CAUTION. The Cornwall Manufacturing Company have pleasure in intimating the complete restoration of their works at Cornwall which are now in full operation, producing large quantities of White and Grey Blankets, and Heavy Medium Class Tweeds.

They regret, however, having it in to call attention of the public to the continuance of the disreputable practice of importing English Blankets and selling them as Canadian. These Blankets are made largely of Shoddy and Cotton Waste, with a small percentage of pure Wool, and though slightly in appearance, closely imitating the Cornwall Blankets, and ticketed "Canadian Manufacture," have neither warm nor wear, but can be sold at a lower price than the Cornwall Blankets (which are made of Pure Wool) can be produced for.

The public are cautioned against this attempted deception, and respectfully informed that the name of the CORNWALL MANUFACTURING COMPANY is printed on the back of every Blanket made by them. Cornwall, Sept. 16th 1872. J. W. M.

Guelph Evening Mercury

SATURDAY EVENING, OCT. 26, 1872 THIS MORNING'S DESPATCHS

The Horse Epidemic. The San Juan Question.

New York, Oct. 25, midnight.—Fifth Avenue and 28th Street line of stages stopped to-day. Few street cars are running, and several of the branch lines of street cars have stopped altogether.

London, Oct. 26.—The names of the Jurisconsults, the advisers of the Emperor William, on whose legal opinions and topographical reports the Crown judgment on the San Juan boundary is based, are given in the Prussian state despatch, as follows: The German Vice-President of the Supreme Court in Berlin, Heinrich Kiepert, eminent German geographer and instructor of the Bible; Herr Goldschmidt, member of Superior Tribunal of Leipzig. The Referees handed in their reports two weeks ago.

The charge England with vagueness in the wording of the Treaty of 1846, and state that the word southerly means the shortest channel to the Strait of Juan de Fuca. A special messenger left Berlin for Washington on Friday night.

Mr. Odo Russell, the British Ambassador, and Mr. Bancroft, the American Minister, exchanged mutual congratulations over the result.

DAMAGED GOODS.—We direct attention to Messrs. Heffernan Bros.' advertisement in another column. No doubt bargains may be expected.

RAILWAY BONUS EXPEDITION.—The Mayor of Hamilton, Adam Brown, Jas. Turner, and a number of others have gone out on a railway campaign, to advocate the passing of bonuses by municipalities in the county of Simcoe, in aid of the Hamilton and Northwestern Railway.

ARRIVAL OF VOLUNTEERS.—The Royal Mail steamer Chicago, from Fort William, arrived at Collingwood on Friday evening, having on board 88 of the returned troops from Fort Garry, in charge of Lieut.-Col. Villiers, together with 64 other passengers.

DISGRACEFUL ROW.—Goodfellow, a carter at Clifton, was shot on Thursday evening in the abdomen by another carter named Collins, and is supposed to be mortally wounded. The wounded man first assaulted the other and bit his ear because he refused to drink with him.

CANADIAN LITERARY INSTITUTE.—Is there such an institution in Guelph? If so, the proper official connected with it will please make application for a couple of large furnace shovels and rakes which have been sent from Hamilton per G. W. B. and delivered to the Mechanics' Institute here evidently in mistake.

CHILDREN'S BOOKS.—Mr. T. J. Day forwards us for notice a copy of "The Three White Kittens," and "The Three Good Friends." They are published by the well-known house of Nelson & Sons, and are marked by the superior style of publication characteristic of the firm. Now that the long evenings are upon us again," these freside entertaining and nicely embellished story books for the bairns will doubtless be largely sought after. For sale at Day's, price 15 cents each.

A STRIKE OF NO LESS THAN 40,000 cotton hands is expected in the Ashton-under-Lyne District, England, in consequence of a demand for an increase of fifteen per cent. in wages, which the employers refuse to grant. It is not improbable that, if the strike occurs, it will extend through the entire cotton manufacturing region. It is claimed that an advance of wages is a simple impossibility, as manufacturers' profits have been reduced so much by the high price of the raw material, and of coals, that some of the more sagacious men in the trade have advocated a temporary cessation of production, as a means of relief from the present unprofitable, and even losing, condition of the market.

The San Juan Boundary. LONDON, Oct. 25.—The award of the Emperor William in the San Juan case, is severely commented on by some of the London journals.

The Times this morning says:—"The decision is unsatisfactory, unclear, and indecisive, but we accept it with loyal submission."

The Times also says:—"We repudiate the utterly absurd and baseless charge that England intrigued at Berlin with a view of modifying the judgment of the Emperor."

The Post considers the award as damaging to the interests and diplomatic reputation of England, as it was the award of the Geneva tribunal. "It gives," says the Post, "the key to the British Columbian waters to the United States. This settlement of the question hardly tends to improve the relations now existing between England and America."

The Telegraph and News reserve their criticisms. The Standard is silent upon the subject.

While sulphuric acid, chloride of lime, and carbonate of lime cannot be used without inconvenience, on account of their unpleasant odor, in frequent rooms, chemical science has recently brought out a disinfectant apparently more effective than either, which can be safely and conveniently used anywhere, since it is free from odor, and when it is properly diluted does no harm to the color or texture of carpets or furniture. This is bromo-chloralum. Would it not be worth while, as a sanitary measure, occasionally to sprinkle the floors of our churches, school-rooms and other assembly rooms with it? If this were done at the close of a session, the air, instead of being kept in its foul condition until the next session, would be cleansed of its impurities.

Miss Emily Faithful delivered a lecture in New York on Thursday before a large audience, her subject being "Queen Victoria and the Royal Family."

St. Catharines appears to be unusually prolific of accidents of late. The town council have just been mulcted to the extent of between $400 and $500 on account of an accident occurring through the carelessness of a commercial traveller who had side-walked. A commercial traveller has also met with an accident in a similar manner, and another action against the council is talked of.

The Reform Demonstration at Mt. Forest.

MR. MACKENZIE'S SPEECH CONTINUED.

He had challenged, and he now challenged, the Government and their supporters to show a single instance in which an English Parliament was asked to abdicate its own constitutional powers to the Government of the day. Even in the rank times of tyrannical ascendancy in England there was no record of any English Parliament, from the days of Queen Elizabeth down, where any Government or any monarch had dared to change an existing Act to accomplish a political purpose. He believed that this strong, damning evidence of Tory recreancy to the principles of liberty, which Reformers had supposed were established in this country, and the exposure of such conduct, had done more to condemn the Government in the eyes of the people of Ontario than any other act they had perpetrated. He had not intended to dwell upon individual acts wrong, but upon those large principles which underlie the whole political system, and upon the maintenance of which depended that political freedom and prosperity which we now enjoyed. He went on to point out the perils to our parliamentary system from the residence in the two houses of shareholders in the Pacific Railway Companies—perils which Mr. Blake had endeavored to avoid, but was successfully opposed by Sir John A. Macdonald and his servile followers. The experience of the Grand Trunk in Sir Francis Hincks' time, when the Government was upon the mercy of railway contractors, who upon one occasion forced a grant of one million three hundred and sixty thousand dollars, was adverted to as an evidence of the danger to the public interest which the policy of the Government in the North-West, and showed how its whole tendency had been to discourage settlement and to make Manitoba a French preserve for Sir George Cartier. (Cheers.)

He stated that there were millions of acres of land in the North-West; but if they took a map they would have to go nearly to Greenland to get an area as large as Sir John had claimed. Professor Hind and Capt. Fallis, who have carefully surveyed the territory, united in stating that there were from 41,000,000 to 43,000,000 acres of good land, and therefore it was of the utmost importance to provide liberally for settlers and rescue the land from the control of speculators. He believed that it was more important that the country should be speedily settled than that we should endeavor to secure a pitiable pittance from the immigrant; and acting upon this belief the Ontario Government had swept away the settlers' arrears upon a large quantity of land sold them by the Crown. Mr. Mackenzie next condemned the Government for the extravagance and want of energy in opening communications over our own territory with Manitoba, for which purpose they had obtained a very liberal vote from the House. (Hear, hear.)

He pointed out the great importance of providing facilities for reaching the North-West, in order that our young men might go there and settle instead of going to the States, as in too many cases was done. (Hear, hear.) The violation of representation in the case of British Columbia and Manitoba was reviewed and condemned, as were also the persistent and impudent efforts of John A., his friends and organs, to write up in the smaller provinces an ill feeling against Ontario and Ontario Reformers. He exposed the absurdity of trying to depreciate the effects of Ministerial defeats in this province, in the hope of forming a combination of the other provinces against Ontario, as John A. proposed, and showed the importance of the late local election to Ontario public opinion; besides, the House could not disregard the weight of public opinion, aroused as it was now in Canada against corrupt government, and in support of this argument Mr. Mackenzie alluded to the effect of public opinion upon Conservative parliaments and administrations in the two notable cases of the Catholic emancipation and the repeal of the corn laws. He then adverted to questions more particularly affecting the Province of Ontario, and alluded to the slanderous attacks which had been made upon Messrs. McKellar and Wood by the Tory organs. Notwithstanding John A.'s desperate manipulations of constituencies he had been beaten in the elections, and the Tory factionousness and want of scruple had met with a similar fate in the local elections. South Bruce had returned Mr. Wells, and South Grenville had elected Mr. C. F. Fraser by a handsome majority. Mr. Fraser was a young man of great talent, and would yet make his mark in Parliament before the country. (Cheers.) Stating that he was no longer in office, Mr. Mackenzie alluded to the fair and impartial way in which the Government of Ontario had managed the public affairs, and trusted the Government would receive the political support which was necessary to the existence of any Government, and which every political man must prize highly. (Loud applause.) He thanked them in behalf of Mr. Blake for the invitation to the demonstration, and regretted that that gentleman was unable to accept it, as he had to hand over the Government to the Hon. Mr. Mowat. (Cheers.) With regard to Mr. Blake he would say that he had proved himself to be one of the very ablest men this country has ever produced; and he was certainly one of the most amiable and upright of men, with whom it is a pleasure to be associated in Government. (Cheers.) He (Mr. Mackenzie) had served with him a few months, and during a good many years of intimacy he had never found anything in Edward Blake but the characteristics of a gentleman and a true politician. (Loud Cheers.) During their term of association together as members of the Government, nothing had occurred from the first to the last that had been so pleasant to all. (Loud Cheers.) Mr. Mackenzie then alluded to the action early in the life of the present Parliament of deserting Reform principles by taking Mr. Scott into the Government, and said that the principles of the Reform party were more in harmony with Mr. Scott's convictions than those of his opponents; and it was certainly a matter for congratulation that so able a man as Mr. Scott had taken part in the government of Ontario as a member of Mr. Blake's Liberal Administration, and he hoped Mr. Scott would still contrive to be a member of the new Administration now forming. It was amusing to witness the ardour and keenness of Sir John and his worshippers and friends in claiming Mr. Scott as a certain follower, and then joining in the effort to ruin his political and moral character. They were trying to prove to their satisfaction that Mr. Scott was a very bad man, at the same time they were trying to prove that he was a member of the Conservative party. (Cheers.) He would not draw the obvious inference, but would merely say that they were perfectly welcome associated with the men; all he wanted was the good men; and he had no doubt there were a good many Conservatives who held views somewhat similar to those held by Mr. Scott. He wanted all the good men who held true political principles, and would be willing to join the Reformers in expelling from power a Government that the people believed had endeavored to establish an oligarchy having for its object merely the retention of power. (Loud cheers.)

Upon the conclusion of Mr. Mackenzie's speech the chairman adjourned the proceedings until the evening. Mr. Mackenzie having to leave for Toronto, was escorted to the railway station by a large number of the electors.

THE BANQUET. In the evening a banquet took place in Coyne's Hotel, and was very largely attended. After full justice had been done to the excellent bill of fare the festivities of the evening commenced. The chair was occupied by Mr. Kilgour, of Owen Sound. L. McMillan, Dr. H. E. Wood, Col. Higinbotham, Dr. Landerkin, M. P.; R. McKim, M. P. P.; on his left, D. Sturton, M. P.; George Snider, M. P.; Jas. Ross, M. P. The Vice-Chairman, Mr. Stovel, there were present at the tables a large number of the residents of Mount Forest and vicinity, as well as many from a considerable distance.

The Chair having called order, the Secretary of the Executive Association, Mr. McLaren, of the Reform, read letters and telegrams of apology from prominent Reformers who were unable to attend. The Chairman then proposed the usual loyal toasts, which were all heartily honoured. The Vice-Chairman, Dr. Kilgour, in a humorous speech, proposed the Parliament of Ontario. Hon. E. B. Wood was called on to reply, and was received with continuous cheers. He wanted the people to understand that with them rested political power, and that they were vigilant as to the price of liberty. He alluded in humorous terms to the efforts of the Tories to secure a new name, and supposed they would soon be stealing the name Grit, as it was the good fortune of Liberals to make respectable and popular the appellations which were first given as opprobrious epithets. He sketched the reforms secured by the Liberal party, and at some length described the great care taken by those who drafted the Confederation agreement to provide that representation should be based upon population, and that local appropriations should not be made in the Dominion Parliament for merely local purposes; but notwithstanding these strict provisions, which it was generally believed would be carried out in good faith, the most manifest violation of the principle had occurred. Sir John A. and his colleagues were engaged in an unholy conspiracy against Ontario, and were cunningly endeavouring to stir up strife among the Provinces in order to increase the political strength of their own Government, which was contemptible and unpatriotic practice Mr. Wood condemned with much vigor and amidst much applause. In regard to Manitoba what a shameful record was there of Ministerial blundering, and how slight had been the return for the expenditure of nearly four millions! During the last five years Ontario had contributed $50,000,000 to the Dominion Exchequer, and not more than a million had been expended within her borders in that time. It was true that they were manifesting some interest in the Welland Canal, and Mr. Langevin had gone there or was going, but that was because an election was coming off there. He showed how the other provinces had been favored in public expenditure that had been entirely devoted to local services, and pointed out that this was a continuance of the sectional policy which under the old Union Ontario had condemned. In the 26th years of the old Union, Ontario had been made to pay over forty millions of dollars for Quebec improvements. By carrying out this pernicious policy, John A. had secured British Columbia and Manitoba, and perhaps a majority in Nova Scotia. He vigorously condemned the Dominion Government for refusing to pass an improved election law, and thereby preventing the punishment of their friends for their outrageous political corruption. (Cheers.) Some Tories had spent considerable fortunes for nothing, and were almost ruined, and he had heard that, among others, Mr. Drew had laid out $10,000. He blamed Sir John severely for permitting Biel to go unwhipped of justice for the murder of Scott. (Cheers.) He pointed out the imminent peril of permitting a continuance of Sir John's corrupt and vicious system of Government, which, if not overthrown, would produce serious disasters. The Pacific Railway Act and combinations were next sharply criticised and condemned, and the effect of their reckless extravagance upon taxation was clearly indicated. He told his hearers to keep up their organizations and to fight manfully until they won complete victory.

Mr. McKim also responded to the toast, and was received with loud cheers. He said that after the very able speech from Mr. Wood, which he felt would have a deep and lasting impression on their minds, he felt it would be altogether superfluous for him to make a long speech or go over the same ground again. He came to their gathering to congratulate them on the splendid fight they had made and on the victories they had won in redeeming these five counties from the hands of their opponents. (Cheers.) They had done great things, but he hoped that they would follow Mr. Wood's advice and do yet greater things in the future. (Cheers.) As there were many other speakers yet to follow, he would not occupy more of their time, and took his seat amidst applause.

The Vice-Chairman, Mr. J. McMillan, proposed "Our Guests," which was received with all the honours.

Mr. Sturton, M. P., first responded, and was received with cheers. After expressing the great pleasure he felt by being present on this occasion he said that when John A. Macdonald manipulated these constitutions, he little dreamed that it would result in strengthening the Reform cause, but so it was. Little did Mr. Jackson think that when he fixed the boundaries of his little cabbage garden (laughter) that he would be thrown over the wall by his friend Dr. Landerkin. (Cheers.) He was glad that he had an opportunity to assist in the good work last summer, not only in his own county but also in Grey. In speaking of the acts of the Dominion Government from 1867, he said their whole object was to strengthen themselves, and referred to several important measures carried in proof of his statement. Retention of office at whatever cost was John A.'s policy, a policy which had been condemned by the country, and which would yet be the means of turning them out of power. He concluded by warmly congratulating this fair section on the glorious victory they had achieved last August. (Cheers.)

Mr. James Ross, M. P., was very happy to be in Mount Forest again, when it had such evident appearances of thriving, and he hoped it would continue to thrive until it became one of the most important places of Western Ontario. (Cheers.) Sir John had intended to legislate the Centre Riding into the Corruptionists' hands, but had been defeated by the energy and zeal of the Reformers of that constituency. He hoped that the Riding would always continue true to the Reform cause, and he hoped soon to see the overthrow of a Government which would let the country go to the dogs if only they could retain office. (Cheers.)

Col. Higinbotham, M. P., on rising, was received with loud cheers, which were repeated again and again. He said he was exceedingly obliged to them for the cordial manner in which they had received his name. He had been told that if he followed the steps of Mr. Sturton, the people of this Riding would trust him again. (Hear, and cheers.) That gentlemen had given fifteen years public service to the Reform cause, and not a man could point to a single wrong vote he had given. If he followed the same course he would follow the same cause to the end. (Hear.) But it was very doubtful if he would remain in public life as long as that. When he took the field it was considered that he was to lead a forlorn hope, but that hope was realized. (Hear and cheers.) As the ground had been gone over by Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Wood, with great eloquence, he would not at such a late hour detain them with lengthy remarks, but would cordially thank his supporters for their zealous labours in the recent contest. He spoke of the necessity for a new and stringent election law. He promised that he would discharge his duties as their representative fearlessly and honestly, and deal with all his constituents on an equal footing. His services were at their disposal, and he should always be glad to assist them in anyway he could. He felt that he was the public servant of all his constituents, and as such he would be ready to serve them at all times whether they had voted for him or not. (Cheers.)

Dr. Landerkin was next called upon, and was received with enthusiasm. He thanked the electors of South Grey and Mount Forest for the hearty support accorded to him. (Cheers.) The Tories in his riding in the late contest had acted upon the idea that the man with the most money would certainly be elected, but the result had shown that Reform principles were in the ascendant, and that the great majority were too independent and too intelligent to be misled by Tory bribes or specious appeals. He cordially asserted with confidence that the Reform party would certainly be elected, but the result had shown that Reform principles were in the ascendant, and that the great majority were too independent and too intelligent to be misled by Tory bribes or specious appeals. He cordially asserted with confidence that the Reform party would certainly be elected, but the result had shown that Reform principles were in the ascendant, and that the great majority were too independent and too intelligent to be misled by Tory bribes or specious appeals.

Mr. George Snyder, M. P., thanked the gathering for their kind reception of his name and that of his brother members, and amidst applause and laughter, alluded to the trials of political life. He was glad to be among them on this occasion of rejoicing, for he had had very hard work in his riding; but Reform principles had triumphed. He wanted to see the corrupt Government turned out of office, for they had been most extravagant, corrupt and unscrupulous, and had sought nothing higher than retention of power. (Cheers.)

The Vice-Chairman, Mr. McMullen, proposed "The learned professions," which was responded to by Dr. Yeomans.

The Press followed, responded to by Mr. Innes, of the Guelph Mercury, Mr. Craig, of the Ferns News-Record, Mr. Young, of the Harriston Tribune, Mr. McLaren, of the Mount Forest Examiner, and Mr. Stovel of the Mount Forest Confederation.

The Vice-Chairman, Mr. Stovel, proposed the agricultural, mechanical and commercial interests, responded to by Mr. Bellesley and Mr. McMullen.

The ladies were then toasted, and were represented by Mr. John Anderson, Registrar of North Wellington. "The Host and Hostess" followed. Mr. Sturton gave the Chairman in very complimentary terms, which was received with all the honours. Mr. Kilgour suitably responded. During the evening Mr. T. H. Taylor, of Guelph, who happened to be in the place, and attended the dinner, delighted the company by singing some of his choicest songs in his best style. The excellent singing of Messrs. Cranston, Balfour, Morrison and others was also greatly appreciated.

The company broke up at a late hour, all highly gratified with the success of demonstration.

STANFORD BREAK OF CANNED TOMATOES.—A few nights ago one of our nervous town grocers, who is very cautious against the attacks of burglars, was aroused from his rosy-garlanded dream by a tremendous explosion in the store below. Jumping out of bed, the clerk, who by means of his slender shape, is quite active, heard another gun go off, and thought midnight assassins were doing their bloody work of death. A few shouts of murder! thieves! brought assistance, and it was found that a dozen cans of tomatoes, stored in the adjoining room, were exploding because of immaturity. The cause was literally torn to pieces, and the grocer was as loud as the report of a shot gun.

The London journals are all satisfied with the decision of the Emperor of Germany respecting the San Juan boundary.

CHAPTER XXII.

The road between the cottage and the lodge seemed twice as long to Matthew that morning. He thought he should never reach the turning whence a sight of the gates could be obtained. At last they came within his view, and in two minutes more he had lifted the latch of Mrs. Rendal's door, and without ceremony entered her kitchen, where he found her busy with her usual household work.

"Is he here, Mrs. Rendal," he eagerly inquired.

"Is who here?" she returned in amazement.

"Maister George."

"No, Matthew—Maister George hasna been here the day."

"Alack, alack! then something has happened him," groaned Matthew, with a look of anguish.

"Happened him?" echoed Mrs. Rendal, much startled. "What gars ye think sae?"

"Because he never cam' hame last night."

"Guid Lord! Never cam' hame?"

"No, never; and neither Allie nor me kened till half an hour syne, when I gaed into his room to waken him."

"That beats a'," said Mrs. Rendal, in utter wonder.

"Ye ken," whispered Matthew, "he was tae meet Miss Lillias last night at the aubour in the park."

"Yes," returned Mrs. Rendal, "and he did meet her."

"Hoo ken ye that? Hae ye seen Miss Lillias this mornin'?"

"No; but I hae seen aye that wis present wi' them."

"Holy poor's—the Captain?"

"No, no; but aye who's their friend—Maister Harry," ejaculated Matthew.

"Is he here?"

"Deed is he; and noo there's nae harm in tellin' ye, Matthew, that Maister Harry and Maister George hae lang been great friends, and Maister Harry is married tae Caroline Bruce."

"No!" gasped Matthew.

"It's truth I'm tellin' ye."

"The Captain will gang mad when he kens."

"I dinna doot it; and Maister Harry is up by the house at this present time tellin' him. He stayed here a' night, and gaed awa' up after he got his breakfast. But I canna understand this about Maister George, for when they pairedt wi' him he gaed awa' tae gang straight tae your house. The summer Maister Harry kens of this the better."

"I'll gang tae the hoose this mornin'," cried Matthew promptly. "I hinna been there for nigh hand twenty year, but this is a business that winna bide dallyin'."

Saying which, Matthew quitted the lodge, and turning to the right began to traverse the long avenue as fast as his legs and breath would allow.

The Quebec Chronicle announces the intentional retirement of Sir Francis Hincks from public life. It is the only thing he could do to save himself from utter degradation after having been driven from Renfrew, and subsequently meeting with such an overwhelming defeat in South Brant.

A Clergyman writing to a friend, says, "My voyage to Europe is indefinitely postponed. I have discovered the 'fountain of health' on this side of the Atlantic. Three bottles of Peruvian Syrup have rescued me from the fangs of the fiend Dyspepsia." Dyspeptics should drink from this fountain.

Anemia, or depravity of blood, is a disease known by the extreme paleness or waxy appearance of the skin, lips and nails. Persons so afflicted always have dyspepsia, and are liable to hysteria, consumption, disease of the heart, convulsions, etc., consequent upon the withdrawal of material in the blood for nutrition of nerve. As Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites will supply the healthy constituents to the blood and endow it with vitality, patients need not suffer from these diseases.

Breakfast—Epps' Cocoa—Grateful and Comforting.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills.—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Each packet is labelled "James Epps & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London." Also, makers of Epps' Milky Cocoa (Cocoa and Condensed Milk).

An Open Prison.
On Saturday, the 20th, a white flag was fluttering in the breeze from the shaft of the south wing of Oxford jail. The gates were thrown open at two o'clock that afternoon, and remained so until six p. m. During that time and the two following days hundreds of respectable persons visited the interior of the building. All spoke in the highest terms of the cleanliness and general arrangements under the judicious direction of the governor, Mr. W. H. Smith, and the matron, his wife. The prison was erected in 1789, after a model of the great philanthropist, John Howard, and in substitution of the old one, called "Bocardo," which was taken down in 1771. There the debtors used to lower a hat by a cord from the window to receive the alms of the passers by, uttering the cry of "Pray remember the Bocardo birds." Here Archbishop Cranmer and Bishops Ridley and Latimer were confined previous to their martyrdom. From the roof of the prison Cranmer witnessed the death of the martyred bishops, on October 15, 1554, suffering himself in the ensuing March. Near this spot the barbarous re-execution of Elizabeth, the servant of Miss Clive, took place at midnight, in 1658. The prisoner was first hung at Green Ditch, for the murder of her illegitimate child, and her body was afterwards to be dissected. Symptoms of life, however, being discovered, she was taken to the Bell, Magdalen parish, and resuscitated, but the authorities, hearing of the occurrence, forcibly took possession of the body, and re-hung her in Broken Hayes. Since May the daily number of prisoners has averaged a trifle over four, and during the past years it has been 20. The remarkable fact of the prison being quite empty is not in the recollection of any person living, and the archives have been carefully traced up to 1826 without discovering any notice of a similar occurrence.

Australian Woods.
Many of the Australian woods exhibit a peculiar beauty of structure, which adapts them for small furniture and turnery uses. Some are highly fragrant, and return their agreeable odour for a considerable period of time; this renders them additionally pleasant and acceptable in the form of ornamental articles for the boudoir and drawing room. The scented myrtle (Acacia homalophylla) is a very hard and heavy wood, having an intense and delightful smell of violets. It has a dark and beautiful "hardening" which makes it applicable to many purposes of the cabinet maker and the wood turner, and for an infinite variety of minor uses. It rarely exceeds a foot in diameter, but has been used as veneers. This tree is a common one in many parts of Australia; since the London Exhibition of 1862, when easels and other articles were shown from Queensland and the remarkable quality it possessed became generally known to European manufacturers, the wood has been in request for making glove, handkerchief and other fancy boxes, as this peculiar fragrance of violets does not occur with such perfection in any other known substance.—Art Journal.

THE REASON WHY
Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calissaya is called a Chemical Food and Nutritive Tonic, because Phosphates constitute more than half the material of the human body, and are absolutely essential to the growth of Bone, Muscle and Nerve, which cannot attain full development without them. They promote a good appetite, perfect digestion, create pure, healthy, vitalizing blood, and supply the waste constantly going on in the system as the result of mental and physical exertion. Being combined with Calissaya, the Peruvian Bark, the only specific for Chills and Fever, a chafed condition of Nervous Prostration and General Debility arising from low vitality and exhaustive diseases, it forms an elegant and agreeable, invigorating Tonic, purely physiological in its action, that may be taken safely under all circumstances, and in diseased conditions of the body, as it builds up the constitution in the same manner as our daily food.
Sold by all Druggists at $1.
