Week-Old Corns

Should Be Untreatable

These positive facts now known to millions. The pain of a corn can be instantly stopped, and forever. The corn itself can be removed completely, and usually in two days. The method is scientific. It consists of attaching a Blue-jay plaster, forgetting the corn, and letting things take their course. The results have been proved by experience.

CHAPTER XXXVII. FOILED.

"Very good," said Spenser Churchill, shrugging his shoulders, and stretching a trembling hand towards his hat. "I leave the whole business to you, my dear marquis. I will not condescend to answer the accusations which—which—he shuffled nearer to the door, and his heart rose as he saw that neither Percy Levant nor the marquis made any attempt to stop him—"which my character will enable me to—to reply. I wish you success, Mr. Percy Levant, and—and good-morning."

He made an ironical bow as he backed towards the door, and was turning to make a rush for it, when Lord Cecil stepped before him. At sight of him Spenser Churchill's face grew livid, and he put up his hand as if to ward off an expected blow; but Lord Cecil scarcely looked at him, and passed to the marquis's side. "Is—is this true, my lord?" he demanded, hoarsely. The marquis dropped into a chair, and still clutching the paper, gazed up at him with a wild despair which would have touched upon Lord Cecil if he had not loved Doris too well to think of anyone but her.

And the Worst is Yet to Come you, my dear Cecil—I suppose I must say Lord Cecil now!—upon your credulity!"

Cecil looked at her, then hung his head with shame—for her, seeing her utter shamelessness.

"I was utterly at a loss to conceive why my dear Mr. Churchill should have exerted himself on my behalf. Of course I knew it was from no love he bore me; but I understand it all now!"

Cecil turned his back upon her, and, leaning his elbow on the mantel-shelf, covered his eyes with his hand.

"Mr. Spenser Churchill is really and truly a remarkably clever man; but, like some other clever men, he has chosen his tools badly. I can't understand why he should have confided in a person of Mr. Levant's character!" And she shot a contemptuous glance from under her half-closed lips at his pale face. "But having done so, he has, of course, been betrayed. "Put not your trust in—adventurers" will for the future be an excellent motto for him!" She laughed, and the fan moved a little more quickly. "And now, having borne my testimony to the truth of Mr. Levant's assertions, I have only to express my sympathy for 'dear' Mr. Churchill's discomfiture, and your disappointment, my dear Cecil!—her face grew red, and her delicately moulded nostrils expanded with a malignant enjoyment—"your terrible disappointment! If you had only known all this a few hours earlier, why, you would have thrown off your new love and been on with the old! But as it is, Mr. Levant, with all his newly born penitence, has been clever enough to secure Miss Marlowe, otherwise the marquis's daughter, for his wife, and you are tricked. It is a vulgar word, Lord Cecil, but it is the only suitable one." She laughed again, and her fan moved rapidly, and yourself was worked by Spenser Churchill. He did, by word and deed, sell her to me.

Lord Cecil made a movement as if to strike him, but Percy Levant stood patient and unresisting. "And yet more, my lord! It was he who set the trap which caught you and handed you, fettered and bound, to his accomplice."

"Grace! it is—it must be—a lie!" broke from Cecil's white lips. A hollow laugh rang out behind him, and Lady Grace glided from her dressing-room. All eyes were fixed upon her as she stood, her exquisitely clad form posed in an attitude of contemptuous defiance. A hectic flush burnt on her cheeks, and she swept the group with a disdainful glance as she fanned herself.

"Permit me to bear my testimony to this gentleman's veracity," she said. Spenser's face, which had cleared suddenly at her appearance, fell again, and he shrank back and leaned against the wall, where he stood, nervously passing his hands over each other. "What he states is correct. I don't know how he discovered it; but he seems to have made a tool of 'dear' Mr. Churchill, while 'dear' Mr. Churchill was under the pleasing delusion that he had got a submissive and willing dupe in him. It is probable that he knows the whole scheme. For it was a scheme, Cecil, and—with a disdainful smile—"a very good one. Any but the most trustful of men would have seen through it. I compliment

"You are right," he said, half-gloatingly, half-fearfully; "you and I are out of the game, dear Lady Grace; but I think—I really do think that dear Lord Cecil is in the same boat. Yes, Mr. Levant has been one too many for us all. All! My dear Cecil, you have my profound sympathy in the loss of the young lady who had set your heart on. My dear marquis, if I may be permitted to offer a word of humble advice, I should recommend you to forgive your newly found daughter, the ballet-girl!—no! pardon, the actress; and welcome as a son-in-law the gentleman upon whom she has bestowed her hand. It is true that he is an adventurer; that he sprang from the gutter; that he bought her and captured her by a plot; but he is her husband after all, and, really, he is no worse than the stock from which she sprang. He will be a worthy addition to the house of Stoyte! Forgive the young couple—the adventurer and the actress—and make them happy with your blessing. Do, my dear marquis!"

CHAPTER I.

Peter Cameron, the millionaire, could not be said to belong to the class of self-made men. He was neither vulgar nor uneducated, nor had he begun life with the proverbial sixpence. He was the son of a respectable tradesman, who eventually became interested in some large iron-works; but, after a short experience of the works and the business, had preferred to enter the office of a stock-broker in London. It was by dint of good luck or of good fortune, but of patient industry and keen calculation that he had made his enormous fortune. The first time that, by closely watching the share-market, he, by buying and selling at the right moment, realized twenty pounds he was bewildered by his good fortune. From that hour until he became a millionaire and the owner of Furness his keen judgement never failed him. People called him lucky; but he was really only shrewd. He succeeded where others failed simply because he had a thorough knowledge of the state of the home and foreign markets, and was thus enabled to buy and sell with substantial profit. He studied foreign markets, stocks, and shares with a perseverance and closeness that could not but bring about good results.

So, slowly, carefully, and successfully he climbed the ladder of life. He allowed himself one luxury; he married for love. He was content for many years, while his fortune accumulated, with a modest little home in Holloway, and no luxuries. The golden ball went on rolling, his wife—a quiet, gentle woman—engrossed in her household cares, and thinking chiefly of the comfort of her husband, never troubling herself about his earnings or his fortune. They paid their way, and were free from anxiety. At rare intervals they had a little holiday, and went to the seaside; and at times she indulged in the comparative luxury of a new dress, not having the faintest idea that while she saved pennies her husband was accumulating thousands of pounds.

He intended to tell her some day, and to purchase a mansion for her to live in, and surround her with luxuries. But, to the surprise of every one, when he had been married sixteen years, a daughter was born to him, and the gentle patient mother died. That was a terrible blow to him. He lived many years after his wife; but the best part of his life was buried in the grave of the fair haired woman whom he had loved so well. As his grief abated, he found himself with a new object in life—the welfare of his lovely little daughter. He resolved to save for her; she should be a wealthy heiress, and she should be educated according to her position. While she was still a little lying child, she was sent to one of the best schools in England, and from there she went to Paris to be "finished."

Undying were her father's love and devotion. He went to see her when she was fourteen years of age, and then determined not to live any longer without her. He found her, at that age, beautiful, bright, and intelligent. What was more than all to him, she had the greatest possible love for himself. He talked to her for a short time about her dead mother, and asked her whether she would like to come home and take her mother's place. The girl flung her arms around his neck in an ecstasy of joy, and told him that there was nothing would delight her so much.

"You will hear from me in a few months," he said; and then he bade her farewell and returned home.

When Peter Cameron came to look into his affairs and realize his fortune, he found that it amounted to three millions sterling. He might have gone on adding to his wealth; but, unlike the majority of his fellow men, he was content with the fortune he had already secured. He had nothing to do in life but devote himself to his daughter.

BRITISH EVACUATING RUSSIA.
LONDON, Sept. 18. There has been no development or action in the British policy regarding Russia, the Associated Press was officially informed to-day. British troops have begun to evacuate the Caucasus, it is announced, detachments having left Tiflis.

AGAINST LEAGUE.
CLEVELAND, OHIO, Sept. 18. The Convention of the United Mine Workers of America to-day voted down a resolution endorsing the League of Nations.

HEAVY DEATH TOLL.
CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Sept. 18. The death toll in Corpus Christi and vicinity as a result of Sunday's hurricane and tidal wave stood at 255 to-day, according to reports from burial squads.

IN RUSSIA.
LONDON, Sept. 18. The Polish forces in Russia have driven the Bolsheviks to the northern bank of the Dvina river as far as Diana, and have occupied Korzhenezsk. On the Ukrainian front the Bolsheviks have forced General Petlura out of Radomysl, but apparently are not attempting yet to recapture Kiev itself. This represents an advance northward of approximately 150 miles from the town of Borisoff on the east bank of the Beresina river, 50 miles northwest of Dvinsk, reported on September 16th.

MAIL ROBBERED.
QUEBEC, Sept. 18. The Ocean Limited, bound to Halifax, was robbed by masked bandits near Harlaka, Quebec. The mail car was entered while train was in motion, the clerks gagged and bound and the registered mail rifled. The loss is estimated as high as seventy-five thousand dollars. The bandits made good their escape.

CRIMINALS RE-ARRESTED.
VIENNA, Sept. 17. It is announced from Budapest that eighty per cent. of the eleven thousand persons released by the Revolutionary Government from charges of felony, have been re-arrested.

WILL CUT DOWN PRICES.
WINNIPEG, Sept. 18. Judge H. R. Olson, Chairman of the Board of Commerce, declared yesterday that drastic action cutting down the cost of necessities will be taken by the Board of Commerce just as soon as the evidence at the different probes has been taken. No advances on necessities will be tolerated, he said.

ADDITION TO WHITE STAR FLEET.
NEW YORK, Sept. 18. The former Lloyd liner, Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, one of the fleet of German merchantmen blockaded during the war and recently used as a naval transport to bring American troops home from France has been allotted to the White Star Line for service on its New York, Cherbourg and Southampton route, it was announced here to-night. The reparations committee of the inter-ally council at Paris assigned the vessel to the British Government, and the British Minister of Shipping advised the White Star to take charge of her.

IMPERIAL UNITY.
TORONTO, Sept. 18. Lord Finlay of Nairn, former Lord Chancellor of Great Britain, who has been a visitor in this city for several days, addressed the Empire Club here at luncheon to-day. "Much as we may desire closed union of the parts of the Empire," he said, "I feel that there are great difficulties connected with any plan for incorporating them under one supreme Imperial Parliament. The distinguished speaker said that difficulties of long distance made an Imperial Parliament impracticable. "I feel that we should rather seek to draw the bonds tighter," he said, in developing the function of the Imperial Council, which played so important a role during the war." Lord Finlay urged the importance of Canada retaining the appeal to Privy Council, and of improving the relations between capital and labor by the adoption on a wide scale of some form of profit-sharing.

STOPS INCREASE IN PRICE.
TORONTO, Sept. 18. W. F. O'Connor, vice-chairman of the Board of Commerce, to-day made an order restraining milk producers and vendors from selling milk and cream at higher prices than they sold those commodities on Sept. 14. Mr. O'Connor read the order during a lull in the proceedings at the enquiry at the City Hall this morning. "The order is now in effect," he declared, when he concluded reading the document. The document ends: "And it is further ordered that any sale made in contravention of this order shall be deemed one made for an unreasonable and unjust price."

WILSON ANSWERS QUESTIONS.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18. Replying in a statement to a list of questions put to him by the San Francisco League of Nations Organization, President Wilson declared Great Britain could not outvote the United States in the League, that foreign Governments could not, under the Covenant, order American troops abroad, that the League would have powerful influence toward the restoration of Shanghai to China, that the United States would not be obliged by article 10 to aid Great Britain in suppressing a revolt in Ireland and that under Article 11 there would be created a new form for questions of self determination.

Meth. Orphanage Outing
The children of the Methodist Orphanage was given another enjoyable outing on Wednesday, 11th inst., by Mrs. R. A. Squires, wife of the Hon. R. A. Squires, K. C., L. E. B. Although the weather was not so fine as one could wish, yet the motor drive to Manuels and back to the Fresh Air Camps was enjoyed by all. Arriving there a very fine tea was provided, followed by fruit and candy. After tea the children were motored to town, to the Blue Puttee where an ice-cream cone was tendered to each child. The sincerest thanks are due to the following ladies who assisted, Mrs. W. C. Currie, Mrs. J. A. Robinson, Mrs. Fred Moore and Mrs. J. Lemon, also to Mr. J. Sellars and the other gentlemen who so kindly sent fruit, biscuits and candy, also to the gentlemen and ladies who loaned their cars.
Acts of kindnesses such as these tendered to the various orphanages of late are worthy of mention. Nothing so sweet and beautiful, and that which helps to make this earth a very Heaven as the deeds of unselfishness, the little acts from which one expects nothing in return, but certainly wins the smiles of Heaven and the delightful consciousness of doing some good. One could wish that all would catch the vision.

THE DAILY DOPE BY THE CUB-EDITOR

OLD PIRATES—AND NEW.
In days of old the pirate hold Would sail the raging sea, And take his booty toll of gold Wherever it might be. But now in vain we scan the main— The olden days are o'er. The pirates of the present reign Within some grocery store.

The buccaneer who knew no fear Once flourished—long ago— And, with his good blade ever near, Would hold up friend or foe. No more his boat will lightly float Upon the billow's foam. He takes from you your only great For steak to carry home.

Once Robin Hood hid in the wood, And, with his good long bow, Held up and robbed whoever he could. (A goodly game, I know.) No outlaw now, beneath the bough, Awaits, but if you choose You get the same sensation when You buy a pair of shoes. —James Wells, in N. Y. Times.

"Don't you wind it up?"
"Oh, yes, sah, I winds it up, sah?"
"And do you set the alarm?"
"Ev'ry night, sah, I set de alarm, sah."
"But don't you hear the alarm in the morning, Rufus?"

THINK THIS OVER.
No food builds up your body except that which is digested inside of YOU. No thought builds up your mind except the thought that goes on inside of YOUR skull. The human brain can soak up the thought of others, as a sponge absorbs water. That has nothing to do with thinks. A sponge would still be only a sponge if you made it absorb and squeeze out the whole Atlantic Ocean.

WORLD'S BIGGEST MAN.
It is generally admitted that the largest man of whom there is any record, in the English speaking world, at any rate, was Daniel Lambert, who died at Stamford, England, on July 21, 1809. His maximum weight was 728 pounds. In 1806 Lambert exhibited himself in London, charging a shilling per head admittance.

Lambert died suddenly. He went to bed well at night, but expired before nine o'clock of the following morning. His coffin contained 112 superficial feet of elm boards, and was 6 feet, 4 inches long, and 4 feet, 4 inches wide. It was built upon two axle-trees and four cog-wheels, and upon these the remains of the great man were rolled into his grave in St. Martin's Church-yard, Stamford. The apartment in which he lived was on the ground floor, as he had long been incapable of ascending stairs. The window and part of the wall of the room in which he died, had to be taken down, to make a passage for the coffin. A vast multitude followed the remains to the grave.

Two cowboys in the Wild West agreed to settle their differences with revolvers. Both were dreading the ordeal. Patrick showed it most. His knees knocked together to such an extent that they affected his aim.
"Look here!" he said at last to his opponent. "Will you, as a favour, allow me to rest my leg against this milestone to steady myself?"
"Yes, said the other man, trying to control his voice, "if you'll allow me to rest my leg against the next!"

Western Notes.
There is a fairly good sign of codfish about Channel, when weather permits fishermen to get on the grounds. Among the shipping arrivals recently at Port aux Basques were S. S. Princess with general cargo for Newfoundland ports from Halifax; Coastal steamer Fortia, and schooner Brunhilde which is discharging cargo of coal at the railway wharf.

Three families of Gypsies, animated with the desire to pursue their wanderings in Newfoundland, came across from Sydney by S. S. Kyle last Sunday morning. The port authorities refused them permission to land, and they were sent back to the port of embarkation by Glenoe on Sunday night. On arrival at North Sydney the "Romany's" were given two hours to beat it, which they did.

Mr. R. Moulton was a passenger by train from St. John's to Port aux Basques a few days ago, on route to Halifax. His political activities have not ceased and rumour has it that he has succeeded in inducing a candidate to carry the Opposition banner through the district of Burgo and Lapolle under his sponsorship. There is small chance of any candidate winning, who comes under the aegis of their late member for this district.

Drowned at Petty Harbor.
A sad accident occurred at Petty Harbor at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Willie, the four-year-old son of William Pridham, a fisherman of that place, was drowned. The little fellow was out around playing, from two o'clock in the day, and was not missed until found, floating in the water near a stage. It is not known how he met his death, nor how long he was in the water. Upon being carried to his home, Mr. J. W. Morris, superintendent of the Electrical Department of the Reid Newfoundland Co., who was then in the place, and representatives of the Star, Post and Telegram, who also happened to be there, rushed to the house and immediately set about endeavouring to restore the poor little fellow to consciousness. Work on him was kept up for more than a half hour, however, without any effort and had to be given up. Willie, who was one of a twin, was a general favourite with the people of the Harbor, and there will be much sympathy for the family from them, in which the Telegram joins.

West Coast Road.

A NEW PROJECT
From the most reliable source we are aware that certain American people, through their local representatives, have approached the Government for the right to build a road from Little River railway station, Codroy, to Curling, also a branch road from George's Lake to Grand Lake—a distance of about 12 miles. The road, which is to be of the best kind, will excel any of its nature anywhere in the country to-day, and will, we understand, cost from $3,000 to $10,000 per mile, and will be suitable for the finest carriage, motor car, or any other vehicle. After completion it will be the property of the public in general. The capitalists will have nothing further to do with it, only they undertake to keep it in repair for four years after completion; and they guarantee to complete it within eighteen months from the date of acceptance of the survey of the road by the government engineer, and they hope to have traffic on the whole 123 miles of road by 1st October 1920. In order to do this great work they ask the government for only 700 acres of land on which to erect different fishing rivers in St. George's district, or a patch 25 acres on each river with a reservation for a public road through each lot so that the public can pass up and down each river the same as if it were never granted, also the right to prospect for minerals in that area of land west of the railway between Stephenville and Serpentine Lake, and to obtain a grant for any part of the same if they find any mineral, under the same terms and conditions (by paying for same) as any individual would; and a grant of agricultural land between Fischel's River and S.V. River, Bay St. George, after they have selected and cultivated same under similar terms, as any person would, by paying thirty cents per acre. To properly prospect the mineral lands selected, it will cost anywhere from $200,000 to $500,000, and to develop the agricultural land required it will cost at least $700,000; the idea being to have the most expert men start and raise hogs and cattle and all kinds of crops that the land will produce. These experts have stated that numerous crops not now raised in our country can be successfully raised, but it needs money and the right appliances. In addition to the road it is proposed to put in an up-to-date telephone system, and an electric light plant to light the whole district from Port aux Basques to Humbermouth. Our authorities have seen the idea and plans of the whole proposition, and are fully convinced it is the greatest blessing our district could ever obtain and what is needed, and what we are entitled to, as we have in this district the timber, the mineral, and the agricultural resources to back it up. These capitalists will encourage tourists and sportsmen of the best class to visit this district and the country in thousands. It is their intention to erect only one large hotel, in Bay St. George, leaving the rest of the district open to all who may wish to embark in the hotel business. Those who are competent to judge and have visited the district in the interests of these people say that such a summer resort we beat Maine all to pieces, and the tourists that visit Maine each year are in the hundreds of thousands. They wonder at our laying idle in that respect so long, yet they realize it takes money and men to bring such a success. We understand petitions are going in from the district to the government asking for those capitalists to be granted. We strongly commend the project to the consideration of our readers. To our mind it promises the greatest boon imaginable to the district. We have long advocated a road from one end of the district to the other, but no government so far "has been found" big enough to take up the project. We now trust that our people will give the petitions their hearty support, and that they will have the desired effect in bringing such a blessing to the district. To our mind no one can as yet fully conceive the great benefits to come from this road, and every man and woman in the district should put their shoulder to the wheel and not rest content until victory is ours. The "father" of the road proposition went through to St. George's Sunday, a man holding a reputation for road building unsurpassed by any in the country.—Western Star.

H. C. L. DISCUSSION.
CAPE TOWN, S.A., Sept. 18. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The Assembly discussed the increased cost of living on a motion by Sir Thomas Smart, urging Government control of the export of foodstuffs and other necessities. Hon. Mr. Burton, Minister of Railways, replied that the Government would only allow the available surplus foodstuffs to be exported. It was also proposed to report and appoint local committees to investigate complaints, and otherwise do the utmost to ameliorate conditions. The debate was adjourned.

CHEAP FREIGHT WANTED.
SYDNEY, Aus., Sept. 18. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Addressing a conference of farmers, Premier Hughes said that in order to hold her own, Australia must have the benefit of cheap freights, and the Government would do its best in the interests of the farmers.

FAVOR HOME RULE FOR IRELAND.
SYDNEY, Aus., Sept. 18. (Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The New South Wales Assembly, by a vote of 29 to 25, carried a private member's motion in favor of the British Government granting self-determination for Ireland.

"Made" by the War.

MEN WHO BECAME WORLD-FAMOUS.

The war has ever been the most dramatic of all makers of reputation. It has thrust into the blaze of the limelight many a man whose very name was unknown to the world at large. Five years ago General Foch might have walked for hours through the streets of Paris without attracting a glance of recognition. He was known only to a very limited circle in the Army as Professor of the Paris Higher Military School, with curious, almost laughable, conceptions of tactics and strategy. Sir Douglas Haig, good soldier as he had proved himself, was a total stranger to the "man in the street," though he had a wide circle of friends in the peaceful world of the Court and the West End drawing-rooms. Sir Henry Wilson was Director of Military Operations, noted more for his modesty than for his warlike abilities. And Sir William Robertson was Commandant of the Staff College, with apparently as small prospects of following the great Lord Kitchener as of flying to the moon. Admiral Jellicoe was known in the Navy as a "good man" with a fine record of service; and Sir David Beatty and Sir Rosslyn Wemyss were to the public obscure rear-admirals—good sailormen, no doubt, but as far removed from fame as from Mars. Five years ago Sir Eric Geddes was doing obscure, if useful, work as deputy-general-manager of the North-Eastern Railway and his brother, Sir Auckland, was lecturing on anatomy at the McGill University. Sir Albert Stanley, after a highly romantic career in the States, was busy reorganising London's underground railways, when Mr. Lloyd George heard of his great abilities dragged him into the limelight as President of the Board of Trade; and

THE AUTOMATIC DON'T.

Beware of the automatic "don't." That "beware" is meant especially for parents, but all who have anything to do with children may come in on it if they choose. You know, of course, what I mean by the automatic "don't"—the careless prohibition that slips out, not because there is really any need for it, but because "don't" is the natural thing to say to a child. I was walking down the road behind a woman and two small children, a boy and girl, the other evening and I could not help noticing how often she said "don't" in that automatic way.

The boy picked up an empty cigarette box. "Don't do that," she said sharply, "throw it right away."

Such Things are the Treasure Trove of Childhood.

Now I suppose somebody else's cigarette box isn't a particularly choice thing to pick up, but it is just the sort of thing which makes up the treasure trove of childhood, and after all, what harm could come to him from it? Germs, that bugaboo of the modern mother, perhaps; but unless one puts a child in a prophylactic nursery and boils everything that comes in its doors, he will have to get some germs, and I don't think the empty cigarette box could have contained any abnormal amount.

A little later the girl picked up a stick and began to give each tree a tap as she passed. "Don't do that, Phyllis," said her mother.

Finally, both boy and girl caught sight of a friend and began calling out to him in some typical childhood greetings. "Don't holler so," said their mother.

Five "Don'ts" in One Short Walk. Besides these three "don'ts," there were two other really necessary ones—that made five in all in a short walk.

Poor children, I pitied them! How it must wear on them to run their heads against a stone wall of prohibition everywhere they turn.

Of course, there have to be some stone walls or else children would harm themselves or trespass unduly on the rights of others. But the very fact that there have to be so many ought to keep one from erecting any that aren't necessary.

I don't doubt that this thoughtless nagging, this unnecessary interference with the way children want to conduct their lives, rubs them raw and makes them harder to manage in the necessary things.

Harder at First, Easier in the End.

"I have to say 'don't' so many times when it's absolutely necessary that I try never to say it when it isn't necessary,"—so said one of the most successful mothers I ever knew.

I recommend that resolution to any mother.

It's not always easy at first, especially if you have already gotten the automatic "don't" habit. Instead of forbidding without thinking, you will have to stop and think. "Is there any reason why I must forbid?" And we all, by nature, prefer not to think. But in the end it will surely be easier both for the children and yourself.

A set of measuring spoons should be included in every kitchen equipment.

Carrots, apples and oranges equal parts, diced, the carrots cooked first till tender, and then the whole mixture cooked together with sugar, makes an unusual conserve.

KEEP YOUR DATES.

MINARD

If you promise you will meet me at the dump at half-past two, and at that hour fall to greet me—if so flagrantly you treat me, I am done, my friend, with you. You may meet me with excuses, telling why you were not there; but on such I call some truces; they're not worth as many deuces; explanations are hot air. Keep engagements to the minute, is the burden of my song, as I swat my lyre and spinnet, singing like a loosed innet, caroling the whole day long. If you say you'll pay the baker for his pie, on Monday noon, do not prove yourself a faker, or a taradiddle maker—be there with the large doubloon. Keep your promises unbroken, let no pledge of yours sag down; keep your word, though lightly spoken, be of faith the sign and token, and you'll have a high renown. Keep your word, from A to Izzard, never overlook a date, though you walk through sleet or blizzard till you freeze your cherished gizzard—be the man who's never late.

Fat Men in History.

The general idea seems to be that fat and fame do not go together.

This is probably accounted for by the fact that those of large bulk are inclined to be easy-going and therefore lacking in that push which is said to bring a man to the fore. The only great statesman one can recall who was really a fat man was Charles James Fox, as can be seen even by his effigy in the Palace of Westminster, where he would make three of his great rival, Pitt the younger.

Jamie Thompson, the author of "The Seasons," is probably the only really fat poet. He was a comfortable, lazy, slovenly man, of whom it is related that he would eat peaches off the wall, not taking the trouble to take his hands out of his pockets to pluck them. Yet, despite his lazy disposition, he managed to write one of the longest of English poems, as well as "The Castle of Indolence"—a castle in which he habitually dwelt.

G. K. Chesterton, one of the stoutest of living celebrities, has on several occasions made up in the character of the age of Fleet Street with excellent success. It is a little remarkable, too, that one of his closest friends, Hilaire Belloc, is almost as noted for his bulk as he is for his criticism of military operations, his poetry, his history, and his fiction.

Wireless Telephony Wonder.

Norway Station Hears Voice From America.

Paris, Sept. 12.—Reports received by the Radio Agency from Christiania announce that the government wireless station at Bergen, Norway, has been called up twice recently by a voice from a wireless station on the American coast. The Bergen station, which is not fitted with a wireless telephone transmitter, sent wireless telegraphic messages in reply. The voice heard is said to have been perfectly clear.

OLD FOLKS

ORDER HAVE MORE SENSE. "Order have more sense," he said as he sent him up to bed. "Coz the little tykke had done Somethin' in his chase for fun That was wrong, an' I sat there Smokin' in a rockin' chair Wonderin' why it was his dad Punished such a little lad."

Didn't interfere right then. But when quiet came again, "Bill," says I, still feelin' sore, "What d'yer think yer whipped him for?"

"What'd I whip him for," says he, "Coz he stamped his foot at me! An' he should have had more sense Than to climb on that there fence." "No," say I, "that isn't so! Right this minute you don't know Just the reason for the slap That you gave that little chap. 'Twasn't what he did or said Made you send him up to bed, But because he lacks the sense Born of your experience."

"All you let your temper go For, is coz he doesn't know Quite as much 'bout what to do As a grown-up man like you. You expect a child to be Just as wise as you or me—An' it's my experience, Old Folks order have more sense."

One Decent German.

What an intense relief it is to read the following story of the decent way one German acted:—

In the course of the recent trials at Paris of De Toque and other traitorous Frenchmen who were spies in German pay, a striking story was narrated by one of the witnesses. An old man of seventy, named Bernier, a manufacturer at Pourmies, described his trial by a German court-martial when accused by a French spy, Helene Ferris. He expected a sentence of death. A German chaplain, who happened to be in court, came to him and offered to speak in his defence. "I can pay you no fee," answered Monsieur Bernier, "nor do I like to be under the protection of a German." The chaplain replied, "I do not wish for a fee. And it is not as a German, but as a brother-man, that I want to help you." The Frenchman accepted the help, and got off with a sentence of imprisonment. Next day this German chaplain visited M. Bernier in his cell, and, as his sole fee, begged leave to kiss the old man whose life he had saved.—Ex.

A Word of Advice.

The Squires-Campbell combination would have it appear through their organs, Star and Post, that they are a happy family, and that the twin leaders of the present Opposition were specially ordained to save the country from the (as they allege) misrule of the Government, but they carefully refrain from telling the methods by which they propose to do it.

Judging from the make-up of the Squires-Campbell politico-theatrical company recently appearing on the national stage, it is well known to all that they will be an amalgam of elements which hitherto have been more conspicuously engaged in demonstrating mutual antipathies than in striving after basic unity, and we cannot, for the life of us, see how the Squires-Campbell company can consistently fall into line with all the whims and caprices of Mr. Coaker, whose alliance they are now courting, and who, during the past few years has steered his course by all points of the political compass, and whose former turnings and twistings are reminiscent of the lines of Tom Hood with regard to the course of a ship that sailed from Ireland on a voyage to a near-by port:

"The name of the ship was the Peggy, of Cork,
Well laden with bacon and butter and pork,
For Bristol she sailed, but by nautical scope,
Was lost with all hands near the Cape of Good Hope."

Our friend of the Star is fast becoming to be recognized as the copperhead of journalism and the mad-dog of the press, and we suggest that our contemporary in future become more choice in expressing itself toward political opponents than it has been for some time past. The Star has cast slurs and insults upon members of the Government, and has attacked them in their private, social and business capacities. It has endeavored to ventilate the terrible crimes, according to the Star, that they have perpetrated, and has worked overtime to make it appear that no person connected with the Government has one single redeeming qualification.

This of course is on a par with the attitude of both Star and Post alike, which papers see nothing but evil in the personnel of the Government and Government candidates. But all this leads us to ask if all the virtues and good deeds are embodied in the persons of brother Squires and Doctor Campbell, not forgetting the latest ally, the Worley President (after the Star) of the F.P.U., or even Doctor Mossell himself? The Star and Post charge all the crimes in the decalogue against the Government. Sir M. P. Cashin, the Prime Minister; Sir John Crosbie, Minister of Shipping; Hon. A. B. Morine, Minister of Justice, and Hon. J. R. Bennett, Colonial Secretary, all come in for their quota of abuse and accusation from the Star and Post scribes, but we have yet to learn of either of these gentlemen gaily rushing toward insolvency, or of being political fire brands. They have conducted their business and the business of their departments, fairly, squarely and above board, and if they have made money, their private ventures were open to competition and the results showed that the best men won out.

Neither can it be charged that either of the gentlemen named are hard-hearted or penurious toward the poor and needy, their assistance in cases of dire need having invariably been rendered freely, generously and willingly, and it cannot be said that any poor person was allowed to die of want, if the knowledge of such came to them that their succour and help was needed. Stories have been told of cases wherein indigent persons were neglected when in hunger and want by the very people who were paid for looking after them, and several of these stories have come from Harbor Grace District. Yet Cashin, Bennett or Crosbie have never had such an accusation made against them, therefore it is certain that whatever faults they may possess (and how many people are wholly perfect) an indictment for callous hard-hearted neglect of the poor and needy was yet to be preferred.

A word of advice to our journalistic friends who differ from us in matters political. Don't go off at half-cock every time you hear an opinion expressed that is contrary to yours. Don't be too sure that you are always right and your opponent always wrong. Don't accuse those who are not so loud-mouthed as you are in professing patriotism, of not having any. Don't act as if you considered yourselves the only citizens of this city worthy of trust—the only ones that other fellows should look up and listen to. Don't let your alleged patriotism be of that cheap, noisy quality of the rowdy and offensive type that scents wrong everywhere. Keep whatever suspicions you may have to yourself until they amount to something more than mere suspicions. Don't make any more political enemies than you have already, unless you can't help it. Many of the people at whom you are throwing mud balls today have been faithful to their country for more years than you have been in it. You are all good-fellows, but please don't run away with the idea that you are the only real, genuine, dyed-in-the-wool patriots in the dominion. In a word, dear friends of the Opposition press, be as good as patriots as you care to be and as little like fools as you can. You are doubtless fed up with the idea that the people of Newfoundland are behind Squires and Campbell and the adolescent Liberal (?) Reform Party. Probably they are: but do not fail to remember that Newfoundlanders wear very heavy boots during the fall of the year.

Our friend of the Star is fast becoming to be recognized as the copperhead of journalism and the mad-dog of the press, and we suggest that our contemporary in future become more choice in expressing itself toward political opponents than it has been for some time past.

Our friend of the Star is fast becoming to be recognized as the copperhead of journalism and the mad-dog of the press, and we suggest that our contemporary in future become more choice in expressing itself toward political opponents than it has been for some time past.

After much persuasion and numerous promises, another recruit has been added to the Liberal (?) Reform Party's ranks. The latest acquisition to the Squires strength is Mr. Harvey Small, who will be sent to Burgeo and LaPoile District as the Opposition candidate. The choice of Mr. Small is perhaps the very best that could be made. Mr. Small was with the Royal Nfld. Regiment from the beginning of the war, attaining through the various grades of promotion to the rank of Lieutenant. Since being demobilized, Lieut. Small has been travelling salesman for Messrs. Harvey & Co., Ltd., but, we understand, resigns that position to make an entry into the field of politics. We are neither surprised nor alarmed over the selection or the prospects, as it has been known for some time that negotiations to this end have been proceeding. The contest in Burgeo and LaPoile holds promise of having a sufficient amount of excitement about it to make it interesting, which is more than can be said of other districts to which Mr. Squires will send his merry men.

Stone Will Lead.

Reports received yesterday from the South Side of Trinity Bay, indicate that Hon. John Stone will head the poll in that District. Voters are not going to be carried away by any sentiment in favor of the Coaker-Squires organization. They say that the political somersaults of the former have considerably reduced the confidence hitherto placed in him, and that while they continue to support the Union as a commercial concern, they will not recognize it as a political entity. Hence Stone and his colleagues will have an easy win. Stone has been particularly attentive to the district during the six years of his representation, and all classes are perfectly satisfied with his activities on behalf of the people.

Qualified Queries.

Who called the bluff?
Did any one say R. A. T. S.?
Has Hon. R. A. Squires resigned his seat in the Upper House yet?
Why is it that recruiting is slow in the Opposition shreds and patches party?
Are the political love-birds of Fort Union and St. John's still billing and cooing?
Does any one remember a paper called the "Outlook," published in Bay Roberts some years ago?
And, speaking of back files, would not some extracts from that weekly journal of events make noble reading at the present time?
Who was it said that "all that the devil could suggest was done by W. D. Reid, R. A. Squires, and all the Anti-Union clique to down and out Lloyd and myself?"

Who took the portfolio of Justice without having any title to it, and held on to the job for four years, afterwards landing the Colonial Secretary's department, and all without having any seat in the House of Assembly?

Why not relieve the terrible mental strain from which we are suffering, Brother Arris, and tell us who is really going to Burgeo & LaPoile for the Opposition Party? Is it too SMALL a favor to ask, or have we anticipated your reply?

Labor Candidates Chosen.

The Candidate Committee of the city workingmen met in the N. I. W. A. Clubrooms last evening for the purpose of appointing the candidates for labor in the forthcoming general election. Those chosen, after a lengthy session, were Hon. M. P. Gibbs, W. Lingard, and J. Cadwallader. Owing to the lateness of the hour the selection of the East End candidates was deferred until to-night.

A Draw.

Last evening's football match between the Stars and Collegians resulted in a draw. In the first half, after about 5 minutes play, Quick notched up No. 1 goal for the Collegians. The Stars got a penalty but failed to score. In the second half a penalty kicked by W. Hart equalized the score. The last of the game was played in the dark. Some of the spectators were not shy in passing the usual compliments to the referee. The C.C.C. and C.E.I. play again this evening and it is hoped to have the Championship match played by Tuesday next.

NEWFOUNDLANDER TAKES COSTA RICAN BRIDE.
Friends in the city have received Wedding Cards from Senora Maria Innocente de Yglesias of San Jose, Costa Rica, announcing the marriage of their daughter Clemencia to Mr. Hubert Watson of the Royal Bank of Canada. The ceremony took place on the 10th inst. Mr. Watson is well known in St. John's, being a son of the late J. H. Watson, Inspector of Customs, and his numerous acquaintances will wish him and his bride a pleasant voyage over their matrimonial sea. The Telegram also adds felicitations.

VICTORY CUP FOOTBALL, at St. George's Field this evening, at 6 o'clock sharp, C. E. I. vs. Cadets.—sep19,11

Peculiar Accident.

What nearly proved a serious accident occurred at noon today. Whilst two young ladies were walking down Water Street on the side-walk when opposite Buckley's Lane, between Mr. F. J. Sheas and Butler's restaurant, a horse and carriage were coming down the lane. The cart "pinched" a stone which flew up and struck one of the young ladies in the neck, taking away her breath and inflicting a deep wound. The young lady was completely overcome for some minutes, and felt the effect of the blow considerably. It is to be regretted that our drivers do not exercise more care when coming down those lanes and streets, and we notice that many of them whip up their horses when nearing the corners. Greater care should be taken, and thus prevent such accidents as the above, or perhaps worse.

St. Andrew's Society.

WELCOMES ITS PRESIDENT AND HIS WIFE.
An interesting event came off in the Club rooms of St. Andrew's Society last evening, when the members assembled to formally welcome Mrs. H. D. Reid, wife of the Society's President, to their midst.
Mr. A. K. Lumsden, Vice-President, occupied the chair and an enjoyable programme was gone through and consisting of a pianoforte selection by Mr. E. Fox, songs by Mrs. Reid, Miss Mitchell, Madama Thomson, Lieut. Irvine, Messrs. R. G. Reid and D. M. Intosh; reading by Mrs. Baxter, dance by Mrs. Wallace; recitation by H. Crawford, presented by Mr. Reid, and addresses by Messrs. E. H. Crawford and W. A. Mann.
A solid silver rose bowl was presented by the Chairman, on behalf of the members, to the President on the occasion of his marriage, while the President of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. Crawford, presented Mrs. Reid with a solid silver tea service. In making the presentation, Mr. Lumsden warmly welcomed Mrs. Reid to the Club, remarking the following:

ADDRESS.
Dear Mrs. Reid.—The members of St. Andrew's Society welcome you to our hall with a welcome thrice honest and sincere, confident in the belief that those links of friendship for and interest in our Society which are now being forged will be indissolubly welded together. We therefore earnestly entreat you to accept the accompanying gift as a testimony of the admiration and affection we feel towards you and yours for that wholehearted interest continually displayed in the advancement of St. Andrew's Society.
Signed on behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary,
MRS. H. CRAWFORD, President,
MRS. M. GUNN, Secretary.

The address was prettily done in the Society's colors, blue and white, and was beautifully illuminated. The rose bowl, a massive article exquisitely wrought bore the inscription: "Presented by the Nfld. St. Andrew's Society to H. D. Reid, Esq., on the occasion of his marriage, June, 1919." Above was engraved the crest of the Society. Following the concert, programme and presentation, refreshments were served by the members of the Auxiliary, after which dancing was taken up and enjoyed till the " wee sma' hours."

Wedding "Shower."

We clip the following item from the columns of the "Drumhella (Alta.) Mail." The bride referred to was formerly Miss Minnie Dart of this city:
"A very successful wedding 'shower' was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reid at the home of Mrs. H. J. King, on Friday evening, September 12th. The reception took the form of an open air gathering and the presentation of smaller gifts which were carried out by the bridesmaids in a large and richly decorated basket, by two of the younger ladies and which was an entire surprise to the 'newly weds', was preceded by a address by Mrs. H. J. King on behalf of those present, and was most suitably replied to by both bride and groom. Short addresses of appreciation and welcome were given by Mrs. C. C. Andes on behalf of the Women's Institute, and Mr. Geo. Price, for the U.F.A. The Clubrooms last evening for the purpose of appointing the candidates for labor in the forthcoming general election. Those chosen, after a lengthy session, were Hon. M. P. Gibbs, W. Lingard, and J. Cadwallader. Owing to the lateness of the hour the selection of the East End candidates was deferred until to-night."

Anniversary of Gale.

To-day is the seventy-third anniversary of the terrific gale that destroyed such a great quantity of property, both on land and on sea, in Newfoundland in the year 1846. St. Thomas's Church was moved bodily, the unfinished, Native Hall was blown down and many partly built houses were demolished. There was also an extraordinarily high tide, and the water came up to the floors of several houses on the south side of Water Street.

At It Again.

Yesterday Mr. Edward Flynn, of the Fleischman Yeast Co., 210 Duckworth Street, reported to the police that the company's premises had been entered by some thief or thieves on the eighteenth. Access to the building was made by forcing a small window on the front of the building. Nothing as far as could be ascertained, was stolen, although a pile of burnt paper was on the floor.

Strike Averted.

Word was received by the Postal Telegraphers, yesterday that their request for an increase of wages had been general acceded to by the executive of the Government. This will avert the threatened strike.

Boy Scout Column.

Beginning with to-morrow, the Telegram will run a Boy Scouts Column, which will contain items of interest to all the members of that organization. This department will be under the control of a Boy Scout himself, and it promises to be a most instructive one.

Returning Sailors.

Following first-class passengers arrived by Kyle this morning and are due to-morrow—R. L. Cheney, J. Wylie, Geo. Hand, Thos. Ivany, Rev. Tompkins, Mrs. C. Geldwarth, Miss M. Kennedy, E. T. Basha, Rev. B. D. Hemmison, J. Mengon, W. Courtney and two children, Mrs. Murray and daughter and the following naval ratings:—A.G. Mensan, C. Leggo, Wm. Rose, J. Connors, W. James, A. Smith, E. P. Jines, D. Payne, Jas. Rowe, M. King, E. Bartlett, S. Nash, P. Hickey, E. Tilley.

Laid to Rest.

The remains of these late Dorothy Barter, who was killed by a motor car, were laid to rest at Belvidere yesterday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Carter reciting prayers for the dead. The casket and hearse were covered with floral offerings, the gifts of school-mates and friends in the city. The funeral was one of the largest attended seen here for a long time.

W.D. Wellington
THE UNIVERSAL PIPE

You never had such a smoke as you get in a W.D. Wellington. There's no wheezing about it—no bubbling. The well catches all moisture and stray tobacco. It's just cool, dry smoke which comes up—away from the tongue—through the top opening bit. Look for the W.D.C. triangle trade-mark. It's a sure sign of a French briar bowl, guaranteed against cracking or burning through. All good dealers sell Wellingtons, in all shapes, at $1.00 and up.

"Condor" Charlie.

A REMINISCENCE

Baron Beresford, who died suddenly in England the other day, was for a long time better known as "Condor" Charlie and always was beloved by British seamen with whom he sailed the great waters for many years as an officer of the King's Navy. He became "Condor" Charlie away back in 1882 when he was the young commander of the gunboat Condor at the bombardment of Alexandria. Arabi Pasha's rebellion was to be put down but when the fleet swept down on Alexandria it met with stiff resistance from the Egyptian's guns, which were set up on mounds of earth and rock. When the fire was hottest Beresford, who was later to become a baron and an admiral but was then only a young dare-devil captain, steered the Condor in toward shore. He sailed on until, at last, he was in such a position that the guns of the shore force could not be deflected sufficiently to bring the Condor within range, and then the young captain and his shipmates had a merry time blowing the gun emplacements and the guns and the gunners into the air. And Beresford had a decoration after that, but he also had the nickname which old seamen always affectionately used in speaking of him.

Careful speaking was never characteristic of "Condor Charlie," neither was total abstinence his habit. A tongue always quick and, on this occasion, loosened a bit by wine made him the cause, a few years after the Alexandria exploit, of a little diplomatic squabble; absurd it may seem when the incident is related, Beresford's words threatened to bring a breach between Britain and France and would have done so, it is said, if it had not been for the peace-making abilities of that Prince of Wales who was afterwards to be known as King Edward the Peace Maker. The Prince and "Condor Charlie" and the French ambassador to Britain at that time—of Waddington and having the sensitiveness of his French mother—were guests together at a London dinner party. The wine had gone round several times, and had not passed by Beresford. In the midst of a discussion, in which the French ambassador had part, Beresford started the table by proclaiming that he would not fear to "run the Condor against the whole d—d French fleet." It was not a very diplomatic remark, under the circumstances, and it is said that the tone in which it was spoken did not make it more palatable to the diplomat from across the Channel. At all events, there was an unpleasant scene; Waddington was insulted, and since he was French Ambassador the insult was not to him alone. The relations between British and French threatened to be affected but, happily, the sound common sense of the future ruler of the Empire and his genius for removing differences and strained feeling were not exerted in vain.—Ex.

Revising the U. S. Prayer-Book.

A sensation was created in religious circles by the publication of a report which is to be presented to the Episcopal Church Convention in October by the Commission of the Revision and Enrichment of the Book of Common Prayer, which contains twenty radical proposals, the most startling of which are the recognition of faith healing, anointing with holy oils, the Requiem, communions and prayers for the dead, reservation of the sacrament, and "intinction," or the use of a dipped wafer instead of common communion cup," says the New York correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

"The commission anticipates bitter opposition to some of its proposals, and the prefatory statement to the

New Tanlac Plant Has Daily Capacity of 36,000 Bottles

Magnificent New Laboratory Occupies Sixty Thousand Square Feet of Floor Space.

What is said to be one of the largest pharmaceutical laboratories in the United States has been completed at Dayton, Ohio, for the manufacture of Tanlac, the well-known medicine, which according to recent reports is now having the largest sale of any medicine of its kind in the world.

The erection of the new plant was made necessary by the rapid growth of the business, as the older plant was found to be wholly inadequate to supply the ever-increasing demand which at the present rate of sale will amount to more than five million bottles for the present year alone.

By the erection of this plant, the manufacturers of Tanlac are giving to the world just one more evidence of the remarkable growth and expansion of their business and their absolute confidence in its future.

This announcement will be read with interest not only by the many thousands of Tanlac users scattered throughout North America, but to the millions who have used it beneficially as well.

The new building occupies 60,000 square feet of floor space. It is six stories in height, practically fire-proof throughout, and is of striking architectural design. It also has private railway facilities.

This beautiful new structure now stands in striking contrast beside the older building where Tanlac was first made.

Visitors to the laboratories are strongly impressed with the extremely modern character of the equipment. Everything is provided and splendidly arranged to promote systematic and rapid production. The very latest machinery and devices known to invention and pharmaceutical science are here used.

The interior throughout is finished in spotless white, and all of the large force of employees wear white uniforms, which they are required to change daily. The main offices on the first floor are finished in Carara marble and mahogany.

The entire process of manufacture is conducted under absolutely sanitary conditions. Even the bottles made expressly to contain Tanlac are washed and sterilized electrically by the ultra violet ray process. They are then filled by automatic machinery and the finished product is therefore never touched by human hands.

When Tanlac was introduced into Canada history repeated itself, and the demand which had been created in the United States was quickly duplicated in the Dominion Provinces. As a result, it was recently found necessary to establish another Tanlac Laboratory at Windsor, Canada, which is on a somewhat smaller scale than the plant at Dayton, but is no less modernly equipped.

The new facilities give a daily capacity of 36,000 bottles, but as Tanlac is rapidly being introduced into foreign countries it is probably only a question of a few years before even larger facilities will become necessary.

While the manufacturers are necessarily working for capacity production it is a fundamental rule of the Tanlac Laboratories that the quality of the medicine shall never be sacrificed to secure quantity output.

Utmost quality is guaranteed by a series of careful inspections by expert chemists, from the time the roots, herbs, and barks are received and until they are bottled, labeled, and shipped out to the tens of thousands of druggists throughout the United States and Canada, to supply demand never before equalled for this or any other medicine.

The executive sales offices are located in Atlanta, Georgia, and occupy almost an entire floor of the Fourth National Bank Building of that city.

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors under the personal direction of a special Tanlac Representative.—adv.

New Tanlac Plant Has Daily Capacity of 36,000 Bottles

"Great popular interest is aroused in the recommendation to eliminate the word 'obey' from the marriage ceremony. The commission recognizes that many clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal Church, which is the nearest approach on this side to your Church of England, have refused to use the word 'obey,' the retention of which, they declare, is a survival of the days when wives were regarded as chattels. A further concession to modern demands is the decision to eliminate the statement by the bridegroom 'with all my worldly goods I thee endow.' It is held that the law safeguards dower rights. The allusion to Isaac and Rebecca is eliminated on the grounds that the domestic life of the Biblical couple were not model.

"Intinction," or the dipping of the consecrated wafer in the chalice, is urged on sanitary grounds, the Episcopalians claiming that the use of the common cup is a menace to public health. The Evangelicals, or Low Churchmen, bitterly oppose the proposal and the commission had to fight hard to obtain a majority vote for the adoption of many practices which it has recommended.

"Whit Sunday," despite all opposition, is changed to the 'Day of Pentecost,' and all the Sundays until Advent are changed to read as Sundays after Pentecost, instead of after Trinity. Efforts to change the name of the Church to the 'American Catholic Church' were, however, defeated.

"Much controversy is expected over the proposal to include in the prayer for the dead the following: 'O God, whose mercies are unnumbered, accept our prayer on behalf of the soul of Thy servant departed and grant him an entrance into the land of light and joy in the fellowship of Thy Saints.' Such a prayer, it is claimed, is theologically unsound. There is also a prayer 'for social justice,' and another 'for every man in his work.'"

We Talk Too Much.

(From the San Francisco Bulletin.)

On the Plains of Shinar, ages ago somebody suggested that, with sufficient material and men, it would be possible to build a tower that would reach to the heavens. They began the job, but never completed the undertaking, because they talked too much, and there was a turmoil of tongues and a general mixup of languages.

The Tower of Babel is not the only experiment spoiled by too much talk. The popular but by no means polite phrase, "hot air," aptly states the handicap of an international habit. It is action run to the weeds of words. Eloquence, or something that passes for that gift, often a 2 per cent. degree of oratory, is the end of many noble dreams in civil and economic affairs. It is a well-known fact that the people fear the words of Congress more than its works.

We talk too much, investigate too often, pass too many resolutions, make too many speeches, and probably write too many books.

It would be a good thing for the country if we took Aristotle literally when he defined eloquence in three words, "action, action, action."

A Soldier's Complaint.

"If the Government had the power to send us to hell in France it has the power to tax men who made wealth while we were there," said Mr. J. H. Flynn, a returned soldier in speaking in a Toronto meeting the other day of the veterans' request for further financial assistance. Mr. Flynn touched upon an issue from which the Borden Govt. will never be able to escape. It made levies upon the man-power of the country but it never made levies upon the great wealth piled up by profiteers in this country during the war years through the exploitation of soldiers dependents and other families and through the sale of soldiers' supplies to the state at excessive costs. It has nibbled at wealth through the business profits' tax and it has taken another nibble by means of income tax but while it has done nothing toward lessening the burdens imposed upon the mass of people under the tariff laws it has utterly failed also to compel the war-millionaires to contribute their fair share to the revenue of the state. It has the power of compulsion in this regard, just as it had power to compel the soldier to do this and so; in the latter instance it exercised its power and in the other it will not exercise compulsion and thus discriminates in favor of the few.—Sydney Record.

Cosmopolitan City.

What is the most cosmopolitan city in the world? Paris, London, New York, Shanghai, are a few of the guesses that are hazarded by the uninformed.

All wrong—Universal City, hailed as the capital of the motion picture world, is declared to be it.

A tourist from the wilds of Borneo or from the frigid wastes of the Antarctic should be made equally to feel at home by those little familiar scenes which only movieland can reproduce.

The artistic and detail devoted to reproducing truthfully scenes from every foreign land are everywhere in evidence at the big Universal studio. The technical director, in charge of the building of sets, is fully equipped with a complete library of all styles of architecture, and before the picture can be adequately staged the director must thoroughly familiarize himself with all the customs and costumes of the period of the country in which the scenes are laid.

As one glances around the maze of streets, the eye passes in swift journeys from the land of cherry blossoms to that where the sweet guitar is hard on soft summer evenings.

Here is a Japanese street built without a flaw, for if there is one thing the technical department does upon it is accuracy in detail. There is nothing more humiliating to its pride than to receive censure from some far off critic in Panama, inquiring as to when it became the custom to have saloons in ancient Rome. The story is told that when a party of Japanese came out to visit Universal City, a cute little Japanese kiddie, seeing the Japanese street, insisted that he wanted to go up in that house to his mamma's room.

All of the olive skinned sons and daughters of Spain available are generally hired for a big Spanish scene, for the realism craze has also hit the casting directors.

Adjoining Spain, at Universal City, is the familiar sight (in the movies) of a wild western street, where the darling cowboys chase naughty Indians around for $10 per day, including lunch. The big cattlemen, who complain of the passing of the western cowboy, evidently has never visited Universal City, for it appears that here are located enough of those darling horsemen to round up all the cattle in the United States and Mexico for the next ten years, besides having Sunday off for rescuing beautiful heroines from the clutches of the bold bad villains.

Right next to the Canadian backwoods town, nestles a cute little Fiji Island village, with the Fiji Islanders, clad in their birthday suits, fitting all over the street in one of their native dances. On some of those nice, warm California days when the torrid southern wind assists some of the portly Universal directors to take off superfluous flesh, one can hardly wonder if the life of a Fiji Islander is not the nicest of all, and ought not to be universally adopted.

It would seem that a person can get just as liberal an education by working in the films as travelling around the world. Moreover, all travelling expenses are paid, and no one never is troubled with sea sickness.—Charles American.

As a Briton Sees Them.

(From the Saturday Evening Post.)
 Here are a few general conclusions made by an Englishman on America:
 The men are bright, but the women are brighter.
 There is not so much convention in American life as in Europe, but there is less method also.
 America is still Eldorado not only for the politically oppressed in other countries, but for those in poverty.
 The country people in America are probably the happiest in the world.
 What is called by outsiders the love of sensation in America is really the love of adventure—commercial, political and personal.
 New York is the most un-American of all the great American cities.
 Material in some respects, Americans are the most romantic and idealistic of any people.
 As a nation they are slowly but surely developing into a race, distinctive from any other race, ancient or modern.

A Modern Robin Hood.

(From the New York Globe.)
 Carnegie has died not poor but only moderately wealthy for these days, and his bequests instead of distributing an immense fortune merely winds up the business, which must be rather onerous as a life's occupation, of giving his money away. Now that he is dead the net result of his financial activities seems to be that the money values which he collected in one pile from his countrymen have been put back into the hands of his countrymen in the shape of public benefactions. Carnegie played Robin Hood by taking our money away from us and giving us back books, or brown brick buildings to put books in. What he got out of it was the name over the door and the same glow which must have Sherwood's outlaw when he took a gold purse from a fat alderman to give to the proverbial poor widow with the prayer that the steel magnate displayed highwayman and philanthropist to the same public. We are no poorer for having had him with us. But we are different. We have read in his libraries and benefited by scientific discoveries made by men in his pay working in institutions he supported. It was, in the last analysis, our money that built the libraries and made possible the institutions, and that fact was understood by Carnegie better than by many multi-millionaires. He looked upon himself as a trustee for the national wealth in his possession, and used it as he thought would be good for us. We weren't always pleased. And, because of his vanity, he often made his philanthropies hard to swallow. But he did set up and attempt to follow a noteworthy ideal. He wanted to die poor. He did not anticipate leaving an immense estate for his heirs to the third and fourth generation. He had common sense enough to know that hereditary wealth, such as has existed among the Astors and Vanderbilts and Rothschilds, is a corrupting influence, good neither for the family which possesses it nor the state which supports it. Great fortunes seem to be an essential to modern trade often, by some triumph of invention or organization, they seem fairly earned. But they gall and fester and eat into the body politic if left by entail too long in incompetent and idle hands.

Facts.

One million three hundred thousand Americans fought in France.
 The cost of building a house is three times as much as before the war.
 By March next year the German Army must have been decreased to 100,000 men.
 War conditions are stated to be responsible for the increase of tuberculous diseases.
 Of every hundred American soldiers and sailors in the war, two were killed or died.
 The Stokes gun, our best light trench mortar, was adopted by all the Allies, and 20,000 in all were issued.
 Although Germany built 120 Zeppelins during the war, never more than fifteen or sixteen were fit to take the air at one time.
 Owing to our knowledge of the Hun "wireless," forthcoming Zepp raids were known in London before the airships had left their sheds.
 America claims that the Stars and Stripes waves over 33.7 per cent. of all tonnage afloat, while Great Britain comes second with 33.5 per cent.

Heroic Shipmaster

EIGHTS GASOLINE BLAZE UNDAINED.
 New York, Sept. 10.—Scorched from stem to stern, the American tank steamer George G. Henry recently arrived here from Havre and Rouen with a story of a desperate battle with fire while tied up to its dock in Havre. The skipper's bravery saved the ship.
 Captain H. F. Weedon said the vessel was discharging gasoline through a hose to tanks on the deck when the hose burst at 2 o'clock in the morning, spraying the whole ship, docks and near-by buildings with the inflammable material.
 The break was repaired, but two hours later, while most of the crew were asleep, the hose burst again. As it whirled about the deck an iron flange struck an iron plate and caused a spark which set fire to the loose gasoline.
 The whole ship was ablaze almost instantly and the fire quickly spread to the docks and adjoining buildings, and from them to the water between the steamer and the pier. The alarm was given to the men below decks and many of them leaped overboard. Captain Weedon, clad only in his trousers, came from his cabin to take command of the situation and succeeded in launching the only undamaged lifeboat.
 After getting his men away from danger, Captain Weedon went back on board alone, shut off the flow of gasoline and flooded the compartments with live steam. He took no one with him because he wished to risk no lives but his own. With the flow of gasoline stopped the flames were soon extinguished.
 When the crew checked up it was found that Jose Lampo, a seaman, was missing and he is believed to have been drowned when he went overboard.
 The Henry was not damaged seriously, and when temporary repairs had been made went on from Havre to Rouen, and thence to this port.

Foreign Press Opinions.

CAN HE AFFORD IT?—J. P. Morgan is going on his first vacation in five years. Doubtless he has saved up enough in that time to pay for a nice little trip.—Quebec Telegraph.
IS THE INVITATION PRESSED?—Now that the former Kaiser is accepting invitations to tea, he may be prevailed upon to accept the invitation of the Allied and Associated Powers to stand his trial.—Hamilton Herald.
DEMOCRATIC ROYALTY.—Those who took part at the enthusiastic reception which was given by Montreal to the then Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York (now King George and Queen Mary) and were present at the reception given to the Prince of Wales, could not fail to remark the heir to the throne had become more accessible more democratic.—Montreal La Patrie.
FEAR THE MOTIVE.—Fear is an excellent motive power in the achievement of necessary deeds that but for fear would never be recognized as essential. The same applies to the prevention of epidemic, famine or any other destructive force. Fear has its uses no less than faith, and the war was the very best illustrating example of this new aphorism.—Ottawa Journal.
BISHOP & SONS are now ready to provide for the Jam Season: 1200 pkgs. Gummed Paper Jelly, Jam Tops, selling at reasonable prices.—sept14

Household Notes.

Dried eggs or egg powder should never be eaten without thorough cooking to destroy the microbes.
 A nut mixture to spread on bread is made of chopped almonds and walnuts, blended with butter, brown sugar and grated bread crumbs.
 Children should be brought up as far as possible to eat everything set before them—a great diversity of tastes in a household means extra expense and trouble.

Man Claimed to be Christ.

Montreal, Sept.—A man, who, after much questioning, gave his name as James Rochon, his age as 43 years, and his occupation as an engineer, was found in St. James Cathedral, Dominion Square, at midnight by Constable McKinnon. He was in one of the pews and had his boots off when the constable found him. When asked for his name he told the constable that his name was "Jesus Christ." In reply to another question as to where he lived he replied, "the world over." He also said, "You cannot touch me, I live everywhere."
 The constable had views of his own as to whether he could touch him or not, so took him down to the station and entered a charge of loitering against him. The man had $13 in his pocket and was fairly well dressed. The police have doubts as to whether the constable found him. When asked not the man is in his right mind.

Russia, Present and Future.

What is really happening in Russia is a mystery which the western world seems unable to penetrate. One day Koltchak is driven back and his arms almost exhausted. On the following day the Bolsheviks are hunted out of Odessa and driven away from the coast of the Black Sea.

Whether the net result of these operations is to make the regime of Lenin and Trotsky stronger or weaker, is a point upon which no enlightenment is vouchsafed, if anybody knows.

On the Baltic Sea most of what was left of the Russian fleet seems to have been wiped out. The variscous chronicles also avers that the fortifications of Kronstadt have been destroyed by bombardment. As to this, however, the reader is permitted to remember that the Turkish fortifications at Gallipoli were once bombarded by the British fleet for several hours and the damage afterwards was found to be "surprisingly small."

Preparations are being made, not for the first time, to march on Petrograd, but the Bethonians intervene with a proposition that if their help is expected their independence must be recognized.

And so it does. What seems pretty certain is that a fringe of independent republics is being created all round the border of what was formerly Russia. When the country finally recovers its balance, it will find itself everywhere cut off from the sea by these fresh creations.

How long will two hundred million people put up with such an arrangement? Is the League of Nations going to uphold these new republics in their inevitable attempts to levy toll on the commerce of Russia passing through them?

Also it is not to be forgotten that millions of Germans will want to leave their country, and Russia is about the only place they can go to. They will not be sufficiently numerous to dominate Russia or to make it German, but they will organize it and develop its commerce and may quite possibly make it an ally of Germany.

How is it all going to turn out? Nobody knows, and one man's guess is as good as another's. The present and the future of Russia are equally dark. It's a good country to keep away from. Ought there not to be some better explanation than has been given as to what the Allies expect to accomplish by their intervention?—Vancouver Sun.

Then and Now.

(Twillingate Sun.)

There was a time when Mr. Coaker was the sworn enemy of Reid and Crosbie and Cashin and all the Morrisites. Then came the Coalition Government and Mr. Coaker became the friend and defender of erstwhile enemies followers that he found these men not so black as he had painted them.

Then came the split in the Coalition Government when Mr. Currie and Mr. Morine and Mr. Stone hastened to throw in their lot with the Cashinkites. Mr. Currie especially turning his coat with a rapidity that made one almost giddy.

Once more does Mr. Coaker get back to the old role, and the former lawyer for the F. P. U., whom it is claimed Mr. Coaker invited from Canada, becomes his special target while Mr. Morine on his part is not going to respond with equality hot stuff, so far as to play to the gallery during a particularly warm session.

Then you have Mr. Squires whom the Star gravely assures us is the leader of the opposition.

Mr. Squires, who now finds everything so rotten, was a member of the Morris party, holding his portfolio by grace of a seat in the Upper House, until the formation of the Coalition party.

Everyone of these men during the past six years have been a member of the Government during all or part of that time; and (which is the fact that rankles most sorely in the breast of the people) not once during the time that they were members of the Government did they, one of them, raise their voice against the corrupt practices of graft and indifference to public welfare that were so rampant.

Airman Dives Over Ex-Kaiser

Alarming Amerongen Watchers.

Amerongen.—Much excitement was caused in Amerongen at 11.30 o'clock to-day when an aviator, passing above the Bentinck Castle, suddenly looped the loop and dived low directly over the garden where the former German Emperor was engaged in his daily task of sawing wood.

Many of the villagers believed that the former Emperor was in danger, but the aviator merely descended to about fifty feet above the garden, leaped over the side of his plane, waved a greeting to Herr Hobensoltz, and then proceeded on his journey.

The aviator is presumed to have been Versteegh, a Hollander. The former Emperor is said to have been greatly pleased by the airman's greeting.

KEEP MINARPS' LINIMENT IN THE HOUSE.

Those Libels.

(From this Morning's News.)
 The News, yesterday, was served with writs in the threatened libel suits by Squires, Mosdell and the Star. Of the suits so far taken, four refer to the Dr. Jones' letter incident, and the fifth to the charge that Squires received money from the Reid-Nfld. Co. for legal services while he was Attorney General. As to the Jones' incident the suits seem to have been taken because Squires on the one hand, and Mosdell on the other, complain that they did not deliberately change the word "Sunday" in Dr. Jones' letter to the word "Saturday" as the letter was published. There is no denial that the change was made in fact, but only that it was wilfully or deliberately made by the plaintiffs. It is not quite clear what is the gist for action arising out of the charge that Squires received money; whether it is a denial by Squires that he received the money in fact, or a denial that he received it corruptly. The News has, from the outset, made only the charge that he received the money from the Company while he occupied an official position, and to the public is left the task of attaching any meaning to the transaction which may seem to be justified. The defence that the News will make is that its statements concerning this payment were true, in substance and in fact, and when the trial comes on it will aim to prove the truth of what it said. But the noticeable thing in this connection is that so far, at least, Squires has not thought it advisable to take any action upon the charges made by the News, that while Colonial Secretary and chairman of the committee appointed to investigate a Reid claim against the Colony, Squires received from the Reids the sum of $5,000 in Bank notes, and also, that while Attorney General, charged with the duty of advising the Government in relation to the Wilson deal being put through the Legislature—a deal which the Reid Company was promoting he, a few weeks before, solicited from the Reid Company a sum of money for the purpose of establishing the Star. There is an old saying to the effect that what is not denied is admitted, or that the exception proves the rule, as it is sometimes stated; and this means, apparently, that Squires admits that he received the $5,000 referred to, and made the solicitation which the News has charged. If he does not admit these things, he had better hurry up in his action, or defamation, or file people will conclude, as a matter of course, that he pleads guilty. The News has entrusted its defence in the actions above referred to, to Messrs. Howley & Fox.

Greenspond Strong for Morine.

Editor Evening Telegram
 Dear Sir,—In looking through the "Advocate" these days all one can notice is constant abuse of Morine, Stone and Hickman, and the thought occurs to one, is it for their good deeds that they are being subjected to these attacks. I can speak for Hon. A. B. Morine because I know him personally, and also because I am aware of the good work he has performed since he has been in public life. He is now being attacked for his efforts on behalf of Bonavista Bay and its people. I suppose that is the way some people have to prosper Mr. Morine for his kindness. The other two gentlemen I am not acquainted with, but both of them must be very decent men or they would not be taken much notice of, especially in the columns of the "Advocate." Things are getting to such a stage at the present time that it is becoming an honor to be abused by that paper. Nearly every man in public life who amounts to anything has been attacked at one time or another by the "Advocate." As far as Mr. Morine is concerned, I can assure you, sir, that nearly every man, woman and child in Greenspond is longing for the day when he can shake the pleasure of shaking his hand, and hearing his kindly greeting to his old friends whom he is always willing and eager to assist. He is as familiar to us here as the members of our own families. I know he can count on nearly every man in Greenspond for support and he will get a pleasant surprise when he comes here to find so many glad that he is going to stand for Bonavista once more. When I see the "Advocate" making such vicious attacks on Mr. Morine, I can hardly believe my eyes, and I often wonder if I am making a mistake. Is this the same Mr. A. B. Morine who was at Port Union a year or two ago—the one whom Mr. Coaker spoke so highly of? Is this the same Mr. Morine whom Mr. Coaker declared "always the friend of the Union." As I say, Mr. Editor, I can hardly believe my eyes when I see him now being so slanderously attacked by Mr. Coaker and his henchmen in the columns of the "Advocate." Oh my, what will not some people do to gain their point and advance their selfish interests! I wonder which of these two men, Mr. Morine or Mr. Coaker has done the most good for the country. Is it more beneficial to establish a few cash stores throughout the island, than to find schooners for the people to go to the Labrador in the summer months to fishery. I think the latter far more important, and I wish to say right here that to my personal knowledge Mr. Morine has helped many a man in this Bay to procure a schooner when they could not obtain one from anyone else. Can men be so ungrateful as not to forget such good turns as these done for them? No, I am sure Mr. Morine will never be forgotten in Bonavista Bay for the good he has done. And when we find the "Advocate" travelling back 20 or 30 years for material to use against him, and even then raking up old lies and falsehoods, it is apparent to even the least observant persons that his record is a good one. I know a lot of good he has done, but no harm have I ever heard of him doing to any person. Don't worry, Mr. Morine, your election in Bonavista District is sure, and when the time comes round for you and the other candidates to visit us, I hope Mr. Coaker will be here with his team at the same time, so that you may hold your meeting in the same hall, on the same night, and face him on the same platform. We will give you both a decent hearing, and when the meeting is over we will judge for ourselves who we will vote for. That is British fair play and justice, and that is how I would like to have it arranged if I could my way. I would like to see all acting as sober-minded, civil, respectable people, with a sense of justice and fair play, so that both sides might benefit by a hearing, and then we could use our own minds as to the best party to vote for. I am sure 85 per cent. of Greenspond, at least, will vote for Mr. Morine. As far as the Flat Island affair is concerned for which Mr. Morine was bitterly attacked at the time, and for which he is still being assailed by the Coaker crowd, I would only say that the very people who are finding fault with him because he did his duty are the very people who would find fault with him if the boot were on the other foot. I say that Mr. Morine did what he could not help doing. The matter was brought to his notice in his official capacity as Minister of Justice, and being in that position he could do nothing else but what he did. If he had done otherwise, we would have no protection from lawlessness and disorder. When all this has blown away, those who are attacking him may give him credit for his fearlessness and manly attitude in connection with the Flat Islands affair.
 Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I remain,
 Yours truly,
 GREENSPOND,
 Sept. 15, 1919.

At the City Hall.

The Municipal Council held its regular weekly session at 8 o'clock. The Mayor presided and Councillors Mullaly, Ayre and Vinnicombe attended. After reading of minutes etc., the following matters were disposed of:
 Harvey & Co. asked if Council would let them have some broken planks for some necessary work at their premises. Granted at market price.
 A petition was read from some residents near Prescott Street, protesting against repairs being done to a building in that vicinity. A counter-petition was also received from other residents to the effect that there would be no objection on their part. The concern will be asked to explain exactly the nature of their business.
 A resident complained of a fence projecting on Pleasant Street. The Secretary is to see the owner of the property here with the view of taking some land to widen the street.
 P. J. Crofty asked to do some repairs to house, Battery Road. Granted.
 Thomas Vosey sent bill for damages caused to horse and carriage, resulting from fall on Gover St. Referred to the Solicitor.
 J. Andrews complained of the condition of Gear Street near his house, and also asked for information regarding the installation of water and sewerage. The information will be supplied and the trouble complained of remedied.
 Job Bros. & Co. asked for the approval of the Council to the erection of a gangway near their premises. Approved.
 Job Bros. & Co. sent a communication in relation to the installation of a sprinkling system on their South Side premises, and the extension of the water main. They will be seen again on the matter.
 A number of residents of Brazil's Field and Beaumont Street asked to have some attention given to and a light placed in that vicinity. A light was ordered to be placed there in the most suitable location.
 Regarding a gully on the South Side Road, a remedy will be made.
 The Gas Co. stated attention would be given to the light complained of on the South Side Road.
 Residents of Signal Hill Road asked for the installation of a tank in that neighborhood. Fountain will be installed.
 The City Engineer reported on the progress of water and sewer work, number of services laid and repaired. Venturi meter work progressing favorably and road work generally.
 Regarding damage done to the paling fence at the small park, Freshwater Road, it was decided to report the matter to the police department, as this damage has occurred continually during the past season.
 It was decided to install sewerage main in College Square.
 The Health Officer's weekly report was submitted.
 The Plumbing Inspector submitted list of parties to be prosecuted for non-installation of water and sewerage. It was decided by a vote of two to three to prosecute against the delinquents to be withdrawn. The Mayor commented very strongly on the vote, which he stated would not be in the interests of the city.
 P. Wall, Lime St., was given permission (provided water and sewerage were installed) to build temporary shed, and make repairs to house.
 Curnew, V. Crawford, and A. Butt, were given permission, according to plans, to build on Prince of Wales Street.
 After disposing of some routine business and passing pay rolls and bills, the meeting adjourned.

Piano for Boy
Cornwell's Sister.
 T. C. MacCormack, of Northampton, England, is buying out of the proceeds of his booklet on John Travers Cornwell, V.C., a piano for presentation to Lily Cornwell, in memory of her brave brother, whose last promise to her was to buy a piano on which she would receive a case and in which she would have her portrait to provide for her when she returns to her home. When why—ge best.

St. John's Public Does Not Have To Pay Exorbitant Prices

Good News For All

The situation for British Goods is now serious. We knew this for many months. We saw the impending high prices. Our British Buyer left for market early in May and bought goods which we now offer in immense quantities at prices much below the possibilities of any other store. We urge the public in justice to themselves to buy their Fall and Winter requirements NOW.

All Women Agree
That for thirty-five years we have had the reputation of always giving the best value in St. John's in undermentioned goods. We feel sure that when you see our present stocks you will agree that we have smashed all records.

The Battle of Portiers.

SEPT. 19, 1916.

Edward III., learning that the internal disorders of France had increased in consequence of the imprisonment of Charles of Navarre, sent out a small army, under the Earl of Lancaster, to co-operate with the party of that Prince in Normandy. At the same time the Black Prince set out with an army of about 12,000 men, few of them English except a body of archers. He intended to advance to Normandy and join his forces to those under Lancaster; but he found all the bridges of the Loire broken down. King John, thinking he had a chance of defeating the English, set out to intercept the Prince's journey with an army of upwards of 60,000 men. John advanced for Portiers, and the country people, enraged at his wanton destruction of every place he approached, kept him in ignorance of Edward's proximity. The latter, therefore, advanced on Portiers, and on September 17 came on the rear of the French army only two leagues from Portiers. Never did a king of France command a more promising force, for included in the 60,000 men were 20,000 men-at-arms, and 2,000 sent by the Scots. The Prince of Wales' troops had decreased to about 10,000, of which about 4,000 were English archers, the others Gascons. Edward took up a very strong position, which could only be approached by one road, so the French king determined to charge the English on foot. The next morning, September 19, the two armies met. Sir James Audley began the attack with four stout esquires in the van. The Marshals of France were ordered to advance and take possession of the lane leading to the English position, and scatter the archers who lined the hedges; but as fast as they entered the lane they were shot down. The detachment of Captal de Buch, attended by 600 bowmen, attacked the flank of the Dauphin's division, and this movement threw the whole division into confusion. The knights were first to run from their banners, and all was instantly one scene of flight. The Dauphin and his brother were escorted from the spot by 800 lances, and the army of the Black Prince, seeing this, and that the Duke of Orleans was in full retreat, dashed down the lane, riding over dead and wounded, till they came out on the plain where John stood with his division, upon which they burst with a fearful shock. But the king stood his ground, fighting manfully, leading up his division on foot, and heaving his way with his battle-axe, even after he had been deserted by the German cavalry. When called upon to yield, he called out: "Where is my cousin, the Prince of Wales?" unwilling to surrender to anyone of less rank. At this moment, Earl Warwick came up, and conducted John and his son with great respect to the Prince's tent. Thus terminated the Battle of Portiers, one of the most wonderful victories ever achieved, being won by an army numerically only one-sixth of that which it defeated.

War Song Was Composed by Cripple.

Although it has been said that the "Last of the Troubadours" has long since vanished from the earth, each decade sees a reincarnation of the spirit of minstrelry in some representatives of that once interesting tribe. A great love, a great cause in the affairs of men, seems to bring forth some individual who must put that great emotion into song. The war has demonstrated this. Many spontaneous singers from their hearts gave something to quicken the hearts of others. But an unusual troubadour, even for those five heavy years, was Skipper Walter William Francis, a crippled Welshman, who travelled 13,000 miles from under the southern sun to sing to the Australian and New Zealand soldiers in hospitals and camps and on the firing line in France. Skipper Francis' song is simple, with out a touch of the poetic frenzy that is expected in an inspiring song. But it was taken up by the hard-fighting Anzacs, and during moments of great joy or danger it seemed to satisfy their souls. When a transport was sinking, when the Germans were coming on like a storm, when the King came to review, when victory was at hand, Skipper Francis' song was shouted and piped, whistled and sung, like an anthem from thousands of throats. The song goes thus: "Rally round the Banner, the Banner of your country. And take the field with brothers o'er the foam; On land or sea, wherever you be, Keep your eye on Germany. But Britain, Home and Beauty Had no cause to fear. Should Auld Acquaintance be forgot? No! No! No! No! No! Australia will be there!" Skipper Francis' life history is interesting. He was born in Wales in 1886, and, through an accident to his right leg and foot, was permanently crippled. This severe handicap did not prevent him, however, from becoming an athlete. By vigorous training he came to excel in many fields of sport. In August, 1912, he swam Bristol Channel from Penarth to Newport, a distance of fifteen miles. He was in Melbourne, Australia, when the war opened, and he immediately volunteered for the service. He was rejected by every fighting branch because of his physical incapacity. Intensely patriotic, he brooded over his inability to go to the front. In October of 1914 he composed his song, writing both words and music. He visited Broadmeadows Camp, near Melbourne, and told the soldiers that he had a song for them. He sang his lay, "Australia Will Be There," and before he left the cantonment every soldier knew the song and was singing it. From that moment the song grew in popularity. Like "Over There" in this country, it was accepted as the official march song of the Australian Expeditionary Forces in the same month and was sung by the troops on their farewell march through Melbourne, December 17, 1914. Never a troopship left Australian shores but "Australia Will Be There" was sung by both populace and soldiers. When the transport Southland was torpedoed and sunk on Sept. 2, 1915, the Australians sang as they rowed away from the doomed ship; and they were singing the Skipper's song. When the Anzacs captured the advanced trenches at Gallipoli in one of the most stirring of campaigns, his song filled the air at the charge. It was sung when the Ballarat was torpedoed in the English Channel on April 25, 1917; at billets on the Western Front, in France, in Flanders, Palestine, and Africa.

An official report of an action on the western front gives this episode dealing with the lay: "At the height of an action on the western front an Australian subaltern mounted a parapet with a tin whistle in his hand. He played 'Australia Will be there.' The men cheered as they fed the machine guns, declaring that he would attract the Huns with his music, and they would offer better targets. The subaltern then proceeded to play 'The Watch on the Rhine,' upon which the enemy machine gunners, greatly incensed, seemed to concentrate their fire upon him."

The song was played as an overture at every London theatre when Prime Minister Hughes arrived; the King and Queen heard it on March 22, 1916; it was played and sung during one of the Liberty Loan campaigns in New York.

"According to Hoyle." (From the Westminster Gazette.) One hundred and fifty years ago on August 29th, Edmund Hoyle, whose name became immortalized in the well-known adage "According to Hoyle" whenever any dispute in games of chance occurred, passed away from this life at his house in Cavendish-square. He was a barrister, and was appointed Registrar of the Prerogative Court of Ireland, but shortly abandoned his profession for the more lucrative one of imparting instruction in games of chance for a guinea a lesson. The first treatise which he wrote was one on Whist, of which game he has, quite erroneously, sometimes been called the inventor, but which, doubtless, he systematized, and brought to its present standard.

HOW THIS NERVOUS WOMAN GOT WELL

Told by Herself. Her Sincerity Should Convince Others.

Christopher, Ill.—"For four years I suffered from irregularities, weakness, nervousness, and was in a run down condition. Two of our best doctors failed to do me any good. I heard so much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others, I tried it and was cured. I am no longer nervous, am regular, and in excellent health. I believe the Compound will cure any female trouble."—Mrs. ALICE BURLING, Christopher, Ill. Nervousness is often a symptom of weakness or some functional derangement, which may be cured by the famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as thousands of women have found by experience. If complications exist, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions in regard to your ailment. The result of the long experience is at your service.

From a recent Magazine we have copied the following. We only need to add, Papers to suit all requirements can be had at our Store.

1. Thou shalt heed the call of Plain quiet wall papers and white woodwork wherever such is possible.
2. Thou shalt lighten dark rooms by the use of light-hued, yellow-tinted wall paper, that suggests the blessed sunshine.
3. Thou shalt see that thy walls and thine own personality are not to forward, but modestly retiring.
4. Thou shalt use no large-patterned wall papers against which to hang thy pictures. The one will kill the other.
5. Thou shalt have no centerpiece or cornerpieces upon thy ceiling, but only a very nearly plain expanse of light color.
6. Thou shalt have thy fill of bright tints, and delicate designs for bedrooms and boudoirs, but for drawing-rooms, dining-rooms, libraries and halls, thou shalt be compelled to use less frivolous papers.
7. Thou shalt, when the ceiling is not too high, run the paper of the side wall up to the ceiling, putting the border just below the angle.
8. Thou shalt not panel the walls of a small room, except it be above a mantelpiece, a sideboard or a bookcase, where a bit of tapestry, a mirror or a picture may be held in place by strips of moulding.
9. Thou shalt use attention-compelling cut out borders, or conventionally designed strips for divisions between walls and ceiling.
10. Thou shalt remember at all times that thy wall paper is but a background against which to show thy pictures, thy furniture, and thy friends.
