Compensation.

I'd like to think when life is done that I had filled a needed post. That here and there I'd paid my share. With more than idle talk and boast that I had taken gifts divine. The breath of life and manhood here. And tried to use them now and then in service for my fellowmen.

Where You Can't Catch Cold.

If you want to avoid all likelihood of catching cold in future you had better turn explorer and trot off to the Arctic regions. There sneezes are unknown and a cough would probably scare a polar bear out of its life. Although the clothes of explorers in these regions are often saturated in perspiration, and are a mass of ice when they retire for the night, and despite the fact they often sleep out in the open in their sleeping bags, and that this is their only means of saving themselves, their health does not suffer in the least.

Great Spiritual Uplift.

Speaking of the annual meeting of the Bible Society, held in May, 1917, in the Queen's Hall, London, England. Sir Robert Borden said: "I believe that you have had in the United Kingdom, as we have had in Canada, a great spiritual uplift as the result of this war. Men and women are more concerned to-day with things spiritual than they were four years ago. It could not be otherwise; there has been so much devotion and so much self-sacrifice. More than that there has been sorrow brought to so many homes—sorrow mingled with a most solemn pride that those who have gone forth have proved themselves worthy of the highest ideals of humanity and the best traditions of the race. It would be impossible that a thing should take place without its exercising a very powerful influence indeed upon the people; and perhaps our concern should be not so much as to how that will be maintained during the war—because I believe it will be—but as to what will come afterwards. I remember, many years ago, hearing a great divine in my own country preach a sermon which I shall never forget, upon a text which I think I recall: 'They that wait upon the Lord shall not see their strength; they shall mount up on wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint.' And he asked us what was the meaning of the prophet in the order of this statement. Was it merely an anti-optimism, or was there some great and profound thought beneath it all? And he pointed out that it is not so difficult for the nation or the government to have a great spiritual uplift under a great inspiration and to maintain it while the inspiration lasts; but there is something greater and more difficult still in maintaining that high purpose when the inspiration has passed away, and when the ordinary round and routine of everyday life have come. It may be easier to mount on wings as eagles than to walk and not faint. And so I pray that the greatest influence which I believe has permeated all the nations of our British Commonwealth may be maintained in the future. I pray that after this war is over and material considerations have again to be taken into account, strength may be given to you in this Homeland and to us in the Overseas Dominion that we may walk and not faint."

The Art of Work.

Generally speaking, there is universal admiration of any work of art. But, oftentimes, a renowned work is undertaken as a secret of producing an work. The artist is often looked upon as a born genius—perhaps, rightly so! But he will tell you that the most potent factor in accomplishing the art has been his aptitude for work. Of course, this explanation is taken with a grain of salt; yet, it is a fact that many a person innately clever has become a failure through dilatoriness and lack of real grit. The artist is right; without work there would be no art. The secret of producing a work of art is to learn the art of work.

HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE

Stopped Most Terrible Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Denton, Texas.—"After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work. I was very nervous but just kept dragging on until last summer when I got where I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and dizzy spells and my head would ache most of the time. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's step-son told me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go. I bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking the first three doses I began to improve. I continued to use it, and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and commence the treatment without delay."

Turnip Planting Peculiar

The latest record in amateur gardening, which comes from Sydney Mines, tells of a man who bought a peck of turnips, which he cut up and planted as he would potatoes, and located to his friends that out of one peck of turnips he had cut a whole bushel of seed. The truth of the story is vouched for by a prominent citizen of this town. The amateur gardener had never previously attempted anything in that line, but this year, in his zeal to do something in the way of increased production, dug up a patch of ground in which to plant turnips—Sydney Record.

Children Had Eczema Doctors Failed to Cure

Two Letters Which Prove the Efficiency of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a Cure for Eczema.

Fortunate are the mothers who know the virtues of Dr. Chase's Ointment, for there is no treatment so suitable for use after the bath to relieve irritation and chafing and to thereby prevent eczema and similar skin diseases.

Mrs. W. L. Barnes, Timmins, Ont., writes:—"I want to tell you about the case of my little boy, who had been afflicted with eczema for three months when he was three months old. It started on the top of his head, on his forehead and around his ears. The doctors failed to do him any good. I can also recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment and before the first box was used the child was completely cured. I can also recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to suffering friends who I know will be glad to learn of something to relieve their nervous trouble. You have my permission to use this letter for the benefit of others."

A Rebuke from a Soldier.

The father of a wounded soldier writes as follows to the editor of the Halifax Herald: "Sir.—The following is part of a letter received from my son, who was wounded at Vimy Ridge, having lost an arm at the elbow. He is now in Etchington hospital. I thought you might like to use it to show how our boys feel about equal service: "The papers here print a story about the labor people in Canada being opposed to equal service, and that the Trades and Labor Council of Halifax was in favor of it. Is that really so? There are several old union boys in this ward and they say they do not believe it; that they will wait for the Halifax papers to find out if there is any truth in the story. At any rate they feel pretty well down in the mouth over it, and I cannot tell you how sad I feel. I hope it is no true. "Surely the labor boys of Halifax would not be guilty of anything of the kind. Why here are labor boys from Halifax, New Glasgow and Sydney, some with legs and arms off and why? Simply because we came over here to fight for the very fellows they say have gone back on us. Here I am with one arm gone. News again the brass cars for your truly, and I guess you know I was a pretty good union man when at home. God forgive those fellows if they have left us in the lurch. Send the Halifax papers if you have not done so, for I would like to see the amount of the men who voted to forsake their former comrades. So would all the boys."

Specific for Bronchitis.

The turpentine used in Dr. Chase's Strup of Limes and Turpentine is not the ordinary commercial article, which is little used because of the unpleasantness of taste, but is specially extracted from tamarac and spruce gum and so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be at the same time pleasant to use and wonderfully effective in the cure of affections of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Saving the Surplus.

The shortage of labor and the scarcity and high price of tin cans has very materially reduced the output and increased cost of canned vegetables, so much so, in fact, as to make some lines almost prohibitive to the average family.

After the War.

It will not be until the war is over that the people of Germany will fully realize the odium which their rulers have brought upon them by the crimes which have horrified the civilized nations of the earth. The London Daily Express says: "The German does not realize the depth of wrathful indignation aroused by his crimes against humanity. Imagine, when peace comes, a German commercial traveller, peddling his goods in Lyons and Glasgow! The ghost of Nurse Cavell and the wraiths of scores of young French girls, will stand at his shoulder, and no decent man will do business with him. Imagine the German clerk back once more in London; his very presence would excite memories of murdered Belgians and submarine assassinations. He would be a parish, and if he found an employer he would be shunned and condemned as a moral leper. For a hundred years the name of German must stink in the nostrils of humanity. This is deplorable. It will certainly add to the difficulties of the future. It is none the less the inevitable consequence of ruthless crimes which have no parallel in the history of the world."

When Your Color Fades.

When a girl—or a woman—finds her color fading, when her cheeks and lips grow pale, and she gets short of breath easily, and her heart palpitates after slight exertion, or under the least excitement, it means that she is suffering from anemia—this, watery blood. Headache and backache frequently accompany this condition, and nervousness is often present.

Cellars Should be Kept Clean.

The cellar as a storehouse for canned goods and vegetables should be kept scrupulously clean, as authorities state that disease may occur because of the impure air which gathers in some cellars. The cellar that contains impure odors should be thoroughly aired regularly. The floor should be swept and mopped, and all cobwebs brushed down from the walls and ceiling.

Sleepless Nights with Eczema.

Mrs. Link, 12 Walker St., Halifax, N. S., states:—"After three years of miserable torture and sleepless nights with terrible eczema, and after trying over a dozen remedies without obtaining anything but slight temporary relief, I have been perfectly and entirely cured by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. After the third or fourth application of this grand ointment I obtained relief, and a few boxes were sufficient to make a cure!"

Living Without Eating.

If there were a single how long do you think a human and a civilized man could live on food supplies given out?

Living Without Eating.

When we take a walk in the woods, or go to a picnic, we can see the drinking water or an ordinary man can exist for about thirty days without food. At the end of that time the machinery of the body will not be spoiled and can be entirely strengthened back to its old standard by careful feeding.

Living Without Eating.

About one quarter of our body weight is fat, and it is mostly fat which is absorbed as food during the period of starvation.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JULY 27, 1917.

A Strong Letter.

The following letter addressed by Hon. Clifford Sifton, one of Canada's leading statesmen, to the leader of the Senate, is so full of sound sense and truth that we cannot do better than give it in full to our readers. It should be read by all:

"Hon. Hewitt Bostock, The Senate, Ottawa. "MY DEAR BOSTOCK: Will you permit an onlooker to respectfully express his views on the present grave crisis in the affairs of Canada.

"As the leader of the liberal party in the senate, you will shortly be called upon to deal with the Military Service Bill. You and your colleagues will be faced with a grave responsibility.

"The world is in the final stages of a death grapple. No such dire and fearful tragedy has ever before occurred in the known history of mankind. The forces of tyranny and reaction throughout the world have rallied for a last desperate struggle. The fate of liberty, human rights and free modern civilization are at stake. The issue is still altogether undecided and hangs in the balance.

"We have 80,000 men in the fighting line. It is not more than our share. Their numbers are being daily diminished by death and the casualties of war. They are driven to the utmost of their physical powers by lack of reserves. Our reinforcements are almost exhausted.

"I am confident that I voice the sentiments of many thousands of Canadians when I say that at this supreme moment we care nothing for Borden or Laurier, conservatism or liberalism. The overwhelming importance of the crisis absolutely obliterates all considerations of persons or parties.

"The only thing that matters is:— 1. To put every possible ounce of force into our striking power with men, guns and munitions in order to help the allies win the victory for liberty.

2. To stand by our men at the front and give them abundant reinforcements and reserves to admit of rest and recuperation.

3. To maintain the honor of Canada and redeem our pledge to see the war through to the limit of our capacity.

"In common with many others, I had hoped that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, if he could not join a union government, would agree to an extension of the life of parliament so as to permit the Borden government to get on with its war policy. To the profound regret of many thousands of his best friends he has decided upon another course. I have no criticism to offer upon his course, not anything except respectful sympathy for the difficulties of his position.

"The facts, however, must be squarely faced. The meaning of Sir Wilfrid's attitude and that of his principal supporters in Quebec is that they have determined to force an election on the single issue of conscription. Read the speeches which are daily being delivered and you find that their policy in effect is:—

1. No conscription. 2. No more men. No more money. "If Sir Wilfrid is returned to power in the approaching election, two-thirds of his followers in parliament will be pledged to the bill against any but a prefatory and ineffective participation in the war. Then:—

1. There will be no conscription in Quebec. 2. There will be no recruiting in Quebec. 3. Under these circumstances it will be obviously impossible to raise troops in the other portions of Canada. Imagine a Laurier government trying to raise troops in the other provinces while Quebec scornfully refuses either to submit to conscription or to recruit.

4. Our regiments at the front will be left stranded and will dwindle and disappear as an effective fighting force.

"The predominating and controlling element behind Sir Wilfrid Laurier will not allow him to prosecute the war. No one who has the slightest experience of parliamentary government in Canada can honestly gain any such conclusion.

"It is said that a great effort is to be made to unite behind a "solid Quebec" all the elements in the population who are hostile or lukewarm in regard to the war, together with certain of the larger business interests who feel that conscription will interfere with their operations. Thus a determined effort is to be made to return Sir Wilfrid to power.

"What will be the result of this effort if it succeeds? How is the war to be carried on with vigor by a parliamentary party which is controlled by a hostile majority?

"To ask these questions is to answer them. With Sir Wilfrid in power the anti-war party of Quebec will dictate his policy. It is dictating his policy now.

"It is said that the government has made many mistakes. Probably it has. All the other war governments made mistakes. To err is human. It is said that more skilful piloting would have avoided this crisis. Perhaps it would. It is hard to say. On the other hand, it is alleged that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, had he chosen to do so, when applied to, could have found a way out of the difficulty. It may be so; it is easy to criticize.

"What is certain is that none of these things matter now. We have to face facts, not theories. The issue is simple. Either:— 1. We put our whole strength into the war. 2. We abandon our men at the front and dishonor our solemn obligation.

"I will go further. The decision of this issue will determine, once for all, whether Canada is a nation dominated and held together by a national sense of honor, or is a helpless aggregation of sectional communities, held together only by the serving considerations of sectional interest.

"If anything in this troubled world can be absolutely clear, it is clear to-day that we can grapple with this situation in one way and in one way only, by the formation of a union war government, administered on non-partisan lines, which will straight away appeal for a mandate to the people of Canada, and can consistently be supported by every element in the population that is loyal to the cause.

"Germany is fighting desperately to wear out the fortitude of her opponents. If she succeeds the peace will be inconclusive. It will be no peace for us, but the beginning of an intolerable strain of constant preparedness for war.

"We are not fighting for sentiment, for England, or for Imperialism; we are fighting for the rights of ourselves and our children to live as a free community. "Shall Canada be the first of all the allied nations to sink from the field? Let us realize the position now. It will be no use to wake up when it is too late. Yours faithfully, CLIFFORD SIFTON."

Thomas Edgelow's story, "The Mysterious Mrs. Musselwhite," published in a popular magazine, formed the inspiration for this cleverly devised entertainment.

The City of Buyathome.

This is the story of the birth and growth of the City of Buyathome, a city that began very humbly but began right and grew up into a big prosperous and happy community. True it did not show the mushroom growth of some of the cities of the West where towns grow up in the night through the agency of money suddenly flooded into it from the East; but it was steady and sure. You want to hear about it. It will do everyone good to learn about the city of Buyathome.

The first settlers at Buyathome realized the truth of the law that all wealth comes from three things, land, labor and capital. Land they had in abundance; but they were canny, these first settlers in Buyathome, and they resolved not to waste their land. Labor was scarce; and they resolved to study a means to attract labor. Of wealth they had very little; and they resolved to attract all the wealth possible to their city and to keep it there once they had obtained it.

"Fellow citizens," said Mayor Lookhead, "two things we must get if Buyathome is to become a big city, labor and capital. But really these two are so inseparable that if we get capital we are almost certain to get the labor that will develop more capital. And with the coming of more and more capital, Buyathome is bound to have a greater and greater population.

"Hear, hear," was heard all over the hall in which the citizens were assembled. "I am going to tell you at once how this labor and this capital can be secured. I claim no credit for this recipe, any thoughtful man will tell you the same as I will tell you. If we keep our money at home and buy from our local gardeners and our local farmers, we are going to have bigger stores, bigger gardens, bigger farms and the money with which to build factories. Our town will then attract labor and additional capital that will go to build up Buyathome and make it a great city.

"Mark these words carefully as no truer words ever were spoken: If you spend your money in Buyathome you get a hundred more chances at the same old dollar; but when that dollar goes out of town, it's 'Good-bye Bill.' Cheers and applause from all over the hall greeted these potent words of Mayor Lookhead.

"I wish I had a gramophone to place in every home so that those words could be heard by everyone every day," he continued. "But that is going to be the slogan of Buyathome from this day forth."

"And the slogan is going to bring capital into Buyathome," went on Mayor Lookhead. "The biggest problem for a factory is to find a market. If capitalists find a town whose people are sending their money away they do not locate a factory there; they place the factory in the place where other towns send their money. It's money they are all after, don't forget that. And where the money is there will be the industries.

"But if capitalists find a town whose citizens spend their money at home, they are going to erect industries to produce goods to sell there. It's so plain that there is nothing to it."

Those words rang in the ears of the citizens. They stayed with them. And Buyathome grew and prospered and became a big city. You can make your town a city and your city a larger one. Is there something in this story of Buyathome? There is, that is why there is a "BUY-AT-HOME" campaign. "BUY-AT-HOME" and get a hundred other chances at the same old dollar.

A business well advertised has gone fully half way to success. The rest of the way may be travelled by having clean and sanitary premises, prompt service, fresh goods and fair values. But without advertising all the others will not accomplish the result. To appreciate these things, people must know about them and the way to tell them is to advertise in their home paper.

Ladies, attention! War? Yes, madening. Needs? Never greater. Thermometer travelling up? Yes, but our soldier boys fight on through heat we know sought of, to save our homes for us. Is our gratitude for and interest in them flagging? Never. Yet there is room for more vigilance in our Sewing Club, which meets every Monday afternoon at the Red Cross rooms, where the temperature is always cool no matter how hot the day is. Will those who can come kindly try and fill the places of those who find it impossible to be present? There is always plenty of yarn on hand for the knitters, and the way for socks, socks, socks does not cease. Let us continue to do all in our power to supply the needs of our brave boys.

Talk about the high prices, you wouldn't think anything had happened if you could see the goods we are showing in Ready-to-Wear in our Basement this week. All bought six months ago, at right prices. We give you the benefit of our buying. J. D. CHAMBERS

Rev. T. C. Mellor, of Kentville, will officiate at both services at St. John's next Sunday. There will be no service at 8 a. m. Mr. Mellor has been appointed rector of Annapolis Royal, the oldest Anglican parish in Canada, and dating from 1710, when this fort and town were captured by Governor Nicholson, of Boston. Mr. Mellor, who has served as rector in Cornwallis for ten years and in Kentville for four years, will be greatly missed from Kings county. A faithful and indefatigable parish clergyman, an earnest and powerful preacher and a helper and leader in every good cause, his place will be hard to fill. Both of his sons volunteered very early for service at the front, and one, a most promising young fellow, was killed in action last year. The good wishes of all Wolfville church people will follow Mr. Mellor to his new sphere of labor.

L. W. SLEEP.

Our Ottawa Letter.

Ottawa, July 26th.—The Military Service Bill is now through Committee of the whole House, and will likely be up for third reading in the Commons on the 24th instant. Every clause was discussed in committee, and several of them were amended to meet the suggestions of members on both sides of the House. As finally passed in Committee Thursday night there were not very many alterations; and having regard to the tremendous rumpus raised in the debate on second reading—it is remarkable that when the Bill was settled clause by clause there was not much difference of opinion in the House. The clauses, practically, all passed with unanimous voice.

On the third reading it is expected that amendments will be again moved by the irreconcilable opponents of compulsory service, so as to put themselves on record again at that stage. It will then go to the Senate where the debate will not be very long.

On Tuesday Sir Robert Borden moved his resolution about the extension of the parliamentary term. Last year it will be remembered the extension until October, 1917, was passed without a dissenting voice in the Commons or Senate. Every person, Liberal and Conservative, wanted to win the war. But this year a change has come over Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his principal purpose now is to win the elections. He puts the war in the place of second importance.

When Sir Robert spoke on Tuesday he told the House that in his opinion the reasons for extending the term are stronger this year than they were in 1916. We have now twice as many men overseas, the war is just as uncertain and the demands for united and energetic action are infinitely more compelling than they were twelve months ago.

But, he said, the government would not take one step about extending the term if parliament did not vote unanimously for extension. The government had no fear about going to the country, but at the same time he was convinced that general elections would paralyze our efforts at a most critical stage.

Sir Wilfrid did not at once speak, but left it to Mr. Graham to move an amendment about conscription of wealth—a resolution which plainly showed on its face that it was simply drawn up to serve as an election cry.

Sir George Foster replied to Mr. Graham, and showed up the utter hollowness of the resolution. It did not suggest one practical means of applying a useful remedy; and Sir George completely spiked Mr. Graham's gun by telling him and the House that the government intend this season to bring down a bill to impose an income tax.

All of the conscientious Liberals excepting Champagne and Clark voted for Graham's amendment. Sir Wilfrid Laurier then made a stump speech—an opener of the campaign against extension—in which he got down to the common level of electioneering. Among other things he talked about the Ross rifle and sought to blame the Borden government for the impement that he brought to life, and in respect to which he poured out millions of dollars of public money.

Sir Sam Hughes did not let him off without heckling, and in the end Sir Wilfrid had to confess that the Ross rifle was a better rifle than the English rifle. All of his campaign attack went up in smoke when he made this acknowledgment, which will be found in Hansard, page 3643.

'Sir Wilfrid Laurier—I said I believed the hon. gentleman was right. I believe the Ross rifle was the better of the two.'

He still went on to try and fix the blame on Borden; but his clear and unequivocal confession of the good quality of the Ross rifle, broke to pieces the cause of arguments which he and his followers heretofore put on Hansard.

Dr. Michael Clark, Red Deer—a win the war Liberal—delivered one of the most telling criticisms of Laurier's insincerity and double-faced action ever heard in parliament. It was unanswerable. He referred in biting language to the right about face which Sir Wilfrid is making; and challenged him to deny that his present attitude is not prompted by his desire for the sweets of office.

General elections, Dr. Clark pointed out, would paralyze Canada's war work, not only in government administration, but in Patriotic fund, Red Cross and other activities. There could not be effective and united action with the rancour of elections dividing the people into opposing camps.

Strange to say, Sir Wilfrid's stand was supported by all but five of the Conscientious Liberals. There will, therefore, be elections this year. The country will be rent from end to end. There will be discord and strife. Canada's duty in the war will be delayed; perhaps halted. Meantime the German will find its way into Canada to help Laurier because Laurier is helping Germany. All of these conditions will be brought about so that Laurier may

He given another chance to win the elections. Do not forget, when the election strife paralyzes our efforts to uphold the Canadian boys in the trenches, that Laurier is the man who brings that evil condition upon us and them; and that he is the man who puts party-baiting strategy to gratify his lust for power.
