Local Social Service Council Hold Meeting

Newcastle, July 5.—A large and representative gathering of the local Social Service Council met with Chief Inspector W. D. Wilson and President Donald Fraser, of the N. B. Temperance Alliance here last night, to discuss the local Prohibition situation.

Rev. L. H. MacLean presided and stated that the cause of the meeting was the fact that there was no local inspector and there was evidence of liquor and alcoholic extracts being sold in town.

Rev. Mr. Bertram spoke to the same effect.

Chief Inspector W. D. Wilson told the meeting that if they recommended a suitable local man he was prepared to appoint him inspector and pay him.

On motion of H. H. Stuart the meeting asked Inspector Wilson to explain why Inspector John H. Ashford was dismissed last fall, without consulting local temperance people.

The Chief Inspector's reply indicated that unfavorable reports of Mr. Ashford's success in restricting drunkenness had been handed in by traveling inspectors and others. Mr. Wilson implied that he did not believe that a Town Marshal serving the town all day and therefore, not being able to be on duty much at nights was the right man for an Inspector. An Inspector should be free from police duty, as it was very hard for any man to serve two masters.

Mr. Ashford said he had wished an investigation, to which he felt entitled.

Inspector Wilson said the way to go about to obtain an investigation was to apply to the government through the Provincial Secretary.

Mr. Stuart said that the efforts of the Temperance people of Kent and Northumberland and later of N. B., to obtain an investigation of the dismissal of Geo. N. Clarke in Kent Co. several years ago had been extremely uphill work and long drawn out.

Inspector Wilson replied that if the Provincial Secretary were now appealed to, he (Mr. Wilson) would see there would be no delay.

Inspector Wilson further stated that there was a crime wave everywhere as an aftermath of the war which made all law enforcement hard. If the meeting would name a man who would enforce the law he should be appointed. The Social Service Council should be prepared to co-operate with the inspector.

Inspector Dickson, of Chatham, said Town Marshal Ashford had assisted him with cases since Ashford ceased to be Inspector.

A thorough discussion of the law re-selling of extracts, etc., followed. Mr. Wilson said that he understood that the government would take over the liquor business by November 1st.

The meeting unanimously recommended on motion of Secretary F. E. Locke, the appointment of Willard Allison, a returned soldier, as local Inspector. Inspector Wilson agreed.

Kaiser To Be Tried

Premier Lloyd George announced in the House of Commons last Thursday that William Hohenzollern, former Emperor of Germany, is to be tried by a tribunal that will sit in London.

He said it was the intention to make such an example of Germany as to discourage others from "ever again attempting to repeat this infamy."

The extradition of the former German Emperor will be signed by twenty-two or twenty-three of the Powers.

William Hohenzollern, the former German Emperor, will be brought to England in a British ship and imprisoned in the Tower of London, according to the Daily Mail.

The death penalty will not be sought the newspaper points out, but if he is found guilty the Allies will ask his banishment for life to a remote island following the precedent of Napoleon's exile at St. Helena. The International trial court had intended to try the former Emperor alone, the Daily Mail says, but it is possible that the former Crown Prince, Frederick will also be arraigned before it.

Every citizen is requested to assist generously in the canvass which will shortly be made by the Soliciting Committee for the Returned Soldiers' Celebration which is to be held in August.

New Saw Mill Now Operating

The new sawmill built by James Robinson, of Millerton, began operations a short time ago, and for the first day's work produced 40,000 feet of lumber without mishap or any delays, due to necessary alterations or readjustments, and has been successfully operating since. This performance is exceptional, for at no time in milling experience has a complete plant been set to work performing all its functions from the start without numerous delays and continued shut downs for alterations.

The structure itself is 200 feet long by sixty feet wide, two storeys high, with a smaller plan third floor for filing room. It is a band mill with Yeats resaw, twin edgers, slashers, cut of saws, box board machine, and lath machine with a system of live rollers to distribute the manufactured lumber to all parts of the pling yard. It is driven by two 150 horse power engines which make it a direct drive mill throughout. The mill is so substantially constructed that it is without vibration and is considered by commentators both local and outside to be a very modern and well equipped mill. Its capacity is 75,000 superficial feet for each shift. The construction work was done by James Sullivan, who remains in Mr. Robinson's employ as operating superintendent.

TENDERS FOR COAL

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Coal for the Dominion Buildings, Maritime Provinces" will be received at this office until 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, July 29, 1919, for the supply of coal for the Dominion Buildings throughout the Maritime Provinces.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained at this office and from the Caretakers of the different Dominion Buildings.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with the conditions set forth therein.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10 p. c. of the amount of the tender. War Loan Bonds of the Dominion will also be accepted as security, or war bonds and cheques if required to make up an odd amount.

By order

Newcastle Will Entertain Her Heroes

Newcastle will entertain her heroes.

The citizens of Newcastle, who are keenly alive to their responsibilities have decided to entertain the returned soldiers in the near future. An informal meeting was held a few days ago and it was unanimously decided that the boys should be entertained in a good royal manner. After considerable discussion a managing committee was appointed comprising the following gentlemen: R. C. Clarke, George Stables, J. R. Lawlor, E. H. Sinclair, and A. H. Cole. This committee has had several meetings and have selected the following gentlemen to act as chairmen of the various committees.

Street Decorations—R. H. Armstrong

Parade—Chas. Sargeant.

Dinner—J. R. Lawlor

Canteen—G. G. Stohart.

Automobile—E. H. Sinclair

Advertising—A. H. Cole

Music—W. L. Durick

Amusement—F. V. Dalton.

Rink Decorations—Wm. Stables

Electric Displays—R. W. Crocker

Juvenile—Chas. H. Gough

Law and Order—Perley Russell

G. W. V. A.—J. P. Ryder

The Finance and Soliciting Committee is composed of Messrs. Thos. J. Maltby, C. J. Morrissey and D. A. Jackson.

Mr. J. R. Lawlor, chairman of the Dinner Committee is taking the matter of catering to the boys, up with the Red Cross Society, who have in the past, shown such pronounced interest in the welfare of the soldiers and there is no doubt, that with their co-operation, the inner man of our heroes, will be exceptionally well taken care of.

This reception is to be conducted on a grand scale, and it is the intention of the committee to give the boys a reception that will be a red letter day in their lives.

In order to accomplish this, every citizen of Newcastle is expected to assist in a financial way to their utmost. In the course of a few days the soliciting committee will begin their canvass, and it is hoped that every citizen will respond, as willingly as our heroes did when called for overseas duties.

Let us all "get together" in this worthy object, and show the boys that Newcastle, appreciates their service.

OBITUARY

JAMES S. FAIRLEY.

Newcastle, July 1.—The death of James S. Fairley, of Boiestown, took place on Friday and funeral on Sunday. Deceased was well known and leaves the following children: Fred, at home; Ernest, Bangor, Me; Lulu (Mrs. Williamson) and Miss Evelyn, Montreal, Que. (Mrs. Star Pepper) and Miss Roberta, in the West.

Among those who attended the funeral was the deceased's niece, Mrs. Everett J. Parker, of Millerton.

ANDREW PORTER

Newcastle, July 1.—The death occurred on Sunday at the Forks, Cain's River, of Andrew Porter. Deceased, who was 83 years of age, had been suffering from cancer for some time. He was unmarried and leaves two brothers, George, in Maine and David, in Ohio.

Rev. H. T. Montgomery conducted the funeral services on Monday, interment was in Holy Trinity Cemetery, Blackville.

MRS. A. E. O'DONNELL

The death of Mrs. A. E. O'Donnell occurred at her home on Wednesday July 23rd. Deceased lady who was in her 83rd year was loved and respected by all. She had been in ill health for a number of years, but despite all that medical aid could accomplish she passed peacefully away. She leaves to mourn a bereaved husband, three sons George, Edward, Horace, and one daughter Rae; to whom the heartfelt sympathy of the community is extended in the great loss they have been called upon to bear.

She is also survived by three sisters Mrs. Lenhart Rhode, Winnie Mrs. W. E. McKenzie, Brewer, Me., and Grace M. McMaster, Campbellton.

The funeral service which were held on Friday afternoon, Rev. Hugh Miller, M. A., assisted by Rev. W. Camp officiating, were largely attended.

The pall-bearers were:—C. A. Alexander, W. J. S. Welsh, H. R. Humphrey, Harry Sullivan, D. C. Duncan and Ray Young.

The floral offerings were many and most beautiful testifying to the general high esteem in which the deceased was held.

EXTENSION OF CLOSE SEASON

An order-in-council was passed on the 4th of June 1919, extending the close season on Beaver and Sable to the close of the past session of the Legislature of this Province.

Presentation To Principal J. D. Keane

Newcastle, July 5.—A number of the late pupils of John D. Keane, the retiring Principal of Harkin's Academy, visited him at his home in Nordin last night and presented him with an address and a suit case umbrella. The address was read by Austin Clarke and the presentation made by Doris Atkinson.

Mr. Keane acknowledged the gift very appreciatively. A very pleasant time was spent with games, etc., and ice cream and other refreshments were served.

The students present were: Constance Wilson, Derby; Pauline Crocker Millerton; Delphine Clark, Mona Lindon, Eulah M. Stuart and Jack Nicholson, of the graduating class of 1917; Doris Atkinson and Austin Clarke of the graduating class of 1919 and Josie Jeffrie, Gwen Belyea, Kathleen Gorman, Annie Dolan, Edwin A. Stuart, Joseph Campbell, Charlie Dickson, Dick Corbett, Hamond Atkinson and Nicholas Gorman.

Principal Keane is understood to be going to Halifax next term to teach a High School there.

The address was as follows: Dear Mr. Keane: At the close of your duties as Principal of Harkin's Academy, we, the pupils of the High School, wish to address to you a few kindly words of farewell.

You have given for our benefit years of faithful and conscientious service. Your interest in us, your ambition for us, and your vision of our future has been often times greater than we have cherished for ourselves. It is difficult for us just now to fully appreciate your untiring efforts, but time will no doubt reveal that you have been our leader during a most important period of our lives.

Therefore, as a slight indication of our esteem for you, let me present to you this gift, with the hope that it may often recall pleasant memories of our days together in Harkin's Academy, and with best wishes for your success in the new sphere of activity into which you enter.

In behalf of the High School pupils.

Saturday July 19th Day Of General Celebration

Ottawa, Ju. 3.—The government received from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, on Wednesday, two despatches dated July 1, which are now made public:

"His Majesty has issued a proclamation appointing Sunday, the 6th day of July a general thanksgiving day for the blessing of peace and it is his desire that this day shall be observed not only in the United Kingdom, but in all quarters of the Empire.

"The King has also given his sanction to a peace celebration in the United Kingdom on Saturday July 19th, and the hope is expressed that all parts of the Empire will join as far as possible in celebrating peace on that day."

Girls Lemon Juice Is A Skin Whitener

How to make a creamy beauty lotion for a few cents

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quart pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands.

It Helps Others Will Help Me

With This Belief Many Thousands Have Learned the Exceptional Value of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

You hear people talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You read about it in the newspapers. You wonder if it would benefit you. And while you are hesitating others are using it to great advantage.

This treatment for the restoration of the blood and nerves is so different to most medicines that you may not realize why you can be so certain of benefit from its use.

In order to maintain the vigor of the nervous system an abundance of pure, rich blood is necessary. When the nervous system becomes exhausted and you are easily tired and suffer from headaches, sleeplessness, irritability or indigestion, it is because the blood is failing to supply proper nutrition to the nervous system.

By forming new, rich blood, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food naturally and certainly restores the vigor of the nerves. Since it works hand-in-hand with nature, it cannot fail to be of benefit, and there is no reason why it will not help you just as it has the writer of this letter.

Mrs. Stephen G. Thwaites, Box 285, Jordan, Ont., writes: "For about a year I was troubled with nervousness, and took doctors' medicine, but it did not seem to relieve me. I could not sleep nor content myself to do anything. I had severe headaches, was tired all the time, and afraid to stay alone. I also tried several nerve medicines until almost discouraged. At last I discovered Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found relief in this. I had only taken one box when I began to feel better. I continued using this treatment until my nerves were restored to perfect health. I think the Nerve Food splendid for nervous troubles of any kind, and cannot recommend it too highly."

(Rev. S. S. Coffman, Vineland, Ont., states: "This is to certify that I know Mrs. Thwaites, and her statements are correct.")

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edman-son, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Weak Mothers Regain Health

Through the New Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

No mother should allow nervous weakness to get the upper hand of her. If she does, worry will mar her work in the home and torment her in body and mind. Day after day spent amid the same surroundings is enough to cause fretfulness and depression. But there are other causes as every mother knows that tend to make her nerves run down. A change would benefit her jaded system, and rest might improve her blood so as to give the nerves a better tone. But rest and change are often impossible, and it is then that all worn out women should take a short treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which make new blood, rich with the elements on which the nerves thrive. In this way these pills restore regular health, increased energy, new ambition and steady nerve. There is a lesson for other women in the case of Mrs. Harry P. Snider, Wilton, Ont. who says: "Five years ago my twin babies were born, and I was left very weak and very miserable, hardly fit to do anything. The doctor gave me medicine, but it did not help me. Then I tried another doctor, but with no better results. One day I went home to my mother, telling her how miserable I felt, and that the doctor's medicine had not done me any good. Mother asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as I was glad to try anything that might help me, I got three boxes when I went back home. By the time these were used there was no doubt they were helping me, and I got three more boxes. But I did not need them all, for by the time the fifth box was used, I was entirely cured, and never felt better in my life. Now when I hear people talk about feeling weak or miserable I always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and tell what they did for me, and in similar cases I shall continue to recommend them."

At the first sign that the blood is out of order, take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and note the speedy improvement they make in the appetite, health and spirits. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LT. COL. GUTHRIE TO PRACTICE LAW IN U.S.

Boston, July 2.—Lieut. Colonel Percy A. Guthrie, of Fredericton, has decided to become a citizen of Boston, and will become law partner of James D. Colt in State street. He took out his first naturalization papers on his thirty-fifth birthday, and he will seek admission to the Massachusetts bar. His family is now at Fredericton.

SAYS HE WILL DEFEND HIS CHARACTER.

Fredericton, July 2.—At the meeting of the executive of the New Brunswick United Baptist Association, which was held at St. John yesterday, the following resolution was passed: "Resolved, that in view of the circumstances surrounding the departure of Rev. S. W. Stackhouse, while charged with a serious crime, we consider that until a satisfactory explanation of these matters is given, he should not be permitted to exercise the functions of a Baptist minister."

Rev. Mr. Stackhouse, who was stationed at Doaktown, suddenly left and went to New York about February last, and it is claimed that when he received an official document appointing him to the pastorate the congregation or church officials had no knowledge of the cloud surrounding him. Since then he has been named by a returned soldier as co-respondent in a divorce case, which is on the docket of the court which opened here to-day, the evidence including an affidavit by the soldier's wife that the minister is the father of her child which was born about the time he left. Rev. Mr. Stackhouse has written from New York to say he has engaged lawyers to appear for him at the divorce court and will defend his character.

COPENHAGEN CHEWING TOBACCO

Copenhagen is used differently from ordinary chewing tobacco. Take a small pinch, for a start, and put it between the lower lip and gum, in the centre. Afterwards you can increase the size of the pinch to suit the strength of the chew you desire. Copenhagen is strong, because the tobacco of which it is made is cut into fine grains, which makes it impart its strength thoroughly and quickly. Hence, a little pinch goes a long way, showing that Copenhagen is not only an unusually economical chew but also one of the finest quality, being made of the best, old, rich, high-flavored tobacco.

ANCIENT CUSTOMS IN ACADIA

(1) The C.P.R. steamer Empress, docked in Digby Harbor. (2) At Grand Pre. The Willows, a memorial cross and a pilgrim. (3) An old-fashioned freight car on a Digby street.

The invention of the automobile supplanting the once favorite horse-drawn coach, and now the aeroplane may, to a large extent, take the place of the automobile. But, however science progresses, there still are places where the ancient order of things endures and the people are contented following the simple customs of their ancestors. Oxen may yet be seen drawing drays in that part of Nova Scotia known as the Land of Evangeline. It is quaint to see such a sight on the street of a village or town. Unlike horses, oxen have their greatest strength in their necks. The drays are yoked to the brows and horns of the animals with leather straps. Bells tinkle on their breasts as they move along. The tips of the horns are nearly always decorated with brass knobs. A pair of oxen will walk along leisurely drawing a load of four tons. If you interview the driver he will tell you that they are easily trained and do their work just as well as horses, and you can use them in places where horses would be difficult to manage. They plough and draw logs with the same docile temper as they show when yoked to the drays.

There are other old customs still surviving in the Land of Evangeline, and these add to the attractiveness of one of the most picturesque, romantic and historic regions in America. Silvery bays and rivers, shores of golden sand, hills and valleys covered with fragrant meadows or towering pines or fruitful apple trees, sunny skies and freshening sea and land breezes give health and pleasure to thousands of tourists every year.

Across the Bay of Fundy from St. John, New Brunswick, to Digby, Nova Scotia, is a delightful trip occupying a few hours. Approaching Digby Gap the Bay is dotted with the craft of hardy Nova Scotian fishermen. Passing through the Gap the homes of the people amidst the woods on either side, look so pretty that one might fancy they were the dwellings of the fairies. Digby Gap leads into Annapolis Basin, whose deep and sheltered waters cover an area of sixty square miles. The Basin is unsurpassed for bathing, fishing, boating and canoeing. Good roads and walks radiate from Digby amongst enchanting scenes. There are some good hotels, his prosperous little town and tennis, croquet and golf are amongst the games provided.

Tourists to Evangeline's Land generally make a tour of all the beautiful spots of the region. Yarmouth, beside the sea, offers many allurements to the visitor. A colony of French-Canadian, whose ancestors were expelled from Grand Pre, resides in the vicinity of Yarmouth, and still retains the traditions of the Acadians. Kentville is the headquarters of the Dominion Atlantic Railway, which serves the entire district. Grand Pre was the site of the village from which the Acadians were banished in 1755. The well where Evangeline was wont to go for water and the willows under which she rested are still there; Blouin mountain and the Basin of Minas near by are just as they were of old, the meadows are green on the dykelands and the dikes keep up the sea, and a little inland the gentle hills are studded with luxuriant orchards. Wolfville, the headquarters for tourists to Grand Pre, is built in the midst of one of the greatest apple growing localities in the world. The late King Edward was amongst those who visited and loved this spot. It is only a short walk from Wolfville to Grand Pre, and the marshlands extend from one place to the other.

The Dominion Atlantic Railway has purchased the "big field" where the Acadians made their village, which was their capital, and this has become a public park. A memorial cross now stands there on the site of the ancient burial ground, and a statue of Evangeline sculptured by Philippe Hebert and his son Henri, descendants of an Acadian family, will soon add the grace of art to attractions of a haunt where nature has lavished her rarest charms.

The Brotherhood of Nature.

(1) King of the buffalo. (2) Buffalo herd at Banff. (3) King and queen buffalo.

In these days of hectic reconstruction it might well be for some peoples of the world to look on the way that community animal life is governed, on its placid contentment, its aspirations and its administration. No true contentment exists excepting there be a leader. Sheep follow the bell-wether, wolves follow the pack leader, bands of moose, or mountain sheep, herds of goats are all led by individual masters. Ants and bees are lost without their kings and queens, while the industrious beaver would never be satisfied in his aquatic home unless there was a head to the colony. The bull warden administers the high justice, the middle and the low in his own little world. In every band of wild or half wild horses that ranges the prairies there is one who is head, keeper of order and strict government.

Always excepting the cases of the busy bee, the meek sheep, or the sexless mule the leader is a male, always when rebellion or insurrection breaks forth it is from among the vigorous youngsters of the same sex. When the blood of youth runs hot in the veins of a warlike bull, or the mountain buck, or the male young wolf or whale or ram, he aspires to conquer and to lead.

To one who has made even a superficial study of the habits of animals in their methods and characteristics. There is ever an anxious how who craves leadership, there is always a large number willing to rush with fang and claw and ripping horn to destroy one who has led them to ruin. And it is always noticed that the dictator of any herd or band keeps a watchful eye on his restless young males and stands ever ready to crush insurrection and high domination with teeth or hoof or crushing head. This all leads up to the king of the buffalo herd in the great park at Banff beside the towering pile of Cascade Mountain where the C. P. R. tracks skirt the base. Six feet high at the shoulders he stands with a mighty depth of chest, a tremendous head and a patriarchal beard of brown silk that sweeps on a level with his knees. He is a stupendous creature and has impressed his powers of dominance on all the other bulls in the pasture. Visitors marvel at his bulk and his very apparent size and power. He is a ton weight of life, driven brawn and bone and flesh.

Yet he is an usurper, nevertheless. He stepped into the place of a better through force of circumstance and the ability to see the opportune moment. For many years "Sir Donald" was emperor of the buffalo at Banff. He more than topped six feet at the shoulders, his head was as hard and as heavy as a granite slab, his agility was that of a cat, his charge was like the rush of the avalanche down a steep mountain side. With ease he kept the young bulls in second place, included in their number being the present leader. In time it needed but a slow swing of the heavy head to make the other bulls scamper. Like a wise leader he paid little attention to the private quarrels of young males, and naturally they fought among themselves to prove superiority. The present dictator whipped them all. And it came to pass that he looked down on Sir Donald with a red eye and that sturdy and astute leader recognized the need of the application of first principles. He broke a horn on the hard skull of the younger animal, but he trampled all feelings of equality or opposition from that vanquished beast.

The years rolled on. Sir Donald passed the thirty year milestone. His teeth grew poor, winter found him thin. A touch of rheumatism slowed him up, and still respectful of his prowess was the hour of the young bulls. Led by the last defeated contestant they attacked the veteran chieftain on the prairie. The veterans were satisfied with keeping him outside the herd by uniting and remaining united. None were willing yet to dare his anger single-handed. Sir Donald ranged in solitude, his former wives shunned him, his children ignored him, the young bulls rumbled when he came in sight. Then came a frosty night that so stiffened his rheumatic joints that he could not arise when the morning sun poured its golden light down in the broad valley. A wandering young bull finding him thus helpless roared the fighting call of the herd as he charged. The iron-hard ear trembled as the other great brutes thundered to the scene, and soon all that was visible was a half dozen buffalo bulls trampling and goring a heap on the ground while the air was filled with the howlings of victory. Strange to say, though the body was pulped by the hoofs of the bulls the magnificent head was unmarred, and men took it away, had it mounted, and now it hangs in the building at Ottawa, broken horn and all.

The present king saw his opportunity. He challenged the buskiest of his partners in the deposition murder and thoroughly whipped him. He avowed thus triumphantly through ranks of the others, and soon his dominance was admitted and the other brutes obeyed the swing of his head as promptly as they had that of Sir Donald's. He rules exactly as did his predecessor. He has families and a great dignity, and has now governed for some years.—L. V. K.

Conservatives To Be Consulted

Ottawa, June 27.—Hon. Robert Rogers, former Minister of Public Works,
in an interview here today commented on the movement to organize a unionist party, which was given a start at the government caucus yesterday, by the adoption of a resolution declaring the feelings of loyal and faithful Conservatives everywhere when he stated that from this time forward no decision for representation in any constituency of Canada will be reached, until the organized forces of the Conservative party have been heard and felt. Mr. Rogers further declared that the main proposition upon which the Unionist government depended for its existence were the mistakes made by the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier in connection with the war.
These conditions have now been removed.

Starting Something
in Pelton

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"You see, Mr. Pell, I'm trying to start something in Pelton," was the new Lucy Brown, reporter, "society"
writer and second mate of the Pelton
Sentinel, explained her call at the old Pell homestead. "The idea is to send copies of the home-town papers to the boys at the front and there are some hundreds of our town boys who will be getting the Sentinel. Now you know how it's been with the Sentinel—how it's been with Pelton, in fact.
There's never anything doing, and the boys over there don't want to read just a rehash of the news from the front that was stale to them a month before. They want local news. They want to know what's going on in Pelton."

"But nothing is ever going on in Pelton," said Mr. Francis Pell indif-ferently. "It's a conservative little place that stopped getting excited over itself some fifty years ago. There's never anything doing in Pelton."

"No; that's just it," said Lucy, the color coming to her cheeks and the brilliance to her eyes at the thought that she was being understood. "Nothing ever happens in this place—
but I'm going to make something happen so's to put Pelton on the map and make the boys want to get back to a real live, enthusiastic, human sort of place. I thought I'd begin by getting interviews with some of the local characters like you. I went up to see old Silas Snell yesterday. He's a hundred and three—all the boys know him—used to call him Crazy Sil. Well, he's got some bullets and things from the Civil war and some old clothes he wore seventy-five years ago. I've persuaded him to put them on exhibition down at the bookstore, and I can make a story about that. Then there is Miss Hastings that's always kept the cent shop—used to sell candy to the boys that are over there now, and she's promised to do something to make a story, and there's the pot-cheese man and the old sexton—"

Mr. Pell was hardly flattered at being put in a class with these local eccentrics, and had Lucy Brown had as much tact as she had enthusiasm she might have made her appeal in another way. But the fact was that Mr.
Francis Pell, whose ancestors had founded the old town, was quite as much of a character in his way as was either the worthless Silas Snell or the little spinster who had "always kept the cent shop." Although scarce forty,
and although no one had ever seen him counting out bags of money, nor had he ever been known to be crafty or shrewd in money matters, he was regarded as "the old miser." There were fabulous accounts of the extent of the Pell fortune, which had once diffused rays in the mind's eye of Pelton manna, but had long since ceased to be regarded as in any way available.

So Lucy paid her first call on Mr.
Pell and was very politely shown to the door after she had made herself quite clear, and she went away feeling as much confused and disheartened as she had some seven years before, when she went out on her first assignment for the big city paper. For Lucy was not a native Peltonite. If she had been she would have known better than to try to make news out of anything that Francis Pell might be doing. But she knew he was one of the most gossiped about personalities in town. Failing to find anything more fertile for discussion about him,
the women discussed the size of his grocer bills—though they were perfectly normal—or kept close track of his harmless old mammy housekeeper
or the new coat of paint on his house or the condition of his apple orchard.
But these things wouldn't make news
items for the Sentinel.

Lucy was rebutted the first time, politely but effectively, and went away perhaps more upset over a certain gracious courtesy that Mr. Pell had shown toward her than because of the actual rebuff.

But Lucy had not been a reporter
for seven years for nothing, and once her cheeks had stopped tingling from that first call she decided to make another. She would get some sort of story out of him—that she determined.
It was on her third call that Mr. Pell showed signs of weakening.

"You say you want me to do something to make a story about," he began cautiously, looking amusedly into Lucy's eager face and studying the nervous twitching of her still girlish lips. "What sort of thing would you suggest—not, of course, that I intend to do it."

Lucy chose to take him entirely seriously. "Make some gift to the town,"
she announced. "Every one thinks you have loads of money, but—"

"I know," smiled Mr. Pell, "they call me the old miser. It has always amused me that I choose to keep my benevolence to myself. I will tell you confidentially that I have just sent a rather important contribution to an astronomical observatory in Labrador that my father endowed, and the hospital for leprosy in Shanghai that my mother was interested in—"

"Pelton people don't care about that," interrupted Lucy. "They want you to do something for Pelton, it is it is only a drinking fountain for the stray dogs or a new curbstone around the town hall. Just think how the boys over there would sit up and read the Sentinel if you were to do something like that, and there would be presentation speeches and every one would turn out and there would be a big time—and then maybe if you did something like that they'd put you up for mayor and—well, you can see what a lot you might do to keep things going." Lucy sighed, and somehow her concern amused Mr. Pell more than anything she had done before.

She had already proved immensely
diverting.

Then one day Mr. Pell, called at the Sentinel office to see Lucy, and that was enough to keep Pelton tongues wagging for a few days. He told her he wanted her to tell him exactly what sort of thing he might do for the old town. Lucy that afternoon had been reporting a picnic given by the employees of one of the local factories.
The place chosen for it was part of the old Pell estate, and because of a bubbling spring of water that flowed out from the shale there it had proved a favorite spot for picnics for some years past; and Mr. Pell had never objected, in spite of his reputation for miserliness. Children, too, from all over the neighborhood came with pails and bottles to get this water, which seemed to be more quenching than ordinary water, and it was a favorite spot for pedestrians on hot Sundays,
who came there with little folding cups to quench their thirst at the miser's spring, as it was sometimes called.

Lucy had seen the picnickers
drinking at the spring that afternoon,
and she was ready with her suggestion. The thing to do was to give this tract of land as a picnic ground and to put up a sort of fountain of rough-hewn rocks from the neighborhood around the spring so that thirsty folks might always quench their thirst there.
And there should be a drain so that the water when it ran off should not make a bed of mud around the spring.
Mr. Pell may have had some questions concerning this, but he agreed, and within a few days he and Lucy were meeting occasionally in a secluded woodland path to discuss designs for the fountain and to plan the presentation. And all the time Lucy had visions of the big writing it was going to make for the Sentinel and the surprise that people would feel when they learned about it. And Francis Pell—well, he still watched the eager working of Lucy's lips and the color as it came quickly when she became especially interested in the plans made in that way, and sometimes he laughed at her,
too, but she had ceased to be nettled
by that.

The eve of the day when the announcement of the plans was to be made came at last, and Lucy had the first big story ready to send to the little Sentinel press. There was even to be a cut showing the design for the fountain. And it had all been kept a secret between Mr. Pell and Lucy, though people were beginning to wonder why there had been so many workmen on the old picnic grounds of late.

The Sentinel was just going to press
and Lucy was putting the last flourish on the great announcement in the little office long after other great Peltonites had retired for the night. The owner-editor, an errand boy, the other reporter and a handful of compositors and pressmen constituted the entire staff, and they were too preoccupied with their tasks to notice the figure of Francis Pell as it passed quickly across the floor to Lucy's desk. He sat down beside her, laid a nervous hand on the copy she was still working on. "There's a hitch in our plans. I can't tell you now. But trust me. You mustn't make the announcement now." Then he went, telling Lucy he would wait for her outside the little office and tell her more as he escorted her home as soon as she had finished her work.

"It's this way," he began. "Men from the water department have been feeling around lately, and today I got a notice from headquarters. That spring isn't a spring at all. It's a leak from the main. That water is just the same water every one has piped into their houses, and now they send me formal word that in future I'll have to have it metered and pay for it at regular rates. I don't mind paying the few hundred dollars it would cost a year,
but no one would care about the fountain if it was plain city water, and they're likely to have the joke on the old miser. So we'll have to think of something else to do." They walked along in silence for a few minutes, Lucy's pretty lips working overtime trying to hold back the tears of disappointment. Two or three times Mr.
Pell tried to begin his next speech before he succeeded.

"I was thinking," he said, "in fact,
I've thought it for a long time—ever since a little while after you came to me that first time—that I couldn't give the Peltonites and the boys at the front from Pelton much more of a surprise than to get married. That would be a real piece of news, wouldn't it?"

"Yes—but" and the lips worked overtime. "I didn't know there was anyone you—" Lucy couldn't get any further.

"There's you," said Mr. Pell simply.
"How'd that be for starting something?
We could run off and be married, and then when we come back we can do the other things, the curb around the town hall and the drinking fountain for stray dogs and cats and the picnic ground and anything else you say."
Lucy's mind failed to revolve around the interests of the Pelton Sentinel, and when she said that it would be "perfectly wonderful" she was thinking only of her own selfish point of view.

The Silo in Western Canada

On a Western Cattle Ranch.

To raise two head of cattle where only one could otherwise be raised—that is what thousands of farmers all over the American continent have been able to do with the help of silos. It is no wonder, then, that as the land in Western Canada is becoming more settled, silos should be making their appearance in greater and greater numbers there. Already in Manitoba many farmers are beginning to look upon the silo as a necessary part of the farm, and more than a hundred of them are in use in various parts of the province. Saskatchewan and Alberta, together have probably about half the number as Manitoba, and the number in all the provinces is being slowly but surely added to every year.

With plenty of unoccupied prairie land growing an abundance of nutritious grasses the cattle feed problem in Western Canada has not been a really difficult one in the past. During the summer months the stock could forage over a large section of the country and there was no need for the owner to compute how many acres would support a cow. The obtaining of winter feed was just a matter of energy—a man could have as much hay as he could cut, free for the cutting. With such conditions as these, and they still prevail in many parts of the country, the need for silos has not been greatly felt up to now.

But the days of free range are drawing to a close. Already there are parts of the country where little or none is to be had. And as the country is getting more and more settled, and, moreover, as a system of mixed farming is becoming the rule throughout every province, even in those parts where for many years straight grain growing was practised, the need for some additional means of ensuring a steady supply of feed all the year round is beginning to make itself felt in various parts of Western Canada.

Silos will, therefore, continue to spring up throughout the country. Near Lacombe, Alberta, a ranching company, which has made a great reputation for the quality of beef it produces, is contemplating the erection of four new silos this year. This company has found with the silos it has in use that it can maintain double the number of cattle hitherto supported on the same area of land. Many smaller farmers are having the same experience. It is, as one farmer aptly expressed it, "like getting another farm for nothing."

In times not long past it was not difficult to get a farm "for nothing" or "next to nothing" almost anywhere in Western Canada, and although land is still very cheap compared with its productive capacity, it is not always easy for a farmer in older settled districts to expand, and the only thing for him to do to increase his production, and thus his prosperity, is to intensify his methods. That this idea is being reached in some districts is a good sign for the future development of the country.

In the large irrigated area in Southern Alberta east of the growing city of Calgary, there is on foot a movement that may eventually lead to the establishment of silos on most of the farms in this territory. It is a country admirably suited for dairying and other branches of the livestock industry, capable of producing sufficient food for the support of hundreds of thousands of horses, cattle, sheep or swine. Most of the farms are for Western Canada, on the small side, generally from 80 to 320 acres each. But the soil is wonderfully fertile, and with an assured supply of moisture made possible by irrigation, will grow abundant crops of grain and fodders, including wheat, oats, barley, alfalfa, various kinds of grasses and clovers, and also roots and vegetables. For ensilage purposes, corn, sunflowers, alfalfa, peas, oats, and many other crops can be grown. In years to come this part of Alberta will be one of the greatest food producing areas in the world.

What crops are used for ensilage purposes in Western Canada? In Manitoba corn is mostly used, but in Alberta peas and oats are most popular. Other crops used are sudan grass, millets, rape, buckwheat and alfalfa. Sunflower is also being tried, but at present it is only in the experimental stage. The silos with which peas and oats are grown, the enormous yields and high feeding value of the mixture, together with its succulence, palatability and flavour, account for its popularity and it will always maintain a leading place with the farmers of the most westerly of the Prairie Provinces, no matter what strides may be made in the growth of suitable varieties of corn.

Silos are coming to stay in Western Canada. Their appearance in slowly increasing numbers is a landmark in the development of the country. As they increase in numbers the prosperity of the country will grow, and, as one far-sighted man has put it, "Western Canada will then not only be the granary of the world, but a universal provisioner as well."

Hospital Aid Society Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Miramichi Hospital Aid was held in the Aid Room of the Miramichi hospital last Thursday afternoon. The meeting was presided over by the President, Mrs. L. H. MacLean, and the usual business was discussed. The President reported 11 subscribed Life Members from Chatham, making a total of 52 Life members. Mrs. MacLean further reported as follows:

In response to a notice issued by the President of the Miramichi Hospital Aid, a number of ladies of the town of Chatham met in the town hall, Chatham, on Tuesday, June 17th at 3.30 p. m. The President of the Miramichi Hospital Aid presided and, after presenting the aims, plans and purpose of the Hospital Aid, and expressing her appreciation of the large number present, asked for enrollment of those who were willing to become members of the Aid. The response was hearty and indicated a definite desire on the part of the women of Chatham to help the work being done for the Miramichi hospital. Having agreed to form a local aid, the following executive were appointed:

President—Mrs. F. W. Tweedie. y
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. J. H. A. Anderson.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Herbert Macdonald.
Sec.—Miss L. Snowball.
Treas.—Mrs. MacNaught.

It was agreed that the fourth Friday of each month be the regular date of meeting, the first meeting to be held in the town hall.

Mrs. MacLean further reported a meeting with the ladies of Blackville, on June 14th. After presenting the purpose and aim of the Aid, she proceeded to organize an auxiliary. The meeting was enthusiastic and all present were enrolled as members. The following executive was elected:

Pres.—Mrs. Beatson.
Sec.—Miss Edna Vye.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Bert Connors.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Harold Crawford.
Treas.—Miss Ina Arbeau.

It was agreed that this auxiliary of the Miramichi Hospital Aid, should meet on the third Monday evening of each month in the Institute Hall.

Red Hot July Days
Hard On Baby

July—the month of oppressive heat; red hot days and sweltering nights, is extremely hard on little ones. Diarrhoea, dysentery, colic and cholera infantum carry off thousands of previous little lives every summer. The mother must be constantly on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they come on suddenly to fight them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during the hot summer as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and an occasional dose given to the well child will prevent summer complaint, or if the trouble does come suddenly will banish it. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cts. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUNNY CORNER

Sunny Corner, June 28—Miss Edna Cormier left for her home in Buctouche the 27th.

Mrs. James Hyland is visiting in Newcastle the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Chas Buckley.

Misses Villa Nowlan, Lottie Stewart, R. Tozer and Eliza Matchett have returned from St. Stephen where they have been for the past ten months.

Mr. Walter E. Matchett is erecting a new dwelling house at the Corner, which is going to add greatly to the appearance of the place.

Pte. Samuel Mullin who returned from overseas some four weeks ago has gone to a Military hospital in St. John for further medical treatment for his disabled arm.

Miss Mildred McColm spent the 25th and 26th with Miss Hazel Tozer of this place.

About fifty people assembled at the Megdow's school house Friday afternoon to hear the programme, which was well worthy of notice and mention and which consisted of songs, dialogues, Recitations and Drills. Several dainty presents were given to the teacher, who in return thanked the children very kindly and an elaborate treat of candy and nuts was served to all.

Miss Mary Nolan who has been visiting in Trout Brook for the past month is back in Sunny Corner again.

C.P.R. OFFICIAL HONORED

THE appointment of Lt. Col. G. McLaren Brown as Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire is the result of the very fine services rendered by the European Manager of the C. P. R. to the British Government, for whom he acted as Assistant Director of Transport during the last three years of the war.

"G. McL." as he is popularly known, both in Canada and the Old Country, is the son of Adam Brown of Hamilton, Ontario, and was born in 1855. In 1887 he was appointed agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Vancouver. Promoted five years later to be Asst. General Passenger Agent, Western Division, and subsequently became in turn Executive Agent, Superintendent of Hotels, and Dining and Sleeping Car Dept., and General Passenger Agent C. P. R. Atlantic Steamship Lines. In 1908 he was appointed General European Traffic Agent, and in 1910 General European Manager, with head offices at 62-5 Charing Cross, London, S.W.

Sir George McL. Brown.

Col. George McLaren Brown, says a friend writing in the "Montreal Gazette" is one of those rare men whose friendships are equal to the number of their acquaintances. To all in that wide circle the announcement of the new honor which has been conferred upon him comes as pleasant and very welcome news. It is a recognition of qualities and services which they all know him to possess and to have rendered. The reputation which he enjoyed in Canada, not alone in the railway world, has been enhanced in proportion to his larger opportunities as European Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway in London and the value of his service in the organization and direction of troop transportation during the war can hardly be overated. It was as successful as it was onerous, and although given with no other thought than that of duty, was none the less deserving of recognition now accorded. It was but one, if the chief of his war activities, which were in fact as varied as were the demands upon his help and counsel. In all this McLaren Brown has been true in both impulse and action to the stock of which he comes. Similar impulses, finding similar expression having regard to place and circumstances, have characterized the long and honorable career of Adam Brown, his father, now and for many years postmaster at Hamilton. Active and successful in commercial life, a pioneer in railway development, and one of the fathers of the National Policy, Adam Brown at ninety-six, is still young in spirit, giving largely of his time and substance in philanthropy, and to the support of war relief organizations. As is the father, so is the son, strong in his undertakings and withal a thoughtful, kindly gentleman.

Humor Of J. W. Leonard

His Scrap Book and His Well Done Work

The late James W. Leonard, formerly general superintendent of the C. P. R., in Toronto, was one of that picturesque type of railroad man which is passing into history.

The older generation will recall the figure he made a quarter of a century ago when he was superintendent for the C. P. R. He wore a frock coat, a wide-brimmed slouch hat, and smoked a pipe of alight proportion.

The hat became a sort of landmark. It was a symbol around the C. P. R. To it, one came for the brief, businesslike "yes" or "no" that characterized "Jim" Leonard's abrupt and efficient administration. But the hat began to show signs of decay. However jauntily "J. W." cocked it over one eye, it wilted and faded. So his good friend, W. R. Callaway, now general passenger agent of the Soo line, took Mr. Leonard up on the hat question and urged him to get a new one.

"What for?" demanded J. W. "Nobody would know me in another hat! This is my crown! Nothing doing!"

Mr. Callaway finally offered to buy a new hat, and J. W. said: "You're on."

A new derby was purchased, sleek, and in the latest fashion of the eighteen nineties. J. W. put it on, and ordered the famous old slouch hat to be sent home.

Next morning, J. W. appeared on the job in the old slouch hat, and another anecdote indicates the late Mr. Leonard's quiet but effective method of brushing away the vanities of human nature. A young man applied for a job to him. This young man was sporting a walking stick.

"I'm afraid we can't do anything for you," said Mr. Leonard. "We can't use a lame man."

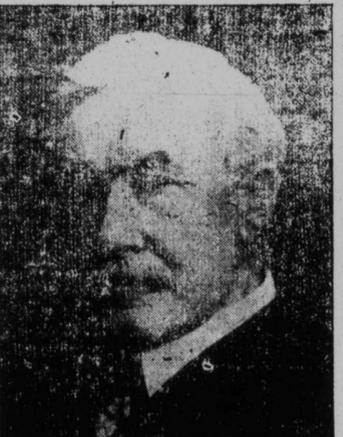

"But I'm not lame!" protested the applicant.

"Then why the cane?" asked J. W.

The applicant got the job, but he discarded the stick and also a certain frame of mind out of which the stick arose.

Mr. Leonard was a man of few words, a trait that endeared him to his many friends and which secured him in the high esteem of the thousands of business men with whom he dealt for the railway.

HIS GREAT LOVE OF WORK.

Deep down in the recesses of his nature, it would appear that the late J. W. Leonard, whose life-motto was, "I want to do the work entrusted to me in the very best way that I can," should have been eager for the approbation of his fellows. In a scrapbook, containing the clippings of newspaper for the past twenty years, there is a letter from Lord Shaugnessy, congratulating him upon the manner in which he had moved the wheat crop out during his first year as assistant superintendent of the western division. It is evident that he valued the letter as an evidence of work well done, rather than as the approval of the head-of-the-system.

A FARM PROFIT SHARING SCHEME

Profit-sharing is often heard of in connection with our industries, but a large farm operated on this basis is altogether novel. Such a scheme has, however, been carried on with great success in Southern Alberta for a number of years. It is a hobby of C. S. Noble, who in 1915 made a reputation all over the world by harvesting what was claimed to be a record crop of wheat on 1000 acres the average yield per acre on this area working out at well over fifty bushels to the acre. This is a record that has not been equalled anywhere outside of Alberta, though it is claimed that it was surpassed by another farmer in Alberta in that year of record grain crops.

Mr. Noble has devoted considerable study to the subject of profit-sharing. His belief is that every worker is entitled to a share of the wealth he creates, and in the Noble Foundation, the name under which his company is incorporated, he and his associates have tried to put this theory into practice. This company owns and operates farm property, stores, and elevators to the value of over two million dollars.

Any employee who has been long enough with the company to prove his value may become a participant in the scheme and the method of acquiring stock is very simple. The employee is required to pay for ten per cent of his stock in cash and give a note for the balance at eight per cent interest. He then makes monthly payments of a certain amount to pay off the note, which also his dividends are credited. In this manner his stock is paid off fairly rapidly.

Needless to say, many of the employees avail themselves of the opportunity to become shareholders.

(1) Oats grow well in Alberta.
(2) An Alberta wheat field in autumn.

Last year they drew a dividend of fifteen per cent on their investment despite the fact that last season was generally considered a dry one. In 1916 a dividend of twenty-five per cent was paid, and in addition a considerable sum was placed in the reserve fund.

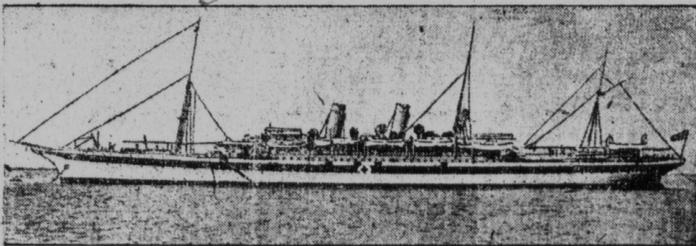

The results of the operations of this company are a striking example of the productive capacity of the soil in Southern Alberta and the kind of crops that may be expected if careful and proper farming methods are followed. It is questionable if the land they own is any better than millions of acres of other land in the province, yet last year, when was the driest season ever experienced, the average yield of wheat was twenty-four bushels of wheat per acre, and of oats fifty bushels per acre. Still more interesting is the average for the years 1911 to 1917, which was no less than thirty-eight bushels of wheat and ninety-two bushels of oats. With such high average yields as these the big dividends need not cause any surprise.

An instance of the progressiveness of the Noble Foundation and its faith in the country was the purchase in the fall of 1917 of a large ranch of about 20,000 acres. On this property thirty-five miles of graded road have been constructed, sixty miles of three-wire fencing put up, several first-class buildings erected, five wells drilled and 16,000 acres broken. The profit-sharing scheme has been successful beyond expectations. Many employees have availed themselves of the opportunity to invest their savings in the company and are drawing dividends on their stock.

Mr. Noble has proved that a large farm can be operated successfully in good years and bad under good management, and the future of his profit-sharing scheme will be watched with great interest.

The Hospital Ship "Loyalty" HER INTERESTING CAREER RECALLED

1915, ex-R.M.S. "Empress of India" Hospital ship "Loyalty," Bombay.

Quite recently the hospital ship "Loyalty" has been converted in Bombay into a troopship, and the occasion appears to justify publication of some account of her career as a hospital ship, a career which was not only one of great service, but which reflects in a very remarkable way the great generosity of his Highness the Maharajah of Gwalior.

In August, 1914, his Highness the Maharajah of Gwalior visited Bombay and arranged with the Begum Sahiba to present the Government with a hospital ship, to be called "Loyalty," to which the Chiefs of India were to be asked to subscribe. The offer was gratefully accepted, but there was considerable delay in procuring a suitable ship. Eventually the ship chosen was the "Empress of India," built by the Naval Construction & Armaments Company, of Barrow-in-Furness, in 1911, for the Canadian Pacific Railway's Pacific Ocean trades.

Together with her sister ships "Empress of China" and "Empress of Japan," she was specially designed, built on very handsome lines, and fitted most luxuriously with everything considered necessary for the comfort of passengers of all classes. The matter of engine power and speed was kept specially in view, so that the ships in their time were the fastest in the Pacific trade, and earned a great name for the quick transmission of passengers, mails and fine goods, such as silk and tea, between Hong Kong, Japan and Vancouver, and thence to various points by the Canadian Pacific Railway across the North American continent. It will thus be seen that the "Loyalty" prior to becoming a hospital ship, took a great part in one of the outlying parts of the Empire. Incidentally she has the honor of carrying King George as a passenger when he was Prince of Wales.

It would almost seem to be in the

Dempsey Defeats Willard

Toledo, O., July 5.—By virtue of one of the speediest and most one-sided battles that ever decided a big fight event, Jack Dempsey, who may now wish to be known by his full voting name of William Harrison Dempsey today became the world's heavy-weight boxer.

To all intents and purposes he whipped the huge Jess Willard favorite in the meagre betting, in one round. Dempsey thought the referee had announced him winner and actually left the ring. But he was called back and the butchery continued for two rounds more when Jess, sitting in his corner with a bewildered look on his swollen contenance failed to respond to the gong for the fourth round.

"It was no use to continue," said the ex-champion "My strength went from me in the first round."

He sat there apparently the most surprised man in the United States at the moment. His right eye was closed and his right cheek swollen and blue with bruises. Blood covered his body and his arms hung so helpless over the ropes that it seemed as if a child might give him further abuse without arousing his interest.

Dempsey was breathing hard when the fight ended, but it was from exertion and not from punishment. He escaped almost unhurt, but as he had been using his arms like trip hammers on the anatomy of his opponent for nine crowded minutes in a sun that sent the thermometer to 110 degrees his heart was still pumping at high pressure and he appreciated the breathing spell.

In the first few seconds of the contest it looked as if the experts who had been assigned to keep detailed account of all blows struck might come measurably close to doing so, but it was only for a fraction of a moment. After that the experts did well to count Jack's blows, let alone take note of how each was made. The challenger knocked the big fellow down five times in the first round and had him hanging helpless on the ropes or draped over his own shoulders most of the time when he was not taking advantage of the count.

Dutch To Surrender Kaiser

London, July 5.—The Allies, according to the Daily Mail, have received assurances that the Dutch government in the last resort will not refuse to surrender the former German Emperor for trial.

The newspaper says that the necessary formal objections will doubtless be raised to maintain the rights of Dutch sovereignty but as the demand for his person can be made in the name of the League of Nations, national rights will not be infringed and there is no doubt the Dutch government will be quite ready to get rid of their unwelcome guest.

It is not considered likely, the Mail continues, that the matter will come before the Dutch courts despite certain statements at The Hague.

The chief count in the former Kaiser's indictment, the Mail understands, will be his action in causing violation in Belgium and Luxemburg. The proceedings will be conducted in English, but a translation will be made into several languages simultaneously.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED
Thomas McEvoy, aged sixteen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bryenton, was drowned about seven o'clock Friday morning July 4th. He was working on the South West boom and had been sent out for some rigging. His body was discovered by George Bell, and shortly afterwards the body was found at the bottom of the river not far away from where he had been working.

Deceased is survived by his parents seven brothers and sisters.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT
Chatham, N. B., July 6—The whole town was deeply shocked early last evening when it became known that Arthur McLennan was drowned. He was with three chums, King Loggie, Arthur Bell and Harry Hockbert, who were bathing in the river at the upper end of the town almost facing Woodburn farm. McLennan and Loggie were on a raft of logs and McLennan was being dived from the raft and swimming around. He got on the raft again and dove over but did not reappear. His companions did their utmost to locate him. They searched the bottom and Loggie even went under the raft, but all their efforts were of no avail. Soon there was a large number of men and boys searching and grappling irons were procured. All evening parties grappled and a diver went down but could not locate the body. The search for the body continued today, but up to the present time it has not been recovered.

Arthur McLennan was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. McLennan and was about eighteen years of age. Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers and three sisters. His oldest brother, Harry, has just returned from overseas and is expected home tonight.

FIRE AT CAIN'S RIVER
The dwelling and store at the Forks, at the mouth of Cain's River, occupied by John MacKinnon, magistrate and school teacher, as well as a merchant of the village, was destroyed by fire, Wednesday. Insurance about eight hundred dollars.

NARROW ESCAPE
A young boy Wallace Handley while playing fell over the Dorothy N. Wharf last Friday afternoon, and was almost drowned. Another young boy named Fallon rescued him and he was taken to Mrs. Percy Lindon's store, where he was attended to by Dr F. C. McGrath.

I. O. E. GARDEN PARTY
The I. O. E. Garden Party held on Mr. Brankley's grounds, Chatham, N. B. on Thursday last was highly successful. The house and grounds were beautifully decorated with bunting etc. and good music was furnished by the Chatham Band. A large number of people were in attendance and the weather was ideal. The Receipts amounted to $525.35. The Hotel Dieu and The Miramichi Hospital, will each be given the amount of $250.00.

CORRECTION
In the report of the fire which occurred last Tuesday morning, it was stated that a tank of gasoline stored in Dr. D. R. Moore's garage exploded. This is incorrect, as the tank which was in the garage was empty, and the explosion was caused by the gasoline which was in the tank of the automobile. Through a typographical error the report read $2000.00 insurance on Mr. Alex. Fitzgerald's furniture instead of $200.00.

It's Called Stealing

Darting out of the way of several large baggage trucks propelled by husky stevedores, John Barnett made his way through the busy labyrinth of the freight sheds to a small private office marked "Shipping Clerk," entered it and closed the door.

"Number 9's loaded," he announced, meaning, to a young man at the desk scanning the chart of loaded freight cars, "Are you ready?" The young man nodded, but turned resolutely to Barnett.

"Yes," he snapped between clenched teeth. "But I think it's a fool's errand."

Barnett opened the door, called out a command and in a few moments another big man in blue jumpers entered the office.

"You are—?" Barnett started to question the newcomer.

"The one you want," chimed in the other. "From the chief's office. Is Frank going to make the trip?" He nodded to the young man, who returned the nod and spoke.

"Yes," he spoke nervously. "Let's hurry."

Five minutes later Barnett and the man in blue jumpers, pushing a truck on which lay a heavy packing box, passed through the shed to the yards and to No. 9 freight car, one of a long line behind an engine with full steam up. Stopping in front of the door of the car they lifted the box carefully into it. Barnett paused and spoke in a low tone.

"If you feel cramped, Frank," he whispered, bending over the box, "you can hop out for a while when she goes on the siding at Brooks Meadows. But don't by any means open the door or be seen."

John Barnett closed the door, stepped off a short distance, waved to the engineer and the train started to crawl away.

"Tell your chief it's all right," ordered Barnett to the other. "No one on this end will over suspect. Now we've catch the guilty ones."

It seemed to Frank Young, huddled inside the poorly ventilated packing box, that the train had moved a thousand miles before he heard the crunching of brakes and felt the car come to a standstill.

"Brooks Meadows," he muttered to himself, and then pushing off the top with a heave of his shoulders he stood upright after a few seconds and vaulted out of the case. About him lay a case after case of canned goods. The case he was in was the last one to be poured through a hole in the door into a vast stretch of open country. Then after a while he sat down and opened a box and started to eat. Then as he was finishing he stopped, breathlessly and listened. What was that? It sounded as if some tool was working on the door.

Silently and quickly he cleared away the evidence of his lunch and slipped back to the box, pulling the lid down over him. Another minute and he heard the door roll back. Some one furtively climbed into the car and stood close to the box, for he heard heavy breathing. And then he heard a case being lifted, and after a minute the sound of footfalls on the gravelled right of way alongside the track. Still he remained within the case, and after a few moments the ladder returned. The same process was repeated until six cases had been removed and then after a long wait Young jumped out of his hiding place. The side door was opened wide and he sprang to the doorway. No one was in sight!

The thief had eluded him! What would his chief say to that? Should he desert his post and start out on what seemed a wild-goose chase, for it was unknown country to him, or remain in the car? Evidently his quarry lay here, and he determined to act at once. He felt for his revolver, and then jumped from the car to the roadway. For a moment he gazed in surprise, for a dozen or more cars lay ahead of the one he had left. And the doors of each had been opened!

He peered about him on the ground, and then, bending over, suddenly made an exclamation.

"Barnett!" he muttered, and then he started ahead to follow the trail. Cautionously he made his way down a long dirt path, and then, circling a thick pine grove, he brought himself up short. Ahead lay a farmhouse, and beside it a barn. And the trail led direct to the barn.

Reaching his pistol in his hand, he went to the barn opening.

"Stand up!" he commanded, and then his hand dropped.

A slender little girl, whose long brown hair fell about her shapely shoulders, framing a tanned, exquisitely featured face, who was bending over a case of canned goods, rose and faced him, terrified.

"Fanny," she cried in alarm, "don't shoot."

"What are you doing?" demanded Young, dumfounded. "Who brought those—here?" He pointed to the case, piled up all about her.

She explained her composition and found him equally.

"I did."

"Yes," he echoed, and then he jumped around, fearing a trap. But they were quite alone. He saw the young girl.
