Patriotism.

Great, without seeking to be great,
By friend or conquest—rich in gold,
But richer in the large estate
Of virtue which the children hold.
With peace that comes of purity,
And strength to stand upon the base,
So runs our loyal dream of life,
And if they shall die for this,
O land of lands to these we give
Our love, our trust, our service, free
For they they shall shall die for this.

A DISCUSSION.

Tasker was an amiable man, who suffered from constitutional inability to make up his mind on any subject whatever. He was never so happy as in balancing probabilities, discovering difficulties, quibbling over non-essentials. His favorite phrase was that things 'set and re-set.' Everything acted and reacted, every route had its lion in the path, every course of action led to negations; therefore inaction was the only real wisdom.
He was not sure whether his politics were Republican or Democrat; sometimes they were the one, sometimes the other. He would argue for the New Theology, but always with the saving clause that a good deal might be said for the old. Sometimes he talked like a Socialist, but the moment he was acclaimed as one, he repudiated the accusation, and became violently individualistic. You saw everything acted and reacted. He had used the phrase so long that he had come to believe it was the statement of an ultimate philosophic principle. It was a perplexing world for poor Tasker, a world singularly destute of plain paths, and wickedly labyrinthine in its system. What could an amiable and irresolute man do in a world where everything had this mischievous habit of acting and reacting?

The conversation was at first desul-tory. The fact was no one cared to come to the point. At last Roberts forced the pace.

'It's nine o'clock,' he remarked.
'Don't you think we had better come to business?'

'Perhaps member Roberts will want the business,' said Hocking, with a laughing glance.

'I've no objection,' said Roberts,
with a stiffening of his prime figure.

He adjusted his spectacles, and began in his most lawyer-like tones of decision, his thin querulous voice giving a disagreeable emphasis to each word. He at first confined himself to his old theme of facts and figures. His fellow deacons moved nervously. They had heard it all before. They also knew that this part of his speech was mere skimming, they were impatient for the point of attack.

'Well, then, it comes to this,' he concluded. 'We can't pay our way at the present basis. This is a meeting of business men, and a business appointment at things in a business spirit, and respect and admit our past-time. Hocking regarded Roberts, and Tasker nodded approvingly. But when a business is not succeeding, however much we may respect our manager, we have to deal with him plainly. We have to tell him that part of the blame is his. In any case it would be only just to reduce his income. I am prepared to recommend the latter course in relation to our manager—our minister, I mean—viz., that the circumstances of the case warrant us in reducing his income by one third.'

The conclusion drew a long breath.
Tasker was the first to speak. He was taken by surprise. Of course he would not dispute the figures, but there was a point that weighed with him; what would the world think?
What would become of their prestige?
Retirement might be necessary, but was it politic? And then came his favorite phrase—these things acted and reacted. On the one hand, you might retrench, but on the other you must consider what the effect would be on the public. There was clearly no light of resolution in Tasker's features. 'Prestige,' growled Small. 'I guess that's pretty low anyway. Last Sunday has given the church a black eye for all decent people.'

'Allow me,' replied Tasker in his most amicable voice, 'but I really don't think I can let that pass. I don't think I can. I don't at all agree that the church has suffered by anything—anything from what has occurred. In fact, if we are to discuss last Sunday morning's address, I must say I agreed with it, that is in part. I think that if we came to talk matters over with the pastor we should find that we all saw with him—in part. Of course many have been indiscreet, slightly injudicious, but the papers were not unkindly. I have in the press reports in my pocket, and I think I can prove that the press was not unfriendly, that is not really unfriendly.
We are not here to discuss the press,' interrupted Hocking. 'We have our own eyes, and can read.'

'Yes,' persisted Tasker, 'but isn't it a fact that this meeting was called as a result of last Sunday's sermon?
'No, it's not a fact,' said Roberts.
'We may have our own views about that sermon—for my part I thought it deplorable, but whether that sermon had been preached or not, we should still have to consider the financial position of the church. That is the main point. This is what we have to discuss.'

'The two deacons, however, looked at each other. They were old gentlemen, and wanted to go home to bed.
They were amiable men, with no lower antipathies, but they each cherished a strong dislike to late meetings.

In the meantime Palmer had sat all quiet. He had been coldly greeted by Roberts, who had secretly hoped that he would not come.

'I agree with Deacon Roberts,' he said, 'as to the real point of discussion.
No one is better able than he to discuss finance. No one is less fitted to discuss ethics and philosophy.'

Palmer's voice was quietly ironical.
It was that note of irony in Palmer which always irritated Roberts. It was a weapon against which he knew he had no defence. He flushed at the words, and his eyes flashed behind his spectacles, but he mastered himself, and said with a sorry attempt at a smile. 'That is not prettily put, but I don't dispute it. I am glad that Deacon Palmer supports my view of the nature of the meeting.'

'Nevertheless,' said Palmer, 'ethics do enter into this discussion, as they do into any kind of human business. I think we should be very sure that in any attitude we may take toward the church and its affairs, no personal feeling is allowed to distort our views.'

'I disclaim all personal feeling,' replied Roberts. 'I am concerned solely by the situation of the church. I don't allow any feeling connected with the pastor to enter into the matter.'

'Judas would probably have said the same thing,' said Palmer. 'He thought so much of the thirty pieces of silver that he quite forgot his Master.'

'What am I to understand by that?'
said Roberts, eagerly.

'Precisely what I say,' said Palmer.
'Your mind is obsessed by questions of finance. I don't say that they have nothing to do with the church, but you see nothing against that course?'

else. And there is much more than a pittable question of money involved.
There's human life—a man, a minister. There's the question of truth; what men ought to think and do who call themselves the disciples of Jesus, how they ought to feel, what the right interpretation of his disciplesh. Judas forgot all that. He saw failure ahead, and his own prestige threatened; so he made the best bargain he could, and got his thirty pieces of silver, and in his shameful fear and haste had not one thought of love, or loyalty, or even pity for the Man he professed to follow. We are in peril of the same blindness tonight.
We are thinking of money, always money and—'

'I must interrupt this—this discussion,' said Roberts. 'As chairman of this meeting, I must interrupt.' His thin voice quivered with indignation.
'I must insist on the question which is before us being discussed,' he continued.

'Which is?' said Palmer.

'A recommendation which I make,
after long deliberation, that the salary of the minister of the Mayfield Avenue church be reduced by one third.'

'After long deliberation?' said Palmer. 'Should I be wrong if I guessed that the deliberation was no longer ago than since last Sunday, that, in fact, this step is the direct result of certain feelings aroused on that day?'

'Now need we recommitments like this?'
said Tasker. 'According to my view you are both right and both wrong.
Of course the question of finance must be considered, and I suppose that certain things said last Sunday will have some influence on our minds in considering it. These things act and react.'

'But on one-headed him. The little man flushed with indignation and sat down in painful agitation. Roberts and Palmer remained standing. It was evident that the duel was between them.

'I don't know what right anyone has to investigate my private thought,' said Roberts. 'But I don't in the least object to giving a plain answer to a plain question. I did resolve on my course last Sunday. I did so because I saw that from that hour new difculties were certain to come upon the church. Things were difficult before that they are a thousand fold worse now. This I am of opinion that the course I recommended last night concerns I recommended last night concerns. We must reduce our expenditure, and do it at once. Has Deacon Palmer anything to say against that course?'

'Yes, that's the point,' said Hocking. 'Let us vote and be done with it.'

Small nodded his head vehemently.
The two colorless deacons nodded their heads. They were eager for bed, poor gentlemen, and did not care much what happened if only the meeting would close.

'Yes, I've something to say,' said Palmer.

'An amendment, perhaps?' sneered Roberts.

'Not altogether,' said Palmer. 'A statement, rather, and one that may prove a little surprising. Briefly it is this. I have had a long conversation to-day with the pastor. The conversation, as regards this particular question, may be stated in a few words.
Dr. Gaunt recognizes fully the financial difficulties of the church, and takes what I think is more than a generous view of his own responsibility for those difficulties. He is also entirely aware that since he does not intend to retract anything that he said last Sunday, but rather to reiterate it, the difficulties of the position may tend to increase rather than decrease.
Therefore he authorizes me to say that henceforth he will accept no fixed salary from the church. He wishes to be entirely free in his teachings, and in order to become so has determined to free the church from all financial obligations toward himself.'

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JAN. 22, 1909.

THE ACADIAN is glad to present the cards of three gentlemen this week who have consented to allow themselves to be put in nomination as candidates for seats in the town council at the approaching elections. They are all well-known as energetic and capable business men, and citizens of our town for the coming term. Messrs. Chambers and Hales have already given splendid service to the town as members of the board and Mr. Burgess, who's untried as regards this particular kind of work, has ever evinced a deep interest in town matters and is generally regarded as a young man of excellent business qualifications. At the present time it is eminently necessary that we should have good men to manage our town government, and with Mr. T. L. Harvey for mayor, and Messrs. Hales, Chambers and Burgess for councilmen the affairs of our town will be well looked after. Other names have been mentioned as candidates for civic honors, but with good men willing to undertake the duties of the office it seems altogether unnecessary that the town should be put to the expense and worry of a election.

At the fifteenth annual meeting of the American Mathematical Society, held at Baltimore on Dec. 30th and 31st, two valuable papers were presented by Dr. E. Gordon Bill, of Yale University, son of C. R. Bill, Esq., of this town. Dr. Bill's subjects were: "Existence 'im Kleinen' of a space curve which minimizes a definite integral," and "An a priori existence theorem in three dimensions for the calculus of variations." Among the large number of celebrated educationists who attended and took part in the program at this important gathering were such men as President H. S. White, of Vassar College; Prof. Frank Morley, of Johns Hopkins University; Prof. G. A. Miller, of the University of Illinois; Prof. G. A. Bliss, of the University of Chicago; Prof. Edward Kiamer, of Columbia University; and Prof. Virgil Snyder, of Cornell University.

Rev. W. T. Stackhouse, who some months ago was appointed general superintendent of Baptist Missions in the west, has resigned to accept the appointment of organization secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the Baptist church in Canada. He will go to Toronto to make his headquarters in February.

The Dominion Parliament met at Ottawa on Wednesday with the usual formalities. The session promises to be an interesting one.

Town Council.

An organized meeting of the council was held on Wednesday evening, with the Mayor and all the Councilors present.

Annual reports were read from Mayor Black, and the chairmen of the Streets, Water, Sewerage, Fire and Poor Committees.

Reports were also presented by the School Board, Health Officer and Inspector of Plumbing, and the Recorder presented a draft of an act to amend chapter 122 of the acts of 1907—An act to enable the town of Wolfville to borrow money for electric light and power purposes. This was accepted and approved and ordered to be sent to one of the representatives of the county for presentation to the Legislature at its next session.

On motion L. W. Sleep was appointed returning officer and A. E. Caldwell poll-clerk for the ensuing civic elections.

The arrangement of the material and for the printing of the year book was entrusted to the Finance Committee.

Chappel Hands AND Cold Sores
Have your hands chapped, cracked or sore? Have you "add cracks" which open and bleed when the skin is drawn tight? Have you a cold sore, sore throat, children, or a "raw place" which at times makes it agony for you to go about your household duties? If so, Zam-Buk will give you relief, and will heal the most stubborn skin. Anoint the sore places at night. Zam-Buk's rich healing ointment will soothe the wounds, and the scabbing, and will heal quickly.

Read This Lady's Experience.
Mrs. Yellon, of Portland, says: "I consider it only my duty to tell you of the great benefit I have derived from Zam-Buk. My hands were so sore and cracked that it was agony to get them near water. When I did so they would smart and burn as if I had scalded them. I cannot explain to you how good Zam-Buk is. I used it on my hands, and in a very short time they were healed. It is a wonderful healer and should be in every home."

Prohibition Gains.
In the Ontario local vote last week the net result were: temperance majorities in 70 municipalities, and liquor majorities in 20. Twenty-nine municipalities voted on repeal, 27 in favor of the law and two voted for repeal. There were no new contests, in which as carried local option, 21 poll majorities for local option, but less than the three-fifths requirement, and 8 majorities against local option. Over one hundred bars were closed by voting, and nine places are yet to be heard from.

The Movement Spreads.

After two weeks of trial, during which several thousand Cleveland young people have put practical Christianity to test by resolving daily to do only those things which Jesus would do in business, social, home and school life, and to the best of their ability carrying out their resolve, the movement has assumed a much larger and more important outlook. Steps are now being taken to give it an international scope, and it is expected that within a very short time at least six million young people will be pledged to this test of the practicality of the Christ teaching and example.

The two weeks' campaign in Cleveland was illuminative and educative, and society generally became interested, and there was much speculation as to what the results would be. Some of the young people reported that it was impossible for them to do only as Jesus would do in their daily employment, because their employers constantly required them to do things which they knew Jesus would not have countenanced. Others found it an easier matter to follow the Christ example. Evidently all of them found it profitable to try the experiment, and the enlargement of the campaign shows that on the whole it was deemed a success.

One great value of such a campaign as this lies in its influence for good upon the business and social life of the community. Most business men in this country, as church members, supposedly, follow the Christ example as believers in and disciples of the lowly Nazarene. But modern business methods and practices are too often based upon something far different, and it is an easy matter for the consciences of men to adapt themselves to conditions as they find them rather than to fight what seems to be a losing battle for something better. And if the Cleveland movement has had the effect of arousing conscience and making business conditions in that city more honest and honorable, it will have accomplished much, not taking into account the benefit that must have come to the young people directly engaged in it.

And, after all, what hope can there be for the world and genuine betterment of conditions in it until men practice the religion they profess and make real the teaching of Christ, which now holds rank in too many so-called Christian minds only as an idealistic theory, and which embodies in it that far-reaching gospel of the universal fatherhood of God and the equal universal brotherhood of man?

To the Electors of the Town of Wolfville. LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—At the request of a large number of the rate-payers of the town I have consented to allow myself to be nominated for the office of Councillor for the ensuing term. If elected to this office I shall endeavor to carry out your wishes for civic government and the welfare of our town to the best of my ability. J. D. CHAMBERS.

To the Electors of the Town of Wolfville. LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Having been solicited by a large number of citizens to allow myself to be nominated for re-election for the office of Councillor for another term I have finally decided to give my consent. I have enjoyed the work of town government during the past two years, but have found the duties required of me have interfered to considerable extent with my private business, and had thought to now retire. However, it has been made plain to me that it is the desire of many of the citizens that I should remain for another term, and if such is the case and I am again elected to represent you I promise as in the past to do my utmost to advance the best interests of the town in every respect. J. EDWARD HALE. Wolfville, Jan. 21, 1909.

Hockey.

Lovers of hockey in Wolfville and vicinity, and there are not a few, will be amply satisfied in their desire to see good hockey this winter.

The Wolfville Hockey Club will do their best to this end. The officers of this club are:—

- Mayor Black, Hon. Pres. A. I. Daniels, Pres. W. C. B. Harris, Vice Pres. A. M. Young, Secy. Treas.

The club has at the present time a membership of twenty-five. This number includes many of the business men of the town and it is hoped that many more will join, eventually making the club an Athletic Association with club rooms and athletic grounds—something which this town greatly needs.

The club's finances are in good shape. So far the club's schedule of games is as follows:—

- Wolfville vs. H. C. A., Jan. 22nd. Windsor vs. Wolfville, Jan. 27th. Wolfville vs. Canning, Jan. 29th. Wolfville vs. Windsor, Feb. 5th. Yarmouth vs. Wolfville, Feb. 12th. Wolfville vs. Kentville, Feb. 19th. The games with Windsor (Swastikas) are games in the N. S. W. H. League for the Cragg Bros. trophy in which these two teams together with Lunenburg and the D. B. C. Uriah Heep seems to be very busy again. Uriah was a very 'humble' man with a child-like smile, while the palms of his hands were cold and clammy. Uriah says he has a temperance candidate in the field for mayor, and everyone laughs. Uriah is a great authority upon temperance questions—and everyone laughs. Uriah is a sort of Finance Minister, and he gets his financial reports printed in Kentville. He says he does this because there is no Baptist printer in town—and everyone laughs. The chances are that Uriah will not prove so able a minister of finance as Hon. Mr. Fielding. It is dollars and doughnuts that it would pay to get the printing done at home. We are 'hard-shel' ourselves, but not of the Uriah Heep sort.

Rink News.

A fast but one-sided game of hockey was played on Thursday evening of last week between the Victorias and Port Williams, resulting in a victory for the home team. The game started at 8 o'clock. One of the Victorias was late in arriving and the play began with six of their men only on the ice. In one minute from the start the Victorias netted the puck and they scored twice more in the next four minutes. Two more goals were put to their credit during the half. In the last part of the half the play raged fierce around the Victorias' goal which was stoutly defended. The half ended 5-0 in favor of the Victorias. In the second half Barrs shot a goal for the Victorias from nearly the whole length of the ice one minute after the face-off. This ball was very fast. The Victorias scored five more goals, but the Port Williams boys—although they put up a plucky game—failed to net the puck. The game ended 11-0 in favor of the Victorias. Mr. Daniels retired quite satisfactorily.

The Shamrocks defeated King's College in an interesting game of hockey at Evangeline rink on Tuesday evening. The first goal was scored by the Shamrocks within a minute after the face-off. Shortly after the visitors also scored. An accident to one of the Kings College players reduced their team to six men, and their opponents put off one of their men to even up matters. The college boys failed to score again in the first half while the Shamrocks placed four more goals to their credit. The half ended 5-1 in favor of the home team. In the second half the Shamrocks had pretty well their own way, making seven more goals. The visitors succeeded in securing one more goal and the game ended 12-2 in favor of the Shamrocks. J. Bates, Acadia '08, refereed the game.

Dalhousie defeated Acadia in a fast game of hockey at Evangeline rink Wednesday evening, by a score of 8-10. Acadia took the lead in the first half which ended 5 to 4 in favor of that team. In the second half Dalhousie tied the score and took the lead. Acadia soon evened up the score and the teams got alternate goals, until the score stood 8 to 5. Dalhousie then took the lead scoring two more goals. There was good individual play on both teams, but Acadia had the better combination. Mr. Smith, of Windsor, was the referee. Quite a large number of persons were in attendance at the game.

Under the new management Evangeline rink is flourishing rapidly. The ice is in fine condition this winter, the best for several years. The rink is patronized by many persons from the university, the town and the surrounding country. There is a new restaurant in the building. A great improvement, lately introduced, is a gallery running the whole length of the building on one side. The curling rink is now used since the club has been organized. With the skating, hockey practice and games the ice is in use most of the time.

The rink was open for skating last night. The Wolfville band was in attendance, and the ice was in splendid condition. Quite a large number of persons were present.

A good game of hockey is expected to-night when the town team and the H. C. A. team.

To the ordinary, unexpanded, civilized mind it would appear to be a rather impudent recreation for an unofficial citizen to go around town whistling in tax-payers' cars, 'Is your tax all paid? If not we would like to help you.' Ahem! Well!

One of these impudent philanthropists has been extensively engaged at late doing just this kind of canvassing. He called upon a well-known gentleman who lives upon Acadia street and made this generous statement, 'I notice that your taxes are not quite all paid, and as we want to send you back to finish his work,' 'we would like to help you say—!!! A sudden explosion occurred just here and the conversation ended.

If this particular and highly refined electioneer, and able financier, would devote his spare moments to attending to his own business, the chances are that quotations from Wall Street would read better. It is hardly fair that such big financial guns should be turned loose in a purely civic contest. It hardly gives other people a chance.

The time has been, no doubt, when it was considered smart for some over-officious meddler to go around offering to pay other people's taxes, upon the condition that a vote should be cast as we dictate; but to-day, while there are comments, they are those of pity and sorrow.

Uriah Heep seems to be very busy again. Uriah was a very 'humble' man with a child-like smile, while the palms of his hands were cold and clammy. Uriah says he has a temperance candidate in the field for mayor, and everyone laughs. Uriah is a great authority upon temperance questions—and everyone laughs. The chances are that Uriah will not prove so able a minister of finance as Hon. Mr. Fielding. It is dollars and doughnuts that it would pay to get the printing done at home. We are 'hard-shel' ourselves, but not of the Uriah Heep sort.

Kidney Troubles FROM THE LIVER

In his study of kidney disease, Dr. Chase, the famous English Book author, found that 90 per cent. of the cases arose as a direct result of liver and bowel disorders, and evidence on this line led to the discovery of his celebrated Kidney-Liver Pills, the only Kidney pills having a combined action on liver and bowels at all.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

By this unique action, cure the most complicated cases of the kidney when ordinary medicines fail. They also prevent kidney disease by curing liver complaints, biliousness and constipation. Try them when the back aches, or there are humors, pains, or deposits in the urine. One pill a day, 25 cts. a box, all druggists of Lunenburg, B. C. A., Toronto, Mr. J. H. Gibbard, Mission City, B. C., writes: 'My wife was so bad with rapid liver and kidney complaint that she had to go to bed for three weeks at a time, and suffered dreadfully. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills completely cured her, and she has since then felt in good health.'

Gleaned by the Way.

'Did you say your new doctor's name was Steed?' 'Yes, Dr. Steed.' 'I should be afraid to engage him; sounds as if he were a great charger!'

Gladya Vanderbilt wore lace 200 years old when she was married, but the ordinary married woman raises a howl if she has to wear last year's hat another season.

Whooping Cough Cured. Mrs. Henry M. Edwards, Atlas Park, Ont. writes: 'I think a great deal of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Licorice and Turpentine as a cure for whooping cough. My children were very bad with this annoying disease. This medicine relieved attacks of hard coughing and made a comfortable value in curing cough, bronchitis and severe chest colds.'

'Which do you prefer,' said the enthusiastic young lady—'music or poetry?' 'Poetry,' answered Mrs. Cayenne. 'You can keep poetry shut up in a book. You don't have to listen to it unless you choose.'

Soothing and Healing. As a means of soothing the inflammation and healing the raw surfaces of the throat, it is difficult to imagine anything so wonderfully effective as Dr. Chase's Ointment. Relief from the distressing itching comes almost immediately, the ulcer heals and gradually a new, velvety skin is formed. There is no treatment so effective in curing chills.

Two commercial travellers were comparing notes. 'I have been out three weeks,' said the first, 'and have only got four orders.' 'That beats me,' said the other, 'I have been out four weeks and have only got one order, and that's from the firm I come home.'

CASTORIA. Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. A few minutes had the misfortune to fall down stairs the other day, and that part of the anatomy commonly denominated the 'funny bone' came in contact with the wall. On being picked up and asked if she was hurt, she rubbed her arm for a moment and said, 'No, but my elbow is awful dizzy.'—Union Signal.

'What,' asks the Wyoming Tribune, 'has become of the old-fashioned freckle-faced boy, who got the water, chopped the wood, split the kindling, milked the cows, led the pigs, curried the horses and did such other chores as his parents found for him to do?' He's probably kept busy handing his lazy son money with which to buy rolled up trousers and cigarettes.

Piles. To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for such troubles as hemorrhoids, piles, itching, burning, sore, swollen, and protruding piles, simply apply the ointment to the affected parts, and you will get your money back if you cure. One box, at 25 cents, will cure you.

Dr. Chase's Ointment 'It is most amazing,' said a metallurgist, 'how the world relies on metals for its metaphors and similes. Thus, an orator is silver-tongued. An explorer is bronzed by African suns. A resolute chap has an iron will. A sluggish mover with leaden feet. An artist has a copper-lined stomach. A millionaire has tin. A swindler is as slippery as quicksilver. A borrower has brass.'

The village sexton was just locking up the churchyard gates when a tourist approached. 'Had something on here to-day?' asked the newcomer. 'Ay,' replied the sexton; 'old Squire was buried to-day.'

'Oh!' remarked the tourist. 'Sudden wasn't it? Any complaint?' 'No,' was the reply, 'no complaint; everybody satisfied.'

CASTORIA. Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The young lady sighed deeply and was almost affected to tears. 'Harold,' she said, 'declares that if I don't marry him he will be well and his. And I am afraid he will.'

'And Randolph that if I don't marry him he will go into politics and become great and famous, and then he says I shall see what I have missed. And I am afraid he will keep his word, too.'

CASTORIA. Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The prosecuting counsel had been very scathing in his treatment of the witnesses for the defence. So much so that one of these, a young doctor, determined to retaliate.

'You claim to be acquainted with the various symptoms attending congestion of the brain?' asked the lawyer.

'Yes.' 'We will take a concrete case,' continued the counsel. 'If my learned friend, the counsel for the defence, and myself were to bang our heads together, should we get congestion of the brain?'

The young physician smiled slightly. 'The probabilities are,' he replied, 'that you would get the defence won.'

Home Makes the Boy.

A good boy is the natural product of a good home and all the efforts of philanthropy to make boys better are consciously imperfect substitutes for the natural influence of a healthy-minded home. The great and overshadowing peril of a boy's life is not as many suppose, his bad companions or his bad books or his bad habits; it is the peril of homelessness—having no bed or room which can be called one's own—but that homelessness which may exist even in luxurious houses—the isolation of the boy's soul; the lack of any one to listen to him, the loss of roots to hold him to his place and make him grow. This is what drives a boy into the arms of evil and makes the street his home and the gang his family; or else drives him in upon himself, into uncommunicated imaginings and feverish desires. It is the modern story of the man who grows up in a home and is precisely because it was empty there entered seven devils to keep him company. If there is one thing that a boy cannot beat it is himself. He is by nature a gregarious animal and if the group which gives himself to be denied, then he gives himself to be denied. An alarm clock kept in the kitchen may be set to ring at the time the vegetables should be put over the fire or the hot bread or the cake or pudding is due to be done and as a guide to time in many other matters.

Racks for kettle and pan covers may be made on the back of the door of kitchen closets and will save much trouble. Get brass screw hooks and arrange them on the lower edges of the crosswise panels of the door. Screw larger hooks at each end of the panels and stretch the door springs attached to these across the panels. The distance of the spring from the bottom of the panel varies according to the size of the covers. The hooks for the springs for the large covers should be put about the middle of the panel and for the smallest covers quite near the bottom.

The covers of flat trays slipped between the springs and the door will rest on the hooks along the lower edge.

Does Your Heart Flutter? Short Breath. Easily Fatigued. Rush of Blood. It's in this condition that sudden and unexpected death comes.

The heart is an untiring index of strength. Bodily vigor and a strong heart go hand in hand. A slight fluttering and shortness of breath is a sign of falling strength, arising from weakened digestive power, or from weakness of the nervous system.

The organic and dangerous affections of the heart seldom manifest themselves until the climax is reached, when death usually supervenes. Even a small variation in strength renders the heart susceptible on the emotional side, and a little fright, anxiety or haste will set it going at a frightful rate.

You ought to know that when your heart flutters easily, when your breath comes in gasps, when you tire quickly upon exertion, and rest does not recuperate, you have allowed yourself to run down.

It is under these conditions that Ferrone acts like magic in its strengthening power. Tens of thousands of Canadians can testify to the marvelous curative power of Ferrone.

When it's remembered that Ferrone has the power of making rich, red blood, of giving tone to the system, of vitalizing all the functional powers of the body, it will be easily seen in cases such as yours, in which these fluttering sensations are present, Ferrone will speedily restore you to health.

Ferrone makes you strong because it enables you to digest your food, because it makes rich, red blood—because it tones, strengthens, reinforces the whole system.

'I was so overcome with heart fluttering and acute indigestion I could scarcely walk upstairs without panting and catching for my breath,' writes E. K. Young, a well known merchant in Augusta. 'After using one box of Ferrone I improved, and after two months I was cured and am sound and healthy as ever to-day.'

The best proof of Ferrone's merit is the enormous good it will do you, in your own case; try it, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers.

The Bigger—Please, sir, will you kindly assist a poor man who has three wives to support? The Pedestrian—Why, do you mean to say you are a bigamist? The Bigger—Oh, no, sir. Two of them are the wives of my sons-in-law.

Guest (in cheap restaurant)—Say waiter, are you sure this is genuine turtle soup? Waiter—Course it is. It was made from water taken from a pond in the park in which two turtles were kept all summer.

Your Enormous Strength.

Even those of us who take no interest whatever in physical culture have one set of muscles developed to a remarkable degree. We have been training them unconsciously from our earliest years, till now they can exert a pressure of no less than 300 pounds. Dr. Joseph Head has been making some interesting experiments and has discovered that to bite a piece of boiled beef we exert a pressure of three pounds. A rascal lamb needs four pounds, corned beef ten, pork twenty five, and roast beef as much more very easily for yourself. Take a crust of dry bread, lay it on a table, and place weights upon it till it is crushed. You will find that the weight necessary is about fifteen pounds. Can it be wondered at that we sometimes chip or break a tooth—especially when we substitute for the comparatively soft things mentioned such a hard substance as brittle coffee.

Analytical Chemist Tells of Patent Medicines. A graduate in organic chemistry, who has made a study of many of the best known patent medicines on the market, states that many have virtue, but as a rule people have to pay for a lot of unnecessary expense. The following is the recipe of a well-known secret preparation, and is known by authority to be one of the best stomach and liver tonics. It is prescribed by many of the best physicians.

This mixture cures constipation and biliousness. The recipe—Fluid Extract Cascara..... 3/4 oz. Syrup Rhubarb..... 1/2 oz. Carmin Compound..... 1/2 oz. Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla 5 oz. Take a teaspoonful after each meal at bed time.

An eminent authority, who has made a careful and scientific study of the relative values of drugs having a specific action on the kidneys, bladder, and liver, pronounces this an excellent combination. You can buy the ingredients separately and mix at home. Cut this formula out and save it.

Walking Correctly. Many children are taught at home and at school to walk on their toes. This will do in a sick room when one has squeaking shoes, but it is not natural or elegant. Put the heels down lightly at first and the toes last; this keeps the body erect, instead of bending the body forward, as a person must walk on his toes. Walking should be more thoroughly taught in our gymnastic schools. It costs little to learn to walk correctly, and it is well worth while to spend a little time to acquire the art.—New York Telegram.

Every student in our schools should be moral if for no other reason than for the excellency and worth of character and the life it centers. No character is complete until it is swayed and elevated by genuine piety. No heart is fully happy till it is imbued with the spirit of piety. No life is all it may and should be till its motives are baptized in the waters of piety. No soul is saved till it is transformed by the gracious spirit of its daughter of the skies. This divine grace should be sought by every young man and woman and cultivated with the most assiduous care, for without it we are destitute of the highest beauty and divinest charm and power of manhood and womanhood.

The Colonel (who had just told his best story and been rewarded with a faint smile)—Really, countess, you women have no sense of humor. When I heard that story I simply roared. Countess—So did I, but it was last year.

Friendship may have the true ring, but it isn't the kind of ring that is calculated to satisfy the girl who is in love.

A SURGICAL OPERATION.

We can state without fear of a contradiction that there are many thousands, yes, thousands, of operations performed upon women in our hospitals which are entirely unnecessary and which have been made by way and means of the

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND For proof of this statement read the following letter: Mrs. Letitia Blair, Camilton, Ont., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: 'I was sick for five years. My doctor told me it was ulceration, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor, and advised an operation. Not one knew what I suffered, and the bearing down pains were terrible. The Liquor Traffic Against Itself. The naive of the liquor leaders in some of their arguments on proposed temperance legislation is often amusing and sometimes pitiable. It is clear that, as a rule, the liquor seller is on a distinctly lower moral level than most other people, that he thinks along that lower level, and so long as he is in the business he is incapable of seeing either himself, his fellows or his 'business' as others see them.

While the $1,000 tax bill has been pending before the Ohio Legislature several utterances from that source have attracted our attention. Ernie Muller, president of the Cleveland and Sandusky Brewing Company, said: "There is no question but that the bill, by being made a law, would reduce the number of saloons, but I do not believe that it would force the right ones out of business. As I understand the bill, it is aimed at what are commonly known as 'bad places'—the low grog-shops, the wine-rooms, etc. These places, however, are making enough money to pay the $1,000-a-year tax, or even a $1,500-a-year tax. They would continue in business as heretofore, while the small but perfectly respectable and orderly places, some of a year the amount of the proposed increase, would have to close up. They could no longer continue in business. Yet they are the ones that we want in business; that the people want in business, if they want any at all."

This is certainly suggestive. With what perfect assurance this brewer talks about 'perfectly respectable and orderly places'! But if there were any such! Just as this brewer seems to think they are not numerous. But he says the 'orderly' places do not pay. They have too small an income to pay the big liquor tax. That, too, is quite an admission. We at all times thought there was a big profit in the sale of liquor, but it occurs this applies to the disorderly, illegal, criminal resorts, not to the 'respectable' ones. Here is proof of the wonderful power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills over disease.

Mr. P. E. Paulin, Collector of Customs at Caraquez, N. B., says:—'In the winter of 1902 I had a very severe attack of a gripe, which broke me down entirely. I had to take to bed for several weeks. During that time I employed a doctor, but without benefit. I felt I seemed to be getting worse and worse. I did not sleep; suffered from night sweats, and had no appetite. I was really a physical wreck. On a former occasion I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for general debility, with great benefit so I decided to again try them. I sent for half a dozen boxes and began to use them at once. When taking the second box I began to feel quite a change in my condition. I was able to walk about the house and my appetite was improving. From that on I gained strength every day, and before the six boxes were done I was able to return to the office and attend to my work. Now I enjoy the best of health, and although 67 years old, am feeling quite young. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills an excellent medicine for travellers like me.'
