At a council meeting last Monday one of the items of business under discussion, was in the introducing of Hydro into Warwick and vicinity. What the decision is is not yet known as it will take time to examine into detail. Warwick is likely to have the paved road through here next year, and with the additional traffic on a pavement, the hydro would be worth while, apart from the use it would be to the people using it along the way.

George G. Mathews, Mrs. Mathews and little son, Kenneth, Ford City, and Miss Mary Smith, Highgate, motored to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Luckham last Friday returning Saturday. Two cars, driven by W. C. Watson of London and William Carson of San Benito, Texas, a Forest visitor, collided on Saturday noon at the corner of the Warwick-Plympton town line and the Egremont road, 6 miles south of Forest. Mr. Carson, driving a large touring car, was proceeding south on the town line. Mr. Watson, going west on the Egremont road, was accompanied by his parents en route to Lake Huron beach. A thick orchard obscures the view at this corner, and the cars collided. The Carson car turned over twice, and was almost a total wreck. Mr. Carson escaped with cuts and bruises. The Watson car, also a touring, was thrown into the ditch, but did not turn over. The elder Mr. Watson had an ear almost completely torn off, while Mrs. Watson and her son escaped with bruises and a severe shaking up. A doctor, touring through from Michigan, gave first aid to the injured people, who were taken back to the city.

The identity of the man who took his life last week by plunging into a red hot boiler furnace in the yard of the Imperial Oil Co. Sarnia, has been established. He was Adelard Lebert, of Marysville, and formerly of Leamington, where his father resides.

the machine struck the child and went into the ditch. The child was the only one thrown from the side car.

The Porcelain Tower.

The Porcelain Tower of China was situated in Nankin. It was begun in 1411 and occupied nineteen years in building, being completed in 1430. It was of octagonal form, 300 feet high, in nine stories, each having a cornice and a gallery without. The outer face of this unique structure was covered with slabs of porcelain of various colors, principally green, red, yellow and white. At every one of its nine stories the projecting roof of the gallery was covered with green tiles, and a bell was suspended from each corner. There were 165 bells in all, which gave sweet sounds when there was a brisk wind. One hundred and twenty-eight lamps were hung on the outside. On the top was a pinnacle in the shape of a pineapple, surmounted by a gilded ball. A spiral staircase led to the summit. It was constructed for a gift to the Emperor, and was kept in repair by the Government. In 1801 it was struck by lightning and its three upper stories were broken or thrown down, but the injury was repaired. It was destroyed in 1856 by the Taiping rebels, who blew it up and carried away the materials of which it was composed, fearing that the magic influence of its bells and lamps would work against the success of their cause.

Whence Comes Term "Bit"?

The visitor at the West coast of Canada is likely to be puzzled by a merchant asking two, four or six "bits" for an article. Its history is connected in the old "Chinook" or trading language, but the origin of the term "bit" goes back even farther than that. A "penny bit" was really the 12 1/2 cents unit derived from the old Spanish real or one-eighth of a dollar, long used for computation and pricing in New Orleans, California, and most seacoast towns. The United States never had a 12 1/2 cent coin of its own but to this day a quarter or 25-cent piece is commonly spoken of as "two bits." The name "penny bit" or five penny bit, obviously was derived from a reference to the British and American colonial penny which was worth a fraction more than two cents of Canadian money.

Harvesting is well advanced the agricultural representative for Lambton said in his last report. The reported yields of fall wheat are much above anticipated yields. The sample of wheat is above normal. Oats are practically all cut and are a fine crop. Corn and sugar beets promise well. The corn borer will not be hard to locate in a week or ten days. At the present time the grub is only very small, about one-quarter of an inch in length. One has to look closely to locate it. The infestation will be greater this year than last.

E. MCGILLICUDDY DIES IN 94th YEAR

Twice Warden of Lambton County; Settled in Warwick Tp. 76 Years Ago.

One of the oldest and most widely known and highly-respected citizens of Lambton county passed away Monday morning at his home on Erie street east, in the person of Eusebius McGillicuddy.

The late Mr. McGillicuddy, who was in his 94th year, was born in Tralee, county Kerry, Ireland, and came to Canada with his parents when he was but eight years of age, settling in Halton county. Seventy-six years ago he moved into Warwick township, taking up a homestead right in the heart of the forest, on what is now the Sarnia Gravel road, and transforming it into a prosperous farm. He moved into the village some 13 years ago, and has resided here ever since.

Mr. McGillicuddy was very active in public life, both in the township and in the county in his younger days. He served as reeve of the township of Warwick for 20 years, and was twice honored with election as warden of Lambton county for the years 1881 and 1882. After his retirement from active municipal politics, he served as treasurer of Warwick township for a number of years. He was a very prominent member of the Conservative party, and served as president of the East Lambton Liberal-Conservative association. He also upheld the Conservative standard in a three-cornered provincial election in East Lambton back in the '80s. Messrs. Sam Barnes, Hugh A. McKenzie and Mr. McGillicuddy were the candidates and Hugh McKenzie, Liberal, captured the field.

He married Ann Jane Fullerton, of Warwick township, widow of the late Hartford Lennox, who predeceased him a number of years ago. Three sons survive: Dr. John McGillicuddy of Watford; Dr. James McGillicuddy, Lansing, Mich.; and Robt. McGillicuddy, Lansing, Mich.; and four daughters: Mrs. William James, Mrs. E. White, and Mrs. W. A. Smith, Warwick Tp., and Miss Margaret at home. Three sons, Jordan, William and James (in childhood) predeceased him, as did also two step-daughters, Mrs. James Griffith, of Brooke, and Mrs. Henry Holbrook, of Grand Forks, Dakota.

The high respect in which he was held was demonstrated by the exceptionally large attendance at the funeral on Wednesday afternoon, Trinity Anglican church being crowded to the doors for the service. Rev. J. H. Hosford, M.A., B.D., rector of the church, officiated both at the church and the graveside. He also conducted the private service at the late residence on Erie street.

The interment took place in Wisbeach cemetery, not far from the place where Mr. McGillicuddy hewed his farm homestead out of the heart of the forest. Some 40 to 50 automobiles took part in the funeral procession and six grandsons acted as pallbearers: Dr. Oliver McGillicuddy,

Medical examination revealed the lung ruptured and injuries to the top of the spine, which places him in a serious condition.

MRS. WILLIAM WAUN

There passed peacefully away in Warwick on Saturday, Aug. 8th, one of the township's most highly respected citizens in the person of Mrs. William Waun, in her sixty-fourth year, after a lingering illness, which she bore with true Christian patience. She was a good neighbor, a devoted wife, a kind and loving mother and a friend to all who knew her.

Mrs. Waun's maiden name was Ann Elizabeth Tanton. She was married June 21st, 1882 to Wm. Waun. The first few years of their married life they resided in the township of West Williams but for the last thirty years they have been residents of Warwick.

Besides her sorrowing husband she leaves to mourn her loss three brothers, namely, Wm. Tanton, Warwick; John and Daniel Tanton of Minden City, Mich.; also three sisters, Mrs. L. Waun of Snover, Mich.; Mrs. Geo. Waun, Detroit, Mich.; and Mrs. John Waun, Almont, Mich. Their family consisted of six children of which four survive namely: Mrs. Richard Williams, Mrs. John E. Aitken, Jas. H., and Wm. R., all of Warwick.

The funeral was held from the home of her daughter Mrs. J. E. Aitken on Tuesday, Aug. 11th to Watford cemetery and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Robinson of Wyoming and Rev. E. C. Jennings of Warwick. The pallbearers were six nephews, namely: David, George, John, Fred Tanton, Joseph Blanchard and Edward Patterson.

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord for they rest from their labours and their works do follow them."

Note and Comment

An American custom, and one that we can get along quite nicely without is being introduced along our waterfront. It is no uncommon sight to see carpenters, masons or painters at work on cottages on Sunday afternoons. While we welcome American citizens to our community, we would be just as pleased if they would recognize the Sabbath as Canadian citizens are wont to do.—Wheatley Journal.

"During the fifteen weeks they have been on strike the Nova Scotia coal miners have sacrificed in wages the immense sum of four and a half million dollars. In addition they have let the most important part of the season go by without production and even if they take up their tools again soon, they cannot be sure of steady work as many of the big contracts for the year are closed. The strike has been a losing game for the men even if they win, which does not seem likely."—Barrie Examiner.

Will our correspondents please let us have news every week. We know your time is valuable but so is your news. Nothing is looked for more eagerly than the correspondent's budget. If in need of supplies just drop us a line. Anyone not a regular correspondent is invited to let us have items. Just leave the envelope unsealed, put a 1c stamp on the corner, address the envelope to the Guide-Advocate, Watford, mark "Printer's Copy," in the corner and the mail man will do the rest.

Newspaper offices differ from most other businesses because subscriptions expire mainly with calendar years, and so less money comes in during summer while the expenses are as great as in winter months for wages, paper, inks, electric power, postage, etc. So this request made by another publisher applies to every newspaper office in Canada: "If you receive an account from this office—don't get vexed. If it's correct pay it—and you will feel better—and so will we. If it is not correct, show us wherein we are wrong. We need a lot of dollars right now."

Canadians are beginning to be annoyed by the flag flapping of many United States tourists who are invading the Dominion at this season. Many of the cars that have passed through Warwick during recent weeks have had one, two or three Stars and Stripes flying from radiator or windshield, and although, in some instances a Union Jack was carried the Republic's ensign was always more prominent than the Canadian emblem. In many cases, in fact in the majority, no Canadian flag was flown at all, and on the highways many of these visitors drove their cars at reckless speeds to the annoyance of all concerned. Canadians, as a rule are not prone to flout their colors, but our cousins from the South seem to make up for this deficiency in their eagerness to show off the star-spangled banner in the land of the Maple Leaf. How much more pleasant it would seem if our visiting tourists from over the line would just think of their hosts a little before running up their colors? International courtesy demands it.

FARMING ON SUNDAY

To see a man raking in a field is a common sight these days, but to see a man do so on Sunday is such an uncommon event that a correspondent who witnessed it not many miles from here, was so impressed, or so shocked, that he commented upon it.

Is it very wicked to rake hay on Sunday? Is it permissible to play golf on Sunday and morally wrong to seize a favorable opportunity to gather in a harvest? Golf is tolerated on the ground that it is a quiet game and disturbs nobody. Gathering hay is quiet work and disturbs nobody. Yet the farmer who takes advantage of a fine day to gather in his crop is looked upon as a Godless creature. The weather may have been bad, rain may be a certainty on Monday; far better that the owner should jump into his car and drive to the golf course than that he should desecrate the Sabbath day by rescuing his crop from the next day's rain!

Concerning the sanctity of the Sabbath, ministers never fail to uphold our forefathers as paragons of virtue and models of conduct for to-day. Especially is the old Presbyterian standard referred to, and the departures from the old Scottish Sabbath are deplored. The Scottish Sabbath used to be a terrible experience. The window blinds in the house were drawn to give an atmosphere of solemnity to the day; only "good books" might be read quietly; only hymn tunes were allowed on the harmonium or piano, and the boy who so far forgot himself as to whistle was brought to his senses with a box on the ear. Pious people indeed, but—

In many parts of Scotland, if a fine Sunday intervened in rainy weather, church services in the morning were shortened so that the countryside might be off to gather in the harvest. The farmers prayed for fine weather, and they took full advantage of it when it came. They believed that they served the Lord better by garnering the harvest. He sent them by sitting still and worrying about the rain that would damage it on the morrow. But in these lax days which we hear so much about, there is also a narrow-mindedness which makes a man who would rescue the people's food, or who would turn the hose on God's willing flowers, wilting after a scorching Sunday sun, the subject of neighborhood gossip. He is condemned for watering his front garden, but not even his minister will be bold enough to say "Thou must not play golf." In some ways the old-timers mixed more common-sense with their religion than is done today.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN NEXT SUMMER

There are predictions that there will be no summer next season. What that means exactly is not just known. Scientists suggest that it would be a period so cool that we might not associate it with what we have come to regard as normal summer weather. It does not mean that we would be without crops or ordinary vegetation. There might be irregularities in these but it is surprising how vegetation will get along without intense heat so long as the weather is clear and the temperature is such as to permit of growth at all. In some of the very northerly parts of this continent vegetable growth is very rank and rapid which suggests that heat is not the only vital factor. We have had what is regarded as a cool summer, yet there is no outstanding shortcoming in the crops upon which human beings depend.

What scientists seem to think is that the sun is slowly dying. This to them, is indicated by what are called spots. They calculate, however, that it will take a few billion years before the end is reached, which information ought to be fairly reassuring to any generations in which we have an interest. The scientists say that the sun is at present what is called a red star, which is the scientific way of saying that it has proceeded a certain distance toward death. The time period, however, is so remote that it can have no relation to anything transpiring on the earth at present. The enveloping disaster of the earth being left without a source of heat, may comprise the end of a type of life of which we can have no knowledge. We are told that some form of life has existed on this planet or at least a billion years, so that if sun spots really made much difference, they have had plenty of opportunity to get in their work in the past. The life-sustaining heat of the sun however, seems to have been reasonably continuous. Next summer is likely to be pretty largely similar to those that have gone before. It doesn't even require the faith that moves mountains to believe that.

WEDDING CELEBRATION

Among the most pleasing and encouraging items of community news is the celebration of the wedding and, more particularly, the golden wedding. Celebrations of the anniversaries are not infrequent in this district and rightly meet with fitting acknowledgment. The happiness of marriage today, with its elements and the increases in the ideal of matrimony where a woman pledges their solemn troth to the other and make a solemn pledge of union for better or for worse until death parts them. Happily for us, and happily for the world at large, in what the silver wedding and the golden wedding signify, we have placed before us the full meaning of marriage in those who entered into a solemn contract keeping true to each other through the years. Such, as examples, are inspiring when marriage appears to have lost its true meaning in the way it has come to be regarded by some. No wonder, with such instances, the stage has been wont to exclaim, "It happens with cages; the birds without despair to get in, and those within despair of getting out." This is by means the true conception of the marriage state. But, unfortunately, in the disregard for the marriage ties on the part of some, there is the danger of this ill-founded sentiment gaining ground.

Silver weddings and golden weddings are the landmarks on the happy road of marriage. They speak of vows faithfully kept. They speak of happy relations through years of married life marked by the occurrence of these anniversaries. They tell of "wedded love which is founded in reason, loyal, just and pure." They give the right conception of what the wedded life should be. It is not a vain saying that the world today has need of such examples for the sake of the family and for the sake of the race. They are those who, no doubt, inspired the poet when he wrote: "There's a bliss beyond all the minstrel has told. When two that are linked in one heavenly tie, With heart never changing, and brow never cold, Love on through all ills, and love on till they die."

It is well that we make much of the silver wedding. It is well that we make special mention of the golden wedding. They who arrive at these stages of married life may well be entitled to be called exemplars of what marriage should be, shining in brilliant contrast to incidents in the married life of the misguided. They shed the proper halo on the married state.

 2—Scene from "A Woman's Faith."
 3—Another scene from "A Woman's Faith" showing Alma Rubens and Percy Marchmont in the Basilica.
 4—The plot thickens.

Canada continues to grow in popularity with the motion picture producers in the United States. Every year, they come over, in steadily increasing numbers, bringing their stars, cameras, megaphones and what-nots with them and proceed to help themselves to large portions of our scenery and sizeable lumps of our history as well. Then, with the Rocky Mountains in one hand and a couple of provinces in the other, they return to the States and obligingly show their fellow countrymen and the strangers within their gates the sort of stuff Canada is made of. And, when all is said and done this does not do Canada any harm. On the contrary...

The latest film to be released which has an all Canadian setting and an all Canadian story is "A Woman's Faith" produced by the Universal Film Corporation and the scene is laid in provincial Quebec with a splendid climax at Ste. Anne de Beaulieu. It is at first a distressing story. There is a young man, a cynical young man, named Steele. And there is a young woman, an amorous young woman who is not all she ought to be. And there is another young woman, named Nérée Caron who is all that young women ought to be and, in the second part, she and Steele—but we must not give the story away.

The film is rich in local color. There are scenes of French-Canadian peasant life in a quaint picturesque Quebec village which cannot fail to favorably impress those who have never visited the province and the interior views of the old basilica of Ste. Anne de Beaulieu are works of art in themselves.

Another item which enhances the value of the film at this particular time is that it shows the last, if not the only, moving-picture of the late Cardinal Begin whose death so recently shocked the Catholics of this continent. The late Cardinal is shown in full robes and surrounded by ecclesiastical dignitaries of all ranks, attending an important ceremony at the Basilica.

Incidentally, Alma Rubens whose refined emotional acting stands in a class by itself, has probably starred in more made-in-Canada pictures than any other luminary in the motion-picture firmament. She did particularly good work in the picturization of James Oliver Curwood's "The Valley of Silent Men" which was filmed near Banff, in the Canadian Pacific Rockies a year or so ago.

Among the other stars who scintillated in a Canadian setting are Thomas Meighan, notably in the northern drama "The Alaskan" Milton Sills, in "The Knock Out" filmed in Northern Quebec in which he added to his laurels as an actor and collected a blackeye from an over-conscious villain; and "Hoot" Gibson who starred in a picture centering around the Calgary Stampede while Field Marshal Earl Haig was present at that famous Western celebration.

Blemishes of the Skin

Are Proof the Blood is in a Weak and Watery Condition

One of the surest signs that the blood is out of order are the pimples and unsightly eruptions that break out on the face or body. The same condition is indicated by an attack of eczema or scrofula. You cannot get rid of these troubles by the use of purgative medicines, as so many people try to do. Purgatives merely gallop through the system and leave it still weaker. What is needed when the blood is shown to be out of order is a tonic which will restore its missing elements and leave the blood rich and red. For this purpose there is no other tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, every dose of which helps enrich the blood, drives out impurities, and brings a new feeling of health and energy. Mrs. R. E. Bishop, Hawthorne Ave, Hamilton, Ont., tells for the benefit of others what these pills did for her. She says:—"I was suffering terribly from scrofula. I doctored with several doctors, but without success. My complexion was sallow, I had no strength, feeling very weak and languid. My neck was full of lumps called scrofula, and at times they were very painful. After trying several so-called blood medicines, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me and I got half a dozen boxes. After taking them I found a decided improvement in my appearance, and to my joy the lumps were disappearing from my neck. I persevered in the treatment, and finally the only sign left of the trouble was a scar on my neck where one of the swellings broke. Since that time I have been in robust health and heartily recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any suffering from impure blood."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cheapest of all Oils.—Considering the qualities of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil it is the cheapest of all preparations offered to the public. SAVE THE CHILDREN

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child they will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the newborn babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Bainard Reunion

A splendid outing was enjoyed by about 80 members and friends of the Bainard family at a reunion held on Wednesday, Aug. 5th, at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eastbrooke of Kerwood. Dickison, Niagara Falls; the largest family, Mr. and Mrs. H. Eastbrooke, Kerwood; the funniest story, Mrs. E. Dickison, Niagara Falls. After a sing song of many old familiar hymns led by Rev. R. A. Brooks, the sports committee took charge and both old and young took part in the races. Two games of soft ball were played, the young ladies against the married ladies, and the young men against the married men.

Supper was served at six o'clock and the gathering broke up feeling it was a day well spent and hoping to meet another year.

In the afternoon a large number indulged in bathing and other beach sports. Mr. H. C. Foster of Kerwood took several photos during the day. At the request of the committee of a Scotch picnic held at the grove the same day, four members of the Freer family volunteered entertainment by giving a Scotch reel to the stirring tune of the bagpipes. LLOYD GEORGE ASKS AID FOR LAMBTON FAMILY
Needy Veteran "Few Miles West of London" Is Finally Located at Petrolia

Wife Had Written Direct to Lloyd George With Her Appeal For Aid

Reading like the old stories of citizens who went to the king or some favorite champion of rights of others comes a story from the neighborhood of Petrolia. It tells a tale that went half way round the world to bring about results.

In the English mail from Salvation Army headquarters received in London on Saturday, addressed to Brig. McAmmond, was a letter stating that Lloyd George had asked that the Salvation Army officers there call upon a woman who had been deserted by her husband and was in destitute circumstances. She lived "a few miles west of London." Her husband was a war veteran.

Brigadier McAmmond at once sought the woman. He found her near Petrolia. She had written to Lloyd George because she believed that he was interested in the rights of returned soldiers' wives. Lloyd George had promptly turned the letter over to the Salvation Army.

A change had come over the household while the woman's letter was on its travels. The husband, who had been away looking for work had returned to his family. He is now employed.

Brig. McAmmond said that while the family were not doing well at present, they were not suffering.

YOUNG COPULE LOST IN WOODS OVER NIGHT IN "THE TUB"

Many local fishermen, hunters and motor tourists will ever remember their first trip up to Tobermory, the little village at the extreme end of Bruce peninsula and the account of the following mishap, taken from the Walkerton Telescope, will probably recall many similar experiences of their own.

The fishing tugs up at Tobermory have found a new use for their steam whistles. Twice the past week they have had to blow all their steam out trying to help tenderfoot tourists who were lost in the woods near the Tub.

A Walkerton lady who is staying at The Tub writes under Monday's date that "a party of people are lost in the woods tonight somewhere between here and the Big Tub. They have blown the boat whistles till all the steam is used up to let them hear the noise, but still they have not come.

She also describes an interesting adventure which a youth and young lady had a couple of days previously. It appears that two families from Toronto who are camping down the road a bit, went for a tramp and picnic over to the Big Tub. Coming home the two young folks got behind the rest and did not reach camp with the others. The afternoon gradually slipped away and they did not return so as the daylight grew less, the others of the families decided to raise an alarm and came to the village for the purpose. The tugs which were in the harbor, the Alice G. and the Red Fox blew their whistles until the steam was all gone so that the lost ones might hear and find their direction. Then, as dark came on, three search parties started to scour the woods over the area where they supposed these two might be. All night long they hunted and their calls to one another could be heard in the village, the weirdest sound I think I ever heard. Morning came and no success had been met with. We all felt very much depressed and sympathized with the two young things. It is very easy to be lost in these woods if you go only a few yards from the trail, and do not mark your direction by the sun or stars. There are rattlesnakes, too, though they are not nearly so plentiful as we sometimes hear, and just a day or so ago a man who is here from Texas camping saw a bear as he was driving along the road in his car, and backed up and took a snapshot of it. But it seems these two met with neither bear or rattlesnake. About nine o'clock this morning they were found in the woods about three-quarters of a mile from Virginia Skelton's (Mrs. Belose). They had wandered about until it grew so dark they could not see. Then they had risked their one match (the young fellow does not smoke) and lighted a fire over on Baptist's Bay on Lake Huron side. Then as soon as daylight came they started walking again and had finished the long night thus.

Drawn into the cap by the wind, Monday, a bee caused the death of the three-months-old baby of Mrs. Ethel Chapman of Chillyback, B.C., Mrs. Chapman was motoring to Belleville with George Stevens, of Peterboro, and was nursing the baby. The bee stung her breast and the baby lost consciousness, took convulsions and despite efforts to save its life with hypodermic and pulmotor, died within an hour. Dr. Cronk of Belleville, attributes the cause of death to the shock of the bee sting transmitted from mother to child.

Seize American Nets
Forty nets belonging to American fishermen were seized Monday some miles off the Canadian shore near Port Dover. This is one of the biggest seizures yet, and is part of an extensive campaign being conducted by the department of game and fisheries against illegal fishing in Canadian waters. During the past two months 167 nets have been seized in Lakes Huron, Superior, Ontario and Erie. The seizures represent days of careful watching by Canadian officials. Every net is made by the department, to keep the American boats at work laying the nets, but as yet none have been caught in the act.

Finding Out

By MELVILLE TRAFTON

"It's young Ned who is troubling my mind," spoke Abner Mills, with something of an anxious sigh.

"Oh, 'tis?" rejoined Moses Parr, cronny and familiar of half a century's standing. "What's he up to, Abner?"

"He's in love," enlightened the other. "You know what marriage means—misery, if there's a misnating."

"Why should there be that?" propounded Moses. You and I have each a son and our lives have just about centered about them since we became lonely old widowers. Well, when my lad got moonstruck two years ago I just let him have his swing. But I watched and looked up the girl—oh, you bet I did! I hired an investigator and he made me a report. All through one month. There wasn't much that I didn't know about Mina Blake and her forbears. Bless her dear heart! It was almost cruel to think of looking her up, as if she was some common criminal, but I wanted to be sure everything was all right."

"Hm! you give me an idea," muttered old Abner, "only I'll be my own detective. Here's the facts: Ned was away for two months with a chum who lives down country. While there it seems he met a Miss Eva Dodson vacationing with an old aunt. From what I gather the girl is poor, modest, respectable. Ned hasn't said a word about it, but I ran across a letter he had written and it revealed the whole layout. I see what's coming—engagement, marriage. I shan't try to hinder it, if they are likely to be happy, but I'm bound to be dead certain about just that."

So, unconscious of the fact that the cherished secret of his soul had been discovered, Ned Mills went on loving Eva Dodson and writing to her. She was surely his ideal! She wore no engagement ring, for she had insisted that Ned inform his family of his decision and try the test of a two months' separation. But Ned had procrastinated the making of a confident of his father, for he knew his ways, and that his approval of the prospective match might be a slow-motion operation.

"I am going to spend a few days on business in the city, Ned," spoke his father one day. "You look after things around the store till I come back, will you?"

"Sure enough and glad enough," acquiesced Ned in his usual hearty, accommodating way, and Mr. Mills departed, proceeded, indeed, to the city, but began a mysterious series of actions which, had the same been followed by a stranger, would have puzzled and startled him. Always precise and careful as to his attire, Mr. Mills spent an hour in the shop of a second-hand clothing man. When he emerged there was little left of the prosperous, well-dressed merchant. A faultless suit had been exchanged for one coarse of fabric, shabby and threadbare.

It was to Fernside that Mr. Mills proceeded, and that was the place he had learned Miss Dodson was living temporarily. When he located the home of her aunt, old Abner approached it in a labored, limping way that at once excited the sympathy of the loveliest young lady that he had ever met. She came to the kitchen door attired in a neat enveloping apron, befouled to the elbows, as dainty and fresh looking as the pies and cookies she had just made.

The sad tale of the aged arch-schemer, posing as an indigent wanderer, won him a meal, then work, which he did manfully. All he was after was to have an opportunity to study a possible prospective daughter-in-law. Fortune favored him. He was given a room over the kitchen, he was engaged to do odd jobs about the place. He found Eva the idol of all the little ones in the neighborhood, and dutiful to her aged aunt, in fact a model girl in every way. He wrote in his memorandum book the sentiment one day: "Eva Dodson is poor and humble, but she is well worth my son, and I shall tell Ned so!"

That memorandum book the old man lost one day, and it was returned to him by Eva. Then upon another day he was confronted by a starter. He was just outside the kitchen when the aunt entered bearing a small metal box.

"Eva," she spoke, "how careless you are, leaving all this money and bonds on your bureau. Is it the $10,000 the lawyer brought you?"

"Yes, aunt," responded Eva, "I suppose I had better send them to the bank for safe keeping," and Abner Mills pricked up his ears mightily at this extraordinary revelation. The following morning he announced to his kind-hearted hostess that he must be on his way. Eva accompanied him to the gate.

"Good-by, Mr. Mills," she spoke, gleam of mingled merriment and chief in her eyes.

"Eh, how's that?" exclaimed the astonished Abner. "You know along?"

"No, Mr. Mills, not until the you lost your memorandum book. I ask forgiveness for my stray glance at it, and will you please tell Ned the his humble country girl has become a real heiress?"

"You have turned the tables of me pretty cleverly," admitted Abner Mills, "and if you are willing to take an old tramp for a father-in-law, I am most agreeable to the relationship."

TO PRESERVE THE EGG

MAY BE KEPT FRESH WITHOUT COLD STORAGE.

Water Glass and Lime Water May Be Used—When to Preserve—Packing—Don't Feed Carcasses to Live Stock.

A household economy well worth while may be practiced by all housewives during the period when eggs are most abundant and cheap. The high prices generally falling during the period October to March puts the extensive use of new laid eggs beyond the reach of people with limited incomes. However, all may have eggs for winter use by putting down a few dozen in a suitable preservative medium, and thereby supplying the need during the period of scarcity. It does not pay to put down more than enough to tide over the period of high prices.

Water Glass or Sodium Silicate.

Water Glass or Sodium Silicate is one of the most useful substances that can be used in preparing a suitable medium for preserving eggs in good condition for all household purposes. It is a pale yellow, odorless syrupy liquid that may be purchased at drug or grocery stores. The proper proportion is one part of water glass to ten parts of water. (Use water that has been boiled and cooled). Shout the eggs into the clear liquid and store in a cool place, using as needed.

Lime Water.

This is a very successful preservative medium, easily prepared by slaking three pounds of good lump lime in a small amount of water, then add the milk of lime thus formed to three gallons of water. One-quarter pound of salt may be added. Keep the mixture well stirred for the day and then allow to settle. Pour off and use the clear liquid only. Put the eggs into the clear liquid and store in a cool place, using as needed.

Time to Preserve Eggs.

During April and early May eggs are usually cheapest, and it also happens that the best quality eggs are produced in the spring. Spring laid eggs keep better than summer or autumn laid eggs.

What to Preserve.

Only the absolutely fresh, clean, unwashed, sound-shelled eggs will keep. If you have to buy eggs for preserving it is advisable to candle them before putting down, unless you have absolute confidence in the person supplying them. Any egg that floats should be discarded. Eggs with shrunken contents, cracked shells, watery content or dirty shells if put in the preservative will be useless when they come out, and they will also spoil everything that they touch while in the preservative.

Suitable Containers.

Earthenware, or glass crocks, wooden tubs or casks may be used. Avoid metal containers. A vessel of six gallon size will hold 20 dozen eggs, usually enough for a family. Whatever is used it must be clean and sweet, eggs will quickly take up any taint. Better seal vessel before the eggs go in.

Packing.

Place the eggs in the vessel, small end down, and pour the solution of waterglass or lime over them. If you are putting in a few each day then fill the crock half full of liquid and place the eggs when gathered, having at least two inches of liquid above the eggs at all times. Store in a cool well-ventilated basement.

Three gallons of either the lime or water glass solutions will preserve 20 dozen eggs. The water glass cost will be about two cents per dozen eggs; lime is a little cheaper.

Cooking Qualities.

Eggs preserved by lime or waterglass solutions can be used for nearly all cooking purposes as cakes, custards or omelettes.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

The Ewe and the Lamb.

If possible, keep the ewe and the lamb in a separate pen for a few days after lambing. If each ewe cannot be kept in a separate pen, only those having lambs at about the same time should be kept together.

Since milk is about 87 per cent. water, a cow should have access to all the pure water she will drink.

APPRENTICES

OFTEN IN PRISON IN OLD DAYS.

The Tudors and Stuarts in His Master and Was to Attend Church—In by Their Caps.

of the young apprentice departed, and he can be traced from no other source.

the days of the Tudors and Stuarts, when he wore a blue cap in summer and a blue gown in winter; and blue was the color of his jacket, as it was then for the coats of all serving men. The shirt, tight breeches were white, and the stockings white or yellow.

Readers of the "Fortunes of Nigel" will remember the graphic pictures in the first chapter of Fleet Street business and of the apprentices at their masters' door, with their outspread arms of "What d'ye lack, sir?" at dye lack, beautiful

Concealed in the rim of one such cap dating from the fifteenth century, which was unearthed in Fifeburgh, was found a quarter noble of Edward III. In the brim of another of slightly later date, discovered in the same locality, was found concealed a gold eagle of Richard III.

A more showy cap than usual was found among a collection in Tabernaacle Street. It is now in the Guildhall Museum, and is described as a flat cap of feltlike material, reddish-brown color, with elaborately slashed brim and the original sarcelnet lining. "Flat-cap" became a common nickname for the apprentices and citizens of Tudor London, as may be seen by many allusions in the older dramatists.

The city records show that the apprentices were under very stringent regulations and were looked after in a thoroughly paternal way. On November 18th, 1628, the assistant of a certain Widow Boulton came before the Court of the Pewterers' Company with "unseemly hair and bedding an apprentice," and there and then a barber was brought and by order of the court the young man's flowing locks were cut to the necessary degree of shortness.

One rascally youth, who had several times robbed his master, having confessed his guilt before the company's court, immediately received a sound whipping. Other offenders were sent to prison, Bridewell being the usual reception for incorrigible apprentices.

In 1599 John Smith, having been bound to a pewtermaker named Geoffrey Matthew, ran away to Maidstone, where he worked at making rapiers for a tinker. He was captured, brought to town and lodged in Bridewell. At first he would not make submission and acknowledge his fault; but after a few days' experience of Bridewell he made his peace with outraged authority by submitting himself and asking the forgiveness of the company, "kneeling upon his knees in the presence of the master and wardens," and many householders and journeymen. He promised never to offend again, and, says the record, "if he doo, to be banished the company for ever," which was plainly no light penalty.

A refractory apprentice of a much earlier date, a Robert Halleman, who was bound to one John Long, a hatter, was committed to Newgate in March, 1332, by the mayor and aldermen of the city for refusing to take the usual oath that he would faithfully serve his master. However, a week of the mediaeval Newgate was quite sufficient for Master Robert, who came out meekly.

MINERALS FOR STOCK

ARE NECESSARY FOR THE WELL-BEING OF THE BODY.

Recognition of Mineral Deficiencies—Methods of Supplementary Feeding—Burning by Paris Green Spray.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

In the construction of the animal body some ten principal minerals are used. This seems a lot, and when we look at a cow or a pig, nothing of a metallic nature is in view unless it is the ring in the pig's nose. Minerals are reduced to forms that the layman cannot readily recognize, by various processes before they are used in body building. When we see a roast of beef on the butcher's block we do not think of it in terms of hydrogen, oxygen, calcium, phosphorus, iron, etc., unless we have a knowledge of chemistry. To the majority it is just beef and that is as far back as their thoughts go. But to the man on the land who makes his living producing food animals it is something more. He has had experience some time during his feeding operations, with animals that lacked thrift, did not develop properly, bones weak, small, crooked, and joints malformed.

The experienced feeder knows that salt is essential to the well-being of his animals, so he provides it. In doing so two of the necessary minerals, sodium and chlorine, find their way to the structural units of the body. The experienced feeder knows that blue grass grown on limestone lands is different from other blue grass, in that it provides something that aids very materially in building a strong bony structure for the young animal.

Recognition of Mineral Deficiencies.

1. Iodine.—Big neck or goitre in new-born calves, lambs, foals and dead hairless pigs indicate that this mineral element was not present in quantity sufficient for normal development.

2. Calcium and Phosphorus.—Rickets in young animals, paralytic condition of the joints of either fore or hind limbs, weak legs, and soft-shelled eggs in chickens, and low milk production are common conditions where these minerals are not supplied in sufficient quantity.

Feeds Rich in Calcium (the bone maker)—Alfalfa, Red Clover, Tankage, Dried Milk products, Skim milk, Butter milk, Whey.

Feeds Poor in Calcium.—Cereal grains, roots, Timothy hay, cereal straws.

Feeds With Calcium in Moderate Amount.—Dried beet pulp, corn silage, corn fodder.

(a) Calcium can be supplied by feeding steamed bonemeal, raw rock phosphate, whitening, chalk, air-slacked lime, limestone, marl, or wood ashes, in quantity sufficient to supply the need along with the daily ration.

(b) Phosphorus can be supplied best by using phosphorus rich food as bran, linseed meal and tankage, or by using raw rock phosphate flouts in conjunction with calcium. Steamed bone meal can also be used.

(c) Iodine can be supplied by using sea salt from which the iodine has not been removed or by using the commercial iodized salt.

Furnishes Great Rich Hay For the L...
(Contributed by Ontario Dept. Agriculture, Toronto.)
A survey covering an area of 300 farms, those growing alfalfa showed a net profit of $1,200 per farm. $728 per farm profit for those were not growing alfalfa. Difference of nearly $500 in profit due to the alfalfa and fact that goes with it.
Use Hardy Strains.
Ontario Variegated and varieties are more winter hardy, the common or southern varieties. These alone should be used in Ontario. The seed may cost more, but when everything is considered, the additional cost of good seed is your insurance for a return in crop. Hardy varieties last longer, and when once established and given rational treatment, remain vigorous and profitable for many years.
Alfalfa's Greatest Need Is Lime.
Alfalfa is a lime hungry plant; it cannot succeed where lime does not exist in abundance. Each ton of hay produced requires approximately 100 pounds of lime. So the attempted growing of alfalfa on soils that are sour or lacking in lime, is time, money and labor thrown away. Correct the lime deficiency first, if the soil needs it apply up to two tons per acre every five years. Most Ontario soils do not require more than a ton per acre every five years. With a yield of four tons of alfalfa hay per acre over a period of five years a ton of lime will be removed from the soil. So you see the need of returning lime to the medium in which the plant grows.
How to Apply Lime.
Apply lime to the surface of ploughed land. Do not plough it under; work it in with the harrow. Lime may be spread over the surface of the land by using a lime distributor or manure spreader, or shovelling from the wagon box by hand. Autumn is the best time after the fall ploughing has been done.
Vigorous Growth Follows Inoculation.
Areas on which alfalfa has not been grown should be treated through the application of 300 pounds of bacteria carrying soil per acre. Soil obtained from successful fields fulfils this requirement. Seed may be inoculated to accomplish the same result. This is generally the easiest way, unless soil is close at hand. The Bacteriology Department at the O. A. C., Guelph, will supply for 50 cents sufficient culture to treat a bushel of seed, the requirement for three acres.
Seed Bed Should Be Well Prepared.
Select reasonably rich soil and prepare it well. Do not waste time on worn out land unless you realize the necessity of applying lime and manure to feed the crop to a point of vigorous establishment. Land that has both good surface and under drainage is best. Avoid heavy, flat areas, with hardpan or tight clay subsoils. Alfalfa is a deep-rooted plant and must have root room. Prepare for the seeding by working up a fine surface on a firm seed bed. Autumn ploughing worked down in the spring with cultivator, harrow, and corrugated roller will give the desired condition providing that the weather is right for work on the land.
Use Plenty of Seed.
On land in good condition and adapted to alfalfa growing 15 pounds of good Canadian grown Ontario variegated seed is sufficient. Timothy may be mixed with the alfalfa seed as an agent of security to hold the blue grass in check until the alfalfa is well established. Its presence ensures a hay crop should the alfalfa winter kill the first year. It is a good practice to use three or four pounds of alfalfa seed in the general hay mixture over the farm. Such a practice will bring the entire farm into condition for successful alfalfa growing without very much effort or cost.
Alfalfa needs a protective covering over winter. Eight inches or more of growth to hold the snow is provided by the alfalfa plant in its September growth. Those that cut or graze alfalfa after September 15th kill all chances of future profits from alfalfa growing. Two good crops taken at the right time should satisfy, then give the plant a chance to recover for winter.
Early cutting weakens the plant, late cutting gives a coarse, poorer quality hay. Cut when the crop has nearly reached the full bloom condition. Cut but twice a year, leaving the third growth for winter protection.—L. Stevenson, Director of Extension, O. A. College.

SILVER HARVEST.
Picturesque Scenes Among the Manx Fishermen.
Sunset over Peel Harbor, Isle of Man, and the castle standing out black and clear against a sky of flame, says Anson. Away over the water, very faint through the golden haze of eventide, can be distinguished the Mull of Galway. On the other side of the bay the "Headlands" lie rugged and clear, bathed in the mellow glow.
We look towards the old grey town, and a wonderful sight greets our eyes—the fishing fleet is putting out to sea. One after another the chocolate sails swell in the light summer breeze, and the smacks sail proudly out. They leave at sunset, so as to "make" the fishing ground before dark, and return at sunrise.
The entire fleet is controlled by an "admiral," but each boat has its own skipper. The haul or catch is divided into three parts—one for the owner, one for the skipper, and one to be divided among the crew, which usually consists of about five men and a boy.
When, as sometimes happens, the fleet is out for a longer period than one night, every fishing lad leaves the lady of his affections in the care of his best friend, who has to amuse and entertain the fair damsel, and see that she keeps her affections dutifully free.
The Sunday before leaving for a long trip is the occasion for a service on the beach for blessing the boats.
A quaint superstition still exists concerning the third boat, which is considered to be "unlucky." This always entails rather a scramble between the second and third, which sometimes results in a delay of some days before either will leave. The difficulty has been overcome by their being tied together.
One of the most delightful sights is a net full of mackerel being hauled in by the light of the moon. The net and its contents look a mass of scintillating silver, bringing to mind two beautiful lines of the Manx fishermen's hymn. Many of the men are farmers as well as fishermen:
"For them we reap the golden corn by day,
By night the silver harvest of the sea."
"Them," of course, meaning their wives and children.
The air is cold yet sweet. Over the east a faint, rose-colored flush deepens; long rays of gold slant up into the sky and wakes the grey sea into color and life, chasing away the wrath-like mist.
In this glorious setting the fleet returns. At first it is only a speck in the distance, then gradually it becomes more distinct, until at last you see the smacks dotted over the water like a flock of gigantic birds, rust-colored wings aspread.
Nearer and nearer they come. You can hear the shouts of the crew as they hurry about the decks, and the rattle of the ropes as the sails are lowered.
In at last, the smacks lie alongside the old grey quay. With their arrival Peel seems suddenly to awaken, and the quiet of early morning is gone. Soon, along the quaint streets and sunlit promenades of the island, will be heard the cry of "fresh herring!"
Idly you will perhaps listen, giving little thought to the men who answer the call of the sea, seeking to wrest a livelihood from it.

Tiny Titles.
"What's it called?" This is the question we usually ask concerning a new book, and one with an original title will stand a good chance of becoming a best seller if the matter inside the covers is equally good.
One-word titles are not much in vogue to-day, although Mr. Hilaire Belloc published a book called "On" recently. Two novels, published some years ago, go one better than this, however. One was called "E," and the other "B."
Similarly, "Why," published in 1921, has been beaten by "7," which hails from America.
There are many three-letter titles, some of the best known being "She," "Eve," "Now," "Fan," and "Tim."

COWS FOR THE SETTLER

THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT IS HELPING NORTHERN FARMERS

The Northland Produces Much Hay — It Is Best Sold on the Hoof or in Milk — Settlers May Purchase Cattle Cheaply — Wireworm Poison.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)
Few people in Old Ontario who have not travelled through the northern part of the province realize that there is a territory lying north of New Liskeard and west of Cochrane that will in the near future become one of the most important producing agricultural areas of the province. The country adjacent to the railways is now cleared or being cleared to such an extent that the settlers are no longer dependent upon their timber or pulp wood for revenue, but are now engaged in farming proper. Many farms, especially in the New Liskeard section, are entirely cleared of bush and the while acreage is either under cultivation or in hay and pasture.
Northland Produces Much Hay.
With the wonderful producing power of this new land there is an exceptionally rapid growth of vegetation and hay is now being produced in such quantities that it is with difficulty that a market can be found for the entire production. So much is this so that even this year in June, stacks of 1924 hay may be seen as one travels along the railway. Settlers have not been producing hay alone, but have been getting into live stock raising as rapidly as circumstances and conditions would permit. This is evidenced by the fact that between New Liskeard and Cochrane there are creameries at the following points: New Liskeard, Ramore, Earlton, Matheson, Val Gagne and Cochrane.
Ready Money Scarce With Settlers.
As was the case with settlers in Old Ontario so it is in most cases with settlers in Northern Ontario—they have very little ready cash as their earnings have been used in clearing the land consequently the Ontario Government is assisting the settlers financially in the building of creameries and in the purchase of cows. Such assistance is being given on business principles only, that is, the money for the building of creameries and the purchase of cows is being loaned to the settlers at a moderate rate of interest and under certain conditions.
Purchase of Cows.
Briefly speaking, the new policy of the Department of Lands and Forests, through the Northern Development Branch, in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture through the Live Stock Branch, is as follows:—
Cattle are to be purchased in car-load lots only.
Settlers are to appoint a Representative to select the animals, and are to authorize him to act on their behalf in such selection and in deciding as to price.
Settlers are required to sign an application form to this effect agreeing to give promissory notes and liens against their farms for unpaid balances.
Government will appoint a representative of the Department of Agriculture to accompany settlers' representative and assist him in selection of cattle.
Government will advance full amount of money to pay for cattle at time of purchase and to prepay transportation charges and to pay expenses of settlers' representative.
Settlers will be charged $12 per cow to defray the transportation charges and the cost of their own representative. This flat rate will mean a saving of several dollars per cow to the settlers, and will give them the advantage of knowing exactly what these costs will amount to.
The total cost to the settler will be the amount paid for the stock purchased for him plus $12 per head for those other charges.
Upon delivery the settlers will be required to pay at least 25 per cent. of this total cost and as much more as he is able.
Interest at 5 per cent. will be charged on unpaid balances and repayments are required at the rate of $3 per cow per month, and the settler shall give a promissory note to this effect and a lien against his farm.
Repayments may be made to the creamery or to such other local office as may be designated in the community.—L. E. O'Neill, Live Stock Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Cut-Worm Poison.

Bran, 25 lbs.
Paris Green or White Arsenic, 1 lb.
Molasses, 1/2 gal.
Water, 2 gals.
Mix the bran and poison together dry in a large vessel. Add the molasses to water. Stir well and then pour the liquid over the poison bran and mix until every part is moist and will fall through the fingers. Apply half a teaspoonful near each plant at dusk and see that chickens keep away.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Reward Bank Manager
The chief inspector of the Imperial Bank stated today that W. R. Rodger, manager of the bank's branch at St. David's, who with his wife, frustrated an attempt at robbing the branch by Max Kollidee, who was shot dead by Mrs. Rodger, "had been generously dealt with by the bank." Mr. Rodger is at present on holidays and the nature of the award given him was not made public.

Rev. W. J. H. Petter, of St. John's church, Wyoming, has announced his resignation in order to accept the post of director of religious education in one of the largest Episcopal churches in the Southwest, at Port Worth, Texas. He expects to leave about the middle of September. Mr. Petter has specialized in teaching and Sunday school problems, and has taken a prominent part in Sunday school organization in Lambton Co.

The first appearance of the Ku Klux Klan in Dresden district came Sunday night, when a cross, consisting of two pieces of gas pipe wrapped in burlap and soaked in coal oil was burned on the site of the old pickle factory. It is rumored that the Klan is organized in town and it is known that there is an organization of 200 members in Chatham. Although the cross was set up within the rays of an electric street lamp, as usual, no one saw the operation of putting up and lighting the cross.
