

The World's Nickel Industry and Canada's Share in it

Reasons Why Canada Must Refine Her Own Nickel.

By NICKELAS CANUCK

The World has done well to educate the public on the nickel industry. As a question in Canadian economics it is of first importance; and since nickel is essential in modern navies and armaments, it is an important question also.

To make this a little plainer to the reader, let us present more facts about the uses of nickel and Canada's relation to the world's output of this remarkable metal. As the Chinese were the first to use paper, gunpowder and other manufactures, so were they the first to make use of nickel.

An alloy of nickel, copper and zinc, called pack-fong, has been used in China from time immemorial; but modern discoveries and the advance of chemistry and other sciences have increased the uses of nickel wonderfully in the last few years, and these uses will multiply yet more. Two of its qualities will ensure this development: First, when alloyed with most metals it increases their strength, toughness and durability; and second, it is rust-proof, and to a great extent acid-proof. Its first-named qualities have rendered possible the flying machine, the automobile, as well as the modern battleship, the submarine and modern armaments. Its second quality has rendered practicable the manipulation of many chemicals and industrial products that could not before be made, or only at great cost. It will be seen at once that a metal which will resist water and steam, and to a great extent acids, will greatly extend the scope of hundreds of special industries; and since an alloy of only 3% to 3 1/2 per cent of nickel in steel will give it such increased strength that it has already displaced ordinary steel in structural work, it becomes clear that for the purposes of modern industry no metal is so essential as nickel. And yet, so far, the chief actual use of the bulk of the world's nickel output is in making engines for human slaughter. In actual ratio from four-fifths to nine-tenths of the world's output goes into armor plate and ships' plates and guns and other equipment for war on sea and land.

What are the sources of nickel? Roughly speaking, three-fourths of the world's supply is mined in Canada; and it is a remarkable fact, concerning another mineral product used also very largely in the arts of war and peace, that about the same proportion of the world's supply of asbestos is mined in Canada, and in neither case has advantage been taken of our situation to develop to their logical conclusion the industries dependent upon the raw material.

The chief nickel-bearing area of Canada is in the Sudbury district of Ontario, and lies in the form of a great basin, 35 miles long by 16 miles wide, in the shape of a boat, with its bow pointing to the northwest. In view of the actual contour of the surface outcrop and the financial results to the mining companies and the armor plate firms who exploit them, it might be compared to a huge water melon, the nickeliferous rocks of the area representing the rind of the melon. On one nice alone in this region 35,000,000 tons of ore have been proved. The cobalt-silver ores of the Cobalt region also contain an average of 1.47 per cent of nickel, and the nickel is not paid for in the output of these ores the amount of refined metal from Cobalt amounts to 600 tons a year.

The next and only large source of nickel is the French penal colony of New Caledonia, 900 miles from the coast of Australia. Here the ores are found in narrow bands, not more than half-a-mile long and mixed with waste rock and red clay. It occurs mostly in mountain heights and the work of stripping off the clay and getting the ore down to the coast and finally the long ocean voyages are obstacles to the competition of these mines.

Limited deposits of nickel are found in Europe, Prussia and Saxony are the chief sources in Germany, and it is to be recalled that the alloy is known as German silver. No figures are allowed to be given of the German output and we only know that the deposits are not large, nor the output increasing. Finland, Sweden and Norway produce nickel. The Norwegian is the chief of these, but the ore only yields 1 1/2 to 2 per cent of metal and Norway's contribution to the world's output has become negligible since the recent development of the Canadian and New Caledonia mines. There was a recent discovery in the Greek island of Lokris, near Athens, but not much is known of its extent. Small quantities have been found in Australia and not long since deposits have been discovered in Cape Colony, which may prove important. In the United States limited deposits have at various times been found in Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina, Missouri and Oregon, but none of these are promising, owing to the low grade of the ores. Small quantities have been found in Cuba, the only further source in America.

The Sudbury ores vary in richness, ranging from 2 per cent. to 15 per cent. They will probably average 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 per cent. of nickel, besides copper and other minerals, with which they are mixed. These mixtures were for years a difficulty in the reduction of the ores, but the difficulties have been overcome, and in one case the combination is an advantage in the production of a remarkable metal known as Monell metal, named after Monell, the president of the International Nickel Co. The Monell alloy is of a silver-white appearance, takes a brilliant polish, can be rolled or cast like copper, bronze or steel, is stronger than either steel or bronze, yet as flexible as copper when rolled in sheets, and so ductile that wire can be drawn out to one thousandth of an inch, so that it is as pliable as silk thread. This is an alloy of nickel and copper and it is singular that the ore of one region of Sudbury gives the very proportions for this alloy, so that it can be smelted direct without separate treatment. It is worthy of note that the Creighton Mine of Sudbury, which is the largest single mine in the world, has the high average of 4.63 per cent. of nickel and 1.65 per cent. of copper in its ores. Regarding the Sudbury deposits, Prof. A. P. Coleman, who has examined these regions thoroughly, says that in the southern range alone, the nickel content is over three miles wide and, with an average dip of 30 degrees, one mile of the sheet would contain 4,400,000,000 tons of rock in which the workable metal might be 2,500,000 tons per mile.

From these facts the reader can make the deduction that the world depends on Canada for the supply of nickel, taking into account all its known sources. But to get another measure of Canada's pre-eminence in this material, let us take the recent development of the industry. A German metallurgical authority estimated that in 1906 the world's production of refined nickel was 14,800 metric tons (a metric ton is 2,204 lbs.), of which the mines of Ontario produced 10,776 metric tons. Now in 1912 the world's estimated production of the refined metal was 25,500 metric tons, of which Ontario supplied 22,471 tons. The significance of this is that Ontario has in this period contributed 89 per cent of the world's supply, while all other countries put together have only contributed 555 tons to the world's increase. A further fact is that while the output of Ontario has increased, as indicated, the exports of New Caledonia—the next largest source—have in recent years remained stationary.

Why the navies of the world are dependent on Canada will appear from a few elementary considerations. To get the same strength of armor with nickel steel, it would require plates at least ten times as thick as with nickel steel. This would add so seriously to the weight of the ship and would so reduce (let) her coal capacity, (2nd) net tonnage, (3rd) speed, that no approach could be attained to the present efficiency of ships in any one of these directions, because no other known metal and no alloy yet introduced can give the required results. The same effects that apply to battleships apply with added force to submarines, to destroyers, to light cruisers, as well as to the internal equipment of each of these types of war craft. On the other hand, the increased strength imparted to guns and to the mechanical devices for handling them, as well as to their projectiles, torpedoes, etc., by the introduction of nickel alloys counts as strongly on the offensive as on the defensive side, so that it may truly be said that nickel is the one essential element in modern war equipment. Now, the statistics given elsewhere, show that the great bulk of the world's production of nickel—let us say, four-fifths—goes into armaments, and of this total production more than three-fourths comes from Canada. Hence it follows from these facts that it is in the power of Canada to stop the increase in the world's armaments by her control of the nickel output. If Russia, by legislative edict, has stopped the drinking of vodka through the world, she has made a definite step in sobering, why cannot the Canadian Government by a fiat check the armament insanity?

This can only be effectually done by controlling the refining processes within our own borders. No promise or undertaking of a company operating outside of Canada can be relied on to restrict the export, for the reason that the offer of high prices will always enable a belligerent country to get it thru a neutral, by indirect and covert means. From the statistics published the other day it appears that the United States exports of refined nickel cut-off from Germany and Italy under the armament ban of the International Nickel Company since the war have been more than counterbalanced by the unusual increase in the imports from "other countries." In the ten months to Oct. 31, these "other countries" imported from the United States nearly 11,000,000 lbs., whereas the normal imports of Germany the year before were 2,527,000 lbs., and of Germany and Italy combined, 2,550,000 lbs. Those who have studied history know how ineffectual were Napoleon's decrees and embargoes on trade: It is only because Canada has a virtual monopoly of the amount of nickel needed in armaments that we could make this effective, and then only by, first, limiting the output, and, second, designating its destination.

Practically no nickel is yet refined in Canada, but it is shipped in a partially refined form, known as matte (from the French matte, signifying dull or dim), and of this matte over 43,000,000 lbs. goes annually to the States and about 5,000,000 lbs. to Great Britain. The exports to the States are sent to the refining works of the International Nickel Co. in New Jersey, which company controls the Canadian Copper Co., one of the chief nickel mining companies of Sudbury. The British exports are handled chiefly by the Mond Nickel Co. who, after producing their matte in the Sudbury district, ship it to Clydach, Wales, for refining. These works have been greatly enlarged. Each of these corporations refines by its own process, worked out after years of difficulties, overcome by patient experimenting. A third process, known as the Hybnitte—after a member of the Norwegian firm of Kristiansand, Norway—is now being exploited in Canada by a company known as the Canadian Nickel Corporation, with a nominal capital of thirty million dollars. With this process it is claimed that nickel can be produced 99 per cent. pure. There are about twenty mines that are, or have been, operated in the Sudbury region of which nine are of importance, and of which the companies operating them have an aggregate capital of about a hundred million dollars.

As to profits, the Mond Nickel Co. in its prospectus announcing its extensions, stated that in the production of metal worth $11.56 there would be a profit of $4.96, after deducting all operating expenses. But the valuation on which this estimate

SEEKS TO LIMIT CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Alderman Cameron Will Move That Law Be Applied For.

WATER SUPPLY IS GOOD

Only Once Last Year Was Infection Found by Analysts.

On learning that there was no law making it a crime for a contractor to make a contribution to the campaign fund of any candidate for municipal honors, Ald. R. H. Cameron said yesterday that he was very much surprised, and that he would make a motion that a law of this kind be applied for at the next session of the legislature. The whole thing arose out of the fact that James Simpson was handed $200, which he turned over to Crown Jeweller Corley.

No Stand Yet.

In his campaign speeches Mayor-elect Church stated that he was not in favor of the budget for the following year being made up in December. Controller O'Neill is here on the same opinion, as he thinks it would be hard to estimate the civic revenue so far in advance, and it would mean the committing of the new council by the one preceding it. The controller has not taken any definite stand, however, as he desires to get the opinions of others before doing so.

Six hundred and forty-five men are at present engaged in the different parks three days a week. This is part of the relief work of the parks department.

Water Bad Once.

Only once during the last twelve months was the water of Toronto infected, according to a statement made by Dr. Hastings yesterday. The last analysis made shows the water to be good.

Mayor Hocken does not think that a fair comparison in hydro rates can be made between Toronto and other cities, as the overhead charges are much greater here. The cost factor is the vital item in establishing rates. The mayor is in favor of a permit for an $100,000 idea of a minimum monthly bill of 50 cents.

May Ask Re-count.

The many mistakes of the Youmans-Hiltz recount has stirred up James Simpson, and it is stated that he will probably ask for a re-count of the board of control ballots. Mr. Simpson was only 142 votes behind Controller-elect Thompson, and he thinks that with so many mistakes in the recounting of over 46,000 votes should make quite a difference.

Live Question New.

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission took out a permit yesterday for the erection of a six-story structure building on University avenue. The building is to cost $75,000.

The smell from the abattoirs in Ward Seven is a live question these days. Dr. Hastings says that it is certain that long since the city has been completely stopped. He thinks that the abattoirs will decide the question themselves by installing machinery to treat their effluents, and that much has already been done to prevent the nuisance. As a matter of fact the abattoirs under federal jurisdiction and the city has as much reason to complain of conditions as those directly affected by the odor.

Owing to the presence of M. R. Graham, of London, Mayor-elect Church becomes president of the Union of Canadian Municipalities. He was last year elected vice-president of the body and according to the constitution becomes president.

Oppose Annexation.

In the near future, Alderman Cameron will put a motion to the council asking that the council go on record as being opposed to any annexations during the year. Mr. Cameron, who ways opposed the widespread annexation that has come before the council of late years.

In spite of the winter weather the work of harbor improvement goes ahead, and the plant is being kept in good shape for the early start in the spring. Some of the pile-driving will be done during the winter.

City Would Not Pay.

There is some difference of opinion as to whether there is to be the usual luncheon after the inaugural meeting of the city council Monday. The council was unable to get any definite information in this regard, except that if there is a luncheon it will not be paid for out of the city's funds.

Only a few of the members have called at the city clerk's office yet to was based 30 cents a pound; whereas THE NEW YORK ENGINEERING AND MINING JOURNAL of that date quoted the market price of nickel at 45 to 50 cents per lb. on contract sales and 55 cents on small lots of 100 to 400 lbs. Then the dividends of the International Nickel Co. have increased from 3.3 per cent. in 1903 to an average of about 10 per cent. in the last three years. In 1911 it was 26.3 on its preferred and common stock combined. The actual cash distributed in dividends was upwards of four million dollars a year in both 1912 and 1913, besides a surplus of nearly a million dollars. The Mond Nickel Co. did lose money in its years of experimenting, but in recent years its dividends have been from 48 to 55 per cent. on preferred shares and 16 per cent. on ordinary shares.

These amazing profits and share values have been created by the rapidly increasing uses of nickel, and especially because of the growth of naval armaments, and it is perfectly obvious that the refiners of the nickel are in close business relations with the armor plate and armament firms, who are their largest customers. Apart from any question of economics, this is an over-mastering reason why such an industry should be nationalized. Self-government is a nullity when a private corporation or group of corporations can defeat the national will by such means.

The past development of the nickel refining industry in the U. S. by Canadian ores was a natural one; but its further development to the disadvantage of Canada and the whole empire presents a new problem, the only solution of which is the complete reduction of all Canadian nickel in Canadian refineries. There is not a single objection which the refiners can raise that cannot be dismissed as trivial when the grave national interests involved are put in the balance. The cost of the transfer of works sufficient to begin on an adequate scale would be covered by the profits of a single year. When Great Britain found herself at war the government did not allow itself to be balked by the theories of those who claimed that government control of the British railways was impractical, both technically and financially, but the government simply stepped in and took control, and are today doing this impossible. So it must be with the nickel industry; and if the nickel corporations will not willingly yield to the principle that Canadian resources must be subject to the control of the Canadian people, then the government must expropriate the mines. By doing so the profits of the new developments will be found to yield a handsome return on the investment, and all to the advantage of the Canadian people and the safety of the empire.

Another reflection on our apathy is that Canada, which produces nearly all the metal for nickel coinage, has no nickel coins in its own monetary system. The United States, France, Switzerland, Brazil, Turkey and other countries use nickel coins extensively. The U. S. is now preparing 3-cent, 1-cent and 1/2-cent coins of nickel, and before the war Turkey was preparing to issue 200,000,000 nickel coins at a value of $1,850,000. A Canadian nickel coinage should be issued and made from nickel refined in Canada.

take the oath of office, and these are members of last year's council that just happened to drop in. The official notification has not been sent out yet.

Ald. John Cowan made his first visit to the hall today since being elected. He doesn't intend to make a big splash with notices of motion at the first meeting, but when the year's business gets under way he will be on the job.

Keeping At It.

Ald. Ryding doesn't intend to let the abattoir question that is bothering his ward these days get cold. He says that he is going to try and have the mayor-elect live up to his campaign promises to have the smells put under promptly.

Present indications are that few if any notices of motion will be brought up at the inaugural meeting of the city council. Most of the members feel that it is just as well to get the year's work opened up before breaking in with new tasks.

Some of the members of council are against Ald. Wickett's proposal that the board of control should be chairman of the different committees. Mayor Hocken signed bonds representing $1,000,000 yesterday.

The board of control seats in the council chamber have been allotted, with Controller O'Neill in the first seat, indicating that his being chairman of the board is assured. The order of the seats is O'Neill, Spencer, Foster, Thompson.

EXPECT TO REACH FIRING LINE SOON

Three Men From Victoria College Leave Burwash Hall Today.

Leaving today for exhibition camp Sergt. Robert Bennett, Sergt. Fred Henderson and Pte. Ross Taylor, three Varsity men, will go with the second contingent, and Bennett and Taylor expect to be on the firing line in France within three weeks. Henderson will be with the Intelligence corps, which will consist of 19 men. The three students are third-year men at Victoria College. They leave Burwash Hall this morning.

The faculty of forestry is sending its quota. Arch Trebilcock, Douglas German and Arnold M. Thurston were the three men from forestry who joined the corps attached to the headquarters staff of the Fourth Artillery Brigade. The entire corps will consist of 19 men, all of whom must be Varsity graduates or undergraduates. Their rank will be gunners.

C. M. G. Purdon, of the second-year school is also a member of the second contingent. Thurston was associate editor of The Varsity during the last term, and he was to have stepped into the managing editor's position this year, but his departure has left the position vacant, and the staff are at present in a quandary about appointing a successor.

RECRUITING AT ST. THOMAS.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 7.—Lieut. Col. W. J. Green has received orders from the militia department at Ottawa to open a recruiting office in St. Thomas for the enlistment of 200 men for the 23rd battalion of the third Canadian central.

NEW COMMISSION TO SOLVE PROBLEM

Examine Permanent Causes of Unemployment for Means of Stopping It.

There was a full attendance of members at the first meeting of the Ontario Unemployment Commission yesterday afternoon. W. P. Gundy was elected treasurer at the outset and G. E. Jackson, secretary. Sir John Williston made the following statement:

"This commission was appointed to examine into the permanent causes of recurring unemployment in Ontario and to recommend measures to mitigate or abolish the evil. I understand that the commission is to devote itself wholly to the question of unemployment and not to questions of rates of wages. In any investigation that we may undertake we will not feel that we have any right to expose the business of private firms to the public.

"The whole object will be to determine the volume of unemployment, to consider its causes and if possible to suggest such measures as will ensure the certainty of a decent living for every man or woman who is willing to work. If new sources of permanent employment can be discovered the pressure upon the labor market will be relieved, wages will be steadied and the general position of labor improved.

"Probably the commission will have to consider existing relief methods and the bearing of immigration upon the problem of the cities. The volume of immigration should be adjusted to the ability of the country to absorb any influx of population. Ultimately it may be necessary to have a national and even an imperial organization of immigration with a system of imperial and national labor exchanges, co-operating to bring to the Dominion only such people as can improve their position here and of such character as the country requires.

"When we come to treat immigration as an imperial problem we will bring to Canada only such people as are best fitted for the Dominion and as will best strengthen the Empire by the productive results of their labour in this country.

"I trust that we will secure the hearty co-operation of social workers, municipal bodies, boards of trade and manufacturers' associations and particularly the labor unions without whose co-operation the best results cannot be achieved. It is perhaps unnecessary to add that this commission is non-partisan in character."

Canadian Press Despatch.

LONDON, Jan. 7, 5:40 p.m.—Reuter's Petrograd correspondent transmits a message from Tiflis stating that a detachment of Armenian volunteers had arrived there from America. The volunteers were given an enthusiastic reception.

The Armenian volunteers evidently are to serve with the Russian army in the campaign against Turkey.

WIFE LOST ACTION AGAINST HUSBAND

Claimed She Had Right to Ownership of Toronto Property.

OSGOODE HALL DECISION

Mr. Justice Middleton Decides Dispute Regarding Dedication of Street.

Mr. Justice Middleton gave judgment yesterday at Osgoode Hall in the action of Jenima Kaakee against her husband, Robert Kaakee, to establish her right to part ownership of Toronto property.

Mr. Justice Middleton gave judgment yesterday at Osgoode Hall in the action of Jenima Kaakee against her husband, Robert Kaakee, to establish her right to part ownership of Toronto property.

His lordship held that deception had not been practiced by the husband when the property was secured, as she wife alleged, and that she had misstated facts in her evidence with regard to the payment of taxes and interest from her own private purse.

On no grounds could she succeed in her action, and her own testimony could not be accepted. His lordship gave judgment for the defendant, and stated that Mrs. Kaakee had no right to exclude her husband from taking possession of the property.

Mr. Justice Middleton also gave judgment in the case of Reame vs. the Town of Windsor, which was heard at Sandwich on Oct. 10 and at Toronto on Nov. 12 of last year.

The question involved was whether a certain roadway, named Medbury street, extending to Crawford House street, had been dedicated as a public highway.

Originally the entire block was owned by one Medbury and the proprietor of the Crawford House property. Oullette street did not extend north of Sandwich street, and some time prior to the opening of Oullette street this block was crossed by Burage road, or Water street.

The location of this road had not been clearly shown, but there was a defined road north of the American Hotel. By a bylaw Oullette street was extended north from Sandwich street.

Medbury street was given for the purpose of affording access to a new ferry, and unless Medbury is regarded as being a public road the dedication of the land described would be vital.

Negotiations took place between Mrs. Medbury and the municipality to close the alleyway north of the hotel and resulted in a bylaw, which recited that Mrs. Medbury wanted the alley closed, and offered to dedicate a strip of land, which for convenience his lordship designated Medbury street.

The conveyance was prepared, but Mrs. Medbury never executed the conveyance of the old alleyway nor did the municipality execute the conveyance, but Mrs. Medbury took possession and erected a building.

Since 1881 Medbury street has been used by the public without interference, and before the bylaw was passed a sign had been placed on one of the buildings, stating "This is a private way." It was not removed. His lordship found that there was a dedication of Medbury street to the public as a highway and that there should be a declaration to that effect.

Mr. Justice Falconbridge gave judgment for the Toronto Brick Company for $1091.89 in the suit on a note against J. B. Railway, which was granted.

The following writs have been issued: Matthew T. Orr against R. W. E. Burnaby to recover $104.65, alleged to be due on the sale of lots in the Grandview and Yonge Gardens subdivisions. Further accounting is asked.

C. J. Fox, an assignee of the New Hamburg Manufacturing Company, is suing Wettlaufer Bros. for $18,882.72, alleged to be due for goods sold and delivered.

William Rennie Mather of Stirling is being sued by Charles Francis McKinnon to recover $3000 compensation, supposed to be due under an agreement in connection with the financing of certain concrete work.

The following is the list in the appellate court on Monday next: Moody v. Murray, Hay v. Costa, Grainger v. Canadian Home Circles, Humberton v. Toronto and York Radial Co., Miller v. Patterson, Gulchen v. Shedden.

THE VERY NEWEST HOUSE DRESS

One-Piece Frocks of Simple Lines Still Find Favor.

By Annette Bradshaw

SEVERAL seasons ago the one-piece frock usurped the popularity of the blouse and skirt, and though Fashion has often tried to consign it to the background it continues to be a general favorite. This is not to be wondered at, for the trim, smart effect of the one-piece frock is pleasing at all times, whether in the house or on the street.

For house wear there are more elaborate models of taffeta, crepe de chine, charmeuse or velvet, fur-trimmed and embroidered with soutache braid or heavy silk and metal threads.

The models designed for the street are more practical, and have an attractive simplicity of line which immediately wins feminine favor. Materials such as serge, gabardine, broadcloth, corduroy and covert cloth are chosen to fashion this one-piece frock of this type.

They are trimmed with bands of fur or flat silk braid, plumes of the material or rows of stitching. When more than one row of braid is used they are of graduated width.

The somber color of these frocks is relieved by collars, chemisettes and cuffs of white organdie, net or sheer linen. They are trimmed with a single row of hemstitching delicately embroidered or lace edged.

Almost without exception they exhibit the long, full tunic which is side-pleated, gathered or box-pleated about the waist line. There is a conspicuous absence of the low-bellied waist, which means that the Moya-Age styles are losing favor for street wear.

There are a few models with loose panels at the front and back which fall over a rather full underskirt. Other designs are simply a revival of the old-time favorite—the killed skirt.

In the smart one-piece frock of dark blue serge shown here you will find all the salient features of the midwinter fashions. The short-waisted bodice is closely fitted to the figure, and the long sleeves follow the contour of the arms. The skirt has a full, circular tunic, which is hung over a narrow foundation.

Here an unusual note is introduced, for the underskirt has an embroidered border in tones of black, blue and gold.

The broad skirt is missing from this frock, and the narrow belt of serge has been substituted with charming effect.

Simple One-Piece Frock of Blue Serge, with Flaring Collar and Turned-Back Cuffs of Batiste.

Clara Morris Says—

THAT PRAYERS ARISING FROM LOVE ALONE ARE SATISFYING.

CLARA MORRIS

WE were a little group loitering over after-dinner coffee, and quite casually conversation turned upon sickness and its possible consolation.

Turning to an ancient woman beside me, one who has already sauntered past her ninetieth milestone of life, I said:

"Gran, dear, you must know—so tell us what are the consolations of the sick?"

She turned steady blue eyes upon me, smiled grimly and answered: "There are none!"

The hubbub that followed suddenly ended when all hands turned upon me, demanding in one voice:

"Well, what are the consolations of the sick?"

"B-b-but," I stammered, "sickness may be only temporary restraint, boredom, a weary waiting, or it may be an agony of suffering. Many sicknesses of many kinds, many patients of many minds. What would console one would irritate another," I hedged.

"Well—yourself, then?" quizzed Gran. "Your whole life has been etched against a background of pain. Now what's your greatest consolation in sickness?"

"That I am alive yet."

I made prompt and truthful answer, and the group faded, leaving me to puzzle the question out alone. I know, of course, that the greatest consolation of most sick men is to see how close they can bring themselves to a straight-jacket without getting into it.

Still, there are others and among their consolations are—let me see! We'll—crocheted slippers, the maker always working from a No. 2 pattern for a No. 4 foot. This is supposed to be a very subtle compliment to the sick foot, and thus another pair of beribboned mite incubators are started in business.

Then there are long boxes of flowers, that painfully suggest a funeral. Then there are gift books, too heavy to hold; and floods of magazines, all "ads" and pictures of young persons with butter-plate eyes, buttonhole mouths and thatches of yellow hair covering brows, cheeks and temples.

Then should there be no consolation in rivers of custards, junkets, floating islands and jellies, jellies, jellies? Yet the patient will probably long madly for just one big green, warty cucumber pickle as thick as your wrist. Then there's the calls, too, of tip-toeing friends, who tremble their chins and whisper you to the verge of hysteria.

Advice to Girls Don't Be Fussy If You Work In an Office

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a married woman, 23 years old, and still holding my position as a stenographer. My employer (a married man) persists in calling me "Miss" all the time the same as before I was married. Do you think it is proper? I want to be respected, and my friends say I must not be ashamed to take my husband's name.

TRoubLED.

DON'T be so fussy, little Miss Stenographer. The man who pays your salary doesn't know or doesn't care whether you're married or single, and you ought not to know, and should not care whether he is a bachelor or a married man.

What affair is it of yours, and what business are your private affairs to him? Let him call you "miss" from 9 in the morning till 5 in the afternoon. He's just using your old name, that's all, and he thinks you're sensible enough to understand.

As for your friends who are so free with their advice, perhaps they will get you another situation if they put ideas into your head that will make you lose this one. If so, it might be worth your while to listen to them.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I have known a young man for almost a year and a half. About six months ago I was introduced to him. A short time ago I had a party at my home and gave him an invitation, which he cordially accepted. We meet quite often. Would it be right of me to ask him to my home, as I don't think my mother will object to having me talk to him?

H. T. H. S.

IT is never wrong to ask a nice young man or a nice old man or a nice middle-aged man to your home. It is the only place for you to ask him, and it doesn't mean anything particularly solemn. Don't get it in your thought it did.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Avoid the Tight Pajamas Use the Loose Night Gown

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG

A. B. M. A. M. D. (Johns Hopkins)

JUST as leather shoes grew up as fashionable weeds from what were once serviceable, flowery sandals, so that modern ingenuity known far and wide as pajamas sprouted from the clean, healthful linen night shirt.

Besides enmeshing and investing your person for sleep in the same underwear you had on during the day, there is nothing so unhealthful as to sleep in pajamas. To garment the human flesh in any fashion during sleeping hours is to risk your full bloom and just meed of health and well-being.

There are legions of peace-loving citizens who fear to cast custom to the winds, for fear of that silly and almost eternally wrong thing called "public opinion." Such persons, I take it, will excuse the oldest of new-fangled fashions and adopt the savagery of a Fiji Islander, if need be, in order not to nightly prowlers who travel from bedroom to bathroom, who smoke, read or otherwise punctuate the hours of slumber, avoid pajamas just the same, and in your meanderings and roaming vigils clad your form in a bathrobe.

When these goodly people cannot afford the encompassing pajamas they do worse by wearing to bed the so-called relaxation of all the tissues of the body, or perchance, even a newly laundered suit of hemmed in underwear as sleeping clothes. Both pajamas and underwear are unsanitary for sleeping purposes. Be they ever so clean, they engirdle the flesh too closely for perfect rest.

The nightly journey to the land of Nod is preferably made with absolute relaxation of all the tissues of the body. The thoughts are not free and easy, if the muscles are relaxed, if the skin is too closely encased, if the repose of mind and body are not possible. Interference with a good night's rest does not come only from tight clothing. Nay, if anything lies too close to the skin it obstructs the freedom of the flesh, interposes too much material between the surface of the skin and the air, and thus barricades both sleep and oxygen from the body.

Nightgowns Are Best. The eminently proper type of night clothing, as well for women and children, is a cheap, thin linen shirt which buttons loosely down the front. Half a dozen or so of buttons suffice to hold it free and easy parts together. An additional hygienic factor is to have two large moon-shaped portions of the nightshirt removed from the arm pits. This aids motion and allows evaporation under the arms, a state of affairs necessary equally by day, but always possible at night.

Far preferable to the use of pajamas, underwear, heavy flannels and other such nocturnal mortifications of sleep and hygiene, is absolute, Indian-like nudity. To swing two or three piles of sheet around the bare body and then crawl under the covers is all that need be done to ensnare the sleeper in comfort and sound sleep. If you are one of those

Apply to the burn 1 per cent. peroxide acid every night and morning. This is better than witch hazel and cold cream.

T. H.—Every morning when I get up my hands and arms feel paralyzed, and they itch so that I could pull the skin off them. There are little red spots on them that are as red as blood. Would you kindly tell me what would cure them?

Take 10 grains of magnesium before meals, and one grain of nitrate of soda after meals. A hot bath before bed and a cold shower and massage in the morning. Keep your intestines active.

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN MATRIMONY

By LEONA DALRYMPLE

Author of the new novel, "Diane of the Green Van," awarded a prize of $10,000 by Ida M. Tarbell and S. S. McClure as judge.

No. 274. Polo vs. Fashions. I DON'T see why it is," murmured Mary aggressively in my ear as the polo players swept upon the field, "that a man never can remember the color of a woman's gown. I'm sure we're fearfully conspicuous when we wear these dreadful colored parosols."

"I hesitated back feelingly, 'I wonder if you realize that Hugh and I discommoded lines upon lines of people and put ourselves to a great deal of discomfort and delay merely to gratify your desire for one of those foolish little parosols.'"

Are Men Color Blind? "But you could have looked at the color of our gowns, and—of sort of adjusted your notions of color."

"Yes, dear," I spoke to you three times. "I'm sorry, dear. I didn't hear."

"You paid absolutely no attention to me."

"I'm sorry."

"I think men have absolutely no color sense whatever. They're forever bringing a girl pink roses to wear with a red gown or purple parosols."

A burst of applause electrified the warm summer air. I frowned in disgust. Whatever the play, I had missed it. This foolish, irrelevant dialogue with Mary about a parosol.

I shifted my position, and glanced furtively at her. She watched the gam in a desultory way. Her glance was frequently directed through the grand stand inspecting basis and gowns. It irritated me idly that she could not seem to keep her attention upon the game.

Mary Watches the Dresses. Are women really in their hearts lovers of good sportswear? Don't they often merely pretend interest in a game of baseball or a polo match? I think so. I have never seen a memory scene woman with the keen, eager, honestly concentrated interest in her face that you may find in the eyes of any man at a ball game.

"Mary," I said, "why in the world don't you watch the game?"

"I am," said Mary. "You're watching everything else." I told her. "And you surely can't inspect the grand stand constantly without missing some of the game."

"After that," your wife kept her eyes upon the game. It was a disappointing match. The English ponies and the riders, too, so far outmatched the skill of the Americans that the game was woefully one-sided.

"They have goals, don't they?" said Mary suddenly.

"Yes," I said, hoping Mary wouldn't ask me to explain too much. I'm no lover of the man who tutors some one in a hissing whisper and annoys every one about him.

"What's a safety?" I explained as clearly as I could. "And which goal belongs to the English, Peter?"

Very briefly I explained the general skeleton of the game.

"Look," said Mary in the midst of it, "that girl's hat is pink and so is her parosol. I'll wager a man didn't buy it or he'd have gotten her a purple one."

Should Stage Costumes Be Simple Or Extravagantly Rich and Gaudy?

A Common-Sense View of the Question as Seen By MURIEL WINNDOW

IT all depends upon the character you play whether you should wear gorgeous or simple costumes on the stage," smiled Muriel Winndow, who is one of the beauties of the Winter Garden, New York.

"No one would think of frocking a demure little debutante in cloth of gold and emeralds. You see, the clothes must harmonize with the character. So sweet Penelope or Silvia, as the case may be, should wear girlish frocks of white cloth, tulle or silk and look picturesque and attractive.

"You would not clothe the well-bred society woman in the same type of gowns that you would select for an adventuress. The former must wear smart, conservative costumes which bespeak 'the lady of quality'; the latter's gowns must glitter and scintillate beneath the lights, to attract the gaze of her prey.

"If you are cast for the ingenue in a play of the 'Way Down East' type you will win immediate favor clad in a checked gingham dress and sunbonnet; but imagine what would happen should you appear in a gown of brocade silk and a hat trimmed with paradise.

"There are plays which demand elaborate costuming, particularly those whose scenes are woven about court life, and unless 'bestly' materials and trimmings are used the effect is painful to the audience.

"Both simplicity and extravagance have their particular value in stage costuming. Modest trillies dare not wear the raiment of the Queen of Sheba, nor Evangeline that of Dolly Varden.

"I believe that whenever possible the actress who plays the role of a modern woman should wear the charming frocks whose chief characteristic is elegant simplicity."

Miss Muriel Winndow, of the Winter Garden, New York.

HOW TO MAKE ENTERTAINING EASIER.

"LIGHT guests for dinner!" I threw my hands up in terror. "You'll be a wreck, aunt dear, and you won't have time to dress, and you'll be tired, and you won't want to trivel with us afterward. I really think you should sacrifice surplus hospitality to your comfort, and not try to entertain so many people just on uncle's day when every one at home is excited and fussy anyway."

Aunt smiled cheerfully. "Now I see what progress you're making. You seem able to visualize the kitchen upheaval which eight additional guests entail. But I need not necessarily be a human sacrifice to the cause, and I intend playing with you all and having as much fun as anybody. Because I certainly do not intend to be the type of good 'hausfrau' who stews and bakes and broils feverishly all morning and then hurries out before she is too nervous to join in any jolly spirit.

"If I had to make a choice, I'd prefer to serve sandwiches and play and be with all the family than to tire myself out with the preparation of elaborate entertainments which I haven't the energy to enjoy afterward."

"As the matter stands, I think I have a way of keeping my cake and eating it. I can spread over four days in advance the things which are often attempted in one or two days."

"You certainly can't cook an entire birthday dinner four days in advance."

"I didn't say you should," aunt retorted, calmly. "I said you can prepare your entertained family four days in advance. That means that you have a schedule something like this:

"Three days before, the house will be gone over thoroughly, also my order for all necessary supplies for the menu is written, and the necessary shopping done."

"Next day, brass and silver will be gone over carefully, polished, table decorations prepared, and perhaps we'll do the special things like stuffing ducks and baking the birthday cake."

"On the day before, I'll have the menu written, and the necessary shopping done."

ODD FACTS

A land mine in warfare consists of a charge of high explosive buried in the ground, and arranged so as to explode when the enemy's troops are over it. Mines are also used in siege warfare, tunnels being driven under the enemy's fortifications and enormous quantities of high explosive placed in them.

The metric system of weights and measurements has been adopted in all the leading countries of the world except the United States, Great Britain and Russia. Here the old fogy, unscientific scales of weight and measurement in use for centuries are still used except by scientists and the more progressive professional men.

Airships are an enormous item of expense in the accounts of an army. Zeppelins, for instance, cost $20,000 to build. Their construction takes a year, yet they can be totally wrecked by a high wind in half an hour. To fill a Zeppelin with gas costs $20 every time a full foot envelope of the airship. The great motors of the vessel drink up petrol at the rate of 20 gallons an hour. Moreover, these delicate machines require $20,000 a shed to house them if they are to be safely and saved away from the influence of boisterous weather.

WHERE FISHING-NETS ARE THE MOURNING GARB.

ON the banks of the Endeavor river in the "Never-Never" of the far west, a strait-laced bush our little party one day came upon a strangely shrouded figure walling out his grief over the us from our straight direction to seek him out—his alternate cries of sorrow and rage making us believe that a terrible tragedy of revenge was at that moment being enacted. And when we came upon him alone and inquired the cause of his horrible noise, we found that he had two reasons to weep and wall.

His first reason was the untimely death of his brother—the second was a distinct grievance. He had been treated scandalously, he declared. Here he had been weeping and walling manfully for two whole days, and nobody had brought him anything to eat.

The first thing we did, of course, was to repair the oversight of his heartless relatives. Then we inquired what on earth he was wearing. My interpreter did not need to inquire. He knew. The mourner was dressed in his dead brother's fishing net and all of his "women fish bags"—that was the custom my interpreter told me—and for seven days he would wear them and mourn the dead. Then he would take them off and go back to the village, have his hair cut and take his brother's wife or wives for his own.

This ceremony of marrying a dead brother's wives is a public function, and one much looked forward to by the entire community, for it is only at such times that marriages are consummated. My interpreter told me it was his firm belief that these fellows sometimes killed a man against whom they had a grudge, for the double purpose of satisfying that grudge and having the opportunity to marry some woman that they loved.

death of his brother. Although our path had been laid half a mile away from where he mourned, his cries drew

FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 8.

Will They Get By With It?

That the Canadian Pacific Railway Company should be able and willing to retire at this time a few million dollars of bonds maturing six months hence, is an interesting fact, which, standing alone, would be of little significance.

Now, it is desirable that this money should be raised by stock instead of bond issues? We have no hesitation in saying that the road would be better off today if the C. P. stock capitalization had remained at $55,000,000 instead of being increased to $245,000,000.

There was no necessity for anything of that kind. Up to and including the time of the last stock issue, the Canadian Pacific could borrow all the money it wanted upon long time bonds bearing interest at 4 and 4 1/2 per cent.

Another thing. So much stock is now outstanding with so many shareholders that it is becoming almost out of the question for the premier road of Canada to become the property of Canadians or the property of the Dominion Government.

The Montreal correspondent of the Toronto Globe holds the continuance of the stock issue policy as a great thing for the road, and for the country, and we are told:

An announcement of this kind is naturally convincing evidence of a confident position financially and more particularly at a time like the present should add materially to the lustre of C. P. R.'s name in the money markets.

We venture to think that the C. P. has lost rather than gained "lustre" since Sir Thomas Shaughnessy began his stock-watering operations, and we doubt if the credit of the country will be greatly improved by its premier corporation paying 10 per cent. for money easily obtainable for five.

Might it not be well for the government and parliament of Canada to have a say in this matter? The Canadian Pacific Railway can raise all the money it wants by short note or long bond issues.

The Globe in Newmarket. The Globe in Newmarket has a column of law for the big "interests" - become a Liberal?

We have frequently taken Mr. Herbert Lennox to task for his attitude on the hydro question in Newmarket and elsewhere in his constituency, but

Mr Lennox and his following could not have defeated the hydro bylaw without the assistance of Mr. E. J. Davis and the old Liberal guard.

The Globe had a first-rate chance to show its sympathy with the hydro policy by taking an active part in the Newmarket contest, and the influence of The Globe, had it been exerted, would probably have carried the by-law.

The influence was not the exerted in favor of the bylaw, but the influence of Mr. Davis and the old Liberal guard was added to the influence of Mr. Lennox and his friends, with the result which The Globe does not appear particularly to regret.

King Log. The scandalous career and smash up of the Dominion Trust Company at Vancouver continues to be the principal topic of discussion in British Columbia, and also in other western provinces.

We are thus again reminded of the fact that the federal government does not enforce federal law. Yet beyond all question federal legislation such as we find expressed in the Bank Act, the Companies Act, the Railway Act, etc., should be enforced by federal authority.

What he (Mr. Maclean) has said about the administration of laws of purely federal concern, I am disposed to agree with almost altogether - in fact altogether.

There are many laws, such as the customs and the inland revenue laws, which are enforced by the government, because they concern the public revenues of the Dominion.

What Mr. Borden doubtless had in view was a provision such as we find in most of the federal statutes of the United States, where it is specifically declared that it is the duty of the attorney-general and the various district attorneys of the United States to enforce the law, and money is placed at the disposal of the attorney-general for the employment of attorneys, agents and expert assistants.

Under the Laurier administration the government was frankly and avowedly the King Log of the fable. It proclaimed itself inert and incapable of punishing lawbreakers.

Indeed, Sir Wilfrid, also as a rule well up in constitutional law, announced that the federal authorities could not enforce federal laws because our constitution did not permit of the creation of federal courts.

The parliament of Canada, notwithstanding anything in this act, from time to time provide for the constitution, maintenance and organization of a general court of appeal for Canada, and for the establishment of any additional courts for the better administration of the laws of Canada.

We have a right to expect that the present government at Ottawa will take upon itself the duty of enforcing the federal law. If a nation cannot enforce its own mandates upon its own people, there is something wrong with the country or with its government.

The power to ordain includes the power to punish. To make laws and then not to enforce them is to bring the law and the law-making power into contempt.

The King Log can be useful to the King, but not to the people. The King Log is the prototype of our present government. The Vancouver scandal will not be without some compensating advantage if it leads to federal enforcement of federal law.

Fourth Phase of the War. According to an expert observer in the field, the new year opens with the allied armies in Flanders and northern France in a better position than they have since hostilities began.

No doubt it is still possible that the Germans may make a last supreme attempt to penetrate the barrier of steel that has hitherto proved impregnable. If they do it can only be of the nature of a forlorn hope.

What is the power of their active army, and the slower of their troops can hardly be achieved by a force largely composed of reserves.

Robert Harding, Stratford, brought to the notice of the meeting the fact that the Ontario Bar Association, held in Osceola Hall, yesterday morning, but his paper on the practical result of the law, in the opinion of Professor Amram, Professor Amram thought that it will surely follow the European war, commercial and bankruptcy laws will be internationalized.

TWO MURDER CASES FOR ASSIZE COURT

Charge of High Treason Will Be First in Nearly a Century.

Among those who will face Mr. Justice Middleton when he opens the assize court Monday will be William and Harry Smith, Mike Flaci, Martin Krentz and Mike Makolowski, who are indicted for murder in connection with the death of Harry Zogowski, from injuries received at a foreign christening on Weston road.

H. R. Brown and Abe Oppen, Jr., are charged with manslaughter. Dr. E. Roy Tyrer and Isaac Estrene, who were charged with murder at the last assizes, will stand trial on the capital charge, and with Dr. Tyrer will appear Alex. McCorquodale, charged with conspiring to commit an abortion on his sister.

An interesting trial will be that of J. J. Rowens and Paul Masur, charged with high treason, for their alleged attempt to aid alien belligerent reservists to leave Canada, that they might take their places in the lines of those in the first time in three-quarters of a century that the crime of treason has figured on the list of offences at the assize court in Toronto.

CLAIM WAS DISMISSED. Judge Morson yesterday dismissed the action of Stidwell & Company, brought against the Wholesale Fair Company for $85, alleged to be due for thirteen weeks of advertising shown on a "street drop." The defendants stated that the contract had been broken by the failure to show the advertisement on one of the thirteen weeks.

MAY SEEK HEAVY FINES TO WARN EMPLOYERS

Compensation Board May Ask for Legislation Granting More Power.

It is not unlikely that the Workmen's Compensation Commission will seek to have their hands strengthened at the coming session of the legislature. ### Miscellaneous Games Played by the Soldiers

The latest Y.M.C.A. sports among the soldiers resulted as follows:
Soccer Football—
Some difficulty is being experienced in running off the third round of the league. Among the difficulties are—bad weather conditions, which compel games to be postponed—one or both of the competing teams being out on route marches—Christmas holidays, also close competition, resulting in the games, which have to be played over. The latter applies particularly to the 48th Highlanders of 19th Batt. and the "2d" Co., 20th Batt. These teams have met twice and each time the score has been 1-1. They are very evenly matched, and some fine football has been played, even though the boys have had to play in the snow, where the footing has been very uncertain.
The match today between "H" Co., 20th, and "C" Co., 19th, had to be postponed on account of route marches.
Athletics—
100 yards open to all who have not won a lot of yards open—1. W. Laft, Van Cycle Corps; 2. D. Murray, Van Cycle Corps; 3. F. Hemming, "G" Co., 20th. Time 11 secs.
220 yards dash, open—1. E. Lee, 15th Battery; 2. W. Laft, Van Cycle Corps; 3. M. Smith, 5th Field Amb. Time 28 1/2 secs.
18 yard dash, open to men 165 lbs. and over—1. D. Murray, Van Cycle Corps; 2. F. Hemming, "G" Co., 20th; 3. N. Baskett, 19th transports. Time 3 1/2-4 secs.
Two mile run, open—1. L. Pomeroy, Van Cycle Corps; 2. C. Litherland, 15th Battery; 3. F. Crossley, Van Cycle Corps. Time 19 30.

CONTRACT, NOT RESERVE RULE, SAVES J. THORPE

Jim Thorpe, champion athlete of the world, isn't a champion ball player by a long shot, but he's drawing pay as such because he was wise enough to get an ironclad contract from the New York Giants.

When Jim's professionalism was uncovered a couple of years ago, several big league managers made tempting offers for Thorpe. They believed he would develop into a good player and also be a big drawing card.

Thorpe worked McGraw for a five-year contract with the Giants. The document is drawn up in such a manner that the Giants can't do anything with him except pay him his salary until the contract expires.

SECOND DAY AT DUFFERIN PARK

Tonoco and Alcy D. Win Unfinished Races—Also Hal Chief and Brown Hal.

The attendance was again good yesterday at the second day of the Dufferin Driving Club meeting. It was expected after the heavy rain that there would be no track left. However, the weather changed in the morning and the result was that the track was again fast, and the two unfinished events as well as the races carried for the day were pulled off.

The first race was the unfinished 2.35 pace. Only four horses started, Tonoco, Brown Hal, Billy Brno, and Hal Chief. Tonoco, one heat. There was no delay in getting them away. When they got the word they were again started, and Tonoco on the pole. Billy Brno made a vain bid for it at the first turn. Then he took in behind with Maggie C trailing the Brno horse. Red Wing was taking the overland route and raced well to the half when he was compelled to fall back in the same pace as the other three. The other three raced in the same position down the back, and when entering the stretch Billy Brno made another bid, but Tonoco had the Indian sign out and won easily in 2:18 1/2.

Next in order was the first heat of the unfinished 2.30 trot. Alcy D. had the pole going away, but Nat Ray took Sarah out in front. Donnie was trailing. Alcy D. and Effie Wright were next. At the half Alcy D. was second. Effie Wright third. Down the back stretch Alcy D. challenged, and went to a slight break but came on again. As they entered the home stretch Alcy D. came very fast and looked like he would win, but made another break, recovered and was just noosed out by Sarah in the fastest mile of the race. Time, 2:21 1/2.

The second heat Alcy D. won handily with Sarah second. Donnie was third. Time, 2:22. This finished the 2.30 trot.

The 2.15 pace was the first race on the card. Daisy C. b.m., b.p. Chimes, seemed to be the favorite of the majority of the players, but Hal Chief, owned by Ovide Colombe of Yorkton fame, better known as "Blow Back" was fancied by some of the real wise ones. Sped Brno, b.m., b.p. a very capable driver, had the mound and gave Hal a good drive. In the first heat Hal was out in front all the way. After entering the stretch he made a break. Daisy C. who was right there, came from behind and won pulled up in 2:18. With Hal Chief second, Jimmie Direct third. Hal Chief won the next three heats comfortably, with Daisy C. second and Frankie second in each of the heats. "Blow" received the congratulations of his host of friends on his win and was busy for some time shaking hands.
