EDDIE SEAGRAM'S WATERLOO FOUR UNABLE TO COME THIS TIME

J. S. Willison, Rennie Brothers and Scores of Other Well Known Players Are, However, Once Again On Deck to Fight for Labatt Trophy.

The seventeenth annual tournament of the Western Ontario Bowling Association was given a good start this afternoon, 85 rinks being drawn for play. All these entered appeared on hand, with the exception of Skip "Eddie" Seagram's famous Waterloo four, who were prevented from coming at the last minute. Their places were filled by Dr. Robertson's Elora quartette, who took the Waterloo rink's place in the draw.

The list of entries is not so large as last year, or the year previous. In fact, it is just 20 rinks short of 1911. The multiplicity of tournaments in Western Ontario, coupled with the keenness of the competition in this the blue ribbon event in bowling circles, is given as the reason for the falling off, The 85 rinks entered are, with few exceptions, the strongest that could be gathered together in Ontario. The majority of them are hand-picked, and experts are unanimous in declaring that the week will see the finest exemplification of bowling ever witnessed in the W. O. B. A. A few of the London rinks are "joy" rinks, but the majority are made up of high class trundlers, capable of holding their own with the best. WELL-KNOWN BOWLERS.

Among the best-known experts attending the tournament are J. S. Willison, Toronto, the famous Rennie brothers, of Toronto, expert curlers and bowlers; Dick Thomson and his Parisians, runners-up last year; G. B. Rice, Toronto: Dr. Wiley, Brantford, former Labatt trophy winner; Dr. Del Marr of Ridgetown, who has also captured the coveted trophy; Eddie Wettlaufer and his Berliners; Tom McCurdy, Stratford; Dr. Fear and Newman Booker, Aylmer; E. A. Horton, St. Thomas; Andy Taylor, of Toronto, the coming president; Frank Smoke, of Paris, the present president, and one of the best; J. B. Hoover, of Clinton, and a score of others.

Of course, the local rinks are well represented. George Nightingale, last year's winner, is skipping a rink again. Bert Heaman, Andy Scott, James S. McDougall, Dr. J. N. Wood, W. R. Vining, and others have picked up the best in the city to compete. Dr. N. Alexander will have his Tecumseh winners in line, and Fred. N. Allen will try and lift the Labatt, not the McNee trophy this year. EXPERTS WILL BATTLE. and first rounds, and by nightfail many of the best will be among the slain. For instance, J. S. Willison and J. S. McDougall, two of the best in the tourney, will battle at four o'clock this afternoon. This game will be as good as the final match, if not better.

There are other examples. and locals all figuring the same

The rinks assembled on the green at 1 o'clock, and were given a rousing welcome by Mr. Frank Smoke, the president. Mayor Graham, himself a bowler, who has competed in a number of tourneys, gave the visitors the freedom of the city.

Then the games were on. The players lost no time in getting down to work, and the battle for the peer of bowling prizes commenced.

The finals for the trohy will be played on Thursday afternoon, and will no doubt attract a large crowd.

BOARDER SHOT AT CAT CHORUS AND HIT POLICEMAN IN LEG

P. C. McIntosh Slightly Injured they jumped up hurriedly and got out by a Stray Bullet at G. T. R. Depot.

Shooting cats is considered a legitimate form of enterprise by many who have endured sleepless nights because of the persistency of the feline chorus, but the police have issued a summons for Bert Haller, a boarder at the Dominion House, for his indulgence in this pastime. This is due to the fact that a bullet from Mr. Haller's gun punctured the leg of P. C. McIntosh at the Grand Trunk depot the other evening. Two other men also had a close call for their lives, it is understood. The case will come up in the police court on Wednesday.

The other evening Mr. Haller, so the story goes, was disturbed by the cat chorus, and seizing a 32-calbre revolver, thought he would populate the abode of bliss reserved for cats. He went into the yard at the rear of the passing within two inches of their hotel and opened the cannonading. Bullet Went Wild.

British Medical Association Would End Negotiations With Lloyd George.

MAY MEAN STATE MEDICAL SERVICE

Association Believes No Physician Will Dare Give Services For Fear of Being Ostracised.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, July 22 .-- A London able says: One of the hardest blows at David Lloyd George's new insurance act was delivered Saturday at the meeting of the British Medical Association, delegates to which represent 200 divisions.

The meeting on Saturday carried by a large majority, amid scenes of enthusiasm, a recommendation break off negotiations with the chanellor. The recommendation need confirmation by a later meeting which seems likely to be given.

The chancellor will thus be left to decide whether he will start a state medical service or leave each local insurance committee to come to terms with the doctors or do what the act provides, namely, return six shillings each insured contributor who makes his own arrangements for medical at-

The members of the British Medical Association declare that they feel no auxiety regarding the threat that the insurance commissioners would ignore the association and appeal to local practicioners. They say that any doctor who, in face of the association's decision, accepted "Blackleg" rate would be treated as a "Blackleg," and would be ostracised socially, and have his name removed from all respectable medical bodies.

CHURCHILL POINTS TO GERMANS TO EXCUSE EXPENDITURE

When Introducing Bill For Naval Supplementary, Declares Germany's Preparation For Great War Is Remarkable and Without Example—Five More Battleships Next Year.

[Canadian Press.] London, July 22.—Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, in introducing the supplementary naval appropriation of $5,000,000 in the House of Commons this afternoon, said the direct cause of the increase in expenditures on the British navy was to be found in the new German navy law, the main feature of which was the increase in the striking force of ships of all classes. The effect of the new German navy law would, he said, be that nearly four-fifths of the entire German navy would be maintained in full permanent commission and instantly ready for war. The First Lord continued:

"Such preparation is remarkable, and as far as I am aware finds no exmple in the previous practice of modern naval powers."

Mr. Churchill then announced the British shipbulfding programme for the next five reas, saying that five battleships were to be constructed next year and four in each following year.

Under the few German law, the Admiralty Lord said, the ultimate scale of the German fleet would be 41 battleships, 20 large armored cruisers, 40 small cruisers, and smaller craft in proportion.

"That will be an extremely formidable fleet," Mr. Churchill said, "and the only way to meet it is by cool, steady and methodical preparation prolonged over successive years.

"There is no use flinging money about on the impulse of the moment" the First Lord continued. "The strain which Great Britain London, July 22 .- Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the

We should learn from our German neighbors the way of the relies which marches appropriate to its real." bors the way of the policy which marches unswervingly to its goal."

MARGIN OF SAFETY.

"The supplementary estimate to meet the extra German expenditure," Mr. Churchill said, "is only a small installment, and the new ship-building programme of the next five years will be really reduced to five vessels next year, and four each year thereafter, instead of three in 1913, four in 1914, three in 1915, four in 1916, and three in 1917, the number I had hoped we might stand at." Mr. Churchill went on to point out that the increased fighting power of the German fleet involved the reorganization of the British forces in the German fleet involved the reorganization of the British forces in the German fleet involved the reorganization order that a margin of safety might be maintained.

LONDON YOUTH MET DEATH DIVING OFF PIER AT THE LAKE

Clifford Ely Fractured His Skull and Lived Only an Hour from the water. He did not feel the slightest pain except when he moved. During this period his companions kept rubbing him, and this they deem did much to sustain life. About 4:30 o'clock After Accident.

Clifford Ely, the 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ely. 47 Bruce branch of Oak Hall, was at Long Point street, met with an accident which resulted in his death yesterday afternoon while bathing at Port Stanley.

With half a dozen chums he was camping at the Port, and yesterday they went in for their usual bath off alive the pier. Young Ely was an expert swimmer and diver, and it was by no means the lack of accomplishment of this art that life was lost. The Fatal Dive.

With Stanley Seltzer, a chum, he dove off the pier which is about ten feet high into water not over four feet deep. Seltzer took his plunge oblique-ly, while Ely headed downward, striking his head a terrific blow on the bottom. The impact caused a fracture at the base of the skull.

Seltzer, seeing his friend in a help-less and dazed condition, went im-mediately to his rescue and carried him to shore. Later he was taken to

In the meantime there is a great scramble for the Conservative nomination. Mr. George W. Neely, ex-M. P. P., is urging his claims upon the party, and he will make a big fight for the place. "Col. McEwen is considered the best we have, but I doubt that he will get the nomination. Things are none too on a fishing trip, and the message did pleasant in the party just now, and it will take some clever work to bring the factions together." Liberals Are Confident.

In the meantime the Liberals are working quietly and confidently. There are several strong men whose names have been mentioned, any one of whom would make an excellent run. The popularity of Leader Rowell's policy is undoubted, and there is every prospect of the riding of East Mid-dlesex remaining in the Liberal column.

Miss Dora Labatt, First London Girl to Make an Ascent.

RIDE WAS A PLEASANT ONE

Didn't Feel a Bit Afraid, She Told The Advertiser After the Journey.

Miss Dora Labatt, daughter of Mr. John Labatt, of this city, has the di tinction of being the first London lady to make a flight in an aeroplane, making her initial trip with Mr. Brookins at Port Stanley on Saturday afternoon, at 5 o'clock. When the flights were first announced. Mr. Brookins declared that. he would be delighted to have a lady go up with him. Miss Labatt was the. fortunate person. The trip was made shortly after 5 o'clock, and although weather conditions were not very favorable. Brookins and his passenger sailed far over Lake Erie, making the return trip without any danger. Brookins had made several scheduled flights prior to his ascent with Miss Labatt. There was considerable sea running at the time, but as the weather conditions otherwise had become quite favorable, he announced to Miss Labatt that he was ready to take her. Without the slightest trepidation she climbed into the machine, taking her position beside the daring aviator. Thousands Saw the Fly. There were thousands of visitors rom London, St. Thomas and other cities who watched the preparations almost breathlessly. After Brooking cian: "Let her go." The latter shoved it out into the water where the big machine bobbed about like a cork for a moment or two until the machinery got going.

The great fans commenced to whirr, and then the Wright biplane scudded over the water like an immense gull. When about 200 yards out the machine arose into the air.

Far out over the lake Brookins and his intrepid passenger fled, going election, and his friends are confident higher and higher until the machine appeared to be but a few streaks across the horizon.

The crowd watched the flight with the greatest interest, not a person apparently daring to take his or her yes off the far-sailing machine.

A Perfect Landing. Brookins when out about a mile or more started the return trip, and when near shore he circled abou his claims strongly. Mr. John Geary is a couple of times, and then made a perfect landing practically in the same spot from which he had ascended. When it was seen that all was well with Brookins and Miss Labatt, the immense crowd gave vent to its feelings with a great cheer. When the aeroplane reached shore Miss Labatt climbed out smilingly and joined her father, Mr. John Labatt, and her sisters, who had watched the flight from the beach. She was enthusiastic over her experience. At no time was she the least bit afraid.

Not a Bit Afraid.

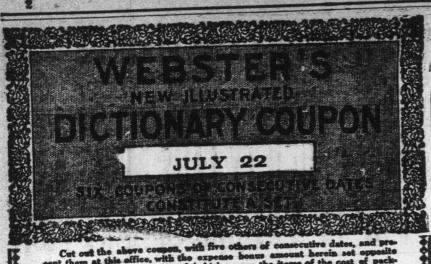

"It was wonderful-the most thrilling and yet the most pleasant experi-ence I have ever had," she declared. "I thoroughly appreciated it at all times, and was not the least bit alarmed. With such a master as Mr. Brookins at the wheel one is perfectly safe, and need have no fear whatever. It was a great experience, and one I will long remember."
Mr. Brookins concluded his engagement on Saturday evening. He made flights every day he was at the Port, and the visitors were generally assured that they would get the worth of their

His right hand, grasping a Savage automatic teu-shot 32-calibre revolver, was under his right knee. Blood was streaming from the mouth and left ear. He was still groaning. Beswick summoned Coroner Dr. Carran Ricker. Sheridan, however, expired within a very few moments.

There were two notes on the little desk in the dead man's hand-writing. One was: "Call my office—Main 3293." This Mr. Beswick immediately did. On another sheet of paper pinned down by a paper weight, Dr. Ricker found a letter to all concerned setting forth the cause of the suicide. While the coroner would not give the letter out for publication its contents are fairly well known.

In writing Mr. Sheridan stated that he had decided on this means of doing away with himself because the result practically all his life work had been at through a financial deal. This ocousted from the presidency and control of the Pease Foundry Company.

MOTHER FOUND GUILTY OF KILLING CHILDREN

Mrs. Patrick McGee Will Probably Be Sent to an Insane Asylum.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., July 21. Mrs. Patrick McGee, of St. Mary's road, who was tried in the superior court at Georgetown on the charge of murdering her five children by administering phosphorus taken from BRITISH MINISTERS matches, was found guilty after half an hour's deliberation by the jury, with a strong recommendation to mercy. She will probably be declared insane and sent to the asylum.

A COMPLETE ANSWER. Our local contemporary quotes approvingly from the Regina Morning News, as follows: "Draw favorable deductions from the general reciprocity argument as the Government may, it must, however, be admitted that Scott candidates owe their success very largely to their direct appeal to the American vote. This the electorate supported recias on sentimental grounds.' The Free Press says this is the opinion of an independent paper. The Regina News is as rabid a Conservative journal as the Free Press itself. Judge therefore of its independence.

We refer the Free Press to its own columns for a complete refutation of the Regina News. In Saturday's edition it prints the following from a Moose Jaw correspondent, who writes as a Conservative, a friend of the manufacturing interests, but with rare impartiality. Here is what he

"It is a great mistake on the part of English newspapers to imagine that the American settlers in the west have brought back the reciprocity movement. In Saskatchewan cans have votes as yet, and at the Mr. Haultain on the ground that he was a good man and reciprocity not a provincial question.

The revival of reciprocity is due to a variety of causes in which the Americans in Canada have had neither hand nor part. Its most been the 30,000 members of the three grain-grower bodies, who were not dismayed when it was beaten in Sep-A good few of the leaders are English Radicals, who hate the the eastern manufacturer pretty much as Irishmen used to inveigh against the absentee landlord. I do not know that Dr. Michael Clark, the Dominion member for Red Deer, belongs to the grain-growers, but he is an excellent type of the old countrymen identified with the movement, and is looked up to by the settlers in general. The native Canadian members outnumber all the rest, and are as active as any.

"If the cutting in two of the cement duty was designed to influence the Saskatchewan election, it failed, as half-measures usually do, to accomplish the desired end. The procity party pointed out that, on Mr. White's own showing, the original specific duty was in some orem, while the reduced duty is now about 27 per cent., which they consider excessive If the Finance Minister attempts to restore the old duty there is sure to be a flaming protest "These, in brief, are the facts that account for the rejuvenation of the reciprocity issue. That it is as strong as ever in Saskatchewan is evident from Mr. Scott's sweeping victory, and the Liberals are probably right in thinking that Mr. Ar-thur Sifton will carry Alberta with the same ease on the same cry.

There is still much vague about the secession of the west, but it is not taken seriously Nor is there any foundation for the report that, if they fail at their approaching visit to Ottawa to convince Mr. Borden that reciprocity is necessary, the grain-grower associations will declare a boycott of Canadian manufacturers.'

How this truthful tell-tale dispatch got into the Free Press is a mystery. But it is a perfect answer to, the Regina News, that the Scott Government "appealed to voters who recently for a policy that can have one ulti- British trade grew wonderfully, as folmate effect, the alienation of Can-

London or Rome. He is a large and berlain and his political disciples. varied matter. In today's news we learn that Mr. Augustine Birrell is aging perceptibly since the suffragettes assaulted him in St. James' Park; and for some time we have accustomed ourselves to think of Lord Morley as declining far in years and vigor, an old Nestor roused to Berserker spirit by the exigencies of the Indian situation and the struggle over the Parliament Act, but ordinarily not quite the man he was twentyfive years ago. Lang, however, seemed one that could not feel the touch of passing years. The marvellous, manysided energy, the encyclopaedic memory, the abounding health and animal spirits of the expert angler and golfer seemed unimpaired. His poetic vein, his historical and mythological interests, his critical powers, have all been illustrated in periodicals of the present year; e. g., there are his "Ballade of Dead Cities" in Current Literature for March, "Fear and Ghosts" in the Independent of March 21, an article on the "Mystery of the Tobermory Galleon" in the March Blackwoods, and the window-smashing campaign, The reply.

critical reviews in various magazines. Last year we had the usual variety from his pen in the "Mystery of Dickens" (Blackwoods, May), a "New Theory of Shakespeare" (Independent, Dec. 22, 1910), "Shakespeare or X?" (Littell's Living Age, Oct. 21), "Telepathy and Totemism" (ditto, Nov. 11) etc. Engaging Mr. Gilbert Murray on his own special ground of Homeric study he got the better of the tilt. And now in the midst of his unabated activities and countless literary projects, comes the bolt from the blue and lays him with those "Dead Authors" whom he so loved, to whom he wrote those brilliant "Letters" as to intimate friends. It would have been a hard choice to the enthusiast for pleasant literature, which he should consent to be robbed of, Morley, Birrell, or Lang.

The quantity, quality and vast variety of Lang's work have long been amazing. A charming writer of verse, a brilliant editorial writer and critic he was also a novelist of some mark, a Greek scholar of the highest mark, the first of British students and expositors of folk-lore and mythology, and the first of Scottish historians. He wrote his seventy books and his countless pieces both for children and for men. As an historian he was, of course, expert in Old French. In the London Public Library may be found his exquisite English rendering of the twelfth century romance of Aucassin and Nicolette. He was equally happy in his collaborating translations of Homer and the ancient pastoral poets; they are masterpieces, and our standard translations of those writers. As an ethnologist, he became interested in mythology, and is the only British from New York with this story. Mrs. mythologist to rank with the modern August Belmont, who used to be Eleanor Robson, the actress, had German students in originality and scope. He was one of the founders of the Society for Psychical Research, a of songs for her guests. Scot in his penchant for the occult. The marvel is that he was an expert and specialist, no mere dilettante, in so many things, and in some supreme. recent election a number supported With all his knowledge he had the gift of making his own interests interesting and understandable to the general reader. He had the inestimable gift of style. He stands up colossal among the scholars who have strenuous advocates all along have reached and touched the people from graybeard to the lisping child. His vastness will not be easily paralleled.

Mens sana in corpore sano can be said of Lang in a deeper sense than word protection, and inveigh against of Gilbert. St. Andrew's knew him in the classroom both as student and later as special lecturer, and on the links. He was an ornament to Scotland, not unworthy to be mentioned with Stevenson, Burns, Hume, and

MISREPRESENTING THE MOTHER COUNTRY.

"During the month of June, according to British Board of Trade returns, there was a decrease in both imports and exports. In exports the decrease amounted to $5,704,000, and it was principally in manufactured goods. Although there was a decrease in the total amount of imports, that part of the imports conmanufactured goods increased $2,500,000. That is to say, Great Britain is ceasing to be the world's factory, and is not even holding her own."-Hamilton Spectator. Some Canadlans imagine that they score a point if they find any pretext for asserting that Great Britain is industrially declining. One would almost infer that the wish is father to the thought. Why this eagerness to malign the mother country on the part of the very class which boasts of the superior quality of its loyalty? Take the Spectator's paragraph. The English papers explain that the drop in June was entirely due to the strike of the London dock workers, which has greatly impeded traffic at the greatest British port. For the six months ending June 30, this year, both exports and imports were greater than in the corresponding six months in 1911-the exports by $25,000,000, the imports by charge of the Free Press, echoing the $95,000,000. The exports and imports for the full year 1911-we have not the exact figures at hand-were the largest came from the United States, to vote ever recorded. In the decade 1901-1910

NORDICA AND ELEANOR.

[Topeka Capital.]
A Topeka man recently came back Eleanor Robson, the actress, had planned a little "affair" and was dickering with Nordica to sing a couple of songs for her guests. Nordica wanted $1,500, but Mrs. Belmont pro-tested that she couldn't afford to pay more than $1,000. Finally Mrs. Bel-mont gave in. "I'll pay you your price," said Mrs. Belmont, "but of course, it is understood that you are not to eat with the guests." "Oh, well, in that case," Nordica sweetly replied, 'I'll sing for $1,000."

The ambitious traveller who visits England for the purpose of writing a book about the country must be perplexed with the enormous range of material that offers. In the first place there are many Englands - literary England, historic England, social England, and so on. If the traveller wishes to treat of England from several standpoints, it is difficult to manage the affair within the brief compass of one volume. Yet this was the task which Julia de W. Addison, of the United States, set herself when she left her native shores to visit the country which produced her famous relative, Joseph of Spectator fame. She went to the old land firmly convinced that she could imprison some of the color, a little of its enchantment, within the pages of a book, and as I read the result, "The Spell of England" (Page & Co., Boston) I am convinced that she has shown good judgment in planning her work and discrimination in the selection of topics. She has tried to give the average reader a bird's-eye view of the most interesting places in England, and has woven the literary and historical features together very deftly. While her book does not possess the literary charm of such a work as Mr. St. John Adcock's new volume on the houses and shrines of literary London, which I reviewed in these columns a few weeks ago, it is much superior to the general guide book, and its handsome binding and illustrations ought to commend it to the American who is about to sail for that tight little island which offers such a bewildering bill of fare to the sightseer. Concerning the title, "The Spell of England," just what does this mean for the man in the street? Mrs. Addison admits that most people have an idea that Spain or Italy has a spell, but imgines that the American balks at the phrase, "the spell of England." Perhaps a New Yorker, or the famous man from Missouri, may need enlightenment on this score, but surely the Canadian public have no need of explanations. However, it is good even for the children of the old mother to read of her charms as understood and appreciated by a lady of Boston. This spell of old England, she says, "is not operatic, and it is not sensational. But anyone who stands, for instance, by the side of the sedgy moat at Baddesley Clinton, that venerable moated grange which Shakespeare had in mind when he wrote of the sorrowing Mariana; or any one who gazes from the bold summit of sea-cliff, where stands Harlech Castle, and remembers those gallant warriors who went forth from those stern walls and inspired by their deeds the stirring March of the Men of Harlech, knows that there is an atmosphere of may be. romance about those places. And who uld pass without a sympathetic smile by Banbury Cross, which has amused us in our youth? Who could take a train to St. Ives without recalling the 'men, cats and wives,' associated with that journey? Even 'waiting for the train at Coventry' conjures up a charming vision." In this passage I think we have an admirable comment on England's variety of interesting things. From the Harlech song of the north to the much-married man of St. Ives, almost every square foot of old England has something to interest or

Mrs. Addison has found space in her volume to describe a large number of objects which escape many tourists. She has penetrated remote recesses peeked into out-of-the-way churches, and dug up queer old customs which only the antiquarians, or the natives in remote villages, know anything about A sample of her industry is to be seen in her page dealing with the white horse of Bath. This "silhouette of a steed" was cut flat in the chalk hills by the soldiers of Alfred the Great to celebrate a victory over the Danes. Ever since that date, A. D. 878, it has been the duty of the people in the country near Bath where the chalk horse is located, to gather at stated intervals, to pull the weeds from its fair white form and to scrub it up generally. Among the songs sung by the "scourers" is one as follows:

The 'owld white horse wants setting to rights, And the squire has promised good So we'll gi' him a scrape

To keep him in shape, And he'll last for many a year.

That long, wan horse has taken good deal of scouring in his day, but he has been the cause of an endless amount of amusement, for I suppose this custom goes right back to King Alfred's day. Any custom dies hard in England, but a custom with a picnic attached would die still harder.

I fancy that this book would make many an English reader very peppery. For Miss Addison is very frank in he criticism of English cooking, English speech, English signs, English slowness, in fact all things English which do not jump with her American alertness and up-to-dateness. In an effort That's all very well, but when you to be humorous she sprinkles her chap-begin to eat it again the price will ters with stories and remarks made in her hearing during her travel, or anecdotes about the English. Many of these strokes of attempted humor miss-fire, and others are irritating to the Britisher. As the book was written for Amerou had?" asked a visitor of the small ican consumption, however, it wil probably pass muster. But if a second edition is contemplated, Miss Addison would do well to cut out a great deal of her nonsense. Most of it is not funny at all, and it cheapens the real

Have a Tunic If You Can Have Only One Evening Dress, Writes Maybelle Mortimer, Daily Advertiser Fashion Expert.

[By Maybelle Mortimer]

I found a tunic at Collet Seuer's which seemed to be exactly the thing for The yellow Nasturtium, a spinster all vant to go to great expense

The one at the famous French establishment was made of black shadow lace gathered a little above the waist and brought in at below the knees to a band of black chiffon embroidered in white beads. In the front of this tunic there was a shield shaped panel from the bust to the knees of black chiffon. The waist was extremely simple, the top of the chiffon panel coming up to the bust in front and the sleeves being of chiffon embroidered in white beads.

This tunic was worn over a white satin skirt and you had to pay more for the name of Collet Seuer in gilt letters on the inside belt than the material for the whole dress was worth. However, one could easily use an old satin skirt and freshen it up with one of these lace tunics. You can see from the illustration that they wouldn't be hard to make. They are very sensible for a woman who goes out a good deal, but who must spend little for company gowns, as they can be worn over different slips and make an entirely

Our Bird Friends

Anyone can make real friends of the birds of the air, shy though they be ,but they must go the right way about opening up an acquaintance Some birds are wonderfully faithful, and will return again and again to the home where they have been kindly treated, and will remember the voices of those who have cared for them or given them food and drink.

In the spring and summer the quickest way to entice the feathered creatures is to put fresh water in saucers for them to drink, and in shallow bowls for them to bathe in, and, furthermore, to scatter crumbs on the ground for their delectation.

Let the receptacles be inconspicuous In color and rough at the edge, so that the birds may easily get a foothold. There are specially made and very picturesque basins mounted on pedestals to be bought, and with these women love to decorate their gardens but ordinary pieces of crockery serve the purpose well enough.

It is best to set down saucers and other receptacles in a shady, and, if ocssible, retired spot, as the birds are shy at first and not likely to venture into the open, and most important is it that the spot chosen should not be near a shrubbery or near any object behind which a cat might hide.

As to the food that the birds like best, crumbs of bread and seeds. hemp, canary seed and the like, besides shreds of cooked potato and fat and bit of raw apple, raisins and other fruits will make a feast for the little things.

TECUMSEHS BAT SCHUMAN OUT IN SIXTH AND BEAT THE LEAFS

Locals Won Their Fourth Straight Game at Tecumseh Park on Saturday-Silcox Pitched Good Ball, While Indians Gave Him Great Support in the Field.

URING four brief, but business-like innings, the home folks went up to the plate and smiled on Mr. "Babe" Schuman's slings in up to the plate and smiled on Mr. "Babe" Schuman's slings in Saturday afternoon's dispute with Mr. Needham's Tonentities. Then they returned to the bench, or to the field again, without even crashing into anything that had a particle of resemblance to a safe bingle. For four brief innings Mr. Schuman was lord to a safe bingle. For four brief innings Mr. Schuman was lord to a safe bingle. For four brief innings Mr. Schuman was lord to a safe bingle. For four brief innings Mr. Schuman was lord the surveyed, and then something happened. The something was two tiny little hits in the fifth spasm, Mr. Fox lifting thing was two tiny little hits in the fifth spasm, Mr. Necham managed to divert, and Mr. Oskee Neale beating out a slow poke to Mr. Isaac. Coming at a time, when, as Mr. Methuslah Keenan would remark, "two daubers were down" the said bingles were of little avail, but they were foreboding of greater things to come, and in a way were the beginning of Mr. Schuman's downfall.

In the locals' half Mr. Silcox was first

WON IN THE SIXTH.

The real massacre came in the sixth. It was in this session that the home help placed the caffucus in the Ice box. After the "Needemites" had pilfered a marker in their half, Mr. Blerbauer's crowd went in and rattled Mr. Schuman's assortment to all corners of the premises, the said heavyweight being delegated assortment to all corners of the premises, the said heavyweight being delegated assortment to all corners of the premises, the said heavyweight being delegated assortment to all corners of the premises, the said heavyweight being delegated assortment to all corners of the premises, the said heavyweight being delegated assortment before a man was out, and Mr. Applegate, a former big-leaguer, called upon to act as a rescue party. When the inning had rolled into Canadian league history, the home crowd were ahead by the score of 3 to 1, and the game ended with the teams standing in the same relation.

It was another of those real nice games, to which local fans have been treated during the past four days of last week, and, incidentally, it was the fourth straight win for the local artists. At their present rate of climbing, they are in a fair way to crowd Mr. Cook's estimable Cookies from the top rung of Jimmy Fitzway to crowd Mr. Cook's estimable Cookies from the top rung of Jimmy Fitzgerald's pennant scramble, even though Mr. Cook's crowd is doing some climbing itself. pitching as has been seen at the local ball yard for some days. He was also accorded some air-tight stuff in the way of support, his team mates seemingly trying to outdo each other in preventing Mr. Needham's hungry horde from completing the circuit.

In the first three sessions there was nothing particularly exciting in the way the visitors cut up, Mr. Silcox having them well in hand, and only allowing one hit. In the fourth inning, however, Mr. Needham led off with a bingle to centre, and Mr. Wright forced him at second. Mr. Wright advanced to the third hesitating point on Mr. Meyer's lively lunge to right, and Mr. Isaac shot up a high foul along the left field foul line. Mr. Oskee Neale was skulking in the bushes in this neighborhood and he conducted a little ambush for Mr. Isaac's high fly despite the pleadings of the populace to let it go in order to keep Mr. Wright on third base. However, Mr. Neale had a card up his sleeve, and he gathered in the foul and whiffed the pill into Mr. Boyle's eager mitt, with the result that Mr. Wright was out a mile at the platter, and the side was retired. It was a pretty peg on the part of Mr. Neale, and it saved a lot of trouble.

Nothing Doing in the Fifth.

In the fifth, after Behan had been retired, Daniels singled to right, but Mr. Silcox then displayed his class by striking out the next two batters, much to the discomfiture of Mr. Daniels, who was left at the initial station. In the locals' half of this session the aforementioned two hits were pried from Mr. Schuman's offerings, the first hits the local crowd had made.

Then the sixth came, and without it the only tallies of the fracas. Mr. Dunnied off the enemy very gently by poking as slow one in front of the plate, catching Mr. Boyle and Mr. Silcox flat-footed Mr. Needham sacrificed, but Mr. Wright picked out a beauty, and nailed it in a line for the fence in right. However, Mr. Bierbauer was waiting, and, although the ball looked as though it would soar over his head, he pulled it down with one hand after a short run backwards, the pellet landing square in his mitt. It was a pretty piece of work, and was one of the best and most spectacular catches pulled off by Mr. Bierbauer this season. Had the ball got away from him—bit, what's the use of dwelling on something painful? It would have been a some run, at least.

Hit the order, but in the eighth Applegate singled and Dunn fouled out to Boyle. Gilhooley's error gave Needham a life. EDDA MAKES FAST MILE

Won the D. and C. Selling Stake in Fastest Mile Ever Made at Windsor.

Windsor, July 20 .- When the Ninety-first Highlanders' Band of Hamilton, which has entertained racegoers here all week, played "God Save the King" this afternoon, they marked the close of the best-attended and most satisfactory meeting that has ever been held here. The weather and the track have not both been good on the same day once out of the seven, but the sport has been kept up to the highest standard, and all attendance records surpassed.

Today it was showery all afternoon but the rainfall was not heavy enough to affect the track. This was demon-strated in the most egective manner when Edda won the D. and C. Seling Stake in record time for a mile here She caught Helen Barbee just at the she caught neigh barbee just at the finish, after the other mare looked like making a runaway race of it. The time was 1:381-5, which was two-fifths of a second better than the mark made by Plate Glass last year. Helen Barbee was claimed out of the race by R. J. The abrupt ending of the fight was received with ningled cheers and groans. Moran did nearly all of the leading.

Fully half of the time was spent in feinting and racing, Moran being the pursuer. White had the better of only one round, the seventh, when he landed three left swings to Moran's head. Moran was first warned in the fifth round, when a short left hook opened White's lip. The Chicagoan protested that Moran had used his elbow in striking the blow. Twice in subsequent rounds Moran was warned, and each time he protested that he was not

Among the inside spectators there was almost as much difference of opin-ion as at the Wolgast-Rivers decision, many asserting that it was because of White's method of defence in clinches that Moran seemed to be fighting un-fairly. Moran displayed much more cleverness than White, whose sho was disappointing. Moran was a 10 to 7½ favorite at the ringside, with comparatively little White money in sight.

BERLIN WINS TWO. Berlin, July 20.—The Berlin Canadian Leaguers took two close games full of features today from St. Thomas. The score of the first fixture was 9 to , and the second 1 to 0. Pitcher Bradshaw's work in the first game was the feature. He had fifteen strikeouts. In three of the periods the Saints went out by this route. He had one bad period, which came in the seventh. They got four on two passes to first and four hits. The Bees came hack strong in their seventh, batting Pitcher Jacobson from the mound and scoring four runs, which gave them a one-run lead. Nickell, the out-fielder from Saginaw, drove in three of the counters with a two-base drive. In the following period his three-base clout was good for the winning run. Pitcher Bramble, who worked in the second game, in addition to holding the Saints to four hits, batted out a home run, the only score of the game. It was a long drive, going fully thirty feet over the right field fence. The ball smashed a window in a private residence and entered a bedroom on the Pitcher Whitey Bollinger, who was chased out of the box twice this week, was released today. The scores: First Game.

Boston, July 20.—The Red Sox pulled out a ninth-inning victory over Chicago, with Walsh pitching, today, 3 to 2. It was Boston's fourth win of the series. Lewis's single, a passed ball and a sacrifice put Lewis on third, with one out. Stahl, who had knocked out a home-run earlier, and Wagner, who had previously doubled, were passed at Manager Callahan's orders. Carrigan was expected to be an easy out. But he hit the ball cleanly over second base, and the game was won. The score: RED SOX BEAT WHITE SOX.

Contention of Railroads Before Arbitration Commission at New York.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, July 22. — The arbitration commission appointed by the chief justice of the United States supreme court to settle the controversy between the 52 railroads east of Chicago, and their locomotive engineers, over the demands of the men for increased pay, resumed their sessions at Manhattan Beach today.

With the engineers' side of the case completed, the railroads began the production of evidence in support of their morking. claim that the wages and working conditions of the engineers are all that the present conditions will warrant. B. A. Worthington, president of the Chicago and Alton Railway, who is in charge of the case of the railreads, said that he would call general managers, yardmasters and others, to show that the locomotive engineer of today has an easier job than in years gone by. He said that there is a hostler to bring the locomotive out of the roundhouse, inspectors to see that it is in order, mechanics to make the repairs, and competent firemen to assist in operation.

One Million Francs form me as soon as he arrives. I shall not be at home to anyone else with the exception of my nephew, Monsieur Emile, for whom, as you know, I have sent." The butier bowed. "Very good, Monsieur the Count," he said, and withdrew noiselessly. D'Este took up the letter which had so greatly disturbed him, and, placing it in his pocket, arose. As he did so Grace Ellicott came into the room. Grace Ellicott had just passed out of her 'teens, and was a girl of unusual beauty and charm. Slight and graceful, with large dark eyes and great masses of light-brown hair, she repersented all the attraction and charm of a healthy young American girl at her best. One might have evpected to see her youthful face continually wreathed in merry smiles, but this morning such was far from being the case. She showed plainly the effects of unusual mental agitation. In her hand she held a letter. She came up to the Count and handed it to him. "Count D'Este," she exclaimed seriously, "here is a letter which I have just received. Will you please read it?" The Count took the letter, evidently somewhat surprised by her manner, and, putting on his glasses; proceeded to examine its contents. It was written in a faminine hand, and bore neither superscription nor signature. "Do not return to America," it read. "The money which was left you by your aunt you will receive before the end of the month." D'Este looked up with a frown. "What nonsense is this?" he asked irritably. "Whom is this letter from, and why do you show it to me?" "Id on not know whom it is from. I show it to you because it bears out what my aunt told me when she lay dying, that she had left me a large sum of money." "My dear Grace! As I have already told you many times before, I know noth-By Arnold Fredericks

CHAPTER I.

"I want one million francs."

Monsieur the Count Raoul D'Este reread the sentence in the letter which he had received that morning for perhaps the twentieth time, then threw the communication upon the table with an exclamation of anger.

He was sitting in the handsomely-apcointed dining-rocom of his house in the Avenue Victor Hugo. Before him his breakfast, with its tempting omelet, its fluscious strawberries, lay untasted. He polished his glasses, fuming and fussing, then again picked up the letter and examined it with renewed care. It was written on a coarse sheet of paper, without mark of identification of any sort. The contents were typewritten, and the signature, Victor Girard, as well. Whoever had sent him this letter was evidently not at all desirous of disclosing his identity or whereabouts.

Yet the name, Victor Girard, was one that was quite well known to the Count, for he had received a letter of the same sort, signed in the same way, almost every day for the past four weeks. In all of these letters the writer had informed him, with the utmost politeness, and yet in most unmistakable terms, of his desire for one million francs. Why he wanted this sum he did not explain; he merely stated the fact as though it admitted of no discussion. The earlier letters had only announced the writer's desire for money. The later ones informed him that the said Girard would within a short time indicate the method by which the sum was to be paid to him. If the thing was a blackmailing scheme there was no evidence of it in the letters, and so far the writer had made no 'threats which would justify the Count in taking drastic action. All he had done was to ask for the money, in a manner firm but polite.

For a time the Count had been inclined to believe the letters the work of a

There was perhaps another reason why O'Este allowed his wife's niece to remain beneath his roof. The young girl had supposed, at the time of her aunt's death, that the latter had made provision for her in a will. Great was her surprise, therefore, upon being informed by her uncle that no such provision had been made. As a result of this a slight coolmess had sprung up between the two. made. As a result of this a slight cool-ness had sprung up between the two. Grace felt her dependent position keenly —she was sure that in some way she had —she was sure that in some way she had not been treated fairly. The Count, however, had been uniformly agreeable and pleasant, had made her a regular though small allowance, and opposed all her suggestions that she should leave Paris and return to America for the purpose of earning her own living. It would not be proper, he argued, for the niece of his deceased wife to become a working girl. Thus matters had remained, Grace nursing her grievance, the Count assuring that she had none.

ting that she had none.

As he finished telephoning, and returned to his place at the table, his butler came in with a small glass of cognac. The Count drank it off slowly. "Eugene," he said, "Monsieur the Prefect of Police is coming to see me this morning. In-

The Great Joy.

Joy comes to the old folks at home when they see the prosperity and success of their children, but the greatest joy of all is in the consciousness of forgiveness of sin and in the enrichment of a life spent in Christian service. In these will they find their greatest happiness. Old age brings only ballot received for the seven titles which the total vote showed to have been selected. Famous Women. In St. George's Anglican Church last evening, Rev. Canon Sage continued is Sunday night series of sermons on famous women of the Scriptures, choosing the words, "And there was one Anna, a prophetess," as his text. Canon Sage laid stress on the fact that Anna was most consistent in performing her religious duties. "Too many church members relax in their religious devotions during the hot weather, but our religion should not be in-termittent. Do not allow the holiday season to drain dry the stream of your religious life," urged Canon Sage. MAY OUST (ZAR AS CHURCH HEAD

Will Be Made to Set Aside Ancient Law.

Moscow, July 19. - Even the Orthodox Church of Holy Russia is feeling the need for reform. Change is thus in-vading territory hitherto completely dominated by reaction.

In other words, preparations are in progress for an ecumenical council-or universal congress of the Russo-Greek Orthodox Church, Only those acquainted with the inner life of Russia know how deeply this may affect the future of the Czar's subjects, for it will conof the Czar's subjects, to it was sider and diagnose the ills of the church and recommend remedies. Impartial onlookers can see ills by the score, but will the churchmen themselves the score of the churchmen them and he honest selves recognize them and be honest enough to put their fingers on the blemishes? On that depends, to a large extent, the future progress of the Rus-

That there is need for the council and that its gathering is a vast undertaking may be judged from the fact that the Holy Synod preliminary committee has been sitting since March, yet it has only touched the fringe of the arrangement so far. The commit-tee is under the chairmanship of Sergius, archbishop of Finland, one of the few Russian ecclesiastics who combine with piety and learning the rare gift of managing congresses. The committee will draw up a programme for the ecumenical council to work on; and will also decide whether the coun-cil is to debate the greatest of all questions. That is, whether to revive the former Russo-Greek Orthodox Patriarchate, by proclaiming a patriarch to be head of the church — thus deposing from ecclesiastical authority the Orthodox Czar, who at present rules all church affairs through his minister.

The Greatest Problem. In the preliminary committee the most prominent of those taking part are the present Procurator Sabler, a follower of the great persecutor, Pobledonostseff; Archbishop Flavian, the metropolitan of Kieff; Bishop Nikon, of Vologda, and Bishop Eulogius Cholm. They have not yet touched the patriarchate problem and have spent three months on minor questions, such as episcopal court reform and consistorial reorganization.

There is reason for this slowness, for the patriarch question is exciting angry passions. Progressive men, clerangry passions. Frogressive men, clerical and lay, want the patriarchate back. The patriarch will free the church, they say, from deadening bureaucracy and Erastianism. Nicholas II. and the court vacillate. The active Duma Nationalists, under the aggressive M. Krupensky, do not want any patriarch. They are secretly backed by Procurator Sabler, who aims to keep everything as it is.

The Nationalist objection to the patriarchate is quaint. Krupensky recalls the fact that since the Council of Chalcedon in 451 the Patriarch of Constantinople has been recognized as chief of the Greek Church. Now Russia has claims to Constantinople. Therefore, he argues, if she creates a patriarchate of her own, she empha separate existence of Constantinople whereas her proper course is to wait till she can absorb patriarchate and Constantinople together.

The Question of Patriarchate. This question of the patriarchate has livided Russia for 200 years. The orignal Russian Church had only Metropolitans. The patriarchate was started n 1539, reaching the height of its authority in 1652, when the spirited Met-ropolitan of Nikon became patriarch. For fourteen years Nikon showed his For fourteen years Nikon showed his sturdy character and contempt for Training Camp at Wolseley state authority till at last he was de-posed by Czar Alexei Michailovitch. Nikon corrected the Slavonic translation of the Scriptures, thereby causing a schism which exists to this day.

register governmental decrees. For seven years past a movement has been going on in favor of church emancipation. It began with the revolution of 1904-6. A majority of a synod commission in 1906 then voted for the restoration of the patriarchate, declaring that the Metropolitan of St. Petersburg should always also be patriarch. A commission actually sat for six WAS POSTPONED A commission, actuary sat for six months and filled four solid tomes with arguments; but nothing happened. THE SCHEME THAT FAILED Ottawa, July 21.-The Governor-in-Council has declined to interfere with the sentence of death imposed upon Samuel Wilinsky, a Pole, at MacLeod, Alberta. Wilinsky was condemned to hang on July 25 for the murder of a fellow-countryman. The prisoner in the shooting wounded himself in the hand and his explanation of the wound was that he had fallen and sustained the injury in that way. To support this explanation he detached a splinter from the woodwork in his cell and put it into the wound. The splinter when discovered was compared with a fresh break in the cell woodwork and found to fit. Half a dozen

THE WORLD'S WORK DEPENDS ON THE WORLD'S DIGESTION

From the captain of industry to the hod carrier—from milady in the auto to the woman with the scrubbing brush the accomplishments of every one of us depend absolutely on the accomplishments of our stomachs. Backed by a good digestion, a man can give the best that is in him. When his stomach fails, he becomes a weakling.

To this loss of power no one need submit. Right habits of eating, drinking, sleeping and exercise, aided by Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, will restore and maintain the full efficiency of the human mind and body. Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets contain the active principles needed for the digestion of every kind of food. They go to the assistance of the weakened stomach, and enable the sufferer, right from the start, to assimilate and get the benefit of the food eaten. With this assistance, the digestive organs regain their tone, and soon the use of the tablets is no longer necessary.

If your stomach is not working properly, try Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets.

Athletics' Scout Would Like To Be

League, this morning that a special meeting of the league is to be held in Hamilton Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and that a representative from octock, and that a representative from each club should attend. Although the message did not mention the order of business to be discussed, the local directors are of the opinion that some of the smaller clubs are after a division of the grandstand receipts as well as the gate receipts. At present the home team do not divide anything but the gate money. The rule now in force is that the visiting club will receive percentage of the gate receipts, while he grandstand receipts go to the home team. Some of the weaker clubs are inding it hard to get along on such a division, and they are now after a percentage of the grandstand money.

Monte Cross Writes.

President Stevely has also received n application from Monte Cross, the ormer Philadelphia Ataletic star third baseman, who is now a scout for the team. Monte wants to come to London and manage the team, but as a manager has already been engaged there is no chance for Monte just now. He is at present scouting for Connie Mack's team. Mr. E. G. For Sunday Concerts.

A box has been placed in the office of Mr. E. Ruse, Grand Trunk city pas-senger agent, for the reception of contributions toward the Sunday band concert fund. The sum of $125 is required to carry out the series of concerts for the season, and Mrs. Dr. Kingsmill is anxious that all shall have an opportunity of contributing. Next Sunday night Mrs. Kingsmill will sing two numbers in Victoria Park, and the Hussars Band will render an exceptionally fine pro-

McMahen—Tambling.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Tambling, 371 King street, a quiet wedding took place on Wednesday, July 17, when their youngest daughter, Miss Fleda, became the bride of Mr. Archibald Thornton McMahen, only son of the late Adam Thornton McMahen and Mrs. McMahen, of this city. Rev. Beverley Kitchen, M. A., brother-in-law of the groom, performed the ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives when presence of immediate relatives only. A buffet luncheon was then served, after which Mr. and Mrs. McMahen left for a two-months' trip to England and the continent.

Boy Scouts Return.

The party of Boy Scouts, who have been camping for the past two weeks at Port Stanley, returned to the city on Saturday afternoon by the Traction Line. Scoutmaster W. Brady, of the Ninth London Troop, who was in command at the camp, reported that the general health of the boys had been good, and that there had only been one or two minor cases of illness. The boys attracted some attention on their trip to Port, when they marched the whole distance in three days. A splendid time was had by every one, and most likely the camp will become an annual affair.

JOHN THOS. COLTON DEAD

Wat at One Time Principal of St. George's School.

Mr. John Thomas Colton, formerly of this city, who died in Winnipeg early Sunday morning, was a brother of Mrs. J. C. MacAuley, 169 John street. He was well known in this city some years ago, having been vice-principal of the old union school, and principal of St. George's school for some time. He left London to take a position in the railway mail service in the west, and afterwards entered the postoffice in Winnipeg, where he was employed at the time of his death. He was 58 years of age, and is survived by his widow.

Police.

[Canadian Press.] New York, July 22 .- The Rosenthal case nears its solution. That is the belief of Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty, who expects today to arrest two or three gun men and gangsters who were hired to shoot and kill Herman Rosenthal before the gambler could disclose more secrets of the connection between the gambler and the police. Grilled by a fierce third degree, Jack Sullivan, a former newsboy, held as a greatly appreciated by them. material witness, and Sam Paul, the Two welcome guests on the Detectives have learned enough of the case to admit that the gunmen were gathered together on Monday night at Webber's poker rooms, where the final arrangements for the killing of Rosenthal were perfected. Webber denies all knowledge of the shooting. Plans to kill Rosenthal were laid on the excursion trip of the Sam Paul Association. Rosenthal had been talk-ing too much. Some well-known gunmen and blackjackers were along on that excursion.

Killing Ordered.

It was the next day that Rosenthal threatened to tell more about how the police grafted on the gambler and gambling houses that the word was passed around that Rosenthal must be made away with. Police Commissioner Dougherty has found out that "Bald Jack" Rose was a very busy man that day, and that Jack Sullivan, the go-between for Rose and Police Lieut. Becker, was also actively engaged the night Rosenthal was shot. Sullivan, after a grilling tosay whether there was any connection day, told Commissioner Dougherty that between the determination not to have when he left Lieut. Becker at Broadway and Forty-Second street at 1:30 a.m., or 27 minutes before Rosenthal low the defence a copy of Tveitmoe's was shot, he went to "Bridge" Webtestimony before the February grand ber's place to find Sam Paul. He could ber's place to find Sam Paul. He could not locate him, but did find there several gunmen. Six in Custody. Six men are now in custody in the Rosenthal case, one of whom is held as a material witness, and five others charged with being implicated in the crime. Oddly enough Commissioner Dougherty says that not one of the men who killed the gambler is under arrest. District Attorney Whitman return ed to the city today to take up the work with the grand jury in investi-gating the Rosenthal case. Lieut. Becker will be permitted to testify be-fore the grand jury provided he agrees to waive all immunity. The public prosecutor makes no effort to hide his belief that the shadow of Becker rests upon the Rosenthal case, and in consequence will not subpoena him. Whit-man takes the position that if Becker is as innocent as he says he is, he will

He was subject to fits and she had been given a certificate to this effect from a Chicago doctor, who had examined him after he injured his head in Chicago. She admitted that he had been peculiar for some time, but as a rule she could see when the fits were coming on and calm him in time. During the past three months the insane fits were of greater fre-quency. She admitted ignorance of his possession of the revolver when coroner asked her how she could allow him to carry a weapon about knowing his condition. The jury found Shep-pard shot and killed McKenna. The body of the deceased bartender was taken to Hamilton, Ont., on Saturday night for interment. McKenna was an old Hamilton boy. He was head wine clerk in the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, at
