on the window sill a band of grimy, joyous sparrows twittered and preened themselves. In the middle of the room stood Loder. His coat was off, and round him on chairs and floor lay an array of waistcoats, gloves and ties.

For a space Chilcote stood in the doorway staring at him, then his lips partand out whether I sat in the morning ed and he took a step forward. "Loder," he said anxiously, "Loder, what are you going to do?"

Loder turned. His shoulders were stiff, his face alight with energy. "I'm going back," he said, "to unrayel the tangle you have made."

CHAPTER XXVIII. ODER'S plan of action was arrived at before he reached Trafalgar square. The facts of the case were simple. Chilon the bureau in the morning room of Grosvenor square. By an unlucky chance Lillian Astrupp had been shown up into that room, where me had re-mained alone until the moment that Eve, either by request or by accident, had found her there. The facts resolved themselves into one question:
hat use had Lillian made of those solitary moments? Without deviation, Loder's mind turned toward one answer. Lillian was not the woman to lose an opportunity, whether the space at her command was long or Chilcote was evidently a frequent and a favored visitor.

In this manner Loder for the second-time entered the house so unfamiliar-and yet so familiar in all that it sugand yet so familiar in all that it suggested. Entering the drawing room, he had leisure to look about him. It was a beautiful room, large and lofty. Luxury was evident on every hand, but it was not the luxury that pails or offends. Each object was graceful and possessed its own intrinsic value. The atmosphere was too effeminate to appeal to him, but he acknowledged the barte and artistic delicary it conwawed. taste and artistic delicacy it conveyed.

Almost at the moment of acknowledsment the doer opened to admit Lillian.

"I thought it would be you," she said nigmatically.

He looked quickly at the delicate face, the green eyes somewhat obliquely set, the unreliable mouth, and instantly he inclined to the latter theory. The conviction that she possessed the telegram filled him suddenly, and with it came the de-sire to put his belief to the test-to know beyond question whether her smiling unconcern meant malice or nere entertainment. "When you first came into the room," he said quietly, "you said I thought it would be you." Why did you say that? "Oh," she answered at last, "I only meant that though I had been hold Jack Chilcote wanted me, it wasn't told Jack Chilcote wanted me, it wasn't lack Chilcote I expected to see!"

After her statement there was a pause. Loder's position was difficult. instinctively convinced that, strong in the possession of her proof, she was enjoying his tantalized discomfort, he yet waved the actual evidence that should set his suspicions to rest. CHAPTER XXIX. oDhis rame of make pelaft Cadogan gardens was peculiar. Once more he was living in the present—the force or hilarating present, and the point his mind was satisfied. Lillian was a matter that as yet was shape-less in his mind; nevertheless the dan-ger, the sense of impending condict, had a savor of life after the inaction strength and capacity had re to the appeal.

His step was firm and his bearing assured as he turned into Grosvenous square and walked toward the familian ous and tenacious as any vice. For one moment on the night of his great speech as he leaned out of Chilcote's carriage and met Chilcote's eyes Loder had seen himself and under the shock of revelation had taken decisive action But in the hours subsequent to that action the plausible, inner veice had whispered unceasingly, soothing his wounded self esteem, rebuilding stone by stone the temple of his egotism, un-til at last when Chilcote, panic stricken at his own action, had burst into him rooms ready to plead or to coerce he had found no need for either coercion or entreaty. By a power more subtle and effective than any at his command Loder had been prepared for his coming-unconsciously ready with an acquiescence before his appeal had been made. It was the fruit of this preparat strengthened his step and steadled his hand as he mounted the steps and epened the hall door of Chilcote's house on that eventful afternoon.

The dignity, the air of quiet solidity, impressed him as it never failed to do as he crossed the large hall and ascendad the stairs—the same stairs that he had passed down almost as an outcast not so many hours before. He was filled with the sense of things regained. Belief in his own star lifted him, as it had done a hundred times before in these same surroundings.

He quickened his steps as the sensation came to him. Then, reaching the best of the stairs, he turned directly toward Bive's sitting room and, gaining the door, knocked. The strength of his engerness, the quick beating of his pulse as he waited for a response, sur-prised him. He had told himself many times that his passion, however strong; would never again conquer as it had done two nights ago, and the fact that he had come thus candidly to Eve's room was to his mind a proof that temptation could be dared. Neverthe has there was something disconcerts to a strong man in this mately physic

Then all at once the nice balancing of detail suddenly gave way. He forgot everything but the one circumstance that Eve was standing in the window, her back to the light, her face toward him. With his pulses beating faster and an unsteady sensation in his brain, he mov-

"Eve"— he said below his breath.
But Eve remained motionless. As he came into the room she had glanced at him-a glance of quick, searching que "Because I knew."

And then it was that Eve showed herself in a fresh light. From his en-trance into the room she had stayed motionless, saye for her first glance of acute inquiry but now her demeanor changed. For almost the first time in Loder's knowledge of her the vitality and force that he had vaguely appreended below her quiet, serene exterior sprang up like a fame within whose radius things are illuminated. With a quick gesture, she turned toward him, her warm color deepening, her eyes suddenly alight.

22 INNINGS WITHOUT A RUN.

Walter Johnson, of the Washington club, added nine more innings to his record in holding his opponents runless by putting out the Chicagos, Saturday, 2 to 1, allowing only two hits. This gives him a total of 52 23 innings pitched in which his opponents have been unable to score. The record for runless inpings is held by Doc White, of the Chicago Americans, who pitched 56 innings without allowing a score nine years ago. Johnson was opposed by Benz, and they gave a fine exhibition.

THE TRAM BILL PASSED. The House of Assembly and sen to the Legislative Council for approval to increase capital $500,000.

s announced in Saturday's Reco the House of Assembly committee of the whole decided in favor of the third tram whole decided in layor of the shirt train-way bill passing. The committee then adjourned to report progress, and the bill came up the opposition wished to have the Bill deferred until the Public Utilities Bill had come back from the Legislative the Bill deferred until the Public Utilities Bill had come back from the Legislative Council. The Premier declined to consider any further delay, and he thought the opposition should assist in expediting business instead of Impeding it.

Mr. Finn stated that Mr. Tanner had given his support in 1802 to increase the capital of the Tram Co.

Mr. Hall moved an amendment that a clause be inserted assuring that the increased capital be spent in Halifax city. This amendment was look.

Mr. Finn then moved that no further issue of the about of the company or of any bond, debentures or other securities of the company shall be made or valid until the amount and purpose of such an issue has been approved by the Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities. On the division of the House, nine to nine, Dr. Bisset, thairman of the committee, casting his vote against it, the amendment was look, and the bill passed without amendment or division.

lost, and the bill passed without amendment or division.

The Premier, in support of the bill, could see no objections to Mr. Robert getting a small increase of capital. If he was not to get this increase how was he to make the extensions to the tramway which has been requested by the city? There never had been contemplated, and in fact the capital could not be used for developing hydro-electric power. There was no praguical value in this capital except to carry out the reasonable ambitions of Hallfax City. The thing has now gone to such a stage that it has become silly, he said, "and it was reaching a stage where a reaction was setting in against the campaign which had been waged against Mr. Robert, and his interests."

was lost 10 0 4, the appendictor votage at the amendment.

Mr. Tanner then moved another amendment that clause 3 be struck out and substituted by a clause that the money shall only be expended on direction of the Public Utilities Commission. This was also lost on a vote of 10 to 6, Messrs. Finn and Loren yating for the amendment.

"It's one of Borden's lightning flashes," declared Mr. Wilson amid laughter.

"May be a German peril" commented Mr. Ross satirically.

But it was when the final clause of the Bill had been duly closured through that the storm broks in all its fury, it was then that Premier Borden, flushed and angry, attempted to take the floor from Mr. Carroll, the Cape Breton Liberal, who presented as Clause 7 a new section providing that in the construction of the warships Canadian steel and other material should be used as far as practicable, In growing commotion the Liberals, led by Sir Wilfrid, Laurier, battled for Mr. Carroll's rights. The Liberal leader established the case admittedly, demonstrating that a flaw had been found in the Borden-Rogers flag.

Mr. Carroll and sought at the beginning of the sitting so introduce his amendment. He was told by Deputy Speaker. Blondin that threshes clause could not be considered until all the other clauses of the Bill had been death with under the Single Capendary.

Pretty wedding this morning. A quiet but pretty wedding was cel ated this morning at 6.30 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brokenshire, 198 North street, when their eldest daughter, Amelia May, was united in the bonde of matrimony with Clifford Martell Fader, of St. Margaret's Bay.
The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a tailor-made suite of grey Bedford cord and black picture hat, and carried a white prayer book.
Rev. L. J. Donaldson, Rector of Trinity church, performed the marriage service.
The couple were unattended.
Quite a number of friends were present at the ceremony, and the room was prettily decorated with cut flowers and palms.

AFTER CHICAGO POLICE And politicians, for receiving thousands for protecting thugs and clairvoyants.

CHICAGO, May 12.—New arrests of men higher up in the police-protected Clair-voyant Trust, so-called, are expected to-day. Three or more politicians and police-men will be in custody by nightfall, States Attorney Hoyne intimated upon reaching his office this morning. Barney Bertache, ex-convict, former saloon keeper and politician, arrested as the 'go-between for the necromancers, and who is at liberty on ball, was guarded throughout the night by detectives stationed about his residence.

The States' Attorney will place what evidence he has against Bertsche before the grand jury when it convenes at 10 o'clook. The prosecutor asserted he will show that several politicians and pollemen received a part of the $500,000 alleged to have been collected annually from the orime and graftings in exchange for protection, Mr. Hoyne says he has positive proof that organized gangs of pickpockets and thugs pay thousands of dollars weekly for immunity.

PARK ST. PRESBYTERIAN Rev. J. M. McInnis preaches on the doctrine of God and the new mind. Rev. J. M. McInnis preached on the "Doctrine of God and the new mind" yesterday morning in Park St. Presbyterian Church to a large congregation that lister ed with deep interest to the scholarly dis Luke 10 22, showing that Jesus Chris claimed to be the only one who could fully reveal the Father.

When we read the story of revelation, as told by St. Luke, we are surprised to find that they never used an argument to prove the existence of God. Secondly, we find that they never attempted to define the person or nature of God-there is no such doctrine of the person of God or His nature in the teaching of Christ. This, however, must not lead us to take an agnostic attitude: for Christ, while He did agnostic attitude; for Christ, while He did not define His nature, revealed much that we can know and understand. For example, He made it very clear that God, is the maker and sustainer of nature, He also made it clear that God is the maker and sustainer of nature, He also made it clear that God is the great moving power in history. He also revealed God as our Father with a passion to reproduce His own life in holiness, righteousness and charity. In this He has, a Fatherly care, displining and fostering, His children to the end that they may reflect His life.

In a word, the preacher tried to show that the two-fold revelation of God by Christ meets the needs of our modern thinking we have some to know much about nature, but we need a great first cause: Jesus supplies this in His revelation of God as the Creator.

In the third place, we feel the need of the revelation of God as the Creator.

In the third place, we feel the need of the revelation of God as the Creator.

In the third place, we feel the need of the revelation of a moral idea in human life that will make it possible for a man to live his life at its best. REV. DEAN ABBOTT PREACHED To large congregation in All Saints' Cathedral last night.

All Saints' Cathedral was filled by a large and expectant congregation last night to hear Rev. Dean Abbott, an old Halifax boy and former curate of St. Luke's, who last week was honored by Lakes, who last where he received Kings Gollege, Windsor, where he received the degree of D.D. Dean Abbott ranks among the most eloquent preachers of the Angilean church in Canada, and his sermon last night was listened to with the deeplest interest.

Taking as his subject last night the incident in the Gospel where God is said to have shoken to Jesus in answer to His Bone who heard, said, "It hundered" others said. "An angel spake unto Him." Here, said the preacher, we have one absolute fact, viz. That God spoke; here we also have two interpretations of this hact. To some, the voice of God was no more than vague rumblings of thunder—to others it was an angel. One was entirely wrong; the other was mistaken. It is better however to be mistaken than to grossly or blindly misinterpret the fact of God in the world. It is best, however, to recognize God when God speaks (the personal equation very largely colors life.) What a man is, detarmines very largely what a man thinks; a man's interpretation of life is the surest window through which to see his soul; from a man's interpretation of life is the surest window through which to see his soul; from a man's interpretation of life is the surest window through which to see his soul; from a man's interpretations we can most readily discover his character. If we send a botanist out into the woods and fields, he sees only the beauty and life of flowers most lightness and sugher in the smiles of the flowers, but the stones, the rooks. The common-place hidden things are seen, and new beauties are discovered.

So it comes to pass that a man's interpretations disclose to us his character, his inner interests reveal to us his secret beart. So it is with men and the things of God.

To some the chearest voices from heaven we indistinct and vague; to others the voice of God is nothing more than the course and law of nature—to some it is as though an angel speaks.

If a man is in tune with the heavenly voices he will rightly hear and rightly interpret. If the heart of a man is pure, if the mind of a man is truth-leving, if the will of a man is God-directed, then he will see the pure and heave

Simple, Pretty Styles Wash Frocks

THERE never was a time when styles were more diversified or prices more reasonable. Every woman should include half a dozen, at least, in her Summer wardrobe—these pretty little onepiece dresses that are so easy to slip on, so easy to launder and so becoming of line.

Think of getting a neat, pretty frock of linene, with sailor collar of self trimmed bias folds of white lawn; ball bone buttons; colors, fawn or cadet blue, for only $2.25!

Norfolk dress, one piece, in cadet blue, pink or natural, with collar, cuffs and belt of white pique. $3.50.

One of the newest types of outing dress has the blouse and skirt of contrasting material. It is a coat style, the coat being of striped cordeline, blue and white, the collar, cuffs and skirt of white corde line. Coat trimmed with large pearl buttons. $4.

Another, same style, has coat of plain Saxe blue or pink. $3.75.

A rep Norfolk suit, in pink, has trimmings of white. $5.25. White pique, with sailor collar, $4.50.

A chic little dress in natural color crash has round collar and cuffs of white pique, buttonholed in color—Saxe blue or pink — bow at neck and small trim-ming buttons in corresponding color, $4.50.

Smart ratines. A pink at $5. Very smart ratines. A pink at $5. Very pretty cream with tan trimmings; pique collar and yest. $5.25. Saxe blue and natural color ratines with full length front panel, shoulder tops and cuffs of lattice work, self color; collar and cuffs of cretonne patterned silk. $10.50.

Striped voiles; white, with satin pencil stripe of pink, mauve or Saxe; vest and collar of shadow lace; girdle and small trimming buttons of black velvet; high neck, long sleeves. $9.

Two young English girls are responsible for an odd form of entertainment which has caught on at the most fashionable of London's fashionable "at homes." They are Margot Balfour and Claude Nicholson. Miss Balfour's father was first cousin of Robert Louis Stevenson, and her mother. Marie Clothilde Balfour, has published several successful novels.

lova Scotia Steel & Coal Company, Limited

6 p. c. Perpetual Debenture Stock.

Q. How is the new money to be used? A. To repsy a part of the extenditure or capital account for the past year, in the equipment of a dow colliery, new open hearth plant, and other improvements and additions to plant and equipment, in order to provide for still larger

Q. Is this a regular stock issue or is it secured in any way? A. This issue is secured by a mortgage to The Eastern Trust Com-

Q. Does it rank after or before the issue of Eastern Car Company Bonds, which are guaranteed by "Scotia"? The Debenture Stock ranks before the Eastern Car Company Bonds, according to the legal opinion of Mr. Hector Melnnes. We shall be very glad to supply you with a copy of this

Q. What is a conservative valuation of the assets of the Company?

Mr. R. E. Harris, the President of the Company, in a letter regarding the issue, states that at a conservative estimate the value of the assets is $20,000,000. As the amount of 5 p. c. Bonds outstanding is $6,000,000 (and is limited to this amount), this leaves $14,000,000 security back of the Debenture Stock, or nearly — or every $1 of Debenture Stock.

Q. What are the earnings of the Company? Is there a good surplus after the payment of the interest on the Bonds and Debenture Stocks!

A. For the past three years the average annual earnings were $1,033,500, After payment of Bond interest and providing for the sinking fund, there remained a balance of $723,500, an amount sufficient to pay the Debenture Stock interest four times over.

Why is it that "Scotia" has been in the market for the past few years for large mounts of new money?

On account of the great expansion of its business in every department it has, been absolutely necessary to raise new money. This is best evidenced by the fact that the Company's earnings have doubled in the past eight years; ore mined has increased from 246,022 to 533,000 tons; coal mined from 476,521 to 84,523 tons; pig iron made from 31,567 to 65,784 tons; ingots from 30,000 to 77,940 tons, and finished products from 25,988 to 71,284 tons. This output will be still further increased when the contemplated expansions and improvements have been made. The number of men employed has increased from 3,499 to 5,600, and the wages paid from $1,609,754 to $3,192,498. A wonderful growth.

Q. How is the interest paid, by cheque or coupon? The interest is payable by cheque on the first of January and July, the same as in the case of an ordinary stock certificate. The interest cheques are payable at par at any branch of the Royal Bank of Canada and the Bank of Nova Scotia. We shall be very glad to cash these interest cheques at par at any of our offices.

THE SEAL FISHER

RAULBACH, C. A.

The Result of His Season's Work The Result of His Season's Work is Largely a Gambie.

As maritime adventurers, Nova Scotians can hold up their end with any race as people on the face of the earth. They have sailed the seven seas in search of riches. They have fitted out and commanded treasure trove circuit one. For a number of years a facet of Nova Scotia schooners scoured the islands and rooks of the southerniaess in quest of the pelt of the fur-bearing seal. And to-day Nova Scotia is Newfoundland's only rival in the chase for the prolific hair seal.

For the past few weeks the sealing facet has been fitting out for the cruise fleet has been fitting out for the cruise to the sealing "grounds." The steamer Seal is Noys, Sootie's representative in the expedition and the Gulf of St. in the expedition and the Gulf of St.
Lawrence, is the objective point. The Seal fits out at Halifax and then sails for Channel, Newfoundland, from which place the start is made. For the law says, that no vessel shall leave for the ice until a flag has been unfurled to the breeze on Oustons Hill, Channel. Therefore, all the sealing craft seemble there and endeavor to make the most advantageous start

The hoisting of the starting flag is a great stent at Channel. It means much the fine thousands of men who form the crews of the vessels and it form the crews of the vessels and it means much to the owners of the vessels. To be the first at the sealing grounds may mean a full fare and a quick trip. So the starting of the fleet is far more exciting than the starting of a horse race. The hills are made and about Channel present an animated appearance. Men, women and children crowd their slopes on the day of the start. They are anxious to see the get-away. They seemble on the hill tops and hill sides before the break of day. For this race means their bread and butter. The spectators are the fathers and mothers, the wives and children and the sweethearts of the men on the ships. A successful voyage means a full larder, a new dress, a wedding. No wonder the skippers jockey for advantageous positions. The start is

No wonder the skippers jocksy for savantageous positions. The start is generally a fair one. Five minutes after the flag has been broken to the wind the eight or ten great steamers are moving, almost nose to nose. Then they begin to separate. It is "the survival of the fittest." The steamer with the greatest speed forger shead and in an hour's time they, have formed a regular procession. Later they form a line of sinking Hülls, but not until they have disappeared entirely from sight do the watchers leave the hills sight do the watchers leave the hills and seek their homes, there to wai the return, be it one of success or one the return, be it one of success or one of failure.

But to follow the ships. The Seal goes well slong with the bunch. Cape Race is rounded and they steer to the northward. The ice is soon sighted by the man in the "crow's nest." Closer and closer comes the ice. At last the steamers are in it. There is no speeding now. It is one continuous, pounding at the great ice cakes. This may continue for fifty or for seventy hours. The steamer that is lucky enough to find a channel has an advantage over the rest of the fleet. The pressure of the ice against the ship's sides is sometimes tremendous. Here is where one of the greatest dangers lie. Vessels have been completely cut in two by the ice jam, the decks and upper portion sitting upright on top of the ice, while the hull goes to the bottom.

All this time a sharp look-out is kept for the seals. Sometimes they are sighted early in the chase. Other times they are not seen until the fleet has gone a long distance, to the Mag-dalen Islands, perhaps, and some-times they are "missed" entirely. It times they are "missed" entirely. It is a great game of chance with stomachs and capital at stake.

Everyone is in the gamble. The men work "on shares." The bigger the luck the bigger the pay. It is also no luck no pay. The ships may be insured, but nobody insures the sealer. Sometimes he makes big money. Sometimes he makes small money and sometimes he makes main money and sometimes he makes mone at all. Yet he will go back next year and the year after, for the gambling spirit dies hard.—W. D. Taunton in Saturday Night.

Is This a Record?

ording to Mrs. A. T. Watt, via an interviewer, in the organization of Women's Institutes, British Columbia is much more advanced and certainly is much more advanced and certainly better equipped than any other province of the Dominion.

Mrs. Watt has just returned to Victoria, B.C., after a three months' tour through the prairie provinces and eastern Canada. She declares that the work of the British Columbia Women's Institutes astonished women in eastern Canada considerably; that the fact of women criting an activative and activations and considerably. F. H. Clergue, who has given a good deal of study to the movement of people from the old to the new world during the past thirty years, says that 600,000 people will reach Canada from all quarters this year, and that by 1916 the total annual arrival will reach one million souls. He adds that Canada will certainly have fifteen million people in less than ten years, especially when we consider that in two years time all the machinery of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Raitway will be added to that now in motion by the Canadian Pacific Railway, bringing immigrants to the Dominion.
