OVERHEAD WIRES ARE DANGER TO FIREMEN

One Man Shocked—Removal of Lines Approved by Chief.

One of the questions arising at the firehall now is "When are the city officials going to put electric wires underground?" The firemen complain that it is a dangerous occurrence for them to get heavy shocks from the various hydro lines throughout the city.

One of the men told of being shocked and rendered practically helpless on the aerial ladder at a big fire. The saving of his life was due to a ladder belt he was wearing.

The chief, although he does not approve of the overhead wires, refused to say anything other than that he would be glad if the city would do away with them, as it is bound to cause serious trouble, which will cost the city a large amount of money.

It was suggested by several of the men and approved by the chief that one of the hydro lines should travel with the department when there is a fire of any importance, with orders to cut all lines leading to the burning building, as well as those on the street directly in front of the fire. This, the men claim, would facilitate the work of fire-fighting, as well as eliminate the danger of electrocution.

PLANS OF HOUSES SENT TO PROVINCIAL BODY Block plans of houses which R. H. Smith willing to build for $3,350 each including the price of the lot, will be sent to the provincial housing commission for approval. The matter was considered by the local commission at its regular meeting Thursday night.

Mr. Smith stated he would build five such houses, that he claimed that these could be sold immediately if the commission would advance the money to the person willing to buy them. The property is in West London. W. Dodd submitted plans of houses to be built in East London, which would cost $2,080, but which would not have furnaces. No definite action was taken in regard to these.

NUXATED IRON

A DRIVING FORCE

BEHIND KEEN SUCCESSFUL MEN AND WOMEN

When you think of the successful men and women you know—people who are doing things worth while—you will find that they possess force, vim and energy—the kind that simply brim over when the blood is filled with iron. Nuxated Iron, by enriching the blood and creating new red blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the weakened tissues, and helps to instill renewed force and energy into the whole system. Three million people use it annually as a tonic, strength and blood builder.

MAKE THIS TEST

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired; next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again, and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have most astonishingly increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form.

COURT'S JUDGMENT ON MARRIAGE LAWS IN QUEBEC IS AWAITED

Important Ruling To Be Delivered by Mr. Justice Bruneau.

Montreal, May 28.—An important judgment, dealing with the marriage laws of Quebec and the extent to which ecclesiastical annulments can govern civil cases, will be delivered by Mr. Justice Bruneau tomorrow on the petition of Simon Kaplan, a priest of the tribe of Levi, who asks for the quashing of his marriage to Bessie Goldstein, on the ground that she was a divorced woman. According to the rules of the Hebrew Church, a priest of the tribe of Levi cannot marry a divorced woman.

The decision of Judge Bruneau is awaited with great interest, in view of the fact that the Tremblay-Deputie case, in which the marriage of a cousin with a dispensation was annulled first by the ecclesiastical authorities and afterwards by the courts, comes up before the Privy Council next month. The hearing on appeal was postponed during the war.

MUCH PAVING WORK BEING ACCOMPLISHED

Improved Labor Conditions Reason Given by the City Engineer.

Improved labor conditions are responsible for the remarkable progress of paving this year, City Engineer Barker said today. Favorable weather is another factor.

Two full-sized paving gangs are at work here today. It was difficult to maintain one complete gang. The purchase of a steam shovel has made it possible to do ahead with excavating and grading at a rate that would require many more men, and the remainder of the labor has been available for doing concrete work.

Twice as much work has been done as was completed at this time last year.

PARDEE HIT HARD.

Mr. Fred Pardee, member for West Lambton, laid his finger on the weaknesses of the Drayton taxation plan in an illuminating speech in the Commons on Wednesday. The Drayton budget was in bad odor that day, for two members who have supported the Government in the past declared that they could not follow its leadership in this matter, and announced that they would vote for the Opposition amendment. Mr. Pardee's speech was the feature of the sitting and it will take all the ingenuity of the ministers to answer the arguments that he presented against their plan of raising money. What Mr. Pardee made especially clear was that under the term "luxury tax" the administration is simply camouflaging.
On actual luxuries there is a minimum of tax, while the burden really falls on the necessities of life, on the food, the clothing, the things most widely consumed. The result of this is certain—the cost of living will go still higher and the Government itself becomes an agent contributing to the vicious round that is being played.

Mr. Pardee made a telling point in pointing out the large profits made by the high-protected textile industries of the country and the low wages that they pay to their army of employees. Profits running to more than 25 per cent are being made by firms paying as low average annual wages as $538.23. Commenting on such an industry Mr. Pardee said:

"It pays enormous dividends to its shareholders, but the employees receive scarcely a living wage under conditions as they are today. I have often heard protection held up as the one thing that protects the workman and gives him good wages, but here we have startling examples of what protection does not do."

If further proof were needed of the way in which the Unionist Government is owned body and soul by the protected interests of this country significant evidence is furnished by the way in which the new taxes are going to add still further to the profits of the people who evidently dictated the scheme. By yet more effectually shutting out all foreign competition the interests are endeavoring to get the Canadian market completely in their own hands.
The taxes that must be paid in order to bring about this monopoly of trade are to be paid, not by the protected manufacturers, but by the consumer, and there is not much that he buys today that does not pay a tax of some sort.
The Government might at least have avoided hypocrisy in talking of luxury taxes where such do not exist. Deft shifting about of the old war tax and the imposition in its place of the so-called excise makes it look as if there were efforts to check extravagance. Five dollars added on to the price of a fifty dollar suit—and what sort of suit can be had at less than fifty—means that extra burden to the workman already finding it hard to make his wage cover his outlay. The sport, however, who pays one hundred dollars for his outfit cares nothing at all for the extra ten. He is not going to be deterred from having what his fancy dictates by the interposition of a ten dollar bill. So all along the line the one who is to be goat, as so often in the past, is the poorer consumer who already pays heavy taxes on all his necessities and must now pay yet more.

The Unionist Government will jam through this monstrosity of taxation, but not before the Liberal members, backed by the insurgents from the Government's ranks, have had a chance to set the facts before the country. A clear business-like speech of the type delivered by Mr. Pardee will be far more influence in the country than the deliberate attempt of Hon.
Arthur Meighen to conceal in a mass of verbiage the real sting of the bill. The Government will yet find that the people of this country are not deceived in the character of the new taxes that have been laid upon them and their indignation will be shown in due time.

THE STREET RAILWAY.

For the present at least there appears to be no way out of the street railway middle other than that taken by Mayor Little and the city council in granting increased fares. The railway board made it clear that the company could not pay its men the increased wages from its present revenue. Had the council refused to accept the board's finding the inevitable result would have been another strike, with considerable disruption of business, inconvenience to citizens and the extending of a bitterness that is unhealthy for the city. That the company has evaded many of its obligations, at times refused to live up to its contract, is undoubtedly true, but that is aside from the immediate issue. The alternative to the council's decision was sufficiently serious to justify its action. It remains for that body to see that the matter is placed before the people as early as possible, and that whatever arrangement is made for the interval shall insure the public the fullest protection.

THE CAVELL MONUMENT.

The witty philosopher, Mr. Clutton-Brock, writes in "The New Statesman" criticizing the monument recently erected in London, England, to the memory of Nurse Cavell. Inscribed above her figure are the words "For King and Country." But, says Mr. Clutton-Brock, she said "Patriotism is not enough," meaning that she died for mankind. So, not to speak of other faults in the monument, the inscription is provincial or insular.

The memorialists disagree with Nurse Cavell.
They contradict her, that patriotism is enough.
Patriotism is a splendid and necessary thing, but when her own words are kept in mind, the inscription does sound petty. It is like putting over a Canadian soldier's grave, "For Ontario," or "For Richmond street, London."

"For King and Country" has a seventeenth century Tory sound about it. "Kentish Sir Byng stood for his king, bidding the crop-headed Parliament swing," and so on. "Pro patria" is the simple Roman phrase, marble language, noble and sincere, which carved on the Cavell monument might have allowed, from the universal character of the Latin language, the interpretation that the martyr's "patria" was Humanity. No kingly about "pro patria"! In "king and country" there is perhaps a smack of what continental Europeans call hypocritical in the British. In the seventeenth century it had a literal meaning, now it is figurative and alliterative. The phrase is still heroic, but has the "appearance of evil," which the Apostle Paul said was to be avoided. It has something of the pompous tone of the old-world Tory country squire and parson. Nurse Cavell was simplicity itself.

THE SYNDICALISTS.

"Highbrow Bolshevism" is a name that in the past has with a certain degree of aptness been applied to the syndicalist philosophy and movement. So long as Syndicalism confined its activity to parlor propaganda and claimed only the allegiance of a few fanciful economists, the general public, including the labor movement, took little notice of it. Now on top of the failure of the general strike in France, attributed to antipathy on the part of the great masses of the workers to so-called "red" doctrines and "red" methods of social warfare, comes an intimation that Syndicalism, which had fairly well permeated the officialdom of the French labor unions, is to be openly made the subject of a discussion or investigation in the French Chamber of Deputies. Now the rest of the world wants to know what Syndicalism really is.

Although vastly more anarchistic than socialistic, syndicalism is vaguely associated in the popular mind with socialism. Distinctions and differences may perhaps be most plainly put by simple and therefore necessarily superficial definitions.

State socialism is a scheme of organized society aiming at state ownership, operation and control of all industry, premises and tools of production, and means of distribution. State socialism would give every man a government job.

Radical socialism aims at practically the same thing, but with an inherited cross blend of anarchistic temperament, shudders at the very name of the state, and substitutes working-class collective ownership, control and operation of the resources, means and tools of production and distribution.

Guild socialism stands for collective or state ownership of means, resources and tools of production, but argues that the "guilds" or unions of workers in each industry should control and operate that industry and have first claim to the profits or fruits of their own production.

Syndicalism would go one step farther and burn the mortgage or lease representing the loan of an industry and equipment to the workers' guild. The workers in an industry would own it outright, operate it and distribute its products to suit themselves.

Syndicalism claims to admit of greater efficiency in production than socialism, and contends that the workers would naturally select their most proficient and experienced craftsmen to be their nominal managers.

"The railways to the railway workers, the factories to the factory-workers, the farms to the farm laborers," is a syndicalistic slogan.
Syndicalism would brook no political interference, because it would abolish politics entirely.
It would not appoint a postmaster-general who had never worked in a postoffice, or a lawyer to be chief director of agriculture.

Its near relative Guild socialism has made considerable progress in England, and in the United States much syndicalist propaganda has been spread through the communistic anarchist circles. Syndicalists, unlike orthodox socialists, are opportunistic and work freely with other "reds," such as the anarchists, communists and industrial unionists. In theory with reservations, and in practice more or less freely, it justifies sabotage and believes in the general strike.

It is a destroying element, a body that would take what it wants by force. France's effort to curb or crush syndicalism will be closely watched by the rest of the world.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The hand that "shakes" the cradle rocks the world.

Sugar dealers say that "while prices may be increased slightly, there is no prospect of an actual sugar famine, nor undue cause for excitement." So the supply is all right, but still prices go up. Similarly we hear from Washington that the farthest supply of raw sugar ever known exists at present in the United States, but prices are selling up. Supply and demand is NOT the whole thing.

From Here and There

A TRUTH WORTH KNOWING.

Corra Harris says: "A woman who is in the right and knows it can afford to be amiable, patient, and at the same time the most exasperating person on earth."

RUSSIA'S NATURAL WEALTH.

As the new experiment works itself out, there will emerge the larger question of the undeveloped resources of Russia, says John Ford, in Asia Magazine. The world knows more about these than it did, but the general impression is a vague conception of vastness, without much detailed knowledge. Even the Russia that will emerge from the throes of civil war, and the perils of foreign aggression will be the largest connected state in the world, easily fitted to become the foremost state of the world in population, in agriculture, forestry, mineral and industrial production, and therefore in wealth.
In European Russia alone there are 550,000,000 acres of forests, which may easily enable her to organize the largest timber and wood working industries in the world, and the largest paper-making industry as well. These are very largely in North Russia and Northern Siberia, but farther south Russia produces immense quantities of wheat, rye, oats, barley, beet root, mangel, rape, hemp, flax, apples, pears, plums, cherries and other orchard and garden fruits.
Still farther south there is an abundance of maize, rice, cotton, jute, tobacco, tea, almonds, pistachios, pomegranates, oranges, apricots and grapes. Russia's food production per acre has been extremely low, because the great majority of the peasants merely scratch the ground and are entirely ignorant of scientific fertilization. It has been asserted that Russia's production could be doubled and trebled without extending her agricultural area, merely by improving the methods of cultivation.

HIGHER GOOD.

[Hamilton Spectator.]
In the harassing complexities of modern existence one sometimes is apt to doubt the reality of the vaunted benefits of civilization. It seems all hurry and bustle and struggle, leading nowhere, and the ideal of the primitive pastoral life is very appealing. Rousseau thought that we were over-sophisticated; Lenin and Trotsky think so—or, at least, thought so—too. But what artisan of today, with his comfortable, up-to-date home, and all its amenities, would want to go back to the Stone Age?
The trouble is, not that we are over-sophisticated, but that we are not sophisticated enough. The higher life has to be still more enjoyed than it is by the great body of humanity. To destroy that higher life is to begin at the wrong end. The "proletariat" must be gradually worked up to it. And the process must, in the nature of things, be gradual.
The knowledge which has been accumulating through the centuries, and is available for use today, is only accessible to the patient toiler, willing to devote his time and talents to its acquisition and its enlargement. A theory of government which confines all power and authority and rewards to the manual workers is bound, sooner or later, to lead to the extinction of the great advantages which we enjoy today. It is obvious—so obvious that even the Bolsheviks are beginning to see it.

MORE AND MORE "RAW."

[Buffalo Courier.]
The one thing about sugar that is not refined is the price, and that becomes more and more "raw."

THE WAGES OF WOMEN.

[Saskatoon Phoenix.]
Hon. John Milne, Tory senator, wealthy manufacturer, and director of a number of concerns, is firmly of the opinion that women are being paid too much, and is quite convinced that a woman can support herself in comparative comfort on $11 a week. Senator Milne is a brave man; it requires some courage, of a kind, to get up and make a statement like that in these days, when women are being admitted to the higher education and qualifying for positions that were once the exclusive prerogative of proud men. Besides, look at what women did in the war, when they took man's place in the factory, on the farm, and in practically all the multitudinous lines of human endeavor. There is a consensus of opinion that they "made good"; at any rate, they kept things going, and kept the fighting men supplied with all requirements. It is, perhaps, to be regretted that it took a war to bring recognition of the fact that the capacity to work with brain and hand is not the exclusive property of the male but now that it has been conclusively demonstrated, Senator Milne would have been better advised to leave the Canada alone. Women are finding a place for their capacities in every sphere of human activity, and a million Senator Milnes will not turn them back. And like men they are entitled to the same value of their services in whatever occupation they engage. No employer is bound to engage them if he does not feel that he is getting value for the wages paid. There is just the same necessity confronting the employer in the matter of employing women as in employing men.
Some men may not be worth more than $11 a week, but nowadays that is not accepted as a reason for paying starvation wages.

"LONG LIVE KING AND EMPIRE."

[La Presse.]
The year 1920 finds the British Empire actively engaged in the work of healing the wounds caused by the recent war. Will our Mother Country succeed in passing through the crisis with all her power and prestige unimpaired? Yes, if the heads of the nation adhere to those principles upon which the strength and grandeur of the United Kingdom was built. History teaches us that people who become too powerful are apt to forget the political maxims which guided them as their influence increased and their territory extended. Each and every time forgetfulness of that kind was the cause of the decline and fall of those peoples. Their downfall was as remarkable as had been their elevation. The British Empire has grown and prospered because its leaders understood the importance and the necessity of government of the people, by the people and for the people. They have been willing that in every part of the Empire the citizens should enjoy the greatest sum of liberty possible. They have made it that everybody is proud and happy to live under the protection of the Union Jack. That wise policy has had the best of results, so that today we can say that no country in the world is stronger or more influential than Great Britain. On this day of celebration (Empire Day) full homage is extended to the firm and solid throne of him who incarnates in his person the prestige of the British Empire—his Majesty King George V., our beloved King now reigning. We all share the joy of belonging to so prosperous a nation. In the Mother Country and in all her dominions the same sentiment of pride animates the hearts and minds to the knowledge of the glorious exploits that have been accomplished and the international sovereignty attained.
And Canada can flatter herself upon having largely contributed, on this side of the Atlantic, to the prosperity of the British Empire. Left free to choose the means and to employ the methods she judged best to assure the triumph of the common cause, our country has proved that she was worthy of the confidence placed in her. There certainly remains a great deal of work still to do, but we are a young and energetic people, and final success cannot be doubted. Let us hope that the British Empire will continue to play in the world the brilliant part that she has assumed. In intimate union with her noble neighbor, La France, the Empire is prepared to do great things for the peace and happiness of humanity. With one united voice, let us all say: "Long live the British Empire!
Long live our King!"

STREET LAMPS.

[John Galsworthy.]
Lamps, lamps! Lamps everywhere!
You wistful, gay and burning eyes,
You stars low-driven from the skies Down on the rainy air.

You merchant eyes, that never tire
Of spying out our little ways;
Of summing up our little days
In ledgers of fire.

Insatiable your nightly glance,
Your lighting and your snuffing out,
You flicker through the windy rout, Guiding this mazy dance.

O watchful, troubled gaze of gold, Protecting us upon our beds—
You piteous glamour of the streets, Youthless, and never old!

When the oaken woods with buds are

And new-come birds each morning

When flocks May on summer's brink, Pause, and know not which to Whether fresh bud and bloom again, Or hoar-frost silvering hill and plain—Then from the hushful grey,

The oriole with experienced quest Twines the fibrous bark away,
The cordage of his hammock-nest, Cheering his labor with a note Rich as the orange of his throat.

High o'er the loud and dusty road
The soft grey cup in safety swings, To brim ere Aurora with its load Of downy breasts and throbbing wings,
O'er which the friendly elm tree
An emerald roof with sculptured eaves.

THE LITERARY DIGEST'S national presidential poll of 11,000,000 voters is now in its seventh week, and the results are of more than usual interest, as the date for the Republican National Convention approaches. More than a million and a half votes have been counted up to date, and they sound the depths of political feeling in every part of the nation. The votes, state by state, of thirty-five candidates, are tabulated in this week's DIGEST. In scanning this tabulation it is noticeable that since the Southern states have become more adequately represented in the balloting, the disproportion between the total number of declared Republican and Democratic voters is not so great.

Don't miss reading THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, May 29th, not only because of the article showing how more than one million and a half voters have declared their choices for the Presidential nomination, but for the additional satisfaction you will derive from reading these articles:

Liberals Balk Attempt of Borden To Jam Legislation Through After Long Idling

Opposition Refuses To Allow Premier To Start Usual Tactics of Holding Extra Sittings To Sneak Bills
Through Worn-out House, After Dawdling For Months.

[Special to The Advertiser.] OTTAWA, May 27.—The ancient and time-worn tactics of the Borden Government to dawdle through a session until hot weather sets in and thereafter to call for morning and Saturday sittings so that doubtful estimates and contentious legislation can be jammed through a wearied House, were balked this afternoon.

For the past several sessions this policy has been adopted; this afternoon Sir Robert Borden announced and moved a resolution to the effect that starting next Saturday the House should sit on that day as on other days, and starting on Tuesday there should be morning sittings.

The premier's chief justification for his motion was that the members "wanted to get home to their private affairs." Before the debate on the motion was finished, however, it had been made clear to him that there were members in the House who desired that, before they went home to their private affairs, the business of the country, which they had been sent here to transact, should be given proper and adequate consideration, and important measures, and heavy estimates should be subjected to full and thorough discussion. The motion was strongly opposed by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, in the course of whose speech which was applauded loudly by his followers, and Premier Borden was constrained ultimately to withdraw the resolution for the present.

Session Called Late.
The leader of the Opposition pointed out that in the first place the session had been called late; that the budget, which was one of the most important terms of the session, had only been announced nine days ago; that there was still a long list of unknown bills on the order paper; that the franchise act had not yet been disposed of; that the bulk of the estimates were still to be considered; and that the greater portion of the time of the session had been taken up in consideration of amendments to the ill-considered and hastily drawn legislation of past sessions.

It was absolutely impossible to give proper consideration to the unfinished business with members sitting six days a week, morning, afternoon and evening. It might be a hardship to members to devote such a lengthy portion of the year to public business, and there were those who considered the sessional indemnity as inadequate to meet present needs, but the duty

Fifth To Be Placed On

ARE FAST AND ELABORATE

Agent in Transaction Stipulates For Delivery of Vessels in Scandinavian Waters.

New York, May 27.—W.W. household furnishings of the Kaiser already on the auction block, the marine part of the former German emperor's establishment is in the market for a new owner. Residing, apparently, that the big new motor around Doorn is all right for privacy, but not so good for regattas, he has offered for sale his two famous racing schooners Meteor IV, and Meteor V.

Andrew Blom of Sweden, Denmark, agent in the transaction, announced in an advertisement today the Kaiser's decision to part with the boats, one of which he used to pilot to victory at Kiel. Mr. Blom stipulated that delivery of the vessels be in "Scandinavian waters."

The Meteor IV, is an American-built schooner, having been laid down in New York city in 1902. The yacht is of steel construction, and was completed from designs made by Cary Smith. The craft, in addition to its big sail spread, had auxiliary motors, and, according to Mr.
Blom, "it is the fastest vessel afloat of its size."

The yacht is magnificently fitted out.
For the craft and attendant privilege of treading the boards once paced by William when he used to steer away to read the Krupp's latest report and "dream of peace," $300,000 is asked.
Or, at today's rate of exchange, 15,000,- 000 marks.

Whether Mr. Blom's information is wrong, or the reports who covered the launching of the Smith designed yacht in New York eighteen years ago were less accurate than present day reporters, is open to question, but at any rate the Meteor IV, is a magnificent vessel.
The Townsend-Dowry, shipbuilding yards in 1902 was known as Meteor III, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, then Miss Alice Roosevelt, was the sponsor. Her father, then president, was among the brilliant assembly that witnessed the event. Prince Henry of Prussia also was there, and a detachment of the imperial guard. A newspaper account of the launching told how an officer of the guard "asked pardon for inatten-tion," jostling the wife of a local politician.

The Meteor V, as set forth in Mr.
Blom's advertisement, "was never used." The schooner was constructed in the Germania yards at Kiel in 1911, and was launched just before her imperial owner turned from yacht to submarine, and from regattas to regiments that he should see away cruising with his army invaded Belgium. The racing ship was put to "rest" from designs by the Krupp, and lavishly decorated throughout.

The price asked for the Meteor V, is $250,000, or 12,500,000 German marks.

The Question of Potatoes

In the "Women's Century."

Two or three women recently were discussing the problem of making the housekeeping money cover the price of the food. One of them had that day paid $1 for a peck of potatoes that gave every evidence of the long hard winter that was behind them. Of course, this occasioned a great outcry about excessive profits. One of the women said, however, that in all fairness to those concerned, they should investigate the matter somewhat before passing judgment.
They, therefore, interviewed the retailer from whom the potatoes were purchased. He very willingly gave them what information he had in the matter.
He had purchased the potatoes from the producer at $5 for a six-peck bag, returning the bags to the producer. Out of the dollar he made on the paper bag outlay, he had to pay for the paper bag in which he retailed them, and some proportion of the heavy rental for his store, for help, and other expenses. The women came to the conclusion that his profits were certainly not excessive, and they sought to go farther. They asked the board of commerce if five dollars a bag for potatoes would not excessive profits to the producer, and they were told that the high price of this commodity was occasioned by the shortage of last year's potato crop in the West, and in parts of the United States, causing a greater demand for Ontario and New Brunswick potatoes.

Not the Point.
This scarcely touched the point, however, as the women could not see how any shortage in another part of the country could have increased the cost of production for the Ontario grower, or lessened his profit in any way.

Now, to a person used to dealing in transactions involving thousands of dollars, that lack of information over the profits on a five-dollar bag of potatoes may seem trivial. But, please remember, that it was just as important to these housekeepers as a raise in freight rates, or in the price of newsprint, or coal would be to a businessman. Housewives are compelled to save by small amounts, and an extra fifty cents or so in the week's supply of potatoes is a serious matter. If it were shown to them that the increased cost of this and other commodities was not being venueoned by profiteering, they would probably be satisfied. But this is not being done to the satisfaction of the women, and a distrust and dissatisfaction is being engendered that will grow with each seeming injustice.

Not at a Loss.
In the case of the potatoes, the women are able to reason that if they sold just fall at a little over half the price that is now being charged, they were not then being sold at a loss, and if the producer thought fit to risk keeping his potatoes in pits all winter in order to bring more money thereby, the consumer should not have to pay for any that spoiled while he was holding them.

Many women would have laid in their winter's supply in the fall, had their action of those who held them over increased the price at that time until it was beyond their means.

Why is it, the women want to know, that so many investigations made into the cost of things are followed carefullly along from retailer to manufacturer, but always stop when they come to the producer? When the price of pork products was being investigated, was the cost of raising the hogs fully gone into?
Although the miller has to give some statements as to his profits, how about the grain grower? It is, of course, claimed that the producers cannot give the necessary facts, as they do not keep books. But it would save the millions, pork packers and middlemen a lot of trouble if they, too, found it impossible to keep an account of profits and losses.

Fair Profit.
If the producers are making only a fair profit on food commodities it is greatly in their interests that the truth should be made known. Only if there is profiteering, is it in their interests to withhold information on these subjects.
From what the consumer is now given to understand, the producer makes a blind guess at the price to be asked for a commodity. Perhaps it may bring him a fair profit, perhaps it will net him a loss, or maybe he will be selling at a price that will make him a very great profit. Who knows? Apparently it is quite a matter of chance.

What Is the Trouble With London Clocks?

No two are alike and often 5 or 10 minutes' difference. A general complaint noised about as people cannot depend on them. We have heard personal comment on a certain factory whistle, saying it is always correct.
This is true, as their clock is looked after by John A. Nash, My Jeweler. His time is as true as the sun. He sells only the good watches that tell the truth. His store is 206 Dundas street, where you will eventually buy. Meet

ST. THOMAS, May 27.—The non-jury sessions of the supreme court which open here on Monday will have a small docket and will be presided over by Justice Rose. CLAIM FOR DAMAGES. Benjamin F. Queen, through his personal representatives, claims damages from A. B. Ponsford, H. F. Honinger and Donald Fraser for the sale of goods belonging to one George S. McColl, the former proprietor of the Central Hotel, under an execution held by Queen. The other parties were the holders of a chattel mortgage on the goods seized and they put in a demand for the money realized on the sale of the chattels as having a priority right. BREACH OF CONTRACT. The other case is that of W. J. Wakeling, postmaster at West Lorne, who sues Nancy E. Skinner of that village, on an agreement for sale of lots in West Lorne. COMMITTEE ON HYDRO TROUBLE NEARLY THROUGH

Expects To Finish Taking Evidence At Toronto Today.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 27.—The special committee of the Legislature which is investigating the grievances of the men employed by the Provincial Hydro-Electric Power Commission on the Queenston-Chippewa development work, held two sessions here today and adjourned to go over the canal again, particularly the camps and boarding-houses, of which the men had complained.

There was little new evidence brought out in the testimony today. It was claimed by several witnesses that adequate protective devices to prevent contact with high voltage wires were lacking on the job. One witness said that a fatality had occurred on account of the lack of barriers on the knives connecting up the shovels. One man said he made $285 a month by working twelve hours a day, and 24 hours every second Sunday. It took him an hour and a half each way going to and from work. He said he favored an eight-hour day. Several complaints were made as to the quantity and quality of food provided at the hydro boarding houses. The committee expects to finish the taking of evidence here tomorrow.

This was decided on at an emergency meeting of the association this morning, at which there was a large attendance of members, especially from Montreal.

The meeting was private, but it is understood the members will ask Sir Henry Drayton to raise the minimum price for tax to at least $12.

Farmers Neglect Production For Liquor Traffic

Declares Inspector—Over $13,000 in Fines Collected Mostly From Farmers.

WINDSOR, May 27.—Over $13,000 in fines for breaches of the Ontario temperance act were collected in Windsor police court today by Magistrate Miers, largely as the result of efforts of operatives sent here by the Ontario License Commission in its attempt to stamp out illicit traffic in liquor along the border.

Majority Farmers. Many of the cases were heard in camera, and the majority of fines were levied against farmers. One inspector of the provincial department declared tonight that farmers were neglecting the production of crops to engage in the more remunerative business of selling liquor, and that all over the county the practice was becoming quite common. He declared that license inspectors intended throwing a dragnet over the entire district to rid it of the whiskey business.

OWEN SOUND WILL BECOME "BABY CITY" ON TUESDAY NEXT

Monster Celebration To Be Held On Dominion Day.

OWEN SOUND, May 27.—The assessor's returns given out today show that Owen Sound's population has increased by 450, the population in 1919 being 11,768, and for 1920, 12,218. There has been a decrease of 25 in deaths, and an increase of 14 in births in 1920. The total assessment increased from $7,622,883 in 1919, to $7,132,942 in 1920, an increase of $10,052.

There is an increase of $87,200 in taxable real estate property, and an increase of $66,535 in income. After being incorporated for 63 years as a town on Tuesday Owen Sound takes on the garb of a city. The incorporation will not be formally recognized until July 1, when a monster celebration will be held.

MUST SHARE PROFITS IF RESPONSIBILITY IS SHARED, SAY CLERKS

WINDSOR, May 27.—Members of the Border Cities Retail Clerks' Association are making vigorous opposition to the proposal discussed by the executive of the Retail Merchants' Association, whereby a telegram would be sent to Ottawa asking that the clerk making sales of goods liable to excise tax under the new revenue bill, be held responsible for evasions of the order, as well as the firm employing him.

"Unless we are allowed to share in the profits, any such proposal is utterly unfair," E. S. J. Brown, active worker and publicity agent of the clerks' union, declared tonight.

Phoning Around World Hope Of Army Officer Who Tells Scientists of His Discoveries

Washington, May 27.—Major-General George O. Squier, chief of the army signal corps, today revealed before the National Academy of Science how it may soon be possible to talk across the ocean or even around the world by telephone as a result of his own remarkable discoveries. Telegraphic and telephonic communication over unimpeded wire under the ocean, as cables now are laid, is made possible as a result of Gen. Squier's devices. The wires may even be buried a few inches under the ground. The messages are sent by radio currents simply guided by the bare wire and a number of messages may be sent and received simultaneously. The electrical current required is less than that consumed by a single office lamp. Recent tests of both telephone and telegraph communication between Fort Hunt and Fort Washington under the Potomac River over bare bronzed wires, were successfully conducted by Gen. Squier. Similar communications were established at Camp Alfred Vail, N. J. Ocean telegraphy in its present form has reached a limit. It was stated by General Squier, and as ocean telephony is practically impracticable, the hope for improvement lies in the use of bare wires laid in water, and experiments along that line with high currents. The new idea may bring about the elimination of the present heavy ocean cables.

Letters From Woman Madly In Love Has Judge Guessing

Detroit, May 27.—Somewhere in Detroit there is a woman who is madly in love. There is nothing out of the ordinary about that—but, here is the story.

This young woman is not sure of her lover's proper name. She knows that it is one of two names he has given her, and she also knows that she has given him several hundred dollars with which he was supposed to be preparing a "cozy little nest" somewhere in the big city. The maiden apparently has known the man for a long time, but she fears now that he is not going to come through with the license and the ring. She has written to Judge Harry E. Dingeman, asking his advice, but she did not tell him who she is and he is at a loss as to whom he should advise. She also sent along $2, which the judge is anxious to return, as any advice he gives is free.

During the last ten days a steady stream of letters has been coming to the judge's office from the young woman. She doesn't know whether she wants to sue the man for breach of

HELD FOR INVESTIGATION.

WINDSOR, May 27.—Raiding the Melina Cafe, Windsor avenue and Sandwich street, for liquor, two galleons of which were seized, the police found and arrested a well-dressed young girl who gave her name as Irene Martin of North Bay. She is being held for investigation. Frank F. Grimaldi, proprietor of the place, is to appear in police court.

MAJ.-GEN MORRISON TO UNVEIL MEMORIAL TABLET AT GALT C. I.

Galt Retail Merchants Protest Against the New Luxury Tax.

GALT, May 27.—Major-General Sir E. W. B. Morrison, Ottawa, former Galtonian, will unveil the memorial tablet at the collegiate institute on the night of June 4. Major L. Clare Moyer, D.S.O., who has been appointed by the Saskatchewan Government as law officer and director of soldiers' estates, is a native of Galt. He was born here and received his early education in this city. His grandfather and several other relatives live in Galt. The Galt Retail Merchants' Association has sent a protest to Sir Henry Draxton, minister of finance, and F. S. Scott, M.P., against the new luxury tax, claiming it will work detrimentally to many lines of business, and that it puts a premium on cheaper goods. Mrs. T. Douglas, 18 Rose street, died today at the hospital in her 26th year. She was born in Beverley, and upon her marriage in 1908 moved to Dominion, but for the past fifteen years has been a resident of Galt. The new soldiers' memorial home at Preston was dedicated on Wednesday evening. Rev. Herbert, formerly chaplain of the 11th Battalion, C. E. F., conducted the services. Other speakers were G. Pattinson, ex-M.L.A., and Rev. Father Gehl.

LION'S TAIL IS BEING TWISTED

London, May 27.—Archibald Hurd, in the Daily Telegraph, discusses the United States Shipping Board's order that vessels under the board's orders must be classified by the American Bureau of Shipping. Mr. Hurd conjectures that this is an incident in the presidential campaign, and says it may be merely a coincidence that the president of the shipping board is Rear-Admiral Benson, who, according to Admiral Sims, warned the latter not to let the British pull the wool over his eyes. "The coincidence may have no significance," says Mr. Hurd, "but there it is, and let us remember that the two great parties are marshalling their forces for a presidential election. Those who are described in American language as flag-waggers has evidently come to the conclusion that by artificial means the American commercial flag can be made supreme; so on the eve of an election we have many manifestations of what is regarded as a national or patriotic policy. They regard Lloyd's register as a British institution, and it is thought to be a bold and independent thing just now among certain sections of Americans—and the Germans and Irish vote

WILL SEEK TO SAVE DEMURRAGE CHARGES ON COAL ARRIVALS

St. Thomas Sells Its Retort Carbon At $15 a Ton.

SPECIAL COUNTY COURT

Farming - On Shares Case Proves a Lengthy One.

ST. THOMAS, May 27.—To expedite the unloading of cars at the city gas works and save the demurrage charged by the L. and P. S. R. for the detention of cars on the municipal switch, a committee was named at the meeting of the directors tonight to improve the system of unloading and unloading the supplies of coal arriving in the city yards.

The offer of the Exolon Company of Bladell to purchase the retort carbon at $15 a ton was accepted.

Foran Stevens, who has charge of the delivery of coke, was given a raise of 10 cents a ton making his allowance now $1. Mr. Stevens stated that his revenue averaged $10 a week, and from this amount was deducted $27 for assistance, leaving $13 to pay himself and the keep of two horses.

A member of the committee urged the purchase of a uniform for the employees calling at the residences of the customers on behalf of the department. He instanced the case of a woman employee, finding the door of a residence open, walked in, and returning from the basement met the lady of the house, and she was so frightened that she fell in a faint on the floor.

The manager intimated that the men calling at houses were supplied with badges, and must show them when requested.

MRS. JAMES FUTCHER DEAD.

Mrs. James Fletcher of Middletown passed away at Guelph today after some weeks' illness. Mrs. Fletcher was daughter of the late J. B. Robinson, M.P., and was born in the township of Southwold, where she was a life-long resident. She is survived by her husband and four children, Mrs. Alex McNeven, Southwold; Mrs. John Pierce, Tyrone; Miss Dora, a nurse at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and Jessie at home. The remains will be brought to St. Thomas for interment.

A COUNTY COURT CASE.

William Kilmer of Yarmouth sued Silas Penhale of that township in a special session of the county court today to recover $30.66 alleged to be due on account of the plaintiff's share in the management and cultivation of a farm on the Edgewood road, Yarmouth.

The parties entered into an agreement to work the place on shares, but some differences arose between them as to the mode of working, and the plaintiff cancelled the lease and agricultural arrangements on March 15, 1919. The entire case was taken up in hearing evidence on part, and a postponement was made to Tuesday next. Judge Colter presided.

SPRINGER HILL VISITED.

Springer Hill, a high spot on the Fergus road, Bayham Township, on the county system of good roads, was visited by a council committee yesterday afternoon. The object of the journey was to investigate the work of the steam excavator, owned by Contractor Ponsford, recently removed there from the Talbot street improvements. The operations of the big shovel appeared to satisfy the committee.

About $20,000 has been set aside to build a bridge and improve the road in that vicinity. Mr. Ponsford has the contract to excavate a large area at 28 cents a yard.

WILSON VETOES PEACE MOTION OF REPUBLICANS

Denounces It As Omitting Objects For Which U. S.
Fought.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The Republican peace resolution was vetoed today by President Wilson.

Such a method of making peace with Germany, the president said, would "place an ineffaceable stain upon the gallantry and honor of the United States."

Without announcing his intention regarding the treaty of Versailles, the president declared that the treaty embodied the important things omitted by the resolution, and said that by rejecting the treaty, the United States had declared in effect that it wished "to draw apart and pursue objects and interests of our own."

The president added that the peace resolution omitted mention of many important objects for the vindication of which the United States entered the war. "Such a peace with Germany," the message continued, "is a peace in which none of the essential interests which we had at heart when we entered the war, is safeguarded—no, it ought to be, inconceivable as inconsistent with the dignity of the United States, with the rights and interests of honest citizens, and with the very foundations of civilization."

BRILLIANT SCENE AT JUBILEE SERVICES AT ASSUMPTION COLLEGE

Apostolic Delegate, Archbishop, Ten Bishops and 300 Priests Attend.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Monseigneur Ward Pleads For Less Clamor After Worldly Wealth.

WINDSOR, May 27.—Celebrations commemorating the founding of Assumption Catholic College, Sandwich, half a century ago, were commenced today, when His Lordship Bishop Fallon of the diocese of London, celebrated high pontifical mass in the presence of His Excellency Most Reverend Monseigneur Peter Di Maria, apostolic delegate of the Vatican to Canada and Newfoundland, and the most notable gathering of prelates and high officials of the Catholic Church ever assembled together in the country. Hundreds of worshippers gathered for the ceremonies held at Assumption Church today, where the poorest of the poor still shouldered on a footing of equality with the richest of the rich.

More Than 300 Priests.

At least 300 priests, a score of monseigneurs, ten bishops, and archbishops presented a magnificent spectacle, as, clad in their priestly attire, they formed a procession through the principal streets of Sandwich from the college to the church.

Prominent in today's program in addition to Bishop Fallon and the apostolic delegate were His Grace Archbishop McNeill of Toronto, Bishop Ward of the diocese of Kingston, Bishop Schramm of Detroit, Bishop Kelly of Grand Rapids, Bishop Schramm of Toledo, Monseigneur West of St. Thomas, Monseigneur Whelan of Toronto, Mr. A. J. Ward of Sarnia, Mr. Van Antwerp of Sarnia, Mr. McKinnon of London, Mr. O'Connor, V. C., of London, and Rev. Father J. P. Flayer of Toronto, head of the Basilian Order in Canada, which founded the institution.

Religious Education.

Monseigneur Ward of the institution, preached a powerful sermon today, in which he advocated more attention to things spiritual and less clamor after worldly wealth, position and power. He declared that after all the main object of life was not to acquire temporal possessions, but to justify existence by true service to God. He made a plea for more attention to education in religious matters, instead of the present tendency whereby children are taught to outstrip others in business competition.

Presentation Made.

Presentation was made by Mayor Donnelly and members of the Sandwich council, who were guests of the faculty of Assumption College, Sandwich, today at the jubilee ceremonies, of a purse of gold from the citizens of the town to the college in recognition and appreciation of the work of the institution during the 50 years of its existence.

FOREST FIRES GAIN IN NEW BRUNSWICK; SITUATION SERIOUS

Early Rain Is Only Thing To Save Timber, Belief.

FREDERICTON, N.B., May 27.—Approximately 200,000 feet of standing timber on crown land near Hebertville, New Brunswick, have been burned. With no rain and none in sight, the forest fire situation throughout the province shows no improvement, and is, in fact, getting worse every day. Some of the timber obtained from the cancellation of all permits for burning brush and slash, which order was signed yesterday by Hon. Dr. Smith, minister of lands and mines, upon recommendation of Provincial Forester J. H. Prince, but only rain can bring about much of an improvement, it is believed.

HELENE'S MARRIED LIFE

Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate LXXXIII—A Lame Excuse.

Well, I must keep cheerful, for Jim's sake. I glanced at my wristwatch. It was after 5 o'clock. He probably had had his tea by now. I'd missed that pleasurable little rite. Alice's telegram for a hundred dollars had robbed me of my tete-a-tete with Jim. The knowledge did not tend to make me feel any less lenient towards that little minx.

It was twenty minutes after five when I got home. Jim was asleep. His mother said. She looked at me rather reproachfully, as though she were condemning me for breaking a cherished appointment with her son.

"He was very sorry you couldn't take tea with him, Helene. And then his head began to ache. So I packed him back to bed. He's doing now."

Some parting orders with the chauffeur, to go on an errand in the car. I sent the man to meet the 10 o'clock express. He was back in half an hour. "She'll be on the last train," I insisted. "Return to meet the express that arrives half an hour after midnight."

The man touched his cap. "The man touched his cap. It was nearing one in the morning when the man returned. He was alone.

The last train came in, miss," he said, respectfully. "But Mrs. Anstruther wasn't there."

Morning brought a scribbled note from Alice. Its wording and general trend were typical of that little lady. She was sick to death of the country, so she thought she'd have a day or two in town, among her friends. Besides, her nerves had sustained such an appalling shock over the recent happenings in the countryside that she didn't feel safe without her husband! (This was a masterpiece.) What with swooping lunatics, and shots fired in the darkness, and burglaries, and heaven knew what, town was the only place she could endure these days.

I smiled as I read Alice's note. It was so true to type.

And yet I didn't feel like smiling, when I thought of her. In a way, I was responsible for the flighty-headed creature.

Ought I to go up town, and keep an eye on her?

Besides, Alice was evidently staying at a very expensive hotel. Her mode of living was beyond my means. Financially, I couldn't keep her pace. And, socially, I had no wish to do so.

"Oh, it's none of my affair," I told myself a little bitterly, as I crushed her note into a tiny ball, and stared gloomily through the window at the depressing wetness outside. "Alice must 'dree her own weird,' as the Scotch say. I can't stop her."

Jim's mother came into the breakfast-room. She looked bright and pleased with life today.

"To be moved?" I repeated lamely, with a queer contrition of the heart. If Jim and his mother were to leave Anstruther Lodge, I should be alone indeed!

She moved towards me.

"And I want you to come with us, Helene," she touched my hand with a motherly, affectionate gesture. "You mean so much to Jim and me. Often I have wished I'd had a daughter. You've been so kind and good and unselfish, dear."

Quick tears sprang to my eyes. It is very good to be appreciated. But aloud I merely said, in a voice I tried to make sound easy and natural: "It's awfully kind of you, Mrs. St. Aubyns, but in a sense I'm in charge down here. I don't see that I can leave."

The quizzical light appeared for a moment in the other's eyes.

"The mistress of the house doesn't a few days, Helene." Here she moved

BIRD NOTES

(Contributed by Melvyn O. nithological Club.)

With the waning of the migrations, the chief interest of the bird student turns to the home life of the birds. Nest building is the great job of May and June for the majority of birds, and the study of breeding lets us into the secrets of their lives as no other phase can do.
Having been on a steady job in the country for a week or more, the writer has had an opportunity to note some interesting items.
A Song Sparrow's nest was found two weeks ago with one sparrow's egg and two of the Cowbird. One of the latter was removed. Next day there were two of each, and again one was removed. The day following the nest was tolerable. It seems that they will not tolerate interference in the early stages, even in the matter of ridding the nest of the egg of the vicious Cowbird. Another nest was found with four Sparrows and two Cowbirds. These were let alone, and after a few days' incubation, one Cowbird was removed, and this was repeated in two or three days more. The same was done with a third nest, which had two Sparrows and one Cowbird. The Cowbirds are cannily enough to lay eggs only in new nests, and leaves full sets untouched. The reason is that the young intruder would lose the race if it started too far behind the others, and when the start is even they all hatch at the same time, on account of its greater size.
In a stub in the nearby woods was the nest of a Downy Woodpecker, who lays her eggs early in May. About the 18th the Red-Headed Woodpecker came to the same woods, and thought highly of the stub selected by the Downy, and it looked as if the nest might be deserted, but they calmed down, and the big job is proceeding serenely. The Redhead was heard excavating a hole, but whether in the same stub or not is not known.
This morning, May 27, while working in the garden, there came from high above the clear call of a Herring Gull. He was too high for vision, but there were let alone, and after a few days' incubation, one Cowbird was removed, and this was repeated in two or three days more. The same was done with a third nest, which had two Sparrows and one Cowbird. The Cowbirds are cannily enough to lay eggs only in new nests, and leaves full sets untouched. The reason is that the young intruder would lose the race if it started too far behind the others, and when the start is even they all hatch at the same time, on account of its greater size.

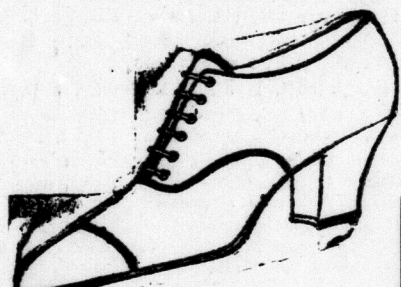

Doubtless, a non-breeder, as was the one seen at the pond on the 24th.

Mr. Man--You Who Buy Tailored Suits---

We have a real offer to make to you. We will give on Saturday to every purchaser of a suit over $45.00 a free sale. We will pay the 10 per cent war tax for you. In other words, we will split our profit. This is fair. We do know that the present prices are high enough without 10 per cent additional, as per government ruling.

We are willing to bear with you part of the load, and when you inspect the kind of good suits we sell you will say, like many more, that it is a pleasure to do business at our store. Apparently there are more important ideals in this store's principles than just money-making.

"Your service is so noticeable one cannot help buying at this store." There is a reason for these words from our satisfied suit customers.

WE SELL HOBBERLIN Custom-Tailored Suits
You should wear one to know how really good all through these garments are.

WE CORDIALLY INVITE YOU SATURDAY AND DURING THE SUMMER SEASON.
