Enormous Profits Made by a Michigan

Houghton, Mich., May 11 .- The Calumet and Hecla is now running 20 of the 22 steam stamps contained in its two stamp mills, as compared with 16 one year ago, an increase of 25 per cent in production and calling for the mining and stamping of 5,500 tons of rock daily and yielding fully 175 tons refined copper every working day. This is practically the same rate of production as that of Anaconda last year. As the Calumet and Heckla is sold ahead for some months at 18c, and the cost of production is rather under than over 7c per pound, the actual net profits of the mine on the present basis of production exceeds $1,000,000 per month. With the exception of the combined mines of the Comstock lode in the middle seventies, no such profit has ever been earned by any mine in the world.

Damoclean Sword Hangs Over the English Ritualists - Fourteen Pleasure-Seekers Drowned.

London, May 11 .- The Berlin correspondent of the Times says: A manifesto has been issued, signed by an influential committee of members of the Reichstag and the Prussian diet, professors and authors, urging that public meetings be held throughout the empire to sustain the hands of the German commissioners at The Hague and to insure the success of the conference. The Berlin Kreuz Zeitung, evidently expressing the opinion of official circles concerning the peace conference, says: Every impulse towards increased armaments during the present century has come from Russia and France, and there can be no sincere talk of disarmament by Russia, who would be the last power to call a congress in the interest of humanity and to cast the false mask away.

OPTIMISTIC. The Daily News publishes an interview with a "distinguished diplomat" this morning regarding the peace conference and the joint high commission for the settlement of questions in dispute between the United States and Canada. He is reported as saying: Contrary to what has been published, I am very hopeful of a settlement as to outstanding questions, which indeed are already very nearly settled, except the Alaskan controversy, and while the United States and England lack identical instructions for the deliberations at The Hague, it is highly probable that they will take the same line there. Captain Alfred Mahan, U.S.N., retired, and Mr. Seth Low, president of Columbia University, delegates of the United States to the disarmament congress, have reached London with their assistants. They will start for The Hague on Tuesday of next week.

SAMOA TRANQUIL.

Apia, Samoa, May 4, via Berlin, May 11.-The difference which arose regarding the line outside of which the Ma-taafans agreed to withdraw has been peacefully adjusted, and work has been resumed on the plantations near Vallele. All the houses in the neighborhood of Apia are still strongly occupied by Tanu's warriors.

Tanu has lodged complaint with the supreme court against the administration of the treasury, which is now con-trolled by the consuls of Germany, Great Britain and the United States, pending Dr. Solf's assumption of the duties. Tanu demands that he be paid a monthly salary of $150, which is thrice the amount paid to Malletoa Laupepa. The United States Consul, Luther W. Osborn, acting as cashier of the treasury, refused to pay the money demanded, but the chief justice, Mr. Chambers, gave judgment in favor of Tanu for the amount claimed.

DAMOCLES' SWORD.

The British House of Commons, by vote of 310 to 156, defeated the second reading of the church discipline bill. Subsequently the house adopted without division a government amendment to the bill, to the effect that unless the efforts which the archbishops and bishops are now making to secure due obedience by the clergy are not speed. ily effectual, further legislation will be required in order to maintain observance of the existing laws of the church

PREPAREDNESS HELPS PEACE The Duke of Devonshire, lord president of the council of ministers, speaking at the annual banquet of the Session of Bankers, said that while Great Britain's expenditures had been ormous, any less financial prepared-ness would have lessened her chance of amicable agreement with the United States, France and Russia. England's armamants, he declared,, had made arbitration over the Venezuela ages. controversy possible, and had preserved the most amicable relations with the great republic.

ARBITRATION.

The Daily Graphic says that it understands that the British delegates to the disarmament congress will be instructed to make an effort to promote a scheme for international arbitration, within the limits justified by past experience. Lord Salisbury takes the view that, although it would be impossible to agree to arbitrate all possible international disputes, it may be possible to base a general treaty on the principle of the precedents laid down in many treaties concluded by various states during the last few years. TO EXPLOIT CANADIAN TRADE.

a bad effect upon trade. According to a dispatch from Cairo to the London Daily Mail, the proprietor of the Egyptian museum has discovered the mummy of Thotmes I., of the eighteenth dynasty, B. C. 1633, and

Enthusiastic Brockvilleites Shatter the Rules

By Cheering in the House of Commons -The Prohibition Plebiscite-Questions Asked and Answered.

Ottawa, May 11.-Brockville owned the house for the first half hour yesterday. Immediately after prayers there was a wild scramble into the galleries by the 300 enthusiasts who had come up to witness the introduction of their new member, Mr. Comstock. The house made no attempt settled down, so that the dull routine work was transacted in the presence of a brilliant array of well-gowned wo-men and enthusiastic men. When Mr. Comstock was introduced by Mr. Mu-lock and Mr. D. C. Fraser, the enthusiasm was quite unprecedented. Members banged their desks and When Mr. Comstock had galleries. When Mr. Comstock had taken his seat the speaker looked up to the galleries and said: "I would like to mention that no one is allowed in the galleries of the house except on sufferance, and no demonstrations whatever are permitted in the gallery.'

(Cheers.) THE PROHIBITION RESOLUTION. Mr. Flint has given notice of the Dominion Alliance provincial prohibition resolution, which he will move in the house. It asserts the desirability of uniform prohibition legislation in the province and territories, and declares that the sale of intoxicating liquors should be prohibited in such provinces as by a majority vote declare in favor of it, and remain in force therein for four years and thereafter until repealed by vote of the majority of the electors, the vote to take place at a general election. It further provides that in a province wherein the law is in force, liquor shall only be sold for medicinal purposes, and no brewer or distiller shall sell his produce except for export out of the province.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS. Mr. Sifton informed Mr. Davis that 234.59 miles of the Manitoba and Northwestern Railway have been built, of which 55 miles are in the Northwest Territories. The amount of subsidy earned by the company is 1,501,376 acres Mr. E. F. Clarke called attention to an article in the Toronto Star com-plaining that 75 Italians had been brought to Toronto to work during this summer. The premier stated that the officer of the government in Toronto had not called attention to the statement in the newspaper, and the government would expect information from its officer before taking action. The premier, replying to Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, said it was not the intention of the government this session to ask parliament to provide for the representation of the Yukon Territory in the Dominion House of Com-

The minister of the interior, in reply to Mr. Rosamond, said it was the intention of the Government to give to sons of farmers or others in Ontario who may wish to take up farms in the Northwest, the same privileges and advantages as have been given to the Doukhobors, Galicians and other aliens. In reply to Mr. Morrison, the premier said no claim had been made upon the government by or on behalf of the British Yukon Mining, Trading and Transportation Company, for some $400,000, or any amount of dam-ruined if they were not allowed to send the liquor into Dawson. The premier promised to announce the government's decision at the next sitting of the house.

PUNISHMENT FOR SEDUCTION. Mr. Charlton moved the third reading of his bill to amend the criminal code, "so as to make more effectual provision for the punishment of seduction and abduction" by raising the age of consent from 16 to 18 years. Several of the members who are barristers. including the solicitor-general, opposed the bill, on the ground that it would prove a strong incentive to blackmail, and that the present law should be left in operation.

On division, however, the motion carried by 68 to 29, and the bill was read a third time and passed. THE NEW LAKE STEAMSHIPS.

Mr. Bertram's bill to incorporate the Canadian Inland Transportation Company was taken up. Mr. Bertram stated that the object of the company was by the construction of a fleet of vessels to do business until the crowd had to engage in the carrying of grain and ore from the head of Lake Superior to Montreal and Quebec, and endeavor to divert traffic from Buffalo down the St. Lawrence. The company will simply engage in business on the inland waters of Canada wherever they can find it, and will go down to the Lower Provinces to find business for their recheered, and the crowd in the galleries turn cargoes. The main business would clapped and cheered and waved their be the carrying of grain and ore. The handkerchiefs, despite the frantic ef- capital stock of the company was fixed forts of the ushers to maintain a con-stitutional degree of silence in the it to four millions. The question of allowing the company to deal in grain was under discussion when the committee rose. On motion of Mr. Sutherland, the Canada Life Assurance Company's bill was made the first order of the day for

Wednesday, May 17. THE BONDING POWERS After recess the first hour was devoted to a discussion of the Columbia and Western Railway Company's bill increasing the bonding power company to $35,000 per mile on its main line and branches. Mr. Oliver (Alberta) moved an amendment when the bill came up for third reading, refer-ring the bill back to committee for the insertion of a clause providing that the company must come before parliament and show cause before being allowed to issue the bonds. He contended that the bonding powers of railway companies should be limited, not as at present by the probable extent to which the traffic might be squeezed, but by the cost of the road.

Mr. Richardson contended that $35,-000 per mile was too large an amount for a railway to be bonded at, and urged greater restriction in reference the bonding powers of railways. He expressed the opinion that within five years the government would be considering the question of taking over all the railways which now exist in Canada. The amendment was defeated by 61 to 14, and the bill was given a third reading and passed.

Washington, May 11.—The crop report for May, issued by the department of agriculture, shows the acreage in winter wheat in cultivation on May 1 to have been about 25,900,000 acres. This is about 4,000,000 acres less than the area estimated to have been sown last fall, but it still slightly exceeds the area of winter wheat harvested last year. For the area remaining under cultivation, the average condition is 76.2, as compared with 86.5 on May 1, 1898, and 85.9, the mean of the averages of the last ten years. The average condition of winter rye is 86.6, as compared with 94.5 on May 1, 1898, 90.8, the mean of the May averages for the last ten years. The average condition of meadows is 84.4, against 92.9 on May 1 of last year, and 93.3 on the corresponding date in 1897. WEDNESDAY NIGHTS.

Brantford, April 11.-At the last meeting of the Ministerial Alliance, the following resolutions were passed: Moved by Rev. T. A. Wright and seconded by Rev. J. Pickering, that in view of the fact that some, without thought, it would seem, arrange for and hold meetings for business and metimes for amusement on Wednescay evenings, the evening generally the Dover National Bank, was sen-tenced in the United States district for public prayer in our caurches; and realizing te vital importance which attaches to public prayer, we, the members of the Ministerial Alliance, hereby express our very deep regret that any person or persons, from want of thought or otherwise, should plan and hold other meetings on that evening, and so lessen the attendance at the prayer meetings. And, therefore, prompted by a clear sense of duty, we resolve to point out to our people when occasion requires that such conduct antagonizes the divine purpose, and discourage as far as we can gatherings on Wednesday eventings among the members of our congregations which interfere with the sacred duty, and privilege of weekly public prayer.

> A few months ago died Thomas Rushton, of Walkden, Lancashire. Most of his life was spent in hospitals consequent on his many mishaps. When 5 years old he fractured both his thighs, and before he had fairly recovered he fell downstairs and sustained a double fracture. Thenceforward his life was one long series of misfortunes, for besides breaking both legs 24 times, he sustained many other injuries and underwent countless operations.

A short time ago the Lancet mentioned the case of a man who had fractured his limbs six times, and on each occasion the accident occurred same date—namely, Aug. 26. Before he was 16 he had met with five such mishaps, so resolved for the future always to remain at home on the fatal 26th. It chanced, however, that, 23 years later, forgetting his resolution, he went to work on the unlucky day, and on his return slipped down and broke his leg.

THE COLD SHOULDER CANADIAN WRITERS IN NEW YORK CITY

Middlesex Boys Who Are Making Names in Literature.

Arthur J. Stringer, Poet and Writer. and Peter MacArthur, the Well-Known Magazine Writer and Journalist, Meet With Success in the Metropolis.

Three notable articles in Ainslee's

Magazine for May are from the pens of two Middlesex boys, well known in this city, and both of whom have already made conspicuous places for themselves as magazine writers in New York city, the American Mecca of literary men. Two of these articles. "The Loom of Destiny" and "An American View of Oxford," are by the J. Stringer. The former is one of a series of novel and delightful child studies treated psychologically. The latter gives a charming picture of the inner and outer life of the students at the grand old English university. Though it is a prose article the music and the rythm of the language is that of poetry and the symbolism and insight are those of the poet.

"Enough to know," he says, "that it is not one's degree, nor altogether that dose of ideality one carries away with it to last one a lifetime, which constitutes one's university training.

Oh, if we draw a circle premature. Heedless of far gain, Greedy for quick returns, Bad is our bargain!

"But this peculiar isolation from the world, of which I have spoken, will probably be the first thing to impress itself upon the alien who wanders into Oxford."

And concluding:
"There is infinite charm about it all. It is the influence of such things, the aroma of poignant memories, that the Oxford man will carry away with him. It will sweeten his after-world. Even a drone in such a place need not be a worthless fellow. Coming and merely rubbing elbows with culture will not, of course, in itself, do him one particle of good. But if he and culture are entire strangers there is a chance of his asking for an introduction. If Shelley was right when he said that the mind becomes that what it contemplates, there is much that is intrinsically beautiful in Oxford for the contemplative mind to feed upon. Merely to live in Oxford is no little education. We of the more vigorous and more restless new world, whose practical, preoccupied, matter-of-fact ways of life all tend to make us for-get our debt to the past, will find in such a place a new and strange spiritual birth. And happy and undisturbed and ideal, perhaps, the life of the Oxford undergraduate will seem of an autumn afternoon as you catch some sudden glimmer of the crimson sun low over the blue line of Bayley Wood. Lighting up the Isis for a moment, into molten and glimmering silver, dotted here and there were scarlet coats and college colors, and the flash of dipping oars, And across the quiet, level meadows the cool evening wind will blow to you stray sounds of laughter and cheering and broken voices. But do not stop to envy that sun-tinted army of youthful pleasure-seekers, busy and shifting and careless, in the waning November sunlight. However happy, for the time being seem to you, in roundings, in their time being they may and there their life, there will ste st moments does steal, into the suprem of their pleasure an undertone of in-definite melancholy, a disturbing shad-ow of pensiveness. The Oxford man is never a light-hearted youth. Perhaps it is because he is taught to see wide; and "who sees the wider but to sigh the more?" It is a costly luxury, this true, this ideal university life. Walter Pater has made his Marius teach us the truth of this, and we are tempted, tempted time and again, to ask with the young

"The Youth of Parnassus,"

"whether there is not something dangerous in the venerable and Gothic beauty of Oxford, a chill in the old shadows, an iron sound in the bells?" The other article referred to is an interesting and timely study by Peter MacArthur, an Appin boy, of some of the economic changes wrought by the formation of gigantic trusts, and dealing particularly with the enormous salaries earned by successful managers in the employ of the trusts. Mr. MacArthur, however, has a marked preference for facts over theories. Of the qualities that go to the making of a successful manager he has this to

"It is nonsense," said another trust builder, "to say that there is no chance for a young man nowadays. I have five positions worth from five to fifteen thousand dollars each that I am willing to fill at once if I can find the right men." He did not specify the nature of the work he would demand of them, and as the trust he controls is one that is much pestered by the courts, it is barely possible that his case was like that of Falstaff when he exclaimed: Where shall I find one that can steal well? O, for a fine thief, of the age of two and twenty or thereabout. I am heinously unprovided."

The qualifications that go to make the ideal manager are not readily acquired. The knowledge of business necessary can only be secured by patient work and by a mind of sufficient grasp to be able not only to carry what is learned, but to place each fact in its proper relationship to every other fact. The ability to decide quickly, and with sound judgment is the result of the confidence that comes with absolute knowledge, combined with a natural capacity for demand. The necessary knowledge of men can be acquired only by wide experience, observation, and invate discernment. And if to these we add the ability to "make new business," the ideal manager must have creative faculties like those of the inventor as well as an imagination that will enable him to see undeveloped possibilities. Being possessed of such qualifications, is it any wonder that he is able to command a great salary? As a type of the successful manager he takes Mr. Samuel R. Callaway, president of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company, who was born in Toronto, Canada, and was at one time trainmaster in this

A Union Leader's Caustic Criticism of the U. S. Senate-Type-Setting Machines and Printers.

Washington, May 11 .- S. B. Donnelly, president of the International Typo-graphical Union, was before the industrial commission yesterday. Referring to the surike of the stereotypers in Chi-cago last year, Mr. Donnelly said it was a failure because it did not have the sanction of the general order. He thought strikes were diminishing. The witness estimated that there about 4,000 Mergenthaler machines in use in the United States, and said they had displaced about 12,000 workmen. The printers had accepted machinery in their work as inevitable, but he considered them detrimental to their business under existing circumstances. Mr. Donnelly opposed the incorporation of trades unions because he was afraid of the courts. "The banking system seems to permeate everything, he said, "not only legislatures move in the direction indicated by the bankers, but the courts must do the same thing.'

Mr. James Duncan, of Baltimore, secretary-treasurer of the Granite Cut-ters' National Union, said that state arbitration had not been satisfactory as a rule, because the disposition of arbitration boards was to reduce wages where they were higher than in other places. Mr. Duncan complained bitterly of what he called "the accursed padrone system." He said that in New York the law required the payment of $4 per day to granite cutters for public work, but that tine padrones furnished men upon an a greement that they should return $6 of the amount received at the end of the week, thus evading the law and reducing the wage to $3 per day. He also complained that the eustoms officials refused to enforce the anti-contract law as vigorously as they should.
"This lax feeling in the interest of the contractors is," he said, "grossly unfair to the working people."

Mr. Duncan criticised the United States Senate "as a place of redress for millionaires" mentionics. feat of the eight-hour bill of the last session. "It was known," he said, "that a majority of the senate and of the committee were for the bill. Still it was never brought to a vote. I only mention this a an illustration of my complaint that the interests of the millionaires are protected in the senate."

They're off! and the Cockneys are in the first row. Twelve hundred people saw them leave the Saints away down sixth prospects looked bright for sevback of the skyline somewhere yesterday afternoon. There was a solid phalanx of St. Thomas rooters in the root. Once they opened their mouths and spake, but tears soon choked all utterance.

London's first championship game of the season was called by Umpire Dailey at 3:37 p.m. The opposing teams, looking very smart in new uniforms, marched out from their respective benches, lined up in the segment of a circle, and faced the grand stand, smiling all the while like a corps of ballet girls. The uniforms of both dropped a ball thrown by Rust to cut teams are alike, save in the matter of caps, those of St. Thomas being bright blue, and of London black. Some of the Saints showed an inclination to discard the distinguishing badge as the game proceeded, but that's another story, as R. K. says.

Mayor Wilson made a nice little speech to the grand stand, blushingly acknowledging the great honor that had been conferred upon him by the association in asking him to pitch the first ball. For 25 years London had occupied a prominent place in the baseball world, and the glory of the Tecumsehs of years ago was still green in memory. Turning to the smiling Cockneys the mayor told them to go after the rag and fetch it home for

The Londons hustled into position and Tibald came up to the plate for St. Thomas. Amidst a melodious concatenation of enthusiastic cheers and hand-clapping his worship the mayor pitched a fine out-shoot that saved him from an assault and battery action by about eight feet.

Then Cooper, London's thirteen star

twirler, stepped into the box. Tibald and Lyons struck out in succession, and Joe Knight, whose old familiar figure looks more like a picture-book ball-player than ever, popped a little one out to third, which Cope nailed, and the side was retired. This was a fair sample of the fate that pursued St. Thomas throughout the until the sixth inning did they reach the initial bag on a safe hit. They were helped out by two charities, and Tibald managed to steal second. The Saints' lone run was scored by Martin's base on balls, a steal, and Burns' hit to left, virtually the only clean hit they secured. In five of the nine innings only three men faced Cooper. London began to score in the third, after two men were retired. Singles by Howells, Mohler and Mc-Fadden, with two steals, contributed two runs. In the fourth Babbitt, who reached first on a charity, rashly attempted third on an infield hit to third, but was caught ten feet from the base on the return. A somewhat similar play occurred in the fifth, when McConnell was caught between second and third on Howells' hit to right. In this inning also two runs were scored with two men out. A rather high throw by Rodden to first, and McFadden's drive to Martin, who let the ball pass through him, did the trick. In the eral runs, the bases being full. Babbitt scored on a safe hit, a sacrifice by Jones, a steal of third, and the apparcenter of the stand, but they didn't ently dazed condition of Rodden, who neither attempted to throw out Cope at first nor cut off Babbitt at the plate. Second and third were ocupied when the side was retired. In the seventh the situation was reproduced, through Mc-Fadden's two-bagger, a sacrifice and an error of Rust; but no runs were scored. Robb was unable to put the ball over in the eighth, and contributed two charities. Hits by Howells and Mc-Fadden, and an error of Sullivan's, who bey and Moran. off McConnell at the plate, brought in three runs. Robb, who was a puzzle to London last season, was not touched for any long hits yesterday, except by McFadden, who got a two-bagger. Aside from Babbitt's clean, safe bunt, the rest of the hits were all to the outfield. The Saints had very little fly-catching to do. Tibald took in a hot liner very cleverly. The Cockneys did some phe-nomenal fielding. Mohler's high left hand catch was pyrotechnical. The fans are beginning to have faith in London's batting ability. Following is the score:

GIANTS WON AT WOODSTOCK. Woodstock, May 11.-Yesterday was the opening of the baseball season here. The Columbian Giants played the local baseball club. The game was very close, one run being scored by the visitors up to the fifth inning. The final score resulted 4 to 1 in favor of the Giants.

FOR THE FANS. Tom O'Brien, the outfielder, who was sold to New York by Pittsburg, leads the Giants in batting. Pittsburg must feel the loss of their clever outfielder at present.

A home run with two on bases enabled Chicago to defeat Cleveland on Monday by one run, after being outplayed all the way. Pitcher Grey's feat of shutting out

Indianapolis without a hit or run on Monday was a marvelous performance. He gave only two bases on balls and only one runner reached second Buffalo's attendance at the opening game was a little over 2,000, and twothirds of the spectators wended their way to the bleachers, the 25 cents extra charge being a little too rich for their blood. Willis, the Eastern League graduate with Boston, has the best record of any pitcher with the champions. In none of the five games that he has pitched have more than seven hits been made off his delivery.

Arlie Latham is earning his salary easily in Washington. He stands on the coaching line and shouts anything and everything at the opposing pitcher until called down by the umpire. But he bobs up again the next inning as if nothing had ever occurred. Catcher Robinson, of the Baltimore speed of league pitchers. It is the knack of putting the ball where the batsman is not looking for it that makes a pitcher successful. The Chicago management has complied with the rule concerning covered stands for the players. The benches of both teams have been covered, and the players can only be seen through a crack six inches wide near the top.

Binder Twine and Prison Labor. Binder twine manufacturing was undertaken in the penitentiary at Kingston and in the Central Prison by the Dominion and Ontario Governments respectively, with the avowed object, not of interfering with the legitimate business of twine manufacturers, but to find employment for the prisoners so that they might in some measure repay the taxpayers for their board and lodging. It is true that Sir Mackenzie Bowell has recently been asserting that this was not the intention of the Dominion authorities at the time the Industry was established at Kingston. That he is mistaken, to say the least, is shown by the fact that while a member of the late Government he never once put forward the view which he now expresses. Sir Mackenzie Boweil assumes a position little short of demagogic when he asserts that the duty of the state is not to treat this product of the convict workers as a commercial commodity, but to sell at cost price, and undertake to collect the revenue derived from it in each individual purchase. The adoption of this unbusiness-like course, it is claimed by the discarded leader of the Conservative party—and one of the organs of his party backs him up with more vehemence than judgment-would be specially beneficial to the farming community because it would enable them to buy their supplies at a cheaper rate than under the present system, by which the prison-made twine is sold to the highest bidder, and marketed in the usual way adopted by the authorities in Great Britain and in Canada, along with the product of private manufactories of binder twine. If business methods have been departed from by the Minister of Justice in the late Conservative Government, or by the Minister of Justice in the present Administration, there would have been good reason for an outcry against those charged with the management of the penitentiaries. As by far the greater proportion of the binder-twine used in the country is manufactured by private enterprise, no one in his senses can contend that the selling of the prison product to consumers at a price not warranted by strict business procedure would cause any sensible diminution in the price of twine made outside the penitentiaries. Until such time as it is contemplated to shut up all the twine factories outside the penitentiaries, it is idle for any one to argue that such a course as Sir Mackenzie Bowell has suggested, now that he is an irresponsible politician, would be of general benefit to farmers, or

A good deal of fallacious talk has albeen indulged in by one or two Op position papers with regard to the awarding of the contracts for the sale of the binder twine product of the Kingston Penitentiary. For the purpose of injuring, if possible, the good name of Hon. David Mills, it has been asserted that the Minister of Justice was a party to a scandalous proceeding-that the tender for the product of the penitentiary at Kingston was given out without competition, and so forth. This is entirely without foundation. Contracts were called for, both by advertisements in leading newspapers and by circular to the principal dealers in this commodity throughout the Dominion. The result was, as was reported in the newspapers at the time, that there were a number of tenders, and that the tenderer who offered the highest price for the product was awarded the contract. It was a purely business transaction, honestly entered into by the Minister of Justice, and it cannot, with any regard for decency, be assailed. No one has attempted to do so in the Senate, where the Minister could effectively combat the attack. That unworthy task has been left for those who have no responsibility, and who apparently hope that they can help their political friends by misrepresentation of their opponents.

Canadian Fish Preferred.

It is announced that Massachusetts fish dealers are disappointed in their expectations of an increased trade with Cubs and Porto Rico following the war, the consumers in these islands very wisely preferring the Canadian product, even at a higher price.

It appears that the Canadian fishermen dry-salt their codfish, and otherwise contrive to make them toothsome diet, with exceedingly good keeping qualities, whereas, United States fishermen have endeavored to make more money through the wet salting process, which, it was asserted, made the fish weigh more, while presenting as attractive appearance in the eyes of the buyer. Thus the dealer really sold with each 100 pounds of his fish a few pounds of water at the same price as the fish. But the southern fish consumers soon found out our Yankee friends, just as the purchasers of "wooden nutmegs," filled cheese, and bogus butter did, to the great loss of the producers of the United States, and the permanent benefit of the people of Canada who have, by law, prevented the purchasers of Canadian goods from being imposed upon by unfair dealing. These fish eaters discovered that codfish prepared for market after the Yankee fashion, did not possess the keeping qualities of dry salted codfish in tropical climates; fish so finished becomes "mushy" from the great and prolonged heat, and the buyers steer clear of it, to the profit of the producer of the Canadian ar-

The Control of Railways.

We do not know what the Government's attitude is toward Mr. Rutherford's motion urging the appointment of a railway commission, but the principle of the resolution is good. The railway committee has done a useful work, and recently gave a proof of its public spirit in dealing with the Standard Oil Trust, but the members have their other parliamentary duties to perform, and cannot give their undivided attention to railway matters. An expert commission, with sufficiently wide powers, could do effective work in the public interest by a constant scrutiny and due regulation of railway conditions. If such a commission could sidetrack the railway lobby, at least one distinct benefit would be attained. The theory of the state ownership of railways naturally comes up for discussion, but is not yet a question of practical politics, whatever the future may develop. Present circumstances point to an intermediate line of action, namely, a larger measure of public control over railways receiving public aid. The Dominion Government recognized this in the case of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, the subvention being granted the C. P. R. on condition that other railways should have running rights over the Crow's Nest, while the Government retained the power to regulate the tariff rates. The Government will doubtless reserve the same authority over the new Rainy River Railway, from Winnipeg to Port Arthur. This will be an important link in the chain of transportation between the west and the east. It will give Manitoba and the Northwest another outlet, and it is the duty of Parliament to safeguard the public grant to the promoters by prescribing that the road shall be independent in reality as well as in name. The area of railway competition will then be extended as far west as Winnipeg. With the rapid development of the country, the railway situation will become more and more complicated, and will require the most vigilant attention. A properly-organized railway commission would have a widening scope of usefulness. The value and necessity of such a body are confirmed by the experience of the United States.

Life Assurance Investments.

A general act relating to life assurance has been introduced into the House of Commons. The subject of life assurance is of vital importance to the people of Canada. Safety should be the first consideration, and that course should be adopted which will insure the best results to the insured, as well as to the stockholders.

A short time ago we commented upon the general act introduced with reference to loan corporations, and the principles which we then advocated apply with equal force to the investments of life assurance companies.

mortgage investments have been steadfly declining, and the rates obtainable also upon government, municipal and school debentures, have been also declining to such an extent that it would be difficult for an insurance company to make its investments solely upon that class of security and realize the amount of profit it is necessary for them to realize in order to meet their obligations at maturity. The rates obtainable in Canada for mortgage securities are fast becoming as low as those obtainable in Great Britain; and the question so far as the mortgage securities are concerned, is therefore one which affects loan corporations and life assurance companies alike.

We have contended in former articles that loan companies' profits would be largely affected by the rates obtainable upon the class of securities upon which they were permitted to invest. We believe there is no safer investment for insurance companies than the stocks and debentures of loan companies, and we think that in certain investments such as those mentioned, both corporations can work together harmoniously for the good of both.

The rule in Great Britain is to give to life assurance corporations a free hand. In many cases they have almost if not unlimited powers, and it is felt that no harm has resulted therefrom. Experience shows that no matter what the powers of any corporation are, and no matter how many restrictions may be placed around directors, those with large powers are no more likely to be stranded than those with restricted powers. No company can succeed unless its management is wise, and the necessary wisdom cannot be conferred upon the directors by legislation. There is no objection to giving power to directors which they may either use or not, as they deem to be in the best interests of the shareholders. It is, of course, evident, that in the investments of life assurance companies, the policyholders have also an interest, and in that respect there is a difference between the considerations which apply to the powers conferred upon loan corporations and those conferred upon life assurance companies; but if the principle stated is a safe principle, to give the directors power, and let them exercise a discretion in the case of loan companies, it must be equally safe to confer that power upon the directors of life assurance companies, and let them use their judgment in turning to the most profitable account they can the resemble savings banks in many respects, and, basing their earnings upon 81/2 per cent, is, after all, simply calculating their earnings at that rate for the purpose of being able to meet the obligations they may enter into with each person whose life they may insure. If they earn a greater percentage than that, all the better for all concerned. It will be an easy matter to proportionately increase as profits the amount of money payable to those who are insured.

We heartily indorse the application of life assurance companies for extended powers of investment, and we believe the line of safety lies in giving extended powers, and depends upon the caution and wisdom exercised by the directors of the companies in the use of the powers conferred upon them. A the powers of all and places all upon ar equal footing.

Our Canal System.

The Cleveland Leader looks confidently for the time "when one can embark in Cleveland harbor and sail right through to Europe without setting foot on land." The Leader is somewhat sanguine, but it takes a common-sense view of Canada's canal policy. The deepening of the waterways has been undertaken by the Canadian Government with the object of diverting to fic to the St. Lawrence route, but

Americans will share the advantage equally with the Canadians. The farmers of Manitoba and the Northwest now send most of their export grain to tidewater by way of Buffalo and the Trie Canal, because they find that 10 more profitable. Similarly, the farme of the Northwestern States will ship through Canadian channels if these are cheaper, and it is the aim of our Government to make them cheaper. The traffic will follow the line of least resistance. American lake ports like Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit, will, as shipping centers, stand to gain by improved communication with tidewater, through the deepening of Canadian canals. The only place where our enterprise is viewed with disfavor is in New York State. This is only natural, as the rivalry of the St. Lawrence will cut into the immense through traffic which is now intercepted at Buffalo. The New York State Legislature will probably make another appropriation to still further deepen the Erie Canal, so as to meet Canadian competition. So much the better for the producers in both countries.

The people of Toronto are becoming weary of Mayor Shaw, who seems incompetent to deal with or initiate any large question. The following, from the Toronto Star, has an application Fancy Rome turning Protestant! Roman Catholic organs dwell at length on the remarkable activity of Protestant denominations in the Eternal City. the Methodists alone having twenty religious and educational institutions. In Austria there has been a large defection from the Roman Catholic to the Protestant Church, among the German element. This is more a political than a reiligious movement, as the Austrian Germans are offended at the pro-Slavic syrapathies of the Catholic clergy. On the other hand, in England, the cita(lel of Protestantism, we see the Roman Catholic Church flourishing, and its doctrines making undoubted headway in the Established Church. The present theological crosscurrents make an interesting study. ____

ECZEMA ON NOSE

For 9 Years Cured by CUTICURA In a Short Time After Five Doctors Failed.

I have suffered for nine years with sores in my nose. I consulted with a first-class doctor, and he told me it was fever sore that would soon pass away. I had four doctors treat me for nose tronble, but without seeming to do any good. My trouble was so bad my husband decided that I ald go to N. Y. City and get treated. The best doctor in the city for nose, eye, and throat told me I had eczema in the worst form, and I must stay and get treated three times a week. I did not seem to get any relief, so my husband sent for me to come home. While I was home I decided to try Cuticura Remedies. I got CUTICUBA SOAP, CUTICUBA (ointment), and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and I was surprised to find it was but a short time when my nose was MRS. C. S. VAN POSTRAND, April 25, 1898. > Knowledge and Patriotism. [Hamilton Times.]

In an article on patriotism—an article containing many good things - the Belleville Intelligencer has this remark: "In modern times, when means of communication between country and country are so abundan; the citizen of the world has become an all too familiar figure. Cosmopolitanism has become a vice." We do not think that true patriotism is injured by the widest knowledge gained by study and travel. On the contrary, we think that the facilities for travel and the more intimate knowledge of other peoples have led to a higher, broader, better idea of patriotism, to the lessening of race prejudices, to the bringing nearer of the time when all the world shall be one brotherhood. Turn on the lights; open wide the gates; let not brotherhood be bounded by national lines! The patriotism that can't stand knowledge of the world is mouldy fungus.

Local Market. London, Thursday, May 11.

As a general thing there was little change in Tuesday's prices today. Some odd lots of choice butter commanded 17c and 18c, but prevailing prices were from 14c to 16c. The price The price for eggs was unchanged, at 10c and 11c, mostly 10c. One of the reasons advanced by commission merchants for the comparatively small supply and advanced price of eggs on the local market this season, is that enormous shipments have been made from the London district this spring to various points in British Columbia. Within the past ten days one commission firm has shipped six carloads to western towns, where better prices are realized than in the Liverpool market, formerly more In the grain market this morning oats went briskly, but there was no advance in price.

Men Say They Are Being Badgered and the Public Misled.

Street Railway Managment Bitterly Scored—Persecution of Union

The London Street Railway management and the local directors present a smooth and smiling front, declaring blandly that there really is nothing unusual in the wind, that the agreement with the men has not expired, that they are not aware of having broken the agreement, and that they will be pleased, etc., etc. The men, exasperated by alleged interviews published in other city papers, calculated to prejudice their cause, reply hotly that they have no confidence in the written or spoken word of the management, and declare that they will make the company declare its position flatly by means of an ultimatum.

Mr. Garnett will endeavor this afternoon to see Mr. Smallman, in the hope of securing an honest, direct answer to their grievances, and some assurance of fair investigation. Otherwise an ultimatum will be presented to the company.

The following letters are self-explanatory, and indicate the company's posi-

"London, Ont., May 11, 1899. Mr. John Garnett, Motorman, L. S. R. Company, London: Dear Sir .-

"I regret that I was not at home last night when you asked for me over the telephone, and as you did not give telephone number, it was impossible for me to find you on my return. "I notice in this morning's paper an article headed 'The Employes' Case,' in which it is stated: 'At the time of the trouble in December last, the committee promised Mr. Smallman that before publishing a list of their grievances in future they would wait upon him, and it is to keep faith that the cases have not been submitted to the public.'

"As the employes have not called upon me or furnished me with a state-ment of their alleged grievances, I am not in a position to investigate or express an opinion, and I would thank you to furnish me with a full and complete list, in writing, of all breaches of the agreement, causes of complaint or dissatisfaction amongst the men, when same shall receive the fullest investigation.

"It is also stated in the article referred to: 'That men are now working for the company who were discharged for drunkenness and incompetency, and who are not safe to trust with the lives of passengers and citizens.' Will you kindly furnish me with the names of any such, who may now be, or have recently been, in the company's employ? And their cases shall also receive the fullest investigation. "It is the desire of the directors that all employes of the company should be treated with fairness and consideration, but at the same time it is well to bear in mind that the directors are but the cheese boarded; 85 sold at 9%c; 105 sold custodians of the railway company's dends for a living as are the employes who work for and receive their daily wages, whether the stockholders get dividends or not. It is also well to recollect that the directors should be the best judges as to how the company's business should be conducted, and it is their manager's duty to manage the company's affairs without dictation from the men. It shall always be out aim to study the comforts and interests of our employes, which should be identical with those of the company, but the men must not for one moment suppose (as indicated in their late proposition) that they are to take the management in their own hands.

"We are desirous of making the working hours and wages as favorable to the men as we can afford, but if the hours are too long or too short, or the wages too small, we have no power or desire to prevent the men from improving their condition by accepting any positions that may be more to their liking or profit. Sincerely yours, "T. H. SMALLMAN,

Vice-president London Street Railway Company.'

Mr. C. E. A. Carr: "Dear Sir,—Please find inclosed form of an agreement, which is respectfully submitted for your consideration, to supersede the one now in force, and expiring on the 11th of May, as we think a change of conditions is neces-sary and in the interest of all concern-Yours faithfully, "JOHN GARNETT, (Signed)

"Chairman of Committee."

[Copy.] "London, May 9, 1899. Mr. John Garnett, city: "Sir,—I beg to acknowledge your communication, with inclosure as stated, which was received by me today at noon. I am very much surprised that the employes should look upon the agreement as expiring on the 11th May, as the company understand it to be in force as long as any of the employes remain in the service. I may say that I am not aware of any breach of the agreement on the part of the company, and if any of the employes have any grievance I will be pleased to have it brought to my notice, when it will receive every consideration, both from the management and the directors. Yours truly,

"C. E. A. CARR." The committee of Division No. 97, Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes of America, make the following statement in connection with present condition of street rail-

"In reply to the statement of Manager Carr, of the street railway, that the present agreement has not expired, and it passes his comprehension why the men think it has, the committee of Division No. 97 state that the employes know to their cost that it has never been lived up to by the management, and is altogether worthless as far as it protects the men. It has been systematically broken from the very start. When Manager Carr declares that he knows of no existing griev-ances, the public are aware he made the same statement before the last strike. It is well known that in December last the committee were off duty for five days, in demanding that the agreement be lived up to, and representatives appeared before the city council to lay the case of the employes before the public, and it is no secret that at that time a strike was only averted by the reinstatement of men who were too severely punished or suspended without any just cause, when the non-union employes of the company were breaking the rules with impunity. This is a matter of no doubt whatever, as the citizens know it actually occurred, and proved most conclusively that the agreement had been violated at that time. There has been no change for the better since then. Non-union men go scott free after accidents, but union men are punished for similar oversights or accidents most severely. In regard to ejecting passengers from the car the motorman in question had to carry out the rules of the company, which stated most emphatically, and was posted on the order board at the time of the occurrence, that whenever a motorman was called on to assist in ejecting a passenger by his conductor, he must do so. Mr. Taylor, the motorman in question, had to obey the rule, and was kept on by the company for seven months after the occurrence. The employes have been constantly subjected to a series of the most petty and contemptible persecutions possible to imagine, and they have no confidence whatever in the management. They can place no reliance in his word or his written signature. At the time of the trouble in December the committee promised Mr. Smallman that before publishing a list of their grievances in future they would wait upon him, and it is to keep faith that the cases have not been submitted to the public. The statements that appeared in the Banner are all true. If it is necessary to do so, the committee will not hesitate in giving the specific cases that occurred, and they will guarantee that it will be such a revelation as will astound the public. The men only ask for fair play. They honestly endeavored to carry out the agreement, and if it does not expire in six months, why was it inserted in the agreement which, apparently, is similar in many clauses to those in the agreement existing between the city and the company, and which smart lawyers have so manipulated as to allow the company to evade what was plainly meant when they were executed. The committee refuse to take up the case of any men who willfully violate the company's rules or are guilty of negligence, but it is a fact that men are now working for the company who were discharged for drunkenness and incompetency, and who are not safe to trust with the lives of passengers and citizens. The committee believe that it is not necessary to state further at this time. If necessary they will furnish such proofs of the violation of the agreement and the treatment of the employes as will leave no room for doubt whatever. The public will understand the men are under the same management as before the strike, and they asserted then most emphatically that no grievance existed. The men are perfectly willing to submit their case to the people, and they will be in a position to prove most conclu-sively that the company has regularproperty; they represent stockholders in all walks of life, some of whom are just as much dependent on their divi-

AN INTERVIEW (?) WITH MR. CARR

Management Has Been Good and Kind to the Men-Rumor That the Strike Would Start This Afternoon

An Advertiser reporter called on Manager Carr this afternoon and asked if there were any new developments in the dispute with the employes. Mr. Carr handed the reporter a manifold typewritten copy of a ready-made interview, in which the reporter (fictional reporter, of course) is made to ask pertinent questions, which Mr. Carr answers with telling effect. The questions and answers have been very carefully prepared. The substance of this ready-made interview is as fol-

The management has treated union and non-union employes alike, and shown no partiality in enforcing discipline. The cases of Motormen Feather (union) and Casidy (non-union), both of whom were suspended for two weeks for similar offenses, are cited. There had been eight or ten appeals from Mr. Carr's decisions during the past six months. In Conductor Roberts' case the latter had admitted, over his own signature, that he swore at a passenger, and he had been suspended for two weeks. The only grievances brought to Mr. Carr's notice were requests for reconsideration of some dismissals and suspensions. Mr. Carr emphatically declares that the agreement has never been broken by the company. The company has been very indulgent in allowing the motormen to use stools, and in allowing the men to ride free, even when not in uniform. The only two men who had been reported for being the worse for liquor were union men. One was suspended and the other reprimanded. The latter is now a member of the grievance committee. The company is willing to arbitrate as to whether or not they have lived up to the agreement, but would not be willing to arbitrate upon any differences between it and its employes.

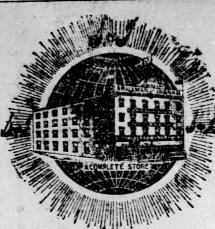

Mr. Carr supplemented the interview with the statement that he had heard from pretty good authority that the cars would be run into the barn at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Mayor Wilson had also heard a similar rumor.

Laidlaw & Watson Co. Threaten to Remove to the East-Company Of fers to Arbitrate-Strikers Will Reply Today.

The difficulty between the striking employes and the Laidlaw & Watson Shoe Company, is apparently no nearer a settlement than it ever was. A definite answer to the company's proposition to submit the matter to arbitration is to be given at 4:30 this afternoon by the strikers.

A committee from the union waited on the management of the company this morning, when the company agreed to submit the whole matter to arbitration by a committee of three, the company choosing one, the employes another and these two a third.

The representatives from the union were Miss K. Fitzgerald, Miss K. O'Rourke, Miss Phillips, Chas. Dundas Walter Wylie and Wm. Lennon, and those from the company, Messrs. H. B. Pollock, Thos. Keily, Wm. Millroy, Wm. Scott and Walter Bartlett.

The dismissal of Miss McLeod for insubordination was taken up. The strikers contended that Mrs. Barrel, the forewoman, was not qualified, so far as disposition and temperament were concerned. One member went so far as to say that anyone with a tongue and temper "like that woman" was worse than a man with a shotgun. It transpired that several messages had passed between some of the concerned parties, and these have in some instances been delivered very inaccurately, consequently widening the breach.

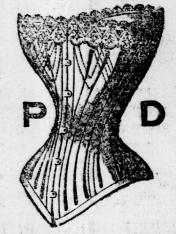

Mr. Keily, the foreman, took Mrs. Barrel's part, and contended that there had been many things which the fore-woman had overlooked time and again. The company claim that in any disagreement between the employes and those in charge, and which could not be settled amicably, an appeal should have been made to the management. This the union contended was not necessary, and Mr. Charles Dundas stated that it was much better to "put on your coat and walk out." He could not see, however, why the matter could not be arranged by the parties meeting each other and offering an apology, but he expects the first advances to come from the forewoman.

WILL REMOVE THE FACTORY. Mr. Pollock, one of the firm, said this morning he was willing to do anything within reason, but would not allow the union or the employes to run the fac-"We pay better wages here than most other places, and in fact, work under a disadvantage. Our trade is east, and we have to buy from the east. It would be infinitely more advantageous for us to remove our factory if the difficulty is not settled. We pay proportionately 25 per cent more money for the manufacture of our goods than is paid for similar goods in Montreal. We have received overtures from several places in the east-a bonus from one place, with a free site for building, and exemption from taxation for a term of years. If the difficulty is not arranged quickly we will certainly go east." There were, he said, some 60 hands employed altogether.

Request to Have the Friendly Societies Bill Held Over for a Year.

[Special to Advertiser per C. P. R.] Ottawa, May 11.-An order in council has been passed appointing Major James Walker, of Calgary, and Mr. J. A. Cote private secretary to the deputy minister of the interior, commissioners to deal with the half-breeds of the district of Athabasca and adjoining country. The government has decided that the Indian and half-breed rights should, in the public interest, be extinguished at the same time so as to preclude the possibility of such complications as have occurred in the past, in dealing with the half-breeds of the territories. It will be remembered that when the half-breeds' commission, issued in 1885, it only empowered the commissioners to issue script to those born prior to the 15th of July, 1870—the date of the transfer of the Hudson Bay Company. The half-breeds demurred to this, and have again and again pressed the claim that half-breeds born between July 15, 1870, and 1885 should receive the same treatment as those born prior to 1870, and the territorial legislature have, on more than one occasion, adopted and forwarded to the government at Ottawa resolutions in support of this claim.

The basis of the claim is that while

Indian and half-breed rights differ in degree, they are coexistant, and should be extinguished concurrently, and if the government failed to so extinguish half-breed rights when any territory was ceded by the Indians, they should be held to exist until such time as the government took action for their extinguishment.

The government has considered this claim in connection with the policy to be adopted respecting the half-breeds of the Athabasca district, and has con-cluded that the claim is well founded. The half-breeds' commissioners now appointed have therefore been empowered to deal with Canadian halfbreeds of the Northwest Territories, born betwen the 15th of July, 1870 and 1885, who may present their claims. The half-breeds' commissioners are to leave Edmonton for the north with the Indian treaty commission.

SYNOD MEETING

Bicycles-Yellow Journalism-Sunday

Excursions-Prohibition. Cornwall, May 11.-The Presbyterian Synod of Montreal and Ottawa decided to hold the next synod in Perth, Ont. The report on church life and work, read by the moderator, dealt at considerable length with Sabbath desecration, and among other things strongly condemned Sunday excursions and bicycle parties, and yellow journalism.

A resolution was submitted expressing dissatisfaction with the decision of the government not to take action in regard to prohibition, "thereby denying the will of the majority of the people as expressed by the plebiscite." Several gentlemen thought this smacked too much of politics, and after much discussion the matter was referred to a special committee, who brought in a resolution expressing gratitude for the recent expression of public opinion in favor of the abolition of the liquor traffic, and regretting that the gov-ernment did not feel authorized to carry out the sentiment by legislation. After some further discussion this resolution was adopted. The overture of the Ottawa presbytery that the moderator be freed from his pastoral duties during the term of office, in order to enable him to exercise a general supervision over the district comprising the synod, was agreed to, and forwarded to the general as-

"When, Marian?" interrogated Lil, with a sudden erection of her head.
"Since Lady Mary left. If any man was ever epris, he was, I felt myself most shamefully neglected."

"If you were, Marian, you must confess you have only yourself to thank for it," retorted Lil, recollecting how her friend had played with Jack's af-other. "If things do go at cross-purposes, it is not our fault. Let us be friends. I could never have married Jack." There, don't be angry," laughed the

"I know you could not," responded it instantly softening. "Marian, Lil, instantly softening. "Marian, four secret was not to be hidden from a woman's eyes. I feel for you, dear, even as I do for Jack." Her companion's face went crim-

'Pardon me," she remarked, with hauteur; "your sympathy is misplac-

"Nay, what I said I meant kindly," rejoined the other. "Are we not too old friends to quarrel?" With an apparent uncontrollable burst of confidence, Marian flung her-self on her friend's neck.

"Forgive me, Lil; you are right, and I am miserable!" she exclaimed. "I feel my secret is safe with you. Yes, I love Rowland; I have always loved him; and, mark me," she added, raising her head, "I will win him yet."
"If you so love, dear, I pray you

'I will," responded Marian, resolute-"Now, leave me, please; I will soon join you downstairs."
As Lil Darnley retired Darnley retired, Marian, leaning on the table, followed her with her eyes. On the door closing, she murmured: Yes. I'll win him yet, and Capt. Jack shall be my instrument. Lil has confessed he loves Lady Mary. I am certain Lady Mary cares for him. I will have my plan as my uncle has his. It shall be a game of chess between us, Sir Merton. Time shall prove which shall be checkmated." The next morning Capt. Darnley and Lil quitted Steinwood.

As Mr. Rylands and Marian, from the broad gravel terrace, watched their carriage roll out of sight, the former, heaving a sigh, said:

"Steinwood left to you and me, my love. Not a guest beneath the roof. There has ever been people coming and going, and now they are going and not coming. You'll feel it ter-ribly dull, Marian."

Turning to him with a smile, she leaned her head against his shoulder.
"And so will you, papa," she answer-You are quite as gregarious as I have therefore, a proposal to make. Suppose we, like the rest, take flight. It will only precede our usual time by a month; while Sir Merton, who, you say, is doing all he can to get Rowland into parliament, will certainly be pleased to see us." "By George, Marian, an excellent ea!" cried Mr. Rylands, delighted, "I couldn't stand Steinwood at this season with no guests. Go, make arrangements with the housekeeper; get your portmanteaus packed, and we'll be off Elated at her success, Marian needd no second bidding. She ran into the house, summoned the housekeeper and the lady's maid, and before two days elapsed, the father and daughter were traveling to town, preceded by a telegram, announcing their advent to Sir Merton Gower.

CHAPTER XI.

What Marian had said respecting her uncle and Rowland was perfectly true. Almost from his youth a dip lomatist, who had played no small part in the political arena, Sir Merton's ambition had ever been to see his son follow in his steps, and achieve for himself a brilliant career.

For some time, however, though interested in politics, Rowland had shown no great desire to enter the field him-

This reluctance the baronet now attributed to the attraction and influence of Gwyn; consequently he hoped, by surrounding his son with men of weight and renown in the government, he might arouse the latent fire of emulation and ambition in him.

He was more successful than his most sanguine hopes had expected. Rowland, struck down, prostrated, by Gwyn's infidelity, yet ashamed to show how deeply he was affected, beheld, in the feverish excitement of a public the surest means to drown thought and sorrow.

Some natures, when disappointed in their fondest desire, take to dissipa-tion; the stronger, the truer, to work. Rowland was of the latter class. While life remained he must love Gwyn; when he was idle, she was ever in his thoughts, driving him into the agony of despair. He was wise enough to be aware of what this must lead a decline of power both physic. lead a decline of power both physically and mentally. Consequently he aroused himself, and, as a safeguard, to Sir Merton's intense joy, cast him-It was a week after the Rylands ad come to town that the father and

"You were at the debate last night, Rowland, ch?" inquired the baronet, throwing aside the Times, and dipping a slip of dry toast into his coffee.

"Yes, sir, and was disappointed. I think G— might have made more of the subject than he hid. Some of the most telling points he passed entirely

"Just what Elbertson remarked-almost the very words, and he is one of our shrewdest observers and speakers. A feather in your cap, my boy. We must certainly get you into parliament, and now is your time."
Rowland Gower glanced quickly up

"What do you mean, sir?" he ask-

"That the government desires to carry this bill by a large majority, therefore, are eager to get members upon whom they may rely. You are with them."

"Heart and soul, sir. The bill is one for the good of the nation, and I shall always vote on the side of the people," responded the young man, with a flash of enthusiasm.

Sir Merton made an imperceptibe move with his lips. His aristocratic shoulders shrugged slightly, and he flipped a crumb from his dressing-gown with his serviette. However, he said appropriate.

said, approvingly:
"Exactly. So I told Lord Wentford.
And, I think, Rowley, the thing is as good as settled." What thing, sir?"

"Your return to parliament."
"My return!" ejeculated the young man, his face flushing at the thought, There is no seat vacant."

"Yes, there is, or soon will be," responded Sir Merton Gower, composedly, playing with the rings on the white fingers. "Wentford informed me, in secret that Hardward III." secret, that Harrington Harrington retires from Colndale in a week's time. Now, Wentford can return whom he pleases for the place; that is, his and the electors opinions are as one. No of bribery, so don't knit your brow, Rowley. Therefore, he proposes that you should stand. I told him that it would delight me, but that I would consult you.'

"I shall be delighted, too, sir, if I am assured I am not to be forced on the electors," answered the son. "Wentford, I know, can set at rest all your scruples upon that head, my dear boy. The electors put implicit trust, owing to experience, in his selection. You will only have to walk over the course. 'And when, sir, shall this be decided?" asked Rowland, his heart beating a little faster at this possible realization of his ambition. "This morning, if you like. I made an appointment with Wentford for twelve, and I suspect here is Davidson paired, when a conference of over an hour's duration took place. At the termination, everything had been arranged for Rowley's return for Colndale.

When his lordship left, Sir Merton Gower, leaning affectionately on his son's arm, proceeded to the drawing-room, where Lady Mary was seated at her embroidery-frame.

"Lady Mary, I have a secret," laughed the baronet gaily. "Is it possible for you, being woman, to keep it?" am woman; yet I trust it is so, Sir Merton," she replied, good-temperedly.

"Then only whisper it not (at present) in Gath. Let me introduce you to the future M.P. for Colndale," said the baronet, presenting his son.

A bright, joyous flush mounted Lady Mary's cheek; her eyes sparkled with sympathy, which was most flatter-

He advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' I did so, and used five bottles of each, and I cannot express the benefit I have received from these medicines. I gained in health and strength. When I commenced to use the medicines I weighed only its pounds, now I weigh 140 pounds. I thank God and Dr. Pierce for my recovery. My husband and friends all thought I would die but to-day I am a well woman."

The wonderful effects of this great "Discovery" are genuine and permanent; they are not due to any false or alcoholic stimulus for it contains no alcohol. Real substantial healthy musuclar strength is built up; the stomach and liver are toned; the blood is purified and vitalized; the nerves are steadled; the entire constitution is re-

General Otis Says It Is Very Encouraging.

Frenchman Massacred Under a Flag of Truce-Insurgents Looting Natives' Property Ad Libitum.

Washington, D. C., May 11.-General Otis has cabled the war department, concerning the situation in the Philippines. He says that it is very encouraging. The tone of the dispatch leads the officials here to believe that the end of the Filipino insurrection is near at hand. New York, May 11.-A dispatch from Manila says the insurgents have assassinated L. Dumaris, a Frenchman, who had crossed their lines under a flag of truce. A dispatch to the Herald says the insurgents have succeeded in landing ten machine guns at Capiz on the Island of Panay.

Manila, May 11-6:45 p.m.-Mr. Higgins, manager of the Manila-Dagupan Railway, and two of his assistants, who had remained inside the insurgent lines to protect the property of the railway company, arrived at San Fernando yesterday. They had been informed by the insurgents that they would no long-er be responsible for their safety if they remained longer within their lines. Mr. Higgins corroborates the stories that have been told of the demoralization of the Filipinos, and says that the rebels are looting all the natives' property. Mr. Higgins adds that now is the time for the Americans to strike

A Filipino connected with the American hospital corps was killed, it is supposed, by Amigos.

Reports received from the insurgent line, which, however, have not been confirmed, say that a meeting of the Filipino congress has been held at San Isidoro. There was no quorum present, but in spite of this fact some business was transacted. The reports add that although those who attended were mostly partisans of Aguinaldo, a strong desire for peace was expressed.

Maj.-Gen. MacArthur will probably remain at San Fernando until fresh troops can be forwarded to him from this city to replace some of the volunteers, who have become exhausted from the long campaign.

Filipino riflemen to the number of 8,000 are intrenched on three sides of Bacolor. The Americans, however, are fully able to hold the city, if Monday's attack was a specimen of the enemy's fighting ability. GRANT SCATTERED THE REBELS.

The army "tinclad" gunboats Laguna de Bay and Cavedonga, under command of Capt. Grant, steamed up the Lio Grande to Calumpit yesterday, clearin the entire country of rebels from the bay upward. When the vessels reached Macabeebe about 1,000 of the inhabitants of the place assembled on the banks of the river, cheering the expedition lustily. Capt. Grant was given an ovation when he went ashore. Many of the Macabeebes expressed themselves as being anxious to enter the American service for the campaign agains tthe Tagals.

MET HIM AT THE JAIL DOOR

Burford Woman Elopes With Her Husband's Friend.

Brantford, Ont., May 11.-Burford has another sensation, this time an elopement. Peter Cameron, who worked at the trade of harness-maker in the village, has disappeared, and with him the wife of a companion of his named William Ferguson, who worked in the same shop. The woman seems to have been infatuated with Cameron for some time. During the early spring he was sentenced to two months in Brantford jail for carrying a revolver. While he was a prisoner Mrs. Ferguson wrote her lover several letters. The last appointed a time and place where they should meet after he was released. The governor of the jail detained the man inside a few hours so that he chould not keep his appointment, but as soon as he was free he joined the woman and they left for parts unknown together.

Mrs. Ferguson has deserted a husband and two children. Cameron was a widower and had one child.

FOUND A BABY ON THE VERANDA

Little Stranger Brought Along His Wardrobe and Nursing Bottle.

The members of Mr. Archibald Carmichael's family, of Lobo township, were surprised yesterday morning to find on the veranda of their residence a bundle carefully covered with a woman's cloak, and a large, well-filled band-box near by. Someone raised the cloak and met the wondering eyes of a two-weeks-old baby boy, who nestled comfortably in his fine warm wrappings, and was conveniently provided with a nursing-bottle, which the little the onions removed if offered for sale there, stranger had evidently half-emptied for breakfast. In the band-box were plenty of extra baby clothes. The young gentleman had evidently come to stay. The wardrobe was complete, and everything was fine, dainty, and clean. A number of the pieces were marked with the letter "W." There was also some fine toilet soap, a soft baby brush, and other toilet accessories. The nursing-bottle was stamped Strong's drug store, and had evidently been bought in this city.

The baby was in excellent health and spirits, and is a handsome little chap, but Mr. Carmichael has babies of his own, and didn't want too much of a good thing. Mr. A. THE PARNELL-DEAN STEAM BAKING COMPANY,

SHELVED FOR A YEAR

The Wind Taken Out of No. 3 Committee's Sails-No Market Paving or New Fire Hall.

No. 3 committee bade the "market paving" and "north end fire hall" projects a formal "Good-bye" for a year at least, last night. To carry on either or both would require money, something the committee now has very little of. Ald. Dreaney (chairman), Pritchard, Jolly, Chief Roe, Engineer Graydon, Market Clerk Wilson and Secretary Bell were present.

Market Clerk Wilson is opposed to having onions and butter together in the produce market and wanted authority to have and also complained of bicycle riders going through the market. Regarding the "scorchers," he asked, that in event of being ordered to "go" for them, the city solicitor's opinion as to his right in the matter be obtained. The committee decided that Mr. Wilson might "go" for the onions, but not for the "scorchers."

The Columbia Handle Company want a fire alarm box at the corner of Adelaide and Horton streets and two hydrants on a line with Horton street east of Adelaide for fire purposes. The nearest hydrant at present is over 600 feet from their factory. The company intends erecting an addition to their factory in the near future. The communication was laid over.

In view of the ccuncil's action Tuesday night, the Barber Asphalt Company wrote that it would be useless for them to put in a tender at present for paving the market, as no money was provided for such work. Only one tender was received for the work, and it was decided to return it unopened. The question may be revived when the council has more money. Owing to lack of cash, also, all documents relating to the proposed north end fire hall were laid on the table together with several applications for positions as firemen
