MUCH ACTIVITY OF GERMAN ARTILLERY IS REPORTED.

Mr. C. O. Black has disposed of the Oxford Flour Mills property to a Company composed of local men, Mayor S. B. Patton, C. C. McNeil, C. H. Jackson, E. J. McGrath, Stewart Smith, and H. M. Bradford of Halifax, who will carry on the work in future—Oxford Journal.

He Could Suit That Too.

An enterprising butcher recently put a notice outside his shop to the effect that he had "All sorts and sizes of shoulders to suit all purses." While he was surveying this notice with much satisfaction a young lady approached him, and after reading the announcement, turned to him and said: "What sort of shoulder have you got to suit an empty purse?" "Nothing but the cold shoulder, miss."

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Ritchie, of Montreal, are spending some little time at Cape Brule, Colchester, before proceeding to Halifax to visit relatives. Mrs. Ritchie, with her children, will later resume her residence at Brule for the Summer.

GET STORAGE REDY

While your garden truck is growing is the time to look about and make provision for vegetables you will store this winter.

You will have to store, if you have a decent war-garden:
Potatoes.
Beets.
Carrots.
Cabbage.
Cauliflower.
Brussels Sprouts.
Squash.
Turnips.
Beans.
Peas.

and perhaps some others some vegetables require lots of ventilator, proper temperature and a certain degree of moisture some require a dry attic on the pantry shelf. Some want outdoor storage. Now is the time to get your storage place redy.

THE LEAGUE OF LOVE IN ACTION.

Nova Scotia Red Cross week is from July 8th to 15th. $250,000 is the amount needed from this Province, for the care of our wounded boys in France. Be ready when the representative of the wounded boys "Over There" calls on you.

O League of Kindness, woven in all lands,
You bring Love's tender mercie in your hands;
Above all flags you lift the conquering sign,
And hold invincible Love's battle-line.

O League of Kindness, in your far-flung hands,
You weave a chain that reaches to God's hands;
And where blind guns are plotting to the grave
Your s are the lips that cheer, the arms that save.

O League of Kindness, in your flag see
A foregleam of the brotherhood to be
In ages when the agonies are done,
When all will love and all will lift as one.

HUNDREDS DROWN IN ILLINOIS RIVER.

Peoria, Ills, July 6. Hundreds of people are believed to have been drowned when the excursion steamer Columbia overturned in the Illinois River five miles south of here last night. All available nurses and physicians have been summoned.

"SPURLOS VERSENKEN"—LEAVE NO TRACE IS HUN ORDER ABOUT HOSPITAL SHIPS.

London, July 6. It is authoritatively known that the outrage on the hospital ship Llan-dover Castle, which is the fourth hospital ship torpedoed this year, was deliberate and premeditated, following upon orders given the submarine commander by the superior German authorities, which alleged the presence of eight flying officers. The allegation is foundationless and could easily have been tested by the right of search. There is no doubt but that the submarine endeavored to slaughter all witnesses of the crime, according to count Luxburgs famous phrase "Spurlos versenken." (sink without leaving any trace.) It is clear the German high command has settled on a plan to destroy Hospital Ships as far as possible.

A SUCCESSFUL WEEKS' FIGHTING.

London, July 6. During the last week the Entente Allies on the western front have taken more than five thousand prisoners. A series of minor operations also resulted in their gaining possession of several important strategic points, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy and obtaining valuable information as to his plans for the immediate future.

Another satisfactory feature of the last week's operations was the work of the Allies in the air. Great damage was done by the aviators to German communications and concentrations of men and material behind the lines. The superiority of the Entente aviators is shown by the fact that during the week only 36 British aircraft were missing.

SEIZING ARMS IN IRELAND.

London, July 6. A despatch from Dublin says that the police of Ballinastoe county, Galway have raided farm houses within a radius of fifty miles, seizing hundreds of guns and arms of various descriptions.

Our formation was attacked while over Saarbrucken by hostile airplanes, one of which was brought down in flames and another was driven down. All our machines returned safely. During the week 14 separate towns were raided and bombed. The air-drome at Boulay was raided six times, the railway triangle at Metz-Sablon, four; Mannheim, four; Saarbrucken and Thionville, three; Treves and Frescati, twice; and seven other towns once each, including Kalsch, where a large explosion was caused in metal works.

Naval airmen in the course of the week vigorously bombed docks, submarine bases and naval works in the neighborhood of Zeebrugge, Ostend and Bruges.

SUCCESSFUL BELGIAN AVIATOR.

Belgian Army Headquarters, July 8.—Jan Olisslagors, who was the leading Belgian aviator seven and eight years ago and who established various records in those days of the development of the airplanes, has just been credited with downing his sixth German airplane. AMBASSADOR PORTENDS tion of Count Mirbach, the German Ambassador to Russia is soon as an event of great importance, which may have far reaching results, by the newspapers here. The Daily Mail and the Daily Express agree that the assassination may have momentous consequences and compare it to the murder of Archduke Francis Ferdinand at Sarajovo four years ago. The Express adds "German influence in Russia can only be established on a solid basis by the maintenance of an army of occupation. Russia may once more play a part in the war."

FRENCH PREMIER SAYS MEN IN FRONT TRENCHES REDY FOR THE HUN DRIVE

Paris, July 8—Premier Clemenceau has returned to Paris, after two busy days at the front with confidence in the future unshaken. The Premier went into the advanced trenches, talked to Generals, other Officers and Soldiers and found them all ready to meet the enemy everywhere. The Premier visited the Australians who captured the village of Hamel and address them in English. Lengthy conferences were held with General Foch and various French and American generals. BOOKS FOR THE BOYS AT ALDERSHOT

Have you any books on your shelves that you would send to the boys at Aldershot? The Y.M.C.A. there provides a large recreation room, moving pictures, etc., but they have no money for books, and the boys often remark "If I just had a good book tonight I would be happy."

Any kind of book will be acceptable, old or new, history, religion, travel or narrative. One of the boys in writing to Truro says "There are all tastes in camp, and a new desire for information in the minds of most of the men. They want to know about the countries to which they are going and about the war."

Now here is another opportunity for Truro to show its patriotism and let the response be prompt.

The Local Council of Women will look after the matter, and the paper on Monday will tell you where to send the books.

CAN OF CHOICE TOMATOES.

A large codfish caught by John Rogers, a few days ago off Low Point because of its extraordinary corpulence and upon being opened was found to hold a can of tomatoes. One end of the can had corroded somewhat, but the other end, beyond a few small holes, was intact.—North Sydney Herald.

Lying shell-torn or racked by poison gas on the battlefield or the hospital ward—what is your money worth compared to THEIR DEVOTION? IT WAS A GREAT VICTORY FOR BRITISH, AUSTRALIANS AND YANKEES.

With the British army in France July 5.

Along the whole British front today the main topic of conversation was the remarkable success achieved in Thursday's attacks south of the Somme by the combined Australian and American troops, assisted by a fleet of English tanks. Even the German prisoners were admitting ruefully that the "drive" had been conducted with everness and invincible courage. To his praise was added a telegram from field Marshall Haig to the forces involved, expressing his warm congratulations on the victory, which attended the operations and on the skill and gallantry with which it was executed. The Australians and Yankees today were holding their newly-won positions strongly after having repulsed a series of three counter-attacks during the night—one on each flank and a third in the centre. All these enemy assaults were thrown back easily and large numbers were added to the ranks of the hostile infantry made attempts to regain that which they had lost. Additional reports confirm previous ones that the enemy casualties Thursday were exceedingly heavy and that the German list of kild was very long not only did the attacking forces work havoc in the enemy ranks but the supporting artillery maintained a most destructive fire over the German positions.

Josh Before the Court.

An old negro, who for several years had conducted an illicit still among the mountains of Kentucky, fell a victim at last to the vigilance of the revenue officers, and was brought before the Court.

"What name?" inquired the Judge, when the frightened negro appeared before him.

"Joshua, Yo' Honah."

"Ah," returned the Judge, "I suppose, then, you are the Joshua who made the sun stand still?"

"No, sah," was the prompt reply.

"It's not dat Joshua at all; I's de Joshua what made de moon shine."

FOOD BOARD FLASHES FOR FEMININE FOLK.

Send any information you may have about cases of waste or hoarding to the local police officials and see that action is taken.

It is against the law to hold more than a limited quantity of food-stuffs, and anyone who exceeds the line of demarcation is liable to a heavy fine, or imprisonment, or both.

Make it your business immediately to report any infringement of this law, as food quickly goes bad in summer, and no risks of the kind should be taken. We want this to be known as Conservation summer.

ACKNOWLEDGE GIFT TO SERVICE CLUB.

Mrs. Daniel Cock of Salmon River, has presented the Truro Service Club with a very generous donation of $19.00 to be used by the Club in their work of sending boxes to the Truro boys who are Overseas.

The money was raised by Mrs. Cock at an afternoon tea and an evening social for the young people.

This gift was greatly appreciated by the Service Club as the expenses of the Club are quite heavy since twelve boxes each week are sent. These boxes cost an average of forty dollars per week.

The Service Club greatly appreciate this generous gift and wish to heartily thank Mrs. Cock for her kindness—and help.

The Service Club has thus far received very little help from any of the Truro citizens—and this donation was therefore doubly appreciated.

SAILOR.
Somewhere in France,
June 11—1918.

Dear Mother:

Just a few lines in answer to your welcome letter, I received a few days ago and was glad to hear from you. I am getting along fine and hope this letter will find you the same.

We are having very hot weather here now everything is looking fine they are starting to cut hay here now, and there are a lot of strawberry blossoms.

I suppose they are all starting to turn down home by this time.

Well mother there isn't much I can write, I hope this old war will soon end. We had a little rain here today, it makes things look brighter.

I am still in the mill and am getting along fine.

I can't think of any more at present. Hoping to hear from you soon I will say bye bye.

From your loving son,
JOE.

"HATH BUT A SHORT TIME."

Like most men of culture, Sir R. B. Flay, British Lord High Chancellor knows his Bible, and can quote it aptly. Referring to the recent extraordinary manifestations of GermanExtra in the bombing of hospitals he said they reminded him of a certain person concerning whom it was written that his "wrath is great because his time is short." The cable despatch does not do the fitness of the quotation justice, however. We looked it up and found it so admirably suited to recent happenings that we give it in full, as you may read it is Revelation xii, 12: "Woe for the earth and for the sea, because the devil has gone down unto you, having great wrath, knowing that he hath but a short time." That explains more than the hospital bombings—it explains the frenzied drives on the West front and the raid on our Atlantic coast.

WORK OF THE RED CROSS.

Mr. Stewart Lyon, who was for many months in France and Flanders as the correspondent of the Canadian Press, in praising the work of the Red Cross, says: "Few who have not seen the scarred fields of battle and witnessed its actual work can realize the immensity, the efficiency, the humanity, and the priceless character of the Red Cross. It is everywhere. Back in the base hospital it is continuously making pain easier and comfort greater for the heroic fellows who suffer. Up in the front trenches, where gallant surgeons in the early days of the war were wont to tackle immediate life-and-death operations by flickering candle light or the uncertain gleam of an oil lamp, they are followed by Red Cross portable electric batteries which provide clear and steady light, and are thereby saving scores of lives. The service of the Red Cross is everywhere—and everywhere it is blessed."

LINSEED OIL CAKE

FINE GROUND OR NUTTED "MADE-IN-CANADA"

The food that contains more protein than any other is LINSEED OIL CAKE. Protein (the nitrogenous matter) is the most valuable and necessary element in all animal foods. It builds up the flesh and keeps it in general healthy condition. Great Britain could never have attained its eminence in beef and dairy products without Linseed Cake.

Prof. Frank T. Shutt, M. A., Chemist of the Dominion Experiment Farm, Ottawa, submitted a table showing proportionate fattening and flesh-producing qualities of the following feeding substances in general use.

FEEDING STUFFS	Protein (%)	Fat (%)	Moisture (%)
Linseed Cake (ground)	32.8	7.9	35.4
Soyabean	10.2	2.2	84.6

"YOUR BOY."

Yes, your say it is an honor, For "your boy" to fight for you, And to give his life so freely. With the rest so brave and true, To fight for King and Country And alas to fight and fall Do you ever think, dear mothers, When you have to give your all Of the time when peace was reigning. And the earth one round of joy, That in times so full of happiness, You would have to give your boy.

But the time has come and mothers, With hearts breaking, let them go To a place of awful terror; But, they know it must be so; For the cause of Right they're fighting They are of the "truest blue"; May God, with his rich blessing Send them safely back to you.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION ROBERT CONNOLLY.

As announced in the News, the celebration of the ninth birthday of one of the oldest colored residents of Truro, took place Saturday afternoon July 6, at his home, at Smith's Island.

The day was bright and sunny, and large numbers of friends and neighbors called as well as citizens from town who drove out in autos, and teams to offer congratulations to "Robert"

He, and his wife, made everyone welcome, and treated their callers to delicious birthday cake, and excellent coffee, which had been prepared by their capable daughter, Mrs. Hattie Borden.

The table which was prettily decorated with daisies, and held the birthday cake, was placed on the lawn near the door and the serving was done by Annie, daughter of Mr. Connolly, assisted by Mrs. Borden, Mrs. Jane Talbot, Mrs. M. Lucas and the Misses Talbot.

Mr. Connolly's oldest son, Croft of Springhill and William of Sydney, came to spend the day with the old gentleman.

Gifts of cheques, and cash, were left by the friends, which amounted to a sum of $40.00 and will help this industrious couple out, very materially.

Mr. Connolly was born in Guysboro, 90 years ago and when a young man came to Truro where he has since lived.

Both Mr. Connolly and his wife have been hard workers, and deserve credit for their enterprise, and ambition in securing their neat little home at Smith's Island as a result of their industry.

Robert is now unable to do heavy work, but on Friday last, mowed his own lawn, and hoed three rows of potatoes in his fine war garden.

He has a sister Mrs. Rosa Byard, mother of Mrs. David Elms, Truro, who is 102 years old.

Mr. Connolly was exceedingly grateful to his friends, who made the day so happy, and these same friends extended best wishes for many more birthdays.

AN IMPORTANT WORK.

Geological Mapping of South Western Nova Scotia.

Mr. E. R. Faribault, of the Geological Survey, Ottawa, is stationed this summer at Shelburne, with J.M.G. Cruickshank and C. A. Brown as assistants, to continue the geological mapping of the southwestern part of Nova Scotia. Special investigation also is to be made in various parts of the province of ore deposits and mineral occurrences which give promise of furnishing products of economic value. Deposits of tungsten molybdenite, manganese antimony and other minerals especially required for war purposes will be examined, in behalf of the Canadian Munition Resources Commission.

At New Ross, a new mine of molibdenite is being developed by H. C. Burchell of Windsor for the Nova Scotia Molybdenum Mine Ltd., and one car load of ore recently sent for treatment to the testing plant of the Department of Mines, Ottawa, has given very satisfactory results.

At Moose River mines, Halifax county, the Scheelite mines Ltd., have produced over 1,000 tons of good grade tungsten ore, and it is expected that the mill will be started this week on the concentration of the ore. Platinum, a very rare and valuable metal required for war munition, selling at over $100 per ounce, has been discovered in a sample of concentrates from the Scheelite Mines Ltd. tested at the laboratories of the Geological Survey.

Some of the abandoned manganese mines near Walton, Hants county, have been reopened, and it is expected that mining operations will be resumed shortly at the Manganese mines Near Ross, Lunenburg county where the mill recently was burnt. The antimony mine at West Gore, Hants county, is being worked continuously with very satisfactory results. Anyone discovering a mineral which may be of economic value is requested to send samples by mail, post free, to the Director, Geological Survey, Ottawa, and these will be examined and reported on, free of cost provided the locality of the occurrence be given.

THE ROAD ACT.

Editor of The Chronicle:

Sir,—Permit me a little space in your columns for a word with regard to the new "Road Act" and its workings in this part of Colchester County. As one interested in good roads, and having for a number of years made out the road lists for the township of Onslow, I have had a good chance to see that the old system failed to give satisfactory results. Although I am quite satisfied that had the tax collected under the old system been equitably and judiciously spent, at least 100 per cent. better results could have been obtained. Consequently I hailed with some degree of satisfaction a change which I hoped was for the better.

But what is the result? First, several high salaried officials are appointed, thus cutting off from road purposes at least the amount of their salaries. I cannot tell how they expect to give value for their stipends, as I have never seen the inspector or anybody representing him on the road, although the river bridge near my place, known as Barnhill's iron bridge, has been in a dangerous condition for some time. One auto has broken through already. I have no doubt that people throughout the county expected, like myself, when the road tax was increased, collected as a whole and laid out under another form, that nearly every tax-payer expected to have a chance to work out at least part of their tax. What is the result? A gang of strangers the other day put in an appearance in front of my house with teams brought from I do not know where, and in a most arbitrary and hostile manner tore up a great ditch five or six feet inside of where the old drain was, destroying the whole road, which I had made decently and conveniently wide in years past, and only stopped from destroying the entrance to my yard when I interfered.

As for the work done for five or six miles with the road scraper between my place and Truro, it is simply nothing less than a disgrace to common civilization. It is common knowledge to anybody with experience or intelligence that the road bed should not, for at least fifteen feet, be loosened with a plough or road scraper. On this road the scraper has been started right in the wheel track and torn up in the roughest manner, stones and clods being left as big as half a barrel. I am very sorry our Local Government of which I am a supporter, has made such a mess in their attempt to improve the old road system, and I hereby warn them that something more practical and compatible must be done, for I hear complaints and threats, not few nor far between, as to what will happen next election. The whole countryside is ablaze with indignation.

TAUGHT INDIAN HYMNS BY REV. SILAS RAND.

At Albert Mines in New Brunswick on July 1, there was a gathering of about 100 loyal citizens at an Indian Encampment to do honor to Angew Paul, a returned Indian soldier.

During the celebration Chief Paul, father of the returned hero made a good speech and in it he said;

"My boy did not go to war in the spirit of adventure, he went to fight for King and Country. He went to lay down his life, if need be, but the Lord spared him; the Lord have all thanks that we have him again, and again friends, I thank you for what you have done."

Later in the celebration the reporter said in his account of this celebration, "We then called in Chief Paul for a song and we could but notice how reverently he uncovered his head as he sang that old song well remembered by many of us in childhood "I have a Father in the Promised Land," and "Washed in the Blood of the Lamb," When he ended the song he said, Friend I always sing hymns and those were taught me by a dear old minister. Mr. Silas Rand."

This is indeed the good seed taking root "after many days."

SHUBENACADIE AND VICINITY.

July 8rd.—On Sunday evening, June 30th the Rev. J. Bleasdale of the Methodist Church preached what is usually termed a farewell sermon, but as he did not care to term it that way he simply said his last sermon while in charge of this circuit. After the opening prayers and reading and the singing of Hymn No 161 "Never further from the Cross." The speaker expressed the thought that no doubt many had come to hear a memorial service to the memory of the late James Noble a member of the Methodist Church here and who had recently been killed in France another one of the splendid body of young men Shubenacadie and vicinity has been called upon to give to the great cause of humanity and Liberty. Mr. Bleasdale said as this was his last Sunday here he found it impossible to preach a memorial sermon but he wished to express his feelings of sympathy, and to assure the bereaved family of the heart felt sympathy of himself and the members of this church at the loss which in particular and the country at large, had sustained in the death of a young man in the field of battle of this estimable young man.

After the singing of Hymn no. 623. How bright the Glorious Spirits Shine the speaker preached a short sermon from Revelation 7 chapter 14 and 15 verses. These are they that have come out of Great Tribulation, etc., at the conclusion of His sermon he expressed words of sorrow in parting from this circuit saying he was going to an easier field, with only two services a day, and Sunday School in the afternoons while this one had seven preaching stations a good many miles apart and had there not been a man for this field and the conference had asked him to stay he would have gladly done so, as both he and Mrs. Bleasdale had made many dear friends on this circuit. Friends whom they could not forget and pleasant memories of their duty here that they would cherish while life should last. Miss Hart of Midford sang a solo "The Homeland" and the closing Hymn of a memorable service in the history of this church was no 758. "Blest be the tie that binds."

On Monday, July 1st the people of this community were once more reminded, that the great war is still raging, and that this Village is paying a terrible price as their contribution in the subduing of the despoilers of the worlds peace. Early in the morning a Telegram was received from the Militia Department announcing the death of William Duff on June 22nd, this is a very sad case indeed as he leaves to mourn his loss a wife and six small children. The passing of Billy Duff as he was familiarly known in this village, seems to have touched a tender chord in the feeling of the people and words of sympathy with the bereaved family are heard on all sides.

Miss Ottilie Caddell, and Miss Daisy Gos, as delegates to the Y.W.C.A. Conference. Miss Olivia Fulton left Shubenacadie for her home in Lower Onslow on Monday.

Miss Lizzie Smith also left for her home in Selma, Monday morning. Miss Martha Kirkpatrick arrived home from Halifax on Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Miller spent the week-end in Shubenacadie. Mrs. Lea Newcomb left for home in Sheffield Mills on Tuesday.

Messrs Lawlor, James MacLean, and Mr. Cann have gone to Sheet Harbor by auto on a fishing trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Cossey of Halifax, are spending a few weeks in our village, at the home of Mrs. J. B. Caddell.

Mrs. H. Upham and Mrs. J. C. Cass went to Bass River on Thursday, delegates to the Home and Foreign Missionary Society.

Mrs. B. Lawlor and children are visiting in Elmsdale.

Mrs. James R. McLean spent Thursday in Truro. The marriage of Miss Laura Tanner, and Mr. Wallace Watson, took place at the Presbyterian Manse on Tuesday. They were married by the Rev. Rev. H. Upham.

Mr. Allie Schurman was in our village for a few days last week.

Miss Mary Walsh and Mr. Keddy of Dartmouth, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Adams and master, Howard Laidlaw, came on an auto trip to Shubenacadie on Saturday.

The friends of Mr. Wendell Cox of Upper Steviae are glad to know that he has improved in health the last few weeks.

The work on the house is progressing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Marshall drove to Forest Glen Wednesday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Brenton and Mr. Alexander Marshall.

To safeguard the children from damage that worms cause, use Miller's Worm Powders, the medicine par excellence for children. These powders will clear the system entirely of worms, will regulate and stimulate the organs injuriously affected by the worms, and will encourage healthful operation of the digestive processes. As a vermifuge it cannot be surpassed in effectiveness.

MURDEROUS DEVICE OF HUN ARMIES.

"Fliegermaus" a device of frightfulness, is the name given by the Germans to a recently perfected bomb which, according to their own claims, will multiply one hundredfold the precision and effect of night bombardments. The bomb weighs less than two pounds enabling an aviator to carry hundreds at a single trip and is said to be employed especially against crowds of people. Instructions found on the person of a German aviation officer, made prisoner the other day, say that in order to get the greatest efficiency and permit the low flying aviator to see the result obtained, the following method, is employed: First, the aviator must throw several incendiary bombs on the object of attack. After a pause of some minutes to permit the crowd to gather around the burning object, as they naturally would in order to extinguish the flames, the aviator must swoop down and throw this fliegermaus into the midst of the group.

On July 4, 1888 the death occurred of Dr. B. D. Fraser, of Windsor, aged 77 years, father of Sir Frederic Fraser, and A. M. Fraser of Halifax, how rapidly 30 years have flown.

TWO KINGS—GEORGE.

On Thursday July 4 the big American armies in England will have a great contest at Baseball.

King George is to honor the Americans on that "Glorious Fourth" by opening the big game by pitching the first ball. The gossipy story is everywhere told that the sailor King of England, a recognized good cricketer and good shot in his day, has been practicing so as to get into a curve or so for this opening ball throwing.

But whether true or not we have come a long way from George III—the tyrant that lost us the American Colonies and by his defeat gave rise to the celebration of the 4th of July—to George V. the greatest Democratic ruler in the world, who will join in this celebration of the national holiday our foes under another kingly George. Times change and we change with them.

More power to the King's arms—and arms—in more than baseball! In the spirit of the Fourth, let the forces of monarchies that have learned self-rue and republics that aspire to its more general expression press on together for freedom in victory. We know who must win that game.

Mrs. Wylie Barr and Mrs. MacOdrum of Halifax, and Mrs. Lucy McCallum of Noel; cousins of Rev. E. V. Forbes, Maitland, paid a visit to the Manse Thursday July 4 on their way to Five Mile River, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth Forbes.

Kingston, Ont., June 28.—The Royal Naval School closed today for the summer vacation, and the cadets have left for their homes. The staff of the school will move to the new quarters at Esquimaux, in a week or so.

APPEAL TO LADY RED CROSS WORKERS.

To the Lady Red Cross Workers, of Colchester County; You are doubtless deeply interested in the Red Cross Drive which is taking place this week in the County. We need say nothing to you of the necessity of the work as you are fully alive to that, but we would bespeak your co-operation in this effort. This is the first that the men of Colchester have made an organized effort, in the interest of the Canadian Red Cross, but in every district the Lady Red Cross workers by their co-operation can make this a success.

Kindly get in touch with the Collectors and Committeemen of your district and render them every assistance possible. The united effort of the Red Cross Workers of Colchester County will make this a success. FRANK STANFIELD, Chairman.

FOOD BOARD FLASHES FOR FEMINE FOLK.

Help to harvest some of the wild fruits that grow so abundantly in different parts of Canada. There are certain districts in British Columbia, New Ontario and the Maritime Provinces where stretches of land are almost literally carpeted with blueberries. Then there are wild raspberries, strawberries, blackberries and Saskatoon berries, but the blueberries come first and foremost in the list.

If you happen to live near a spot where wild berries abound take the kiddies with you and go out and pick those berries for all you are worth. The flavor of wild fruit when canned is unexcelled.

In some parts of the country it would be quite practical for girls to organize wild berry-picking camps. In Nova Scotia the blueberry industry is so flourishing that some years the total exports run as high as 25,000 crates. The Indians of the Georgian Bay and Muskoka regions do a large blueberry business, and the Mission Indians of Fort William have a raspberry picking camp on the mountain every summer. Families holidaying at the various summer resorts might well help in the same way.

From the first of July to the night of the 8th, Halifax reports 4.470 inches of rain; over two inches fell on Monday the 8th. Our attentive Observer at the Agricultural College, Bible Hill, did not give us the amount of rainfall, but it must have been almost as great as that reported in Halifax.

A RECEPTION TO NEW PASTOR OF ZION CHURCH.

A reception was held on the evening of July 4, in Zion Church for the new pastor, Rev. W. Constantine Perry.

The Rev. F. C. Hartley presided, and in a few words spoke of the occasion that had brought them together. After Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. R. B. Mack, the Rev. A. W. Thompson of Acaciaville, N. S. was called upon to read the Address of welcome from the Church to the pastor—which was as follows.

"Dear Brother Perry, We, the members of Zion Church desire to extend to you a hearty welcome as our pastor. We naturally hope that the relation between us will be both pleasant and profitable. Perfection, we do not expect; but naturally we hope that you will endeavor to be a true Shepherd of the flock. In sickness and trouble, we would like to think that you would be sure to come to us. While in our happy moments your presence would add greatly to our pleasure. Much trouble we might think might often be averted by frequent pastoral visits. While we, on our part, would also wish to do our duty to you.

Our purpose is to uphold the public services of the Sanctuary, and to endeavor to be regular in our attendance on the prayer meetings, and other activities of the Church. The Sunday School we consider very important; and we sincerely hope that it will have your hearty co-operation and support. While we, on our part, do not claim perfection either; yet we trust that sufficient Grace may be given both you and ourselves to enable the wheels of the church chariot to run smoothly. That our union as pastor and people may be for God's glory, the upbuilding of his children, and the salvation of many souls now unsaved is the earnest prayer of the members of Zion Church, Truro."

Rev. B. D. Knott gave a welcome on behalf of the churches of the town and Ministerial Association.

Capt. Daniel Murray, spoke on behalf of the citizens of the town. After a solo by Miss Byard, "The Holy City," which was well rendered. Rev. Perry was called upon to respond. He expressed his appreciation for the words of welcome extended, also his intention of working in harmony as far as it lies in his power for the extension of Christ's Kingdom and for humanity in general.

He made special mention of the fact that seeing the views of Theologians vary so on the scriptures, he is only prepared to work in co-operation with those views that are parallel lines with his, that are Verbal and Plenary Inspiration of the Bible; the Atonement of Jesus, his vicarious suffering and death and his second advent; if not rise or fall, he stands alone.

Following the benediction the visitors and members of the Church, partook of a lunch in the vestry. The singing of God Save the King, brought the meeting to a close.

On June 26th Mail Clerks Ferguson and Boland, and Conductor Baker secured one 9 lb salmon and one 6 lb trout at Grand Bay Brook, Port aux Basques.

Up to Sunday salmon did not appear to have reached the upper pools of Harry's River but it is expected there will be good fishing in them within a few days.

A LITTLE BIT OF HISTORY.

River Philip Center, Cumb. Co.

Editor News; It may interest some of the readers of the News to see something of the early settlers of this place.

A grant was made by King George III of about seven thousand acres from the Hewson Corner to, and including, Collingwood, a distance of five miles, selected by the Revd. William Black, the first Methodist minister to visit Nova Scotia for the purpose of a settlement of a number of emigrants from Yorkshire Eng., as follows, Black, Donkins, Oxleys and Ripley's others came but did not permanently settle and the vacancies were filled by Hewson's Bulmer's, Schurman's Davison's and Atkinsons, only a few of the last named settlers now remain.

This grant is known as the Yorkshire Grant and when they came there was only a bride path between Truro and Amherst. The land had been laid out five hundred acres for each settler or head of a family, lying at right angles with the river and road, parallel with the river or rather on a width of two roads for a road on the West side of the River. The settlers arrived about mid-summer; in time to clear away the forest for room to build log houses and to make preparations for the winter. Many things they had to contend with and incidents by the way which will be easiest imagined, than described however, they set themselves to work cutting and clearing away the forest to make ready to raise crops and to raise hay so cattle would be sent to them from England. They had sand-pits and were making boards and other lumber to cover their buildings. The river teemed with sea trout and salmon.

My great aunt told me that they always provided a puncheon of salted salmon for winter use. The intervals were very rich and produced great crops of wheat and potatoes; flax as a crop of great importance; as was wool as soon they could keep sheep, as the mothers and maidens well understood how to card, spin and weave and make all kinds of cloth of wool and linen and all kinds of cloths.

This will be continued, if such history is appreciated by News readers. Yours truly, JAMES RIPLEY.

BASS RIVER JUNIOR RED CROSS

The Truro Red Cross Society are the grateful recipients of twenty dollars from the Junior Red Cross Society of Bass River. This amount is a portion of some thirty-four dollars realized from a very successful entertainment and pie social held recently in the Hall at that place.

The young ladies in the community seem deeply interested and not a few boys have also been assisting them with their Red Cross activities.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT FAIRVIEW ON SATURDAY, JULY 6.

Pte. Harry Roddick Loses His Fine Property—No Insurance On His House.

All acquaintances were very sorry to hear that one of our returned soldiers Pte. Harry Roddick, lost by fire at noon on Saturday his fine house, barn and outhouses, at Fairview, Lower Truro.

Mr. Roddick was in Truro at the time and his wife was away from the homestead also.

A young lady passing saw flames coming from the poultry house and gave the alarm, but nothing could be done as the whole property was in flames in a few minutes.

The home residence; a fine new barn, one of the best in the district costing nearly $2000; and outbuildings were destroyed; but few articles were saved from the burning house. The only insurance was some $400 on the barn.

This is a most serious loss, especially at this season of the year, when everything was being prepared to store the summer crop.

This beautiful property, on the most delightful outlook at Fairview was lately owned by Mr. Will Weatherbee, who exchanged it with Mr. Hopper for a property in Truro, and in time it was sold to Mr. Harry Roddick, who had just completed this fine barn and otherwise improved the buildings.

The fire occurred about mid-day on the 6th and the cause of the conflagration, starting apparently from the poultry house, is a mystery.

Dr. John Waddell, Professor of Chemistry at Queen University, Kingston, Ont., has arrived in Halifax, and will act as usual at the Provincial Examinations for Teachers.

DETH OF DR. ALLAN POLLOK.

A great and good man has gone to his reward full of years and of honors. Rev. Allan Pollok, D.D., L.L.D., the venerable Honorary Principal of the Halifax Presbyterian College, and eminent divine, died at the College residence, Pine Hill, Halifax, on Sunday evening.

He had been ill but a few days. He was in his 89th year. His life in Nova Scotia, he was born in Scotland and came here in 1852, covers the history of Presbyterianism in this Province for half a century.

He was pastor of St. Andrews Church, New Glasgow, from 1853—1875.

He was appointed to a Professorship in Pine Hill College in 1875 and was Principal of the College from 1894—1904.

He has been Honorary Principal since 1904.

He was a man of commanding figure and presence, and had simply wonderful health—a green old age, indeed. Acquaintances all over the Maritime Provinces will regret to hear of his death.

FURTHER GOOD WORDS FOR THE RED CROSS.

Here are one or two extracts from a letter received from the Pte. Will Ross son of Mr. John D. Ross, Winburn Hill who is in Hospital in London:

General Hospital, London, Eng.

I am getting grand food here, and the Nurses are fine in every respect. We get eggs, chicken, meat, fish, jelly, or anything we want.

I must try to pay my tribute to the Canadian Red Cross. They are simply wonderful in their treatment of Cannucks in Hospital. Anything a sick or wounded man fancies, they get for him if possible, and pay for it, too.

They bring me lots of fish, fruit, books, newspapers, gum, flowers, and I need never ask for anything.

They also supply me with an extra egg each day. The two Ladies who visit us are indeed perfect ladies, and have nice friendly chats with all the boys so if you attend a Red Cross meeting you can state in all truth that their money is well spent.

Keep this before you when you draw your check this week to help along the great Red Cross Drive.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT AT OLD BARN, COL. CO.

Another Account

A very sad and distressing drowning accident occurred at Old Barn, Col. Co., on Saturday, June 29th., when little Francis Macdonald, the twelve year old son of W. D. Macdonald, of that place lost his life.

Francis, his younger brother Sydney, and Geo. McCurdy, a neighbor's boy were playing in an old boat that has lain on the shore for years, with the movement of boat and incoming tide they were carried out over a bluff where the flat falls to the channel. When the boys realized their position Sydney and George immediately jumped thus giving the small row boat a farther shove into the swift current. Francis who was in the bow of the boat walked to the stern of the boat and called out and asked George if he was all right. Seeing him for the second time go down under the water he jumped himself. Three girls, Margaret McCurdy and Inez Macdonald sisters of the three in the boat and Dorothy Reid of Windsor, were on the shore at the time and the first intimation they had of the boys being in trouble was when they heard the splash when George and Sydney jumped. Even they did not realize the depth of water until they saw Francis jump. They distinctly heard him when he called and asked George if he was all right. Both George and Sydney had a hard struggle to reach the shore as both disappeared twice below the surface of the water and were in an exhausted condition when the girls helped to pull them in.

Francis never came up when he plunged from the boat and is supposed to have hit his head against the boat as there was a mark over the right eye. The girls tried to get out to where they had seen Francis go down but the incoming tide was too much for them. So they ran for Percy McCurdy who was working about a quarter of a mile away. An alarm sent round by telephone soon brought many of the neighbors to the shore, but nothing could be done until the tide turned.

In about two hours the tide had receded for enough to permit the men to wade out. The body was found by young Lloyd and friends quickly carried the body home. Dr. Kent who had previously communicated with was soon there and everything was done to resuscitate but all to no avail. An inquest was held on Sunday with Dr. Patton of Truro as coroner and a verdict returned of "accidental drowning, no blame attached to anyone." Funeral services were from the home on Monday, July 1st., conducted by the Pastor Rev. J. C. Davies. Twelve boys acted as pall bearers and carried the casket on a white bier to the cemetery where amid a wealth of flowers they left their little friend Francis to sleep until the resurrection morning. The sympathy of the countryside goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald.

Conductor Angus Probert, on active service in France, writes that the soldiers of his Company had a memorial day lately and that its enjoyment was increased by generous gifts from the Red Cross Society. Remember this when the collectors call on you this week for a contribution to this Institution, that ever has the welfare of our Soldier's before it.

The Royal Bank of Canada Agency in Truro has of late had another pretty big call upon its staff thru War and the exigencies created thereby. Including Mr. Tuttle some five employees have gone either to assist in other Agencies, join the colors or are "soldiers of the soil" in these war times.

Academy Hall Well Filled—People All Strongly Behind Our Red Cross Workers.

When Bandmaster Elliott and his Band struck up Patriotic Airs and Marches last evening in front of the Academy Building the citizens remembered that there was to be a Red Cross Meeting and addresses were to be delivered by prominent speakers in support of the great Red Cross Drive, so they poured into the auditorium of this School Building, which was soon well filled, with an enthusiastic and deeply attentive audience.

When Principal Cumming and the Speaker of the evening Kenny the daring and brilliant Red Cross Ambassador Driver, right from the front, and Prof. Stewart of Dalhousie University appeared, the audience arose and a fine rendering of "God Save the King" sounded forth. It was the key-note to the enthusiastic loyalty that ran thru the meeting the whole evening.

Principal Cumming, as Chairman was most happy in his introduction of the Speaker and gave a bit of inspiration in pointed, practical and well-set words.

Prof. Stewart gave interesting details of Red Cross work and made an appeal for continued help for this great Institution, that was playing such a noble role in this World War.

An Ovation greeted "Kenny, the daring and brilliant Red Cross Ambassador Driver," as we best know him, when he arose to speak. His audience was with him from first to last.

He took his hearers thru a most exciting part of the great battle-fields and his person experience were interesting.

He had specimens of shells, helmets, and other battlefield trophies and pictures were shown of exceedingly interesting episodes in his battlefield movements. The "spot" where he got the Hun and a Hun helmet was a good one, and brought down the house.

In all the exciting events of a dangerous and almost dare-devil life at the front, fighting for a World's Liberty, there is always one friend at least at the Soldiers' command.

The Red Cross, and of this Institution this returned American soldier spoke almost reverently. Too much could not be done for these great workers for the fighting men at the front.

Give them all the money that you on spare it will all be needed and all will be well spent.

The hundreds who heard these appeals in Academy Hall last night went away fully determined to give more than ever before to this great and noble work of the Canadian Red Cross.

Paris, July 8—Thousands of specially devised rifles for sending propaganda over the enemy lines are now in use in the allied armies, according to James Kerney, director of the Franco American committee of public information. From these rifles grenades are discharged by means of which tracts and pamphlets may be scattered along enemy trenches with considerable exactitude at a range of more than 200 yards. For greater distance smaller balloons made of cloth are used. The balloons travel at a high of from 6000 to 8000 feet.

SIZING UP LLOYD GEORGE.

(The London Spectator)

(We reprint this article from a powerful London Journal, not so much for the opinions expressed as to show what a strong combination the brilliant Lloyd George has against him—Ed News)

"You can fool all the people some of the time, and some of the people all the time, but you cannot fool all the people all the time."

Mr. Lloyd George has forfeited the confidence of the people of this country, and must pay the penalty. The Administration of which he has been not merely the head and presiding genius but the autocrat, must be widened under a saner and safer leadership into a National Administration capable of bringing the war to a successful issue, and when the time shall come, of making a Peace which shall give the cause of Freedom and Democracy security for the future. We say this not out of any personal antipathy to Mr. Lloyd George, nor for any Party reasons, but solely because he has been tried and found wanting. It has become abundantly evident that it is impossible to make any arrangement by which his powers for evil can be restricted and his powers for good maintained. The arguments against placing him in supreme authority in 1916 were acknowledged to be many and great, but they were overborne by the plea that, with all his faults he was a war winner, and that, so potent was his capacity for rousing the nation, and for inspiring the public with what was believed to be his own fiery and exalted spirit, it was worth while to run very great risks in order to secure the services of this "speeder up" of our energies. He was Chatham "redivivus." Were we to be so foolish as to reject him because of his political past? He believed, like Chatham, that he could save the nation, and that nobody else could. Was it not worth while therefore to give him a chance?

For ourselves, we very much doubted the wisdom of this attempt; but when circumstances had placed Mr. Lloyd George in power we felt that there was only one patriotic course to pursue. It was to make the best of him; to hope that responsibility, as it was urged, would steady him; to hope that the good side of him would grow, while the side of the astute Parliamentary and Party tactician and ambitious politician would dwindle away. In any case, the die was cast in December, 1916 and Mr. Lloyd George assumed supreme power with the best wishes and with the loyal support of the whole country. Never had statesman such an opportunity as he was given. Never did statesman throw it away so completely or prove so unworthy of a free people's choice. He was surrounded not only by a body of able and devoted colleagues drawn mainly from the Unionist Party, but also, in spite of the soreness of the Liberals, by a considerable sprinkling of his own Party. Further, he had the very pick of the Labor leaders to assist him, and the active support of the ablest business men of the type of Sir Albert Stanley and Sir Eric Geddes, a body of men chosen by himself from the great commercial administrations of the country. No one could say that he had his ministry forced upon him. He chose them for himself from every section of the nation, and to answer his call was looked upon as a sacred duty. Moreover, Mr. Lloyd George began with the support of practically the whole Press. Radical papers like the "Daily Chronicle," the "Manchester Guardian," and "Lloyd's Weekly News," and the most widely circulated of Sunday papers like the "News of the World," "The Morning Post," the "Scotsman," and the Glasgow "Herald" to secure him a fair field and no favors. The Harmsworth Press, with its special relations to him, joined with the Hulton newspapers to guarantee him the widest and most favorable publicity. We ourselves, though we so greatly disliked the methods by which the fall of the Asquith Ministry was brought about, resolved that we would not think of how he had gained his power, but only of how in the future he might use it in the interests of the nation and for the winning of the war.

It is our purpose to trace the story of the year and a half during which Mr. Lloyd George has had the whole of the resources of Britain, nay of the British Empire, at his command. In December 1916, we asked: "What will he do with it?" We now ask: "What has he done with it?"

Three great problems had to be met and solved by Mr. Lloyd George when he took office. The first and most important of all was the application of Conscription to Ireland. His business was to tap a reservoir that could give us three hundred thousand fighting men at a time when in truth we needed them almost as much as we do now, though the need was not so tragically visible. The next problem was the Arming of the Nation as a whole for war, and the preparation of the machinery, not merely for the coming out of the younger men who then remained at home and their replacement by older men, but for the compulsory calling to the nation's aid, civil as well as purely military, the pick of the men up to fifty, or even beyond. The third was the problem of Shipping—the provision of ships to make good the losses suffered by the attacks of the German submarines. It is impossible for Mr. Lloyd George to say that he could not foresee these things. They were apparent to all the thinking people of the nation, and were, for example, again and again set forth in these pages. Remember also that the case against Mr. Asquith's Government was largely based by Mr. Lloyd George, and those who supported from the outside his attacks from the inside upon the Administration of which he was one of the most prominent members, upon the failure of the First Coalition to do the three things we have just named. The complaint against Mr. Asquith was that he had failed to deal adequately with these problems, and especially with the problem of applying Compulsory Service to Ireland.

On this part of the indictment, then, immediate judgment may be claimed, on the ground that the defence put forward by Mr. Lloyd George and his supporters is no defence at all. He has failed us in each particular, and failed not owing to the force of circumstances, nor from inability to see what was required, but from unwillingness to grasp the nettle lest it should sting. In 1916 the country would have refused him nothing. He could have carried the application of Conscription to Ireland without difficulty, though of course he would not have had the support of Mr. Redmond and the Irish members of the House of Commons. At that time Sinn Fein had hardly dared to raise its head. The worst of the extremist agitators were safely under lock and key, and the Southern Irish dared not, as they dare now, openly avow themselves, the allies of Germany—men whom it would be an oppression to conscript for the side they detest. Instead of facing the Irish question boldly and dealing with its realities, Mr. Lloyd George preferred the camouflage of a Convention and of a so-called policy of conciliation, the only result of which was to give the Sinn Fein leaders the opportunity to show their fellow-countrymen that it paid very much better to threaten and coerce the brutal Saxon than to make terms with him. It was fear, and nothing else, they urged, which induced John Bull to relax his grasp upon the prisoners and to let them return to their homes and their practice of sedition without even a pledge that they would not indulge in any further overt action.

Mr. Lloyd George trifled with the whole Irish question until, a month ago, under the coercion of his own colleagues and of British public opinion, he was forced to pretend that Irishmen are to be compelled to bear their share of the common burden. And then came his final triumph in the art of trifling with the nation's dearest interests. He made Conscription depend in fact, though of course he promised that it should not so depend, upon the application to Ireland of the system of Home Rule which could be applied only by the breaking of the most solemn pledges, pledges given not only by himself but by every party in the State, to the people of North-East Ulster. He pointed the cannon at the pro-German rebels of Ireland, but so arranged the mechanism that it could not be fired without firing another piece of artillery pointed at the heart of the British Empire. We are to have Conscription in Ireland only at the price of handing over a part of the United Kingdom to our avowed enemies and the avowed friends of Germany. What is more, with cynical indifference Mr. Lloyd George made it clear that Conscription was to be applied to Ireland only after he had provided the machinery which, it was universally admitted, must render its working impossible. This is the condition to which he has brought Ireland and the problem of Man-Power in Ireland after a year and a half of waiting and seeing, of intriguing and pledge breaking, of political "manoeuvring in depth." When North East Ulster, faced with his violated pledge, complains and points to his plighted word, he tells her that the war has lasted longer than he expected.

There is, alas not much need to dwell upon the Government's failure to array the nation till we were actually under the fire of the German guns. The opportunity for doing this essential work, not in a panic and a hurry but with caution and deliberation, must have been purposely rejected by the head of the Government, for we know that the need was before Mr. Lloyd George's eyes. It was the same with ship-building. He must have known the problem was vital, and yet, as we now see, he did not begin to insist upon the matter being taken, not merely seriously but in deadly earnest, till a month ago. In the case of these most vital problems he consented to wait and see until it was too late, or at any rate so late that we have to run risks, and terrible risks which we need not have run. It is idle for him to tell us now that he did his best, that circumstances were too strong for him, and that he was deceived by promises which were not kept. Such excuses might weigh in the case of a Minister who had inherited office from the times of peace. They are not available for one whose only excuse for the methods by which he obtained office was that he was a war winner, and that he could put into the Government an energy not given to other men. Any Front Bench politician that we could name could have neglected the shipbuilding problem as successfully as Mr. Lloyd George.

Mr. Lloyd George's actual war record, by which we mean his dealings with the soldiers and the Army, is fully as bad as his Irish record, but that we must leave over for another occasion. Bad also is his record as regards his relations with the Press and his manipulations of the organs of public opinion. Worst of all perhaps is the way in which he formed inside the Ministry a camarilla of self-seeking politicians and second-rate men of business, either forced upon him by outside pressure or selected of his own free choice. Mr. Lloyd George altered his tune half-way through his Administration. The Government were, as far as membership went, a fair enough Government when they began, but see how Mr. Lloyd George has changed them. He brought in from the Liberal Party one of the most dangerous and most untrustworthy of politicians, Mr. Winston Churchill, a man not only unstable as water, but one who, quite apart from any charges of self-seeking, can be shown to have the worst judgment of any public man of our times. Witness the madness of his declarations in regard to our Naval policy. Further, Mr. Lloyd George allowed one of our most rightly respected ministers, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, to go, in order to make way for Mr. Montagu. He brought Lord Rothermere and Lord Beaverbrook into the very heart of the Government, and made Lord Northcliffe an official of high importance. But, this, again, we must leave, like his dealings, with the Army, to another article. We will only say here that he illustrated the terrible words with which Wordsworth ended one of the greatest of all his political sonnets, the sonnet which begins, "Another year!—another deadly blow. Another mighty Empire overthrown!" The poet tells us that, in spite of the awful menace of the hour, all will be well if only

"they who rule the land Be men who hold its many blessings dear, Wise, upright, valiant; not a servile band, Who are to judge of danger which they fear, And honor which they do not understand."

It is true that within the last few days the moral force of the Ministry has been greatly strengthened by the inclusion of Mr. Austen Chamberlain, and that certain other resignations have improved it. But considering the bias of the Government in the first quarter of the year—i. e., till the German onset put the fear of men into the Prime Minister's heart—we can only say that the Ministry contained within it "a servile band," a band involving terrible perils to the nation for the very reason that Wordsworth gives. Their judgment of our danger was brought to naught by their fears, because as the record of the Prime Minister's pledges has shown, honor is a word to the understanding of which the hearts of many of them are altogether closed.

MAY HELP GET RUSSIA ON HER FEET.

The Bolsheviki government in Russia is now thoroughly in control of the Germans.

Trotsky and Lenine are not the representatives of the Soviets but the agents of the Kaiser.

If we, the Allies, delay much longer, the interference is by no means an easy course, then Germany will get hold of Siberia, just as she has taken Ukraine.

It looks as if matters were coming to a crisis.

Late word from Moscow says, thru a correspondent "the revolutionary movement in Ukraine is steadily growing in spite of arrests, punitive expeditions and wholesale hanging. I have seen a German photograph with a row of twenty gallows with the corpses of Austrian internationalists who were executed at Ekaterinoslavf.

A great fire in Kiev destroyed five square miles of the town. Munition stores were blown up in Kremenchug. The Odessa arsenal was blown up. Strike after strike is taking place in many towns. Organized bands of guerrillas are systematically destroying German detachments engaged in requisitioning food."

In the north of Russia the Finns and Germans are steadily advancing on Russian territory toward the Murmansk Railroad by two routes—first along the Torneo and Koeda Rivers toward Kandalaska; second from Kop ia by the Kem River toward Kem. They are building a military railroad along both routes. Their forces are well down toward the White Sea.

In this movement of the Finns the Soviets of the North, see the German hand and they realize that they care only be saved from German enslavement by allied help. These northern Soviets have ever been against the Brest-Litovsk treaty.

At present everything looks as if the Allies will soon be assisting Russia, both military as well as with economic relief.

It is a difficult problem, but it is believed that, before long, there will be an announcement that the Allied nations have agreed on concerted intervention to be participated in by the United States, Japan, Great Britain, China, France, Belgium, Italy, Serbia and Portugal.

SUCCESSFUL RED CROSS MEETING AT UPPER STEWACKE, EAST, SUNDAY NIGHT.

A grand rally in favor of the Canadian Red Cross was held in the Church at Springside Upper Stewacke, Sunday evening the 7th. There was a good attendance and Rev. Dr. Archibald made a fine Chairman, appropriately introducing the speakers.

Hon. Davidson Hill kindly took his car and carried a party from Truro, Prof. H. L. Stewart, Harold Putnam, Principal Cumming, out to this Red Cross Rally.

The speakers were Prof. Stewart and Mr. Putnam and the claims of the Canadian Red Cross were clearly forcibly and eloquently put before the audience.

It was a good meeting and the result will be a most liberal contribution to this grand fund from Upper Stewacke in this Drive this week.

Suffered Great Agony. Pains in the Stomach. For Over Three Years.

Miss Dorothy Clark, Kouchibouguac, N.B., writes: "For over three years I suffered great agony from pains in the stomach. I tried several remedies, but got no relief until a friend advised me to take Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I started with two vials, and before I had one quite used I found much relief. I continued until I used four vials, and they have completely cured me. That was fourteen months ago, and I have not had the slightest return since. The best praise I can give them is not enough."

Most of the misery and ill-health that humanity is burdened with arise from disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. If you are feeling out of sorts, have pains in the stomach, especially after eating, bilious spells, headaches, sour stomach, coated tongue, waterbrash, etc., you should take a few doses of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. You will be surprised how quickly they will fix you up. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SCHOOL GIRLS NERVES.

When an undue amount of nervous energy is consumed in the brain there is bound to be failure of the other functions of the body. Digestion is impaired—the head aches—you cannot sleep—you are easily excited and irritated—feeling tired and lack energy. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a creator of rich, red blood and a builder up of the exhausted, nervous system.

KINDERGARTENS AND CULTURE.

The International Kindergarten Union, which is celebrating its silver jubilee in Chicago, does not intend to discard the name "kindergarten" as has been suggested, because of its German origin and associations. Why should the idea ever have been seriously entertained. There is no good substitute name and the kindergarten scheme of instruction is about as un-Prussian as anything in education. In fact, the Prussian Government in 185 officially announced that schools founded on Frobel's principles could not be "allowed." Not everything with a German name is bad, and kindergarten now adays are more American than German. Quite another matter is the decision of the Cornell University authorities to devote to a broader purpose the $100,000 endowment given to the university by Jacob H. Schiff in 1912 "to promote studies in German Culture." At the donor's suggestion the fund will be applied to the study of human civilization, beginning with lectures on the civilization of France. This is the repudiation of Prussian principles and ideals which all Americans will endorse. The civilized world knows all it wants to know of culture; it cannot know too much of the true culture which is the antidote of the poisonous, and France is an excellent fountainhead to which to go. In this case it is not a mere question of changing a German name harmless in itself but of eradicating a German taint.—New York World.

A memorial to the late Archdeacon Martell in the form of a Lectureship or chair of Pastoral Theology at King's College will be established; and brass memorials will also be erected in Christ Church, Windsor and at Maitland.

MOTHER AND CHILD

VERY LOW WITH DYSENTERY.

Dysentery is one of the worst forms of bowel complaint. It comes on suddenly, the pains in the bowels become intense, the discharges occur with great rapidity, and are very often accompanied by blood, and the action on the system so weakening that its termination often proves fatal. When the bowels get loosened up in this way, and you wish to check the unnatural discharge without bringing on constipation, there is only one remedy to use, and that is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Mr. W. J. Metcalfe, Tofield, Alta., writes: "I wish to state that we have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry with good results. I can say that it can't be beat. It saved my wife and little boy last summer, when they were very low with dysentery. We always have a bottle of it in the house, and would not be without it for a cost five dollars a bottle." "Dr. Fowler's" is not an experiment but a tried and proven remedy that has been used in Canada for the past 72 years. There are many cheap imitations and substitutes of this sterling remedy on the market. Beware of them and accept only the original when you ask for it, as these cheap no-name, no-reputation, so-called "strawberry" compounds may be dangerous to your health. The genuine is put up only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont., and the sole agent, Mrs. Alex. Grantmyer, Sydney.

53RD. ANNUAL SESSION OF THE GRAND LODGE OF NOVA SCOTIA I. O. G. T.

Held at Hantsport Hants Co., on July 2nd, 3rd, and 4th.

(Specially reported for Truro News)

The Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia I. O. G. T., met in its annual session in the Methodist Church, at Hantsport, Hants Co., opening at 8 o'clock, p. m. Tuesday 2nd inst. The evening session was taken up in the conferring of the Grand Lodge degree and receiving the reports of the Grand Officers, also the appointment of the sessional committees and reports from delegates.

Wednesday.

The morning session opened at 9.30 and after the usual routine business several reports from committees were received and fully discussed.

The Grand Secretaries reports showed a decrease in the membership in the Order, which was fully expected, under the present war conditions, also it was necessary to suspend a number of lodges owing to so many of their members enlisting for service. No doubt in due time a large majority of them will be reconstituted after condition become normal.

The Grand Superintendent of Junvenile Work's report, showed a decrease in members and Temples, but from new plans made and from consideration given this department of the work better results are expected for next year.

The afternoon and evening sessions were taken up in further consideration of reports and general Grand Lodge business.

At the Thursday morning session the election of officers took place after which the delegates to National Grand Lodge were appointed and the next place of meeting decided.

Further consideration was given to reports of committees which was continued in the afternoon, followed by the installation of the officers which was conducted by the Rev. E. A. McPhee, Past Grand Chief, Parkdale, Lunenburg Co., acting as installing officer assisted by W. S. Carlyle, P. G. C. T. Valley and Miss Charlotte Irwin, News Staff, Truro.

Following the installation, addresses were given by the newly installed officers, after which Mayor Sterling, of Hantsport presented to the Grand Lodge splendid treat of the best make of chocolates for which a hearty vote of thanks was extended, Mr. Sterling making a suitable reply.

Resolution of congratulation was extended to Charles McVicar, Grand Treasurer and wife and Dan McLean and wife who were present on their honeymoon, just having been joined in wedlock; also to A. B. Fletcher o. Truro, the Senior Past Grand Chief, Templar of Nova Scotia, who was married in Truro at the age of 84 and the bride being 76 and the groomsman 87, who is also a member of our Order.

Resolutions of thanks were extended to Hants District Lodge and to Crystal Stream Lodge for the welcome extended to us.

This closed a very successful session of the Grand Lodge which will meet again in Amherst on July 1st and 3rd 1919.

In the evening Hants District Lodge and Crystal Stream Lodge of Hantsport tendered a farewell to Good Templars and friends in the Forrester's Hall, where a delightful evening was spent in a social way. Ice Cream and cake were freely served. Music readings, recitations and addresses were given including a very interesting one by Rev. J. B. Dickie, D. D., who was some years in active Good Templar.

PIANO RECITALS BY MISS GOURLEY AND PUPILS.

Sixth Piano Recital.

The recital took place at Mr. and Mrs. Albert Flemming's home, Queen Street, on Wednesday afternoon, June 12, the performers being their daughter, Miss Florence, and her assistant, Miss May Dowden, in violin. The program was as follows:

- (a) "Hohenfriedberg March"—Schwahn.
- (b) "Andante" (G major's symphony)—Hayden.

Florence McCully—Rita Donkin
 2. (a) "Sailor's Song"—Smith
 (b) "Undine" (valse)—Behr.
 Florence Flemming.
 3. (a) "Pastoral Scene"—Roeckel.
 (b) "Love and Flowers"—Aldrich
 May Dowden

4. (a) "Blacksmith's Song"—Bordman.
 (b) "Linnet Waltz"—Hart.
 Florence Flemming.

Miss Florence rendered her selections in her usual vivacious bright manner; being more mechanical than a natural musician, she deserves praise for the degree of proficiency which she has attained.

Her pieces were in allegro tempo and pleased both the young pupil and her audience.

Miss Dowden, was heard again with satisfaction and enjoyment. She and her sister accompanist deserve further recognition and encouragement in their work.

Miss Erna Dowden favored the company with a very pretty piano selection. Her strong free-arm touch which suited the chosen piece, was complimented in terms of appreciation by Miss Gourley.

Mrs. Flemming spent the hour with the young people.

Mrs. Flemming's method of serving baskets was very pretty and unique, and doubly interesting on account of the baskets being made by one of her daughters.

The delicious lunch was much enjoyed, while Miss Gourley referred to these social recitals, as a part of her method in preparing her pupils by practise, and the varied experience for work of a more public nature.

Closing Piano Recital.

The second annual closing piano recital 1917-1918, of Miss Gourley's pupils took place in her class studio, at the residence of Mrs. G. E. Bentley, Elm Street, on Friday afternoon, June 28, at four o'clock.

Miss Gourley prepared the program by giving a short address to her pupils. The following program of piano selections was well given, and each pupil and friend present revealed a deep interest in the endeavor to contribute their part in performing or in listening.

No pupil will feel slighted by the writer referring to the rendering of the beautiful "L'Angelus" by little Miss Mildred Crowe. Her tiny hands did wonderful work in trying to give us the sweet tones of the French bells, which have been made classic in picture, history, song and story.

The selections chosen by Miss Gourley for the intermediate pupils speak well for their advancement.

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work, and as I had four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It is certainly the best medicine for women's ailments I ever saw."

—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. No. 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice in regard to such ailments write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its forty years experience is at your service.

GERMANS WANT PEACE SAYS SOCIALIST NEWSPAPER.

Amsterdam, July 5.—In a leading article, the socialist newspaper Vorwaerts Berlin, declares that the desire of the German people for a speedy peace with honor is so strong that a sensible movement from the other side would be bound to lead to its realization. "Our enemies today, cont us the newspaper, "have the opportunity of obtaining a peace not prescribed by the war map, but based on the equipoise of the military and economic forces on both sides."

The policy of truth demand by Phillip Scheidemann, Socialist leader; requires an admitting that the economic forces of the German people are not in exhausted, and the fact that we are cut off from overseas raw material is being increasingly felt. The more candidly we speak of this matter, the more readily will our enemies believe us when we say that this oppressive situation can only induce us for years to make greater our efforts, but not to accede to conditions dishonoring their interests permanently. The conclusion of a peace with honor thus corresponds to the interests of our adversary in the same degree as our own."

THE DANGER OF THIN BLOOD.

If Not Corrected in Its Early Stages Consumption May Follow.

In no disease is delay or neglect more dangerous than anaemia, a poverty of the blood. It is very common in young girls and in persons who are overworked or confined within doors. It makes its approach in so stealthy a manner that it is often well developed before its presence is recognized.

But taken in time there is a specific, a tonic medicine which increases the number of red blood corpuscles thus enabling the blood to carry the life-giving oxygen to all the tissues of the body. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had unbounded success in the treatment of this stubborn disease because of this wonderful property. The correction of anaemic conditions by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything in medical sciences. Miss Jessie McLean, Trenton, N. S., says—"I was as weak as it was possible for any one to be, and yet be able to go about. My blood seemed to have turned almost to water. I was pale, the least exertion would leave me breathless, and when I went up stairs I would have to stop and rest on the way. I often had severe headaches, and at times my heart would palpitate alarmingly. A good friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I have reason to be grateful that I took the advice. Soon after beginning the use of the Pills I began to get stronger, and by the time I had taken seven boxes I felt that I was again enjoying good health. It hink Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blessing to weak girls, and I shal always warmly recommend them."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The banks are holding a number of coupon bonds which simply await their owners to call for same and exchange, them for scrip certificates. BEAVER FLOUR

MILLED OF BLENDED WHEAT

"Beaver" Flour equals any of the "special pastry flours" because it is, in itself, a special pastry flour—being the choicest Ontario fall wheat, blended with western spring wheat to give it strength. This is why Pies, Cakes, Cookies, Tarts, Doughnuts, Buns and Fancy Pastry—when made with "Beaver" Flour—are so light, so flaky, so uniformly good. This is also why the Bread and Rolls—made with "Beaver" Flour—have a delicate, nutlike flavour that is totally lacking in western spring wheat flours. Just try "Beaver" Flour for anything you are baking—and see what happy results you get, every time.

ANOTHER SMASHING BLOW BY THE BRITISH.

With the British Army in France, July 4.

Australian troops attack the German lines north east of Villers-Bretonneux on the Somme front, this morning and besides taking Hamel Village are said to have battled their way forward beyond Hamel and the Vair woods, between Hamel and Villers-Bretonneux. To the north of this region, between the Somme and the Ancre, another smashing blow was struck by the British troops which advanced the front line four hundred yards, along a width of 1,200 yards. Several hundred prisoners were taken in the advance.

GENERAL PERSHING'S FRATERNAL MESSAGE TO PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE.

Paris, July 4—General Pershing today sent the following message to Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain—"The American army in France feels special satisfaction in knowing that yours is beside it for the anniversary of the 'declaration of independence.' I have learned with equal pleasure that the people of England are uniting with our soldiers and sailors to celebrate 'the fourth' with unusual brilliance—uniting for a manifestation of sympathy and international concern, which will remain a memorable date in the history of our two nations."

FAST FREIGHT FOR FISH.

Ottawa, June 25—Owing to the lack of sufficient express refrigerator cars at the present time and the necessity of conserving coal the plan to increase the express service for fish shipments, supplied under the auspices of the Canada Board, has been amended and a fish freight service will be established instead.

Under the new arrangements a fast freight fish service between Mulgrave Halifax, and Montreal with connection through to Toronto has been agreed upon and introduced by Mr. Hayes of the Canadian Government Railway.

GENERAL PERSHING SENDS ENTHUSIASTIC GREETING TO BRITISH HIGH COMMAND IN FRANCE.

This firm unity of purpose, that on the fourth of July this year so strongly binds the great Allied nations together, stands as a new declaration and a new guarantee that the sacred principles of Liberty shall not perish but shall be extended to all peoples.

PUT YOURSELF THERE

If you were wounded, dying of thirst, fever-racked, if you were lying helpless in rain and mud and cold, and knew that unless some one came to help you you would die in a few hours, you can imagine your desperate agony. THE SAME OLD SPIRIT OF BRITISH PLAY DOES IT.

Col. Arthur Lynch M. P., fought against the British for the Boers and once lay under death sentence. He goes to Ireland to assist in recruiting.

Great Boer leaders are now strong ly behind the British in this World's war. Conquer India with its hundreds of millions are rushing to the help of their conquerors!

Why? Because they realize that Britain is right; and her wars, even of conquest, have been for the good of the conquered.

Imagine the Boers with German blood coursing in their veins fighting for Britain.

Think of Col Lynch with a death sentence for treason once over his head rushing to his dissatisfied Irish Countrymen urging them to be men and take up arms for the British Empire. It is strange; but it is a fact; and the whole world admires it except the Central Powers, who not only do not understand it, but are simply astounded at the result.

ELECTIONS IN HANTS.

Forty-five years ago, July 2nd, 1873 Messrs. M. H. Goudge, Windsor, and George Armstrong, Kempt, contested the county to fill the seat in the House of Commons vacated by the resignation of the Hon. Joseph Howe, who at that time became Governor of Nova Scotia. Goudge won the seat by 113 majority.

In 1869 the Hon. Joseph Howe became a member of the Sir John MacDonald Government and Mr. M. H. Goudge was selected by the Liberal Party of Hants to oppose him. The contest began in January and did not end until the 20th April. Howe was elected by 200 majority.

DR. JOHN WADDELL.

Reprinted from the Canadian Chemical Journal, June 1918.

Taking advantage of the presence at the chemical convention at Ottawa, of Dr. Waddell, of Queen's University, about forty graduates in Engineering who were former students of Dr. Waddell gave a luncheon in his honor. A very happy time was spent, graduates being brought together who though living for years in Ottawa, had not met. The chairman was Dr. M. Y. William, one of the prominent geologists of the Mines Department. The reunion was inspired by a recollection of the sympathetic interest in the welfare of his students that always characterized the teaching of Dr. Waddell. One favorable reaction from this reunion was the bringing forward of some suggestions for improved work in Queen's University in the future, and no doubt one or more of these suggestions will be carried into effect.

Dr. Waddell was born in Pictou, N. S. After studying in Pictou Academy and taking the B. A. degree in he went to Edinburgh University where he was Hope Prizeman and Vans Dunlop scholar. He holds the degree of D. Sc. of Edinburgh and B. Sc. of London, as well as Ph. D. of Heidelberg. In addition to his work as professor in chemistry, he is librarian for the Science Faculty of Queen's. Before coming to Queen's he was for several years professor of science in the Royal Military College of Canada. Dr. Waddell is the author of "The Arithmetic of Chemistry," "A School Chemistry," and "Quantitative Analysis in Practice." He has also written a number of scientific papers and educational articles in British and American periodicals, among them two which recently appeared in The Canadian Chemical Journal.

Our Yankee cousins are telling a story of Pte. F. P. Lennart of Chicago, who after the scrap a few days ago at Belliveau Wood, came into camp with a bag of 78 German prisoners and five German officers.

NAVY DEFEATED ARMY AT BASEBALL.

London, July 5—King George saw the American army defeated in a hard fought baseball game yesterday. The opponent of the army team was one picked from the American navy, which won by a score of two to one. Every one of the nine innings had its thrills for the crowd of over 18,000 present.

A GREAT SURPRIZE TO ENEMY—VICTORY FOR BRITISH.

British Headquarters in France.

This morning's operation at Villers-Bretonneux was one of the most successful in this war. It followed exactly the lines laid down in advance. The ground offered considerable odds to the defenders, yet in less than two hours the whole four lines were in our hands. Our entire casualties are hardly a third of the number of prisoners captured and we reduced the three German Divisions to mere skeletons of what they had been this morning. The features of the attack were the forethought and completeness in its preparation and the use of tanks, which maneuvering admirably, sprang a surprise upon the enemy. Considering the large number of the haul of 1500 prisoners exceeds expectations, even tho it includes a battalion commander and the greater part of his command.

The enemy's attention was distracted by three distinct attacks, launch north of the River, which kept his guns busy. Nearly a hundred men and some ground was captured in these attacks which completely deceived the enemy regarding what was happening across the river. The Germans Divisions engaged, which suffered heavily were the 43rd, 77th, and 18th. The latter is a new Division on this front having recently moved from Lens.

CANADIAN MINISTER SAYS HUN MURDERERS MUST PERISH.

London, July 5—In seconding a resolution of Winston Spencer Churchill proposing "A greeting to the President and people of the United States, at the fellowship meeting yesterday. Arthur Meighen, Canadian Minister of the Interior, denounced in scathing terms the sinking of the Hospital Ship Llandovery Castle by a German submarine. "It is better that the world should perish than that these murderers should live" he declared.

5 HUN U-BOATS SUNK.

An Atlantic Port, July 4—Destruction in European waters of five German submarines by British transports and by American and British destroyers conveying them, was described by passengers who arrived here today on a British liner. The transport, one of which was carrying 7,000 American soldiers to a European port, accounted for three of the U-boats and the destroyers sank the other two according to the passengers. Officers of the liner confirmed their stories.

AVIATORS WIN WAR CROSSES.

Italian Army Headquarters, July 4—Five American aviators, attached to the Italian army, were decorated with the Italian war cross today by King Victor Manuel, during a review. HAD SEVERE PAINS IN SIDES AND BACK. HAD TO GO TO BED.

Women are the greatest sufferers from weak, lame and aching backs owing to the continual stooping, bending and lifting so necessary to perform their household duties.

Women should not despair even if they are troubled with severe pains in the side or back, and not able to attend to these duties, as all they need to do to make the back strong and well again is to stimulate the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. John Simmens, Coleman, P.E.I., writes: "I feel it my duty to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one having weak kidneys, as they have been of great help to me."

Some time ago my kidneys were so bad I had severe pains in my sides and back, and it was impossible for me to stand straight. I then got so bad I had to go to bed, and was that way for a week. I sent for some Doan's Kidney Pills, and I took just about one box, and was able to get up and do my own work."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TOLD PLAIN TRUTHS.

In many places in New York city there has been a quite general feeling that the Bolsheviki are the only true friends of Russian freedom. These sentiments were largely the belief of the pro-German gang in that city. Mrs. Pankhurst has been speaking on the subject in New York and she did not nurse her hearers' feelings or coddle their prejudices. That is not her way on the platform. The essential truth that she sought to drive home was that the Russian people could not be liberated by any set of theorists or group of political leaders who delivered Russia into the hands of the Germans. It was not without good effect that she addresses that plea over and over again to men and women to whom the Bolsheviki name had been the signal for cheers.

MERCHANT SHIP SUNK OFF SPANISH COAST.

An Atlantic Port, July 1—In an attack by a German submarine on a convoy of merchantships, bound for America, a vessel, named the "Orissa" was torpedoed and sunk off the Spanish coast several days ago. The attack was reported on the arrival today of one of the members of the convoy, a big British passenger liner. Another torpedo narrowly missed hitting the passenger vessel. Destroyers accompanying the fleet closed in and discharged depth bombs. Passenger on the steamship said, they did not learn whether the U-boat was destroyed nor did they know any thing regarding the fate of those on board the "Orissa." There are two British steamships named Orissa, one of 5486 tons gross and the other of 8,858 tons gross.

THE KENTVILLE TRAGEDY.

At the coroner's inquest, at Kentville on the 5th presided over, by Dr. Webster, the following verdict was given:

"That Eva Feener came to her death by a gunshot wound inflicted by Millidge Rafuse, on the 4th of July, 1918."

Rafuse will live and Mrs. Selig, who was also shot by Rafuse will likely recover.

This man Rafuse was walking for a woman, named Mrs. Walker, with whom he had been living and Mrs. Eva Feener, the victim of this vile Rafuse, was a daughter of Mrs. Walker. They were a dirty bunch and a disgrace to even the notorious "Pine Woods" district.

The Duke, spent several days in France, during which he visited the British French and Belgian headquarters and had a long chat with King Albert, General Foch, Field Marshall Haig, and General Petain.

On Monday, the Duke attended the Dominion Day sports, held by the Canadian troops in the rear of the fighting front and was received with great enthusiasm.

Hurrah! How's This

Cincinnati authority says corns dry up and lift out with fingers.

Hospital records show that every time you cut a corn you invite loc jaw or blood poison, which is needless, says a Cincinnati authority who tells you that a quarter of an ounce of a drug called freezeone can be obtained a little cost from the drug store but its sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn hard or soft corn or callus.

You simply apply a few drops freezeone, on a tender, aching corn and soreness is instantly relieved. Shortly the entire corn can be lifted out root and all, without pain.

This drug is sticky but dries at once and is claimed to just shrivel up any corn without inflaming or ever irritating the surrounding tissue skin.

If your wife wears high heels she will be glad to know of this.

$800 FOR ONE DAYS FISHING

A Clarks Harbor correspondent writes: The most phenomenal catch of the season was that of the auxiliary netter King Phillip, owned by Messrs. S. E. O'Brien and Nobel Atwood, and manned by Capt. Phillip Jones, and one other man. On Thursday evening, June 13, this boat sailed for the fishing ground equipped with twenty nets. The following evening she returned to her owner's wharf with a capacity load, there being about 20,000 pounds of mackerel. This single day's catch, at the prevailing price of four cents per pound, would bring about $800 thus netting a handsome turn both to the boat. If a better record than this can be reported this season, Clark's Harbor people would like to hear of it.—Shelburne Gazette.

Truro, N. S. July 2-18

Dear Sir:

Today's papers inform us that the greatest enemy of civilization the world has ever known has caused the sinking of A Canadian Hospital Ship.

The lives of Nova Scotia Doctors, and Nova Scotia Red Cross Nurses, have been sacrificed. They have been drowned, murdered by a ruthless un-speakable foe.

What effect will the above facts have on the present Red Cross Drive? You know men—it will make us square our jaws, steel our determination, take off our coats and work and give us that we may "go over the top" and beyond the EIGHTEEN THOUSAND DOLLAR mark—the amount allotted to his Country.

We must have about thirty workers to thoroughly canvass the Town. We want your help and your co-operation. You will be asked by one of the Captains of the nine districts into which the Town has been divided for the purpose of this drive, to lend a hand to help "THE GREATEST MOTHER OF EARTH" typified in the Red Cross Nurse. This drive is for our own Canadian Branch of the Red Cross, so it is up to us NOW. We have entered your name as a collector. We feel sure that you will not fail us if called. Make your personal subscription as generous as possible "and then some." Give your best service for this drive cheerfully. "Do your bit." You will feel the better for the time you give to such a noble cause.

THE SOUL OF RUSSIA

By Gertrude Steckler.

(This is another of a series of articles on this much confused and misrepresented subject. The Author, Mrs. Gertrude Steckler, is a leading authority on Russian life and affairs and her articles are quoted, copied and commented on by some of the leading papers of the Continent. Born in Russia and lived amongst the rich and poor, her sympathy and compassion for the "Children of the Czar" made her study, to the least detail, these unfortunates that today are groping and crawling in the darkness for light. Critics who condemn Russia's actions and Russia friends would accomplish more good on behalf of truth and justice by giving just views, than by burlesque attacks, slanders and petty jealousies—Ed. L. L.)

It is a decided fact that any ideal movement or society tremendously benefited by criticism, discussions, questionings, etc., immaterial whether it comes from its strongest opponents, shiftless sympathizers or no-nothings and whether it be practical, senseless, ridiculous, however, from whatever source it comes, it is beneficial. It stimulates thoughts and thinking is the main basis of progress.

Only by thinking our horizon of knowledge expands. Knowledge gives men control over matter and self, leads them in revolt against deceit, exploitation and oppression of their fellow-men opens widest for them the avenues of creative action and happiness.

The disinforming criticism that appeared on my previous article concerning Socialism and Bolshevism made me realize the want of knowledge the necessity of a comprehensive treatment and active support of the idea of Socialism in order to help the public with the possession of a true conception of its aim and thus cure the implanted prejudice against it.

Socialism has always been and is being misrepresented, misjudged, misunderstood even now, when its strong wave of enthusiasm reached the greatest part of the civilized world. It is exclusively due to the lack of knowledge, to the disability of discrimination between pragmatics and ideals of the numerous other existing radicalisms which appear in the eyes of the ignorant under the same guise as that of socialism and the program and ideal of true Socialism.

Whether one be an atheist, anarchist, dourist, etc., he is stamped with the name Socialist. Have you ever heard your neighbor remark about your friend or acquaintance the "free thinker: Oh he is a disbeliever, a Socialist?" I have heard this remark quite frequently and undoubtedly you have also heard it. What did you think of it? Would it be just to unconsciously support your neighbor's views, or make a slight effort and obtain the truth and knowledge from an authentic source. Seek for the original program, shake of the other "isms of it, and you will find true Socialism as a crystallized natural creative element, based upon reason, compassion, necessity and truth; not in the least, containing any destructive value, internal forces and not insisting upon external extremes; not in any way violating or denying religion of any form and not commanding nature's iron hand to move in a new direction and with the motto of obtaining authenticity about any existing active element in life, our attitude towards many in misrepresented questions of today would forcibly take a different direction thus, instead of feeding prejudice, unconsciously, we might offer a word of support and sympathy to the voice of truth.

The misrepresentation and prejudice against Russian Bolshevism, which is the common product of Socialism and is the question of the day, springs from the identical, as above mentioned, detrimental source as that of true Socialism and that is unconscious conviction, neglect or disloyalty of distinction between absurd, noxious episodes of groups of members of any other "ism, or of groups of outcasts, or of a group or individuals of ignorant members of Bolshevism who misunderstand and misuse the program of the movement they participate, and between the original program of Bolshevism.

I recently read in one of our Jewish newspapers the most prejudicial criticism on Bolshevism and its aim. Socialism based upon an unreasonable preposterous, irrational resolution of a group of soldiers and sailors in Russia in which they attack and violate religion, except the doctrine of "free love deny parental rights and love towards their children, declaring the states' rights of their love and attention etc. among others words, the critic remarks thus: "the group of soldiers and sailors are not to be blamed for their ridiculous actions and thoughts. They have lost their reason, and are carried by the wings of spiritual intoxication. It is the unjudicious drug, socialism, which poisoned that their minds should be condemned. We should, and we have reason to dread the Bolshevike rule for it will bring distraction on moral religion, freedom, rights, love and feelings.

No it is not Socialism but the narrow mindedness of the writer that poison peoples minds, fills them up with hate and prejudice against the truth. The mentioned resolution is very near to the theory of anarchism, but the living contrast of true Socialism. A few days later, I read in the same paper, where the Bolsheviki raided Anarchistic Stations in Moscow, for they are greatly opposed to Anarchism as to a dangerous distrustful element, and are trying to prevent its expansion, and yet Socialism is responsible and Bolshevism is accusable of being an Anarchistic movement.

Its actions and doings of the past might have been wrong—a misgake of the past. The present rules and actions may possibly be displeasing even its greatest sympathizers—the contrasts of its theory.

But we must realize the gravity of the present situation: On one side, its interior full of oppressive acting dangerous elements each carrying in its bowels volcanic forces, and the slightest collision might cause a dreadful catastrophe. On the other side its exterior life confronting war with all its chaos and despotism and in addition carrying on its shoulders the oppressive weight of Germany's deceit and tyranny.

These acute laws, rules and methods of distasteful characters might be of absolute necessity under the present state of affairs in Russia, however the form of the present Russian government is the product of true Socialism not of any other ism. You say what about "evolution?" Karl Morix in his theory of Socialism positively said that the Socialist epoch will follow by the evolution of the capitalistic epoch. The Bolsheviki denied his words? didn't wait for the capitalistic evolution and took Socialism by revolution. It is true Karl Morix the prophet, the direct instrument of the spirit of true Socialism, said that evolution will develop his vision into a living fact but he evidently did not mark any destination to evolution for he knew that evolution cannot be measured, it is mastered by spirit and spirit knows no bond; it is an eventual product and is directed, by eventualities of the day, which result in great sudden reforms and changes in life, almost impassible in gradual development of evolution. On the other hand, hasn't there been enough of evolution, was not there enough of slavery, exploitation, deceit, poverty blood, sweat, starvation, ignorance, gloominess, etc., of labor, the foundation of this age? and wasn't there enough of triumph egotism, glorification ill-gotten benefits, unlimited luxury wild social demonstrations, etc, of self satisfied capital, the root of all evil of this age?

The fact that the Russian protectorate is conscious of its class interests and was the first one to practice the Socialistic step proves evolution to be ripe. Of course there are difficulties enormous difficulties, uncertainty great initiation of sacrifice, connected with the step. But it can't be expected otherwise.

It would be unnatural for the echo of the voice of truth to be carried clear and sound through our atmosphere of chaos and dissipation, and without difficulties strike the note of compassion and recognition. Yet the echo is getting clearer and clearer every day uniting with the spirit of sublime achievement of its aim and rapidly moving to words the reason of every brood, their kind liberal mind, strikes the soul wins its confidence and pledges its support, and thus the time is near when the roots of Social evil will be exposed and destroyed by the vanishing of prejudice and cowardice, in the illumination of great facts which widen feelings of great facts which make all knowledge alive.

GERMAN MEDICINES SEIZED IN HALIFAX, TO BE SOLD BY ORDER OF ADMIRALTY COURT.

Halifax, N. S. July 4—In the admiralty Prize Court, Judge Drysdale ordered the confiscation of a quantity of medicine manufactured in Germany, which was seized by the naval inspection staff here from the luggage of R. Silva Zamorana, a Chilean diplomat, on board the Duth Steamer Hollandia, which, while on a voyage from Amsterdam to Buenos Ayres, called at this port in September, 1917, for examination. One of the inspectors testified yesterday that he had examined the luggage and in one of his trunks found packages and bottles of medicine each bearing labels printed in German. On one of these parcels was written the name of the wife of a German General residing in Berlin.

The inspector said that the Chilean claimed that the trunk was the property of a friend, who had preceded him to America.

W. A. Henry, K. C., for the Crown, informed the Court that the Chilean representative, in Canada had been notified of the proceedings. He also said that a registered letter had been sent to M. Zamorana, owner of custodian of the trunk, to the same effect but that there had been no response. Neither the ship nor M. Zamorana were represented in court.

Judge Drysdale ordered the medicine, which is believed to have been manufactured at a famous dye works in Germany and which is valued at several thousands of dollars, sold by the marshal of the court.

CANADIAN HOSPITAL IN FRANCE BOMBED.

Buildings plainly marked with Red Cross and Well Known to Germans. Sheltered Thousands of Wounded.

Canadian Army headquarters in France, June 25—A Canadian hospital on a site behind the British Front occupied for eighteen months, was bombed by the Germans last night and several persons including doctors and officer patients, were killed or seriously wounded.

The bombing of the Canadian hospital last night followed the bombing of two other Canadian hospitals near the coast. The building on which bombs were dropped sheltered thousands of wounded during the fighting last March.

Canadian nurses, doctors officers and patients were among the number killed or seriously wounded.

The Canadians have occupied the site for more than eighteen months. The roofs were painted with great red crosses and the buildings have never been used for military purposes since the war began. German squadrons in daylight raids have hitherto dropped no bombs near the buildings.

Last night one three-story wing which was about 200 yards long caught fire after being cut clean in half by a huge bomb. Bravely the staff of the hospital started to rescue helpless patients cut off by the flames. In an adjacent wing. Doctors and orderlies brought them through shattered windows down ladders to safety.

The first bomb went through the first two floors and into the operating room, where the night staff was working on urgent cases that had just arrived. The operating staff, including nurses, was buried under an avalanche of debris and in a few minutes the whole operating section was a flaming tomb. Bursting tubes of ether and hydrogen added to the ghastliness.

Fortunately two other surgical teams had just halted their work and had gone to mess for their midnight supper or the casualty list of doctors and nurses would have been much

ENTIRE EXECUTIVE RESIGNED.

Regina, Sask., June 23.—Hon. G. W. Brown, L. E. Mutton, G. A. Mantle, F. H. Auld and W. A. Wilson the executive of the Saskatchewan food control commission, have resigned in a body, and have asked to be relieved of their work. In resigning, the executives expressed their view that they could no longer carry on the work because of the conditions created in Saskatchewan by certain regulations of the Canada Food Board.

(The C. F. B. may be doing good work but we hear considerable complaint about some of their regulations, the war time menus that they are sending out to the public are the subject of sport all over the country. They are menus, containing expensive article of diet, some of which high price cannot be thought of; and the most of them are away beyond the ordinary man's purse.)

A mother in Belgium saw a German approaching her home. She hid her children. The German demanded supper, lodging and breakfast. His wants were satisfied. In the morning, to the surprise of the good woman he paid her. She said "How strange—I thought all Germans were bad. I am pleased to know that you are a gentleman. Do you know that when I first saw you I hid my children?" "So?" replied the German. "I too have children. Let me see yours." Whereupon the fond mother called up the treasures of her heart from the cellar, only to see them both shot dead at her feet.

In her grief later she told the story to her neighbors—but now she tells it to the bars of her window in a madhouse.

A Proficient Instructor.

When father came home to dinner he observed a vacant chair at the table. "Where is the boy?" asked he, nodding to the chair.

"Harry is upstairs," came in a tone of painful precision from the mother.

"I hope he is not sick." "There was an anxious pause. "No he is not sick," continued the mother. "It grieves me to say, Richard, that our son, your son, has been heard swearing on the street. I heard him myself."

"Swearing!" exclaimed the father. "I'll teach him to swear" And with that the angry parent started upstairs in the dark. Halfway up he stumbled and came down with his chin on the top step.

When the confusion had subsided Harry's mother was heard saying from the hallway: "That will do, Richard dear. You have given him enough for one lesson."

"Well" replied his anonymous questioner, "I want to send my little daughter down town for some thread if you are not going."

VISITED TRURO.

Mr. Wilbert Porteous, with his two bright boys, William and Roland, of Oliver, Col. Co., were in town on the 4th.

They drove over the Mountain and found the highway bad. The new Road Committee has evidently not got to work yet on this bit of public road.

The two boys were much interested in the big press in the News Office as it was turning out the Wesley at the time of their visit, and both concluded it would be great fun to be "printed devils" even on a trifling newspaper.

HUN SUBMARINE COMMANDER HAD INFORMATION OF SAILING OF HOSPITAL SHIP FROM HALIFAX.

London, July 2. Major T. Lyon, of the Canadian Medical corps, who suffered such severe treatment, when he was taken from the Captain's boat and dragged aboard the German submarine, which sank the hospital ship Llandovery Castle, has been brought to a hospital in London.

"I dread to think what would have happened to an American Flying Officer had he been in my shoes," said Major Lyon today. He then related to the Associated Press his experience with the Germans. "Captain Sylvester, Master of the Hospital ship, went aboard the submarine first, remaining perhaps five or ten minutes," Major Lyon said. "Then they came after me. The second officer of the submarine grabbed me by the hand and I was jerked aboard, a bone in my foot being broken. I ascertained afterward that the Germans had questioned Sylvester as to whether a wireless message had been despatched asking for assistance, and about American Flying Officers. I was taken to the conning tower and kpt standing three minutes while I was interrogated by the German commander regarding my being a medical officer. I saw eight or ten men while aboard. All of them spoke English. Finally they sent me back to the lifeboat, my story having tallied with Sylvester's. This seemed to surprise the Germans, as they pretended to be sure that American Flight Officers were aboard. I have my doubts about this; my belief being that the Germans simply used this as a pretext for the torpedoing of the Llandovery Castle."

Major Lyon related how the Germans pursued them soon after the life boat put away from the Submarine and called for the ship's second officers, who was taken to the conning tower, and questioned at length regarding the explosion as the vessel sank.

The Germans apparently had beforehand information as the commander of the submarine, said Major Lyon, had asked about eight flying officers.

IMPORTANCE OF ITALIAN VICTORY.

The victory of General Dias over the Austrians is not only increasing the morale of the Italian fighters and lowering that of the enemy but Austro-German domination of the plains of Northern Italy disappears. This is the great industrial position of Italy. Fully two thirds of that country's horse-power and industrial population are in the part of Italy the enemy was trying to dominate.

If the enemy had been successful then Italy would have had to depend on the allies for food and shipping. It is a great victory. Italy has not only avoided the disaster of last October, but this late news may mean a side in forcing Austria out of the War.

A WELL KNOWN LADY REACHES AGE OF NINETY.

Mrs. Dr. Isaac Murray At Home to Many Friends on July First—Harold Putnam, Truro, a nephew among those Present.

The New Glasgow Evening News of July 2 has the following:—Probably one of New Glasgow's oldest residents celebrated her 90th birthday yesterday, in the person of Mrs. Dr. Isaac Murray, East River Road. This will known lady was able to receive and shake the hand of more than 200 of her friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Murray is a daughter of the late Rev. John Sprott, one of the pioneer missionaries of this country. He was a Scotchman, and did splendid work in establishing the principles of Christianity to the people of his day. Her husband, the late Rev. Dr. Isaac Murray, was also a very well known Presbyterian clergyman, having held pastorates in different parts of the Maritime Provinces.

The allotted span of life in the Scripture is three score years and ten but this estimable old lady has far outstripped this number of years. Mrs. Murray has retained her mental faculties to a wonderful degree. Mrs. Murray is fortunate in having with her two daughters, the Misses Annie and Bessie, who are a great comfort to her in her declining years. Besides the large number of friends who called to congratulate Mrs. Murray was Mrs. J. W. McLean, wife of Dr. McLean of North Sydney. Dr. McLean was an elder in Rev. Dr. Isaac Murray's last pastorate, at North Sydney. Mr. Harold Putnam, L.D. Registrar Deeds Truro, a nephew of Mrs. Murray was also present.

Well over 200 persons were present at the anniversary. Mrs. Murray was the recipient of many beautiful bouquets of flowers. A number of telegrams were received from friends who were unable to attend.

One Of The Six Hundred

It is a common prefix of Fifeshire localities. By some nauticalians it thought to mean Pict; by others a grave.

Cora drew our attention to the clenched hand, and assured us that it grasped something that was meant to represent a lock or ringlet of hair.

Whether this was the case or not, it was impossible for us to say, so much as it covered by the green moss and rose tinned lichens; but she added that "it embodied a quaint little legend which she would relate to us after dinner."

"An why not now, dear Cora?" said Lady Loftus. "If it is a legend, where so fitting a place as this old ruin, with its roofless walls and shattered windows?"

said Cora, pointing with her whip to the great hill of Largo, the cone of which was rapidly becoming hidden by a grey cloud; while another mass of vapour, dense and gloomy, laden with hail or snow, came heavily up from the German Sea, and began to obscure the sun. "See, a wintry blast is coming on and the sooner we get back to the glen the better. Lead the way, Newton, and we shall follow."

"With pleasure," said I; and giving a farewell glance at the old ruin I might never see again, I turned my horse's head northward, and led the way homeward at a smart canter; but we had barely entered Calderwood avenue when the storm of hail and sleet came down in all its fury.

Dinner over, I joined the ladies in the drawing-room, leaving the M. P., to take the place of Sir Nigel, who was still absent. The heavy curtains, drawn closely over all the oriel, rendered us heedless of the state of the weather without; and while Binns traversed the room with his coffee-trays, a group was gathered in a corner round Cora, from whom we claimed her story of the old castle we had just visited and she related it somewhat in the following manner.

CHAPTER IX.

"Is there any room at your head, Emma?"

"Is there any room at your feet?"

"Is there any room at your side, Emma? Where I may sleep so sweet?"

"There is no room at my side, Robin?"

"There is no room at my feet."

"My bed is dark and narrow now?"

"But, oh! my sleep is sweet."

Old Ballad.

"During the time of King Charles I and the wars of the great Marquis of Montrose, his captain-general in Scotland—that terrible period when the civil war was waged in England, and Scotland was rent in twain between the armies of the Covenant and of the Cavaliers—William Calderwood of Pitheadie was the lover of Annora Moultray ray," daughter of Symon, the Laird of Seafield; a tower which stands upon the seashore, not far from Kinghorn.

Both were young and handsome; both were the pride of the district at kirk, market, and merry-meeting; and a time had been fixed for their marriage when the troubles of the Covenant came. Calderwood adhered to the king, and the father of his bride to Cromwell, and the Puritan English.

So the poor lovers were separated; their engagement deemed broken by the parents of Annora, who were dark, gloomy, and stern religionists—true old Whigs of Fife; but on the day before William Calderwood departed to join the great Marquis, who was advancing from the north at the head of his victorious Highlanders, he contrived to have a farewell interview with his mistress at the little ruined chapel of Eglishie Marie, which stood, within a few years ago, at Tyrie, in the fields near Grange.

In those days of ecclesiastical tyranny and social espionage, little could escape the parish minister; so the Reverend Elijah Howler promptly apprised Symon of Moultray of his daughter's "foregathering" with the ungodly one at that relic of Popery, the chapel of Mary. They were surprised by the furious father, who exclaimed—

"Sackcloth and ashes! ye graceless limmer, begone to your spindle, and thou, mansworn loon, draw!"

Unsheathing his sword, he rushed upon Calderwood, and would have slain him, notwithstanding the sanctity of the place, but for the interference of his youngest son, Philip, who accompanied him, and parried the threatening sword.

He hurled, however, the deepest and most bitter reproaches upon Calderwood, as "an apostate from the kirk of God; the adherent of a king who had broken the Covenant; a leaguer with the mansworn and God-forsaken James Graham of Montrose, and his murdering gang of Highland Philistines; the representative of a false brood, among whom no daughter of his should ever mate without a father's curse resting on her bridal-bed," with much more to the same purpose.

The young gentleman strove to deprecate his anger; but, "Away!" the fiery old man resumed; hence, ye trouble o' Isreal, who hast hearkened unto the devil and his prelates; and beware how he cross the purpose o' Symon o' Seafield, for all the powers o' hell may fall to balk my vengeance!"

Under his shaggy brows his eyes glared at Calderwood as he spoke; and fiercely he drew his blue bonnet over them, as he hurled his broadsword into its scabbard, struck its basket-hilt signifi- cantly, and, grasping his terrified daughter by the wrist, dragged her rudely away. A farewell glance, mute and despairing, was all that the parted lovers could exchange. As for the injurious reproaches of the irate old man, Willie Calderwood heeded them not.

He only mourned in his heart this civil and religious war, that had engendered hate and rancour in the breasts of those at whose board he had long been a welcome guest, and who certainly, at one time, loved him well.

If Symon of Seafield was rancorous in his animosity his wife, the Lady Grizel Kirkaldie of Abden, was double so. Thus the poor Annora, as she sat by her side, guiding the whirling spindle, spinning monotonously at her wheel, was compelled, in the interval of prayer, bible reading, catechizing, and mortification of the body and spirit to hear the most insulting epithets heaped upon the name of her young and handsome lover, whose figure, as she saw him last at Eglishie Marie, with his long, black cavalier plume shading his saddened face, and his scarlet mantle muffling the hilt of the rapier he dared not to draw on her father, seemed ever before her.

To prevent their meeting again, Annora was secluded and carefully watched in the upper storey of Seafield Tower and by her brothers' following pieces many a stray pigeon was shot, lest a note might be tied under its wing.

The tower forms a striking feature of the sea-beaten shore, midway between the Kirkcaldy and Kinghorn-ness. It rests on one side on a mass of red sandstone rock; on the other it was guarded by a fosse and bridge, the remains of which can be yet traced. To the seaward lie the Vows—some dangerous rocks, on which, on a terrific night in the December of 1800, a great ship of Elbing perished with all her crew.

A roofless and open ruin now, exposed to the blasts which sweep up the Firth of the German Sea, it has long been abandoned to the seaweeds, the bat, and the owl, and the ugle, as it was named of old in Fifeshire.

But the seclusion of Annora was not required; for, on the very day after the interview which was so roughly interrupted at Eglishie Marie, Willie Calderwood, at the head of sixteen troopers, all sturdy "Kailsuppers of Fife" well mounted and accoutred in half armour—i.e., back, breast, and pot, with sword and musketoen—had departed for the king's host, and joined the Marquis of Montrose, whose troops, flushed with their victorious battles at Tippermuir, Alford, Aldearn, and the Brig o' Dee, came pouring over the Ochil mountains, to sack and burn the Castle of Gloom.

Tidings of this advance spread rapidly from the West to the East Neuk of Fife. Great numbers of the Whig lairds repaired to the standard of Bailie the covenanting general; and among others who drew their swords under him at the battle of Kilsyth, were Symon of Seafield and his three sons.

The latter, fiery and determined youths had but one object or idea—to single out and slay without mercy William Calderwood, on the first field where words were crossed.

The parting injunction of their father to Dame Grizel was to leave nothing undone to urge on the marriage of Annora with the Reverend Elijah Howler, a sour visaged saint, in Geneva cloak and starched bands, with the lappets of a calotte cap covering his grizzled hair and cadaverous cheeks, who, during the troubles that seemed to draw nearer, had taken up his residence in that gloomy tower, which was half surrounded by the waves.

At another time, had she dared Annora, who was really a merry-hearted girl, with curling chestnut hair and clear bright hazel eyes, might have laughed at such a lover as this "lean and slippered pantaloon," who now, in scriptural phraseology, culled chiefly out of the Old Testament, besought her to share his heart and fortunes; but the dangers that overhung her affianced husband and her father's household whichever side conquered in the great battle, that was impending, and the monotony of her own existence, which was varied only by the long nasal prayers and quavering psalmody in which the inhabitants of the tower (chiefly old women now) lamented the iniquity of mankind, and "warsted wi' the Lord—prayers and psalms that mingled with the cries of the sea-birds and the boom of the ocean on the rocks around the tower, all tended to crush her naturally joyous spirit, and corrode her young heart with artificial gloom.

She was frequently discovered in tears by Dame Grizel; and then sharp indeed, was the rebuke that fell upon her.

"Oh, mother dear," she would exclaim, "pity me?"

"Silence! bairn, and greet nae mair!" the lady would reply, sharply. "Harken to the voice of ane that loves ye; but not after the fashion of this miserable world—the Reverend Elijah, Bethink ye on whom your delicate cavalier may e'en the now be showering his ungodly kisses. Bethink ye—

That dull love is causal love, But new love is true love. Elijah loves ye well, and, though the man be auld, his love is new and true. Annora shuddered with anger and grief; while her stern mother, giving additional impetus to her spinning-wheel, as she sat in the ingle by the hall fire, eyed her grimly askance, and muttered—

"Calderwood, forsooth! There never cam' faith or truth frae one o' the line o' o' Pitheadie since the cardinal was stickit by Norman Leslie, a hundred years ago. Are ye a daughter o' mine and o' Symon Moultray, an yet are he-hearted enough to renounce God and his covenant kirk, and adhere to bishops and curates—to seek the fushionless milk that cometh frae a yeld bosom, sic as the kirk o' prelacy hath? Fiel and awa' wi' ye!"

"I forsake nae kirk, mother," urged the poor lassie; "but I will adhere to my Willie. Falsheid never cam' o' his line, and the Calderwoods are auld as the three trees o' Dysart."

"And shall be shunned like the devil o' Dysart," replied her mother, beating the hearthstone with the high heel of her red shoe.

The cornfields were yellowing in the fertile Howe of Fife, and the woods were still green in all their summer beauty, when, about Old Lammusday, in the year 1645, there went a vague whisper t rough the land; none knew how—that a bloody battle had been fought somewhere about the Fells of Campsie; that many a helm had been cloven, many a blue-bonnetted head lay on the purple heather; and that many a Whig Fife laird had perished with his followers.

Sorely troubled in spirit, the Reverend Elijah Howler took his ivory-handled staff, adjusted his bands and his beaver above his calotte cap, and, in quest of sre tidings, set forth to Kin- dom, at the market-cross of which he had heard the terrible intelligence, that the sword of the ungodly had triumphed—that Montrose had burst into the lowlands like a roaring lion, seeking whom he might devour; and all along the Burntisland Road Elijah saw the Fife troopers come spurring, with buff coats slashed, and harness battered, bloody, dusty, and having all the signs of discomfort and fear.

Ere long he learned that Symon of Seafield and his three sons were in safety (thanks to their horses' heels); but that the Marquis of Montrose had encountered the army of the covenant on the field o' Kilsyth, where he had gained a great and terrible victory, slaying, by the edge of the sword, six thousand soldiers; that the killing covered fourteen miles Scottish—i. e., twenty five miles English—and that on the men of the Fifeshire regiments had fallen the most serious slaughter.

In fact, very few of them ever returned, for nearly all perished, and the terror of that day is still a tradition in many a hamlet of Fife.

Annora felt joy in her heart when her father and brothers returned; yet it was not without alloy, for where was he born whom she had sworn to love, and a lock of whose dark brown hair she wore in secret next her heart?

Lying cold and mangled, perhaps on the field of Kilsyth!

There one of her father's men, Roger of Tyrie, had found a relic of terrible import. It was a kilmaur's whittle; the blade was of fine steel, hafted with tortoise-shell, adorned with silver circles. I t was graven with the Calderwood arms, and spotted with blood; but whose blood?

Symon and his sons came home to the tower crestfallen, and with hearts full of bitterness. Symon's steel cap, with its triple bars, had been struck from his head by the marquis's own sword, and now he wore a broad bonnet, with the blue cockade of the Covenant streaming from it, over his left ear.

Long, lank, and grizzled, his hair flowed over his shoulders upon his gorget and cuirass. His complexion was sallow, his expression fierce, as he trod, spurred and jack-booted into the vaulted hall of the tower, and grimly kissed Dame Grizel on the forehead.

"The goddess Philistines have been victorious, and yet ye have a' come back to me without scratch or scar," she exclaimed, with Spartan bitterness. "Even sae, gudewife—even sae; but for that day at Kilsyth the vengeance shall yet be ours!"

"Yea, verily," groaned Elijah Howler, "for it was a day of woe, a day of wailing and of loud lamentation," as the weeping of Jazer, when the lords of the heathen had broken down her principal plants; and as the mourning of Rachel, who wept for her children, and would not be comforted."

"Get me a stoup o' ale," said Symon, with something like an oath, as he flung aside his sword and gauntlets. "And thou, minion, after that day o' bluid, will ye cling yet to that son o' Belial, Willie Calderwood?" asked Symon, sternly of his shrinking daughter. "Thrice I saw him in the charge, and covered him ilk time wi' my petroneil; but lead availed not, and I handna about me a siller coin that fitted the muzzle of my weapon, else he had been i' the mools that nicht. But horse and spear lads!" he added, turning to his sons. "Ere we sleep, we shall ride by Grange, and rook out Calderwood Glen wi' a flaming lunt!"

So Symon and his sons had a deep carouse in the old hall with their troopers, all sturdy "Kailsuppers of Fife," drinking confusion to their enemies.

Now it is an open ruin; then it was crossed by a great oak beam, whereon hung spears and bows. On the walls were the horns of many a buck from Falkland Woods.

Many an oak almerie and meal-girnel stood round; and rows of pots and pans, pell-mell among helmets and corslets, swords and bucklers, spits and branders, made up the decorations and the furniture; while a great fire of wood and coal from "my Lord Sinclair's heugh's" blazed day and night on the stone hearth, making the hall to seem in some places all red and quivering in red light, or sunk in sable shadow elsewhere.

It had but two chairs—one for the laird, and one for the lady—for such was then the etiquette in Scotland; thus even the Reverend Elijah had to accommodate his lean shanks on a three-legged creepie.

Dogs of various kinds were always basking the fire on dun deer-skins; but the chief of them was Symon's great Scottish staghound, which was exactly of the breed and appearance described in the old rhyme—

Headed lyke a snake,
Hecked lyke a drake,
Footed lyke a catte,
Tayled lyke a ratte,
Syded lyke a team,
Chyned lyke a beam.

"On that night Symon and his son, with Roger of Tyrie, and other followers, crossed the hill to Pitheadie, and sacked and set on fire the dwelling of the Calderwoods, who, as adherents of the King, were deemed the pale of the law by the Scottish government.

In the murk midnight, from the tower head of Seafield, the heart-stricken Annora could see the red flames of rapine wavering in the sky, beyond the woods of Grange, in the direction where she knew so well her absent lover's dwelling stood; and when her father and brothers came galloping down the brae, and clattering over the drawbridge of the tower, they laughingly boasted that in passing Eglishie Marie, they had defaced the family tomb of the Calderwoods, and overthrown the throstone that marked where Willie's mother lay, under the shadow of an old yew tree.

"The nest is gane, Grizel," said Symon, grimly, as he unclasped his corslet, and hung his sword on the wall; "the nest is scouthered weel, and the black rooks can return to it nae mair."

"Would that we could lure the tassel to the goshawk again," said Lady Grizel, with a dark glance at her daughter. "For what end, gudewife?" asked Symon, with surprise.

"To make him a tassel on the dulcete there without," was the cruel response.

Annora felt as if her heart was bursting; it seemed so strange and unnatural that all this savage hate should exist, because her poor Willie adhered to the King rather than to the kirk.

A few weeks passed, and there was loud revelry, and many a stoup and black-jack of ale and usquebaugh drain ed joyfully in Seafield, for tidings came of the total rout of the Scottish Cavaliers at Philiphaugh, and of the flight of the great marquis and all his followers none knew whither; but rumour said to High Germanie.

Had Willie Calderwood escaped? asked Annora, in her trembling heart; or had he fallen at the Slatinmslee, where the Covenanters butchered all fell into their hands, even mothers with their babes that hung at their breasts?

And these acts, and many other such, did her new lover justify by many a savage quotation from the wars of the Jews in the days of old. Now th Kirk was triumphant, and Judas-like had sold its king, as old Peter Heyli, said, even as it would have sold its Saviour could it have found a purchaser.

Winter came on—a cold and bitter one—the soft spray of the sea froze on the windows of Seafield, while the moss and the grass grew together on the heartstones of Pitheadie, and the crows had built their nests in the old chimneys and nooks of the ruined castle.

Hard stove father and mother with Annora; but—

If a lass won't change her mind,
Nobody can make her.

The Reverend Elijah Howler was a happy man in one sense; the cause of his beloved kirk was triumphant, though Cromwell's Puritans, who had succeeded the Cavaliers of Montrose as antagonists, bade fair to become sore troublemakers of Isreal; and loud were the lamentations when, by sound of trumpet, the English sectaries warned the General Assembly to begone from Edinburgh, and to assemble no more. Yet the Reverend Elijah was unhappy in another sense. Annora heard his pious love-making with averted ear, might as well have poured forth his texts, his dreary talks, and intoned homilies, to the waves that beat at the rocky basement of the tower—once Annora's prison and her home.

Meanwhile, she grew pale, and thin and sickly. Her younger brother, Philip, pitied her in his heart, and, after making inquiries, learned that Willie Calderwood was now in France, where he had been wounded in a duel by the Abbe Gony, but had become his friend and now adhered to him when he had become famous as the Cardinal de Retz; and, as such, served and defended him in the wars of the Fronde, with a hundred other cavaliers of Montrose.

"Oh, waly, waly, my mother dear," she exclaimed, using the bitterest old Scottish exclamation of grief, as she threw herself on the bosom of the unflinching Lady Grizel. "Pity me-pity me, for none love me here, and Willie is far far awa' in France owre the sea."

"A' the better, bairn—a' the better 'But I may never see him mair." "A' the better still, bairn."

"Oh, mother dear," urged the weeping girl, "dinna say sae; ye'l rive my puir heart in twain among ye. And this Fronde, and these Frondeurs, what is it, what are they?"

"What would it be but some Papist devilry, or a Calderwood wadna be in the middle o't?" was the angry response.

Poor Annora knew not what to think, for there were no newspapers in those days, and rumours of events in distant lands came vaguely by chance travellers, and at long intervals. Lothian and Fife were almost farther apart in those days than Scotland and France are now, in the matters of news and travel.

She felt like Juliet in the feud between the families—

"Tis but thy name that is my enemy
Though art thyself though, not a Montague.
What's Montague? It is not hand or foot,
Nor arm, nor face, nor any other part
Belonging to a man. O, be some other name!

What's in a name? That which we call a rose
By any other name would smell as sweet.
—Doff thy name;
And for that name, which is no part of thee,
Take all myself

Even as water dropping on a granite rock will wear that rock away in course of time, so, by the systematic tyranny of her parents, and by their reiterated assurances, and even forged proofs, that Willie Calderwood had fallen, sword in hand, at the battle of the Baricades, was Annora worn and wearied into a state of acquiescence, in which she accepted Mr. Elijah Howler as her husband.

This was the climax of years of a gloomy, sabbatical life, during which the Judaical rigidity of religious observance made Sunday a periodical horror and Seafield Tower a daily hell.

So they were married, and he removed her from the tower to the adjacent manse, from the more cheerful and ungrated windows of which she could see in the distance the roofless turrets and open walls of Pitheadie, where the crows clustered and flapped their black wings for the ruin had become a veritable rookery.

The king was dead; he had perished on the scaffold, and Scotland, under Cromwell and the false Argyle, was quiet, as we are told in that poetical romance by Macaulay, entitled "The History of England."

On a Sunday in summer, in the year of Glencairn's rising in the north for King Charles II., Annora sat in the Kirk of Calderwood about the beginning of sermon. The reverend Elijah with straight, lank hair, and upturned eyes, Geneva bands and gown, after a glance at the dark oak pew where his young bride and victim sat, like the spectre of her former self, and so pale, so crushed and heartbroken, twice repeated, in a dreary and quavering tone, the text upon which he was about to preach, with special reference to the rising in the north, inviting all sons of the Kirk to arm against the loyal Highlanders—

"He saith among the trumpets, Ha! Ha! and he smelleth the battle afar off, the thunder of the captains and the shouting! He is not affrighted, neither turneth he back from the sword; he goeth forth to meet the armed men."

—Job xxxix.

Having given this warlike text, he dusted his cloak, and turned the sand glass, which, according to the fashion of those days, stood on the reading-desk. The rustle of Bible leaves, as those that lie strewn in autumn, when gently stirred by the wind, passed through all the church; but from Annora's trembling and wan fingers, her Bible fell heavily to the ground.

At that moment a gaily-dressed young man, with the white rose in his plumed hat and on his laced mantle, with slashed doublets and boots, as he passed slowly up the aisle the observed of all observers—as such cavalier fripperies were supposed to have passed away with Montrose and the King, stooped, and presented her with the fallen book.

Their haggard eyes met. He was pale even as death. A great wound, a sword-cut that traversed his face like a livid streak, in healing, had distorted the features; but like a glance of lightning that flashed into her soul, she recognized Willie Calderwood!

She would have shrieked, but lacked the power, a little sigh could only escape her, and so she swooned away.

There was a great commotion in the village kirk. She was borne forth into the air, and laid for a time upon a throst-stone, or altar tomb, and was then conveyed to the manse, where she remained long as one on the verge of madness or the grave. The face of Willie, so sad and earnest, but, alas! so sorely distorted, seemed ever before her, together with his gallant air and courtly bearing, all of which were so different from those of the sour-featured Whigs by whom she was surrounded.

But she was informed by her younger brother, Philip, that she should never see that face or bearing more, as her lover had come home, sorely wounded and broken in health, not to seek vengeance on her or hers, but only to die among his kinsmen, the Calderwoods of the Glen; and that he had died there, three days after their meeting in the kirk; and was buried at Eglishie Marie, in the tomb of the lairs of Pitheadie.

It was in one of the last evenings of autumn, when after hearing this sorrowful narrative, and with it the knowledge that the only heart that ever truly loved her was cold in the grave, that Annora—in the craving for solitude and to be alone, left the old ivy-covered manse, and passing through the garden, issued into the glebe—a spacious park, surrounded by venerable trees—and seating herself upon a moss-grown stile, strove to think calmly if possible, and pray.

Resplendent in gold and purple, the sky threw out in strong contour the summits of the Lomonds, from which the last rays of sunset had faded; and where she sat alone. The darkness had almost set in, the woods were so leafy and dense; yet in some places the twilight was liquid and clear. The trees were already yellowing fast, and the sear and russet leaves that had fallen before the strong gales that swept through the Howe, or great middle valley of Fife, were whirling about the place where she sat, as if to remind her that the year was dying.

Often in happier times had she wandered here with Willie, and the bark of more than one tree there bore their names and initials cut by his knife or dagger. The woodcock was seeking his nest in the hedges, and the snipe and the wild coot were among the reeds and rushes of the loch and burn; and Annora, as she gazed around her, thought sadly that it was the autumn of a year of married misery, and the winter of her aching heart.

Suddenly some mysterious impulse—for there was no sound but the sense of something being nigh, made her look round, and then a start, a shudder, convulsed her, rooting her to the spot; for there by the stile whereon she sat was Willie Calderwood, looking just as she had seen him last, in his cavalier dress, with plumed beaver and hite cockade, long rapier and short velvet mantle; but his features, when viewed by the calm, clear twilight, seemed paler, his eyes sadder, and the sword wound on his cheek more livid and dark.

He was not dead—he lived yet, and her brother Philip had deceived her! She made a start forward and then drew back, withheld by an impulse of terror, and holding up her poor thin hands deprecatingly faltered out—

"Oh! come not nigh me, Willie. I am a wedded wife."

"And false to me, Annora. Is it not so?" he asked, with a voice that thrilled through her.

She wept, and laid her hands upon eyes, that had a glare in them, caused doubtless by his wound, seemed to pierce her soul; they seemed so bright, so earnest, and beseeching in the autumn twilight.

"They told you I was false to you, or slain in France, and you believed them?"

"I did, Willie," she sobbed, as she covered her face.

"I have lain on many a field, lassie, where the rain of heaven and the wind of night swept over me—fields where the living could scarce be kenned frae the dead, yet I was never slain."

"But, oh," she urged, "Willie never, never will ye ken—"

"I ken a' they told you that I was dead, too, and graved in yonder kirk."

"They did Willie dear—they did."

"Yet I am here before you. I came home to wed you, lassie, and to join my Lord Glencairn in the north; and to fight against this accursed Cromwell and his Puritans, but it manna be," headed, sadly, in a hollow tone.

"Oh, leave me, Willie, leave me. If you should be seen wi' me—"
