Dr. Tanner, M.P., Expelled from the British Commons.

Refused to Apologize for an Offensive Remark.

A Breeze Over the Irish Question-Rosebery Speaks in the Lords-The Late Government's Armenlan Course Approved.

London, Aug. 16 .- In the House of Lords, Lord Rosebery, the Marquis of Lansdowne, the Marquis of Ripon, Earl Spencer and Baron Tweedmouth were present when the Duke of Marlrerough moved the address in reply to the Queen's speech. Referring to the Queen's speech, Lord Rosebery said the policy adopted in regard to Bechuanaland was that of the late Government; but he asked what measures were intended respecting China, and wanted details as to how the massacres had occurred. The ex-Premier also expressed himself as being certain that the Marquis of Salisbury thought it as necessary as did the late Government to obtain guarantees from the Sultan of Turkey against a re-currence of the atrocities in Armenia, which the Marquis must know officially were terrible, and could not be tolerated. He hoped the Government's decision to continue to occupy Chitral was not definite, as the late Government, after careful consideration of the subject, had arrived at a directly opposite conclusion.

The address was agreed to. The House of Commons met again at 4 o'clock, and the formal business in connection with the Queen's speech was disposed of. Then Sir Richard Webster (Conservative) moved that a certified copy of the trial and conviction of Michael Daly, the dynamiter, who was recently elected to Parliament, representing Limerick, although he was convicted in 1894 of having been engaged in dynamite conspiracies, be furnished to the House, and that the Governor of Portland Prison pre sent a certificate to the effect that Daly is still a prisoner in that prison. Mr. John Redmond said he recogrized in the motion the first step in proceedings overriding the unanimous selection of the electors of Limerick, and he protested aga:nst it and insisted upon a division. At the conclusion of Mr. Redmond's remarks, Dr. Tanner, protested that it was unbecoming behavior upon the part of the gentleman sitting near the Right Hon. A. J. Baffour, First Lord of the Treasury and Conservative leader in the House of Commons, to be "sniggering" at Mr. Redmond's remarks.

Sir Richard Webster's motion was finally carried by a vote of 314 to 77.

Mr. Thomas Wodehouse Leigh (Conservative) moved the reply to the Queen's spech. Mr. T. Herbert Robertson, member for Hackney (Conservative), seconded the motion. Previous to the debate on the Queen's speech, however, consideration of the Daly matter was made the order of the day for Monday Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt said he hoped the Armenian question would not be allowed to sleep. He pressed the Government for information as to their intentions regarding the Irish

Right Hon. A. J. Balfour said the Government were doing their best to carry into effect the policy regarding Armenia that had been initiated by the preceding Government, but they must guard against anything suggestive of a crusade in which the Moslem would be arrayed against Christian. It did not appear to be a necessity, Mr. Balfour declared, that any legislation upon the Irish land question should be had until the next session of Parliament. Sir Charles Lilke reminded the House that the Chinese Government had always protested against the residence of missionaries in the empire, and said that the missionaries certainly ought to conform in every possible way to the customs of the country, but he said he feared they did not always do so. John Redmond then moved the amendment to the address in reply to the Queen's speech, of which he had previously given notice, calling upon the Government to declare their policy in regard to home rule for Ireland, the reform of the Land Law, the compul-sory purchase of land, evicted tenants the industrial condition of the country. The amendment was second-ed by Joseph Kenny.

John Dillon, speaking in support of Mr. Redmond's amendment, contended that the Home Rulers had returned to Parliament stronger than ever, having woh from the Unionists two seats in Ireland, where the nation's opinion had not been altered by the English political revolution. Mr. Dillon admitted that there was ominous silence n America regarding the Irish question, which, he confessed, he could not like. It was a sign, ne said, that the mighty work effected by Parnell in eading the people there to believe that Ireland's cause would be won by constitutional legislation in Parliament had been destroyed. He appealed to the Government to use their strength by showing justice. Gerald W. Balfour, Chief Secretary or Ireland, thanked the Irish members who had spoken for the moderate anguage they had used. The Govrnment's attitude towards home rule, ie said, was and would continue to be one of unflinching opposition. They sould not introduce a land bill now. swing to its necessarily controversial sharacter. He did not regard a temporary bill as desirable. The question regarding evicted tenants, he declared, was not nearly so urgent as it was represented to be. Mr. Dillon had suggested that it was possibe to frame non-contentious bill in relation to the matter, and the Government was prepared to consider such a bill should one be submitted. The statement of the Chief Secretary was greeted with cheers from the Irish benches. Continuing, Mr. Balfour said, regarding the other matters mentioned, that the Government would fairly consider them, and if they were able to promote the prosperity of Ireland by the adoption of the measures proposed, they would do so. Their desire was to remedy every legitimate grievance, regardless of creed or class, aiming not only at a just but a generous promotion of the industrial and material development of the country by sowing the seeds of future prosperity.

Timothy Harrington, in support of the amendment, while referring to the attitude of the Liberar party toward home rule during the last election as unknown, a member whose identity was not discovered, exclaimed: "They ran away from it."

At this Dr. Charles K. D. Tanner

(Anti-Parnellite) cried out: "That's a lie." Amid calls for order the Speaker directed Dr. Tanner to withdraw the expression he had made use of and to apologize for having used it.

To this that member replied: "I cannot stand up when you are in your Speaker Gully-I shall be under the necessity of naming the honorable for gross disobedience of the chair and for wilful disorder. Dr. Tanner responded: "On the contrary, sir, anything that comes to me from the chair I am only too happy to do, but I cannot tell an untruth." Joseph Chamberlain then moved that Dr. Tanner be suspended, and amid cheers the Speaker put the question.

Dr. Tanner-I cannot withdraw what I believe to be the truth. The Speaker then named Dr. Tanner

The responses were roud "Ayes" and a few "Nays." The Speaker's announcement of the result of the vote was challenged, and the usual course was pursued. When the tellers were asked the result of the division by the Speaker, Dr. Tanner exclaimed, "I'll tell myself." The exclaimed, "I'll tell myself." The Speaker declared the motion carried, and ordered Dr. Tanner to withdraw, but the latter did not move. Thereupon the Speaker directed the sergeant-at-arms to remove him. Dr. Tanner at once rose from his seat, bowed to the chair, and marched down the gang-way. Turning, he shouted: "I have greater pleasure in leaving than I ever had in entering this dirty House." He pointed at Mr. Chamberlain, at whom he also shook his fist, and shouted "Judas!" Four times before he reached the door Dr. Tanner turned and repeated the epithet. The last words the members heard as the attendants ejected him were: "You won't try any nonsense with me." Dr. Tanner's suspension its for a week, this being the first time he has been suspended. Mr. Harrington having finished the debate, the House adjourned. A series of meetings of the Nationalist members of the House of Com-mons was held in the committee rooms yesterday, at which the omission from the Queen's speech of a promise of Irish land legislation was unanimously denounced.

The News says that Mr. Redmond's omnibus amendment shut out the one which it had been Mr. Justin Mc-Carthy's intention to introduce with the land question in Ireland, and that this fact explains the course pursued by Mr. Dillon in amending Mr. Red-

IRISH REVOLUTIONISTS

In the United States—Advocate Physical Force in Ireland's Cause. Pittsburg, Pa., Aug 16 .- Five thousand Irishmen, representing the united Irish so-cieties of Western Pennsylvania, met at Phenix Park last night and passed resolutions advocating physical force in Ireland's cause. Mayor Bernard McKenna, of Pittsburg, president. Dr. Paul M. Sheedy introduced the resolutions. They advocated the formation of a secret service corps in the form of organized revolutionists. The convention called for Sept. 24, in Chicago was condemned on the ground that it was only intended to advocate the political interests of its erginators. The resolutions closed with the statement that as there are prospects of a European war, all Irishmen organize and arm themselves, so that in any emergency that may arise, they will be able

HELD UP BY HORNETS.

A Battle Between a Train Load of People and the Insects.

Ottumwa, Ia., Aug. 16 .- A swarm of hornets held up a passenger train on the Chicago, Fort Madison and Des Moines Railroad the other day, and gave the trainmen and passengers a battle that will be remembered longer by far tan if it had been against bandits. The train was running slowly up a steep grade just outside the city, where the hill-side is covered with trees. Suddenly Engineer Cunningham noticed a black mass moving through the air ahead of the train. Had he known what was coming he would have stopped his engine and backed to the next station. The small cloud soon developed into a swarm of hornets. The hornets noticed the slowly puffing engine and made for it. They attacked the engineer and fireman, who were forced to stop the train. It was a sultry day, and all the car windows were open. This gave the hornets an opportunity to enter the cars and pester the assengers. It was an hour before the trainmen and passengers succeeded in driving away the hornets. A number of persons were severely stung. The train stopped at a farmhouse until the injuries could be attended to, and then proceeded to this city.

After Giving His Farm to His Son He Was Sent to the London Asylum Although Perfectly Sane.

Woodstock, Aug. 16.—Thos. Wright, a farmer who has hitherto resided on con. 7 of South Norwich, was in town today consulting his solicitor, Crown Attorney Ball, with reference to his treatment by his son. The old gentleman, who is over 80 years, is rather eccentric, and has a reputation of being an inventor, having secured several patents, among others a machine for the manufacture of hubs, which is now being successfully operated. For some time past he has been living with his son Albert on the homestead, and short time since conveyed his farm to his son, reserving a life estate. Subsequently Albert presented a deed or release of his life estate to him. This he refused to sign, and Albert about three weeks ago had his father examined by Drs. Culver, of Otterville, and Haight, of New Durham, who pro-

Newton Wright, another son, residing here, brought the old man home Wednesday. Mr. Wright now proposes to be the leave a write against the doctors and to issue a writ against the doctors and his son Albert for damages for having him confined in the asylum and to eject his son from the property and cancel the conveyance. Dr. Culver has since written the old gentleman saying that he was mistaken as to his insanity.

Thomas Woodyatt, of Brantford, Elected Grand Master.

Good Selection—Some Lively Balloting

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 16.—Grand Master W. H. Hoyle presided at yesterday's session of the Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Oddfellows, and most of the grand officers were in their places. Joseph Oliver, P.G.M., presented this report of the committee on election returns: Total vote cast for Grand Master, Thos Woodyatt, Brantford, 1,769; Deputy Grand Master, H. White, Port Hope, 773; Grand Secretary, J. B. King, Toronto, 771; Grand Treasurer, Wm. Badenach, Toronto, 744. The Grand Master then declared these officers elected. There was a total of 2,163 votes cast for Grand Warden on the first ballot. The voting took nearly three hours, and Mr. J. A. Young was chosen. Mr. Thos. Woodyatt, the Grand Master-elect, is the police magistrate of Brantford. He is 49 years of age, and has been connected with the order for 26 years. His brethren have honored him on previous occasions. In 1877 he was elected Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment of Patriarchs, an advanced degree of the I. O. O. F. He has filled various offices in the gift of the Grand Lodge in a highly satisfactory manner, and there is no doubt he will discharge the duties of Grand Master with credit to himself and the approbation of all his brethren.

As the first business of the afternoon session the election of officers was proceeded with, and the election of the Rev. T. W. Joliffe as Sovereign Grand Lodge representative ensued on the third ballot. This concluded the elec-reports that during the past year a new industry has been established there which promises to prove both profitable and serviceable, and which might be followed with equal success on this side of the water, viz., the shipment of frozen milk to large cities A year ago a Danish merchant experimented in this direction by taking Danish milk, which is peculiarly delicate and rich in flavor, freezing it by the use of ice and salt, and sending it in barrels by rail and steamer to London. On its arrival the milk proved to be as sweet and well tasting as if it had been just drawn from a cow in the middle of Sweden. The milk was so much in demand and proved so profitable an article of commerce that the exporter immediately took out a patent on the shipment of frozen milk from Sweden and Denmark to London. He then sold the patent to a stock company with large capital, which, on Feb. 1 last, bought one of the larges Swedish creameries, converted it into a factory, and, having put in a special freezing apparatus, began, on May 1 the export of frozen milk in large quantities.

When the milk is received from the farmers it is Pasteurized—that is, heated to 75 degrees Centigrade, and then immediately cooled off to about 10 degrees Centigrade, and now the freezing is commenced. Half the milk is filled into cans and placed in a freezing apparatus, where it will be thoroughly frozen in the course of three hours. The frozen milk is then filled into barrels of pine, the only kind of wood that can be used. The barrels, however, are only half filled with this frozen milk, the balance being filled with the unfrozen milk. This way of packing has proved to be the only practical one, as part of the milk has to be frozen in order to keep the other cold, and part has to be in a flowing state in order to get the barrels exactly full, which is necessary in order to avoid too much shaking up on the road, by which the cream would be turned into butter; the floating masses of ice at the same time prevent the unfrozen milk in settling the cream. Milk which is treated in this way has proved to keep guite fresh for 26 days. Every barrel holds 1,000 pounds of milk, and twice week there will be shipped 50 barrels, making in all about 100,000 pounds of milk a week.

The milk is shipped to Newcastle and from there by rail to large manufacturing cities, where it is sold in the streets or in retail stores. It is reported that the patent has been bought for Ireland, also, at a cost of $200,000 which proves how much this stock company expects from this new enter-

Second Day of the Western District Matches.

Conclusion of the Second Match of 200 and 500 Yards.

Annual Meeting of the Association -Election of Council—To Hold a Reception-Some Suggestions.

FRIDAY'S SHOOTING. The attendance was increased considerably at the second day's shoot of the Western District Rifle Association Among the marksmen present who were not mentioned in yesterday's "Advertiser" were Color-Sergt. Hayman, Seventh; W. Booth, J. Gilchrist, F. W. Goodwin, Lieut.-Col. Lindsay, B. Hayes, J. Limpert and George Pitt, all of London; Lieut. Booker, First Hussars; Color-Sergt. Hobson, Twenty-second, Woodstock; R. H. Reid, Thirtythird; Major Beattle, Seventh; Sergt. A. Galbraith, Seventh, and Sergt. Irskine, Seventh. The conditions for the second day's shoot were not as favorable as on the first day, and no one made a full score during the morning. The wind was light and in the southeast, but was not troublesome. It was the light and the mirage effect which it had in conjunction with the clear atmosphere and polished barrels of the rifles that bothered the marksmen.

The second match was at 200 and 500 yards, which was concluded this morning. One of the prize winners in it was Capt. McMechan, of Welland, who won the Prince of Wales' cup at Bis-ley a few years ago. The Guelph men showed up well among the plums, Ogg heading the list.

The 400 and 600 yards, affiliated associated match is being shot off. During the morning marksmen complained of the inefficiency of a marker at the 400 yards range.

After lunch the annual meeting of the association was held under a shady willow. President Robson, from his seat on a stump, welcomed the old faces to the meeting, and spoke briefly and felicitously upon the progress made by the association. Major Hayes, secretary, then read the minutes of the last regular meeting. The minutes were adopted.

The election of a council was proceeded with, the names of those elected being as follows: Capt. Robson, Major Hayes, Capt. Ponsford, Col Lindsay, John Crowe (Guelph), Col. Dawson, Sergt. Galbraith, Alex. Wilson (Seaforth), John Gordon (Woodstock), Wm. Goodwin, Lieut. Glichrist (Guelph), Col. Stacey (St. Thomas), Col. Ellis (Twenty-seventh), Dr. Handyan, Major Beattie, Sergt-Major McCrim-mon (Thirty-second), Capt. Denison and P. J. Watt.

During the progress of the election, President Robson took occasion to say that the citizens of London were quite liberal in their response to the request for subscriptions, and were deserving of thanks. Lieut.-Col. Lindsay broached question of securing a larger attendance of citizens at the matches and increasing the interest taken. Fie thought that next year invitations might be issued to citizens to a reception on the first day. There could be a band present, light refreshments and a couple of marquees erected for the comfort of the ladies.

Another member suggested that the marquee be used to exhibit the prizes. This would, he said, be a great benefit both to the donor and winner, and save the latter a day's time, probably after the matches were over, looking them up. The suggestion was received so favorably that on motion of Lieut. Col. Lindsay it was decided to empower the council to make arrangements to hold a reception next year. The discussion then became general and the proceedings informal. A member spoke of the apparent decline of interest among the younger marksmen of the district. Only eleven entered this year, and as a result there was a prize for all. He suggested to to foster the sport a match be arranged for competition among Londoners or residents of London township.

The president said that the matches would have to be kept open to retain the Government grant. Capt. Ponsford said that the prizes were not arranged so as to draw the largest crowd. There were too many small ones that hardly paid for the entrance feen and amumnition. No change was made. Appended is the score of today's

OVER ONE HUNDRED

Applicants for the Position of Janitos at the Free Library.

Mr. John Smith Appointed—A Little Cross Firing-Talk About Politics.

The Free Library Board last night appointed Mr. John Smith janitor of the new library, at a wage of $400 a year. Applications for the position were called for in the press, and they poured in to Secretary Blackwell by every mail. They numbered 108 all told, and were from men of every calling in the city.

The list, however, was reduced to four—Messrs. John Smith, 129 Mill street; John Summers, 487 Piccadilly street; Wm. Spry, 443 Grey street, and C. Knowles, 66 Stanley street—and, according to the rules and regulations of the board, the vote was by ballot. Summers and Smith remained for the final ballot, which stood 4 to 3, in favor of the latter, Messrs. Reid, Egan, Cameron and Macbeth voting for Smith. Mayor Little did not vote, and

Trustee Dignan was not present. When Mr. Macbeth moved that the services of the janitor begin at the discretion of the board, Mr. Keene and Mr. Marks moved that the name of Knowles be substituted for that of Mr. Smith. Mr. Marks said the reason he opposed Smith was because it was common talk around town that he (Smith) was to receive the appointment as a reward for political services. People were willing to wager on it, and Mr. Marks believed it was true. The statement was pretty plain, but the speaker was a man of plain talk, and not ashamed to say what he

Mr. Cameron-It is false. If you would put your motion on any other ground I would support it. Mr. Marks-I say it just because i believe it. Chairman Reid-Well, I don't be lieve it for an instant. Mr. Keene's motion was ruled out of order by the cnairman, on the ground that Mr. Smith had been elected according to the regulations. The ruling was appealed against, but Mr. Reid was sustained by a vote of four to three, Mr. Macklin not voting. Mr. Keene thereupon moved that Mr.

Smith's duties commence twenty years hence. Nobody voted. In justice to himself, Mr. Reid stated that he had supported Mr. Smith not because of his political views, but because he was a citizen of 40 years' standing. He was thoroughly capable in every respect to hold the position.

Mr. Smith is one of London's most esteemed citizens and resides in No. 2 ward. He is a wheelwright by trade and in politics a Liberal. Four tenders were received for the supplying of $4,000 worth of books for hev were from W

The contract was awarded to the Toronto Book Supply Company, their tender being about 10 per cent. lower than any of the other three. A discount of 5 per cent. is to be allowed for cash. The books are to be supplied from 66 publishers, according to the order of the board. The list of books will not be ready for a month, and it will require six weeks more to get the order filled.

Four tenders for coal were received. The contract was awarded to Thomas Walls at $4 25 per ton. The other tor-ders were: Cameron & Son, $5 50; Daly & Son, $5 40; Bowman & Co., $5, 43. ### DURANT'S DARK DEED.

A Woman Who Saw Him Enter the Church With His Victim.

Blanche Lamonte Was Never Afterwards Seen Alive-Chain of Evidence Complete.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 15.-A local paper says that the last link in the chain of evidence against Theodore Durant has been discovered. Mrs. Leake, 50 years of age and a member of the church, who lives across the sweet from Emanuel Church, has reported to the police that she saw Durant and Blanche Lamont enter the church at 4:10 p.m. on April 2. the day of Miss Lamont's disappearnce. She knew both Durant and Miss Lamont intimately, and therefore cannot be mistaken as to the identity. On April 3 Mrs. Leake sat at the window of her residence nearly all the afternoon looking for her daughter, whom she expected to arrive frem San Mateo. At 4 o'clock she-saw a couple coming up the street. One of them she instantly recognized as Durant. As the couple came nearer, Mrs. Leake recognized the girl as Blanche Lamont. Miss Lamont wore a short schoolgirl's dress and carried a package of school books. The dress and the school books were afterwards found secreted in the church. When the couple reached the church gate they stopped for a moment. Durant opened the gate and they passed through. Mrs. Leake knew detrimental to Durant. She had al-ways considered him "such an exempplary young man," but notwithstand. ing the fact, she thought it extremely imprudent for the girl to go into the church with him alone. She imagined that they had some errand in the church and expected in a few minutes that they would come out. She watched carefully, but the gate did not open. There is only one entrance to Emanuel Church during the week, and that is by the side gate and rear door. Mrs. Leake knew the young people would have to pass through the gate, and she wanted to see them on the street again before she left the window. She waited a long time, but household duties finally called her to another part of her flat, and she was obliged to give up the

Mrs. Leake's testimony completes the chain of evidence against Durant. Three school girls saw Durant and Blanche Lamont riding on a Powell street car at 3:30 on the day that Miss Lamont disappeared. Attorney Quinlan saw the couple a few blocks from the church a few minutes before 4 o'clock. Now comes Mrs. Leake, who says she saw Durant and Miss Lamont near the hurch a few minutes later.

George King, the organist, has already testified that he entered the church about 5 o'clock and saw Durant coming out down from the attic. Durant's hair was disheveled, his face was red, he was panting for breath, and was In a state of utter physical and nervous collapse. In answer to inquiries he said he had been engaged in arranging electric lights in the loft and had been overcome by gas.

TO KEEP UP FREIGHT RATES.

Sixteen Railway Presidents Meet in

An Important Agreement Proposed-Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson's Views.

New York, Aug. 16.—The committee of sixteen of the railroad presidents in the trunk line and central traffic associations interested in keeping up the freight rates met this morning in the offices of the Trunk Line Association. President Ingall, of the Chesapeake and Ohio and "Big Four" railroad companies, presided in the absence of President Depew, who is in Europe. Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, of the Grand Trunk of Canada, was present.

tary gave out this statement: The proposed agreement discussed at the former meeting was taken up, and after considerable discussion was unanimously referred to a further meeting of all the presidents of all lines to be convened in New York about the middle of September.

west bound passenger and freight rates, and if adhered to strictly will accomplish an enormous increase in the earnings of the companies interested. Under it contracts with shippers are to be entirely abolished and commissions on tickets are to be stopped. There is to be no money pool, but there are to be penalties for infractions of the agreement. There is to be a clearing to settle balances between roads. A commission is to be created with a power to make wages and a committee on arbitration is to be appointed to dis-present and made a ten-minute speech, and although he did not refer to the relations of the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk, which are known to be at odds, the fact that he looks favorably upon the plan discussed is an indication that there will probably be an agreement also between the two last-named lines. Mr. Wilson said among other things that the English holders of American railroad securities were just as anxious about the success of the agreement as American railroad men were, and that the strict adherence to the provisions of the agreement by all railroads would result in increas-ed confidence in American management by the English capitalists.

The man who perambulates the streets forever star-gazing was cured of the habit by bringing his unconscious heel in contact with a banana peel. He fell and came in longitudinal contact with the sidewalk, sorely hurting his crown. A short story, my brethren, told in four words:

But it has volumes of meaning in it. Learn from my text to have regard to Your heels as well as to your heads. Slippery places are no respecters of persons, and the head that wears a crown will lie as easily on six feet of granite sidewalk as the head that never boasted anything nearer a diadem than an aureole of tow. I charge upon you the necessity of observation of the sidewalks as well as observations sidereal, if you are to walk erect and not fall along your way.

Those of us who have grown weary and perplexed over the peculiarities of the French language, and who have wished that our parents and school teachers did not consider that language necessary to our education, will rejoice at this item from an English newspaper, which shows that the Frenchman has as hard a time mastering our tongue as we have in mastering his. According to the story, three French boys were studying a volume of Shakespeare in their own tongue, their task being to render portions of it into English. When they came to Hamlet's famous soliloquy, "To be or not to be," their respective translations were as follows: 1. "To was or not to am." 2. "To were or is to not." 3. "To should or not to will."

The heir to all the Russias will be put to sleep in a huge mother-of-pearl cradle, in shape of a shell, studded with precious stones. Count Tolstoi, in writing on "Preventable Sorrow and Pain," in a recent periodical, says: "Go through a crowd of people-preferably city people; examine these tired, anxious, wasted faces; remember your life and the lives of men whom you have known intimately; recall the violent deaths, the suicides, of which you have heard-and ask yourself the reason of all this death, suffering and despair. And you will see, however strange it may appear, that the cause of nine-tenths of human suffering is the present life of the world; that this suffering is useless; that it could be avoided, and that the majority of men are martyrs to worldly ideas. Recently, on a rainy autumn Sunday, I crossed the market near the tower of Soukharey in a street car. For a third of a mile the car made its way through a dense crowd that closed in again behind us. From morning till evening these crowds of men, most of them hungry, and in rags, jostle each other in the mud, dispute, deceive and hate each other. The same thing goes on in all the markets of Moscow and other cities. These men will pass their evenings in the wine shops, and afterwards will seek their holes and corners. Sunday is their best day. Monday they begin again their accursed

"Think of the existence of these men, of the situation which they abandon and of that which they choose. Consider the labor to which they give them-selves, and you will see that they are martyrs. All have left their fields, their houses, their fathers and brothers, often their wives and children. They have renounced everything and come to the city in order to acquire that which the world considers necessary. All of them are there, from the operative, the coachman, the seamstress and the prostitute. to the wealthy merchant, the officeholder, and the wives of all of them, to say nothing of the tens of thousands of unfortunates who have lost everything and live on scraps and brandy in the free lodging-houses. Go through this crowd; watch the poor and rich alike; look for a man who says that he is satisfied and believes that he possesses what the world deems necessary; you will not find one in a thousand.

There seems, however, to be nothing to take its place. True we have alapacis and very dearly love them, too, but they are not so dressy as crepons, and do not come in such great varieties. In Paris, crepons still continue to hold their own, and there is every prospect of our wearing crepon for another season, thus enjoying the novelty of being dressed up to date and inexpensively. Crepons come in all shades and designs. The heavier ones, with broad stripes running lengthwise, are very handsome in My lady in the picture wears a seagreen crepon, with a fine tracery of white. White guipure and crepon form what one man calls the quarter of a pilot wheel about her shoulders. Large pearl buttons adorn the front of the bodice and skirt.

Yachting gowns-the correct name for the commoner "sailor suit" are first in importance at summer resorts, or within a hundred miles of them, being in evidence from early breakfast to late dinner, on sea or shore.

Serviceable, and at the same time chie and dressy yachting gowns, are somewhat difficult to achieve, but a New York Modiste has turned out a few varieties worthy of special mention.

For a well-rounded, yet athletic patron, she ordered one of the new glove-fitting heavily-ribbed, fancy-knitted golf Jerseys, which are seamless, buttoning on each shoulder, and which are easily slipped on over the head. Ripping out the knitted sleeves, she replaced them with voluminous bishop sleeves of finely twilled serge, of which material the skirt was made. This skirt was shaped to join on the Jersey waist well below the hips, and had merely a deep hem on the bottom. A broad sailor shoulder collar of blue, overlaid with a second one of white, and white turn-back cuffs, completed a severely simlpe yet stylish costume. The inevitable blue serge was the foundation for a second suit, but the large marine collar was of cream and blue shepherd's check silk, with gold and blue enamel buttons decorating the front of the coat. The shirt-waist was of eream-colored linen lawn, with a narrow frill of the lawn edged with cream lace on either side of the wide plait in front. The skirt had a full back, and was gored on the front and sides and lined throughout with checked tafetta, matching the collar. Toe cream-colored straw sailor hat, en suite, was trimmed with shepherd's cloth check ribbon, the blue parasol was lined with cream silk, and the gloves and Trilby shoes were of russetcolored suede kid. A soft white serge suit was made with a short pointed jacket, boasting a large sailor collar and deep revers, faced with pale-blue grosgrain silk.

Heavy cotton and linen fabrics are about as popular and serviceable and effective as the woollen varieties, though, srrange to say, even more expensive.

A very jaunty yachting dress was made of white duck with a shirt and coat trimmed with tan linen braid, fastened with cherry wood buttons, and worn over a maize linen shirt tucked and trimmed with frills of white lace. The regulation yachting cap was of white duck, with a band of tan leather.

Another washable affair was made of light blue duck, with a pin dot of white. The skirt was plain and flaring. A short open jacket was worn so as to display an immaculate white duck vest, a white chemisette and a blue tie. A white sailor hat with a blue band completed the summer-like costme.

Now the summer girl is beginning to use it to drape her own charming self. So far it is used exclusively for outing suits in which to hunt or climb through a rough country. #### BAND CONCERTS.

The Equal Division of the Grant Again Thrashed Out.

Seventh to Get Two More Engagements -Extras at the City Hall-Ald. Parnell Discutes an Account.

The question of equally dividing the band concert grant between the London Musical Society and the Seventh was resurrected at the meeting of the Board of Works last night, when Capt. Thomas, secretary of the Seventh's band, committee, and Leader Tresham were present. Capt. Thomas mentioned the recent action of the council in deciding that the Seventh should have as many engagements as the Musical Society. This organization had seven concerts while the military band had only three. Again when the Hussars had played he heard that several of the men were from the Society, which he thought was unfair. It might be that the Society was as good as the Seventh, but the latter did not want to cut the others' throats; all they desired was a fair share and that would be secured by giving them the balance of the concerts.

Chairman Heaman-As far as the Hussars' Band is concerned we are not supposed to inquire where they get their men. We have made a point that they give their names, though.

Mr. Thomas—What we heard was that six or seven of the Musical Society played with the Hussars at their Ald. Heaman-Well, I do not know, but the secretary of the Hussars told me that they had as good a band as there was in the city. It is the Seventh's turn next week. According to Capt. Thomas' estimate, the Musical Society had played seven times, and the Seventh three, but Mr. Tresham placed the Society's concerts at nine. Two of these, however, were not paid for by the city. Ald. Heaman suggested that the Seventh be given the two concerts after the Hussars this (Friday) evening. There was enough money to go that

Ald. Parnell objected to more than 20 or 25 men being engaged for any con-cert, and Mr. Tresham offered to play the three concerts after tonight and take chances on getting enough money. The question was settled by the Seventh being given the next two evenings and the disposal of the balance being left with the committee. GENERAL BUSINESS.

Mr. C. C. Evans appeared in regard to his account for extras on city hall carpenter work, which had been greatly cut down by the engineer. He had done a lot of work under instructions from others than the city engineer, which Chairman Heaman considered should not have been done, as the engineer is the only person entitled to give orders. The chairman and engineer will look over the account and re-

ing, some years about $20. Ald. Heaman-But we have to do it by statute Ald. Parnell-Well, I think it is a downright shame that the city has to lay out money on that office and never get any return. The matter was left with the engineer and chairman. The repairs will only Mr. Wm. M. Spencer applied for some gravel on Dundas street in front of the Nitschke block, owned by him and several others. The cost will be about $60. Referred to the engineer and member for the ward. Engineer Graydon presented a statement, showing that the estimated cost of 36-inch tile across St. James' street, near Colborne, would be (including filing) about $400. A 43-inch tile would cost $550. Considerable objection was made by Ald. Parnell, who claimed that a 36-inch tile was not large enough and that if iaid it would cause the road to be washed away. The committee's funds are low, however, as 40 new gully holes are being laid, to cost about $1,200. No action will be taken at present. Ten tenders were received for reshingling the main building at the Fair Grounds. Some were for British Columbia cedar and others for metallic shingles. Wm. Stevely & Sons' tender for metallic at $790 was accepted.

The reading of the tenders caused some talk about the condition of the building. "I tell you," said the chairman, that from now on it will be a great bill of expense. The window sashes in many places are inside out, and on the north front there are immense holes. A "FUNNY" ACCOUNT. Among the accounts was one from Wm. Taylor, of Adelaide street, for $23 for raising a sewer manhole. Ald. Parnell questioned the engineer, asking if it was done by the day.

The engineer said that it was.
Ald. Parnell then called attention to the charge of $5 40 a day for a bricklayer and a laborer. The scale of wages called by the union was $3 a day for the former, and $1 62 for the laborer. He did not see how the city should be called upon to pay the extra and also objected to the charge of $3 a barrel for cement, when the corporation had a contract for $2 75. In another account $1 was charged for a load of sand, while 50 cents was the general price. Ald. Parnell was getting tired of this. "Why," said he, "if a private concern ran its business in this manner it would be bankrupt inside of a month. This is only a trifling sum, but if all city business is running on the same plan it is time a halt was called."
Engineer Graydon claimed the bill was fair, stating that it was $2 less than was recently paid for the same job by contract.

Ald. Parnell—I do not care. And I would like to know who Mr. Taylor is? The engineer-He is a contractor, and foreman for Ald. Garratt.
Ald. Parnell—I thought so. Ald, Nutkins said Taylor could hardly be called a contractor, and the account passed, Ald. Parnell objecting. City Treasurer Pope's statement showed that the amount of the appropriation on hand was $17,988 74. The streetcleaning account has been overdrawn $124 45 and the city pounds $6 65, The members present were: Ald. W. Heaman (chairman), E. Parnell, J. Heaman, A. Callahan, S. O'Meara, J. Nut-kins, Mayor Little, Secretary Bell, and Every time their leaders get into a he London lady who shot at a man through her window. The spec. evidently thinks no one has a right to shoot these days except Hay-

"Knoxonian," in the Canada Presbyterian, asks the question, "On what does prosperity depend?" and proceeds: "Honest Alexander Mackenzie once said that the prosperity of Canada depends on the industry of the Canadian people. From the point of view at which the veteran statesman was then peaking his words were distinctly true. He might have gone a little farther and said that the prosperity of the country depends on the harvest. Or a little farther still and said that the prosperity of Canada may and often does depend on a few showers of rain.

The versatile writer scouts the idea that prosperity can be brought about by adding to the tax burdens of the people. He concludes as follows:

"There are hundreds of faddists in this country that tell you with a perfuture of the country depends on the sovereign rule of the King of Kings. Viewed from the human side, it depends on the industry, intelligence, enterprise, steadiness, and honesty of the

Yesterday Sir William Howland, the 86-year-old Canadian, led his third blushing bride to the altar. When the news came that the 72-year-old Duke of Argyll had married again, we knew that some patriotic Canadian would be equal to the occasion of refusing to acknowledge that the aged statesmen of the Dominion are less vi ipotent than those of the motherland. And Sir William and his bride come nobly to the front.

The recent narrow escape of Wm. Crane, the actor, from drinking icewater while over-heated, recalls the fact that Adelaide Neillson came to her death as a consequence of having drank a glassful of cold milk. In one of the beverage a blood-vessel was ruptured, and so came the untimely end of one of the most beautiful and most gifted of women. A hot weather hint that should be heeded is, never take a big drink of cold liquid while very warm.

MORE FAT FEES IN SIGHT.

It is now announced that if the Manitoba Legislature continues to refuse to help the Dominion Government out of the hole into which it dropped by issuing its blundering remedial order, the result will be action of some sort at Ottawa, and prolonged litigation in the courts. This will give joy to the lawyer hangers-on of the Dominion Government. Though there is a Minister of Justice drawing $8,000 a year and a Solicitor-General drawing $6,000 a year, with a numerous retinue of subordinates doing the work, the Government in 1893 paid an Ottawa lawyer nearly $20,000 for legal services, and in 1894, $19,248 32, while other lawyers were paid various sums, aggregating nearly a quarter of a million in the two years. The Auditor-General's report for the last nine years shows that outside lawyers have been paid for doing work that might almost wholly have been performed by the Ministers the follow-

To the Editor of the "Advertiser:" I have no doubt you will grant to me stace in the "Advertiser" to reply to the letter of Rev. Dr. McKay in today's 'Advertiser." Mr. McKay expresses his regret at the tone and matter of what I said to your reporter. That regret will astonish any one who has read Mr. McKay's charges against me in his speech at the Patron meeting, and his reiteration of them, after my denial of their accuracy, in the coarse and offensive language which he employs in the letter published this ev-

It would have been more fitting, and I am sure more satisfactory to his friends, had he been more careful of the character of his communication, instead of lamenting over the tone and matter of mine. But he is not the first person who has searched for motes in the eyes of others, wholly unconscious of the beam that is in his own. He says that my interview with your reporter is "full of bitterfectly straight face that the prosperity of the country depends on their fad.

"Look at it from a divine side, the sprung from a simple statement of the truth, and Dr. McKay is not the first one who has made a wry face when it is presented. I deny that there is "misrepresentation, evasion or abuse" in what I said. Had there been Dr. McKay would have been only too glad to have exposed it. He has given no instance of any one of these things. Had it been in his power he would have done so. He subsequently says that he does not in the least complain of my "abuse" of him, that this is no strange thing that has happened to

The doctor speaks and writes of pub lic men like a termagant, and then declares that he is an abused, maligned and misrepresented man; and all this persecution and ill-treatment to which he is subjected is due to the fact that he has fearlessly exposed the corruption and cowardice that at present characterize Reformers at Ottawa, in dealing with moral questions. Dr. McKay boasts that he does his own thinking. I do not doubt it. I know of no other person who would care to claim credit for it, and seeing what he has written I readily credit him with it without question. But where is the corruption which the doctor has exposed? I know of no corruption exposed by him. I know he has made calumnious charges. I know that he has maligned public men, but the doctor is mistaken if he thinks reckless and unfounded charges made by him paroxysms of the colic induced by this will lead the public to accept them as rroved. Where, let me ask, is the cowardice which he, without scruple, imputes? I know many who are not the vulgar cowards which he says they are. I know many who would a hundredfold rather be the victims of such unfounded imputations than to sink so low as to be their author. They are high-minded, honorable men. Dr. McKay says I call my communi cation a reply, and he asks to what did My answer is to his calumnies. I did not undertake in my reply to your reporter to discuss the subject of prohibition. I had no such intention. My views on that question are not unknown to the public. I answered the doctor's calumnies against me, and his unjustifiable assault upon many of my colleagues in Parliament. He says that I have repeated the old exploded objection of the liquor men-that we cannot, by law, change the hearts of men. I was not aware that this was an argument of the liquor men, nor would it be made weaker, nor would its value be destroyed, if this were true. It rests on much better authority, though the author in his day was called by men of pretensions to superior piety, a wine bibber. The doctor insinuates that I and my associates in Parliament fear the loss of the liquor vote and the loss of their This statement is a calumny. It is without a particle of foundation in fact. As for my own constituency there is not a brewery, there is not a distillery in it. The majority of the retail dealers are political opponents. And I am not aware during the 28 years that I have had a seat in Parliament that any one of them ever contributed one dollar to my election. What is true in my case, so far as I know; is true in the case of my colleagues. When Dr. McKay makes this he is bearing false witness against those against whom he brings this accusation. The doctor says that seventeen years ago I voted with Mr. Mackenzie, and now I vote with Brewer John Carling. He is forced to name one Conservative for very shame sake. This is the second time he has named Sir John Carling, not to condemn him but to condemn a Reformer. Sir John Carling is no longer a candidate for election, so he may be named without hurting his party. I voted for what I believed to be right on both occasions. My votes were perfectly consistent with each other, and no fairminded man, with a knowledge of the subject, will say to the contrary. He says that I justify my present atti-tude by the act of Conservative pro-hibitionists. I have not done so. I have pointed out that nothing that have pointed out that nothing that secure the support of Dr. McKay, as he is equally ready to condemn the Reformers who voted for Mr. Flint's motion, including Mr. Flint, as he is to condemn those who voted against it. All Reformers are equally within the sweep of Dr. McKay's condemnation. They are all alike cowards, deceivers, hypocrites. He complains of my reference to his Woodstock speech. He

"Hon. Mr. Mills tells us that he stated that he was present at the prohibition caucus in Ottawa and said certain things there. He then declares my statement "not true," and repeatealy reiterates his declaration that he was not at that meeting-had not in fact ever heard of it. All this is said to prove my statement untrue and myself unworthy of confidence. Now, what will the reader think when I tell him that I never made such a statement. Everyone at the town hall meeting knows what I said. I spoke of Coatsworth and Charlton being at that meeting, and then I quoted from Hansard what Mr. Mills said, not at a prohibition caucus, but in his place in Parliament. He does not and cannot deny the correctness of my quotation, but he declared he did not say anything at the meeting because he was not there. But all the same he made the declaration in his place in Parliament, and all the fume and fuss about not being at the prohibition meeting does not alter the fact. Such misrepresentation only shows the straits to which politicians are driven who vote against prohibition and yet pose as deserving the support of temperance men.'

My statement was based upon a re port found in the Evening Sentinel. It is in these words:

'Mr. McKay proceeded to say that he had no personal charge against Mr. Sutherland, but he wished to point out that that gentleman was present when he and others had an interview at Ottawa with the temperance men of the House in order to endeavor to get one of them to move a prohibition resolution. Mr. Charlton, Mr. Patterson, Mr. Coatsworth and others were at the interview. Mr. Coatsworth said: 'I am personally a prohibitionist, but I am here as a Conservative, and I am not going to vote what would virtually be a want of confidence motion in my party.' Mr. Mills said that the Privy Council had not decided whether they had the power to pass a prohibition

"That," said the speaker, "I have no hesitation in calling a piece of pure pharisaical cant." Mr. Charlton said he was a Reformer, and must work and vote for those who returned him to Parliament. "We could not get a man in the House," shouted Mr. McKay, and there is not a man in the House today, Flint included, who will move a prohibition resolution in such a way as to get a vote upon it."

Your readers will see there is no allusion in this paragraph to what was said on the floor of Parliament. It is about what transpired at a meeting called by himself and others. He first refers to words spoken by Mr. Coatsworth, then to what he attributes to me, and next to what was said by Mr. Charlton. The reader will mark the introductory words, "Mr. Coatsworth and others were at the interview.' There is no mention of any place but this meeting, and the report is of what was said there. How can the doctor expect those who read this report to credit what he now says? Your readers will see that I did not misrepresent him. I put the only construction upon his words of which they would admit, and I say he who falsely accuses others of "lying, hypocricy and pharisaical cant" must not expect his statements accepted by those whom he has maligned, against a report, which bears on its face evidence of accuracy. Oh, says the doctor, Mr. Mills said this in Parliament, and it matters not where the words were spoken. It does mat-It shows what little pains Dr. McKay takes to be accurate. When the doctor is cornered he admits that was not at the meeting, but he told his audience otherwise, and it made a better story to represent a number of members before him, frankly admitting their own wickedness. gist of what I am reported to have said in the House is this: "If there was no appeal pending at the present moment I would be prepared to support the motion moved by my honorable friend from Yarmouth, a motion in favor of prohibition. But as the mover and seconder have stated that it is not proposed to interfere with the existing state of things, by legislation, this session. It does not seem to me seemly to vote for that proposition with the suit pending at the present time before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council." That, in my opinion, was the proper position to take, yet upon this statement Dr. Mc-Kay charges me with cowardice, "lying hypocrisy and pharisaical cant." The first sentence of what I said the dector suppressed. It would not have served his purpose to quote it. It would have spoiled the force of his accusations. It was as easy to vote in favor of prohibition as it was to have made the declaration, had it been on that occasion the proper thing to do. I know the law relating to this matter at least as well as Dr. McKay. It is my opinion that I know it very much better. I know that there are grave doubts on the subject of jurisdiction, and I am sure that no lawyer who has studied the subject will express to him a contrary opinion. Did he read the judgment of Mr. Justice Burton in the local option case, 18, Ont., A. R., 572, he would have known more and have said less about what he does not understand. He says that no one knows better than I do that there is no doubt, and never has been any doubt as to the authority of the Dominion Parliament to prohibit. know just the contrary, and when he accuses me of "falsehood, hypocrisy and his evidence from within and makes known his own character. Dr. McKay gives me advice. He says: "Mr. Mills had better keep away from Scripture quotations until he can quote it with some degree of correctness. When he tells us that Peter was "severely censured for fishing," says what will set the good little boy in the Sabbath school laughing. We are reminded of the story. A certain politician made a bet with another that the other could not repeat the Lord's Prayer. The other began thus, "Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray "Stop," said the first "I did not think you knew it. You have won the bet." The doctor's theology, like the gun of Rip Van Winkle, has become rusty. His new occupation has not left him much time for the study of Modern Expositors, and so he finds it convenient to dish up a stale story, and to burlesque what he does not under-which are not true. I know my own state of mind in regard to this matter better than Dr. McKay. And I know his charges have not a shadow of truth to rest upon. The doctor quotes a paragraph from the Montreal

tion. Does the doctor think that it accusation can be supported? There is a rule which says, "with what judgment ye judge ye shall be judged." It is a perfectly just rule, for the man good little boy laugh in the Sunday school, a thing not to tolerated.

Dr. McKay seems anxious to have your readers think that he has equally condemned both parties. This is not so. His war is directed against Liberals. This greeches his letters the erals. His speeches, his letters, tes-tify against him. Take the case of his attack on Sir Richard Cartwright, and his silence in respect to Mr. Foster, He insists that the legislation of the country shall be shaped by the Opposition, and not by the Ministers of the Crown. The doctor denies the doctrine of Ministerial responsibility, in order to attack the Opposition. Will he mention any matter upon which Mr. Gladstone or any one of his colleagues proposed legislation during Lord Salisbury's Government, or will he mention any measure proposed by Lord Salis-bury and his friends while Mr. Gladstone and Lord Rosebery were in of-fice? Would it not be well for Dr. Mc-Kay to learn something of our system before criticising those who are working it out? The doctor evidently is in love with the American system, where every man does that which seems right in his own eyes where every is struggling to win glory man for himself, and where the number of bills introduced as a consequence of that system is so great than in an ordinary session of Congress an equal division of time would give less than five minutes to each bill. Our system places the responsibility both of legislation and of administration upon Ministers. The function of the Opposition is to fully consider and to fairly deal with what is sub-mitted to them. If Ministers propose a measure of prohibition and the Opposition make war upon it, Dr. Mc-Kay may then have some reason to complain. At present Parliament is not led by us, and it is upon the leaders of Parliament, and not upon the minority that he should call for legislation. Why has the doctor not sought for reform in the proper quarter? Is it not because he does not wish to trouble those to whom the constitution has committed the power and responsikility of dealing with the subject?

The doctor denounces the man who sacrifices moral principles for party gain. So do I. But I deny that the Reformers have done so. The Government of this country is a popular Gov ernment. It is supposed to be carried on in accordance with the popular conviction. It is upon that conviction and not upon force that it reposes, and from it it derives its sanctions. man is to be condemned for not undertaking to go farther than popular sanction warrants. He is censurable when he seeks to degrade, to pervert, or to corrupt the public sentiment. The statesman must consider at every turn, not only what is in itself right, but what is in itself expedient. The greatest statesman of the last century, Mr. Burke, based his advocacy of every public measure on expediency. And his doctrine is recognized by even a higher authority than Mr. Burke. Our Lord condemned divorce, except for one offense. The law of Moses furnished unlimited facilities for it, and that law was given by inspiration. On Dr. McKay's theory this was all wrong. But we have numerous instances of the recognition of expediency in the life of our Lord and his apostles. Christ denied that he was under obligation to pay the temple tribute, but to avoid offense a coin was obtained from a fish's mouth, and with it he made the payment. Paul had excited hostility among his countrymen by his teaching in respect to the law; to allay the prejudice which he had invoked, he was advised to shave his head, to take vows, and to go into the temple to worship, and he acted upon this advice. These facts illustrate the doctrine of expediency. When Dr. Mc-Kay quotes the words of John Morley for the purpose of censuring the Reform party in Carada, he is running away with a half truth, unfair to us and to Mr. Moriey. Nothing would be further from Mr. Morley than to proclaim that it was the duty of publie men to court defeat upon a question upon which public opinion was hostife, when at the same time many equally important measures, upon which public opinion was favorable called for Parliamentary action. It is a perversion of Mr. Morley's political opinions to use an extract from his speech for the purpose of inculcating so preposterous a doctrine.

Dr. McKy is greatly shocked to know that I do not think a few men are entitled to call upon the representatives of 5,000,000, and to assume to instruct them how they are to act and to vote on a question which concerns, not themselves, but the entire community. Notwithstanding Dr. McKay's lofty airs, I am still of that opinion. I suppose if a few members of the doc tor's church were to go to General Assembly, summon a number of those who attend it to appear before them, and ask them to take instructions from them as to what they shall do in the Assembly of which they are memers, and of which their bosses are not, the doctor would be able to see that there was a good deal of presumption on the side of those who so acted, I am of opinion that the members of the Assemblywould not only bewithin their right but within their duty to decline the meeting. I observe that the doctor in his postcript grants to Mr. Charlton public absolution. The only weak point in this act of grace is that it has no relevancy to the doctor's indictment against him. What he charged Mr. Charlton with was that instead of taking it structions from Dr. McKay he intended to work and vote for those who returned him to Parliament. He preferred to meet the wishes of his con-(Continued on page 5.)

TORONTO WINS AT ROCHESTER. Rochester, Aug. 16 .- The Rochesters pounded Payne steadily yesterday af-ternoon for a total of 21 hits and 31 bases, and yet lost the game. Crane made his first appearance in a Rochester uniform. He was wild and gave bases on balls with a lavish hand. Hackman, a new shortstop, made four ghastly errors and lost the game in the ninth by slipping up on two easy chances and allowed Toronto to score the winning run. Many long hits were made, both off Payne and Crane. The teams fielded badly, and the game was

REST AT LAST-

Peaceful Close of a Long and Useful Career-Death of One of London's Oldest Resident .

Mrs. William Rowland, sen., a most estimable lady and one of London's oldest residents, passed peacefully away last evening-at the home of her eldest daughter, Mrs. A. T. H. Johnson, No. 345 Maitland street. Deceased was the widow of the late Wm. Rowwas born in Stroud, Gloucestershire, England, on the 28th of December, 1801, and was therefore in her 94th year when she died. Her maiden name was McFarlan, and she was a sister of the late Mrs. Jo n Marling, of Toronto, whose sons for so many years were connected with the Education Department of the Ontario Government.

After her marriage, in 1824, Mrs. Rowland resided in Kingston-on-Thames, whence with her family she came to Canada in the spring of 1843 at a period when the axe, plow and logging chain formed the staple of a parmer's outfit. Rough indeed was farm life in those pioneer days compared with the comfortable surroundings of the home that Mrs. Rowland left in meet to her worthy husband. From the farm on the third concession of London (where the family first settled) they went to St. John's (now known as (Arva), and finally moved to the then "village" of London, where Mr. Rowland became a prominent figure in mercantile, temperance and religious circles, and acquired considerable > property. Twenty-one years ago Mr. and Mrs. Rewland celebrated their golden wedding, and three years ater Mrs. Rowland became a widow, since which time she had made her home with her eldest daughter, under whose kindly care she passed the remainder of her days. Starting early in the Christian life Mrs. Rowland identified herself with the First Congregational Church, of which she was an active and devoted member. Until she suffered from an attack of paralysis two years ago, Mrs. Rowland retained her faculties to a remarkable degree, and died-as she had so long lived-a faithful follower of the Master. To a wide circle of acquaintances her demise is a matter of regret, while those more intimately associa ed with her-who in past years were the object of her watchful care and kindly counsel, her friendship and her love-realize that they have suffered an irreparable in a.

The deceased lady leaves three sons and two daughters. The former are assessor, Ingersoll. The daughters are Mrs. A. T. H. Johnson, of this city, and Mrs. John Millar, of Chicago. Deceased's eldest son, William, insurance inspector, Toronto, died a short time ago in his 70th year. Of the numerous grandchildren two only live in London-Mrs. Andrew Ellis and Mr. Malcolm Rowland.

The funeral takes place Saturday afternoon from the residence of Mrs. A. T. H. Johnson, No. 345 Maitland street, to Woodland Cemetery.

AN EXCEPTIONAL SALE-

St. John is Interested in the Recent Medical Discovery.

St. John, N. B., Aug. 12.-The many cases of marvelous restoration to health from various forms of kidney trouble which have been constantly appearing in the daily press of the Dominion have for some time awakened the liveliest interest here, and the remedy by which the cures were effected, namely, Dodd's Kidney Pills, are obtaining great celebrity throughout the Province. The appearance of the testimonials of Drs. Rose and McCormick stating the benefits which they had personally derived from their use was considered a sufficient sign of the merits of the remedy, and the other interesting and wonderful cases which have since been chronicled has caused the specific to have an exceptional sale.

Bowman, Dr. McGregor, Dr. Tracy and Dr. Cassidy. THE FOOLISH EXCUSE.

It is no answer to charges of incompetence, extravagance and corruption at Ottawa to say that the national credit remains unshaken in the great money markets of the world, or even continues to improve. All that demonstrates is that the shrewd capitalists of Great Britain and the outside world have faith in the resources of this country and the energy, enter-prise and integrity of its people. If, because of these things, the nation can stand a good deal of misgovernment that is surely no reason why misgovernment should continue. Toronto stituents rather than those of the doc-

Let me say that at every step in the conduct of national affairs that which is most theoretically the met perfect is departed from to meet the actual circumstances of the community. Canada is a difficult country to govern, and the difficulties are increased by men who, like Dr. McKay, insist in disturbing the order in which public questions can be best dealt with. There are in Canada strong prejudices of race, prejudices springing from religion, prejudices growing out of habit. All of which are impeding forces, and must be taken into account. The laws and institutions of a country whose people are progres-sive must be modified and changed to meet the varying circumstances of the nation. If there could be a perfect system of political philosophy it would be applicable to normal man only, and so could not be practically applied to any state in any age. Every public man who has considered the subject will coincide with this view. Dr. Mcwill coincide with this view. Dr. Mc-Kay says that when I charged him with deserting the Gospel, because he is. in a legitimate way, seeking to remove the evil of intemperance, I do him an injustice. I think your readers who have perused his letter will conclude it is he who wrongs others, and not they who have wronged him. How can Dr. McKay suppose that he is furthering either the temporal well-being of the public or is in any way increasing his usefulness as a Minister, when he indulges in such accusations against me, and against other public men as he has made in his speech and in his letters? The doctor's letter is far away in character, in spirit, and in aim, from the commission which he professes to hold. In respect to that commission I am not his judge. But I may say this, the world was as wicked in the days of the apostles as it is today. A fair picture of its moral condition is drawn in Canon Farrar's "Darkness and Dawn." The apostles had no public opinion behind them in their work. Everywhere the hands of men were raised against them, but they did not call in the authority of the state to remove the obstacles in their way, and in my opinion they were immeasurably more successful than those who, three centuries later, had recourse to such instrumentalifies. Many of Dr. McKay's profession fail to remember that there are laymen today who are not wanting in capacity or inclination to deal with the question of social reform, which pertain to the life that now is, and who from their study of habits of mind are better qualified to deal with them than men of the doctor's profession. The doctor lays claim to great devotion to his calling, but in his attacks on public men he does not strengthen that claim, nor does he lead men to think that the influence of that calling is likely to be strengthened by the political charing is which ened by the political choring in which he is engaged, as a species of relief, from affairs of greater moment. Every one who has studied the phases of official religious life and the proceedings of religious parliaments cannot but be struck by the similarity of tendencies here and on the continent of Europe, in France, in Belgium, in Germany, and in Italy. Legitimate church work there largely ceased to interest the clergy, and they undertook to divide the authority in public affairs with statesmen. They were not contented with the work of a kingdom, not of this world, and they insisted upon actively meddling with the affairs of Govern-They failed in the struggle, and with that failure they lost all legitimate influence over the men in the countries which I have mentioned. Does Dr. McKay doubt that he is challenging a similar conflict here, to be followed in the end by like re-

suits? Yours faithfully, DAVID MILLS. London, Aug. 14, 1895.

THE ACT OF A FIEND.

A Child Pushea Under a Moving Train-He Escaped With a Mangled Foet. Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 16.-On Wednesday night a young son of Mr. Van Luven, Grand Trunk Railway agent at Waterville, was standing on the platform at that place when the eastern mail train was hauling out of the station, when a supposed tramp rushed from behind and pushed the child under the train.

The little fellow succeeded in crawling out, but his foot was badly mangled by the wheels passing over it. The child worked his way into the house before the accident was known, and there is no clue to the culprit.

ADVERTISING POINTS.

(From Printer's Ink.) Sense in your ads. will bring dollars. The best ad. you can get is none too good. Advertising will not injure the finest fabric. Ads., like bread, are easily spoiled in the making. An ad, must have some push in order to have any pull.

An ad. should be the concentrated essense of sense. It is more important to watch your "ads." than your clerk.
United they stand, divided they fall—business and advertising. When business begins to slacken, let your ads. begin to lengthen. If you have anything to tell the public, do it in a telling manner. Make your ad. so pointed that it will rierce through the eve into the mind. You must have interest in your advertising if you want to make capital out of it. Advertising is like medicine. Very often the belief that it will cure you does half the work. It is easier to fill space than to pay for it. Waste no words, but weight them all with meaning.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—The position of local trade is plainly evidenced by shouts of glee from the pit when wheat goes off an eighth. The crowd has been hammering the market all day. Looks as if they would soon abandon the effort to smash the market and get busy covering.

It looks as if Chicago might shake of the extraordinary depression that has surprised everybody and get more in line with other markets. Provisions weak; packers selling. Looks ike lower prices. Provisions very strong on Armour's buy

Chicago, Aug. 16.-Wheat market inactive, trading very light. The wretch-ed character of the new wheat crop continues to mark the receipts up to date and shows that the quality is as poor as the quantity is small.

Corn—Market firm. We don't think the corn prospect is as good as it was ten days ago. The weather is too dry.
Oats have acted steady. There is no crop movement. Pressure oats are very low. We see no reason why they should go any lower.

The provision market has ruled very erratic. The sensational feature is the buying by Schwartz, D., and C., supposed to be for John Cudahy, to clean up his short line.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT. Mr. Harry Wooster, a young man of 27 years, was arrested at the asylum this morning by Detective Wm. Rider and United States Marshal A. W. Large, of and Vokes. "A Run on the Bank" Detroit. The charge against him is that while in the United States militia at Wayne Fort, Michigan, he left before his time was BASEBALL. up, and embezzled a silver cornet, valued at $75. Wooster was somewhat surprised on being arrested but readily agreed to accompany the officer across the border without fighting extradition. He has been in the employ of the asylum authorities for almost two years, and was popular with the officials, some of whom will go to Detroit and endeavor to see the matter satisfactorily settled. Wooster is a married man, and has one child five weeks old. The American authorities have been looking for him since September, 1893. He went back to Detroit today.

SUCCUMBED AT LAST.

Two weeks ago little Roy Hector Coulson, the 14-months-old son of Mr. Thomas Coulson, parnter, South London, was accidentally burned by Mr. Coulson in emptying out a mixture that had caught fire while being prepared on the stove. Part of the contents went over the onild's face and head, and he sustained very had burns. The loss of eyesight and permanent disfigurement were both feared, but for a time the child appeared to be on a fair way to recovery, and the doctor had hopes that both the eyesight would be saved and disfigurement obviated. The first night he suffered awful pain, but he afterwards rested quietly, aided by drugs. The shock to the baby's system must have been greater than was at first supposed, as he gradually sank during the last week and died yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be private tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Coulson naturally feels the affliction sorely. He is just recovering the use of his right hand, which was badly burned trying to save the child. The Secret Out.

"I've been thinkin'," she muttered they don't look after me so well now. that he's away an' can't come in and catch thim. I don't get me medicine reglar. He said it was somebody's sickness took him away, and that I wasn't to go agin his orders, no matter what any one of them said; and when I was well and got out I was to sind word to him. Let him be aisey, for so I will if I can make out what he wrote for me; bless him, I have to study a bit to read the best o' writin' and, the Lord forgive me, his is that crooked I can't make out a 'd' from a 't'. Would you mind telling me now if it is Yonkers Orange he's gone to, for it looks like both or aither. I suppose though they would be obligin' enough to send right if I wrote it wrong, but I'm thinkin' I would be more aisey in me mind to have it go right to wanst, and then there'll be no delay—do you mind, docther dear?"

Again the doctor felt forced to bow. and he would have been glad indeed if he could have ended his answer there. But her inquiring look demanded more, as did his own ignorance, so trampling down his natural instincts. which were all in the way of open and honorable dealing, he said: But I am in the same dilemma as you, Bridget, I don't know whether it is Yonkers or Orange. If you will let me read the address he gave you, will see if I can make it out. He ought to have written it plain enough for you to read, however careless he may have been with other folks."

"He told me not a one was to see it at all," she remarked, as her hand stole somewhat hesitatingly under her pillow; "and said, lookin' me right in the face, that if it was found I wasn't to tell who wrote it. But shure he didn't mean you, docther, for you're his friend and knows the medicines as well as he does himself." "No, he could not have meant me," equiesced the doctor, thinking how little Dr. Molesworth could really know of the reasons he would have for fol-lowing him. And with small consciousness now of the humiliating part he was laying in his intense desire to see those forbidden lines, he reached out his hand and took the slip from the Informing oor Bridget that it was neither Yonkers nor Orange, but H-, he lent himself for a few minutes to a careful consideration of her condition, and when satisfied that she was indeed doing well, and likely to recover, he left her with a repetition of Dr. Molesworth's instructions, and with the gratifying knowledge in his breast that no detective could have worked the affair any

From the hospital he proceeded to nsult the physician into whose charge he had placed his wife, and after some ecessary explanations with him, turned towards his home. Alas! that it should be with the lagging step of dread rather than the elastic one of hope; that the worst news he could hear upon entering his own door was that consciousness had returned to his stricken wife and that she longed and prayed to see him.

But he was called to no such trial of courage at this time. Mrs. Cameron was no better, and her new nurse, whom he did not fail to find in the house as the detective had promised, required no words to understand why he shrank from entering the sick room, even on the eve of a necessary depart-And so it was that he made his final preparations, and started upon his adventurous undertaking without passing the threshold which had once been as the door of paradise to him.

BOOK THREE.

CHAPTER XXVIII. The address given to Bridget by Dr.

J. M.

Molesworth was:

U- County, N. Y. This place, as so many people know, is on the. West Shore road, and though some distance from New York, Dr. Cameron found himself there before

He was an energetic man and he lost no time in sight-seeing. His errand was to the postmaster, and to the postmaster he at once went.
"Has J. M. been in for his letters today?"

"Yes; letters come here directed to J. M., do they not?"
"I cannot say. Are you J. M.?" "No; but I know him and want to

"You will have to go to his house, then. I don't know any such person." e postmaster was evidently sincere, and Dr. Cameron drew back much disappointed. He was conscious of having made a mistake, and for some few minutes lingered in the postoffice in the hope that Dr. Molesworth would stray But the attention which his tall and elegant figure soon attracted, reminded him that he was not an inconspicuous figure in this small town, and that if he hoped to see Julius Molesorth enter the postoffice he must himself leave it. He accordingly stepped into the street, and finding it quite necessary to have a short confab with himself, he proceeded to walk about the town. As he went he wondered in which, if any, of the houses he passed could he find the man for whom he was in search, till suddenly a second realization came, that, for aught he knew, the fugitive might be peering upon him from behind any of the closed blinds which met his eye on every side and that by his useless parade of himself, he was possibly cutting short all hope of the encounter he was so earnestly seeking.

"Were I only shorter and of a type similar to some of the men I see about here," he thought, "I might circulate where I would without causing remark; like that poor devil behind me, for instance, whose face if seen would be forgotten next minute." And he cast a look that was almost wistful at the lounging, indifferent sort of fellow who, with no apparent aim in life, was slow-ly shuffling along from one shop-window to another. "A detective," decided the doctor, "should have no expression and seemingly no individuality; neither should he who attempts to play the part of one."

But as this convenient non-individuality was impossible in his case, he soon overcame his momentary disheartenment, and entering the tavern which he had now reached, he ensconced him-self in a quiet nook, that he might consider, without prospect of interruption, what course he had better pursue to gain the end he had in view. The lounger came into the room, too, but that did not disturb his meditations, which were now thoroughly engrossed by the subject in hand. Where should he go to learn if a man, corresponding to Julius Molesworth in appearance, had lately come into town? To the landlord of the tavern in which he was? Possibly; but he would be more apt to obtain the knowledge he sought from the railroad officials and the drivers of the hacks which conveyed the passengers from the depot into town. But he hated to apply to them. Indeed he shrank from any inquiries that would bring his pursuit into publicity, and he had not the skill, and as we have said, the physique, to gain the information he wished without it. Did he but know one person in town, or had he but thought to have asked the police for some assistance in this part of his undertaking! But he was alone, and he must work out his problem unaided. How then could he discover Molesworth without disclosing his personal interest in finding Contemplation brought but one suggestion, and that held so little hope he was ready to discard it without a trial. But he did not. As drowning men clutch at straws, so he grasped at anything which held a possibility of success. The suggestion was this: Dr. Molesworth, if a fugitive, in hiding, must have one intense interest linking him to New York and its local news, and that was the desire to know what progress the police were making in the affair in which he was so vitally interested. He would therefore feel the necessity of seeing the New York dailies, and would, by secret measures if not by open ones, bring himself in contact with them. Now, where were the New York dailies to be found? That question he could ask with impunity. He found that there was but one place where they could be bought, and to that place he went with his first inquiries. Had any new-comer in town taken to buying the New York papers lately? The dealer knew of no such person. Had he had any fresh orders for the Herald or Times, within the last week, say? Why, yes. Old James Lewis had suddenly taken to reading the news and came every day for the New York Herald. And who was old James Lewis? A farmer who lived some two miles out on the west road. Dr. Cameron remembered the name, and later after having eaten his supper, asked some off-hand questions about this person, which resulted in satisfying him that the possibility of Julius Molesworth being in his house was great. There was someone besides the regular family staying with him-who, nobody seemed to know; and as Dr. Cameron did not care to seem interested in this person, but only in James Lewis, he did not like to press the point, anxious as he was to establish it. felt it was almost the height of folly to go so far on such an uncertainity. and yet he had almost made up his mind to do it, though it was Saturday night and the distance considerable; but a remark that was uttered in his hearing a few minutes later rather shook his determination. It was to the effect that James Lewis was always down to meeting on Sunday, no matter what the weather was. If this was so, the doctor might save himself a very unnecessary journey. He resolved to wait till the next day, and in the meantime to sound the livery stable men. (To be continued.)

The teams were pretty evenly matched, and the game was hotly contested. At half time the game stood 0 to 0. Shortly afterwards Thamesville scored two, and Glencoe followed suit. At this point, however, Thamesville threw down their sticks and refused to play. The game was left in the hands of the referee, who declared the game in favor of Glencoe by the score of 4 to 1.

When Should a Man Swear?

Man is not only a reasoning but a swearing animal. Sometimes his feelings are expressed audibly, and at others they are so deep down in his na-ture that nothing less than a volcano would thrust them to the surface. If man should swear at all, when should that time be? The church is silent on this important matter, and the law gives no sanction to cuss words. Stovepipes are provocative of feeling, but corns are far worse. Wives should see that their husbands' corns are kept down. This may be done quite easily, painlessly, and with absolute certainty by Putnam's Corn Extractor. Beware flesh-eating substitutes offered for Putnam's Corn Extractor.

Laurel, Del., Aug. 15.—Residents in this neighborhood are painfully excited over a shooting affray which occurred at Nelson's camp meeting, a few miles above here, last night. During a sermon by the Rev. Ash-bury Burke. of Wilmington, the congregation was startled by two sharp and loud re-ports of a revolver. Then Eugene A. Farlow, young medical student, was seen to fall to the ground inside the circle. He was picked up and carried to a tent, suffering with two mortal wounds. At the time young Farlow was seen to fall he was conversing with a party of friends among whom was a young student named Calloway. All were in a semi intoxicated condition and were boisterous. Calloway and Farlow had a dispute in the early part of the evening, in which Farlow was charged with being too intimate with Calloway's mother. The altercation was not satisfactorily settled, and when the party arrived at the meeting, Calloway became suddenly enraged and whipping out a revolver aimed straight for Farlow's heart and fired. The assassin escaped.

COMPANIONS OF THE FOREST. Closing Session of the Grand Lodge-Election of Officers.

Toronto, Aug. 16.—At the closing session of the Grand Lodge of the Companions of the Forest, the new graduated scale of contributions was adopted with slight alterations, as recommended by the supreme executive council. Favorable reports as to the standing of the order were handed in by the finance committee, it being shown that there are close upon 2,000 members.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Supreme chief companion, J. S. Williams,

Toronto; supreme sub-chief companion, Miss Swetnam, Montreal; supreme secretary, C. T. Waterman, Toronto; supreme treasurer, W. Baird, Galt; sugreme marshal, Mrs. Gibblin, Toronto; supreme guard, Miss Taylor, Belleville; supreme sentry, Mrs. Boncer, London; supreme trustees, Companions Scott, Galt, Crossen, Montreal, and Barnard, Galt; supreme auditors, W. Richards, London, R. C. Ross, Woodstock and J. Willis, Montreal. District deputy supreme chief companions—J. Willis (Montreal district), Wm. Christian (Toronto), Mrs. Reynolds (London), E. J. Salmon (British Columbia), J. Phillips (Wentworth), Miss Weeks (Oxford), E. J. Clay (Waterloo), J. R. Neilson (Brant), S. S. Watkinson (Essex), A. Helstrap (Grey), A. Allen (Elgin), Mrs. Davis (Sarnia), and S. J. Mallion (Perth). Final arbitration committee—Companions Waddall (Hochelaga), Clelland (Toronto), Armstrong (Paris), Mooke (Galt), and Ryde (Guelph). The ceremony of installation was performed by Miss Weeks of Woodstock, past supreme chief companion. It was decided that the next meeting should be at Annie was bitten on the right hand Monday afternoon, Aug. 12, by a dog, and on Wednesday the dog died with all the signs of hydrophobia."

The annual reports of the Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Ontario, for 1894, contain a list of the deaths in the order during 1894. The London brethren who died were: Henry Diprose, Eureka Lodge, No. 30; Henry Cockel, and J. T. Odell, Forest City, No. 38; Wesley W. Osborne, Jesse M. Symonds, James Gray, Dominion Lodge, No. 48; and James Smith, of Chorazin Lodge, No.

-Mr. Thos. Robinson, of Dundas street, is looking for a small boy and a $10 bill. On Wednesday night Mrs. Robinson sent a youth to a store to get some articles, giving him a bill with which to make the purchase. The youth got the goods, but not the change, and returned the bill. Mr. Robinson got a second boy to try and get the change so that boy No. 1 would be paid for his trouble. But boy No. 2 and the bill (of the $10 denomination)) have not been seen since. The detectives are after the little rogue, whom Robinson had never seen before.

-On Tuesday evening, at the residence of the bride's parents, 299 Simcoe street, Mr. T. Augustus Wright was united in marriage to Miss Emily R., eldest daughter of Mr. Wm. Whitehall, engineer G. T. R. The bride was ably supported by Miss N. Richards, her cousin, the groom by Mr. N. Wilmot, of this city. The Misses Alice and Gussie Whitehall acted as maids of honor. After the ceremony friends from Toronto. Stratford and London assembled together in the dining-room to partake of the good things provided on occasions of this kind. The couple received many presents, showing in some degree the esteem in which they were held. After a few hours pleasantly spent together in singing and playing games a carriage appeared on the scene, which conveyed Mr. and Mrs. Wright to their new home on Maitland street. Hearty good wishes followed them, their departure being the signal for showers of rice and a vigorous accompaniment of tin horn music. ARCHER-GRAHAM.

Mr. Harry Archer, of the "Advertiser," was married on Wednesday evening to Miss Alice Graham. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Wm. Graham, 708 Waterloo street, by Rev. Walter Rigsby. Mr. Walter E. Graham, brother of the bride, was groomsman, while Miss Alice Archer assisted the bride. The latter was given away by her brother, Capt. J. Graham. The bride was beautifully attired in cream henrietta, while the bridesmaid was at-

Mrs. Foster, of Kent street, has just re-covered from a serious attack of La Grippe, This is the second siege she has had of the influenza, the first of which attacked Mrs. Foster about three years ago, and left her with a very troublesome cough accom-panied with chronic bronchitis, and a com-plication of other diseases, which made it almost impossible for her to attend church without disturbing the congregation by coughing, and, indeed, Mrs. Foster assures us t hat so bad were the spasms that she often feared she would burst a blood vessel during one of these severe attacks. It was very natural that under such circumstances numerous friends would recommend as many different "cure alls." She tried Cherry Pectoral, Tar, Linseed and other preparations, but was growing generally worse when a friend who had been benefited by Barkwell's Bronchial Balsam advised her to try that, and in a few days she was out of bed, and the best feature is that she is now entirely freed from all simptoms of the Bronchitis, of which she never hoped to be cured. Mr. Millar, a neighbor, also had a bad cough and was completely cured by the same preparation.
