ORONTO HEARS MORE TALK OF A STRIKE SETTLEMENT A CONFERENCE RUMORED

Visit of President Lee and His Actions in Queen City Are Looked Upon as Very Significant— Strike Leader Goes to Montreal to See Vice-President Murdock—A Size-Up of Situation to Date.

Nothing has been heard at the local Grand Trunk offices regarding a settlement of the strike. A persistent rumor from To-ronto to the effect that an agreement had been reached is in cir-

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, July 27.-The visit of W. M. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and A. B. Garretson, of the Order of Railway Conductors, seems to have changed the entire situation regarding the strike. Persistent rumors of an approaching settlement are in circulation.

The fact that both these leaders visited Toronto and discussed the situation with the leaders here, attended a secret session of the strikers, and then went to Montreal to consult with Vice-President Murdock, is regarded

It is generally agreed here that despite all the reports to the contrary, there will be a conference with President Charles M. Hays, and if there is, a settlement of some kind will be reached before many hours.

When the strike was declared it was supposed that the local leaders were strong enough to carry the fight to a successful issue and there was no intention of calling upon the leaders in the United States, because of the feeling in Canada that they should not interfere with Canadian affairs,

The progress made since the strike was declared has been anything but satisfactory, it is said, and it is understood that the men themselves demanded the presence of the heads of the order. It was even intimated today that if the trainmen did not reach a settlement, it would certainly be made for the conductors who are the greatest losers by the fight.

The conductors are in the minority and when the strike vote was taken the trainmen out-voted the older men.

New York, July 27.—Recent dispatches to the Herald from its Havana correspondent have reported unrest in the island. Under date of Sunday, it was cabled that there was great excitement in Santiago Province on account of the imminence of an insurrection. The disappearance of General Miniel and Colonel Janet was noted, the suspicion being prevalent that they had departed in accordance with a plan to meet at some agreed-upon place and begin revolutionary opera-

A recent political meet in Santiago in mysterious circumstances, attended by Generals Rabi and Cebrego, of revolutionary fame, as well as a representative from General Menocal, the defeated presidential candidate, caused much comment. That, with the increase in the cost of education, had run the tax rate up to an excessive height. I asked the board of works to go slow. I wanted them to put down only such work as was absolutely necessary. I thought it only right that we should catch up with the tax rate, and put the city in a stronger financial position. Instead of doing this they went headlong into this matter, and petition after petition was passed, arriving at such a stage that the high-water mark was reached. [Toronto Globe Correspondent.] St. Thomas, July 27.—During this tour I find an indication of a new and growing interest in and content with Ontario. Bad reports in newspapers and in private correspondence of crop conditions elsewhere, have assuaged the fever for a change, and the Ontario farmer has had time to look over his own fields with an unprejudiced mind, and to say of what he sees there, "Behold, it is good." Without a single exception on farms in all the Lake Erie counties wherever I have visited the same tale of bountiful crops has been unfolded to me, "Never petter" are two brave words to say regarding crops in this province, and yet that is what all I have heard since

Canada's present railway mileage is more than sufficient to belt the globe with a single track line and leave 136 miles to double-track part of it. In 1837 we had sixteen miles of railways, and we were content with this until 1847, when our total reached 54 miles. At Confederation in 1867, we had 2.287 miles: in 1885, when the Northwest rebellion took place, we

Her real name is Gracia Clere. Eight years ago Madame Melba, the great Australian prima donna, heard her sing, and advised her to go to Europe to study. She went, took an Italian name, as singers must do in order to get any attention from the patrons of grand opera, and became a real prima donna. After a successful season in Italy she went to England. There she recently made a big hit, singing at the Alhambra in London.

That, of course, was how she felt, and I had almost found a different meaning in the matter. She might see the meaning I was taking, and if so, how could she do else than ask me to go. I heard him clearly, but made no special answer to his words. Had Karl been telling him what he suspected? Or did Karl suspect anything? What was it that made me turn each and every resumark to the feelings of my heart?

A dim oil lamp flickered in the street light, and before selecting a door upon which to knock, I moved under it to ascertain the hour. CHAPTER XIII.

Kurlmurt and Karl drove back with me to the city, and we got down at the palace. As it was some time before the dinner hour at which the two were to join me, I decided to take a stroll through the city before going back to the inn. So I set off on foot, down one of the wide avenues leading from the square.

As I walked on I had much to occupy my mind. I had undoubtedly been more than indiscreet, and blamed myself for it. And yet I thought with no small pleasure of the princess's concern for my safety. I had resolved to be more guarded in my words thereafter, but for all that there could be no harm if I regaled myself with the thought of her concern. If she cared not what happened to me she cared not for me. Then if she cared what happened to me, she—anxiety.

If my sister and her husband had at that moment stood on the curb and looked me over, I should have passed them by, so engrossed was I with my reasoning. First, I had done right in speaking as I did, because she showed concern for me, and doing that she cared for me; and then—well—no man cares to say how much he decries himself or how great a fool he thinks he's been.

The fact was that I walked on, going over the thing in my mind, unheeding where I went. At last I began to realize it was growing dusk and that I was in a street unknown to me. Not liking to ask my way, but sure I would soon see a familiar landmark, I walked on and on. The houses became less pretentious, and soon I was treading narrow streets ill lighted with un-even pavements. I grew stubborn as I went on. I had said I would find my way unaided and I had a mind to do so still.

The passersby grew scarce and I could ask no one, if I would, for no one seemed to be about. The smell of poor cooking came to my nostrils, and I suddenly remembered my engagement for dinner.

Kurlmurt and Karl were undoubtedly awaiting me at the inn and I felt I should not keep them learner.

WAS "LAURIER DAY" IN HUMBOLDT SASK.

Bustling Town of About 1,500 Inhabitants—Premier a Welcome Guest.

Humboldt, Sask., July 25.—Two large caravan wagons, each drawn by four horses, carrying a family of five and aousehold effects, wended off the prairie into Humboldt yesterday. Tents were pitched and preparations made for a permanent abode. When the wagons entered the town they were decorated with the Stars and Stripes. When the location was determined the foreign bunting was immediately and spontaneously removed, and the Union Jack hoisted over the tents. This incident is typical of the spirit prevailing among the American settlers in the Canadian West.

Replying, he expressed appreciation and complimented the community on the growth of industry and prospects. The town designated the occasion "Laurier Day," and was en fete. The Premier and party were given automobile rides and driven to the exhibition grounds, where a programme of sports, equine and athletic, was carried out, with four bands in attendance

A great meeting was held in the Arena at night. The Grain Growers' Association, representing five districts, presented a memorial through Mr. Henry M. # Trophy Races Narrowing Down in W.O.B.A. Tourney

SIXTEEN RINKS

Close of Day Found the Labatt Trophy Field at W. O. B. A. Tourney Depleted.

LOSERS REMAIN HERE

Some of the Trundlers Have Been Put Out of All Events, but Are Waiting Till Thursday.

The Labatt trophy competition settled down last night to sixteen rinks, every one of them of the first calibre. The morning games were started late, and it was well into the evening when some of them were finished. As a result there were no games in the afternoon, the Association and Consolation matches dividing the interest of the bowlers.

As would be expected, the bowling was excellent, worthy of the best traditions of the W. O. B. A. The walkovers were few and far between. Some of the scores appear somewhat one-sided, but the nowling was of such a high quality that most instances all thought of the size the score was lost sight of. Sixteen Rinks Remain.

Sixteen Rinks Remain.

The sixteen rinks remaining are: Chambers, Aylmer; W. J. Heaman, Exeter: Armight, of Paris: Wiley, of Brantford: Dunbar, of Gueloh; Hoover, of Clinton; Wheeler, St. Thomas: Bert Lind, London: Lochead, London: Willison, Toronto Canadas: McCurdy, Stratford: Billy Euler, Berlin: Eddie Seagram, Waterloo; Bert Heaman, London: Birss, of Brampton, and Hafre, of Paris: It will thus be seen that London has three rinks, Paris has two, and Aylmer, Exeter, Brantford, Guelph, Clinton, St. Thomas, Toronto, Stratford, Berlin, Waterloo and Bramp-Guelph, Clinton, St. Thomas, Toronto, Stratford, Berlin, Waterloo and Brampton one each.

The honors are widely distributed enough, and it is not likely that the finals will be between London rinks, as was the case last year. Such a thing is possible, but not probable. Finals On Thursday.

With such a galaxy of star players, the finals, which will be played on Thursday on, weather permitting, will be afternoon, weather permitting, will be well worth witnessing.

Among the fallen of the afternoon were Jimmy McDougall's big four, who went down to defeat to Dr. Wiley's famous four. It was a grand game, and was witnessed by not a small gallery.

Brer Willison's four had a somewhat easy time with Govenlock's Thistles. The latter played fine hows, but the Canadas latter played fine bowls, but the Canadas were in excellent trim, and went ahead surely and strong.

Some Bowling Heroes.

Of the sixteen rinks, four at least have reached the finals in the W. O. B. A. Eddie Seagram and Dr. Wiley have each won the trophy. Tommy McCurdy played in the finals against Seagram and lost. John Lochead has twice been in the finals, each time going down to defeat, once to Jim McDougall and later to Charlie Abbott. Both McCurdy and Euler have won the O. B. A., while Bert Heaman has been runner-up. Mr. Willison has also skipped the O. B. A. winners. Armitage won the Tecumseh last year, and with Holysmoke playing third has a rink that must be reckoned with. has a rink that must be reckoned with. The others are sterling bowlers, who have won their present positions by straight bowling and no flukes.

received the three defeats necessary to put them out of business. Some have departed, but the majority are remaining until the finals of the big trophy.

Be systematic if you are determined to develop the saving habit. Here are several plans which may help you to save money and get ahead financially:

Make an allowance for each class of expenses, and then plan to save something on each allowance. Make it a rule to set aside a certain per cent of your income on pay day.
