WEST TORONTO JUNCTION

THE NEW SUBURB THAT IS BRING OFFERS OUT.

Cheap Houses for the Many—Easily Reached by Rail or Street—An Opportunity to Invest.

One of the advices given by Horace Greeley was, "young men, go west," and many have left for the land of the setting sun; but whilst this rule is a very good one for young men to follow, the same cannot always be said in favor of those who have settled down into a standing business, or are married and have families. To persons of this class the quiet country residence but a short distance from the city, capable of being reached easily by rail or omnibus or street car, is the most desirable. In the quietude of the country home, the blessings of pure air, the large rambling lawns allowed the younger children, the invigorating influences of departing to work, with cheery return at night, mark the happy home.

When added to this, one finds himself the sole possessor of his house and lot, what need he fear the landlord and his monthly collections.

PARKDALE.
At the time of the sale of the lands in Parkdale many people decried the attempt to sell it on the ground that the property would be occupied. But see the result. Not a single lot is now selling for less than $500 to $1000 per acre, profit on the price they were purchased for at that time, and the history of Toronto does not point to a single fatal real estate enterprise. And why is this so? Because Toronto is being increased so largely in population, new districts must be certainly added to accommodate the excess. West Toronto Junction, first laid out by Clemons & Lewis, 10 Equity chambers, is the latest addition with this end in view.

CHEAP HOMES
For workmen is constantly the cry, and cheap transportation to cheap homes is the other want; and no better site in the vicinity of Toronto could be selected than the West Toronto Junction to fill the bill. It is situated but three-quarters of an hour's walk from the corner of Queen and Yonge streets; it is most easy of access by horse cars which run quite near, or by the Credit Valley railway, which stops at the junction. This is in this so-called "back lot" of the city, extending from Bloor street, opposite High park, to Dundas street, where the Ontario and Quebec and Credit Valley railways (Canadian Pacific and Vanderbilt systems) have purchased forty acres for depot, shops, etc., and upon which the officers of the road station 200 or more men are to be employed during the present year. Not only is the estate blessed with the passenger service of these roads, but also is near the stations of the Grand Trunk, Midland, and Bruce, Northern, and Great Western railways, and the proposed Midland and Northern extensions. In order that convenience may be from the outset a part of the advantages offered by the estate, arrangements are about completed to put on a line of omnibuses on Dundas street at one end, and a sidewalk to the property, as well as for the continuation of the contract as desired.

THE NEW BOULEVARD.
That this part of the city will be a most popular one can be well seen when it is noted that an avenue of 100 feet wide extends from Dundas street north to Bloor street south, through the centre of these lands and forming a section of the long road which is now being called "the boulevard" and boulevard around Toronto.

When the drive is completed it will open up a vast lot of real estate and soon repay the purchase of a building in the improved value of the land and subsequent increased taxation of land benefited by the improvement.

WATER AND DRAINAGE.
As the situation is high and dry and commands a view of Lake Ontario the natural advantages of obtaining fine drainage is easily solved, for no city in this or any other country could be generally situated better for drainage than Toronto, a point of which also is its healthy location. The water question is one of more importance, but is as easily disposed of as the preceding one, for the very best of pure water is obtained by sinking from 15 to 20 feet. It should also be borne in mind that the estate is within 20 minutes walk of the Toronto B. & N. Iron company's works and the proposed wall paper factory, whilst other large works are proposed within easy distance, but not near enough to cause nuisance of any description.

EASY TERMS
For those who desire homes in the country, as one of the most pertinent questions, as to the purchase of a building in the city, is the advantage on the side of the purchaser, who sees his property growing in value with easy taxes and the reduction of mortgage owing gradually. To the industrious it can only be said that at no time, as in the purchase of a lot or two on this estate, for all sides and by all real estate men it will be quickly admitted that the tendency of the Toronto people to live toward the western portion of the city and in a well known fact building operations have been more extensively carried on in the western part than any other portion of Toronto.

The Suspended Mortality Controversy.
From the New York Insurance Times.
As mentioned in our last issue, Insurance Society, a paper published in Montreal, Canada, in its February number took up the consideration of the question of suspended mortality recently discussed by us, and in no doing is virtually forced to concede that the position we maintain, and temporary gains from this source are not distributable, is theoretically correct.

By taking a partial view of the British and American mortality tables, Society has fallen into the error of supposing that the standards established by the Canadian government (the H. M. table and interest at 4 1/2 per cent.) is a more severe one than that of this state (the American experience table and 4 per cent. interest), while the fact is that the latter is the severer test and calls for the higher reserves.

This is the writer of the Society's editorial who has seen at once had the contents of his inspection of the two standards instead of extracting a small part of them and stopping at the point making against his position. This we now do for him:

RESERVE ON $1000	AT END OF 5 YEARS	10 YEARS	15 YEARS
AMERICAN	$1,129.25	$1,250.70	$1,376.21
BRITISH	$1,239.00	$1,375.70	$1,511.42

RESERVE ON $1000	AT END OF 20 YEARS	25 YEARS	30 YEARS
AMERICAN	$1,579.20	$1,747.71	$1,921.41
BRITISH	$1,714.00	$1,900.71	$2,085.42

It is quite true that the mortality in the American table has been very "favorable," but had he read the report of the able actuary of that company, Mr. A. Black, he would have found our position fully sustained. On page 27 of that report, Mr. Black states the average duration of the male life of his company, for the period 1840 to 1875, was only 5.04 years.

He also said, on page 40: "It has been clearly demonstrated by the experience of his assurance office that the rate of mortality among assured lives is largely influenced by the duration of the assurance. All other things being equal, the death rate among a number of lives which have been insured for five years and upward is largely in excess of that among lives which have been insured for less than five years. This excess is due to the fact that the special protection afforded to the office by the medical examination at the commencement of the assurance gradually diminishes, and after the lapse of five or six years practically disappears entirely."

On page 54 he says: "Under imprudent management, this favorable mortality might have been productive of grave danger to the stability of the institution. Had it been ascertained that the rate of mortality experienced during the past year was to be repeated in the future; had the large sums saved by reason of the very small death rate which has been found to prevail been considered profit, and divided among the policy holders of this office would have been materially weakened."

In all of the companies named by Insurance Society, had the facts been examined, it would have been found that the average duration of the membership was short; and that they had had a very large percentage of new lives during a recent period. Obviously it would, therefore, have been very unsafe and imprudent to infer that the mortality of any one assurance company is to be relied on as a safe criterion for that of the future. Hence the serious danger to future stability in the opinion expressed by Insurance Society, is apparently not based upon by at least one Canadian company, in saying: "It is extremely doubtful if the experience of any well managed company in this country or America (Northern) lives will ever be as heavy as that predicted by the table."

The remarks of Professor Bartlett, Actuary of the Mutual Life, made on page 8 of his last report, should be conclusive against the view of Insurance Society. They are as follows: "The large proportion of the company's risks have been of recent origin. When the duration of the risks shall equal that of the English companies the rate of mortality may be quite as great."

As already stated by us in the highest scientific authority in the world, endorses our view of the subject. All our leading offices observe it, and also the chief offices in Britain, among which we have named the Scottish Widows' Assurance Office, there; the Scottish provident institution, which made as a special provision for this purpose for its last biennium only, not less than $200,000. The London & Lancashire, the London Assurance Corporation, of which Mr. A. H. Binley, president of the Institute of Actuaries, is actuary, has a capital of $5,000,000 sterling; the London and Provincial law, of which Mr. R. T. Hartley, author of "Practical Valuation Tables," is actuary, etc., etc.

As the question under discussion is a most important one, touching the vitality of the life insurance companies of Canada, we have taken special pains to throw all the light upon the subject that we could gather from the most intelligent minds. Brevity will be followed by the most leading actuaries on the question of division of surplus arising from suspended mortality.

To the Editor of the Insurance Times:
You ask my opinion of the expediency of counting as divisible surplus the difference between the actual and the reserve of a given fiscal year and the normal cost of carrying all the risks of that period. If said difference were actually ascertained, as it seldom is, I should say it is better to deduct from the surplus a dollar if it is a divisible surplus, unless the company has not only acquired a large number of policies, but has held a large majority of them many years as to be well seasoned. This, I think, is what the doctrine of probabilities teaches, and the Scotch writers emphasize. It is the vital feature of the insurance companies which have divided so much and so long.
