Railway be reduced to a common denomination, the result is 25,000,000,000, (twenty five thousand millions) of cubic feet of similar material lifted to the same height, being 9,267,000,000 (nine thousand two hundred and sixty seven millions) of cubic feet more than was lifted for the pyramid, and yet the English work was performed by about 20,000 men only, in less than five years. Again, it has been calculated by Mr. Leconte, that the quantity of earth moved in the single division of this division of the railway, in penny pieces, being sufficient to form a copper kerb or edge to it. Suppose, therefore, the same proportionate quantity of earth to be moved in 7150 miles of railway sanctioned by Parliament at the commencement of 1845, our engineers within about fifteen years would in the construction of our railways alone, have removed earth sufficient to girdle the globe with a road one foot high and one hundred and ninety one feet broad.—[Sir F. Head's Stokers and Pokers.

LAW RESPECTING NEWSPAPERS.

Subscribers who do not give explicit notice to the contrary, are considered as wishing to continue their subscriptions. If Subscribers order the discontinuance of their papers, the publisher may continue to send them till all arrearages are paid. If Subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible till they have settled their Bills, and ordered their papers to be discontinued. If Subscribers remove to other places without informing the publisher, and the paper is sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

The Montreal Courier is indebted to Mr. Timmis for a letter from the Chairman of the Canada, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia Railway Company addressed to "Sir Edmund Head and Lord Elgin" by Mr. Arthur Sleigh, Deputy Chairman of the Company. Mr. Sleigh is a little jealous of Mr. Howe. Only hear him:—"While the Directors permit Mr. Howe to give his opinion that 'a line to Portland in Maine presents many advantages which the one to Quebec does not,' they at the same time decline to accept his views and repudiate his efficacious and unauthorized interference in the great national work solely represented by this Company. Mr. Howe can reserve his observations for those topics upon which he is authorized to speak, but this Company will not permit him to assume a position he has unwarrantably taken upon himself, as the exponent of the wishes and views of the inhabitants of the three great British American Provinces, without emphatically on behalf of themselves and the Canadian Committee, for once and finally repudiating his unwarrantable interference!" This is sleighing (saying) Mr. Howe with a vengeance. Could Mr. Sleigh have any objection to riding on a rail?—[Quebec Morning Chronicle.

Mr. Hinkley has vacated the office of Chairman of the University Endowment Board, by the acceptance of which, some were of opinion that he vacated his seat in Parliament. A Mr. Buchan of Paris, a Baptist Minister, is said, has received the appointment.—[B. FATAL ACCIDENT.—A youth named Rouselle, residing at Petite Cote, near this city, came to his death, yesterday, by the accidental discharge of his fowling piece. While passing over a fence, he incautiously placed the stock of the gun on the ground, the muzzle pointing towards his chest, it discharged, and the contents lodging in his body, caused instantaneous death.—Montreal Gazette.

CALIFORNIA GOLD STOLEN IN LONDON.

[From the Liverpool Courier.]
On Thursday last, the West India Company's steamer Great Western arrived at Southampton, with specie, bullion, and gold dust from Mexico, California, and the West Indies, worth nearly a million of dollars.—The whole of this was despatched to London in four wagons by the luggage train, just before eight o'clock on Thursday night. The wagons were the ordinary open ones, and the only covering they had was tarpaulin, fastened at the sides with cord. Two clerks and two messengers belonging to the luggage train were in a closed carriage. Their duties were to guard the wagons after they arrived in London at two o'clock the next morning, and to see the gold and silver safely lodged in the Bank of England. The wagons were roughly weighed before they left Southampton on Thursday night, and at six o'clock on Friday morning preparations were made for unloading them. The weight of each of them appeared to be the same, but on examining one of the wagons, three boxes which, according to the manifest, contained gold dust worth $56,500, or about £5,300 were missing.

A consultation was held, and an experiment tried as to the practicability of a person getting under the tarpaulin and cord fastenings without cutting them, and it was found that a person could get under and out again in four minutes. There was no doubt therefore entertained that a daring and extensive robbery had been effected. The detective police force was made acquainted with it, and a special train was sent from London to Southampton, warning the station masters and the railway police on the line of the robbery.—At Winchester information was given to the county constabulary and to the city police, and all were on the alert.

Just above the Winchester station there is a bridge crossing the line on the Stockbridge road; close to the bridge, there is a roadside inn, named the Jolly Farmer, at the fore door of which there is a path leading down to the railway fence, and to the arch of the bridge. At five o'clock on Friday afternoon, a little cowboy, named Turpin, was bird nesting near this spot, and in a thick thorn bush, close to the railway arch, he found a box a foot long and six inches in height and depth, which he took to the mistress. It was directed to Dunbar and Louis, Limehouse, and was supposed from its weight to contain lead or shot. On account of its having been found close to the rail, it was taken to Mr. Deane, the Winchester station master, and it proved to be one of the missing boxes of gold dust, the value of its contents being $3,500. Two policemen were immediately ordered to watch the spot where the box was found, and about 11 o'clock at night an ill looking fellow, very respectably dressed, with a bag under his arm, was seen to walk down the path from the Jolly Farmer, and when within a dozen yards of the thorn bush he was secured by one of the policemen on watch. He had been walking to and fro on the bridge for hours in the course of the day, and was continually calling at the public-house for something to drink. He was brought up before the Winchester magistrates on Saturday, and stated his name to be William Pamplin.

The third officer of the Great Western was present at the examination, and identified the box as one brought home by that ship. The prisoner was remanded until Friday next. From the situation of the box when it was found it is believed that it was not thrown there from the wagon, but must have been deliberately placed there. Winchester is the second station from Southampton, and it is quite dark when the luggage train arrives there.

As soon as the discovery of the box by the cowbag was made, the fact was communicated to London by telegraph, and Inspector Field, the most accomplished detective police officer in the kingdom, left the metropolis for Winchester. Just as he arrived there, Pamplin was brought into the railway station, and charged with being concerned in the robbery. The prisoner was not known to the police. His story is that he is a tailor by trade, and that having quarrelled with his wife, he left London for the country in search of work.—His being found where he was, is owing to his having missed his way while proceeding to the Jolly Farmer for refreshment.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION.—Fortunate Escape.—We have been furnished with the following facts:—"The carelessness of ship-pers in not accurately securing their goods, often causes much annoyance, and not unfrequently serious accidents. One of the most providential escapes that we have ever witnessed, occurred on Saturday last in this place. A house in New York had shipped on board the schooner Empire, Captain Bunker, a box of oil clothing, to Mr. John Tinsapough, which the bill of lading stated as merchandise. It was consequently stowed in the hold, and upon the top was placed seven hundred more. The Empire cleared at New York on Monday afternoon, 1st instant, and arrived at this port on Friday, making the passage in five days. Upon opening the box it was completely charred through, and the box much scorched, from spontaneous combustion! Had the box remained in the hold a few hours longer, it is probable that a fearful explosion would have been the consequence.—[Alexandria Gaz.

[It is well known to scientific men that there is great danger in stowing away goods of any kind, which have been prepared with grease or oil. If merchants would devote a little more time in acquiring scientific knowledge, such as taking a useful paper, reading books, &c., they would be great gainers.—Every person who uses a soappan or kettle, should know something about chemistry.—There is an old saying "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing." This is sheer nonsense; knowledge is power, and a man is powerful just in proportion to the amount of knowledge he possesses. A little knowledge, however little, is better than none.—[Scientific American.

Characteristics of New Zealand Pigs.

One rarely or never witnesses those disgusting exhibitions of ostentatious contention between man and beast, so common in English and Irish fairs and markets, where each seems to set out with a fixed determination to thwart the views and inclinations of the other. If a Maori porker object to go into a canoe he is not forthwith kicked, and punched, and seized by the legs and tossed on his back, while he appeals, with those ear-piercing shrieks, so remarkable in pig arrangements generally, against the injustice of his treatment; but he is coaxed, and patted, and urged, and to every grunt of the porker the Maori appears to grant again in responsive sympathy, till a perfectly good understanding is established.—Once in the canoe, the Maori pig appears to be quite aware of the ticklish nature of the creature, being rarely seen to indulge in any refractory movement that may end in his getting a cold bath; and I have frequently seen a fat porker squatted on his hunkers in a small canoe, and apparently as well acquainted with the necessity of maintaining its equilibrium as the man who was paddling it. On one occasion I was standing on the bank of the river, watching a Maori taking across a large pig in a very small canoe, and calculating on the probability of his not getting safely to the opposite bank with his cargo.—He accomplished half the distance in safety when he was perceived by a mischievous subaltern, who immediately shouted out "Pauka, Pauka." The pig hearing itself called in its own language, and perhaps at a moment when it was indulging in dreams of dinner, incautiously started up; and in one moment, man, pig, and canoe, were upset into the stream, and had to make the best of their way to the shore by swimming amidst, shouts of laughter from a number of natives, who enjoy the joke exceedingly.—Bower's Sketches in New Zealand.

ANTIQUE LACE.—We would call the attention of our fair readers to some beautiful and very rare specimens of the point lace the reign of Louis XV., at Mr. Braithwaite's establishment, 139, Bold-street. They are well worthy the attention of the curious in such matters, for it is evident, from the mount of labour bestowed on many of the articles, that years of time have been devoted to their completion.

Mechanics' Institute.
Provincial Manufacturers and Pictorial,
Horticultural and Floral EXHIBITION.

THE Directors of the St. John Mechanics' Institute, are making arrangements for the above Exhibition, which will take place at the Hall of the Institute on Wednesday and Thursday, the 10th and 11th September next.

As the object of the Directors is to carry out the intention of the Institute, by affording an opportunity for the development and display of Artisanal and Mechanical Provincial Talent, and at the same time, by increasing the funds of the Institute to enable them to make it more attractive and useful, the Members and friends of the Institute are earnestly requested to aid the undertaking.

This being the first public opportunity our Artists and Mechanics have had of exhibiting their ingeniousity and skill in the Fine Arts and Domestic Manufactures, it is earnestly hoped that the scheme will meet with that approval and aid from the great body of the people which its importance deserves, and without which it cannot be successfully carried out.

During the Exhibition there will be a CONCERT of Vocal and Instrumental Music.

With a view to encourage social and friendly feelings among the Members of the Institute, it is proposed to have a PICNIC to the Bellefleur on Thursday, the 17th July next, for which a suitable steamer will be engaged.

Contributions of Domestic Manufactures are solited from all parts of the Province.

CURES FOR THE UNCURED

Holloway's Ointment.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF SCROFULA OR KING'S EVIL.
Extract of a Letter from Mr. J. H. ALLIDAY, High Street, Cheltenham dated the 22nd of January, 1850.

To Professor Holloway.

SIR,—My eldest son, when about th-years of age, was afflicted with a Glandi-swelling in the neck, which after a short broke out into an Ulcer. An eminent med-man pronounced it as a very bad case of S-tula, and prescribed for a considerable t-without effect. The disease then for 4 years went on gradually increasing in vilence, when besides the ulcer in the neck, a broke out below the left knee, and a thunder the eye, besides seven others on th-left arm with a tumor between the ey-which was expected to break. During th-whole of the time my suffering boy had receiv-
the constant advice of the most celebramedical gentlemen at Cheltenham, bein-being for several months at the General Hospital, where one of the surgeons said that I would amputate the left arm, but that th-blood was so impure, that if that limb was taken off it would be then even impossible to subdue the disease. In this desperate state I determined to give your Pills and Ointment, being for several months at the General Hospital, where one of the surgeons said that I would amputate the left arm, but that th-

Holloway's Pills.

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND STOMACH, WHEN IN A MOST HOPELESS STATE.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Matthew Harvey, of Chapel Hill, Andover, Scotland, dated the 25th of January, 1850.

Sir—Your valuable Pills have been the means with God's blessing of restoring me to a state of perfect health, and at a time when I thought I was on the brink of the grave. I had consulted several eminent Doctors, who after doing what they could for me, stated that they considered my case as hopeless. I ought to say that I had been suffering from a Liver and Stomach complaint of long standing which during the last two years got so much worse that every one considered my condition as hopeless. I was a last resource got a Box of your Pills, which soon gave relief and by persevering in their use for some weeks together with rubbing night and morning your Ointment over my chest and stomach, and night and day, I have by their means alone got completely cured, and to the astonishment of myself and every body who knows me.

[Signed] MATTHEW HARVEY.

CURE OF A CASE OF WEAKNESS AND DEBILITY, OF FOUR YEARS' STANDING.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Smith, of No 5, Little Thomas Street, Gibson Street, Lambeth, dated Dec. 12th, 1849.

To Professor Holloway—
Sir—I beg to inform you that I nearly five years ago suffered from extreme weakness and debility, with constant nervous headaches, giddiness, and sickness of the stomach together with a great depression of spirits. I used to think that nothing could benefit me as I had been to many medical men some of whom after doing all that was in their power informed me that they considered that I had some spinal complaint beyond the reach of cure, together with a very disordered state of the stomach and liver, making my case so complicated that nothing could be done for me. One day being unusually ill and in a dejected state, I saw your Pills advertised, and resolved to give them a trial, more from curiosity than from any hope of being cured, however I soon found myself better by taking them, and so I went on persevering in their use for six months when I am happy to say they effected a perfect cure.

[Signed] WILLIAM SMITH.

(frequently called EDWARD.)

CURE OF ASTHMA, OF TWENTY YEARS' STANDING.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. J. K. Heydon, 78 King Street, Sydney, dated 10th of November 1849.

To Professor Holloway—
Sir—I have the pleasure to inform you that many extraordinary cures of Asthma have been effected here by means of your Pills. One is that of a Lady from Curraghmore, a hope of being cured, however I soon found myself better by taking them, and so I went on persevering in their use for six months when I am happy to say they effected a perfect cure.

[Signed] J. K. HEYDON.

ANSTONISHING CURE OF THE EARL OF ALDBOROUGH.

By this Miraculous Medicine: after every other means had failed!!!

A Copy of a Letter from the Earl of Aldborough dated 15th March, 1849, 21st Feb. 1845.

J. PROCTOR, Esq., Curraghmore.

Sir—Various circumstances prevented the possibility of my thanking you before this time for your politeness in sending me your Pills as you said I now take this opportunity of sending you an order for the amount, and at the same time, to add that your Pills have effected a cure of a disorder in my Liver and Stomach, which all the most eminent of the Faculty at home, and all over the Continent had not been able to effect: nay! not even the waters of Carlsbad and Marienbad. I wish to have another Box and a Pot of Ointment in case any of my family should ever require either.

I remain, with much respect,
Your most obliged and obedient servt.

[Signed] ALDBOROUGH.
