

EMERSON'S ANTI-BRITISH SENTIMENT STIRS HOUSE

Objects to Prince Alexander of Teck as Governor General.

NO MORE ROYALTY IN OFFICIAL CAPACITY.

Ready to Move Condemnatory Resolution—Public Expression of Disloyalty Shocks Even Opposition Anti-Britishers.

Special to The Standard. Ottawa, May 8.—There was a sensational incident in the House of Commons this afternoon when Hon. H. R. Emmerson at one time Minister of Railways and Canals in the late Liberal administration, referred to the announcement in the press that Prince Alexander of Teck, brother of Queen Mary, had been appointed Governor General of Canada and remarked that he hoped the rumor of the appointment was not true.

Afterwards in the lobbies when interviewed by the press Mr. Emmerson said: "My objection is to Royalty, and foreign Royalty being brought to this country in any official capacity. I would be prepared to move a condemnatory resolution."

Mr. Emmerson added that he had a great respect for the Duke of Connaught on personal grounds. He considered him a fine type of man, but he objected to the continuance of Royalty in this country in any official capacity. He objected especially to a German prince such as Prince Alexander of Teck, being sent to Canada.

This illustrates the disloyalty of several of the Liberal members of parliament. Indeed anti-British sentiment is one of the features of the campaign made up of a section of the Liberal party at Ottawa.

CLAIM AMERICANS ARE VIOLATING ARMISTICE

Mexico City Papers Say U. S. is Landing More Troops at Vera Cruz—Huerta Making No Move to Resist.

Vera Cruz, May 8.—Mexicans arriving here today from Mexico City say that General Huerta shows no indication of having any intention of abandoning the presidency of Mexico. The president, they assert, is credited with having made the statement that he would see the capital in ashes before he left it.

That the American forces at Vera Cruz are violating the armistice by landing more troops and supplies is the charge made by Mexico City papers which are under the domination of President Huerta.

Rebels in the vicinity of the federal capital, particularly the followers of Zapata, are continuing their campaign against the Huerta administration.

JURY IN TRIAL OF BECKER COMPLETED

First Witness Will Likely Be Called Today—Dist. Atty Will Charge Ex-police Lieut. Was Brains of Conspiracy.

New York, May 8.—The jury which will determine whether Charles Becker, the former police lieutenant and head of the "strong arm squad," conceived the plot that resulted in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was completed late today. An adjournment was promptly taken until 10.30 o'clock tomorrow morning when District Attorney Whitman will address the jury, charging that Becker actually was the "brains" of the conspiracy. The first witness will probably be placed on the stand early in the morning.

The jury as finally completed is as follows: Foreman, F. M. Blagden, 28 years old, a bond merchant; James M. Faust, 29, a real estate dealer; Thomas W. Edwards, 30, a chemist; Edward E. Van Riman, 35, dry goods salesman; Paul D. Camors, 38, a bond salesman; Robert Baxter, 30, a clerk; D. L. Holtz, 48, marine engineer; Phillip Loff, 36, civil engineer; Walter Goodyear, 64, a book publisher; Gilbert Shal, 32, a manufacturer; Ephraim Pimms, 45, a retired salesman; Wilbur F. Rawlings, 35, a salesman.

TO WELCOME PEACE ENVOYS TO CANADA

Government Considering Plans for Their Entertainment—May Invite Them to Visit Principle Cities as Nation's Guests.

Ottawa, Ont., May 8.—The government has under consideration the reception and entertainment to be tendered the Spanish and American peace envoys upon their arrival and during their stay in Canada. The meeting of the envoys will be the greatest historical event of the time since the treaty of Portsmouth which terminated the Russo-Japanese war.

While the peace commissioners are not coming here at the invitation of the Canadian government, it is deemed only proper that they should receive a generous welcome and hospitality.

CARDINAL FARLEY AT ROME, SAYS WILSON IS SINCERE PEACE ADVOCATE

Rome, May 8.—Cardinal Farley arrived in Rome on a visit to Pope Pius. When His Holiness learned that the American prelate had reached Rome he expressed a desire to see him soon.

Several members of the College of Cardinals and other church dignitaries visited Cardinal Farley at his hotel this afternoon. When asked concerning the situation in Mexico Cardinal Farley expressed a hope that the mediation program undertaken by the South American powers would prove effective in bringing about a settlement of the controversy between Mexico and the United States. He said he was convinced that President Wilson was a sincere advocate of peace and did not desire to add to the territory of the United States by conquest.

CARVELL TAKEN TO TASK FOR COWARDLY ATTACK ON CARLETON COUNTY MEN

Charged Norman Winslow and B. F. Smith With Attempt to Get Rake-off on Property Government Was to Buy for Experimental Farm.

CONFRONTED BY HON. MR. HAZEN LAST NIGHT WITH PROOF OF FALSITY OF CHARGES

Letters Presented in House of Commons Last Night Completely Exonerated Both Messrs. Smith and Winslow and Show Methods to Which Carvell Resorts to Vilify Opponents.

Special to The Standard. Ottawa, May 8.—Recently F. B. Carvell, M. P. for Carleton, made the extraordinary charge in the house that Norman Winslow and B. F. Smith of Woodstock, had arranged to get a rake-off of $10,000 on a property that was to be purchased in Carleton county for the purpose of an experimental farm. Mr. Carvell suggested that the reason the property was not bought in Carleton was because this rake-off would have to be paid. A statement made in the house tonight by Hon. J. D. Hazen and letters read by him completely exonerate these gentlemen. As the minister of marine said there was nothing to resemble evidence to justify such a charge or reflect upon the character of Frank Smith.

As showing the methods which Mr. Carvell adopts to vilify his opponents, he made the important statement when confronted with the evidence tonight that he withdrew any charge of wrong-doing against B. F. Smith.

The price of the C. L. Smith farm was quoted as $10,000. Where Carvell would sell for either $7,000 or $9,000, I said I thought his price was high, but I would not buy it. I afterwards told Frank Smith the farm could be bought for $30,000. Whether Frank Smith wrote to the department or not, I do not know, with Mr. Carvell's further attention to it. If he did write and stated $30,000 he meant for the combined farms.

"Later on when the Liberals were trying to form a ticket for the local election, C. L. Smith who was talked into selling the farm to the department, George Upham and Andrew McLean, came in to see me a day or two after he had been to Florenceville to see what there was a great future for the fishing industry on the Pacific coast. During the consideration of a bill providing for the allowance of $500 per annum to Mrs. Alice Johnson, the widow of a guard in the British Columbia penitentiary, who was killed in the performance of his duty, Sir Wilfrid Laurier suggested that it would be a wise thing to have a general law dealing with such matters. Such a law would provide that the event of an official losing his life in the performance of his duty his widow and family should be allowed a pension."

Mr. Carvell's story re the C. L. Smith farm was refuted by the Hon. Mr. Hazen. "I have read Hansard's report of Mr. Carvell's story re the C. L. Smith farm. I wired you he was misinformed as to the facts. During the session of 1912 it became known that the government proposed establishing an experimental farm in New Brunswick. I with others in Woodstock were anxious that it should be in Carleton and we asked Frank Smith to urge Carleton county's claims. When talking it over with him he favored buying it in the Jacksonville district and we planned over several farms around the farm formerly known as the G. R. Ketchum farm, comprising about 700 acres, which $100,000 could be bought for about $30,000."

I spoke of buying a farm south of Woodstock, but I never mentioned the Bull's Creek. Later on I think in April, 1912, C. L. Smith came to me and asked me to do what I could with the figure.

High Tension Again in Mexican Situation

More Troops May be Sent to Vera Cruz as a Precautionary Move—Gen. Funston Needs at Least 15,000 More.

Washington, May 8.—High tension marked the Mexican situation today, both on the military and the diplomatic side. The war department was the chief centre of activity, and while no authoritative statement was made, beyond Secretary Garrison's formal reply "no orders for additional troop movements have been sent." It became known that the sending of additional troops to Vera Cruz was under consideration and probably would be carried out. This section would not be intended in any way as an aggressive measure but as a reasonable precaution to support the force already there in case of any untoward event.

The discussion of relieving General Funston at Vera Cruz has been developed a marked difference of opinion in the cabinet. Some of the members take the view that the mediation negotiations might be embarrassed by such an act, while others believed that it was a necessary precaution against Frank to get the department to buy the farm. I asked him the price and he said $30,000 for the whole farm, but I would not buy it. I afterwards told Frank Smith the farm could be bought for $30,000. Whether Frank Smith wrote to the department or not, I do not know, with Mr. Carvell's further attention to it. If he did write and stated $30,000 he meant for the combined farms.

PICKLED FISH INDUSTRY HAS BRIGHT OUTLOOK

With New Regulations Provided for in Bill Before House, Should Become a Thriving Industry in Canada.

Ottawa, May 8.—Before the orders of the day were called in the Commons today, Hon. H. R. Emmerson rose and said: "I would like to ask if the government have any official information in respect to the appointment of a Governor General to succeed the present incumbent of the office. I see rumors in the press and I presume that the people of Canada would like to know what foundation there is for them. I hope that the rumors are not true. Still I speak individually."

There was no further comment from either side of the house.

Standard of Pickled Fish Industry. Hon. J. D. Hazen's bill with respect to the inspection and branding of pickled fish was given a first and second reading and then referred to the marine and fisheries committee. The pickled fish industry, said Mr. Hazen, was in a languishing condition due partly to the poor packages in common use which ruined the contents in transportation and partly to the lack of a proper system of grading and marketing and unsystematic methods of packing. The legislation will apply to both Pacific and Atlantic coasts and the minister expressed the opinion that there was a great future for the fishing industry on the Pacific coast. During the consideration of a bill providing for the allowance of $500 per annum to Mrs. Alice Johnson, the widow of a guard in the British Columbia penitentiary, who was killed in the performance of his duty, Sir Wilfrid Laurier suggested that it would be a wise thing to have a general law dealing with such matters. # HAYNES PAYS PENALTY FOR CRIME ON SCAFFOLD

Hanged Between 5 and 6 O'clock Yesterday for Murder.

CONFESSION FAILS TO STAY EXECUTION

Confident of Respite Until few Minutes Before He Was Led from Jail—Left Statement of Crime.

Sydney, N. S., May 8.—Frank Haynes is dead. He expired the murderer of B. S. Atkinson on the scaffold this afternoon at 5.41. At five twenty-five o'clock Deputy Sheriff Ingraham announced to the witnesses that all was in readiness to carry out the sentence and requested them to file quietly into the corridor of the upper jail.

In the meantime Rev. J. W. McConnell and Captain Fullerton were with the condemned man and at 5.37 hangman J. Holmes was called to the death cell where he went at once taking the black cap with him. Sheriff Ingraham then posted his officers at the outlets of the upper jail and the signal for the death procession was given.

Walked Calmly to His Doom. The hangman followed by the two ministers proceeded Haynes, who walked between two constables, the black cap pulled slightly over his eyes. Haynes walked firmly and only needed assistance in guiding his steps towards the place of his execution. He mounted the scaffold at once for the county, 5.35 and six minutes later the end had come.

Standing in the centre of the trap and with the noose placed around his neck Haynes asked for the doctor who placed a morphia tablet in the prisoner's mouth. His words to the doctor were his last and Rev. J. W. McConnell said the last prayers. As he finished the Lord's Prayer, "For ever and ever," hangman J. Holmes sprang the trap and Haynes was sent into eternity.

Left Full Confession. Haynes made a full written confession of his crime in the presence of Jailer Karn and Captain Fullerton. The documents were handed over to the High Sheriff and will remain in possession of the crown. The officials state that it will not be made public at any time.

Word that the Minister of Justice had again refused to grant a stay was received about two o'clock and the officials waited for the county jail where the execution was to take place.

The witnesses to the execution began to arrive at the jail shortly after two o'clock as soon as it became known that the condemned man's fate rested on the will of the Minister of Justice.

The first official to arrive was Dr. J. S. Brookman who in company with Dr. W. S. McDennell went directly to the prisoner's cell. It began to dawn on those present that Haynes' fate was sealed and at 2.30 the high sheriff and his deputy accompanied by Crown Prosecutor Hearne reached the jail and held a twenty minutes conference in the jail office after which the witnesses were admitted and remained seated in the parlor of the jail until summoned to the execution. A few minutes after this Jailer Karn, the press representatives and officers present that Haynes was making a written statement.

"I have just been having the worst time of my life," said Mr. Karn. "I was with Haynes assisting him to put his statement in writing. There were five pages written when he heard the people beginning to arrive outside of the jail. He went to the window and then asked me 'what does this mean, what do you know, Jim?'"

"I told him I did not know anything and he commenced walking up and down with his hands in his pockets. It got too much for me and I had to get out."

Haynes had been in pretty good spirits all morning and chatted continually with Captain Fullerton, Jailer Karn and his guards. He appeared to be in a slightly better frame of mind and did not give any signs of over excitement until the crowd began to arrive outside of the jail.

Judgment was reserved in the arms proclamation appeal case at Dublin yesterday. The attorney-general for Ireland confined his arguments solely with a view to the declaration of the validity of the proclamation and asked the court not to consider whether the penalty could be enforced.

London, May 9.—The new Allan Harcourt Calgarian left Liverpool for Quebec yesterday you had maiden voyage carrying many prominent Canadians.

Montreal, May 8.—I do not look for any great recovery until the fall when, if we have a good crop, (and all the signs point that way), there will be recovery, and that of a wholesome and rational nature," stated Sir Thomas Shaughnessy on his arrival from the west. At the same time he was of opinion that basic business conditions were sound generally.

Citizens' Army Preparing for Launching an Effective Striking Force—Plan to Surround Ulster With Troops Reported.

Citizens' Army Preparing for Launching an Effective Striking Force—Plan to Surround Ulster With Troops Reported.

London, May 9.—The special correspondent of the Daily Express in a despatch from Belfast says that politicians may talk vaguely at Westminster about an honorable settlement, and the outside world may think that Ulster about to relapse into peaceful security, but meanwhile General Macready is busy inspecting strategic positions for troops, sounding the police, and making arrangements to their arms at any moment rather than lasting peace. The despatch further states that the correspondent was told that one of the plans put forward, presumably on the authority of the army council, for crushing Ulster, was to surround Belfast with a cordon of troops while the police made arrests, searched for arms and confiscated documents, but that when the scheme was submitted to the police authorities they vetoed it as impracticable, and held that only troops in large numbers could cope with the Ulster army.

TO OBSERVE MOTHER'S DAY

The members of the King's Daughters who have fostered the holding of Mother's Day in this city, feel confident that the residents generally will enter more enthusiastically into the spirit of the day this year than ever before. They expect that the coming Sunday will be fittingly observed by the majority of those living in the city.

In conversation with The Standard last evening Mrs. J. E. Plator, president of the King's Daughters, said that the feeling was that the day would be widely celebrated and that it would be observed as is customary throughout America. The society also said that received assurances from the pastors of the different churches that they would hold special services to commemorate the day, and sermons bringing out the true significance of the day will be delivered.

In the quarters of the King's Daughters the day will be observed, and during the afternoon a special sermon will be preached by Dr. Barrows, evangelist.

The wearing of a white rose is the customary outward sign of observance.

A ST. JOHN COUPLE MARRIED IN WEST

The following article which appeared in the Calgary News Telegram of April 30th gives an account of the marriage of a former St. John couple. The wedding took place at St. Mary's cathedral, Wednesday, of Miss Katherine McGourty of St. John, New Brunswick, and Frederick J. Maher of Edmonton, Alta. Mr. Maher is a native of St. John, N. B., and before taking up his residence in Edmonton about two years ago, lived in New York City.

Miss McGourty looked charming in a travelling suit of navy blue moire silk, with hat to match, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Rose Harvey of this city was bridesmaid. She wore a navy blue suit with a cream tulle trimmed with blue. The groom was attended by A. H. McGuire of St. John, N. B.

Rev. Dr. A. E. Macdonald, rector of St. Mary's performed the ceremony and celebrated nuptial mass, after which the happy couple and their friends adjourned to a wedding breakfast at the home of Mrs. M. A. Harvey, Eighteenth avenue west.

Mr. and Mrs. Maher will take up their residence at Edmonton. The bride is a niece of Martin McGuire of this city.

Argentine Trade

D. Suaverdera, who has been attached to the Argentine consulate at Ottawa is leaving for Buenos Ayres to engage in business, and will represent a number of Canadian concerns in the enterprising southern republic. Yesterday a letter was received by the Board of Trade here from Senor Suaverdera, saying he would be glad to get into communication with any New Brunswick firms wanting a representative in Argentine. He pointed out that Argentine was a large importer of lumber, a good deal of which is shipped from the Maritime Provinces, and intimated that he would be glad to represent any lumber firm wishing an agent there, or any manufacturer who produces goods of a nature to meet with a market in Argentine.

To Cure Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises.

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises, are led to know that this distressing affliction can be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected a complete cure after all else has failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrh, or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parnit (Double Strength) about 75c worth. Take this home and add to it 14 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of moist or granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose promptly ends the most distressing head noises, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., while the hearing rapidly returns as the system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are quickly overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are directly caused by catarrh; therefore, there are but few people whose hearing cannot be restored by this simple home treatment. Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness, or catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better.

Important.—In ordering Parnit always specify that you want Double Strength; your druggist has it or he can get it for you; if not, send 75c to the International Laboratories, 74 St. Antoine St. Montreal, P. Q., who make a specialty of it.

Nothing for Family Use Can Compare With It.

RUB ON NERVILINE.

When you have been exposed to wet and cold and your muscles are full of pain, nerves are jumping with neuralgia, then you should have ready at hand a bottle of Nerviline. It relieves all your aches, pains, rheumatism, neuralgia, and lumbago, and is a powerful, penetrating power, or in curative ability.

For nearly forty years it has been Canada's household remedy, and mothers will do well to follow the advice of Mrs. Jessie Beggins, of Stella P.O., Ont., who says:

"Very frequently there are ailments in the family that can be cut short if Nerviline is handy. When my children come in from play, with a cough or a bad cold, I rub them well with Nerviline, and they are well almost at once. Nerviline is fine for catarrh, toothache, chest colds, lumbago, stiffness, rheumatism or neuralgia. In fact there is scarcely a pain or ache in a man or beast it won't cure quickly."

To Prevent Misleading Advertising.

The minister of justice moved the second reading of the bill to penalize any person who knowingly published false statements calculated to increase the value of properties.

Mr. Doherty said that it was not intended to restrict any man expressing his opinion of his goods. But there had been a widespread abuse in advertising made at elections and whether for Chateaugay (Mr. James Morris) could be prosecuted for his promise that a bridge would be built from Coughnawaga to LaChine.

"I am afraid," replied Mr. Doherty with a smile, "that there are several reasons which my hon. friends know very well why the act could not apply. Hon. Frank Oliver brought up the question of responsibility of a newspaper. He was not anxious that newspapers should be protected but he would like to know how far the law went."

Mr. Doherty replied that the bill was not aimed at corporations but at individuals. If, however, a false advertisement was published with the knowledge of any individuals connected with the newspaper, that person would be liable under the act.

MR. HAZEN UNFAIRLY ATTACKED

As has been the case ever since the first intimation that the Empress steamers would make their terminus at Halifax, and the announcement that the General Manager of the Intercolonial Railway, Mr. P. F. Guelius, had made, or drafted, a haulage agreement with the Canadian Pacific Railway which gave that railway an opportunity to utilize Halifax for such terminus, the Telegraph and Times have been unceasing in their attempts to place the blame for the whole transaction upon the shoulders of Hon. Mr. Hazen.

Because the trade of St. John declined during the winter season the Telegraph and Times placed the responsibility for that upon the Guelius agreement and upon Hon. Mr. Hazen. It did not matter that the trade of other ports had also fallen through the general depression of business, it did not matter that the whole trans-Atlantic freight business during the past winter was less than in previous seasons; all that did count was that the trade of St. John had declined, that there was in effect an agreement, or arrangement, made between a responsible official of the Intercolonial Railway and a similar official in the employ of the Canadian Pacific, that under this agreement the Canadian Pacific Railway was given a rate on freight and passengers between the ports of St. John and Halifax, and that C. P. R. freight was carried to Halifax which would have been landed at and shipped through, St. John if the Empress steamers had come here.

When the Telegraph and Times, however, state that while this agreement was in the making, or after it had been made, Hon. Mr. Hazen stood passively by and raised no note of protest those newspapers are guilty of a species of misrepresentation usually known as deliberate lying, and the men, or newspapers, indulging in such practices is the old and homely one of liars. It may not be a dignified expression but it fits the case, and this controversy over the activity or lack of activity of the Minister of Marine has reached a stage where it becomes necessary to speak plainly.

The latest attempt upon the part of the Times to attack the Minister of Marine was published in last evening's issue and we reprint it in its entirety in order that its falsity and unfairness may be shown in detail. Under the heading "What of Mr. Hazen?" the Times says:

"The Standard does not appear to be greatly concerned over the loss of trade which St. John suffered last winter, and endeavors to console its readers with the statement that there was a decline of trade in Portland, Boston, New York and Philadelphia. This statement may be true, but what has it to do with the trailroads of traffic which under the Guelius agreement were hauled past St. John for the benefit of Halifax? What is the attitude of The Standard and Mr. Hazen in relation to the Guelius agreement? Are they content to have that agreement renewed, and thus inflict upon St. John a further loss of trade next winter? Trade which rightly belonged to St. John was taken to Halifax. Everybody knows the loss that to be continued? What reception will Mr. Hazen give the delegation which goes from St. John to protest against a renewal of that agreement? Mr. Borden says the agreement is all right. Does Mr. Hazen agree with Mr. Borden, or will he tender his resignation, if an agreement so unjust to his constituency is endorsed by his colleagues in the Government? If The Standard will give some attention to this phase of the subject its readers and the public generally may perhaps believe that it is inspired by something more than mere partisan zeal."

"Taking the Times' statements in the order in which they occur, it is not difficult to show the unfair, partisan spirit which actuates the whole article, neither does it require much more effort to prove that in quarters other than the Times office the position of Mr. Hazen has been regarded as exactly the reverse of inactive. In the first place, enquiry of any shipping company with offices in cities other than St. John, or of any reputable commercial newspaper publishing statistics of port trade, will establish that the shipping trade of practically all Atlantic ports has been less during the winter just closed than in any preceding winter for some years.

It is true that under the Guelius agreement trailroads of C. P. R. freight were hauled past St. John and sent to Halifax. It is also true that a very considerable quantity of Canadian Northern freight was shipped through the port of St. John, which otherwise would have gone to Halifax, but the Times is careful not to say a word about that. There is one evidence of the unfair spirit of the Times' article and the Times cannot deny it. Next the Times states that Mr. Borden said the Guelius agreement was "all right," and without going into details conveys the impression that Mr. Borden's statement was actuated by a desire to benefit the port of Halifax, and that because freight had been taken to Halifax which would have come to St. John if the Empress steamers had been here, the agreement under which the freight was hauled must be "all right."

The Standard has the Hansard debates for the 5th day of May, the day on which the Guelius agreement was last before the House, and we are unable to find there that the Premier of Canada made use of any such expression as the Times attempts to impute. What he did say, according to Hansard, is that he had been advised by the traffic expert of the Intercolonial Railway that the rate was "fair and reasonable." This was the information Mr. Borden had received from the traffic expert of the Government Railway, not an opinion of his own, and in fairness the Times should have stated it as such. There is another evidence of the partisan, unfair, and misleading manner in which the Times treats the case.

But as the Times asks, and we can almost picture the sneering expression of sarcasm upon the face of the bountiful and paid for editor of that newspaper as he penned the question, "What of Mr. Hazen?" Well, what of Mr. Hazen? What of Mr. Hazen's action in this matter? What is the opinion of Mr. Hazen, expressed by a man who was a Liberal when the editor of the Times was drawing his weekly pay envelope as an employee of a Conservative newspaper; when the editor of the Times and the editor of the Telegraph were doing their best to return Mr. Hazen to power as the Premier of the Province of New Brunswick; when they were attacking the G. T. P. bargain which they now defend, and when they were fervently blessing the things they today call cursed, what is the opinion of Mr. Hazen, and Mr. Hazen's part in this very question, as expressed openly in the House of Commons on May 5th, by Mr. Edward Northam, M. A., member for the county of Pictou?

Hansard quotes Mr. Macdonald verbatim, and the Hansard report differs from the Telegraph and the Times, in that it does not lie. Here is what Mr. Macdonald is quoted as saying regarding the action of Mr. Hazen in the interests of the port of St. John, and as found on page 3412: "My hon. friend from Westmorland has referred to the terms upon which the Government have undertaken to haul Canadian Pacific Railway trains from St. John to Halifax. I do not think that my hon. friend has quite caught the point in regard to the matter, if he will permit me to say so. THE REASON WHY THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY IS PAYING THE INTERCOLONIAL FOR HAULING THEIR TRAINS FROM ST. JOHN TO MONCTON OR HALIFAX TODAY IS BECAUSE THE HONORABLE MINISTER OF MARINE AND FISHERIES IS UNABLE TO PREVENT THE HONORABLE MINISTER OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS (MR. COCHRANE) FROM GIVING THEM RUNNING POWERS OVER THE INTERCOLONIAL TO HALIFAX. The Canadian Pacific Railway wanted to have running power from St. John to Halifax in order to operate their steamers permanently from that point as their Atlantic terminus in the Dominion. THE MINISTER OF MARINE AND FISHERIES PREVENTED THEM FROM GETTING THOSE RUNNING POWERS, but they insisted that the Government could not refuse to give them those terms. They said: You cannot refuse to haul our trains if we pay you for it. Whether the amount paid for this service is small or large I have not inspected the proposition as my hon. friend from Westmorland has. But this was the compromise which this Government made in order to protect the Minister of Marine and Fisheries in St. John."

Of course it must be understood that Mr. Macdonald's statement is intended for consumption in Halifax, just as the bought and paid for statements of the Telegraph and Times are for consumption in St. John, but it has this merit, IT WAS NOT MADE FOR A PRICE. It is not more reasonable to believe that Mr. Macdonald speaks with certain knowledge than that the editorials in the Telegraph and Times, which almost go to the length of declaring that Mr. Hazen was instrumental in having the trade taken from St. John and sent to Halifax, are written with even a smattering of the facts?

It is another illustration of the manner in which the Grits are playing the game, Halifax newspapers, and Nova Scotia Grit politicians, curse the Government because the Royal steamers came to Saint John. Saint John Grits and the Telegraph and Times curse the Government politicians, curse the Government because the Royal steamers came to St. John. St. John Grits and the Telegraph and Times curse the Government because the Empress steamers went to Halifax.

The Halifax Chronicle and Halifax Echo hurl their wrath at Premier Borden; the St. John Telegraph and Times vilify and misrepresent Mr. Hazen and in the next breath declare this "is not a matter of politics."

During the past few days there has been some agitation in regard to the mail arrangements for next season. A delegation will leave for Ottawa to present the claims of St. John for consideration as a mail port. The Times asks what sort of reception Mr. Hazen will give to that delegation, and The Standard can reply that he will give to the men of St. John every assistance in his power and will do as he always has done, work for the interests of this port. The Times knows this to be true; the gentlemen of the Board of Trade know it to be true, and the claims of St. John will not be influenced by the fiery denunciations of the Minister of Marine by the Telegraph and Times, every one of them written for a price by men who would as quickly laud the man they now condemn provided that the price was made right. Criticism of any public man when fair and open is desirable and to be commended. When it is unfair, untrue, and written only to excite prejudice for political ends, then criticism becomes slander and the liberty of the political press descends to the level of undesirable license. It is so with the Telegraph and Times.

Diary of Events

HISTORIC DAYS IN CANADA

On this date in 1763 Pontiac, the famous chief of the Ottawa Indians, began his memorable blockade of Detroit, then a Canadian frontier post. On May 9, 1763, Pontiac and his braves appeared before the fort and asked for a council in the fort, so that the Indians might, at a given signal, begin a general massacre. A squaw revealed this scheme to Maj. Gladwin, the commandant, and he permitted the council, but so disposed the Detroit garrison, were attacked by the Detroit to Hog Island, where they were massacred. The following month the Indians by the strategy of a general massacre, secured entrance to the fort at Michilimackinac and butchered the garrison. In July a fleet of gunboats and 300 men under Capt. Dail managed to reach Detroit, and marched against Pontiac. The chief heard of the attack and formed an ambush at Bloody Run, where the British were defeated and killed. Pontiac remained before Detroit until May of 1764, when Col. Bradstreet forced him to retreat. Pontiac, who was the son of either a Nipissing or a Miami Indian was long the most powerful of Indian leaders. The siege of Detroit was part of a vast conspiracy he had formed against the English in Canada and the American colonies. In 1746 Pontiac had assisted in the defence of Detroit by the French against the combined northern tribes under Mackinac. In 1760 Pontiac made peace with Major Rogers, who had been sent by Gen. Amherst at Montreal to take possession of the Michigan posts, but within a year he was plotting against the British.

THE PASSING DAY

MOTHER'S DAY All over the United States and Canada clergymen of nearly all denominations are today putting the finishing touches on sermons designed to teach a proper respect and reverence for mothers, while florists are enjoying an unprecedented demand for carnations, which have been chosen as symbolic of the aims of the Mothers' Day International Association. This organization, formed to popularize the observance of the second Sunday of May as Mothers' Day, was inspired by a Philadelphia woman, Miss Anna Jarvis. Her grief at the death of her mother led her to a fuller realization of the sanctity of motherhood, and gave her the idea of a general celebration of a day dedicated to the memory of the best mother that ever lived—your own.

Miss Jarvis began her campaign by

WAS TROUBLED WITH BOILS AND CARBUNCLES.

There is no more frequent source of illness than that arising from bad blood, for when the blood becomes impure, it is only natural that boils, pimples or some other indication of bad blood should break out on the system.

Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still at the same time are very painful, and the only way to get rid of them is to cleanse the blood of the impurities. Cleanse it thoroughly by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, that old and reliable blood medicine that has been on the market for nearly forty years.

Mr. James Wilds, Plaster Rock, N.B., writes: "I was greatly troubled, a few years ago, with boils and carbuncles, and the doctor told me I was in a bad condition. My appetite failed me, I began to lose weight, and was very weak. I began to feel that I was going to run down when one of my friends recommended Burdock Blood Bitters. After using three bottles I began to feel like another man. My troubles soon left me, and to-day I can certainly give Burdock Blood Bitters a high recommendation to my friends."

writing anonymously to editors, clergymen, leaders of fraternal organizations and public men, and the idea so appealed to the deeper sentiments of mankind that it soon met general adoption throughout the continent. In 1910 Mothers' Day was celebrated in a number of cities in the United States, and last year there was hardly a city, town or village in the United States and Canada that did not have some observance of the day. Since Miss Jarvis launched her movement an attempt has been made to inaugurate a Fathers' Day, but it has fallen rather flat, and has not been beyond the affording a theme for jests by hard-working newspaper humorists—many of whom are doubtless members of the Insignificant Order of Male Parents.

This year the Washington government, as well as the officials of most states and provinces, has given assistance to the furtherance of the Mothers' Day movement. The association has sent out appeals to clergymen, Catholic, Protestant and Hebrew, to preach sermons on the welfare of the home. Jewish pastors in many cities have announced that they will observe Mothers' Day today. It is pointed out that Mothers' Day should be a universal holiday, since it appeals to a sentiment cherished alike by Catholic and Protestant, Hebrew, Moslem, Buddhist, agnostic, political reactionary and revolutionary, and people of

Hypermetropia

That's "long-sightedness." Hypermetropic eyes are always on a strain, even when looking at objects very far away. The muscles never have rest and unless properly fitted glasses are secured, severe pains and headaches often result and even permanently injure the eyes. Young people frequently have "far-sighted" eyes. Headaches through the temples and over the eyes being the most common symptom of the trouble. As they grow older the eyes lose their power of accommodating the vision to near or distant objects, and you can't be too careful in getting glasses for "far-sighted" eyes. Purchasing them at Sharpe's is a guarantee that the lenses will be exactly what is needed. You must have your eyes examined here by a skilled, experienced, reliable optometrist.

GOOD WORK OF IMMIGRATION DEPARTMENT AS BALL STARS

A record of 451 Settlers brought to province during the month of April.

That the work being carried on by the provincial immigration department is producing greater results every year is shown by the fact that during the month of April 451 persons entered the province under the auspices of the department. This is by far the largest number of immigrants landing in the province in any one month since the immigration department was organized. In addition to sending out this large number in April the government officials in Great Britain have been making special efforts to organize two large parties to be sent out during the summer.

Of the number which landed here in April 245 represented married men with their wives and children, 180 were single men and twenty-six were domestic. All were placed in positions through the agency of the local immigration office, or placed on farms through the farm settlement board. This number probably does not represent the total immigration to the province for the month, as the real estate men handling farm properties have been very active during April, and have settled quite a number of people on the land. Some of those who came out last month did so as a result of interviews had with Mr. Gilchrist while he was in Great Britain last fall. S. L. Harrison who was sent to Great Britain recently as a special immigration agent has been doing good work in the way of interesting people in the opportunities offered by the province.

Some idea of the growing importance of the work of the local immigration office may be gathered from the fact that the office during April received 484 letters and sent out 498 letters and forty-three bundles of literature.

GLEN FALLS PROPERTY HAS MANY ADVANTAGES

Suburb now placed on market by Boldbrook Realty and Development Company, Limited.

The Boldbrook Realty and Development Company Limited of which John A. Pugsley is the general agent here, has recently opened up the beautiful Glen Falls property at Boldbrook and is offering lots for sale on easy terms. Full details of the advantages of Glen Falls will be found in the page advertisement on page sixteen.

As a modern residential suburb Glen Falls has many advantages including a beautiful lake and water system. This water comes from a reservoir built on the company's property far up the Glen Falls valley, and is piped to the houses. Good gravel roads run through the property and before August the electric cars will be running, thus making it easily accessible. This together with the suburban trains and the fact that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will run near the property makes it doubly desirable for those who wish suburban homes easily reached at all times of the day.

Modern in all respects, the Glen Falls property will enjoy electric lighting, as the wires of the St. John Electric Light Co. run past the property and power will be supplied on application and at reasonable rates.

Another advantage of one which is a great inducement is the fact that residents of Glen Falls will not have to send their children to the city schools as a fine modern structure with capable teachers is practically on the property.

The lots are more than twice the size of city lots and offer many exceptional advantages. Intending purchasers should communicate with John A. Pugsley, corner of Duke and Charlotte streets.

SCRIBES SHOW GREAT SPEED AS BALL STARS

Defeat Actors in hard fought and close contest—It was some game, but—

Slumbering Charlie Horses, dormant rheumatic joints, recumbent twisted fingers and creaking joints were much in evidence on the Marathon baseball diamond yesterday afternoon when a team of former baseball stars, who now mould public opinion, defeated an aggregation of former big league players, but who now bring home the truths of life from the stage, in a seven inning contest by the score of 10 to 9.

The match was staged under the name of baseball, and every man on the field showed that he had at one time in his career seen a baseball and some of the players (*) showed some familiarity with the working end of the bat.

To enumerate all the details of the game would take about twenty-five columns, but it can be said without exaggeration that good baseball prevailed, in fact the baseball with which the game was played originally cost $1.25, but of course it had seen much wear and tear. The gloves and bats were borrowed, but each player owned the clothes he played in, that is excepting several borrowed sweaters.

The actors had given the impression that they could not play the game to any great extent, but it was with great difficulty that the Scribes headed them off.

Before any more details are given it must be mentioned that Thomas Burns formerly a valued member of the Royal team that made such a name for itself about a decade ago, acted as chief arbitrator. "Doc" McGillcuddy officiated at the bases. Each of these gentlemen are members of the Royal Hotel baseball team, and they showed themselves to be well versed in the finer points of baseball, and their decisions, while never satisfying all the players, were much to the point, and what they said went.

The Scribes even permitted their coaches being chased from between second and third bases where they had taken up a situation of vantage and were justly assisting the base runners.

These two able umpires had to retire at the end of the sixth inning in order to get home in time for the evening meal, but John McGloin very courageously came forward and handled the remaining inning with great credit to himself, and his services were highly appreciated.

The members of the teams did not appear in uniforms, but it was understood that the management had ordered suits but they had not arrived. In the future games both teams will be garbed in trappings suitable to the occasion.

The actors will have creations of crepe de moutre over purple tulle, with hats and socks to match. The colors of the team, Auburn over yellow, will be conspicuously displayed in real wigs.

The Scribes have underway, uniforms of white pommes de tetres a la carte with tango socks and slippers to match. occupation. Both Mr. Weyer was on the firing line of the Thespians, and his repertoire of shoots was a wonder to behold. He had a good delivery, but was handicapped to a certain extent by the Scribes hitting some of his offerings. Mr. McGuire received while Mr. McHarry showed his versatility as the custodian of the first station in the run to the home plate.

For the Scribes, Mr. Hanson twirled while Mr. Sharkey received. J. L. Slattery was stationed at the initial corner and watched many grounders and thrown balls hustle past him. Thorne as second assisted Mr. Slattery in his strenuous occupation. Both these gentlemen evidently had only one suit of clothes each, and they were more intent on saving them than they were on winning the game. Both, however, showed up well at the bat and came across with the hits when necessary.

This was a very busy day, and the writer of this psalm of life is feeling some of the creaks in his joints. By the time the next game is played these sore spots will be smoothed out and all the players who have not been mentioned in this account will be given every attention. It is not because there is nothing to say that they are not mentioned. The names of the players and their records will be found in the tabulated score below. This table was made up from details of the game kept by different individuals, and if any of the players feel they haven't been fairly dealt with they can send in a corrected table and there is no doubt that it will find its way to the work basket.

The details—(Cut out on account of lack of space).

Actors	Catcher	Scribes
McGuire	Pitcher	Sharkey
Weyer	1st base	Hanson
McCarthy	2nd base	Slattery
McCafferty	3rd base	Thorne
Vero	Short	Dever
Hodges	Left	Owens
Fager	Right	Jennings
McCloskey	Right	Conlon

The game was between the members of the Thompson-Woods Stock Company and the reporters from the different city papers. Another contest will be arranged at an early date when more attraction will be presented for the edification of the public. It was found yesterday that the condition of the grounds would not permit the heavy members of the two aggregations performing, but these will all be out for the next game.

OBITUARY.

The death of Clement A. Rutherford formerly of St. John and lately of Vancouver, occurred unexpectedly yesterday morning. The sad news was received yesterday morning by Mrs. C. H. Jackson, sister Mrs. Rutherford. Mrs. Jackson had received word on Monday that Mr. Rutherford was ill, but as no further message had been received it was hoped that he was recovering and the news of his death came as a great shock.

Mr. Rutherford, who was fifty-two years of age, was a native of St. John, and had resided here until May, 1912, when he left for the west to accept a position with Leson, Dickie & Gros Company, Limited. He had been head bookkeeper for Dearborn & Company here for many years and had a large number of friends in business as well as in social circles. He was prominent also among the Masonic fraternity, being a member and once master of St. John's Lodge, F. & A. M. Since going to Vancouver he was active in the order there and the telegram announcing his death said that the Masons were looking after the funeral arrangements there.

Mr. Rutherford will leave Vancouver on Sunday night and will bring the body to St. John for interment, arriving here on next Saturday. The local funeral arrangements will be announced in the meantime.

Besides his wife, Mr. Rutherford is survived by five sisters, Mrs. T. S. Simms, Mrs. G. M. Barker, Mrs. Joseph Finley, Mrs. J. McCarthy of this city and Mrs. S. Tuffs of Toledo, Ohio; and one brother, Samuel Rutherford, of New York.

GARIBALDI—ITALIA'S GREAT PATRIOT

IN the cause of Personal and National Liberty this modern Rienzi of sunny Italy would have gladly laid down his life. It inspired him to deeds of immortal grandeur, of superb valor and of boundless suffering. Garibaldi would not have legislative tyranny of any kind enter into his own private life any more than will our millions of liberty-loving Italian citizens. His flaming soul scorned any legislation which would prohibit ALL because ONE man out of thousands imbibes in gluttonous quantities. He knew that the light wines of Italy and the barley brews of Germany are beneficial to humanity.

Upon an old Germanic basis 57 years ago Anheuser-Busch, brewers of Budweiser, established their brand. The Constitution of the United States is the sole authority upon which they launched their business in America. Every day of these 57 years has been devoted to the brewing of an honest Barley-malt and Saazer-Hop brew—the kind that spells Temperance throughout the world. Seven thousand, five hundred people are daily required to keep pace with the public demand for Budweiser. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

Had Rheumatism For Twelve Years Found a Quick Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mrs. George Grasser After Long Years of Suffering Tells How She Found Health and Comfort. Southampton, Ont., May 8.—(Special)—After suffering from Rheumatism for twelve years, Mrs. Geo. Grasser, a well-known resident of this place, is once more able to walk around and do her work without pain, and to sleep with comfort. She gives Dodd's Kidney Pills all the credit for her cure. "I suffered with Rheumatism in my knee for twelve years," Mrs. Grasser states. "I was attended by three doctors, but did not get any permanent relief. I was also troubled with Neuralgia and Dropsy. My appetite was fitful and at times I had sharp pain and pressure on the top of my head. I just took one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cured me." Mrs. Grasser is 65 years of age, and her quick cure after suffering has caused somewhat of a sensation among her friends. They have been trying Dodd's Kidney Pills themselves and such of them as are troubled with Rheumatism, pain in the back, Dropsy that gives feeling and similar ailments are delighted with the results obtained. ## REACTION ON THE MARKET YESTERDAY

Due Largely to Less Satisfactory Outlook of Mexican Affair.

CHEERING NEWS FROM STEEL CENTRES.

Reported That the Railroads Will Get 2 1/2 Per Cent. Increase Under New Decision.

New York, May 8.—The stock market was strong the latter part of last week, but in the last two or three days has shown a reactionary tendency, due largely to the less satisfactory outlook in regard to Mexico. Generally speaking, however, it has held the rally fairly well. We hear that the all-important rate decision will be handed down within the month and gossip has it that the railroads will get a two and one-half per cent increase at once with a contingent one per cent in the ear future, provided that the two and a half does not prove sufficient; also the promise of one and a half more, later on should they need it. We cannot vouch for this forecast but merely give it for what it is worth. Congress has tentatively agreed to adjourn on July 10th, and it is expected in Washington that before that time the so-called Trust Bill will have passed. There is, however, a strong hope entertained that such may not be the case and that the country may have a much needed rest from further legislation from that time on, or the next session of Congress is a very short one, appropriation bills, etc., usually occupying its entire time.

We have reports from the Steel centers that there is more new business in sight than for some time, although it is being held up pending the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission in regard to freight rates, but that should the petition for increase be favorably acted upon, a great many new orders will at once be booked by all the companies. Railroad earnings are not now as bad as they have been lately, but are still none too good, and several large features have been announced this past week, especially one in the dry goods trade where the prominent house is compelled to close its doors. $1,000,000 was taken this week for export to Paris. It is hard to understand why Paris should be waiting to draw gold from this side, as the Bank of France already has an abnormally large supply, but apparently they are preparing for some complications which may arise in European politics. Marketwise the situation has come down to the old familiar waiting game, but we believe that securities are in much stronger hands than they were a month ago.

C.P.R. REPUDIATES NEW PROSPECTUS

London, May 8.—A prospectus bearing the name of the Canadian Pacific Railway Trust Company and inviting applications for £1,200,000 shares has been officially repudiated by the Canadian Pacific Railway here. The announcement also has been made that G. M. L. Brown, European manager, is contemplating legal action against the company.

BEARS TAKE TURN AT DOMINION IRON

Montreal, May 8.—Several have forced Dominion Iron down to a new low level. No doubt they look forward to the forthcoming annual statement to justify the present level of the stock. That document no one expects will be of a particularly rosy character, but it is a question whether the bad points in the steel trade have not been fully discounted.

COTTON LETTER

(McDOUGALL & COWANS.) New York, May 8.—The market has been very unsettled today and prices have fluctuated with a narrow range. After opening steady at an advance of 5 points to a decline of 1 point the market sagged back to about yesterday's closing prices on old crops, while later deliveries sold some 3 to 4 points net lower. Offering too light to cause any actual weakness, however, and there was enough scattered buying to create a general hardening tendency. Today's official weather advices have been very favorable. The details showed beneficial rains in the eastern belt, with the forecast suggesting that they will be followed by fair weather. The map showed little rain in the western belt, and the scattering showers in the southern district were too light to cause criticism. There were private reports of rain or hail storms with high winds in Southern Mills, and parts of Ga., but it was not supposed that they had affected a large area. Cordell set a favorable report on the Miss. delta and the feeling now is that with favorable weather conditions for balance this month, the first official condition report of the season will show a good preliminary prospect. The arrivals of cotton reported in N. Y. today included about 1,000 bales from Northern mills.

HAMMERED DOWN FOR 'SHORTS' BENEFIT

Iron Common and Preferred Took Another Drop Yesterday—Latter to the Eighty Mark.

ONE TO THREE POINTS IN SOME STOCKS

Montreal, May 8.—The further decline in iron common and preferred today the former to 22 1/8 and the preferred to 80, both new low levels was one of the outstanding features of the market. The prevailing opinion in the street is that iron preferred has been hammered to help the shorts in the common to get that stock out for covering purposes. This theory is supported by the fact that there have been borrowing enquiries within the past few days for the preferred. Yesterday there was a sharp break in it from 88 some days ago to 80, and there was a further dip of three points this morning. That the Toronto crowd particularly is still hammering iron is well known, and they are still pulling out their short lines there as well as here. There have been no fresh developments in steel business, and while trade is admittedly bad and may continue for a while longer, it is not believed that the preferred dividend is in danger, although that is undoubtedly the impression the bears would like to create. It is pointed out that the passing of the common dividend would technically at least be a measure of strength to the preferred, but as stated above it seems to be the desire to create alarm to help the bear cause in the common.

SYNDICATE TO BUY CAL. OIL COMPANIES

San Francisco, May 8.—Earl Grey, former governor-general of Canada, has announced the formation of a syndicate which will spend millions of British money for the purchase of two of the largest oil companies in California. His associates are Lord Pirrick, head of the White Star Steamship Line, Sir Thomas Royden, deputy chairman of the directors of the Canadian Steamship Company, William Garston, who is famous for his work in Egyptian irrigation projects, and Edward Ward, former secretary of the British war office and head of one of England's large steamship companies. Andrew Peir, president of the West Steamship Company, Earl Grey will be the chairman of the syndicate. The British government is neither directly or entirely back of the deal, said the Earl.

PROFESSIONALS UPSET TRADITIONS

Got List Away From Dead Level, and Declines were Numerous.

ONE TO THREE POINTS IN SOME STOCKS

London prices for American stocks lower—Mexican news a depressing feature of the session. New York, May 8.—Professional traders disregarded today the old axiom of Wall Street that it is never safe to sell a dull market. The last few days were so unusually dull that speculators were eager for action, and as conditions favored the short side they sold stocks. They succeeded in pulling away the list from its dead level, and at the end of the day there were numerous declines of one to three points. While there was no change of first importance in the speculative sentiment was affected unfavorably by various considerations. Failure of the market to respond to yesterday's exceptionally good crop report indicated that there was little likelihood of an advance from the prevailing level, and speculators reasoned that if the market would not go up it might go down. London prices for American stocks were lower and there was some selling of C. P. R. for foreign account, although European operations here were not on a large scale. Continued weakness of a few stocks, particularly Missouri Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio, disturbed the whole market. Chesapeake and Ohio broke under 40 to the lowest price since 1908. Another depressing feature was the latest can news, conveying intimations of a more serious situation. The combined result of these influences was an increase in activity, with periods of the liveliest selling since the severe decline of a fortnight ago. Copper producers' monthly figures, although reporting an increase in supplies of 5,727,000 pounds, made as good a showing as had been expected. Copper metal prices sagged both here and abroad. An increase in the number of idle freight cars was disclosed in the fortnightly statement which fitted in with reports of the continued backwardness of business conditions.

Harrods, one of Largest Dept. Stores, to absorb Dry Goods Firm of Dickens and Jones.

London, May 8.—Recent issues now at premiums are Dominion three quarters, Grand Trunk Pacific five, Montreal a quarter, Winnipeg half. The following are at discount: British Columbia a quarter, Edmonton one and a half, Grand Trunk two and a quarter, Nova Scotia one and a half point, Grey one and three quarters, Toronto Power two and three quarters. A big retail dry goods amalgamation is announced. It includes Harrods, which is one of the largest department stores with a capital of £1,100,000, and Dickens & Jones, an old established Regent street dry goods firm with £600,000 capital. The amalgamation virtually means the absorbing of Dickens & Jones by Harrods. It is understood that Harrods secured the Dickens entire 350,000 common stock for a lump sum of £700,000.

SELLING IN NOR. PAC. FOLLOWING CPR

Generally Grouped Together as being held by some class of investors—The probable explanation.

New York, May 8.—The Sun's financial article today says: The selling movement in Northern Pacific has followed close upon similar movements in Canadian Pacific Great Northern and to a smaller extent Erie. That is curious because these stocks generally speaking are usually grouped together as being held by the same class of investors. An explanation that fits the case perhaps is the story that liquidation has been going on in all the stocks for the account of the trustees of the Strathcona estate who are under the necessity of raising some $5,000,000 to meet the British death taxes.

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

He returned at the close of the Revolution in 1783, and from that period prosperity crowned his efforts. ## THE ADVENTURES OF KATHLYN

By HAROLD MAC GRATH.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS

Kathlyn Hare believes her father, Col. Hare, to be in dire peril in Allah, a principality of India. The King of Allah has recently died, and because the Colonel had once saved his life he names him as his successor. Umballah, pretender to the throne of Allah, loves Kathlyn and has forged a message summoning her to her father, whom he has thrown into prison. She leaves her home in California to go to him.

On her arrival in Allah she is informed by Umballah that her father is dead and that she is the queen. An elaborate durbar is arranged, the central figure of which is Kathlyn, protesting and grief-stricken. When the crown is placed upon her head Umballah announces that she is to be married to him forthwith. Her refusal infuriates him, but as Kathlyn's beauty and spirit have made a strong appeal to the people he yields the joint for the time being. A priest announces that no woman may rule unmarriage with the laws of the state she will be given seven days to decide.

When Kathlyn reiterates at the expiration of the week of grace, her refusal to marry Umballah she receives sentence from the supreme tribunal that she is to undergo two ordeals with wild beasts. If she survives, she is to be permitted to rule without hindrance.

Through the pluck and resourcefulness of John Bruce, an American and fellow passenger on the boat which brought Kathlyn to Allah, she becomes frightened and runs away, separating her from Bruce and the rest of the party.

After a ride filled with peril she takes refuge in a ruined temple. The holy men and villagers, believing her to be an ancient priestess, rise from the tomb, allow her to remain as the guardian of the sacred fire. But Kathlyn's haven is also the abode of a lion, and she is forced to fly from it with the savage beast in pursuit. She escapes and finds a retreat in the jungle, only to fall into the hands of a band of slave traders, who bring her to Allah to the public market. She is sold to Umballah, who, finding her still unsubmitive, throws her into the dungeon with her father.

CHAPTER IX

THE COLONEL IN CHAINS

(Copyright, 1914, by Harold Mac Grath.)

THE Colonel and Umballah awoke back to back. Umballah sank to his knees and then fought madly to rise; but the hands at his throat were the hands of a madman, steel, relentless. The Colonel's chains clanked sharply. Lower and lower went Umballah's head; he saw death peering into the cell. His cry rattled in his throat. Not a sound from Kathlyn. She watched the battle, unfeeling as marble. Let the wretch die; let him feel the fear of death; let him suffer as he would. What new complication might follow Umballah's death did not alarm her. How could she be any worse off than she was? He had polluted her clothes with his blood. He had dared and abandoned her as few white women have been. Mercy? He had said that day that he knew not the word.

"Ah, you dog! Haven't I prayed God for days for this chance? You black cat! Die!"

But Umballah was not to die that moment or in that fashion.

That nervous energy which had infused the Colonel with the strength of a lion went out like a spark, and as quickly Umballah rolled from his paralyzed fingers and fell on the floor, gasping and sobbing. Hare fell back against the pillar, groaning. The cessation of dynamic nerve force filled him with wracking pains and a pitiable weakness. But for the pillar he would have hung by his chains. Kathlyn, with continued apathy, stared down at her enemy. He was not dead. He could kill them both now. Why, she asked with sudden passion, why this misery? What had she done in her young life to merit it? Underdressed in grass, harassed by men and wild beasts—why?

Umballah edged out of danger and sat up, feeling tenderly of his throat. Next he picked up his turban and crawled to the open door. He pulled himself up and stoop there, weakly. But there was venom enough in his eyes. The tablets lasted a minute or two; then slowly he closed the door, bolted it, and departed.

This ominous silence awoke the old terror in Kathlyn's heart; far more than verbal threats would have done. There would be reprisal, something finished in cruelty.

"My dear, my dear!" she ran over to her father and flung her arms about him, supporting him and mothering him. An hour passed.

"All in, Kit; all in; haven't the strength of a cat. Ah, great God! If that strength had but lasted a moment longer! Well, he's still alive. But, O, my Kit, my golden Kit, to see you here is to be tortured like the damned. And it is all my fault, all mine!" The man who had once been so strong sobbed hysterically.

"There were rare and wonderful jewels of which I alone knew the hiding place. But you and I, we were not greedy; I wanted them for you and I, and I knew you were here. Trust that black devil to announce the fact to me. God! what I haven't suffered in the way of suspense! Kit, Kit, what has he done to you?"

Briefly she recounted her adventures, and when she had done he bowed his head upon her bare shoulder and wept as only strong men, made weak, weep.

To Kathlyn it was terrible. "Father, don't do it! You hurt me! I can't stand it!"

After a while he said: "What shall we do, Kit; what shall we do?"

"I will marry him, father," she answered quietly. "We can take our revenge afterward."

"What?"

"What?"

"Child, let me see you here. What! Would you trust him, knowing his false heart as you do? The moment you married him would be my death warrant. No, no! If you weaken now I shall curse you, curse you, my Kit! There has been horror enough, I can tell."

"Well, and so can I, father."

Silence, then a gasp; a shriek; a laugh came faintly through the window, and later the tinkle of music. Up above the world was going on the same as usual. Trains were hurrying to and fro; the great ships were going down; the asphalt seas; children were at play, and the world wide markets were buying with the daily affairs of men.

"Jewels!" she murmured, gazing at the sky beyond the gridded window. Was there ever a precious stone that lay not in the shadow of blood and misery? Poor, poor, foolish father! As if jewels were in beauty a title of the misery they brought!

"Ay, Kit, jewels; sapphires and rubies and emeralds, diamonds and pearls and moonstones. And I wanted them for my pretty cubs! Umballah knew that I would return for them and laid his plans. But were they not mine?"

"Yes, if you intended to rule these people; no, if you thought to take them away. Do you not know that to Winnie and me a hair of your head is more precious than the Koh-i-noor? We must put our heads together and plan some way to get out."

She dropped her arms from his shoulders and walked about the cell, searching every stone. Their only hope lay in the window, and that appeared impossible since she had no means of filling through her father's chains and the bars of the window. She returned and sat down beside her father and rested her aching head on her knees, thinking, thinking.

Bruce, struggling with the soldiers (and long since their fat flesh had been stung into such activity), saw Umballah appear in the corridor.

"Durga Ram," he said, with a furious effort to free his arms, "Durga Ram, you damnable scoundrel, it would be wise for you to kill me, here and now, for if I ever get free, God help you! O, I shall kill you; that would be too merciful. But I'll break your bones, one by one, and never more shall you stand and walk. Do you hear me? Where is Kathlyn Hare? She is mine!"

Umballah showed his teeth in what was an attempt to smile. He still saw flashes of fire before his eyes, and it was yet difficult to breathe naturally. Still, he could twist this white man's heart, play with him.

"Take him away. Put him outside the city gates and let him go."

Bruce was greatly astonished at this sign of clemency.

"SHE IS A TIGER-CAT, AND TIGER-CATS MUST SOMETIMES BE FLOGGED. IT IS MY WILL."

"But," added Umballah, crossing his lips with his tongue, "place him against a wall and shoot him if he is caught within the city. He is mad, and therefore I am lenient. There is no white woman in the palace or in the royal serana. Off with him!"

"You lie, Durga Ram! You found her in the slave mart today."

Umballah shrugged and waved his hand. He could have had Bruce shot at once, but it pleased him to dangle death before the eyes of his rival. He was no fool; he saw the trend of affairs. This young white man loved Kathlyn Hare. All the better. All the better, in view of what was to come.

Bruce was conducted to the gate and rudely pushed outside. He turned savagely, but a dozen black officers convinced him that this time he would meet death. Ah, where was Ah, and Ahmed, and the man Lal Singh, who was to notify the English? He found all at camp, the chief mahout having been conducted there in an improvised litter. He recounted his experiences.

"I was helpless, sahib."

"No more than I am, All. But be of good cheer; Umballah and I shall meet soon, man to man."

"Thank, All; that's the best news I have heard."

"And sometimes," said Bruce, moodily, "he watches over the innocent."

"Ahmed is at Hare Sahib's camp."

"Thank, All; that's the best news I have heard yet. Ahmed will find a way. Take care of yourself, I'm off!"

When Umballah appeared before the council their astonishment knew no bounds. The city tined skin, the shaking hands, the disheveled garments—what had happened to this schemer whom all luck had made their master?

He explained, "I went too near our prisoner. A flash of strength was enough. They shall be flogged."

"But the woman?"

"Woman? She is a tiger-cat, and tiger-cats must sometimes be flogged. It is my will. Now I have news for you. There is another sister, younger and weaker. Our queen, and she saluted ironically, "our queen did not know that her father lived, and father would stoop and pat her head.

Presently there was a stir about camp. An elephant shuffled into the clearing. He was halted, made to kneel, and Ahmed stepped out of the howdah.

The little girl ran up to Ahmed joyfully and begged to be put into the howdah. Smiling, Ahmed set her in the howdah, and the mahout bade the elephant rise, but, interested in some orders by Ahmed, left the beast to his own devices. The child called and the elephant walked off quietly. So long as he remained within range of vision no one paid any attention to him. Finally he paused under a tree near the cages and reached up for some leaves. The child caught hold of a limb and gleefully crawled out upon it some distance beyond the elephant's reach. Once there, she became frightened, not daring to crawl back.

She prattled "elephant talk," but the old fellow could not reach her. The baboon in the cage set up a chattering. The child ordered the elephant to rise on his hind legs. He placed his fore legs on the roof of the baboon's cage, which caved in, rather disturbing the elephant's calm. He sank to the ground.

The baboon leaped through the opening and made off to test his unexpected liberty. He was friendly and tame, but freedom was just then paramount.

The elephant remained under the tree, as if pondering, while the child began to cry loudly. One of the natives saw her predicament and hastened away for assistance.

Ahmed was greatly alarmed over the loss of the baboon. It was a camp pet of Colonel Hare's and ran free in camp whenever the Colonel was there. He had captured it, when a mere baby in British East Africa. The troglodite, with that strange reasoning yet untranslatable, loved the Colonel devotedly and followed him about like a dog and with a scent far keener. So Ahmed and some of the keepers set off in search of the Colonel's pet.

He went about the search with only half a heart. Only a little while before he had received the news that the baboon, Umballah's spy, had been seen what had happened in the slave mart that afternoon. It seemed incredible. To have her fall into Umballah's hands thus easily, when he and Bruce Sahib had searched the jungle far and wide! Well, she was alive; praise Allah for that; and where there was life there was hope.

Later Kathlyn was standing under the cell window gazing at the yellow sunset. She shuddered. Had she been alone she would have hunted for something sharp and deadly. But her father; not before him. She must wait. One thing was positive and absolute; Umballah should never embrace her; she was too strong and desperate.

"Kit!"

"Yes, father."

"I have a sharp piece of metal in my pocket. Could you . . . My God, by my hand! . . . when he comes?"

"Yes, father; I am not afraid to die, and death seems all that remains. I should bless you. He will be a tiger now."

"My child, God was good to give me a daughter like you."

She turned to him this time and pressed him to her heart.

"It grows dark suddenly," he said.

Kathlyn glanced over her shoulder at the window. "Why, it's a baboon!" she explained.

"Jock, Jock!" cried her father excitedly.

The baboon chattered.

"Kit, it's Jock I used to tell you about. He is tame and follows me about like a dog. Jock, poor Jock!"

"Father, have you a pencil?"

"A pencil?" blankly.

"Yes, yes, I can write a note an attach it to Jock. It's a chance."

"Good Lord! and you're cool enough to think like that!" The Colonel went through his pockets feverishly. "Thank God, here's an old stub! But paper?"

Kathlyn tore off a broad blade of grass from her dress and wrote carefully upon it. If it fell into the hands of the natives they would not understand. If the baboon returned to camp . . . It made her weak to realize how slender the chance was. She took the tabaret and placed it beneath the window and stood upon it.

The dreaming man seated at a table came out of his dream with a start. A servant ran to the gate.

"Who calls?" demanded Ramabai, suspicious, as all conspirators ever are.

"It is I, Bruce," was the reply in English, flinging aside his burmese.

"Bruce Sahib? Open!" cried Ramabai. "What do you here? Have you found her?"

Ramabai's wife, Pundia, came from the house. She recognized Bruce immediately.

"The memsahib! Have you found her?"

"Just a moment. Kathlyn Memsahib is in one of the palace dungeons. She must be liberated tonight. We need money to bribe what sentries are about." Bruce went on to relate the incident of the baboon. "This proves that the note was written not more than three hours ago. She probably will be held there till morning. This time we'll place her far beyond the reach of Umballah."

"Either my money or my life. In a month from now . . ."

"What?" asked Ahmed.

"Ah, I must not tell." Pundia stole close to Ramabai, Ahmed smiled.

"We have elephants but a little way outside the city. We have pulling chains. Let us be off at once. It is not necessary to enter the city, for this window, Ahmed says, is on the outside. We can easily approach the wall in a roundabout way without being seen. Have you money?"

From his belt Ramabai produced some gold.

"That will be sufficient. To you, then, the bribing. The men should there be any, will bark to you. Come!" concluded Bruce, impatient to be off.

"And I?" timidly asked Pundia.

"You will seek Hare Sahib's camp," said Ramabai. "This is a good opportunity to get you away also."

Ahmed nodded approvingly.

Pundia kissed her husband; for these two loved each other, a circumstance almost unknown in this dark, mysterious land of many gods.

"Pundia, you will remain at the camp in readiness to receive us. At dawn we shall leave for the frontier. And when we return it will be with night and spiritual. Umballah shall die the death of a dog." Ramabai clinched his hands.

"But first," cooed Ahmed, "he shall wear out the soles of his pig's feet in the treadmill. It is written: I am a Mohammedan. Yet sometimes these vile fakirs have the gift of seeing into the future. And one has seen . . . He paused.

"Seen what?" demanded Bruce.

"I must not put false hopes in your hearts. But this I may say: Trials will come, bitter and heart burning; a storm, a whirlwind, a fire; but peace is after that. But Allah uses us as his tools. Let us haste!"

"And I?" said Ramabai, sending a piercing glance at Ahmed.

But Ahmed smiled and shook his head. "Wait and see, Ramabai. Some day they will call you the Fortunate. Let us hurry. My memsahib waits."

"What did this fakir see?" whispered Bruce as he donned his burmese agnis.

"Many wonderful things; but perhaps the fakir lied. They all lie. Yet . . . Hurry!"

The quarter passed out of the city unmolested. Ramabai's house was supposed to be under strict surveillance; but the soldiers, due to largess, were junketing in the bazaars. Shortly they came up to two elephants with howdahs. They were the best mannered of the half dozen owned or rented by Colonel Hare. Mahouts sat astride. Rifles reposed in the side sheaths. There was to be no light adventure. There might be a small warfare.

Pundia flung her arms round Ramabai, and he consoled her. She was then led away to the Colonel's camp.

"Remember," Ramabai said at parting, "she saved both our lives. We owe a debt."

"Go, my lord; and may all the gods—say, the Christian God—watch over you!"

"Forward!" growled Ahmed. First, though, he saw to it that the pulling chains were well wrapped in cotton blankets. There must be no sound to warn others of their approach.

"Ahmed," began Bruce.

"Leave all things to me, Sahib," interrupted Ahmed, who assumed authority at times that confused and puzzled Bruce. "It is my memsahib, and I am one of the fingers of the long arm of the British Raj. And there are books in Calcutta in which my name is written in red."

Through the moon frosted jungle the two elephants moved silently. A drove of wild pigs scampered across the path and the wild peacock hissed from the underbrush sleepily. All silence again. Several times Ahmed halted, straining his ears. It seemed incredible to Bruce that the enormous beasts could move so soundlessly. It was a part of their business; they were hunter of their kind.

At length they came out into the open at the rear of the prison. Here Ramabai got down and went in search of any sentries. He returned almost at once with the good news that there was none.

The marble walls shimmered like clusters of dull opals. What misery had been known behind their crumbling beauty!

Ahmed marked the tree and raised his hand as a sign.

"Bruce Sahib!" he called.

"Yes, Ahmed. I'll risk it first."

Bruce viewed the elephant to the barred window. His heart beat wildly. He leaned down from his howdah and strove to peer within.

"Kathlyn Hare?" he whispered.

"Who is it?"

"Bruce."

"Father, father!" Bruce heard her cry; "they have found us!"

Ahmed heard the call; and he sighed as one who had Allah to think. Together! God was great and Mahomet was his prophet.

"Listen," said Bruce. "We shall hook chains to the bars and pull them out, without noise if possible. The moment they give . . . Have you something to stand on?"

"Yes, taboret."

"That will serve. You stand on it and I'll pull you up and through. Then your father."

"Father is in chains."

"Ahmed, he is in chains. What in God's name shall we do?"

"Return for me later," cried Hare. "Don't bother about me. Get Kit away, and quickly. Umballah may return at any moment. To work to work, Bruce, and God bless you!"

They flew to the task. Round the hooks Ahmed had wrapped cloths to ward against the clank of metal against metal. The hooks were deftly engaged. Bruce gave the signal and the elephants started forward. The chains grew taut. So far there was but little noise. The elephants leaped against the chains; the bars bent and sprang suddenly from their ancient sockets.

Kathlyn was free!

SUCH LETTERS AS THIS EXPLAIN WHY Everybody Uses Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a Spring Tonic

We have on file thousands of letters telling of similar cures by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Skeptics are invited to write to Mrs. Scarbo for confirmation of her cure.

Mrs. Jules Scarbo, Moulinette, Stormont Co., Ont., writes:—"I think it is my duty to write and let you know the great benefit I received from taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Early last fall I became greatly run down, could scarcely eat anything and could not sleep at night. The least sound would make me start and I was so nervous I could hardly bear to have anyone talk to me. I tried many medicines but none helped me and I was in this extremely nervous condition for five months.

"I read in the almanac about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and bought 3 boxes from Mr. Armstrong, druggist at Mille Roches. Before completing the first box I felt the benefit and now believe the cure to be thorough and complete. I am feeling fine and eat and sleep well, thanks to the wonderful good, accomplished by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I wish every body troubled as I was knew of this grand medicine, which is so quick in action and so permanent in results. It will always have my praise."

You can avoid the feelings of fatigue and depression which make spring so dreaded by very many who are not in robust health. Sleeplessness, irritability, indigestion and headaches soon disappear when you increase the vitality of the mind and body by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. ## THE AMATEUR BASEBALL SITUATION

A number of those interested in amateur baseball met in the rooms of the St. John Athletic Club on Germain street last evening and after some discussion it was decided to organize a city league. It was shown that the Athletic Club had made arrangements for the Marathon grounds for evening baseball and were willing to enter a team in the league.

The Rockland A. A. team decided to enter and it was also stated that a team from the West End wished to enter. Although there was no representative from the North End it is almost a certainty that there will be a team representing that section of the city. It is also possible that a team from the South End will be entered.

Each team entering the league will be required to make an entrance fee of $15 and each team will share in the gate receipts during the season.

The City League will have the grounds four evenings in the week, the other two evenings have been allotted to a church league.

The meeting was adjourned until Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock sharp, when it is thought that all the league details will be completed.

The bank clerks have organized a league in the city and arrangements were made for them yesterday to have the use of the Marathon grounds between the hours of five and seven o'clock in the evening.

With the Maritime City, East End, Bankers, West End and Church leagues St. John fans will have plenty of baseball this season.

THE EASTERN POWER BOAT ASSOCIATION

The Eastern Canadian Section of the American Power Boat Association met yesterday in the R. K. Y. Club rooms and completed the election of officers for the season.

They are as follows:
Chairman—Commodore S. P. Gerow.
Vice-Chairman—A. R. Crookshank.
Secretary—Harold A. Allison.
Treasurer—L. J. Gallagher.
Measurer—W. C. Rothwell.
Assistant Measurer—J. D. Brosnan.

A request from the Board of Trade for the section to sanction and to look after the running of the Norton Griffiths trophy race was granted.

This race is for speed boats, 40 feet and under, and will be run over the North Wharf and Beacon Buoy harbor course at 7 o'clock on the evening of July 17th.

The race promises to be more interesting than usual this year as owners of fast craft from neighboring clubs have signified their intention to have a try for the shield.

The holding of a long distance race to Fredericton this year was advocated but action was deferred to a later meeting.

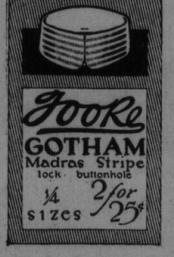

The section expects to have a busy season as considerable interest in the plans for the different races is already being shown in boating circles.

NOTABLES IN TURF CIRCLES

Louisville, Ky., May 8.—Many notables in turf circles of the United States are gathered in Louisville to witness the fortieth annual Kentucky derby at one mile and a quarter, which will be run tomorrow afternoon. Interest in this event this year appears greater than ever before owing to the fact that the purse is the largest in the history of the derby. Horsemen declare the entries comprise one of the most remarkable bands of three-year-olds ever brought together in a race in the country.

With $10,000 added the purse this year will reach about $13,500, or about $50,000 to the winner.

Out of forty-seven eligibles there are ten horses which their owners have declared are certain to start, and two or three others which may go to the post. The favorite appears to be Old Rosebud, owned by H. C. Applegate, of Louisville, which will carry 114 pounds, and is quoted at about seven to five.

Some men, sometimes, can board the flying street car or "monkey with the buzz-saw" in a mill or factory, and get away with it. But that's how accidents happen. Some men, sometimes, can shave with an open blade razor and avoid cutting themselves. But thousands agree that the chances are against it.

THE Gillette Safety Razor

was the practical forerunner of to-day's "Safety First" movement. What engineers are doing now to safeguard tools and transportation, King C. Gillette did ten years ago for that much used tool, the razor. And while he made the razor safe, he also made it keener, harder and handier than the old open blade. That thin, electrically tempered blade, gripped rigid in the adjustable holder, gives the cleanest, smoothest and quickest, as well as the safest shave man has ever enjoyed.

Successful Production Of Milk For City Consumption

The ever-increasing consumption of milk and cream in the cities of Montreal and Ottawa, to say nothing of our towns and villages, and is creating a vast change in the output of dairy products in eastern Ontario and western Quebec. A few years ago the creamery and cheese factories were the only markets for our cream and milk outside of a comparatively few producers within easy reach of these cities. In many places the creamery and cheese have been closed; especially in this true section through which a railroad passes, the milk now going to the city where a higher price is realized. Montreal's milk supply was not so many years ago all produced on the island. With a city pushing its boundaries on three sides and increasing her population at the rate of over 30,000 per year, much of the land used formerly for milk production is now sold for building and other purposes. Consequently the city has to further extend for its milk supply and to depend largely on the railway to bring in the milk and cream required for distribution. The city of Montreal consumes daily 60,000 gallons of milk, 75 per cent of which is brought in by rail. This is supplemented by over 4000 gallons of cream, used as sweet cream, and for the making of ice-cream and butter. This represents the production of 1800 one-hundred-acre farms, situated within a radius of 100 miles of Montreal.

The City of Ottawa consumes daily 10,000 gallons of milk and about 500 gallons of cream, only four per cent of which comes in by rail. This represents the output of 300 one-hundred-acre farms. Thus Montreal and Ottawa take the output of milk and cream farms. It would be interesting to know just how many of the men of these farms could be termed successful milk producers. I fear not as large a number as we would expect. You ask me to define what I mean by the term "successful" milk producer. It is the farmer who meets the conditions imposed by the city, who furnishes his customer with a milk of cream of good uniform quality, and from which he realizes a return for his product that will give him a reasonable profit on his labor or investment. What are the demands of the customer? That he be furnished with a milk free from objectionable flavors, colors, and sediment and containing a fair amount of butter fat, and a comparatively low bacterial count. In other words it must be clean milk. Whatever may be said to the contrary, it is no easy task, especially in winter, to produce clean milk. To do so means an additional outlay of time and money and to meet this extra expense an extra price should be paid. Clean milk should sell for more than unclean milk, and any factor which furnishes a good market for quantities of clean sweet milk tends towards the elevation of the sanitary plane in the production of all milk. With this end in view the city authorities have adopted regulations which are of a most exacting character, covering the production, transportation and distribution of milk. They have inspectors whose duty it is to see that these regulations are enforced. Their work usually is not highly educational, but rather educational, and it is one of their prime duties to refuse to allow his milk to be sold for consumption. In the two cities previously referred

Varieties Of Fruits---New Brunswick

The wrong selection of varieties, not only in this Province, but all places where fruit is grown, has occasioned enormous loss and great disappointment to fruit growers. As it is quite evident that a want of information on this matter is still a source of annoyance and loss to our farmers, and is also recording a great many black marks against fruit growing in this province, an endeavor here is made to give some sort of guidance in the selection of varieties. It should be borne in mind, however, that the selection of varieties is by no means an easy task, for although we may know that within a given area, say, of this Province, certain varieties have proved successful, yet there are sections of that area in which certain of those varieties do better than others. Moreover, apart from the particular section for which we may be asked to recommend certain varieties, and of which we may be well informed, the question of transportation, of the object of the orchard, whether for home use, local or export marketing, and perhaps most important of all, the individuality of the intending planter himself, are all factors entering into the final selection. The recommendation following represents the result of personal observations made during the past three years, together with the life experience of our leading growers.

Apples. Not recommended at all: Ben Davis, Gano. Not to be planted on their own roots: Northern Spy, American Baldwin, Rhode Island Greening, King of Tompkins, Gravenstein, Bishop Pippin, Ribston Pippin, Blue Pearmain, Blenheim Pippin, Ontario and Wagener. In the best sections of Albert, Kings, Charlotte, Queens, Sunbury, Westmorland and York Counties, the Bishop Pippin, Ribston Pippin and Blue Pearmain can be grown successfully by topgrafting to harder stocks, such as Talman Sweet, Alexander and McMahon's White. While very excellent specimens grown top-grafted of Northern Spy, Gravenstein, American Baldwin, King of Tompkins, Rhode Island Greening, and Blenheim Orange have been shown, and they may be grown for home use, they are recommended for commercial plantings, except perhaps to a certain extent in the southern part of Albert and Charlotte Counties, where the climate is milder and they do well. South of a straight line drawn east and west from Woodstock to Shediac, the following varieties have proved hardy and valuable: Summer-Crimson Beauty, Red Astrachan, Yellow Transparent, Autumn-Duchess, New Brunswick, and Dudley.

Early Winter—Wealthy, Alexander, Wolfe River, Fameuse, McIntosh Red, Ribston Pippin (best top-grafted). Winter—Bishop Pippin top-grafted, Bethel, Canada Baldwin, Talman Sweet and Plewauke. The last variety is not highly recommended. Additional winter varieties well worthy of trial are Milwaukee and North Western Greening. Scott's Winter and Golden Russet have both proved hardy, but the former bears large crops of undersized apples, and needs heavy thinning, while the latter, being a shy bearer, is only recommended for home use. North of the same line the following varieties are recommended: Summer-Crimson Beauty, Yellow Transparent. Autumn—Duchess, New Brunswick, Dudley (doing well in the illustration orchards on the North Shore). Early and Midwinter—Wealthy, Wolfe River, Fameuse, Alexander, McIntosh Red. Winter—Scott's Winter, Canada Baldwin, Winter St. Lawrence, Milwaukee. Some of the varieties mentioned in the southern district may prove hardy enough for the northern section, but they have not been sufficiently tested to yet recommend them as reliable. For commercial apple growing, where the orchards will range larger, the Fameuse, McIntosh Red, Bethel, Bishop Pippin and Talman Sweet will find a ready sale at good prices on the local market. For export purposes from this list we would leave out the Bishop Pippin and Talman Sweet, and add the Duchess, Dudley, Wealthy and Alexander or Wolfe River. The following varieties are being tested in the illustration orchards and throughout the province generally, and it is hoped will provide us with one or two good commercial sorts. Rolfe, Windsor chief, La Salle, Solome, Scarlet Pippin, Northwestern Greening, Peerless, Peter and Milwaukee. In the illustration orchards the Milwaukee has proved quite hardy up to the present time, is a vigorous grower and is the earliest and heaviest bearer of all. It should make a good filler for commercial orchards in this province and appears to be well adapted to our soil and climate conditions. Crab Apples—Martha, Whitney and Hyslop. For Plums—Moore's Arctic, Yellow Egg, Lombard and Washington have proved hardy in the best sections with proper care. Additional varieties that are worthy of trial in these sections are Glass Seedling, Monarch, Field and Gennil. In the northern sections only Moore's Arctic and Yellow Egg are recommended. For Pears—Clapp's Favorite has

THE DANGERS OF DUST AND HOW THEY MAY BE AVOIDED

Written by Miss E. Winter, supervisor of Women's Institutes for the Province of New Brunswick.

The dictionary tells us that "dust is the fine dry particles of earth or other matter, pulverized, that may be raised and wafted by the wind."

There are many kinds of dust, but the one which we wish to deal with is the simple, common, everyday dust, which the particular housekeeper as well as the cleanly citizen has to battle with.

We shall leave the citizen to fight his own battles and just help the housekeeper to overcome what she considers almost as difficult a problem as the fly, the household pest.

The dust which I wish to write about, may be divided into two classes; firstly, to larger bodies consisting of small bits of sand, fine hairs, ashes, particles of soil, plaster and many other which I shall not take the space to mention; secondly, the tiny particles which show up more clearly when strongly illuminated. For instance, if they are in considerable quantities they may be seen quite plainly when the sun's rays strike "moties in the subseams."

These smaller particles which breathe in unconsciously. They are also laden with dried bacteria which quickly settle, leaving the finer dust made up of other forms of superfluous matter and different species of molecules.

The search for bacteria by the aid of the microscope is almost useless, but the living elements of the air are studied by means of the "culture method." Thus, mix a small quantity of fluid with some form of gelatin which serves as a food on which the germs will readily grow. Pour a thin layer of this substance into a shallow dish and allow it to cool. Leave it exposed to the dust for five minutes, and after leaving it in a warm place for a few days you will notice bacteria, and molds which have developed on the surface.

Knowing the unlimited number of bacteria and molds which are everywhere, it is natural to conclude that the number of germs in the dust out-of-doors would be very great, but this is not so. Nearly everywhere, the currents of air so dilute the air as to make the average number per cubic foot, very small, and then again when the ground is wet the number of germs are still further diminished.

The still air of a room contains only a few light spores or micro-organisms, because the heavier parts of dust gradually sink to the floor, shelves, furniture, etc. Ventilation unless very complete does not carry off the dust particles and bacteria. A room with a window is a room in which the germs mostly settle, but when disturbed by strong currents of air, or people moving about, the germs are stirred up.

This air, full of dust and bacteria, we breathe into our bodies. Dr. Mitchell Prudden's book on "Dust and its Dangers," tells us that the average amount of air which a healthy grown-up person takes in each breath has been estimated to be about thirty cubic inches, thus with every twenty breaths one may take into his body, depending upon the rate, the way from eleven to three hundred and seventy-six living micro-organisms together with a variable amount of inorganic dust.

Some large particles found in the air are caught up by the very tiny delicate hairs of the nose, called Cilia. If very small foreign bodies are breathed in, there are certain cells called Phagocytes which are supposed to contain curative properties. Although the lungs may be crowded with dust, these Lymph Glands very seldom allow any dust to get into the blood or other parts of the body.

Remember, most of the bacteria or living germs do not grow in the body, simply because they do not find in the human body the necessary food or conditions which they need, and are thus soon carried away.

Considering all these methods of keeping dust from entering the body, if some dust particles do happen to enter, they do serious harm to human beings. They sometimes cause disease, and a few forms of bacteria will multiply in the body and also cause disease, but many of the common bacteria are harmless.

The most important disease caused by bacteria is tuberculosis. These tuberculous bacteria are often taken in with the food, but as the seat of consumption is generally in the lungs, we come to the conclusion, and has been proven as well, that the bacteria producing this disease are inhaled in the air. Germs are conveyed to other people by carelessness in cleanliness and allowing sputum from the lungs to dry and mix with the air.

The breath of a consumptive contains no germs and is therefore not harmful, but the sputum in his spatters. A consumptive who coughs and falls to hold a handkerchief over the mouth, is very liable to spread the disease, for the sputum, which is in the air they will dry and then be scattered about and either get on our clothing or light on the food which we eat.

I am going more into detail than I intended to, but it is well to mention here that the sputum cup, which is a small cup made of paper, is much preferred and far safer than the handkerchief or cloth, and should be used in contagious diseases, such as consumption, diphtheria and whooping cough, should be burned as soon after using as possible, as the sputum dries quickly and a current of air will carry the germs in all directions, thus spreading the dreaded disease.

To go back to our main subject—the dust of out-door air is not of much danger unless the place is extremely filthy. Indoors conditions are different. Carpets and heavy hangings retain the dust, thus the carpeted floors are being done away with and more hard-wood floors with rugs which can be cleaned out-of-doors, are used. The rugs and even linoleums are much more sanitary, and it is better to have few and light hangings and plain furniture.

In furnishing a home the housekeeper should take these things into consideration and one who is remodeling her home should do likewise. By adopting the more up-to-date methods, it not only makes housework lighter, but it prevents disease and sickness.

When dusting your rooms, open the windows so that there is a good current of air circulating through the room, and instead of just "stirring up" the dust, as it is often done, the good circulation will carry away the dust and germs. It is well to use moist dusting cloths.

To avoid raising much dust when sweeping, the housekeeper may sprinkle her carpets with scraps of damp newspaper or moist tea-leaves. Some use slightly dampened coarse salt, but this is difficult to get thoroughly on a carpet and has been found to rot carpets when allowed to stay in them any length of time.

Of course there are more up-to-date methods for cleaning carpets, by the use of the vacuum-cleaner and carpet-sweeper, and these are real labor-saving devices and no housekeeper should be without them, but aid one mother, "For spring cleaning, give me the pure air, a windy day, and plenty of sunshine, and my carpets and rugs will not only be cleaner but the sunlight will have killed any germs lurking in them."

It is well to put a clean piece of cheese-cloth, or cotton for that matter, over the nose and mouth, when sweeping and dusting, as the dust irritates the membranes of the nose, causing a smarting sensation, and if taken into the lungs, it irritates the bronchial tubes, making one feel dry and chokey and often causing a hoarseness.

Many of us know the hair is a great place for germs to lurk in, thus the tidy housekeeper never fails to wear a dust-cap, on sweeping and dusting.

In reading this article over, perhaps many of you are thinking, "What is being said so particular about things which we can't see. Years ago people knew nothing about bacteria and why worry about it now?" The things which you think people who view it in this light, are inclined to be narrow-minded and selfish. Let them remember that the combination of germs and dust will not only be cleaner but the sunlight will have killed any germs lurking in them."

Therefore, let each housekeeper do her best towards preventing the spread of germs, and on her shoulders rest the responsibility of not only making use in her own life of those methods which prevent bacteria distribution, but she must instruct all in her home to take the necessary precautions, and if we all do our share in this great battle, in time the ignorant as well as the careless may overcome the dangers of dust.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

This paper was written by Mrs. A. C. Bell and read at a meeting of the Andover Branch of the New Brunswick Women's Institutes.

Music originally was defined "an art over which the Muses presided." Terpischore being the particular muse of music. Webster says, "Music is a succession of sounds, modulated so as to be pleasing to the ear." Music, by combination of sounds arranged with such connection and mutual relation, expresses to the ear some distinct train of thought, or awakens certain corresponding emotions. Thus the mind is affected through the ear in a way similar to that a painting or fine piece of sculpture may affect the mind through the eye.

We speak of music as one of the fine arts, and the study of music must then be one of the ways in which we are educated through the ear. Why then should we encourage music in the home? A few of the reasons suggested to me are:

(1) Music is a source of education. In our homes our education begins. Whether it is in the training of the hands, training the mind to think, educating through the eye, ear or any of the other senses, we generally receive our first lessons in the home. As music develops our minds through the ear, it is a part of our education which can well be fostered. Paderewski says:—"To know a little music is a good thing." When a little is known, the ambition is aroused to acquire more and as one keeps on we find we can enjoy and appreciate music of a higher class and we often hear the expression "Our ears are being educated up to certain standards."

(2) Music has a refining influence. In this age, when we are looking for pleasures of some kind and various kinds of entertainments, we may sometimes find ourselves in places where the amusements are of a questionable character, and the finer sensibilities are blunted, and things which at first appeared coarse and vulgar, become a matter of course. By listening to music of the right kind and participating in it, noble thoughts will be aroused, lofty ambitions will be developed and good resolutions formed, which will be of help to all young people.

(3) Music will promote order in the younger ones. We all noticed how a company of young children will seem to respond to martial music or march music, as we may call it, and will quickly come into file and march away. It seems to be something innate in them. The sense of order developed through the marching music to the surface through this kind of music. Why is it soldiers are under orders through the notes of the bugle? Their ears are developed through the exercise of music. I read the following item the other day. "The warden of a prison in Ohio conceived the idea of having the orchestra play in the dining-hall during meal times. Previous to this the fights among the convicts had started in the dining-room. After the music was begun there had never been an infraction of dining-hall rules. We all remember, when some years ago, how the band of the ill-fated steamer "Titanic" played 'till the vessel sank, and the survivors tell us perfect order was maintained by passengers and crew."

(4) Music has a soothing effect. A Russian Professor of music has said, "Music is a powerful medicine of the soul and the medical science of the future will not fail to exploit its therapeutic value." Napoleon said "Music has the greatest influence over the passions and is that which the legislator ought to give the greatest encouragement." "Concove said, "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast," and we are all familiar with the Bible story of Saul: That when the evil spirit was upon him his servants asked that they might seek out a man who is a cunning player on the harp and when the evil spirit was upon Saul the player should play and he would be well. And it was the harp and when the evil spirit departed and was well and the evil spirit departed from him. Ancient writers also tell us that music was one of the first recorded remedies for madness and was strongly recommended by Asclepiades. It is said "there is no better cure for bad humor than music and no medicine more pleasant to take. Music is to the ear what luscious fruits are to the taste."

(5) Music is a great factor in the worship of God. Carlyle says, "Nothing among the utterances allowed to the first recorded remedies for madness and was strongly recommended by Asclepiades. It is said "there is no better cure for bad humor than music and no medicine more pleasant to take. Music is to the ear what luscious fruits are to the taste."

(6) Music is a source of entertainment and amusement. We all look to be entertained and amused. Wherever we are, wherever we go we look for something to please or while away the time. To those who are fond of home life, and where the spirit of home life is fostered, you will generally find that music plays a prominent part in that household. The family may not all understand the classics, but they will all know enough to enjoy the songs that please, the old household melodies and the tunes of sacred music. If I was talking with a mother a short time ago. The parents had brought into the home an organ and the only daughter had learned to play a little. The mother said, "I do not know whether we should have gotten this instrument or not, but the music we have keeps the family together in the evenings and on Sundays." I thought how wise to invest in something to keep the family at home and together. Where there is so much to attract the youth from the home, what more beautiful picture can be seen than a family household enjoying an hour of song and music. Certainly no harm can befall such so occupied and with the enjoyment comes the knowledge we are developing faculties entrusted to us. No family can afford to do without music. It is a luxury and also an economy. When rightly used, its effects physically, intellectually and morally are good and only good.

Music makes home attractive, contributes friendly feeling, and where the family cultivates good music, peace, harmony and love prevail and the greatest vices have no abiding place. A writer has said: "The world needs music; the touching domestic song that tells in few words the loves, the trials, or the blisses of life; the more sacred music that leads the soul to communion with God." The poor cry aloud for music, they are tired of the inharmonious din of toll, and a few sweet notes bring with them hours of pleasure to the weary and world-forsaken. Parents should not fail to consider the great value of home music. When children have been taught music they have something to produce amusement at home and very often when the amusement is provided in the home, the young will not look elsewhere for it and will not be led into places of vice and immorality. Very often the reason young people become dissipated and have the desire to be away from home is the lack of amusement and entertainment in the home.

Flour trial is essential but— it is not your work!

Flour varies from time to time in baking quality. This is because wheat continually varies according to soil conditions, etc.

Therefore, if baking results are to be constantly high, baking tests are essential. It is unreasonable to expect you to make these tests at your expense.

So from each shipment of wheat delivered at our mills we take a ten pound sample. This is ground into flour. Bread is baked from the flour. If this bread is high in quality and large in quantity, we use the shipment. Otherwise we sell it.

By simply asking for FLOUR bearing this name you can always be sure of more bread and better bread.

Let me talk to you about Anaemia

Our blood is composed of red and white corpuscles—the red to nourish the body, the white to fight disease. In Anaemia, the red corpuscles are more or less deficient. Thus the blood cannot properly sustain and nourish the body. The eyes become dull, the face white, and a feeling of intense weariness pervades the whole system. There is nothing so effective in Anaemia as "Wingarnis." Because "Wingarnis" floods the body with new, rich, red blood, which gives a sparkle to the eyes, brings the roses into the cheeks, and gives new vigour, new vitality and new life to the whole body. Will you try it?

GLEN FALLS

The Coming Industrial and Residential Suburb

COLDBROOK, N. B.

GLEN FALLS, N.B.
The Property of
THE COLDBROOK REALTY & DEVELOPMENT CO.

Of particular interest to the man of small means, who tired of living within the close confines of a city flat or tenement, would like to own a home in the suburbs within a few minutes ride of the city.

While we have only commenced to advertise this valuable property, we are pleased to be able to state that the results have exceeded our greatest expectations. Before doing any advertising we wished to make such improvements as would enable purchasers of lots to immediately commence the building of comfortable homes, complete with all those conveniences which add so greatly to the enjoyment of, and which in fact are nowadays considered indispensable in the modern home. As will be seen by a glance at the Map, Glen Falls, Coldbrook, N. B., is in an ideal situation, located, as it is, in the triangle between Rothersey Avenue (formerly known as the Marsh Road) and the Golden Grove Road.

Our work of developing this property to date has consisted of the creating of a BEAUTIFUL LAKE AND WATER SYSTEM by the erection of a reinforced Concrete Dam on a clear rushing stream fed by cold springs high up the Glen Falls Valley on the Company's property. From this reservoir water is piped to all parts of the property.

And the building of:
GOOD GRAVEL ROADS. We have spent large sums of money on the construction of good gravel roads, which will later be widened into broad and well laid out streets and avenues. One of the prettiest drives imaginable is along the Glen Falls Road, winding, as it does, in and out among the hills and following the Glen Falls Stream for a considerable distance, terminating at the Lake which is about a mile and a half from Rothersey Avenue.

SUBURBAN TRAINS. All Intercolonial Railway suburban trains now stop at Coldbrook Station, which is only a few minutes walk from all parts of the property, and in addition a right of way for a street has been purchased by our Company to an even more convenient location on the Intercolonial where it is the Company's intention to erect an artistic suburban station designed after the style of those to be found at Banff and Lake Louise in the Rock Mountains which resemble Swiss Cottages.

The trains of the GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RAILWAY will pass the property, as will undoubtedly those of the St. John Valley Railway, upon the completion of these roads.

ELECTRIC LIGHT. What modern home is complete without it? The wires of the St. John Railway Company now run into the property, and should you have your home wired for electricity they will supply you with it at reasonable cost.

LOW RATE OF TAXATION. These improvements have all been made at the Company's expense and are included in the first cost of lots.

A GOOD SCHOOL. You need not send your boys and girls to the city for their education as there is a well equipped school in Coldbrook in charge of capable instructors.

TEN YEARS IN WHICH TO PAY. We will sell you these lots on the half yearly instalment plan covering a period of ten years.

PRICES. We will sell you a lot twice, and in some cases three times, as large as a City lot for less than a quarter of the price.

ELECTRIC CARS. Before August of this year the St. John Street Railway will have completed the laying of rails as far as Coldbrook, thereby affording purchasers of lots cheap and rapid transportation to the city.

SPACE DOES NOT PERMIT of our explaining the many additional advantages. If interested communicate with us or write your name and address on the coupon to be found at the lower right hand corner and mail to the address given below. We would like the opportunity of showing you over the property. We want the opportunity of proving our statements to you and of telling you of the plans of the big industries already located at Glen Falls and of the others which are about to come.

THE GLEN FALLS CONSERVATORIES.—Walter Pederson, proprietor. Walter Pederson is a "self made man," having come to this country as an immigrant in the year 1881, at which time he supported himself and family on little more than an acre of land. He is therefore naturally and justly proud of his conservatories, which are the largest in the Maritime Provinces. The main building is the Rosary and is in size 308 by 63 feet, and the second building is 235 by 13 feet. Mr. Pederson believes in specializing in particular on the growing of roses, carnations and violets, and his product is unexcelled anywhere.

INTERIOR VIEW OF THE ROSARY.—In this building there are upwards of thirty-seven thousand rose bushes capable of supplying an average of about twenty-five hundred roses a day, the second building is chiefly devoted to the producing of carnations and violets. In this building Mr. Pederson is able to cut an average of nine thousand flowers a day. Mr. Pederson has worked up a large market for his flowers in the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, and being now a loyal Canadian he is erecting what will be the highest flag pole in St. John or vicinity on which to fly the Canadian flag.

GLEN FALLS RESERVOIR. This is a view of the reservoir which has been created by the construction of a reinforced-concrete dam on a clear running stream, which is fed by cold springs high up the beautiful Glen Falls Valley on the Company's property from which water is piped to all parts of the property, thus enabling the purchaser of lots to have running water in his home for washing and toilet purposes.

PLANT OF THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY OF CANADA, LIMITED. This is a view of the splendid branch plant of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. The buildings are of the most modern concrete and brick fireproof construction and contain upwards of thirty-six thousand square feet of floor space. Splendid show-rooms are provided in which a few samples of the various models are at all times on exhibition.
